Injured boy in fair condition

A Prestonsburg boy who was hit by a pickup truck on June 13, is listed in fair condition at Cabell Huntington Hospital.

Ricky Hays, 8, was hit by a Dodge pickup truck when he ran across University Drive, near Hardee's.

The boy's mother, Sheila Goble, of Prestonsburg, said Ricky wanted to cross the road and she told him no. He took off running and the truck could not have missed Ricky because it happened so fast, Goble said.

Hays suffered severe head trauma from the accident and has been a patient at Cabell Huntington Hospital since.

Search for missing man continues

A Prestonsburg night club has become a focal point of a police investigation into the disappearance of an East Point man, authorities said.

Jeffrey Donald Nelson, 21, was last seen about 1 a.m. last Thursday, June 29, getting into a truck outside Center Stage, a witness told police Wednesday. Another man was with Nelson at the time, the witness said.

Kentucky State Police, the Floyd County Sheriff's Department and the Martin County Sheriff's Department are all involved in the investigation.

Police said they are checking out several leads, including reports that Nelson was seen last weekend in Paintsville.

Rumors that a body had been recovered Wednesday were unfounded, authorities said.

Nelson is 5-feet-10 and weighs 140 pounds. He has brown hair and was last seen wearing jeans, a t-shirt, brown suede hiking boots and a white Nike ball cap.

Anyone with information on Nelson's whereabouts should immediately contact the KSP, the Floyd or Martin Sheriff's Departments, or family members at 886-1089 or 886-6018.

Two deputies suspended

Two Floyd County deputies have been suspended from duty pending an investigation into their alleged involvement in a domestic dispute that led to the arrest last week of a Mare Creek man.

Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson confirmed Tuesday that deputies Brian Ratliff and Johnny Layne had been relieved of duties while an investigation into the June 28 incident is conducted. Thompson declined to offer details of the incident, but did indicate that the deputies may have instigated the domestic dispute that led to the arrest of Jerry Lewis last Wednesday.

In a preliminary hearing Wednesday, charges against Lewis were dismissed after complaining witnesses failed to appear in court.

Youmans to take GOP's side in race

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Brenda England Youmans knows she is fighting the odds and history in her attempt to become the first Republican member of Floyd County's Fiscal Court, but when election day arrives in November, she knows she'll get at least one crossover vote...her husband's.

Youmans, 49, was nominated June 29 by Floyd County's Republican executive committee as the party's choice for Magistrate in District III, where a vacancy on the court was created by the resignation earlier this year of Magistrate Tommy Neil Adams. Adams' wife Marietta has been serving as the district's appointed magistrate, and she will hold that seat until the special vote on November 7.

A political novice as a candidate, Youmans is no stranger to the county's political scene. She is a former treasurer of the county's Republican Party and she is the granddaughter of former Wheelwright police judge Albert Leonard Hall, one of the few members of the county's GOP elected to office.

Youmans has been employed for the past 16 years by Columbia Gas Transmission Corp., working in that company's Prestonsburg warehouse. She is a 1964 graduate of Wheelwright High School and has lived at Minnie for the past 17 years with her husband, Duane, a registered Democrat. She has one son, Brett Travers, 25, a journalist for the U.S. Army, stationed at Fort Monmouth, New Jersey; and another son, Jordan, 9, at home.

Youmans said in an interview Thursday that she is making the bid for fiscal court to "help put

Advisory panel says 911 dispatch center should stay at home

by Alisa Goodwill
Staff Writer

After five years of meetings, accusations and other problems, the 911 board finally decided Wednesday that 911 dispatching needed to be kept within the county.

The 911 board will formally recommend to fiscal court that the Primary System Answering Point (PSAP) be left in Floyd County and not dispatched through the Kentucky State Police (KSP) in Pikeville.

A part of the decision to keep the dispatching in the county was based on money and convenience.

Floyd County Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson said the overall cost for dispatching through the county would only be three cents more per subscriber than if it went through the KSP.

Thompson said the sheriff's department share of costs would be $37,442 and Prestonsburg's share would be up to $104,000 for the 95-96 fiscal year.

Prestonsburg's share was determined during the city's finance and revenue committee meeting on June 28. The committee will recommend to full council to help finance the 911 system up to $104,000, which is already budgeted for the city in the 95-96 fiscal year, as long as it is the city's proportionate share.

The basic structure of the dispatch center would require the individual agency (i.e. Sheriff's office) to take care of their own employees. Any additional dispatchers hired would be county employees. All dispatchers would be cross-trained to handle any emergency. Also, the PSAP manager would answer directly to the 911 board.

Roger Recktenwald, director of Big Sandy Area Development District (BSADD), said there is a need for an interlocal agreement between the county and the city of Prestonsburg in case of future problems.

Judge-Executive Bob Meyer agreed. He said no matter where the PSAP was located, it needed to be clearly understood that an agree-

Track's race with life or death is underway

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

The second and perhaps most critical season of live harness racing opened July 4 at Thunder Ridge, near Auxier, where the competition may ultimately be a race between life and death.

Thunder Ridge, Eastern Kentucky's first legitimate gambling facility, opened a year ago after a two-year struggle with the state's racing commission and a race with a construction deadline imposed by that oversight committee.

Shortly after the 1994 live racing season ended, the track's owners sought protection from creditors under U.S. bankruptcy law, placing the facility's future in jeopardy and Floyd County's fiscal court, which underwrote part of the debt for Thunder Ridge's development, at risk.

Since filing bankruptcy, Appalachian Racing Inc., the track's parent corporation, has asked the county's fiscal court to make a bond payment due on the facility's origi-

Lumber mill owners want bids reviewed

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

The owners of a Floyd County lumber mill are asking county judge-executive Bob Meyer to review a fiscal court decision last month to award a contract for wood supplies to a Morgan County company.

W.T. Foley and son Paul D. Foley, who operate Foley Lumber Company on Cow Creek, are expected to ask Meyer to explain how Frederick and May Lumber Company in West Liberty was determined to have the low bid on the products used by the county's road and bridge department.

Foley's company bid a price of $400 per thousand board feet on each of five different sizes of lumber used by the county while Fred-

Historical society finds a home, saves a city landmark in the deal

by Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

The Floyd County Historical and Genealogical Society is only nine months old, but the organization already has 82 charter members and big plans for the future.

One of those plans is to establish a research facility and repository open to the public that will house historical documents, artifacts, and records dating from the county's formation in 1800 to the present.

"There is no research facility of any size in Floyd County and we should have a place," said Jim Daniels, of Auxier, who is president and founder of the society. "...Only one other society in the area has a facility and that is Magoffin County."

Accordingly, when the society learned that Prestonsburg City Council was considering tearing down the old, historic red-brick fire station located on Highland Avenue, members approached the council with the idea of restoring the structure for use as a historical research center and as the organization's headquarters. Such a move seemed fitting, because the building once housed the old city hall and jail, and is considered a local historic landmark.

"We asked them to keep it and do something with it," said Fred James Sr. of Prestonsburg, who is vice-president of the society. "It was built by the WPA and had the town's first jail."

The building was constructed by

Restoring a city landmark

Jim Daniels, president of the Floyd County Historical and Genealogical Society, and Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin, looked at the gutted interior of the town's old city hall, jail and fire station located on Highland Avenue. "When this was the fire station, this back street used to be the place to be," Daniels said. "Everyone hung around here." (photo by Polly Ward) the WPA in 1934, and includes interior stone jail walls and foundation made by workers from local stone. The exterior walls are composed of wire-cut brick, which probably came from Ashland where most brick was made at that time. At the top of the front exterior, carved in flat stone, is the inscription "A. C. Carter, Mayor."

The building had been used as a storage facility, but was abandoned a few years ago when its structure was deemed unsafe. Still, the historical significance of the structure was not lost on the council.

"Essentially, we were trying to do something with the old fire station," Mayor Jerry Fannin said. "Once we thought of tearing it down, but we looked at it again."

The council proceeded with the restoration project, with plans to borrow money from the city's Mainstreet program fund to finance the work. The city, in conjunction with the historical society, is in the process of applying for grants to cover the costs and repay the fund, Fannin said.

The building has been gutted by Goble and Sons, a construction team from Prestonsburg, and construction of a new roof, stud walls and a second floor will soon be underway.

"It costs $24,000 for the rough finish," Fannin said. "It will get the building ready to see what we can do with it. It used to be the old city hall and it had a jail. I'd like to try to get some bars from the county jail when it is torn down and put them in to restore the jail."

The mayor added, "Too many of our historic buildings have been destroyed. If we can save this one, we will."

Once the society has moved into the building, members plan to offer walking tours that will educate the public about significant historic structures in Prestonsburg.

The organization has other goals, as well. Plans are in the works for the publication of a newsletter or quarterly journal; a Jenny Wiley Homecoming for the descendants of Jenny Wiley at the Jenny Wiley Festival held in October; and the publication of the 1920 census of Floyd County.

It was this interest in preserving and promoting the history of the county that prompted the formation of the society nine months ago.

ment between agencies would be in writing.

"I personally believe that it (911) should stay in the county," Thompson said. "People will expect 911 to do more than just emergencies. All the agencies can work together and switch calls if they are non-emergency."

Thompson also said calls can be expedited if 911 stays within the county. He also agreed that an interlocal agreement would be needed.

Not all board members agreed that Floyd County was the best location. James Campell, of Harold Telephone Company, said he thought 911 would be more efficient if operated by the KSP.

Also in agreement with Campbell was KSP Captain Robert Forsythe. The motion passed despite Campbell's and Forsythe's opposition.

In other business, Recktenwald said the communications survey is still in process, but in about two weeks there should be enough data to do another countywide renotification of new 911 addresses.

At last count South Central Bell had 70 percent of their mapping done and Harold Telephone Company had 67 percent complete. Recktenwald said the majority of people not contacted had non-published phone numbers.

The 911 advisory council will meet Wednesday, July 12 at 7 p.m. at the Big Sandy Area Development District.

The 911 board will meet Monday July 17 at 10 a.m. in the courthouse annex to finalize the PSAP proposal for fiscal court.

abuse of a teacher, a charge stemming from an incident during a 1990 teachers' strike and during his tenure as principal at Adams Middle School.

Tackett was demoted to homebound teacher in 1992 by interim superintendent Eldon Smith. He successfully challenged that move in a lawsuit, which resulted in a court order requiring Towler to reinstate Tackett to an administrative position within the system.

That mandate was fulfilled with Tackett's appointment to the PHS principalship.

At Allen Central, Hall's move to the principal's post creates a vacancy at Maytown Elementary, where she was principal for the past twelve years. Since Allen Central has not yet implemented site-based decision making, her appointment was made by Towler.

The Maytown vacancy and a similar vacancy at Auxier Elementary will be filled by site-based councils at those schools, presumably before the start of school next month.

"Kid's Health Kamp" registration deadline approaching

Our Lady of the Way Hospital "Kid's Health Kamp" will take place July 31-August 4, at Camp Shawnee in Floyd County. "Kid's Health Kamp" is a week-long overnight camp designed for children ages 7 to 13 who have asthma, diabetes or weight control problems. Some of the camp's activities include swimming, canoeing, paddleboating, evening campfires, bingo, games, arts & crafts and educational sessions.

The first meeting of the society was organized in October 1994, by Daniels and Shane Wicker, a teacher at Prestonsburg High School who sponsors the school's Young Historians Club. The meeting was hosted by the club. Since that time, the non-profit organization, which is a member of the Historical Confederation Society, has met once a month at the Floyd County Public Library.

Membership has been steadily increasing and includes members from different professions, including educators, city and county officials and businessmen. The organization also has a number of members from throughout the United States who have ties with the county.

The society, which meets the third Monday of each month in the Floyd County Library conference room, welcomes new members. The society's next meeting is July 17 at 7 p.m. Guest speaker will be Dr. Robert Perry.

nal financing plan and the court has agreed to make partial payment if Appalachian Racing pays its lease expense to the county in full.

Meanwhile, track owners have said that this summer's season, which incorporates harness competition, stock car racing and off-track parimutual wagering as revenue producing events, is the make or break season for the facility.

General manager Stephen Baker said in a prepared news release issued this week that the July 4 opening night for live horse racing was successful and the company was "very pleased with the turnout of spectators and competitors."

"The excitement surrounding this meet has been tremendous," Baker said.

Live racing at Thunder Ridge will continue through Labor Day, with competition on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, beginning each night at 7:30. Sunday racing begins at 6 p.m.

the people back in government instead of having it the other way around."

"I'm not running against anybody," she said. "I'm running my own race for the people of my district. We want good roads, good drinking water and parks. I don't see this campaign as party versus party, but a race of the people against the establishment. I hope to help change the system and break up the old 'atta-boy' approach."

To win in November, Youmans will have to outpoll at least four candidates, including Democrat nominee Elmer Ray Johnson. Three write-in candidates have also entered the contest, including Jimmy Dye, Gary Mullins and Jimmy Gabe Turner.

The November election will serve to fill the three years remaining in Tommy Neil Adams' unexpired term.

Bids

erick and May's bid was five dollars less on two sizes, the same on a third, and higher by $115 per thousand on two other sizes.

The Foleys contend that though their bid on sizes most often used by the county is five dollars higher per thousand than the offer from Frederick and May, the total cost, including delivery, would be lower.

According to bid proposals advertised by the county, the lumber bids are for supplies picked up by county trucks at lumber yards. Foley claims that cost of delivery would be much less from his Cow Creek yard than the cost of traveling to Morgan County and that the difference in expense would more than offset the five dollar difference in the bid prices.

Meyer could not be reached Thursday for his comments.

Program to help welfare recipients get job training

Governor Brereton C. Jones has announced a new pilot program designed to reduce the number of people on welfare.

The program is called the AmeriCorps/Welfare to Self-Sufficiency Initiative. Through this pilot project, AmeriCorps members and additional community volunteers will help welfare recipients move into the workforce by addressing the major obstacles of child care, transportation and job training.

"This is a creative new initiative that we are proud to sponsor," said Governor Jones. "The AmeriCorps program is uniquely qualified to reach out to existing community agencies, civic groups, churches and others in order to engage them in one of the most important challenges of our time—moving able-bodied welfare recipients into jobs and self-sufficiency."

This AmeriCorps/Welfare to Self-Sufficiency program is being made possible through a partnership between the Kentucky Community Service Commission and the Department for Social Insurance (DSI) in the Cabinet for Human Resources. DSI will make available up to $293,625 for the project through existing state and federal funds. The Commission will hold a competition and select the best application.

The deadline for applying is July 31. All communities in Kentucky are eligible to apply. Information may be obtained by contacting Kentucky Community Service Commissioner Director David Crowley at 502-564-5195.

"If this effort is to have a lasting impact," added the Governor, "the entire community must get involved. By working together, as I have often stated, there is no limit to what we can accomplish."

AmeriCorps is the national service initiative whereby individuals help pay for their own higher education by providing a year of service to a program designed to 'get things done' in a community. AmeriCorps is overseen by the Kentucky Community Service Commission.

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

A five-dollar bargain

by Scott Perry

Most local business people know that it's good business to do business with people who do business with them.

In small towns such as ours, such a philosophy can mean the difference between life and death.

Local governments often pick up on the "shop at home" approach, trying as often as possible to award bids and contracts to local folks, whose taxes help support the government's operations.

We've heard members of Floyd County's Fiscal Court express their belief in that approach before and we've heard them argue in favor of putting local folks ahead of "outsiders" whenever possible.

That's why we're so bewildered at the court's decision recently to award a contract for lumber supplies to a Morgan County company, whose offer may or may not have been lower than that submitted by a Floyd County sawmill.

It is important to understand that the owners of the Floyd County lumber company are fairly well known members of the county's minority political party, but we would never suggest that court members would put politics above an opportunity to help out a homegrown business.

But when the bid prices reviewed by the court are a measly five bucks apart and you figure that the costs of picking up lumber supplies would likely be much lower at Cow Creek than they would be by travelling to West Liberty, well, you just have to wonder.

There are times when the public interest is best served by frugal government shopping, but we see no argument in favor of that in this case.

We just see a local sawmill getting the short end of the stick over half a sawbuck.

That's too bad for them, we suppose.

And it's a shame some local officials don't practice what they preach.

—Letters to the editor

United we stand...!

Editor:

What's a person to do? The budget battle in congress is soon to "trickle" to state and local levels. What do we do when the federal government has a going out of business sale, turning over to the states everything from agricultural programs to worker protection laws? Will Kentucky get into the bidding war as to how it can treat its citizens the worst in order to attract industrial capital?

It doesn't have to be this way. Kentucky is 5 million strong. We must come together to address our issues. The "us against them" logic we hear so often is purposely misleading. Who do you consider your community? Is it the person you work beside or bowl with or sit next to in church? Don't put your head in the sand of music, television, idle gossip or hate of any one group or another.

Corporations, industry, lawyers, doctors have all built organizations that serve their special interests. You and I, like every citizen, have the ability to make a better future and to distinguish the weeds from the fruit in the vineyards of our society.

How do we make our voices heard? Organize! What does this mean? Set goals and work toward goals with others. I've worked toward my goals for years with a citizens social justice group called Kentuckians For The Commonwealth. My voice, along with others, has been heard; together we build power.

The very fact that you have read this letter indicates that you care about society. What actions will you take to make it better? What is your goal? Go for it!

Parents—get involved in P'burg High School

Editor:

This letter is written to inform parents of Prestonsburg High School students of the need for them to get involved in the PHS Parent-Teacher Organization.

There will be an organizational meeting of the PHS-PTO on Thursday, July 13, beginning at 6 p.m. Membership in the PTO requires no fees or dues. Membership does require parent and teacher involvement to promote and enhance Prestonsburg High School.

The PHS PTO will do everything possible to be the "Jiminy Cricket" for Prestonsburg High School. The PHS PTO will do its best to help individual students and teachers as well as clubs, teams, or organizations.

PHS PTO is not simply about fund-raising through bingo, but it is clear that without an active PTO membership, the bingo operations that have raised approximately $70,000 for Prestonsburg High School cannot continue.

Once more, PHS parents, please get involved in the monthly PTO meetings so that we can offer as many advantages to our students as they so richly deserve.

Editor:

On this Fourth of July weekend as I sit here in front of my computer thinking of what this country means to me, I am reminded of a little girl I met in the Philippines in 1986 while serving in the Marine Corps.

This little girl couldn't have been more than seven years old. Her dark skin was dirty and the ragged blue dress she was wearing brought out her deep blue eyes, which were obviously American.

This little girl was standing next to a road that led into the town of Olongapo just outside of the Subic Bay Naval Base, in the Philippines begging for money while holding an old beat up tin soup can. Her need for food was obvious from the condition of her body.

I knelt down in front of her and asked her name and where her parents were as I placed what money I had in her little tin can. She told me her name was Maria and that she was living with her elderly grandmother in a part of town that I recognized as the poor section of Olongapo.

We talked for the next few minutes as she explained to me, in her little broken, English voice, how she had never met her father and that her mother, after working at one of the many bars in Olongapo, had ran off and left her and her grandmother to live in a one-room shack when she was five years old.

My first thought was that this was one of the many scams run on a daily basis where adults would send their children out to beg for money. If it was, it was a good one, because after seeing this little girl, I completely forgot my reason for leaving the base that day.

What she asked next has echoed in my thoughts to this day. Maria sat down in front of me and placed her cup to the side and with the look of a kid at Disney World, she looked up at me and said, "Tell me about America."

Up until that point in my life I had never been asked to describe America in my own words, but I gave it my best shot. I tried to explain to her that in America you are limited only by your ability and willingness to succeed in life. You have freedom to come and go as you wish, to carve out your own future and not have someone determine it for you.

I don't recall the entire conversation, but it lasted for over an hour. By the time I stood up to leave, Maria's face was glowing with excitement. As I walked back toward the front gate of the Naval Base the last words I heard her say were "I will go to America someday."

I often think about that dirty little blue-eyed Philippino girl in her ragged blue dress holding her beat up tin cup and realize how lucky my family and I are to live in this country. I don't remember how much money I put in that cup, but I'm sure it didn't come close to paying for the lesson I learned that day.

We live in a country where we constantly fight among ourselves, but it is still the greatest country on Earth. There are people around the world that look toward America as a bright beacon of hope, as a reminder that there is a better life out there.

So, I hope some of your who are living in America that feel you have it hard, and life somehow hasn't been fair to you, won't get mad when I say, appreciate what you do have and that you are the only obstacle keeping yourself from having a better life in this country.

A lot of people in this country today need to go outside it's borders and talk to someone like Maria. I guarantee you will come back with a different outlook on life. This is the greatest country on Earth and we should start appreciating it, standing up for it, and taking part in the democratic process, because when America is gone that could be our kids standing by a road begging for money. Where will they look for a better life?

"...but there is more!"

When we left off last Friday, we found out that the boys' coaching job at Betsy Layne was open and, as reported, two candidates were interviewed for the job -- former coach Junior Newsome and last year's coach Keith Henry.

But, we also learned that Tim Rice, former assistant under Newsome for several years, had also applied for the job.

Then we learned that the site-based council also opened up the girls' coaching job as well, and a paper was circulated for names of persons who would be interested in the job.

So, at the last site-based council meeting, the following people were interviewed for coaching jobs: Keith Henry, Junior Newsome and Bill Newsome (present girls' coach).

But what about Cassandra Keathley Akers who also signed up to be interviewed for the girls' head coaching job?

"I didn't know they did any interviewing for any of the positions until I read last Friday's sports column," she said Tuesday evening. "I was supposed to have been interviewed for the job as well."

"I was told they tried to get a hold of me and they left messages on my answering machine," she said.

Were there any messages?

"No, there weren't," she replied.

Akers said that she has since been contacted by a site-based council member and promised an interview before the council.

"I thought it was strange the others were interviewed and I wasn't," said Akers.

Akers said that she became interested in the job when the sheet was passed around and she saw that the position was open.

"I went home and told Ronnie (her husband) about it," she said. "He told me to sign up for it, and I did."

Akers coached three seasons at McDowell High School and served as an assistant to Coach Bill Newsome part of a season at Betsy Layne.

They tell me this is a yearly formality they go through at Betsy Layne with all supplemental positions.

But they didn't last year. According to the board of education, positions for other applicants do not have to be advertised.

"They can hire in-house," said board media relations person Geoff Belcher. "They don't necessarily have to advertise it."

Look for Coach Bill to return to the girls' program; and it will be interesting how the boys' head coaching job comes out.

Coaching, this day and time, is tough business. You have to love it.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports. Take the kids to Sunday School and church this Sunday.

Kinzer captures Modified feature at Thunder Ridge

It has been long in coming but Prestonsburg's Brandon Kinzer dropped the "bridesmaid" title and captured his first ARMA Modified feature at Thunder Ridge last Saturday night.

The 17-year-old driver bested Hazard's Keith Gray for the 20-lap victory that netted him $500.

Benny Feltner, winner of two Late Model features this season at the Perry County Speedway, finally solved the Thunder Ridge track and roared to win the 35-lap Late Model feature worth $2,000.

"We've had a good season but we just haven't had any luck here," said Feltner. "Things just fell into place for us tonight and the car ran great."

Feltner, who qualified fourth, took the lead on the start ahead of dash winner Mike Cornett and immediately had to deal with pressure from Cornett and fast qualifier David Dixon. The two continued to pressure Feltner before Cornett dropped out with mechanical problems just before the halfway mark.

Feltner and Dixon ran nose-to-tail the last half of the race. Dixon would pull alongside Feltner in the straightaways but Feltner would retaliate by driving into the turns two-car lengths deeper to retain the lead.

Dixon was able to pull even with Feltner on the backstretch with two laps remaining, but he could not muscle ahead in turn four. Feltner took the checkered flag at the end of 35 laps by less than half a car length.

Following Feltner and Dixon were Henry Hornsby, Shannon Thomsberry, David Powers, Randy Fields, Larry Collins, Mike Cornett and Paul Davis.

Kinzer, with consistent second and third place finishes all season long, is the current points leader at Thunder Ridge.

The Modified event began with Maytown driver Brad Martin controlling the early stages of the event before having a tire lose air pressure during a lengthy caution.

When the field came to the green flag, Martin got on the gas before realizing the tire was completely gone.

"If we could have kept running fast I don't think we would have lost all the air out of the tire," said Martin.

"I decided not to go into the pits but it didn't work."

Martin's car created a traffic jam on the restart that saw Grey jump from third to first to take the lead. With two laps remaining, Kinzer passed Grey to take the lead only to see a caution force the line-up back to the last scored lap.

On the last lap restart, Kinzer again pulled to the inside of Grey on the backstretch before the two leaders bumped in turn four. As the two cars entered the frontstretch sideways, Kinzer was able to pull ahead to take the win by one car length.

Napier perfect in win over Magoffin

Righthander tosses perfect game in 10-0 shutout

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Not since Shawn Deskins' performance for the Harold-Allen-Prater All-Stars two seasons ago has anyone hurled a perfect game in all-star competition.

That streak ended Tuesday night when Beaver Creek North's Henry Napier proved untouchable in a perfect outing against Magoffin County.

Napier hurled four scoreless, no-hit innings as the North squad posted a 10-0 mercy win over Magoffin County.

Magoffin County only made contact twice against the hard throwing Napier. Chris Ginter started the game by grounding harmlessly to second baseman Jeremy Hayes. Matt Whittaker, the second in the batting order, attempted a bunt; but North catcher Tim Davis was on the ball quickly and threw Whittaker out at first.

After that, a foul tip was precious to Magoffin County as Napier struck out the final 10 batters he faced. Six of the strikeouts were called third strikes and four were swinging.

Napier only threw five pitches in the first inning and had only 16 after three innings.

A couple of Magoffin County errors allowed North to score two unearned runs in the first. Larry Mullins and Brandon Click reached and scored on an RBI single by Hayes.

David Watkins, in a surprise swing, deposited a Jerry Allen pitch over the fence in left field for a solo home run that gave North a 3-0 lead.

In the Beaver Creek fourth, 12 batters went to the plate and the North team scored seven times for the 10-0 margin.

Hayes had an RBI single. Patrick Martin doubled to center and Keith

Keathley bats HAP past Morgan County

Home run, 5 RBIs gives HAP All-Stars 12-1 tournament win

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Brock Keathley drilled a three-run home run and collected a two-run single to drive in five runs and help lead the Harold-Allen-Prater All-Stars past Morgan County 12-1 in a mercy win that lasted five innings.

HAP exploded for four runs in the fifth inning and then held off Morgan County in the bottom of the fifth for the mercy win.

HAP coach Randy Kidd didn't take any chance of missing the mercy rule when starter Anthony Tackett tired in the fifth and surrendered Morgan County's only run.

In fact, pinch hitter Nick Skaggs tripled down the right field line and scored on a ground out for the only hit Morgan County could collect.

After Skaggs tripled, Kidd brought in Robbie Johnson with one out. Johnson got the next two batters on a ground ball to first and a pop to second to end the game.

Ralph King, who entered the game in the fourth, blasted a two-run home run that left the park in center field. B.J. Kidd was on board when King hit his round-tripper.

Anthony Tackett picked up the win in pitching the first four and a third innings. Tackett fanned six batters and walked two. Johnson went two-thirds of an inning and did not allow a hit or run.

Braxton Collins grounded out to second for the only RBI for Morgan County.

Brandon Hansford opened the first inning with an infield single. Josh Kidd walked and Keathley lined a fast ball down the right field line that cleared the right field fence for a three-run home run.

Prestonsburg overcomes slow start

Stennet's 5 RBIs lead in 15-8 win

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg Little League All-Stars spotted Martin County five runs in the first inning and then clawed their way back into contention and went on to post a 15-8 win in the Area 2 Little League Tournament at Paintsville Tuesday night.

Elray Cline picked up the win in relief, working the final four innings.

Hank Mullins started for Prestonsburg but had control problems through the first two frames.

Brook Stennet led the way from the plate with three hits in as many plate appearances. He picked up five runs batted in.

Shawn Newsome collected two hits and had two RBIs. Josh Slone finished with two hits and scored three runs.

Jake Fitzpatrick had two runs batted in to go with his two base hits. Robert Hall and Kyle Calhoun each had two hits.

Newsome led off the game with a long drive that just missed going out of the park. He had to settle for a double. Slone and Stennet, along with Calhoun, had doubles in the contest.

Martin County reached Mullins for five runs in the first as he had problems getting his pitches in the strike zone.

Brian McCoy reached on a single and moved to second and third on two wild pitches. Matt Cline walked and both base runners scored on an error at third off the bat of Bobby Fitch.

Travis Marcum drove in Fitch with a single and Charles Spradlin, who walked, scored on an error in center field.

Prestonsburg pushed home two runs in the bottom of the first to make it a 5-2 game. Newsome doubled and scored on Josh Slone's line drive single. Slone stole second and third to score on a throwing error by the Martin County catcher.

Prestonsburg trailed 6-1 after Martin County batted in the second. Travis Marcum was safe on a fielder's choice play and scored on a single by J.D. Carter.

Prestonsburg got their bats out of the bag in the bottom of the third after retiring Martin County in order in the top of the inning.

Sprint cars to get green flag on August 5

Thunder Ridge Promoter Chris Blair announced that the United States Auto Club debut of the Loctite Sprint Car Series in Eastern Kentucky has been rescheduled for Saturday, August 5, at the Thunder Ridge Racing and Entertainment Complex.

Heavy thunderstorms last Friday night forced race officials to postpone the event. Blair was disappointed the events did not happen.

"It was shaping up to be an incredible event," said Blair. "We had 21 sprints on hand, including ten of USAC's top 12 points leaders, and they were turning laps nearly a full second faster than the current track record."

The make-up event on the schedule will produce a doubleheader weekend on the East Kentucky Super Circuit featuring two of the nation's premiere sanctioning groups.

"On Friday night, August 4, we will be hosting the Short Track Auto Racing Series (STARS) Late Models at the Perry County Speedway in Hazard and then, the following night, we'll make up the Sprint show at Thunder Ridge in Prestonsburg," said Blair. "That will create the most diverse racing weekend ever for fans in this area."

Fans who purchased tickets for Friday's rain delayed Sprint event can either hold on to them for the August 5 date or redeem them for two general admission tickets this weekend at Thunder Ridge.

"Since some people can't afford to have their money tied up in the tickets for a month, we're giving them the opportunity to use them as a two for one ticket this weekend," explained Blair. "That will allow them and a friend to get in for less than the general admission costs."

Thunder Ridge Motorsports will host racing Friday night at the Perry County Speedway in Hazard and again on Saturday night at Thunder Ridge in Prestonsburg.

South Floyd football boosters to hold meeting

The South Floyd Football Boosters Club is scheduled to meet tonight at Brackett Field at 7 p.m.

Coach Donnie Daniels urges all parents to be at this important meeting.

The Raiders are scheduled to start their football season on August 25 at home against Magoffin County.

South Floyd will host a Grid-orama on Saturday, August 12.

Prestonsburg splits in Paintsville tourney

The Prestonsburg Big Sandy Babe Ruth team, in their initial season, had a good showing in the Paintsville Big League Invitational Tournament this past weekend.

Coach Paul Foley's team split the four games they played but got a "sweet victory" with a 5-1 win over Paintsville.

Prestonsburg fell to Hazard and Laurel County before defeating Cumberland in their final game.

Against Paintsville, Donnie Combs hurled a complete game, allowing the Tigers but three hits.

Thomas Ratliff homered twice for Prestonsburg and Ryan Ortega had a two-run shot in the third inning.

Prestonsburg scored three times in the third inning to take a 3-0 lead. Ortega and Ratliff blasted back-to-back home runs to account for all three runs.

Ratliff's second round tripper came in the sixth inning to give Prestonsburg a 5-0 advantage. Ortega, who had reached on an error, scored ahead of Ratliff.

Paintsville scored their lone run in the fifth inning on a one-out walk to Blanton and Melvin's RBI triple.

Combs fanned 10 batters in the game while walking four.

Hazard was just too much for Prestonsburg in game two played last Sunday. Hazard posted a 14-0 win over the local team, allowing them only one hit in the contest -- a second inning single by Toby Robinson.

Brandon Hicks suffered the loss for Prestonsburg. The last nine batters for Prestonsburg were retired by Barker.

Prestonsburg ran into another buzz saw against Laurel County in game three. Laurel County posted a 13-3 mercy win.

Combs had a fifth inning solo home run for Prestonsburg.

Ryan Ortega led off the game for Prestonsburg with a solo home run. Ratliff followed with a double and he scored on Hicks base hit. Nathan Slone had a single in the first inning.

Laurel County scored four times in the first inning off starter Jason Hackworth to lead 4-0. The two-run first for Prestonsburg made it a 4-2 game.

Laurel County struck for four more runs in the third for an 8-2 game and added two in the fourth before scoring two in the sixth.

Prestonsburg closed out the tournament with an exciting 5-3 win over a very good Cumberland team.

A sixth inning rally by Prestonsburg pulled out the come-from-behind win.

Tied at 3-3 moving into the sixth, Prestonsburg rallied with two down. Toby Robinson, pinch hitting for Matt Crawford, singled after Hackworth and Shepherd were out. Crawford was allowed to reenter with the "re-entry rule."

Jason Blackburn then roped a double, moving Robinson to third. Ortega lined a base hit to center field, scoring both Blackburn and Robinson to give Prestonsburg a 5-3 lead.

Crawford started on the mound for Prestonsburg but was forced to leave the game with an injury in the seventh.

Combs came on to finish the game. Crawford, the pitcher of record when the go ahead run scored, picked up the win.

Cumberland rallied in the bottom of the seventh against Combs but failed to score. Bryant opened with a single and Keith followed with a double. Bryant was nailed at third on a steal attempt. Combs then hit Shadoan but got Snell to bounce back to the mound and Wesley to pop out to short to end the game.

Ortega had a two-run single in the sixth inning. Combs accounted for both first inning runs for Prestonsburg with a home run. He had a fifth inning single as well.

Thomas Ratliff collected two hits. He singled and scored in the first and singled to left field in the fifth. Jason Blackburn finished with two hits.

Combs' RBI gives Prestonsburg win over Johns Creek in PIT

Hicks collects three hits in 5-4 victory

Left fielder Donnie Combs lined a single to centerfield, scoring Thomas Ratliff in the bottom of the seventh inning to give the Prestonsburg Big Sandy Babe Ruth team (16-18 year olds) a 5-4 win last week.

Ratliff walked to lead off the seventh and Jason Hackworth was hit-by-a-pitch, putting runners at first and second. Combs then settled the score with his line drive.

Johns Creek had scored three times in the sixth inning to take a 4-3 lead.

Chris Wheeler started the rally with a triple and scored on a base hit by Jamie Hunt. Lowe, who walked after Wheeler's triple, scored on Evan Charles' ground out to shortstop. Ratliff then roped a single for Johns Creek, scoring Lowe and Hunt.

Prestonsburg tied the game with a single run in the bottom of the sixth when Brandon Hicks led off with a bunt single and scored on a passed ball. Prestonsburg left two runners on base in the sixth.

Matt Crawford started for Pres-

Combs came on in relief to pitch the sixth and allowed Johns Creek to tie the game. Combs was the pitcher of record, giving him the win.

Combs had two hits in the game as well as driving in the winning run. Brandon Hicks led Prestonsburg from the plate with three hits. Hicks had singles in the second and third innings and had a bunt single in the sixth.

The two teams were tied at 1-1 after the first inning. Ryan Ortega walked, stole second and moved to third on a catcher's error. He came in to score on Ratliff's sacrifice fly to right.

Johns Creek took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first on back-to-back doubles by Hunt and Charles.

Prestonsburg led 3-1 with two runs in the third inning. Ortega singled and Ratliff followed with a base hit that scored Ortega from second.

Ratliff moved to second on a balk and was at third on a catcher's error. He scored on Nathan Slone's RBI single.

Crum roped a two-run double to center. Watkins picked up his second RBI when he grounded out to third. Josh Bailey picked up an RBI in the inning.

North stranded seven base runners, but played errorless baseball.

Allen, who went all the way for Magoffin County, suffered the setback. He allowed all 10 runs on seven hits. Allen had two strike outs. Magoffin County had five errors in the game.

Napier had set the tone for the game when his fastball was setting up the Magoffin County hitters for his off-speed pitch.

His pin-point control did not allow Magoffin County time to think about walks.

Napier appeared ready to pitch when he received the ball back from his catcher.

Hayes finished with two runs batted in and two hits. Crum had two RBIs. Martin and Crum had doubles and Watkins had the game's only home run.

runner on in the first, but Tackett retired the next three.

HAP added three more in the second to lead 6-0. Hansford, Kidd and Keathley walked to load the bases. Chase Gibson hit a sacrifice fly to center to score Hansford. Kidd came home on a passed ball and Keathley later scored on a passed ball.

It was 8-0 after HAP batted in the top of the fourth. B.J. Kidd reached on an error at first base and ended up at third on two consecutive wild pitches. King, with two out, got all ball as he drove a pitch far over the center field fence for a two-run home run.

Anthony Tackett had a two-run double in the fifth inning when HAP scored four times to take a 12-0 lead.

Skaggs then tripled to start the bottom of the fifth and he scored to ruin the shutout effort of Tackett.

Patrick McKenzie started for Morgan County and worked the first four innings. He gave up 10 runs on five hits. McKenzie walked seven batters while striking out four.

Kelby Steele relieved McKenzie in the fifth and worked the one inning. He was tagged for two runs on two hits.

Hansford and Keathley had two hits for HAP. Hansford scored three runs. Kidd, who wasn't charged with an official time at bat, scored three times.

HAP played Paintsville last evening (Thursday) and will play Saturday at 7:30 if they defeated Paintsville, or tonight at 7:30 if they lost.

Kinzer

Following Grey and Kinzer across the finish line were Chuckie May, Ronnie Vance and Stanley Haddix. Hersh Colwell, Glenn May, Jerry Fannin, Ezra Brewer and Jeff Bentley rounded out the top ten.

Jim Lemaster of Paintsville passed early leader Allen Turner to take the $700 victory in the special 25-lap Thunder N' Lightnin' feature. Following Lemaster and Turner, who won the first heat race, were Richard Brewer, Steve Jarrell and Eddie Chapman.

In the final tune-up for this weekend's special $500 to win Bomber feature, Freddy Brock of Hazard held off rival Tandy Spurlock to take the victory. Kevin Griffey, Bill Setzer and Jim Lemaster rounded out the top five.

Prestonsburg

Slone and Mullins reached on one-out errors and Stennet roped a liner to right center to score Slone and Mullins. That made it a 6-4 game.

After Will Holbrook walked, Fitzpatrick singled home Stennet, and Holbrook scored when the ball was misplayed in center field. Robert Hall had an RBI single that scored Fitzpatrick.

Calhoun then grounded a base hit into center field and went all the way to third on a two base error when the ball eluded the center-fielder.

Hall scored on the error and Calhoun later scored on Newsome's RBI single.

Stennet pulled off an unassisted double play in the top of the fourth.

Bobby Fitch had started the Martin County fourth with a walk. Stennet fielded Charles Spradlin's ground ball, tagged Fitch and touched first to get Spradlin.

In the fourth, Mullins singled for Prestonsburg and stole second. He came on to score on Stennet's RBI single for a 10-6 game.

Martin County stayed close with two in the top of the fifth. Matt Spence collected an infield single, stole second and went to third on a wild pitch. Brian McCoy walked and both runners scored when Slone dropped a pop up in short left field.

Prestonsburg left little doubt as to the outcome when they played five runs in the bottom of the fifth to take a 15-8 lead. Calhoun doubled home a run and Slone doubled in the inning. Stennet picked up his fourth and fifth RBIs with a base hit. Fitzpatrick had an RBI in the inning.

Cline allowed two runs on four hits in his four innings of work and picked up the win. He fanned one and walked one.

Mullins gave up six runs on three hits and walked five batters. He had two strike outs.

Matt Cline went the distance for Martin County, allowing 15 runs on 14 hits. He walked three and struck out four.

Prestonsburg will meet Beaver Creek North tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Paintsville Little League Complex.

Just beat the throw!

HAP All-Star Chase Gibson slid safely under the tag of Patrick McKenzie of Morgan County as the two teams met in all-star tournament play in Paintsville Tuesday night. Ethics board may sanction officials Sanctions are possible against elected officials who failed to file or missed the deadline to file their financial disclosure statements, according to C.K. Belhasen, the chairman of the Johnson County ethics board.

The disclosure forms, part of the county's new ethics code, were sent to almost all Johnson County officials in April. The vast majority of officials filed them within the time period required by the ordinance.

Three officials who were mailed financial disclosure statements — District Two Constable Mike Castle, District One Magistrate Frank Patrick and District Five Magistrate Danny Milligan — have not filed them. Another official, Jailer Thurman Tackett, submitted his form past the deadline.

The ethics code requires disclosure statements to be filed "within 30 days after the form is provided by the ethics board." Those who miss the deadline, the ordinance says, could be fined $500.

Fines would probably not be necessary unless officials refuse to file statements, said Belhasen. Other sanctions — including a public reprimand — are possible.

Dissolution in Van Lear to get second vote

More than a year after Van Lear residents voted to dissolve their city government, a judge has ordered a new vote on the question.

Johnson Circuit Judge Stephen N. Frazier, in an order last Thursday, ruled that the petition requesting the May 24, 1994, election did not "comply technically" with state law because Mayor Paul Deaton failed to deliver a certified copy to the county court clerk.

"However, upon review of the petition and the signatures thereon," Frazier wrote, "the court finds the petition substantially complies with the statutory requirements, and accordingly, shall be sufficient to justify a second vote on the issue."

Frazier ordered the dissolution question placed on this November's general election ballot.

Blaine man charged with threatening

A man was charged with terroristic threatening in connection with an incident last month.

Frank Ross, 66, of Blaine, turned himself in at the courthouse in Louisa June 26 where he was served with a warrant by the Lawrence County Sheriff's Department.

Martha Ross of West Van Lear filed a criminal complaint. She said Frank Ross threatened "to get a gun and blow [my] brains out," and stated there are witnesses to the June 23 incident.

Circuit Judge Stephen "Nick" Frazier set bond at $20,000 cash.

flew over the Crum Branch reservoir area on Saturday and saw mining activity in what would be an unpermitted location. Also, the company allegedly asked Columbia Gas officials about the possibility of trucking coal into Inez.

The state said it would send an inspector to examine the situation.

Inez area sewer rates on the climb

The Inez Wastewater Board voted last Thursday to raise rates following an audit of the system's customers. The Board felt the increase was necessary to avoid a state takeover.

The rate increase will affect the minimum bill only.

The audit added 18 members to the city's sewer billing, and increased the billing by almost $2,500. There could be as many as 45 new names added to the billing list in the next month.

did give local officials the ability to plan for their own solid waste needs.

The company has spent several million dollars on the landfill before even receiving a permit. A spokesperson for the company says they plan to appeal the decision.

Whitaker faces revocation of teaching certificate

A hearing to determine if former Magoffin County Superintendent Carter Whitaker will have his teaching and administrative certificates revoked got underway this week in Frankfort.

The Office of Teacher Education and Certification is seeking to have Whitaker stripped of certification on the grounds of misconduct in office, incompetence, and willful neglect of duty.

Whitaker resigned as superintendent of the Magoffin County School District in 1993 after former Kentucky Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen leveled 19 charges of administrative misconduct against him that May. He was later hired as a math teacher by his successor as superintendent, Arnie Oaken.

The state eventually fired Oaken, suspended Whitaker as a teacher, and scheduled the revocation hearing.

station at Shelbiana.

Denny Gibson, 28, was sentenced to eight years in prison for robbing a BP station in May 1994.

Gibson and an accomplice, Betty Gage, who was found strangled last month, fled the scene together with a quantity of cash. The two were apprehended half an hour later. Gage had also been indicted for first-degree murder before her death.

A portion of the money from the robbery was found on Gibson at the time of his arrest. A bag containing the rest of the cash was found near the scene.

County BOE adopts policy for out-of-state students

New out-of-state students will be prohibited from attending Pike County schools this coming year, according to a policy adopted last Thursday. Out of state students previously enrolled may continue attending county schools if they pay back tuition and tuition for the coming years.

The move came after receipt of a letter from the state Office of Educational Accountability ordering Pike County school officials to make a further accounting of free educations for out-of-state students or risk being removed from their posts.

The county was notified last week that it would lose about $90,000 in state funding next year to make up for about 30 West Virginia students who had been allowed to study free in Pike County during the last two years.

Landfill suit is dismissed

A federal judge has dismissed a Florida landfill developer's challenge to the state law that allows local governments to block dumps.

U.S. District Judge Joseph Hood granted summary judgment late last Tuesday against Eastern Kentucky Resources. That company has been trying since 1991 to build a 300-acre landfill in Magoffin County.

The company argued that portions of the 1991 Solid-Waste Law violated the U.S. Constitution's protection of interstate commerce. But state officials say all the law

Library board renders decision on tax rate

The Pike County library board met in a special session last Friday to reconsider a tax rate it set June 22 after learning that the action would delay printing of the 1994 property tax bills by at least 45 days, posing financial problems for local governments and school boards.

The board initially adopted a tax rate of 2.49 cents per $100 of real property. After some discussion, board members were prepared to forego the increase for at least one year and decrease the rate to 2.10 cents per $100. The initially adopted rate was the maximum allowed under state law.

Contest winner Taz, is the "cat's meow"

by Polly Ward
Times Feature Writer

"You haven't met anybody until you've met Taz," said Susan Campbell as she opened the door of her home located on the Left Fork of Abbott Creek.

Waiting just inside was Taz, a long, sleek Siamese cat who greeted his mistress with the excited switching of his long, seal brown tail.

Taz was being interviewed that day as the winner of the Times' "Brag A Little, Win A Lot" pet contest. In May, Times' readers were invited to enter their pet in the contest by submitting the pet's photo with a brief description as to why he/she is special. The winner would be chosen by a drawing. Prizes included a feature story about the winner in the Times.

Even before Taz won the Times' contest, the 16-month old male feline was already a winner in the eyes of Susan and her husband Chris. The young couple married a year ago in April. A month later Taz arrived on the scene and things haven't been the same since. The feline has kept the Campbells on their toes with his playful antics, and the couple wouldn't have it any other way.

"He's just perfect," Susan said about her 14 pound cat. "He just basically runs the house, does what he wants to do. He's a big baby to me, in every way. Where I'm at, he's there. If I'm asleep, he's with me. If I'm sitting in here in the living room, he's with me on my lap."

Taz also thrives on attention, and when he doesn't get it, he pulls stunts. "He'll do something 'mean,'" Susan said, smiling. "He'll get in the litter box and scratch the plastic. Then he will get out and look at me."

"In the morning if he wants to be fed, he'll run up behind me and hit me with his paw, then run."

Chris got Taz as a kitten from a woman at Allen as a surprise birthday present for Susan. Chris said he chose Taz simply because, "I wanted a Siamese."

That suited Susan because she wanted a Siamese, too.

Susan said that Taz is "pretty much" a people cat. "When we have company, he shows himself. We had a get-together here one evening and he got so much attention we had to put him in a room."

The Campbells are "cat people," as well. In the spare bedroom, which Susan calls Taz's room, the feisty feline has his own carpeted perch under the bay window. There he takes catnaps during the day and watches for Susan to come home from work in the evening. Taz also has a scratching post, which he actually uses. "He never scratches the furniture," Susan said. "Chris keeps his nails clipped short, too."

There are signs of "Taz-mania" throughout the house. The Campbells keep a basket in the living room that is filled with toy mice, balls, rubber bands, and other favorite toys. The wall above Taz's litter box in the utility room is decorated with little pictures and plaques based on a cat theme.

Taz's sleeping quarters used to be the living room, where he had free rein. Then slowly, but surely, over the past few months Taz worked his way to the place he really wanted to sleep — at the foot of his masters' bed. The Campbells don't mind. In

THE LITIGIOUS SOCIETY

— Etta Stephens filed a lawsuit against Barnett Bank in Tampa, Fla., in May, seeking damages for the heart attack she suffered. She was stricken after opening her monthly statement to find, due to bank error, that her $20,000 money market account was empty.

— In May, trial began in Toronto, Ontario, in the lawsuit by Toronto-Dominion Bank to recover $3.5 million from Edward Del Grande, who had borrowed for his businesses. Del Grande is countersuing for $30 million, saying the problem was that the bank had loaned him too much money. Del Grande charged that if the bank had been more prudent, his companies could have survived the down market in real estate.

— In June, the family of the late Bridgeport, Conn., radio station executive Jefferson Ketcham filed a lawsuit in connection with his recent death. The lawsuit charged Cobb's Mill Inn and its waiter Paul Kane with negligence because, when Kane drove the intoxicated Ketcham home from the bar as a favor, he merely let him out of the car and failed to accompany him into his house. Ketcham tripped on the front steps, hit his head and died.

— Bob Glaser filed a $5.4 million lawsuit in March against the city of San Diego for the "emotional trauma" he suffered at an Elton John-Billy Joel concert, held at a municipal stadium. Some women, thwarted by long lines for their restroom, had entered the men's room, and Glaser said he was "extremely upset" at the sight of a woman in front of him using a urinal.

— Tucson, Ariz., lawyer Howard Baldwin filed a lawsuit in February against the local electric company, charging that meter reader Chuck Leon literally frightened his poodle, Jasmine, to death. According to Baldwin, when Jasmine saw Leon in the back yard, she crashed into a glass door, "involuntarily urinated," then escaped out the rear gate. She was found dead the next day, allegedly of exhaustion.

LITIGIOUS PRISONERS

— Recently, Chesapeake, Va., inmate Robert Lee Brock filed a $5 million lawsuit against Robert—accusing himself of violating his religious beliefs and his civil rights by getting himself drunk enough to engage in various crimes. He wrote, "I want to pay myself $5 million [for this breach of rights] but ask the state to pay it in my behalf since I can't work and am a ward of the state." In April, the lawsuit was dismissed.

— The attorneys general of New York and Minnesota recently announced their states' "top 10" lists of frivolous lawsuits. New York prisoners have filed lawsuits alleging a defective haircut by the prison barber, improper "white" towels instead of "beige," and an ice cream dessert that was largely melted. Minnesota inmates have filed lawsuits demanding damages for being provided an improper variety of beans on the menu, a lack of salsa, a surfeit of bologna, and underwear that was too tight ("cruel and unusual punishment"). One Minnesota inmate said his primary purpose in filing his lawsuit was "pure delight in spending taxpayers' money."

— In Indiana, a soon-to-take-effect law will allow prison officials to deny good-time credit to prisoners who file frivolous lawsuits. Among Indiana's most frivolous pending lawsuits is one asking damages because meat and vegetables were served somewhat mixed together on a dinner plate.

— In Idaho in April, three inmates filed a $10.7 million lawsuit against Cassia County because jail guards failed to give them late-night snacks.

— A public employees' union in Ontario, among whose members are prison guards who staged a walkout in 1989, agreed in February to pay 11 hospitalized criminals $45,000 for their having been "inconvenienced" during the labor dispute. The leader of the 11, psychotic murderer Michael Krueger, got $2,250.

In keeping with the most significant of male mottos, that principle which separates men from boys...

Catch it.

Kill it.

Cook it.

Eat it.

...we ventured to the Gulf of Mexico last week in search of The Great Trophy of the Sea only to find what may be the greatest medical discovery since Alka Seltzer®.

As a veteran of sea-going vessels, we don't tend to become afflicted with seasickness, learning quickly that charter boat crews show little mercy for the queasy-inclined.

A couple of our shipmates, however, were prone to turning as green as the sea at the first rise and fall of the tide and they had the foresight to take precautions, ala Dramamine®, prior to our early morning excursion.

Sensing that our son may require similar treatment, we administered a dose of the cure to him as well.

Before we cleared the dock, he and his like-sized compatriot were out like lights. Zonked.

What a peaceful trip it was.

Educational, too.

This thing called Dramamine® is indeed the antidote to precociousness.

No, we didn't dope the kids up during the whole vacation, though the thoughts of such arose with some frequency.

We knew that just as roaches find a way to become immune to bug spray as quickly as it is invented, young boys of the six and eight-year-old variety would not long be affected by some easily obtainable over-the-counter medication.

Okay, we know what you're thinking.

How could anyone even think about doping up a couple of kids to control their behaviors, even with a safe, commonly-used concoction like Dramamine®?

We can only respond by suggesting that you take a walk in our shoes or, better yet, take a 14-hour ride over 750 miles with the juvenile delinquents and see for yourselves.

Somebody will be on medication in the end, we guarantee.

Congo

It seems to me that we are fascinated by our primate cousins, apes, monkeys and the like. If not, why would we have such flicks as "King Kong," "Mighty Joe Young," and the "Planet of the Apes" series? When we go to the zoo, we're fascinated by the antics of the primates. We constantly compare their behavior to our own. Whether it's to assure ourselves of our superiority or not, I don't know.

Now comes the latest "ape" film, "Congo," adapted by John Patrick Shanley from Michael Crichton's ("Jurassic Park") novel. The dual plot focuses on two groups of people who have to get into the jungles of the Congo as soon as possible.

Peter Elliot, portrayed by Dylan Walsh, is a primatologist leading one of the groups. He has taught a gorilla he calls Amy how to speak in sign language. In a high-tech experiment, Amy has been fitted with a glove connected to a computer chip which translates sign language into spoken speech.

When Amy begins suffering from nightmares, as evidenced by her fingerpaintings, Peter looks for a way to return her to her natural habitat in Africa. Tim Curry plays Herkemer Homolka, a Serbian philanthropist who decides to fund the venture. He has ulterior motives and when his financing goes sour, Karen Ross (Laura Linney) comes to the rescue. She represents TraviCom, a communications conglomerate which has found a source of perfect diamonds (via TV satellites) in the Congo.

The original TraviCom expedition met an uncertain fate. Karen needs to find out what happened, but she needs a "cover" for her mission. Peter's group provides it for her.

Despite all the intrigue and the big-time borrowing from "Indiana Jones," this flick is a real failure. It would have been much better if it stuck to the scientific side of it and played up the idea of communication between man and ape. As it is, it's a boring, plodding, tedious movie. I don't think even the kids would enjoy it, despite some chest-banging gorilla scenes. Feel free to pass on this one.

The Weekend

It's Hillbilly Heaven

The 5th Annual Hillbilly Nation Celebration is just around the corner. Mark your calendars and head for the hills on Saturday, July 15. If you're a born and bred hillbilly or a hillbilly wannabe, the Hillbilly Nation Celebration is the place to be! The star-studded concert will begin, rain or shine, at 7 p.m. at the Wise County Fair Grounds, Wise, Virginia.

This year's spotlight will shine on two huge crowd pleasers from years past—The Metropolitan Blues All-Stars and Southern Culture on the Skids. Unquestionably, the two hottest party-dance bands in the South, both groups will be celebrating brand spankin' new CDs with a huge album release party right here at the Hillbilly Nation Celebration.

The all-time country and urban bluesmasters, the Met Blues will be coming home with their latest inspiration, Hillbilly Nation on Loose Cans, and they promise to give people happy feet with such hard-driving original tunes as "Existential Mule," "Twisted Steel," and, of course, "Hillbilly Nation."

Southern Culture on the Skids, with their unique blend of roots, blues, and rockabilly, will be returning on the heels of an international tour. These new recording artists for Geffen Records are shooting for the stars with Dirt Track Date that reviews say "sounds as if The Cramps met the B-52's and The Beverly Hillbillies at a trailer park in Alabama."

The stellar line-up continues by introducing the astounding Mojo Filter Kinds, who will rattle your bones with a rollicking blend of blues, jazz, salsa, funk and—believe it or not—good old mountain music. Rounding out the ticket will be the country rock sounds of the ever-popular Possum Hollers...who will introduce their new cassette featuring a cut called, you guessed it, "Hillbilly Nation Celebration."

This annual event will benefit WMMT, the region's only community-based public radio station. The station beams a unique sound across the mountains. Boasting the most diverse programming of any station in the region, it airs bluegrass and traditional mountain music, classic and contemporary rock, blues, jazz, gospel, country and world music. It also offers news and public affairs features, both locally-produced and national.

WMMT now reaches listeners in Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee and North Carolina, and proceeds will bolster its effort to increase transmitter power from Pine Mountain. WMMT is the listener-supported, non-commercial radio station of the Appalshop in Whitesburg.

Advance tickets for Hillbilly Nation Celebration are available for $16 and may be purchased at the Hometown Music and Appalshop in Whitesburg; Handy Dan's Shell Mart and Cat's Time Out in Hazard; Fuzzy's Liquors in Vicco; Sound City and B&B Liquor Store in Pikeville; Music Box in Regina; and the Gateway at the Breaks.

THE METRO BLUES ALL-STARS

It's history

Now that the Fourth of July is upon us and Disney's new movie Pocahontas is breaking records at the box offices, the historian in me is bursting with patriotic pride. Just the other day I was telling my husband where I'd read children were enjoying Pocahontas. I also told him that I was wondering whether or not Captain John Smith's saying, "Those who do not work, do not eat," was cut from the movie, and if not, did they understand it?

I love history. And I never could understand why many of today's children don't enjoy reading about things such as the presidents, inventors and America's independence from England. My son hated it because he found it boring and uninteresting. Obviously, he didn't learn it the way I did. And in order to learn many things, you have to be open to suggestions and have a sense of humor.

Several years ago, my parents presented me with a book titled Bennett Cerf's Houseful of Laughter. They were astute as parents go because they knew I liked to read and laugh. It became my favorite book because the first story told how Columbus discovered America. The story, "It All Happened With Columbus" by Richard Armour was a pun on Columbus' journey to the New World. If I had remembered to reach for this book and read it to my son when he was younger, he might have saved himself a lot of average grades.

Smile Awhile

from one of the Scandinavian countries with a shipload of people, all of whom were called Yon Yonson or Ole Olson or Big Swede, and went straight to Wisconsin, where he unloaded his passengers and went back for more. On his next trip he went to Minnesota. We all know this from some indecipherable remarks he made on a piece of stone. This stone has since become an utter ruse.

"Other explorers included Bilbo, Cabbage de Vaca, Cortez (known as The Stout, who traveled much in realms looking for gold), and Pansy de Lion, a thirsty old man who was looking for a drinking fountain. He never found it, but he founded Florida, to which a great many thirsty old men have gone ever since."

"Captain John Smith was the first of a long line of Smiths who came to this country to keep up with the Joneses. He was captured by the great Indian chief, Powhatan, and was about to be killed when Popocatepetl, the fiery young daughter of the chief, stepped in. We are not told what she stepped in, but she saved Captain John Smith's life, for which he thanked her. Later she married an Englishman, which improved relations."

"William Penn, on the other hand, came to America to collect some land the king owed his father. He belonged to a frightened religious sect known as the Quakers. So that he would not be forgotten, he gave his name to the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Pennsylvania Station and the state prison, which is known as the Penn."

The story continues to discuss the Pilgrims, the Plymouth Colony, the first winter, the colonies, Massachusetts Bay, Connecticut, life in old New England, the land, the Dutch and the French come to American, New Amsterdam, La Salle, and of course, a test at the end of the chapter.

One of my favorite questions is, "To what extent would the course of American history have been altered if America had never been discovered?"

Fly the flag this Fourth, but don't ask any history haters that question. If they attempt to answer it, we're really in trouble.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A domestic concern could arise early in the week. However, agreements are easily reached with others now since everyone's in a cooperative, good mood. Couples make decisions involving the use of joint funds.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It's steady progress for you on the job this week. However, a difference could arise with a child over a certain activity you disapprove of. Watch spending. Happy weekend developments could involve romance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) An old friend is a big help to you now, both at home and on the job. The early week brings conflict at work with a co-worker. Later, you're met with a crowning achievement. Business and pleasure mix.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Avoid an early-week dispute with a close partner. You'll be ready now to unveil a project you've had in the works for quite some time. However, don't be afraid to ask for help in completing this. The weekend brings a romantic introduction.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You find a friend is difficult to get along with early in the week. Try to find out exactly what's on this person's mind. Midweek, you'll devote time to an artistic interest. Lovers share private time together this weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You'll have to guard against quarrels and impatience with co-workers on the job this week. Concentrate on the completion of a task, but don't let this become an obsession. Romance is sheer bliss come the weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) It's a week when couples will feel closer to each other and renew their commitment to the relationship. However, take care not to overspend in the pursuit of pleasure. Your personality is an asset in business now.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You'll have success with a home improvement project this week, but avoid bossy behavior with relatives. You get more done when you ask nicely instead of commanding. There's a happy accent on romance and fun this weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Exercise care when driving this week or operating machinery. Avoid run-ins with strangers. At the same time, an acquaintance made now proves beneficial in the future. Creative work goes very well now.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) The early week could bring a dispute with a friend about money. This is about a loan made some time ago which remains unpaid. Perhaps it's best to forget this and move on. This weekend, you're charming and make a good impression socially.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Your thinking is right on target now. At the same time, it's not a good idea to force issues with higher-ups. You'll find something especially to your liking on a shopping expedition you take this weekend.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You could overhear something this week that you'll resent. However, consider the source. This person is vindictive and mean and should be ignored. Be thorough in what you do. Others will be fascinated with your company this weekend.

"Do you have to take that cake to Gran'ma? She's in the hospital! Can't you just send a card?!"

Unlike most cats, Taz enjoys playing in water, except when it comes to taking a bath. "He gets mad when he has a bath and he hides," Susan said. "But he will sit still when he is dried with the blow dryer."

One of feline's favorite pastimes is playing in the garden tub in the bathroom. "Taz likes getting into the garden tub when there is running water," Susan said. To demonstrate, Taz followed his mistress to the tub where he immediately jumped in and began playfully "slapping" the water that ran from the faucet.

Taz also loves it when Max, the Campbells' medium-sized Terrier-mix dog, comes in for a friendly romp through the house. "We let Max in and they play," Susan said. "One day Taz got on his back and they went running through the house. Taz is afraid of dogs, but not Max."

When Susan entered Taz in the Times' "Brag A Little, Win A Lot" pet contest in May, she submitted a close-up picture of Taz looking over her shoulder. The picture, in which Taz is looking wide-eyed at the camera, was taken by Chris.

The couple will soon have another picture of Taz to add to their collection. One of the prizes that Taz won is a free 8 x 10 photo by Steven Porter, Porter Studios and Associates.

Now, that's something to brag about.

CLICHES COME TO LIFE

— In Amarillo, Texas, in May, citizen Joe Brooks, spotting a man who was fleeing police officers in a public park, galloped after him on horseback and lassoed him.

— Protective fathers of teen-age daughters in the news: In October, according to police in Oshkosh, Wis., Thomas A. Hunt, 48, roughed up the boyfriend of his 15-year-old stepdaughter, wrapped him head-to-toe in duct tape, and abandoned him in a nearby town. And in Toronto, Ontario, in January, Desmond Kelley was sentenced to 15 months in jail for a 1993 incident in which he forced his daughter's boyfriend to leap from a fifth-floor balcony after catching the couple naked.

"It's such a nice day, couldn't we walk?"

New Antidepressant Minimizes Treatment Side Effects

by Jan Fawcett, M.D.,
 Chairman
 Department of Psychiatry
 Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center
 (NAPS)—Current treatments are quite effective in alleviating the symptoms of clinical depression, but patients often experience side effects that complicate their treatment. These side effects include trouble sleeping and sexual dysfunction. When side effects become intolerable, they may interfere with treatment compliance.

Question:
 I suffer from depression. The medication I currently use keeps me awake at night. Sometimes I don't want to take the medicine. Is there anything I can do about the unwanted side effect?

Answer:
 Sleep disturbance is both a symptom of depression and a side effect of many antidepressant drugs. The relationship of sleep to depression and to the effectiveness of antidepressant medication is not fully understood.

Many depressed patients treated with currently available antidepressants may experience unwanted drug-induced side effects such as insomnia and daytime sedation, sexual dysfunction, tremor, anxiety and agitation. These side effects may cause some people to discontinue their therapy before they have achieved relief from their depression.

As with other antidepressants, clinical studies show that many depressed patients treated with Serzone, a new medication, experience effective antidepressant response within several weeks of the initiation of treatment. Significant improvement also was found for certain factors of the Hamilton Depression Rating Scale, such as the sleep disturbance factor and the anxiety factor. Serzone improves sleep quality as evidenced by relief of depression-related insomnia and reduction of depression-related nighttime awakenings.

Serzone has a low incidence of certain troublesome drug-induced side effects including tremor, insomnia, anxiety, agitation and sexual dysfunction.

Question:
 Since I've been taking medication for my depression, my interest in sex has changed. Is the medication responsible?

Answer:
 For some patients presenting with depressive illness, symptoms may include decreased libido, and for those patients, when their depression improves, the symptoms of sexual dysfunction dissipate as well. However, sexual dysfunction may also be a side effect of available antidepressant medicines that effectively treat depression.

Some individuals not only experienced sexual side effects, but also experienced more than one type of sexual dysfunction. Specific sexual problems associated with antidepressants included: decreased libido, impaired ejaculation and inhibited orgasm. In clinical trials, the incidence of these kinds of sexual problems associated with Serzone therapy in both men and women was 1.5 percent or less.

Adverse events with Serzone reported with an incidence of five percent or greater and significantly different from placebo were nausea, somnolence, dry mouth, dizziness, light-headedness, constipation, asthenia, blurred vision, confusion and abnormal vision.

Each patient's situation is different. One particular medication may work for one person and not another. Your physician is best qualified to determine which medication is most appropriate for your treatment. The newer antidepressants do offer side-effect advantages over older agents. Please talk to your physician about side effects that may be interfering with your treatment.
