Opposing candidates have similar goals

Ron Frasure: Restore confidence, respect

by Alisa Goodwill
Staff Writer

The winds of change are coming to Floyd County and one candidate for judge-executive hopes to be the leader of those changes.

Ron Frasure, the Republican candidate for county judge-executive, said he wants to lift the cloud of suspicion off county government, be it concerns over 911, missing funds, or indictments.

"I want to restore confidence and respect in the office," Frasure said.

The major issues in this race are lack of water, roads, the implementation of 911, the problems with solid waste and bond issues, he said.

When it comes to the issues of water and roads, Frasure said he can work with Congressman Harold "Hal" Rogers to better Floyd County. Rogers is the chairman of a subcommittee that deals with appropriating funds.

"I want to look at who doesn't have water and then see what can be done to get them water," Frasure said.

He also wants to work toward improving the roads in the Mud Creek and Left Beaver area.

"That area of the county has been ignored by politicians for centuries," Frasure added. "I want to improve the area."

Along with improvements comes progress.

Frasure said he wants to make the county a little Gatlinburg.

"I will work on a coal museum to tie into the Mountain Arts Center and to improve the Jenny Wiley State Park," he added.

Ben Hale: Trust, vision and action is needed

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Trust, vision and action are some of the traits needed in Floyd County's next judge-executive and Democratic candidate Ben Hale believes he's the man for the job.

With Tuesday's election looming, Hale said in an interview Wednesday that one of the most important issues for voters is trust.

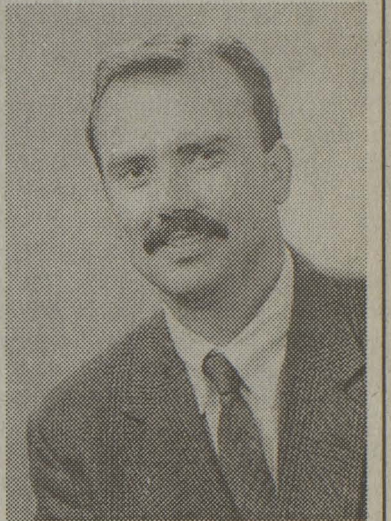

"One of the biggest concerns for voters is having someone in county government that they can trust," Hale said. "Someone who won't mislead them. I'm the only one that has put out a four-point plan to ensure trust in county government. I have no self-serving interest. Being judge-executive is something I want to do to help Floyd County progress into a progressive county."

Although some perceive Hale as having ties to the old-style of politics in Floyd County because his father, Henry Hale, served as sheriff during much of the old administration, Ben Hale says its time to look to the future, not the past.

"I'll be 39-years-old soon and I have nothing to do with what has happened in the past," Hale explained. "I'm looking ahead and want to work toward common goals that we need to achieve for this county to survive."

"I'll have the cooperation of every mayor and city council in this county."

Ben Hale

"I am the change: I don't represent the old-style of politics in this county. We need to pull together and work together."

Grand jury to hear case of thieves nabbed by neighbors

by Susan Allen

Felony theft charges against four Magoffin County men who are accused of planning a burglary spree in Floyd County were referred to a Floyd County Grand Jury Wednesday.

Destry Woodard, 19, of Royalton; Benny McKenzie, 19, of Salyersville; Jason Sparks, 18, of Ivyton; Roy Gibson, 27, of Salyersville; and a juvenile are accused of plotting to steal four-wheelers in Floyd County on October 26.

Sheriff's detective Steve Toy testified Wednesday at a preliminary hearing that three of the five were caught trying to steal an all-terrain vehicle (ATV) at a residence on Rice Branch at Banner.

According to Toy, the men were captured by family members when they drove up the hollow at Banner.

"The whole head of the hollow is family," Toy said. "When the vehicle drove in there, the families came out and circled them in."

When deputy Shawn Roop arrived at the scene, Toy said, McKenzie, and the juvenile were being held at gunpoint in the vehicle by one of the residents. Sparks was on his knees in the backyard being held by another resident, Toy said.

Gibson and McKenzie, who were in another vehicle, were stopped by Prestonsburg police, 1996 Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act passed unanimously by the House of Representatives Tuesday. The bill is now on its way to President Bill Clinton's desk for approval.

Prestonsburg will receive acreage from the Corps that was formerly leased by Jenny Wiley State Park to build a recreational project that will include an 18-hole championship golf course. The land is located on hilltop property behind Rebel Bowling Lanes in Prestonsburg.

The Corps will deed 271.14 acres to Prestonsburg for the recreational project, Patty Williams-Jarrell, resource manager for the Corps, said Thursday.

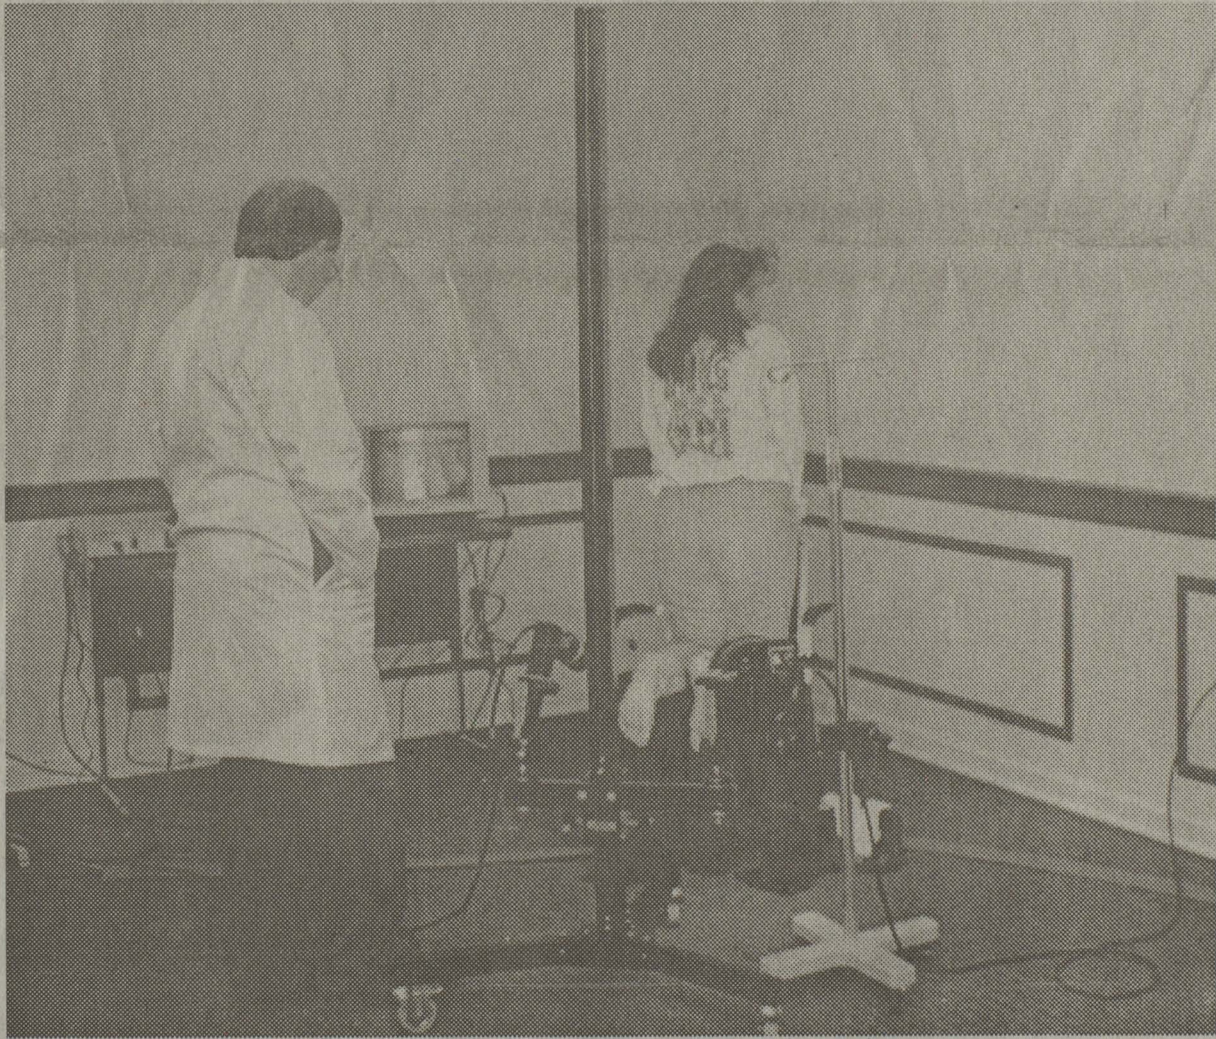

According to the terms of the legislation, Prestonsburg can use the property only for public recreation. If the city does not use the land as specified by the bill, it must return ownership to the Army Corps of Engineers.

In addition to the golf course, the recreational facility may include a walking track; baseball, football and soccer fields; and basketball and tennis courts. The city plans to develop part of the property by allowing it to be surface-mined and reclaimed at a grade that will allow for the construction of the recreational facilities, Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin said Thursday.

Fannin said that the state had previously looked at buying the property to develop the facility and had estimated the cost of the project at around $6 or $7 million.

Handshoe replaces Fitzpatrick, Gearheart renamed to board

Dr. Rodney Handshoe has been appointed to the Prestonsburg Community College Advisory Board by Governor Brereton C. Jones.

Handshoe will replace H.D. Fitzpatrick Jr., whose term has expired.

Fitzpatrick, former chair of the advisory board, has had an ongoing dispute with several board members. In a controversial meeting last year, Fitzpatrick concluded a meeting to elect officers after disharmony erupted among the members. Fitzpatrick did not take a vote on ending the meeting, and some of the board members proceeded to elect a new chairman, Paul Gearheart. Fitzpatrick and former board member Daniel Green refused to accept the election.

Green was recently replaced on the board by Bob Hutchinson.

Gearheart's term also expired, but he was reappointed to the board October 30.

Handshoe is no stranger to education or to PCC. Handshoe, who lives in Paintsville, currently serves as vice president of the Big Sandy College Educational Foundation, Inc. Executive Committee and is medical division chair of PCC's Partners In Progress Campaign Executive committee.

Pleas entered in assault, pot cases

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Three plea agreements were entered Wednesday in Floyd Circuit Court involving separate charges of assault, marijuana possession and wanton endangerment.

Anna Sue Hall, 34, of Galveston, entered an Alford plea to a fourth degree assault charge in connection with an altercation last year at John M. Stumbo Elementary

An Alford plea means that the defendant feels there is enough evidence to get a conviction, but does not admit any guilt.

Hall was indicted on a second degree assault charge for allegedly striking Jessica Keathley with a pipe.

Assistant commonwealth attorney Dwight Stacy Marshall recommended a one-year sentence to be probated for two years on the condition that Hall have no contact with Keathley or her immediate family.

Also Wednesday, Clyde Gibson, 24, of Ligon, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and a sixty-day jail term, to be served on weekends, was recommended. Gibson was charged with trafficking in marijuana. Formal sentencing was set for December 8 at 1 p.m.

In the other plea, Randy Salisbury, 40, of Printer, pleaded guilty to eight counts of second degree wanton endangerment.

Salisbury was charged with firing a weapon on Warco Land Company property. Marshall recommended a 12-month sentence on each charge to run concurrently and that the sentence be probated for 24 months.

Also, Salisbury is to have no contact with anyone at the Warco Land Company and is prohibited from possessing any non-hunting firearm.

City man is accused of making death threat

by Susan Allen

Preliminary hearings Wednesday in Floyd District Court resulted in the referral of several cases to a grand jury, including one related to threats against a local attorney.

James E. O'Bryan, 47, of Prestonsburg, is charged with one count of terroristic threatening and seven counts each of possession of a controlled substance and prescription drugs not in proper container for an incident that happened October 23.

Sheriff's detective Steve Toy testified Wednesday that bailiff Elmo Allen requested his assistance in checking out an allegation that O'Bryan had made a threat to kill attorney Jerry Patton.

"A complaint was received that Mr. O'Bryan was at Jerry's Restaurant and had laid a gun on the table and threatened the life of Jerry Patton," Toy testified. "He threatened to kill him."

Toy said that he and Allen, who were at the Floyd County Courthouse, proceeded to Patton's office, located near the courthouse, when they saw a man fitting O'Bryan's description near Patton's office.

"We saw him in the street and discussed what was said," Toy testified. "We gave him a quick pat down and asked him if he had a weapon in his car. He said 'no,' and we asked to search his vehicle." Toy said that O'Bryan consented to the search and officers found what appeared to be seven different types of drugs in a pill container in O'Bryan's vehicle. Toy said that no weapon was found.

When asked if he had a prescription for the pills, Toy said that O'Bryan responded, "yes, no, I don't know if I do or not."

Attorney Steve Owens, who represents O'Bryan, asked Toy if he questioned his client about the alleged threat. Toy said that O'Bryan denied it.

Owens asked District Judge James Allen to amend the charges, saying the commonwealth had only presented evidence that warranted misdemeanor charges.

Judge Allen overruled Owens' motion and referred the case to a grand jury.

Also Wednesday, a grand jury

Lexington doctors see patients via telecommunications

A face-to-face appointment with a physician doesn't necessarily mean the patient and the doctor have to be in the same city.

A technology that enables a patient to be in Prestonsburg, but still meet with a physician in Lexington, will soon be offered at Prestonsburg Community College.

Tuesday morning PCC held a demonstration of the new Telemedicine Conference Room. The room features interactive video technology which will enable the staff of the PCC Student Health Clinic to confer with physicians and others at the Chandler Medical Center at the University of Kentucky.

Prestonsburg Community College is not the only group offering this new technology. The University of Kentucky Chandler Medical Center is hooked up electronically with other clinics and hospitals including Morehead, Sandy Hook, Owingsville, Frenchburg, and Hindman. There are plans to hook up with nine more medical centers over the next three years, including Highlands Regional Medical Center.

This technology works for just about any procedure except surgery, Dr. Peter Bosomworth, chancellor emeritus of UK Chandler Medical Center said Tuesday.

Bosomworth, a former UK medical center chancellor, has been working on Telemedicine for several years. Right before he retired as chancellor he toured nine countries in Europe to investigate Telemedicine there.

"We can do full diagnostic physicals on adults and children, read X-rays, work with physical therapists, cardiology and countless other exams," Bosomworth said.

The military is experimenting with doing surgery from a remote site for soldiers who are on the front, Bosomworth said. The surgeons are able to operate by robotics, he added.

Cost for the patients has not yet been worked out. Bosomworth said he is currently working out agreements with Medicare, Medicaid and Blue Cross/Blue Shield to cover procedures done by Telemedicine.

Prestonsburg Community College's Telemedicine Conference Room was recently equipped using $91,307 received from the Appalachian Regional Commission. This money is part of a $355,420 grant which was used, along with matching funds from PCC, UK and other sources, to expand the Wellness Center, renovate space for the Student Health Clinic and fund student health fee scholarships for students who could not otherwise afford them.

The PCC Student Health Clinic, which opened last January, is funded by a student health fee of $84.75 per semester, which students pay at the same time as their tuition. More than 600 students paid nearly 1,700 visits to the clinic during its first six months of operation.

Repair Affair delayed by bad weather

Floyd County Repair Affair, scheduled for Saturday, November 4, has been postponed due to an inclement weather forecast. The event will be held Saturday, November 11.

Repair Affair is an all-volunteer effort to repair homes owned by the elderly or low-income residents of Floyd County, Trent Nairn, chairman of the organization said Thursday.

The effort is funded, partially, through funds from the Kentucky Housing Corporation, which provides a 50 percent cash match. The matching funds are provided by local businesses and individuals through donations of building materials, food, and supplies.

It is jointly sponsored by the Prestonsburg Rotary Club, the Mountain Housing Opportunity Corporation and the Big Sandy Area Development District.

Approximately 60 volunteers have signed up for the next Repair Affair on November 11 when repairs will be made on seven homes in the Prestonsburg-Auxier-Allen area. Volunteers are asked to meet at the Big Sandy Area Development District Office from 8 to 8:30 a.m. November 11.

To volunteer or for more information about Repair Affair, call Nairn, at 886-6946; or Anne Chaney, with Big Sandy ADD, at 886-2374, ext. 307.

Ailiff makes impact on state program

Mountain Comprehensive Care Center recently announced that Big Sandy IMPACT's new parent representative, Lahoma Ailiff, was presented with an award for Outstanding Parent Representative.

The award was presented by Rep. Tom Burch on behalf of Kentucky Association of Regional Mental Health and Mental Retardation Programs during a dinner at the Mental Health Institute in Louisville, on October 4. This award was for representing parents of emotionally-disturbed children with the IMPACT Program for five years.

The goal is to have a support group for all parents of emotionally-disturbed children in every county of Kentucky. These parents need to have a place to turn where they can identify with one another and get the emotional support that can only come from someone who has shared the experience. Parents can learn to advocate for their children and get the services that are needed to ensure the best future possible for their child.

Tonyia Bandy

Flight attendant

Tonyia Bandy, daughter of Nita Bandy of Abbott Creek, Prestonsburg and the late Russell Bandy, graduated from Flight Attendant training class #9526 and was presented her wings and award of certification by American Airlines/American Eagles on October 16 in Dallas, Texas.

Attending the graduation were Nita Bandy of Prestonsburg, Charlie Thompson of Prestonsburg and Kari May Ried of Lexington.

She left Wednesday, October 25, for her base in Chicago, Illinois.

She received special recognition or being most determined, overcoming the most obstacles and was voted by her classmates overall best flight attendant.

Frasure

"People enjoy being on the lake, the river and in the mountains."

Frasure said he will realistically look at what makes the county great and promote those characteristics, like coal mining, to other areas.

"I am the son of a union coal miner," he said. "I was raised with a deep feeling for the coal miner and I want to convey the story of the coal mine traditions."

Tourism is just one area Frasure will strive to improve. He plans on helping push through a federal project that will provide jobs in the area. He will also help the county become a medical center for Eastern Kentucky.

"While I promote these other areas, I will not forget the small coal mines with eight or ten employees who need help," Frasure said. "I will work toward state and federal government backing off the coal miner. I am not ready to give up on the coal miners."

Unfortunately, with improvements and progress comes the problem of money.

"Property taxes are the biggest thorn for the taxpayers," Frasure said. "The assessments have been raised over $2 million since 1992. Yet at the same time the county and the school system are not able to operate within those means. The tax rate is increased every year."

Frasure said the rates need to go down, not up, and to do that the taxbase needs to be increased.

"We can build a better taxbase as new industry and business come into the area which in turn means taxes can be lowered for residents," he said. "It is high time somebody said halt to the increases."

To help solve a problem he sees with people being over-assessed, a board of appeals needs to be in place where taxpayers can appeal their assessments without being rushed, Frasure added.

Another of his concerns are bonds the county is financing.

"If it is not too late, I want to look at the proposed new courthouse," Frasure said. "I am not sure we need it."

The county could have gotten $6 million from the state to build the new courthouse and it would have not cost the county anything, but someone decided spending $9 million and tying up the county's bond was better, he said.

The taxpayers' debt needs to be looked into which includes the county paying $900,000 for 27 acres of land in a flood zone, 911 and solid waste issues, Frasure added.

"I am not against 911, but I want to be sure the money is there," Frasure said. "I want to make sure the PSAP (Primary System Answering Point) is put in a workable place. The third floor in the courthouse may be it, but I don't know yet."

Frasure said he wants 911 to be economical and feasible for everybody in the county.

"I will ask questions like, Do the extreme portions of the county have the equipment needed? Does the county have the trained personnel to handle the emergencies? Can the ambulance services and fire departments handle the response time with a larger tax district? Is the .89 cent monthly surcharge going to generate enough revenue?" Frasure said.

The burden on the taxpayers needs to be minimized, he added.

"I will spend as much time as possible in Frankfort to minimize those burdens," Frasure said. "I think a year or so ago if state and local representatives had stood up to the state government we would not have the fiasco with the landfill. Garbage rates need to be lowered."

"I will not be bossed by any one individual and only answer to the taxpayers of this county," he said. "I want to end the dictatorship type of government where one or two men rule."

Frasure said he will do this by having an advisory board of three Democrats and three Republicans who will recommend a person who is the most qualified to fill an office or vacancy.

"When hiring people for county offices, I do not want to know what political party they are," Frasure said. "I want honest, qualified people who can represent the county well."

"I think with proper leadership, county government can work together despite opposing politics," he added.

Frasure said if the public will give him the next three years to help out with county problems that's fine and then they can decide what kind of judge he is.

"I honestly believe people will judge me, not my politics," he said.

Threat

will hear a case against a Garrett man who allegedly hit a youth with his vehicle.

Jay Pritchard, 16, of Garrett, testified that Mitch Cragger, no age available, also of Garrett, intentionally struck him with his vehicle while he was standing beside the road near Campbell's Grocery on September 30.

Pritchard said that he was talking with friends when Cragger began "cussing" him and said, "get out of the road, dumb ass." The youth testified that Cragger swerved his vehicle toward him and that he had no time to get out of the way.

Cragger's vehicle struck him, Pritchard said, and knocked him to the ground. Pritchard said that he suffered bruising on his left side. When asked why he thought Cragger would do that, Pritchard said, "I don't believe he liked me to begin with."

Judge Allen referred the case to a grand jury.

LEADERSHIP

Ron Frasure

Floyd County Judge

"The only way you can change Floyd County is by voting. I would encourage all my supporters to go to the polls on Tuesday, November 7th to elect me your County Judge. Together, Democrats and Republicans, can begin a new era in Floyd County. Only by voting for honest government can we have honest government. Take a stand for Floyd County on Tuesday, November 7th."

Ron Frasure's 9-Point Plan for Floyd County:

1. Audit of County Government to uncover waste and fraud
2. Review all Bond issues based on their merit
3. Establish a Bi-Partisan Advisory Committee to involve citizens
4. Review all 911 system accounts
5. Work with Congressman Hal Rogers to provide clean water for all homes in Floyd County
6. Work with Congressman Hal Rogers to 4-Lane the Mountain Parkway into Prestonsburg and I-66
7. Work to build a better road through Left Beaver and Mud Creek
8. Work to reduce our property taxes
9. Work to make Prestonsburg Community College a 4-year college

Ben Hale's Plan for Floyd County

1. Refuses to audit County Government to tell taxpayers where their money is
2. Protects his Political Insider friends by not wanting to audit Government
3. Offers no specific road projects to improve roads in Floyd County
4. Takes credit for County construction projects began by John Stumbo and Bob Meyer
5. Offers no specific water projects to give Floyd County families clean water
6. Deflects from the real issues by attacking Ron Frasure's specific plan to provide an honest brand of bi-partisan leadership

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

To vote or not to vote...

by Scott Perry

The time has come, we suppose, for our annual November lecture on your duty as an American, Kentuckian, Floyd Countian or whatever to exercise your right to vote.

But that speech is getting kind of old and it doesn't seem to do much good, anyway.

If you want to vote, vote. If you don't, well, just stay at the house.

If we had our way, we'd make it a crime to skip a voting opportunity, punishable by having to listen to elevator music all day.

But, we don't often get our way and, besides, there are probably some people out there who really like elevator music.

So, we won't waste any more of our time or breath on you shirkers, and we're not going to expend any energy chastising all those bozos out there who think they ought to be paid to go to the polls.

Just go on about your business and we'll go on about ours which, on election day, is about as important as business gets in this country.

Oops, there we go lecturing again.

Sorry about that.

Anyway, those of you who do plan to vote, with no promise of monetary gain and no guarantee that your vote will ride on a winner, congratulations.

You've done your part.

Maybe you've helped elect someone who'll make things better.

Maybe you've helped elect someone who'll screw everything up.

Hey, that's what makes America great.

The good, the bad, the ugly...it's all relative, anyway.

If you didn't have good, there wouldn't be bad and ugly, well, that's just a matter of perception.

Voters, start your engines.

Get out there and give 'em hell.

Win one for the Gipper.

Cuss if you lose.

Crow if you win.

Come back next year.

We'll do it again.

Whoa, how'd that poetry get in here?

Guess we just get a little worked up when there's an election at hand.

Polls open Tuesday.

Be there or be square.

Open letter to Mr. Ron Frasure

Editor:

Dear Mr. Ron Frasure:

It has always been my intent to stay out of local political controversy, but I feel compelled to respond to the statement made in your political advertisement which appeared in the November 1, 1995, issue of the Floyd County Times.

The advertisement centered on RND's recent filing of Chapter 11 and presented several false statements concerning my company.

The facts are:

- Coal severance tax money has not been provided to RND.

- The $1.5 million listed as debt in your ad is apparently taken from our Chapter 11 filing and is our Total Liabilities. Our total liabilities have little to do with my decision to file Chapter 11. Much of the $1.5 is long term debt that is not payable for up to 25 years and has nothing to do with our current problems. However, if you insist on using it, I feel it is only fair to list our total assets also (also listed in the Chapter 11) which are $3 million.

- RND never promised to create up to 300 new jobs. Under terms of the agreement (which is public record) we agreed to create sixty jobs by the end of 1996. A recent audit by the responsible governmental agency found our progress to this commitment satisfactory.

- I do not believe that taxes were increased to support RND's relocation because most of the funds used for our move were private funds, myself being the largest contributor. The only relocation funds provided by a governmental agency came from HUD as a Federal Block Grant. These monies were provided by the Federal government as a grant to the county. RND is obligated to repay the funds that RND assets secure.

I took jobs out of Mexico to bring them to Floyd County because I believe in Americans. I came here to be part of a growth oriented community pulling together for the betterment of all. I have supported the local community whenever asked to do so and all of my dealings with any governmental agency have been above board and with integrity.

Our recent problem involves two of our largest customers that have not paid us for products that we shipped last spring. Both companies are from out of state, one filed bankruptcy and the other appears to be on the brink of filing. I fully intend to pay every outstanding obligation and believe this to be a temporary setback that will be behind us by mid 1996. Most of our creditors recognize our situation and have been very supportive. I had hoped to find as much support here at home, in Floyd County.

If RND does fail, I will be the big loser along with the missed opportunity provided to Floyd Countians. RND has wonderful products that are the center of attention wherever they appear. They are currently sold in more than 700 retail locations nationwide providing recognition to all of us from Floyd County. Our growth rate has been admirable by any standard and we are only now at the threshold of opportunity. RND's manufacturing process offers diversity to the area, does not pollute, and has enormous expansion potential with new products yet to be introduced.

The doors to RND are always open. I have always encouraged people to come in, look us over and learn what we are about. When the media called for information about Chapter 11, I asked them to come by. I welcomed you, anytime, and believe that you would have a different opinion about RND if you knew us and could see our fine products first hand.

Finally, Mr. Frasure, being a Republican, it troubles me to see this type of politics at any level of our party.

Former W/W coach addresses incident

Editor:

This letter is in regard to the article appearing in the October 27 issue concerning the negligence case against the board of education, Wheelwright football coach, and principal.

The fact is that the Wheelwright players were not wearing long underwear, did not have tape holding long sleeve shirts intact, nor did they have long socks up to their pants.

However, the players did have spirit shirts or t-shirts under their pads to prevent the straps from rubbing their bare skin.

After hearing these comments, I asked to speak in my defense and was unable to do so since the attorney was defending the insurance company rather than the school board, principal and myself.

Therefore, I must speak in defense of the school and the situation. I feel that all the facts were not presented and that many people may have perceived the situation as something that was planned. It should be viewed just as it was, an unfortunate incident.

No trick... just treat

Editor:

While Trick-or-Treating in downtown Prestonsburg, I encountered a most gracious and heartwarming gentleman. He wanted to make Trick-or-Treating special for a needy child, so he provided a costume for a child.

I asked his name and he responded, "anonymous." However, I must say a special thank-you to this kind man. Your gift was deeply appreciated.

DEMOCRAT BEN HALE

Leading Floyd County into the future:

A FINAL WORD TO ALL FAIR-MINDED FLOYD COUNTIANS:

As we move into the final days of this campaign, I take this last opportunity to speak to every fair-minded Floyd Countian. For weeks now, my Republican opponent has falsely claimed that Floyd County is bankrupt, that the 911 money is missing, as if it relates to my fitness for the office of County Judge-Executive. I simply ask you, the voter, to consider the following, put forth in a style my opponent seems fond of:

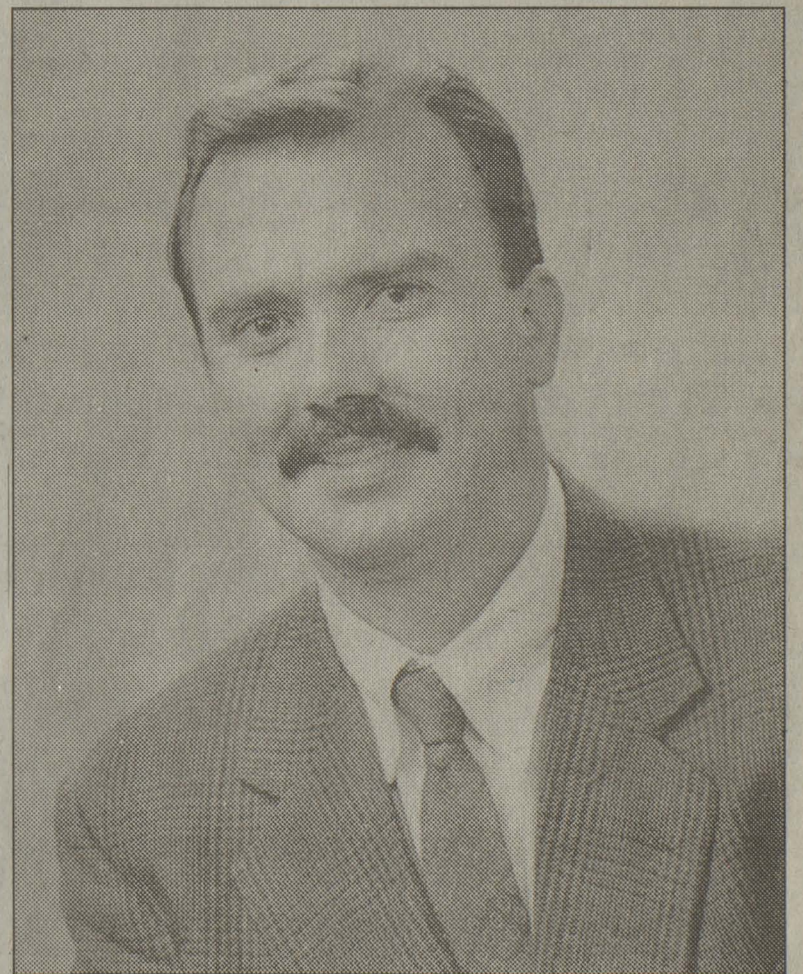

FACT: For the last 16 years, I have worked full time as a businessman for Brown's Foodservice, and have been busy raising a family. I have never held elective office or been on the county payroll. I have had no involvement in any of the matters my opponent continually speaks of.

FACT: From the first day of my campaign, I have said public trust in your county government must be regained, and that this will be my first priority.

FACT: I have promised a 30-day plan of action to be implemented the moment I walk into the County Judge-Executive's office. I will fully open the Fiscal Court meetings, open all records of county road work done or to be done every month, and give monthly written reports showing all receipts and disbursements of your monies by your county government. I discussed this pledge in greater detail in another ad in this same paper.

FACT: My Republican opponent's promise to conduct an audit will be fulfilled regardless of who is elected. Kentucky state law requires and conducts audits yearly of county government, including the office of the County Judge-Executive, the Floyd County Clerk, the Floyd Circuit Clerk, and the Floyd County Sheriff. These audit results are publicly submitted, become a public record, and are reported regularly by the Floyd County Times.

Friends, I do not desire to appear mean-spirited, but the tone of my opponent's campaign compels me to speak the truth plainly. Having done so, I tell my opponent that I bear him no malice and wish him well. I now turn to you, the voters, and ask you to carefully consider my plans, hopes, and pledges set out in various ads in this paper today. After doing so, I trust that all fair-minded individuals will choose to join with me in moving our county government in the right direction, changing forever the way it serves you, me, and our families.

VOTE FOR

BEN HALE

FOR COUNTY JUDGE-EXECUTIVE ON TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7 AND LET'S ALL WORK TOGETHER FOR OUR FUTURE.

Thieves

Toy said.

Toy said that statements from the juvenile and Sparks indicated that the five conspired to come to Floyd County to steal ATV's and take them back to Magoffin County to be sold.

Gibson is charged with conspiracy to commit theft by unlawful taking, obstructing the identification of a machine and receiving stolen property. McKenzie is charged with conspiracy to commit theft by unlawful taking, criminal trespass, no operator's license and possession of burglary tools. Sparks is charged with theft by unlawful taking and criminal trespass. Woodard is charged with conspiracy to commit theft by unlawful taking, auto.

Judge James Allen referred the cases to a grand jury.

In another hearing Wednesday, wanton endangerment charges against a Knott County man were also referred to a grand jury.

Paul Rister, 26, of Topmost, is facing two felony charges of first degree wanton endangerment involving a police officer and host of misdemeanor traffic charges after an incident October 20.

Deputy sheriff Steve Little testified that Rister failed to stop his vehicle while Little was attempting a traffic stop and that Rister ran through a roadblock set up by deputy Charlie Thompson.

Little said that he was dispatched to Garrett to check an allegation that Rister had taken some items from a residence in that area.

"I went to Lackey and never saw the vehicle," Little said. "When I got back to Route 80, I saw the vehicle and called in the tag number. I followed the vehicle east on 80 and planned to pull it over at Martin because I knew backup would be there."

At Maytown, Rister turned up Turkey Creek, Little said, and then Rister hit his brakes which caused Little to hit the back of Rister's vehicle. Rister then sped up and Little said Rister braked in front of him several times causing him to bump into Rister's vehicle.

In the meantime, Thompson had pulled his cruiser across the roadway ahead of the two and Rister squeezed between it and the guardrail, Little said. Rister's vehicle spun off the roadway and Little hit Rister's car, with both ending up in the ditch, the deputy said.

During the arrest, Rister hit Little in the face and tried to wrestle away from him and Thompson, Little said.

Public defender Kristi Gray asked Little if Rister was injured in the accident and Little said, "He said the only thing that was hurt, was his pride."

Rister is charged with two counts of first degree wanton endangerment; no operator's license; attempt to elude; resisting arrest; disorderly conduct; failure to wear a seat belt; possession of marijuana; operating on a suspended or revoked license; operating a motor vehicle under the influence of intoxicants; and operating on a suspended license revoked for driving under the influence.

Judge Allen referred the case to a grand jury.

Hardee's makes $1,000 donation to local schools

The Hardee's in Prestonsburg, has donated $750 in Donation Dollars to the Prestonsburg High School and $250 to Clark Elementary.

The Prestonsburg High School and Clark Elementary will be selling these donation dollars for $1 each starting October 25. All funds raised from the sale will be retained by the group.

Persons purchasing a Donation Dollar can then redeem it at participating Hardee's Restaurants. It will be used as $1 toward the purchase of any of the new Big Hardee Combos, which includes a Big Hardee Burger, side item, and beverage.

"We are really very pleased that Hardee's can help such a worthy cause as Prestonsburg High School. I would like to encourage everyone to help this fine group by purchasing these donation dollars," said Carrie Fairchild, general manager for the Prestonsburg Hardee's.

The 365 Hardee's Restaurants owned and operated by Boddie-Noell Enterprises Inc. which is headquartered in Rocky Mount, North Carolina, are each giving $1,000 in Donation Dollars to selected fund raising organizations.

Recent retirees presented to FCRTA

The September 7 meeting of the Floyd County Retired Teachers Association was devoted primarily to recognition of recent teacher retirees. Attending the function and for their years of dedication to Floyd County's youth were Marcella Coburn Bradley, Ray Brackett, Doris Osborne and Delores Woody, pictured above. The new retirees recounted some of their teaching experiences for the group and hopefully, will be back for the next meeting of FCRTA scheduled for December 7.

DEMOCRAT BEN HALE

Leading Floyd County into the future:

In the final week of this campaign, I want to again restate my promise to every Floyd Countian to deliver a new level of accountability to the County Judge-Executive office. While my Republican opponent has spread misleading information of county finances, I've given you a simple but dramatic plan that will prevent any possible abuse or self-serving actions by your county judge.

THEREFORE, WITHIN THE FIRST THIRTY DAYS IN OFFICE,
I PROMISE YOU THE FOLLOWING REFORMS:

1. OPEN MEETINGS OF THE FISCAL COURT

Meetings will be held at a location that gives room and access to all interested citizens. At least one out of every three monthly meetings will be held in alternating magisterial districts. Every citizen will have an opportunity to be fully heard.

2. OPEN FINANCIAL RECORDS

At each monthly Fiscal Court meeting, a printed summary of the county's finances, including current receipts and disbursements, will be distributed to those in attendance, including the public and the press, with ample opportunity for any questions and discussion.

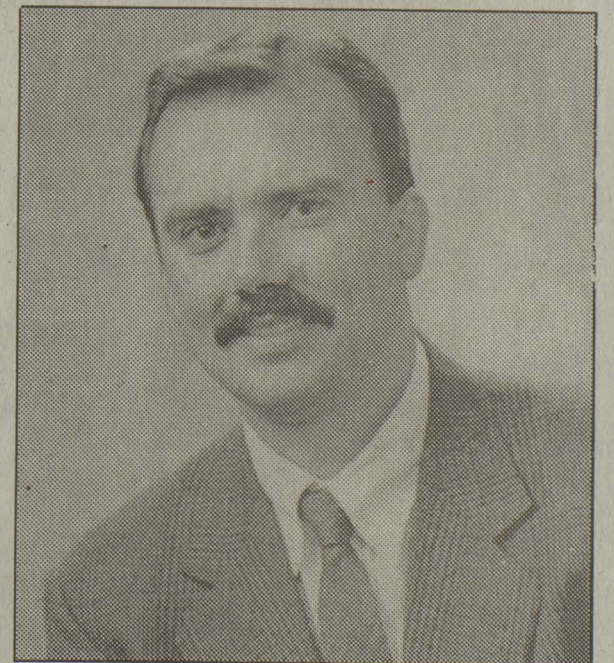

3. OPEN ROAD WORK RECORDS

A 30-day work plan for all county road work will be prepared and publicly submitted at each monthly Fiscal Court meeting. Further, a written report of the county road work done in the preceding month will be distributed to the public and the press, with ample opportunity for any questions and discussion.

4. OPEN DOOR TO THE COUNTY JUDGE-EXECUTIVE'S OFFICE

Every citizen will have access to me, the staff, and records of the County Judge-Executive's Office during daily business hours. I will do all within my power to respond to every citizen's needs, complaints, or questions, in a direct and honest manner.

As I stated before, I will work for clean public water, public sewage systems, improvement of our county road and bridge system, development of recreational facilities and employment opportunities for our people. But I believe the First Priority is to bring to an end any doubts about the integrity and honesty of your county government. I have come to realize that anyone can throw rocks, but it takes courage to step out and lead. I am determined to be that person who leads us in a direction for the common good of us all.

ELECT BEN HALE

DEMOCRAT FOR FLOYD COUNTY JUDGE-EXECUTIVE

Let's work together for the future of our county!

Hale

"We can't keep bickering among ourselves.

"Floyd Countians are tired of being plain lied to," Hale continued. "They want someone who represents honesty. They want a public servant who represents them, not themselves."

As for addressing the county's economic development woes, Hale said funds for such development should be used at home before looking to woo outside interests.

"Part of my plan is to diversify our economy," Hale said. "We need to invest in small businesses in Floyd County to get a different job base than coal. We need to do that right now. We need to sit down and start setting goals like any business and then work together. We need to do that right now for Floyd County to have a chance to survive for the next 15 years and to keep people here."

Once a local economic base is built, county officials can then look at regional development projects to enhance the overall economic base, Hale said.

"First you look at small businesses in Floyd County," Hale said. "From there you look at development on a regional basis. Then you look at attracting businesses in the state. A last resort is to look out of state.

"My philosophy is, I love Eastern Kentucky," Hale said. "I was raised here and I live here. People that live here understand that. You can't go outside the region and expect people to move in here and like it. The people that raise families here have a kinship with the area and they want to be here. You want to invest economic development monies here. Talk to local people wanting to diversify and expand. First and foremost, they love Eastern Kentucky, also. They are going to be here the rest of their lives.

"If we can't develop local industries, then we go regional and try to persuade someone to develop an industry for people who have the same kinship to the area," Hale continued.

Although maintaining the county's roadways and the installation of water lines are important services to taxpayers, Hale said that is what part of county government is supposed to do for its constituents, but local officials have to look to the future.

"A judge-executive has only one vote, but he is the leader," Hale said. "It takes cooperation and communication with the magistrates. I will publicly express the needs of the county that are beneficial to all the people of the county. We have to decide how to best spend the taxpayers' money. Once they see the bigger picture and set bigger goals, the better the economy. We have to work within our budget and we have to start getting cooperation and look 20 years down the road."

Other changes Hale proposes include holding town meetings throughout the county to give the public a say in how their government is operated.

"I'll not make quick decisions on major issues," Hale said. "I will seek input from the public. I will hold public meetings to get the peoples' feelings. You have to be responsive to the people."

Hale freely admits he plans to be a pest to state officials, because he feels if you don't make yourself known at the state level, state officials won't remember you when opportunities become available.

"If you don't go to Frankfort and ask for money for water line expansions or roads, you won't get it," Hale said. "When you pay state and federal taxes, you should get your fair share. I'm energetic enough to do it."

Also, Hale says that cooperation between elected leadership in the state and in congress is essential to garner the dollars available for improvements in the county. He also stresses that major projects won't develop overnight and that a concentrated long-term effort is needed to make local improvements.

"We need to do something now to help ourselves," he said.

Mountaintop

we won't have that cost. Costain will get it to a rough finish," Fannin said, adding that the city would use the royalties to complete the project.

"It's a win, win situation," he said.

He added that private property owners in the area will also be in a winning situation because the city plans a 50/50 split with them over the property.

"If someone owns 10 acres of land, you'd sign it over to us and we'd give you five acres of flat land — property that will be worth a fortune," Fannin said.

The property will increase in value because it will have access to utilities and roadways and will be near a recreational facility that includes an 18-hole golf course, a major attraction, Fannin said.

"Golfing is a big time sport. A lot of people travel all over to do nothing but golf," Fannin said.

The mayor, who doesn't play golf, said the course will complement existing tourism attractions in the county.

"We will soon have a place where people can come in and spend a week with us. We have four lakes within less than a 45-minute drive," he said, also mentioning the appeal of the Jenny Wiley Theatre and the Mountain Arts Center, which should be completed next year.

Clinton is expected to sign the bill into law "sometime soon," a staff member of Congressman Hal Rogers' office said Thursday. Rogers is vice chairman of the Energy and Water Appropriations panel.

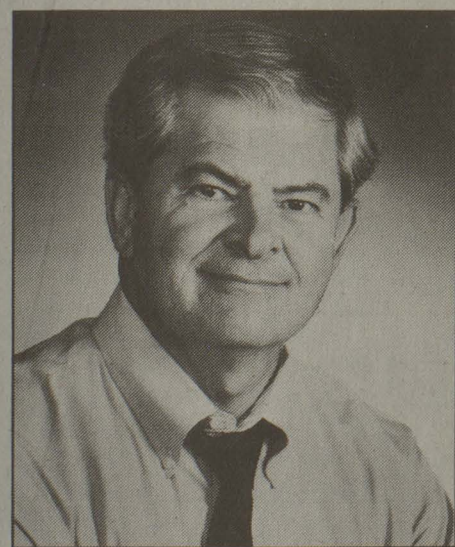

The bill is not expected to meet with opposition from Clinton because the measure was passed overwhelmingly in the House and the Senate, Rogers' representative said.

The legislation will also pour $2.5 million into Dewey Lake's recreational coffers. The Appropriations Act provides nearly $17.3 million in funding for government agencies dealing with energy development and water projects. About $2.5 million of it is tagged for Dewey.

The funds allotted to Dewey will go the Army Corps of Engineers for the operation and maintenance of the lake. The Corps also received operational funds for Fishtrap in Pike County and Paintsville Lake in Johnson County.

The legislative package also includes funds for flood control studies in Floyd County. Specifically, the bill included $330,000 in funding for the Levisa Fork Basin Flood Study, including Pike, Floyd and Johnson counties.

DEMOCRAT BEN HALE

Leading Floyd County into the future:

I'm Ben Hale, Democratic candidate for County Judge-Executive. To restate who I am and my family background: I am the son of the late Henry C. Hale and Penny Osborne Hale of Blue River, Kentucky. I am married to Keane Gregory Hale. I am the father of four children, Nick, Benjamin, Brian and Charlotte. I have four brothers, and one sister: James, Tommy, George, Jon and Kay.

I have worked hard throughout this campaign to meet as many of you as possible, but I could not meet you all. Ultimately, I have to trust each of you to fairly consider me, my words, and my goals.

I believe that a majority of Floyd Countians want change, openness, and honesty. I am the candidate who has clearly promised to lead us in that direction. Please stand with me now, by your vote and support, and I will not fail you, myself or my family.

Portrait Help us make history! OF HOME

The Floyd County Times is looking for old photos to use in the yearly Portrait of Home issue.

Photos are needed for the years 1936, 1956, 1966, 1976 and 1986 to remind us of what progress our county has made through the years, and World War II action captured in photos are also needed.

Photos can be reproduced while you wait or they can be returned to you by mail.

The deadline to have photos in the Portrait of Home sections is November 24.

DEMOCRAT BEN HALE

Leading Floyd County into the future:

Friends, the time has come for a strong, courageous, progressive leader in Floyd County. I believe I am that leader.

With the experience I have earned in nearly 16 years as an Eastern Kentucky business leader, I believe I have the necessary skills to lead Floyd County into the 21st Century as your Floyd County Judge-Executive.

To restate what I will do in the first 30 days of my administration is to restore and ensure the public trust and confidence in our county government, I will implement these steps:

- Open meetings of the Fiscal Court so they are accessible to the public.
- Open financial records for all to see.
- A 30-day work plan for all county road work will be prepared and publicly submitted at each monthly Fiscal Court meeting. Further, a written report of the county road work done in the preceding month will be distributed to the public and press.
- Open Door Policy to the County Judge-Executive's Office

These steps need to be done so we can move ahead and lay the necessary groundwork to achieve the long-term goals that are critical to Floyd County's survival, including the following:

1. Infrastructure Expansion and Improvement — As your Floyd County Judge-Executive, I will make it a top priority to implement and continue projects to improve your quality of life, such as new water and sewer lines that will serve every Floyd Countian.

2. County Road Projects — As your Floyd County Judge-Executive, I will work diligently to make Floyd County roadways the best in Eastern Kentucky, both to keep our children safe and to eliminate the largest barrier to attract new industry to Floyd County.

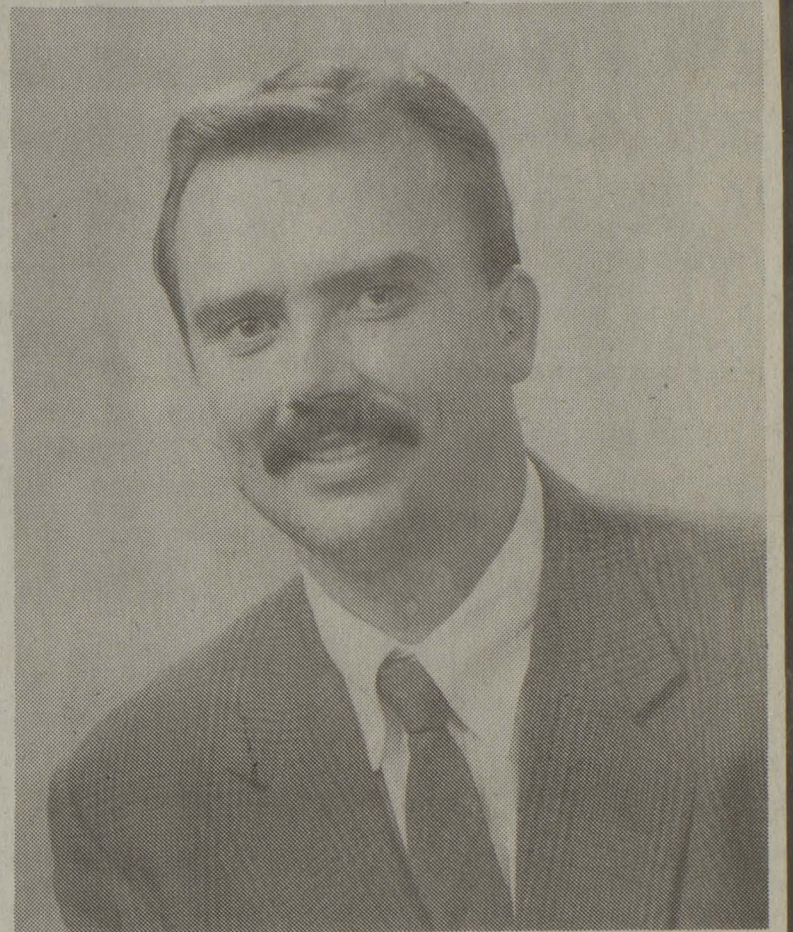

3. Recreational Facilities — Not only do our families deserve a decent place right here in Floyd County to enjoy themselves, but also it is vital to Floyd County's future to expand our economic resources and attract new tourism dollars and new commerce. I will work with our leadership locally, statewide, and federally, to help continue Floyd County's economic viability.

Friends, these goals cannot be achieved overnight. In spite of the fact that my opponent claims he represents change, he has practiced the politics of the past, promising roads, water, bridges, jobs and blacktop to all who will listen. I will not join him in going backward with empty unkeepable pledges. Rather, I have chosen not to lie to any voter. Every promise I've made I can recite in the full light of day. Our county has a limited budget and there is no "pie in the sky." The time has come to speak plainly and honestly. I will work hard with the tools I have. My deeds will be there for all to see. I will use every dollar to move us closer to our common goal, a county where every family enjoys the best county services we can afford. With your help, I can give leadership that puts the public interest first.

We must RE-CREATE Floyd County to be the best for ALL FLOYD COUNTIANS.

With your help, I will lead the way.

VOTE FOR ME ON NOVEMBER 7th and together we'll take Floyd County into the 21st century.

Knight to light the way for
'96 Reds

Well, Marge is a happy camper with the announcement that Ray Knight will be the Cincinnati Reds' new manager for the '96 major league baseball season.

With a smile on her face, she and Jim Bowden made the announcement to the news media and Knight immediately laid out his plans for the Reds next season.

He doesn't care if he is popular with the players or not, according to the report, but that the Reds are going to play his way — and that will be aggressively.

Meanwhile in Baltimore, former Reds manager Davy Johnson was quick to find another job, one he said he wanted last year. The Orioles signed Johnson on for the next three seasons.

Knight stated he 80 percent agrees with Johnson on the way the Reds went in the '95 season. It must have been that other 20 percent that caused the Reds to loose in the playoffs.

Davy carried the label of a "players' manager" meaning they could do what they wanted. Ray says that will not be the case next season. Knight said he expects the Reds to utilize their speed and says the club will be a running team next season.

Ron Gant and Benito Santiago are free agents this season and hopefully the Reds can ink the duo. Gant has said he wants to go to Baltimore (whoops!) next season after turning down a $20 million offer from the Reds. Atlanta could get interested in Gant — again. But Gant did not have the great second half he did the first half of the season.

Reggie Sanders is ready to become the player many thought he would be. He did take a nose dive in the playoffs, but he had a great year otherwise and that is what matters.

Barry Larkin will be Barry Larkin. Just a great baseball player who quietly goes about getting things done. He's in the fold for the next two seasons.

Hal Morris is eligible to become a free agent this winter, but the Reds are pushing to sign him for next season.

Pitching will continue to be the woes of the Reds in '96 unless Bowden can pull some major trade in over the winter months. Smiley faltered big time in the second half of the season and you can't tell if Pete Schoreck can repeat the past season. Jose Rijo will always be a question mark. Mark Portugal could be of some help. The bullpen is certainly in need of a long reliever. Brantley is a strong closer.

The third base question was settled when Johnson made the wise move of putting Jeff Branson at third, platooning with Mark Lewis. I have always liked Branson as a ball player. He just needed a chance. Forget Willie Greene.

I look for a lot of player movement during the winter months as teams try to unload not wanted and reduce the salary size. But Cleveland proved that you don't have to have the big salary players to be winners.

Believe it or not, I was rooting for the Indians against the Braves. I really don't care much for Bobby Cox, Braves manager.

With Right Beaver Classic :

Grade school season kicks off

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Seventeen teams will comprise the Right Beaver Classic grade school basketball tournament beginning Monday night at the Duff Elementary School.

Adams Middle School, the defending champion for the boys, will not be there to defend its crown.

The Lady Hornets of Auxier, last year's county champions, will face the Lady Falcons of Mountain Christian Academy in the opening game of the Classic. The two will jump center at 5:30 p.m. This season marks the first year MCA has dressed a girls' team.

Auxier lost the nucleus of its team from last year's championship season, but will return Mandy Music, a seventh grader, one of the county's best girls' grade school players. It should be an even match up.

At 7 p.m. the Duff Bulldogs, favored to win the county this season, will face a young Auxier Hornet team. Coach Ronnie Patton's Bulldogs will have Rodney Bentley and Shawn Henson returning from last year's county runner-up team.

No games are scheduled for Tuesday, November 7, but the action will pick back up on Wednesday with two girls' games opening play. At 5:30 p.m. The Lady Mustangs of Stumbo will take on Allen's Lady Eagles at 5:30 p.m. and Martin will face Betsy Layne at 7 p.m. in the second girls' game. Jackie Day Crisp's Allen Eagles will face Hayes Hamilton's Stumbo Mustangs at 8:30 Wednesday night.

The first round will conclude on Thursday night with Maytown facing McDowell in a girls' game at 5:30 p.m. In game two Thursday night, Martin goes against a strong Betsy Layne team. At 8:30, Maytown faces McDowell in the final boys' game.

Two semifinal games will be played on Friday night and two on Saturday evening. Saturday night

Blackcats hope to salvage winning season in playoffs

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Prestonsburg is not accustomed to having a losing football season.

But the 4-6 Blackcats will have to look to the playoffs if they are to salvage a winning season this year.

Coach Bill Letton's ballclub will travel to Russell tonight in the first round of the state high school playoffs. They hope there will be more games.

Russell, losers of only one game this season, and that to powerful Lloyd Memorial, will have a good memory of last year's battle with Prestonsburg in the second round at home. The Red Devils, 11-0 last season, scored late in the second half to take a 14-7 lead and made it hold up, eliminating the Blackcats.

Russell and Prestonsburg will be playing each other for the fourth consecutive year and the second straight time at Russell. Prestonsburg won the first two playoff meetings before falling last year.

"This makes the fourth time and all in the playoffs," Russell coach Ivan McGlone said. "They always present a defensive problem for us. They run

Allen Central to visit Erlanger Lloyd

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

With the gouls and goblins behind us and the Thanksgiving season ahead, Allen Central football coach Glenn Reeves is hoping for an early Thanksgiving.

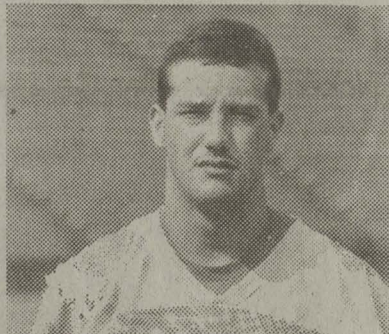

He and his Rebels could find a lot to give thanks for if they can pull an upset of Erlanger Lloyd Memorial, top ranked in Region IV, District 1 with an unblemished 10-0 mark.

Allen Central will be entering its first ever playoff and will bring a 5-5 record on the road in hopes of pulling off a surprise win.

While the Rebels are the decisive underdog in the playoffs, the team is confident, it has to be. The Rebels are a junior-laden team that needs to make a good showing in the playoffs to return next season.

Rebel quarterback Adam Coleman hasn't shown that passing threat he had the first three quarters

Blackcat Facts

• Prestonsburg and Russell will have met in the playoffs four consecutive years after tonight's game.

• Game will air live over radio station WQHY and on a tape-delay basis over CableVision and WPRG, Channel 5 (Tel Com).

PRESTONSBURG COACH BILL LETTON will lead the PHS Blackcats against the Russell Red Devils for the fourth straight year in the playoffs. The two teams met last year at Russell with the Red Devils winning 14-7 in the second round of playoffs.

In playoff game : Raiders hoping to sting

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

South Floyd coach Donnie Daniels had hoped that his Raider football team could have gone into the state playoffs tonight on a winning note. But the Raiders dropped a 20-12 decision in overtime to Elkhorn City and now must regroup and look toward Williamsburg.

"These kids have always been able to put things behind them," the South Floyd coach said. "We've had a good scouting report of Williamsburg and they have a good attitude in going down there."

South Floyd's (3-7, 3-3) three victories came from within its district after losing to all seven teams outside of it. Williamsburg (9-1, 5-1) is one of the top 1A schools in the state and was the only unbeaten 1A team until it fell to Middlesboro in next to the final game of the regular season.

Coach Bob Rose's team has been ranked as high as eighth in the state and brings a strong running game into the playoffs.

In 12th Annual Martin Grade basketball panorama

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

For all you basketball junkies that just can't get enough of the game, your place to be will be the Denzil "Hoss" Halbert gymnasium this Saturday, November 4 for an all-day affair of grade school basketball.

The 12th Annual Purple Flash Panorama will feature 21 of the county's grade school teams with the first game getting underway at 10 a.m.

"We wanted to include some outside teams again this year," Martin boys' coach Doug Derossett said. "But we had several county girls' teams that wanted to get in it. So we will have ten girls' teams this year."

We wanted to include some outside teams again this year. But we had several county girls' teams that wanted to get in it. So we will have ten girls' teams this year.

— Doug Derossett
Martin boy's coach

The only outside team scheduled to play is a boys' team from Johnson County Middle School. They will face Maytown in a 5:30 p.m. game.

The Duff Bulldogs square off against Betsy Layne in the opener at 10 a.m. The first one should be a good one as the two teams are ranked high in the county.

The girls will play at 10:50 a.m.

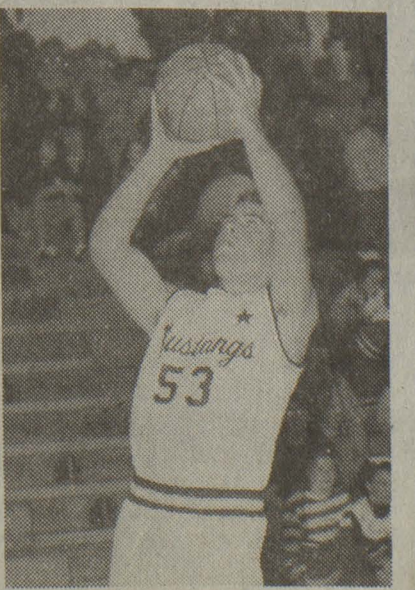

with Duff facing Allen. Again, this should be a good one. Derossett's Martin boys' team will face the Eagles of Allen at 11:40 a.m., another good match up.

McDowell boys will take on the talented Stumbo Mustangs at 12:30 p.m. in what promises to be one of the better games. At 1:20 it will be Martin's Lady Flashes going against the Lady Blackcats of Adams.

A new team this year in the county will be the Lady Falcons of the Mountain Christian Academy. They will face McDowell at 2:10 p.m. Last year's boys' county champions, Adams Middle School, will go against Martin in a 3 p.m. tip off time.

a 5-3 defense most of the time, but we're expecting a 6-3 look.

"I expect them to throw on us. It will be a defensive battle. Prestonsburg has a good team although they are young. They have experience in their running back (Jon) Morris. That name scares me, remember Larry (Morris)?"

"They're a good club. I know they are rebuilding, but they went through that four years ago and caught fire. We're definitely not taking them lightly. We expect them to move the ball and up and down the field."

Every team at one time has to go through a rebuilding season and 1995 was definitely the year for the Cats. But Prestonsburg fans have been spoiled over the years with a winning program that saw them go to the state championship game in '93.

Junior running back Jon Morris will lead up a Prestonsburg offense that hasn't really produced consistently this year as in seasons gone by. But this is a young group with sophomore Dennis Laferty and freshman John Ortega joining Morris in the backfield. Morris rushed for 933 yards this season scoring four touchdowns. But the playoffs seem to bring the best from Morris and tonight's game could do just that.

Mike Castle, junior, has improved greatly this season as the Blackcats' quarterback. He has passed for nearly 700 yards this season and has a strong throwing arm.

Prestonsburg has suffered from the problem of penalties this season. The team also hasn't taken care of the football well. Against Russell, who's defense makes things happen, a little extra care of the ball will have to be taken.

When it comes crunch time, the game will have to be played in the trenches. Prestonsburg's defensive line has shown a lot of improvement over the season and must shut down the running game of the Red Devils.

Coach McGlone said his team is "about as healthy as they have been all year."

KEYS TO A RUSSELL WIN...

"We have to move the football consistently against Prestonsburg," he said. "We will have to get after them. We have to be sure that turnovers doesn't hurt us."

"What a lot of people don't realize about this Prestonsburg team is they have lost to some good teams this year. They have played a tough schedule. They lost to some exceptional teams."

Right Beaver

games begin at 6 p.m. The championship will be played Monday, November 13.

Duff, Stumbo and Betsy Layne are considered three of the county's top grade school teams, with all three teams having some talented players. Osborne Grade School, which is not in the tournament, along with Adams, rank as the top two teams in county grade school basketball.

The Duff Lady Bulldogs will be led by Natalie Cooley and Beth Combs and a number one county ranking. Cooley will also play for the Allen Central Lady Rebels this season. Stumbo, Martin and Allen will be strong units.

Martin Panorama

The Maytown girls square off against Stumbo at 3:50 p.m. At 4:40 the Falcons of MCA will take on Harold and Johnson County Middle School will meet the Maytown boys at 5:30. The final game of the panorama pits the Martin girls against the Lady Mustangs of Stumbo beginning at 6:20.

Each game will consist of two ten-minute halves with the clock being stopped for each violation. Each team will have one time out per half.

Allen Central

of the season. Coleman has struggled the past four weeks. He has passed for 1,684 yards this season, an average of 168 per game.

Beau Tackett, fullback, also hasn't found the yardage that he found six weeks ago. Tackett was having fun and on his way to piling up the yardage. But of late — the last three weeks — he has found teams like Breathitt County and Whitesburg tougher to find holes against. Tackett has rushed for 835 yards this season and scored 13 touchdowns. He has caught 39 passes for 615 yards, tops in the county.

Teammate Thomas Jenkins is close behind him with 47 catches for 597 yards. Jenkins has scored six touchdowns this season.

It has been the defensive line that carried the Rebels mid ways of the season. Phillip Robinson is one of the most underrated linemen in the county. Sophomore Gordon Reeves leads the Rebel defense with 118 tackles and nine sacks from the linebacker slot.

Levi Wells, Chris O. Bailey, Chris L. Bailey, Robinson and Matt Varney have anchored a solid line. The late bloomers for the Rebels have been Estill Stumbo and Shane Blackburn. Both are solid receivers and Craig Crace has demonstrated that he too can catch the football.

Erlanger Lloyd Memorial has the state's third top passer in Randy Lee (6' 0", 180). The senior quarterback has completed 66 passes on 108 attempts for an average of 202 yards per contest. He tossed for 23 touchdowns.

Lloyd Memorial is averaging just more than 40 points per game, eighth best in the state and has a scoring margin on offense of a 30-point spread.

South Floyd

John Booker is the feature back for the Yellowjackets. He has carried the football 166 times for 1,328 rushing.

"He's a hard runner," Coach Daniels said. "He's definitely their best back."

Joining Booker in the backfield will be two other capable backs. Chad Price (5' 8", 160) will be at the halfback slot. Price gained 795 yards on 125 carries for the Yellowjackets. Craig Hodges (5' 6", 151) rushed for 171 yards on 91 carries.

"We have three very capable backs," Coach Rose of his backfield.

Dusty Moses (5' 8", 177) will quarterback the team for Coach Rose. He has completed 36 of 64 pass attempts for 615 yards. The Yellowjackets do not throw the football that much, just enough to keep the defense honest.

"They'll throw about 15 times a game," Daniels said. "Just enough to where you can't come up on them. This is a nice looking ball-club. Moses throws the ball good. He distributes the ball well in that he doesn't always throw the same receiver."

"Hodges is a very versatile player. They will use him at tailback, end or safety. He's just an all-around athlete. He has good speed and he is not comparable to any back we have seen this year."

COACH ROSE'S SCOUTING REPORT...

The Williamsburg coach said the Raiders are a tough football team that doesn't overpower you, but will mix things up. He likes Nick Compton at the quarterback slot.

"He's is a good athlete," the Williamsburg coach said. "South Floyd is what I call a stair-step team. They will have two or three 200 to 300-pounders lined up against you and an 150-pounder next to them. They are a good football team.

"Their tackles will hold their ground against you. They're not quick and they will not push you out of the way, but they will run a box on you and force you to throw the ball or run the ball up the middle. They will run some trick plays and reverses on you. They will try an overload."

"They are the type of team that depends on the big play. That's because they are not overpowering. So they will run the counter and reverses," Rose said.

KEYS FOR A RAIDER WIN...

"We have to control the football against Williamsburg," Daniels said. "We will have to put some points on the scoreboard early. I'm talking two or three of them. We'll have to run the ball from tackle to tackle. With the speed of their linebackers, it will be hard for us to get outside. We have to have good pass protection."

Rose said he has been at it for 22 years and it is always good to be in the playoffs.

"Just like their quarterback, it's another week of practice for him and another game for him to play in and get experience. I always look at it as a jump on everyone else for next season," he said.

Kevin Stencil is a day-to-day situation if he plays or not, according to Daniels.

"He's getting better each day," he said. "He is definitely better than he was Monday. It will be a game-time decision on him."

Williamsburg has a linebacker out, Todd Jackson (5' 8", 236) and he will not see playing time.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. at Williamsburg.

LET THE BUTTONS WALK

A "button" buck is a male fawn in his first year. His "antlers" are little fuzz-covered knobs. He is next year's antlered buck and the trophy of the future.

It's easy enough not to bag a button buck during regular "buck" season. Then, legal game has visible antlers. But on so-called "doe days," when antlerless deer are being harvested for population control, many button bucks bite the dust.

Button bucks are particularly vulnerable during the rut. Adult bucks drive the young males away from breeding does. The button buck wandering around on his own for the first time is pretty dumb.

When harvesting antlerless deer, don't shoot solitary animals. Wait for a group of antlerless deer and take out the biggest one, this will be a mature doe. Invest in good binoculars of 8X or stronger and carefully examine the head of any "antlerless" deer for the small knobs of developing antlers.

Protecting the buck fawns is the best step to better buck hunting in the future.

Estep convicted of murder, assault

by Christopher Hunt
Appalachian News-Express

Tammy Lou Sullivan Estep was convicted of wanton murder and first-degree assault Tuesday by a Pike Circuit Court jury.

Estep was given a sentence of 20 years in prison on the murder charge and 10 years in prison for the assault charge.

The two terms will be served concurrently, meaning she will serve 20 years with the possibility of parole.

The charges stemmed from a February 6 auto accident near Daniels Creek.

In that accident, Estep had crossed into the oncoming lane while passing another vehicle in a curve, hitting the vehicle Jeana Coleman was riding in head-on. The vehicle in which Coleman was a passenger was driven by Vinson Johnson.

Coleman, 24, of Elkhorn City, was pronounced dead at the scene by Pike County Coroner Charles Morris.

Coleman's mother, Deborah Coleman, was injured in the accident, prompting the assault charge.

Coleman was employed as a bookkeeper for Walter P. Walters Insurance Company.

Estep had five different drugs in her bloodstream at the time of the accident, including Xanax, which is a sedative prescribed primarily for anxiety or depression; Elavil, which increases the activity of the central nervous system and is prescribed to treat seizures; Soma, a sedative primarily prescribed as a muscle relaxer; Valium, prescribed as a muscle relaxer and for anxiety and depression; and hydrocodone, which is similar to codeine and morphine, and primarily prescribed for pain or to suppress coughing.

Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Ron Burchett said the verdict of murder was needed to help send a message.

"The illegal use of prescription medication is the number one crime problem in this county. It is the root of crime in this county."

Burchett also said while the fact the drugs are prescribed lessens or removes the stigma associated with illegal drugs, like cocaine, for many people, it doesn't lessen the danger.

"We still treat it like it's not such a bad thing," he said.

Estep had been prescribed Loracet, for back pain, and Elavil for seizures, but she had no prescriptions for the other four drugs. The Loracet, which was not in her bloodstream at the time of the accident, had been prescribed as a result of an earlier auto accident near Jenkins.

Estep said she had gotten the Soma from a friend when she couldn't find a doctor, that her mother had given her Xanax and she had taken Valium from her ex-husband.

Estep, who was represented by Pikeville attorney C. Tom Anderson, testified she had previously driven after taking the drugs, but didn't think they had impaired her judgment and that she didn't know some of the drugs should not be taken together. She also admitted to occasional use of marijuana.

John Hunsaker, a forensic pathologist and associate chief medical examiner for the state, testified the five drugs, in combination, were enough to impair anyone's ability to operate an automobile.

The investigation was conducted by Kentucky State Police Detective Donnie J. Phipps.

Controlling cholesterol's risks

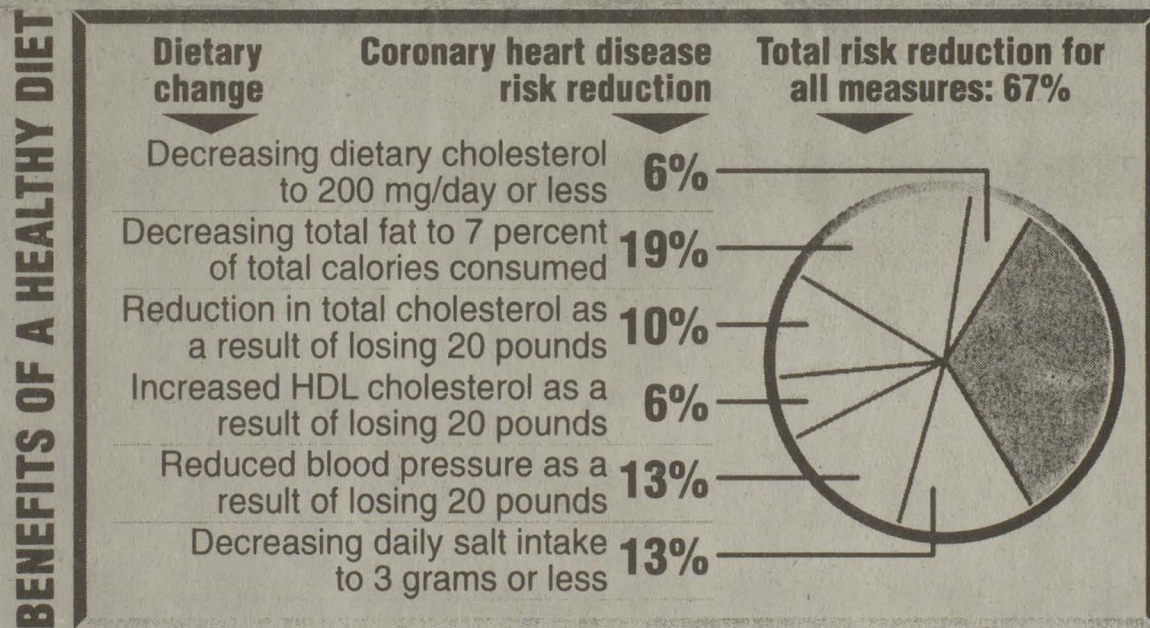

Cholesterol guidelines developed by the National Cholesterol Education Program

First, count your risk factors for heart disease...

- Male, 45 or older; female 55 or older, or with premature menopause, not on estrogen replacement therapy
- Family history of premature coronary heart disease: heart attack or sudden death of father or brother before 55, mother or sister before 66
- Current cigarette smoking
- Hypertension, either uncontrolled and greater than 140/90 mm Hg, or controlled with medication
- HDL level of 35 mg/dl or lower
- Diabetes mellitus
- Anyone whose HDL level is above 60 mg/dl can subtract one risk factor.

...Then determine your goals for LDL cholesterol

- No heart disease present:
 - 0 or 1 risk factors: LDL lower than 160 mg/dl
 - 2 or more risk factors: LDL lower than 130 mg/dl
- Heart disease present:
 - LDL lower than 100 mg/dl

Who's counting: Since 1992, 2,702 medical articles have been published on cholesterol.

Prank results in juvenile court hearing

by Kim Stacy
Appalachian News-Express

Imagine the horror of discovering your sixth-grade son has been seriously injured in a "poling" incident while at school and will require hernia repair.

Top the incident with the discovery the five boys responsible are not punished for their prank.

Steve and Kathy Hackney of Rowe Creek, near Regina, claim they are now facing those consequences. Their son, Matthew, was injured the second day of school at Elkhorn City Elementary. And after what they call "fruitless result," they have taken the problem to the juvenile court system.

What may have started as a harmless prank has resulted in assault charges for four of the boys and an accessory to assault charge against a fifth youngster. A hearing is set for November 15.

For those unfamiliar with the term "poling," the Hackneys said it involves four male students attacking a victim, grabbing him by the arms and legs and ramming him into a pole while spreading his legs apart so the groin area is fully exposed to the pole.

"Poling" is often used in schools across the country as a means of initiating sixth-grade boys into the seventh grade, said Steve Hackney.

However, the school principal said no information exists to support those allegations; and the county board of education investigated the incident and found nothing wrong.

The Hackneys said the incident occurred during lunch; however, Matthew was not taken to see the school nurse and his parents were not called. His homeroom teacher, Carolyn Allen, found Matthew hurting in the hallway and made a report to the school principal, Leslie Rowe.

Another student in the class told her Matthew had been poled by four seventh-graders.

Allen said Rowe informed her he was aware of the situation because he caught the boys chasing Matthew.

The Hackneys said the boys walked up to a group, which included Matthew, and asked who wanted to be poled. Matthew began running and was stopped by a fifth boy, so the others could catch him.

"That night he was real depressed and finally, after several attempts, he told me he was hurting and what had happened," said Kathy Hackney. "When I checked him he was very swollen, but I didn't know he was ruptured."

"I took him to the emergency room that night and they sent him to an urologist. A couple days later, he was checked and he required outpatient hernia surgery."

Steve Hackney, along with his wife, visited the school the next morning and taped their conversation with Rowe, with his permission.

On that tape, Rowe said he had questioned the boys about the incident and they denied the poling incident took place.

"I'm not saying Matthew wasn't harassed, Matthew told me he wasn't poled," Rowe said on the tape. "Four different boys told me they were chasing him but they never caught him."

The Hackneys said Rowe called all of the boys back into the office on the same day, and made the boys all shake hands and apologize to Matthew.

In an interview Tuesday morning, Rowe said four teachers were monitoring the area that day and never saw anything.

"I've talked with those teachers and all the students, and I cannot find any time when it could have happened," he said. "Allegations have been made by the parents but we have found nothing to substantiate that."

"The kids are in that area from 12:20 to 12:32 p.m. each day. I left the cafeteria at 12:32 that day and went outside. I saw one boy chasing him (Hackney) and when I questioned him (Hackney), he said everything was fine."

Rowe said when he took the Hackney boy into the office, Matthew again told him nothing happened.

"Later, the boy changed his story and said something did happen, that he had been poled," he said. "From all of the information I got from the kids and supervisors, nobody can determine when anything happened. We had a sufficient number of people down there and none of them saw anything and he (Hackney) told me he wasn't hurt."

The Hackneys said further attempts to deal with the problem were met with resistance.

Kathy Hackney said the parents attempted to discuss the issue with the board of education, but were turned away and told the school was

Motion sustained in murder case

A forensic anthropologist will be hired by the state to examine evidence in the Jeffrey Nelson murder case.

Martin Circuit Judge James A. Knight sustained a motion during the pre-trial conference Friday, October 27, by defense attorney John R. Triplett which asked for a forensic anthropologist to be hired by the state to examine evidence in the Jeffrey Nelson murder case.

Triplett represents Timmy Maynard, 28, of Pigeon Roost who stands charged in the July murder of Jeffrey Nelson, whose badly decomposed body was found on a logging road about 150 feet from Route 2032 in Martin County, 10 days after the murder took place.

Maynard, who is currently being held at the Boyd County Detention Center for security purposes, has been set for trial on December 11, in Martin County.

Triplett's motion for the forensic expert was filed as an Exparte Motion, meaning Triplett wanted Knight to rule without any consideration for the Commonwealth's position on the motion.

Forensic evidence in the case is considered extremely important to the prosecution since Nelson's body was in such a state of decay when it was found. Most other evidence in the case is expected to be circumstantial.

Special Prosecutors Luke Morgan and Doyle Glass of the Attorney General's office objected to Triplett's motion for Exparte. Glass argued that the Commonwealth should have an opportunity to argue all motions being made in the case and that none should be ruled upon Exparte.

Judge Knight assured the prosecutors that he would not hear any Exparte Motions in this case.

Glass said a forensic anthropologist had already examined evidence and that his report had been supplied to the defense.

"We cannot see any need to hire additional experts at the taxpayer's expense when the examination has already been done," Glass said.

However, Triplett said the defense needed to be able to pick their own expert although his client lacked the funds to pay for this expense.

Judge Knight sustained the motion allowing the defense to hire a forensic anthropologist to review the evidence and findings.

The expert witness, who will be chosen by Triplett, will cost taxpayers about $450 per hour according to usual charges in such cases. No estimate on how many hours will be required is available.

Triplett also made a motion to limit some of the prosecution's evidence, saying the items were irrelevant and should not be presented at the trial.

Morgan said pending DNA tests could make these items relevant and the items had been sent to a DNA lab about four weeks ago.

Triplett responded that it would not be fair to his client to have DNA evidence revealed right before the trial with no time to prepare for a defense.

The evidence in question is believed to be blood from a site that police think is connected to the murder.

Judge Knight ruled that the prosecution has 10 days from Friday, October 27, to secure the results from the tests and turn them over to the defense.

Knight also said he would consider the motion for limiting evidence at that time. Triplett's other motions were heard in a closed hearing in the judge's conference room due to "the sensitive nature" of the motions.

The next scheduled court appearance for Maynard is November 22.

Frankfort man dies in accident on Mt. Parkway

William A. Hale, 48, died Friday, October 27, when his car was struck by a vehicle being driven by Heather Richardson of Pikeville.

The accident occurred about 1:30 p.m. near the Morgan-Magoffin County line when Richardson crossed into Hale's lane. Richardson's car then hit another car driven by Hunter Cornette of Pikeville.

Hale was pronounced dead on the scene by Coroner Glenn Conley, Kentucky State Police Trooper Hansford responded to the accident with the Magoffin County Rescue Squad. No alcohol was involved and all drivers were wearing seat belts.

KSP Trooper Hazelette is in charge of the investigation. — Appalachian News-Express

Students participate in Ministerial Education Day

Ten Campbellsville College students participated in the recent Ministerial Education Day.

Participating in the event were Mark M. Taylor of Martin, and Holly Russell of Springfield. They were involved at Muldraugh Hill Baptist Church, under the pastoral guidance of the Rev. Vic Stansbury.

Taylor is the son of Russ and Gloria Taylor of Martin and is a 1988 graduate of Bell County High School. He attends First Baptist Church of Martin.

HRMC's request for MRI service to be reviewed

The Kentucky Health Policy Board held a public hearing on November 2 to discuss Highland Regional Medical Center's request to lease equipment to establish an MRI service.

Currently, Highlands' MRI is utilizing a mobile service. Because the service is available only on certain days, scheduling has often been a problem and patients sometimes have appointments at night, hospital officials said recently.

PBL members attend annual conference

by Gary Humberson Journalism Student
at Pikeville College

The Nu Tau Chapter of Phi Beta Lambda (PBL) at Pikeville College recently attended the annual Fall Leadership Conference of Kentucky PBL in Louisville.

The conference provided leadership training which allows chapters to develop a strong foundation for a successful year.

The Nu Tau Chapter office also attended workshops which were hosted by state officers and exchanged information and ideas which helps prepare them for their duties as local officers.

Other workshops which were provided by the Professional Division of PBL included "Dealing with Difficult People" by Barbara Planza and "Resume Writing and Interviewing" by Russell Proctor.

In addition, the chapter submitted a donation of the money raised in the community to the March of Dimes. This organization is a state and national project for PBL and has yielded more than $1,000,000 from similar projects within recent years.

Pikeville College PBL representatives attending the conference were: Gary Humberson, president; Frankie Stacy, treasurer; David Jewell, historian; Melanie Fields, reporter; Yvonna Meade, secretary; Billy Lowe, member; and Howard Roberts, chapter advisor.

Nada Loutfi returns to P'burg

Pianist Nada Loutfi will return to Prestonsburg Community College on Thursday, November 9, for a performance of works by Chopin, Schumann and other composers at 7:30 p.m.

Born to Lebanese and Hungarian parents, Nada Loutfi began her piano studies in the midst of the war in Lebanon. At fifteen she emigrated to France to study at the Paris Conservatory.

After winning first prize in the Competition of the Paris Conservatory, Nada Loutfi made her European debut in the Salle Gaveau of Paris, France. She has made numerous live concert broadcasts on Radio France, and has appeared at many European music festivals including the Antibes Festival, the Salzburg Festival, the Montpellier Festival, the Festival de la Roque d'Antheron, and the Festival des Arcs 1800. This season she also gave a triumphant performance in the Salle Montaigne in Beirut, Lebanon, her first public concert there after an absence of eleven years.

Now a citizen of the United States, Nada is Artist-in-Residence of New Performing Arts Inc., a pioneering effort in non-profit classical music audience development based in Louisville, and active throughout the state and region. Ms. Loutfi's activities include participation in a Meet the Composer Foundation "New Residency" through the 1997-98 season.

Nada Loutfi's 1995-96 season engagements include an appearance as concerto soloist with the Louisville Orchestra, solo recitals in the Dayton, Ohio Soirees Musicales Piano Series, the Madisonville, Kentucky Fine Arts Center Glenna M. Mahr Classics Series and engagements in Washington, D.C., New York and Paris, France. She also hosts a concert series in her own historic home in Louisville and has been proclaimed a "Distinguished Citizen" by Louisville's mayor, Jerry E. Abramson.

Loutfi's performance is sponsored by the Eastern Kentucky Concert Series.

Single tickets for this concert are $6, student tickets $3 and family tickets $15, and will be available at the door. Season tickets are still available by calling Prestonsburg Community College, 886-3863, ext. 265; Mary Preston, 789-5625; or Regina Stepp, 349-3131.

a school-based decision-making school with a council, which handled those problems and prevented the board from interfering.

"The situation was dealt with at the school," said Jim Clay, administrative assistant to the superintendent. "Discipline is left up to the school. They write their own discipline policies and as long as they don't break any law, then we can't interfere."

"I spoke to the parents several times about the incident, and I thought the problem had been taken care of."

Clay said the board of education had investigated the incident and could find no wrongdoing.

The Hackneys said they feel part of the problem involves the identity of the boys involved in the incident.

"The boys were all called back into the office. Matthew said the principal joked with the boys," said Steve Hackney. "The boys play on the basketball team, their parents are teachers. One of their parents serves on the site-based council."

The Hackneys said the incident has created several problems for the family. When Matthew was able to return to school, his parents transferred him to Sycamore Elementary, where their son has continued to be harassed.

"He didn't want to return to the school so we thought this would help," said Kathy Hackney. "Since he's been there, there's been vulgar graffiti on the picnic tables, kids call him names, we get prank calls at home."

Matthew is currently undergoing counseling to help him deal with the incident.

"He wants to move," said Steve Hackney. "He wants to go where nobody knows him and he won't have to go through any more harassment."

The Hackneys said their main concern with the situation is the failure of the school system to protect its students.

"We want the board of education to realize when a principal doesn't do his job, then it's their responsibility to step in," said Steve Hackney. "There should be more fairness in our schools."

"If they get away with this, then there'll be other kids. I don't want this to be swept under the rug and forgotten. We want the BOE to take responsibility for what happens in our schools. I'm disappointed they are more concerned with a lawsuit than what happens to our students."

Slow But Sure wins race

"Experience is the key element in a victorious Terrapin Trot...having a feel for the track, knowing when to come out of your shell, realizing your dreams can come true..." these were the words spoken by the modest "Slow But Sure," in an exclusive interview following his triumph in the twelfth annual Terrapin Trots. The Trots are sponsored by Our Lady of the Mountains School in Paintsville as part of the Jenny Wiley Festival in downtown Prestonsburg.

"Slow But Sure" sponsored by Giovanni's took first place in the race.

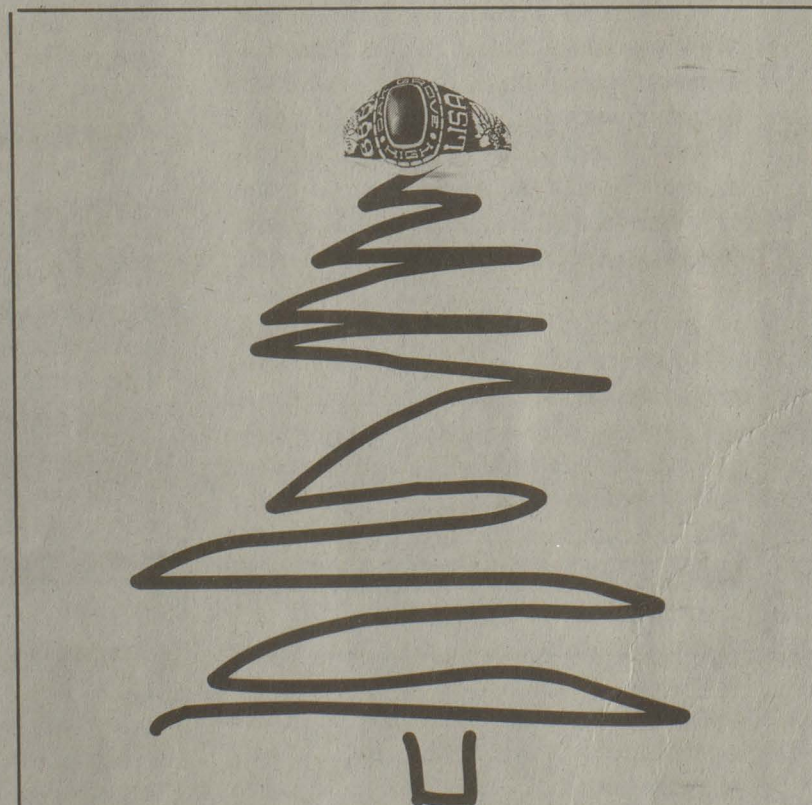

Crossing under the fringe in second place was "Leapin' Litigator" sponsored by Salyersville attorney Robin Simpson-Smith. "I trained exclusively for this race and my perseverance paid off immediately," Leapin' was heard saying as she bounced off the track.

"I'm still able to keep up with the young whippersnappers," a tired but proud "Harold Cool" sponsored by Cooley Apothecary admitted. "Harold Cool" filled third place in the race.

All three winners received the popular Terrapin Trot trophies, ribbons and cash awards. Heat winners received a ribbon and no cash. Losers began looking forward to next year.

Heat winners included turtles sponsored by Salyersville Loan Company, Dr. Rudolph Ousley, L&D Distribution, Rev. Bill Fedders, and Our Lady of the Mountains School.

Winner of the Jurassic Jog, a trot for the younger set, was George Hall of Prestonsburg. George won a mouthwatering solid chocolate turtle for his endeavor into the world of terrapin trottery.

LEAST COMPETENT CRIMINALS

—A man, unidentified in newspaper accounts, was arrested in Memphis, Tenn., when he tried to enter an office building after robbing a nearby bank. Unknown to the man, the building housed Memphis' police department. Police had heard of the robbery on the radio and watched from an upper floor as the man fled the bank, ducked into an alley, hid the money, and innocently approached the front door of their building as a phalanx of officers gathered and waited for him. The man opened the door, froze, and asked, "This isn't the police department, is it?"

—In May, two boys, ages 15 and 16, were arrested outside a Santa Clarita, Calif., bank and booked on suspicion of attempted robbery. The boys had stood at the bank's front door at 8:55 a.m. (five minutes before opening time), put on their ski masks, and tried to open the door. When they couldn't get it open, they walked back to their getaway car to decide what to do next, and alert bank employees called police.

—Oliver McCall, who lost his heavyweight boxing championship in England on Sept. 2, arrived home in St. Louis three weeks later with his pay off check for $1.4 million, which he was carrying in his sock. He was soon robbed by three men, but McCall ran into them on the street a few minutes later. The men began angrily to chase McCall (with whose boxing career they were unfamiliar), demanding an explanation why he was carrying so large a check. The chase drew the attention of police, who caught the men.

—Police in Lexington, N.C., arrested three men in their 20s in August and charged them with robbing a pedestrian and a clerk at a gas station. The men were caught after their getaway car swerved off the road and flipped over—caused by the driver's attempting to drive fast while simultaneously counting the robbery money.

—Jerry Wilson, 19, was arrested in Charleston, W. Va., in August and charged with burglary after police found him lying, bleeding badly, on the floor of the apartment he had broken into. They had been sent by rescue personnel after Wilson called 911 because he had cut himself so badly breaking through a window.

—In Des Moines, Iowa, in May, Ruth Bradshaw, 93, awoke to find her house being burglarized and decided to pretend that she knew the perpetrator not as a burglar but "back" into the home, served him breakfast, and insisted that he lie down and relax a spell, at which point she called police. Bradshaw attributes her smarts to her career as a bootlegger and a pastor.

LATEST RELIGIOUS MESSAGES

—In May, some teen-agers discovered the body of traveling salesman DeWitt Finley, 56, in a truck on a back road in the Klamath Mountains in Oregon. He had starved to death over a nine-week period in which he was stranded in heavy snow, despite the fact that the road was clear several hundred yards beyond the truck. Diary entries indicated that Finley had failed to venture out of his truck because he was certain God would provide for his rescue.

—In July, the pig wrestling event at the annual St. Patrick Catholic Church Roundup in Stephenville, Wis., was canceled because of complaints that the pigs squealed too much. Said a church spokesperson, "Some city folks come out here and...don't understand."

—An Associated Press story in September reportewd on the popularity of Jesus Malverde as the adopted patron saint of drug dealers in Culiacan, Mexico. Local farmers regularly credit him for their success at growing and smuggling drugs and worship icons of him in local buildings.

—Nathan Frederick Kilimosko, 21, was sentenced to two years' probation in Kelowna, British Columbia, for hitting and choking his girlfriend into unconsciousness. The fight started in a car when the two disagreed over his interpretation of a certain passage from the Bible, and he reached over and smacked her in the face, blackening her eye.

—In March, Michael Beaudin, 36, was sentenced to 18 months in prison in Montreal for negligently causing the death of his 5-year-old son Jonathan. Beaudin, a member of the Rose and the Cross religious sect, had Okay, what's the big deal with all these task forces?

Everybody who is anybody has one and doggone it, we want one too.

Every time you turn around, there's a new task force popping up.

We've got 'em for education, for transportation, for health care reform, for this and that, for that and this, for ever and ever, amen.

But just what the heck is a task force, and where can you buy one?

Well, you can't buy them in any store and you can't order one out of a catalogue.

You have to appoint them.

So get out there and get with the program. Appoint yours today.

Better yet, just use ours.

We have formed the first-ever all purpose task force that is available now to study anything you want studied, and we promise to study it 'til it bleeds.

Then we'll study that.

We'll get the answers you need, when you need them and we guarantee they'll be just exactly what you want to hear. We will not let any facts get in our way, we will leave no stone unturned, and we will argue any side of any issue or both sides when necessary.

Finding a task force is the easy part, finding a task to study is tougher, because so many of the good ones are already taken.

Fear not. We have some issues in stock for your shopping convenience. Choose from these ready-to-wear-out topics:

- Psoriasis: What is it and why is it so heartbreaking?
- Chiggers: Friends or Foes?
- Plan 9 From Outer Space.
- Belts and suspenders?
- Who died and made you king?
- I know you are, but what am I?
- Lying for fun and profit or Politics Made Easy.

Take your time, take your pick. Last one takes the first one's place.

DEAD PRESIDENTS

This isn't a film about dear, departed commanders in chief. It's actually about an armed robbery, planned and executed in order to obtain "dead presidents," i.e., cash.

Albert and Allen Hughes came on the directorial scene two years ago with "Menace II Society," a harsh, honest look at life in the inner city where young African Americans often find it a lot easier to "get over" by breaking the law rather than abiding by it. The film was a piece of gritty reality and very well done.

This second offering is similar. It takes place in the years 1968 through 1973, turbulent years for race relations in this country, coming right on the heels of the Civil Rights Movement and the subsequent race riots in '67 and '68, followed by the assassination of Martin Luther King, Jr. Larenz Tate portrays Anthony Curtis, a young man who comes from a middle-class family in the Bronx. Coming up on his high-school graduation, Anthony is being groomed for City College, just like his older brother. Unfortunately for his parents, Anthony has other ideas. He's had enough of school and yearns for adventure. He finds that adventure by becoming a Marine and serving in Vietnam.

The horrors of Vietnam hit the young man hard. To cope with all he's witnessing, Anthony survives by turning inward on himself. He ignores everything from the outside world and doesn't even acknowledge it when his girlfriend writes to him to announce he has a daughter (conceived in their one-night encounter before he left for Vietnam).

As with other returning vets, he's surprised when he comes home to a less-than-hero's welcome. To make matters worse, his neighborhood has become more crime-ridden and run-down. Work is hard to find, so he settles for a part-time job with a butcher. Predictably, this doesn't cover the bills for himself and his little family.

Thus, he agrees to participate in a robbery with some neighborhood friends and some army buddies. The plan is to rob an armored car. Anxiously, the audience awaits the outcome. Unfortunately, it is ultimately disappointing.

Take two aspirin and call my mother

My mother makes mistakes just like everyone else, but when she's right we know about it immediately. The latest thing she let her children—and their spouses—know she was right about was the recent scientific finding that aspirin contained more healing properties than originally thought. "Didn't I tell you," she knowingly stated. "They cure more than a headache." "Yeah, Mom. You always said they did." "Do you know that researchers don't even know why they work?" "You always told us that, too." "Well, wasn't I right?" "You sure were, Mom." "Didn't I always tell you children if aspirin didn't cure it, get to a doctor?" "I think you did," I nodded. "What do you think now?" "What do you mean? I think you were onto something back then." "That's right, Jeanne," my husband chimed in. "I think you ought to hang out a shingle." "Don't be smart, Jimmie," Mother chided. "Didn't I tell you to take aspirin before that report came out that they were good for your heart?" "Yes. But did you know it would help prevent second heart attacks?"

Seeming to ignore Jimmie's question, mother watched me load the dishwasher and remarked, "Sara, don't put those dishes in there that way. Here. Let me do it."

"Say, Jeanne," Jimmie started again. "I'm asking you a question. Did you know that aspirin...." "I heard you, Jimmie. And, no, I didn't know they were good for that, but I knew that they had healing powers. Salt water's healing, too." "What's that got to do with anything?" I asked. "Just wait. They'll be telling people to go to the ocean for cures before long." I didn't quite know what she meant, but I was sure a trip to the ocean would be just what a lot of people needed to feel good. With Christmas only two months away, a trip to the Bahamas would cure me of just about anything. "I taught my children to chew aspirins when they were tiny. That's why they love them now," Mother smiled. "I taught J.R. to do the same thing, Mom. But after the Reyne's Syndrome scare, I don't like for him to take them."

"That's ridiculous! I gave you children aspirin all the time, and you survived. Wait and see," she said as she took the glasses out of the dishwasher and rearranged them. "They'll discover that aspirin isn't what causes that at all."

"Did you know that aspirin can be dangerous?" I queried.

"Of course it can be dangerous. Anything's dangerous if you take too much. Anything in moderation is what I've always said."

"Jeanne, did you ever think about going into the medical profession?" Jimmie snidely asked.

"No, I never did. I thought about majoring in art, but I decided" Mother stopped in mid-sentence. "You're trying to be funny, aren't you? Well, I can tell you one thing, aspirin has always worked for me."

"What are you doing?" I asked as she filled my dishwasher to over-capacity and started the machine. "You waste entirely too much space. No wonder your water bill's so high."

Of course, she was right, but coming on the heels of her aspirin revelation, it only served to make me edgy. After having four children, I can accept the fact that my mother is astute in matters concerning health. What was getting to me was the fact that she also knew how to load a dishwasher better than me, too.

"What's wrong? Are you feeling bad?" she asked as she watched me take two aspirin.

"I don't know, but I think I might be getting a headache."

SOAP UPDATES

ALL MY CHILDREN: Unbeknownst to Noah and Julia, Louie Greco was released from jail. Taylor learned she'd been dismissed from the police force. Janet and Pierce caused comments when they turned up to support Laura at Career Night. Scott was embarrassed by Stuart's unexpected arrival. Gloria didn't comment on Dimitri's suspicions about Dr. Kinder. Tara and Joe went to Brooke's shelter to talk to Kelsey. Mike revealed a secret to Dixie which cemented their friendship. Wait To See: Bobbie reacts to startling news.

ANOTHER WORLD: Sure that Justine orchestrated Ryan's death, Vicky asked an uneasy Grant about his mother. Maggie was stunned to learn her mother, Cecile (Nancy Frangione reprising her role) was in Bay City. Tomas was stunned to learn the "sample" paramedics test Maggie gave him to study was the real thing. The new hospital administrator suspended John without pay pending an investigation into Ben's death. Gary told Josie he loves her. Kirkland found a telltale keepsake in Grant's drawer. Wait To See: Cecile makes her presence known.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Margo forced Jeremy to deal with his emotions. He later apologized to Dani for hurting her when she expressed her feelings for him.

Orlena's plan to poison Lily backfired when the needle accidentally stuck Damian. Orlena then told a shocked Damian she's not his real mother. After being caught kissing Jeremy, Nikki blurted out to Hal about Barbara's affair with Evan. Hal was further stunned when Barbara admitted it. Lisa and John were puzzled by Orlena's cryptic comments at the hospital. Armed with what he believes is new evidence, John vowed to prove his innocence in Eduardo's death. Wait To See: Damian and Lily face the aftermath of Orlena's evil.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: Instead of Taylor turning up at the party in his specially designed gown, Eric was stunned to see Samantha, who gave him a letter from Taylor explaining she felt they had moved too fast, too soon. Stephanie was upset to see Eric dancing with Sally. At James' urging, Stephanie danced with Eric and told him she loved him. Eric woke up the next morning to find Stephanie in his bed. Maggie was concerned about Sly's attentions to Jessica. Dylan vowed to enter the glamorous world of the Forresters. Wait To See: Maggie faces a new challenge.

THE CITY (Formerly LOVING) will arrive in its new format November 13. Summaries should resume shortly.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Jack

unwittingly found a way to get Jennifer back. Meanwhile, Jennifer (who was suddenly having doubts about the wedding) agreed to go with Peter to Aremid earlier than planned. Later, the woman in white put her hands on the sleeping Jennifer's throat. Sarah was later attacked by the woman in white, and Jennifer disappeared from the graveyard. Kristen was upset by John's reaction to Marlena's relationship with Stefano, which fits right into Tony's plan. Wait To See: Will Father Francis save the day for John?

GENERAL HOSPITAL: A.J.'s drinking escalated as he brooded over the foundation situation. Stone got a negative report and chose to let nature run its course. Lily tried to come between Brenda and Sonny. Lucky and Emily covered their tracks on their trek to Boston, keeping one step ahead of Luke and Laura. Mac suggested Katherine handle Damian's threats by exposing some of his secrets. Wait To See: Lucy ignores "warning" signs from Damian.

GUIDING LIGHT: Alan maneuvered to have Reva see her children, Marah and Shayne, as part of Josh's new family with Annie. To Reva's distress, Shayne fled from her when she called his name. Although upset at Nell and Frank for working on the docks' murder case on their own, Cutter was intrigued by their suspicions of Marian (Brent). Meanwhile, Marian was too late to change Lucy's second test results, and was furious to learn Lucy had agreed to a third test under a different procedure.

Although still angry with Dinah over canceling the search for Hart, Roger can't divorce her because he needs her money. Wait To See: Cutter's "date" with Marian takes a surprising turn.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Blair was stunned with Todd's offer to help her and Dorian get the diary from David. Later, Blair tried to fend off David's advances until Dorian could arrive to take her place. Certain she'd find Blair in bed with David, Tina burst into his room, only to discover him alone and tied up. Viki told Dorian she knows Jean gave her the diary and she wants it back. But Todd refused to hand it over. Blair accepted Todd's marriage proposal and told him she's pregnant. Wait To See: Marty faces danger from the terrorists who killed Patrick's fiancée.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Amy recalled small pieces of the night of the rape and the shooting. Later, Victor arrived at the shelter on Paul's tip but found Amy too traumatized to be a witness for Nick. Malcolm invited Nathan, Dru, Olivia, and Neil to meet his new girlfriend, Keesha, unaware that Keesha was having an affair with Nathan. Matt tried to calm down a nervous Drake who was served with a subpoena to testify. Paul and Victor learned the bullet taken from the drawer in Matt's apartment matched the caliber of the bullet that shot him. While Danny was calling to tell Chris he was divorcing Phyllis, Paul promised Chris a honeymoon once Nick's case was over. Wait To See: Hope has a message for Victor.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Your social life really picks up now as you swing into gear for the coming holidays. Singles find a new romance just waiting in the wings. However, don't let all this frivolity distract you from work to be done.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) It's time to spiff up your home for the company you expect to show up in a few weeks. However, your major focus early in the week should be on your career. A friend's advice arrives in the nick of time this weekend.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You're here, there and everywhere as you tackle what needs to be done in a blaze of activity. Your energy is enviable now. A nasty co-worker has nothing much to contribute, so steer clear. The weekend accents quiet times.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Start making social plans now for how you want to spend the upcoming holidays. Don't be afraid to do something out of the ordinary and non-traditional. A vexing problem at work has you upset later in the week.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You and your significant other find yourself in total agreement now over mutual concerns. However, this doesn't extend itself into the financial area as you feel this person has been spending too much.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Surprises and mysteries dominate this week. However, what ultimately results is to your benefit. A child needs some tender, loving care and comes to you to fulfill this. Your attention turns to work this weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You finally learn the meaning of the saying, "It's not what you know but whom you know." Don't let this go to your head. Remember, true achievement and hard work are what bring personal satisfaction.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) It's necessary for you to be a bit more flexible this week as unexpected problems crop up both at home and at work. However, you tackle these with self-confidence and assurance. Rely on your common sense and intuition.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) The watchword of the week is compromise. Listen carefully to those who have a different viewpoint and then look to see how you can integrate it with your own. Ultimately success is achieved by doing this.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You must avoid a tendency early in the week to be too self-insistent. Stamping your feet and going off half-cocked isn't in your best interest. Later in the week, you tackle tasks with alacrity.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A negotiation of a financial nature doesn't go your way early in the week. However, this later reverses itself. Don't be afraid to change a travel plan made sometime ago. This trip isn't in your best interest.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Meetings and appointments should be followed up on since they can lead to bigger and better things for you. A major decision needs to be made on the home front. Seek input from family members on this dilemma.

IN FOCUS—KELLIE MARTIN: On November 12, NBC will air "Her Hidden Truth" starring Kellie Martin and Antonio Sabato, Jr. Kellie plays a young woman falsely accused of the arson deaths of her mother and baby sister. "Many people who still think of me as the characters in 'Life Goes On,' and 'Christy,' are sometimes surprised that I choose to play characters who are either in danger of being killed, or who are themselves murderers," Kellie said. "But if I'm going to grow as an actor, I have to be able to play many different roles."

"In this new NBC movie," Kellie said, "my character has to deal not only with the deaths of people whom she loved, but with being falsely charged with murdering them. Can you imagine what it must be like to know you're innocent of a crime, but everyone believes you are guilty, and you feel you may never be able to find the truth that can save you?"

Although one of the busiest young actors working today, Kellie manages to maintain a full program at Yale where she's majoring in Art History.

DIAL TONES: "I Am Spock," Leonard Nimoy's new autobiography, takes readers on a voyage into his life from his Boston childhood said the son needed to be "purified" and had given him enemas with over 400 times the recommended dosage of water.

—Stephen J. Miller, 16, was nabbed by the Virgin Mary after he trespassed at the Sacred Heart School in Groton, Conn., in May. According to police, Miller tried to scale the roof of the school building, lost his footing and fell, knocked over a 400-pound statue of Mary on the way down, and hit the ground just before the statue fell on on through his pre and post "Star Trek" ventures. The book comes 20 years after the publication of "I Am Not Spock," which tried to show there was an actor before there was a "Star Trek," and there'll be an actor afterward. With that accomplished, Nimoy felt free to let the world know how much he respects Spock as a character, and as a significant part of his career. The book is filled with wonderful anecdotes, including his revelation that he took the Vulcan hand salute from a ritual performed by Orthodox rabbis blessing their congregations.

Although this film is generally well-made, well-directed and well-acted, the anticlimactic ending detracts from it. We're left with nothing but the build-up and no delivery. Yet, I wouldn't say it's a total failure.

Tate is stunning as the increasingly cynical Anthony Curtis. Chris Tucker and Keith David, who portray good friends, also give wonderful performances. The interaction among the three is captivating.

All in all, I'd say this rates 2 1/2 stars and is worth the trip to the theater.

Safe Foods For Baby
by Barbara J. Ivens, M.S., R.D. Nutritionist
Gerber Products Company (NAPS)—Q. I'm about to start my six month old son on fruits and vegetables. Are organic fruits and vegetables safer to feed since they're grown without pesticides?

A. Organic refers only to the farming method used to grow the produce. Parents who choose Gerber® Baby Foods don't need to worry about pesticide residues because our on-going pesticide detection and elimination program is one of the most aggressive in the world, starting with the seed and continuing to the final product.

For example, seeds and plants are selected to be naturally resistant to diseases. We test and certify the soils before planting to be sure that they do not contain persistent pesticide residues. We work with our growers to watch crops to determine if and when any crop protection needs to be used. Washing, peeling and processing of fruits and vegetables are key steps in the preparation of our foods. Our high pressure washing and rapid processing help insure that the foods are safe and nutritious. At Gerber, we recognize all babies deserve the safest, highest-quality baby food.

Health professionals recommend that parents include fruits and vegetables in their children's diets. These foods provide key nutrients as well as encourage children to eat and enjoy a variety of foods. Commercial baby foods are a convenient, safe and nutritious part of the infant diet.

PART 4 - EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

During 1994-95, Floyd County Schools received the Biennium I - KIRIS Results. Of the district's nineteen schools; four received rewards, three were declared successful, seven were listed as successful - year 2, four were categorized as improving, and one was determined to have no category due to consolidation. The district was also declared as successful - year 2.

Goals for the 1995-96 school year, compiled by the District Transformation Planning Team stressed improving student math, science, and writing performance as the major instructional goals. Additionally, the plan calls for the development, implementation, and refining of an administrative professional development program that focuses on the principal's role in school transformation, linking elementary, middle and secondary schools, and service leadership for central office administrators.
