

Funds

"It's a shame we can't sell 450 annuals," Tackett said. "I could have written a check and busted every account in the school and paid that off. But, I didn't spend it."

Several parents in the audience asked Tackett not to use those school funds to pay the debt and said that most of the money was raised by parents and students.

Part of the funds in school activity accounts was provided by the PHS PTO-operated bingo game. Those funds may be used only for charitable purposes.

Parent Dickie Jarvis asked Tackett if he had consulted the school board's attorney about who is responsible for the yearbook debt. He also suggested that the school board be asked to pay the debt, because, Jarvis said, the board is ultimately responsible.

Tackett said that former superintendent Steve Towler would not recommend the board resolve the debt.

Assistant principal Ron Hampton said the activity funds would not be used "unless a court orders us to or they threaten to put us in jail."

Tackett said if that happened, it would be time to "go to the board screaming and asking" for the money to pay the debt.

Also Thursday, Neeley asked Tackett if literature and English books that were not approved by the school council had been ordered.

Tackett said he would "interview" English teacher Jerry Lafferty about the issue.

In other action Thursday, council members approved adding a weightlifting class for the second semester.

A large group of parents appeared at the meeting to discuss the weightlifting issue and said the class is necessary so the school's football players can be physically fit.

Council agreed to try to add two classes for the next school year for girls and boys. Students will earn one credit for completion of the class for a full school year.

Council postponed a decision on an attendance policy and an alternative education program until more information is obtained.

Conviction

court should have been hashed out in civil court proceedings, the attorney said.

"If you take a patient for a doctor's appointment and they are treated, they say that's fraud when you ask to be paid," Damron said. "If these guys are guilty, they better build bigger prisons because every ambulance service takes people to doctor's appointments. This is more of a litigation on the law and it didn't belong in a criminal court."

The incidents covered in the federal indictment, which was handed down last year, happened between January 1991 and June 1992, Damron said. He added that the company had been receiving Medicaid payments from 1989 through 1995.

"If Medicaid can't be used to do that, when you bill for the service it should be rejected," Damron said. "Instead they come back four years later and reject it."

Damron also noted that a voucher must be obtained now for those services, but he added that the law was not in effect during the period outlined in the indictment.

The three-week trial, which began October 18, ended November 1 and jurors deliberated for approximately four hours on Thursday before returning the guilty verdicts. The defense called no witnesses. Sentencing was set for February 3. Each charge carries up to a five-year prison sentence and up to a $250,000 fine.

The four remain free on bond.

City man is charged with intimidation

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A preliminary hearing has been set for November 15 in a case against a Prestonsburg man charged with intimidating a witness.

Kevin Ferrell, 33, is accused of threatening to kill Lucille Thacker in order to influence her testimony regarding a custody case. Ferrell is also charged with terrorist threatening.

According to court records, Ferrell allegedly threatened to kill Thacker on August 20.

Ferrell was arraigned Monday in Floyd District Court and a not guilty plea was entered on his behalf by District Judge James Allen. Judge Allen also appointed the public defender's office to represent Ferrell.

Ferrell was placed under a $5,000 or 10 percent cash bond.

Also Monday, a 77-year-old Langley man was arraigned on a charge of first degree wanton endangerment. James Hall was arrested Sunday by Floyd County deputy sheriff Charlie Thompson. The arrest citation did not specify what led to Hall's arrest and Thompson could not be reached for details.

A preliminary hearing has been set for November 15 and Hall was placed under a $5,000 surety bond.

In Kentucky, Yates was wanted in Pike County for fourth degree assault and failure to appear. He is also charged with forgery, filing a false complaint and theft by unlawful taking over $300, Branham said.

Branham and Conley were the arresting officers. Yates has not been extradited yet, Branham said.

Prestonsburg ambulance request hearing is postponed by state until December 6

by Alisa Goodwill
Staff Writer

Another battle in the ambulance war between the city of Prestonsburg and P&B Ambulance Service set for Thursday afternoon in Frankfort has been postponed.

Representatives for the city and P&B Ambulance Service were scheduled to meet Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Kentucky Health Policy Board in Frankfort for a public hearing on the city's application for a certificate of need.

But, P&B's attorney Phillip Damron said Tuesday that the hearing has been continued until December 6, because he has been involved in another case with P&B owner Paul Joseph and has not had adequate time to prepare for the hearing.

The Prestonsburg Fire Department is seeking to establish an emergency health care ground transportation service utilizing one primary and one back-up ambulance to serve the city of Prestonsburg.

Earlier this year, P&B was successful in stopping the city's first attempt at obtaining a certificate of need. Since September, the city has been operating an ambulance under Respond Ambulance Service's license.

Prestonsburg city attorney Paul Burchett said the city first applied for a certificate of need under an emergency certificate, but this time the city has applied through the normal application process.

"Under an emergency situation, the city needed to show a situation where no ambulances were available for 30 minutes after the time of a call," Burchett said. "This time the city must show there is a need for another ambulance."

The city's communications log suggests there is a need. The log shows that on October 29, at 1:30 a.m. P&B called city dispatch and advised that there was a subject outside passing out. P&B advised they had no units available. The city responded and transported the subject to Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Prestonsburg Fire captain Kenny Crisp said the subject was in P&B's parking lot and had been there for 20 minutes.

However, Damron said that situation very seldom occurs.

"P&B has paramedics on duty all the time so that type of situation is unusual," Damron said. "On the weekends, especially Sunday night, P&B only has four people on duty and occasionally can be short-handed. If they are out on calls, then we contact the closest ambulance service to assist."

Damron said P&B needs to show during the hearing that the area is adequately covered, which means P&B can cover 90 percent of the population with a 20-minute response time.

"There are other ambulance services in the immediate vicinity, like Respond," Damron said. "The area has plenty of ambulances and there is no need for another licensed ambulance."

If Prestonsburg is denied this latest attempt at a certificate of need, the city will continue to operate under Respond's license as long as there is a contract, Burchett said.

Home destroyed by fire Sunday

by Alisa Goodwill
Staff Writer

A home in Buffalo was destroyed by fire Sunday, two days after the owner died.

Cow Creek Fire Chief Jim Caldwell said the department received a call from a neighbor at 1:30 a.m. Sunday that Cecil Jervis' home was on fire.

"By the time we arrived the mobile home was completely engulfed by flames," Caldwell said. "We were able to save a building adjacent to the home."

Jervis, 71, died Friday at 7:30 a.m., Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson said. An autopsy was not performed because Jervis had a long history of heart problems, Nelson added.

Officials have made no connection between Jervis' death and the fire.

Arson is suspected and the fire is under investigation by Kentucky State Police detective Joe Newsome.

A TRIBUTE TO MR. PACK

Mr. Pack was a man,
Full of tender, loving, care,
He loved us all,
For us he was always there.

Sometimes he seemed mean,
That was just his job.
When he had to be this way,
We know his heart would throb.

You may think he didn't like you,
But that is incorrect,
Toward each of us,
His sincerity he would direct.

Mr. Pack acted rough and tough,
But he was gentle and kind,
His heart was filled with love for us,
We were always on his mind,
We knew him for a short while, But we felt we knew him forever.
He can be replaced on earth,
In our hearts not now; not ever.

He passed away one Sunday,
That day we do remember,
We came to school the next day,
Which felt cold like December

Our hearts were broken and lonely,
Our minds furious and in pain,
Our stomachs were churning,
He was lingering on our brains.

Mr. Pack died a young man,
He left us without warning,
He never really meant to go,
We miss him each morning,

His door was always open,
But now it will be closed,
Mr. Pack is with us no more,
He loved us and THAT everyone knows.

Playoff results from around the state

A Look At Sports

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Season ends on painful note for locals

The 1995 high school football season ended this past Friday night as all three of our county teams fell in the playoffs.

This season was the first time we had three teams competing in the extra week of the season. While we fell hard at all three locations, it was a good season for most of the teams.

- Allen Central. The Rebels, under coach Glenn Reeves, reached the playoffs for the first time ever. This is a junior-dominated team and they will be back next season better than this one.

- Betsy Layne. Had only its second winning season since football became a reality at the high school. Coach John Derossett's ballclub finished 6-4 and dropped a couple of games they should have won.

- Prestonsburg. Coach Bill Letton's club had a very disappointing season, but they did lose a lot of talent from last year. This club is young and has some very, very good players coming into the program. Look out for them in two seasons as they return to a state-caliber team. They will be better next year, but two seasons away from a being a state contender.

- South Floyd. Three years and already a playoff team. Coach Donnie Daniels will have to look for a couple of receivers next year, but he has the quarterback to build around.

The weather at Russell was very cold. I appreciated the nice press box at Russell. I got my pictures in the first half and made my way up to the press box for some good hot chocolate.

I thought, it would be nice if our stadiums had press boxes such as these. They certainly take their football serious at Russell. The folks at Russell were as accommodating as you will find anywhere. They appreciate the media.

THIS YEAR'S TOP MATCH UP....

Joe Back and Jim Ed Allen.

Joe has gotten on the Prestonsburg Blackcat band wagon and says this will be the year for Jack Pack's Blackcats. Jim Ed on the other hand, is pulling for the Paintsville Tigers and feels that J.R. Vanhoose will lead them to the "promise land."

"If Prestonsburg makes it to the final four in the regional tournament, they will win it," Back says. "Because it will be played on their home court and Jack Pack will out coach Bill Mike Runyon."

"No way," Allen says. "I'd be willing to put my pay check on that."

So it goes. Stay tuned!

PANORAMA...

I took in six of the 11 games played at Martin this past Saturday in the 12th annual Purple Flash Panorama. Some very exciting basketball players, boys and girls, are heading into the season and later into the high schools.

I haven't seen Osborne Elementary play yet, but the groups at McDowell and Betsy Layne are going to be very, very tough as is the one at Duff Elementary.

Two other teams that impressed me were Adams and John M. Stumbo. There will not be a single team to dominate county grade school basketball

LESLIE COUNTY GETS BY PULASKI COUNTY

Much heralded quarterback Tim Couch tossed for three touchdowns as Leslie County posted a 22-14 win over Pulaski County in Friday night's state playoffs.

Couch hit Ricky Hensley with a five-yard pass and Hensley took a pass from Couch on the two-point conversion to give Leslie County a 8-0 first quarter lead.

Pulaski County came back to the game at 8-8 on a Corey Floyd run of five yards and the two-point conversion pass from Floyd to Brad Anderson.

But the lead was short-lived as Couch orchestrated a drive that concluded on a 68-yard pass to Hensley to give Leslie a 14-8 half-time lead.

Neither team could score in the third period and Pulaski County tied the game at 14-14 in the fourth period on a one-yard plunge by Jon Wilburn. But it was Couch living up to his billing as he found Paul Melton for a 15-yard scoring pass completion and Hensley's two-point conversion run gave Leslie the lead for good at 22-14.

WHITESBURG EASILY OVER NEWPORT

The Whitesburg Yellowjackets shut down Newport Catholic in the second half and coasted to a 24-6 win and a chance to advance in the state high school playoffs this past Friday night.

Playing at home, the Yellowjackets saw Newport stay close throughout the first half, but turned up the defense in the second half to shut down the Catholic school while scoring 18 points.

Andy Morrell scampered 46 yards to give Whitesburg a 6-0 lead in the second period after neither team could light up the scoreboard in the initial quarter.

Newport tied the game at 6-6 just before halftime on a three-yard run by Tim Weinberg.

In the third period, Whitesburg's Billy Stamper ran for a four-yard touchdown run and quarterback Charlie Wright hit Daniel Conn in the end zone for the two-point play as the Yellowjackets led 14-6.

Whitesburg's defense put Newport in a bad situation and turned the mistake into a score when safety Matthew Smith tackled Weinberg in the end zone and earned a 16-6 Whitesburg lead. The Yellowjackets added their final score in the fourth when Travis Maggard returned an interception 85 yards for the touchdown and Morrell hit Wright for the two-point conversion.

Whitesburg goes to 10-1 on the season and advances in the playoffs.

EAGLES PLAYOFF BERTH SHORT-LIVED

The Johnson Central Golden Eagles enjoyed their first playoff appearance in many seasons, even though it was short-lived.

The Eagles faced always powerful Bell County in the opening round of the Class AAA playoffs at Bell County.

Bell County came away with a solid 52-8 win over the Eagles. Johnson Central avoided the shutout in the fourth quarter when Ryan Allison scored on an 85-yard kickoff return and then took a pass from quarterback Alex Ward on the conversion play.

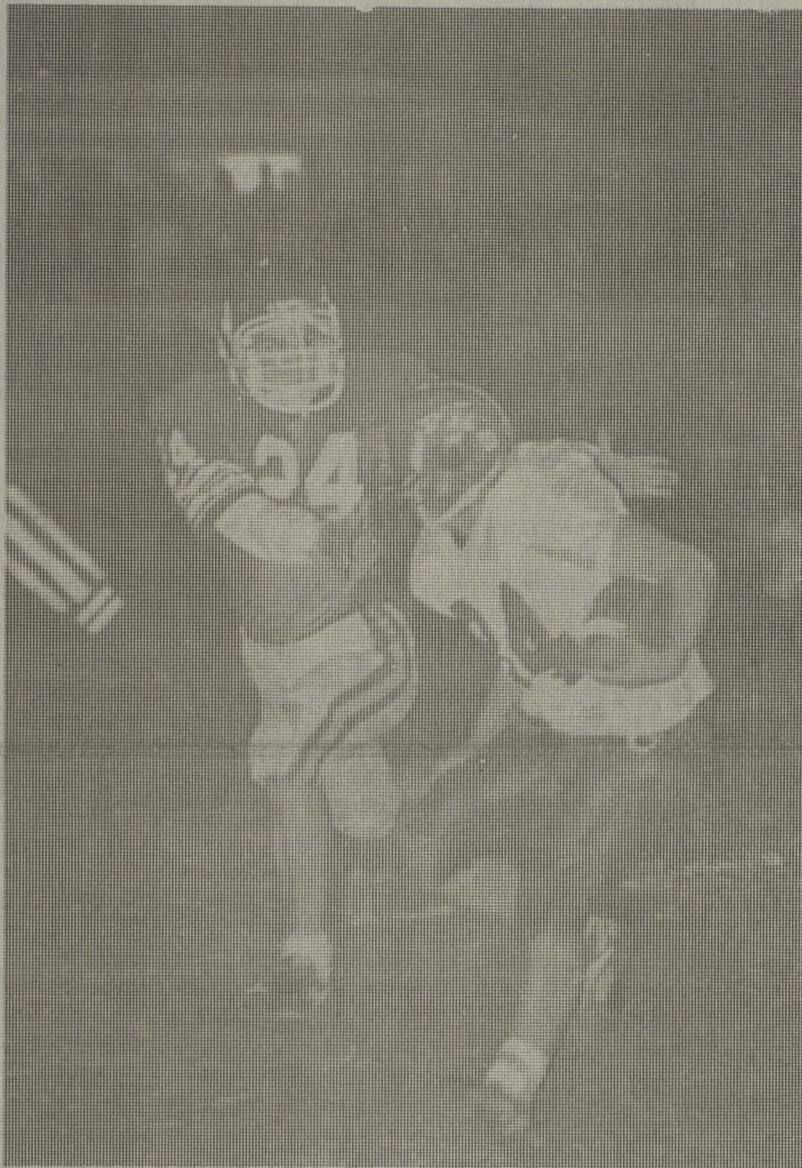

Bell County held a 22-0 lead after the first quarter and led 29-0 at the half.

Enoch Huff scored on runs of four and two at the onset to give

Blackcats leave heart, fans in Prestonsburg

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Had the band not showed up for the Prestonsburg/Russell playoff game, the stands behind the Prestonsburg bench would have been bare as far as fan support went this past Friday night at Russell.

Less than 50 die-hard Blackcat fans made the trip to Russell to watch the two rivals of the past go head-to-head on the gridiron on a very cold night.

But not only were the fans missing from the game, but so was the heart the Blackcats had been accustomed to playing with, as they dropped a 44-6 one-sided loss to the Red Devils, losing for the second straight time at Russell.

It marked the fourth consecutive year the two teams squared off in the playoffs.

The tone for the game was set early. After Russell had won the toss at mid field, on the first play of the game Shawn Craft found the right end to his liking and galloped 55 yards for a touchdown and Kevin Barker added the point after to stake the Red Devils to a very quick 7-0 lead.

Prestonsburg could find no running room against the Red Devils all night. It was 1, 2, 3, kick for most of the first half. They picked up only one first down in the first 24 minutes of play and that came on a 17-yard pass completion from Mike Castle to Jon Morris in the first period.

Prestonsburg, when learning they could not run against the Red Devils, went to the air in an attempt

Lee passes for five TDs in 55-14 win over Allen Central

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Erlanger Lloyd Memorial quarterback Randy Lee tossed for five touchdowns to lead Memorial to a 55-14 win over the Allen Central Rebels this past Friday night in the state football playoffs.

Nick Gregory was on the receiving end of two of the touchdown passes, both coming in the first half. Gregory had catches of 31 yards and 45 yards as Lloyd rolled to a 14-0 first quarter lead and led at the half 49-0.

Allen Central got on the scoreboard in the third period on a six-yard run by Gordon Reeves and the two-point conversion by Beau Tackett to make it a 55-8 game. The Rebels scored the game's final touchdown on a three-yard run by quarterback Adam Coleman.

Lee had a 65-yard touchdown pass completion in the third period to Charles Sheffield and completed a 20-yard scoring pass to Corey Hendrickson in the fourth period before leaving the game. Hendrickson had two touchdown receptions in the game.

Allen Central fell to 5-6 on the year as the season came to a close.

to move the football.

Prestonsburg's Jason Pack had his punt attempt blocked by Russell and the Red Devils had excellent field position at the Prestonsburg 39. It took eight plays before Corey White ran into the end zone from the two-yard line for the score. With the help of two consecutive off-side calls against Prestonsburg, the Red Devils ran the conversion play for a 15-0 lead.

On the first-down play, Pack made a great play in intercepting a Drew Ramey pass at the Red Devils' 46-yard line. But Morris and Ortega could not run the football and the passing routes were cut off as Prestonsburg had to give up the football.

An excellent punt by Pack put the football at the Russell four-yard line but on a third-and-three play, Craft broke three tackles and raced 66 yards to the Prestonsburg 23 before being hauled down by Jason Blackburn. Travis Arthur finished off the drive with a 15-yard run for the score and Barker's PAT made it a 22-0 score.

Prestonsburg, after three plays, punted to Tim Truitt and all he did was return the punt 51 yards for the touchdown and the extra point gave Russell 29-0.

After three-downs-and-out for Prestonsburg, the punt from Pack was fumbled by Russell with the Blackcats coming up with the loose ball. But on a second down play, Jon Totty picked off a Castle pass and ran it back for a touchdown as the Red Devils threatened to blow the game wide open at 36-0, which was the halftime score.

Williamsburg ends Raiders season 64-20

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Williamsburg scored quickly, often and big as the team ended the South Floyd Raiders' football season with a 64-20 romp that was not a contest.

The Yellowjackets stung hard as they put 24 points on the scoreboard in the first period and coasted to a 38-0 halftime lead.

John Booker had touchdown runs of 13 yards twice to lead the Yellowjackets' offense. Chad Price scored three TDs on a 13-yard run, a one-yard plunge, and a 34-yard interception return.

South Floyd scored all 20 of its points in the fourth period. Sophomore quarterback Nick Compton hit Terrence Mullins with two touchdown passes and passed to William Willard for the third one.

Compton found Mullins for a 43-yard scoring completion and then hit the wide out with a strike pass of 28 yards for the Raiders second score. Before the clock expired, Compton hooked up with Willard for a 17-yard scoring completion.

Quarterback Dusty Moses scored first for the Yellowjackets on two-yard run and Craig Hodges added the two-point conversion for an 8-0 game. Booker scampered 13 yards for pay dirt and Price scored the first of his three touchdowns for a 24-0 first-quarter lead.

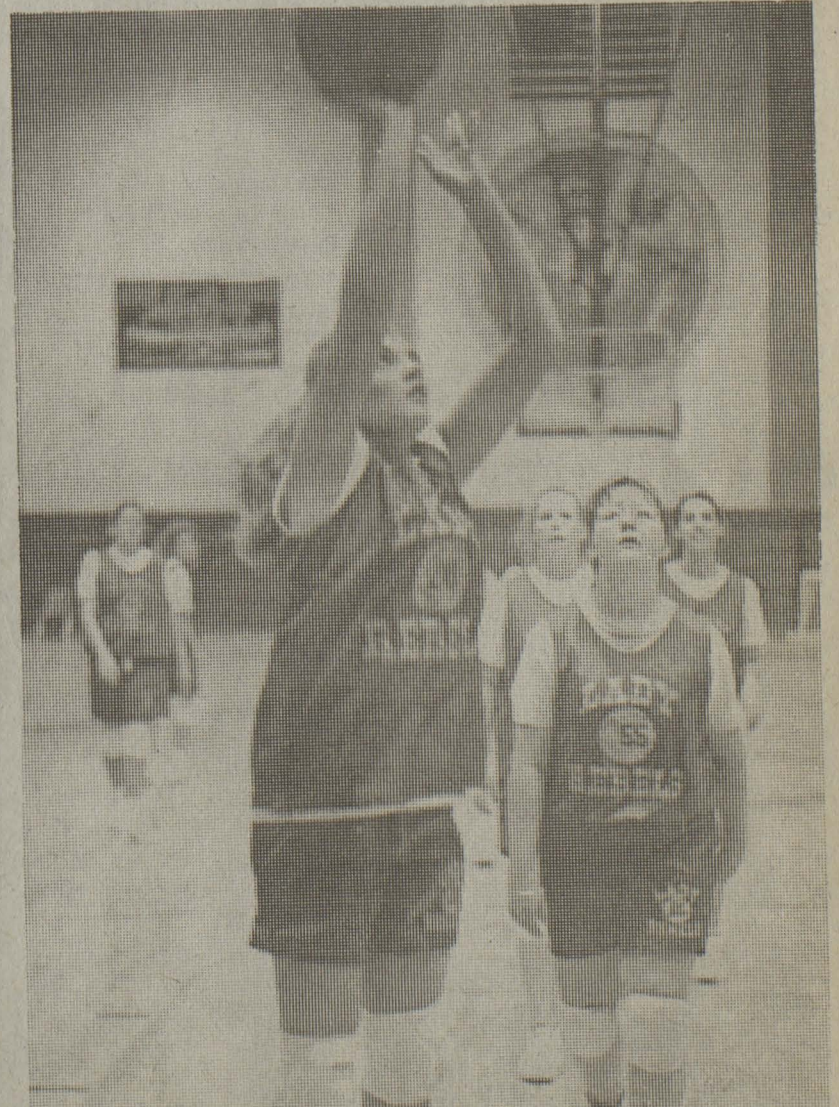

Hodges and Price scored in the second period to send the Yellowjackets out to their 38-0 half time margin.

South Floyd closes the season with a 3-8 record after making their first appearance in a playoff game.

Out for a while

Allen Central Lady Rebel Natilie Cooley will have to sit out the beginning of the basketball season because of an injured knee suffered in this practice session. Cooley could be out until the last of January. (photo by Ed Taylor) the season is just starting.

For the girls, Duff will be without the services of Natlie Cooley for at least until after Christmas and maybe longer. But it will not only be Duff that feels the loss of Cooley, but the Allen Central Lady Rebels as well. Cooley injured her knee in practice at Allen Central and may have to undergo surgery. If that is the decision, then look for Cooley to be out until mid or late January. I wish Natlie a speedy recovery.

TOUGH SPOT....

It certainly must be a tough spot for Prestonsburg basketball coach Jack Pack to be in. He spends the first half of his day teaching at Allen Central and the latter part at Prestonsburg.

The folks in the county need to come up with a way to remedy that situation since it is not fair to Coach Pack.

LUCK OF THE DRAW...

The Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats got the luck of the draw in the Pikeville Invitational girls' basketball tournament scheduled at Pikeville November 27 through December 1. Coach Harold Tackett's ballclub will be in the upper bracket with Pikeville, South Floyd and Magoffin County. Pikeville plays South Floyd and Magoffin County takes on Prestonsburg.

The heavyweights will battle in the lower bracket. Paintsville will face Betsy Layne and Sheldon Clark matches up with Pike Central.

Paintsville, Betsy Layne and Pike Central, along with Prestonsburg are considered some of the 15th Region's top teams, along with Belfry and Allen Central.

The Right Beaver Classic continues tonight and the rest of the week at Duff. Go out and support your favorite team.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

the third period, Kevin Porter, who played a strong defensive game, came up with a Russell fumble that set up Prestonsburg's lone score.

The Cats took control at their own 23-yard line. Castle hit Ortega for a 20-yard gainer and Ortega carried for another 17 yards, putting the football at the Russell 26.

After Josh Setser was thrown for a loss of two yards, Castle connected with Keith Marsillett for a 25-yard completion to the Russell two-yard line. On a first-down play, Castle muscled his way into the end zone for the score and a 44-6 game.

Russell put together a strong drive, but the Blackcat defense caused it to stall out when they stopped the Red Devils at the Prestonsburg 11 to take over the football on downs.

Castle was sacked for a six-yard loss and injured on the tackle and was forced to leave the game with Brooks Stumbo entering at quarterback. Stumbo orchestrated a drive that carried the Cats to the Russell 27 behind the running of Josh Setser. Stumbo completed a 22-yard pass to Marsillett and Setser rushed for 27 yards in the drive that failed on a half-back pass from Matt Laferty to Gavin Hale.

Russell ran the clock in the final 6:45 of the game.

Craft rushed for 173 yards in the game and Shawn Smith carried the football five times for 70 yards.

All offensive yards for Russell came on the ground without a pass being thrown by Ramey. The Red Devils rushed for 428 yards and had 539 total yards.

Russell was flagged three times for 35 yards and had three turnovers in the game.

Prestonsburg could only manage 67 yards on the ground and 86 in the air for 153 yards of offense. Ortega had six carries for 31 yards and Setser had seven carries for 26 yards. Morris finished with a minus one on nine attempts. Castle, who was sacked twice, had a minus six.

Prestonsburg committed two turnovers and had 50 yards on six penalties.

Prestonsburg finishes the season at 4-8 while Russell improves to 10-1 and advances on to Breathitt County this Friday night.

NUMBERS, NUMBERS WE NEED NUMBERS

Numbers, numbers, and more numbers.

Just think about how many times we look at numbers to provide us with information about this grand sport we all love so well.

Often, we turn to numbers to answer practically every race-day question we may have.

Think about it. Where did we finish? Where did he qualify? How many points did he gain? How many laps did he lose? All questions. All answered with our friends — numbers.

I realize this is starting to sound like some skit fresh out of a Sesame Street episode, but hang on, I'm going somewhere with this. In the everyday world, numbers are playing an increasingly major role, and numbers don't lie. With a quick gander at the stats put up by your Winston Cup point leaders, you'll easily see how and why they are among the best.

We are always familiar with stats like number of races won, top-fives, top-tens, and poles. But, there are some other numbers that I think you will find fairly interesting as the Winston Cup Series prepares for its final race of the '95 campaign.

When looking at Jeff Gordon's numbers, the one that catches my eye is 2,410,485. What does that number indicate? It refers to the total amount of cold hard cash that the driver of the DuPont Chevrolet has raked in for his team of Rainbow Warriors.

Want another impressive Gordon number? Try 2,599. This significant figure tells us how many laps the young gun has led this year. Keep in mind that only 9,534 laps have been run. That means the 24-year-old hard charger has led more than 26 percent of the circuits completed during the drive in '95.

Here's an eye-catching number from the stats of the mild-mannered Sterling Marlin. Of the 9,534 laps that have been run, Sterling has completed 9,400 of them. That means the Kodak Chevrolet has completed 98 percent of the season's circuits.

A big reason why the WC Series leaders hold their spots among racing's elite is the fact that they are capable of going out and running from the time the green flag waves until the checkered flag fails. Case in point, Mark Martin, an impressive number out of the stables of the number six Valvoline Ford, is simply one. Some say that it's the loneliest number. But, for Mark Martin, it represents the one, the only, the singular time that he has failed to finish a race out of the 30 events that have been run this season. Is it any wonder that the Roush Racing Ford is always near the front of the pack?

Yes, they may be numbers, but they definitely tell a story. The final chapter of the 1995 NASCAR Winston Cup racing season will be written this Sunday when the engines are fired for the running of the NAPA 500 at Atlanta.

Bell County a 15-0 lead. Chris Douglas scored from one yard out and the PAT by Tim Philpot made it 22-0. Brian Sizemore took a 32-yard pass from Trevor Barton and Philpot added his third PAT for the 29-0 halftime lead for Bell County.

RYLE TOO MUCH FOR MAGOFFIN COUNTY
Ryle scored 22 points in the third period and added 13 more in the fourth quarter to send the Magoffin County Hornets home after the first round of the playoffs this past Friday night.

Magoffin County had taken a 7-0 lead early in the first period on a Mike Caba 18-yard pass completion to Greg Ward. But Ryle tied the game at 7-7 when Eddie Smith ran into the end zone from two yards out and Adam Byrd added the PAT.

Ryle scored in the second period on an 18-yard run by Smith and Byrd's kick to lead 14-7 at the half. Smith scored early in the third period on a 78-yard scamper and Byrd's kick gave Ryle a 21-7 lead.

Caba hit Adam Robinette with a six-yard pass, and the kick by Caba kept the Hornets close at 21-14.

But Ryle shut the Hornets down the rest of the way as they added another touchdown in the third and two more in the fourth to end the Hornets season.

LAWRENCE COUNTY FINDS HIGHLANDS STRONG

Chuke Williams' Lawrence County Bulldogs played Highlands close through two quarters, but fell hard 40-20 when they couldn't put any kind of offense together in the second half.

The Bulldogs trailed 7-6 after the first period. Highlands scored first on a 20-yard run by Frisk and Bischoff added the extra point. Lawrence County came back on a three-yard run by Jason Michael to make it a one-point game.

Lawrence County held its only lead in the game when the team led 12-7 on a 56 yard pass reception by Matt Peterson from Micheal. But Highland's scored twice in the quarter to lead 20-12 at the half. Lawrence County was held scoreless in the third period while Highlands put two more touchdowns on the board.

BELFRY EDGES SOUTH LAUREL

In 3A football, the Belfry Pirates scored a third-quarter touchdown and a two-point safety in the fourth period to edge South Laurel 16-6.

Coach Phillip Haywood's ballclub fell behind 6-0 in the second quarter when Laurel's Chris St. John scored on an 80-yard run. Belfry took its first lead in the second period at 7-6 on a Josh Stacy three-yard run and Mike Hardin's PAT.

The Pirates added another score in the third period on Stacy's second touchdown of the game of three yards. Hardin's kick made it a 14-6 game. The Pirates scored on a safety when Mike Blackburn tackled quarterback Randy Sulfridge in the end zone.

BELLVUE SPOILS PAINTSVILLE'S PLAYOFFS
Bellvue's Danny Roa scored on a three-yard run late in the fourth quarter and Willie Smith added the two-point conversion as Bellvue came from behind and posted a 20-13 win over the Paintsville Tigers Friday night at Paintsville.

Paintsville held a 13-12 lead at the time. The Tigers took the one-point lead in the third period when Mike Burchett scored from one yard out. The kick failed for the Tigers.

Bellvue led at the onset 6-0 when Nate Dotson recovered a Paintsville fumble and returned the football 56 yards for the score. It was 12-0 in the second period on six-yard pass from quarterback Tom Kafel to Wes Moore.

Paintsville went to the locker room trailing 12-7 at the half. Brock Taylor put the Tigers on the board on a six-yard run and Mark Hayslett's kick made it a five-point difference.

PIKEVILLE ROLLS PAST HARLAN

Coach Howard Hillard's Pikeville Panthers had little trouble with Harlan in Friday night's play-offs as they blitzed the Green Dragons 34-0. Running sensation Brent Coleman scored on runs of 31, 74, and 37 yards to lead the Panthers. Eddie Deramus had a touchdown run of 30 yards and Jeff Wagner returned a kick of 74 yards that gave the Panthers a 6-0 lead. Pikeville improved to 10-1 on the season while Harlan fell to 6-4.

PHELPS FINDS MIDDLESBORO TOO MUCH
The Phelps Hornets just couldn't compete with Middlesboro Friday night as they stumbled big time 40-0 on the road.

Frank Taylor scored twice for Middlesboro on runs of two and six yards. Todd Asher also crossed the goal line twice on runs of 56 and 43 yards.

KNOTT CENTRAL'S UPSET BID FALLS SHORT

Knott County Central, in only its second playoff game ever, tried to make it a big one as they put a scare in favored Whitley County Friday night. Whitley County came away with a 27-26 win, but only after many prayers in the closing moments.

Knott County had its chance to make the upset dream a reality, but fell short on the two-point conversion try.

Bobby Joe Lawson had just given Whitley County a 27-20 lead on a nine-yard run in the fourth period. With just more than two minutes to play, Knott Central quarterback Bill Brockhail threw a 62-yard touchdown pass to Tom Tackett to make it a 27-26 game. Central went for the win by running the two-point conversion. Brock-hail, on the bootleg, was stopped short of the goal line and Whitley County ran out the clock for the one-point win

Hardee impressive at state meet

by Ed Taylor
 Sports Editor

Prestonsburg's Ryan Hardee found out that hard work during the regular season pays off as he placed 28th overall in this past weekend's state cross-country meet at the Kentucky Horse Park in Lexington.

More than 200 runners took part in the meet in Class 2A. Hardee posted a time of 17:40.7, just two minutes under the winning time of 15:40.5 by Elizabethtown's Thomas Murley.

Karen Lutes of Harrison County took first place for the girls with her time of 15:17.9. Lutes is a ninth grader at Harrison County.

Shelly Greathouse, a freshman at Prestonsburg, led the Floyd County runners by placing 126th out of 181 runners. Greathouse was timed at 19:03.1 in finishing.

Allen Central's Annie Harvey placed 128th overall with a time of 19:09.9. Dreama Isaac was 150th overall at 19:46.4.

Hardee has been the region's top runner all season missing only one meet during the regular season because of sickness.

Allen Central's Jesse Robertson placed 62nd overall. Robertson had a time of 18:19.3. Jay Harvey, Allen Central, placed 126th overall at 19:38.8. Kyle Conley of Prestonsburg took 144th place being clocked at 20:29.1.

"Jesse was only nine seconds off his best time," Allen Central coach Dewey Jamerson said. "His best time was 18:10 and he finished with a 18:19. He ran well."

Harvey also came within nine seconds of his best time, according to Jamerson. "He had his best time in the state finals last year. We also saw James (Seward) run his fastest time. Chris (Damron) had his best time and Wade (Damron) came to within 20 seconds of his best time."

Other county runners: Russ Music, Prestonsburg, 163rd, 21:18.4; Charlie Wallen, Prestonsburg, 166th, 21:27.0; James Seward, Allen Central, 168th, 21:40.1; Chris Damron, Allen Central, 174th, 22:03.1; Wade Damron, Allen Central, 187th, 24:05.3; James Skeens, Prestonsburg, 192nd, 27:04.0; Jason Keathley, Prestonsburg, 193rd, 27:04.9; Brian Jones, Allen Central, 194th, 28:33.8.

South Floyd's Jenny Meade placed 154th overall with her time of 20:10.8. Mary Baldrige of Allen Central was timed at 20:31.4 for 158th overall.

"It was a cold day and Dreama (Isaac) and Crystal (Martin) don't run well in the cold," Jamerson said.

According to Coach Jamerson, Mary Baldrige and Heather Conley both had their fastest times. Annie Harvey was way off her best time. "Her best was 16:40," he said.

"Far off what she is capable of running."

"Overall, we ran well. Placement wise, you wish you had done better," he said.

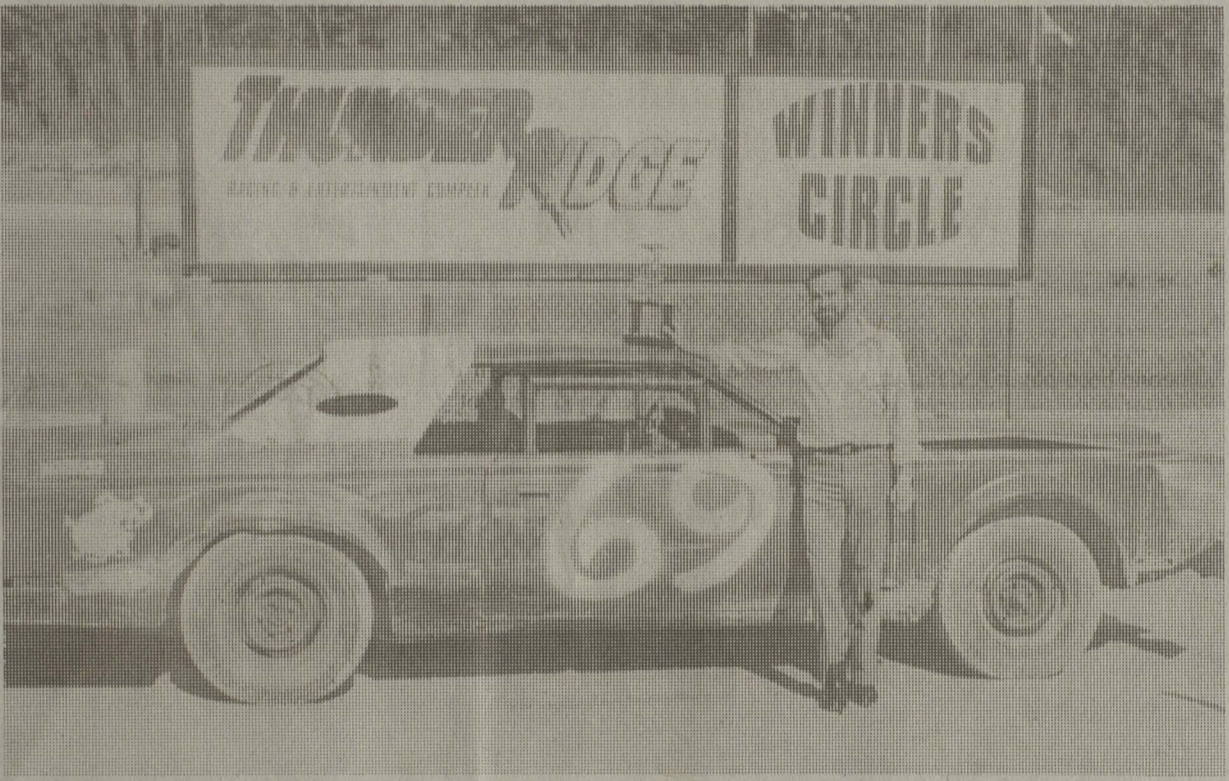

Other women finishers were: Chrissy Tackett, South Floyd, 160th, 20:33.5; Pam Goble, Allen Central, 164th, 21:01.1; Amanda Samons, 168th, 22:10.1; Crystal Martin, Allen Central, 169th, 22:12.9; Crystal Slone, Prestonsburg, 170th, 22:21.2; Brandi Lawson, Prestonsburg, 172nd, 23:08.1; Kimi Nunnery, Prestonsburg, 176th, 23:36.7; Kim Slope, Prestonsburg, 23:36.3; Heather Conley, Allen Central, 177th, 23:51.9.

Western Hills won the girls' division with 47 points. Wareen East, Union County, Corbin, Allen County Scottsville rounded out the top five teams.

Allen Central placed 21st and Prestonsburg 22nd.

Bowling Green captured the boys' division with 67 points. Elizabethtown, Russell, Fort Knox and Green County made up the top five teams. Prestonsburg finished 22nd and Allen Central 23rd overall.

Roadhog winner

Dennis Bartley, Prestonsburg, won the overall trophy in the Roadhog Division at Thunder Ridge this past racing season. Bartley, in his second season of racing, won eight of the 11 races he entered.

WPRG to air high school basketball preview

Basketball fans in the 58th District will get an advance preview of the upcoming high school basketball season this Thursday evening (tomorrow) when WPRG-TV, Channel 5, airs the taping of all eight teams in the district.

The first showing of the preview will take place at 7 p.m. Thursday and will be replayed Saturday morning at 11 a.m. A third showing is possible, but a date and time has not been set.

The preview will cover both girls' and boys' basketball in Floyd County. P.D. Gearheart and Dr. Don Bevins roamed the county with camera and microphone in hand interviewing coaches and players.

The local cable station will also air a preview of Pike County, Martin County and Johnson County teams at a later date.

Work helps to preserve us from three great evils—weariness, vice and want.

CURRY'S DETERMINATION IS ADMIRABLE, BUT CW SAYS GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY IS GONE

Conventional wisdom tells us opportunity, the golden kind, comes once in a lifetime, maybe. Bill Curry does not subscribe to CW. The University of Kentucky's football coach, saying he will not resign, believes perhaps a fifth time will be the charm. Football history, the Curry era, tells us UK has played a turn-around game four times in the last three years, and found a way to fritter opportunity away each time.

In 1992 Curry's team had a 4-3 record on October 31 and faced Mississippi State at home. Three times in the game UK looked to have the Bulldogs put away, but found a way to lose 37-36 at the end. Kentucky finished its season with four straight losses.

In 1993 the Wildcats were 4-2 on October 23 and had a chance to beat Georgia in Athens. A number of mystifying play calls and injuries cost UK, 33-28. Curry's team won one of its last five games, still got a Peach Bowl bid, and lost to Clemson in a give-back at the end, 14-13.

This season Curry's team earned itself a 3-3 record and another golden chance against undermanned Georgia, disappointing Mississippi State and winless Vanderbilt. Instead of being 6-3 today, UK's record is the reverse and fan frustration and disgust levels have not been higher since, well, 1994's 1-10 season.

In an era when winning has given us Steve Spurrier, who uses a football field to get even, Bobby Bowden, who runs up scores to get his team higher ranking, and Tom Osborne, who reinstated a confessor to assault and battery on a woman, my support for Bill Curry has been based on the premise that the best qualities in men will succeed in the end.

Produce a collection of young men who reach Top 10 pinnacles enjoyed this week by unlikely Northwestern and Kansas State. But progress in UK's program the last two or three years isn't there. Winning and losing is not a bottom line so much as loyalty and effort and personal pride galvanized into being competitive.

Following the Mississippi State game, running back Moe Williams told the media he didn't know why he had been removed from the game. He was not tired as the coach had suggested after inserting Ray McLaurin. Williams' remark was disloyal and a public repudiation of his coach.

After the Vanderbilt game, receiver Craig Yeast told reporter Dick Gabriel that the team "was not emotionally ready to play."

Not ready to play? Telling statements.

Perhaps there is something inside young athletes today Curry can no longer energize. A spirit, a fire he is not able to ignite. It appears so. And if so, then it is time he accepted the unpleasant taste and try something else.

MOE, JUST SAY NO

Some quandary, the next major decision in the life of Moe Williams. UK's durable 6-2, 200-pound tailback has enjoyed an extraordinary season and now it is time to test the National Football League. Right. Wrong.

It is time the Williams family invested in a large insurance policy.

Even with the possibility of a career-threatening injury, and considering the average NFL career is seven years, Williams, 22, would benefit dramatically by competing another year at the college level.

Beyond the priority of pursuing of a college degree, Williams would give himself time to grow bigger, stronger and almost certainly improve his stock as a premier NFL draft pick.

Note to Moe. Just say no.

KITTENS 'COUP'

If Kentucky's jayvee basketball program is as successful with fans as many believe it will be, then the Lexington school may have pioneered its second major promotional coup for college hoops. The first was Midnight Madness.

UK's jayvee team has a 12-game schedule which includes eight games in magical old Memorial Coliseum. Just as important to fans around the state, coach Delray Brooks' Kittens will play Lees College in Jackson, Berea College in Cincinnati, and Vincennes in Owensboro.

Hunches (3): 1. Before the season is out, someone in the national media will journey to Kentucky to study doing a feature on Kitten mania. 2. The jayvee idea will be so popular with fans, UK will consider doing it again next season. 3. The NCAA will receive at least one recommendation to study freshmen eligibility...again.

Question: Who were regulars on one of Kentucky's most popular (and unbeaten) jayvee team ever?

Answer: Kevin Grevey, Bob Guyette, Jimmy Dan Connor, Mike Flynn, Jerry Hale and Steve Lochmueller, 1971-72.

BEST SPORTS STORIES '95

College: Northwestern. Those in the media herd who clamored as recently as 1994, "Northwestern should get out of the Big Ten," please stand up. The number five ranked Wildcats are two turnovers from being unbeaten and a heart beat away from a Rose Bowl bid.

High School: Year of the Tiger. Are Fern Creek, Hopkinsville and Beechwood best in state?

Individual: Tim Couch. Not so much his passing miles and truckload as the ways the 18-year-old Leslie Countian and his parents have handled the recruiting crush and media glare. They have met every question, every phone call, every knock at the door with honesty and unabashed joy with all the attention, recognizing it will be gone soon enough.

DIS 'N DATA

Louisville. Much has been made of the impact of losing Alex Sanders and Jason Osborne during the first semester. Far more important is absence of take charge-type Tick Rogers, out six weeks with a broken hand.

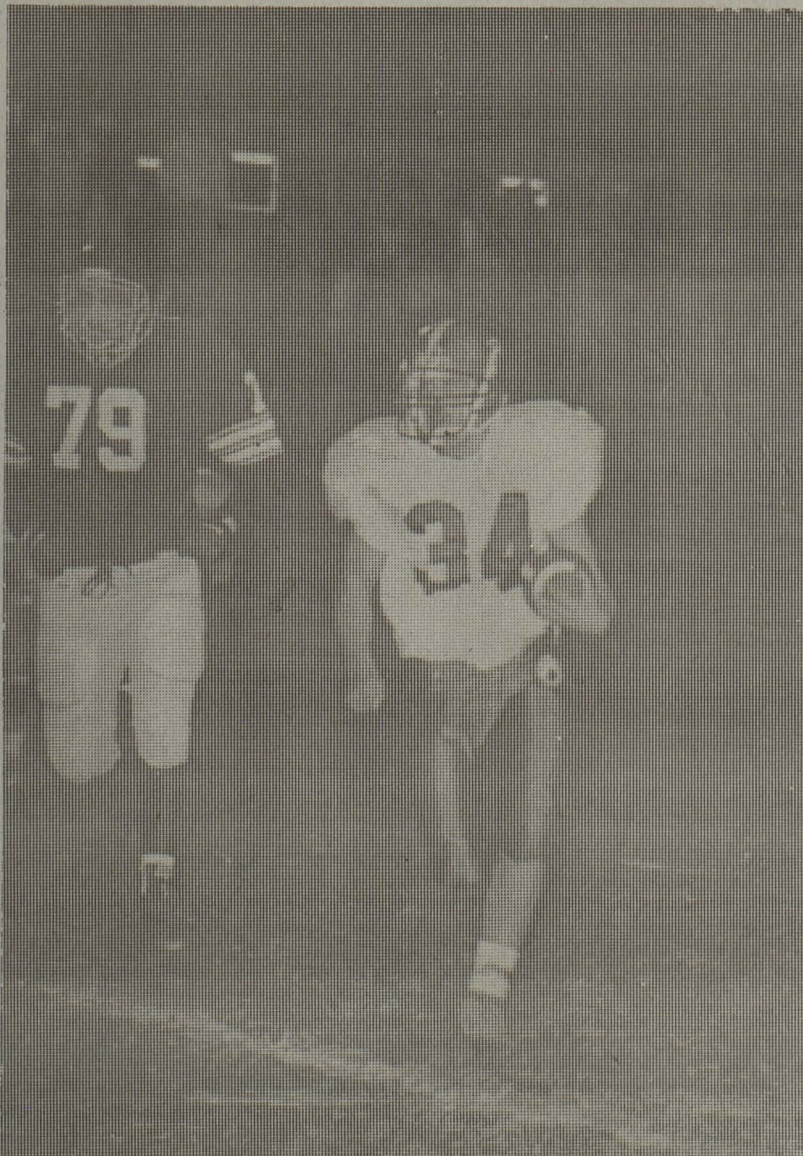

Heisman Trophy. Voters across the country are beginning to hype their favorites. If I were casting my ballot today: 1. Danny Wuerfel, Florida; 2. Eddie George, Ohio State; 3. Tommy Frazier, Nebraska.

My dark-horse favorite is Darnell Autry, who rushed for 100-plus yards in nine consecutive Northwestern's games this season.

Basketball, according to the American Basketball Council, is our country's most popular participation sport. More than 47.3 million played basketball last year; 32.5 million played volleyball and 30.8 million played softball.

Marshall County basketball standout Dan Langhi won't sign with UConn after all. Next stop, Vanderbilt? The list is long of western Kentuckians who discovered stardom in Music City.

UK seniors Mark Pope and Tony Delk received good news last week. Pope is one of 12 announced candidates for a Rhodes Scholarship at Oxford University in England. And Delk is on a list of ten nominees for the Naismith Player of the Year Award...He is raw and still rough around the edges, but his weight loss and work ethic are going to make Nazr Mohammad, 'the people's choice.'

Tough night

Jon Morris, Prestonsburg, had minus yards against Russell last Friday night in the first round of the high school football playoffs. Morris, a junior, is a standout runner for the Blackcats and will be back next season. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Names of the week: Josh Buffolino, cross-country, Shelby County; Christan Key, cross-country Williamsburg High School.

MAYBE MATTOX CAN COACH

Bernadette Locke-Mattox had better be quite a coach because UK women's basketball's new boss has demonstrated she can't recruit. Not so far anyway. Four of the state's finest high school seniors have passed on UK.

Miss Basketball candidates Jaime Waltz of Ft. Thomas Highlands will sign with Western Kentucky, and Kyra Elzy of Oldham County has committed to Tennessee. Two weeks ago, all-staters Alison Bass of Bullitt East and Heather Baker of Somerset announced they will attend the University of Louisville.

There is consolation for in-state fans. Walz, whose father Roger was a starting quarterback at UK in 1966, will stay in her home state. Her choosing Western is a reminder that coach Paul Sanderford's Lady Hilltoppers program is still Big Brother in the Bluegrass State.

Meantime, Walz is on the threshold of rewriting high school scoring records in the state. She will start the season with 4,067 points, 318 behind record holder Geri Grigsby (McDowell).

(Times Editor's note: It has taken Walz four seasons to reach more than 4,000 points while Grigsby massed her total of 4,385 in two seasons. The hot shooting Lady Daredevil guard only played the 1975-76 and 1976-77 seasons at McDowell).

READERS (RIGHT) WRITE

Jeff Rozen, Lexington: "This (UK) team has no weaknesses. What I mean is it's hard to find a chink in the armor that any team this side of, oh, the Houston Rockets, could exploit."

Bill Cotton, Dawson Springs: "You thing Tony Delk will be point guard at the end of the season?"

COMMENT: No. And apparently not at the start either. Maybe, not even Da Coach can drive a square peg into a round hole.

PARTING SHOT

(From Bill Cotton, Dawson Springs): Rick Pitino was in Bobby Knight's office and asked what that red telephone was for. Coach Knight said 'that's my phone to God.' Pitino asked if he could use it, talked for 15 minutes, then asked Indiana's coach, 'how much do I owe you?' Knight said $500.

Two weeks later Knight was in Pitino's office and asked what the Blue phone was for? Pitino said 'that's my phone to God.' Knight asked if he could use it, talked for 15 minutes then asked Pitino 'how much do I owe you?'

"Nothing," the UK coach said, "It's not long distance from here." So it goes.

10 COMMANDMENTS OF SAFE HUNTING

Every day we hear about accidents on the road and in the home. We know these accidents are usually the result of carelessness, but no one seems to learn a lesson from these travesties. We continue hearing stories about accidents that could have been prevented had someone been paying attention.

Hunting accidents are no different. If people would just pay close attention to their surroundings and think before acting, many accidents in the field could be prevented.

Hunting accidents are less common than accidents on the road or in the car. This could be attributed to many different factors. There are fewer hunters than drivers. Hunting is typically a day-time seasonal activity, while driving takes place at all hours of the day, 365 days a year. Hunters may be more cautious in their activities than the average driver or homemaker because they know what could happen if they make a mistake.

About one in every 10,000 hunters will have a hunting-related accident. Six hunting-related accidents were reported in Kentucky last year. Three of these accidents were fatal. According to State Hunter Education Coordinator Mac Lag, three hunting fatalities per year are the average for Kentucky. The state has never had more than four or less than two fatal hunting accidents in any given year.

Some of Kentucky's most popular hunting seasons open this month. Let's see if we can break the record and have zero hunting fatalities this year. Following are the ten commandments of hunting safety. Please take the time to learn these rules and share them with others. Most importantly, use these rules because the price of one mistake could mean death.

- Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun — this is the cardinal rule of safety.
- Carry only empty guns, taken down or with the action open, into our automobiles, camps and homes.
- Always be sure the barrel and action are clear of obstructions.
- Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle if you stumble.
- Identify your target before you pull the trigger.
- Never point a gun at anything you do not intend to shoot.
- Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first.
- Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun.
- Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or at the surface of water.
- Do not mix gunpowder and alcohol.

Bassin' with the Pros

FORGOTTEN ART OF JIGGER POLING STILL CATCHES BASS

Every so often, when professional bass fisherman Guy Eaker isn't fishing in competition, he has a chance to fish for fun, and when he does, he may use an old-fashioned jigger pole.

A jigger pole is a 15 to 20 foot pole with a very short length of line and a top-water lure tied to its tip. The tip of the pole is used to tap the surface of the water, which in turn makes the lure dance and jump wildly.

"When bass are in shallow water, it's absolutely one of the most exciting fishing techniques you can use," explains the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff angler, whose very first bass fishing experience more than 45 years ago came with a jigger pole.

"You'd swear bass wouldn't be in water so shallow, but suddenly you'll get a strike so violent it nearly pulls the pole out of your hands. You can follow right behind someone using a modern rod and reel with a crankbait or spinnerbait and catch fish that never touch those lures."

Eaker's father introduced him to the techniques when he was just five years old during weekend trips along the Catawba River near their North Carolina home. The jigger poles they used were bamboo, which were carefully hung to cure and dry before being used.

"We'd even go down to the Santee-Cooper Lakes in South Carolina and use live bait with the jigger poles to catch striped bass," remembers the Evinrude pro. "The biggest fish I remember was a 32-pound striper that nearly pulled my father out of the boat. I remember some big fish that nearly pulled me overboard, too."

"In the spring when the big striper are in shallow water, jigger poling is a great way to catch them."

Eaker acknowledges that like many veteran anglers he had practically forgotten about the technique until he received a fiberglass pole in the mail from a Dallas company named Mocco.

"The company learned I liked jigger poling and sent me one, and it's certainly an improvement over the old bamboo poles," Eaker says. "This one even has a reel and line so it's ready to fish. One of the big problems I remember with the old poles is that the tips would break. We just tied 12 inches of line to the tip and a big bass could break it.

"With this fiberglass pole, the line runs all the way down to the reel so breakage is eliminated. The 15-foot rod telescopes down to about four feet, too, so it is a lot easier to transport than the old bamboo poles."

Eaker believes jigger poling is effective because the lure can be placed precisely beside shallow cover and kept there. The commotion by both the rod tip and the jumping lure attract bass and draw reaction strikes.

JIGS CAN BE PRODUCTIVE BASS LURES THIS MONTH

Champion bass fisherman Larry Nixon doesn't know how many fish he's caught with a jig during his career, but he does know the lure has played a major role in his tournament success.

Jigs are so important to him, in fact, that they're among the first lures he packs when he leaves for competition.

"This time of year, jigs are especially effective because you can fish them either shallow or deep, depending on whether you find the bass," says the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff angler. "In some parts of the country, the bass may be shallow in the backs of the creeks while in other areas the bass may be in the deeper channels."

"A jig will work just fine in either place," he said.

Nixon said he believes presenting the lure properly is one of the keys to catching bass with a jig. In clear water, or when bass are fairly active in warmer water, he makes the lure rise and fall quickly by moving his rod tip.

"This is really important, especially is you're fishing a lake that receives heavy pressure," he explains. "You want the jig to look like it's fleeing from a bass. You don't want the fish to get a good look at it so you keep it moving."

Just the opposite is true when bass are sluggish in colder water, notes the Evinrude pro. Because bass won't chase a lure very far then, the presentation must be slower so it remains close to the bass longer.

"I like to use a pork trailer with long, swimming legs that add a lot of action to the lure," Nixon points out. "By itself, a jig doesn't have any real action. Even when you hop it or swim it, a jig is just an object moving through the water.

"By adding a good pork trailer, you immediately turn a jig into something that looks more alive. Not only have you added action, you have also added bulk so the lure is larger. That's one reason jigs are such good big bass lures."

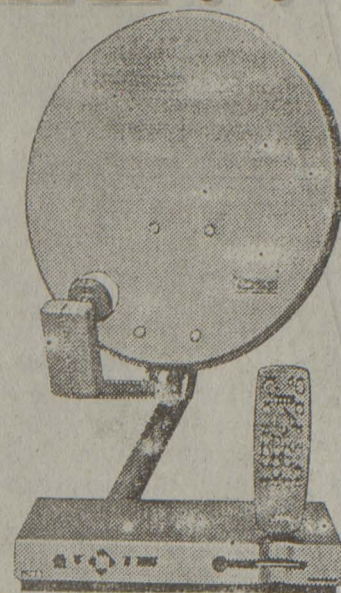

In the autumn and early winter months, Nixon will often concentrate his jig fishing around vegetation if he can find it. Bass frequently remain near thick weeds and grasses throughout much of the winter if it is available.

"If the vegetation is really thick, like hydrilla or milfoil," he says, "then I use a heavier 3/4 or one ounce jig so it can fall through the grass into the open water below. I'll also use a good pork trailer, not only to provide traction but also to help slow the jig's fall."

"In colder water, a slow falling lure generally works best, and one way to slow a heavy jig is by using a bulky pork trailer. I'll also use heavy line in the vegetation, and this will aid in slowing the lure's fall."

REALTREE OUTDOORS TIPS

Bob Foulkrod

FOLLOW UP YOUR SHOT

Deer do not always fall or even give an indication of being hit at the shot. Always go to the spot the deer was standing and look for hair and blood sign. Mark the spot well.

Some very vital hits can go unnoticed. A heart-shot deer usually makes a mad dash of 50 to 75 yards. A lung-shot deer may run 200 yards.

A hit through the heart/lung area produces pink, frothy blood. Bright red is muscle blood but it still may be a vital hit. Dark, brownish blood indicates a hit in the liver and/or paunch area. Hits in this area take some time to bring the deer down. Wait a while before taking up the trail.

Mark the blood trail with tissue paper so that you can easily return to the last sign found. If the blood trail stops, circle and search the area thoroughly before giving up. While searching for a wounded deer, be ready to take a finishing shot.

PRO FISHIN' TIPS

The days of buying one rod-and-reel outfit to handle various bass-fishing situations are over. Serious fishermen have learned that their success rate soars when they arm themselves with gear that is tailored for each specific technique.

Bass fishing has become specialized. Trying to survive with just an outfit or two is the golfing equivalent of playing 18 holes with just a driver and putter. Like the golfer, successful fishermen have a variety of "clubs" in their "bag."

That way, when they are confronted with a certain situation, they aren't "handicapped" by trying to make a rod and reel perform tasks that it was never designed to do.

Kevin VanDam was the 1991 B.A.S.S. Rookie of the Year.

Golden Ages

Friday the 13th

by Christine Clark Meade
Betsy Layne Senior Citizens Center

What did it mean to you?

Did your luck run to good, bad or did you just ignore it? My day started with me not feeling so well due to a flu bug. About 8 a.m. I go to the Betsy Layne Senior Citizens Center to work on a baby quilt and be banker for the day. We did well with our chicken dumplin' sale at the center about 2 p.m. Checked my figures with my money and came out even. Feeling tired but happy about our good luck; helped clean up and went home at 4 p.m.

At home, I was sitting outside visiting with my son, Johnny and his family, when my brother-in-law, Lem Meade, came by. He wished to show us his birthday cake. It was a special cake indeed, showing a man on a mountain with a ginseng plant in one hand and a spade in the other.

Before going on home he invited us up for his birthday supper of squirrel and gravy, dried beans, sweet potatoes and so on. Lem has had these suppers for the past few years. In the past, they were for men only. This year I decided to go along with my husband Ransom. Since this is a standing invitation, Lem never knows who or how many of his family and friends will show up. This year, Lester Parsons was the first to arrive. Next, was my husband and me. Of his four sons, Cloyd was first to arrive and was very pleased, saying he was usually late. Dale had come from Tennessee for the day and came by with Albon. After visiting for a while, they decided to go ahead and eat before the real hungry group got there.

Before they could eat it all up, son Rick and Albon's four sons got there, declaring they are the working group and needed more food than the retired ones.

I hadn't seen Albon's four boys in some time and felt the house wasn't going to hold them. They are a tall, good looking gang of boys.

This Friday the 13th had been going real well and seemed to be going to hold this way for Lem Meade. First, he was blessed to be 80 years old and still able to go out, climb hills, hunt his ginseng or listen to his fox hounds run. Here under his roof, this night was a brother, four sons, four grandsons, one great-grandson and oddest of all this year—two great-granddaughters and their mom.

I sat there waiting to eat, thinking how lucky was this man. Going on around him was something any man on earth could envy. There are men living in bigger homes, they have great jobs, more money in the bank than Lem, but come a birthday, Christmas, or just a day when he might need something, I bet they would come off second best. This man had friends, sons and grandchildren who had bought gifts, come to his home to eat well of a good supper and, as they go away, say Happy Birthday dad or granddad in their own way. I came away from this party feeling good about being a guest in this home where so much love had been so freely given. Our only trouble of the Friday the 13th kind was a dead battery in the camera, leaving us with no 80th birthday picture.

Lem's wife, Frankie, had done a great job. We came away with lots of leftovers.

Sometimes I really enjoyed history class

When I was in grade school, history was definitely not one of my favorite subjects.

Even questions like "Who was buried in Grant's tomb?" or "What color was George Washington's white horse?" gave me problems.

I guess that's why the article that appeared in the paper one day last week didn't surprise me.

Titled "Going down in history," it reported that on a test administered in early 1944 to 22,500 fourth, eighth and 12th graders across the nation's, only a very small number of the kids did well. When I saw some of the questions that were asked, I was surprised even less.

For example, the test had questions pertaining to the intentions of The Monroe Doctrine, the consequences of Nat Turner's rebellion, and the goal that was most important in shaping United States foreign policy between 1945-1990. With questions like these, it's little wonder that the article stated that more than half of America's high school seniors don't know basic facts about U.S. History.

Ironically, one of my fondest memories from my grade school days at Muddy Branch is of a particular history lesson. I was either in the seventh or eighth grade (I had the same teacher in the same room for both grades) and we had our history lesson right before lunch. We were discussing Abraham Lincoln, and one of my classmates, whom we all knew wasn't too fond of books and generally felt the whole education process to be a total waste of time anyway, was asked by our teacher, "Who assassinated Lincoln?"

Poison Oak

The young man immediately went on the defensive. "Why ask me?" he replied. "Everybody picks on me. I didn't do it. I wasn't even here that day."

Well, as you might imagine, his answer prompted more than a little laughter, and filled the aisles with the trembling bodies of both boys and girls...completely out of control.

As you'd expect, the teacher (who was short tempered and not prone to too much foolishness) saw no humor in the whole thing, and after several minutes of crimson-faced desk pounding, he got our attention long enough to expel forever the young man who had denied harming Lincoln. He then dismissed us to an early lunch.

That afternoon, shortly after we'd settled in for our geography lesson, there was a knock on the door. When the teacher (who had apparently forgotten all about the morning incident) answered it, there stood our history scholar...and his daddy.

The teacher stepped out into the hall...and left the door open.

A definite mistake.

You could have heard a chigger sneeze in the room, and we could hear every word that was spoken in the hall.

"Why'd you send him home?" the father asked angrily.

We heard our teacher calmly explain: "He was trying to be cute. I asked him who assassinated Lincoln and he denied it."

Then we heard the father say, in a very hateful tone, "Son, I've told you about stuff like that. You tell the truth. If you did it, you tell this man!"

We heard nothing else. For the second time that day, we were completely wasted. As a matter of fact, so was the entire rest of the day.

Just because I wasn't much of a history student didn't mean that sometimes I didn't enjoy history class.

FROM THE MOUNTAINS
by Jadon Gibson

Conclusion :

Pioneers' needs were often overlooked

At times the needs of the pioneers didn't seem to be well served by the government which seemed like an eternity away from the borderland.

Life was difficult as they eked out a living in the wilderness while being continually harassed by Indians. Yet the central government tried to restrict their reprisals against the red men.

"We have enough matters to work out without the regular reports from the wilderness," a representative from Massachusetts argued Congress.

"We would best be served if the ocean washed at the western foot of the Alleghenies."

John Jay, Minister for Foreign Affairs, proposed to the Spanish minister that the government may cede the navigation rights of the Mississippi River to the Spaniards in exchange for some benefits for the pioneers in the borderland.

A communication of the proposal was sent to the leaders in what would become Kentucky.

Leaders among the settlers, feeling isolated from Richmond and Philadelphia, had their hands full with the Indians and were adamantly against giving up any of the western lands.

At about this time a band of Cherokee Indians raided a home on Fishing Creek in what is now Lincoln County.

They murdered a man by the name of Luttrell. Col John Logan called out the militia and went with them to the house where Luttrell was killed.

He discovered the route which the Indians had taken and pursued them several days, crossing the Cumberland River into the Indian territory.

The Indians were overtaken and several of them were killed. A number of skins, furs and horses were taken.

Those who escaped complained to the Indian agent that the militia had intruded on their hunting ground and murdered peaceable hunters.

The Indian agent sent a complaint to Governor Randolph of Virginia.

Incidents such as this Indian incursion and the pursuit and killing that followed made it difficult to abide by the treaties when they were agreed to.

"The Indians have been troublesome on our frontiers," Harry Innes wrote Governor Randolph from Danville in July of 1787.

"I am of the opinion that this western country will act for themselves in a few years and erect an independent government.

Under the present system we cannot exert our strength nor does Congress seem disposed to protect us.

We are informed that the very troops which Congress directed the states to raise for the defense of the Western country, are disbanded.

As time passed, reinforcements were sent and the pioneers continued to persist. In 1792 the state of Kentucky was formed and the idea of an independent government was forgotten.

Sassafras Trail blazed at Jenny Wiley

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

From the United Kingdom and throughout the United States, nine individuals, ranging in age from 19 to 66, came to Prestonsburg in October to stamp their imprint on the history of Jenny Wiley State Park.

James Maxwell, 19, of Wales, United Kingdom; Ray Hakala of Rockford, Illinois; Joe Shute of Stratham, New Hampshire; Charles Craine of Boosie, Louisiana; Floyd Benner of Louisiana; Lora Loftus of Washington, D.C.; Estelle Benner of Louisville, Kentucky; Tomy Young, of North Canton, Ohio, and Shirley Hearn of Haymarket, Virginia left their regular jobs behind and volunteered to spend one week at Jenny Wiley State Park to blaze a new park trail.

The trail building expedition was sponsored by the park and by the American Hiking Society, a national organization with a goal to build, preserve and maintain America's foot trails. Lora Loftus, an employee of the hiking society, said as she chopped at some roots protruding from the path she was clearing.

Loftus said that "volunteers do the job" of building trails. Volunteers pay a $50 registration fee to cover the administrative costs of organizing the event. The trail host, in this case the Jenny Wiley State Park, pays for the group's lunches for the week. Volunteers bring camping gear and bed down near the trail. At Jenny Wiley State Park, the park's campground was within walking distance of the trail.

Volunteers also have to pay for their own transportation to a major airport where the host will then transport them to the trail site, Loftus said.

Working on the new trail at Jenny Wiley State Park, Estelle Benner a retired nurse who lives in Louisville was on her third "volunteer vacation" building trails. She has worked on trails in Vermont and in Minnesota. When she left those trails "that was the end of it."

This trail was different. "This is the first time I felt a continuity that I didn't in other places. I have been a member (of the American Hiking Society) for three or four years. I like this feeling of having a sense of connection," she said, and then bent to her task of yanking out the tree roots she had chopped with her hoe.

Her husband Floyd Benner pulled a glove off his right hand and looked at the large blister that had burst. "This is a great vacation," he said and meant it. As he put his glove back on, he looked at his wife and said, chuckling: "If I wasn't doing this, I'd be home and she'd have me working on the house."

A short distance down the trail, Tom Young raised his mattock and hurled it into the ground, pulling the dirt down onto a new path that Benner would level with her hoe. Ripples of sweat ran down Young's face but he did not stop to stem the flow. Without missing a swing in his rhythm of work, he said: "Believe it or not. I came out to relax. I haven't read a paper (in six days). There's no responsibility."

Young, who has worked for 34 years in the postal service, was on his first trip with the American Hiking Society. Young said he uses America's parks and its trails and "wanted to give something back." He added that he knows how hard it is to get volunteers to work on trails. In his home state of Ohio, he volunteers one day a month at a national park to build and maintain the trails.

Shirley Hearn, who works behind a desk at the American Hiking Society office, agreed that it's difficult to find people who will donate their time to build trails. "This year we had 52 trips scheduled. We've only filled less than half. The problem is lack of volunteers."

The project at Jenny Wiley State Park, though, did not have any difficulty attracting helpers. Hearn said that Ron Vanover, who is heading the project for Jenny Wiley State Park, had originally asked for four people to work on the park's trails. When the society listed its projects in its magazine, nine people applied and were assigned to the Jenny Wiley project.

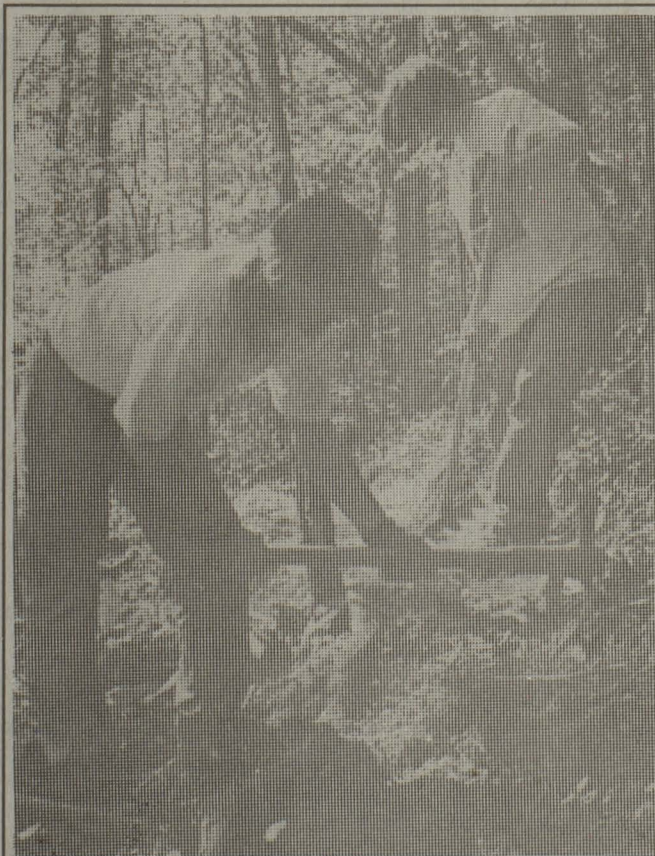

"We're living the life of Riley here," Hearn said. "We have Ron. He's been so good to us here."

Hearn said she participated in the Jenny Wiley endeavor because the hiking society "encourages its

Work detail

Ray Hakala of Rockford, Illinois, served as a volunteer for the seventh time with the American Hiking Society. Behind are Shirley Hearn of Haymarket, Virginia, and Joe Shute of Stratham, New Hampshire.

Youth at work

James Maxwell of Wales and Lora Loftus of Washington, D.C. worked to put the finishing touch to the new Sassafras Trail.

office personnel to get out and find out what it's all about." Before she came to the park, Hearn didn't know that she would be building and completing a trail. She phoned home and told her young son who couldn't believe his mom was a trailblazer.

Nineteen-year-old trailblazer James Maxwell, who has a landscaping business in Wales, came a long distance to build a trail through Jenny Wiley State Park. This was his first trail and he seemed to love it. "Everything here is a lot bigger — the mountains, the lake, the cars, the highways and the people," he said as he gazed at the trees and the hillsides in the distance. "There's more fast food joints here, too. The foods are sweeter. You Americans have a sweet tooth, but I'm getting used to you."

Maxwell said he planned to come to the States anyway and when he saw listings for trail volunteer work in a magazine at a library, he thought it was an "ideal opportunity." He wrote to at least five addresses for trail projects and "this was the only one that wrote back."

Maxwell almost didn't make it to the States. He had to switch airplanes three times because of problems at the airports. The first time, his plane had engine trouble before take-off. Passengers were escorted off the plane and taken to a waiting area. Later, they were put back on the same plane. Maxwell said the plane was "halfway across the ocean" and had to turn back again because of the same engine trouble.

It was 4 a.m. in London and foggy when they arrived back at the airport.

Garrett High School class of 1945 holds 50th reunion

Garrett High School Class of 1945 met at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Park, the weekend of October 20-22, for its 50th anniversary reunion.

Festivities began with a party on Friday night where nationally-known artist and poet Ruther Turner entertained his former classmates with artistic sketches and a calligraphy demonstration.

On Saturday, the group enjoyed a pontoon ride to the dam where a box lunch was served at one of the shelters.

Carlos Higgins was master of ceremonies for the banquet on Saturday night and introduced the following program:

—A "Welcome" speech by Class of '45 President Fairce Woods

—"Awards" presented by Faye and Ed Caudill

—A "Celebration of Life" service was led by Joyce Rasnick

Harris in memory of deceased class members, "Dog" Campbell, Edna Conley Everidge, Naomi Oakley Caudill and James Howard.

—Invocation and benediction were given by George Salisbury.

One feature of the banquet program was called "Remember When" in which each class member told the group about some special memory of the school or classmates. This invoked a lot of laughs and fond memories.

Mr. Salisbury played several selections on a dulcimer and a violin, two of the instruments from his large collection.

Classmates, relatives and friends attending this reunion were: Sylvia Avanel and Andrew Burchett, Lucasville, Ohio; Faye and Ed Caudill, Southfield, Michigan; Bessie and Homer Draughn, Lexington; Gwendolyn Oney Francis, Garrett; Muriel Moore Francis, Garrett; Joyce Rasnick

Harris, Lexington; Earlie and Carlos Higgins, Marengo, Ohio; Dorothy Higgins, Marengo, Ohio;

William Holbrook and son, Jack, Softshell; Norma Pratt Johnson and daughter, Donna, Cynthiana; Bonnie Jay and Fred Terry, Dayton, Ohio; Joy Terry Messer, Martin; Mary and Bill Mullins, Benton, Illinois; James W. Name omitted
In a Times article announcing the marriage of Lisa and Kevin Yeager, the name of the bride's maid of honor was omitted. Valerie Walker, a lifelong friend of the bride, served as the maid of honor. Ms. Walker wore an emerald green satin gown with a deep V-back decorated with a large bow. She also carried a live bouquet containing the same flowers as the bride.

We Do Chicken Right.

Health Matters

by Christopher Fleming

FOCUS ON FITNESS OF CHILDREN

The rising cost of healthcare should be alarming for Americans. The most cost-effective way to reduce health-care expenditures is prevention.

Since lifestyle choices and inactivity increase the risk of disease and disorders, prevention is one method of decreasing long-term, health-care costs.

Exposure time to a risk factor is important in determining risk. With a quarter of our adolescents suffering from hypertension or obesity, being sedentary, or having elevated cholesterol and a family history for cardiovascular disease, future generations may continue skyrocketing healthcare costs.

Risk factors in adolescents could be reduced through better health and physical education curriculum. However, the trend in the United States is to reduce or eliminate health and physical education to save money. Most elementary students in the United States receive less than two hours of physical education a week.

The increase in the number of two-income households and the increase in crimes against children have reduced the unsupervised and supervised physical activities of children. Taking precautions for our children, and the reduction of physical education requirements, complicates efforts to keep kids healthy.

Children tend to eat a lot of "junk food"—candy, desserts and fast food—which is fine occasionally, but shouldn't make up the child's diet on a regular basis. Poor diet, coupled with inactivity, sends a message to children that not exercising, and eating sweets and foods high in fat and low in nutrition, is OK.

While many children may not be overweight because of high metabolic rates, diets which lack a balance of fruits, vegetables, grains and protein can catch up to them.

If everyone wants to order a pizza and stay home to watch a video one night, why not make a healthful salad of lettuce, tomatoes, green and red peppers, cucumbers, carrots, onions, broccoli and mushrooms topped with a low-calorie dressing to go along with the pizza? Families can also learn to do things together—such as ride bikes, take walks, hike, and work outside in the spring and summer. Children who have parents who care about what they eat, and about being physically fit, will most likely follow suit. It is estimated that when the father exercises, the likelihood of the child being fit is 50 percent, and when the mother exercises, the likelihood of the child being fit is 80 percent.

America is at a critical point in the reduction of health-care costs. The long-term reduction of health-care costs and improved quality of day-to-day living can be achieved by focusing on teaching—and showing—our children how to be healthy.

Tip of the Week: The chance of dying immediately after a heart attack is three times greater in physically inactive people than in active people.

Christopher G. Fleming is the Project Health Coordinator at Prestonsburg Community College. He has a bachelor's degree in Health and Physical Education, a master's degree in Education, and a Master's plus Thirty with emphasis in Exercise Science. Fleming is also a certified American College of Sports Medicine Health Fitness Instructor.

Sunshine lines for senior citizens

Senior citizens, every week many articles and newsletters dealing with issues regarding senior citizens and poor people of all ages cross my desk. Part of my job is to keep abreast of what is happening in government that affects people dependent on public benefits. Because of time restraints it is not possible to read everything in detail. I do try to thumb through these materials, and read things of special interest to me or to my job, before passing them on to others or filing them for future reference. Sometimes a picture, a header, or a thought-provoking question will capture my attention. That's what happened last week as I paged through one newsletter designed especially for senior citizens.

The header read, "Taking Charge: Healthy Living Tips." Two square boxes with big, bold check marks further intrigued me, causing me to want to read this particular article. Basically, the article was a checklist of 16 questions for adults over 50 to help them assess their current state of health. It was interesting.

The very first question has been nagging at me since I read it. That question was: "Do you eat five or more fruits and vegetables a day on average?" My senior citizen friend, how would you answer that?

I know that I do not eat five or more fruits and vegetables a day on the average. Even when I take into consideration those pre-packaged frozen mixed vegetables, I don't. Once this week my husband and I did have a medley consisting of broccoli, carrots, and cauliflower. (Perhaps that would count as three vegetables for that day.) So far as fruits go, except for bananas, we seldom buy any. Maybe, and I think I will be stretching it, but maybe we have canned fruit twice a month. I am especially fond of many fruits, but unless I can get them at a reasonable price—like when cantaloupes are in season—I seldom buy them. And fresh vegetables, unless they are in season, can be very costly.

Think about the cost of tomatoes (scientifically a fruit but most households consider them a vegetable) from late fall through late summer. And the cost of a head of lettuce in the winter. (I recall once last winter we had invited people over for tacos. When I picked up the necessary food products the lettuce was $1.99 a head.) Believe me, those were the last two heads of lettuce I bought for a long time. Frozen fruits, in my opinion, or should I say budget—are out-of-the-question. And frozen vegetables, ounce-for-ounce in comparison to the cost of fresh vegetables in season, are no bargain. Still we all must eat—something!

People like Carol Napier, your Benefits Counseling Coordinator; Den Hunter, your outstanding volunteer who works free on your behalf, and others like them, including myself, who are intimately involved in the lives of our senior citizens and poor people in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin, and Pike counties, know what many of you eat or do not eat because you've told us—and because we've seen into some of your empty refrigerators and pantries. We know that many, many of you do not have adequate food to eat. We know that you are forced to buy the cheap foods to sustain you because you can't afford to buy fruits and vegetables so that you can eat properly—five or more a day—to stay healthy.

I encourage every deserving senior citizen who qualifies to get on the Food Stamp program. Carol Napier, a Paralegal and your Kentucky Benefits Counseling Coordinator, will be able to give you information about the Food Stamp program, it's guidelines, where to apply and how to apply. If you have had difficulty with the Food Stamp assistance program you will certainly want to contact her. As a Paralegal, if you qualify but have been denied, she can help you work through any red tape or roadblocks that you have encountered. Also, for those who must have food now, contact Carol at 886-3876 or toll-free at 1-800-556-3876. She may be able to find a source to help you if you are in an emergency situation.

CHEESE CASSEROLE

1 pound ground beef
1/2 cup chopped onion
2 8-ounce cans tomato sauce
1 teaspoon sugar
3/4 teaspoon salt

PEPPER STEAK (STEAK AU POIVRE)

4 beef top loin steaks, cut 1 inch thick (about 2 1/4 pounds)
2 to 4 teaspoons crushed black peppercorns
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
Salt
1/4 cup chopped green onions or shallots
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/3 cup water
1 teaspoon beef-flavor instant bouillon
3 tablespoons brandy

In a 12-inch skillet, melt the first 2 tablespoons of butter. Cook steaks over medium-high heat to desired doneness, turning once. Allow 11 to 12 minutes total cooking time for medium doneness. Season steaks on both sides with a little salt. Transfer steaks to hot serving platter; keep hot. This will cook steaks a little bit more, so you may want to adjust cooking time in skillet.

In same skillet, cook green onions in 2 tablespoons butter, about 1 minute or until tender but not brown. Add water and bouillon; boil rapidly over high heat for 1 minute, scraping up browned bits from pan. Stir in brandy; cook for 1 minute more. Pour mixture over steaks.

Preheat oven to 325°F. Heat whipping cream and semisweet chocolate over low heat until chocolate melts, stirring constantly. Cool 10 minutes. Beat cream cheese and sugar until smooth. Sassafras Trail (Continued from C 1)

The airplane company put them in various hotels to spend the night. Why didn't Maxwell call it quits and return to Wales? "I came that far. I thought 'this time it has to work.'" It did and Maxwell made his way to Eastern Kentucky.

Around the bend from where Maxwell worked on the trail, Ray Hakala, 66, continually swung his mattock. In 1993, Hakala had a triple bypass. Nine months after the bypass, he worked as a volunteer on a trail. This is his seventh trip with the American Hiking Society.

Near where Hakala worked, Joe Shute, also 66, heaved a heavy log onto his shoulders and carried it a short distance to form a base for the trail. Hakala had two attacks two years ago. Nine months ago, he failed a stress test. A sonogram showed that his left ventricle was closed again, but that the right side of his heart had taken over what was left of his heart. Doctors told Shute that if he had a heart attack while he was working on the trails, he could probably survive to get out to get help.

"I don't want to die in the woods," Hakala said, looking at the sky peeking through the leaves overhead. "But it couldn't be a nicer place to die."

Hakala has been a member of the hiking society since its beginnings. He was part of a group that blazed a trail through 13 states. The group spent 410 days creating the trail and the American Discovery trail was the fruit of their effort.

Charles Craine, another retiree in the group, is on his second trip. Craine, who retired from the Air Force and is five years away from retirement with the FAA, said he worked on the trail to try out new things.

"So far, I like it," Craine said.

Park Naturalist Ron Vanover also worked daily on the trail as his schedule allowed. He said he was proud of what the group had accomplished.

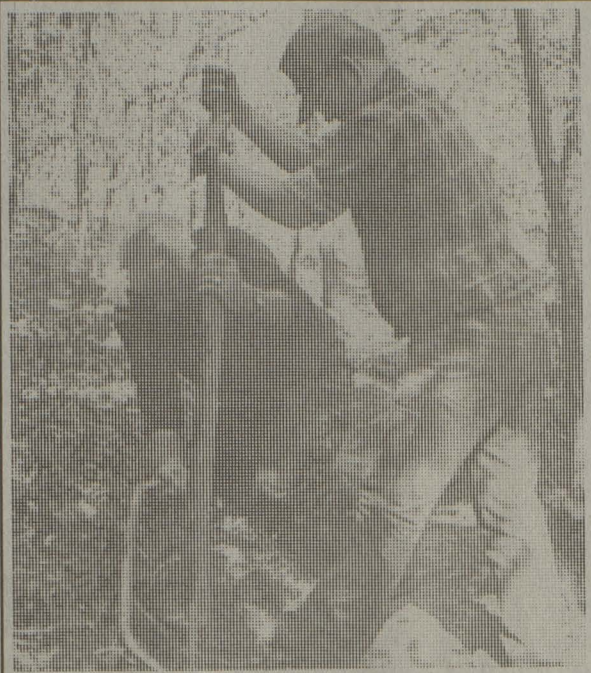

After their efforts, the nine trailblazers named the completed trail the "Sassafras Trail."

"They smelled sassafras all the way while they were building the trail. A lot of the roots would smell like sassafras," Vanover said.

Most members of the group were strangers to each other, but after a week of sweating side by side as they pried rocks out of the ground, pulled up roots, and dug into a hillside, they formed friendships they won't be able to forget.

They plan to hold a reunion next year, either at Jenny Wiley State Park or at the Benner's bed and breakfast home in Louisville.

Uplifting experience

Charles Craine and Joe Shute combined efforts to remove a sapling that hindered progress on the building of the trail.

Mining community alerted of danger

Underground coal mine operators need to evaluate their mine sites to determine the potential for water outbursts from abandoned workings, the Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) has informed the mining community. The warning was prompted by such a "blowout" from an abandoned mine that claimed the life of a Buchanan County, Virginia, woman this May.

In a program information bulletin distributed to underground mine operators and other interested parties, MSHA noted that the mining industry has long recognized that abandoned mines must be sealed in such a way as to assure that any water buildup in the abandoned works will be safely contained.

In some circumstances, the agency noted, even if enough coal is left in place along the outcrop, strata directly above the coal may be too weak to contain the water buildup.

According to MSHA's report of the May accident, some 60 feet of material separated the abandoned mine workings from the surface at the point of outburst; however, only 12 to 15 feet of this material was sedimentary formations, with the remaining material being soil and loose rock.

MSHA's program information bulletin reviews current standards for abandoned mine sealing. The agency also noted that the Interior Department's Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement (OSM), along with state agencies, is currently evaluating methods of determining the size of the outcrop barrier and recommended practices may change.

The water outburst at the Jewell Smokeless Coal Corporation No. 18 mine near Whitewood, on May 13, 1995, occurred through a weak layer of weathered shale above the coal bed where the coal cropped out on a hillside.

The outburst of hundreds of thousands of gallons of water struck a private residence, causing the death of Tammie Keene Givens, 26.

Copies of MSHA's Program Information Bulletin No. P95-24, "Blowouts of Impounded Water From Abandoned Underground Mines," may be obtained from the agency's Coal Mine Safety and Health office at (703) 235-1140.

Addington Resources completes sale of coal mining and citrus operations

Addington Resources Inc. has completed the sale of its coal mining, mining technology and citrus operations to Larry Addington, Bruce Addington and Robert Addington.

The company received $30,000,000, in addition to $4,000,000 in cash payments from BHP Australia Coal Pty. Ltd. under the company's previously announced technology sale. The company expects to receive an additional $3,000,000 from that sale. The royalty to be received from coal delivered by Tennessee Mining Inc. could be as much as $12,580,652 which is an increase from the previously announced $12,000,000 maximum.

As expected, the company completed the sale of its citrus operations in exchange for 1,000,000 shares of the company's common stock.

The company also announced it will sell its Addwest Minerals gold and industrial minerals operations to a private Canadian business group for $5,600,000.

Telephone directories on the way

A wealth of information and conveniences are just one touch away from Kentuckians thanks to South Central Bell's telecommunications network.

That's the message of this year's directory cover art, which will appear on the South Central Bell directories being delivered to your home or business beginning November 19.

In all, about 1.5 million directories will be delivered to homes and businesses throughout the state.

Just inside the directory cover there's a lot more than just listings. The Emergency Page is a quick conference to fire, police and medical emergency numbers. And the Customer Guide offers all kinds of helpful information—from area codes to how to do business with the telephone company.

You may also notice that some listings have an individual look. That's because South Central Bell offers customers designer listings—a chance to set their listing apart from the rest by using a variety of type.

Home customers who don't receive a directory by December 11th, should call South Central Bell at 557-6500; business customers call 557-6000. There is no charge for calling either number.

MANAGING ASSETS AT MID-LIFE:

Contributed by: Lance E. Schultz

As your retirement assets increase in your preretirement years, properly managing those investments to meet your goals becomes more crucial and more complex:

*Reassess your retirement/financial plans and strategies to be sure you have the right investment mix for today's investment climate. Do you have the growth potential you need at the level of risk you are comfortable assuming?

*Make a serious commitment to increase the amount you invest in your retirement program, particularly if you have completed most of your major purchases and financial obligations, such as educating your children.

*At this state of life, many people realize that even after contributing the maximum they can to IRAs, 401(k) plans, and other retirement accounts, they still are not saving enough to secure their future. Annuities and life insurance can be excellent ways of adding to your retirement assets. For example, annuities grow tax deferred so that you have significantly more dollars available to you at retirement. And, once you retire, annuities can provide you with income for a given number of years or for the rest of your life—no matter how long you live.

*As you are probably in your peak earning years, tax savings may be a key goal. Consider tax-free municipal bonds and tax advantaged bonds and bills from the United States Treasury, which may provide you with a higher take-home yield than the after-tax yield on taxable investments.

*Make your retirement dollars work as hard as possible. Consolidate your IRA and other retirement assets in one place to keep a clear picture of how your assets are allocated and performing.

*If you are a business owner, consider establishing and funding a retirement plan. This is critical for your own and for your employees' financial future. A well-designed and managed retirement plan will help you attract and retain qualified employees by assisting them in preparing for their retirement and also provide you as the employer with valuable tax benefits.
