Teaberry man charged with first degree rape

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A preliminary hearing is set for Wednesday for a Teaberry man charged with first degree rape.

Jimmy D. Tackett Jr., 26, of Tinker Fork, was arrested Tuesday by Kentucky State Police detective Leslie Gannon for allegedly raping a woman on September 30.

Tackett was arraigned Wednesday in Floyd District Court before Judge James Allen and placed under a $25,000 cash bond.

Tackett remains lodged in the Floyd County Jail.

Guilty plea entered to reduced charge

by Alisa Goodwill
Staff Writer

A Floyd County man pleaded guilty to sexual abuse charges Wednesday morning in Floyd County Circuit Court.

Bill Powers, 65, of Auxier, pleaded guilty to six counts of sexual abuse first degree charges involving juveniles from 1986 to 1993.

Powers was originally charged with six counts of unlawful transaction with a minor but the charges were amended in exchange for the guilty plea.

"After talking to the victims, I feel we've reached a sentence that is fair without the ordeal of a trial," assistant commonwealth attorney Dwight Stacy Marshall said.

Input sparse at search session

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Only one parent not on the screening committee looking for a new superintendent came to a public hearing Tuesday evening.

The forum was conducted by Ed Ball of the Kentucky School Board Association and was held to solicit community input for the selection process.

Two other parents, both on the search committee, were also at the hearing.

"What type of qualities do you think a new superintendent needs to possess?" Ball asked of the 20 or so people gathered at Adams Middle

He said he didn't want to look at the negative things of the past, but what can be positive in the future.

"The superintendent needs to be accessible," Dickie Jarvis, a parent, said. "He needs to be able to communicate with the public and we need someone with a strong financial background."

"Communication is exactly what we need," Sherry Ratliff, another parent and a member of the search committee, added. "We need someone who will listen to the employees, the parents, and the students."

Paul Tackett, principal at Osborne Elementary and a member of the search committee, said the superintendent should be someone who knows the situation — especially the financial problems — of the district.

"This needs to be a person who doesn't care to make people mad," Tackett said. "He or she needs to be able to cut where it needs to be cut and put the money where it needs to be and to do it in a diplomatic way."

Bernardo "Gene" Maldonado, another search committee member and a parent, said the district has come a long way, "but I still believe we've got a long way to go."

Red ink draws eyes of state, local boards

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

In an effort to cut spending and reduce its deficit, the Floyd County Board of Education Monday night looked at possible cuts of more than $250,000.

While the cuts would be applied to the fiscal 1997 budget, they still will not be enough to bring expenditures under revenues, something that's required by state law.

The tentative working budget still shows a deficit of about half a million dollars, according to Ed Allen, interim superintendent.

"It happened on our watch. I guess we have to fix it," board chairman Ray Brackett said.

"We allowed it to happen," Phyllis Honshell, another board member, said.

The school district is $800,000 in the red and is having trouble balancing its books from last year. The district's financial problems were discussed Wednesday by the state school board.

The deficit is attributed to a pay raise to employees the district could not afford.

Other problems stem from the board trying to use leftover construction money to balance last year's budget in a way not permitted under state law.

The state took over the Floyd County school district in the late 1980s because of "academic bankruptcy." Charges were brought by former Education Commissioner Thomas Boysen against the superintendent and two county school board members.

The state backed off and agreed to quarterly — rather than monthly checks — after the district met requirements, but by May, the financial problems had again attracted the state's attention.

Allen presented the proposed cuts at a budget workshop Monday night.

The largest cuts will come to the writing budget. More than $51,000 has been cut from the proposed $83,800 budget for that program. The largest cut will be the elimination of a language arts assistant position at a cost of $23,000.

The forensics budget will be cut

Former county official dies in Tennessee

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

A former Floyd County official died October 4 in Nashville, Tennessee.

Former Floyd County Attorney Robert S. Wellman, 71, died at his home in Nashville where he had resided since the 1960s.

Wellman served one term as county attorney in the late 1950s. In his bid to retain his office, he was defeated by Hollie Conley, who later became a judge in Floyd County Circuit Court.

Before his election to the county attorney's post, Wellman was a practicing lawyer in Prestonsburg. He obtained his law degree from the University of Kentucky after a stint in the military. A sergeant in the U.S. Army, Wellman participated in the Battle of the Bulge during

State workers began moving equipment and files from the Floyd County Child Support Enforcement office on Thursday. Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond said the workers were taking the items to the Pike County Attorney's Office. ## Prognosis for new health department is promising

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

A drive to build a new health department in Floyd County is gathering steam.

The health department board, at its meeting September 12, hired Randy Burchett to draw up plans for the new building.

"We've probably been talking about a new building for a year," Carol Holbrook, health department administrator, said. "Now it looks like we're actually going to get the ball rolling."

A steering committee — made up of community members, health department employees, and health board members — have been doing a lot of the early work on the project, which will help cut down the amount of time it will take for the department to actually be in the new building.

"We've looked at the timelines and after the architect is hired, the design is approved and we've let out bids, construction is only going to take a few short months," Holbrook said.

She said she is anticipating being in the new building within two years.

"We've had a resource committee for two and a half or three years and we've told them what our dreams are and what our needs are and what the needs of the community are and they are helping us design the building," she said.

And Burchett is expected to be a big help. "He sat in on a few of our meetings and has taken lots of notes and visited several health departments that we like," she added.

While a specific design hasn't been determined, Holbrook said her staff likes portions of Pike County's building as well as those in Franklin and Madison counties.

She said one of the major needs for a new building is traffic flow and not having people "crisscrossing."

"We've sketched out different patterns, but the number one concern is better patient care," Holbrook said.

At the current health department on First Street, the waiting room is often crowded and while attempts at improving patient confidentiality are made, it isn't always possible.

"We have those sound proof walls between cubicles (where patients give financial and other information), but they aren't perfect," she said. "And on days when we have regional clinics, we are on

Compromise reached in water service issue

by Alisa Goodwill
Staff writer

The battle for water at Frasure's Creek ended Wednesday afternoon with a helping hand from the county.

Beaver Elkhorn Water District approved a recommendation from Judge-Executive Bob Meyer for alternate financing for the Frasure's Creek project during a special meeting Wednesday.

Part of the proposed funding would be provided by Jerry Kanney, a Pikeville CPA, and with new customers paying the regular $450 tap on fee. Other costs would be covered by the county, which will provide 6" and 4" pipe and will use District 3 road crew for labor.

"This proposal allows us to service the people," Homer Hall, chairman said. "With cooperation from everyone we can solve this problem."

The overall cost of the project is $34,418 which includes pipes, valves and fittings for the main line, meters, meter boxes and saddles.

Kanney has agreed to contribute

$18,000 to be applied to the total cost of extending the mains up to and on his property. This is not an advance payment for future water tap on fees, which means as homes are built and sold on his subdivision, individual home owners will be responsible for paying the normal $450 tap fee to the water commission.

Another $18,000 is estimated to be brought in if 40 of the 55 possible new customers on Frasure's Creek sign up for water service and pay the tap-on fee.

"This is a reasonable resolution and it accomplishes the need for water at Frasure's Creek," Kanney said. "It is nice to see the problem resolved."

Not all of Frasure's Creek will receive water from this project. New lines will only service the area from the current point on Frasure's Creek that has water up to and including Kanney's property. However, expansion of the water line beyond Kanney's property can take place when more money is available.

Construction on the project will begin sometime this month.

Deficit

$31,825, down from a preliminary $72,525. A language arts assistant position is being eliminated from that program as well.

The elementary academic team budget could be eliminated completely, a decrease of $36,650.

- Other proposed cuts include:
- Talented and gifted budget, cut $34,230.
- Special education budget, cut $25,200.
- Technology budget, cut $20,000.
- Professional development budget, cut $15,000.
- Mathematics budget, cut $12,945.
- Assessment budget, cut $7,125.
- Grant programs budget, cut $4,500.
- Elementary resource teacher budget, cut $3,000.

The cuts were made on proposed budgets for each area.

In many areas, the cuts are for training or travel costs. Equipment purchases have also been cut down.

Board members were also interested in looking at allocations of teacher days.

One of the allocations that may come under fire is the number of days principals, assistant principals, guidance counselors and librarians are in the schools before and after students. For example, elementary school principals usually receive 55 extra days, which allows them to work throughout the summer.

"We need to decide if we can afford those ratios," Allen said.

Cutting extracurricular assignments for teachers is also an option, according to Dr. Brent Clark, board member. He was warned by the school board attorney, Phil Damron, that he could not cut those positions for this school year.

"We already have 12 lawsuits on that issue," he said. "When you take extended days away, that's considered a demotion. You can't fire someone at this time of the year."

"I believe we're fairly close to being in compliance, but there's some places we are over," Allen said.

Clark questioned the size of classes, but learned that the county is following the state capacity rates (CAP) for all grade levels. Classroom sizes cannot be increased.

Some classes are over the capacity, but aides have been added to those classrooms to bring them into state compliance.

"We need to monitor those units and when the CAP goes down, we need to pull those aides," Clark said.

There are nine aides in classrooms now, Allen said.

Allen said he understands the board's desire not to "go back to 1989-90, but somehow we've got to do a better job of matching what we want to do with what we've got the money to do."

Allen presented figures that show the district's expenditures have increased by nearly $20 million since the fiscal 1990 budget. And that increase has come at a time when enrollment figures have decreased by more than 700 students while the number of personnel — certified and classified — has increased by 274.

"A lot of that increase is mandated by the state," Allen said citing the new preschool program, increased kindergarten attendance, lower CAP sizes, and additional programs.

"You don't have the same program you had then. You probably have a better program, but it's a matter of what you can afford," Allen said.

The biggest increase occurred between the fiscal 1990 and fiscal 1991 budget when expenditures rose $5,417,952. "That's the year the education reform took effect and the money started coming in," Allen explained. He said there was also a tax increase that year.

Expenditures increased by nearly $5 million the next year, but only increased by $1.5 million and $1.6 million the next two years respectively.

Allen attributed the decreases in expenditures to low average daily attendance figures in fiscal 1991 and fiscal 1992 and fewer state dollars because of it.

"We need to get attendance up to generate more state dollars, but that's not the only reason we want kids in school," he said. "If they are in school we can assume they are learning something."

Expenditures between the fiscal 1994 and fiscal 1995 budget jumped by $4.8 million.

"We can certainly do better than we have been," Allen said.

A handshake and a plaque

Floyd County attorney Gerald Derossett, who heads the Floyd County Bar Association, presented Frank Carlton, retiring pro bono coordinator for Appalred, with a plaque for his dedication to the pro bono program.

Carlton retires as Appalred pro bono attorney coordinator

Frank Carlton, former pro bono coordinator for Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky (Appalred), was honored at a luncheon on August 31 sponsored by the Floyd County Bar Association.

Carlton was Appalred's first pro bono coordinator and helped expand the Volunteer Lawyers for Appalachian Kentucky, which now has 300 attorneys in the 37-county service area for Appalred. The volunteer attorneys handle from one to three cases per year for indigent clients without charge.

During the first year of the program, Appalred referred about 70 cases to the volunteer attorneys. This year Appalred expects to refer about 300 cases to pro bono attorneys.

The Floyd County Bar Association was the first bar association with which a significant number of attorneys volunteered and the program expanded from Floyd County, John Rosenberg, Appalred attorney, said recently.

Carlton retired from his post as pro bono coordinator at the end of the last month. On September 1, Beverly Carrol replaced Carlton as Appalred's new pro bono coordinator.

Carlton was honored at luncheons throughout the month of August from various pro bono coordinators and Appalred directing attorneys in the state.

Carlton and his wife Nancy, a retired teacher, will continue to live in Pikeville and will be involved in volunteer activities. The couple plan to tour Italy this month.

Search

He recommended that site-based councils, along with their principals, meet with the superintendent on a regular basis. "The superintendent needs to take parent representatives more seriously," he said.

Phyllis Honshell, a board of education member sitting in on the meeting and a member of the search committee, said she would like to see more students involved in the process and suggested a survey process to accomplish that goal.

"We sell students short. We don't consult them to find out what their ideas, what their opinions are," she said.

And Jennifer Martin, the district's health coordinator, said she would like to see a superintendent who understands the health needs of students.

"That person should be interested in health services and be knowledgeable of the health problems we have to deal with," she said. "And most of all, that person should always have an open door."

Ball said the first screening of applications should begin in mid-November. Two additional screenings will follow with the list narrowed down to five or six by December first. He said he is hoping the board can make a decision by December 15 and that person can be in place when Ed Allen, interim superintendent, leaves in January.

Child abuse hotline

Floyd County Judge/Executive Bob Meyer and Child Abuse Task Force Chairman Peter O. Samples moved a new bench into the Floyd County Courthouse. The bench bears an 800 hotline number which people can call for information on how to prevent or report child abuse.

New courthouse bench could help children escape abuse

A new bench placed in the Floyd County Courthouse bears an 800 hotline number which may be called to seek information on how to help prevent or report child abuse.

The back of the bench reads, "Help Prevent Child Abuse," and gives the 800 number of a child abuse hotline.

The benches are being placed in county courthouses throughout the Commonwealth by the Kentucky Multi-County Task Forces on Child Abuse as part of its statewide crime prevention program called "Bench Child Abuse."

According to the Task Force and statistics from the Kentucky Department of Social Services, there were 447 cases of reported child abuse in Floyd County in 1994 involving 764 children. One hundred six of the reported cases were substantiated involving 166 children. Thirteen cases were substantiated of children as having been sexually molested. Peter O. Samples, president and state chairman of the statewide task force said the problem of child abuse may never go away, but he and other volunteers will continue giving their time and money to try to help prevent it. "If we can help one child escape the suffering of abuse, it will be well worth it," Samples said. Samples founded the organization in 1985 through funds from the Child Victim's Trust Fund and the Child's Advocacy Division of the Attorney General's Office. Samples worked with the assistance of then Attorney General David L. Armstrong to develop the task force concept to prevent child abuse. The task force attempts to create local chapters to assist the statewide organization in carrying out its various child abuse prevention projects.

Highlands Regional may get new MRI equipment

Highlands Regional Medical Center has asked the Kentucky Health Policy Board to approve its plan to establish a fixed Magnetic Resonance Imaging Service (MRI) that is estimated to cost more than $1 million.

Currently, the medical center has the use of MRI equipment for two days each week. Physicians supporting the project said they had encountered conflicts in scheduling due to the limited time available for MRI service and they thought their patients were traveling out of the area to obtain the service, Scott Richardson, development coordinator, said Thursday.

The MRI equipment is transported to the Highlands Medical Center from Pittsburgh in a semi-trailer. The equipment stays in the trailer and patients are taken through an enclosed air-lock outside the hospital and into the vehicle for testing.

Having a permanent site for the equipment will allow the staff to better serve the patients, Addington said. Currently, scheduling runs as late as 8 p.m. Having the equipment available five days per week would allow the staff to spread the work load, he said.

Locating the equipment permanently at the hospital would also mean that at least two new employees would be added to the staff.

MRI allows physicians to get a more detailed look at organs than regular x-rays, Richardson said. Ken Addington, technology director of Radiology, added that MRI is considered the most exciting diagnostic advance of the century.

"Magnetic Resonance Imaging is a diagnostic technology which uses magnetic field, radio waves, and hydrogen atoms in the body's own cells to produce anatomical images," he explained.

Addington said that MRI complements other diagnostic tools, such as x-rays, CAT scans, and ultrasounds and aids in diagnosing tumors, infections, some heart diseases, and herniated discs. MRI is also a valuable aid to sports medicine, he added.

Capital expenditure is estimated at $1,638,000, according to the certificate of need request.

Requests for hearings regarding the certificate of need should be submitted in writing to Jack B. Hall, chairman, Kentucky Health Policy Board, Certificate of Need Office, 275 East Main Street, Frankfort, KY 40621. Deadline for requesting a hearing is October 6.

Newsome wins new Chevy truck

Gregory P. Newsome has a real case of road fever. The 23-year-old coal truck driver spent the holiday weekend driving his friends around in his new Chevy S-10 pickup.

Newsome, of Deadening Fork on Little Creek in Pike County, won the truck at Fletcher and Halls Friday, September 1, at the finale of their Road Fever Frenzy promotion.

Friday evening's festivities began about 6 p.m. and about 100 preliminary prizes were awarded to people in the crowd. Immediately after Johnny Adkins was selected as the last finalist, each of the finalists sealed a small envelope containing his or her name and dropped it into a basket. A little girl from the crowd drew one of the envelopes from the basket and everyone waited breathlessly until Mike Hunt, sales manager at Fletcher and Halls, announced the winner's name.

Though obviously excited, Newsome remained cool and calm when his name was announced. The crowd applauded when he accepted the keys and then drove his new Chevy S-10 down from the display platform. "I've never won anything before in my life," Newsome said. "I still can't believe I won it."

Physicians, heal thy selves

by Scott Perry

After nearly fifteen years of state attention, intervention and even some attempts at reinvention, Floyd County schools are, once again, finding themselves accused of contravention.

The latest transgression, saith the state, is financial mismanagement that could lead the local system into an $800,000 hole by year's end and that, saith the law books, is not legal.

Certainly this latest episode in the never ending story of our school system's problems merits our attention, and school managers need to explain themselves to taxpayers and parents.

But school administrators and board members aren't alone in their guilt.

What of these people from Frankfort and their on-and-off attempts over a decade and a half to fix what ails the Floyd County school system?

The state Department of Education has been watching and working on the Floyd County system all these years with substandard results, and they must shoulder some of the responsibility for the lack of progress here.

Perhaps these physicians need to heal themselves before operating once again on us.

Hey, this deficit debacle developed right under their supervisory noses.

The state has been monitoring this district for at least two years, making us wonder now if maybe the guardians of education haven't been sleeping during class.

Sorry, but we just can't seem to get too enthused about tough talk and strong signals from Frankfort.

They're sounding too much like a broken record...one that they helped break.

Get real or get lost.

We can't afford to leave another generation of our students in the waiting room.

Cutting funding for education will slash the American Dream

Editor:

As students, teachers, and administrators return to schools all over the country, I want to remind you of a critical battle that will take place this fall in Washington over the issue of education. To put it bluntly, our educators, students, and parents need to be aware that our nation's investments in education — in our children's future — are under direct attack by the Republican majority in the House.

The President is firmly committed to a comprehensive economic policy based on balancing the budget, reducing trade barriers worldwide, and creating jobs here at home. But he is convinced that to strengthen families, expand our economy, and raise the living standards for the American people, nothing is more critical to our nation's future than ensuring that all Americans have the education and skills they need.

Education has become the fundamental fault-line in the standard of living for American families. Many Americans have seen their incomes stagnate over the last 15 years; the real income of the typical family has actually declined. Yet those with the most education and training have bucked the trend. Today, the typical college graduate earns 74 percent more than a worker with only a high school degree. Studies also show that for every year of training a person gets after high school, his or her earnings rise by 6 to 12 percent. Education is the key to growth in our economy, in wages, and in our standard of living.

To allow individuals to make the most of their lives, and to provide every American the chance to realize the American Dream, the President has been fighting for better education and training, by investing in Head Start and Safe and Drug-Free Schools, by providing resources to train teachers and raise school standards, and by improving the student loan program.

During the last Congress, Republicans and Democrats together enacted a historic series of initiatives to assist families, communities, schools and colleges to expand educational opportunity in America.

President Clinton has proposed to balance the budget over the next ten years. He would do so by cutting wasteful spending, streamlining programs, and ending unneeded subsidies. Yet he would preserve and increase investment in education by $40 billion over the next seven years; protect Medicaid, Medicare and the environment; and provide for a targeted tax cut that would help middle-income Americans raise their children, save for the future and pay for post-secondary education.

By contrast, there are proposals in Congress threatening to cut $36 billion from education and training to help them balance the budget in seven years and provide a huge tax cut to those who need it least. They have proposed: slashing investments in Head Start; abolishing the Goals 2000 school reforms; cutting crucial assistance to students from disadvantaged backgrounds; abolishing the Technology Learning Challenge, which leverages private money for technology in schools and communities; cutting funding for apprenticeship training in half; abolishing AmeriCorps — the heart of the President's National Service program; raising students' costs of loans by $10 billion over seven years; halting progress on the President's Direct Lending program; and denying Pell Grants to 360,000 students in 1996 alone.

These latter cuts would be particularly devastating for access to post-secondary education and training.

By slashing grants and loans, we would turn back the clock on recent successes in expanding access, forcing some students to drop out and denying others the opportunity to begin their education. To achieve the level of savings they are proposing, Congress would have to raise the costs of college education by as much as $3,100 for undergraduates and as much as $9,400 for graduate students. They would not only eliminate any interest subsidy for graduate and professional students, but also hit college students with substantially higher fees — for example, eliminating the six-month grace period for interest after college or raising the origination fee that every student must pay to obtain their loans. There are also proposals to reduce and possibly eliminate the Direct Lending Program, preventing more schools from participating in this initiative, which is already saving taxpayers $6.8 billion, lowering interest rates for students, and allowing borrowers to choose flexible repayment arrangements.

I firmly believe that the American people want to balance the budget and continue to increase investments in education. The President has shown that it is possible. Nevertheless, there are those in Congress who are determined to go forward with these extreme cuts. The debate over this issue will be one of the most significant in the coming months, if not years. The future of this great nation is at stake.

Health

top of each other."

There is a regional neurology clinic that comes to the health department six times a year and a heart clinic once a year. "When the regional neurology clinic comes in, they take over the top floor and we try to see patients downstairs," she says. "We want to create an area where they can come in and do what they need to do without interfering with our operations."

The health department has about 6,558 square feet and includes the home health offices. The new building is projected to have about 25,000 square feet and is based on the number of patients the department sees each year.

About 125 patients are served at the health department each day and more than 80,000 services are rendered each year, according to department records.

The staff numbers 82 people, including nurses, clerical staff, home health, and the WAIVER program.

No one is turned away because of a lack of ability to pay. The health department will charge Medicare or an individual's insurance. If they have neither, a charge will be assessed. "But if they can't pay us, we will still service them," Holbrook said. "We've had people paying $5 a month until they've paid a bill off."

No location has been determined for the new building yet. Holbrook said a search committee is looking for sites, but a single one hasn't been picked. "We know we want accessible parking," she said.

The funding for the new building will come through a variety of sources. Grants and loans will be considered. The current facility is expected to be sold and has been assessed at about $340,000. Taxes, however, will not be increased if there is any way around it.

The board voted at the September 12 meeting not to raise taxes for this year. The rate was set at four cents per $100 of assessed property on real estate and motor vehicles.

"If you raise taxes again, you can kiss your new building good bye."

The people of Floyd County will hang you," board member John Hill said at that meeting.

"As long as we're able to keep the doors open, we don't want to raise those taxes," Holbrook said.

Health reform and health departments should be a good mix. That's according to Carol Holbrook, administrator for the Floyd County Health Department.

She said she'd like to see health departments play a bigger role when health care reform actually takes effect.

"The big thing in reform is expected to be prevention," she said. "That's what we've been stressing all along."

Holbrook has been in public health for more than 20 years. "That's been our ball game all the years we've been in the game," she said.

The health department has a nutritionist on staff and health education is available for the asking. She said there is a cardiovascular program at the health department that is "so under used it isn't even funny."

"We have education for pregnant women." She said one of the biggest problem areas for health care administrators is pregnant teens.

"We're not talking about the 13 to 15-year-olds," Holbrook said. "We're talking about the older teens, the married teens, the ones who have decided to have these babies, but don't know where to go for help."

She said increasing information to these women, and other community members, will be the big priority of health reform. "I'd love to see that we are keeping healthy and keeping well."

And reaching out into the businesses, the industries should be a big push for the future.

"We have smoking cessation classes. We have blood-borne pathogens classes," she said. "I'd like to challenge local industries to use us for more than flu shots for their employees."

The new building Holbrook is hoping to build will include a conference room that will allow educational programs.

Jenny Wiley was an heroic pioneer mother, captured by Indians on October 1, 1789, at Walker's Creek, Virginia. She witnessed the slaying of her brother and five children by savages and was, herself, held captive for several months on Little Paint Creek in what is now Johnson County. She eventually escaped from the Indians and crossed the Big Sandy River at East Point to Harmon Station at Block House Bottom and was shortly thereafter united in Virginia with her husband, Thomas Wiley.

Mrs. Wiley returned to Johnson County with her husband, and they reared five children. Jenny Wiley died in October of 1831 and her body lies in a cemetery at River, Kentucky.

Webb attends clerks' academy

Prestonsburg City Clerk Sue Webb attended the 1995 Academy for Advanced Education of the Kentucky Municipal Clerks Institute, September 12-14, at the Radisson Hotel in Northern Kentucky.

Admission to the academy is restricted to those clerks and assistant clerks who are certified municipal clerks on the state level awarded by the Kentucky Municipal Clerks Association or the international level by the international Institute of Municipal Clerks.

Webb has completed three years of training, working toward the requirements of achieving the CMC/AAE designation conferred by the International Institute of Municipal Clerks.

"I feel that regular attendance at the Advanced Academy is beneficial because it keeps municipal clerks informed of current issues that affect our cities," said Webb. "Through the on-going training, we become acquainted with professionals from other governmental units who can assist us when problems arise. We gain useful information from hearing about other cities' problems and their moods of solving them."

Mayor Fannin said, "I think Sue has received a great deal of information over the past years at the Advanced Academy which, in turn, has benefited the City of Prestonsburg, because a city clerk's knowledge of current information is so essential to the functions of our municipal government and its future."

Webb is a graduate of Prestonsburg High School and Mayo State Vocational School and has been city clerk in Prestonsburg for nearly 18 years.

Edwards fortunate to be alive; controversy spreads up US 80

On July 5, 1994, Prestonsburg's Marshall Edwards was hit by a car at a dangerous intersection on the new four lane leading to Paintsville. There were many anxious moments for Edwards, who spent an hour and a half pinned in the wrecked vehicle.

As a result of the accident, he became permanently impaired. Edwards now gets around in a wheelchair.

But Edwards' story is not one of gloom and despair, even though it first appeared that way. Edwards is an inspiration in how to overcome adversity and go on with life.

"The good Lord was with me that day," he said. "He had his arms around me. I'm fortunate to be alive."

Edwards was an avid runner when he had the use of both legs and enjoyed taking part in races around the nation.

"I had a goal to have raced in all 50 states," he said. "I've ran in about 26 of them so far."

That was when he was able to run as others. Now, relegated to a wheelchair, has that changed those plans?

"I still feel that I can race in all 50 states," he said.

While most people, under similar circumstances, would sit around and feel sorry for themselves, Edwards said he realizes he still has a life to live and at age 44, he is going to enjoy it.

"I just realized that I had to get on with my life," he said.

Now, when he races, he does so from the wheelchair. He speaks of the accident as maybe not being such an unfortunate happening.

"It was an unfortunate accident, then maybe it wasn't," he said.

Edwards now has taken to the road on weekends and is racing for money. Not in a stock car. Not in a harness buggy, but in his wheelchair.

He has plans to make the Chicago circuit and then, the first of the year, travel to Houston, Texas for a 26-mile encounter.

We do not want to tell all of Edwards' story here, but in a future fea-

Allen Central looking for third in a row

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Glenn Reeves' Allen Central Rebels are riding a modest two-game winning streak and hope to extend it to three when they travel to McCreary Central tonight.

The Rebels are fresh off an emotional win over county rival Betsy Layne last Friday night. Allen Central is 3-3 overall and 3-1 in district play as they step out of the district tonight.

McCreary Central, not competing for a district title, is 1-4 on the season. They had an open date last Friday night giving them two weeks to prepare for the Rebels.

Adam Coleman is the state's fifth ranked quarterback and will guide the Rebels in the quest of win number four. A win would put the Rebels over .500 for the first time this year.

Allen Central plays host to McCreary Central tonight. Game starts at 8 p.m.

Beau Tackett is expected to play tonight after suffering an injury against Powell County two weeks ago. Tackett was in the game against Betsy Layne last week and rushed for 116 yards. His shoulder was heavily padded for the game.

Thomas Jenkins continues to be the county's top receiver with 36 receptions for 511 yards. The combination of Tackett and Jenkins had given Coleman two of the county's top receivers. But then along comes Estill Stumbo (late start in the season) and now Shane Blackburn to develop into quality receivers as well.

Tackett has totaled more than 400 yards on the ground for Allen Central in the first six games. He has scored 11 touchdowns and 74 points.

Allen Central's defensive line is much improved from the opening game this season against Elkhorn City.

The Rebel defense is led by Phillip Robinson, Levi "The Hitman" Wells and Chris L. Bailey. Craig Crace will be at one defensive end and Bailey at the other. Crace has had a super season for Allen Central. Wells could be moved to a lineback slot or see playing time at both positions. Mike Goble will play one linebacker position with Nick Halbert at a guard slot.

It has been the defense that has stood out for Allen Central over the past two games. They held Powell County to a touchdown in their 28-8 win. Last Friday night, Betsy Layne scored twice early and the defense shut them down the rest of the way. Both scores came after Allen Central turnovers.

The Rebs defense stopped the running game of Betsy Layne holding them to a season-low 71 yards rushing.

While McCreary Central is below .500, Coach Reeves' ballclub will not be taking them lightly. The Rebels want to keep the momentum going as they have a date at home next Friday night with the South Floyd Raiders in the Red, White and Blue Bowl.

Three Floyd pigskin teams should make playoffs

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

For the first ever, Floyd County could have three high school football teams competing in the state playoffs in November — if all goes true to form.

Barring any upsets in the remaining district games, Allen Central, Prestonsburg and South Floyd should have an extended season.

Betsy Layne still has an outside shot, but the Bobcats will have to pull two upsets to get to the playoffs. Betsy Layne (2-2) has remaining district games against the top two teams in the district and state-ranked teams at that.

After this week, three games remain for Betsy Layne, who will close out the regular season with back-to-back games against Whitesburg (2-0) and Breathitt County (2-0). If the Bobcats were to split the two games, they would finish 3-3. A sweep makes it a 4-2 record and two losses gives them a season-ending 2-4 mark.

Allen Central (3-1) also must face Breathitt County and Whitesburg in its two final regular season games. Should the Rebels falter in both games, the worst they can do is 3-3. Two victories gives them a 5-1 mark and first place. A split makes it a 4-2 mark and third place, or possibly a tie with Prestonsburg.

Prestonsburg has the easier road of the three teams and should finish 4-2 in the district. They face winless Morgan County and Powell County in their last two district games. Prestonsburg will close out the season with a non-district game at home against Lawrence County.

South Floyd is 3-1 in Class A, Region IV, District 2 and has a solid shot at a playoff berth and as high of a finish as third place.

Hazard (tonight) and Elkhorn are the two remaining district games to be played for the Raiders. The worst they can do is finish 3-3 and that would be good enough for fourth place.

Challenging the Raiders are the Elkhorn City Cougars, a team who's remaining games are against Phelps, Hazard and the Raiders. Elkhorn should be a favorite over Phelps and will lose to Hazard on the road. This will bring the Raiders and Cougars down to the final game, should South Floyd lose at Hazard tonight, in determining, not a playoff berth, but third place behind Pikeville and Hazard.

Jenkins, Fleming-Neon and Phelps would need to pull off some big upsets to make the playoffs, but anything is possible.

So it all looks like this:
• South Floyd needs to win one of two remaining district games for third place. If not, then the Raiders will go as the fourth seed.

• Elkhorn City needs a big win at Hazard to take third place. If the Cougars fail to win there, then the battle will be at Brackett Field the last day of the season.

• Fleming-Neon is mathematically eliminated, winless in its first four district games.

• Phelps still has playoff hopes, but must win over Elkhorn City and Hazard.

• Jenkins has a tough game coming up with first place Pikeville and that could give the Cavs a fourth loss and send them out of the picture.

• Allen Central needs double wins over Breathitt and Whitesburg for a first place tie.

• Betsy Layne ditto.

• Prestonsburg should win final two district games.

Top Ten Quarterback

SOUTH FLOYD'S NICK COMPTON is ranked tenth among the state's quarterbacks and has passed for 974 yards this season. Compton will lead the Raiders against the mighty Hazard Bulldogs tonight in a district game that Coach Donnie Daniels considers "very big." ## South Floyd's Compton wants to improve running

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

He's just a sophomore, but is ranked as one of the top ten quarterbacks in the state of Kentucky. Nick Compton (6-1, 165) is a modest football player who has nothing but praise for his teammates and is quick to give his coach, Donnie Daniels, credit for his early success.

"I've learned a lot from Coach Daniels," the Raider quarterback said. "He tells me what I'm doing wrong. He jumps on me, but not all that much. I like playing for him."

Compton's football career started in the sixth grade at Melvin when he played for what was then a combination of Melvin and Osborne football players.

"We didn't have just a separate team," he said, "but we all played together. I didn't want to play football when I was in the fifth grade. But Coach Harris, who is an assistant here now, got me started playing and he encouraged me to be a quarterback. I've always played at the quarterback position."

Compton, who started the final two games for South Floyd last year, has been behind center all season and has put up some pretty impressive numbers this year. Daniels went on record proclaiming Compton as the best sophomore quarterbacks in the state.

"And I still feel that way," Daniels said.

Compton, through six games, is just 26 yards short of 1,000 and is averaging 162 yards per outing.

But his modest personality will not let him take all the credit.

"Pete (Dawson) our center, he gives me a lot of protection in the pocket. Probably more than anyone else. But our offensive line does a great job as well.

"You have to have good receivers to be successful as a quarterback and Terrence Mullins and Aaron Hall are two good ones. Ketran (Mays) is a very good runner and receiver," Compton said.

Compton said he senses he has improved as a quarterback and is more confident when he goes on the field.

"I've got my reads down and if you're open I can probably hit you," he stated. "I have trouble being in the pocket. I don't like being in the pocket."

Compton doesn't consider himself a good option quarterback and would like to improve that part of his game.

"That's where I would like to improve," he said. "I'd like to improve my running game. Now I just stay in the pockets and hit my receivers."

With runners such as Mays and Chet McCarty, Compton would like to throw the football more. But he said he respects the decision of Daniels.

"It's more or less what Coach Daniels thinks," he said. "I really don't care as long as we win. I don't worry about how many yards I get or how many touchdowns I throw for. I just want to win."

The Raiders are 3-3 overall through six games, but stand in second place in the district with a solid shot at a playoff berth.

"I understand that we may play in the Harlan district (playoffs)," said Compton. "I don't care. I'm just happy that we made the playoffs."

The Raiders, with a win over Jenkins last Friday night, mathematically assured themselves of a spot in the state playoffs.

Compton said he enjoys good rivalry games, such as the one the Raiders played against county foe Allen Central.

"They have a very good quarterback in (Adam) Coleman," he said. "(Thomas) Jenkins is a very good receiver and player. Then they have (Beau) Tackett who can run the ball. They're a good team."

Compton said two more victories over the last four would be very gratifying, but a sweep of the four would be sweeter.

"We need to improve in all phases of our game," he said. "Defensively we need improvement. We need to play each game like it is our last."

Compton said basketball season awaits him and he will hit the weight room hard this summer in an attempt to get stronger.

"I'm going to be working real hard this winter and next summer to build up my upper body strength," he said.

In Paintsville cross-country meet Harvey second, Robertson third in men's run

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Paintsville Cross-Country meet moved from its traditional Thursday evening time to this past Wednesday and the change of dates, along with the weather, affected the number of teams and runners taking part.

Allen Central's Annie Harvey took second place, out of 24 runners, in the women's division with a time of 19:57.

Jesse Robertson placed third for the men with his time of 20:36. Coach Dewey Jamerson said Robertson, who usually finishes higher, has had problems with his side.

"He's says his side has been hurting him so we're going to get that checked out," he said. "Something is wrong."

Dreama Isaac placed 12th overall with a time of 22:35. Allen Central captured 14-16 as Pam Goble (24:07), Mary Baldrige (26:32) and Crystal Martin (26:33) finished respectively.

Barbie Samons placed 21st (29:28) and Jenny Wells 22nd (29:37).

"Jenny took five minutes off her time," Jamerson said. "That's because she had been working out."

Paintsville placed first as a team with 27 points and Allen Central was second with 59 points. South Floyd and Pikeville placed third and fourth.

Jay Harvey posted a 21:05 for the men's division and placed fifth overall. Freshman James Seward ran 24:01 for 16th position and Wade Damron finished 27th out of 40 runners with a time of 29:05.

Paintsville was the overall team winner with 37 points. South Floyd placed second with Pikeville, Allen Central and Prestonsburg rounding the top five teams.

"Jay ran close, better than his best in the meet," Jamerson said. "Overall, I don't know. It was just being at that meet. Annie runs under 20 and that's all right. Pam was close to her best time. Everyone else, it was just like their minds weren't there."

Allen Central will travel to Berea this Saturday for an invitational meet. The regionals will be held at Oneida Baptist October 28.

Signups set for roundball league

Excited Raiders take on Hazard Bulldogs tonight

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

With visions of the playoffs dancing in their heads, the South Floyd Raiders trail only Pikeville in the Class A, Region IV, District 2 standings with a 3-1 mark.

The Raiders will put that on the line at third place Hazard tonight and the Bulldogs are hungry for a shot at Coach Donnie Daniels' ballclub.

Daniels has been taking his team through some rigid practice times this week, emphasizing the importance of the game.

"We told them they could play a playoff game here at home for the first time ever if they can win at Hazard," Daniels said Coach Gary McPeak's Bulldogs are for the first time, since the new alignment, in the Raiders' district.

"I believe if we play well over there, we can pull out a win," Daniels said.

The Raiders were a 30-8 winner on the road at Jenkins last Friday night. As winners of two consecutive games, the confidence of the Raiders is at an all-time high.

A LOOK AT THE BULLDOGS

Sophomore Jeremy Grigsby will quarterback the Bulldogs.

"He is throwing well for us," McPeak said. "He doesn't throw that much, but when he does, we like to put him in a high rate of success."

Grigsby is completing 75 percent of his passes.

Five players will share playing time in the four-man backfield for Hazard. Senior Tony Cornette will run at the wing-back slot. The feature back will be fullback Mike Sims.

"Mike has been the leader for us," McPeak said. "He has been doing a great job for us wherever we play him."

Sophomore Jeremy Christian and freshman Neil Jenkins will share the tailback position. Jenkins has already rushed for more than 600 yards this season.

The Bulldog mentor said his defensive line is "playing a whole lot better than the first of the year."

"We held Cumberland to zero yards rushing last week," McPeak said. "Our defense line is playing very well right now, as well as our linebackers."

"Number 54 is our leading tackle with 54 tackles in six games," he said.

The Bulldogs will have to contain one of the state's leading quarterbacks in sophomore Nick Compton. Compton has passed for 974 yards this season for an average of 162 per contest.

Mullins has 13 receptions for 445 yards through six games. Aaron Hall, tight end, has 17 catches for 388 yards.

Mays leads the county in rushing with 688 yards on 130 carries. He's averaging 5.3 yards per carry.

Defensively, the Raiders are led by Chris Isaac and William Willard, who had an outstanding game against Jenkins last week.

The Raiders are aware of the game's importance.

Kickoff time is set for 7:30 p.m.

Covering Mullins, stopping Mays priorities for Hazard

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Tonight, the South Floyd Raiders will be heading up Highway 80 to the land of the Hazard Bulldogs in a game that could very well be the biggest game of the year for the young Raiders.

Coach Donnie Daniels' football team is in the thick of the playoffs and Hazard coach Gary McPeak isn't about to take the Raiders lightly.

"It will be a battle," he said. "They are a vastly improved football team and they are capable of beating a lot of teams."

McPeak is in his first year at Hazard, after coming from East Carter where he built a powerhouse team. But the Bulldog coach said he felt the time was right to make a move when the Hazard job came available.

"I like it here," he said. "The community supports the program as well as the school officials."

Hazard (4-2) is in third place in the district standings, trailing first place Pikeville and second place South Floyd. The Bulldogs are 2-1 in the district standings.

COACH MCPEAK SCOUTING REPORT

Wideout Terrence Mullins as well as Ketrin Mays is a concern for McPeak. He said he feels the two Raiders could be a problem.

"Mays just gets better and better every time he touches the football," McPeak said. "His confidence is just growing and he played a very strong game against Jenkins last week. He is a big threat to us and one of the better backs in the area.

"Mullins can catch the football. He just does a lot of things well. He makes the big play on defense and (Nick) Compton likes to go to him.

"We will really have to focus on stopping him. He has good hands and seems to find the open routes."

McPeak said the offensive line of the Raiders could be a problem for his team as well.

"They have good size up there," he said. "They have a good center and their tight end (Aaron Hall) does a good job for them. They are just a big team."

The Hazard coach said South Floyd is an exciting team.

"They play with a lot of enthusiasm and it will be a battle for us," he said.

KEYS TO A BULLDOG VICTORY

Ball control will be the key as far as the Hazard coach goes. He said he feels his team must play better in the secondary than they played against Cumberland last week.

"We have to think defense," he said. "We must try and control the football and the line of scrimmage. We must. We must play well on both sides of the football.

"We must have exceptional pass coverage on Mullins. We had terrible pass coverage against Cumberland last Friday night. Luckily they had a pass or two that was dropped or it could have been a different score."

The Bulldogs defeated the Redskins 22-19.

"We've seen South Floyd on film and it will be a challenge for us," McPeak said. "It will be a battle. A heck of a game.

"A lot of people need to realize that South Floyd has improved a ton from last year. They are a very good football team and it looks like they will make the playoffs."

The race is on

The weather was ideal and the course crowded last Thursday evening at the Paintsville Lake for a cross-country meet. Here the women got off to a quick start in running the 5,000 meter course. Allen Central, Prestonsburg and South Floyd represented our county schools. (photo by Ed Taylor)

ture article. But the most important thing is to see the bravery shown by someone who has every right to sit and expect sympathy from others. But that is not his way.

He's a lively person who still enjoys working out at the Prestonsburg Community College walking track. Just talking to him and hearing the excitement in his voice is inspiration enough. But to see him actually get out and compete, that must be something else.

More later!

RADIO FEE CONTROVERSY SPREADS..

Seems the radio stations over around the Whitesburg area are not ready to pay the $150 broadcast fee Betsy Layne High School is charging for coverage of Bobcat football.

Radio station WIFX-FM, 94.3, has been carrying the Whitesburg Yellowjackets games along with WXKG-FM, 103.9, but word is they refuse to come this way and pay the fee.

Whitesburg plays at Betsy Layne October 20 in a district game.

BASKETBALL SIGNUPS...

Don't forget to mark down the registration dates for the Prestonsburg Junior Basketball League. In case you missed them in Wednesday's paper here they are again: from 2-4 p.m. Sunday, October 8; and from 2-4 p.m. Sunday, October 15. Signups will be held at the Adams Middle School.

GRADE SCHOOL SEASON...

The grade school basketball season isn't that far away and we need all basketball schedules for the upcoming season. So, all coaches, if you would please fax, mail or bring us a copy of your schedule, we'd appreciate it.

ADAMS' NEW COACH...

The Adams Middle School Blackcats will have a new boys' basketball coach this season. Neil Turner, who worked with the B team last year, will move and head up the A team.

Turner has always been very active in the youth programs around the county and has been a great help to young people. I know he will do a great job at Adams.

The upcoming grade school basketball season is already creating a lot of interest as the season gets underway around November 1. Adams will play in the Middle School Conference as well as against county teams.

Osborne will be a force in the grade school season this year. Coach Roger Johnson's Eagles will be soaring with the returning players. Mark the Duff Bulldogs on the list of county contenders as well and you better be watching for the Betsy Layne Elementary Bobcats. Allen promises to be strong along with Stumbo.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports. Take your kids to Sunday School and church Sunday.

This Week's Consensus

- Allen Central
- Hazard
- Raceland
- Betsy Layne
- Penn State
- Southern Mississippi
- Illinois
- Tennessee
- Cleveland
- Tampa Bay
- Denver/New England (tie)
- Washington

Week seven. Scott still holds on to first place by a slim led of one game. Tim moves to tie for second with Ed. There were several other shifts in the ranks. Allen Central gets the nod over McCreary Central in their quest for three in a row. Can you believe this, Raceland is to win over Prestonsburg. Ed says not. Betsy Layne gets back on the winning track at Phelps. On the college scene, Kentucky takes the weekend off but Penn State and Southern Mississippi should win. The pro games will be close with Cleveland over Detroit and Denver and New England tied.

Settlement goes public, judge says

by Linda H. Breed
Appalachian News-Express

A federal judge ruled Tuesday that court records on an agreed settlement between the county and eight former workers should be made public.

U.S. District Judge Joseph Hood ordered the terms of the agreement unsealed, as well as what took place during an in-chambers conference leading up to the settlement.

"The taxpayers deserve an explanation," said Pike County Judge-Executive Donna Damron. "I did not want to settle."

The actual terms of the settlement have not been entered into the court record and were unavailable at presstime. The newspaper is obtaining a copy of the transcript from the closed conference.

The settlement was the result of a lawsuit filed by eight former workers who sued for damages as the result of an alleged illegal and wrongful termination of their employment. The employees included Liz Thacker-Adkison, Jim C. Justice, Jimmy R. Bentley, Leroy Syck, Obie Tackett, Stallard P. Lynch, Keith Tackett and William Chaney.

County magistrates authorized the judge-executive to negotiate a settlement at the urging of the court and attorneys, said Damron, adding some of the magistrates were actually "cheering" for the former workers.

Sometimes, she said, members of the fiscal court don't make decisions because it's the right business decision.

"They make decisions based on who their friends are," said Damron. "I was willing to gamble with the jury," she said. "We probably had the best case to defend that will ever happen in the state of Kentucky."

"I knew these people. We had documented evidence."

The case has stirred a lot of public comment, in part because the county will be held liable for the debt incurred from the settlement. The county's insurance, through the Kentucky Association of Counties (KACo), has taken the position that, in cases where there is a judgment entered against the county in a First Amendment case, it will not pay because the acts were found by a court to be intentional.

Damron herself was recently appointed to serve on KACo's Board of Directors and said the issue is one that should be addressed.

While she is confident the attorney supplied by KACo who represented the county in the proceedings did a "wonderful" job, Damron said the association should do something to "insulate" governments and government officials from similar proceedings.

"I want to make certain this doesn't happen to future fiscal courts," she said. "Most likely, the legislature will address it."

Passed in 1986, there is already legislation that allows county judge-executives to appoint key personnel in their offices to serve at the judge's pleasure.

"I would expect that to be expanded," said Damron, who said she has already talked to a number of legislators about the issue.

"The state is insulated from these lawsuits," she said. "There's got to be a stop to it somehow."

Will Flem Burchett be retried for rape?

by Tony Fyffe
Paintsville Herald

A hearing scheduled for November could determine whether convicted sheriff killer Flem Burchett will be retried on rape and incest charges.

Special judge Eddy Coleman has set a November 10 status conference in the case, which has been pending since March 1992 when Burchett fatally shot Johnson County Sheriff Gene Cyrus.

Burchett, who pleaded guilty to Cyrus' murder in 1993 and is serving a life sentence, is accused of rape and incest involving his granddaughter. Burchett was standing trial on the charges when police said he walked away during a lunch recess on March 18, 1992, and later shot Cyrus at his Oil Springs home.

Burchett also shot himself but survived.

The case was revived this past April when Johnson Circuit Judges Stephen N. Frazier and James A. Knight disqualified themselves and Coleman, a circuit judge in Pike County, was appointed.

Commonwealth's Attorney Anna Melvin said at the time that she had discussed the case with the alleged victim and would decide later if Burchett should be retried.

If Burchett is retried, attorneys will have to decide whether the trial will be held in Johnson County or moved.

Proceedings against Burchett in the Cyrus case were moved to Pike County because of pretrial publicity.

Although Burchett is serving a life sentence for Cyrus' murder, he will be eligible for parole in 2004.

The alleged rape and incest occurred April 27, 1991, when the girl was 13 years old.

Judge Frazier rules on motions in Goble case

The commonwealth attorney in a sexual abuse case in Martin County must decide by October 10 which of two separate indictments will be tried first.

Commonwealth Attorney Anna Melvin is required by a recent ruling by Circuit Judge Steven "Nick" Frazier to decide which of two separate indictments against Kelly Goble will be tried first.

Goble has been charged with more than 20 counts including first degree rape, first degree sexual abuse and first degree sodomy against two juveniles.

Defense attorney Robert Miller, who was standing in for Goble's attorney John D. Preston Thursday, September 28, in Martin Circuit Court, asked Frazier to overrule all motions filed by special prosecutor Jerry Patton.

Patton, a Prestonsburg attorney, has been retained by a family member of one of the victims to help Melvin prosecute the case.

"The role of a commonwealth attorney should be to seek justice in a case," Miller said. "Patton is more like a hired gun who is only interested in a conviction."

However, Melvin wanted all defense motions thrown out because they were filed too late, including the ones questioning Patton's role in the prosecution.

"All the motions by both sides were actually filed too late," Frazier said. "I want you to decide if you want me to hear all of them (from both sides) or none of them. What's fair for the goose is fair for the gander."

Patton said he would like the judge to hear all the motions from both sides. Patton assured the court that everything he filed had been approved by Melvin.

In fact, Melvin said there was an affidavit filed with the motions to the affect that she had approved them.

Frazier overruled the defense motion to strike Patton's motions and said Patton was to have a limited role in the prosecution.

Frazier made the following rulings:

- Ruled that Dr. Conception's deposition must be taken over the telephone. Conception is a defense witness.

- Ordered Goble to be examined for the second time by prosecution physician Dr. Kurl and for Goble to supply 20 years of past medical history.

- Ordered that a status conference be held November 10, for the purpose of making sure both sides have submitted all medical records so there would be no further impediments to the trial.

- Ordered the Commonwealth to decide by October 10 which of the two cases it will prosecute first. The first trial is set for December 5, in Martin Circuit Court.

Hamilton asks theft charges be dropped

by Tony Fyffe
Paintsville Herald

Former Johnson County Schools Superintendent Frank Hamilton is scheduled to stand trial later this month on theft charges. But his attorney has asked that the indictment be dismissed again.

Johnson Circuit Judge James A. Knight has set October 25 as Hamilton's trial date. The ex-schools chief, who is now appointments director for Governor Brereton Jones, is charged with 22 counts of theft by unlawful taking for using $8,189 in school funds to pay college expenses for eight county teachers.

Knight originally dismissed the charges in 1994, but the Kentucky Court of Appeals reinstated them in August. The appellate court said Knight did not have the authority to drop the charges.

Last Friday, Hamilton's attorney, C.K. Belhasen of Paintsville, filed a new motion to drop the charges, contending that special prosecutor Michael Stidham did not have the authority to go before the Johnson County Grand Jury and seek an indictment.

Belhasen says Stidham, who is Breathitt County commonwealth's attorney, was appointed special prosecutor by the state attorney general to investigate theft charges against former Johnson Central High School Principal Steve Butcher in connection with missing sporting goods from the school.

The assignment did not include an investigation of Hamilton, Belhasen said.

"Nowhere in the assignment was the prosecutor ordered to conduct an investigation of the fiscal policies of the Johnson County Board of Education or anything other than the Butcher case and cases arising therefrom," Belhasen's motion claims.

Butcher and the owners of a Pikeville sporting goods store, David and Sherry Collier, were indicted in May 1994 for theft by unlawful taking. Hamilton was indicted the same day.

"In (Hamilton's) case, however," the motion says, "the prosecutor went beyond the scope of this charge from the attorney general and, without any legal authority, began an investigation of (Hamilton) and caused the grand jury to return indictments against him which were in no way related to any of the allegations arising from the state police investigation of theft and other alleged wrongs in the Butcher case."

Belhasen said Johnson County Commonwealth's Attorney Anna Melvin should have been in charge of any investigation of Hamilton.

"Indeed, the prosecutor usurped the authority of the local prosecutor in invading her province and presenting a case against a citizen of Johnson County which would have been the responsibility and at the discretion of the duly elected commonwealth attorney of this county to present," the motion says.

Knight delayed a ruling on the motion during a hearing Friday, saying he wanted to see a copy of the letter the attorney general's office sent to Stidham appointing him to the Butcher case.

Head Start student honored with tree planting

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Several kindergarten students at Clark Elementary got a chance to say good bye to their friend Elmer "Junie" Bentley Jr. September 29.

That was the day Geneva Ward, Head Start teacher, and all the primary students at the school planted a Bradford pear tree near the Head Start building in honor of him.

Junie was a student in Ward's Head Start class last year. He died this summer of an extended illness. The students who had been in class with him last year got to put most of the dirt back around the tree. Later they planted mums around it. Other primary students got the chance to put one handful of dirt around the tree.

"Excellence does not remain alone, it is sure to attract neighbors," Ward told the students gathered around the tree. "And Junie was one who attracted neighbors."

She then read the poem "Laughing Song," a poem that talks about "when green woods laugh." "This is a happy day," Ward said, smiling through her tears. "This tree will signify the beauty Junie brought to our school."

She said the Bradford pear was chosen because "in fall, it will turn a bright brilliant yellow like sunshine, like Junie, and in the spring, it will be one of the first trees to bloom, with a white bloom."

"When you are grown, you can come back here and see this tree and remember Junie," Ward told the students.

Charlene Nunn, guidance counselor, told the students they could come to the tree and have a story read to them.

In a newsletter sent home, Junie was described as a person of joy. "Junie will be sadly missed by the many people whose hearts he touched. He will be remembered for his warm smile and way of bringing joy and laughter into the lives of others. Junie loved coming to school and being with his friends. Among his favorite school activities were art, playing on the playground, and dancing," the newsletter stated.

"He was such a special child," Ward said of Junie. "He was always smiling. If you saw him, you'd never know he was sick."

She said this is her third year of teaching and Junie was the first child she had taught who had died.

Junie was the son of Elmer and Lesa Bentley. He died June 29, less than two months before his fifth birthday.

"All my students asked about him and we thought this would be one way to remember him," she said.

Wolf Creek Collieries lays off more miners'

Wolf Creek Collieries in Martin County shutdown recently, laying off 142 workers, officials said.

According to a press release issued by Wolf Creek Monday, "(the company) has indefinitely idled its underground mine near Lovely, effective October 1.

The idling affects 142 represented employees, pending further evaluation of the mine's costs and its ability to compete within the current market, the press release stated.

"At least in the near term, coal required to fulfill the contract with Carolina Power & Light will be sourced through other suppliers, in accordance with provisions of a coal supply agreement signed in May," the press release stated. "CP&L is the only major customer now serviced by the mine."

United Mine Workers of America Local 7093 Vice President Randall Fields said, "They are going to have a hoist man and pumper working this week. They said they would recall ten people to the mine and two at the prep plant. Those working at the plant will be doing cleanup and winterizing and will have five or six weeks work. The ten men in the mine will do recovery work and should be there eight months to a year. They said those men would be recalled next week."

There was a meeting of Local 7093 Monday afternoon to inform all members of the events that transpired during a meeting of union and company officials that morning.

Laid off miners will receive 60 days pay in accordance with the Warren Act, according to Fields. The miners should have their pay by October 20, but no later than November 3, he added.

Unfortunately, those laid off may not look for work until December 16. Taking another job prior to that date could result in losses provided by the 1974 pension and health plan.

All miners laid off with at least 2000 hours in the past 24 months will maintain health and life insurance for a one-year period.

With no official word concerning the mine's salary personnel, it is believed that most of them have been transferred to Marrowbone Development.

Closure planned for Magoffin landfill

Contributed by the Salyersville Independent

Closure plans for the county's old landfill was the hot topic at the regular meeting of the Magoffin County Fiscal Court recently.

Paul Nesbitt, president of Nesbitt Engineering in Lexington, was present at the meeting to present a report of work completed and to represent his company in further contract negotiations. Nesbitt Engineering is responsible for drawing up plans that have been approved by the state and will be followed during the closure.

The firm has been awarded a contract to compose the bid specifications for the project and to provide quality control for the duration of the work.

Tests conducted on water supplies around the landfill site have shown no contamination. Three streams are being tested. Nesbitt reported that a fourth spring, that runs no risk of being contaminated by the landfill, will have to be found and tested as a background sample to be used for comparison. These tests are administered quarterly.

Four labs have responded to the advertisement for groundwater monitoring for the closure.

Jury-rigging case begins in Pike

Contributed by the Salyersville Independent

The trial of seven persons, including four from Magoffin County, charged in an alleged scheme to rig a jury in Magoffin County Circuit Court that awarded a total of $3.8 million in an insurance case, began Monday in U.S. District Court at Pikeville.

Standing trial are Magoffin County Circuit Clerk Roger Gullett; former Magoffin County Jailor Colin Ray Jackson; jury member Debra Helton; Homer "Bill Dodd" May Jr.; Donald Epling, of Pikeville, a witness in the trial; Mark D. Bartley, the lawsuit's plaintiff; and his father, Eppie Bartley, both of Ashcamp in Pike County.

The seven were charged with conspiracy to defraud two insurance companies and four counts each of mail fraud.

Two others charged in the initial indictments by a federal grand jury in October, 1994, in Lexington, entered guilty pleas in February before Federal Judge Joseph Hood.

Bobby Earl Arnett, a jury member, was the first to enter a guilty plea, saying that former Magoffin County Sheriff Thomas "Skip" Salyer told him to hold out for more money, then paid him $2,000 after the verdict was in.

Less than a week after Arnett entered a guilty plea, Salyer appeared before Hood in Frankfort and pleaded guilty to conspiracy to commit fraud.

Salyer told the judge he paid off two jurors and funneled money to Gullett in the $3.8 million insurance case. The indictments stem from a Magoffin County case involving a December 1988 wreck in which Mark Bartley of Ashcamp was injured when his vehicle collided with a truck owned by the Johnson Coca-Cola Bottling Group, Inc. and operated by Eugene Howard. Bartley eventually received a $1.2 million settlement last August.

Bartley was later ordered to split the money with Howard, who had filed a countersuit, Howard got $60,000. Since the initial arrests, Magoffin Circuit Judge John Robert (Bobby) Morgan has voided the jury verdict and ordered the subsequent $1.2 million settlement returned to the insurance companies. There have been no official reports that the money has ever been returned.

In a recent science journal article, researchers from Humboldt State University in California reported that the toe jam of black-tailed deer contains chemical compounds that can kill several common types of bacteria (including one that causes acne) and fungi (including one that causes athlete's foot). A Tucson, Ariz., firm has begun to manufacture synthetic versions of the compounds.

SEEDS OF OUR DESTRUCTION

The trade association of legal prostitutes in Canberra, Australia, announced in August that it would launch a boycott of French underwear, hosiery and cosmetics in order to punish France for resuming nuclear-weapons testing in the South Pacific, and prostitute groups in Melbourne and Sydney may soon follow suit. Also, Australia's largest chain of adult sex shops and cinemas has taken all French products off its shelves.

In July, French president Jacques Chirac awarded the Grand Officer of the Legion of Honor, the nation's second highest military order, to Major General Jean-Claude Lesquer, for commanding the troops that sank the Greenpeace environmentalists' protest ship in Auckland, New Zealand, harbor in 1985.

In August, the County Board in Walworth County, Wis., attempting to make a policy to cover an upcoming march by the local Ku Klux Klan but bowing to Lake Geneva Supervisor Frank Janowak's desire not to call the Klan a "hate group," passed a resolution encouraging peaceful counteractions to "unhappy groups" like the Klan.

Chinese dissident Liu Gang, 34, was arrested in September in Liaoyuan and charged with failing to honor a previous court order that required him to report to the police periodically and inform them of his latest thoughts.

According to Rafael Ruiz Harrell, an official with a Mexican human rights organization, who spoke with reporters in July, Mexican law validates confessions made by torture if they are ratified by one other confession, and the ratifying confession, too, can be obtained by torture. "So all you have to do," he said, "is torture two people."

The Wall Street Journal reported in July that MTV's upcoming foray into feature film will lead with a romantic comedy, "Joe's Apartment," chronicling Joe's adventures wooing his girlfriend in a New York City apartment that has 3,500 roaches. Representatives of the ASPCA supervised the roach sequences, including one in which the 3-inch-long "Tiny" appears to rope an evil house cat and ride him out of the apartment. Said the film's executive producer, "Not one cockroach was harmed during the filming."

In Huzhou, China, Lu Vie, age 10, filed a lawsuit against the local zoo after he was bitten by a panda. The official Xinhua news agency said the lawsuit was the first of its kind in China.

In May, Takao Onoda, an official with the Ministry of Transportation in Japan, responding to U.S. claims that a Japanese seatbelt manufacturer makes shoddy products, denied any Japanese responsibility. Our folks, who retired to Florida's panhandle to take advantage of year-round summer weather, are floating somewhere in southern Alabama this week after being washed inland by hurricane Opal.

Just goes to show you that no matter where you go, there you are, and the unpredictable Ma Nature usually packs her bags and tags along.

There is something about a hurricane, though, that makes our occasionally violent winters seem like a walk in the park.

We got to compare the two last year, firsthand, after planning our vacation to Florida just in time to be greeted by the first tropical storm of the season.

Hey, we'll take all the ice and snow Old Man Winter can dish out, without complaint, to the winds and waves churned up by hurricanes.

You tend to feel really helpless and at the mercy of nature during a hurricane, which can make even the bold and the beautiful a bit weak in the knees, especially when you see cats and dogs flying past your windows, the tops of palm trees touching the ground, and large sailing vessels double parked on Main Street.

It is not a pretty sight or a postcard portrait like, say, that suggested by a winter snow.

Nope, we'll never be intimidated by another Eastern Kentucky winter.

May have to drive a little slower and take a few precautions against slip-sliding away, but it beats the heck out of 100 m.p.h. tail winds that can get you from Florida to Tennessee quicker than Dorothy could click her ruby slippers together and say "there's no place like home."

At least here, after the storms have passed, "home" is usually in the same place you left it.

To Wong Foo. Thanks for Everything, Julie Newmar

What would you do, Mr. and Mrs. America, if drag queens suddenly descended upon your community? Would you accept them, or would you spurn them as some sort of aberration? That's the question posed by this flick.

Patrick Swayze, Wesley Snipes and John Leguizamo are three drag queens who decide to leave the safety of their urban existence for a more rural experience.

They know that doing so is hazardous to their health, but they're determined to seek out parts unknown. They've just won a major drag queen competition in New York and want to attend another one in Hollywood.

Swayze is the undisputed leader of the pack, but Snipes is no neophyte himself. Leguizamo, on the other hand, can't seem to control himself and causes trouble at every turn.

Naturally, the three encounter prejudice on their journey. However, all the while, they endear themselves to the audience as they ride across the country in a cream-colored Cadillac, headed for the drag queen pageant in California.

Unfortunately for them, they break down in a place called Snyder'sville. Somehow, they kookily get involved in the town, even going so far as to coordinate the annual strawberry festival!

The three principals deliver phenomenal performances. However, Stockard Channing does a fine turn as a wife suffering spousal abuse. Naturally, Swayze is able to save the day for her, despite his/her feminine leanings.

Lest you were wondering about the very long, confusing title. It's the inscription on a fan photo the three carry around with them as their personal good-luck charm. While we never get to meet the mysterious Wong Foo, Julie Newmar puts in a wonderful cameo appearance.

No matter what your feelings on the subject, don't miss this flick. It's funny, light-hearted and wonderfully rendered.

Prestonsburg goes to the dogs:

Canines strut their stuff during Jenny Wiley Festival

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Downtown Prestonsburg will go to the dogs October 14 when about 50 of the canine critters will demonstrate their abilities and agilities in the River Park area during Jenny Wiley Festival's Wonderful World of Dogs.

Sponsored by the Eastern Kentucky Kennel Club, the show will feature fun events, such as Frisbee tosses and obstacle courses, as well as educational programs, such as the parade of breeds and search and rescue operations.

The West Virginia Search and Rescue Unit's dogs will demonstrate their ability to sniff out their prey. Dogs and their handlers will stay out of sight while a volunteer is selected from the audience. The volunteer will hide, leaving behind a personal item, such as a hat. The dog will then be allowed to sniff the personal item of the volunteer and will sniff out the volunteer from his hiding place.

Handlers will also demonstrate that dogs can track lost people or escaped criminals by scenting the air and not the ground, veterinarian Carol Combs, coordinator of the event said.

American Kennel Club's competition winners will also demonstrate what it takes to win a dog show. AKC events have three levels of competition: Novice, open, and utility.

Winners of the AKC novice competition will show their training through precision heeling and by doing a figure eight around their handler. In this demonstration, dogs must also hold their position while their owners walk away. After the owners are about 30 feet away from the dogs, they will recall their dogs to come to them. Dogs will often be on leash.

In the open level demonstration, dogs will be off their leash and most of the commands are done by hand signals. The events will basically be the same, but will be more difficult, Combs said.

The utility level adds some excitement to the show when dogs must pick out an object that contains their owners' scents. The items are usually dumbbells. A judge uses tongs to select a dumbbell and hands it to the owner. An assistance then handles the rest of the dumbbells and places them on the stage. The owner and dog have their backs turned to the judge, who uses the tongs to place the dumbbell handled by the owner among the other dumbbells. The owner then instructs the dog to find the dumbbell that has his scent.

Also during the utility level, dogs will demonstrate the three-glove test they must pass in order to win that level in AKC competition. Three gloves are dropped at the far end of the ring from the dog. A judge tells the owner which glove the dog must select. The owner then tells the dog which glove to retrieve.

Other demonstrations include service dogs which serve as ears, eyes, hands or legs for their disabled partners. Rhonda Ferrero with the Kentuckiana Service Dog Foundation will be on hand to show how dogs are an important aid to individuals with disabilities.

Dogs will also demonstrate an event close to Dr. Combs' heart: the AKC's Canine Good Citizen program. Combs said that dogs receive too much negative publicity and this program shows that dogs can behave well in public. To be named Canine Good Citizens, dogs must pass a series of ten tests that evaluate how well they handle themselves in public. In the AKC competition, the event is open to all dogs.

Combs said she hopes Saturday's demonstration of the Good Citizen program will generate enough interest to get the program underway in this area.

Also on Saturday's Wonderful World of Dogs agenda will be songs by Analyse McCoy of Inez and Kristen Everage of Hindman who portrayed Annie in the Jenny Wiley Theatre production. Annie's dog Sandy will also take center stage. Sandy was portrayed by Kepper, owned by John and Bonnie Faulkner, and also by Combs's dog, Casey.

Prestonsburg Fire Department's Dalmatian will be among the many dogs demonstrating that man's best friends is often his dog.

Dog owners can learn about the different breeds during the parade of purebred dogs held throughout the day and from various information booths at the event. Some of the booths will give away a limited supply of samples.

A door prize, Iams dog food, will be awarded. Children in the audience can win a stuffed dog. Raffles will include a basket filled with $100 worth of pet supplies.

The Dewey Dam Dog and Cat Protection Society will operate a "Dog House" refreshment stand.

For safety and for health reasons, only dogs participating in the event will be allowed on the grounds, Dr. Combs said.

Road kill—the breakfast of champions

For a person who believes that you are cruel to animals if your dog doesn't have his own place mat at the dinner table, I find that I have a lot of friends who hunt animals for a hobby. Admittedly, few of them actually kill anything, but there are those rare occasions when some of them do.

Although I wouldn't kill a cricket if I found one in the house and only snuff out spiders if I'm suffering from PMS, some of my closest associates (and relatives) would trade me in for a tree stand in a heart beat if they thought they had the slightest chance of bagging a deer.

Hunting is a totally foreign concept to me. That's why I'm always so amazed when I learn how much work goes into hunting one deer. One of my friend's husbands, Clyde O., puts more effort into preparing for deer hunting season than he put into their entire courtship.

"It's amazing, Sara," Suzanne told me. "Clyde's sure to get a deer this year. He's left no stone unturned. First, we've found a chemical that when sprayed on clothing blocks out the UV rays so the deer can't see him."

"Really?" I asked. I couldn't help but wonder if a spray that strong was carcinogenic. "Tell me more."

"Before he can use the UV spray, he washes his hunting attire in baking soda to take away his human odor."

"Does Clyde smell? I never noticed anything offensive."

"Deer can smell humans, so the soda takes away normal human odor. Then after we wash the outfit, we hang it up to dry."

"Can't you put it in the dryer?"

"Merciful heavens, no!" she laughed. "The residue from the softening sheets would taint them. After they've air-dried, we put them in a plastic bag and throw in some dirt pellets."

"You mean you throw dirt on them after they're washed?"

"Sara, he's trying to throw the deer off track. He wants to smell like the great outdoors and the pellets give him that fresh dirt odor. This morning, after he had dressed and we'd sprayed him with the UV spray I said, 'Okay, Clyde O. We can't see you and we can't smell you, but can we hear you?' If he doesn't bag a deer today, he's going to be real upset."

It was easy to see why. That's a lot of work for nothing. In fact, it would make me mad enough to kill if I didn't get anything, particularly if I'd gotten up before daylight to do it.

"Does he still use the doe urine to attract deer?"

"Sure. He just splashes some on a rag and sticks it to the bottom of his shoes."

No wonder I could never have been a hunter because whenever I get animal refuse on the soles of my shoes, I always tried to wipe it off on the grass. Little did I know that had I left it on, a deer might have followed me home and hung its head on my wall.

"Does your friend still have his fox?" Suzanne asked me. (A friend of mine had a fox that he kept so that he could collect its urine.)

"Someone stole it, or it escaped."

That's too bad. At least he doesn't have to worry about feeding it anymore."

"Collecting the road kill was bad. Can you imagine having to go out and scrap a dead animal off the pavement? But road kill was the cheapest way to go, and it is the natural order of things."

Strangely enough, most of the people I love very much hunt. Maybe it's their outlet for tolerating me for long periods of time without going nuts.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You've got something left undone from a while ago which should be tended to now in order to avoid further snafus. Something which has been bugging you about a friend finally clicks into place. Avoid a confrontation.
AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Your time is taken up this week with travel, hobbies and cultural pursuits. You benefit from a visit to a museum or taking a seminar. This weekend, you are at your self-confident, charismatic best.
PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Avoid getting into a silly squabble with a family member who is simply being testy for the sake of doing so. Delays are possible in the middle of the week, especially where work is concerned. However, this soon becomes clear sailing.

"Someday, son, this will all be your sister's."

"Finally! A family gathering without incident."

Saboe's roof was hit with what he termed a wave of hundreds of minnows. He speculated that a waterspout from the nearby Minnesota River brought them in.

— In Decatur, Ga., in May, Abbi Taylor had received two $75 tickets for failure to restrain P.D., her three-legged mutt that had cut loose from her restraints and run through the neighborhood during a thunderstorm. Taylor took P.D. to the Georgia Mental Health Institute for evaluation, and forensic director Robert J. Storms — who usually evaluates human criminal sanity — found that P.D.'s being hit by a car two years earlier, combined with the thunder in May, made P.D. "so overwhelmed by fear that she was unable to distinguish between right and wrong. She should not be held accountable for her action." Judge Robert Snead dismissed the charges.
