Forgy, Patton to meet face-to-face here

Eastern Kentucky issues will be brought to the forefront of the gubernatorial race when gubernatorial candidates Paul Patton and Larry Forgy go head-to-head in a televised debate broadcast live from Wilkinson/Stumbo Convention Center Monday, September 25.

Both candidates confirmed Tuesday that they will participate in the debate, which will be hosted by the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce.

The debate airs from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m. on WYMT-TV Hazard and apparently is the only head-to-head televised confrontation between the candidates prior to the November election.

"The candidates' commitment to this event demonstrates the importance of an Eastern Kentucky vote in this race for governor," Scott Perry, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said Tuesday.

Perry said the debate was "the result of months of work and negotiations with the candidates." He credited Anne Latta, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce, with putting the event together.

Although the format of the debate had not been finalized at presstime Tuesday, the debate is expected to center on issues directly to Eastern Kentucky, such as coal severance taxes, waste water treatment plants, providing clear potable water to all areas, education and economic development, Perry said.

Reservations required for forum featuring county judge candidates

The Democrat and Republican nominees for Floyd County Judge-Executive will be guest speakers at a public affairs forum set for October 2 and sponsored by the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce.

Democrat Ben Hale and Republican Ronald Frasure, who seek the unexpired term created earlier this year by the death of Judge John M. Stumbo, will be offered time to promote their candidacies then will address questions from the audience at the forum, to begin at noon October 2 at May Lodge.

Tickets for the event, which include a buffet lunch, are $10 for Chamber members and $15 for non-members.

Seating is limited, so reservations are encouraged. Call Ann Latta, executive director of the Chamber, at 886-7827 for information.

Hammond counters suit filed by station

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

A Floyd County attorney has filed a counterclaim in civil court against a Hazard television station and is asking for a $19,374 judgment in response to a suit filed against Hammond Law Offices.

Jim Hammond, county attorney, filed the counterclaim in Floyd Circuit Court Monday stating his law office paid more than $42,000 on a $22,620 contract with WYMT.

Gray Kentucky Television, the parent company of WYMT-TV, filed a lawsuit against Hammond July 12 claiming he owed the station more than $29,000 for advertising.

"I didn't realize I had overpaid that much," Hammond said of the more than $19,000 Hammond Law Office paid on the account. "It wasn't voluntary, I can assure you of that. I wasn't personally overseeing payment of those bills."

Hammond said the bills were being paid as they were received from the station and had not been compared to the contract until he "got involved in it."

"I can assure you there was no overpayment," Jim Boggs, general sales manager and vice president of WYMT-TV, said Tuesday afternoon. "The outstanding balance we're showing is accurate."

In addition to the judgment, the counterclaim asks that a judgment for compensatory and punitive damages also be granted.

Hammond contends he was threatened by station attorneys from Miami and Louisville to pay $29,299.75 to the station. "He told me if I didn't pay this, I would never be elected county attorney again," Hammond said.

The commercials for Hammond's law firm aired three days a

Prosecutor's actions draw the ire of judge

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The courtroom actions Tuesday of Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond prompted concerns with Judge James Allen, who said later that he would not tolerate a repeat performance.

During district court proceedings Tuesday morning, Hammond had several run-ins with Judge Allen and Kentucky State Police trooper M.J. Harrison.

During a bench trial, which can be held when the defendant fails to appear for court, involving a drunk driving charge against Alexander Johnson, 24, of Median, Ohio, Hammond interrogated trooper Harrison about his investigation of the case. Hammond chided the trooper on several points, including his training to operate the breathalyzer (b.a.) at the county jail.

Hammond asked the trooper to go over the process in complete detail in obtaining a b.a. reading at the county jail. Harrison complied with the county attorney's request and appeared to be somewhat dismayed with the prosecutor's tactics.

The officer explained how the suspect failed several field sobriety tests and had a strong smell of alcohol about him. Johnson's b.a. reading was .148.

Hammond wanted to know how officers preserve the integrity of chain of custody involving the b.a. reading, which is printed on a ticket from the b.a. machine. Harrison explained that the ticket is sent by jail officials to the district court clerk's office and made part of the court record. The trooper said the state's copy of the b.a. reading is sent to Frankfort and made part of the case file.

Hammond asked that the case be dismissed because the officer could not prove that the chain of custody involving the b.a. reading had been kept intact.

Judge James Allen "reluctantly" dismissed the case and later said that he had never heard of similar

Investigator upset over comments about fly ash

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A special grand jury investigating allegations of government corruption in Floyd County did not direct Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson to cut out sections of the parking lot at Thunder Ridge last week, a prosecutor with the attorney general's office said Friday.

Larry Fentress, who is assisting the grand jury with its probe, said Friday that he directed the sheriff to collect samples at the parking lot and he appeared to be upset that one county worker commented on grand jury proceedings.

Thompson, deputies and county road workers cut out two sections of the parking lot last Wednesday to see if fly ash had been used as a base prior to paving the lot, which is owned by the county. Allegations have been made that fly ash was used for the base instead of gravel that was purchased by the county, Thompson said.

Thompson declined to give specifics last week about who or

Harold man is killed in auto accident

by Alisa Goodwill
Staff Writer

A Floyd County man died in a two-vehicle accident Friday evening near Mt. Sterling.

Charlie Keathley, 66, of Harold, died Friday about 9:55 p.m. when his vehicle collided head on with 1979 Dodge van driven by David Allen Booth, 29, of Winchester.

Keathley was driving a 1986 Chevy Celebrity station wagon headed southbound on Ky. Route 11 when he crossed into Booth's path.

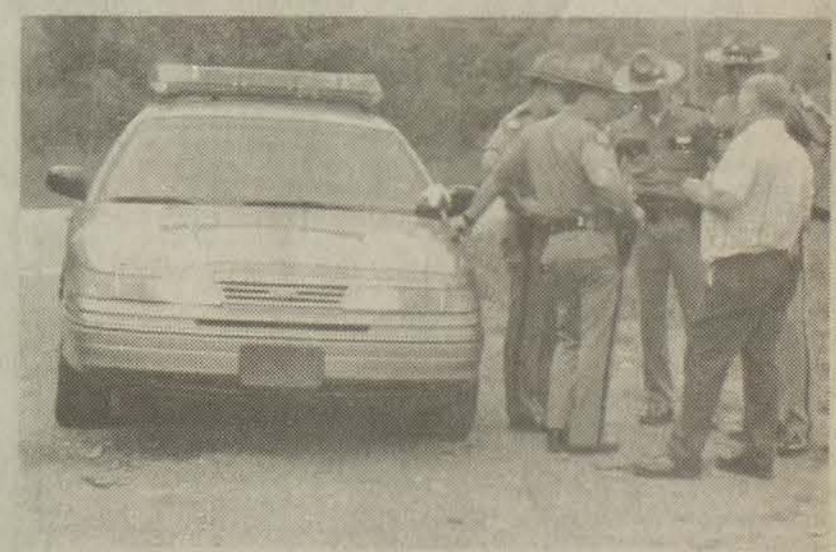

Booth, and two of his passengers, Angela Shortridge, 9, and William Allen Booth, 8, both of Winchester, received multiple injuries. All three were transported to Mary Chiles Hospital by Montgomery County Ambulance Service.

Whitney Renee Booth, 3, and Nicholas Clay Booth, 5, both of Winchester, were also passengers of David Booth, but did not receive any injuries.

Mt. Sterling Police Department and Montgomery County Sheriff's Department assisted at the scene of the accident.

The accident is still under investigation by Trooper Keith Craycraft and Trooper Mark Christopher.

Keathley's funeral was Tuesday afternoon at the Lower Toler Church of Christ in Harold.

Suspects get help, advice, arrest after truck crash

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Kenneth Prater Jr. found himself in an unusual predicament Monday evening when he discovered he was assisting the suspects of an auto theft.

He was helping two men get their truck unstuck after the two wrecked on Ky. 404.

"They wrecked further up the road," Prater said. "And then they got stuck trying to get out. They said it was their daddy's truck."

Prater, a preacher at Landmark Church of God church, said he told the two they had been drinking and didn't need to be driving. He said they told him they just needed help getting the truck out.

"I told them it would mess up the back end," Prater said. "They said they didn't care. That's when I got a funny feeling."

About that time, Kentucky State Police Trooper Mike Thorpe arrived.

Thorpe had been alerted that a truck, owned by Gradon Slone, had been stolen from Dotson's Grocery Store in West Prestonsburg.

New festival board begins work on tourism project

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

An arm of the Prestonsburg Tourism Commission reached out Friday to grab the brass ring with a concept that could bring tourism dollars to the county.

At its second meeting in less than a week, the new Festival Committee, initiated at the request of Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fanin and the tourism commissioners, agreed to move forward by organizing a board of officers which will begin developing a viable festival concept at its next meeting

September 26.

The committee members also agreed to form an interim festival committee that can begin work on an event for next year. The committee will also ask the Jenny Wiley Festival Board to become part of its committee and possibly combine that festival with a new event.

The tourism's Festival Committee delegated Fred James, Prestonsburg tourism director, at its first meeting last Thursday night to ask the Jenny Wiley Festival Board to open its board to include the Festival Committee's membership.

James presented the proposal to the Jenny Wiley board at its meeting Monday. Jenny Wiley Festival founder Maxine Bierman Childers said she welcomed additional membership "with open arms."

(You're) stepping into what I want done," Childers said. "How can I object to that?"

Childers said she did not have the power to make the decision to expand her 25-member board and her board members would have to agree to take that step. She added that her board is busy finalizing recommendation by a prosecutor in a DUI case before.

After the dismissal, Hammond told the judge that he wanted all pending criminal cases continued until he had a conference with Kentucky State Police Captain Robert Forsythe concerning the conduct of troopers Harrison, Ron Peppi and Johnny Slone. Hammond and trooper Slone reportedly had a similar confrontation in district court in August.

The county attorney said he received "no cooperation" from the officers.

Judge Allen denied Hammond's request and told the county attorney that he would proceed with the court docket.

Judge Allen said Tuesday afternoon that he felt Hammond's actions were out of line and that he would take a hard line on such antics in the future.

"The court will have to take a hard stand in regard to the treatment of witnesses by attorneys or any individuals," Judge Allen said. "(As for) outbursts in court, I don't feel like the court can tolerate that. The courts don't belong to me, they belong to the people. I don't feel our courts can be abused in any way. I guess I'm going to have to take a strong stand on that."

"I'm in a difficult situation," the judge continued. "If the prosecutor refuses to prosecute a case, I have no recourse. I can't make the county attorney prosecute cases."

The next case called also involved Harrison and was a bench trial. The trooper asked to stand before the judge while testifying in the case and the judge allowed him to do so, but Hammond said he had "no questions for this officer."

Another DUI case called resulted in a refusal by the judge to take Hammond's suggestion that the case be dismissed because the b.a. reading was .08. The judge pointed out that the case involved a commercial driver's license (CDL) and the presumption of intoxication was above a .04 b.a. reading.

The judge asked that the case be set for trial and Hammond replied that he would not prosecute. Judge Allen told Hammond he was the prosecuting attorney and that the case will be tried. Hammond said he would not present any evidence at the trial.

In another case, the judge asked Hammond for his recommendation and Hammond replied that he did not have one "since you're the judge and prosecutor today."

"I have a suggestion for you Mr. Hammond, you do your job and I'll do mine," Judge Allen responded.

"I was doing my job," Hammond said.

When asked if Tuesday's courtroom antics and tensions have been building since July, when Hammond began prosecuting cases in district court, Judge Allen responded, "I guess you could say that."

State Police Captain Robert Forsythe, who appeared in district court later Tuesday morning, declined to comment on the situation, but the captain did meet with the judge when court was adjourned.

week from January 1994 through July 1994 on the Hazard station, according to a contract Hammond signed with Betty Whitaker of the station. The first commercial aired January 31, 1994 and the last aired July 1, 1994. Each spot was to cost $290. The commercial was to run 78 times for a total contract cost of $22,620.

The first of seven checks paid to WYMT was dated February 24, 1994 and was written for $300, $10 more than the single-spot cost as specified in the contract. The memo on the check states it is to pay for advertising which ran at 5:49 p.m. January 31, 1994.

The next check was written May 18, 1994 and was for $5,000. The memo does not indicate the dates the advertisement ran, but does indicate payment is for advertising.

Six weeks later, on June 30, 1994, another check for $5,000 was issued for payment on the contract to WYMT. A fourth check, this one for $15,694, was written August 5, 1994. On August 19, 1994, a check for $7,100 made payable to WYMT was signed by Hammond.

On September 1, 1994, a sixth check, this one for $8,000 was issued to the station. The memo indicates it is "on account for HLO PSC advertising." A final check of $1,000 was issued May 12, 1995.

The total amount paid on the $22,620 contract, according to the Hammond and the counterclaim papers, was $42,095, a difference of $19,475. The suit asks for a $19,374 judgment as well as pre-judgment and post-judgment interest.

Hammond said he advertised with WYMT when he ran for county attorney in the late 1980s. "I paid them $30,000 up front," he said. "They told me then they con-

Two housing authorities share funds

Two housing authorities in Floyd County are slated to share over $12.9 million in Public Housing Modernization grants from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) with 35 other housing authorities in Kentucky.

The Prestonsburg Housing Authority has been approved for a $30,000 grant and the Floyd County Housing Authority has been approved for a $338,000 grant.

"I am pleased to see HUD provide this money for Floyd County and Prestonsburg," U.S. Representative Harold "Hal" Rogers said recently. "This money will help both housing authorities improve the living conditions for several families. It will allow us to continue providing safe, quality housing for those in need."

sider me a 'very, very good customer.'"

Boggs said Hammond had "advertised a lot, a fair amount" and that payment for the advertising was not a problem, in the beginning. "It might have been a little slow, but it wasn't a problem," he said.

Hammond said he had not advertised with WYMT since the last advertisement aired in July 1994.

Hammond said an additional claim against the station would be filed on his behalf. "This claim (the one filed Monday) is on behalf of the law offices and not me personally," he said. "You can expect an additional claim on behalf of me."

details for this year's festival, which will be held in October, and could not begin discussing that issue until its October 19 meeting.

Since the Jenny Wiley Festival Board's bylaws limit membership to 25 individuals, the board's bylaws would also have to be amended.

Because the process could take too long to begin a larger festival for next year, the tourism Festival Committee decided to form an interim committee and begin working on a new festival concept at its next meeting September 26.

Ideas for a festival that were tossed around at Monday night's meeting included highlighting mountain arts and crafts and Eastern Kentucky's culture and history.

Attending Monday's meeting of the tourism's Festival Committee were representatives of Prestonsburg Community College; the Prestonsburg Tourism Commission; the Jenny Wiley Festival; the Army Corps of Engineers; the Floyd County Historical Society; the Prestonsburg Rotary Club; the Prestonsburg Senior Citizens Center; Prestonsburg Public Works; the Prestonsburg Police Department; WQHY; the Prestonsburg Fire Department; the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce; Big Sandy Area Development District; and the Middle Creek Battlefield Preservation Society.

Judge rules mistrial in rape case

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A mistrial was declared Monday during jury selection in the rape trial of Christopher Park when a prospective juror hugged the detective who investigated the case.

Park, 28, of Hager Hill, is charged with two counts of first degree rape and two counts of first degree sexual abuse for allegedly having sex with a 10-year-old female from June 6 through September 11, 1994.

During questioning of potential jurors by the court, a female juror said Kentucky State Police detective Jim Stephens was a close friend of hers and that Stephens had been a pallbearer at her husband's funeral.

After a conference at the bench, Floyd Circuit Judge John David Caudill dismissed the juror, who then proceeded to walk over to the prosecution table and hugged Stephens.

A recess was called and after about an hour of research, Judge Caudill initially overruled a motion for a mistrial by defense attorney Jerry Patton.

Patton argued that the juror's display of affection for detective Stephens would prejudice the remaining members of the jury pool.

Assistant commonwealth attorney Dwight Stacy Marshall countered that the display of affection by the juror for Stephens was only an extension of the comments made during questioning and would not prejudice remaining jurors.

Judge Caudill told Patton and Marshall that he felt the remaining jurors could be admonished concerning the juror's behavior and that he would allow the defense three additional strikes during jury selection. Judge Caudill said that the remaining potential jurors would be questioned individually in chambers.

Marshall asked to confer with detective Stephens and after a short break, Marshall joined in the defense's motion for a mistrial, saying that three additional strikes for the defense could hurt the state's case.

Judge Caudill reversed his previous ruling and sustained the motion.

Judge Caudill told the remaining jurors that the juror did not do anything intentional, but she was showing her affection for the detective.

"The lady was very honest and straightforward during questioning," Judge Caudill said. "She said she knew detective Stephens and he was an important part of her life. (She) is a fine, fine lady and has become emotionally attached to detective Stephens. Maybe this a good learning lesson for all of us."

The trial has been rescheduled for October 11.

Zody wins Annie in theatre contest

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

A restoration project

by Scott Perry

In just seven short weeks, Floyd Countians will be going to the polls to select their third county judge-executive in less than a year.

Both candidates for the job, opened by the death of John M. Stumbo and filled temporarily by appointee Bob Meyer, appear able, interested and eager to do the job.

But, just what is that job?

Sure, there are the standard constitutional duties that come with the territory, but we're more interested in the big picture.

That picture hasn't been so pretty lately.

To borrow a quote from folk singer Arlo Guthrie, Floyd County has been "detected, injected and inspected" so frequently in the recent past that we wonder if maybe we shouldn't have a full-time advisor from the attorney general's office or the FBI on hand to keep us on the up and up.

That's a pretty cynical approach to democratic rule, but not so unrealistic.

There is much more at stake in this election than which roads get gravel and which get black-top.

There is the matter of trust, or lack of it, between the people and those elected to serve them.

As we see it, that is the central issue in this race and the one both candidates need to address with specific plans.

How will you restore our faith in government and move Floyd County from beneath this dark cloud of suspicion, cynicism and ill-repute?

What must we do to help?

What can be done to make this county whole again, to repair the fractures of decades of political polarization?

How can we rise above the inadequacies of the past to provide an adequate future?

Give us the answers and we'll give you the votes.

May the best plan win.

Creative advertising for children's hospital

Editor:
I believe the mere mention of an Eastern Kentucky Children's Hospital has sent shock waves clear to Washington, D.C. Everywhere Suzanne and I go people want to talk about the future...about the real hope that we can do this for all our children...everybody has a clear vision of what we want it to be and what we hope to accomplish...it's going to be a symbol of what we value most—our children and God.

We need to be creative...a contest for the news media (T.V., print, and radio). On Saturday night, October 21, 1995, at Thunder Ridge, we will be giving away the "People Choice Award for Creative Advertisement in a Public Service Announcement."

The audience present will select who wins. The winner will receive the "Kentucky Duck Award." The people will be watching, listening and reading about "Marcella Bailey's Red, White and Blue Motorcycle Field Meet."

We are giving the media the opportunity to design in the minds of the people what a "Field Meet" is and what we want it to accomplish.

We all can work for one goal at one time. It can be a whole lotta fun, a whole lotta of doing something different and doing it together...for a children's hospital.

VAROOM, VAROOM, VAROOM!! Can Scott Perry, Dale McKinney, Gormie Collins and Jeff Meeks ride a motorcycle? I bet Dr. Don can!

Thanks for assistance during our fire crisis

Editor:
I would like to thank the Prestonsburg Fire Department Chief Tom Blackburn and his well-trained firefighters who responded to me and my mom when our home caught fire, August 30.

Thanks to the Prestonsburg Fire Department EMTs who took care of me and mom. Thanks to the Prestonsburg Police who responded, too. Thanks to Danny who works for Kentucky Power who helped to get our power back on.

I would like to thank Mayor Fannin and the City of Prestonsburg for the fire subscription. It saved our home. I would like to thank my sisters and their husbands for their support during the time of getting our home back in shape.

We pass the laws—let's enforce them!

Editor:
I am writing to you concerning two laws passed by the state.

No. 1. The seat belt law concerning children. This law states that children must be in seat belts at all times, while the car is in motion.

So, my question is, why isn't this law being enforced? Just today I saw a child (approximate age ten months) in the lap of an adult, and a small child, approximately seven years old. The adult and neither of these children had a seat belt on.

Also, I saw a young woman with a baby on her lap, driving a car. Again, no seat belts.

No. 2. The state passed a law that children were not to be left in a car unattended.

As I was sitting in my car, this car pulled in beside me. The driver got out of the car and left the motor running. She not only left her car running, she left two small children in the car. She was gone for about 15 minutes.

Now, I do not believe I have to draw a picture of the dangers in this act.

So, again I ask the question, why isn't more being done to enforce these laws?

Writer protests gutting of surface mine agency

Editor:
It is hard to believe that Congress is working so hard to gut the Office of Surface Mining, an agency that, to my way of thinking, doesn't do enough to protect coal field residents from the abuses of strip-mining.

The OSM is not an unnecessary duplication of the state's enforcement efforts. Experience has taught us that without federal oversight, state inspectors won't even bother to come out to an affected area. With a strong OSM both state regulators and the industry have to prevent problems and respond to citizen concerns.

One clear example has been the OSM's effective action on Greasy Creek in Leslie County in the past year. Citizens there had complained for years about blackwater problems, but no action had ever been taken by the state. Finally, OSM officials from London stepped in to train citizens in water sampling techniques. They fined the offending coal company and put an end to what had been frequent blackwater discharges into the waters of the Commonwealth.

What good is saving money now by cutting back on inspectors if it creates long term damage to our groundwater, our hillsides, our homes and our roads? I am a member of Kentuckians For The Commonwealth, a citizens group that has worked for nearly 15 years for justice in the coal fields. We know what conditions in the coal fields were like before the OSM and we know the value of having an effective OSM in place. We strongly oppose any actions that would pull the rug out from under us, now that we have come this far.

I urge citizens of the commonwealth to contact our senators and representatives in Washington and demand that they preserve the Office of Surface Mining and the protections it offers to coal field communities.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

Okay, stop us if you've heard this one....

A Kentuckian died and went to hell. The devil asked him what he thought about the heat.

"Ain't so bad," he said. "It's warmer than this in June in Kentucky."

A bit aggravated, the Devil turned up the heat.

"Now what do you think?" he asked the Kentuckian.

"Well," he answered, "it's hot, but not quite as hot as August in Kentucky."

Hmm, the Devil thought, I'll have to trick this fellow. So he turned the heat off, turned on the air conditioning and hell froze over.

"Okay," he asked the Kentuckian, "what do you think of hell now?"

The Kentuckian surveyed the frozen scene for a minute, shivering, and answered...

"I think the University of Kentucky must have won a football game."

Speaking of football, there's general agreement among guys that it is a sport that builds character, discipline and toughness.

Many moms, on the other hand, tend to get a bit nauseous at the thought of their young sons colliding head on with one another.

Our eight-year-old son made his gridiron debut last weekend with particular flair and learning some important lessons, too.

Like when you're handed the ball, you should run with it before the entire opposing team jumps on your head.

And on defense, he learned just how far his 55 pounds can fly, backward, when you don't make an attempt to avoid the opposing team's blockers.

Tough lick, said dad.

I'm sick, said mom.

And the band played on.

The latest debate in the state's gubernatorial race concerns a contest over who can claim God as their co-pilot.

Democrat Paul Patton is advocating the teaching of religion in public schools while GOP contender Larry Forgy is catching all sorts of h-e-double toothpicks for welcoming ultra-conservative Dr. Frank Simon into his campaign camp.

If we were electing a pope, all this might be relevant, but we're choosing a governor who has more pressing concerns than making political hay out of religious conviction.

Religion is a matter for man and God, not people and politicians.

From the studies and reports we've seen lately, it would better serve our political candidates to direct their attention to making Kentuckians more employable than making them more acceptable to St. Peter.

Read this week where a Kentucky company seeking about 175 new workers, had 10,000 applicants but rejected 4,000 of them quickly because they couldn't pass a basic skills tests in English and algebra.

Nationwide, the reports suggest there are many good-paying jobs out there for the taking, but not enough skilled workers to take them.

If four out of ten Kentuckians can't pass one company's entrance exam, we need to examine the relevancy of our educational processes, particularly those programs devoted to retraining displaced workers and the unemployed.

Looks like the critics of Mitch McConnell owe the Kentucky Senator an apology for doubting his motives as chairman of the senate ethics committee.

McConnell took a few on the chin for closing hearings to the public concerning the Bob Packwood sex scandal, but he made believers out of even the most persistent doubters when he moved for Packwood's expulsion from the Senate.

Good job Senator. You did Kentucky proud.

Emergency declared for city parking lot

By Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Plans for the new city parking lot were unveiled Monday in a rather uneventful city council meeting that sent Mayor Jerry Fannin scrambling for a quorum.

Only four of the eight members — Estill Carter, Ralph Davis, Robert Allen and Dick Clark — had shown up by noon, the scheduled start time. After a couple of phone calls to missing council members, Paula Goble arrived and completed the quorum.

Carter asked that the parking lot project be declared an emergency to make sure it is finished for the Jenny Wiley Festival, which begins the second weekend in October. The declaration means that city council will not have to bid portions of the project in order to get it completed as quickly as possible.

"We want to do this as quickly as possible, but as cheaply as possible," Carter said.

Dirt-moving work started on the parking lot across North Lake Drive from First Commonwealth Bank this week. The county is planning to build a new courthouse on the current city parking lot.

"They're going to start contouring and sloping work today," Carter said. "We hope to be finished by the festival, which gives up about four weeks."

In addition to the parking spots, the lot will include a pavilion that could be used as a stage during festivals.

And electricity won't be a problem for vendors who set up during the festival. Electrical outlets have been included in the design, as has water access.

"We really want to make the entrance, the North Lake Drive side, look nice. We want to make the part that you drive by to be really attractive," Carter said. He explained a brick and wrought iron fence has been included in the design. The pavilion, which is in the center of the entrance, consists of brick pillars.

"The committee has worked really hard on this so we won't have to go back in there next year doing it again," Carter said.

In other action, the city council :

- Agreed to purchase a 1995 long-wheel-base, V6 truck for the assistant fire chief instead of the truck called for in the bid specs — a 1996 short-wheel-base four cylinder. "We could get the 1995 for $100 less than the 1996 and the delivery time was much quicker," Carter said.

- Agreed to purchase a new fire truck for the fire department at a cost of $182,689. Delivery of the truck should take between 210 and 300 days. The truck will be paid for over the next five years with the first payment coming from this year's budget.

- Approved the milling of West Court Street, at a cost of $7,800, if the money can come from the Main Street fund. The work will be completed at night. Carter said he will check to see if money for the work can come from the fund.

- Learned that the city has received $14,487 in Federal Emergency Management Administration funds to continue work at Archer Park. The money will be used to clean up the creek banks, and repair and pave parking lots. Fannin said about $600,000 is needed to completely finish work at the park to repair flood damage.

- Learned that residents will again receive notification of their 911 addresses. Residents have received the new addresses that will go into effect when the 911 system begins operations, but many have not put house numbers on their homes to make them identifiable to emergency personnel.

"Maybe they'll do better now that they think there's actually going to be one," Carter said. "I think people got a little disheartened with it."

Condition worsens for Banner infant needing liver transplant

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

While she waits in a Pittsburgh hospital for a donor for a lower bowel/liver transplant, one-year-old Terri LaSha Jarvis must be given blood transfusions daily to sustain her life.

The infant, a daughter of Tammy and Terry Jarvis of Banner, is losing blood through her stoma, an opening that is made surgically for a colostomy. Baby Terri's grandmother, Gaynell Hicks, said Monday.

Terri Jarvis was transferred from the Pikeville Methodist Hospital in July to the University Hospital of Pittsburgh after she developed infections. Physicians at the Pittsburgh cleared up the infections, but the baby began bleeding in her stoma, the grandmother said.

The infant has been in and out of intensive care in the Pittsburgh hospital. Transplant specialists have told family members that Terri is too sick to return to the Pikeville hospital.

Family members remain optimistic that a donor will be found for the infant and that her condition will improve. "God will provide for her," her grandmother said.

When Terri was born, doctors estimated the infant would live only a year and diagnosed her condition as short-gut syndrome. Because she has only six inches of healthy small intestines, she cannot absorb nutrients through normal digestion.

Her condition attracted statewide attention last year when Masten Childers II, Kentucky Department for Human Resources secretary, said the state would pay $300,000 for the procedure.

The transplant is expected to cost more than $576,000. Fund-raising efforts have been on-going in the county and the region to raise the additional funding needed. Donations may be made to Terri at the Trans Financial Bank, Martin, or the First and Farmers Bank in Somerset.

For more information about the infant, contact Gaynell Hicks at (502) 866-6911.

TO THE PEOPLE OF FLOYD COUNTY:

My name is Ben Hale, and I am asking for your vote for election to the office of Floyd County Judge Executive. I grew up in a family where public service was part of our lives. Until now, I have been happy living my life dedicated simply to my family, my church, and my work, but I have always been attracted to public service.

In the last two years, our county has become increasingly divided. Justified or not, accusations, charges, and rumors have become the norm, rather than the exception. My ambition is to raise this office to a new level of accountability. My first priority as County Judge Executive will be to take immediate steps to restore the public's confidence in the integrity of our county government.

THEREFORE, WITHIN THE FIRST THIRTY DAYS IN OFFICE, I PROMISE YOU THE FOLLOWING REFORMS:

1. OPEN MEETINGS OF THE FISCAL COURT

Meetings will be held at a location that gives room and access to all interested citizens. At least one out of every three monthly meetings will be held in alternating magisterial districts. Every citizen will have an opportunity to be fully heard.

2. OPEN FINANCIAL RECORDS

At each monthly Fiscal Court meeting, a printed summary of the county's finances, including current receipts and disbursements, will be distributed to those in attendance, including the public and the press, with ample opportunity for any questions and discussion.

3. OPEN ROAD WORK RECORDS

A 30-day work plan for all county road work will be prepared and publicly submitted at each monthly Fiscal Court meeting. Further, a written report of the county road work done in the preceding month will be distributed to the public and the press, with ample opportunity for any questions and discussion.

4. OPEN DOOR TO THE COUNTY JUDGE EXECUTIVE'S OFFICE

Every citizen will have access to me, the staff, and records of the County Judge Executive's Office during daily business hours. I will do all within my power to respond to every citizen's needs, complaints, or questions, in a direct and honest manner.

Before this campaign is over, I hope to have the opportunity to talk of things normally discussed in a County Judge Executive's campaign, such as my plans for clean public water, public sewage systems, improvement of our county road and bridge system, development of recreational facilities and employment opportunities for our people. But I believe the first priority is to bring to an end any doubts about the integrity and honesty of your county government. I have come to realize that anyone can throw rocks, but it takes courage to step out and lead. I am determined to be that person who leads us in a direction for the common good of us all.

Elect

BEN HALE

Democrat for Floyd County

Trash crash

An auto accident Monday afternoon on University Drive behind Prestonsburg Community College involved a Prestonsburg garbage truck. Bobby Spradlin, an equipment operator for Prestonsburg Public Works, said he was traveling north on University Drive when a car pulled out in front of him. Spradlin said he geared down to avoid hitting the car, but a second car also pulled out and he was unable to avoid hitting the second car. The driver of the car was Karen Blair. Spradlin was heading toward Apple Valley Sanitation in Johnson County. (photo by Teresa Cochran)

Prestonsburg Community College trains participants in AmeriCorps/Appalachian Self-Sufficiency Program

Current and past Prestonsburg Community College students will be among those who will benefit from the AmeriCorps/Appalachian Self-Sufficiency Program to be funded by a grant announced in Prestonsburg recently by Governor Brereton C. Jones.

This program is designed to employ 20 AmeriCorps members to assist 400 participants in the JOBS (Job Opportunity Basic Skills) and Food Stamp Employment and Training (ET) programs. Participants in these programs from five Eastern Kentucky counties will be assisted in overcoming barriers to training and employment and achieving self-sufficiency.

Those employed in this one-on-one mentoring program will

One-hour meeting set to discuss rights of Medicare patients

Basic rights of Medicare patients will be the subject of a free, one-hour meeting to be held at the Prestonsburg Senior Center on Wednesday, September 27, at 10:30 a.m.

Whether you are a Medicare beneficiary or you care for a special Medicare patient, this session will teach you the rights granted to beneficiaries by the Medicare program in Kentucky. Carole J. Jones, an outreach representative from the Kentucky Medical Review Organization, will help you empower yourself and protect your loved one if the need for medical care rises.

All interested persons are encouraged to attend this informative session. Members of the news media are also welcome.

AmeriCorps program to begin recruitment

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) began recruitment Thursday for the 1995-96 AmeriCorps national service program in Kentucky, scheduled to begin this month.

AmeriCorps, President Clinton's national service program passed by Congress, engages Americans of diverse backgrounds nationwide in performing service to meet critical community needs. In return, members receive a $4,725 award which may be used for college, job training, or to pay back student loans. The majority of AmeriCorps members work in partnerships with states, local governments and non-profit organizations. Citizens age 17 or older are eligible to apply. Applications will be accepted until September 15.

Exact sites are still being finalized but projects are anticipated in Prestonsburg and Hazard.

To apply for the program or to obtain information, call Margaret Tierney, county supervisor at 886-9545 or the national USDA AmeriCorps hotline at 1-800-880-4183.

work in teams with state Department of Social Insurance case managers/workers and volunteers. These teams will assist participants in obtaining access to resources and services needed to overcome barriers to be self-sufficient.

Among those eligible to participate in this program are students who have taken courses at PCC in preparation to enter the job market. This group includes about 200 credit students per year in various majors, as well as those who take one of several short-term vocational training courses through the college's Continuing Education/Community Service Program. Approximately 120 persons are trained each year through PCC's CE/CS program in courses such as Nurse Aide Certification, EMT Certification and Retail Sales.

The CE/CS program at PCC is one of four partners in the AmeriCorps/Appalachian Self-Sufficiency Program.

Robert Campbell, director of the CE/CS program, is a member of the council that wrote the grant proposal and is responsible for planning, implementation and evaluation of the program.

Also working in the mentoring program will be about 160 volunteers, including students in PCC's Service Learning Program. Participants in the college's Service Learning Program combine their course work with practical experience as volunteers with a variety of community service agencies, including school family resource centers, youth service centers and senior citizen centers.

Officials target March for operative 911 system

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

It could be March 1996 before Floyd County gets its own version of an E-911 system on line and board members voted Friday to locate the emergency service system in the old county jail.

At Friday's meeting, board members set a March 1, 1996, target date to get the emergency service system operational. The system will be made up of a basic 911 service with additional information about the individual residence available from a computer accessible to dispatchers.

Floyd Judge-Executive Bob Meyer said Friday that delays with finalized addressing by South Central Bell officials have delayed the implementation of the system.

Currently, the telephone company is averaging two percent per month toward completion of the county's addressing database, deputy judge-executive Chris Waugh told the board.

The master street addressing guide (MSAG) being produced by South Central Bell is 74 percent complete, Meyer said, and the guide will not be usable until it is 95 percent complete.

"I don't know how to give you a definite time frame when South Central Bell will sign-off (on the MSAG)," Meyer told the board. "They say it will take four to six months beyond (reaching the 95 percent completion figure) for actual implementation of 911."

South Central Bell officials could not be reached for comment on the issue.

By accessing the county's database, which is basically complete, Meyer said that the system can be operational "in a reasonable period of time."

It is expected to cost between $10,000 and $12,000 up front to get the system running and monthly equipment charges are estimated to be $1,600 to $1,700, Meyer said.

Board members voted to proceed with implementation using the county's information database.

Also Friday, the board voted to locate the county's PSAP (Public Service Answering Point) on the third floor of the Floyd County Courthouse.

Five sites were discussed by a committee appointed by the board, which included Prestonsburg City Hall; the county tourism building; the old jail; the courthouse annex; and building a new facility. The committee recommended renovating and using the old jail.

The third floor of the courthouse is expected to be vacated by mid-November when the new Floyd County Adult Detention Center is expected to open.

Board member Jim Caldwell said that the E-911 advisory council, which is made up of representatives from fire departments, ambulance services and law enforcement officials, voted September 6 by secret ballot to locate the PSAP in the old jail.

Caldwell asked the board to consider the advisory council's decision and added "don't rule them out."

Board member Gerald DeRossett was in favor of using the courthouse annex and Tom Blackburn, who was Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin's designee, pushed for using city hall.

Meyer explained that the county's juvenile detention center located in the annex will be expanded eventually and, that after a year, the city would charge the board rent for using city hall.

Martin Mayor Alan Whicker reminded the board that they had chosen the selection committee to determine which site would be best to locate the PSAP and the board should accept their recommendation.

"We created (the committee), we should stand behind it," Whicker said.

"I'm behind it," Allen Mayor Sharon Woods said.

The board voted to locate the PSAP at the courthouse if the cost of renovation of the old jail space is determined to be feasible. Blackburn voted no.

Also Friday:

• The board voted to hire Bill J. Dotson as the county's E-911 coordinator at a salary of $18,000 per year. Caldwell noted that the interview committee had reduced the job duties for the coordinator, eliminating the supervision of the system's dispatchers. Caldwell explained that much of coordinator's time would be spent out in the county.

• Meyer gave the board a report on public hearings held last month concerning fire taxing districts in the county. He said that most of the comments made during the hearings were positive and the resounding message given to officials was that residents wanted a 911 system in the county. The process for creating three new taxing districts should be complete by September 30 and the expansion of existing districts should be finished by October 30.

Board member James Campbell was absent from Friday's meeting.

what agency requested the samples and referred other questions to Fentress.

Fentress could not be reached Thursday, but he did comment on the issue Friday.

"I requested (Sheriff Thompson) to obtain a sample from the parking lot as part of our overall investigation," Fentress said Friday. "The grand jury themselves did not instruct him to do that. I am dismayed that a witness before a grand jury would talk to the press about the substance of their testimony. I'm not saying it's accurate either."

"I can't comment on grand jury testimony and neither should any member of the grand jury or investigator concerning testimony before the grand jury," Fentress added. "Neither should anyone else."

While the samples were being taken at the racetrack parking lot September 6, county road foreman Mike Jarrell commented that he had been asked about the issue during his appearance before the special grand jury.

During the excavation at the parking lot last week, it didn't appear that any fly ash was used as a base on the county-owned portion of the lot.

Fly ash has been used, however, on an unpaved portion of the parking lot, which is not owned by the county.

Suspects

"The two were headed toward David when they wrecked," Thorpe said. "They went over an embankment, landed on their wheels, drove the truck up an embankment and got stuck."

Two Salyersville men were arrested in connection with the incident and are being held in the Floyd County Jail on $20,000 cash bonds. They were arraigned in Floyd District Court Tuesday morning.

Brian Gibson, 30, and Neil Edward Gibson, 28, were charged with theft by unlawful taking and giving false information of name and address to a police officer. Brian Gibson was also charged with DUI and operating on a suspended license. Neil Gibson was also charged with alcohol intoxication.

Thorpe said he got a call about 5:30 p.m. that the truck had been stolen. He arrived on the scene and arrested the two about 5:45 p.m.

Our Lady of the Way Hospital is awarded accreditation with an almost perfect score

Continuing a 47-year commitment to providing quality health care services to the community, Our Lady of the Way Hospital has achieved continued accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations.

Formed in 1951, the Joint Commission is dedicated to improving the quality of the nation's health care through voluntary accreditation of health care facilities for accomplishing the highest possible standards of care. Accreditation encompasses not only standards-setting, but also evaluation and education activities. Thus, one unique characteristic of Joint Commission accreditation is the breadth and diversity of services provided under an umbrella that is national in scope and recognition. Joint Commission standards represent a national consensus on quality patient care that reflects changing health care practices and health care delivery trends. The results of a Joint Commission survey provide a hospital with information as to how they compare with other facilities nationwide.

The Joint Commission's on-site survey of Our Lady of the Way Hospital occurred in May. However, preparation for the commission has been an ongoing process which paid off with a score of 97, out of a possible 100.

"We are very proud of this near perfect score," said John Osborne, Chief Operating Officer of Our Lady of the Way. "This shows a significant commitment to quality on a day-to-day basis throughout the organization. Accreditation is attainable only through cooperation and communication among hospital employees, members of the medical staff and governing board."

The Joint Commission evaluates and accredits more than 5,200 hospitals and more than 6,000 other health care organizations nationwide. "Above all, the national standards are intended to stimulate continuous, systematic and organizationwide improvement in an organization's performance and the outcomes of care," says John Clem, director, Hospital Accreditation Services, Joint Commission. "The community should be proud that Our Lady of the Way Hospital is focusing on the most challenging goal—to continuously raise quality to higher levels."

Our Lady of the Way Hospital is a member of the Sisters of Charity Health Care Systems.

Stressed Out? Try Exercise

Most exercisers claim that exercise reduces their stress level. Here is an interesting study supporting this view. One group of students participated in a 14-week aerobic exercise program, while another did not. Those who exercised had lower blood pressure, less muscle tension, and lower anxiety than when they started. The nonexercisers registered no change in these areas.

But what really interested researchers was the way each group reacted to stress. After the 14 weeks, each group was given a test, which, they were told, was a good indicator of how they were likely to perform in college. In fact, most of the test problems were unsolvable.

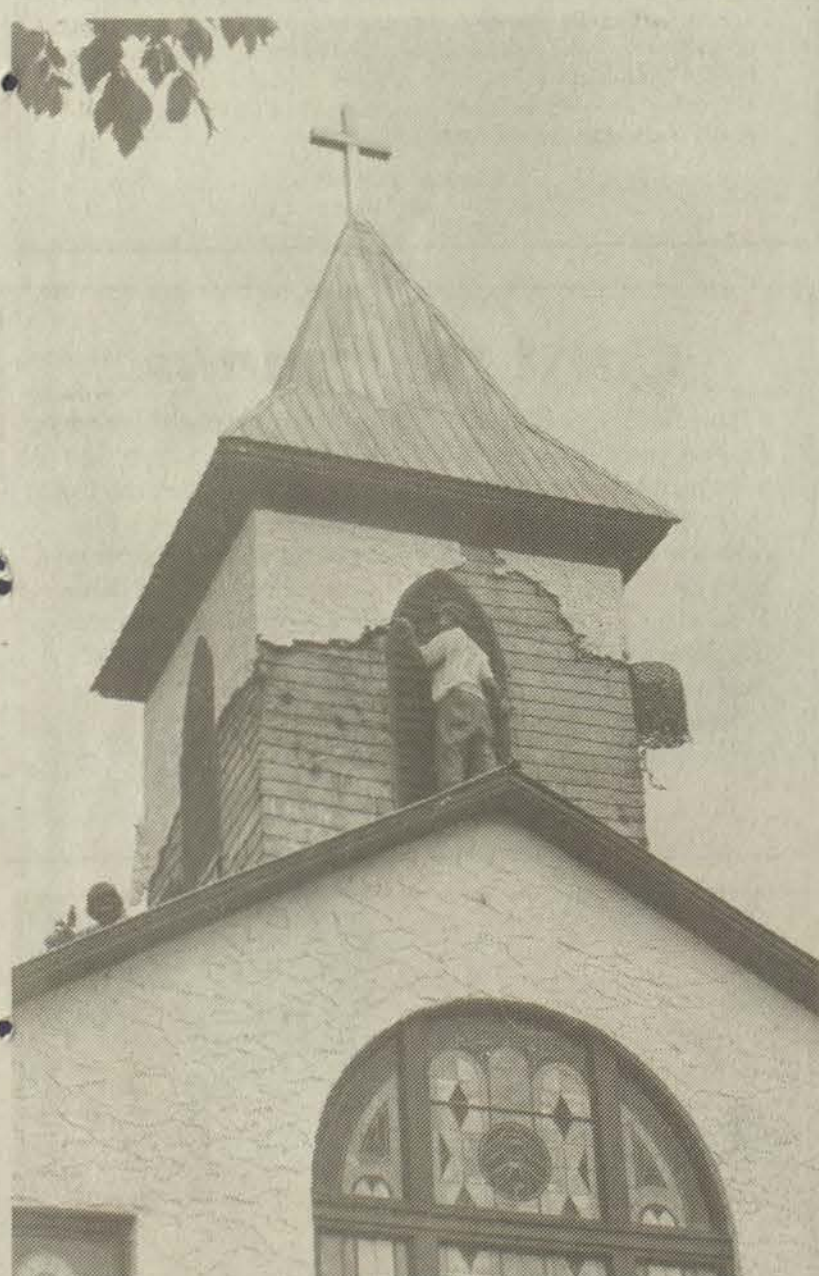

The students without aerobic conditioning showed increased blood pressure, muscle tension, and anxiety when told they did poorly on the test. The aerobic conditioned group also showed increased muscle tension and anxiety because of the poor test results, but less than their nonexercising counterparts. The exercising group did not experience an increase in blood pressure, a key measure of a person's reaction to stress. In short, the fit group handled stress better.

Exercise can improve your health and reduce your risk for cardiovascular disease. However, the most noticeable result is a less stressed-out attitude about life.

Tip of the Week: When exercising in hot weather, you can sweat away more than a quart of water an hour. To replenish the lost water, drink a pint of water for each pound you lose during your workout.

Christopher G. Fleming is the Project Health Coordinator at Prestonsburg Community College. He has a bachelor's degree in Health and Physical Education, a master's degree in Education, and a Master's plus Thirty with emphasis in Exercise Science.

Seminar on financing your child's education to be held Saturday

A brief seminar on financing your child's college education will be held at the Floyd County Public Library on Saturday, September 16, at 10:00 a.m. A $10.00 registration fee in cludes materials and a continental breakfast.

The seminar, sponsored by Mountain Christian Academy of Martin, will discuss ways to finance college education, especially for parents of elementary school age children. The seminar will also discuss current financial aid programs which are available to students entering college.

The speakers at the two-hour seminar will be Daniel Weber, a financial consultant with Merrill Lynch in Lexington, and Lee Watkins, development manager for the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority in Louisville.

For more information or to reserve a place at the seminar, please call (606) 285-5141 no later than September 13.

4.0 GPA

JOBS Opportunity and basic skills participant Billie Tucker, in center of photo, attended Prestonsburg Community College from January through August. She has attained a G.P.A. of 4.0. She was presented a JOBS certificate of achievement from her case manager, Don Sparkman. Pictured with Tucker and Sparkman is Frank Salyers, JOBS coordinator. Tucker plans to continue her college education this fall at Prestonsburg Community College.

Individuals, churches participate in Mail for Our Military project

Charlyn Davis-Hager of Auxier and the Toler Free Will Baptist Church, Youth Group Division with Mabelene Steven as the Youth Leader have participated in the Mail for Our Military.

In 1965 a group of concerned, caring and patriotic Americans joined together to form Vietnam Mail Call in support of America's fighting forces in the Vietnam area.

Today Americans still care and remember through "Mail for Our Military." In homes, schools, churches, meeting halls, military bases—all kinds of place, all across the United States, concerned American prepare morale-boosting cards and letter to be sent to service men and women everywhere.

The cards and letters are intermingled, then are separated into bundles ranging in size from 25 or so for small units to more than 4,000 for an entire base. Processing is not done at taxpayer expense.

Packages are sent via priority mail to more than 1,000 locations all across the U.S. and around the world.

Many who write letters or send cards receive responses. Some have heard from literally every continent, and some are still corresponding with their military pen pals and several years later.

What about next year? Ripken is a class act

The grade school football season is barely underway and already a program could be in a lot of trouble.

Joe Howard was thrust into the head coaching job for the Little Rebs (Allen Central) grade school team only to find out that there was no equipment for the team.

"I went to the varsity program only to be told there were no funds available there for equipment," said Howard. "Then the booster club said they weren't going to support the grade school program this year, only the varsity team."

Howard, not wanting to see the program fold, took it upon himself to secure the equipment needed. Where did the funds come from? His own pocket, to the tune of $2,100.

"I took two days off from my job and, with Roy Harlowe (coach of the "B" team), I went to London to pick up the equipment," said Howard.

Howard is concerned that due to lack of interest in the grade school program, it is in jeopardy of being dropped. Who will pick up the tab next year?

"I don't know," said Howard.

The grade school programs are vital to the survival of high school football, especially in Floyd County. Schools such as Betsy Layne, South Floyd as well as Allen Central just don't have that football tradition to fall back on as does the Prestonsburg school, which has been a strong tradition for many years.

I can see why Howard is concerned. You would think Allen Central, as well as the other elementary schools such as Duff, Martin and Maytown, would want to support the team financially as much as they could.

"They did give us $200 each for transportation during the season," said Howard. "We have to pay the officials with money we make at the concession stand or at the gate. All we have to operate on is the $600 given to us by the three schools. We could use some donations."

It gets pretty bad when a parent has to take over a football team and furnish the equipment needed for a season when it is a program under the direction of the schools. I would hope that our administrators would have more concern than to sit back and let a very important program die out.

Ground game missing as Prestonsburg falls 42-0

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg Blackcats fans were missing and so was the offense against Whitesburg this past Friday night in a district match-up against the Yellowjackets on the road.

Prestonsburg could not get its running game, or passing game, going against the more experienced front line of Whitesburg and dropped a 42-0 decision.

For the first time since the 1991 season, Prestonsburg started a season by dropping its first three games.

In '91, the Blackcats went 0-4 to start the season and rebounded with six straight victories that gave them the district title.

Coach Bill Letton's young ballclub played three of the top area teams in Rockcastle, Sheldon Clark and now Whitesburg in starting the season.

Junior running back Jon Morris found little running room as he totaled 52 of his team's 65 yards rushing.

It wasn't that the Blackcats didn't have some good drives going, but turnovers hurt their chances to get on the scoreboard. They committed seven turnovers, again shades of the '91 team.

Whitesburg rolled out to a 21-0 halftime lead scoring three times in the first quarter. The Prestonsburg defense was good from the second quarter on, but the offense got bogged down in the trenches.

Prestonsburg had trouble hanging onto the football with exchanges between quarterback and center, or quarterback and running back.

Whitesburg took advantage of the early Prestonsburg mistakes to build its lead. With 2:56 left in the second quarter, Chad Spurlock fumbled the football at the Blackcats' 35-yard line with Whitesburg coming up with the loose ball. Two plays later, Stanford scored from two yards out and Chester Adams added the PAT for a 28-0 game.

With 23 seconds to play in the second period, Mike Castle was intercepted by Shane Barker to stop a Blackcat drive.

In the third quarter play, the Yellowjackets were forced to punt, but Jon Morris fumbled the punt and Whitesburg recovered.

The Prestonsburg defense was much stronger in the second half than the first led by the play of Ricky Johnson, Rusty Young, Waylon Bevins, Jon Lyons and Morris.

Jonathan Estep had a good defensive outing with an interception, two tackles, three assists and two knock downs. Johnson had seven tackles and three assists. Bevins had three solo tackles and finished with six assists.

Lyons came up with six tackles and five assists. Morris had four assists and five first hits. Young and Gavin Hale had four tackles each with Chad Spurlock getting three tackles.

South Floyd subdues Phelps 40-34 in four OT's

by Ed Taylor

With South Floyd teacher Lori Bowen roaming the side line and school principal Al Osborne camped at the goal post, how could the Raiders lose against the Phelps Hornets?

Aaron Hall scores in fourth to end marathon

While the two were cheering on the Raiders, the fans in the stands got double their money worth as they saw the Raiders post a 40-34 win over the Hornets in four overtimes.

South Floyd spotted the Hornets a 22-0 halftime lead, until the defense took over the second half. The spirited play of Travis Johnson, Chris Isaac, Andree Faine and Terrance Mullins led a defense that could not be intimidated by the Hornets.

With 4:03 left in regulation play, Phelps was knocking on the door as they moved the ball to the Raiders' 34-yard line, where they picked up a crucial first down on a fourth-and-three situation.

The Hornets got as close as the 30 when the Raiders dug deeper in the trenches and held them at the 30, sending the game into the first of four overtimes.

South Floyd won the toss in the first overtime and declined, going on defense. The Hornets faced a fourth down play at the 12-yard line when quarterback Ryan Dotson hit Derek Gooslin with a pass to put the Hornets in front 28-22.

With the ball at the 10-yard line, South Floyd got plenty of help from the Hornets with penalties.

Phelps pushed the Raiders back to the 15-yard line after Keran Mays was thrown for losses of two and three yards. On pass play action, Nick Compton's pass to Mullins fell incomplete, but the Hornets were flagged for pass interference, giving the Raiders a first down.

Again, on a second-and-ten play, a roughing-the-passer call was made against the Hornets, winning the Raiders an automatic first down and putting the football half the distance, at the six-yard line.

Mays carried the football to the three-yard line where Aaron Hall, seldom used in the backfield, carried the ball across the goal line to tie the score at 28-28.

In a surprise move, Coach Daniels called for Mullins to attempt the extra point and go for the win. The PAT was blocked, however, sending the game into its second overtime.

"Terrance was kicking pretty good in practice," Coach Daniels said of the extra point attempt. "I felt he could do it. We thought he could punch it through to win the game. We hadn't had much success with two-point plays."

Phelps won the toss in overtime number two and elected to go on defense. The Raiders responded with the move and scored on a 12-yard pass completion from Compton to Mullins to send South Floyd out to a 34-28 lead.

But in the same overtime, Phelps, on the first play from scrimmage, scored on a ten-yard run by Gooslin to tie the game at 34-34. Gooslin attempted the two-point conversion, but was stopped at the one-yard line by Aaron Hall bringing up overtime number three.

In the third overtime, neither team could score. South Floyd was pushed back to the 20-yard line while Phelps managed to get inside the five before being stopped by the Raiders' defense.

The fourth and final overtime brought the fans from their seats and around the sidelines as the Raiders won the toss and elected to go on defense.

Phelps could find nothing against the front line of the Raiders as they managed to get to the seven. Dotson, on fourth-down play, looked to pass to the end zone to Gooslin who was wide open in the middle. But Faine batted the football back up field as the Hornets' drive ended.

The Raiders received their instructions from Coach Daniels and they responded. Aaron Hall, remaining in the backfield, managed just a yard on the first-down play.

In a surprise hand off, Heath Hall moved to the seven on a two-yard gainer. On a sweep to the right, Mays was stopped at the one-yard line. But Hall took the Compton handoff and plunged into the end zone for the winning touchdown and the Raider first victory of the season.

"It's been two years since I carried the ball," Aaron Hall said. "I knew I was getting the ball when we got to the one. I couldn't ask for a better job from the line. They did exactly what they were suppose to do."

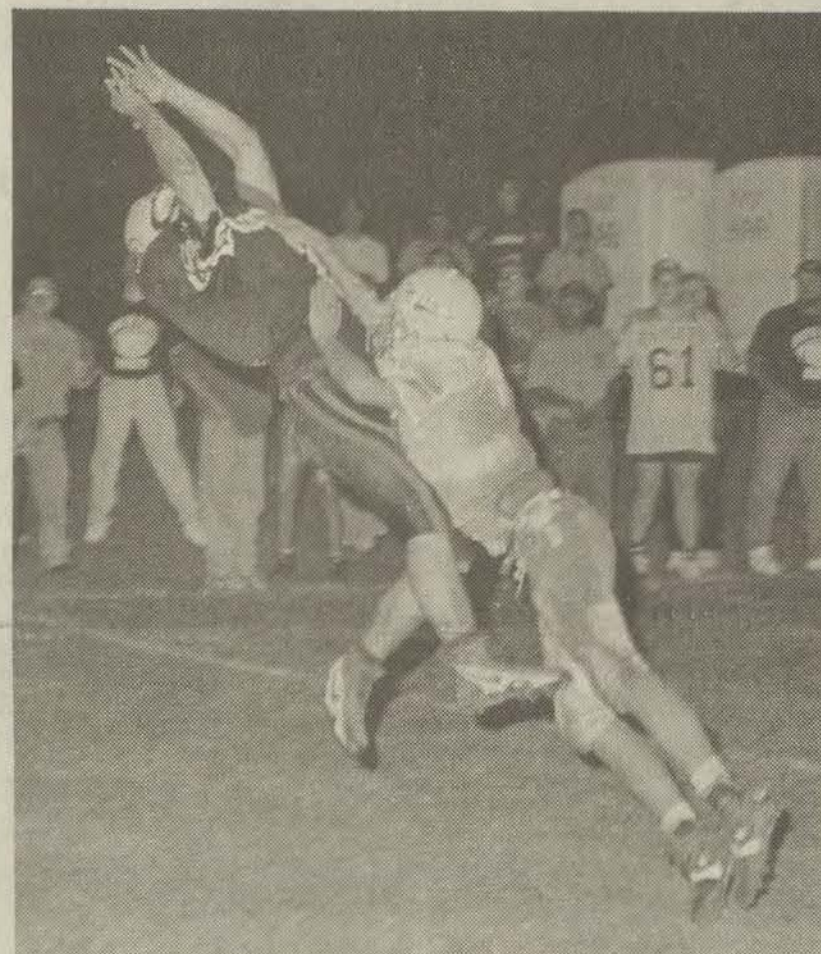

Travis Johnson, who led the Raiders' defense with 12 solo hits and four assists, was elated with the win.

"I'm just glad we won," he said. "We were tired out there. Where Coach Daniels made us run a lot of sprints and get in condition paid off for us tonight."

"Coach Daniels just told us to line up, get set and win the game," said Mullins, who had two interceptions in the first half. "We never quit tonight. Coach Daniels got on to us at the half for falling behind. He told us to keep our heads up and two touchdowns and we're back in the game."

The Raiders took the advice of their coach and with 3:33 left in the third period they reached pay dirt when Mays broke tackle, went on a sweep around the left side and scampered 25 yards for the touchdown.

Betsy Layne remains perfect with 15-14 win over Morgan

Hicks' TD in fourth gives Bobcats 3-0 mark; best start ever at BLHS

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach John Derossset's Betsy Layne Bobcats are off to their best start since football was invented at Betsy Layne High School.

The Bobcats posted a 15-14 win over Morgan County this past Friday night to improve to 3-0 overall and 1-0 in district play. This season marks the return of the Bobcats to district play after a three-year absence.

It was a combination of good offense and excellent defense that brought the Bobcats their first district win. The defense stopped the Cougars on three drives in which they were threatening to score.

Fullback Chris Hicks' lone touchdown was the winning one as he raced 35 yards for the score. Ray Lyon ran the two-point conversion that sent the Bobcats in front 15-14 with 9:09 remaining in the game.

The winning touchdown was set up on a kick-off return after Morgan County took a 14-7 lead in the final period. Lyon took the kick off and returned the ball to the 50-yard line, where he was brought down. Morgan County's Dustin Carter caught Lyon at the 50 to save the touchdown run. However, it only took three plays for the Bobcats to hit pay dirt and take the lead, 15-14.

In the first period, Morgan County drove to the Betsy Layne 18-yard line, but Nick Newsome caught quarterback Danny Deborde behind the line of scrimmage for a sack and 10-yard loss. On the second play he dropped Ben Castle for a 5-yard loss, forcing the Cougars to give up the football.

Again, in the first period, Morgan County found its way inside the Bobcats' 20-yard line only to have Billy Mitchell step in front of a Deborde pass for an interception.

In third quarter action, Morgan County rolled to the Betsy Layne 38 only to fumble the football and have Hicks come up with the loose ball.

Betsy Layne took the early lead in the first quarter and led 7-0 after the initial period. The drive covered 69 yards on 14 plays and concluded when Bobcat quarterback Craig Hamilton hit wide out Willie Meade with a 9-yard touchdown pass and Hicks added the PAT.

Morgan County caught the Bobcats in the second period. Betsy Layne was forced to punt the ball away and Tim Lykins took the ball and scampered 48 yards for the touchdown. Chris Daniels tied the game with the point after with 8:30 left in the first half.

Neither team could score in the third period with the score tied at 7-7.

The Cougars went in front for the first and only time in the fourth quarter on a 9-yard pass reception by Mark Esterling from DeBorde. Daniels' PAT gave the Cougars a 14-7 lead.

But on the next play, Lyon took the kick off and returned it to the 50-yard line setting up the Bobcats' final score.

Betsy Layne dominated the first quarter, running 15 plays to Morgan County's six. Morgan ran only two running plays in the first quarter, turning the ball over twice in the period.

Hamilton completed two of eight passes for Betsy Layne for 23 yards passing. He was intercepted once. The Bobcats picked up eight first downs, none coming in the second period. They were assessed 55 yards in penalties on eight flags.

Betsy Layne rushed for 140 yards for a total of 163 offensive yards.

Morgan County mostly stayed with the passing game with Deborde completing 13 of 23 attempts for 79 yards. The Cougars, not known for their running game, picked up 101 yards on the ground for 180 yards total offense.

The Cougars picked up 12 first downs and were hit with four flags for 35 yards in penalties. They fumbled the football away once and was intercepted once.

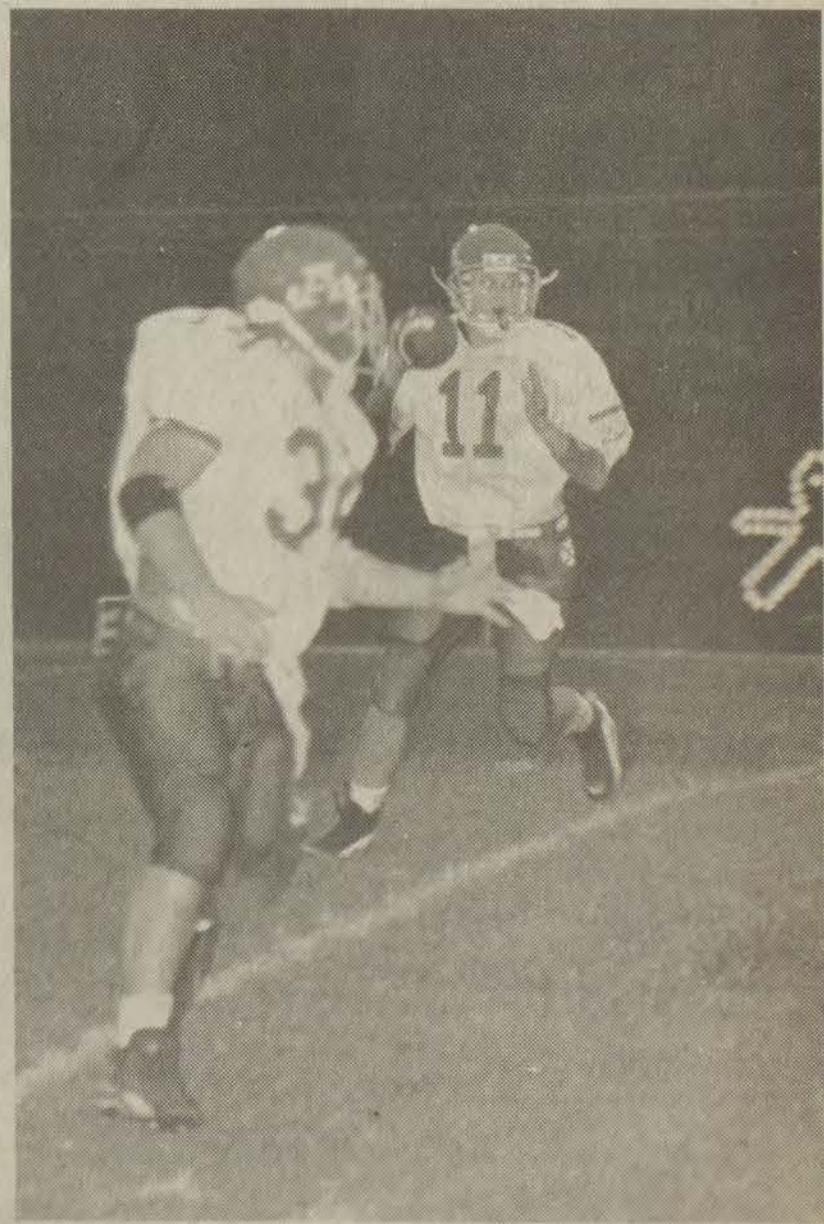

Morgan County had its longest possession time in the third period when the team ran 13 plays only to have the drive end with a fumble.

Betsy Layne (3-0) will host Powell County (0-3) in a district game this Friday night at the Lloyd Hamilton Complex.

Looking down field

Coleman's strong arm not enough as Rebels fall 38-19

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Allen Central's Adam Coleman came into last Thursday's game against 3A Knott County Central as the state's seventh leading passer in high school football.

Coleman did nothing to hurt his ranking, only improved it with an outstanding effort against the Patriots in a losing effort. Knott County posted a 38-19 win.

The senior Rebel quarterback completed 15 of 26 pass attempts for 282 yards. He averaged 168 yards through the first two games.

But it was the ground game that got bogged down for the Rebels as they managed only 14 yards rushing.

Coleman was superb in guiding the air game for Allen Central out of the shotgun. His longest completion was a 62-yard touchdown pass to Beau Tackett.

Tackett had eight receptions for 159 yards. Wide out Thomas Jenkins was on the receiving end of six passes for 118 yards. Sophomore running back Gordon Reeves caught one pass for five yards.

Where the Rebels succeeded with the passing game it was the rushing aspect that brought the win to Knott County Central. The Patriots picked up 318 yards on the ground versus only 59 yards passing.

Fullback Mike Smith rushed for 197 yards on 23 carries while halfback Tomas Weinberg rushed for 84 yards on 22 carries.

Quarterback Brock Hall completed one pass to Darrell Tackett for a 59-yard TD pass.

Beau Tackett had three carries for 16 yards for the Rebels. Allen Central was so desperate for a ground attack that Jenkins carried the ball out of the backfield. He was spilled for a three-yard loss.

Allen Central trailed 19-13 at the half.

The Rebels grabbed the early lead, 7-0, on their first possession of the game. Tackett scored on a five-yard run and Mark Varney kicked the extra point to complete a drive that started on the Rebels' own 29-yard line. Coleman had three completions on the drive that covered 71 yards. Jenkins had two catches for 19 and 37 yards, respectively.

It only took Knott Central four plays to tie the game at 7-7. The Patriots took control of the football at their own 34 yard line. A 14-yard pickup by Weinberg put the ball at the Rebels' 48-yard line where Smith, on a sweep, raced across the goal line for the TD. Jordan Pigman kicked the extra point to tie the game.

The Patriots took their first lead in the second period when they got good field position at the Rebels' 42-yard line. Smith carried two Rebel defenders across the goal line from three yards out for a 13-7 Patriot lead with 6:02 left in the first half.

Deep into their own territory, Coleman brought the Rebels back to pay dirt when he completed a perfect pass to Tackett for 62 yards and a touchdown to tie the game at 13-13. The drive covered 68 yards on four plays.

An off-side penalty on a long count helped the Patriots pick up an important first down and eventually led to the Patriots' last score before the half.

Facing a third-and-four, the 5-yard penalty gave the Patriots a first down to the Patriots' own 30-yard line. Three plays later, Hall hit Tackett with the 59-yard scoring completion to give Knott Central a 19-13 half-time lead.

Allen Central took over the ball with 28 seconds left in the half and Coleman completed passes of 28 and 11 yards to move the ball to the Knott County Central 26-yard line before the half ended.

Smith scored on a 41-yard run for Knott County to start the third period and the Patriots never looked back after that. Weinberg scored from three yards out to make it a 31-13 game with 5:11 left in the third period.

Allen Central lost the ball when Coleman fumbled and Jon Sparkman recovered for the Patriots. Four plays later, Weinberg crossed the goal line on an 8-yard run to make it a 38-13 game following Pigman's PAT. Allen Central's final score came in the fourth period when the Rebels got excellent field position at the Patriots' 45. Coleman hit Jenkins in the flats with a 12-yard pass completion. He found Jenkins again for a 33-yard touchdown pass with 9:44 left in the game.

The Rebels had two other possessions in the fourth period, but could not move the football.

Allen Central (1-2) will travel to Prestonsburg (0-3) for a district game. It will mark the first meeting ever between the two schools.

Rough outing

Allen Central's quarterback Adam Coleman takes a breather against Knott County Central last Thursday night in the Gingerbread Bowl. Coleman tossed for 282 yards in his team's 38-19 setback. The Rebels travel to Prestonsburg Friday night. (photo by Ed Taylor)

DID RIPKEN REKINDLE OUR LOVE FOR BASEBALL?

Cal Ripken...Sports in Kentucky? You bet.

Baltimore's favorite son spread enough Tinkerbell sparkle over the country last week to make us forget for an evening Bill Curry's coaching future...Tim Couch's college plans...whether or not recruiting is going on at Fleming County High School.

From Bill Mazeroski's World Series winning home run to Rupp's Runts' 23-game win streak, to watching Secretariat win the Triple Crown, I can recall no event in sports with more touching drama coupled with lasting significance, than Cal Ripken Night in Baltimore.

In an era of meanness, indifference, selfishness, self-promotion and greed, Ripken's night was a celebration of decency, mutual kindness and charity. From a 3-0 pitch green light (called by President Bill Clinton) that became a home run, to its fund raising legacy — more than $2 million for Lou Gehrig's Disease research — Cal's night belonged to him and us. Fans and baseball needed it the way Mickey needed a liver.

"This is an opportunity for people to express how they feel about baseball," Cal said.

His reaction to fans, friends and family, and personified in the boyish face of Bobby Bonilla, rekindled our flickering belief that Major League Baseball is worth our time and dollars. Cal hugged people, shook and touched hands and made a victory lap that will become a montage, a new logo the game so badly needs.

It was as if the whole nation paused to watch (games in other cities stopped too). It helped us see in a better, simpler light the smallness of owners George Steinbrenner, Jerry Reinsdorf and Jerry Jones, and mercenary players too, David Cone, Barry Bonds, Deion Sanders, and Jose Canseco. They will pass into history, hopefully soon and be forgotten.

Cal's night brought focus to America's too often ignored working man and woman. The bricks and mortar that underpins our nation and insures this game's prosperity. Since last week how many newspaper and television accounts have we encountered about working without missing a day? And, how many of us were reminded of someone in our lives who worked very hard for a very long time to no applause?

He signs an autograph the right way, willingly, frequently, as if it is his privilege to be asked.

Bryan Johnson, a fan who caught Ripken's home-run ball Wednesday night, insisted on giving the ball to Cal instead of selling it. His reward: A meeting, handshake and an autographed bat. And a refreshing news report for us.

Because of Cal Ripken, players and owners can seize a moment, sign an agreement quickly and quietly. Then baseball may ascend back to a place where we want it. Not where Bud Selig or Tom Glavine thinks it belongs, but where we decide.

More than his streak and records to be set, more than all the hucksters and endorsements to come, the images of Cal Ripken's character and grace will stay on with us. Help assure us there is still a Tinkerbell sparkle out there.

CRUCIFY CURRY GAINS MOMENTUM

The move to crucify UK football coach Bill Curry gained momentum this week. As if Kentucky owning the longest losing streak in Division I football isn't enough, the Louisville Courier-Journal sports section added to gloom Monday with a poor headline and poorer reporting, "Cats add QB controversy to list of woes" a four-column headline said.

Controversy? The coach pointed out the obvious, junior Jeff Speedy has not been productive at quarterback and sophomore Billy Jack Haskins earned in the Florida game an opportunity to start at Indiana this week.

In fact, the emergence of the word controversy here marks a new level of rhetoric disparaging the coach instead of pointing out UK's two touchdowns in eight quarters signals a need for change on the field.

On Sunday, a Louisville newspaper columnist chose to reach back to a 12-month old road game to underpin his conclusion that UK has made no progress. Normally, a team's progress is measured by week-to-week chartings.

In fact, Kentucky did show improvement from the previous week. While the offense remained largely predictable and unexciting, there were the insertions of Antonio O'Ferral at wide receiver and Moe Williams at tailback. Both made an impact if not a difference in the final score.

The offensive line blocking was markedly better against a Florida team that is much superior to U of L. Midway through the first half, Kentucky had out rushed the Gators 68-34. Pass blocking for Jeff Speedy was better also. Williams demonstrated the kind of hard charge effort that earned him All-SEC freshman honors. Tells me a coaching decision to put Williams down the depth chart in preseason got his attention.

Kentucky's defense, despite inferior strength and speed, exhibited good signs of progress, even if it still lacks leadership. There were two pass interceptions and hitting was crisper, fewer arm tackles.

Speedy and Haskins? Haskins clearly has a quicker feet and showed he can throw at least as well as Speedy. It becomes a question then of experience and right decision making. Haskins deserves a least a look see.

Meanwhile, Curry, for his part, appears to be succumbing now to rising self-doubt and a louder chorus of critics demanding his dismissal. "I admit there are players who do better when the (game) lights come on," the coach said of Haskins' play after the Florida game.

"I admit....," it's a new phrase in Curry's usual lexicon.

Clearly his critics have Curry on the defensive. A proud moment, isn't it?

Curious and intriguing is that as recently as three weeks ago, offensive coordinator Elliott Uzulac was being hailed as UK football's marvelous new hope. Coach 'U' was here from Colorado to blow away the clouds, part the waters.

So, a fortnight into the season, where's the beef? The much-praised too-tight end offense has produced anemic statistics and two touchdowns. More important, it has exhibited no rocky mountain highs, none of the new wrinkles Uzulac promised as he cajoled and stroked an admiring media herd.

Progress? In game two Kentucky showed some. And as usual the most impressive statistics of all, despite the gloom and a loss to rival Louisville, 53,524 fans came back to Commonwealth Stadium.

South Floyd

Mays ran the conversion play for a 22-8 game.

A critical clipping penalty stalled a Phelps' drive as the Raiders took control of the football on downs with 19 seconds left in the third period.

A 19-yard pick-up by Mays followed by a 13-yard gainer moved the ball to the Hornets' 48 where Mays fumbled the ball away. But again, the Raiders' defense stood its ground as Phelps moved to the Raiders' 22 only to have Travis Johnson stop Gooslin at the South Floyd 22 on a fourth-down play.

The Raiders took over on downs and it only took four plays for South Floyd to strike.

The strike came on a beautiful 53-yard touchdown pass from Compton to Mullins.

"Terrance is my favorite receiver," said Compton of the pass completion. Compton was given the best protection of the game as he spotted the breaking wide out. The TD made it a 22-14 game with 7:25 remaining to play.

South Floyd attempted an on-side kick, but the pigskin came to rest at the Raiders' 49-yard line where Phelps fell on the ball. The Hornets were on the move as Gooslin and Dusty Coleman ran up the middle of the Raiders' defense. Put, on a quarterback keeper, Dotson fumbled the football and Scotty Johnson picked up the loose ball and headed down the sidelines where it appeared he was going all the way. Johnson was brought down at the Hornets' three.

Two plays later, Mays raced into the end zone for the touchdown and Compton hit Johnson with the two-point conversion pass to tie the game at 28-28.

"I just got to play two games last year," Raider quarterback Nick Compton said. "I wasn't ready for this last year. I'm just happy that we won. Coach Daniels called a power-13 play on the last play of the game, that was for Aaron Hall to carry."

Chris Isaac, who made the stop on Gooslin in the third overtime that forced the Hornets to throw the ball, was just rejoicing over the win.

"I feel great," he said.

"The coach came out in the final overtime," Kevin Stencil said, "and gave us a good play. We just did all we could. We gave 110 percent on the play."

Mark Smallwood had only one tackle in the game, but assisted on six. "We just sucked it up and won," he said. "I don't know why we went for the extra point earlier. But I'm just happy for the win."

"Coach Daniels told us at halftime that we had worked hard all week to come out here and lose this ball game," Andree Faine said. Faine had five solo's and five assists on defense. "We knew we had the heart and the potential to win. He motivated us. We drove the ball down their throats."

"Aaron is a strong runner. He can play any position you want him to play. Make him a hole and he is there."

"We had to come out and win this one for pride," Mays said. He finished with 152 yards rushing on 26 carries. "Aaron can run the ball. He's a strong runner."

Mays went out with an injury and exhaustion, so Daniels looked to the play book and Hall for some yardage on the ground. It was a decision made during the second overtime when Mays had to go out.

"We talked about it as a coaching staff in the second overtime," Daniels said. "When Ketrin went out, we knew that we would have to come up with something else. It's an old play that we've had in our offensive play book for a long time. It was a straight dive play."

"Aaron is a big strong kid, a sixth-year senior (he's being playing since grade school). I told him when we called the last time out to go out there, I said, 'Aaron you're one yard from winning the ball game. We're going to run a quick-17 and you're one yard and I expect you to get it.' It was a complete team effort."

Faine had a blocked pass as well as a blocked punt for the Raiders. Mullins had two interceptions.

John Paige had three solo hits and four assists on defense. Mullins had five solo's and two assists. Aaron Hall finished defensively with five first hits and two assists. Chris Isaac had seven solo's and seven assists.

The Raiders finished with 360 offensive yards. Compton passed for 178 on ten completions. Mullins had three receptions for 75 yards and two touchdowns. Aaron Hall had three catches for 39 yards and Mays had 19 yards on two catches.

Gooslin rushed for 120 yards for Phelps. Jason Moses finished with 104 while Dusty Coleman ran for 86. Dotson was six of 18 in passing for 38 yards.

South Floyd (1-2) will travel to Pikeville (3-0) to face the top ranked Panthers in a district game.

A Look at Sports

America. I'm glad it wasn't one of those players who are still childish and have to wear earrings in their ear and go around looking like someone who is a walking jewelry store.

I'm glad it was a person who still thinks that the fans of America keep baseball alive, and that they deserve to be recognized for their loyalty.

I'm glad it was Cal, for no one else would have taken the jog around the stadium to shake hands, touch hands, or stop for a hug without wanting extra pay for it.

I'm glad that Cal Ripken Jr. made that tour and did what he did. It was refreshing to see a major league baseball player forget his celebrity status and join the fans in his special night.

I'm glad Cal Ripken Jr. recognized his family for their contributions to his career and not mouth off about how he did it.

People like Bobby Bonds, Bobby Bonilla, Deion Sanders, and all the rest who have not been good for baseball will soon fade from the scene, but the contributions of one Cal Ripken Jr. will never be forgotten.

Baseball, owners and players need to take a lead here and settle their difference while Cal Ripken Jr. has once again made fans aware of baseball again. It is sad that grown men cannot sit down and put together an agreement so that any threat to next season will be put to rest.

Baseball needs a commissioner. They do not need Bud Selig, but a real baseball commissioner.

Then baseball needs to reinstate Pete Rose, and put him in the Hall of Fame because Rose could be good for baseball once again.

The major leagues need to dump the present format of three divisions in each league and go back to the two. I would even like to see them go further back than that and return to a world series between the winner of the two divisions. Forget all this playoff business, the season is too long anyway.

NEELEY SAYS NOT SO....

Prestonsburg site-base council member Mark Neeley reports that the council did not have any say in the hiring of Jack Pack.

It was reported that once the basketball committee had made their recommendation on a new coach that it would be presented to the site base council for approval. Neeley said the recommendation never did reach the council for a vote.

"I had several people who were burning my ears off over the situation," he said.

School principal Thomas Tackett went with the recommendation of the parents and hired Pack.

Tackett needs to be applauded for his decision and for staying with it. In this day and time, it seems it doesn't matter what some council decides there is always someone to overrule their decision and change it.

Neeley agreed that Tackett should be lauded for his decision.

"I'm glad he did," he said.

Case in point was the elementary principals lobbying to change the grade school girls' basketball season when the appointed committee voted to start it early. The decision was changed. Why appoint a committee or council if you are not going to follow their recommendations?

Thanks, Mr. Tackett for taking a stand. Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports.

PRO FISHIN' TIPS

Look for strong pre-spawn patterns around main-lake points, roadbeds, major creek channels and intersections. During this time, the bass have begun their annual migration toward shallow water in most lakes and reservoirs in preparation for the spawn.

But the cool temperatures of late winter will keep them in transition from deep to shallow holding areas. These structures are typical stopping points for the migrating bass before the water warms up enough to signal the beginning of spawning season.

Fish Fishburne finished sixth in the 1994 B.A.S.S. Connecticut River Top 100 Pro-Am.

Too much defense

Powder Puff, Old-timers highlight racing at 201

by Chris Belcher
Contributing Writer

The 1995 racing season at 201 Speedway has been termed a very successful one as the track closed for the season after last Saturday's Claim Bomber and Super Bomber features.

The night of racing saw the women take to the track in the Powder Puff event and as well as the Old-Timers returning to the clay track.

Bannie Blair overcome a late clip to win the feature to claim the Bomber's race over Keith Potter and Jerry Honeycutt to take home the prize money.

Blair shared the front row of the 12-lap feature with Dean Pennington. When the green flag fell, Blair raced out in front and built a three-car-length lead over Pennington.

The first caution appear when Will Spears lost a driveline in the first turn and Pennington's car followed with mechanical problems as well after three laps.

Marty Hall lost a rear tire for the final caution of the race. After the restart, Blair headed the field out of lap four being chased by Potter and Wendell Wright. Wright fell back allowing Kevin Baker to move into the third spot and it was the battle for third place that was the most competitive.

Baker had to deal with Jerry Honeycutt for third place as the two drivers were side-by-side from the fourth lap until the seventh. Honeycutt finally passed Baker.

Blair on the last turn for the checkered flag, got clipped down low out of turn four, but gathered it back in to take the checkered flag and the feature.

Jim "Iceman" Ison won the Super Bomber feature for his second win in as many weeks. Ison raced for the checker ahead of veteran driver Gary Combs and Jim Lemaster.

Ison was on the front row along with Rodney Webb at the race's beginning. Ison quickly set the fast pace getting out early to a five-car-length advantage.

Webb held second place until the sixth lap when he lost a motor, eliminating him from the field. Points champion Gary Combs moved into second place in his chase of Ison with Johnny Trimble moving into third place.

Trimble spun out of control on the tenth lap causing a caution. Ison continued to extend his lead over the rest of the field.

Scott McCloud edged Martin's Jake Miller to win the Late Model feature at 201.

In the Claim Bomber consolation race, George Meade raced for the checkered flag ahead of Jeff Cyrus and Doug Saylor.

Roger Brown won the Road Hog feature in the last event at 201.

The Powder Puff was a fan's delight as Devee Mills crossed the stripe ahead of Missy Baker for first place.

Track owner Bill McCloud showed he still had it as he climbed behind the wheel and took the checkered flag for the Old Timer's feature. He held off Cecil Butcher and Lowell Blair for first place.

Bassin' with the Pros

PERSISTENCE IS KEY TO CATCHING BASS

The sunken log looks absolutely perfect for bass, but your casts go untouched. What do you do?

"Keep casting," says bass tournament pro and former world champion Larry Nixon. "Sometimes you simply have to aggravate a bass into biting."

Nixon, a member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff and the sports top money winner, should know. Several of his tournament wins, including his 1983 Bass Masters Classic victory, hinged on catching non-aggressive bass that practically had to be forced into biting through repeated casts.

"If you have a good idea of the approximate depth bass are using and there is cover at that depth, and your casts are into that cover, a bass is usually going to hit if it's there," Nixon says.

"If it doesn't, but you're convinced fish are present, just keep working that spot. Circle it with your boat and fish from the opposite direction, because it will give you a totally new perspective of the spot. Then change direction and fish it from your original position again."

"I've seen some fishermen make 15 to 20 casts to the very same log before a bass finally hit," Nixon says.

The Evinrude pro says changing lures may bring faster strikes, but he cautions it is always important to use the most efficient lure possible for the conditions.

"A spinnerbait is one of the best lures to start with," Nixon says, "because it can be fished several different ways and at various depths. It's a reaction lure, so if bass are the least bit active, a spinnerbait will generally draw a quick strike."

"You can also use different models of spinnerbaits to achieve different effects," he continues. "Small blades, big blades, and different head weights all determine how the lure can be fished."

If he isn't using a spinnerbait, Nixon prefers using plastic worms or jigs, and he doesn't hesitate to make repeated casts with these, either.

"One of the things I try to do when I'm absolutely positive a bass is hiding in a certain spot is to make each retrieve just a little different," he says, "even with a worm or jig. I may shake the worm on the bottom, or hop the jig a little faster."

"The main thing is to keep casting. If you're fishing a spot that does have bass, sooner or later they'll hit."

Hensley is appointed to wildlife commission

Doug Hensley, Hazard, has been appointed to the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Commission by Governor Brereton Jones.

Hensley, who replaces Paul Lyon on the nine-member panel, will represent the fish and wildlife interests of citizens in the seventh wildlife district.

Hensley, owner and president of Combs Petroleum Products Inc. in Hazard, is an avid hunter and novice angler who served on the commission from 1983 to 1991.

He is a life member of both the League of Kentucky Sportsmen and the NRA and a member of the National Wild Turkey Federation. He also serves on the board for Kentucky Regional Animal Shelters, the board of the Hazard/Perry County Chamber of Commerce and Hazard/Perry County Industrial Development Board. In 1994, he was elected Man of the Year for Hazard/Perry County.

Fish and wildlife is Hensley's love. His main objective is developing land in Eastern Kentucky to provide outdoor recreational activities for the average sportsman. He is also interested in improving relations between the department and the public and continuing wildlife education with children beyond the fifth and sixth grades.

Hensley and his wife, a teacher at Walkertown Elementary in the Hazard City School System, are the parents of a 19-year-old son and a 16-year-old daughter.

The governor also reappointed commissioner David Godby, Somerset, to represent the ninth wildlife district.

Counties in the seventh district are Breathitt, Floyd, Johnson, Knott, Lawrence, Leslie, Letcher, Magoffin, Martin, Perry and Pike.

LONGER FISHING RODS MEAN BETTER CONTROL

In professional bass fishing these days, longer is definitely better.

The extra length refers to fishing rods, in which the pros have been steadily exchanging their older five and a half footers for newer rods one to two feet longer.

"A longer rod offers at least four major advantages over a shorter rod," explains Ken Cook of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff. "It allows you to make longer casts, provides better lure control and more positive hook setting, and then lets you play the bass better when it is hooked."

"Very few of the tournament pros use rods shorter than six feet in length now, and most prefer a seven footer."

Cook's own preference is a seven-foot graphite rod with a medium to medium-heavy action but with a sensitive, flexible tip. In fact he's designed just such a rod for the Daiwa Corporation, and it has become extremely popular with fishermen throughout the nation because of its versatility.

"Basically, a longer rod simply gives the angler better overall control," explains Cook, winner of the 1991 Bass Masters Classic world championship. "The extra length and flexibility in the tip makes longer casts possible, even with lighter lures, and that's a big advantage in clear water where you don't want to spook bass."

"Then, when you're retrieving the lure, you can direct it further from side to side by moving your rod tip. The extra length changes the line direction and lets you 'steer' a lure under a boat dock or toward a stump much easier than a short rod does."

The extra rod length aids in hook setting, as well, Cook says, because more line is taken up as the rod is raised. More speed is generated at the rod tip, which translates into more power.

"Finally," says Cook, "a longer rod provides more leverage in playing a bass so you have more control. The extra length forces the fish to fight the rod more, which is one of the main principles of fly fishing."

"That's why you can use lighter rods to play heavy fish."

Most of the pros prefer a rod action of 80/20, which means the top 20 percent of the rod provides the tip flexibility, while the remaining 80 percent provides strength, or backbone.

"Overall," concludes Cook, "a longer rod offers distinct advantages over a shorter one, regardless of which action you choose. It amazes me we didn't start using longer rods in bass fishing years ago."

Rebels capture cross-country; Hardy takes first place overall

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The 1995 cross-country season got underway last Thursday at the Paintsville Lake course and the Allen Central Rebels boys' team took first place with a score of 32. Paintsville placed second at 44 with Prestonsburg, South Floyd and Phelps rounding out the top five teams.

Prestonsburg's Ryan Hardee took a first place overall for the boys with a time of 19:58. Allen Central's Jesse Robertson placed second overall with his time of 20:56.

The Rebels also captured third and fourth place in the meet with Josh Patton running in third place with a time of 22:02. Jay Harvey was fourth at 22:04.

"We ran well," Allen Central coach Dewey Jamerson said. "We had three of the top six runners in the meet and that's very good. All three runners were within four minutes of each other. I can't remember us being that compact before. The good thing is, if they keep healthy, all of them will be back next year."

Paintsville's Travis Bell finished fifth at 22:22 and Kyle Sellars, Paintsville, finished sixth at 22:44.

Prestonsburg's Charlie Wallen's time of 23:18 was good for seventh overall. James Seward (Allen Central), Jeremy Watkins (Paintsville) and Chad Hatfield (Phelps) rounded out the top ten.

"James is just a freshman this year and in his first year," said Jamerson. "Chris (Damron) ran well for us. He's just an eighth grader and he only had three days of practice. We placed four in the top eight and that's very good for the first meet."

Dustin Music placed 22nd, Josh Turner 24th, Matt Turner 33rd, Ryan Martin 34th and Matt Tackett 44th overall for Prestonsburg.

Jamerson believes that he has three legit runners that could go out of the region this season.

"Jesse, Josh, and Jay are legitimate and have a very strong chance of going farther this season," he said. "James is coming on very good and he could be a strong runner for us."

Paintsville's Kim Osborne took first place overall in the girls' division with a time of 20:14. The Paintsville girls continue to dominate the cross-country meet and finished first with a score of 28. Allen Central placed second with 51 points, Prestonsburg was third at 78 and South Floyd finished fourth with 83 points. Phelps girls' team was late arriving and did not compete.

Allen Central placed four girls in the top ten with Annie Harvey finishing second and Dreamia Isaac third. Amanda Sammons, out for her first year, and Pam Goble finished ninth and tenth.

Thursday," Jamerson said. "She had some knee problems, but it didn't seem to affect her then."

Coach Jamerson said having more basketball players this year has helped his squad.

"We do have more out and they are willing to work at it," he said. "They ran good, but we could do better. It wasn't bad for the first time."

The Allen Central coach said he was just using the first meet as a training session, but it is a session that he did not want to repeat.

"I think we have a shot at the doubles (men and women) this year," he said. "With the realignment this season, all four county schools are in 2A and the same region."

Shelly Greathouse was the top female finisher for Prestonsburg, placing seventh with a time of 21:19. Amber Leslie finished 14th, Kimi Nunnery 16th, Tonya Honeycutt 21st, Jesse Burke 24th out of 48 runners. Greathouse, Nunnery and Honeycutt are freshmen.

Jenny Meade of South Floyd placed eighth in the meet with a time of 22:25. Paintsville finished fourth through six with Ashley Roe being clocked at 20:46 for fourth place. Martha Kelly finished fifth (21:06), Cassie Cooper sixth (21:19).

The next meet is set for tomorrow at the Paintsville Lake beginning at 5:30.

Allen Central will travel to Boyd County for an invitational meet this Saturday.

Out of the way

South Floyd defensive end Scotty Johnson moved a Phelps player while going after the quarterback last Friday night at Wheelwright. Johnson had a critical fumble recovery that set up the tying touchdown in the Raider's 40-34 four overtime win over the Hornets. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Sports in Kentucky

Dress code for the game? "Kentucky Blue is mandatory to board the bus," Del says.

READERS' (RIGHT) WRITE
On Leslie County quarterback Tim Couch and UK football.

Jim Watkins, Corbin: "I think Tim Couch should commit early to Kentucky. There have to be some great receivers just waiting to see where he goes. If we can't encourage our best to stay in state, how can we expect the best from another state to come here? Kentucky's program can be turned around with the right players. The coaches are in place.

COMMENT: "Thank you for writing."
Brad Cundiff, Columbus, Ga.: "On a scale of 1-10 what are UK's real chances of getting Couch?"

COMMENT: 8.
Oh really?

ABC-TV analyst Bob Griese: "The myth about Notre Dame recruiting is a bunch of bull. Scouts see Notre Dame recruiting a guy and they elevate him."

Say there's a not-so-new view. Where has Griese been? High school seniors have been savvy at elevating their stock for years by including Heavyweight U. on their published shopping lists' while having no intention of going there.

Example: Of the top 25 high school basketball seniors on one national recruiting list this year, 11 say they are considering Kentucky.

RECRUITING NEWS

Tyrone Nesby, who Louisville and Denny Crum farmed out to Vincennes Junior College two seasons ago, got a face-to-face visit from Rick Pitino during the weekend.

If the 6-7 former Illinois high school star has his head turned by Kentucky, Crum has nobody to blame but himself. In a phone interview with a Louisville reporter last week, Nesby was clearly using an interest in Kentucky to vent his frustration with U of L for not paying him any attention during his stay at Vincennes.

Crum hurried to schedule a visit with Nesby this week.

On court, Nesby is similar to UK's Antoine Walker. Off court he is weak academically.

UK's early shopping list looks healthy and is crowded. With front liners Walter McCarty, Mark Pope and Jared Prickett moving on after this season, the emphasis is on big. So: 6-11 Jermaine O'Neal, Columbus, South Carolina; 6-9 Lester Earl of Baton Rouge; 6-10 Jason Collier of Springfield, Ohio; Loren Woods; Cardinal Ritter in St. Louis; 6-10 Renzi Stone of Jenks, Oklahoma.

Rating them: 1. Earl, 2. O'Neal, 3. Collier, 4. Woods, 5. Stone. Rating them on which is likely to end up Kentucky Wildcats: 1. Collier, 2. Woods, 3. O'Neal, 4. Stone, 5. Earl, 6. None.

Best fits for UK, all things considered? O'Neal and Collier.

PARTING SHOT

Where does Kentucky rate among the Top 20 states producing first- or second-team basketball All-Americans, Final four participants and NBA first-round picks? Nowhere, according to Rick Ball who is to JUCO basketball what Bob Gibbons is to Division I.

"Indiana leads in hoops per driveway," Ball tells College Sports Magazine. "But, while Indianapolis has a lot of good players, they are not great ones. Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky and North Carolina have great fan support, but few great players." And so it goes.

Godby will retain seat

David Godby, Somerset, has been reappointed to a third four-year term on the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Commission by Governor Brereton Jones. He will represent the interests of the ninth wildlife district.

Godby, owner of Godby Loans, Somerset Food Service, Lake Cumberland Flea Market and a boat storage facility, has served the commission since 1987, representing 13 counties in the southeast.

He enjoys turkey and waterfowl hunting, fishing and implementing farming practices to benefit wildlife. He is concerned with the increasing amount of pressure being placed on public areas and believes guidelines need to be developed to insure the areas and their wildlife habitats are maintained. The destruction of public property and the lack of respect for the private landowner are two other issues Godby sees as needing attention.

Godby is a member of the Lake Cumberland Chapter of Ducks Unlimited, Quail Unlimited, National Wild Turkey Federation, the Somerset Masonic Lodge, Kiwanis Club, Backwoods Sportsmen's Club, Nature Conservancy and the Audubon and Sierra clubs.

Compact stone cottage evokes early era

By Associated Designs

The Ayersville, by guest designer Rod Pfothenauer of Toledo, Ohio, is a compact stone cottage evocative of an era when home-builders often used on-site materials for construction.

Distinctive exterior features, in addition to the stone veneer, include a stone chimney, stone lintels over the multipaned windows and colorful wooden shutters. A cupola with a weathervane crowns the garage, providing an additional dash of colonial flavor.

This home is only 36 feet wide -- narrow enough to fit on a 50-foot-wide lot with room to spare -- and designed for construction over a full basement. The 1,300-square-foot home is fully equipped for day-today living while the free-flowing dining room/living room allows plenty of space for entertaining.

This large room has a 12-foot vaulted ceiling. A quarter round window, near the top of the wall to the right of the stone fireplace, adds illumination. A mirror-image window, on the other side of the chimney, brightens the kitchen. Trailing plants flourish on the plant shelf that separates the living room from the kitchen. Another plant shelf, on the opposite side of the room, conceals the basement stairs.

French doors in the bayed dining room open onto a raised deck. Diamond shaped windows add charm to a utility alcove, nestled in the passageway to the garage.

The Ayersville's master suite has a large closet and private bathroom with an oversized shower. The other two bedrooms share a bathroom with a combination tub and shower.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $15 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, Ore. 97402. Please specify the Ayersville 42-002 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring over 170 home plans is available for $12. For more information call (800) 634-0123.

NASCAR Connection

by Ben Trout

A WORD OR TWO FROM RUSTY

When you look at the big picture, the 1995 Winston Cup racing season hasn't been that kind to Rusty Wallace, driver of the Miller Genuine Draft Ford. Yes, he is seventh in points and many drivers would be happy with that position.

But when compared with the previous seasons of '93 and '94, where Wallace took home a remarkable 18 checkered flags, 1995 has definitely been somewhat of a disappointment. His numbers are still very respectable however with two wins, nine top-fives and 12 top-tens.

But on Saturday night, it looked like the Rusty Wallace of old as he blistered the three-quarter mile D-shaped oval in the Miller Genuine Draft 400 at Richmond. He led 254 of the race's 400 laps for his 41st career Winston Cup victory.

Coming into last Saturday night's race, Wallace was predicted to be a contender. His career record at Richmond reflects his ability to be one of the best on NASCAR's short tracks. Get this folks, in the last 25 short-track races, Wallace won 11 of them. That's good for a whopping 44 percent. In fact, Wallace won four of the last seven MGD 400's at Richmond. And in the six short track races of '95, Wallace has a very strong five top-five finishes.

And perhaps no other track displays Wallace's short track prowess better than Richmond International Raceway, where he has 12 top-fives and five wins in the last 15 starts. I sat in on the post-race press conference and I was able to get a few of Wallace's comments.

In speaking of his success at Richmond, Wallace said, "I wasn't aware of all the statistics, but I love coming to this place. It's always treated me real good."

Now Wallace hasn't ever been bashful over speaking up about the advantage that the Chevys have over the Fords this year.

"Like I said, I love this track, but handling is everything. All the guys on the team have been working really hard on the handling. There's no doubt that this car is at a definite aerodynamic disadvantage. We're just definitely going have to change that," Wallace said.

Many have said Wallace's less-than-spectacular showing in '95 has been a result of the loss of former crew chief, Buddy Parrott. But Wallace was quick to defend current pit boss Robin Pemberton.

"I'm real super-proud of the job that Robin has been doing. Hopefully, this win right here will quiet down all the nay-sayers about him.

"He's got the handling package down better, our cars are better, and hey, we're faster everywhere this year than we have been in the past. It's just this year, we haven't had the best of luck, but I'm real proud to have him leading our team."

Many people, especially Wallace fans, wonder if all the cars were on equal footing, would the driver of the MGD Ford have six or eight victories instead of just two heading into the 25th race of the season.

"Heck, I was equal with them before and I think I'd have more than that. I've counted up five or six times this year that we could have easily won, but for one reason or another, we didn't.

"The way this team works, they're capable of winning at least 12 races. It's in me to want to, it's in them to do it, and I know the car's got it in it."

The Winston Cup Series returns to action this Sunday for the running of the MBNA 500 at Dover. Wallace is the defending champion of that event and he'll try to carry some of that Richmond momentum over to "The Monster Mile."

Observations about life, flea markets and Muddy Branch

While browsing through some old newspapers the other day, I found a clipping regarding a collection of observations on life from a paperback called Have You Ever Noticed? by Joe Moore.

- I think some of them are really clever and worth sharing.
- Being old isn't bad if you stay away from mirrors.
- School days can be the happiest days of your life if your children are old enough to go.
- Going to church doesn't make you a Christian any more than going to a garage makes you an automobile.
- Father's Day is like Mother's Day, except the gift is cheaper.
- Gossip is when you hear something you like about someone you don't.
- You're an intellectual if you can listen to the "William Tell Overture" without thinking of the Lone Ranger.
- No job is so simple that it can't be done wrong.

- What's legal and what's fair aren't always the same thing.
- Nothing is more responsible for the good ole days than a bad memory.
- Naked and nude mean the same thing except that naked sounds like a surprise while nude suggests it was done on purpose.

Poison Oak

Clyde Pack

- If the only tool you have is a hammer, you tend to see every problem as a nail.
- SPEAKING OF clever little sayings, I saw an interesting one hanging on the wall at a local flea market over Labor Day weekend. "This property protected by a shotgun three nights a week. You guess which nights."
- SOMETHING ELSE I saw at the flea market was a pair of old hand clippers similar to the ones that my dad used on little brother Joe and me back in the forties. Actually, he used them on half the boys in the neighborhood because every time he'd cut our hair, a gang of neighborhood kids would line up and he'd cut theirs, too. Perhaps cut is not the appropriate word. Pull might be more in order because it felt like he pulled more than he cut, especially if he got in a hurry. He'd protest our squirming, but I defy any human to sit still under such tortuous circumstances. Dad's haircuts were nothing fancy. He simply cut hair as long as we had any. Anyway, I bought those old clippers because they reminded me of Dad and how things used to be when I was growing up in Muddy Branch.

AND SPEAKING OF Muddy Branch, it's almost time for the annual reunion at the Paintsville Recreation Center. This year's get together will be on Apple Festival Friday, October 6, and you can almost count on at least one person being there that you haven't seen in 30 or 40 years. You might even find a Bologna sandwich or two to go with a few of the tall tales you're bound to hear. It should be a lot of fun.

Kids beat heat with 'cool' week

Although thermometers were reading 90 and above, campers at Our Lady of the Way Hospital's 4th annual "Kids' Health Kamp" were calling it a "COOL" camp.

The camp was held July 31-August 4, at Camp Shawnee in Floyd County for children with asthma, diabetes, or weight control problems.

Fifty campers, ages 7-13, arrived from Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Knott, Fayette, and Jefferson counties for a week-long overnight, fun-filled camp.

Throughout the week campers participated in daily group education sessions, swimming, paddle-boating, canoeing, basketball, nature walks, arts and crafts and evening campfires. Also, the campers participated in Olympic games and a carnival at the campsite. "Kids' Health Kamp" was staffed by a physician, counselors, nurses, respiratory therapists, physical therapists, registered dietitian, certified diabetes educator, life-guards, and a camp coordinator.

The following individuals, businesses, churches, and community groups support the camp through monetary, food contributions or gift donations: Christian

Appalachian Project, Hall Funeral Home, Dr. Clarita Vicher, St. Martha Church, Pleasant Valley Rebekah Lodge No. 116, Dr. Mary L. Wiss, Dr. Ballard D. Wright, First Commonwealth Bank, Trans-Financial Bank, Medi-Home Care and Marie Martin-Holbrook, Novo Nordisk Pharmaceuticals Inc. and Wilma Bickers, Allen & Hansbury Pharmaceuticals and Nathan Dale, Boehringer Mannheim Corporation, Paddock Laboratories, Lee's Famous Recipe of Prestonsburg, Pizza Hut of Prestonsburg, Dairy Queen of Martin, and Pepsi Cola Company of Pikeville.

Our Lady of the Way Hospital looks forward to the 1996 "Kids' Health Kamp."

For more information, please call (606) 285-5181.

Happy campers

Kids' Health Kamp campers donned their blue hats and smiled for the camera before heading homeward after a week of activities.

Twist and shout

Campers learned that what goes around comes around as the Hula Hoop made its return to the Kids' Health Kamp that is held annually by Our Lady of the Way Hospital.

4TH ANNUAL KIDS' HEALTH KAMP

Cooling off

Campers at the Kids' Health Kamp, sponsored by Our Lady of the Way Hospital, at Camp Shawnee found a great way to cool off by participating in one of the many activities during the week.

Champs

Our Lady of the Way's fourth annual Kids' Health Kamp Olympic Game winners took a break to receive their rewards.

Facial expression

Face painting was just one of the many amusements during the "Games Carnival" at Our Lady of the Way Hospital's fourth annual "Kids' Health Kamp."

FROM THE MOUNTAINS by Jason Gibson

The hanging of Ananias Honeycutt

The public spectacle of the hanging of Ananias Honeycutt in Tazewell, Tennessee on August 12, 1875, and factors regarding the investigation, trial and execution, led to the discontinuance of public hangings in the state of Tennessee.

The hanging of Honeycutt was witnessed by nearly 6,000 people, with many coming by horse, wagon or foot from a wide area. Families used the occasion for picnicking and visiting.

An interesting visitor was notorious outlaw Frank James of Missouri who was visiting friends in the area and inconspicuously watched the execution from a second-floor window of the Tazewell College after paying a local resident a $5 gold piece for his vantage point.

The 25-year-old Honeycutt claimed he argued with Thomas Ausmus on January 30, 1874, about a hog and that, during the dispute, he struck Ausmus three times with a rock. He said his actions were in self-defense and after striking Ausmus, he left him alive with a man named Greenlee.

Honeycutt was arrested 100 miles away a week after the incident and he was transported to the Tazewell jail. Later, he was taken to the murder scene and questioned. It was reported that Honeycutt admitted planning to kill Ausmus, but several people who were present said they had heard no such admission. Others reported that on their way back to the Tazewell jail, Honeycutt admitted his plans to kill Ausmus, who was his neighbor, for his money.

In the trial, Honeycutt said he admitted nothing more than having a dispute with Ausmus and striking him. He strongly professed his innocence and sought to have the trial moved. His request was denied. Honeycutt's attorney sought to have statements set aside that he made because they were made under duress and to gain clemency. His request was again denied.

The physical evidence amounted to the wounds to the head of the slain man and the bloody rocks found at the scene near the body. Although the ground was wet, it did not show signs of a struggle as Honeycutt contended. Tracks of both men were found from the road to the hollow where the fateful event occurred. Honeycutt's left foot was shorter and had turned up toes and this left a distinct print approaching and at the murder scene.

It came out in the trial that Greenlee had not been with the two men. Honeycutt's case was damaged by that and by the fact that he fled on the night of the murder. He was found guilty. Appeals to higher courts brought the same result, the sentence of death by public hanging.

Honeycutt was held in the Tazewell jail, which had been in service since it was built in 1816. Sheriff Mayes took him to Academy Hollow, now only 50 feet off of Highway 25E in the city of Tazewell, riding atop his coffin in an open wagon. The wagon, pulled by two horses and surrounded by 50 guards, was positioned directly under the noose.

"Lord, who shall abide in thy tabernacle? Who shall dwell in thy holy hill?" Preacher Billy Crutchfield belted as he read from the Bible, bringing the crowd to a hush. "He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness, and speaketh the truth in his heart.

"He that backbiteth not with his tongue, nor doeth evil to his neighbor, nor taketh up a reproach against his neighbor.

"In whose eyes a vile person is condemned; but he honoreth them that fear the Lord. He that sweareth to his own hurt, and changeth not."

After reading the 15th psalm and singing a hymn, with many in the crowd joining in, Reverend T.P. Ensor followed with a prayer as the prisoner knelt quietly beside his coffin.

"And as it was appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment," Crutchfield read from ninth chapter of Hebrews as he began a sermon. For nearly an hour his voice boomed for all those present to hear.

Reverend A.J. Greer proceeded with a second sermon as the destined man waited on the wagon beneath the noose. In his conclusion, Reverend Greer spoke directly toward Ananias Honeycutt as he read from the fourth chapter of Amos, "Prepare to meet thy God."

After the preachers finished, the sheriff asked the prisoner if he had anything to say.

"This is very hard for me," Ananias said in a soft voice. "It is hard for me to die. I'm sure it would be for anyone. But I have made peace with God and my life is in his hands. Soon I will meet many relatives and friends who have gone on to Heaven. I'll be awaiting many of you with my Father in Heaven.

"I want to say again that I am innocent of the murder that I have been charged with. I can say that over and over, but it has little meaning. It's as though no one hears. I know I must face death. I don't want to, but I am ready."

Reverend Greer gave Honeycutt a handkerchief and asked that he shift it from hand to hand in his dying moments, if he were innocent. The sheriff placed a

Floyd County Retired Teachers held their quarterly meeting September 7

The Floyd County Retired Teachers Association held its regular quarterly meeting on Thursday, September 7, at May Lodge. Mrs. Roberta Fugate, president of the organization welcomed everyone to the gathering and presided over the proceedings.

The invocation was given by Ruby Akers. Her subject was "Hands." The Pledge to the Flag and group singing were led by Alice Martin.

Imogene Caldwell read the minutes of the June 8 Memorial Service held in the Wilkinson-Stumbo Convention Center. She also reported on the FCRTA Executive Committee held August 7 at the Floyd County Library in Prestonsburg. The minutes for both sessions were approved as read.

Committee reports were then given as requested by the president. Mrs. Fugate asked that those members present consider volunteering their services on several committees. Marie Coburn Mullins offered to serve on the notification committee by calling all members with 358 telephone numbers.

In new business, Ray Brackett discussed the memorial hiking trail that was being dedicated to his son, Stephen. Dedication ceremonies will be held September 30 at 1 p.m. at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Louise Howard and Alice Martin cited the need for better health care for members of the organization. They deplored some of the cost-cutting measures that are now being taken at what they consider a risk to the patient's health and well-being. Mrs. Howard made a motion that the organization send a letter to our health insurance company to let them know of our needs and expectations. Ray Brackett seconded the motion. The motion passed.

Mrs. Fugate announced the KRTA workshop that will be held September 14 at May Lodge, beginning at 8:30 a.m. At that time she will give a report on her trip to Louisville where she attended the state executive council meeting. She also mentioned the Big Sandy District meeting scheduled for Thursday afternoon, the same day as the KRTA workshop.

There were two speakers at the FCRTA meeting. The first was George Archer, coordinator of Consolidated Health Systems. Archer talked about the need to have a program for seniors that not only improves the fitness and health of the older citizens but also provides for socialization. He said that such a program now exists at Highlands Regional Medical Center. He also explained the program and its cost. Several persons present decided to take

Hales celebrate anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Wornie Hale of Hueysville celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on September 1.

Clara Hicks and Wornie Hale were married September 1, 1945 in Paintsville. They are the parents of Cheryl Hitch of Edgewood; Lillie McNutt of Garrett, Indiana; and Denzil Hale of Newark, Ohio. They have five grandchildren, David and Margaret Hale, Shawn and Shenna McNutt, and Nedra Hitch.

Wornie is a retired coal miner. Clara is a homemaker. The couple celebrated with a reception hosted by their children on September 3, at the Hueysville Church of Christ.

Retired teachers to hold fall workshop

The Kentucky Retired Teachers Association (KRTA) Fall Workshop will be held at May Lodge on Thursday, September 14. Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. with the meeting to start at 9 a.m. Virginia Shaw, Crab Orchard, KRTA president, will preside with the state officers and committee chairmen presenting the program.

Lunch will be provided in the dining room for participants of the workshop.

The Big Sandy District Retired Teachers Association will meet immediately following lunch with Dr. Lola Doane, president of BSKRTA, presiding over this meeting. All retired teachers in the counties of Floyd, Pike, Magoffin, Johnson, Martin and Lawrence are encouraged to attend both meetings.

advantage of the offer.

Mr. Archer also noted that retired teachers are now offered a five percent discount of any amount owed after Medicare and Aetna have paid their portion of a bill submitted by Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Jessica Sturgill, assistant wellness center director at Highlands, was the second speaker. She discussed an ongoing program that concerns the complete health and fitness of seniors. She also pointed out some of the features of the new building at Highlands which will soon be put to use.

Besides the two speakers, there were 20 people present at the FCRTA meeting. Four of them, Marcella Bradley, Doris Osborne, Delores S. Woody and Ray Brackett are recent retirees. They presented themselves to the group and recounted some of their experiences in education.

Other persons present included Mabel W. Allen, Marie Mullins, Etta Scott, Louise Howard, Roberta Fugate, Alma Lowe, Bessie Conley, Ruby Akers, Mildred Whitaker, Alice O. Martin, Eileen Martin, Elmer Martin, Lloyd Wells, Sarah Laven, Harry J. Wallace and Imogene Caldwell.

Ruby Akers gave the benediction. The next meeting of FCRTA will be December 7.

Jack May's War

(Editor's note: The following article is an excerpt from the book, Jack May's War by Robert Perry)

As you will recall, General Humphrey Marshall's purpose in going to Mount Sterling was to block the escape of George Morgan's command at Cumberland Gap. On September 17th, outflanked by Kirby-Smith, Morgan's men left their trenches and began retreating northward. While Marshall waited for Morgan to reach the vicinity of Mount Sterling, he was reinforced by three brigades under Kirby-Smith, including a regiment of cavalry under Colonel John Hunt Morgan. On September 26th Guarrant wrote in his diary:

"Colonel Morgan [John Hunt Morgan] and Captain Shawhan observing Federal Morgan near Hazel Green."

The Confederates harassed Morgan's fleeing columns from Hazel Green to West Liberty. They felled trees in his path, threw up barricades, skirmished with his advance guard, and captured his cattle. However, they were unable to capture his seven thousand men. Morgan reached Greensburg (present-day Greenup) on the Ohio River on October 3rd, after a march of nearly two hundred miles in sixteen days. Several days later one of Morgan's staff officers published this account of the march in the Cincinnati Gazette:

"A small body of cavalry had been watching our movements and hovering on our flanks for some time. Soon after we left Hazel Green... a rumor came from the front that a rebel force of several thousand was preparing to dispute our progress. We knew that we were near the line of the State road leading from Virginia to Lexington via Mount Sterling. We had learned that troops had been passing through West Liberty, Morgan County, and we had reasons for anticipating a combination of rebel hosts at that point."

"A rumor that an attack had been made on our advance passed along the line, from regiment to regiment. Every man passed eagerly forward, straining his ear to catch the first sharp crack of the rifle, but no such sound came, but on the contrary, looking off to our right, up came Quartermaster Stubbs shouting that we were being attacked in the rear. The halt and the double-quick to the rear of two or three regiments was but the work of a minute, but the enemy had caught a prize and were out of sight before the alarm was given."

"The 22nd Kentucky was in the rear--two companies formed the rear guard. Following them was a drove of nearly a hundred beeves. When the report passed along the line that an attack had been made on our front, the gallant 22nd pushed on, anxious to be in the fray if possible. Even the rear guard became considerably advanced beyond the cattle. The rebel cavalry, lying in ambush, seized this favorable moment and dashed in upon the cattle, shot and mortally wounded two of the drivers, turned and successfully drove off the entire herd."

When Morgan's men reached the vicinity of West Liberty, they discovered "a large body of enemy cavalry" blocking their path. Morgan immediately brought up his artillery and shelled the position, causing the rebels to retreat. When the Federals entered the town the following morning, they found "a wretched-looking, dilapidated county seat. Half the houses were without inhabitants, and nearly all of them had broken windows and a woe-begone aspect."

A major melon

To a kid, a hospital can be a big, scary place. It's the unknown where anything could be lying in wait. And, if you're the parent of a child in the hospital, it could be just as scary for you.

At King's Daughters' Medical Center, we've taken big steps to change all that. The result is an exceptional Pediatrics Unit.

It's one of our 5-STAR Centers of Excellence. That means we aim for the highest level of patient satisfaction. Specialized rooms, equipment and staff provide not only superior care and treatment, but also trust.

There are 23 private rooms designed to increase the comfort of young patients and their parents. Thanks to the KDMC Auxiliary, each room is furnished with a recliner and a television. Some rooms even connect, in case you ever have two children in the hospital at the same time.

For children who are more seriously ill, we have a special observation area with a separate air circulation system and around-the-clock nursing care. But, ask the kids what they like and they'll tell you the brighter, happier decor and, of course, the Nintendo™ games in their rooms.

With all this in mind, the scariest thing to contemplate would be taking your child anywhere else.

Large crowd attends 1995 Layne reunion

The 1995 Layne Reunion was held Sunday, September 3, at the Tom's Creek Baptist Church at Ivel. Most of the family members who attended are descendants of Moses Sanford Layne and his wife, Serena Clark.

"Sant" Layne was the son of Lindsey Layne and his wife, Adeline Mead, and the grandson of pioneer settlers James Shannon Layne and his wife, Katy Hager.

Members of the Layne family have been meeting on the Sunday of Labor Day weekend for many years.

During this year's gathering, Charles Walker opened the reunion with a prayer. A covered dish dinner was served. After dinner, the master-of-ceremonies, Joe Hinchman, presented several gifts.

Gifts were awarded for the oldest woman present. Lackey resident Constance Layne, who is 94, was presented the award. The oldest man award went to Ralph D. Wilhelm, 92, of Allen. The youngest child present was 19-month-old Garrett Bowling of Elizabethton, Tennessee.

The Alwilda Layne Darby family had the most family members present.

Nominations needed for cattle FACTS

The third year of the FACTS (Feedlot and Carcass Tests) program is underway and producers who want to nominate cattle for the program need to have their nominations to the coordinator of the program by October 9.

"Through the FACTS program, cattle producers can nominate from five to 25 calves to be fed in a Kansas feedlot. During the feeding process, monthly data are sent back to the producer so he can evaluate his herd's ability to produce calves destined for the feedlot. At the end of the feeding period, individual animal carcass data are sent back to producers," said John Johns, extension animal scientist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Last year's Kentucky cattle did very well in the feedlot, but not quite as well as their predecessors the year before, he said.

"A hard winter in Kansas led to higher death rates than the year before. Nonetheless, the calves performed very well," Johns said.

From the data collected during the past two years, Kentucky producers may want to reduce the variability of the calves they produce, he said.

"The Kentucky calves were quite variable concerning their performance, although the average was good. Hot carcass weight in one pen of Kentucky calves, for example, ranged from 531 to 969 pounds. Prices for calves at both ends of the range were discounted by packers," he said. Quality grade also should be a consideration for Kentucky cattlemen.

"In last year's trial, 32 percent of the calves graded choice and 12 percent graded standard. We need to boost the percentage of calves going into the choice grade, while reducing the percentage going into the standard grade," he said.

The average yield grade of the last trial of Kentucky cattle was 2.84, which compared very favorably with the industry standard of about 3. The lower the yield grade, the better the carcass meets industry standards, he said.

"Yield grade indicates the cutability of a carcass. Backfat is the primary factor influencing yield grade, but ribeye area and other factors have some effect," he said.

"The FACTS program can help Kentucky producers produce calves that bring a premium at feedlots. The data returned to the producer can be invaluable in helping him make decisions about his herd's genetics and his preparation of calves for the feedlot," Johns said.

Information about the FACTS program is available at county Extension offices throughout Kentucky, he said.

Run cold water into the tub first, then add hot water to reach a safe temperature. This will prevent a scald burn.

The Thompson family, from Melbourne, Florida, Gale and Alpha Omega, traveled the farthest. Bonita Hinchman Porter won a flower arrangement door prize.

During the reunion, Charles and Ruth Layne of Phoenix, Arizona, were honored on their 47th wedding anniversary.

Goldie Layne Hall presented several other gifts to those attending.

Entertainment was provided by several Layne family members. Dolores Layne Hicks and Bertrum Layne played guitars and sang, while Joe Hinchman, Bonita Hinchman Porter, Charles Walker, Omega Thompson, Shasha Randolph and Tina Butts led group singing.

Bertrum Layne sang a family favorite "Why Me, Lord." Ashley and Kristin Boyd, daughters of David and Susan Boyd of Ivel, each sang a song. Jim Collins of Albion, Michigan also entertained the group with a song.

Family member and guests from Kentucky were Beulah, Geneva, and Charles Walker; Billy Stratton; Kathleen Ratliff; David, Susan, Ashley, and Kristin Boyd; Misty Boyd; Joda Butts; David, Norman, and William Hinchman; Tillie Branham; Dolores Hicks; Ruth Stratton Hall; Thomas Ratliff; Edward Stratton; Cealia Stratton; Zella Ratliff; Constance Layne Lackey; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Stratton and Jennifer Fox.

Also attending from Kentucky were Brandy Mays; Herbert and Grace Potter; Bill Potter; Selma Boyd; Melvin and Wanda Fletcher; Joe and Mary Hinchman; Ralph D. Wilhelm; Chris Collins; Gene Hall; John Lackey; Charles Conn; Debbie Warrix; Dawn Collins (Boyd); Misty, Selena, and Cody Boyd; Mack and Loretta Risner; Joanna Conn Lafferty; Bertram Layne; T.J. and Goldie Layne Hall; James A. and Loretta Wright Smith; James Bell, and Jeff Conn, and Nancy Waddle.

Others from Kentucky attending the reunion were Celia Hall; Jimmie George; Hazel D. George; Glenna Salmons; Patty Damron Akers; Philip Stewart; Lora Stewart; Charles and Garnett Wright; Bonita Hinchman Porter; Donna Jones; Earnestine DeBord; Virginia M. DeBord; Lillian Blackburn; Burt Layne; Katherine Stratton; Tommy D. Hall; Isom Hurd; Eunice Stratton; Bob Conn; Alan Conn; and Shuler Hurd.

Those present from other states were Glen and Christine Layne of Greensboro, North Carolina; Michael Little of Elizabethton, Tennessee;

James Collins of Albion, Michigan; Lawrence and Mary Neeley of Alger, Ohio; Debra Leisure of Olmsted Falls, Ohio; Charles and Ruth Layne of Phoenix, Arizona; Elsie Layne Leisure of Ypsilanti, Michigan; Hubert and Hester Layne of Elizabethton, Tennessee; Lisa and Collin Walch of Battle Creek, Michigan; Nelson, Gailenna and Stasha Randolph of Birmingham, Alabama; Gale and Alpha Omega Conn Thompson of Melbourne, Florida; Rosa Collins of Albion, Michigan; and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Collins of Concord, Michigan.

Also attending from out of state were Tannis Adkins of Ceredo, West Virginia; Dena and Garrett Bowling of Elizabethton, Tennessee; Mike and Serena Layne Little of Elizabethton, Tennessee; Jessica and Lisa Little of Elizabethton, Tennessee; Evelyn Lorene Wright of White Lake, Michigan; and William B. Scalf of Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Mountains

Continued from C 1) black cap over his face and head and stretched the noose around his neck so tight that Honeycutt had to stand on tiptoes.

The wagon was pulled forward at 2:10 p.m., leaving the hanging Honeycutt suspended and struggling in mid-air. He methodically moved the handkerchief from one hand to the other and back. People screamed and several fainted. Sobs and moans echoed through the massive crowd as the hanging man twisted about.

It was nearly 15 minutes before Honeycutt died and at 2:36 p.m., the body was taken down and taken to Powell Valley for burial.

The horrible spectacle led to the discontinuation of public hangings in the state of Tennessee.

A trio

Paul Stumbo recently showed off the three watermelons he raised at his garden at McDowell. The melon on top is a 78-pound Carolina Cross; on bottom at left is a 70-pounder, and at right, a 65-pounder, both of the Cobb Jim variety. "There's no secret," Stumbo said about his skill at growing watermelons. "You plant, hoe and let go." (photo by Polly Ward)

No-Bake Chocolate Cheesecake

Cocoa Crumb Crust
 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
 1/2 c. water
 1/2 c. Hershey's Cocoa
 1/2 tsp. instant coffee granules
 1 can (14 oz.) sweetened condensed milk (1 1/3 c.)
 1 1/2 tsp. vanilla
 2 pkgs. (8 oz. each) cream cheese, softened
 1 container (9 oz.) frozen non-dairy whipped topping, thawed (3 1/2 c.)

Prepare Cocoa Crumb Crust. Mix gelatin and 1/2 cup water in small saucepan; heat and stir until dissolved. Combine cocoa and coffee granules in small bowl. Gradually add gelatin mixture to cocoa; blend well until mixture is smooth. Stir in condensed milk and vanilla. Beat cream cheese until fluffy in large mixer bowl; gradually blend in cocoa mixture. Fold in whipped topping; pour into prepared crust. Freeze 3 to 4 hours or until firm. Garnish with sliced strawberries, sliced peaches or canned cherry pie filling, if desired.

Cocoa Crumb Crust
 1 1/4 c. graham cracker crumbs (about 9 crackers)
 1/4 c. Hershey's Cocoa
 1/4 c. sugar
 1/3 c. butter or margarine, melted
 Combine graham cracker crumbs, cocoa and sugar in small bowl. Add melted butter; mix well. Press firmly onto bottom of 9-inch springform or square pan; chill.

Chicken 'N Dumplings
 1 1/2 c. flour
 2 tsp. baking powder
 1/2 tsp. salt
 3 Tbs. butter
 3/4 c. milk
 Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in butter with pastry blender. Stir in milk until barely blended. (Do not overmix batter). Drop batter by spoonfuls into boiling chicken broth and cook uncovered for 10 minutes. Cover and cook dumplings 10 minutes more.

Cornmeal Pie
 1 c. sugar
 2 eggs
 2 Tbs. cornmeal (coarsely ground)
 1/2 c. milk
 1 tsp. vanilla
 1 Tbs. flour
 1/4 c. butter
 1/2 c. brown sugar
 1 Tbs. vinegar
 Combine ingredients. Pour into a 9-inch unbaked pie shell. Bake in 350°F oven until firm (40-45 minutes).

Funnel Cakes
 3 eggs, beaten
 2 c. milk
 1/4 c. sugar
 4 c. flour, sifted
 2 tsp. baking powder
 1/2 tsp. salt
 To beaten eggs, add milk and sugar. In separate bowl sift dry ingredients. Add to egg mixture, beating till smooth. Heat oil to 375°F and pour batter into hot fat through a regular household funnel. Control the flow of batter by holding your finger over the bottom of the funnel. Make patterns, designs, or swirls with the stream of batter as it flows into the hot fat. When funnel cake is golden brown, drain off the grease and sprinkle with confectioners' sugar.

Chocolate Pecan Pie
 1 (15-oz.) pkg. Pillsbury All Ready Pie Crusts
Filling:
 1 c. light corn syrup
 1/2 c. sugar
 1/4 c. margarine or butter, melted
 1 tsp. vanilla
 3 eggs
 1 (6-oz.) pkg. (1 c.) semi-sweet chocolate chips
 1 1/2 c. pecan halves
Topping:
 2 Tbs. reserved semi-sweet chocolate chips
 10 pecan halves
 Whipped cream
 Prepare pie crust according to package directions for filled one-crust pie using 9-inch pie pan. (Store remaining crust.) Heat oven to 325°F. In large bowl, combine corn syrup, sugar, margarine, vanilla and eggs; beat well. Reserve 2 tablespoons chocolate chips for topping. Stir in remaining chocolate chips and 1 1/2 cups pecans. Spread evenly in pie crust-lined pan. Bake at 325°F for 55 to 65 minutes or until deep golden brown and filling is set. Cover edge of pie crust with strip of foil after 15 to 20 minutes of baking to prevent excessive browning. Cool completely. Line cookie sheet with waxed paper. Melt 2 tablespoons reserved chocolate chips in small saucepan over low heat. Dip each of 10 pecan halves into chocolate. Place on waxed paper-lined cookie sheet.

Refrigerate 15 to 20 minutes or until chocolate is set. Garnish pie with whipped cream and chocolate-dipped nuts. Refrigerate.

Apple Pie
 1 (15-oz.) Pillsbury All Ready Pie Crusts
Filling:
 6 c. thinly sliced, peeled apples
 3/4 c. sugar
 2 Tbs. flour
 3/4 tsp. cinnamon
 1/4 tsp. salt

1/8 tsp. nutmeg
 1 Tbs. lemon juice
 Sugar
 Prepare pie crust according to package directions for two-crust pie using 9-inch pie pan. Heat oven to 425°F.
 In large bowl, combine all filling ingredients; mix lightly. Spoon into pie crust-lined pan. Remove remaining crust from pouch; unfold. Press out fold lines. With a small apple cookie cutter, cut out two apple shapes. Place crust over filling; fold edge of top crust under bottom crust and flute. Brush apple shapes with water and place on top of pie. Brush crust lightly with water and sprinkle with sugar. Bake at 425°F for about 40 to 45 minutes or until apples are tender and crust is golden brown. Cover edge of crust with strips of foil after 15 to 20 minutes of baking to prevent excessive browning.

Winter Fruit Pizza
 1 (20-oz.) pkg. Pillsbury Refrigerated Sugar Cookies

1 (8-oz.) pkg. cream cheese, softened
 1/3 c. sugar
 1/2 tsp. vanilla
 Fresh or canned pineapple slices, drained
 Maraschino cherries, cut in half
 Mandarin oranges, drained
 Kiwifruit, peeled and sliced
 1/4 c. orange marmalade
 1 Tbs. water
 Heat oven to 350°F. Slice cookie dough as directed on package. Arrange slices in bottom of 15x10x1-inch baking pan. Using floured fingers, press dough evenly into pan. Bake at 350°F for 12 to 15 minutes or until golden brown. Cool completely. In small bowl, beat cream cheese, sugar and vanilla until fluffy. Spread mixture over cooled cookie crust. Arrange fruit over cream cheese. In small bowl, combine orange marmalade and water; blend well. Spoon marmalade mixture over fruit. Refrigerate at least one hour before serving. Cut into squares. Store in refrigerator.

Sunshine Lines

Country music. There's nothing like it!

Last Saturday morning as I sat on the porch watching the sun rise—a personal experience I treasure on inviting spring, summer and fall mornings in beautiful Appalachia, I heard the most melodious chorus. The birds, awakening among the trees, were singing; the hawks, gawking from overhead, were squawking; the ducks, waddling up the hollow to the creek, were quacking; the neighbor's roosters, down the road, were crowing; the cow, in the pasture across the branch, were mooing; the relative's dogs, up the road, were barking; and our cats, nuzzled affectionately around my ankles and legs, were purring. Nature in harmony. What a beautiful morning! What beautiful music!

I can't tell you how long I sat there, totally absorbed, listening to this pure, unadulterated country music. I was at peace. Relaxed. Life's pressures, and my concerns about yesterday, last year, ten years ago, and tomorrow were nonexistent so long as I remained in this euphoric mental state. But then, as with every song, the music ended. My mind left the theater of nature and traveled back to reality. To the here and now. To yesterday—to tomorrow. It was not time to face the day and whatever it held in store. Back to reality... and back to a letter I received while at work on Friday.

A clinical audiologist wrote me, "It is my unfortunate duty to inform you that the National Hearing Aid Bank is broke. Due to an inordinate amount of requests for services to their organization, they are currently at least six months behind in filling all the requests. They have informed us that they are going to pend any further applications until such time as their backlog can be depleted."... "I will be talking to them personally in October when I meet them at conference. We are currently looking at other avenues to provide this very valuable service to the people of Eastern Kentucky. If you would have any suggestions or know of some avenue that I could approach, I would be very interested in your input. It is unfortunate that this very valuable service is not available at this time for our patients..."

This unfortunate news came from Robert D. Manning, M.S., a clinical audiologist with Audiology Associates at Prestonsburg and Lexington. This specialist, and his courteous staff, have been most supportive of low income Eastern Kentuckians with hearing difficulties. Through the combined efforts of the National Hearing Aid Bank: Hear Now in Colorado Springs, Colorado: Mr. Manning and his associates; and the Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens, hundreds of low-income senior citizens have been tested and fitted with hearing aids. The senior citizen's cost for the hearing test(s), the hearing aid(s) and the follow up visits(s) was from $40-100 per person, to every senior citizen who qualified and was approved, while funding was available. This meant a savings of from $500-1,000 or more for the services he or she received.

For now, and maybe for a long time into the future, our low income senior citizens on fixed incomes, with hearing problems, cannot be helped through the Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens because we have no place to refer you for this service. There are simply no known sources available, at present, to provide our poor and older Americans with hearing aids. Those who can't hear, and don't have the money for a hearing aid, don't have the hope of being able to hear anytime soon.

For more information about the Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens and how it might be able to help those over age 60 or those of any age on Medicare, call Carol Napier today at 886-3876 or toll-free at 1-800-556-3876. However, please do not request help for obtaining a hearing aid(s). If we learn of an avenue that will provide this very valuable service we will make every effort to inform you of its availability.

Sadly, our deaf will have to go on living without hearing nature's songs.

McDonald's participates in Industry Council on Food Safety

McDonald's of Eastern Kentucky, owned and operated by Bob and Tom Hutchison, is participating in the Industry Council on Food Safety, announced Wanda Mollette, manager of the Salyersville McDonald's.

The Industry Council on Food Safety is a coalition of food service industry operators, suppliers and associations committed to addressing food safety. The industry council was formed to encourage industry-wide training in safe food handling and preparation procedures, and to focus attention on the prevention of foodborne illness. Participation in the industry council is open to all food service establishments that verify that at least one of their managers is trained, tested and certified in the SERVSAFE® Serving Safe Food program, from The Educational Foundation of the National Restaurant Association.

Mollette attended a training session in the SERVSAFE program in Pittsburgh and is presently training other McDonald's managers from the Paintsville, Prestonsburg, Pikeville, South Williamson, West Liberty and Louisa McDonald's restaurants.

"As experts in food preparation and service, it is natural for the restaurant industry to take a leadership position in addressing the critical issue of food safety," said Bob Hutchison. "We support the industry council's position that the best way to prevent foodborne illness is through training to handle and prepare food safely."

"The Industry Council supports SERVSAFE as its standard because the program is widely recognized as the most complete and up-to-date food safety training program available for the food service industry. SERVSAFE was developed by The Educational Foundation of the National Restaurant Association in 1974 and has been used to train more than one million managers and employees.

The Educational Foundation of the National Restaurant Association is a nonprofit organization dedicated to the education, training and professional development of the food service industry.

Lowe joins Action Auction & Realty

Glendora Lowe

Action Auction and Realty recently announced the addition of Glendora Lowe, Real Estate Broker, to its staff.

Lowe comes to Action Auction & Realty with five years of experience in real estate. She became a realtor and joined the Big Sandy Board of Realtors in September, 1990, and became a Broker in 1992. She has been very active with the Big Sandy Board of Realtors, having served as treasurer for two years and chairperson of the membership committee. She is currently a director for the board and chairperson for the Homes Magazine Committee.

Lowe will be serving clients in both Pike and Floyd counties from the Action Auction & Realty Office located on North Mayo Trail in Pikeville.

In addition to being active in professional organizations, Lowe has also been active in the Pike County Chamber of Commerce, serving as one of the first Ambassadors, and in the Calvary Baptist Church at Betsy Layne.

She and her husband, Gary, reside in Pikeville with their daughter, Melanie.

Can we save the American dream?

A personal financial crisis of mounting dimensions

Contributed by Lance E. Schultz

The American dream of a comfortable retirement is eluding a large and growing number of individuals. The vast majority of people are simply not prepared to bear the costs of growing older as lengthening life spans, persistent inflation, and spiraling health care bills make retirement more expensive year after year. Several trends of significant proportion are on a collision course, dramatically magnifying the retirement saving crisis:

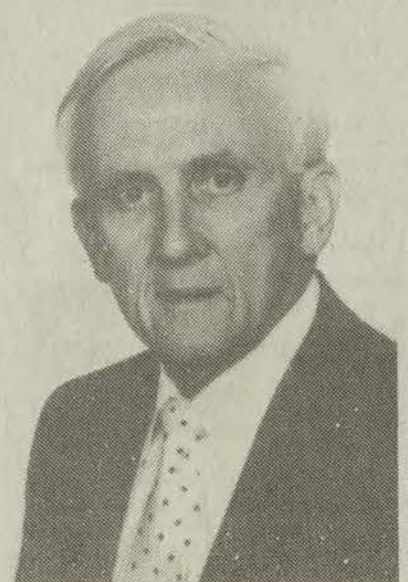

* The growth of the over-65 age group is accelerating dramatically. By the year 2010, about 40 million people, or one-eleventh of the population, will be over age 65. When the last of the baby boom generation reaches 65, around the year 2030, there will be 65 million Americans age 65 and over, and 10% of the population will be over age 75. The number of individuals age 85 and over will also quadruple over the next 50 years to more than 12 million.

* National health care costs for retirees over age 65 are projected to increase sevenfold to $1.5 trillion by 2010, when each individual over 75 can expect to pay an average annual health care bill of $10,000.

* Despite the scope of the problem, some 49 million (65%) baby boomers (ages 25 to 44) and 11 million (54%) preretirees (ages 45 to 64) are currently not saving enough for retirement.

Schultz is a financial consultant with Merrill Lynch in the Huntington, West Virginia office and resides in Hurricane.

Matewan BancShares chairman elected 1995 vice chairman of West Virginia Bankers Association

Dan R. Moore

Dan R. Moore, chairman and president of Matewan BancShares, has been elected to serve as vice chairman of the West Virginia Bankers Association for the 1995 term. The election took place at the West Virginia Bankers 102nd Annual Convention held at the Greenbrier Hotel, White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, July 20 - 22.

"I am honored to be elected to serve the West Virginia banking community and to follow in the footsteps of dedicated and talented individuals," Moore said.

The organization, in existence since 1893, represents the West Virginia banking industry. It works for the common good of the people of West Virginia as well as the state's banking industry. Serving as chairman for the 1995-1996 term is William T. McLaughlin II, chairman and CEO of Huntington Bancshares of West Virginia, Fairmont.

The election adds to Moore's distinguished service record. He serves as chairman of the board of Marshall University's Institutional Board of Advisors and the Mingo County Redevelopment Authority, and is on the board of the West Virginia Roundtable and Bell Atlantic of West Virginia. He is also corporate officer of Superior Ford Sales, Moore Chevrolet, Moore Chrysler and Superior Electric Co. In 1991 he was named West Virginia Entrepreneur of the Year.

Moore has been affiliated with Matewan BancShares, parent company of Matewan Banks, since 1963. Under his leadership the regional holding company has grown to $375 million. It is headquartered in Williamson, West Virginia and has 13 offices in Kentucky and southern West Virginia.

South Central Bell institutes late payment charge

South Central Bell telephone customers who pay their telephone bills late will soon see an extra charge on their bills. That's because on July 20 the Kentucky Public Service Commission approved South Central Bell's proposal for a late payment charge.

Beginning with the October bills, customers who don't pay the full amount of their September bills will be assessed a 0.6 percent charge on any unpaid current charges carried forward.

Grand opening of new real estate office in Pike

Real estate veterans Dorothy Harris, Ellen Holbrook and Jim Gambill, have teamed up with the Century 21® system to establish a new Century 21 office, according to Ron Florence, regional director of the Century 21 Kentucky Region.

The new office, Century 21 American Way Realty, is located at 338 Main Street in Pikeville. An open house will be held on Wednesday, September 27, in honor of Century 21 American Way Realty's grand opening celebration. The festivities will go on from 1-6 p.m. The public is welcome to join in the celebration and enjoy plenty of refreshments and hor d'oeuvres or to just drop by for a tour.

Century 21 American Way Realty has three other office locations in Prestonsburg, Paintsville and Morehead. The office has been part of the Century 21® system since 1988.

Century 21 Real Estate Corporation is the master franchiser of the world's largest real estate organization. The Century 21® system has offices in 16 countries and territories, including approximately 6,000 independently owned and operated franchised broker offices worldwide.

By virtue of an Order of Sale of the Floyd Circuit Court rendered at the April 11, 1995 Term, in the above styled cause, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Courthouse door in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, to the highest and best bidder, at public auction, on the 21st day of September at 9:00 o'clock a.m., same being a day of the regular term of the Floyd Circuit Court, on a credit of thirty (30) days at the rate of 12% per annum, the following described property to-wit:

That certain tract or parcel of land lying and being on the waters of Prater Creek in Floyd County, Kentucky, being the same property conveyed Stephen Boyd and Lynn Boyd, his wife, by deed from A.A. Boyd and Mona Boyd, his wife, dated August 8, 1979, recorded in Deed Book 297, page 361, Floyd County Clerk's Office, and being more particularly described as follows, viz:

Beginning at County Road 1426 and Stephen Boyd line, thence running East with County Road 250 feet to an iron stake, thence running up the hill 350 feet to a Sorvest tree, thence around hill to an iron stake at Ivory Samons line and then following his line down and around to the iron stake at the beginning of Montis Boyd Tract #2, thence running with the Montis Boyd line up the hill to W. B. Conn's line and thence running with said Conn line down hill to County Road 1426, thence running with County Road 1426 to Stephen Boyd line and thence following his line around to the point of beginning.

There is excepted from the above-described real estate the following:
Being a parcel of real estate located in Floyd County, Kentucky, and being a part and portion of that certain real estate conveyed to Stephen Boyd and Lynn Boyd, his wife, by A. A. Boyd and Mona Boyd, his wife, by deed dated August 8, 1979, and appearing of record in Deed Book 297, page 361, in the office of the Floyd County Clerk.

This parcel being excepted is more particularly described as follows:
Beginning at the intersection of an existing road and County Road 1426 as marked by a stake and thence 65 feet with the right of way of road 1426 in an easterly direction to a point as marked by a stake and thence in a northerly direction 105 feet to a stake, and thence 75 feet in a westerly direction to a point on an existing road as marked by a stake and thence easterly boundary of said existing road a distance of 105 feet in a southerly direction to the point of beginning.

The amount of money to be raised by this sale shall include the attorney fee for petitioners, costs of advertising of this sale and the fees and commissions for conducting this sale.
For the purchase price the purchaser must execute bond with approved surety or sureties, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment upon said property as a further security. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms.
Given under my hand, this 29th day of August, 1995.
