Committee to use old date for new festival

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

A new festival, engulfing the Jenny Wiley Festival and the Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival, will debut next year on the second weekend in October, the same date as the Jenny Wiley Festival.

At a meeting Tuesday night of the new festival committee formed by the Prestonsburg Tourism Commission, organizers set the October date.

Committee members at first debated on a date in early spring. Willis Newsome, representing the Prestonsburg Rotary, said he opted for a spring or early summer date because the weather was cooler. Newsome pointed out that there would be little competition from other festivals in the spring because most festivals are held in the fall. After a committee member questioned why there are few festivals in the spring, the group began analyzing the situation and reasoned that the rainy weather in the spring could put a damper on a festival.

Fred James, director of Prestonsburg Tourism, also explained that if the committee held a festival in May or June, it would have only about six months to prepare for the event.

The committee also discussed the various groups, such as Floyd County bands, that could not participate in spring festivals, but could participate in the fall. October would also allow the county to show off its natural fall beauty, committee members agreed.

James later said that having the festival on the same date as the Jenny Wiley Festival will be a plus for the committee and will make it easier to market.

Committee members tossed out several names for the festival, including the October Music Festival, the Jenny Wiley Highlands Music Extravaganza, and the Jenny Wiley Heritage Festival.

The group did not agree on a name for the new festival and delayed that decision until the next meeting at 7 p.m., October 24 at City Hall. The meetings are open to the public.

The committee plans to organize a board and establish subcommittees to begin planning next year's event. James said the key to having a successful festival is "to have something no one else has — variety."

He presented a two-page list of ideas compiled by Connie Miller, who represents the Prestonsburg Tourism Commission but who was absent from Tuesday's meeting. Miller's outline included such events as scavenger hunts, celebrity auctions, fire truck rides for children, and old-time displays of arts and crafts, storytelling, and dancing.

Public forum set for input on superintendent search

Parents, teachers and other residents of Floyd County will get the opportunity to help the Floyd County Public Schools find a new superintendent.

A public forum has been scheduled to allow residents to share their concerns, opinions and suggestions on the search for a superintendent.

A Martin County man will remain in jail pending his December murder trial, a judge ruled Tuesday.

Martin Circuit Judge James A. Knight rejected a defense motion to lower Tim Maynard's $800,000 bond.

The decision means Maynard, accused of murdering Floyd County resident Jeff Nelson, will remain in police custody while he awaits trial.

On Friday, Knight scheduled a December 11 trial date for Maynard during a hearing in Martin Circuit Court. The judge also set an October 27 pretrial conference in the case.

He also heard the motion by attorneys Leo Marcum and John R. Triplett to reduce their client's bond to $50,000.

A motion to dismiss the murder indictment was denied.

Maynard, 27, of Pigeon Roost, has been lodged in the Boyd County Detention Center since he was arrested for Nelson's murder on July 15.

Police say Nelson, 21, a 1992 graduate of Paintsville High School, was fatally stabbed on the morning of June 29. His body was found July 8 near a Martin County strip mine.

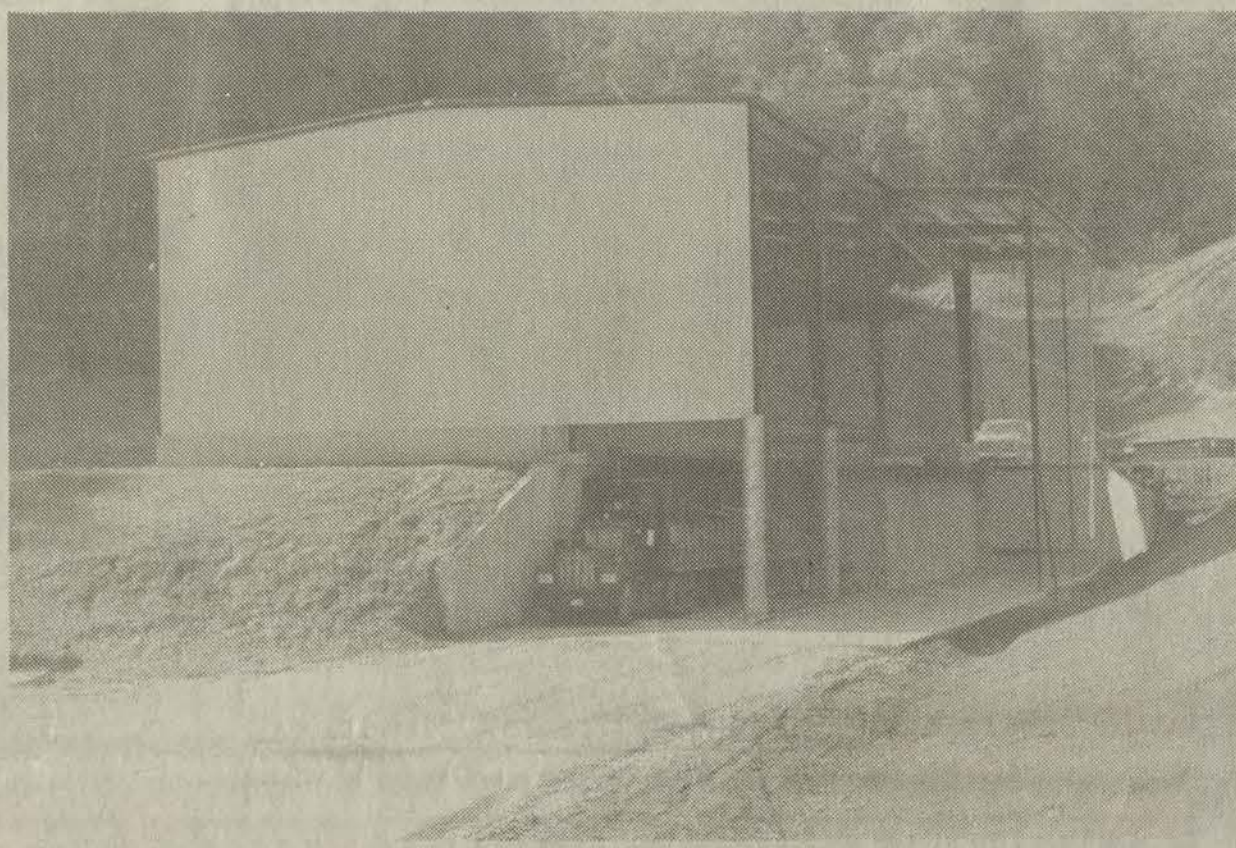

Witnesses placed Maynard with Nelson on the night of June 28, at Center Stage, a Prestonsburg nightclub. Witnesses say the two men left the club together.

At Tuesday's bond reduction hearing,

Maynard's attorney, John Triplett, of Inez, asked that his client be released on $50,000 bail so Maynard could go to work for family members.

Special prosecutor Luke Morgan, with the state attorney general's office, objected to the bond reduction, suggesting that Maynard was "a threat and is a flight risk."

Unless the original indictment is upgraded to capital murder, Maynard will not face the death penalty in his trial. A defense motion to quash that indictment was denied.

Garbage station

Rumpke's transfer station opened last Thursday, just in time for the county-wide clean-up program, which began this week. Road crews will begin picking up refuse from area residents Monday. Garbage collection must be scheduled through the Floyd County Solid Waste office by calling 886-8060. The transfer station is open to Floyd County residents until work at the site is completed. A grand opening celebration will be held later. (photo by Alisa Goodwill)

Dispute over water extension project area will be reviewed

Water may be the substance of life, but for Frasure's Creek it has become the focal point of a battle with Beaver Elkhorn Water District.

At Beaver Elkhorn Water District's regular meeting Wednesday evening, a number of Frasure's Creek residents voiced concerns over a water project that did not include them.

Jerry Kanney, a Pikeville CPA, said Frasure's Creek was in the original application that Beaver Elkhorn Water District submitted to the Public Service Commission of Kentucky.

According to Kanney, since the time of the application the board has switched Frasure's Creek for Wilson Creek.

"I have spent a lot of money on the property in the anticipation that water was coming," Kanney said. "Up until the water district's August meeting, Frasure's Creek was to get water."

Homer Hall, chairman of the Beaver-Elkhorn Water District board, said Frasure's Creek is not the only area that needs water.

"This money for the project is not a grant, it is a loan," Hall said. "When we applied, we put every place that would need water; however, the cost of the project is more than we can afford."

If all of Left Beaver is served by this project, the cost would be close to $9 million, but the water district only has $3 million to work with.

Hall said the cost per customer in Frasure's Creek is $300 to $400 more than at Wilson Creek. Wilson

Youth doesn't survive wait for transplant

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

As volunteers held fund-raising road blocks in Floyd County and her mother rushed to her side, one-and-a-half-year-old Terri LaSha Jarvis of Banner died in a Pittsburgh hospital from sepsis, an infection of the blood.

The infant died at 3:40 p.m. Thursday in the critical care unit while her mother, Tammy Jarvis, was en route to the Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh.

The baby was born without an intestinal lining that allows her to absorb nutrients and had only a half foot of small intestines and had been hospitalized off and on since her birth. Terri's mother kept a constant vigil at her baby's bedside until Sunday, Dan Hicks, Terri's grandfather, said Thursday evening.

Hicks said he brought his daughter, Tammy, home for a brief respite while his wife, Gaynell, stayed with the infant because the baby seemed to be doing better.

Doctors at Children's Hospital placed Terri in the critical care unit Thursday morning after her liver began failing, Hicks said. They then called the baby's mother, who left immediately to begin the drive to Pittsburgh.

Terri had developed several bacterial infections in her bloodstream, her doctor, Rakegh Sachdeva of Pikeville, reported. The infant had fought staph and yeast infections and was often placed in the critical care unit.

Terri had to be fed intravenously, which seriously damaged her liver. She was transferred from Pikeville Methodist Hospital to the Pittsburgh hospital in July to await a liver and small bowel transplant.

Terri's fight for life led to a statewide campaign earlier this year after Medicaid officials said that program would not pay for the transplant, which was estimated to cost around $576,000. Human Resources Secretary Masten Childers

Floyd voters to see no change in district maps

by Patti M. Clark

A proposed statewide redistricting plan won't affect Floyd County.

State Representative Greg Stumbo will retain all of his usual precincts in Floyd County.

Senator Benny Ray Bailey did not lose any of Floyd County in the plan, but he did lose Perry County. In return, the senator picked up additional districts in another county.

"The only thing that changed is that I lost two precincts in Martin County," Stumbo said.

He said a county could only be split two ways and Martin had three representatives — Hubert Collins, Herbie Deskins, and Stumbo — representing its residents. "My district was compacted a bit," Stumbo said.

"It's the same district. There were about 1,000 lost from Martin County. Those precincts were

Stumbo out front on concealed weapon bill

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Residents of Floyd County and the rest of the state may be able to carry a concealed weapon if legislation State Representative Greg Stumbo has prefiled is approved next year.

Stumbo, along with Danny Ford, minority floor leader, prefiled the bill about two months ago. Forty other legislators, including Pike County Representative Kelsey Friend Jr., have signed onto the bill and it has been endorsed by the Kentucky Sheriff's Association.

"The sheriff's support will give the bill a lot of momentum when the session starts," Stumbo said.

He said the bill was prefiled so that it would receive priority attention when the January session of the General Assembly starts. "Bills that were filed and acted upon by the committee during the interim are taken up first by legislators during the session," Stumbo said. "It will be on the fast track."

Stumbo said he has "traditionally been a prime sponsor of the National Rifle Association legislation" and that he worked closely with them in 1994 on the juvenile gun control bill and the governor's package which banned certain weapons and ammunition.

He said he is a sportsman and a lifelong member of the NRA and that he supports the control measures that are included in the package.

To obtain a license to carry a concealed weapon, if the legislation is approved, Kentuckians would have to:

- Complete an approved firearm safety course
- Be a resident of Kentucky for at least six months.
- Have no felony convictions.
- Be honorably discharged from the armed services.
- Have a drug free record.
- Have no violent misdemeanor convictions in the past three years.

Applicants would be subject to an in-depth background check. The proposed legislation sets the license fee at $25.

Gun bill

"As responsible firearms owners, we have to find out which of these measures we can be for that don't infringe on our rights as legitimate sportsmen and firearms carriers," Stumbo said.

He said the safety courses would be conducted by state police in connection with the local city police or sheriff's office, much like hunter safety classes are now.

Legislators will consider whether to require that the license state what type of gun it is for and whether the safety course should be completed with that weapon.

Residents who have been convicted of violent misdemeanors, including domestic violence charges, will be denied a permit. "We are working on a definition of violent misdemeanor," Stumbo said. "But obviously it will not include a speeding or parking ticket."

Convictions for some battery, assault and harassment charges could also preclude a gun owner from a concealed weapons permit.

"The concealed weapons bill is enormously popular with my constituents," Stumbo said. "It gives individuals the right to protect themselves against criminals who are already armed."

He said at one time NRA hardliners were against any legislation that would regulate firearms. "I have always had a stand of moderation and I think a lot of members of the National Rifle Association feel that way."

Stumbo said 27 other states have similar types of legislation already in place. "There haven't been the problems that opponents have talked about. Just the contrary," he said. "In almost every state, there have been some very, very positive results."

He said crime rates have dropped in most states that have enacted the legislation.

"The criminal is more fearful of engaging in criminal conduct knowing that a citizen might take them to task. They no longer have the advantage," Stumbo said. "There's an old adage that says if you outlaw guns, only outlaws will have guns."

Current state law says a weapon owner can carry that weapon, with a permit, as long as it is not concealed. That means in the seat of their car, in the glove box, or in the trunk. "In any place that it takes more than one motion to get it out," Stumbo said.

The proposed legislation would allow the guns to be carried in purses, under seats, or in holsters, including shoulder and ankle holsters.

He said support for the bill has been tremendous. "I think it will pass overwhelmingly. There will be some revisions, but they won't be major," he said. "It is amazing that it is so well received."

Creek has 68 customers and Frasure's Creek would only have 47 customers.

Kanney's argument is that if Frasure's Creek is part of the project, his property is included and he will be developing the land.

"I've agreed to pay 40 tap-on fees up front and pay 25 minimum customer monthly bills until those homes are sold," Kanney said.

A tap-on fee is $450 and the minimum monthly bill for the first 1,000 gallons is currently $12.49.

Hall said when discussing cost per customer, the water district looked at existing customers, not potential development. The board needs a long-term commitment for the monthly bills because it will take 20 years to repay the loan, he added.

"All of Frasure's Creek was never intended from the beginning," Hall said. "The area discussed was only up to and including Kanney's property, not any of the branches."

A number of audience members said they understood that, but said Wilson Creek is a dead-end, while Frasure's Creek has the potential for more customers beyond Kanney's property.

Bill McDonald, an engineer with Howard K. Bell, of Lexington, said cost per customer is not merely the amount needed to put a water line into the ground, but expenses for tanks, pump stations, engineering and construction costs.

Cost is increased when elevation changes because pump stations are needed to supply the homes with enough water. To supply water to all of Frasure's Creek and its branches, additional water tanks and pumps are needed, he said.

"There is certainly a need for all of the southern end of the county. Unfortunately, there is not enough dollars," McDonald said. "The decision is the commissioners to make, not mine."

The board agreed to table the discussion until next month's meeting, October 25 at 6:30 p.m., so they would have time to get an accurate count of the exact number of customers who would tap on in Wilson Creek and Frasure's Creek.

At this time, all figures are based on potential customers. A customer is not the number of people who live in the area, but the number of households located there.

along Route 3 near Thunder Ridge and the airport," Stumbo said. He said the proposed Jenny Wiley Golf Course had been planned to be built in Martin County in that area. "I wanted it in my district. That's the reason I asked for those precincts."

He said Floyd County is lucky. "It's too big for one representative, but not quite big enough for two."

Legislators had to re-draw district lines after it was determined that current lines were unconstitutional. Some counties were split three or four times.

Stumbo has 33 precincts in Floyd County while Donnie Newsome has the remaining 11 precincts and some of Knott County.

"Donnie has primarily the southwest portion of the county," Stumbo said. "His district runs up Right Beaver toward Knott County and includes David."

Stumbo said Floyd County has never been split more than twice.

"When I was elected in 1979 and took office in 1980, the area around Mud Creek was in the Pike County district, but the other 11 precincts (that Newsome now has) were in my district. That was changed in 1984," Stumbo said.

"Because of the population growth we had in the 70s during the coal boom, when everybody moved back, they had to condense my district. That's when they split off the area contiguous to Knott County," Stumbo added.

He said the ideal size for a representative district is about 36,000 people. "There are roughly 3.6 million people in the state of Kentucky," he said. "With 100 house members, that means an ideal district is about 36,000 people. Pike has almost the perfect population size for two representatives."

He said the courts will allow a variance in that number by "plus or minus five percent, or even greater for a real good reason," he added.

Legislators have asked Governor Brereton Jones to call a special session to approve the redistricting plan, but Jones has indicated no desire to do so. If a special session is not called, the redistricting plan will be taken up in the 1996 session of the state's General Assembly.

It later announced that a hospital that had overbilled Medicaid and the state would contribute $300,000 to a state organ transplant fund. Half of that amount would be used for Terri's transplant and Medicaid would also pay $150,000.

Volunteers around the state have been holding road blocks, concerts and various fund-raising activities to raise money to help pay for the infant's escalating medical bills.

Hicks said the family has been receiving "huge amounts" of medical bills and he did not know if the funds raised would be enough to cover Terri's medical expenses.

Hicks said his granddaughter had made an impact around the state and brought statewide focus to the donor program.

"You don't mention her name, but people know about it," he said. "People need to sign the back of drivers' licenses (to donate their organs)."

Hicks said his family is in shock by the death of Terri.

"To the last minute, we never gave up. You always expect it," he said, pausing for a long moment. "You say that before it happens, but when it does, you don't expect it. When it happens, life goes on."

he felt council could make the adjustment for Barnett.

Residents have complained in the past about the high cost for water usage in the City of Martin, but those people didn't have a water bill for the use of 187,000 gallons of water in a month.

"I don't see why we can't wholesale the water to him," Akers said. "If we don't lose money and have the water bill paid, I can't see a problem with any citizen coming here (asking for an adjustment)."

Jamie Barnett addressed the Martin Council at Wednesday's meeting and explained that he apparently had a water leak at his home, but he was willing to pay the wholesale cost for the water.

Whicker suggested that council talk to city attorney Tim Parker before making a decision.

"The city won't lose any money, but it won't make any money either," Barnett said. "I'm willing to pay for the whole 187,000 gallons, but I'd like a little help. Has anybody else ever had a leak this big?"

Akers told Barnett that his bill would be adjusted if council could do so without violating the city ordinance and that at the October meeting council would have an answer for him.

Mayor Alan Whicker told Barnett that he understood his dilemma and that he "probably had the record" for the largest water bill. Whicker said he feared that allowing Barnett to pay only the cost to the city would open "Pandora's Box" for other residents to ask that their water bills be adjusted.

In other business Wednesday:

- Council heard from two residents of Ice Plant Hollow concerning stray dogs damaging vehicles and getting into garbage. The mayor advised the residents that the city did not have a leash law, but the issue could be discussed with the city attorney. Whicker said that he would have a report on the issue at the October meeting.
- Whicker informed council that a used Army truck had been bought for $2,000 and is to be used for hauling large trash items for residents.
- Council voted to give $250 to the Little Rebels football team.
- Alisha O'Bryan was introduced as the new city utility clerk.
- Edgil "Bide" Click was reappointed to the Martin Housing Authority Board for a four-year term.

"I want to caution council about adjustments to everybody's water bill," Whicker said. "If we just break even on every water bill, we're going to lose money. I understand (Barnett's) case and we have set him up on payments. I don't want a hundred people lining up at the door asking 'Why not (adjust ours)?' Our whole objective is to buy water and sell it and make a profit."

Whicker suggested that council talk to city attorney Tim Parker before making a decision.

Under a city ordinance regarding the water department, adjustments to citizens' water bills can only be made by the city council.

Nominations for a parent member of the South Floyd High School's School Council will be accepted from September 25, 1995 through October 6, 1995, 8:00 a.m. through 3:00 p.m. Nominations shall be submitted in writing to Allan Osborne, principal, South Floyd High School. To be eligible to serve on school council an individual must have a child enrolled at South Floyd High School for the FY 1995-1996 school year and cannot have a close relative working for the Floyd County School System. An eligible parent may nominate themselves and/or another eligible parent. One parent will be elected for a two-year term, filling the seat vacated by Mrs. Sheryl Woods. The SFHS School Council parent election will be held on Monday, October 9, 1995, at 6:00 p.m., in the SFHS library. To be eligible to vote, a parent must have a child enrolled in SFHS during the current (FY 1995-1996) school year.

Better off poor?

by Scott Perry

If we can believe the statistics compiled by a Washington-based research group known as the Cato Institute, we're overlooking a key stumbling block to welfare reform in this country.

The report concludes that in many parts of the country, including Kentucky, the value of public assistance is higher than what most unskilled, poorly educated people can earn at a wage-paying job.

In Kentucky, for example, a welfare mother of two who receives benefits through food stamps, Medicaid, AFDC, housing, nutrition assistance and energy assistance has an "income" equal to that of a person who earns $8.08 per hour for a 40-hour week.

In Eastern Kentucky, that amount is about 50 cents an hour lower than the average wage for employees in all industries, including mining, and higher than the average wage if you take mining out of the picture.

Logic suggests then that there is no incentive for people to leave the welfare rolls for work unless they find a job that pays more than $8.08 per hour.

And just how many of those, do you suppose, are available around here?

The obvious solution, of course, is to develop a program that provides supplemental public assistance to people with low-paying jobs.

By limiting the value of welfare to the difference between actual wages earned and a region's average hourly pay rate, you could cut the costs of public assistance while providing incentives for recipients to work.

That proposal, of course, does not account for the biggest problem we have in Eastern Kentucky.

There just aren't enough jobs to be had here, of any kind.

—Letters to the editor—

Letters to the editor policy

Letters to the Editor are welcomed by the Floyd County Times. In accordance with our editorial page policy, all letters must include the signature, address and telephone number of the author. Letters must be received no later than 10 a.m. Tuesday for publication in Wednesday's issue and 10 a.m. Thursday for Friday's issue. Letters may be sent to Editor, The Floyd County Times, P.O. Box 391, Prestonsburg, KY 41653. Letters may be edited for clarity and length.

Equal representation sought for parents

Editor:
As public interest in the 1996 General Assembly begins to rise, I would like to alert your readers to one legislative goal on which local board of education members statewide will be working.

As part of our 1996 legislative program, the nearly 900 members of the Kentucky School Boards Association (KSBA) have enthusiastically endorsed language to give parents an equal number of seats on school councils as are allocated to school employees.

The effect of our draft bill will be to, in the current statutory council model, increase the number of parents from two to four--the same number of positions as occupied by the school's principal and three teacher representatives. Additionally, we advocate that all alternative council models--those with more than the standard six members--also be expanded to include as many parents as staff on these school panels.

It is our belief that, without equal representation of parents and staff, school councils in particular and education reform in general is paying only lip service to the objective of increasing parent involvement in our public schools. Parents now have a minority voice; sometimes it has an impact, but often it is drowned out by the four-to-two majority of the school staff.

KSBA began the push for this legislation in the 1994 General Assembly. As that measure got lost in the end of the session crush, we are beginning the effort much earlier this time. We believe that, in the past two years, public sentiment has changed on some elements of the Kentucky Education Reform Act of 1990. One positive result of those changing opinions is the rising desire of parents for a greater role in the learning process of their children.

While KSBA supports the potential of school-based decision making, we believe that this potential can be reached only if the General Assembly empowers parents as full partners with administrators and tenured staff on the councils.

Distraught mother seeks son's killer

Editor:
On September 19, another year has passed since my son Walter Crooper was murdered in your town; three years and still no conviction. Walter's murder unsolved.

In the last three years, my youngest daughter, Bonnie, tried to take her own life because she missed her brother and wanted to join him; she almost did. My son, Ryan, had to be taken out of military school because he convinced himself that since Walter had been sent away to school and killed, that the same thing would happen to him. My daughter Sascha has constant dreams about her brother begging her to help find his killer.

For two years I was in and out of the hospital, the doctors tell me that because I am a devout Catholic, I could not commit suicide, so my mind was shutting down my body to get sick and join my son.

I don't know how true that is, but it was then I realized I could not depend on the legal system, I had to fight for Walter myself and I have. I have devoted my life to finding justice for my child, and I will.

We all know that they think they have Walter's killer in jail, I'm not sure. I think his killer is still among you and will kill again.

Walter is with the Lord, his faith was strong and I know he's safe and happy. My fight now is to protect the other children, my children and your children.

Until something like this happens to you, you don't realize how much this is happening. I work with parents of murdered children and the Polly Klaus Foundation, there are thousands of parents who have lost children to killers. I never thought this could happen to us, things like this happened to other people.

I sent my child to a beautiful small town in the mountains. He was so happy there, I didn't send him to New York or L.A.

The suspect they have lived among you, a convicted child molester, lived there, worked in one of your local stores, they believe my child was killed because he happened to be walking down the wrong road at the wrong time.

It could have been anyone's child. I am working to make Megan's Law a national law. Megan's Law states that people be notified when a convicted sex offender moves into the neighborhood. Had the police known about this man, would they have gone to him first and maybe saved my child's life? I urge you to write your representatives and ask that this law be passed.

And dear editor, I am asking as I do every year, please print this letter and my address. I welcome letters from the people of Prestonsburg. I know it's been three years but if anyone thinks of anything that could help solve my child's murder, no matter how trivial, please write me.

And, please pray for us for help in finding his killer. I would even welcome letters from the suspects family. If you can help clear him then maybe the police would look for the real killer. Until he is cleared, I will be at every parole hearing to make sure he is not set free to harm another child.

South Floyd High School on KET Star Channels

South Floyd High School received special recognition on Monday, September 11, when it was featured as "School of the Day" during its KET Star Channels satellite courses. KET Star Channels satellite courses are advanced high school courses delivered live every day by satellite to schools across Kentucky and 16 other states.

South Floyd's German I, German II, and Latin I classes came to visit their television instructors in their studios. During German I and German II, Ruth Styles, German instructor, wore a white and black South Floyd High School Raiders t-shirt as she introduced the students enrolled in her course: In German I, Tivis Caudill, Joyce Hamilton, Rachel Johnson, Tammy Johnson, Neil Moore, Bobbie Newsome, Leigh Ann Slone, Brandon Sullivan, and Tasha Little. In German II, there are two students: Keva Burke and Charity Wright. Jane Smith, Latin I instructor, introduced her South Floyd students, Neil Moore, Jeremy Burke, and Heather Music during her broadcast. Connie Sword is the facilitator for all three classes. Sarah Zaniello and Andre Zoch are the KET telephone instructors for the South Floyd High School German students.

"One valuable benefit of the Star Channels courses is the interaction it allows between students of different regions," said Styles. "School of the Day is a way for students to get to know their classmates in other schools."

The KET Star Channels course program was developed in 1989 to deliver advanced high school courses to schools where the courses had not been offered previously. The program was nationally recognized as a 1991 winner of the Innovations in State and Local Government Award administered by the Ford Foundation and Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government.

KET is currently offering satellite courses in German I, German II, Probability & Statistics, Discrete Mathematics, Physics, Precalculus, Latin I, and Latin II. For information, call (800) 753-6533.

A Look At Sports by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Allen Central Invitational cancelled for lack of teams

The Allen Central Rebels' invitational basketball tournament, originally scheduled for after Christmas is history, according to coach Johnny Martin. Instead, the Rebels will play a home game against Campbell County December 28.

The tournament was nipped because of a lack of teams.

Allen Central will play in the Johnson Central Invitational, the Sheldon Clark Cardinal Classic (opponents unknown), as well as the Class A Classic in late January.

Not only will the Rebs face the Tigers in the opening round of the tournament, but they will open the regular season at home against Bill Mike Runyon's ballclub.

Coach Martin's team will have two quality programs coming in for its two pre-season scrimmage games. Lexington's Dunbar will play at Allen Central on November 18 and Louisville Moore will be in town on November 25.

From January 30 until February 9, Allen Central will play five consecutive home games.

Speaking of basketball schedules (boys and girls) I sure would like to have yours if you haven't sent one in yet.

FOOTBALL ENTERS WEEK SIX

After tonight's thunderous football schedule, football's regular season will have four weeks to run. Some interesting races are developing in both Class A and 2A. If you don't think that district games between our county schools haven't brought some life to Floyd County football, you have been sleeping.

I remember Prestonsburg coach Bill Letton stating before the season began that games between county schools can't help football in Floyd County.

The Betsy Layne/South Floyd game was proof one of that. Then came Prestonsburg/Betsy Layne. Wow! What a game and what a finish.

The growth of football at Betsy Layne (4-1) as a county power has done nothing to hurt the game here. It has fans chopping at the bit for the next contest.

Prestonsburg, a very young team, is coming on strong and will be in the thick of things the rest of the way. Allen Central, under coach Glenn Reeves, is making some noise and has a shot at a playoff berth. The Rebels/Bobcat game tonight will be just another classic game. What a game to celebrate homecoming with.

South Floyd, under coach Donnie Daniels, is very much in the playoff picture and a victory at Jenkins tonight would give the Raiders a 3-1 district record and perhaps a playoff berth in single A.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports.

Jenkins game a 'must win' for South Floyd

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Jenkins Cavaliers will be smarting tonight with starting quarterback Ryan Gallion ailing as the South Floyd Raiders invade the hill-side of Jenkins High School.

South Floyd Coach Donnie Daniels recognizes the need for a win tonight at Jenkins if his team is to remain in the playoff picture.

The Raiders are 2-1 in district play, an unfamiliar position to find themselves. However, this is a team that has a good blend of experienced players and a youth corp. that could be one of the better sophomore classes in the state.

Tonight, sophomores Nick Compton and Ketran Mays will have to take their game a step higher in directing the Raiders to the "promised land" of playoff berths.

Compton will be at quarterback for the Raiders where he has had a banner season already, and he has two more years. Compton had tossed for more than 800 yards already this season and is ranked in the top ten with state quarterbacks.

Last week, he had his best game of the year (and career) when he threw for 276 yards in a district win over Fleming-Neon. Compton not only can throw the football but run with it as well, making him an excellent option quarterback.

His favorite receiver is Terrence Mullins, but he has another in steady-hand Aaron Hall, a senior. Mullins had four receptions last week for 181 yards and two touchdown catches.

Ketran Mays. Everyone around knows what he can do and he can hurt you, and really Mays is just beginning to blossom into a top running back. He just seems to get better and better with each outing.

Mays carried the ball 25 times against Fleming-Neon last week for 202 yards, his best of the season. Speed. He has it. Quickness. It's there. Ability. Loads of it. Knowledge. Just watch him.

Aaron Hall has shown the senior leadership the Raiders have needed. He is a very unselfish player who plays where ever his coach deems necessary. He never complains about having to catch the football, run the football or play defense. His versatility has made the Raiders a stronger football team.

Chris Isaac has been a solid defensive lineman all season. He has massed 65 tackles this season and seems to be around the football all the time. Throw in Travis Johnson (58 tackles) and Andree Faine and you have a front line that likes to hit.

Jenkins was drubbed by Hazard last week 61-0 after being impressive its first three games. In all fairness to the Cavs, they not only had their starting quarterback hurt, but their backup signal caller as well, Matt Damron.

Gallion has completed more than 50 percent of his passes completing 45 of 80 attempts for more than 500 yards, an average of 110 yards per game. But when Gallion isn't throwing the football he is keeping in the hands of Mark Cvetnich who has rushed for 240 yards through five games. Cvetnich is the scorer with four touchdowns this season.

Gallion is expected to start for the

SOUTH FLOYD

Prestonsburg hosts Breathitt County tonight

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Here come the Bobcats, again! This time it is the Breathitt County Bobcats (5-0) who will invade the Prestonsburg Stadium tonight in an important district game.

Last week, the Blackcats pulled out a 14-12 overtime win over the Betsy Layne Bobcats to improve to 2-1 in district play.

Breathitt County is a favorite, along with Whitesburg, to win a district championship this year. But Prestonsburg hopes their improved play continues to improve when the Bobcats roll into town.

It will be the first meeting ever against Breathitt County, who, with the realignment from last season, dropped from 3A to 2A.

While it marks the first meeting on the gridiron for the two teams, Breathitt County coach Mike Holcomb has kept his eyes on the Blackcat program and they are not strangers.

"We watched them in the championship game in Louisville (against Mayfield)," the coach said. "They are a team that has tradition behind their program and they are a very good football team."

The Bobcats are coming off a 41-6 win over Estill County last week and while Breathitt County has put some numbers on the board, the coach is still not satisfied with his team's play, especially the offense.

"Our offense just hasn't played well all season," he said. "Our specialty teams have carried us there. Defensively we have played well. Our kicking game is good."

COACH HOLCOMB'S SCOUTING REPORT....

The Breathitt County coach doesn't believe his team will be able to handle the Blackcats as they did Estill County.

"I don't know if Estill County is down this year or what," he said. "But Prestonsburg does concern us. They are a well-coached team. Coach (Bill) Letton has done an outstanding job with them and the Prestonsburg program. They do a good job and are a fundamentally sound football team."

While the Prestonsburg backfield doesn't have the capability of the '93 state team, Coach Holcomb said he believes that Jon Morris poses a serious threat.

"He's a strong back. He's a very good football player and he concerns us," the Breathitt County mentor said. "He runs hard. We have really kept our eye on him and he is one of the better backs in the area."

But it is the strong tradition that Prestonsburg will bring to the game tonight that also concerns the Bobcat coach. "They play hard all the time," he said. "They may not have the backfield they had two years ago, but they are still a strong team. We haven't taken them lightly."

KEYS TO A BOBCAT WIN....

Coach Holcomb added that his team will have to have one of its better defensive games as a key to winning.

"They have to play well against Prestonsburg," he said. "That is a must. We can't let them run on us."

Long gainer!

Allen's Nick Jamerson broke tackle and scampered 59 yards on this carry against the Paintsville Tigers in a third and fourth grade game at Allen last Monday evening. Jamerson was pulled down short of the goal line. Paintsville went on to steady the win. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Blackcat basketball team to sponsor golf scramble

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It had to be at just the right time.

A time when the area was feeling safe from so many sporting activities.

Now they can do it. The time is here.

The Prestonsburg Blackcat basketball team will sponsor a four-man golf scramble on October 7 at the Jenny Wiley Golf Course and a large turnout is expected, according to Dickie Jarvis.

"We had one earlier in June, but it was when the Paintsville tournament was going on," he said. "We have scheduled this one at this time because there isn't that much going on then."

The format will be shotgun start and pick your own team. Registration will start at 8 a.m. the day of the tournament, or golfers may register early.

Prize money will amount to $1,500 with $1,000 going to the first-place team. Second place will be worth $300 and third place $200.

Entry fee into the scramble is $200 per team.

Other prizes and awards will be passed out with a driver going to the golfer with the longest drive. Closest to the pin will take home a new putter.

Proceeds from the tournament will go to the basketball team. Jarvis said he is hoping for good weather.

"I played in one two weeks ago and it was pouring the rain," he said. "But we can't control the weather. We're hoping to have a good turnout for the tournament and also some good weather."

If you are an avid golfer and the links keep beckoning you, then mark October 7 on your calendar, shine up your shoes and be at the course for a day of fun in the sun. Don't forget: Bring your own team.

Pumpkin Run/Walk set for October 8 in Inez

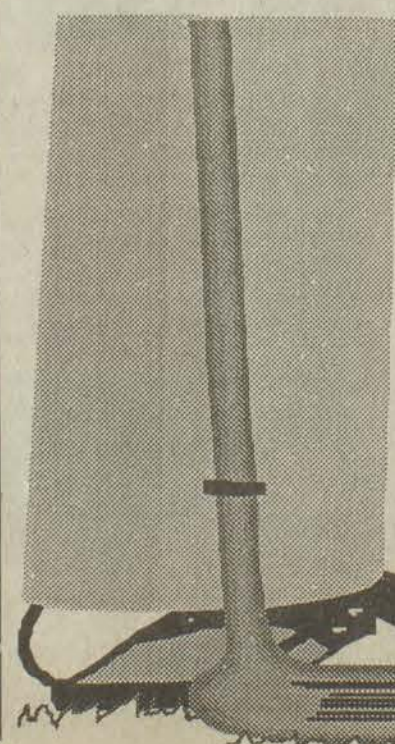

The tenth Annual 5K Pumpkin Run/Walk will be held on Sunday, October 8 in Inez beginning at 3 p.m.

Registration will be held at the Martin County pool from 2 p.m. until 2:45 p.m.

A trophy will be awarded to the top male and female runners. Awards will be given to first, second and third place finishers in each age group.

Entry fee is $10 per runner and may be sent to Charlotte Endicott, Pumpkin Run Chairman, P.O. Box 250, Inez, KY 41224.

Beau Tackett a question mark as Bobcats come calling

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

You don't have to say much to convince both Allen Central Coach Glenn Reeves and Betsy Layne mentor John Derossett of the significance of tonight's titanic matchup at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex at Allen Central.

Both teams enter tonight's contest with identical 2-1 records and tied for third place in the district race.

Both coaches feel three district wins will put either club in the playoff picture come November.

Reeves says it is a big, big game for his Rebels, who have missed the playoff picture the past two seasons.

On the other hand, Betsy Layne is just returning to district competition, and has been the surprise of Floyd County this season. The Bobcats are 4-1 overall and will be coming off a big loss to Prestonsburg last week.

Allen Central posted a 28-8 win over winless Powell County last week, but the Rebels could have suffered the loss of feature back Beau Tackett.

It was thought at first that Tackett may have suffered a separated shoulder, but tests showed only a bad sprain.

"He is iffy right now," said Coach Reeves of his top rusher. "He still has pain in the shoulder."

Despite the pain, the running back is expected to be in action against the Bobcats.

"It will probably be the best line we'll face this year," the Allen Central coach said. "They like to come after you."

Reeves said he feels the trio backfield of Ray Lyon, Billy Mitchell and Chris Hicks presents a triple problem for his defensive line. "We have to contain all three of them," Coach Reeves said.

KEYS TO A WIN...

While Betsy Layne quarterback Craig Hamilton doesn't throw the football all that much, he is still an excellent option quarterback.

"We can't let Hamilton get out and use that quarterback boot he likes to run," the coach said. "We have to have good perimeter play out there against Betsy Layne. We have to stop them up the middle. They have two power backs and a running back and they will manhandle you on the line. We have to be successful in stopping them defensively."

"We have to make as few mistakes as we can. We can't have any off-side penalties, holding or encroachment calls. We have to take care of the football and not fumble it away."

If Tackett is not ready to go, Reeves said Estill Stumbo, along with Josh Reeves, Shane Blackburn and Thomas Jenkins will pick up the slack. "We have good skill people who can come in and contribute," he said.

Mike Goble has been a big part of the Rebels' offense and he may be out in tonight's all-important district game.

The Rebels have two players who are on suspension as well. But despite the low numbers, the emotions will be high.

"We'll have no problem getting up for it," Reeves said. "But discipline comes before winning."

Betsy Layne backfield to test Allen Central's front line

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Betsy Layne Bobcats (4-1) will help the Allen Central Rebels celebrate their annual homecoming tonight at the Don Daniels Athletic Complex, but more than just a homecoming game hangs in the balance.

The Bobcats know they just missed a chance to pick up their third district win last Friday against Prestonsburg in a game they let get away from them.

So, tonight Betsy Layne wants to be sure to put this one in the win column and sort of lock up a playoff berth.

But the Rebels have the same thing in mind. They too would like to keep the season going beyond the October 27 final regular season game. The season has brought fans from all around the Betsy Layne area to the gridiron because of the winning program that Coach John Derosssett has brought to the school.

The Bobcats like to take the ball up the "gut" of the defense and with the three running backs they have, fans can see why.

Billy Mitchell no doubt is a very pleasant surprise for the Bobcats this year. Mitchell is carrying the football more and starting to make things happen.

But the real ball carriers for Betsy Layne are still seniors Ray Lyon and Chris Hicks. Lyon is one of the county's top rushers with 498 yards on 70 carries. Hicks has rushed for 418 yards on 63 attempts.

Both runners had "an off night" against Prestonsburg last Friday night. Lyon managed only 21 yards while Hicks totaled only 33.

Prestonsburg's defense shut down the middle forcing Betsy Layne to have to go outside. While Lyon and Hicks are both power runners, they lack that speed to get outside.

Craig Hamilton is an excellent option quarterback, and he does possess excellent speed. The play of Hamilton could cause Allen Central some problems on the option.

Hamilton likes to go long to wide out Willie Meade, who is averaging 20 yards per catch this season. When a big play is needed it seems Hamilton finds Meade at the right spot.

Hamilton has completed nine passes this season for 145 yards. So it is easy to see the Bobcats do not pass all that much.

This is a very good Betsy Layne team with a very strong defensive line anchored by Jarred Newsome (49 tackles, 1 sack, 2 fumble recoveries), Wes Collins, Rodney Hamilton, Stewart Hall and Nick Newsome.

Hicks, Lyon and Mitchell are the linebackers with Meade at cornerback and Hamilton at free safety.

The Bobcats' secondary will have to be sharp with Adam Coleman at QB for the Rebels. Coleman is one of the state's top quarterbacks and he has two fine receivers in Thomas Jenkins and Beau Tackett, if he is able to go in the game.

Both teams will want this one.

GIRLS' NIGHT OUT LEAGUE

League President: Rudell Preston
League Secretary: Rhonda West

Jenkins

Cavs tonight against the Raiders. How much he will play is not known, but it's a wait-and-see situation.

The strong suit of this Jenkins team is its pursuit on defense and its ability to come after you.

"That is the thing that concerns me," Coach Daniels said. "They will bring 11 men up to the defensive line three yards off the football. They like to play the (Chicago) Bears' 46 defense bringing the numbers up to the line blitzing and shooting the gaps.

"They are an unpredictable ballclub and a very aggressive defensive team," he said.

Coach Daniels said his team must be up for the game and ready to play and the turnovers have to be kept to a minimum.

"On offense they like to spread the field and use two to three receivers on the same side. They will throw the ball on you," he said.

South Floyd must guard against offensive breakdowns, the South Floyd coach said.

"We have to have good quarterback/halfback exchanges," he said. "We want to run the reverse but we don't know if we can. We'll have to wait and see."

The Raiders would like to take advantage of Compton's accuracy and use Mullins as well as Mays and Hall in throwing the football.

"If we don't get some blocking to where we can run the ball then we will have to throw it," the South Floyd coach said. "We will make some adjustments, we will have to make some adjustments, in our offense."

KEYS TO A RAIDER WIN...

"Well, there are three," Daniels said. "Number one, we have got to run our inside fullback trap. We haven't been able to do that all year, but we have to run it against Jenkins because of the type of pressure they will bring against us. Chet (McCarty) will run it. We have to make it work."

Key number two, according to Daniels, will be adjusting to Jenkins' different offensive formations.

"They like to mix it up," Daniels said. "We will need to recognize it and know what to do."

The kicking game will be key number three.

"We have to win the kicking game," the Raiders mentor said. "We're going to go out and do our best. It is a very big game for us. We're ready to take the fight to them and we don't expect anything to be given to us. We need to get on them quick."

Daniels said he would like to see his team jump out early, as they did against Fleming-Neon in building a 14-0 first-quarter lead.

"I expect a dog fight," he said. "I feel if we can run the trap, we will be all right. Hazard ran it against them and scored five times off of it. Hazard runs the sweep like we do and then ran the trap and scored off it. So far, though, we haven't been able to run it. If we can't run the ball then we'll have to throw it."

P'burg

slot. "It's going to be a tough game," Holcomb said. "Prestonsburg. We're aware of the name and the type of program they have had in the past."

Morris had his best game of the season for Prestonsburg against Betsy Layne when he ran for 231 yards last Friday. Morris, who struggled early, has shown that ability to carry the ball he demonstrated last season.

Morris has carried the football 86 times this season for 546 yards, an average of 6.3 yards per carry.

Mike Castle continues to run the ballclub at quarterback with Keith Marsillet still at a receiver's slot. Castle had his best game against Allen Central with 157 yards passing. He completed one pass against Betsy Layne for 15 yards.

Everyone is still singing the praises of freshman receiver John Ortega and the soft hands he possesses in catching the football. He plays like anything but a frosh.

Defensively, the Blackcats are getting better with each outing led by Ernest Campbell, Waylon Bevins, Rusty Young, John Lyons, and Gavin Hale.

Sophomore Dennis Laferty carried the football more against Betsy Layne than he did in the first four games. Laferty rushed for 33 yards, but showed signs of becoming a strong ball carrier.

The Prestonsburg secondary could get a workout tonight with Chapman, underrated, throwing the football.

Young historians club forms

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Students in the Floyd County Schools are being given the opportunity to learn about history and have fun while doing it.

Students met Wednesday night to form a new Floyd County Young Historians Club. The group includes students in grades 4-12 from all county schools.

"We wanted to give everyone a chance to participate," Shane Wicker, adviser, said. "I had been the leader of the Prestonsburg High School club and there were some other kids who said they were interested in joining. That's when I decided to go county-wide."

Wicker said about 30 students were members of the Prestonsburg club and he expects even more from the county-wide effort.

The Floyd County group will be-

Think about it...

by Sheldon Lee Compton

A BUNDLE OF T.L.C.

Well, it finally happened. One minute I was lying on the love seat watching the Simpsons, the next I was taking flight toward Pikeville Methodist Hospital.

My wife, Carrie, was I were becoming parents. She went into labor Tuesday evening and our son, Tyler Lee Compton, was born at 2:21 Wednesday morning August 16. He weighed six pounds and 14 ounces. My first thought when I saw him was that he was the most perfect blue baby in the world.

If you're wondering about the blue part, I went in with Carrie and watched—although the truth be known, I was on the floor praying most of the time.

I didn't faint or throw up or anything like that, but it was very much expected that I would. The last thing on my mind was fainting.

The feelings that rushed into my heart when I first saw him were so strong I cried. I didn't think I would, but I wasn't ashamed. How could I have been? I was the proudest and happiest that I had ever been.

Those of you who are reading this are probably thinking one of two things.

1. I know exactly how he felt.

Or...

2. Where's the sports page?

The reason for this is simple, either you have children or you don't.

If you are a parent, you understand the feelings that I will never be able to put into words. We are members of a special club who have stepped to a higher platform of life and love.

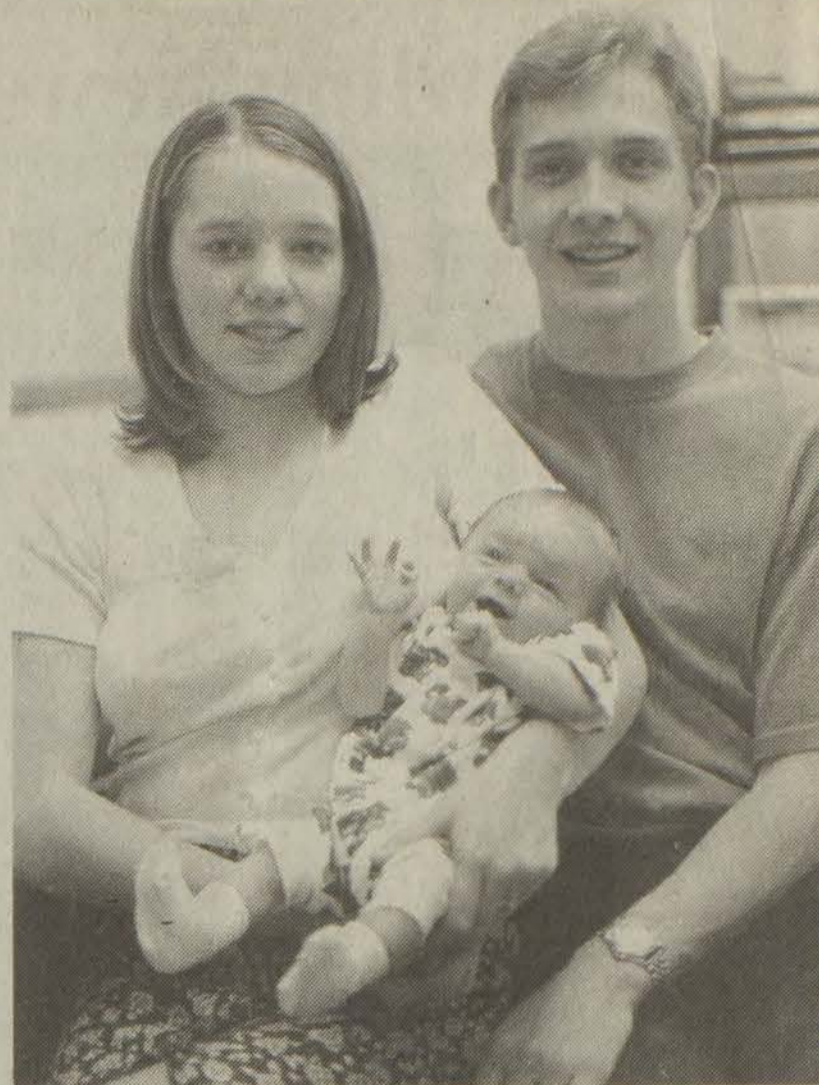

But it's not all loving him and watching him do cute things. There's also times when I worry about him. If he makes a certain kind of face or sound, when I think he's choking. Carrie says all babies do these things. She says the sounds he's making are just cooing. I believe her, but I still worry. I guess I'm just being a father. If I'm holding him and he jerks his leg back for no apparent reason, I think I've broken his leg. Also, he's just found out that he can move his head around.

This discovery is enough to give me instant ulcers.

It scares me because, although he can move it, he can't control it. It just swivels on his shoulders

Carrie is great with him. She is patient and calm and knows just the right way to pick him up without bending him double like I do. She's patient with me, too. I help with most things, but was more or less ordered to never again try to change his diaper. The first and last time I tried, I got "it" on me and him and managed to drop him in the process.

Carrie just laughed at me and said that I didn't hurt him, so I'm not going to worry about it...too much, anyway.

New parents, nervous dad

Sheldon Compton and his wife, Carrie are discovering that nothing can compare to parents' love for their children. Their son, Tyler Lee, was born in August. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Pamela Ison

Ison, Lane plan October wedding

Rachel Stephens Ison of Martin recently announced the engagement of her daughter, Pamela, to Matthew Thomas Lane, son of Arthur Lane and Patricia Lane of Wichita, Kansas.

Ms. Ison is also the daughter of the late Delbert (Red) Ison.

She is a graduate of Allen Central High School and the University of Kentucky College of Nursing. She is employed by Ochsner Foundation Hospital of New Orleans, Louisiana.

Lane is a graduate of Southeast High School and is a graduate of the University of Kansas and the University of Kentucky Colleges of Pharmacy. He is employed by Ochsner Foundation Hospital of New Orleans, Louisiana.

The wedding will take place at 2:30 p.m. on October 21, at Allen United Methodist Church in Allen.

The gracious custom of an open church will be observed.

Scott moves into first place replacing Tim. With all the upsets whoever finishes first will be the one there the last day. Kentucky's two game winning streak will end against Auburn Saturday. The Wildcats might do well to play all their games on the road. Betsy Layne gets the nod over Allen Central while Breathitt County will win at Prestonsburg. Probation bound Alabama will win over injure-plaquet Georgia. Pittsburgh wins over New Orleans in shaking last week's loss. New Orleans at home wins over the Eagles.

Isaac trial moved to Boyd County

by Jerry Pennington
The Big Sandy News

The sex crimes trial of Lawrence County Pastor and former county clerk Gallie Isaac Sr., will be held in Boyd County, Lawrence Circuit Judge Stephen "Nick" Frazier ruled Friday, September 22.

Frazier decided to move the trial after an unsuccessful attempt to seat a jury in Lawrence County earlier this month.

After two days of questioning potential jurors, only four out of 23 were accepted. Most were excused because they knew or had personal ties with Isaac.

Fifty jurors were pooled to try and seat a jury in Lawrence, but after going through 23 of them, Frazier stopped questioning and said it was obvious that there were not going to be enough eligible jurors for the case.

Isaac, 78, is on trial for charges of sexually abusing young boys who attended Isaac Park Free Baptist Church, where he is pastor.

He faces 17 counts of sodomy and sexual abuse charges that stem from four alleged victims over a period of about 10 years.

The victims in the case allege that Isaac engaged in deviate sexual acts with them.

Frazier had asked attorneys in the case to come up with an alternate venue for the trial.

Special prosecutor Luke Morgan, an assistant attorney general, said he preferred Boyd County because it has a larger population which would better the chances of getting a fair and impartial jury.

Frazier also stated this reason for his decision to move the trial to Boyd.

Isaac's attorney, Eldred "Bud" Adams, said he felt a fair jury could have been chosen in Johnson County.

Morgan had filed a motion for a change of venue earlier, but it was denied.

Frazier said the weight of the evidence presented at the time favored leaving the trial in Lawrence, but if a jury couldn't be seated he would move the trial.

Twelve other charges that involve three other children are still pending, but will be tried at a later date.

Isaac was charged last September in eight separate indictments that contained a total of 88 counts.

In December, the indictments were merged into one with 29 counts.

Several of the misdemeanor sexual abuse charges were dropped because of the one-year statute of limitations had run out on them.

Frazier decided to break the charges up into two separate trials after Adams moved to not have all the charges tried at once.

Adams said by the number of charges alone, jurors may automatically consider Isaac a "bad person" before hearing the evidence.

The trial is scheduled to begin October 23.

A Corps of Engineers fall forest fire prevention reminder

The Kentucky Fall Forest Fire Season will begin on October 1 and will run through December 15. During this period, the Corps of Engineers at Paintsville Lake is urging all park visitors to be extra careful with fire when visiting the lake.

It is unlawful during the fire season to set a fire to any flammable material capable of spreading a fire located in or within 150 feet of any private woodland or brush land, except between the hours of 4:30 p.m. to midnight, local time, or when the ground is covered with snow.

The Corps reminds all visitors that at Paintsville Lake, fires are not permitted except when contained in fire grills designed especially for that purpose. When fires are built, care must be taken to completely extinguish them to prevent a restart that could get out of control. Smokers should also make sure that a cigarette is completely safe before it is discarded.

For additional information, contact the resource manager or ranger at Paintsville Lake at (606) 297-6312, Monday through Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Terms of pact may be open

by Linda H. Breed
Appalachian News-Express

U.S. District Judge Joseph Hood will hear arguments Tuesday in deciding whether to make public an agreement reached recently between the county and eight former employees.

Lawyers for the Appalachian News-Express filed a motion last week asking the terms of the settlement reached out-of-court be unsealed.

Pikeville attorneys Herman Lester and Darrell Sammons, who filed the motion, argued that the newspaper has a "constitutionally protected right under the First Amendment" to the information because public money may be involved.

The former county employees who sued for damages as the result of an alleged illegal and wrongful termination of their employment included Liz Thacker-Adkison, Jim G. Justice, Jimmy R. Bentley, Leroy Syck, Obie Tackett, Stallard P. Lynch, Keith Tackett and William Chaney.

The Pike Fiscal Court authorized attorney Thomas Hectus, who represented the county on behalf of its insurance carrier, to negotiate a settlement after the trial got under way a couple of weeks ago.

Four days into the trial, after two special called fiscal court meetings to discuss an out-of-court settlement, Hectus and Joe Childers, the attorney who represented the former workers, announced an agreement had been reached, with the terms sealed by request of both parties.

County Judge-Executive Donna Damron said the county would have to foot the bill for the settlement because the insurance carried by the county would not pay the settlement, calling the acts of termination "willful."

The hearing is set for 9:30 a.m. at the federal courthouse.

Forum with Patton, Forgy to be held at MSU

A Northeast Kentucky gubernatorial forum with candidates Larry Forgy and Paul Patton will be held at 6 p.m. Wednesday, October 18, in the Adron Doran University Center at Morehead State University.

The forum, sponsored by the Morehead-Rowan County Chamber of Commerce, the Morehead Woman's Club and MSU, is an opportunity for residents of the region to hear the candidates plans for Northeast Kentucky, according to Randy Newsome, executive director of the chamber.

Additional information on the Northeast Kentucky gubernatorial forum is available by calling the chamber office at (606) 784-6221.

Despite increase, schools will lose money

by Tony Fyffe
The Paintsville Herald

Despite the recent increase in property assessments, the Johnson County School District will lose about $300,000 in tax money, Superintendent Orville Hamilton says.

Hamilton told the county school board Monday that although the school district will receive an additional $1 million in local tax money from the new assessments, it will lose about $1.3 million in state funding.

"Part of that comes from the standpoint that there was no '94-'95 tax collection," Hamilton said, "and they (the state) have been giving us state monies for '94-'05 even though we didn't get any local money."

Because of the additional state money, Hamilton said, the local board will have to reimburse the state $300,000 a year until the funds are paid back.

"The additional tax the local taxpayers will pay will not give us one penny more," he said.

Hamilton said he obtained the estimates during a conversation with Joe Nance, an official from the state Department of Education.

Nance will explain the situation in detail at a special meeting in October, when the board will set its tax rate, he said.

Hamilton and school board members said they hope to lower the tax rate, even though state education officials have recommended that the rate remain the same.

Johnson County's property assessments more than doubled, the result of state-mandated reassessment project.

Board chairman Dr. Franklen K. Belhasen said the increase is a "real atrocity to the people of this county."

"I think the problems they had with (former PVA Custer Picklesimer), they decided they'd take them out on the entire county, and prove to us they could do that," Belhasen said.

Lowering the tax rate would "send a message" to state officials, Belhasen said.

"I think that is the only way to make a statement," he said.

To demonstrate their displeasure with the situation, the board voted not to raise the tax on motor vehicles and watercraft.

Initially, treasurer Peggy VanHoose said that if board members increased the motor vehicle tax from 52.50 cents to 53.00 cents, they would add about $57,000 to their coffers.

But after going over the figures again, she said the increase would generate only $4,000.

Hamilton said he would have recommended the increase if VanHoose's original projection had been correct.

Negotiations hold up water project

by Christopher Hunt
Appalachian News-Express

The $3.2 million Elkhorn Creek water project is more than a month old, but only two days closer to being finished.

An attempt by the United Steelworkers of America to organize the two contractors is the source of the work stoppage.

Approximately 75 Steelworkers began picketing the Elkhorn Creek work site on August 15, one day after work had begun. "They said they were interested in organizing us...in becoming one of their union contractors," said Jack Crim of Ashland-Catlettsburg Paving Company.

Denver Kinder, of Kinder Construction, also said he was approached the same time as Crim.

Neither the contractors nor their employees were willing to sign a long-term deal. "We work all over the state and it wouldn't be in our best interest to join full time," said Kinder.

Joining the union would not be in the contractors' best interest because they have to submit bids—an offer of how much they would charge to do a project—and the cost of joining a union would raise that price, making them less competitive. "All our work is done on a unit-price-per-foot basis," he said.

Crim also explained some of the reasons his workers were not interested. The union would require each member to pay $36 per month in union dues, a one-time $250 initiation fee and have $4.05 per hour worked taken out of their paycheck as "fringe benefits," he said.

After two days of discussion and alleged threats of intimidation by union members, "I thought we had a deal worked out," said Kinder. The deal he thought he had involved his workers paying only the $36 union dues and being members only for the duration of the contact with Mountain Water.

But when the Steelworkers sent the contract to be signed, "They sent a regular five-year contract," Kinder said.

Concerning the alleged threats, Kinder added, "They (the steelworkers) are nice people. They have treated us very courteously."

The contract Kinder and Crim signed with Mountain Water has a time limit of "360 calendar days" for completion, with a provision for extension of the deadline for reasons beyond the control of the contractor. Mountain Water has recognized that the current labor problem falls into this category.

At present, the project is still in limbo as Mountain Water District cannot become involved.

George Cantrell, United Steelworkers representative, said a new contract has been offered. "We are currently negotiating with those companies and I expect to have an agreement in a couple of days," he said.

When asked about the new offer, Kinder replied, "I have to review it...if everything is satisfactory, we would like to sign a contract." However, he also confirmed this new contract is for five years. "That would be a problem for us," he said.

Crim could not be reached for comment on the new contract offer, but had indicated the recent experience has left him skeptical.

Crim also indicated this problem could be avoided in the future, during the bidding process. "If the union would announce its intention to organize prior to bids being taken, then you could eliminate those contractors who didn't want to join at all," he said.

The Elkhorn Creek project takes in an area beginning a half-mile below Blaze Branch, extending across Shelby Gap and down Elkhorn Creek.

Chaney also said customers can save money if they sign up early. The charge for hookup is $125 if it is done before the project begins, $425 after work is started. The difference in price is because a lender, like the Farmer's Home Administration, allows Mountain Water to subsidize hookup fees if it is done when the application for funding is submitted.

Staffordsville couple charged with theft

A Staffordsville couple was charged last week with stealing a fuel pump from a work site of the new U.S. 23 bypass, authorities said.

Randy Fairchild, 21, and Christine Selvage, 20, were arrested last Tuesday by Paintsville Patrolmen Greg Hyden and Bill Conley.

According to police, Fairchild stole an $800 fuel pump and a portable fire extinguisher from the construction site at the Rt. 460 Ky. 40 intersection.

Selvage aided in the crime by driving the vehicle involved in the theft, Conley said.

Conley said he saw the vehicle around 1:15 a.m., traveling into town with the trunk lid up and a fuel pump in the trunk.

After stopping the car, Conley discovered Selvage was driving on a suspended license. She was also charged with receiving stolen property, the citation said.

Hyden said that while Selvage was with Conley on the traffic stop, Fairchild admitted stealing the fuel pump.

Bond was set at $5,000 each, and both are scheduled

East Point man cited for pot possession

An East Point man was arrested last week on drug charges, authorities said.

Darren Hensley, 30, was cited last Tuesday on U.S. 23 north of Paintsville after being stopped for speeding by Brian King of Motor Vehicle Enforcement.

Hensley was charged with possession of marijuana, possession of drug paraphernalia and having a prescription controlled substance in an improper container, the citation said.

In the citation, King said he found a black pouch containing two plastic baggies and a piece of paper with marijuana and nine roaches, as well as two packs of rolling papers.

The officer said he also found five valium pills in the baggie.

Hensley posted bond and is scheduled to appear in court October 2. —The Paintsville Herald

Flat Gap man arrested for giving false name

A Flat Gap man was arrested Monday for driving on a suspended driver's license and giving false information to a police officer, authorities said.

Joseph Brian Johnson, 29, was involved in an accident on Ky. 201 at Sitka around 8:15 a.m., causing injuries to Leona Osborne, said Trooper Dwayne Price.

Johnson gave a false name and date of birth, telling the trooper he was Kenny R. Jones, the citation said.

He was arrested at 3:50 p.m. Johnson was scheduled to appear in court Tuesday. —The Paintsville Herald

Starting today, the center will stay open until 5 p.m. on Fridays. It opens at 9 a.m. Saturday hours will remain from 9-3.

According to recycling center staff, the expanded hours are targeted for school employees and others who get off work late in the afternoon, after the 3 p.m. closing time.

The recycling center, staffed primarily by volunteers, has been open since March.

Each ton of material recycled save county residents more than $30 in landfill tipping and hauling fees. —The Salyersville Independent

Magoffin man hospitalized following shooting

A Saturday night shooting in Magoffin County has one man in the hospital.

Joe Roark of Magoffin County went to the residence of Coney Brown of Johnson Fork around 10:30 p.m. and, according to the release from the Kentucky State Police, "after a short stay at the residence announced that he intended to shoot Mr. Brown."

A short confrontation followed, with Brown firing a warning shot into the ground. Then, the release says, a single shot was fired, striking Roark in the chest area.

Roark was transported to Cabell-Huntington Hospital for treatment.

The incident is still under investigation by KSP Detective Paul Estep. —The Appalachian News-Express

Students suspended for possession of marijuana

Two Sheldon Clark students were suspended for the rest of the semester last Tuesday. Both pupils were reported to have marijuana in their possession.

Sheldon Clark principal A.J. Haney said, "The marijuana appeared to be home grown." The students now face action from a pair of entities. "Juvenile petitions were filed. They face discipline action from the court system as well as the school system. I hope they will realize the error of their ways." Haney said.

The suspensions bring the number to six who have been suspended for drug related incidents this school year. Two weeks ago four students were suspended for allegedly smoking marijuana at the Martin County Vocational School before being transported to the Alternative School.

City to negotiate lower trash rate

Steps were made Tuesday evening to change the disposal site of Pikeville's solid waste.

Bids were opened on the transfer station and solid waste disposal. The low bidder was Green Valley Environmental Corporation, a subsidiary of Addington Environmental Inc. It was for a rate of $33 per ton, with $200,000 to build a transfer station.

Although the amount of the bid for the transfer station was sufficient, the city had projected it would draw a rate of $29 to $30 per ton.

The city will negotiate with Green Valley, hoping to get a lower tonnage rate.

The city currently disposes of its waste at the Pike County Landfill at Johns Creek. However, the city was upset when the Pike Fiscal Court voted in June to raise the rate it charged the city. The rate rose from $22.50 per ton to $25. —Appalachian News-Express

Sturgill needs $125,000 for liver transplant

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Roberta Sturgill, 53, needs $125,000 to prolong her life.

Sturgill, a former resident of Betsy Layne who now lives in Chicago, Illinois, has Hepatitis Type C, which has destroyed her liver. Doctors say she must have a liver transplant soon, but they won't put her on the donor recipient list until she has at least $125,000 to pay on the procedure, says Sturgill's daughter, Renee Stratton of Stanville.

Physicians diagnosed Hepatitis in March after Sturgill had undergone gallbladder and spleen surgery. She had suffered from flu-like symptoms for a long time, daughter Renee said Wednesday, but doctors had been unable to determine the cause of the symptoms. Roberta also had problems with her blood platelets.

After her surgery in March, tests on her liver revealed Chronic Hepatitis, which meant the illness had lain dormant for a number of years and predicted she had five years left before irreversible damage was done to her liver. Now, they won't talk in terms of time, Renee says.

Roberta's doctors determined she contracted the virus about 33 years ago through a blood transfusion during surgery in a Chicago Hospital.

During those years, Roberta raised four children, worked as a secretary and was among the top ten salespersons for Mary Kay Cosmetics. As a top seller, Roberta has driven the Mary Kay pink Cadillac and now drives the Mary Kay pink Oldsmobile, which she will have to soon relinquish.

Roberta is now confined to her home because she is "very, very tired," Renee said. She has been put on a special salt-free diet and can no longer engage in one of her favorite pastimes, eating out at area restaurants. She can't resist cheating a little, says Renee, and sometimes eats a little bite of pizza, her favorite food.

Roberta is a Christian, which is helping her get through this ordeal, Renee said. Roberta was baptized in the Church of Christ in Prestonsburg.

"It's been really tough," Renee said. Roberta's cousin's daughter, Tracy Mitchell of Beaver, added that Roberta has always been independent, but has had to learn to depend on others.

Renee has also had a difficult time accepting her mother's illness.

"You don't think in terms of this happening to you. It's been hard not knowing which way to turn. At first I went through a depression state. Now I'm working toward the goal of getting her better.

"I want her to do what she has to do. I have two kids and I want them to grow up knowing their grandma," Renee said.

Roberta's insurance policy through Mary Kay won't pay for any major procedure, such as a transplant, or transportation costs, Renee said. Roberta's husband, Pikeville native Rockford Sturgill, is self-employed.

Renee, Tracy, and Tracy's mom, Bella Hamilton are planning fundraising drives for Roberta. A roadblock will be conducted on October 3 at Harold. Bella is working with Marlow Tackett to hold a benefit concert.

Roberta has written to Naomi Judd, asking her to be a guest speaker at a benefit dinner, and many more activities are planned.

The Betsy Layne Church of Christ has made a donation toward the cost, and a bank account has been set up at Trans Financial Bank to receive donations.

If for some reason Roberta

does not receive the transplant, money deposited into the account will be given to another transplant patient after Roberta's medical bills have been deducted from the account, Renee said.

Roberta's medical bills continue to accumulate. Beginning October 18, she will spend four days at the Mayo Clinic for testing. After that, she returns to Illinois where she will begin receiving injections of interferon to try to bring her illness into remission.

Donations may also be mailed to Renee Stratton at 795 Shop Branch Road, Stanville, KY 41659; or Tracy Mitchell at P.O. Box 037, Beaver, KY 41604.

Roberta is the daughter of Vernia Newsome Miller of Betsy Layne and the late Noah Newsome and granddaughter of the late Bert and Cindy Newsome and B.J. and Myrtle Hunter. She is a 1960 graduate of Betsy Layne High School.

Paintsville Lake's open house

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will be hosting its third annual Open House at Paintsville Dam on Saturday, September 30 from noon to 8 p.m. Refreshments will be served and Corps personnel will be conducting guided tours of the dam and facilities throughout the day.

A representative of Scott Shupe's Natural History and Educational Company of Farmington, will be on hand to present live wildlife programs on unusual animals at 2:00 p.m. and 4:00 p.m. At 6:00 p.m., Dan Wilson, fisheries biologist, Kentucky Department of Fish & Wildlife, will present a program on walleye fishing at Paintsville Lake. The Mountain HomePlace will also be open for tours.

Stop by and enjoy the refreshments, tour the dam and see a live Coatie Mundi. You will even find yourself stepping back in time when you tour the Homeplace, and if you enjoy walleye fishing, you just may discover where they have been hiding all this time. So bring the whole family and make a day of it at Paintsville Lake. For more information, contact the Resource Manager, Paintsville Lake, at (606) 297-6312 Monday through Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

The Pikeville Review on scale

The 1995 issue of The Pikeville Review, an annual publication of contemporary fiction, poetry, creative essays, and book reviews, is now available for sale at the Pikeville College bookstore.

According to editor James Alan Riley, associate professor of English at Pikeville College, "We have a good collection of writers in this issue. One in particular is Jeffrey Skinner, a poet from Louisville and an instructor at the University of Louisville. His excerpt from a memoir, "The Private Eye," is exceptionally nice."

The 1995 issue of The Pikeville Review, comprised of 19 poems, two nonfiction and two fiction stories, represents the works of 20 writers from within The Commonwealth and around the country. Riley said the selection process involved reading more than 500 submissions from all over the county and world.

Although works included in this year's issue are from established writers, The Pikeville Review is equally open to submissions from new and unpublished writers, said Riley.

The cover of the 1995 issue, a reproduction of a 16 x 20 lithograph entitled "Playground," was designed by Robert Lazuka, a professor of art at Ohio University.

All submissions and correspondence should be addressed to: The Pikeville Review, James Alan Riley, Editor, Humanities Division, Pikeville College, 214 Sycamore Street, Pikeville, KY 41501.

The Pikeville Review, which sells for $4 per copy, is available at the Pikeville College bookstore, or by calling 432-9368.

In August the City Union Mission in Kansas City, Mo., announced it intended to evict low-income tenants Violet Williams, 86, a resident for 27 years, and Bob Dodson, 71, from the apartment building it owns because it needs the building in order to construct a homeless shelter—a need which it says was created by a shortage of low-income housing in the area.

THE DEMOCRATIC PROCESS

— In trial testimony in July, the former mayor of the 1980s cult-dominated town of Rajneeshpuram, Ore., said he used various schemes to keep the noncult townspeople from voting, including making them sick by tampering with the food at a restaurant and by coating courthouse doorknobs with a chemical irritant as election day approached.

— In the June 13 mayoral election in Sutton, W. Va., Ed (for Edward) Given beat Ed (for Edgar) Given by two votes. In the recount, however, Edgar won by six.

— In August the city council of apathetic Lierne, Norway, acted to increase interest in the September elections by making everyone who actually votes eligible for an expense-paid vacation to a south Europe resort. And in May, glamorous model Yelena Mavrodi, 25, finished third in an election to represent Kolomna in the Russian Parliament, despite her campaign platform of giving a free coupon to everyone who voted for her, promising an unspecified gift. And The Wall Street Journal reported in May that Argentina was considering a proposal to pay about $100,000 to each resident of the Falkland Islands if they would vote to leave British sovereignty and become Argentine subjects.

— Newly elected Ontario legislator Dominic Agostino was denied his seat at his swearing-in ceremony in June because he pledged allegiance to Canada, which is not part of the official oath. The constitutional oath requires legislators to “bear true allegiance” only to the Queen of England.

— In April, Ms. Naoko Asaki, 27, gave up the seat she won in the Municipal Assembly in the city of Higashimurayama, Japan, to Hozumi Yano, who finished fourth in the balloting. “Mr. Yano has more experience than I,” she said, “and he’s more qualified for the job.”

NEW RIGHTS

— In August, Michigan prison inmate Janet Cohen, 42, serving three-to-five for tax evasion, complained that a rule requiring female prisoners to wear brassieres is unfair to her because she is so flat-chest-

ed. Warden Sally Langley said the rule is necessary for “security.”

— A Superior Court judge in Danbury, Conn., ruled in July that middle school teacher Nancy Sekor was wrongfully dismissed. She had been found incompetent in two of the three courses she teaches (English and social studies) but competent in business courses and thus, said the judge, must be rehired to teach business.

— In July, according to U.S. News & World Report, a federal agency that helps administer the Americans With Disabilities Act told a disabled employee who uses a Labrador guide dog that he could not bring the dog with him to work—because a co-worker suffers from a fear of dogs.

— Among the incidents reported by The Wall Street Journal in a July story on the Family and Medical Leave Act was the still-pending case of June Manuel, who was fired in February 1994 by Westlake Polymers Corp. for excessive absenteeism, including four days’ leave when her cat died and seven weeks following the removal of an ingrown toenail.

— In March, a Superior Court judge in Boston found John J. Locke not guilty of assaulting a police officer who was the police commissioner’s driver. Testimony showed that Locke, who is white, shouted a racial epithet and, with no provocation, pounded the School reform continues to be a red hot topic of debate six years after KERA was enacted, and the fact that an election is coming up means the issue is getting an extra helping of attention.

None of the people talking about school reform are actually in school, though, so we thought it might be interesting to get the impression of one of KERA’s beneficiaries.

Our son, who is in what used to be called the third grade, was the subject of our interview, and he provided some eye-opening information for the “experts” to ponder.

For instance, we have learned that despite all of KERA’s good intentions toward changing attitudes about the educational process, recess is still the most often mentioned part of the school day curriculum among eight-year-old boys.

Gym class is a close second, while lunchroom food is still a mystery.

When asked what he did in school on a particular day, we were startled by the response of “nuthin’,” which is remarkably similar to the answers given by pre-KERA students who attended “traditional” primary classes.

It is equally interesting to note that our survey group was not inspired by education reform to comb his hair before school pictures or use a napkin instead of his sleeve.

We also found during our survey that the reform movement has done nothing to dispell the age-old myth that the principal has an electric paddle (with nails in it), or to convince our subject that homework is more important than an after-school game of sandlot football.

One change provided by KERA that has gained the widespread support of our survey group is the required allocation of planning time for teachers.

That means our son gets out of school 40 minutes early one day a week.

A time for us

For the past month, my husband and I have barely seen each other. He accomplishes his work on the normal eight-hour schedule while I spend nearly twice the time working at my job. I try to explain to him that it’s understandable when a person accepts new responsibilities, it takes more time. Particularly when you’re breaking new ground and it’s a learning experience, but he doesn’t wholly accept my theory.

Unfortunately, this “no time” creates hardships and can result in misunderstandings.

“Hello, Honey,” I said as I unexpectedly sped through the house after work one afternoon last week.

My husband, feigning sleep in the recliner, didn’t open his eyes and answered, “Who goes there?”

It’s me, Honey,” I answered.

“Don’t say a word. Let me guess. Sara? Could it be Sara? Nah. If Sara were home she’d be on the phone.”

“Jimmie, that’s not fair,” I objected. “You’re going to upset me, and I’m only home for a second.”

The phone interrupted our conversation.

“Sara? Sara who? There’s someone here who says she’s Sara, but I’m reserving judgment until she’s been here over an hour without leaving, or until I hear the potato chip bag.”

Jimmie handed me the telephone and turned the volume on the television up to deaf. When I hung up, I turned to him and yelled, “I’ve got to go to a meeting. I’ll be home late. Don’t wait up for me.”

“Don’t worry! Dracula doesn’t have the stamina to wait up for you. You haven’t forgotten that your son and I require sleep have you? And, aren’t J. R. and I going to have actual home cooked meals anymore, or should we assume that extra box of Honey Nut Cheerios is breakfast AND supper?”

It might have just been my imagination, but I thought I detected a note of sarcasm in Jimmie’s voice. Didn’t he realize that I missed him, too? Didn’t he know that I was just as stressed from being away from him as he was from anticipating that the O. J. trial was coming to an end?

“Okay, Jimmie. Let’s talk about what’s really bothering you,” I said sympathetically. “For the past 12 months your life has evolved around DNA evidence and side bars. That’s about to come to a screeching halt.

Jeff Copley makes his trek down the “Country Music Highway”

Jeff Copley’s musical tastes and talents reflect the strong musical roots that have nurtured him while growing up in the coal mining hills of Crum, West Virginia.

As the Appalachian Mountains and roaring rivers provide both inspiration and insight into the tough struggles of working-class people, a close-knit musical community has slowly developed over the last several decades.

At the root of this music is bluegrass, stripped to its purest form. Then it is influenced by the heartbreaking, soul-searching lyrics and sounds of traditional country music — sung as only those who have truly lived it can — and flavored by the gospel music heard in church every Sunday.

With his album, Evergreen, Jeff Copley has successfully made the trek down Highway 23, called “Country Music Highway,” that so many others have made such as Loretta Lynn, Keith Whitley, Dwight Yoakam, Patty Loveless, The Judds, Ricky Skaggs, Kathy Mattea, and Billy Ray Cyrus. They’re all from a 100-mile radius that spans from Elkhorn City to Charleston, West Virginia.

“It just made my dream more realistic because there had been people from my area who have made it big in country music,” says Copley, 26. “It made me believe that I could do it, too.

“There are really strong musical roots there,” Copley says. “They could have been created by hard times, but whatever the reason, there are just real country music lovers there.

“There’s a 10-acre field two miles from my house where they have a bluegrass festival twice a year,” he says. “People bring their campers and it’s a big two-day party in the middle of a hay field. They’ve had all the big bluegrass acts — Bill Monroe, Ralph Stanley and Jimmy Martin.”

Copley’s love for the West Virginia area is revealed in his debut album through such songs as “Out Where God Is,” which celebrates the beauty and spirituality of a father-son fishing trip, and “Below My Raisin’,” which is about exploring the other side of the tracks after being raised in church.

“I first realized that I wanted to be a performer when I sang in church at age five,” Copley says. “I made up this song and I got up there with this old guy who had a guitar. After five minutes or so, he finally had to stop playing because I just kept going, making it up as I went. I knew right then that this is what I wanted to do. I wanted to be in front of a crowd performing.

“I was really thankful to be exposed to church at an early age because it helped me stay focused on my dream and to have the faith never to give up on my dream.”

“Evergreen,” the title cut, is the story of a country Romeo and Juliet. “It’s about a guy named Bobby who fell in love with a girl who had the greenest eyes he had ever seen, so he called her Evergreen,” Copley says. “Then her dad didn’t like him and wouldn’t allow her to see him anymore. So they ran away together and were never seen again.

“This song talks about the power of love and it really comes from the heart,” Copley says. “I think this one is my favorite because it’s such a good story song. I have two younger sisters, so I know how it is for dads to see their little girls grow up and start dating.”

Another Evergreen song about the trials and explorations of youth is “Rocks and Roses,” which is about a tomboy who threw rocks at the boy next door, who later grows up to give her roses.

Copley’s early influence were his parents’ eight-track tapes of Conway Twitty, Loretta Lynn, The Kendalls, and later, Keith Whitley.

These childhood influences are reflected in the song “Rock and Roll Heart,” which is about growing up to Hank Williams on Daddy’s old radio. “This song says we all came from the same mold, and all different kinds of music influenced us,” he says.

Copley’s father bought him a guitar at age 15, and he soon began playing with bands in nearby festivals in Lawrence County and in Wayne County, West Virginia. He continued playing music for several years while working as a radio DJ, turning logs at a sawmill and later attending Morehead State University.

In 1993, he was performing at a songwriters’ showcase in Paintsville, when he was approached by Donnie Canada, a big, gentle man with a soft Kentucky drawl.

“A friend called and convinced me to go to this showcase to see Jeff,” Canada says. “He said, ‘You should go because there will probably be 75 songwriters there, but out of those 75, there is one guy named Jeff Copley. You’ll recognize him as soon as you walk in. Just wait until he takes the microphone.”

“When I walked in, I looked around and just walked over and shook hands with Jeff. He just stood out. When I heard his voice, I heard something that was different.”

Unbeknownst to Copley, Canada’s business partner is legendary music producer Harold Shedd, president of Polydor Nashville. One week later, Copley was in Shedd’s office at his Music Mill recording studio, staring at the gold and platinum Alabama albums that line the walls.

“It was almost too good to be true,” Copley says. “This was something that I had worked toward for so long, and then it happened. I was getting my shot.”

Copley spent more than seven months scouring Music Row for strong, credible songs for Evergreen. “We listened to probably 2,000 songs before deciding on these ten,” he says. “When you hear a song, you say, ‘Yes, that’s me, I can do that.’

“These are clean, positive songs that people can relate to,” he says. “They all have something to do with real life experiences.

“I’m just into positive music that has a brighter outlook on life. There’s enough negative things happening. I like to be optimistic about life.”

Copley’s debut album Evergreen will be released on October 3.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: Lucy began her plot to undo Kevin/Norma, while Katherine discovered Mac's secret. Stone and Robin agreed to call Jagger as Stone's condition worsened. Ned and Edward bribed a politician to get the goods on Damian. Alan and Bobbie planned to meet in New York but a phone call interrupted their plans. As Mac and Katherine spent a long passionate day together, an angry Felicia tended to the Outback. Brenda was worried about Jagger and Karen's return. Wait To See: Sonny faces another challenge.

GUIDING LIGHT: Dinah's family was devastated when she chose to wed Roger, not Marcus. She later told Roger she won't be a weak wife like Holly, and she won't tolerate secrets from each other. Marian (Brent) advised Lucy not to accept Alan-Michael's proposal. Nola was stunned to learn Matt and Vanessa were engaged again and planned a wedding on very short notice. Later, Dinah got a new understanding of Roger when he explained why they should attend. Wait To See: What does Reva really remember?

LOVING: Jacob risked his life to try to rescue Tyler from the cave. Later, Angie and Jacob made love. Neal refused to tell the police how he's connected to the Aldens. Jeremy became aware of the clicking sounds when he was trapped in the Alden secret room. He escaped and waited to tell Alex and Tony who the killer is. Wait To See: Kate reacts to Neal's "confession."

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Ice stabbed Antonio and was later shot and killed by Andy. Manzo ditched Ice's gun and accused Andy of killing an unarmed man. Joey was determined to cheer up Kelly after David rebuffed her. Manzo was stunned when R.J. told him that he, R.J., now "owned" Manzo. At Asa's urging, Todd ran a story linking Andy with Antonio. Javier warned Linda not to tell anyone she saw the shooting. Clint and Carlotta shared a romantic moment as Viki returned to Llanfair. Wait To See: Viki faces Clint.

YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Victor told Cliff to get out when Cliff asked him to divorce Hope and give up custody of Victor, Jr. Phyllis claimed Danny was erratic and got a court order to keep him away from Danny, Jr. Mari Jo agreed to spend the night with Keemo. But after learning Luan may die of her illness (making Jack available) Mari Jo realized Jack could reject her if he learned she'd slept with his son. In their hotel room, Mari Jo arranged for another woman to slip into bed with Keemo. John realized how much he missed and cared for Mamie. Sharon confessed to Chris she'd been raped by Matt but was afraid to tell Nick's lawyers. Wait To See: Phyllis may regret her action.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Joy comes from creativity, sports and other entertainment. Couples reach important understandings, particularly about finances. In general, agreements with others are easily reached.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Guard against being overly extravagant this week as you are tempted to throw caution to the wind and purchase that pricey item. A combination of drive and self-discipline brings career gains.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Stock up on home necessities since you've been neglecting your pantry of late and need to replenish supplies. Family interests and dealings with financial consultants are heavily favored later in the week.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Couples are faced with a family dilemma which needs to be dealt with in an expedient manner. Someone seeks you out for a special meeting. Be sure to attend it since it has far-reaching business ramifications for you.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) While romance and leisure activities are favored early in the week, avoid a tendency to overdo. You also have an unfortunate tendency to exaggerate your importance this week when in the company of friends.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Although you want to shop for some new furniture or accessories for your home, be careful not to overspend. A job you've been putting off can wait no longer. Stop procrastinating and get to it. Once accomplished, you can relax.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) If you're persistent on the workfront, you can make a great deal of progress and impress bigwigs as well. Later in the week, you have to fight against inertia in order to realize your goals.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Social activities tempt you like the sirens of old. Feel free to join in the fun, but make sure these events don't drain your wallet. Some things aren't worth the money they require. It's a great time to speak your mind at meetings.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Couples need to renew that romantic giddiness now.

Seek out a very special place with meaning for just the two of you and spend some time there. In fact, a weekend getaway could just provide the right prescription.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) The accent this week is on family harmony and, believe it or not, shopping for the home. However, don't think in terms of some grandiose purchase. Sometimes, the smallest knick-knack can be a real brightener.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) An old friend surprises you with some exciting news. It's possible that the two of you can collaborate on a lucrative project. However, be aware that this will require many long hours.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Early in the week, you are surprised by how much you can accomplish at work. If possible, take advantage of this and try to take off for an early long weekend. You or your significant other tend to overspend.

Floyd County's finest, our veterans, and their families have made sacrifices, some of them the ultimate sacrifice of laying down their lives for their country. Our freedom has been preserved through their dedication and valiant courage. The Floyd County Times will publish a tribute to these veterans in a special Veteran's Day edition in November. Families can honor these veterans by submitting service-time and current photos of the veterans and by filling out the completed form below before the October 27th deadline.

TUNING IN

COURTING DRAMA: This season is seeing an explosion of courtroom-based series on television—such as "Court House," and "John Grisham's The Client" on CBS; ABC's "Murder One," which takes a case from investigation on through trial; and NBC's "JAG," about military justice, to cite just a few. "Court TV" will also expand into new shows. CNN will also offer a new program devoted to legal matters.

Many of the specials you'll see turn up on your TV log this season are also courtroom-based. SHOWTIME offers "Woman Undone" on October 8, starring Mary McDonnell, Sam Elliott, and Randy Quaid. This courtroom drama revolves around a woman (McDonnell) suspected of murdering her husband (Quaid). Sam Elliott plays her lawyer.

Shelly T. Turtle is on your TV screens these days, and if you care about quality programming for your children, make this a must in their viewing lineup. The PBS series teaches youngsters respect for animals in a way that makes them understand how important it is that we protect all these furry, finny, and feathery creatures who not only share the world with us, but help make the world a better and happier place to live in.

QUOTABLES FROM THE FOXDEN: D.B. Sweeney, who stars in "Lucky Chance" on FOX, grew up in New York City a rabid baseball fan. "Then I played a hockey player in a movie," he said, "and now I'm a rabid New York Rangers fan."

Patti D'Arbanville-Quinn, of "New York Undercover," says, "When I meet a real New York City police officer, she or he always tells me I play the role well enough for them to believe I might have been a cop or I'm married to one. I hate to disappoint any of New York's Finest, but I'm married to one of New York's Bravest, a firefighter."

END NOTE: American International Pictures, and other studios produced a series of hard-hitting flicks 25 years ago with black actors as heroes and heavies. A resurgence of interest in these movies, including "Superfly" and "Blacula," led Kit Parker Films to package 33 under the title "Blaxploitation, Baby" for showing around the country. Why the renewed interest? Those wise heads in Hollywood have a short answer: "O.J."

officer, who is black, leaving him with cuts, a black eye and loosened teeth. However, the judge found that Locke is a manic-depressive and had let his prescribed doses of lithium lapse for two months prior to the attack; she let him go on the promise that he would take his medication.

— Charles Diaz, a former Hells Angel now on death row for the 1986 murders of a Fort Bragg, Calif., family of four, petitioned a judge in Mendocino County, Calif., recently to provide him a free laptop computer in his cell in order to help him analyze documents as part of his appeal. According to Diaz's lawyer, "It's 1995. Computers are part of law practice."

— The U.S. Court of Appeals in San Francisco ruled in July that the Orange County, Calif., taxpayers had to pay for special private schooling for a high school student suffering from "attention deficit disorder," despite his alleged extremely disruptive behavior. School officials said the boy peddled cigarettes on campus, set fires, threatened to kill classmates, and kicked his pregnant mother in the stomach (sending her to live outside the family home for several months purely out of fear of her son). Said a state education official explaining the court's ruling, "What really matters is the individual needs of the child."

Smile Awhile —

The stress is getting to you, isn't it? Don't worry. They're having spin off-programs from the trial."

Maybe it was the way the heat emitted from his eyes when fire shot out of them, or the manner in which he clenched his fists when he rose from the chair that made me realize I had hit a raw nerve.

"Hit your crazy bone?" I asked. "Sara, there is no normalcy in this household. Three people with three different agendas reside within these walls. If you're home, the grandkids are here, or either you're busy doing something for friends and family. And sometimes when you're here you're doing something for work. And when J. R.'s here he's either asleep or getting ready to leave. Then he doesn't come home until it's so late you can't sleep.

That's what's stressful. I'm afraid if I made an appointment to see you it would be postponed."

"That's silly. I can see you on Tuesday evening around 6. No, I take that back. I've got a hair appointment. What about Wednesday at noon. No, I have to leave for my meeting. Say, about...How's Friday at 7 p.m.?" That is if I'm back from Ashland."

Jimmie looked at me blankly. "Ahah! Thought I couldn't come up with a time did you?"

Sometimes I think Jimmie doesn't enjoy my sense of humor. I'm going to take some time and reread that book that tells how you're supposed to make time for your spouse just as soon as I find an extra minute.

NOTICE OF BOND RELEASE

In accordance with KRS 350.093 notice is hereby given that Branham & Baker Coal Company, Inc., 148 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653, has applied for Phase III bond release on Permit Number 436-5118 which was last issued on 7/27/87. The application covers an area of approximately 4 acres located 1.9 miles South of David in Floyd County.

The permit area is approximately 2.5 miles southwest from Rt. 404 junction with Rt. 850 and located 0.7 miles southwest of Open Fork of Middle Creek. The latitude is 37° 34' 02". The longitude is 82° 53' 22".

The bond now in effect for the 436-5118 is 900.00. Approximately 15% of the original bond amount of $27,500.00 is included in the application for release.

Reclamation work performed includes: grading seeding and tree planting.

Written comments, objections, and requests for a public hearing or informal conference must be filed with the Director, Division of Field Services, #2 Hudson Hollow, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, by 11/5/95.

A public hearing on the application has been scheduled for 1:00 p.m., 11/7/95, at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 2705 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. The hearing will be canceled if no request for a hearing or informal conference is received by 11/5/95.

F-9/15, 9/22, 9/29, 10/6

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application #836-0157, Amendment #3

In accordance with KRS 350.070, notice is hereby given that Bailey Mining Co., Inc., H.C. 72, Box 195, Price, Kentucky 41636, has applied for an amendment to an existing surface coal mining and reclamation operation located 1.5 miles south of Weeksbury in Floyd and Pike Counties. The amendment will add 5.1 acres and delete 4.6 acres of surface disturbance and delete 4.5 augging underground acres making a total of 39.2 acres within the amended permit boundary.

The proposed amendment area is approximately 1.3 miles south from Kentucky Route 466's junction with Caleb Fork County Road and located 0.4 miles south of Johns Fk. junction with Elisha Fork. The latitude is 37 degrees, 18 minutes, 30 seconds. The longitude is 82 degrees, 41 minutes, 15 seconds.

The proposed amendment is located on the Wheelwright U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be disturbed by the amendment is owned by the Collins & Mayo Collieries Company. The amendment will underlie land owned by the Collins & Mayo Collieries Company. The operation will utilize the contour and augering mining reclamation methods of surface mining. The operation proposes a postmining land use change from forest land to fish and wildlife habitat.

The amendment application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 2705 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653-1455. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director, Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

This is the final advertisement of this application; all comments, objections or requests for a hearing or conference must be received within 30 days of today's date. TFN.

Public Notice

The Floyd County Board of Education will hold a public hearing at Adams Middle School on Tuesday, October 10, 1995 at 6 p.m. to hear public comments regarding a proposed general fund tax levy of 59.3 cents for real property and 63.5 cents for personal property.

The general fund tax levied in fiscal year 1994-95 was 56.4 cents and 62.8 cents and produced combined revenues of $4,605,933. The proposed General Fund tax rate of 59.3 cents for real property is expected to produce $3,747,010 and the rate of 63.5 cents for personal property is expected to produce $1,158,091 based on available information concerning collection rates.

The general areas to which revenue in excess of 1994-95 revenue is to be allocated are as follows: Approximately $11,500 for cost of collections; approximately $11,800 for the building fund; approximately $200,000 for the instructional program; approximately $76,000 for operation and maintenance of facilities.

The compensating tax rate for 1995-96 is 56.4 cents for real property and should produce $3,563,766 and 62.8 cents for personal property which should produce $1,145,325.

The General Assembly has required publication of this advertisement and the information contained herein.

JENNY WILEY, 1760-1831

Jenny Wiley was an heroic pioneer mother, captured by Indians on October 1, 1789, at Walker's Creek, Virginia. She witnessed the slaying of her brother and five children by savages and was, herself, held captive for several months on Little Paint Creek in what is now Johnson County. She eventually escaped from the Indians and crossed the Big Sandy River at East Point to Harmon Station at Block House Bottom and was shortly thereafter united in Virginia with her husband, Thomas Wiley.

Mrs. Wiley returned to Johnson County with her husband, and they reared five children. Jenny Wiley died in October of 1831 and her body lies in a cemetery at River, Kentucky.
