Hammond officially disbarred by court

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

A little more than 15 years after former county attorney Jim Hammond was disbarred the first time, he was disbarred from the Kentucky Bar Association again.

The Kentucky State Supreme Court accepted Hammond's resignation Thursday from the Kentucky Bar Association, stating that Hammond, in his capacity as Floyd County Attorney, filed false reports seeking payment for work never done for the Division of Child Support Enforcement and asked his employees to do the same. He received $77,341.59 from the state Department of Treasury for the scheme.

Hammond was also involved in a check-kiting scheme in which he sought to defraud numerous banks in Eastern Kentucky, the motion from the Supreme Court stated.

Hammond pleaded guilty in February to executing an $8 million check kiting scheme and for defrauding the state division of Child Support Enforcement.

His wife, Janie, pleaded guilty that same day to one charge of making a false statement to a federally insured bank.

While his license to practice law was suspended immediately because of the guilty plea, the State Supreme Court was required by law to act on his request to resign.

"We note that Jimmy Martin Hammond was disbarred from the practice of law on April 14, 1981. It is unfortunate that he has squandered the opportunity he was given to again practice law in this Commonwealth," an order from the Supreme Court states. "His conduct, as noted herein, has again brought the bar into disrepute."

As part of the acceptance of Hammond's resignation, the Supreme Court ordered that he is not permitted to practice law in Kentucky until the Supreme Court reinstates his membership in the Kentucky Bar Association; that he shall not file an application for reinstatement of his license for a period of five years; or that he seek reinstatement of his license "as long as any outstanding claims or judgments arising from his misconduct, including any payments made to any client or any other entity by or on behalf of the Clients' Security Fund" exist.

Hammond will be sentenced May 29 in federal court in Pikeville on the fraud and check kiting charges. Hammond did not return calls to his office Thursday. His home number has been disconnected.

Students submit special requests for 'day of prayer' observance

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

A prayer rally will be held Thursday, May 2, in the new municipal parking lot in Prestonsburg to commemorate National Day of Prayer.

Both Floyd County Judge-Executive Ben Hale and Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin issued proclamations joining the government agencies to the nationwide effort to "change the future through prayer."

Area children have been assembling prayer chains with their special prayer requests to bring to the rally. At Mountain Christian Academy, fourth grade student Derek Slone put names of his family

The driver of a car involved in a two-vehicle accident on Wednesday afternoon on Route 114 was admitted to Highlands Regional Medical Center and released Thursday evening. The accident was a result of the driver, traveling East on 114, turning into the path of a west bound vehicle. The driver was attempting to turn left onto the on ramp for US 23 North between the Wal-Mart lights and Food City lights. The driver in the other vehicle was not seriously injured. The identity of the drivers was not known at presstime. (photo by Chris McDavid)

Rumpke, county, taxpayers losing money, company says

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Rumpke, the company awarded the franchise to pick up garbage in Floyd County, said it is losing money and wants something done about it.

Dave Cooley, a Rumpke employee, told members of the Solid Waste board Monday night that he's having a problem collecting for pick ups in trailer parks around the county.

"The county's losing money. Rumpke is losing money and the citizens of Floyd County are losing money," he said.

Right now, Cooley said property owners of rental property are being billed for the collections, but some landowners aren't happy about that situation. They want Rumpke to bill their renters directly.

"There has to be a happy medium," Cooley said.

He said he had asked landowners to send a list of renters, but only one had done so. He said the county and Rumpke aren't going to get their money "until we hold someone accountable." He asked the board to approve a "stronger" ordinance that would ensure payment of bills by the transient sector of the county's population.

Board member David Layne said the ideal situation would be to attach the bill to bills sent out by the power companies.

"Would we be willing to pay a portion of our 15 percent to the power companies to collect these?" Mike Vance, director of the board,

Mountain Racing seeks to liquidate in bankruptcy

A second company connected with Thunder Ridge Racetrack has filed bankruptcy.

Mountain Racing Inc. filed Chapter 7 bankruptcy April 11. That means the company wants to liquidate its assets and liabilities.

The company lists

Terrell of Campton.

A passenger in Terrell's vehicle, Bill Nickells, 54, also of Campton, was transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in Huntington, West Virginia, where he was pronounced dead at 5 a.m.

Terrell was treated and released at Paul B. Hall Medical Center.

Charges may be filed pending further investigation, according to the report. The accident is being investigated by KSP Troopers Phil McFaddin, Scott Hazelett, and Detective Paul Estep.

asked. "I think we should sit down with Dave and bring back a plan in May."

Lon May, ecology officer, said property owners could be held accountable and charged with criminal penalties for not paying the bills, but Vance said he wanted to avoid that if at all possible.

Floyd County Solid Waste has taken some property owners to court for not paying their bills and for dumping their trash in illegal dumps. Most have agreed to clean up their messes.

$1,812,976.62 and no assets. Most of the debts, $1.8 million, are owed to Bank Josephine.

Stockholders include former Governor Julian Carroll, Terrell Ross, and Murray Sinclair of Lexington. Clyde Woods of Prestonsburg, and Nancy Loy of Columbia.

One stockholder said that the filing will not affect the day-to-day operations of the track because it is run by Appalachian Racing Inc. Appalachian Racing filed Chapter 11 bankruptcy last May. That means the company is repaying its debts after reorganization. Gill Johnson said the company is a "worthless shell" and that the Fund freeze may run afoul of state laws

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

The Floyd County superintendent may have violated the Kentucky Education Reform Act by infringing on the responsibilities of the school councils when he froze instructional monies in January.

Dr. John Balentine said he froze all the funds left in the instructional accounts "the minute I found out they had not been spent."

But Kentucky law states that "the school council shall determine which textbooks, instructional materials, and student support services shall be provided in the school. Subject to available resources, the local board shall allocate an appropriation to each school that is adequate to meet the school's needs related to instructional materials and school-based student support services, as determined by the school council."

Sandy Gubser with the state Department of Education did not return calls to her office Thursday for an opinion on the freeze.

Phil Damron, board attorney, said Balentine had permission from the state department to change the system's budget because of its financial situation, which would have also given him permission to freeze the instructional funds.

"That's right," he said of the councils having authority over the instructional funds, "except in a financial emergency. Then the superintendent has the right to change the budget. When that emergency was declared, he could freeze those funds."

Science teachers at Prestonsburg High School objected to Balentine's freeze of the funds because they were unable to purchase supplies, such as dissecting specimens, for their classes.

Balentine had said that the funds were not used early enough in the school year to benefit students in the system this year and that the supplies wouldn't have been in time to be used this year.

"My order was dated in December and Balentine has a copy of it," Patty Elliott, science department chair at PHS, said Thursday. "There's no earthly reason why we would order science specimens and leave them here in the school in the heat this summer."

The PTO at PHS purchased $1,000 of specimens for the science classes at the school. The orders were called in Tuesday and were expected in Thursday or Friday.

The science department at PHS had a budget of $4,500 in instructional funds for the purchases. Elliott said she had ordered about $200 worth of materials in early fall, leaving a balance in the account of about $4,300. She described the requested purchases as

New dispute erupts at PCC over election

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

It seems that storm clouds have settled over Prestonsburg Community College once again.

This time, the dispute centers around a student government election in which one student on the Pikeville campus said he wasn't given a chance to run for an office in the association.

"I expressed an interest several months ago in the presidency of the Student Government Association," Edward Pinson said. "I made several calls to the main campus trying to determine what I needed to do to get on the ballot."

Pinson said calls to French Harmon, advisor of the SGA group at PCC, were not returned. "No one seemed to know what was going on," he said.

Then one day last week, Pinson said another student began putting up signs and told him the election was the next day (April 16). "The next morning, they showed up with the ballot box," Pinson said.

He said Harmon told him that it was his responsibility to find out what the procedures were. "He said 'It is not up to us, but up to you to find out what's going on,'" Pinson said.

The election was held on April 16 and on April 17. According to a memo dated April 23 from Harmon to Brenda Music, dean of stu-

Prisoners doing work as well as time at jail

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

The Floyd County Sheriff's Department, magistrates, and Prestonsburg's Public Works Department are making good use of the Class-D community service program offered by the new jail through the State Department of Correctional Facility.

Magistrate Jackie Owens, District II, was the first person to utilize class-D prisoners to perform community service for Floyd County, according to Roger Webb, jailer.

"We're going to try to use the prisoners as much as we can, because we want to clean up the community," Owens said Thursday.

Owens said he has used the prisoners to pick up trash and clean up areas in the county. He anticipates taking prisoners to the Garrett Little League ball field within the next week or so, he said.

dent affairs, only 13 votes were cast on the Pikeville campus, an increase of seven from 1995.

Campus-wide — which includes both the Prestonsburg and Pikeville campus of the community college — about ten percent of all eligible PCC students participated in the election, the memo states. Only full-time students carrying at least 12 hours are eligible to participate.

Steven Thompson and Robert Nellipowitz were declared the winners.

Harmon, in the memo, said he followed the "previously agreed upon procedure" for getting information to the Pikeville campus, specifically that posters and signs were mailed to Mazola Salmons in Pikeville. He said that information was mailed on March 27 by a counseling center secretary, and SGA senator.

Harmon did not return calls to his office Thursday.

"The Student Government Association is disappointed that all students were not informed as to the election," the memo from Harmon to Music states. "I conclude that the 1996 SGA election for president and vice-president was valid and should be quickly certified. While not pleased by the fact some students may not have known of this election, this demonstrates the need for faculty and staff to encourage participation in the Student Congress."

A memo from Liz Cole, counselor on the Pikeville campus, to Harmon, dated April 22 stated that she first learned of the election on April 15. "The fact that nominations and elections were not advertised at the Pike County Campus makes the election invalid, since it did not follow correct election procedures," the memo from Cole to Harmon states.

Cole's memo indicates she was surprised by the problems because Harmon, along with SGA president Robert Wheeler, met with Cole and Mazola at the beginning of the academic year and discussed a "well-coordinated effort" for the election.

"Clearly the election is not valid and needs to start again with announcing the call for nominations," the memo states.

A second memo, to Harmon and Music, from Cole dated April 24 states that the student worker received the information to be posted on April 16, the day of the election and that a new election will be held, according to a decision by Judith James, assistant vice chancellor of student affairs at UK.

James did not return calls to her office in Lexington Thursday to confirm that contention.

The Faculty Assembly voted April 23 to write a letter of support to Music offering the Faculty Assembly's full support for holding another SGA election. Thomas Orf, who was elected chair of the assembly at that same meeting said the Pikeville students are not being treated fairly.

"They have been disenfranchised from the rest of the college," he said.

Dr. Deborah Floyd, president of PCC, said she did not think a new election will be held.

"My understanding is that the certification of the election was complete on April 17," she said.

Pinson said Harmon offered him a senatorship on the Congress through Music, even though that is an elected position, according to the Student Congress Constitution, which states that the student council shall consist of five elected freshman representatives, the five elected sophomore senators, the president and vice president.

He said Harmon had not mentioned the appointment to him, but Music asked him why he didn't accept it. "She said she couldn't believe I didn't accept the senatorship he offered me," Pinson said.

He said Harmon, in phone calls to Pinson's home after the election, described the Pikeville campus, its students and staff member as "hostile."

Pinson also said he had received a call from James and that he told her his story. After he received another call from James, he learned that the first call was not from her, but from an imposter. He still has not found out who that call was from.

"She told me that Deborah Floyd had said she was going to call Carr and have her reprimanded for saying there needed to be another election," Pinson said. "But she told me this morning (Thursday) that she was going to get to the bottom of this. She said she was going to (UK President Charles) Weddington and that the situation is way out of control."

"basics to the science program. This is a unit we do every year," she said.

Elliott said she ordered sheep hearts and brains and fetal pigs for her anatomy students and frogs, earthworms and crayfish for her biology students.

She said she didn't see how there could have been a question as to when the materials would be used.

"Those funds were clearly earmarked for this year," Elliott said. "For him to do otherwise is wrong. The kids look forward to this. These are basic things we need and in some courses we have to have expendable materials."

She said teachers are willing to make sacrifices for their students, but there is a limit.

"You can't shut down instructional activities and expect KIRIS scores to go up," she said. "There should be other areas that could be sacrificed other than instructional materials."

Mark Neeley, treasurer of the PHS PTO, agrees. He said the organization has donated more than $100,000 to the clubs, teams, organizations, classrooms, and the general fund of the school in the past three years.

Neeley said the PTO made the donations because "we understood that each and every time our children are short-changed of equal educational opportunities, they fall behind the competition," he stated in a letter to the editor.

He said the PTO would have given science teachers every penny they had if they had asked for it.

Neeley, in his letter, also questioned Balentine's allegiances. "What kind of double-speak is this? The man who was so proud of having us believe (before he was hired) that he was for our children..."

He said Balentine should remember that children are the reason the school system exists. "Dr. Balentine, the PHS-PTO humbly requests that you seriously consider your legacy to the children of Floyd County."

Prisoners

"It (work release program) really helps out the community in areas where we can't afford to hire people to have the work done," Owens said. Owens said the prisoners can also be used at the volunteer fire departments and senior citizen organizations to paint, trim bushes, or many other jobs. The only restriction is that the prisoners cannot work for private individuals, Owens said.

Magistrate Elmer Ray Johnson used three prisoners on Thursday to repair the ball field at Minnie Ball Park. The baseball field had holes and slopes on the field that could cause a child to fall when playing. The prisoners were hauling dirt to repair the holes.

At the Prestonsburg City Council meeting on Monday, April 22, Tom Harris, director of Prestonsburg Public Works Department, said the prisoners on the program are not murderers or major felons. "They just made a mistake," Harris said. "They're helping us by helping themselves."

According to Webb, Harris has used the prisoners to work at the city garage and park.

The Floyd County Sheriff's Department used prisoners from the jail last week to clean along Town Branch Road. "There is not any sense in prisoners being incarcerated and not accomplishing anything," Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson said Thursday. "This way the prisoners get the opportunity to get outside of the prison or jail, plus it helps out with our community service."

Sheriff Thompson has also used prisoners from the Otter Creek correctional facility to perform community service. He said beginning May 1, the department will be using a six-man prisoner crew with a deputy as a supervisor for the entire month. "We are going to try to spend one week in each magisterial district picking up garbage on main roads," Thompson said. "Later on in the summer, we will have prisoner crews cutting weeds along the side of roads."

"We started working the prisoners in the community the day after we got classification from the Department of Corrections on March 23, and have been out in the community every day since — weather permitting," Webb said.

The Floyd County Jail has about fifteen Class-D prisoners who are certified to work in the community, he said. The prisoners are not required to work in the community — they volunteer, Webb said.

According to Webb, public officials have access only to Level-1, -2, and -A prisoners for community service. Level -3 and -4 inmates are restricted to work only inside the jail facilities, he said.

A prisoner's classification is determined by the nature of the crime and previous record, according to Webb. If a prisoner is classified as a level-1 or -2 Class-D inmate, then they can perform community service. Webb said a level-A inmate is authorized to work in the community, but constant supervision is required by the state department, and that level-3 and -4 prisoners are permitted to work, but are restricted to work inside the jail facilities.

"The state is real careful about putting hardened criminals out in society to work," Webb said.

"The community service program has been successful so far because county officials have been taking advantage of the opportunity to use the manpower of the prisoners," Webb said. "Another factor that contributes to the program's success, is that District Judge James R. Allen and Circuit Judges John David Caudill and Danny P. Caudill have been working hand-in-hand with the jail by providing any necessary forms, papers, or information without delay. They're working relationship is a 100% positive contribution."

Thomas Auxier

Auxier inducted into UK engineering Hall of distinction

Thomas A. Auxier of Palm Beach Gardens, Florida, has been inducted into the University of Kentucky College of Engineering's Hall of Distinction, college Dean Thomas W. Lester announced.

A native of Auxier, Auxier, 59, earned his bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering in 1958 and a master's degree in the same field in 1962, both from the University of Kentucky.

He was employed by Belcan Corp. and General Electric Co. in Cincinnati from 1965 to 1981, when he accepted a position with Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Co.

He serves as director of advanced turbines for military and transport aircraft for Pratt & Whitney, and has received several special awards from the company honoring his contributions.

Auxier was one of three inductees into the Hall of Distinction. Lester described the inductees as "figures whose accomplishments have added to the prestige of the college and of the engineering profession in general."

The Hall of Distinction, Lester noted, is intended to inform engineering faculty and students and the public in general about the stature of UK engineering alumni and of the general importance of the College of Engineering to the state, its residents and its economic prosperity.

PCC faculty may get salary increase

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Faculty members at Prestonsburg Community College got a little good news Monday.

Teachers, administrators, and other staff learned they will probably get raises next year. The faculty salaries are proposed to increase 9.02 percent while administration and staff increases are proposed at 3.2 percent.

The announcement came during an all-college meeting held on the campus of PCC Monday afternoon.

"This is the best news, from a financial perspective that we've had since I came here," President Dr. Deborah Floyd told the group. "This school was starving."

She said the faculty salaries at the school are the lowest in the system and the 9.02 percent increase should go a long way in helping them catch up with other faculty members in the University of Kentucky Community College System.

She presented information that shows that if the increase is approved, the average salary of PCC faculty members will be $28,212. The average for the entire community college system is $27,500.

The raise for faculty includes the 3.2 percent cost-of-living increase the rest of the college will receive. It also adds 5.4 percent in catch-up funds and a little less than half a percent for promotion increases.

Floyd said a study is being initiated to bring the staff salaries up to par with the rest of the system as well.

"This does not mean that you don't deserve the same catch-up money," Floyd said. "But it will take about a year to study how you compare. We simply don't have enough data right now to argue our case."

The faculty increases range from a low of $2,457 to a high of $5,043 with an average of $3,030. The salaries of faculty at the community college will range from $28,996 to $59,413 if the proposed increase is approved by the university and the UK board of trustees.

Increases for staff members, which include office assistants, range from $409 a year to $1,150 with the average being $509. Those salary levels range from $13,065 to $25,701.

At the administrative level, the proposed increases range from $821 to $2,925, with the average being $1,501. Those salary levels start at a low of $29,972 and climb to a high of $62,925.

"I hope the teaching faculty is pleased," Floyd said.

Carolyn Turner, an English professor at the college, reminded the group that faculty members across the board worked to get the proposed increases.

"You can thank the faculty throughout the system," she said. "It was three percent at the beginning of the budget year. We have been working with the legislature and they have made a difference."

The legislature also appropriated $1 million to begin design for a state highway improvement project in Prestonsburg that includes a new entrance to the campus from University Drive.

A $100,000 allocation was also set aside for the continuing operation of the wellness center.

Floyd said several projects will begin on the campus this summer, including design on the $5.5 million classroom/health education project. "We were disappointed that we didn't get funding for the regional classroom and technology center in Pikeville," Floyd said. "Rest assured that we will do our best to be persuasive during the next session of the general assembly."

Other projects planned for this summer include:

- Installation of an IBM As/400 computer system at a cost of $150,000.

- Replacement of floor tile damaged by water in the Johnson Building, $130,000.

- Replacement of water-damaged ceiling tiles in the Johnson Building, $35,000.

- Sidewalk repair and replacement, $25,000.

- Replacement of water-damaged ceiling tiles in two upstairs office suites in the Pike Building, $15,000.

- Installation of a sprinkler system, replacement of outside doors, and bathroom and plumbing renovation on the Pike County Campus, $100,000.

- Installation of a distance-learning classroom and a new telephone system on the Pike County Campus, $115,000.

- Expansion of the walking trail with funding from the local Soil Conservation District, $7,000.

"This summer, we will be very, very busy," Floyd said.

Before telling them the news of the salary increases, Floyd asked the faculty to band together and work as a team. "We need to work together to build a stronger college committed to the students," she said. "This is a fine college with an innovative future. This has just been a bump in the road," referring to the recent conflict between the president and some faculty members.

"I am confident we can pull together as a family and emerge stronger as individuals," she said.

Police cruiser troubles strain council's budget

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

The City of Martin is planning to purchase new police cruisers and phase-out the old cruisers used by the Martin Police Department.

The police department has two 1991 and two 1990 cars in service, according to Jim Slone of the Martin Police Department. "The 1991's are in pretty good shape, but the 1990's are pretty much in and out of the shop," he said.

Slone said he had the transmission replaced in his cruiser last month and it cost the department about $600. The old cruisers cost the department about $1,000 a month for maintenance, Slone said.

Mayor Alan Whicker said Wednesday the 1990 cruisers are "the biggest users of the police department budget."

The police department is considering purchasing either a 1996 Chevy Lumina or a 1996 Ford Taurus to begin phasing out the old vehicles, Whicker said. "We want to buy vehicles with V-6 engines instead of a V-8," he said. A six-cylinder car would save the police department money through the purchase of gas, parts, and labor, Whicker said.

Whicker said the old cruisers were bought with mileage and with the daily use the police department has put on the vehicles, they have become a burden.

If the department saves enough money from the purchase of the first cruiser, the department may be able to purchase a second one in about eight months, Whicker said.

The city council met on Tuesday, April 23, to discuss bids Whicker received for the new cruisers.

Music-Carter Hughes in Prestonsburg submitted a bid of $16,895 for a 1996 Chevy Lumina, and Kelly Chevrolet in Paintsville bid the car at $15,922.28.

Bruce Walters in Pikeville made a $20,500 bid for the purchase of a 1996 Ford Taurus and Layne Brothers in Ivel proposed a price of $20,085.

The city council requested that Whicker research the possibility of receiving funds to assist in purchasing the new cruisers and look at leasing the vehicles.

"I looked around, and there is not any monies available," Whicker said Wednesday. "We want to see if the route of leasing the cars would be cheaper than outright buying new ones."

Whicker said he hopes to have all the cruisers on the police department replaced within about three years.

Drive to survive

by Scott Perry

We're beginning to wonder if the four-laning of Route 23 was such a good idea after all.

Rarely does a week go by that we don't have to send a photographer out to one place or another along the new road to record the scene of an accident.

Some of those scenes are tragic. None of them should have occurred.

With few exceptions, the accidents at the intersections of Route 23 and Route 1428 have resulted when drivers attempted to turn south onto the new road, across two lanes of oncoming traffic. The same can be said for the cut-through from the new road to old Route 23 near Highlands Regional.

Both intersections are heavily traveled, adding to the potential for mishaps, and neither are suited to the installation of traffic signals which might alleviate some of the problems.

We can only assume that many of the accidents resulted from driver error...misjudgments of oncoming traffic, frustration because of long delays, or both.

And, for all the collisions that have occurred, we'll bet there are ten near-misses.

Old Route 23 was bad, but the biggest danger on that highway was the unlikely possibility that you might get flattened by a falling rock.

The new road may have eliminated that concern, but it has created a number of new danger zones that require every-day drivers to maintain the defensive-driving skills of Dale Earnhardt.

Unfortunately, we can find no easy answer, no reasonable solution to the dangers these intersections pose, other than a recommendation that you avoid them whenever possible.

When you can't, use all the caution you can employ.

Watch, look, listen and expect the worst.

Drive to survive.

If you're lucky, you may.

Director of PHS-PTO looks for answers

Editor:

The Prestonsburg High School Parent-Teacher Organization believes in the students and teachers of Prestonsburg High School. In fact, we believe in all the students and teachers of Floyd County, but our primary commitment is to Prestonsburg High School. In the past three years PHS-PTO has donated more than one hundred thousand dollars to the clubs, teams, organizations, classrooms, and general fund of PHS. PHS-PTO is indebted to many parent volunteers for their generous assistance and to the Floyd County Board of Education for its cooperation. We gratefully acknowledge their support.

Recently, The Floyd County Times accurately reported that PHS-PTO donated $1,000 to the PHS science department after the science department struck out with the school system's powers-that-be. The PTO listened to the needs of the PHS science department. We understand their problem. We understand that each and every time our children are short-changed of equal educational opportunities, they fall behind the competition. Ethically and morally, PHS-PTO would have given the science department every penny that it had if the science teachers had asked for it.

On the other hand, Dr. Balentine is quoted as saying, "I would advise them (teachers) to purchase supplies in a timely fashion to benefit current student." Who is he kidding? When he was confronted about instructional funds, Dr. Balentine goes on record, "I froze them the minute I found out they had not been spent." What kind of double speak is this? The man who was so proud of having us believe (before he was hired) that he was for our children also stated, "It is wrong to save money for children who will be in school next year." Yet it isn't wrong to freeze the money. What happens to money when it freezes? Dr. Balentine? Does it expand, increase, decrease, or mysteriously disappear, leaving no trace? Dr. Balentine is into some cool tricks. Look how he has left sixty-nine teachers out in the cold—young teachers starting careers in Floyd County full of hopes and dreams that they could teach, motivate, and inspire Floyd County's children to a brighter future. Dr. Balentine, the PHS-PTO humbly requests that you seriously consider your legacy to the children of Floyd County.

Director/Treasurer

Fund freeze criticized

Editor:

The Science Department at Prestonsburg High School would like to thank our PTO Organization for its generous donation of $1,000 to purchase laboratory supplies and dissecting specimens for the 1995-96 school year. The donation was made after the use of allocated instructional funds for science orders was denied by the Floyd County School System. Since all instructional monies have been frozen at the district level, it appears that monies are longer available to fund basic programs that would provide the adequate and comparable education that KERA has promised the school children of this state.

We commend the PTO organization for its obvious commitment to providing our students with basic instructional materials and supplies in order to enhance their education regardless of budget deficits and staffing problems. It is obvious to them, as it is to the members of this department, that the children did not create the money problems of this district and therefore, should not be expected to pay for them by getting less of an education.

This money will help make it possible for our students to have some lab experiences as part of their science education. The students of this fiscal school year will not be denied the opportunity to dissect frogs in biology and hearts in an anatomy and to perform a few experiments in chemistry and physics thanks to a bingo program that provides the PTO with funds.

On behalf of nearly 600 students enrolled in science classes at Prestonsburg High School, we thank you! As to our central office leadership and local school board, what is going on? Are we to believe that there is nothing left of a 42 million dollar budget and that this district is so broke that it can't afford to fund core instructional programs? We, the teachers, the students, the parents, and the taxpayers expect some answers and some accountability!

Tenure: A different perspective

Editor:

In last week's Floyd County Times, Scott Perry was concerned with the staff reductions in the Floyd County school district. In discussing this concern, he voiced his opposition to tenure stating that tenure was something that a poor teacher could hide behind.

I'm afraid that Mr. Perry does not understand the significance of tenure, and the reasons early educators felt that it was necessary.

There was once a time in Kentucky school systems that a teacher could be fired without grounds. If a teacher offended someone in the community, spoke up or made suggestions to the school board or a principal, he/she could be fired. The teachers didn't have to do this personally. If a family member voted the wrong way or was too outspoken, again, dismissal could be faced by the unsuspecting teacher. Teachers were kept in their place by school boards that looked at faculties for the number of votes in each family instead of their educational qualifications. Some might think that this is in the past, but there are those today who would

A legislative perspective

by Rep. Gregory D. Stumbo
Majority Floor Leader

We completed the 1996 Kentucky General Assembly recently, when we adjourned sine die, with several issues under our belt like health care, juvenile justice and domestic violence. The Governor vetoed only one bill that dealt with local property valuation administrators. We decided not to override the Governor's veto so that decision remains with him.

From my perspective, the '96 session will be remembered for long hours of deliberations and trying to find answers to many complex questions. Here are some of the highlights, from my view as a lawmaker and as a participant, of the topics we dealt with and their outcome.

Health Care: We knew going into the session that reworking the 1994 Kentucky Health Care Reform law (House Bill 250) couldn't be done in a day. We were meticulous in our search for testimony on the good and bad aspects of the law. We spent several weeks hearing advice from the average citizen about how to combat rising insurance rates.

Our final plan, Senate Bill 343, abolishes the Health Policy Board and transfers its former duties to the Department of Insurance and the Cabinet for Human Resources.

In an attempt to provide for more oversight of insurance rates, SB 343 creates the Health Insurance Advisory Committee to advise the Commissioner. It requires the Commissioner of Insurance to review all health insurance rates filed between July 15, 1995 and the effective date of SB 343 and to order refunds where appropriate. The department can suspend an insurer's certificate of authority for a year or more for failure to comply with an order to issue a refund. The bill also allows the Attorney General to participate in rate hearings and requires all rate filings to be on file for a 30-day waiting period before becoming effective. The commissioner will have the authority to withdraw previous approval of rates and order a refund if he chooses.

Education: There was fine tuning of education reform in the way of downsizing a lot of time-consuming paperwork and speeding up the response from the state to local districts.

House Bill 95 gives the State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education the authority to waive administrative regulations when school districts and schools can demonstrate good cause or alternatives that will produce the same results. House Bill 96 requires local districts to have student discipline codes available for inspection rather than filing the document with the board. House Bill 97 ends the requirement that school districts hold yearly reviews of evaluation plans. Instead, schools will need to check in with the state board only when and if they make changes to their evaluation plans.

House Bill 461 helps adults 25 and older who may not test well receive an "external diploma." The diploma requires demonstrating practical skills in language and math.

House Bill 28 allows schools to start class each day with a "moment of silence." The bill says that a teacher could use up to a minute of the first class of the day for a silent moment.

This session we established strong guidelines toward punishment of students caught bringing weapons to school. House Bill 513 will give school districts more options to make up days lost to illness or bad weather.

It allows taking five days off the calendar if more than 20 days were lost and lengthening the school days if 10 more days were lost.

Judiciary (House Bill 40): The most talked about bill this session came from our Judiciary Committee. House Bill 40 allows trained citizens to carry a concealed weapon. The bill allows people 21 and older who have lived in Kentucky at least six months to apply for a three-year license to carry a concealed weapon for a $60 fee.

They would have to complete a training course approved by the state. Applicants would apply for a permit at their local sheriff's office.

We placed several safeguards in the bill: Applicants would have their backgrounds checked by the state police and the Administrative and the Administrative Office of the Courts. Convicted felons could not get a permit, and people convicted of misdemeanor drug crimes, terroristic threatening or fourth-degree assault would have to wait three years to apply for a permit. Also, anyone with two drunken-driving convictions in a period of three years would be banned from getting a permit.

Additionally, the bill specifies certain areas where a person could not carry a weapon. These include: police stations, jails, bars and courtrooms. A business, university or private-property owner could post signs barring people with a concealed weapon.

The law would also bar concealed weapons on school grounds unless permission is given from a school board. Health facilities could adopt policies against carrying concealed weapons.

Campaign Finance: House Bill 133, signed by the Governor, allows county party committees to give up to $500 to a gubernatorial campaign.

House Bill 59, also signed by the Governor prohibits a qualifying slate of candidates for governor and lieutenant from accepting more than the $600,000 amount and requires any extra contributions to be returned to the contributors. House Bill 207 requires less-frequent reporting by news-media outlets of political advertising purchased during gubernatorial races. The ads have to be sent to the Registry of Election Finance, so it can oversee independent expenditures.

Agriculture: We dealt with many farming issues in our Agriculture and Small Business Committees: House Bill 383, signed by the Governor, requires all commercial feed labels to include quantity statements of net content; House Bill 399, also signed by the Governor, expands the way carcasses of domestic livestock may be disposed of, and House Bill 412 signed by the Governor, allows the Department of Agriculture to fine a person or business who violates state law concerning the distributions of motor fuels.

still treat teachers in this manner if it were not for tenure.

In fact, the oppression had gone on for so long that teachers with tenure failed to understand the power they possessed until just a few years ago. Even with tenure, teachers were afraid of reprisals. Gradually, teachers, through the work of KEA and the local associations, became bold enough to take on the system. They tested the waters, brought their cases to the courts, and slowly realized that tenure worked. Teachers only became vocal after tenure was firmly established, and it was then that they realized that tenure was not something to hide behind, but a foundation on which they could build and work in order to bring about benefits for the profession and for education as a whole—students and teachers can benefit from tenure.

If it had not been for tenure, the teachers' strike of 1990 would never have happened. The repercussions would have been too great.

If it had not been for tenure, we would not have the improvements in education we have today, but education would have been business as usual. Go into your classroom and teach, but do not think for yourself or promote new ideas, and always blindly follow your leaders, even if everyone knows they are taking you down the path to destruction. Many of our county's great teachers, such as Mae K. Roberts, Minnie Grace Sutherland, and Frankie Best, to name a few, worked for tenure and told teachers to not ever let tenure come under attack or be destroyed. Remembering the past should make us want to continue the fight for the future of students, teachers, and, if I may, administrators.

Mr. Perry equates tenure with a safe harbor for the inept, but I see tenure as the road to freedom. Freedom not to hide behind, but freedom to stand up for what you believe and for those who cannot stand up for themselves. As Abraham Lincoln freed the slaves, tenure freed teachers to grow and become all they could be as educators and as a profession.

Of course, I would be remiss to make you think that we don't have, heaven forbid, bad teachers — we do, but you can find good and bad in all professions. As a profession, we need to police ourselves, and because of the Kentucky Education Reform Act of 1990, we are equipped to circumvent tenure for those who abuse their position as teachers. There are steps that can be taken that ensure that a teacher gets due process instead of a kangaroo court. Without tenure, it wouldn't matter if the teacher was good or bad. It would depend on the whims of those in power.

When we look at the issue of tenure, it has negative and positive attributes; but the positive definitely outweighs the negative and equips educators with the confidence that change can happen. Dialogue is possible, and we can be treated with respect and enter our classrooms each day, not in fear, but with pride. That is why tenure is important, and that is why it must always remain intact.

What is the mission of community college?

Editor:

First let me state I have a tremendous respect for Leo and Laura Weddle, but the letter to the Lexington Herald on April 21, 1996, that was published under Appalachian Voices was in my opinion inappropriate.

Seemingly, Dr. Floyd's supporters have ignored the "moratorium" Dr. Ben Carr, Chancellor from UK started. This seems to be one of the problems about Dr. Floyd and her supporters, they can break the rules but the other side gets chastised for doing the same thing. One thing the Weddles forgot to mention was their daughter, Lynn Weddle, is one of the leaders in developing the student health clinic at PCC.

Again, I have the utmost respect for Ms. Weddle, who is an outstanding professor. I realize that health care is a problem in this area because I was the director of two clinics in this area for nine years, but is this the mission of the community college?

If they would have stressed health education to the young people of our region, I would have fully supported this. We can help adults. A great percentage of P.C.C. students are much older than 18 or 19, but there is little we can do to change most older adults' lifestyles. By spending a great deal of valuable resources and time on this clinic, we are taking away from the mission of the community college, which is to prepare our students for their careers.

One other point about the student health clinic that alarms me is an incident that happened recently. A professor (who happens to be a non-supporter of Dr. Floyd) had what appeared to be a heart attack.

When the health center was called, he was refused service because the professor had not paid the health fee. This points out two serious problems: One is the liability question of turning away someone who could be in a life threatening position, and secondly, it also points out the division at the community college among personnel at P.C.C. A note to this: When Chancellor Ben Carr became sick while on the stage at P.C.C. three weeks ago, the health clinic was called and they responded immediately by sending a physician assistant to Mr. Carr. Is a chancellor more important than a professor, or is a supporter of Dr. Floyd more important than a non-supporter?

Cancer volunteers make things happen

Editor:

In the course of our everyday life, somehow things have a tendency to fall into place or to just "happen." All too often, when things "happen" for us, we assume that someone was only doing their job, or we may just take the situation for granted. The truth is that a lot of the time, what just "happens" in our community is actually brought about by individuals and businesses who give freely of themselves, their time and their money, simply to help others. These special people are called volunteers.

The American Cancer Society is an organization that is completely volunteer-based, which means "if it happens...volunteers do it!" I would like to take this opportunity to publicly recognize and applaud the efforts of the many volunteers who make things "happen" in this community through the American Cancer Society.

Raising money for research to find a cure for cancer, conducting educational programs to help children and adults protect themselves from cancer, and providing support during times of crisis from cancer, are just some of the achievements we celebrate. American Cancer Society volunteers spend thousands of hours each year teaching children and adults the dangers of using tobacco and to make healthy lifestyle choices. They encourage women over 40 to have an annual mammogram and men to be alert to the dangers of prostate cancer. I hope the entire community will join me in saying thank you to the American Cancer Society volunteers who "make things happen" in our community.

Working together, we can make a difference in the fight against cancer!

District Representative

Local offers $100 reward for dumpers

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

It's time to clean up Floyd County and keep it clean and at least one resident is willing to pay to get it done.

An anonymous donor has offered a $100 reward for the arrest of anyone seen throwing trash into illegal dumps that are scattered throughout the county, according to Lon May, ecology officer for the county.

He told members of the solid waste board about the offer at its meeting Monday night.

May has been working to get the illegal dumps in the county cleaned up. He has taken several people to court because their trash has been found in the dumps.

Mike Vance, director of solid waste, helped prepare the statewide "Coordinated Plan for Illegal Dumping."

Cleaning up illegal dumps around the state has become a priority as well. A special number, 1-800-NO-DUMPS, has been established and anyone who sees someone throwing trash in illegal dumps is advised to call.

Callers do not have to give their names, but they should be able to give complete information about the location of the dump site, the time and date of the dumping activity, a license plate number of the vehicle used by the dumpers, and any other information available, May said.

The hotline is staffed during normal working hours and is answered by a machine after hours and on weekends and holidays.

A community forum to discuss illegal dumping is scheduled for 6 p.m. May 2. The forum will be held at the Big Sandy Area Development District on Resource Drive. The forum is sponsored by the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinets.

The forum is the first in a series of 15 that will be held across the state during May and June to gain public involvement and support for a statewide campaign to stop illegal dumping in Kentucky.

The campaign was announced on Earth Day, April 22, by Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet Secretary James E. Bickford as a recommitment of support by state government agencies to local governments, which must enforce state dumping laws.

Also participating in the recommitment of services to local governments are the Attorney General's Office, the Transportation Cabinet, the Department of Parks and Wildlife Resources in the Tourism Development Cabinet, the Department of Agriculture, the Kentucky State Police and the Economic Development Cabinet. Representatives from many of these agencies will attend the May 2 forum to discuss what their agencies are doing and how citizens can help.

The day after the forum, residents are invited to attend a day-long Solid Waste Summit slated to be held at Jenny Wiley State Park from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. May 3.

Government officials from several counties are expected to attend the summit.

Bobcats win pool with three wins in Hillbilly Classic

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Junior Newsome's Betsy Layne Bobcats improved to 10-1 on the season with three victories in last weekend's Hillbilly Classic at Pikeville. The Bobcats won their pool and were scheduled to face Pikeville in the championship game, but rains put a damper on the schedule. The game is to be played at a later date.

Betsy Layne had to go to an extra inning before they could put away a good Elkhorn City team. The Bobcats defeated the Cougars 4-3 in eight innings.

In the second game on Sunday, Betsy Layne held off Pike Central 10-6 after the Hawks scored four times in the seventh inning.

In game three, Betsy Layne had an easy time with Belfry, winning 11-2 to go 3-0 in their pool.

Brandon Castle picked up the win for Betsy Layne against Elkhorn City in game one. He went the full eight innings and finished strong. Castle allowed the three runs while giving up an uncharacteristic 11 hits. He struck out 13 and did not walk a batter in the eight innings he pitched.

Dorton started for Elkhorn City and worked the first five and two-thirds innings before giving way to Huffman in the sixth. Huffman suffered the setback in relief.

Betsy Layne tied the game in the top of the sixth inning and scored the winning run in the top of the eighth.

The Bobcats had taken a 1-0 in the first inning on a leadoff walk to Brad Kidd and Lance Jones' RBI double. Elkhorn tied the game in the bottom of the inning on a two-out single by Cool and O'Quinn's double.

The game remained tied until the Betsy Layne half of the fifth. Kidd walked and scored on Castle's double to give Betsy Layne a 2-1 lead. Elkhorn came back with two runs of their own in the fifth to take a 3-2 lead. Chad Ahn and Cool had collective back-to-back singles before scoring on a base hit by Clevenger.

Doug Keathley singled with one out in the sixth for the Bobcats, and came in to score the tying run when Craig Johnson's fly ball to right was dropped.

The winning run scored in the top of the eighth when Matt Kidd reached on an error and Brad Kidd and Chad Case drew two-out walks to load the bases. Castle then worked Huffman for a walk to force home the eventual winning run.

Castle fanned the side in the Cougars' half of the eighth inning.

While Betsy Layne won the game, they lost their first baseman, Wes Collins, who suffered a shoulder injury. Collins will be out three to four weeks.

Betsy Layne scored early against Pike Central, but had to hold off the Hawks as they plated four runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to make the score a little more respectable.

Chad Case picked up the win

April Hardy doubled home two runs in the fourth inning and Natalie Cooley had a two-run double in the third inning to power the Allen Central Lady Rebels past Betsy Layne, 14-3, in fast pitch girls softball last Tuesday at the Allen Park.

Tish Yates picked up the win for Allen Central, going the distance in the five-inning mercy game.

Allen Central pushed across seven runs in the bottom of the fourth inning to add to an already 7-2 lead. Betsy Layne scored a run in the top of the fifth against Yates.

Hardy finished with three runs batted in and two hits. She scored twice. Shanna Howell, an eighth grader, had two hits for the Lady Rebels.

Jessica Johnson drove in two of the three Betsy Layne runs. She had one of the three hits the Lady Cats collected off Yates. Ashley Tackett had a first-inning single and scored an unearned run. Brittany Brooks had the other Lady Coach Kevin Spurlock's Allen Central Rebels are a young ball-club but they are playing like veterans. The Rebels posted their sixth and seventh straight wins after starting the season at 0-3.

Allen Central (7-3) defeated Feds Creek this past Monday night with a 6-1 victory to make it seven straight wins. They earlier won over Leslie County 7-1.

Brian Crawford evened his personal record at 1-1 in getting a rare start. Crawford hurled six innings, allowing no runs while giving up only one hit. He fanned seven batters. He lowered his ERA to 1.10 for the season.

Steven Hamilton was perfect from the plate with three hits. He had a triple in the game and picked up three RBIs. He scored two runs and stole two bases.

Crawford opened each of the first and second innings, walking the leadoff man, but came back and retired the side. He had a no-hitter through the first three innings, but allowed his only hit in the fourth with one out. Feds Creek scored an unearned run in the top of the seventh. Brad Allen took the mound against Leslie County. Allen had not pitched since he was a freshman. He was sharp from the hill, not walking a batter. Allen struck out three. Mike Pack hurled the seventh inning.

Mike Pack collected three hits in four plate appearances. He scored two runs, tripled in the third inning and had two RBIs. Brandon Hicks and Derek Conley had two hits apiece. Hicks had two runs batted in and one stolen base. Conley picked up one RBI.

The two teams played to a 0-0 tie until Allen Central batted in the third when they went in front 3-0. Conley singled and scored on Pack's two-base hit. John Moore

Signs letter-of-intent

Betsy Layne's Newman signs letter of intent with Tennessee Wesleyan

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

After completing only one season of varsity basketball, Betsy Layne's 6' 11" Jonathan Newman caught the eye of several college recruiters but decided to take his game to Tennessee Wesleyan this coming basketball season.

Newman, who started at center for coach Junior Newsome's ball-club, averaged 10 points per game, seven rebounds and five block shots this past season. He shot 63 percent from the free throw line and hit 52 percent of his shots from the floor.

Wesleyan head basketball coach Steve Adams traveled to Betsy Layne to sign Newman.

"We're very happy to have Jonathan come into our program next year," said Adams. "We expect him to come in and play 10-15 per game his freshman year. We feel very fortunate to sign him."

"You know about Jonathan this past year having covered him all season," said Betsy Layne coach Junior Newsome. "He won some big games for us and was a hard worker on the boards. He did whatever we asked of him. It's just a shame that he doesn't have another year to prepare, but he will do well."

Newman went to school at Pikeville where he did not participate in basketball except for one season on the junior varsity level. Under Coach Newsome he began to develop and learned to use his height to his advantage. It has been echoed all across the region about what he could have been had he played under Newsome for four seasons.

Newman, a quiet person, said that he looks forward to attending the Tennessee school.

"I like the area the school is in (Athens, Tenn.). I like the campus and the coaching staff there," he said. "I went down, met some of the players and I'm looking forward to being there next year."

Newman's father, Gary, visited the campus with his son and came away impressed.

"I liked it very much," said Newman. "I was impressed with the coaches and the academics at the school. I think Jonathan will fit in there."

"It is close where we can go and watch him play. Maybe get some hunting and fishing in down there," he said.

Although Newman and dad are excited, mom would rather her son was closer to home but knows he will fare well at Tennessee Wesleyan.

"I'm not like the others, and I wish he was attending school closer to home," she said. "But I know that he will like it there. I didn't go down to see the school but Gary said it was a good place for Jonathan to go."

"He's put me on a training program in the weight room," said Newman. "He wants me to get stronger. I'm going to be working out this summer and maybe attend some camps."

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The South Floyd Lady Raiders won their first track and field meet this past Tuesday at the Bob Amos Park in Pikeville by scoring 152 points to finish ahead of host school Pikeville and Allen Central. It was the second meet of the year for South Floyd, who placed second in their first outing.

Olivia Stewart placed first in the women's 100-meter hurdles and dash down the home stretch in the women's 400-meter dash to take first place.

Amanda Reynolds continued to dominate the women's high jump event with a first place finish. The South Floyd 3200-meter relay team took first place as well.

Reynolds cleared the bar at 4' 8" for first place for the second straight week. Beth Tucker placed fourth and Monica Newsome sixth overall.

Stewart ran the 400-meter dash in 1:10.00 in securing the top spot. Teammate Jenny Meade placed third overall and Jada Hall ran the event but did not place. Stewart had a time of 19.53 in the hurdles.

The foursome of Lindsey Hall, Chrissy Tackett, Amanda Compton and Jenny Meade completed the 3200-meter relay in ample time of 12:22.57 for first place. It was the second straight first-place finish for the two-mile relay team.

Raiders place third overall in strong showing at Pikeville

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Track and field coaches will tell that the South Floyd Raiders' team is a team to be taken seriously when the regional meets roll around in May. Coach Henry Webb's team is making other teams take notice after his team placed a strong third in last Tuesday's meet at Pikeville.

The Raiders finished behind Allen Central and Pikeville for third place.

"I tell you they are coming on strong," said women's coach Keith Smallwood.

One of the reasons for the surge of the Raiders has been the performance of sophomore Timmy Butler and Mark Smallwood. Butler placed first overall in the men's long jump, being measured at 18' and three inches. Butler has great leaping ability. Ketrans Mays placed sixth in long jump.

In shot put, Jason Shannon was marked at 40 feet and placed third at Pikeville. Aaron Caudill and Brent Tackett also took part in the event.

South Floyd Raiders give one away at Morgan County

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Morgan County Cougars were down to their last swing at the plate as they faced the South Floyd Raiders in high school baseball Wednesday at Morgan County.

The Cougars made the best of their last at bat and pushed home two runs in the bottom of the seventh to edge the Raiders 6-5.

"It was a tough loss for us," said South Floyd coach Barry Hall. "The kids showed some emotion after the game and I liked that. They hated to lose that one."

South Floyd owned a 5-4 lead as the two teams entered the bottom of the seventh inning. The Raiders needed three outs for their third win in a row.

The seventh unfolded with Darren Newsome retiring the first two batters he faced in the bottom of the inning. He ran into control problems and Morgan County loaded the bases on South Floyd. With a 3-2 count, Newsome walked in the tying run to tie the game at 5. Again he ran the count to 3-2. A slow roller up the middle was fielded by shortstop Chris Moore, but he was unable to get the ball to first in time before the winning run crossed home plate.

While disappointed with the setback, Coach Hall said his team is showing a lot of character.

"We're playing much better right now," he said. "I really see us coming on and getting even better. We made some good plays out on the field and that's a good sign."

Terrence Mullins worked the first five innings for the Raiders, leaving the game with the 5-4 lead. Newsome came on to pitch in the sixth and seventh.

South Floyd scored four times in the sixth inning to take the one-run 5-4 lead. Eric Cook ripped a two-run single in the inning to send two runners home and give the Raiders the lead.

South Floyd led 1-0 at the onset, but a two-run first gave Morgan County a 2-1 lead. The Cougars plated two other runs in the third inning to lead 4-1.

Pete Dawson, T.T. Pack and Travis Johnson had hits for South Floyd.

"They really have a nice facility at Morgan County," said Coach Hall. "It was worth the trip just to get to play on it."

South Floyd will travel to Knott County Central tonight and go on the road to Sheldon Clark tomorrow in a noon start.

Newman scored his highest point production against Cordia in the Shelby Valley Invitational this past season when he pumped in 21 points and pulled down 17 rebounds. He had several games where he blocked six or more shots. He quickly earned the respect of other teams and was intimidating under and around the basket.

Newman said he hasn't decided on a major.

"I have a little time to decide that," he said. "I just want to go down there and do the best that I can and hopefully be able to contribute to the team."

Tennessee Wesleyan was the conference champions last year and finished the season 21-7 under Coach Adams in his second year there.

"We won four games the first year I was here," said Coach Adams. "We went out and recruited some good kids, like Jonathan, and built around them. We won 21 games last year."

Alice Lloyd College remembers Wesleyan after losing to them in the NAIA National Tournament this past year.

"We were the ones that beat Alice Lloyd out," said Coach Adams. "We will be coming to Alice Lloyd this year to play them."

Coach Adams said that Newman will be a big part of the Wesleyan program in two years but, in the meantime, will see plenty of playing time as a freshman.

"We expect to use him his first year here," Coach Adams said. "We really feel like we got a player that is going to help us down the road."

South Floyd coming together in win over Sheldon Clark

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Barry Hall of the South Floyd Raiders has said that since the season has begun, his team will improve and be a team to contend with at tournament time.

Contending with the Raiders may come earlier than a lot of teams want. South Floyd got some solid pitching, good defense and timely hitting as they routed the Sheldon Clark Cardinals 14-3 in a five-inning mercy win.

Chris Moore pitched five strong innings for the Raiders and picked up the win. Sheldon Clark was staked to a 2-0 lead against Moore in the first inning as his pitches just missed the strike zone. But South Floyd's bats haven't cooled off since the Hillbilly Days tournament and they plated four runs in the bottom of the fourth, highlighted by Pete Dawson's solo home run over the left centerfield fence. First baseman T.T. Pack ripped a two-run double in the first.

South Floyd made it an 8-2 game with another four runs in the second. Terrence Mullins doubled in two runs.

"Our defense was exceptional again," said Coach Hall after the victory. "We had only one error in the game and that is real good."

said Shannon Slone, who usually makes the defensive plays of the game. Slone finished with two hits, a single and double.

Coach Hall thinks his team is coming along and, in spite of having no early practice days, has shown great improvement.

"We are trying to improve each week and for the first time I feel we are really pulling together as a unit," he said. "The attitudes of my players are fantastic, not only the starters but the bench as well."

The Raiders, who lost their first five games of the season, improved to 3-5 on the year.

Drift avenges earlier loss to Martin Cards

by Ed Taylor
sports Editor

The Drift Astros improved their record to 3-1 on the year and avenged an earlier loss to the Martin Cardinals after defeating Martin 9-6 last Tuesday afternoon at the Minnie Park.

Joe Skeens (3-0) picked up the victory for Drift. It was the third win of the year for Skeens. He struck out 10 batters and walked but two.

Skeens was untouchable through the first three innings retiring all nine batters he faced. He struck out four of the nine.

"It was a big win for us," said Astro coach Clinis Hall. "This team has been burning it up on defense, hitting and pitching."

Martin scored all six of their runs in the fourth inning to take a 6-5 lead. Chris Ousley had a two-run home run in the inning that gave the Cards a one-run lead. Freddie Samons had an RBI single in the frame.

"Joe had a two-strike count on Ousley," said Coach Hall. "He threw a change up; Ousley got every bit of it and sailed it over the fence."

The Astros led 2-0 on a lead-off triple by Mike Hall and a double from Skeens. Justin Taylor singled home a run.

In the third, the Astros struck for three runs with Skeens doubling in one run and Jason Spriggs picking up an RBI. Hall had a single in the inning and scored.

Taylor tripled home two runs in the fifth inning for the Astros as they reclaimed the lead at 9-6. Adam Ward capped off the fifth for Drift with a solo home run that traveled over 220 feet over the left field fence.

Skeens struck out the side in the Martin half of the fifth inning.

Partnership issues 5-year report on school reform

The Partnership for Kentucky School Reform has released a report on the status of education reform in Kentucky, marking the midway point in the group's 10-year commitment to support successful implementation of reform.

From Dilemma to Opportunity reviews the history of school reform as embodied in the Kentucky Education Reform Act of 1990 (KERA), outlines the results, and makes recommendations for improvements and future actions.

"Because KERA calls for such comprehensive changes, the implementation process has been difficult—sometimes confusing, often frustrating, frequently rewarding," the report says in its foreword. "While resistance and uncertainty were not unexpected, they have been more than matched by successes in the classroom, in school governance, and especially in achieving the overriding goal: to make public education in Kentucky accountable for its results."

The report makes a series of recommendations, including broader and more comprehensive dissemination of information about education reform to the general public, retention of the present primary program, and expanded and intensified efforts in the area of assessment and accountability.

"If it is finally to do its work, the reform needs the hands and hearts and minds of all Kentuckians to make it work," the report concludes. "We are equally clear about maintaining high—but realistic—expectations and standards about what reform can deliver. We therefore solicit partners and companions on the road that lies yet ahead."

Copies of the report, which has been sent to members of the Kentucky General Assembly as well as to educators, volunteers, and others, are available from the Partnership by calling 800-928-2111 or 233-9849 in Lexington.

The Partnership for Kentucky School Reform was started in 1991 as a nonpartisan coalition of leaders from business, government, agriculture, labor, and education who pledged a 10-year commitment to the successful implementation of school reform.

PHS attends FBLA regional conference

The Prestonsburg High School chapter of Future Business Leaders of America was among thirty schools that participated in the FBLA Regional Leadership Conference at Morehead State University on March 27. The competition is held annually and participants who place in the top three of their competitive events advance to the state competition to be held in Louisville on April 25-27. While there, some of the members participated in written and performance events that tested their knowledge of business-related instruction while others toured the campus and attended a talent show. Club member Wes Fugate placed in the Introduction to Parliamentary Procedure event and will represent the region at the FBLA State Leadership Conference later this month. FBLA is sponsored by Judy Combs.

Discovery

Auxier students, left to right, Meredith Powers and Tiffany Rowe found that science can be fun when they created "coal flowers" using coal in a classroom science experiment assisted by Lisa Powers.

Electrical safety

Allen Elementary sixth grade students recently participated in an electrical safety course conducted by the Big Sandy RECC. The presentation conducted at the end of the unit was held in the school media center. RECC representatives Dave Estep, Dan Hitchcock, and Ralph Leslie gave the students an opportunity to see what it feels like to dress an electrical lineman. Pictured with Big Sandy RECC representatives are Bethany Joseph, and Stephan Skeans. The students realized very quickly that it is not easy to cut a wire wearing two sets of gloves and other safety equipment.

Our Lady of the Mountains Science Fair judged by Prestonsburg Community College Professors

Every year, when they come back to school after the Christmas vacation, Our Lady of the Mountains students know what is ahead: either a Science Fair or a Social Studies Fair.

This year it was science which kept them fully occupied until the final judging on March 21. Sr. Maria Schnipke, CDP, is in charge of the Science department of OLMS. She made sure years ago already, that all students, from Kindergarten through eighth grade, know to use the correct terminology. Thanks to her efforts they also know how to build up their project, from the initial question all the way through the hypothesis, the necessary experiments, the results, the conclusion and the bibliography. Participation is required, and the students are guided through the different steps by their teachers. The results are often impressive, and warrant serious judging. This is why Dr. Thomas Vierheller, a professor at Prestonsburg Community College, and his associate professor Dr. David Turndull, spent a day asking questions, comparing test results, reading through final papers and looking at backdrops.

They were assisted by Clark Allison, a project coordinator with the U.S. Department of Agriculture in the R.C. and D. program, and by Prestonsburg Community College students Barbara Williams and Carmella Cordle.

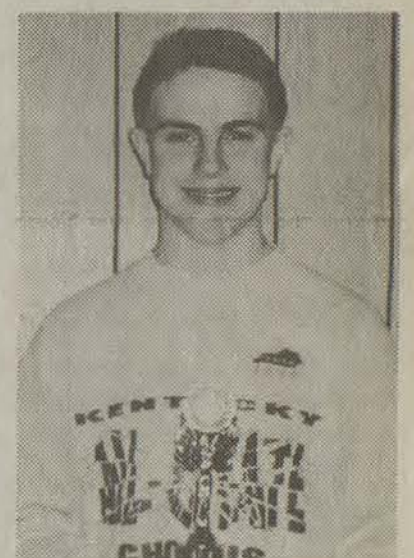

Although it was often difficult to decide which project was just a little better than the next one, the judges wholeheartedly agreed on one thing: the overall level was very high; high enough in fact to make participation in a Science Olympiad a definite possibility. So, who knows what is in store for the future.

In the meantime, the following students received second place ribbons: Jasmine Archer (K) from Prestonsburg; Jason Fouts (1) from Mendota-Village; Devon Salyer (2) from Hagerhill; Kevin Vogelsang (3) from Wittensville; Jennifer Chafin (4) from Hagerhill; Nick Sansone (5) from Louisa; Morgan Caldwell (6) from Prestonsburg; and Chastity Ison (8) from Salyersville. First prizes went to Felicia Mollett (K) from Blaine; Thomas Cybriwsky (1) from Paintsville; Alex Hieronymous (2) from Prestonsburg; Lakita Lykins (3) from Auxier; Whitney Faulconer (4) from Cross Creek; Ann Higgins (5) from Salyersville; Robert Hall (6) from Prestonsburg; Alexis Bohr (7) from Abbott; and Margaret Damron (8) from Prestonsburg. The overall winners were: Alex Hieronymous (K-2) with "Tests for Sugar in Fruit"; Ann Higgins (3-5) with "Weather-The Dews and Don'ts" and Margaret Damron (6-8) with "Newton's Laws of Motion."

Governor's Derby breakfast returns to tradition

Jail authority wants county to pay its bills

by Ralph B. Davis
The Paintsville Herald

If counties lagging behind in their payments to the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center do not pony up money soon, they may have to look for another jail to house their prisoners.

In its latest financial report, the jail is owed nearly $187,000 from the counties which use its services. More than half of that bill is owed by two counties—Johnson and Breathitt.

For a county to not pay its bills is a "joke and a disgrace," said jail authority Chairman John Harmon.

The two financially troubled counties have racked up more than $95,000 in bills, $54,613 of which is past due.

Johnson County, facing a budget shortfall this year, owes the most of the two counties, $57,050, of which $31,953 is past due.

Breathitt County, in similar financial trouble, has a past due bill of $22,660 and owes a total of $38,364.

Members of the Jail Authority, frustrated by the situation, discussed ways to get delinquent counties to begin paying their bills.

The authority decided to take some form of action against the counties if they do not begin paying by next month's meeting. Possible action includes filing suit against the counties or cutting their access to the jail off once bills reach a certain level.

"They can just do whatever they have to do, and I will do whatever I can do," Johnson County Judge-Executive Hobert Meade said when told of the authority's plans during an interview Tuesday. He added he had hoped the jail would be lenient with the county's bill in light of its fiscal problems.

Meade said the county anticipates receiving additional funds in the next few days and that the money could be used to pay at least part of the county's jail bill. He said that he doubted the entire jail bill could be paid off, however.

Several board and staff members noted that the counties receive monthly checks from the state Department of Corrections, but that neither has used the money to pay their jail bills.

That left authority member R. T. Daniel to ask, "If the fiscal court is not paying the bill, where is the money going?"

But Johnson County Treasurer Addie Stambaugh told The Herald Tuesday that the money the state gives the county is "not much" and must go to bills other than housing prisoners.

Financial records show the county receives $6,593 a month from corrections. Stambaugh said that money does little to pay the average $25,000 a month the county must pay to the jail.

In addition to housing prisoners, money from the jail budget must also pay the salaries of the jailer and his two deputies, and for medication for prisoners, Stambaugh said.

The county had budgeted $415,494 for housing inmates, Stambaugh said, more than three-quarters the total amount the county expected to receive from property taxes.

Records show the county has collected only $385,863 of the original $600,000 in property tax receipts.

Mullins principal could be out next year

by Kim Stacy
Appalachian News-Express

Mullins Elementary School Principal Jackie McFarland, who has been the center of controversy since being hired last September, was one of several teachers and administrators in Pike County who received letters stating they may not be rehired for the 1996-97 school year.

Controversy began last fall when McFarland made several changes in the organization of the school and made attempts to offer new academic and athletic programs.

One of the biggest issues at stake, however, was the role of the Little League program in the school. Confrontations later arose between McFarland and three members of the program and escalated to include McFarland's husband, Freddie McFarland.

That confrontation evolved into a picket by some parents at the school who said they felt their children's safety was at stake.

Charges were brought against all four men and eventually settled before a court hearing.

In an interview Tuesday afternoon, McFarland declined to say if she felt the letter she received stating she may not be rehired due to teacher cuts and her non-tenure status was directly related to those incidents.

Last fall, McFarland and the Pike County Board of Education came to blows. McFarland claimed she was not receiving the support she needed to deal with the uproar at the school. The board claimed McFarland was not handling the situation properly and refused to get too involved because the school is governed by a site-based council.

However, McFarland did say Tuesday she felt all those problems had been dealt with and the school was operating very well.

"I feel my performance speaks for itself," she said. "I know all non-tenured people in the county received the same letter I did. At this point there's nothing certain and I'm not sure whether or not there's any real threat to my job."

"There's been a lot of support from the community as far as them voicing their support for me and hoping I will be rehired. I've had no contact with the central office regarding my position. At this point, I'm just trying to wait it out and see what decision they make on reviewing my contract."

McFarland said she was pleased with the operation of the school and felt many of the earlier problems had been resolved.

"I feel like we've accomplished a lot and we've come a long way," she said. "I feel like we've addressed a lot of problems that's been ongoing for a long time. I think everybody's working together."

"Many of the people that were in conflict before have turned around and are now in support of me. I've tried very hard to cooperate and work with those people. The majority of site-based council members work with me and I try to completely involve them in everything going on in the school."

McFarland said she felt the parents and community were now supporting her.

Governor signs tourism bill

Governor Paul Patton signed House Bill 815, which established a state program to spur development of new and expanding tourism facilities. The Tourism Development Act is the first of its kind in the country. On hand for the bill signing were, from left, Rep. Rocky Adkins, D-Sandy Hook, chief sponsor of the bill; Rep. Hubert Collins, D-Wittensville; Rep. Kaye Bondurant, D-Hodgenville; and Tourism Secretary Ann Latta of Prestonsburg.

South Williamson businesses vandalized

by Chris Cochran
Appalachian News-Express

Smashing windows, overturning soda machines, damaging buildings and businesses for the sheer joy of destroying something. Sounds like a report you would hear on the evening news concerning the gangs in Los Angeles.

Think again.

Several South Williamson-area business owners and managers arrived at work last Sunday, April 14, to find windows broken or property damaged, possibly by a gang of joy-seekers, some said.

"Well, it had to be a group of them, said Donny Bevins, a co-owner of South Williamson Citgo.

Bevins said vandals overturned and damaged two soda machines outside his business.

"It takes at least three of us men to even budge one machine," he said.

Bevins, who lives upstairs above the business, said an alarm was triggered around 3 a.m. Sunday and he said he immediately called police.

"I had a gun, and I was going to go down and face them myself," said Bevins. "But the police warned me against doing anything until they arrived."

At one point, Bevins said he went outside anyway, but the perpetrators had already left the scene.

Bevins said that once the machines had been overturned, the oil inside left the compressors because the machines continued to run, and now they are completely out of order.

Joyce and Gary Hopkins were notified early Sunday afternoon that the professional building at the South Side Mall, where Gary Hopkins practices dentistry, had been vandalized also.

Shooting trial for Johnson man moved

by Jerry Pennington
The Big Sandy News

The trial for a Johnson County man charged with shooting another man in 1990 has been postponed until May.

Jim Jack Penix, Jr., 35, of Van Lear, was previously tried in the case and convicted of second-degree manslaughter in Martin County, but the decision was overturned on appeal.

Commonwealth's Attorney Anna D. Melvin said the court overturned the case because a mistake was made in the closing statements in the first trial. Now Melvin has to retry the case, which was transferred to Lawrence Circuit Court.

The case was scheduled to have started Monday, April 22, but was postponed because Penix's attorney, Ned Pillersdorf, had a schedule conflict. It was reset for May 14.

Penix was originally indicted on charges of murder and first-degree wanton endangerment. The indictment issued against him in 1990 charged Penix with shooting and killing Barret Endicott with a 30/30 rifle on May 13, 1990. It also charged him with placing the rifle to the head of Russell Meade "under circumstances manifesting extreme indifference to the value of human life."

Faye Meade, 60, of Whitehouse, will go on trial on May 6. Meade is charged with one count of reckless homicide. According to the indictment, issued in March of 1995, Meade was driving while under the influence of alcohol when she wrecked and killed her passenger, David C. Kearns.

Court records show that Meade had a blood alcohol level of .133 at Three Rivers Medical Center following the accident. In Kentucky, a person is considered legally intoxicated when their blood alcohol level reaches .10.

The case was scheduled for trial in January, but two lab experts that were going to testify were unable to make the court date.

Louisa man indicted for allegedly shaking baby

A Louisa man was indicted by a Lawrence County Grand Jury on April 12 on an abuse charge for allegedly shaking a baby so hard it caused brain damage.

Robert Padgett, 31, was indicted on one count of second-degree criminal abuse. The indictment charges Padgett with "wantonly causing serious physical injury to (the victim), a person less than twelve years of age, by shaking him and thereby causing him to be hospitalized."

The baby was taken to Three Rivers Medical Center and from there transported to Women's and Children's Hospital in Charleston. After a week in intensive care, the child is now living with grandparents, police said.

Criminal abuse carries a penalty of one to five years in prison.

An indictment is only an allegation and does not indicate a person's guilt or innocence. — The Big Sandy News

News of the Weird

by Chuck Shepherd

Recent uses of video cameras for surreptitious taping by alleged perverts: According to a lawsuit filed by a 20-year-old woman, a Reno, Nev., optometrist set up one in his ladies' room (for "security" purposes, he said in October); Mineola, N.Y., landlord Mark Pearlman was accused in February of having a video camera behind a see-through mirror in a female tenant's bedroom (to enforce his no-smoking policy, he said); and IRS employee Howard Baltazar was arrested in March after carrying a running video camera in a gym bag through an Oakland, Calif., men's shower room. (Police determined that Baltazar committed no crime except eavesdropping via the audio portion of the tape.)

JUST CAN'T STOP MYSELF

— In February, Philippe Delantscheer, 60, was jailed in Lille, France, for stealing a bottle of a certain anise-flavored aperitif. Authorities believe it is the 51st time that he has been arrested for stealing that same product. (As with Otis Campbell in Andy Griffith's Mayberry jail, a special cell in Lille's jail is reserved for him.)

— Christopher Norling, 28, was jailed in Milwaukee in February on a charge of fraud after running up a big bill at the Pfister Hotel by pretending to be a National Football League official. He has a long record of similar charges. In a 1990 jailhouse interview, Norling said: "The only thing I know how to do is con people. To be honest with you, it's probably going to happen again."

— James Hogue, 36, was arrested in February as he tried again to pass himself off as a Princeton University student, less than five months after his release from prison on a charge of passing himself off as a different Princeton student. (In 1990, he studied and ran on the track team as Alexi Indris-Santana until he was exposed by a former high school classmate.)

— In February, Diane Currey, 45, was sentenced to nine years in prison after pleading guilty to more than 200 counts of grand theft in Largo, Fla. She had embezzled $350,000 from a doctors' office over a seven-year period, then retired to Missouri, where she might have escaped detection forever. However, her replacement in Florida died a year later, and doctors asked Currey to return. She agreed and immediately began embezzling again, but was soon caught.

INEXPLICABLE

— In November, the U.S. Supreme Court let stand a Florida appeals court ruling that, while a local police department could purchase an allegedly obscene film and use it as evidence in filing criminal charges, it could not use as evidence a film it had rented and copied. The Florida court had ruled that the police had violated federal copyright law as described in the "FBI Warning" that appears on rented tapes.

— In Toronto in January, Robert Franklin Devoe, 33, was arrested and charged with bank robbery after arousing the suspicion of shopkeeper Zak Khan. According to police, Devoe had stopped by during his getaway to inquire about purchasing an electronic scale. Khan showed him one, and Devoe proceeded to weigh two bundles of $100 bills. That behavior, plus the gun Devoe had in his waistband, led Khan to notify police, and Devoe was captured after a brief chase.

— For the second straight year, a Canadian Football League team wasted a valuable draft pick on a defensive end who, unbeknownst to the team, had died in the off-season. The Montreal Alouettes' James Eggink had passed away from cancer; last year, the Ottawa Rough Riders' Derrell Robertson had been killed in a car crash.

Those of you who think the state Department of Education should adopt a year 'round school calendar should do us a favor, first.

Adopt our eight-year-old son.

Not permanently, mind you. Just for the month or two from the time when Daylight Savings Time kicks in until the usual end-of-school date.

That should give you a real good idea of how effective summertime classes will be.

Don't get us wrong, we put a lot of emphasis on education at our house, but when the sun is still shining at the time our son is supposed to turn in for the night, we might as well put on a dog suit and bark at passing cars.

Our son generally considers school with great disdain and as an unavoidable inconvenience to his chosen career...playing, at which he is an accomplished pro.

So skilled is he at this trade, in fact, that he has us considering the pursuit of commercial endorsements to underwrite his upbringing.

Instead of wearing those famous-sports guy clothes, maybe a company like Tide® would like to furnish his wardrobe.

If they can really get the dirt out of anything, like their advertising claims, what better proof could they offer than by suiting up a kid who can get dirty even when he's asleep?

But, we're talking about year 'round school here and we just don't see how it could possibly be beneficial.

Unless, of course, the summertime curriculum includes baseball, swimming, fishing, tree-climbing, crawdad hunting, and graduate course work on juvenile delinquency.

It's tough enough as it is, when spring-time arrives, to keep a kid like ours focused on the remaining few weeks of school.

Small boys are like trees.

When the sap starts rising, they become blooming maniacs with one specific goal in mind...absorbing as much sunlight as possible.

Stanley Warren, tenor, to perform on Eastern Kentucky Concert Series

Tenor Stanley Warren will perform as part of the Eastern Kentucky Concert Series at the Mayo United Methodist Church in Paintsville, on Friday, April 26, at 7:30 p.m. His program will include both religious and classical selections.

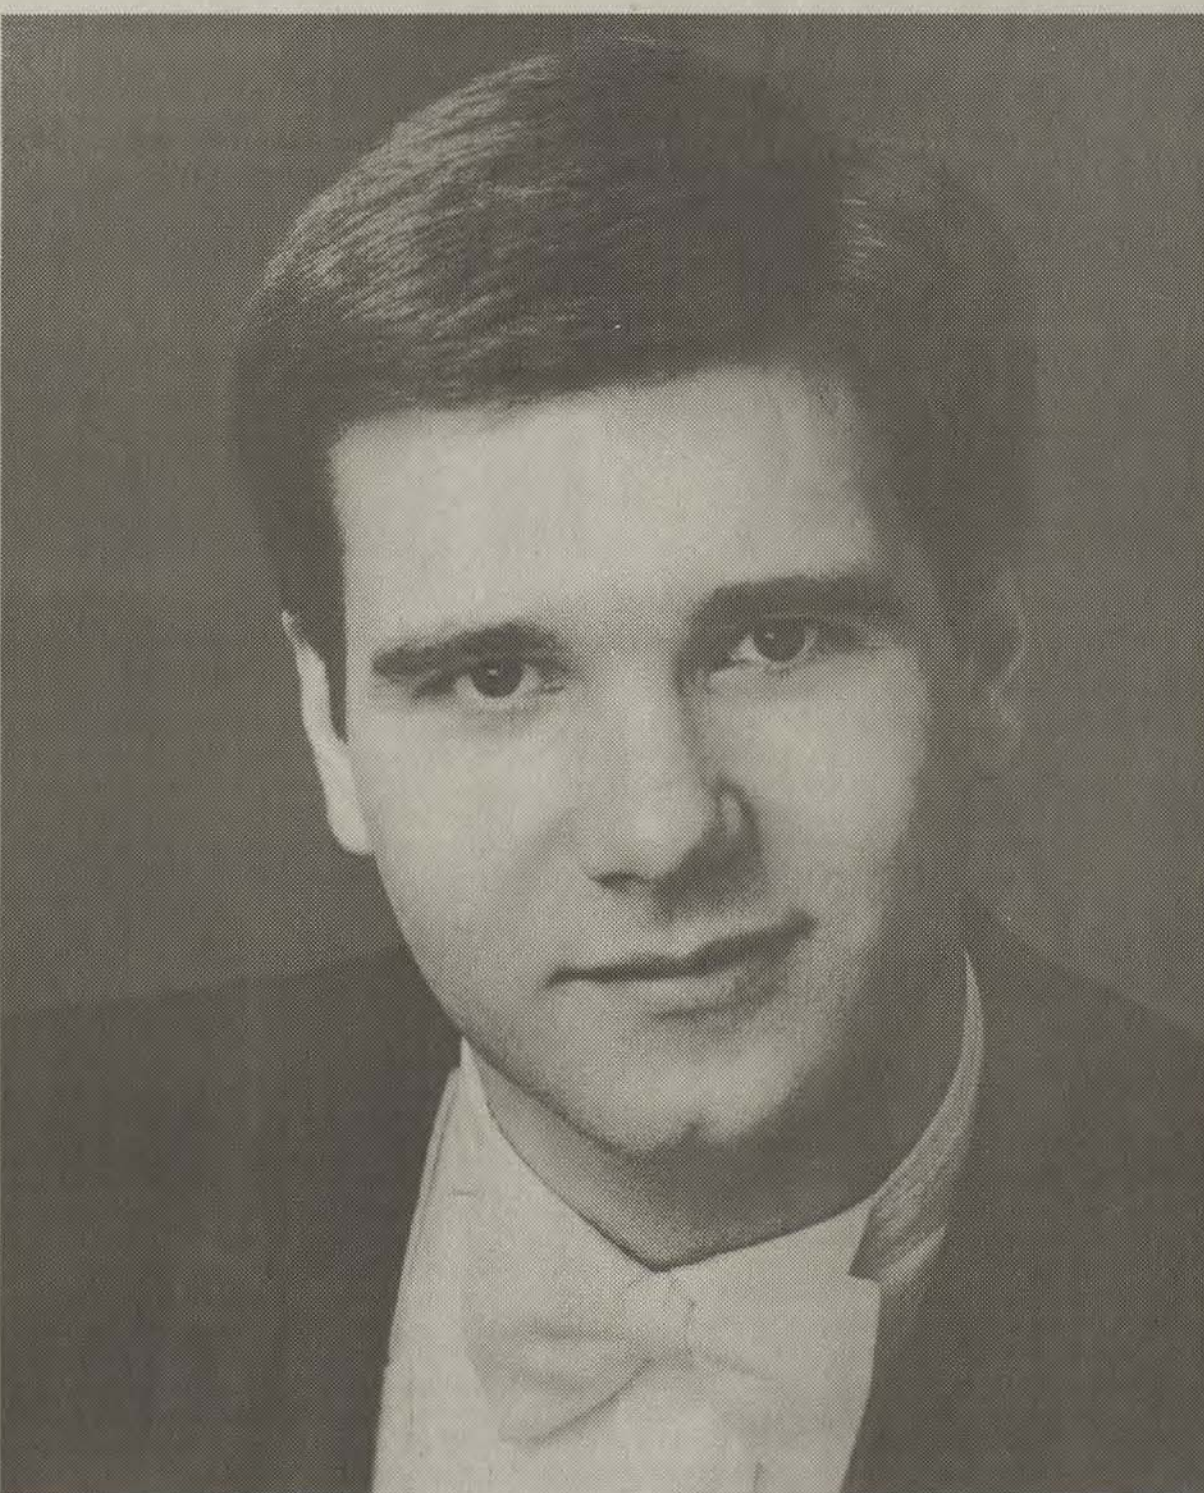

Warren is currently pursuing doctoral studies in Church Music at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville. He is a highly accomplished interpreter of the works of Bitten and Bach.

A versatile tenor, Stanley Warren has studied at the Eastman School of Music and in England with Sir Peter Pears. He has performed at such festivals and concert halls as the Aldeburgh Festival in England, the Berkshire Choral Institute and the Aspen Music Festival. He has performed with the New York Ensemble for Early Music, the Pro Arte Chorale, the Louisville Bach Society and at the Kennedy Center for the Arts.

Warren has worked extensively in front of a variety of audiences including public schools. He has developed educational programs that involve concerts covering a broad range of choral repertoire and working directly with students. He strongly believes in the importance of teaching young people about the possibilities of their own voices.

This concert is presented by the Eastern Kentucky Concert Series with the help of local volunteers and donations. It is sponsored in part by New Performing Arts, a not-for-profit corporation specializing in the development of audiences for classical music through education and outreach.

Ticket prices for this performance are $6 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens. A special family rate of $15 includes admission for adults accompanied by children. Tickets will be available at the door or by calling (606) 886-3863, extension 417. Tickets may also be purchased in advance at Mel-O-Dee Music on Euclid Avenue in Paintsville.

IT'S HELEN, GEORGIA (PART 3) CRUSIN' AT THE WAL-MART

In all probability, the scenery in Helen, Georgia, and surrounding area would have been spectacular had we visited there during the normal tourist season. However, being those spontaneous travelers that my mother and her girls are, we chose to roam at a time when temperatures hovered between an icy 33 to an almost balmy 63. Thus, the vista bordered on drab brown with a slight hint of pastel green.

But we weren't there for the scenery. We were there for the companionship. Four sisters and a mother separated by life's circumstances who want to spend time together to reminisce and discuss the course of their lives; the pain and agony, the triumphs and defeats, low-fat vs. fat-free, etc.

"Why don't you just stop eating, Sara," Amanda said to me with obvious disdain dripping from her tongue. "You keep talking about not being able to lose weight, but all you do is eat."

"I'm just eating pretzels," I replied defensively.

"It's food. Like Daddy always said, 'Food makes waste.'"

"That's haste makes waste, and Ben Franklin said that," Jenny laughed. "Daddy said food just makes excrement."

"Daddy couldn't even pronounce excrement, he called it something more graphic. Anyway Daddy didn't know about fat-free things. And pretzels are fat-free."

"Eat enough of 'em and you'll gain tons of fat-free pounds. Give me a piece of quiche," Amanda said quickly.

"Is mother still playing that electronic Yahtzee game? I wish Missy had never given it to her. She won't talk to us."

"That's probably a clever distraction for her," Jenny laughed.

"I don't get to play it much," Mother lamented. "One of you girls always has it. By the way, if you get three sixes you need to go ahead and use them on the top so you can get your bonus."

"Why don't we go buy another Yahtzee game, and pick up the movie 'Babe' since Melinda didn't get it at the video store?"

"They didn't have it at the video store, Amanda! It was rented out. What did you expect me to do?"

"Let's just play Scrabble," I announced.

"You want to play Scrabble because you always win," Amanda chided. "We've got better things to do than sit around all day and play Scrabble."

"The only time I play is when I'm with you," I protested.

"Get the map out and look for a place big enough to have a Wal-Mart. It looks like Gainesville might."

"I'm not going all the way to Florida to buy a Yahtzee game," Mother stated. "I got a Yahtzee! No

A FAMILY THING

As Christopher Reeve said at the Oscars, Hollywood can make important movies that say something. This is one of those films and it's exquisite. Best of all, it delivers its message without being preachy or hitting you over the head.

Robert Duvall portrays Earl Pilcher, a tractor salesman in Arkansas. When first we meet him, his elderly mother is dying after a protracted illness. Shortly after the funeral, Earl's pastor visits him and delivers a letter to Earl, written by his mother. In it, she tells him she is not his mother, but that his mother, a black maid who worked for her, was raped by Earl's father. When the maid died in childbirth, Earl's adoptive mother took him in since the woman was not only her maid, but her best friend as well. Since Earl was born white, everyone believed he was her own child.

The mother's last wish is for Earl to reunite with his brother, Ray Murdock, (James Earl Jones) in Chicago and get to know the other side of his family, since family ties are important in life, she says. Earl decides to carry out this request. Once in Chicago, he finds Ray, a policeman. For his part, Ray is completely overwhelmed by his brother's appearance on the scene and can hardly wait until Earl goes back to Arkansas. He's bitter about the death of his mother which he attributes to Earl's father.

Enter Aunt T. (Irma Hall), the sister of the mother of both men. Old and blind, she still manages to put the fear of God in both men and makes them get to know each other. Earl even meets Ray's son, Virgil (Michael Beach), a young man with an obvious axe to grind.

This film could easily have descended into the realm of the ridiculous. Instead, it is warm and poignant and teaches some very valuable lessons about the importance of family and the pointlessness of racism. Given the caliber of the cast, you can't miss. It's a four-star movie.

SOAP UPDATES

ALL MY CHILDREN: Erica begged Dimitri to forgive her for sleeping with Jonathan. When Christopher reported the mystery woman's medication was wearing off, Jonathan said Erica is the solution to their problems. Noah had himself shipped back to Pine Valley in a coffin after Isabella said she sent Julia's body home. Corinne finally gave Julia the antidote, but Julia didn't awaken. Unaware that Marian made a copy of the incriminating tape, Liza burned what she thought was the only one. Marian told Dixie Tad slept with Liza, but Liza insisted Marian lied. Janet warned Jonathan to recommend a plastic surgeon or she'll talk about the medicated woman he has hidden away. Wait To See: Janet makes another discovery.

ANOTHER WORLD: Blair tried to flee after shooting Josie but was stopped by a mystery assailant. As Josie clung to life in the hospital, Felicia frantically searched for her mother, Sharlene, who is the one who can provide the rare blood type Josie needs. Matt blamed himself for Blair's death. A furious Jake learned Grant was out of prison. Felicia decided not to tell John about Sharlene and Michael's rendezvous. Wait To See: Carl's problems with Blair may not have ended.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Kim was injured in the car bomb blast meant for Tom. Lisa was robbed at the Hong Kong airport, but was rescued by Martin. Jessica told Margo and Tom she was forced to represent Clegg to protect her sister, Fiona. Diego told Lily about his past. Sam and Kirk learned the plane crash was not an accident, and that Umberto is the major suspect. Mike changed his mind about waiting a day before eloping with Rosanna, only to learn Scott had whisked her off to Las Vegas. Wait To See: Martin gets closer to Lisa.

BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: Stephanie couldn't recall putting her missing Ming vase into her closet where Eric found it. Macy checked out Clarke's story that he spurned a job with Antonio Giovanni to spend time with C.J. and learned Giovanni never heard of him. Sheila tried to seduce her new neighbor, Grant Chambers. Ridge and Lauren got a tip that Brooke might be in Barbados and went there to search for her. Stephanie worried that her recent health problems could complicate the suit for custody of Bridget and Rick. Wait To See: Taylor's friendship with Grant could create an unexpected problem.

THE CITY: Zoey's announcement that she's Nick's daughter set off a flurry of reactions. When Zoey refused Sydney's bribe to stay away from Richard, Sydney blurted out that Nick is also Richard's father. Tony realized Ally was posing as a hooker and deduced she was covering for Jocelyn. Later, when Joanna was out of danger after taking an overdose of pills, Jocelyn confronted her mother about her childhood molestation. Wait To See: Is Jocelyn prepared to face a shocking revelation?

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Austin rushed to find Carrie before she committed to Lucas. The Woman in White gave John a key to unlock his past and began facing her own. Kristen screamed at the sight of the Woman in White just as John and Marlena were about to find his letter. Kate confronted Sami about her involvement with Vivian, but Sami came through with a persuasive performance of innocence. Bo heard shots as Hope pursued a mugger. Stefano's shadow man overheard Lexie tell Jonah she wished she could help him return to his medical studies. Wait To See: Vivian's return threatens Sami.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: An arrest was made in Damian's murder, and an indictment loomed closer. At the Canadian ski resort, Lily and Sonny coped with the ski slopes, while (by Brenda's design) Jax reacted to being taken advantage of. Distraught over her HIV status, Robin stunned Jason with her emotional outburst, leading him to an affectionate display. Katherine asked Edward to help her turn Mac onto a new career. Monica and Bobbie were impressed by Carly. A unique medical emergency flooded the emergency room at General Hospital. Wait To See: Jason and Robin grow closer.

GUIDING LIGHT: After making love with Roger, Dinah burned the bed. Later, she and Hart continue their plan to gaslight Roger. Annie realized Rick might be the father of Blake's unborn twins. Vivian told Gilly why she wants her to stay away from Griffin. Annie was stricken with another headache after Hawk told her he suspected Reva and Josh didn't remarry for the sake of their children. Phillip bought a one-way ticket to Orlando to attend Alan-Michael and Lucy's wedding. Wait To See: Annie faces a difficult decision.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Bo found Patrick snooping in Carlo's suite and arrested him to teach him a lesson. Antonio told Andy he had no alibi for why his knife was found at the scene of Kevin's stabbing. Antonio later confronted Carlo for setting him up, and was stunned by Carlo's reply. Asa resigned as Chairman of the Board after Cord and Bo said he should step down or risk having someone take over who isn't family. Maggie told off Max about his sexual teasing. Wait To See: Asa has another surprise for his family.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Victoria accused Brad of keeping her parents from reconciling. Victor later asked Nikki if she thought they might have a future together. Traci was upset that Brad planned to marry Nikki. After berating himself for having sex with Phyllis, Dr. Reid told her she proved what kind of woman she is by sleeping with him while she said she loved Danny. Nikki arrived just as Victor gave Chris a comforting embrace when she decided she and Paul would never reconcile. Ashley refused to join Jack and Traci in accepting Dina's explanation for why she abandoned John and her children years earlier. Wait To See: Nina makes an important decision about her future.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A situation involving a child is no longer a concern, so you can breathe a bit easier this week. In business, you need to exercise patience, particularly with a cantankerous bigwig. The weekend is favored for get-togethers with friends.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You find the key now to a matter that had you losing some sleep recently. In romance, feelings are quite intense, so you should make a concerted effort to avoid a senseless quarrel. This weekend, social life is affry.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) This week, it's responsibilities at home that are likely to take precedence over socializing and traveling, and even business. However, don't use this as an excuse to let things slide at work. Try to achieve a reasonable balance.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Early in the week, your attention is focused on the home front and what's occurring there. Later, a new understanding can be reached with a friend. Twosomes are favored over large gatherings this weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Social life isn't particularly favored this week. In fact, one friend is being quite difficult and unreasonable. Yet another is making an effort to be of some help. This weekend, keep the lid on credit card spending.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You finally make headway this week on a business project that had you concerned. At the same time, you could find yourself having to deal with some touchy egos. Tread lightly here. You could end up the odd person out.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You'll be pleased early in the week about a business or financial development. However, in the romance department, there's a need for both of you to exercise cooperation and compromise. A romantic weekend getaway can go a long way to help.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Happily, your faith in a person who let you down recently is restored this week. Later in the week, extravagant urges are strong and need to be resisted. Someone fails to give you necesone's beat my score yet." "We're not going to Florida, Mother," Melinda sighed. "This Gainesville's thirty miles from here."

"Thirty miles! We'll have to eat before we leave," I said.

Three hours later we left Walmart with an electric Yahtzee game, the "Babe" movie, diet colas, low-fat chips, dips, crackers, another boardgame and exercise sports-wear.

"Where do you think you're going to wear those leotard and tights, Sara?" Amanda asked. "I don't want to see you in them. And I know Jimmie doesn't want to either."

"I'm going to wear them in the work-out spa. And why don't you say things like that to Melinda. She's as overweight as I am."

"Yeah, but she doesn't care. You get SO defensive it's funny. And for the record, I'm not going into any work-out room with you while you're wearing those things."

"That's pretty cruel, Amanda," Jenny stated.

"Mother, why don't you take up for me?" I asked.

"If you already have three of a kind, you should take your one's at the top so you can still try to get your bonus," she answered flatly.

Stay tuned next week when Mother says: "Do all the cities in Georgia begin with the letter C?"

sary feedback.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Early in the week, good news comes about a distant matter. You're puzzled now by what's going on at work. Try to do some discreet snooping to get to the bottom of this. This weekend, a loved one gets you to open up.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You're relieved this week about a financial matter which was on your mind. However, be careful you don't get into any disputes with family members over what you perceive to be their spendthrift ways.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Communications improve with a partner early in the week. In fact, you find a solution to a mutual problem by putting your heads together and cooperating. Those on the road are likely to experience some delays.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A disagreement with a friend is likely to arise over a money matter. The pieces of a puzzle are finally beginning to fit in on the job front. You're getting a clearer picture of how best to proceed.

TUNING IN BY SALLY STONE

BRAINS BEAT BRAUN: Joe Lara, who starred in the CBS two-hour flick, "Tarzan in Manhattan" in 1991, will reprise his role in a new syndicated series to be called "Tarzan: The Epic Adventures." Lara's Tarzan comes closer to the original character created by Edgar Rice Burroughs - a man of intellect and dignity and not at all like the grunting, monosyllabic vine swinger made famous by Hollywood's many screen adaptations.

Brainy heroes are increasingly popular with TV audiences. Kevin Sorbo's "Hercules," for example, relies more on his mind than his muscles to get him out of trouble. And it helps that he has a sense of humor, too. As Sorbo told me, "I think the real Hercules probably would have really upset his nemesis, Hera, by laughing off some of the tough things she arranged for him to do while he was a prisoner of the Queen of the Amazons, such as muck out a stable filled with centuries of, well, horse muck—and the toughest of all—doing women's work."

DIAL TONES: Mark Twain says we can talk about it, but we can't do anything about the weather. Well, maybe not yet. But the more we learn about this most fickle of natural phenomena, the closer we get to eventually finding a way to predict potentially dangerous events. "Savage Skies," a four-hour miniseries airing on most PBS stations May 6 and 7, shows how weather systems around the world affect all of us. NBC meteorologist Al Roker hosts. (Check your local PBS station for times and dates in your area.)

Mary Tyler Moore, who currently costars with Ben Stiller, Lily Tomlin, and Alan Alda in "Flirting with Disaster," says she probably won't go the route of a TV series again. While Mary has done well with films and theater since Mary Richards last threw her cap into the Minneapolis air several years ago, she hasn't scored any series successes. Her most recent strikeout was "Central Park West." But look for Mary to do more TV and feature films. You can also look for her at the 14th "Welcome Back to Brooklyn" festival on June 9. Mary, a Brooklyn native, will be honored as a Brooklynite who has contributed much to the arts.

ORDINANCE NO. 4-96 AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY AMENDING ORDINANCE NO. 10-94 RELATING TO THE EXTENSION OF AND ADDITION TO THE CITY SEWER SERVICES TO UNINCORPORATED AREAS LOCATED NEAR THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG.

WHEREAS, the City Council of the City of Prestonsburg, in conjunction with the City's Utility Commission, is desirous of expanding both the corporate boundaries of the City and City Sewer Services in order to make sewer service available to certain areas located outside the City corporate limits; and

WHEREAS, as a prerequisite to the expansion of any sewer service outside the city limits, whether existing or new, the City Council deems it to be appropriate to condition such expansion on the agreement of the property owner to consent to possible future annexation of the area so serviced, provided the area encumbered by the service meets all requirements of KRS Chapter 81A relating to the annexation of unincorporated territory;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT HEREBY ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF PRESTONSBURG, Kentucky as follows:

Item I: That any real property owner desiring either extension of new city sewer service, or an addition to a current "in-place" service to real property located outside of the city limits of the City or any new customer on an existing "in-place" service of Prestonsburg, shall execute an Agreement with the city and the City Utilities Commission, that the property owner(s) waive(s) any objection to future annexation of the proposed area, should annexation of the area meet all of the requirements of KRS Chapter 81A. This agreement shall pertain to all unincorporated real property, whether the same actually adjoins the current corporate limits at the time of execution, or not. The Sewer Service Agreement and Consent to Annexation shall completely and accurately describe the real property subject to future annexation, and shall be executed by all property owners of record. Further, the Agreement shall provide that the consent given to annex shall be a covenant running with the land and shall be binding on all successors and assigns of the property owners.

Item II: The Sewer Service Agreement and Consent to Annexation shall include and shall also apply to unincorporated areas where sewer service is being installed for the first time, as well as areas where additional hook-ups are requested on an existing service.

Item III: That the agreement so adopted for use by the City of Prestonsburg and the City's Utilities Commission may include any such other language as may be necessary to achieve the purposes for which this Ordinance is adopted.

Item IV: Any action by a court of competent jurisdiction declaring any word, phrase, or section of this Ordinance to be invalid, unlawful or unconstitutional, shall not effect the remaining portions of this Ordinance which shall remain in full force and effect.

Item V: All ordinances in conflict with the provisions of this Ordinance are hereby expressly repealed to the extent of such conflict.

Item VI: This Ordinance shall become effective immediately upon adoption and publication as required by law.

SO ADOPTED, this the 22nd day of April, 1996.

Dear Diane by Diane Van Arsdale

DEAR DIANE: I am the mother of two girls and two boys. Every time you pick up the newspaper, it seems some teenager has died or had a car wreck. All the politicians seem to talk about is this tax and that tax, but they don't address this problem.

All the kids in this small town I live in turn to drugs or alcohol, or they get AIDS, or get into a car accident because they're high. The kids in this town need something more than beer or drugs, a place where they can go, have a good, safe time, and then come back home in one piece.

You can't trust your child anymore since you don't know the child's friends. You want what's best, but it seems the kids just don't care. They see no wrong even though I've always tried to tell my children to tell the truth and don't get into trouble. What's a parent to do nowadays?
CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED:

While I realize that sometimes, no matter how well a child is brought up, that child can go bad, so to speak, I think that's the exception rather than the rule. As a parent, you have to do more than just tell your child how to behave. You must lead by example and you have to know when to discipline the child. For example, you say you don't know who your children's friends are. You should make it your business to know these things. If you don't like the friends, or they're into unwholesome activities, make the children associate with kids you do approve of. When they break a rule, ground them. When they comply, load them up with praise and love.

That's just a start. After all, there's no formula or manual in child rearing. However, everything has to begin and end in the home. Politicians can't solve these problems. We have to.

Send letters to Diane c/o King Features Weekly Service, 235 East 45th Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Keeping pools safely clean this summer

(NAPS) It's never safe to assume that pool water is clean enough for your children to swim in.

To kill harmful micro-organisms that can cause health problems for your family, a swimming pool must be regularly disinfected.

Most pool owners know that chlorine works to provide safe, clean water but don't realize how quickly it can be used up, according to technical service expert Dave Michaels of Olin Corporation, makers of hth, Pace, Sock It, and Super Sock It.

Pool water can be significantly affected by a number of everyday occurrences, the most likely being rain, winds, extended periods of above average temperatures, and heavy pool use. These conditions can quickly cause the water chemistry to deteriorate leading to algae, cloudy water and other pool problems.

To prevent pool problems from developing, chemical treatment is essential. Routine chlorine additions are required to maintain a proper chlorine residual.

Sometimes a regular chlorine dosage is not enough to meet an unusual demand, so an extra high dose of chlorine must be added. The extra high dose of chlorine is referred to as a shock treatment.

A shock treatment or extra high dose of chlorine typically raises the chlorine level 5-10 parts per million to meet the demands placed upon the water. In addition to adding your routine chlorinator, a weekly shock treatment is recommended as both a remedial and preventative measure.

Shocking the pool water weekly prevents the formation of compounds responsible for the single largest complaint from bathers', eye irritation and obnoxious odors, often blamed on too much chlorine. It also prevents algae problems and keeps the water looking sparkling clear.

Want to know more about keeping pools safe and sparkling clear or need a helpful guide on pool care? Call the Pool Care Hotline toll free at 800-POOL-987. Experts are available to assist you from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. est. The hotline is offered as a public service by the Olin Corporation.

Save money by doing it yourself. Experienced handymen can save about 60 percent of the cost of a project by doing some jobs themselves. Even those not experienced can save about 30 percent.

Backyard builders get extra help with practical plans

Soaring construction costs and a renewed interest in "building it better yourself" have inspired thousands to tackle more demanding building projects.

Those handy with a hammer and saw can save up to 60 percent of the cost of a new backyard structure. Even beginning craftsmen can save up to 30 percent by doing the small jobs, while leaving the major work to the pros.

To help builders of all skill levels, Homestead Design has created a collection of 27 practical designs for workshops, barns, garages, studios, stables and garden sheds, with blueprints readily available. For those who want to build something themselves and save money in the process, the "Homestead Design Planbook" is a valuable tool. To get the book, send your name and address, along with $1 for shipping, to Homestead Design Inc., P.O. Box 2010-F, Port Townsend, WA 98368. SH961597

Tips for decorating small spaces, homes

Every man's — and woman's — home should be his or her castle, but not everyone has a home with castlelike proportions. If your home's scale is on the diminutive side, here are some tips from the design experts at Laura Ashley to give those small rooms a large dose of spaciousness and charm:

- Keep the color palette simple. A monochromatic color scheme or one that uses only two dominant colors will visually stretch space. Although the color palette may be monochromatic, you still can create visual interest by incorporating different textures and patterns.

- Use double-duty furniture to save space. Choose versatile pieces, like Laura Ashley's oversized Cressford ottoman that provides extra seating but also serves as a coffee table. Upholstered dining chairs, like Laura Ashley's Berkeley chairs, can function equally well in a dining room and as extra seating when pulled into a living room.

- Minimize the need for storage pieces by putting in built-in storage. Built-ins not only house a tremendous amount, but also can camouflage space-stealing architectural elements, like vertical beams or broken-up walls.

- Reflective surfaces can "fool

Designing in a small spaces lies in how you use colors and furniture pieces in the room.

the eye" into thinking that a room is bigger than it is. Using mirrors is an old trick that works. So does putting glass doors on cabinets and bookshelves.

- Don't automatically put all of your furniture against the walls to try to make a room look bigger. Creative placement of furniture — like floating it in the center of the room — often makes small spaces look larger.

- Take advantage of irregularities in the room's proportions for efficient furniture placement. For example, a bay window makes a lovely spot to nestle a small sofa or chair. An awkward wall niche may be just the place to put a desk and chair or a small table. The end of a room, particularly if the ceiling slopes down, can be a cozy nook for a bed.

- Instead of space-grabbing furniture, utilize space-saving options, like shelves. For example, if there's no room for a night stand, add a long shelf behind the head of the bed or along the adjacent wall. Or, choose furniture that also can provide hidden storage. A skirted round or square plywood table can hide a lot of clutter.

- If certain rooms, like formal dining rooms, are rarely used, consider temporary furniture. A folding table covered with a colorful table cover, for example, can accommodate a dinner party, then be tucked away so the room can be used for other purposes. Another dining-room option is a table that can expand with leaves.

- Avoid elaborate, heavy window treatments that may overwhelm a small room. Choose simple window treatments, preferably ones that are installed within the window frame, like Roman blinds or shades, and make sure they let in lots of light to visually expand the room.

- Use wallpaper creatively to make rooms look larger and also taller. For example, Laura Ashley's Colourwash wallpaper adds interesting texture, instead of busy pattern, and Colourwash Stripe wallpaper gives the illusion of higher ceilings. Wallpaper borders also create the illusion of width.

- Keep the floors understated. Opt for plain carpet, like wool sisal, or bare wood floors with small accent rugs rather than busy-patterned carpets.

Laura Ashley offers trained design professionals who will help you with design-related problems. For information about the Laura Ashley Home Styling program, call (800) 367-2000.

Watch your colors

A simple color scheme, like navy and ivory, will visually stretch space in a small room. Built-in storage, like these floor-to-ceiling bookcases, helps minimize the amount of furniture you need, and their reflective surfaces work like mirrors to "fool the eye."

Laura Ashley fabrics and wallpapers, including Victoria on the loveseat, Marlow on the sofa, Cavalry Stripe on the armchairs and London blinds, and Bowen wall covering, work together harmoniously to create a soothing, understated look that is well-suited to the room's small proportions.

SEE THE FRENCH DOOR THAT GIVES YOU ROOM WITH A VIEW.

Today, the French door is enjoying a spirited revival.

Yet, despite its timeless beauty, it has some undeniable drawbacks. Because it swings into your room, it steals from available floor space, making it difficult to place furniture, decorate, or drape.

Which is why we're pleased to present the Andersen® Frenchwood® Gliding Patio Door, with a natural wood interior. Instead of swinging, it glides, so there's plenty of room to decorate. And its unique design affords superior security and weather-tightness.

Come see the new Frenchwood door today. Now nothing stands in the way of French door beauty.

Come home to quality.

Tips for building your home office

Just a couple years ago, when the boss said, "It's time to relocate," you could expect a move to another city or state. Today, relocation often translates into a move away from the office to your home — giving a new meaning to the words "home office."

Because most houses were built before the home-office boom, today's typical home design may not accommodate special workplace needs, like soundproofing, wiring, lighting and storage space. If you plan to build a home office any time soon, here are some suggestions to improve your new work environment.

SOUNDPROOFING

Neither you nor your client needs to be distracted by the dog barking or baby crying. If possible, convert a remote room of the house or a dry part of the basement into your office. Or, if you are building from scratch, consider separating the home office from the rest of the house altogether, including a separate entrance, or construct the office above the garage.

No matter where your office is located, installing insulation in the frame cavities of interior walls and floors is one of the best ways to absorb unwanted noise. For the best sound-absorption performance, use 3 1/2-inch-thick fiber glass insulation for two-by-four walls and in floors above and below the office. The additional sound-absorption value for insulation thickness higher than 3 1/2 inches is minimal.

To further control noise, add resilient metal channels between drywall and studs or joists. Resilient channels break the sound-vibration path through a wall's or ceiling's wood studs or joists, thereby keeping the office quieter. Once unfaced insulation is installed between the studs, nail the channel directly to the studs or joists, approximately 24 inches on center and running perpendicular to the direction of the studs or joists. The drywall is then fastened to the channel.

WIRE FOR THE FUTURE

Install an adequate number of phone lines and electrical jacks to keep the room flexible. You always should consult an electrician to be sure there are enough circuits to handle your electrical needs for both now and the future. If you plan to centralize your desk, ask the electrician to wire outlets in the middle of your floor to eliminate stretching cables and phone lines across the floor.

Remember to forecast for the future. Don't overlook the importance of such technologies as video conferencing. While video conferencing systems are somewhat cost prohibitive today, more affordable systems with improved viewing are around the corner. Although it's unclear how these new video systems will be wired, by incorporating both category 5 computer wire and coaxial cable into your wiring scheme, it is a safe bet you won't need to rewire your office down the road.

LIGHTING

Make sure your office has good lighting, both artificial and natural. A lighting store can help you customize your lighting needs. If it's not already part of the room, I recommend installing a window or skylight in the office. Not only does a window or skylight provide an excellent light source, it offers psychological benefits as well.

STORAGE SPACE

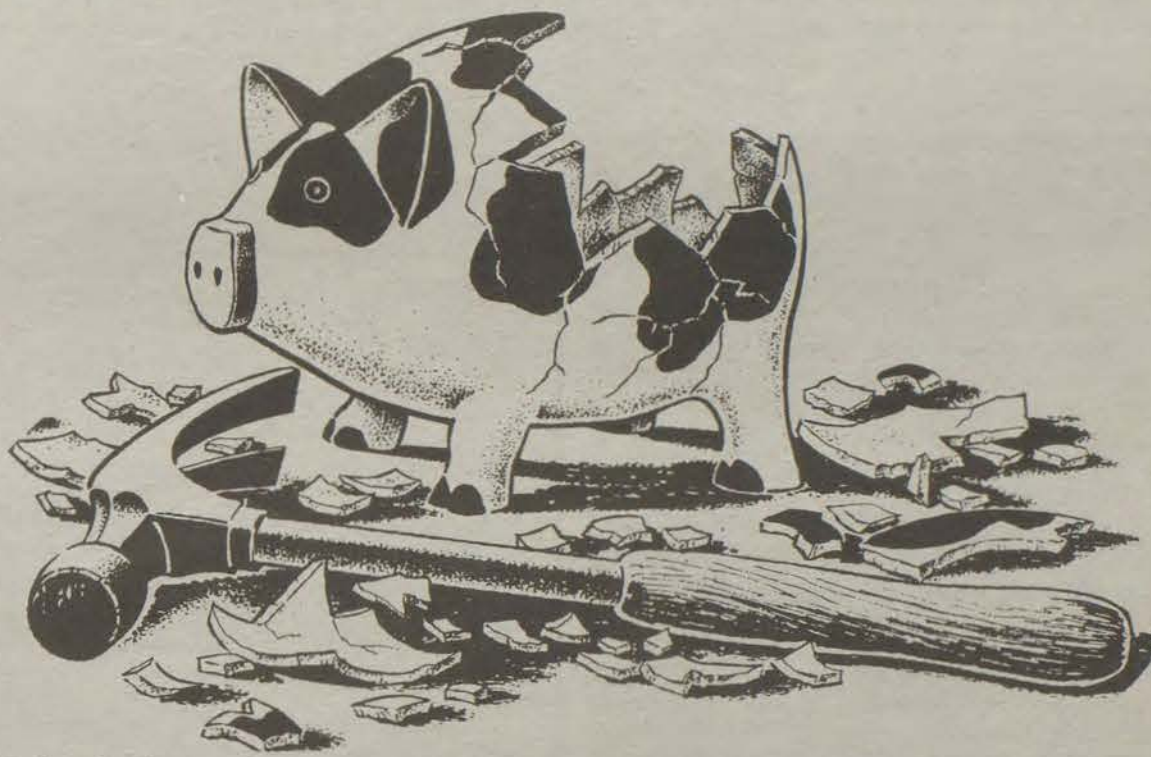

You never can have enough storage space, and as you prosper, so do your filing needs. A couple of standard three-drawer filing cabinets can swallow the room's space pretty quickly. A craftsman can customize your storage space, matching your furniture scheme. Surprisingly, customized cabinets can be less expensive than purchasing manufactured cabinets or files.

Liberate your kitchen

How do you make an apartment or house a home? The easy answer may be "move in," but how do you create a space and style that reflect your tastes while enhancing your quality of life?

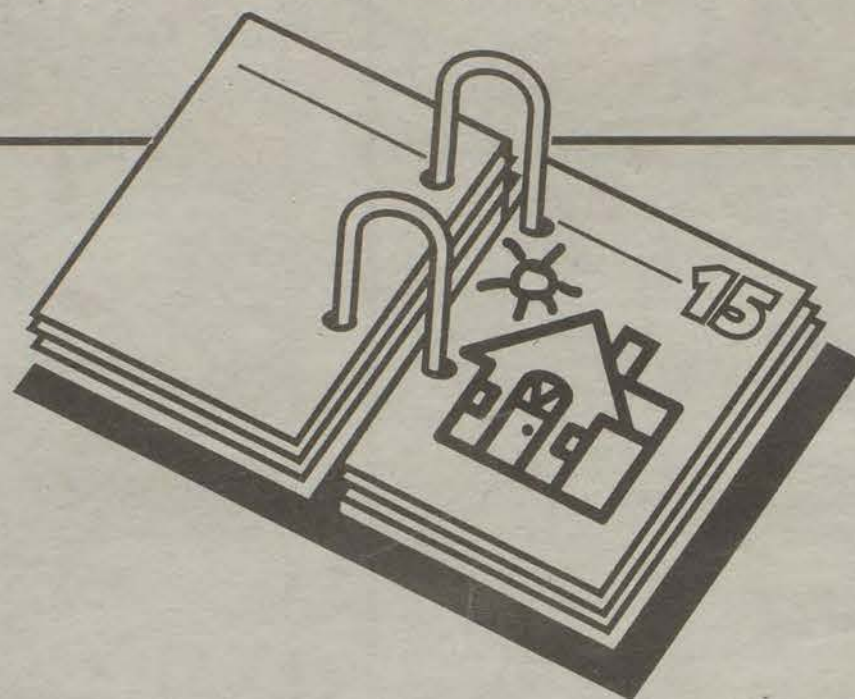

"Style is not irrelevant — far from it — and our lives would be much less fun without it. But no style works well unless you pay some attention to what's underneath — the bare bones of structure, design and fixtures," says international home-design expert Terence Conran in his book, "The Essential House Book: Getting Back to Basics" (Crown), which includes more than 650 color photographs and 200 illustrations. "The mission of this book is to help you to understand the myriad options that are open to you in the design and fitting out of the space in which you live."

Conran, founder of the chain of Habitat stores, now in more than 20 countries, is also the owner of the Conran Shops in London and Paris and, as an avid cook, is author of books on kitchens and dining, as well as books on bedrooms and baths.

Conran brings a simplicity and common sense to home design and focuses on key elements that make a home work the way it should — efficient and flexible organization of space, good lighting, well-planned storage, and sensible surfaces and materials.

The kitchen, one area covered in "The Essential House Book," is the most important space in the whole house, according to Conran — a place where you are sustained both physically and emotionally. The demise of the dining room — one of the most dramatic changes during the past century in the way people inhabit houses — parallels the renaissance of the kitchen (eating or lounging in the kitchen) from a working-class necessity, or bohemian eccentricity, to the accepted norm that suits an informal but busy lifestyle.

Metal roofing has many advantages

Q: My roof shingles are curled, cracked and stained with fungus. I've heard that metal roofing eliminates these problems — should I consider a metal roof?

A: Yes. Metal roofing is quickly gaining popularity, especially with homeowners who are fed up with the short life of traditional roofing materials. While metal roofing costs more upfront than composition shingles, it's actually cheaper, because it lasts much longer, requires less maintenance, and provides a better appearance (and greater value) for your home. Metal roofing has advantages in every climate, especially in areas with threats of fires or airborne sparks, severe storms, or extreme heat or cold. Another advantage is that some metal roofs can be installed directly over your existing roof without the added cost and mess of a tear-off.

Q: Won't a metal roof make my house hotter in the summer?

A: It depends on the metal. Steel will absorb and transfer the radiant heat of the sun, but not all metals do. Aluminum, for example, reflects radiant heat; that's why NASA uses aluminum to shield satellites in space, where there's no atmosphere to diffuse the heat of the sun.

One metal-roofing manufacturer had its aluminum-roofing product, Rustic

Shingle, tested by the Florida Solar Energy Center. The center found it to reduce attic heat gain by up to 34 percent more than traditional roofing materials. This can add up to substantial savings on your utility bills. If you decide to use a metal roof that is not aluminum, you will need to install a radiant-heat barrier in your attic to achieve similar results.

Q: I don't like the "industrial" look of flat metal roofing with vertical lines. Are there alternatives?

A: You are describing "standing seam" roofing, so named for the vertical seams that stand up between the panels. And, yes, there are many alternatives. Most popular are the products that resemble cedar shakes, tile or slate. These give a traditional, stately appearance with all the benefits of metal roofing.

Q: What should I look for to know that I'm buying a quality metal roof?

A: A quality metal roof will have a Kynar® finish, known to architects and engineers as the best for lasting color and protection. Also, a metal roof should be designed to allow for expansion and contraction caused by temperature changes.

METAL ROOFING PROVIDES many benefits, and it also can be very attractive, like these aluminum shakes.

Roof vents prevent damage from heat

(MPS) — When shingles crack, roof-deck wood rots or gutters leak, your first impulse may be to blame the individual components. In fact, they may have been fine when installed, but couldn't stand the silent but steady pressure of the real culprit — attic heat and moisture caused by improper roof ventilation.

You can prevent these problems by asking your roofing contractor to include soffit (undereave) vents and ridge vents in any new roof installation or even a partial shingle-replacement job.

For a free brochure on Owens-Corning's new VentSure™ Ridge Vents, call 1-800-GET-PINK.

Special paint prevents mildew

(MPS) — Humidity and condensation from baths, sinks and showers create an environment that mildew thrives on.

A traditional approach to dealing with persistent mildew problems has been to use oil-base paints. However, alkyd (oil-base) paints can take 24 hours to dry, require hazardous solvents for cleanup and emit a strong odor. And, the organic oils in these paints can serve as food for mildew.

One brand, Zinsser's Perma-White Mildew-Proof Bathroom Paint, is guaranteed mildew-proof for a minimum of five years.

It's a water-base paint containing resins that produce a tight, water-resistant film that's hard, smooth and durable. It is also blister-proof and peel-proof.

Homeowners should have air conditioners checked now before summer gets here

Homeowners should have their air-conditioning system checked now — before the peak cooling season — by a qualified contractor or service technician to ensure the system will work efficiently this summer, according to the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute (ARI).

If your air conditioner is no longer cooling properly, it could involve something as simple as replacing a fuse, resetting a circuit breaker or checking to see if the thermostat is set properly.

If an electrical problem isn't the cause, the refrigerant may be low if the system still runs but doesn't cool enough.

However, if the problem involves any major part, like the compressor, says ARI, you would hear strange noises similar to those of mechanical equipment not running correctly.

When your air-conditioning system starts giving you more problems than seem cost-effective to fix, you should consider replacing your system.

Because newer equipment usually is much more energy-efficient than older central air-conditioning or heat-pump systems, you might actually save money by replacing your old system before it completely wears out.

In some cases, the money you save in reduced utility costs might pay back your purchase price of a new system years earlier than you think.

For more information about the basic rules to follow for keeping cool this summer at minimum cost, send for ARI's free pamphlet, "How to Keep Your Cool and Save Cold Cash." Elegance under the eaves of home

A neglected attic bath is well worth climbing the stairs for now that designer Grace Hardison has transformed the tiny space into a spa that's large on comfort and personality. She gilds the feet of the vintage tub, brings in a Victorian garden seat, then dresses the window in a gossamer valance woven from twigs. Helping work her magic underfoot: the glow of Crossville Ceramics durable porcelain tiles accented with sparkling dots of polished porcelain. Because the color goes all the way through the body of the tile, it can be polished to the high gleam that adds its touch of true luxe to this lofty little space. Crossville Ceramics is the only manufacturer of large-size porcelain tile in the United States. For more information, call (615) 484-2110.

Wear and tear or simple boredom attracts new furniture purchases

When American families decide to replace their furniture, it's not because of exciting new styles, great sales or any other industry-inspired motivating factors.

Instead, the main reasons people give for replacing furniture have to do with wear and tear, comfort, and simply becoming tired of their current furnishings.

"People aren't buying new furniture because there's something out there they absolutely have to have in their homes," says Britt Beemer, founder and chairman of America's Research Group at a news conference at the Fall International Home Furnishings Market. "They're only buying when they're sick and tired of the furniture they own."

Beemer's analysis of attitudes toward new furniture purchases was based on a survey of 1,000 consumers conducted by America's Research Group. Those surveyed had either purchased a sofa, living-room table, recliner or master-bedroom furniture in the last two to three years or planned such a purchase in the coming year or two.

Those interviewed were given a number of considerations for replacing their furniture, including comfort, retail-store appeal, new style from manufacturer, change in home decor, unexpected extra income and wear due to usage over the years.

In every single product category, considerations inside the home dictated the timing of new furniture purchases.

Of those who had purchased or planned to buy a new sofa, the desire for something different was listed by nearly one in two as the chief cause of their decision. Simply getting tired of the sofa and worn fabric followed, with almost four in 10 saying that this consideration was definitely a strong influence on their buying decision.

When it came to purchasing a new living-room table, the top reasons for replacing the old table were: "I just wanted something different" (44.3 percent); "I got tired of it" (34.3 percent); and "the table had nicks and dings in it" (29.2 percent).

In choosing to replace a recliner, again "the desire for something different" topped the list — chosen by 45.2 percent of those surveyed. "The old recliner is no longer comfortable" was the reason given by 37.6 percent, while 36.3 percent said "their recliner fabric is worn and no longer looks nice."

Just wanting something new and different also ruled the purchase of bedroom furniture, with nearly half saying that is what motivated their new purchase. Growing tired of the bedroom furniture was cited by 45.6 percent, and the desire for bigger bedroom furniture was given by 30 percent of new bedroom-furniture purchasers.

"When the furniture industry is asking someone to spend $500 to $1,000, there must be a good reason," Beemer says.

"Without a strong and compelling reason, consumers are simply postponing the purchase until they have to replace old and worn furniture."

Create a new look with easy-to-sew decorating projects

When you think of spring and summer, it's hard not to think of the outdoors — bright-yellow sunshine, wildflowers, crystal-blue waters. Now, you can bring this warm feeling indoors by giving your home a seasonal face lift. Whether it's for the kitchen, bathroom, living room or bedroom, there are many ways to incorporate items you have sewn into your decorating scheme.

Sewing is a fun and creative way to express personal style in the home, according to the Sewing Fashion Council for the American Home Sewing and Craft Association. A few simple sewn items can make all the difference by turning an ordinary home into an extraordinary one.

Visit your local fabric store to get a better idea of the wide selection of fabrics, patterns and notions available for home decorating. Color, texture and print should be taken into consideration when choosing fabrics to create an atmosphere. Bright, strong colors, like yellow or orange, create a cheerful room, while print fabrics add a cozy effect. Textured fabrics add dimension and interest. Mixing solids, stripes and floral fabrics is very popular this season and leaves a lot of room for creativity. If you are having difficulty deciding on a style, bring a selection of fabric samples home, and drape them around the room to get a sense of how the fabrics work together with other items, like carpeting and wall coverings.

BATHE YOURSELF IN LUXURY

The latest trend in home decorating is the designer bathroom set in which everything coordinates — wallpaper with shower and window curtains, towels, seat cushions, and just about every accessory imaginable. These sets are beautiful, but expensive when purchased separately. Create your own designer accessories by sewing matching fabric, ribbon or trim on to a plain hand towel for a fashionable look. A shower curtain can be made with buttonholes sewn at the top for easy attachment to hooks. Some other easy decorating ideas include adding fabric or ribbon to mirror frames, wastebaskets, tissue boxes or any of your own innovative ideas.

KITCHEN CAPERS

Small details can make a big difference. With just a few yards of fabric and basic sewing skills, it is very simple to give your kitchen a new look for summer. With your kitchen's current color scheme in mind, try incorporating a new color that will "rejuvenate" the room. For example, add yellow, red or green to a blue and white color scheme to brighten it up. Replace plastic place mats with serge-sewn quilted mats or plain appliance covers with some sewn in a fruit print. Gingham, calico and chintz are great fabrics for napkins, chair covers, stool cushions and aprons. Also perfect for the kitchen are fabrics with barnyard prints featuring roosters or cows. Conversational prints, like teacups, are another showstopper in the kitchen. Your family and friends will be impressed at this summer's party when their hostess "seams" to have it all together.

LIVING ROOM OR SUN ROOM?

If you weren't blessed with a room that catches the afternoon sun perfectly or has just the right touch of comfort, create it yourself. Add style and comfort to the living room by sewing throw pillows or recovering old pillows with a bright, colorful fabric. Create the illusion of a garden inside your home by using a fabric with a nature-inspired print when redecorating. Throw pillows, which can be sewn in a variety of shapes and sizes from simple to elaborate, add a touch of comfort to any room. Another great way to give a room an updated look is to cover the walls with fabric. Choose the fabric for the walls first, and then build the rest of the room around it, since wall coverings are such a dominant feature in any room.

BEDROOM BEAUTIFUL

Wake up and open your eyes to all the exciting patterns, fabrics and notions available for redecorating the bedroom. A duvet cover allows you to recover an old comforter with a refreshing new fabric. Not only is it simple to sew, but at the end of the season, it can be removed, leaving the original comforter and giving the bedroom two completely different looks. Duvet covers allow you to utilize a variety of fabrics, so there's no need to choose just one. Don't forget draperies, valances, dust ruffles and lampshades, which are also easy decorating projects to sew.

Following are decorating tips from the Sewing Fashion Council for sewing at home:

- If you are new to home sewing, buy a basic "how-to" book, and keep it close by for easy reference. It will come in handy for measuring and determining yardage and for clarifying instructions.

- Start with one project, and use it as a focal point around which to build your decorating scheme. Leftover fabrics can be used to make additional small coordinating accessories.

- When shopping for fabrics, bring samples of your current wall colors and carpet to help you see how the fabrics will coordinate with the colors already in the room.

- Keep in mind that colors can change the mood of a room — traditional dark colors, like hunter green and maroon, evoke a cozy feeling, while pastels and neutral colors create a calming atmosphere and bright colors, like lipstick red and orange, stimulate the senses.

- Consider the amount of sun exposure the room receives when selecting window treatments. A sunny room, for example, may require lined curtains to ensure colorfastness and prevent fading.

- When purchasing fabrics, buy all the yardage from one bolt as dye lots can vary. Check your measurements carefully to make sure that you buy enough fabric to complete the project.

- To change the look of your furniture without having to purchase new pieces, sew new slipcovers and pillow covers in coordinating patterns and colors.

Proper planning important to any home-repair job

Before the birds begin to sing in the trees, homeowners already have their spring home-improvement projects planned. Whether it's replacing windows, reshingling the roof or installing new flooring, they're ready to take action as soon as the weather gets warm.

Whether people are doing the work themselves or hiring professionals, proper planning is an important part of any home-improvement project.

When hiring a contractor, people need to know exactly what they want done, so they can meet with professionals, explain the work and get realistic estimates. Do-it-yourselfers need to plan ahead to ensure they have set aside enough time for the project, have the right equipment and materials, and understand the work that needs to be done.

Having the proper equipment means not only having the tools specifically designed for the task at hand, but also having tools that are in good condition. It is a good idea for do-it-yourselfers to check that tools are in working order before beginning a project. All handles should be fixed firmly into the tool's working end, and jaw teeth, cutters and blades should be sharp. Any tools that are damaged should be thrown away.

If, when planning a project, do-it-yourselfers find that they don't have a tool they need, they can buy, rent or borrow it. Renting or borrowing allows them to see if they like a particular model or brand, making the decision easier when they finally decide to buy the tool.

If people want to buy the tool, many home-improvement professionals recommend going to a knowledgeable local dealer. While prices may not be as inexpensive as those in a catalog, do-it-yourselfers will be able to get a feel for the tool before buying it.

After getting the proper equipment, people should follow the manufacturer's instructions when using each tool. Tools should be kept clean, dry and away from excessive heat.

Before using a tool near electricity, people should shut off the current. They also should use steady pressure on jaws or cutters, instead of rocking the tool. If they are doing continuous work, it is a good idea to wear gloves or use comfort grips to help avoid getting blisters or calluses.

With the proper planning and right tools and materials, people are well on their way to a successful project and a more beautiful home.
