Petition certified; voters to decide form of government in November

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

A petition seeking an election on a proposal to change Floyd County's form of government has been certified by County Court Clerk Carla Boyd, meaning the question will be put to county voters next fall.

Boyd said Wednesday that her office had verified 101 signatures, one more than the minimum required by law, on the petition filed last month by an organization called United We're Strong.

"We stopped at 101," Boyd said. "That's all that was needed. They had plenty more, though."

Boyd officially announced the certification in a letter to County Judge-Executive Ben Hale, who is now required by law to order the question be put on the November 11 ballot.

"Are you for or against having a fiscal court composed of three commissioners and the county judge-executive?"

Voters will be asked to decide if they are "for or against having a fiscal court composed of three commissioners and the county judge-executive."

If a majority votes in favor of the change,

Hale will be required to reapportion voting districts in the county, reducing the number of representatives on the fiscal court from four magistrates to three commissioners, before the next regular election for county offices in 1998.

Incumbent members of the fiscal court will, according to state law, fulfill their terms and will not be ousted prematurely if the change in government is approved.

Under the commission form of government, primary elections are held in each of the three districts with nominees selected on partisan lines. Those nominees run in the general election on a county-wide ballot, a method which represents a key departure from the county's current magisterial form of government. Under the magisterial form, magistrates are nominated in the primary and elected in the general election only by the voters of their particular district.

Should voters approve the change to a commission form, the commissioners would be nominated in the May, 1998 primary, elected in the November 1998 general election and they would assume office in 1999.

Bartley gets party's nod; Hall resigns

by Scott Perry
Times Editor

Eric Hall's tenure as Floyd County Attorney may be the shortest on record. In fact, it ended before it ever really got started.

Hall, appointed to the post by County Judge-Executive Ben Hale following the federal conviction in February of Jim Hammond, was sworn in last Friday, March 1. He resigned a week later, on March 7, after he failed to win the county Democratic Party's nomination as a candidate for Hammond's unexpired term.

That nomination went to Keith Bartley, a Prestonsburg attorney whose office specializes primarily in defense and personal injury work.

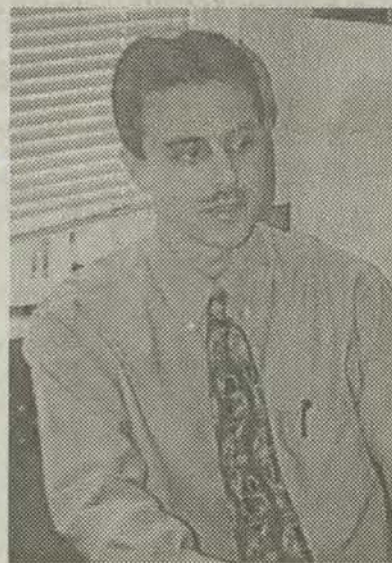

Bartley's private practice, and the fact that a county attorney serves dual roles as a prosecutor in district court and as general counsel to the fiscal court, means he may not be available immediately to assume the county attorney's post, Hale said Thursday.

"He's probably going to have to clear his trial schedule before he can switch over to prosecutor," Hale said, "but he may have no conflicts going ahead and representing the fiscal court."

Hale said he is "looking for someone to fill in (as county prosecutor) for the next two or three weeks," while Bartley clears his private-practice schedule. If no local interest is expressed for that short-term job, he added, the state's attorney general will be asked to assign a special prosecutor.

Hale said Hall was preparing to turn his private practice clients over to other attorneys when the

Stolen car is recovered in good shape after 3 months

by Patti M. Clark

It took nearly three months, but police finally located a truck stolen from Music Carter Hughes before Christmas.

The 1995 Chevrolet S-10 was found on a strip mine site near Grundy, Virginia this week.

"We filed the report on the 12th of December," Cheryl Hughes with Music Carter Hughes said. "We know it disappeared somewhere between the 8th and the 12th."

She said the vehicle was parked on the lot and investigators think it was driven off the lot during the day.

"We hadn't heard anything at all until yesterday," Hughes said Thursday.

What is surprising is that the vehicle is still intact. "There was no damage," she said. "That's different. Usually they are burned or stripped."

Police have no suspects in the case. "They have some leads, but no suspects," Hughes said. Investigation will be handled by Sgt. Sue Blackburn with the Prestonsburg City Police.

Hughes said theft of vehicles from car dealerships doesn't happen every day, but it isn't a rare occurrence. "We have them sporadically," she said. "We've had some in the past."

She said this truck was probably taken after someone took it for a test drive. "Whoever did it was pretty brave," she said.

Slipping and flipping

A late spring snow storm Thursday apparently caused a car to flip over on its top on U.S. 23 near Wickes Lumber. One woman was taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center after the accident, which apparently resulted from the snow-slick roads. Larry Woods was still investigating the accident. Allen Volunteer Fire Department members responded to the scene. (photo by Patti M. Clark)

Federal jury indicts Hall in murder-for-hire scheme

A federal grand jury Thursday indicted a McDowell man on charges that he offered $50,000 to have his cousin killed to collect proceeds from an insurance policy.

The indictment against Sam Hall, 53, "alleges that on or about the sixth day of February, 1996, Hall caused the United States mail to be used with the intent that the murder of Albert Hall be committed in consideration for the payment of $50,000 from an insurance policy on the life of Albert E. Hall." The indictment also states that Sam Hall used the telephone on or about February 14 for the same purpose.

The indictments allege that Sam Hall had blood and urine samples from his cousin sent to Metropolitan Life Insurance Company testing laboratory in New York and then had reports from those samples sent to the insurance company, and that he used the telephone to arrange the murder.

Hall was arrested February 15 by FBI agents on the charges. His cousin — who lived in Floyd County in January, but had moved to Indiana — was placed in protective custody immediately.

The charges came after a two-week investigation by the Floyd County Sheriff's department, the Mountain Area Drug Task Force, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

An on-going parallel investigation concerning Hall had been in place when the alleged murder-for-hire scheme was discovered. Those investigations concerned alleged drug activity and alleged environmental violations, according to Frank Fryman, director of the Mountain Area Drug Task Force, who made the statements at a February 15 press conference.

Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson said at that press conference that he received information about the alleged plot and determined that Albert Hall's life was in danger.

Sam Hall is the owner of Hall's Septic Service at McDowell. Albert Hall was his business partner on one time.

Two from Floyd in state finals

Two Floyd County students will pit their academic skills against high school students from across the state on March 11 during the Kentucky Academic Association's Governor's Cup finals.

Leigh Ann Preston, a senior at Betsy Layne, and Michael Slone, a senior at Prestonsburg High School, won district and regional finals held in February.

"The competition is very tough," Joyce Watson, who works with the Floyd County Board of Education's academic programs, said Thursday.

Watson said only four students in each contact area of the competition are selected to represent the region.

Preston won first place in the Language Arts competition and this makes her second trip to state finals.

Disaster reponse team needs money, people to get started

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

Consider this scenario.

The death of 16 local residents resulted from exposure to hydrochloric acid. A derailed train allowed hydrogen and chlorine chemicals to combine and react to form the deadly acid.

It hasn't happened yet, but it could.

In 1992, concerns for incidents such as the above scenario led to negotiations to purchase a $50,000 fully equipped tractor-trailer designed to identify and maintain hazardous material spills. The tractor-trailer and equipment was obtained in the fall of 1993, but remains inoperable because of a lack of funds and personnel. In other words, local residents could still face the devastating effects of a hazardous material spill.

Floyd, Magoffin, Johnson, Martin and Pike counties had agreed to provide $5,000 each for three consecutive years to support HazMat 9, a hazardous material response team; however, due to their lack of funds, they were unable to contribute the money in the 1993-94 budget year because an area development grant was not awarded.

Disaster and Emergency Services (DES) have made several attempts to notify firefighters and local DES members of HazMat 9, but those attempts remained unsuccessful for some time because many of the notices were not posted for the firefighters to view.

Carlos Cassidy, area DES chairman, met Wednesday evening at the Army National Guard Armory with 26 firefighters and DES members from four of the five Matthew Curry, an eighth grade student from Melvin Elementary, claimed the title "Champion Speller" of Floyd County Schools after completing 129 rounds of spelling.

Lindsey Shea Hall, an eighth grade student from Osborne Elementary, was runner-up. The two finalists will compete in the tri-state regional finals March 16 in Huntington, West Virginia. Winner of the regional finals will advance to national finals, in Washington, D.C.

The District Spelling Bee was held at James A. Duff Elementary School, Wednesday, February 21. The competition began at 9 a.m. with fifth grade spelling words and ended with eighth grade spelling words after two and a half hours of competition.

Curry and Hall competed through six elimination rounds before Curry emerged as champion by correctly spelling the word "endeavor" and the next, new word, "factor."

Curry is the son of Brady and Melissa Curry of Bypro. Hall is the daughter of Tony and Sabrina Hall of Bevinville.

School winners who participated included the following:

- Nikki Patton, eighth grade student from James D. Adams Middle School;
- Rachel Justice, eighth grade student from Allen Elementary;
- Nicole Moore, seventh grade student from Auxier Elementary;
- Jordan Scarberry, fourth grade student from Betsy Layne Elementary;

Mayo's Kentucky Tech campus on the cutting edge of technology

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Classes at the Kentucky-Tech Mayor Industrial Technology Center are nothing like a normal classroom building.

Chairs aren't arranged in straight lines. Students don't spend most of their time studying from their books.

Instead, there are motors and construction equipment, and computers and robots and drafting boards.

"This project was in the works for five or six years," Dean Robinson, director at the school, said. "But eventually it should help Eastern Kentucky attract new industry."

That's what students of the school would like — to train for positions that won't take them out of the area to find a job. Daniel Adams, the first graduate from the Automated Manufacturing Technology program, will move to Lexington when he graduates to take a job at LexMark.

Shane Kretzer will graduate in June. He's looking for a job in Lexington, preferably with Toyota, because he said he knows he won't be able to stay in the region and do the work he's trained for. Both Adams and Kretzer are from Floyd County.

The facility opened in August and is for students who have completed the basic requirements for the programs offered there.

The program in most demand, according to Robinson, is the diesel technology and heavy equipment classes where students learn to work on construction and mine equipment. Students spend numerous hours working with equipment, such as motors. Six teachers handle the more than 40 students enrolled.

Another popular course is the drafting and design technology program. Students in that program learn about drafting techniques and completed several blueprints during their course of study. They have recently finished the blueprint for the next house Mayo's construction program will build in Crosscreek subdivision in Johnson County.

In the computer labs, students learn computer fundamentals and word processing, data base, spread sheets and more.

"I also work with them on technical communications," Robinson said. "Even if they aren't writing for a living, they need to be able to tell people what they are doing."

But the most advanced course is the automated manufacturing technology program, where students learn to use robots to manufacture parts.

Adams said he entered the program to prepare him for the future.

"You've got to prepare for the future," he said. "I always thought this kind of stuff was neat and I knew that's where the jobs were going to be at."

By the year 2005, nearly 90 percent of jobs will require technical skills," Robinson said. The new campus offers programs to help local students meet those requirements.

To aid companies in the area, Kentucky Tech offers a seminar room where they can hold meetings. At least one other room can be opened up to hold larger meetings and classes. And a technical library is expected to open this summer.

About 70 students attend the programs at Kentucky Tech. More than 600 are enrolled at Mayo. About 96 percent of students who graduate are placed in jobs in their career areas, according to Robinson.

The entire program at Kentucky Tech is hands-on and designed to work interchangeably. For instance, if a company wants a part designed, the drafting and design class might take over that task. Once the design is complete, the plan is downloaded into the computers for the automated manufacturing program.

Students have recently been making chess sets. The program tells the robot to retrieve raw material from storage and tells it which machine, such as a lathe, to take the material to. The program for that machine then tells the lathe how to cut the piece to design a chess piece, such as a pawn.

After the piece has been completed, it is returned to a conveyor belt and taken to a quality check point where the piece is photographed and checked for flaws. Those pieces that meet specifications are returned to storage. Flawed pieces are rejected.

And the entire process can be done without a human hand touching the part.

Robotics has already made its way into local industry. Kentucky Hydrocarbon has pumping stations that can be controlled by computers from workers' homes.

"That's the way the industry is going," Robinson said of the use of robotics.

"And hopefully, once companies realize what we're offering here, they will want to locate here. There will be trained employees waiting for them."

Democratic Party executive committee met Wednesday evening to choose a nominee. When the committee selected Bartley to run for the post this fall, Hall resigned immediately as interim, Hale added, to avoid the required phase-out of his private practice.

Hall said Thursday that he has no hard feelings over the nomination process and that he gave Bartley his "support and best wishes of success."

"I accepted the appointment at Judge Hale's request with the stated intent to give our people an independent, honest and effective county attorney," Hall said. "I had hoped to receive the nomination of my party, but the majority of the current Democratic executive committee felt otherwise. I trust that Keith Bartley will rise to the challenges presented at this critical time in our county and (will) work unselfishly to restore the confidence of our people in their county government."

Bartley concurred that "restoring respect to the office of county attorney" is his biggest challenge.

"This office has become the laughingstock of the state," he said. Bartley brings considerable trial experience to the post and a unique record of success.

He's never lost a felony defense case.

Though he is most often associated with the defense of people charged with crimes, he said he sees no problem switching gears to the prosecution side of the table.

"I have some experience as a prosecutor," he said Thursday, noting that he served a brief stint as an assistant Commonwealth Attorney under Jerry Patton.

Bartley will represent the county Democrats on the general election ballot November 11, when he will face a nominee chosen by the county's Republican executive committee. The GOP must name a candidate by August 1.

Because the vacancy created by Hammond's federal conviction for fraud and check-kiting occurred within 100 days of the May primary election, the race will not appear on that ballot.

The winner of the fall race will serve until a successor is chosen in the county-wide election, scheduled for November, 1998.

counties to discuss issues related to establishing a board committee, recruiting members for the response team and methods of receiving additional funds. A representative for Magoffin County did not attend the meeting.

Ten board appointments were approved at the meeting. Thomas Blackburn of Prestonsburg and Fred Rife of Left Beaver will represent Floyd County; Tim Adkins of Belfry, Bryan Scarf of Gulnar, and Roby Lindsey and Randy Meek, both of Pikeville, will represent Pike County; Gary McClure and Jim Nyberg of West Van Lear will represent Johnson County; Stanley Howard for Magoffin County; and Dallas Sweeney for Martin County.

Cassidy's appointment as the economic development director for Martin County led to his request to not be re-nominated as DES chairman.

The board will meet March 27 at the Army National Guard Armory at 5 p.m. to nominate a new DES chairman. Regular meetings are scheduled on the first Wednesday of every month at 5 p.m. at the Armory.

PCC faculty and staff to meet with UK chancellor

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Faculty members at Prestonsburg Community College have been asked to make an appearance before Dr. Ben Carr, chancellor of the University of Kentucky Community College system.

Teachers and staff learned Wednesday and Thursday that they are required to attend a meeting with Carr at 3 p.m. today, Friday, the day before spring break begins, at the community college.

The notice states that "the Chancellor, Dr. Ben W. Carr, has called a special meeting of all faculty and staff Friday, March 8, at 3 p.m. in P 102. All available employees are expected to attend."

The subject of the meeting has not been announced, though speculation suggests it may concern publicized accounts of a rift between PCC President Dr. Deborah Floyd and some faculty at the school.

The meeting is open to the public, according to Dr. Carr's office.

Sam Hall is also under indictment in Floyd County for trying to extort $100,000 from Thompson in exchange for favorable testimony in a drug trafficking case against a former deputy sheriff.

If convicted of the federal charges, Hall could face a maximum punishment of 40 years in prison and a fine of up to $1 million.

An indictment does not determine innocence or guilt. It only means there is enough evidence in a case to warrant a trial.

Soap box derby to be part of Pioneer Festival

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Downhill racers, get ready. The Jenny Wiley Pioneer Festival Soap Box Derby will be held October 12 in Prestonsburg.

The event, which will be sponsored by the Bert T. Combs Civil Air Patrol, will be held at the top of "Post Office Hill," on Court Street in Prestonsburg. Donna Blackburn, chairman of the festival, said Monday night during a meeting of the festival committee. Racers will roll downhill to the finish line at the red light, she added.

Blackburn said planning for the derby is just beginning, and she will announce the details at a later meeting.

Other activities announced for the October festival involve area senior citizens in such competitions as husband-calling and man-chasing contests.

"I like to be chased by women," Orville Cooley, a member of the Prestonsburg Senior Citizens Center, said, eliciting guffaws from several of his fellow committee members.

Cooley said that the Prestonsburg Senior Citizens Center will also present a program of line dancing and the group has been practicing under the guidance of Greg Hamilton of Paintsville. Hamilton ran an Arthur Murray dancing show, Cooley said.

Also discussed during the meeting was a dog show, sponsored by the Eastern Kentucky Kennel Club. Last year, the event was held in the rain and it was an uncomfortable situation, veterinarian Carol Combs, who chairs the event, implied. Combs suggested that show be held indoors and asked the committee for help in locating a site.

She also asked the committee to waive any fees that would be charged to the kennel club for the event because the show is educational. Committee members unanimously agreed to waive fees.

In other business, committee members:

- agreed to a "rain or shine" policy on fees for vendors and exhibitors;
- nixed changing the parade route;
- sought recommendations for places to hold a county fair and a knife and gun show;

- suggested Governor Paul Patton; race car drivers Richard Petty or Harry Hale Ranier; and University of Kentucky basketball players as candidates for the festival's parade marshal; and
- set Monday, April 1 at 6 p.m. for their next meeting date.

Martin might get flood control

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

U.S. Representative Hal Rogers has announced that he is looking for federal funds to begin a flood control project there.

"The purpose of the study is to develop a plan to control flood waters there," Kevin Fromer, a spokesman for Rogers said.

He said the Corps of Engineers would study the city for 18 months to three years before making a recommendation.

"And that recommendation could be anything from widening the channel or diverting the water to relocating residents," he said.

The study was requested by Mayor Alan Whicker and members of the city council.

Whicker said the request for the study came in October. "We asked for some monies for flood control and he told us he thought there was some money available," Whicker said.

Representatives from Rogers' office met with Whicker and the city council.

"He said it would take the Corps about two years or so to tell us about the best method of flood control," Whicker added. "He said he didn't know what the project would say and couldn't give any type of recommendation without the study."

Residents of Martin have suffered through at least one flood in every decade of the 1900s.

The Corps of Engineers' records show flooding in the area in February 1862, January 1918, March 1929, January 1937, February 1939, July 1942, March 1955, January 1957, March 1963, March 1967, January 1974, April 1977 (often referred to as the 100-year flood), and May 1984.

Dewey Lake was built in 1938 as the result of a similar study

"That's the last flood we had," Whicker said of the '84 disaster. "We've just been lucky. Not that much rain has fallen lately. We've had some close calls. This is good news to us."

Whicker said about 50 to 60 homes are directly affected by the flood waters and that the whole city is damaged when the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River overflows its banks.

"This was one of the projects high on my priority list," he said. "Getting flood control in this city should help us by leaps and bounds."

He likened the possible improvements to those in Pikeville and Harlan. "We could be a model city if we can get flood control."

PCC faculty discuss unionization

"Why do we need a strong union at Prestonsburg Community College?" asked a PCC instructor at an open Kentucky Community College Faculty Alliance/AFT meeting Monday, February 19.

"So you can accomplish together what you have been unable to accomplish alone," answered Bob Brown, national representative for the American Federation of Teachers.

The meeting was attended by over 50 faculty members and students at Prestonsburg Community College.

Also in attendance was Barbara Ashley, a professor from Jefferson Community College who is currently on leave to serve as a lobbyist for KCCFA.

Dr. Carolyn Turner, representative for the four eastern community colleges on KCCFA's steering committee, said:

"Currently, Kentucky's average University of Kentucky faculty salary is ... $4,633 less than the national average for public school teachers. Recently, a PCC faculty member left the college to teach at Betsy Layne High School because the pay was very much better. Another faculty member left to go to Kentucky Tech because it also paid better."

In order to increase the community college voice in the system, the KCCFA/AFT is proposing legislation to increase from one to two the number of community college representatives on the UK Board of Trustees.

Jenny Wiley Trail gets reprieve

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Just five months before its scheduled closure, the Jenny Wiley Trail received a reprieve this week when a House of Representatives subcommittee added funding for the trail into the proposed state budget.

Bob Bender, deputy commissioner of the Department of Parks, said Wednesday the subcommittee added $100,000 to the budget for the trail's maintenance.

The funds will be appropriated over a two-year period, Bender said, and the department of parks will receive the first $50,000 in the fiscal year 1996-97.

The House subcommittee also proposed that a Jenny Wiley Trail Task force be formed. The task force will consist of representatives from the departments of tourism, forestry and transportation.

With resources from those agencies, the parks department "should be able to do a better job of policing and marketing the trail," Bender said.

The trail extends about 163 miles from Jenny Wiley State Park to the border of Kentucky near Portsmouth, Ohio, according to Ron Vanover, park naturalist at Jenny Wiley State Park. Vanover said the path is a backpacking trail and shelters are available for hikers.

Last year, the Department of Parks announced its plan to close the trail in ally," he said Wednesday. "We're excited about the possibility of the funding."

The proposal must also be approved by the Senate before being officially accepted as part of Governor Paul Patton's budget for the year.

It also includes wording that will give $25,000 to Paintsville's HomePlace project, a living history village that depicts life in Eastern Kentucky in the 1800s.

Liberty of thought is the life of the soul—Voltaire

Fight crime full time

by Scott Perry

A bill that proposes to make the office of Commonwealth Attorney full-time is gathering considerable support from legislators and prosecutors alike, and we'll jump on the bandwagon, too.

With the emphasis we need to place on crime and punishment, prosecutors don't need any private practice distractions, and they do need to be compensated for making their prosecutorial responsibilities their one and only business.

We would, however, take the office a step closer to pure professionalism by eliminating the political influences associated with the elective office.

We can accomplish that, or something close to that, in a couple of ways, depending on how far we want to go toward depoliticizing the post.

Can't take it all the way, though, because, whether you believe it or not, there is some element of politics in every job, private and public sectors alike.

Ideally, a prosecutor would be minimally affected by politics if he or she did not have to be elected to the post.

If local prosecutors were, say, hired employees of the state attorney general's office and they were protected by the state's merit system, we might notice higher quality and more consistency in that office.

It wouldn't hurt to make the attorney general an appointed office, either.

That process works pretty well in the federal system, after all.

Alternatively, offering job security through longer terms might have a positive impact.

Commonwealth attorneys now serve six-year terms.

Up that to ten years, with full-time job status, and it might also dilute the effects of politics.

It is important to note that our state's system of justice has been tarnished recently by some high profile scandals.

While a few bad apples certainly don't spoil the whole bunch, those issues suggest weaknesses exist.

As long as those weaknesses exist, the potential exists for abuse.

McDowell Hospital ICU receives praise

Editor:
I want to write to you about some people of your McDowell Hospital who need to be recognized for the fine upstanding work they are doing and how they put an effort in their work.

My husband has been in ICU for 25 days now.

He has been given up two or three times not to pull through.

At one time his fever reached 109.9 and the doctor did not believe he would make it.

But that night two very special nurses kept working until they got his fever to drop, and he is still alive today.

These two special ladies are Stephanie Green and Supervisor Rolanda Addes.

These ladies in ICU are the most caring and thoughtful ladies I have ever met.

They treated me like a special person.

There is no way or no words I could ever say that would tell them how much they mean to me.

But I would like in some way for them to be noted in your community of the fine upstanding work they do.

I have seen these ladies work so hard and they are so dedicated to their work.

When they lose someone who has been with them, they hurt also.

This is not just a job to them. I am not good at words on paper but hope you can print something that these ladies will be known for a job well done.

Every one of these ladies can be very proud of themselves.

The names of the ladies in ICU follow:

Sharon Moore, Rhonda Mitchell, Venetta Brown, Stephanie Green, Alma Akers, Rolanda Addes, DeViche.

I also want to give a very special thanks to a wonderful person as well as a doctor, Dr. DeViche.

I want to thank McDowell Hospital for their kindness to me as I have stayed here steady while my husband has been in ICU. They always make sure I am all right.

I have never been in such a caring hospital. And I have been around several hospitals.

Please do a special write-up on this subject.

I have no other way to say thank you so very much ladies. I love each and every one of you. I can never repay you for standing by my husband each and every day and the care you gave him.

Martin AmVets express thanks for special Christmas

Editor:
The Amvets and Ladies Auxiliary Post No. 27 at Martin, a non-profit organization, adopted the Golden Years Nursing Home at Lackey and its 76 patients as our Christmas project. We raised funds by sponsoring a ham and turkey dinner.

Many dinners were delivered to businesses and homes; some came into our club to eat or to pick up their meals. We'd like to thank all the following for helping make 76 people happy at Christmas time: Jacob's B.P., Jan's Florist, Halbert Machine Shop, Triangle Market, Hall Funeral Home, Harris Trucking, Merion Brothers Monument, Johnnie B. Stephens, Martin Engineering, Roger Tackett, Dorothy Martin, Lucy Peters, Edie Hall of Hair, E. P. Grigsby, Add A Touch Florist, Larry and Terry Thornsbury, Martin IGA, Steve Farthing, Reid's Pharmacy, Mane St. Hair Design, Danny Vanderpool, Slone's Pic Pac, Mike Vanderpool, Nelson Funeral Home, Jacob's Citgo, Patty Robinson, Martin Liquor, Bessie and Curt Hall, Reynolds Branch Coal Company, employees of CSX Railroad, teachers and aides of Martin School, Kenny's Florist, Glenn Patrick and Kenny Webb. A special thanks to an employee of the rest home and also an auxiliary lady, Sue Gearheart (Thanks Sue).

Santa's helpers delivered wrapped gifts to each patient with fruit and smiles and hugs.

A special thanks to Wal-Mart who donated gift certificates to the Golden Years Rest Home so that additional items could be purchased for each person.

Thanks again to all of City of Martin and others who made these wonderful people a very happy Christmas.

Justice is blind

Editor:
I can remember watching a movie years ago, in which in one scene a guy has his head sticking out a window yelling at the top of his lungs, "I'm sick and tired of it and I'm not taking it anymore."

Sounds like a psychotic nut? No, he was just a regular working guy who just got fed up with all the B.S. going on around him. No he didn't fly off the handle, go and get a 'Uzzi and waste two thirds of a dozen (people).

I was expecting something like that to happen in Floyd County when some poor slob who just pulled 90 days for nonsupport or a guy who does 30 days because he can't pay his traffic ticket, finds out an elected official steals money intended to feed underprivileged children, bounces millions in bad checks, abuses his power, makes a mockery of his colleagues, scoffs at the people who elected him, and what happens to him? He gets an extended vacation at a federal retreat. You know, three squares a day, hospitalization, dental plan, free rehab, conjugal visits? You know, just relax and get away from it all, get back in shape!

Yes, justice is blind; she is also stupid, self-serving, and one big loser. What is it that, a lawyer from Pikeville says at the end of his ad, "When we know how the law works, it works better for all of us." Somehow I can't find the sincerity in that statement.

Opportunities open with computer workshop

by Chris McDavid
 Staff Writer
 Are you interested in using your computer to be competitive, save time, and make money? Then you should attend the Business Opportunities with Federal and State Governments workshop at the Prestonsburg Extended Campus of Morehead State University on Tuesday, March 26, from 8:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.

 Planned topics for discussion include the Commonwealth of Kentucky's Vendor Information Program (VIP), Federal Acquisition Streamlining Act of 1994 (FASA), and Electronic Data Interchange (EDI).

 Michael Mulligan, Finance and Administration Cabinet's Department of Administration's Division of Purchases, Frankfort, will explain the state's VIP, provide detailed information on how to register with the state, view and download current bid documents, and research current and past state contracts.

Elliot of the Dayton Electronic Commerce Resource Center in Dayton, Ohio. Elliot's lecture will teach how to register, select software, receive solicitations, and bid for contracts through the EDI.
 The workshop is sponsored by the Morehead State University Pikeville Small Business Development Center, Kentucky Cabinet for Economic Development, U.S. Small Business Administration, Electronic Commerce Resource Center, Kentucky Finance and Administration Cabinet, and the U.S. Department of Defense - Defense Logistics Agency.

Porter to celebrate her 85th birthday Saturday

Louellen Lafferty Porter

Louellen Lafferty Porter formerly of Allen will celebrate her 85th birthday on March 9 in Westland, Michigan at the Freewill Baptist Church on Cherry Hill Rd. founded by her son, the late Rev. Robert Porter.
 Louellen was born March 6, 1911 to Steele (Fisher), and Sarahan Lafferty of Dwale. Of the eleven children born to that union, Louellen and her brother L. P. Lafferty of Prestonsburg, survive.
 On December 20, 1926, she married Oliver Porter. Their marriage was a surprise to everyone as Louellen went to town to buy a broom and came back with a husband. Twelve children, hard work, good and trying times were had during their thirty-five years together before Oliver died of a heart attack in May 1961.
 Louellen herself was near death at that time but with renewed dedication of taking care of her children she amazed her doctors and recovered.
 When the children all married and most went to Michigan to find employment, she sold the home in Allen, and moved to Michigan to be near more than 125 grandchildren, great-and great-grandchildren. She still makes visits to see friends and family in Floyd County.
 With dimmed eyesight, fingers twisted by arthritis, she still crochets, and has made numerous quilts to be cherished by family members. A Sunday feast, consisting of chicken and dumplings, mashed potatoes, potato salad, green and shuck beans, coleslaw, cornbread, and fruit cobbler, cooked by her hands, are often served to after-church family members and friends. Most of this feast is prepared early, before she attends church with her family.
 What is her secret to a long life? When asked that question, she said, "It must not have been my time to die."

And evidently that is true; she has suffered strokes, heart attacks, ulcers and cancer. When she gets sick, she asks everyone to pray for her.
 Louellen lives with her daughter Donna and son-in-law Andy Tepfenhart in Westland, Michigan.

Kathy Hyatt, Procurement Center Representative, U.S. Small Business Administration, Louisville, will lecture on the "Federal Acquisition Streamlining Act of 1994 (FASA)." Among the items Hyatt will discuss will be FASA's new procurement guidelines.
 The "Business Opportunities with the Government through Electronic Data Interchange (EDI)" lecture will be presented by Robert

South Floyd 58th District Boys Cheerleading Champs

 Brandy Stumbo, Lora Chaffins, Amanda Reynolds; Co-captain, Crystal Salisbury; Co-captain, Miranda Ousley, Misty Newsome, Donna Sha Newsome, Carrie Reynolds, Beth Slone, LuAnn Shelton, Kristie Blevins, Rebekah Tackett, Amy Tufts, and Stacia Stumbo.
 These smiling faces belong to the boys varsity cheerleaders of South Floyd High School. The completion of a successful year came when their school's name was announced for first place in the 58th District Boys Cheerleading in game competition last Friday night at Allen Central High School.
 The year began for this squad with a superior trophy at UCA Camp last summer, and continued as they placed third in the Boys Basketball Class A Tournament at Pikeville. Their sponsor, Joan Chaffins, attributes their success to team spirit, commitment and determination. The girls set individual and team goals as the year progressed, and did whatever it took to attain those goals.
Congratulations, South Floyd, for a job well done!

The McDowell Academic Team has only been defeated once in the regular season by Duff Elementary. McDowell played Duff first in the district quick recall competition and won with a score of 20-7. Next, McDowell defeated Melvin with a score of 35-3. Our final game was against Duff. McDowell defeated Duff again with a score of 21-14.

Region 21 Kentucky Academic Association Middle Grades Division Competition will be held February 17 at McDowell Elementary. Good luck to all of the teams!

Finalists

Xavier Scott and Vanessa Shepherd will participate in the final round of auditions for the Governor's School for the Arts.

Allen Central students audition for Governor's School for the arts

Three Allen Central art students will be attending the final audition for admission to the Governor's School for the Arts. From the students who have been selected for the final round of auditions, approximately 20 will be chosen from all over the state in the area of visual arts. They will be given the opportunity to work with specialists and artists for three weeks this summer at Bellarmine College in Louisville. Also, many other cultural activities will be made available.

Xavier Scott, Vanessa Shepherd, and David Poff will be auditioning.

These students attended a workshop at Morehead State University provided for them by the Kentucky Center for the Arts to prepare them for the finals. Their work was shown at that time.

Scott is the son of Charles Scott of Prestonsburg and Sherry Daniels of Pikeville. Shepherd is the daughter of Lendon and Anna Shepherd of Hueysville and Poff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Poff of Hindman. All students are members of the Talented and Gifted program at Allen Central. Their instructor is Mrs. Caralita O'Quinn.

Poster contest for area fourth-sixth graders

Fourth, fifth, and sixth graders in Kentucky can show their artistic ability in expressing how

"Animals Complete the Circle of Love." This is the theme of a Poster Contest sponsored by the Auxiliary to the Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association. The deadline for entries is March 31.

Contest rules are as follows: The poster must contain in print on the front the words "National Pet Week," a statement of the theme, and the dates May 5-11, 1996. The back of the poster must have the child's name, address, county, telephone number, school, and grade. Posters should be taken to a local veterinarian's office by the March 31 deadline.

Winners will receive prizes on county, district, and state levels. Each county winner will receive $10 and a ribbon. The district winner will receive a $50 savings bond. State winners will be awarded cash prizes of $100, $50, and $25. Awards will be presented during National Pet Week, May 5-11.

Janet C. Ayres of Town and Country Animal Clinic is the district coordinator for the Poster Contest and the 16th annual celebration of National Pet Week.

For further information call Sharon, or Teresa at 606-436-3446.

Art, essay contest deadline nearing

Central Kentucky Blood Center (CKBC) is announcing its third annual Children's Art Contest and a High School Scholarship and Essay Contest based on the theme, "Be a hero. Be a blood donor."

The contests are designed to provide blood donor education information to the area's future blood donors and recognize them for their achievement.

The criteria for both contests is as follows:

- Children's Art Contest: Open to all 4th, 5th and 6th graders in Central Kentucky Blood Center's service area. The winning design will appear on a Central Kentucky Blood Center summer campaign t-shirt given in appreciation to all donors who give blood in July and August.

- High School Scholarship and Essay Contest: Open to all high school juniors and seniors in Central Kentucky Blood Center's service area. Three scholarships will be awarded for $500, $300 and $100.

The entry deadline for both contests is March 31. For a detailed description of rules and prizes, contact Marsha Berry, community relations consultant, Central Kentucky Blood Center, 330 Waller Avenue, Lexington, KY, 40504, or call (606) 276-2534.

CKBC is a non-profit community blood center serving 70 hospitals located in 54 central and Eastern Kentucky counties.

CKBC operates six fixed donor sites in Lexington, Hazard, Somerset, Prestonsburg, Pikeville Methodist Hospital and UK Medical Center.

Moore recently honored for exceptional contributions to the field of education

Each year, individual educators are recognized by the Kentucky Department of Education (KDE) for exceptional contributions to the field of education.

Rowan County Middle School principal, Marvin Moore, recently learned that he has been honored as the 1996 Kentucky Middle School Principal of the Year.

Moore is a native of Floyd County.

According to KDE, individuals are evaluated on educational history and professional development activities; school-community involvement; philosophy of education; education reform implementation; and national recognition.

For the past twenty-seven years, Moore has been employed by Rowan County Schools in a variety of roles.

He began his teaching career as a Physical Education teacher at Farmers Elementary School in 1969, then moved to Clearfield Elementary in 1971.

He served as principal of Rowan County High School from 1974 until he accepted a Central Office administrative position as coordinator of federal programs in 1993.

After one year away from the school setting, Moore realized his true love was with the students and accepted the appointment as principal at RCMS in 1994.

Moore considers himself to be a hands-on leader. "I have never believed that a principal could run a school from behind a desk," he said. "I believe you must be visible and 'out in the trenches.'"

Moore is a member of the Kentucky Association of School Administrators and the Kentucky Association of Secondary School Principals.

He has also served on the Kentucky High School Athletic Association Board of Control.

In addition, he has served three terms on the Morehead City Council and eight years on the Morehead Utility Plant Board.

Officiating high school basketball for more than 20 years, he was president of NEKBOA for ten years. He continues to officiate on the collegiate level.

Moore said he is humbled by the honor. I am deeply moved by this recognition. It is very rewarding to receive an honor such as this after a lifelong career in public education, especially since my nomination came from teachers, students and parents.

This award is also a reflection of the exceptional team we have working here at Rowan County Middle School.

The success achieved here has come about through the combined efforts of a dedicated staff of teachers, support personnel, students and parents at our school,"

Marvin Moore

he said.

Marvin Moore is the son of the late Fielder and Burlie Moore.

He is married to Lucy Conn Moore. He has three children, Dwayne, Carey, and John.

Just say no

The McDowell Family Resource Center sponsors the only "Just Say No" club in Floyd County. There are currently 19 members. The club is for junior high students who will be entering high school and possibly joining Champions Against Drugs. The "Just Say No" club is also sponsored by McDowell A.R.H. and Mountain Comprehensive Care.

A Look At Sports :

Tournament time has been great time but better times ahead

HAPPY BIRTHDAY WISH...
But first this!
Happy belated birthday greetings to Gary Hunter of the Allen Central Rebels. Gary turned 16 back on March 3. Happy birthday, Gary.

MARCH MADNESS...
March Madness. It is in full swing and you have to love it if you are a basketball junkie like most people in Eastern Kentucky are.

It all started with the district tournaments and what a 58th District tournament we had. Great crowds, close games and a real tournament atmosphere.

The folks at Allen Central did an excellent job of hosting this year's tournament. The good people in the hospitality room did a marvelous job of taking care of folks. It was super!

My brother Bob was down for the annual tournament that he always enjoys seeing. Many people have told me how long it had been since they seen him. (He's a former Purple Flash). They saw his interview over the tube.

Bob, who was basketball coach in Georgetown, Ohio, and former principal and former superintendent (now retired), said the tournament atmosphere here is much different from the ones held in Ohio.

Seems the bands and all the loud music are not allowed. (After all it is not a rock concert, but a basketball tournament). He likes the way we hold our tournaments and the atmosphere that is created.

"There, it is. Come in, sit down and play basketball," he explained.

The Allen Central ROTC made the National Anthem special with their presentation of the colors. Their routine on Friday night was spectacular. The corp is under the direction of Sgt. Jerry Hardy. He is a big Rebel supporter and you can hear him all over the gym.

The coaching was great. Our county coaches were as animated as ever. I enjoy watching them and they are worth the price of admission. I appreciate all of them.

The players, what can I say. You are my teams. All eight of them. I appreciate these young people so much. Their hard work and dedication. I've said it before, I'll say it again, we have some of the finest young people around. I have certainly enjoyed watching you play this year. You're all special to me.

Some good young talent is on the way and district basketball is only going to get better. Look for some regional champions in the next two or three years.

Cheerleaders. I know you are neglected when it comes to coverage, but I am on your side. I know you work hard, practice hard and have a time-consuming position. You are great. But would you, at future games, leave me just a little room in the end zone to take a few pictures.

The regional tournament, boys', will finish up this weekend and the girls' get through Tuesday night. Speaking of the girls' tournament, I was surprised at the large crowd that was on hand for the opening round Monday night. I mean, they had to drive to Phelps. Have you been to Phelps? A big crowd was there. Don't tell me that girls' basketball is not popular. It is getting stronger each year and that is because we have excellent coaches.

Wouldn't it be nice to capture all that energy and atmosphere the district tournament presented us last week at our rebels. Gary turned 16 back on March 3. Happy birthday, Gary.

Elkhorn City fails to solve Bobcat zone

Newsome, Tackett combine to lead Betsy Layne victory

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

When the Betsy Layne Bobcats traveled to Elkhorn City earlier in the basketball season, Elkhorn City scored 50 plus of their 71 points in the paint area in recording an earlier victory over the Bobcats.

But coach Junior Newsome and the Bobcats were determined that wouldn't happen when the two teams squared off in the first round of the boys' 15th Regional basketball tournament at Prestonsburg Wednesday night.

The Bobcats employed their 2-3 zone defense during the Cougars to score from the outside. Elkhorn failed to hit the long jumpers and it was Betsy Layne going home with a 58-50 win over the Cougars, advancing on to the semifinals Friday night against Magoffin County.

"We played very good defense tonight," Newsome said after the game. "We knew what we had to do to win. We were determined if they were going to beat us tonight they were going have to beat us from the perimeter. We were going to play better interior defense and I thought we did that."

Betsy Layne, who wasn't a good free-throw shooting team during the regular season, canned eight consecutive free throws from the charity stripe in the final 1:13 of the game. Willie Meade put an exclamation point on the win with a crowd-pleasing layup with just ten seconds to play to give the Bobcats a 58-48 lead.

"We made our free throws when we had to," the Betsy Layne mentor said. "During the regular season, we missed some free throws down the stretch that cost us some games. But tournament time, the team that makes them is going to win."

Junior guard Rocky Newsome, who led the Bobcats with 21 points, ran the show for Betsy Layne and his coach said he is a team leader.

"It was a gutsy performance for Rocky," Newsome said. "He just took over the game in the fourth quarter. He got into foul trouble because he was playing hard on the defensive end."

Newsome did more than just score as he was hitting his teammates with crisp passes for the easy jumpers and layups. He finished the game with (unofficially) 11 assists.

Betsy Layne got a bonus out of junior Randy Coleman who chipped in 10 points and was a bully on the boards. Coleman had 12 rebounds and hit some key baskets.

"Randy did a great job on the boards for us," Newsome said.

It was a slow start for the Bobcats in the initial quarter as Elkhorn struggled offensively as well. The Cougars led 7-2 before the Bobcats went on a 6-2 spurt that made it a 9-8 game after the first quarter. Newsome completed two old-fashioned three-point plays in the period.

A rebound basket by Coleman gave the Bobcats their first lead of the game at 10-9 at the start of the second stanza. The Betsy Layne zone caused Elkhorn problems as they had only three field goals in the second quarter. Betsy Layne took a five-point lead on two Newsome free throws with 29 seconds left in the half, but Jeremy Morgan completed a three-point play as Betsy Layne went to the locker room at the half, leading 21-19.

Newsome had only one foul entering the third quarter, but quickly picked up three (two at the start of the third period) and later his fourth as he went to the bench.

Sophomore Craig Johnson replaced the foul-plagued Newsome and did an excellent job of running the ballclub.

"Craig came in and handled the ball perfectly for us," the Bobcat coach said. "He did an excellent job."

Betsy Layne, who led 31-27 with less than two minutes to play in the third, went on a 6-0 run to close the third quarter, leading 38-27. Coleman had a wild tip-in just before the horn. Coleman had six points in the third quarter.

The closest the Cougars would come to the Bobcats was 46-44 with 1:27 left to play. Betsy Layne hit the first two of eight consecutive free throws that would earn them a right to advance on.

Coach Newsome played just seven players, but it is tournament time.

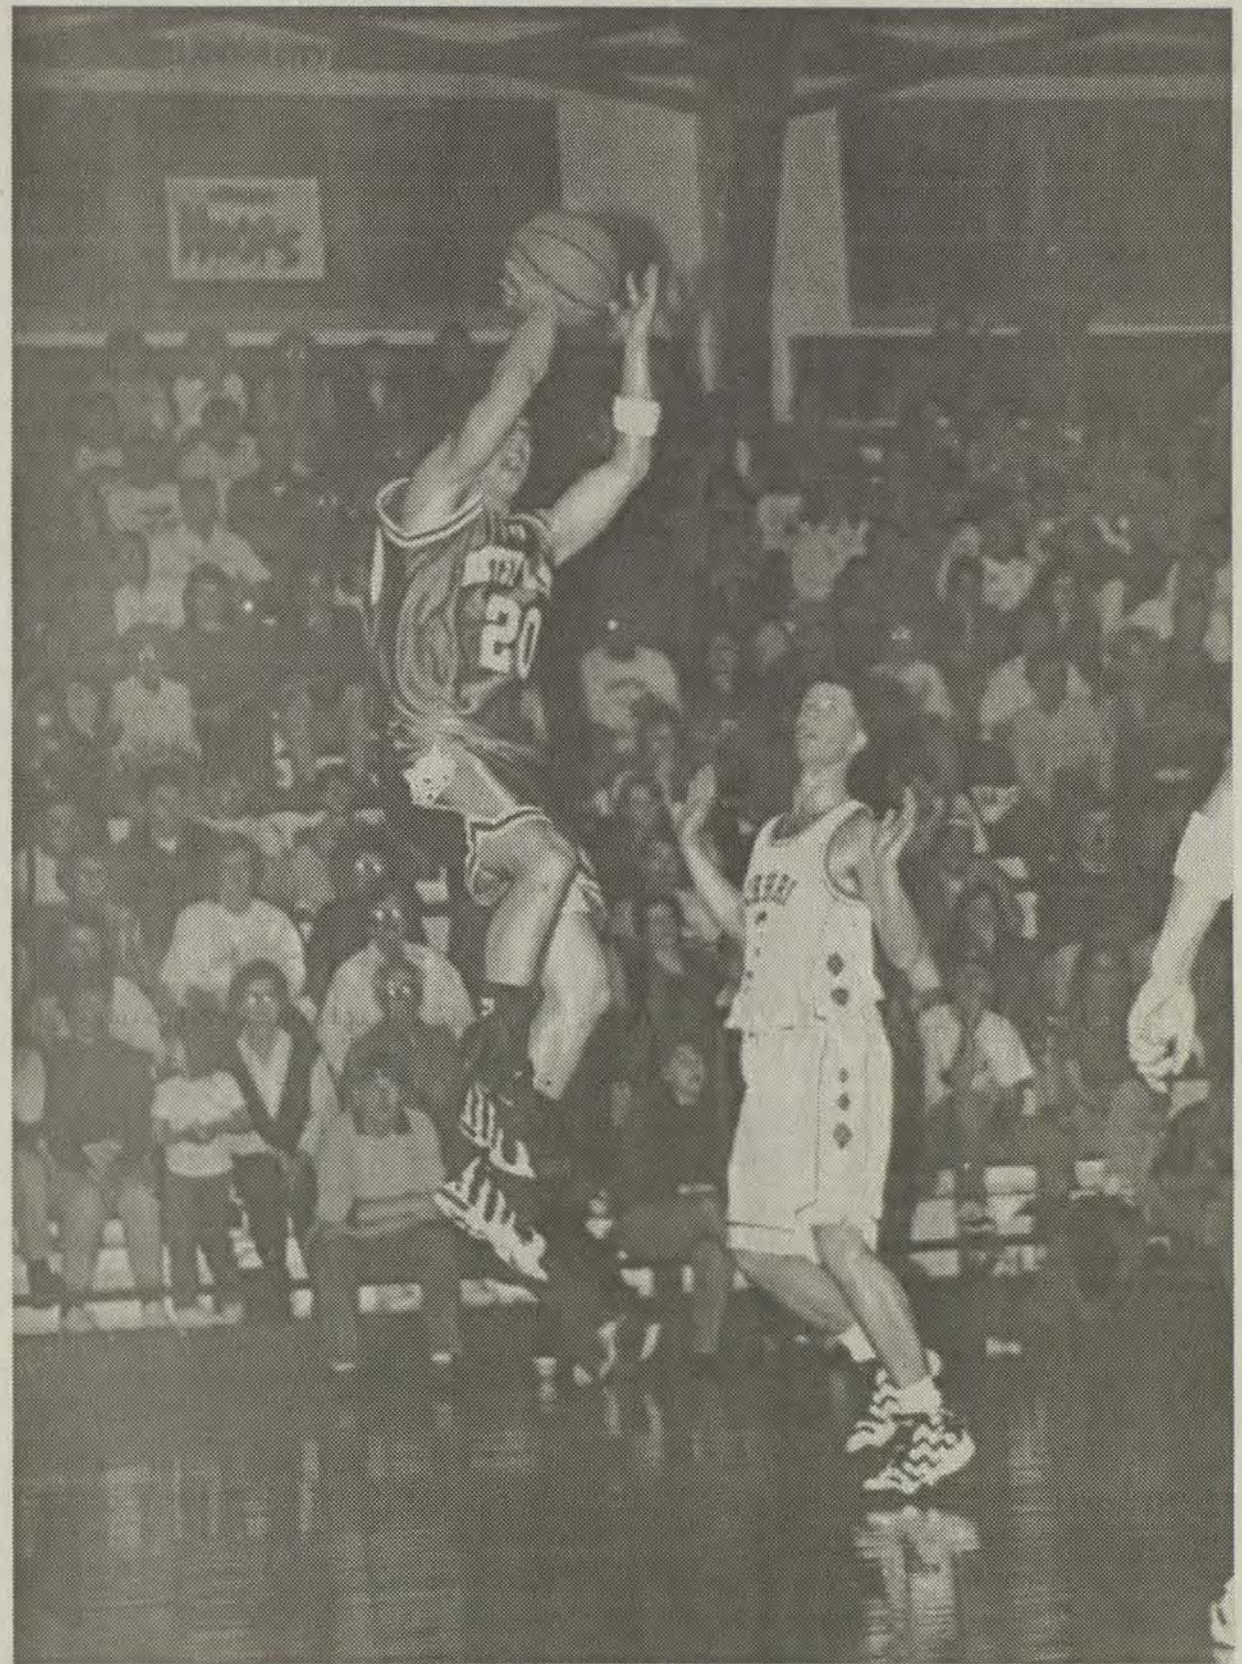

"When you get this far you have to come to play," he said. "We didn't make a lot of substitutions because those kids are in pretty good condition. They really laid it on the line tonight."

"Mike Howard came in and gave us some quality minutes. It was just a great team effort and a great win for Betsy Layne High School," he said.

Jason Tackett, who had a three-point basket, finished with 16 points and Coleman added ten. Meade tossed in eight points and scored all eight in the fourth period. Jonathan Newman netted three points, but had six block shots.

B.J. Ratliff and Payton Robinson led Elkhorn with 12 points each. Morgan added ten and Shawn May scored eight. Josh Leathers scored six points with Courtney Clevenger adding two.

Betsy Layne faces Magoffin County tonight at 6:30 p.m.

Solid as the Rock

Betsy Layne's Rocky Newsome (20) went to the basket against Elkhorn City for two of his 21 points in regional tournament action at the Prestonsburg Fieldhouse Wednesday night. Pikeville stuns Prestonsburg, 62-56

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Pikeville Lady Panthers (8-17) had a game plan and they executed it well Tuesday night in the girls' 15th Region basketball tournament at Phelps as they handed highly-favored Prestonsburg (16-9) a stunning 62-56 setback.

Coach Maria Shockey's Lady Panthers learned well from the previous two games against the Lady Blackcats.

"We played Prestonsburg twice and we knew what to expect," she said following her team's victory. "We have worked so hard in handling the pressure and the girls had confidence they could do it."

Do it they did as they were consistently breaking the Prestonsburg press for easy baskets.

"Yeah, they did," Prestonsburg coach Harold Tackett said. "Well, I don't know if they handled the press or we just didn't rotate good out of it. We did a lot of standing around tonight. We stood and didn't rotate."

Pikeville broke out on top early and set the tempo as the team had planned to do. Their press, although not designed to do so, caused the Lady Blackcats to turn the ball over.

"Our half court press, we don't get a lot of turnovers out of it," the Pikeville coach explained. "The whole idea is pressuring and controlling the tempo and that was what we were after and we did a good job with it."

Pikeville wasted little time getting on the scoreboard as they jumped in front 4-0 and built the lead to 13-6 before Prestonsburg climbed back into it.

Led by senior

April Newsome, who led the Lady Blackcats with 19 points, Prestonsburg went on a 6-0 run to pull to within one, 15-14, of Pikeville. The Lady Blackcats tied the game at 17 on a free throw by Amber Leslie, who had ten points in the game, and led for the first time, 19-17, when Newsome scored underneath. Prestonsburg led 21-19 after the first quarter.

The score was tied four times in the second period at 21, 23, 33 and 35 before Prestonsburg took a 37-35 lead to the locker room at the half. On a strong inside move, Leslie scored with six seconds left in the half to give Prestonsburg the lead.

The Lady Blackcats' biggest lead was five points in the third period but Pikeville tied the game on a basket by Kristy Hall at 42 with four minutes to play. Shelly Greathouse went underneath the basket to score and tied the game at 44, but Pikeville got baskets from Jillian Kimberlain and Hall to lead 48-44 after three quarters.

After a Leslie free throw to start the fourth for Prestonsburg, the Lady Panthers built a five-point cushion, 50-45, with six minutes to play. Pikeville main-

Five score in double figures as Johnson Central Lady Eagles roll

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Phillip Wireman and the Johnson Central Lady Eagles knew they had a size advantage over the Phelps Lady Hornets when the two teams met in the first round of the girls' 15th Region basketball tournament at Phelps Tuesday night.

The Lady Eagles used that advantage and rolled over the smaller Lady Hornets 66-50 to advance to Monday night's semifinal round game against Pikeville.

Johnson Central placed five players in double figures, led by Elizabeth Branham's 16 points. Jeanetta Wolford and Mary Beth Staniford each tossed in 12 points while Robin Music and Jill Blancett scored ten each.

Wireman, even though the size advantage was there, still didn't like the Lady Eagles transition game.

"I thought our transition would be there but we weren't moving as well as I like for us to," he said. "We did move like we did in the district tournament."

Johnson Central burst out to a quick 10-2 lead behind the play of Music and Blancett and thanks to five consecutive turnovers by the Lady Hornets, Johnson Central owned the lead at the first stop 14-6.

The Lady Eagles' defense came to the surface in the second quarter after Phelps made a four-point game of it, 14-10. The Lady Eagles turned the ball over three straight times to start the period. But a 7-0 run in the next two minutes netted Johnson Central a 21-10 lead and they led 29-17 at the half.

The pesky Lady Hornets weren't ready to quit as they chipped away at the Johnson Central lead to cut it to eight, 36-24. But the defense

Sports in Kentucky By Bob Watkins

KENTUCKY AND LOUISVILLE LOOKED PRIMED FOR NCAA TOURNAMENT TIME
An early glance into the NCAA Tournament crystal ball as it concerns the Bluegrass State's contingent:
Kentucky. Anything short of an appearance in the championship game will earn a place in the Column of Infamy under UK-Texas Western in 1966 and UK-Georgetown in 1984.
Louisville. Denny Crum's Cardinals could be a Final Eight team. When you stop laughing consider how well U of L has tip-toed through bad times and defied rating and ranking numbers. By way of an almost mystical force the Cards have turned higher rated opponents into shaky bumbler, (UCLA, Memphis, Cincinnati and UMass).
UK, UMass ... ETC.
Kentucky and Massachusetts head into tournament play this week regarded as 1-2 in college America. After watching UK whisk-broom Vandy and UMass struggle at Louisville, there should be a warning label because there is enough daylight between 1 and 2 to add a holiday to the calendar.
Never mind the numbers that show UK beat 26 opponents by an average of 24 a game while UMass had more close calls than Harrison Ford in the Fugitive. This is the Belmont Stakes of '73. Kentucky is Secretariat and UMass is huffing and puffing.
Team most likely to challenge Kentucky in the NCAA's? Georgetown. That is if the Hoyas who beat UConn show up instead of the outfit that lost at Providence a few nights later. Key: Tempo ... tempo ... tempo.
With a 25-game win streak on its resume heading into the tournament season, how does this Kentucky team stack up in a program whose traditions demand its media guide be 240 pages thick? Everything considered, probably the best ever. Having watched Wildcat teams since the 1960s, only one team I can think of would give this one a go. The 1978 NCAA championship team could match this one in depth, shooting, defense and intelligent play. Size and bulk? That Joe B. Hall team would be an Atlas missile standing alongside a Rick Pitino's Cruise battery.

Who would win? Easy, the team that shot best and therefore controlled game tempo. My money would be on the '96 Wildcats ... in double figures.
DELK, POPE, KISER WILL BE MISSED
In a week marked by Senior Days among the notables who will be most sorely missed from Kentucky's college basketball landscape—Tony Delk, Mark Pope, Walter McCarty at Kentucky; Brian Kiser and Tick Rogers at Louisville, Marcus Brown at Murray State; Chris Robinson, Pop Thornton and Mike Fralix at Western Ky.; Jermaine Brown and Johnny Ray Williams at Georgetown College.
Delk will be missed by not only his long range artillery, but for his willingness to sacrifice self for team; Pope for his grit and academic role model; Kiser because he epitomizes growth after getting to college, and what personal faith can mean. Personal sacrifice ... academic model ... growth. What better qualities to define a college student-athlete?
Overall, Williams, Georgetown's leading scorer on a 31-2 team, summed up best for all, "We had some great times. I know I'll miss my friends and the coaches too, but I won't miss going to class."
A Jenkins native, Williams will receive his degree in political science in May. "Maybe I'll run for mayor of Jenkins some day," he said.

KY SENIORS TOUR
When the announcement comes for Kentucky's annual seniors basketball tour you might want to buy tickets early. Could be a terrific show if Tony Delk, Mark Pope and Walter McCarty team with U of L's Brian Kiser and Tick Rogers.
Says here the tour could have better marquee value if those who organize such things added Jermaine Brown and Johnny Ray Williams of NAIA power Georgetown to the UK, U of L seniors, then put together an opposing team of say Marcus Brown of Murray State, Mike Fralix, Pop Thornton and Chris Robinson of Western Ky. DeMarcus Doss of Eastern Ky., and Brad Gover of Cumberland College. And toss it up.
A few suggested tour stops: Western's E.A. Diddle Arena, Owensboro's Sports Center, Georgetown College, Pikeville College, Louisville Gardens, Northern Ky. U., Hopkinsville, and Cumberland College in Williamsburg.
SWEET 16 FAVORITES
When Class A champion and Sweet 16 favorite University Heights lost to Christian County in the opening round on the Road to the Boys Sweet 16, the highway was left open for "another Breckinridge County," Greenwood coach Curtis Turley said last week.
"There are as many as eight to 10 teams out there with a chance and hopefully we're one of those," Turley said. "Last year Breck County was fortunate in their Region final then got on a roll and just kept rolling."
"Louisville has as many as four teams with a chance — PRP, Male, Eastern and Ballard are all good, and Fairdale has upset some people. Franklin County's had a fine season. Paducah Tilghman is good, Owensboro and Boyd County too."

Pikeville

tained the five-point lead with Prestonsburg cutting the margin to three, 57-54, before Pikeville pulled out the win.
"These kids have worked so hard all season," Shocky said. "It has taken time, but they never quit working hard. I couldn't be more proud of them."
Tackett was equally proud of his team's accomplishments this season and preferred not to dwell on the loss but "rejoice in the season."
"We've had a lot of fun this year," he said. "I've been coaching 12 years and every year I have to do this. The season comes to an end and we have to just get ready for next year."
Free throw shooting for Prestonsburg was horrible and Coach Tackett said they tried to disguise that all season.
"We've tried to hide that phase of our game all season," he said. "Then we would have streaks where we would shoot well."
"I think there was a lot of pressure on the kids being it was their first time to play a region in a long time. We haven't played well the last two weeks. We seem to be lost a lot offensively and defensively."
Pikeville took one step closer in its Cinderella story and will face Johnson Central Monday night in the second game of the semifinals at Phelps.

Scramble for the ball

again came to the surface for Johnson Central and they led 42-32 after three quarters.
A basket by Courtney Mercer made it an eight point game, but the pressure defense of the Lady Eagles caused Phelps problems as they had four consecutive turnovers with Johnson Central converting three into scores. Johnson Central scored five unanswered points to take a 19-point lead, 62-43, and led by 20 before Phelps scored the final four points of the game.
Coach Wireman credited his team's defense in securing the win.
"I thought our defense was the key to all of it," he said. "Our press held up well. We switched up defenses early a little bit. I thought that hurt them some. We went back to our press, our zone press, and I felt that hurt them as well. I thought our half court defense was super."
"Everyone played a good game for us. Everybody hustled and everybody got after it," he said.
Mercer led the Phelps' scoring with 13 points, coming off the bench. She had three treys in the game and completed an old-fashioned three-point play in a strong effort. Paula Flagg was the only other Lady Hornet to score in double figures with 11 points. Ginger Charles had nine points.
Johnson Central returns to the hardwood Monday night when the Lady Eagles face a vastly improved Pikeville team at 8:30.

regular season games (minus the tissue paper and powder throwing incident which was uncalled for). Wouldn't it be nice to have the fans charged up for the basketball games during the regular season.
We need to create some rivalries. Consolidation has taken that away from us.
Talk is the reason for such atmosphere was the boy/girl doubleheaders. Betsy Layne had two such game nights, during the regular season and reported their gates increasing. Now the talk is going back to playing district games together again. If that is so, then why not schedule a boys'/girls' doubleheader against outside opponents as well. South Floyd did that earlier this year. Say a Prestonsburg girls' game against Pike Central and the boys playing say, Knott County Central. Think what a draw a doubleheader like that would bring in.
Back to the tissue-throwing incident during and after the championship game. I admire Prestonsburg coach Jackie Pack for standing and staring down the ones who threw the tissue initially after Prestonsburg scored their first two points. Jackie Pack is a fine outstanding coach. He knows that his team is a quality team and he doesn't need that.
I admire the stand that new school superintendent John Balentine took when he announced and condemned the action. It has no place at basketball games.
Such actions only can be harmful to the players and fans. I hope that our school board will pass some rules making such actions unlawful at future sporting events. Only the school board can put a stop to this.
THANK YOU...
To Kinzer Drilling, Music-Carter-Hughes, Carter-Hughes Toyota, Layne Brothers Ford and First Commonwealth Bank for sponsoring the All-District and All-Conference (boys' and girls') plaques at the recent district tournament. I really appreciate all of you. Thanks for everything.
Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports. Take the kids to Sunday School and church this Sunday.

Autumn Jam too big to manage, officials say

by Christopher Hunt
Appalachian News-Express

Saying the event has become too big to manage, officials at Coleman Oil and East Kentucky Beverage said they are canceling Autumn Jam IV, which had been scheduled for September 7.

"We are proud to be the originators of the Autumn Jam and thank the community for playing such a vital role in making the past three events a success," said Coleman Oil Vice President Terrell E. Coleman.

"But we also know that the people of Pike and surrounding counties will understand that we are not a production company or in the entertainment business."

Officials said because response to the event has been so positive and continued to grow, they were "no longer able to coordinate, control or underwrite such a large entertainment production."

Officials said the area would require an indoor facility, such as a civic center, to avoid problems with location or Mother Nature as well as manpower.

"This type of event requires such manpower and resources that we are no longer able to manage the responsibility of increasing Autumn Jam sequels," said Coleman.

Officials cited the 1994 Autumn Jam as an example of the problems that can complicate such an event. More than 10,000 fans of John Michael Montgomery braved the unrelenting rain at the Hambley Athletic Complex for the chance to see the Kentucky native.

Autumn Jam I, featuring Elkhorn native Patty Loveless, Ricky Van Shelton, McBride and the Ride and the Kentucky Opry, was the only event not significantly affected by the weather.

Autumn Jam II, which featured Montgomery, Hal Ketchum, BlackHawk, the Kentucky HeadHunters, the Kentucky Opry and Michelle Wright, still managed to draw around 10,000 fans despite the rain.

Autumn Jam III perhaps had the signs of things to come when logistical problems plagued ticket distribution and the weather turned very cold.

Again, many fans said they didn't mind the weather because the music was worth it.

Autumn Jam III, held at Bob Amos Park, featured Sawyer Brown, Sammy Kershaw, and Alison Krauss and Union Station.

"We are glad to have been partly responsible for bringing top-rated country music talent to Pike County, but regretfully have to decline coordinating future Autumn Jam productions," said Coleman.

New deal Archaeology

The first exhibit in Eastern Kentucky of Artifacts and Photographs from the C&O Mounds in Paintsville will be displayed at the Johnson County Public Library, 444 Main Street, in Paintsville, on March 14, from 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m.; March 15, from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.; and March 16, from 9:00 a.m. to 2 p.m. Excavated by the University of Kentucky Museum of Anthropology in 1938 and 1939, this site was one of 72 archaeological projects in Kentucky funded by the Works Progress Administration (WPA) and other New Deal Relief Agencies. The projects offered training and employment to local people. The C&O Mounds, constructed by people of the prehistoric Adena culture (Woodland, ca 500 BC to AD 800) were ceremonial mounds, and were razed in the process of excavation.

New taxes: Johnson courts only choice

by Tony Fyffe
The Paintsville Herald

New taxes — a hot issue that some Johnson County Fiscal Court members used to defeat incumbents in the 1993 countywide election — are the county's only hope at erasing an expected deficit and getting on its financial feet.

That was the word Tuesday, March 5, from Bob Abrams, the county's financial advisor who predicted a $400,000 budget deficit for the fiscal year by the end of the current fiscal year. The reason for the shortfall, he said, is because the county will not receive as much revenue as officials had expected from property taxes and other sources.

"It is apparent that you are looking at some serious shortfalls," Abrams told the court during a special meeting Tuesday, March 5. "You are going to have a tough time getting through this fiscal year."

Abrams, a CPA hired by Judge-Executive Hobert Meade to analyze the county's finances, predicted that the county would be $400,000 short "without changes being made by the fiscal court."

Additional gross revenue is expected to total approximately $425,000 with expenditures expected to top $800,000, Abrams said in a report to commissioners.

With property taxes the only source of local revenue coming into the court, additional taxes would be needed to solve the financial problem, he said.

"As a county government, you have basically only three sources of local revenue—property taxes, insurance premiums and occupational taxes. An insurance premium tax and/or an occupational tax seems to be your choices."

An insurance tax would give the county about $500,000 in extra revenue, while an occupational tax could raise about $1.2 million,

Summer work program canceled

by Mark Grayson
The Martin County Sun

Martin County students won't have a chance to earn extra money for school clothes and other items this year, School Chief Bill Slone said last week.

Cuts in the federal budget, especially in education-related items, are responsible for the loss of the popular youth program which has been around since the mid 1960s when it was introduced as part of President Lyndon Johnson's 'War on Poverty' program.

Slone said he is concerned that many local youths from low and moderate income families will suffer because of the cuts.

"We all know there has to be some cuts in programs but it seems like they are cutting all the wrong things so far," Slone said.

Last Summer about 77 Martin

Abrams said.

An insurance tax was implemented during the administration of former Judge-Executive Gail Gillem. But it was a key campaign issue in the 1993 election, and when incumbent court members were ousted, they repealed the tax before leaving office.

Current commissioners indicated Tuesday that other avenues — including layoffs — should be taken before additional taxes are Authority in an informal meeting last Thursday, February 29, Meade said there are at least three locations worth pursuing for industrial development purposes.

The locations, he said, are at American Standard, Combs Field and on Route 1750.

Meade said that with recent layoffs at American Standard,

County youths between the ages of 14 and 18 were able to work at Summer Youth Employment Program (SYEP) jobs and earn extra money for school clothes, books, and other school related supplies, supervisor Estella Horn said Monday.

In addition, eight adults were hired to administer the program adding more dollars to the local economy.

If you add it all up the loss of the program this year will mean the local economy will lose about $50,000.

Slone said he received a letter last week informing him that the program would be cut out altogether this year which, he said, was "surprising" to him.

"We knew there would be some cuts but we didn't think they would cut it out completely," he said.

MSU-PCC flap catches Magoffin Hi in middle

A turf battle has broken out over distance-education courses that Morehead State University is offering at two high schools and Magoffin County High is one of the high schools caught smack in the middle of the flap.

MSU has been accused by the University of Kentucky Community College System of high-tech trespassing by televising undergraduate courses in areas served by two-year community colleges.

At issue are undergraduate calculus and English composition courses being taught by interactive television this semester to high school students in Magoffin and Mason counties. MSU also offered the courses to students at Pike Central High School, but had no takers.

The video link is provided by the federally funded Kentucky Tele-Linking Network, which will eventually connect public and private institutions, schools and governments. MSU plans to use the system primarily to beam upper level and graduate classes to its extended campus sites, said Dr. John Philley, executive vice president for academic affairs.

The network also made it more feasible for the university to offer classes for dual credit—high school and college—to high school students, Philley said.

But state Council on Higher Education rules say four-year universities can't offer undergraduate level courses within a 30-mile radius of a community college without getting permission from that school.

Magoffin and Pike County schools are within the area served by Prestonsburg Community College. Mason County is served by Maysville Community College.

Prestonsburg Community College President Deborah Floyd, who said she learned of the MSU plans only indirectly and nearly after the fact, registered a formal objection in a January 17 letter to Gary Cox, executive director of the council.

"To the best of my knowledge, I still have not been notified by Morehead State University," Floyd said two weeks ago.

Floyd said she didn't want the high schools to be confused about who they should be working with in teaching dual credit courses. It's also cheaper for students to take the courses through a community college, she said.

Magoffin County Superintendent Howard Wallace said last week that the KTLN lab at Magoffin County High School was for the purpose of offering opportunities they would not otherwise get and that MSU is the one the school is going through to offer this.

"MSU got on the fast track and reported what they could offer," Wallace said. "If PCC or another community college has the ability to do it, then they should. We don't care where it comes from as long as we get the service."

Wallace also expressed concern that the service could be interrupted if the issue is not settled.

Dr. Ben Carr, chancellor of the UK Community College System, also protested to Cox, saying he was "deeply concerned and disappointed" by MSU's action. He questioned why he was not notified by Philley until just before the first day of class.

Magoffin County school officials approached MSU about the video classes, he said. After that, MSU decided to work through a fifty-county educational consortium, the Kentucky Education Development Corporation, to offer the courses. The high school students who are taking the undergraduate courses pay their tuition to the consortium, which then pays MSU.

Despite the protests, Morehead State has been allowed to continue the controversial video instruction because Council on Higher Education staff decided there were special circumstances.

MSU's courses are delivered through the video network on a regional basis, linking students on campus with those at the high schools and other sites.

"Such a regional approach transcends any one community college," Cox wrote in a January 25 letter to Carr, Floyd and MSU president Ron Eaglin.

The university also is designated a hub for the network, he added.

Cox did chastise the institutions for "failure to communicate in an open and orderly manner," and urged them to work together.

Carr said he doesn't agree with the council's decision but accepts it.

"I still think it could be handled better by working with us rather than offering the courses in the same counties where a community college is offering courses," he said.

In an interview, Cox said the council will be revising its policies.

Philley, meanwhile, said he doesn't want MSU to be at odds with the community college system. If the university continues to offer dual credit courses through the new network, "we would try to negotiate different arrangements than we did this time," he said.—Salersville Independent

Rites held for ex-jailer Sam Griffith

Services were held Tuesday, March 5 for former Johnson County Jailer Samuel "Sambo" Griffith. Griffith, of Swamp Branch, died Saturday of a heart attack. He was 56. A Republican, Griffith served one term as jailer from 1974 to 1977. He was also a past candidate for sheriff. At the time of his death, he made harnesses and other horse equipment. — The Paintsville Herald

Man accused of murder undergoing second test

Marion Eugene Butler, charged with capital murder in the shooting death of his ex-girlfriend last October, is undergoing a second psychiatric evaluation according to Johnson Circuit Court records.

Judge James A. Knight ordered the test February 16, saying "there is reason to believe that (Butler) is not mentally capable of understanding the charges against him or aiding his counsel" in his trial.

Butler, 35, is accused of shooting his ex-girlfriend, 33-year-old Renee Fields last October 15 after breaking into her Wittensville apartment. Fields died two days later at a Lexington hospital.

He is also charged with attempted murder for allegedly shooting a neighbor of Fields and with 10 counts of wanton endangerment.

He has pleaded not guilty to all charges. — The Paintsville Herald

Referral center moves to another site

Open house at the new home of the Veterans Referral Center on Euclid Avenue near the Greentown overpass in Paintsville was held Saturday, March 2. Nearly 100 visitors toured the new facility.

Since the opening of the center on Broadway and Depot Road in 1988, the center has served an average of 2,500 persons per year, assisting in everything from general paperwork to college scholarships applications to honor guards for funerals. — The Paintsville Herald

Teenagers hurt when 4-wheeler goes over bridge

Two local teenagers were hospitalized Sunday evening, February 24, after they and the all-terrain vehicle they were riding flipped over a bridge and landed on the edge of a stream.

Amy Slusher, 16, of Jim Arnett Branch on Burning Fork Road, was a patient at Jewish Hospital in Louisville, where she reportedly underwent successful surgery Monday morning, February 25, to have a severed index finger reattached to her left hand. Slusher also suffered lacerations to the head, which required several stitches.

Jonathan Brett Bostic, 19, was also transported to Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center where he was kept overnight for examination and treatment for a concussion and contusion of his left thigh. He was moved to Lexington on February 26, for further examination.

The two were aboard an all-terrain vehicle when it went out of control upon approaching a bridge. The four-wheeler reportedly slammed against a guardrail and flipped the passengers over the railing, into the creek. The vehicle also landed in the creek. — The Salyersville Independent

Woman seriously injured in wreck

A Magoffin County woman was seriously injured in a head-on collision near Salyersville Tuesday, February 26. Laverne Arnett of Epsom was airlifted from Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center to Cabell-Huntington Hospital in Huntington, West Virginia. At last report she was listed in critical condition.

Arnett reportedly suffered a fractured left ankle and other possible injuries when her east bound 1991 Pontiac Grand Am was hit head-on on the driver's side by a 1995 Chevy S-10 pickup truck driven by Michael Holderby, 19. The extent of his injuries was not available.

The pickup, which was west bound, reportedly crossed the center line into the path of Arnett's vehicle. The accident occurred near the Magoffin County solid waste transfer station on U.S. 460, approximately one and one-half miles west of Salyersville. — The Salyersville Independent

Pharmacy hit by burglars

The Warfield Prescription Center was the target of early morning burglars Sunday, March 3, who gained access by breaking glass in the front door.

This successful theft marks the third burglary at the drugstore in as many months. Undaunted by the wailing siren of the alarm, the thieves were able to make off with an as yet undetermined amount of painkillers.

At press time, the sheriff's department has a few leads, but no suspects for the burglary.

Bus driver injured in 4-wheeler accident

James Maynard, 42, of Three Forks in Martin County, was injured when he overturned a four-wheeler on Sunday afternoon, March 3. Maynard was riding at Big Peter Cave in Martin County. Maynard, a bus driver for the Martin County school system, struck his face, causing severe lacerations on his forehead, cheek, and nose, a spokesperson for Martin County Ambulance Service said Monday.

Maynard was transported to Three Rivers Medical Center at Louisa.

Funding sought for flood project

U.S. Representative Harold "Hal" Rogers announced Tuesday, March 5, that he will be seeking federal funds for flood control work in Pike County.

Rogers' request will provide funding for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to continue a $49 million effort to floodproof or relocate homes and other properties in communities along the Tug Fork of the Big Sandy River. — The Appalachian News-Express

Kimper youth arrested in burglary of Virgie school

An 18-year-old Kimper youth was arrested Friday, March 1, for breaking into the Virgie Middle School and stealing a number of items.

Lonnie Anthony Slone was arrested by Kentucky State Police Detective Kenneth Slone on two counts of theft by unlawful taking and two counts of third-degree burglary for an incident occurring November 17 when Slone entered the school and band room and stole items.

Slone was lodged in the Pike County Detention Center and later released on a $10,000 bond. — The Appalachian News-Express

Security guard shot in leg at mine site

A 25-year-old Ransom man was shot early Tuesday morning, March 5, while answering an alarm at a mine site in Pike County, authorities said.

Edward Smith Jr., a security guard with Mate Creek Security, was shot once in the right leg when he answered a 1:30 a.m. alarm at a Rockhouse Fork mine at Big Creek.

Police said Smith did not know his assailant, but he saw a red Toyota pickup on the mine site. The unknown assailant is wanted in first-degree assault charges in the shooting.

Smith was taken to Appalachian Regional Hospital at South Williamson for treatment. — The Appalachian News-Express

News of the Weird

by Chuck Shepherd

Postal worker Douglas C. Yee, 50, was indicted in February in San Mateo, Calif., for pulling off bulk-mail scams totaling $800,000. Found in Yee's garbage were notes he had written to God expressing gratitude for his continued help in evading police detection. Read one. "Lord, I am having a difficult time myself seeing you as a God who hides crime, yet your Word says that it's your privilege (or glory) to do just that."

THE CONTINUING CRISIS

— In September, the founders of the Norway Losers Rights Union met with King Harald to explain the organization's agenda of offering support for those Norwegians who feel doomed to failure. Since its inception in 1993, the Union has attracted 728 active members and another 7,000 sympathizer-losers (out of a population of 4.3 million).

— Restaurant Grease in the news: In January, after an $85,000 study, officials in Corpus Christi, Texas, attributed a lingering, foul, downtown odor to years of accumulations of grease from 35 nearby restaurants. And in December, thieves stole 8,000 pounds of grease from eight Jonesboro, Ark., restaurants, probably for resale in pet food and livestock feed.

— In November, workers at China's Bayanghe coalfield in Xinjiang region extinguished a fire that had been burning over a 5-square-kilometer area for an estimated 100 years. About 300,000 tons of coal a year was consumed by the fire, and authorities estimate 55 million tons remain.

— An investigative piece in the weekly Moscow News in November listed then-current rates paid to hit men in the growing contract-murder industry in Russia. An average citizen without a bodyguard could be killed for about $7,000, while celebrities and politicians could get prices ranging up to the $180,000 for President Yeltsin. The leading killers guarantee about a 96 percent probability of success.

— Following the November defeat of President Lech Walesa, the Polish Federation for Women and Family Planning predicted many of the organization's supporters would end their "sex strike." Some women had been refusing to have sex for years to protest the combination of Walesa's strict anti-abortion stand and the unavailability of contraceptives.

— The Associated Press reported in September that the most popular publishing genre of the moment in Japan — so huge that whole sections of bookstores were being given over to it — was World War II novels in which Japan wins. In one of the most popular, war-crime tribunals against U.S. officers and politicians must be held on the commandeered Queen Elizabeth ocean liner because no large buildings remained standing in Japan.

— Last year a Wood County, Wis., court ruled that the state's parental responsibility law required that the parents of a 15-year-old boy would have to pay only the statutory maximum, $2,500, to a 10-year-old girl with whom the boy had consensual, but illegal, sexual intercourse. However, in December, an appeals court ruled that the law requires the parents to pay $2,500 for each of the 20 encounters the two kids had.

— In June in the county jail in Iola, Kan., Richard Barber, 51, tried unsuccessfully to kill himself by wrapping hoarded dental floss around his neck and jumping off a ledge, but that left him only with a deep cut on his neck. Barber had just pleaded guilty to killing a dentist.

— In October, the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette profiled a low-key technical-service manager at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock, Mr. Dale Miller, who routinely wears stylish women's clothes to work. He said he's partial to silk blouses but often wears men's shirt, tie and jacket with a coordinated skirt and pumps. He said he has no desire to appear feminine, but rather just likes women's clothes.

— The Malaysian government announced a crackdown in November against restaurants that substitute toilet paper for table napkins, promising fines of up to $80 plus jail sentences for repeat offenders.

— Police in Newton, Mass., were searching in February for a man about 5-foot-9, in his 20s, who allegedly propositioned a teen-aged male as he was leaving a Marshall's department store. According to the teen, the man offered him $20 to let him smell the teen's socks.

— In an affidavit in November, Coldwater, Mich., Undersheriff Gary Abbott revealed that he had been forced to make five trips, in an undercover sting, to the Coldwater Health Spa to be solicited for prostitution. According to Sheriff Ted Gordon, multiple visits were necessary because the department's recording equipment is old: "You couldn't hear the women make the proposition."

Popperri

Following our state legislature through its process of enacting new laws is sort of like watching a thunderstorm.

You know lightning is going to strike, but you don't know when or where. Odds are, though, that it won't hit the same place twice.

The state legislature's consistent inconsistency in certain areas is like that.

For instance, we have a state law, enacted by the General Assembly, which makes it illegal to drive an automobile without first buckling up your seatbelts.

While you might think that common sense would dictate the use of seat belts, legislators preferred to make their use required by law.

It appears they're taking just the opposite approach to motorcycle safety, though, where a bill to repeal mandatory helmet use is getting strong support.

What does that tell us? That we can't fly headlong out of our car windshields but we can use our heads if we're coming the other direction?

Here's another example of philosophical flip-flopping...

The legislature has shown strong support for making it tougher for teen-aged drivers to get their licenses to operate motor vehicles.

Legislation now working its way through the General Assembly will increase the time teens must wait between getting their permits and taking the license test; it will require that they complete a course in driver's education; and it will restrict the times during the day when they are allowed to be on the roads.

Since most auto-related fatalities involve young drivers, the new, more stringent provisions make a lot of sense.

But another proposal, equally sensible in its approach to safety, has been torpedoed in a legislative committee.

That proposal would require youthful operators of water crafts to have some training in safe boating.

Despite the statistics which suggest a frightening increase in the number of boating mishaps involving young people, some legislators think the requirements go too far.

Geez.

Lightning may not strike twice in the same place but it looks like it may have hit the same people more than once.

Critic's Corner

Leaving Las Vegas

If ever there were a film that would make you want to run out of the theater and jump off the nearest building, this is it! Only kidding. Seriously, this movie is very dark and disturbing and sure to be a heavyweight contender on Oscar night.

Nicolas Cage portrays Ben, a hopeless alcoholic who's been through more jobs than probably anyone on the planet. He realizes he has a problem but he has absolutely no intention of addressing it. He does not want to change, so it's futile to even try to reform him. When first we meet, Ben is in the process of being fired yet again. With a simple, yet powerful, "I'm sorry," he's out the door to begin the rest of his life. By that I mean, he decides he's going to chuck everything, pack his car, head off to Las Vegas and drink himself to death.

Once at his destination, he meets a street-smart prostitute, Sera (Elisabeth Shue). The two embark on a strange, yet bittersweet, love affair, sharing laughter and love. For her part, Shue is marvelous. She proves that she has the ability to portray more mature, complex characters than her previous incarnations on the big screen.

Cage as Ben is masterful. Despite his obvious weakness, you can feel sorry for him and understand how he would simply give up his struggle at any semblance of a normal life. He captures the audience's heart, despite being outwardly unsympathetic.

A flick like this could only have one ending. While I won't share it with you since I want you to see it for yourself, suffice it to say that there's no happy ending, hearts-and-flowers thing happening here. No one tap dances out of the theater at the end of this movie. Yet, it's definitely a four-starrer.

The Weekend

Mountain Traditions on Camera

"Mom passed away at home. They made a casket for her right there. Went to the hardware store and got the handles, and to a department store and got the linings, and the cotton, and the lace, and they fashioned the casket. The neighbors helped. They would lay 'em out..." — Cleve Collins, Dying Traditions

Floyd County High School students went behind the camera recently to film mountain traditions for broadcast beginning at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, March 9, on KET.

Betsy Layne High School students Emmitt Hamilton, Joey Hamilton, Kent Leedy, Alex Kidd, and Josh Carrol trained in the Appalshop's Appalachian Media Institute (AMI) training programs. AMI provides secondary school students and educators with training in media production techniques and leadership skills and promotes media literacy and education in schools throughout the region.

More than 75 students have trained in the AMI summer program at Appalshop and more than 1,000 students have participated in the AMI's school year training programs at their local high schools.

The KET broadcast, called "Mountain Media," is a statewide screening of seven video programs produced by Appalshop's AMI.

Program one, "Dying Traditions," profiles the mountain traditions and rituals of death and dying with home funerals and all-night wakes. It was a semi-finalist at the National High School Video Festivals in New York City.

Emmitt Hamilton is one of the three Kentucky high school students who directed the program.

Program two, "Sacred Vows," focuses on issues surrounding the United Mine Workers of America (UMWA) and its history associated with the coal miners of Appalachia. The documentary, "As Long as It Takes," examines a four and a half year-long strike at Beth-Elkhorn Mine No. 29 in Pike County. The video was a finalist in the National High School Video Festival in New York City and is directed by Joey Hamilton.

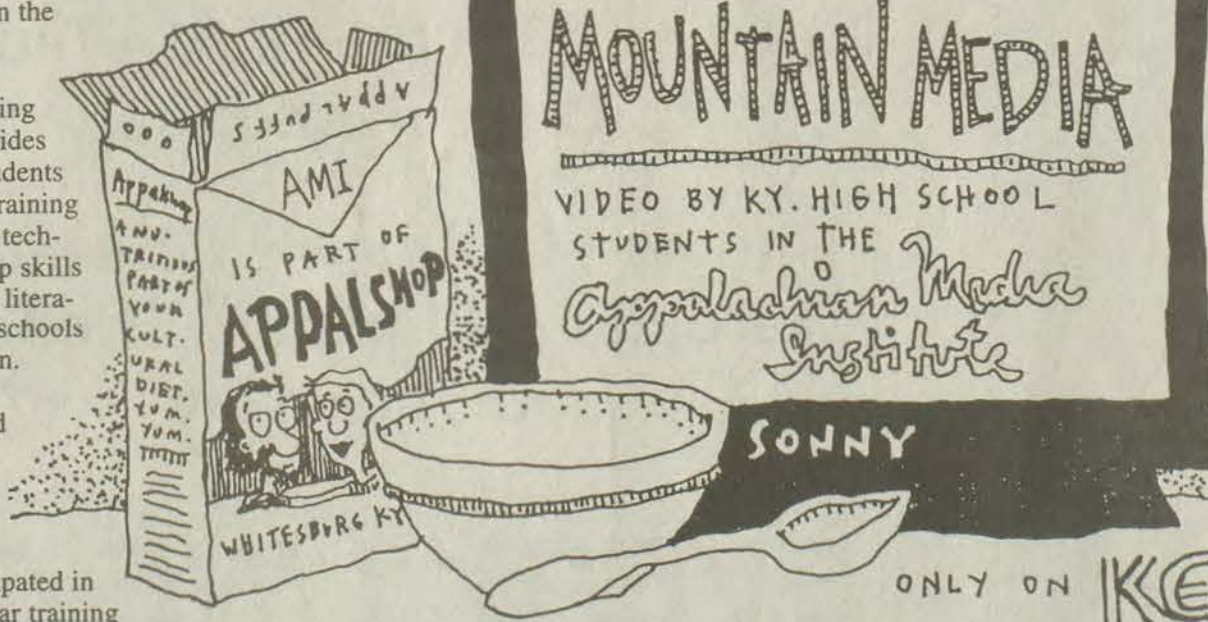

The third program in the series, "Sacred Vows," is not directed by any Floyd County students, but a second show in program three is. Kent Leedy and Alex Kidd directed "Fat Man," an animated folk tale. Both shows air March 30.

Program four, "McRoberts: An Eastern Kentucky Coal Camp," appears on KET April 13. No local students were involved in directing the production which highlights the small town of McRoberts. The mining town was built in 1912 by Consolidated Coal Company for the purpose of housing the coal miners and their families.

On April 27, "To Hell and Back," airs on KET. "To Hell and Back" is an intense walk through the memories of Vietnam Veterans from Appalachia as they recount their lives before, during, and after the war. Josh Carrol was one of the directors of the production.

Like a fish out of water

Due to the diverse and hectic schedules of the three individuals who live in our household, it is extremely difficult to get an opportunity to go anywhere or organize activities in advance. This past weekend was no exception.

On Friday evening, I had made plans to be out of town, but as soon as I opened the door I knew my best laid plans were to be altered. "You wouldn't have believed how big a crack it made," my son J.R. said as he followed me back to my bedroom.

"What cracked. A mirror?" I asked warily. "I couldn't keep it from falling," he added. "What are you talking about, J.R.?" I asked, as I hurriedly shoved clothes into an overnight bag.

"You'll have to take care of it. I'm getting ready to go to a ballgame, and I have to take a shower." That sentence was finally serious enough to stop me dead in my tracks. If I had to "take care of it," something major had occurred, and time was of the essence.

"Take care of what?" I asked.

"The fish tank," he replied, without looking in my direction.

"Is that what cracked?" I winced.

"It's more than cracked. There's a big hole ripped in the side," his friend answered. "I think one of the fish is dead."

"The fish tank broke?" I asked again.

"Shattered is a better word," the friend offered cheerfully.

"The fish tank is shattered, and we're just standing here doing nothing? We need a Wet Vac!" I bellowed.

"Well, I need a shower," J.R. said, as he turned and sauntered out of the room.

I could taste the blood as it oozed out of my bitten tongue. Twenty gallons of water had cascaded down the walls of an aquarium onto my son's carpeted bedroom floor and his main concern was a shower. As I started randomly dialing telephone numbers in search of a machine that would suck murky, fish feces water out of carpet, I wondered what was so heavy that J.R. couldn't have kept it from falling on the fish tank. However, I quickly dismissed this thought because I really didn't want to know.

"Young man," I said sternly. "Get in the car and go to Donna's and get her machine."

"You go. My trunk's full. Anyway, I'm upset. One of my fish just died a traumatic, violent death and you expect me to act as if nothing has happened. That's cruel, Mom."

"We'll fly the flag at half-mast tomorrow," I replied dryly. "Tonight, we have to get that water out of the carpet or the floor will rot out."

"It won't rot out tonight," he said.

No, it won't rot out tonight, I thought, but something else unexpected will happen tomorrow that will keep me from being able to finish what I need to do today.

I think this is what is normally referred to as life.

SOAP UPDATES

ALL MY CHILDREN: Janet overheard Brooke and Pierce in the cabin speaking about their mutual desire, and decided she would ax-murder them. But she decided to find a more foolproof plan. Taylor hired someone as an "eyewitness" to Noah killing Louie. Corinne wouldn't tell Noah and Julie she was the "dead" body they saw on the ship. Dixie and Tad made up. Kelsey spread a substance that discourages thumb sucking on the bottle's nipple so that she would have an excuse to keep feeding the baby in Wildwind. Wait To See: Liza has a "secret" weapon against Dixie.

ANOTHER WORLD: John returned from Africa to learn Morgan had been fired from Bay City General, and that Sharlene is Rita's new secretary. He later had a romantic reunion with Felicia. Carl tried to lure Blair back to her corrupt ways. Morgan was reinstated when Courtney told Rita that Andrew admitted framing him. Courtney had a strange reaction to Morgan's attempt at intimacy. Jake learned Michael took Vicky's house off the market. Wait To See: Blair faces a painful confrontation.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Hal and Tom worried about Margo's increasingly reckless behavior. Mark let an emotionally overwrought Connor spend the night on his couch. Nancy felt Mac required a specialized care facility. John and Lisa were stunned by the reactions of Bob, Kim, Margo and Scott to news of their engagement. Connor seemed to be over her marital woes with Cal, but told Rosanna of her attraction to someone else. Wait To See: Lucinda may soon spoil Lisa's plans.

THE BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: Taylor was sure Lauren was out to get Ridge, but James said her suspicions reflected her sense of being threatened by Lauren. Brooke assured Bridget she and Ridge would wed after some details were ironed out. Bridget later told Eric he's a wonderful grandfather. Sheila defended Brooke to Maggie, who raised doubts about her involvement in the forgery. Wait To See: Mike sets up his revenge plan.

THE CITY: Joey told Danny Molly better not mess with him. Jared watched unseen as Nick gave Tess the money Sydney owed her. Jocelyn told Alex she loves him. She then told her Madame she was out of the business. Richard was stunned to hear Sydney say Jared was not alive. However, as Sydney prepared to reveal Jared's "recent death" at the press conference, she saw him enter the room. Wait To See: Danny's basement discovery has repercussions.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Marlena saw Stefano trying to choke John. Vivian's great expectations with Victor crashed when Kate suddenly appeared. After learning only Jack saw the document, Peter assured Jennifer he had no ties to Jude. A guard slipped John's unopened letter into Marlena's purse. Wait To See: Kristen faces a painful decision.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: Brenda realized there was more to Jax than she thought. Jason rejected Keesha. Robin involved herself in remembering Stone. Luke, Laura, and Justus vowed to stop Damian after he threatened Ward House and Justin's career. Monica received another gift, but this time it wasn't from Alan. Lucy mistook Jax as an aspiring model, and was impressed when she learned his true identity. Mike and Luke worried about Lucky's involvement with gambling. Jason stormed out in reaction to problems at home. Wait To See: Lucy's curiosity about Jax could become a problem.

GUIDING LIGHT: Reva found several of Annie's things in Marah's possession. Rick warned Josh not to hurt Annie. Realizing she could get Josh back, but it would hurt Marah, Reva turned to Buzz for advice. Tempers flared when Amanda and Roger came to pay their respects to Henry. Quint was stunned when Nola asked for a quick divorce. J clashed with Quint over his treatment of Nola. Roger feigned illness to avoid disclosing what he had done with Dinah's money. Quint and Nola shared an emotional goodbye. Wait To See: Josh faces a crisis in his feelings for both Reva and Annie.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Maggie told a shocked Max she's a nun. Bo got Kevin out of an Irish jail and looked over his developed film. Asa saw the rose tattoo on Alex's wrist. Carlo told Alex how he planned his first public appearance in Llanview. Viki was impressed by Drew's sweetness, while Drew was impressed by Bo and Nora's closeness. Kevin told Viki he wants to be an investigative reporter. He later told Andy he regrets they broke up. Nora asked Antonio to find out if Javier knows where Rachel is. Wait To See: Kelly makes a decision about Joey.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Nikki said she would accept Sharon if Sharon kept her commitment to Nick. After learning he's HIV negative, Nathan asked Olivia to reconcile. John was unaware that John got Dina to delay her return to France. Nina told Chris she was uneasy about Jill's plans for Ryan. Paul told Chris he'll never forget seeing her in bed with Danny. Brad fumed when Victor promoted Neil without consulting him. Luan collapsed and struggled to ask John to tell Jack she loves him. Wait To See: Jack faces a troubling decision involving Keemo and Mai.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) It's a wonderful week where work interests are highlighted. However, a certain jealous co-worker could be a fly in the ointment. You know just how to deal with this person. Guard against overindulgence during weekend socializing.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You enjoy a lecture or seminar early in the week and can learn much from this. Generally, group activities are favored this week. Some make an unusual, even rare, purchase later in the week. However, in general, avoid extravagant spending.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Mixed signals between partners is a sure indication that it's time for a heart-to-heart chat. Don't be afraid to say what's on your mind. You gain nothing by being reticent. Be aware of business interests where your career is concerned.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Be careful that you don't overreact to a real or imagined slight. You have an unfortunate tendency to think you're at the center of everything, when in fact, this isn't the case. You work best now from behind-the-scenes.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You could decide to join a club or some other group endeavor early in the week. Care is needed this week in your use of credit. There's no sense in taking on more debt than you can possibly handle. A business talk yields helpful information.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You are blessed this week with extra drive, initiative and energy. Unfortunately, you have a tendency to overlook details, some of which are important. A family member is sensitive and requires extra consideration.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Those traveling this week, whether for business or pleasure, will have a very enjoyable trip. When relating experiences, guard against making exaggerated statements. Be sure of the facts. Good advice comes through a friend.

SCORPIO (October 23 to HOME TIPS

NO REWRITING—When you clip a recipe out of the newspaper, just tape it to an index card.

There's no need to copy it—saves time and energy. Lorena G., Carrollton, Texas GIFT IDEA—Before you know it, graduation time will be here. I'd like to share one of my favorite gift-giving ideas.

Our daughter had several friends who were going on to higher education. Umbrellas were an absolute necessity for those long campus walks between classes!

They're very affordable, especially if you're buying for several friends. Buy the umbrellas that have a telescoping handle and tell the students to be sure to keep theirs in their trusty book bag. Lizette F., Atlanta, Ga.

SEWING TINS—Small imported hard-candy tins or cough-drop tins and boxes make convenient travel-size sewing kits. Just add buttons, needles and thread. Ida C., Lewis, Ind.

ADDRESS BOOK—Instead of listing names, phone numbers and addresses in alphabetical order in my phone book, I use a system such as "C" for my children, "D" for doctors, "R" for relatives, "F" for friends, "O" for organizations, "B" for businesses, "N" for neighbors, and so on. It sure helps when you're in a hurry—and for Christmas lists, too. Hannah P., Cunnahquid, Mass.

NOVEMBER 21 Extravagant urges are strong this week. You could overspend in your pursuit of pleasure. Instead, you do best when focused on work interests. Family discussions are favored over the weekend.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Making new starts is favored now, but tact and diplomacy is needed in your dealings with those in authority. You learn much from a private discussion with an influential friend later in the week. Mull over what you hear.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You're in top form creatively this week. However, on the job, you could have a tendency to be lackadaisical and let things slide. Doing so causes some burning of the midnight oil later in the week. Financial propositions require careful scrutiny.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You are apt to lend your support to a humanitarian cause this week. This is not only financial. You become actively involved. Later in the week, getting things done around home base is a priority. The family pitches in.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) An unusual business opportunity is likely to come your way early in the week. Couples encounter renewed romance and share good times together as a result. This weekend, watch your spending when going out for good times.

TUNING IN BY SALLY STONE

IN FOCUS—BRUCE BOXLEITNER: "I've done quite a lot of things I've been very proud of over the years," says Bruce Boxleitner. "And 'Babylon 5' is certainly one of them. It's more than just another science fiction series; it's the vision of the man who created the series—Joe (J. Michael) Straczynski—that comes to life in each episode. And it's a wonderful vision; a gathering of intelligent beings from every inhabited planet in the universe who are trying to find a way to coexist. But the same situations that trouble the people on this planet today are still creating problems in the future: intolerance, power struggles, greed, fear ... And while all this is going on, there's the spectre of the inevitable and, perhaps final, confrontation between the forces of good and the forces of evil."

The series is more than halfway through its third successful year. "We need the full five years to tell the whole story," says Bruce, who plays Captain John Sheridan on the show. "And we're getting there, I'm glad to say."

Toward the end of the season, we'll see the reappearance of

Michael O'Hare as Commander Jeffrey Sinclair. And that, as Bruce notes, "should indicate to 'Babylon 5' fans that something significant will happen."

DIAL TONES: Recommended viewing for this week:

On March 13, Dick Wolf's ("Law & Order" and "NY Undercover") new series, "Swift Justice," debuts on UPN. The show stars James McCaffrey, Gary Douran, and Len Cariou in a recurring role.

On March 15, LIFETIME airs "Trial at Fortitude Bay," with Lolita Davidovitch as a lawyer who defends a 19-year-old Canadian Inuit accused of a violent crime. Robert Ito ("Quincy") plays the Inuit elder and spiritual leader.

On March 16, ABC airs "Tiger: Lord of the Wild." James Brolin narrates the film about the beautiful but endangered cats. On March 17, TNT airs "The Good, the Bad, and the Beautiful," a two-hour celebration of moviedom's magnificent and magical leading ladies, including Stanwyck, Bergman, Katharine and Audrey Hepburn, Monroe, Harlow, Day, et al, plus interviews with current film stars such as Sally Field, Jamie Lee Curtis, Bette Midler, and Glenn Close.

SOAP SCRAPS

by Sally Stone

Let's look into the Soap Scrap Letter Sack this week: Edward A. from Nevada writes: "I feel the soaps are in danger of being taken over by a lot of politically-minded writers who use them as vehicles to get their points across. Is there a chance they could ever go back to what they once were—entertainment—and leave the politics to Washington?"

Your view is shared by many writers to this column. However, you should know that what you call "political," is seen by many as socially relevant and responsible. Examples would include stories on AIDS prevention, spousal abuse, drug use, race relations, etc.

Please write back with specific examples of what you see as "political" and let's discuss them in this column.

Gloria O'M. from New York writes: "Is there a chance that we'll see a spin off of 'All My Children' some day? There are so many wonderful characters on the show with so many interesting stories, I hate to think of any of them having to be put on the back burner for any length of time."

What a great idea. I'll talk to Francesca James, the show's new Executive Producer about it and report back to you.

Renee from Ontario, Canada, writes: "Canadians are among the soaps' biggest fans and we'd like to see some of the shows introduce Canadian characters and Canada-linked stories. Is that a possibility?"

"Another World" has used Canada as a setting for stories from time to time. And there have been characters identified as originally from Canada in various soaps. But I think you'll have to agree that while it sounds like a great idea to involve our big sister from the north more often in the soaps, it's probably not very workable. (But if I may share a fantasy, I've often wondered how Ian Buchanan—James, "Bold and the Beautiful"—would look as a red-coated Royal Canadian Mounted Policeman riding onto my TV screen on a great, big white-maned palomino.

Finally, Nora in Denver asks: "How did Amanda (Toby Poser) become Alan's (Ron Raines) daughter on 'Guiding Light'?"

Amanda's mom, Jennifer Richards, had been Alan's lover. Write me at King Features, 235 East 45 Street, New York, NY 10017.

NOTICE OF BOND RELEASE

In accordance with KRS 350.093, notice is hereby given that Progress Land Corporation, P.O. Box 784, Hazard, Kentucky 41702 has applied for Phase II bond release on Permit Number 836-5322 which was last issued on November 18, 1994. The application covers an area of approximately 505.77 acres located 0.57 miles north of Halo, Floyd County, Kentucky.

The permit area is approximately 3.0 miles south of the junction of KY 122 and KY 1498 and located on Jacks Creek in Floyd and Knott counties on the Wheelwright and Kite 7 1/2 minute quadrangles. The latitude is 37 degrees 19 minutes, 28 seconds. The longitude is 82 degrees, 44 minutes, 29 seconds.

The bond now in effect for Permit Number 836-5322 is a surety of $8,100. Approximately 25 per cent of the original bond amount of $12,800 is included in the application for release.

Reclamation work performed includes: backfilling, final grading, seeding and mulching completed in the Spring of 1990. All disturbed areas have been seeded as to provide adequate growth for plant species and provide appropriate conditions for the surrounding wildlife. Results thus far indicate growth of vegetation is according to re-vegetation plan.

This is the final advertisement of this application. Written comments, objections, and requests for a public hearing or informal conference must be filed with the Director, Division of Field Services, #2 Hudson Hollow, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, by April 8, 1996.

A public hearing on the application has been scheduled for April 9, 1996 at 3:00 p.m. at the Prestonsburg Regional Office of the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, 2705 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653-1455. The hearing will be canceled if no request for a hearing or informal conference is received by April 8, 1996.

BLASTING SCHEDULE

Permit No. 836-0179

This is notice that BRANHAM & BAKER COAL COMPANY, INC., 148 South Lake Drive, P.O. Box 271, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653, Phone 606-886-6300, will be blasting at the Head of Pitts Fork, Head of Alum Lick, Head of Prater Fork, Head of Wilson Creek, Head of Wilson Fork, and on the ridges between Wilson Fork of Caney and Alum Lick Fork and between Turner Branch and Prater Fork, latitude 37° 32' 43" and longitude 82° 50' 30".

Blasting will be conducted Monday through Sunday, from sunrise to sunset. At least 10 minutes before the blast, access to the area will be controlled by Company personnel at all access points by blocking roads. Before each blast is detonated, the following type(s) of audible warning will be given: Two thirty second soundings of a horn with a thirty second pause between sounding. The all-clear signal after blast will be: One sixty second sounding of a horn.

Upon request to the department or permittee by a resident or owner of a dwelling or structure that is located within one-half mile of any part of the permit area, a pre-blast survey will be conducted on the dwelling or structure.

Blasting will not be conducted at times different from those given above except in emergency situations where rain, lightning, other atmospheric condition, or operator or public safety require unscheduled detonation. Prior to these detonations, the following audible warning will be given: Three short soundings of a horn.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE Pursuant to Application

Number 436-5175, R2

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.070, notice is hereby given that Prater Creek Mining, Inc., P.O. Drawer A, Harold, Kentucky 41635, has applied for a Major Revision to an existing underground coal mining and reclamation operation located 1.1 miles southeast of Banner in Floyd County. The major revision will not add acres of surface disturbance and will not involve additional acres of underground area. The total permit area of 55.25 acres is unchanged by this action.

The proposed major revision is located approximately 1.00 miles southeast from U.S. 23's junction with KY 1426, and is located .05 miles south of Hall Branch. The latitude is 37° 35' 03" and the longitude is 82° 41' 11".

The proposed operation is located on the Harold U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be affected by the major revision is owned by Miles Hall. The major revision will underlie land owned by Sola Roberts.

This major revision proposes to obtain approval for a post mining land use change for the operation.

The major revision application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 2705 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow Complex, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

NOTICE OF BOND RELEASE Pursuant to Permit No. 836-5073

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350, notice is hereby given that J.R.M. Coal Co., Inc., Box 320, McDowell, Kentucky 41647, intends to apply for bond release on Permit No. 836-5073, which was last issued on February 10, 1993. The application covers an area of approximately 4.22 acres of surface and 436.19 acres of underground, for a total permit area of 440.41 acres, located 0.2 miles SE of McDowell in Floyd County.

Progress against arthritis

(NAPS)—Although nearly 40 million Americans have arthritis, many everyday products and packages have yet to be redesigned for ease-of-use. The Arthritis Foundation estimates the number of people with arthritis is expected to reach 59 million by the year 2020.

A growing number of manufacturers are taking steps to address this growing population segment. For example, Bengay®, the topical pain relief cream used for nearly 100 years by people seeking relief from arthritis pain, has redesigned its packaging to be easier to open and use. The new design has been commended by the Arthritis Foundation.

For every Bengay package, however, there are ten or more items or packages that are difficult for people with arthritis to open or use. The Arthritis Foundation has come up with a list of ten such items:

- Milk or juice cartons

- Screw top jars (both wide and narrow, such as mayonnaise and ketchup bottles)
- Snack chip bags
- Toothbrushes (with narrow handles)
- Toothpaste tubes
- Coffee can lids
- Pop-top soda cans (and cat/dog food cans)
- Shoes with laces
- Old fashioned metal can openers
- Car gasoline caps

"The inherent design of milk and juice cartons makes them extremely difficult to open for people with arthritis," says Dr. Teresa Brady, a medical advisor for the Arthritis Foundation. "Having arthritis myself, I can tell you about the difficulty involved. The irony is that foods like milk and juice contain vitamins important for people with arthritis."

"Any item that requires stretching, grasping or dexterous movements of the hands or fingers can cause pain and frustration for people with arthritis," says Roy Pera, Vice President of Package Development for Pfizer, the manufacturer of Bengay.

The new Bengay package bears an easy-to-open flip top and an easy to squeeze tube. The new flip-top is easier to store, taking up less space in the medicine cabinet. This new packaging can be identified by the Arthritis Foundation's Commendation Seal in the lower right hand corner of the outer box.

How do people with arthritis deal with products that were not designed with their needs in mind? The Arthritis Foundation says there are some simple answers, including slipping a spoon handle under a pop-top for leverage when opening a pop-top soda or cat food cans.

Can spirituality improve your ability to heal ?

(NAPS)—An increasing number of doctors are beginning to believe that spiritual practices may be able to improve the ability to heal.

"Scientific studies demonstrate that by repeating prayers, words or sounds, and passively disregarding other thoughts, many people are able to trigger a specific set of physiological changes—including decreased metabolism, heart rate, rate of breathing and distinctive, slower brain waves," said Dr. Herbert Benson, director of the Mind/Body Medical Institute and associate professor of medicine at Harvard Medical Institute.

According to Benson, author of Timeless Healing: The Power And Biology Of Belief, these changes, which are the opposite of those induced by stress, can have a beneficial effect on patients with various illnesses.

Recently, Benson and approximately 1,000 physicians, nurses, social workers, clergy members and health care practitioners took part in a Spirituality and Healing in Medicine Seminar in Boston, which focused on how spiritual practice impacts the healing process. In this seminar Benson discussed the differences and similarities among long-standing practices of major religions.

Increasingly, many doctors and major hospitals are investigating alternative or what some doctors call complementary cures. Many doctors are studying mind-body interaction and some of the more distinguished hospitals already have alternative therapists on staff.

For more than 25 years, the Mind/Body Medical Institute at Harvard Medical School has been researching how mind-body interactions can be used to treat and manage hypertension and cardiovascular diseases, cancer, chronic pain, AIDS, insomnia, infertility; and diabetes; as well as other medical conditions in which stress adversely affects health.

Funded by a grant from The John Templeton Foundation, the Spirituality of Healing in Medicine Course was the first continuing medical education course related to Spirituality offered by the Harvard Medical School. A 1996 course is being planned for November in Los Angeles.

Can spiritual practices help your healing? A growing number of doctors seem to think it's possible. Discuss the role of spirituality and health with your doctor.

High Drug Prices: A Threat To Our Health?

(NAPS)—Surprising to many Americans is the fact that the prices of America's twenty top-selling brand name prescription drugs increased more than one-and-a-half times faster than the general rate of inflation last year. Unfortunately, while skyrocketing drug prices are hard on many consumers, they are especially hard on older Americans.

While increases in seniors' Social Security checks are pegged to inflation, the prices of their medications go up much faster than inflation. Seniors are also more likely to need prescription drugs than do younger people. According to a spokesman for Families USA Foundation, a health care consumer group, 85 percent of seniors take at least one prescription drug each year. Medicare does not cover prescription drugs and nearly half of the elderly do not have any insurance to help pay for prescriptions.

Many Americans feel that drug company price increases have become a threat to Americans' health and that they should be moderated.

Improved eyewear

(NAPS)—Choosing the correct eyewear can protect sensitive corneas from the potentially damaging effects of the sun—in any season.

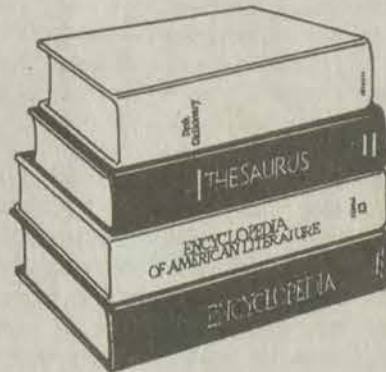

You don't have to stare directly at the sun to damage your eyes. Even going out in bright sunlight—or seeing the reflection of bright sunlight on snow—can be enough, over time, to damage the sensitive cornea. Working or playing under fluorescent lamps or in front of a computer screen also exposes one to the dangers of ultraviolet radiation.

Selecting the proper eyewear is critical to protecting the eyes—even for young children. Look for brands with a high degree of ultraviolet (UV) protection in the sunglasses you buy.

Today you can have built-in UV protection in day-to-day eyewear. When ordering your next pair ask the eyewear professional whether the pair you are buying includes this important protection.

One way to make sure is to get your eyeglasses to get polycarbonate lenses. They include a special permanent filter that provides the maximum protection available against the dangers of ultraviolet radiation. These modern lenses block out 99 percent of all potentially damaging ultraviolet radiation.

Other advantages of polycarbonate lenses include strength, lightweight, built-in scratch protection, and thinness.
