Redistricting is next step in voter-approved changeover

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Voters may have decided to change Floyd County's form of government to the commissioner style of leadership, but the magistrates may have the last word, despite the fact that voters in three of the four magisterial districts chose overwhelmingly to change the county's style of government.

State government officials said the county judge-executive can do the redistricting or can recommend three people be appointed to a commission to redive the county, with the fiscal court having final approval on that commission.

"I think it will be best to get people involved in this," County Judge-Executive Ben Hale said. "It's best to have the public's input. That's probably what I'll do (recommend a commission)."

The county court clerk will also serve on that commission as a non-voting member, according to KRS 67.045.

Dan Yeast with the Department for Local Governments said that neither the judge-executive nor the magistrates can serve on the redistricting commission, if that redistricting method is chosen. Hale can complete the redistricting if he chooses to do so according to another law, KRS 67.060, which states that "...the county judge-executive shall, before the next regular election for county officers, divide the county into three districts as nearly equal in population as practicable, and shall establish the boundary lines of each of the three commissioner districts so that each district is an unbroken area and not split or divided by another commissioner district."

"If it gets to be a problem, I may have to take the bull by the horns and take care of it myself," Hale said.

Residents have thought for months that Floyd County Judge-Executive Ben Hale would be responsible for forming the three districts from which commissioners will be elected in 1998.

"The fiscal court members will be appointing those people to do that. It won't be me," Hale said Thursday before learning he did have the authority to complete the redistricting project by himself.

According to state law, the appointed commission "shall, ... lay off the boundary lines of the districts."

The first step will be to publish a notice that the county will be reappointed. The redistricting commissioners will be appointed after that.

"We'll have 60 days to finish after they are appointed," Hale said. "We

Complaints over city 'slate' are minimized

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

A group of eight candidates for Prestonsburg City Council, all of whom were elected in Tuesday's vote, probably did not violate election finance laws, despite four complaints that were filed against them.

Rosemary Centers, General

Counsel for the Registry of Election Finance, said Thursday that because the candidates did not form election committees, individually or as a group, and raise a large amount of money, they will probably be cleared of any alleged wrongdoing.

"I sometimes forget that people don't always spend a lot of money on elections," she said, referring to confusion among registry officials on the legality of the group's spending.

Four of the candidates in the 12-man race filed complaints against the other eight, contending they were "slating" and running advertising together.

The group, known unofficially as the "Slate of Eight" ran several advertisements over a number of weeks with two or three candidates paying for each ad. The group paying for the advertisements rotated with each ad.

While Centers said she could not comment specifically on the complaint, she did say that since all but two of the candidates — Allen and Gormon Collins — said they would be spending less than

Write-in winners join two elected to Allen commission

Two write-in candidates will join Larry Castle and Michelle Blair on the Allen City Commission.

Deanna Stone and Cindy Parsons were elected during Tuesday's election. Names of the write-in candidates were not available Tuesday night.

Both Stone and Parsons received 15 votes in the balloting.

There were 20 write-in candidates in the race for the four seats on the commission. Castle and Blair were the only two candidates who filed for the race. Castle had 37 votes and Blair earned 36.

Another write-in candidate, Steve Maynard, of Inez, got one vote in Floyd County against Congressman Hal Rogers.

Maynard, who sought the Democratic nomination for governor last year, is currently in jail in Johnson County, awaiting trial on charges related to the alleged abuse of his stepson. He was a registered write-in candidate.

Blackcat ranks depleted by pre-playoff walkout

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Prestonsburg Blackcats will entertain the Fleming County Panthers tonight in the first round of the state football playoffs, but they will have to do so without nine players who were on the opening season roster.

Leaving the team were Rusty Young, Ricky Johnson, Bill Willis, Josh Hubbard, Robbie Cain, senior Jeremy Caudill, Ryan Fitzpatrick, Wes McGuire, Brian Johnson and Pete Howard.

The players staged a walkout this past Monday in protest of what parents said was "verbal abuse" from Derossett. Derossett denied that he was guilty of the charges, and said any remarks he made were not directed at any one individual, but the team collectively.

"I really don't know what all this is about," Derossett said Wednesday evening. "I really don't know what to say."

A meeting between parents and players was held Tuesday evening at the courthouse. Derossett and his wife attended. Some of the complaints expressed against Derossett included the alleged verbal abuse and constant degrading of the players.

"At the meeting he denied everything," said Connie Young, whose son Rusty was a starter for Prestonsburg. "John is a good coach; no one is denying that. But he has a mouth like a sewer, and all this started with the Breathitt County game."

Assistant coaches Jackie Day Crisp, Bobby Joe Spencer, and Tommy Poe stood in defense of Derossett before the parents.

After an exchange of words in the meeting, Derossett said he would quit and walked out of the room. He later returned, still as the Prestonsburg coach.

"I told them I would resign if they didn't want me to coach. I left the room, and some of the players met me outside and urged me not to quit," said Derossett. "I returned to the meeting."

Reports of a threat toward Coach Derossett from one of the parents on Monday made the situation grave. Derossett said a parent came to practice Monday and verbally abused him. Derossett thought he saw a gun in the parent's pocket.

After that, parents called a meeting to try to resolve some of the issues.

Parents interviewed for this story wished to remain anonymous, but they were vocal in their concern over the alleged constant verbal abuse their kids were receiving. Accusations of using language unbecoming to a high school coach and of

Four-laning of Route 114 to topic of public meeting talks

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

With the last leg of the Route 23 four-laning project between Prestonsburg and Paintsville finally complete, area residents are turning their attention toward the expansion of Route 114 between Prestonsburg and Salyersville.

"This is a definitely needed project," Denton Biliter, chief district engineer for the state Department of Transportation, said Thursday.

"There is major traffic volume between Prestonsburg and Salyersville on that road."

A public scoping meeting is slated for 6 p.m. November 14 at the Clark Elementary School gym to give area residents a chance to voice their opinions about the project.

"We have a preliminary alignment and several tentative locations for the road," Biliter said. "We're trying to get comments from citizens to determine which direction to move in the next phase."

He said after public comment is received, engineers will prepare the final plans for the project. That phase is expected to take several months.

"We're looking at two alignments right now," Biliter added. "One would follow the existing route and the second would go around the Salyersville area."

Salyersville residents have voiced complaints about that bypass, saying that it would mean economic disaster for the city. A group of people have organized the Economic Coalition for Magoffin County to try to persuade officials in Frankfort that the best way to expand Route 114 is to follow the existing route.

A public meeting will be held in Salyersville on Tuesday, November 12, to give those residents a chance to enter their comments into the record of the project.

Charles Reichenbach, district pre-construction engineer, said the state is going to use the meetings to determine "the best method of attack."

"We've been working on cost es-

Rape charge dismissed in exchange for guilty plea

Editor's note: The Floyd County Times does not identify alleged victims of sexual abuse.

Rape charges against a Harold man were dismissed Wednesday, the day he was to stand trial.

Wesley Boyd, 36, entered a guilty plea to one count of first-degree criminal mischief Wednesday morning in Floyd Circuit Judge John David Caudill's court. His trial was originally scheduled to begin that day on one count of criminal mischief, one count of fourth-degree assault, and one count of first-degree rape.

The assault and rape charges were dismissed with Boyd's guilty plea.

Boyd was indicted in March 1991 on the three charges. The indictment states that he reportedly raped the alleged victim by "forcible compulsion" and also hit her. He later damaged a truck belonging to her husband.

He was sentenced to one year on the charges, probated for a year and must pay restitution for damage to the vehicle.

Cocaine cases held over to grand jury

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

The cases against four Floyd County men charged with trafficking in cocaine were held over Wednesday to a grand jury.

The charges were the result of a month-long investigation by the Floyd County Sheriff's Department and a raid on October 25 that targeted the Wheelwright, Weeksbury, and Tram areas.

The cases against Kenny Johnson, 44; Robert Meade, 28, both of Weeksbury; Robert Hood, 25, of Wheelwright; and Charles McCauley, 31, of Melvin, were all waived to the grand jury after detective James Rederick testified Wednesday during preliminary hearings.

Rederick testified during the hearings that a confidential informant bought cocaine from each of the defendants and recorded the transactions.

He said the drugs obtained during the raid were sent to the Ashland Regional Crime Lab for further testing.

Amy Kratz, attorney for three of the defendants, requested a bond reduction for her clients, but one of the requests was denied.

When Kratz made a motion to reduce Hood's bond from $10,000 cash, assistant county attorney Lance Daniels objected.

"Hood is a convicted felon doing the same thing as before," Daniels said during the hearing.

District Judge James R. Allen overruled the motion for the reduction, and Hood is still lodged in the Floyd County Adult Detention Center.

However, Kratz did get the bond reduced for Johnson, who had already been released from the jail; and McCauley, who was released Wednesday evening.

Johnson's bond was reduced from $10,000 cash to $5,000 cash, and a $10,000 partially secured bond was set for McCauley. McCauley's previous bond was $4,000 cash.

Judge Allen also approved a bond reduction for Meade, who had already been released. His attorney, John Coleman, requested that Meade's bond be reduced from the original $10,000 cash. Allen set a new cash bond at $5,000.

Coleman also requested that Meade's firearms be released from the sheriff's department, since a search of Meade's residence did not result in the confiscation of any drugs.

Last month's raid, conducted by Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson and detective Rederick, led to the confiscation of more than a half pound of marijuana, a quantity of cocaine, several firearms, an undisclosed amount of cash, and various other drug paraphernalia.

constantly reminding the players they were "playing like girls" were lodged against the coach. Others accused Derossett of ramming his hand through a chalkboard, throwing helmets and constantly telling the players: "You're nothing."

At the meeting, Derossett said he offered to let the players who walked out come back, face a one-game suspension (Friday night), and earn their way back into the lineup, but only if the remaining players voted to allow them back.

"I met with the other players this morning (Wednesday), and I let them decide if they were to come back or not," the Prestonsburg coach said. "The players voted not to let them return."

Derossett said he was concerned about some of the players allegedly going to Marlowe's (a Pike County nightclub) and their drinking, as well as smoking.

"One of the parents told me that this team could have won the state title," Derossett said. "But I told them to look at last year, playing at Russell."

"If we had finished 9-0 and won the district, they would have been praising me instead of accusing me," he said.

Coach Derossett said the incident has brought the remaining team members closer together and their "spirits are high."

"We had three of the best practices we have had in a long time," he said. "I told the players there would be no more bad language from me, and they were not going to do it either."

"We are asking the community to rally behind us and support us in the playoffs," he said.

have to be finished 30 days before the filing deadline for the primary in 1998.

The law also states that the fiscal court has to approve the redistricting within 60 days after it has been completed and that no precinct will be in more than one district.

After the court approves the plan, residents have 20 days to "bring an action in the circuit court" if they oppose the approved plan.

That puts a late December, 1997 deadline for completion of the redistricting project, according to Hale.

It's something that has to be done, Hale said. "The people have spoken and we need to listen," he added.

He emphasized that residents should realize that the amount of work that needs to be done in the county hasn't changed just because the number of representatives on the court will decrease.

"There's the same land mass and the same number of roads," he said. "There's the same amount of work to be done. This doesn't change anything in the scope of county business. The governing body is still made up of the judge and the fiscal court."

Hale wouldn't pin the change to any one cause, although area residents have vocally opposed the manner in which county business is conducted as well as the individuals sitting on the current court.

A district breakdown of votes shows that only in Magistrate Elmer Ray Johnson's District 3 did the measure not earn voters approval. In that district 1,324 voters pushed the "against" button on the voting machine. But the margin of victory was slim, with 1,271 voting for the change.

Magistrate Eral Tackett's District 4 almost defeated the move, losing by only 18 votes—1,239 for, 1,221 against.

The biggest difference was in District 1 where 2,535 residents voted for the change and 1,006 voted against. In Jackie Owens' District 2, 1,683 voted for the change, 800 against it. Owens spent the most time and money campaigning against the change.

Absentee voters also approved the change with 234 voting for and 118 voting against.

$250 on the election, there would have been little to contribute to other candidates. They are not required to file finance reports.

Allen and Collins said on their filing papers they would spend less than $3,000 on the election. They must file finance reports within 30 days after Tuesday's election.

Centers also said she was told the candidates were not raising funds but were using their personal money to finance the campaign and that they could personally contribute to another candidate.

"The problem comes when they have raised money from other sources," she said. "Then they can't give those funds to another candidate."

timates to determine the realistic costs for the project," he said. "This will help us put a price tag on the plan."

According to Reichenbach, the project is already included in the six-year state road plan and construction could begin as early as July 2000.

"We should be able to begin acquiring right-of-way by 1999," Reichenbach said.

He said the project could be "accelerated" because state funding, rather than federal funding will be used. "State money is always much

There was apparently some confusion among election registry officials on the issue. Questions concerning the legality of the political advertising by the eight candidates drew conflicting opinions last month.

Centers said earlier that the group could run advertising together, but the cost of each advertisement had to be split equally among all eight candidates. "It's not a good practice for one candidate to be involved financially in another candidate's campaign," she said at the time.

Carter, who was coordinating the advertising for the group, said he received approval from registry officials to continue the advertising more flexible than federal funds," Reichenbach said.

Construction could take as long as two years because of major bridge work and some rock removal that is anticipated.

Floyd residents concerned about the road's impact on the Battle of Middle Creek area can rest assured. Reichenbach said the state is going to do everything possible to leave the site intact.

"We are sensitive to that issue and are looking at routes that will have the least impact on the site and leave the people satisfied," he after the complaint was filed last month and that the candidates were trying to "save money" by running joint advertisements.

He said earlier he was told the eight would be subject to an audit by the Registry, but that he thought an audit was always a possibility. He said he was also asked to fill out additional paperwork indicating the group would not spend more than $250 each on advertising during the campaign.

An administrative assistant with the election registry, who asked not to be identified, said after that, however, that candidates could not use funds collected for the campaign, regardless of where the money came from, to support another candidate.

added. "We are hoping to stay away from that side of the road."

The Middle Creek property is owned by the Fitzpatrick family and Reichenbach said they are "protective of those boundaries."

"And rightly so," he said. "We don't want to take away our heritage."

Reichenbach said the meetings will also help determine additional projects that are needed along the route. "Behind this one, there are other projects," he said. "Our plan is that we'll see more projects on Route 114 in the next six-year plan."

Bomb threat delays school by two hours

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

Prestonsburg High School got a late start Thursday morning after a bomb threat was received and a two-hour search of the building was conducted by the Prestonsburg Fire Department.

Prestonsburg fire chief Tom Blackburn said Thursday that the department responded to the high school at approximately 7:45 a.m.

"We searched the building, lockers, classrooms, handbags, and file cabinets," Blackburn said. "Nothing turned up." He said the fire department left the high school about 10 a.m.

Blackburn said the fire department responds to the high school on an average of once a day, sometimes twice, because someone keeps pulling the fire alarm.

"This is very disruptive for the school process," he said.

Interim superintendent Louie Martin said he was aware of the bomb threat and a meeting would be held to determine what can be done about the situation.

"We intend to get to the bottom of this," Martin said, "and the code of conduct will determine the punishment for whoever is responsible."

Assistant principal Ron Hampton said Thursday that measures have already been taken to catch the person who called in the bomb threat.

Hampton said if someone is caught calling in a bomb threat, he or she would most likely be placed on long-term suspension for six to ten days, and expulsion procedures would be initiated.

Hampton said the matter would also be turned over to the court system.

Tourism director James asks for help

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Prestonsburg Tourism Director Fred James, on loan to the Mountain Arts Center as marketing director, asked for help Wednesday.

At a meeting of the Prestonsburg Tourism Commission Wednesday at the arts center, James told commissioners that he needed assistance because his former secretary, Debbie Wallen, was working at the arts center.

Wallen's salary is funded, in part, through tourism and through the Jenny Wiley Pioneer Festival. Wallen stepped down as secretary of the festival in September.

Bob Meyer, director of the Mountain Arts Center, asked commissioners to continue to subsidize Wallen's salary. He added that she put in about 60 hours per week at the center, and "it was not possible, not an issue, not a question" that she had time to assist James with tourism work.

At one point, when tourism chairman Mark Miller suggested returning Wallen to the tourism office, Meyer became angry and responded: "Now, you'll get my hackles up on that. (The ticket sales are) a complicated situation. She's getting a handle on it."

Meyer implied that if another secretary was hired to do ticket sales, the art center would suffer during the training process.

"Tourism will have to go through the same thing," Miller said.

Commissioners agreed that they thought James needed secretarial help.

"I'm afraid we're going to burn Fred out. We groomed Fred to go out and hunt these tourists (through travel shows). We've taken him out of his job. We need him. He's like Kentucky blue, he bleeds this area," commissioner Boyd Thompson said.

Prestonsburg mayor Jerry Fannin encouraged commissioners to hire a secretary and said that the city would fund about $2,000 or $3,000 of the salary paid. Fannin said he needed someone to work part-time at his office to help with scheduling, and James' secretary could work part-time at both offices.

Commissioner Blake Burchett asked James if, once the arts center was "up and running," the tourism office needed a full-time director and a secretary. James said yes, and explained that marketing for the arts center and tourism went hand-in-hand.

"Marketing for the Mountain Arts Center bleeds over into the tourism market for the city with the arts center as the plum," he said.

"If I had my druthers, I would hire an assistant — someone to type, to help with mailouts, or to attend Eastern Highlands North Tourism meetings," he added.

Thompson said he thought the commission was "kind of getting top-heavy on administrative staff."

"What are we going to use to promote (tourism) with," he asked. "The purpose of (the restaurant and motel tax) is the promotion of tourism. We have to reach out for 500 miles to the surrounding area. We've got to send someone like Fred to bus tours, lobbying to bring them in."

James suggested a marketing plan be drawn up for the Mountain Arts Center and tourism in order to "look at the big picture."

"Doing marketing for the Mountain Arts Center and tourism is a big job. We need a person researching, pulling in every business, looking at conventions. We need to have someone on the telephone," James said.

Mayor Fannin suggested the commission look at its budget, pool its money with the city and hire part-time help.

Burchett said that the commission was saving about $2,500 per year on utility costs and expenses after James moved tourism from the county-owned office he formerly occupied to the arts center. That amount and the city's $2,500 share would almost pay for the salary, he added.

New commissioner Donna Blackburn Wells, representing the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, said the Pioneer Festival committee paid former secretary Debbie Wallen about $3,000 and asked if that money would be taken from Wallen's salary and added to the new secretary's salary.

Mayor Fannin said Wallen would continue to receive the $3,000 that the festival had allotted to her salary.

"Where you take a dollar and put it doesn't really matter as long as (the job) gets done," he said.

Chairman Miller asked James to clarify his needs by the next meeting and suggested commissioners determine if they can afford to hire help and check into the legalities of using the tourism funds.

"We volunteer our time and we need to make sure the money is used how it's supposed to be used," commissioner Miller said.

"We understand that we shifted gears and realized that we would take a back seat. If you see we're going to lose, we have no other choice but to go with it. We need to keep tourism mobile and not stagnant," commissioner Tommy Lafferty said.

"It's so important not to put tourism on the back burner," added Linda Smith, who attended her first meeting as a commissioner. Smith replaced Stanual Mullins, who moved to Tennessee in October. Smith represents the hotel industry on the tourism board.

The commission will meet Tuesday, November 12, at 8:15 a.m. to review and revise the budget.

Attending the meeting were commissioners Donna Wells, Linda Smith, Dr. Blake Burchett, Mark Miller, Tommy Lafferty and Boyd Thompson; arts center director Bob Meyer; and Prestonsburg Mayor Jerry Fannin. Commissioner Jim Sparks showed up for the meeting, but left before it began. Commissioner Burchett attended most of the meeting, but left before it ended.

Chase arrestees jailed, fined

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

Two Martin County men, who were passengers in a vehicle that was pursued Monday by Prestonsburg Police sergeant Gerald Clark into Pike County until the chase ended in a creek bed, were ordered Wednesday to pay fines and spend five days in the county jail.

Virgil Jude, who turns 51 today (Friday), was given five days in jail and ordered to pay $150 in fines plus court costs after he pleaded guilty Wednesday in Floyd District Court to alcohol intoxication and resisting arrest charges.

Ernest Scott, 32, was also ordered to pay $150 in fines and court costs, and was sentenced to serve five days in the county jail when he pleaded guilty to the same charges.

Clark said Tuesday that Jude and Scott fled on foot from police officials when the vehicle stopped.

Tackett Newsome, the driver of the vehicle, was charged with 18 traffic violations, three counts of first-degree criminal mischief and five counts of wanton endangerment.

District Judge James R. Allen entered a not-guilty plea to Newsome's charges, and a preliminary hearing is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, November 13, to determine if there is probable cause to refer the charges to a grand jury.

Newsome was placed under a $10,000 cash bond, and is still lodged in the Floyd County Adult Detention Center.

Sergeant Clark said he had pulled the vehicle over at Lancer to check the tags and the vehicle took off when he approached it.

Clark said the pursuit lasted for more than a half hour and covered approximately 25 miles. The highest speed reached during the pursuit was 70 miles per hour on Route 1428, and approximately 40 to 60 miles per hour on Cow Creek, Clark said.

Youth training

CAP president Mike Sanders, right, and Madison Central High School senior Tony Stone spoke to governors and leaders from the Appalachian states recently about training youth to become leaders.

Sanders, CAP president, addresses Appalachian Regional Commission

Mike Sanders, president of the Christian Appalachian Project (CAP) and Tony Stone, a sophomore at Madison Central High School, addressed the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) at its quarterly meeting in Somerset last week.

Before his promotion to president of CAP earlier this year, Sanders was director of operations and often worked at the Martin office of CAP. He is a native of Phelps in Pike County.

At the ARC session, Sanders explained the importance of leadership development for youth, calling them the future of the region. The ARC has funded a Youth Leadership Initiative headquartered at CAP's Camp Andrew Jackson near McKee that offers training for teens in Jackson and several surrounding counties. Tony Stone, a participant in the training program, joined Sanders in stressing the importance of leadership training for youth.

When asked by Jesse White, chairman of the ARC, what he had gotten out of the program so far, Stone replied, "Six months ago you couldn't have dragged me in front of a group like this. Now I have the confidence and self-assurance to stand up in front of anybody and tell them exactly how I feel about things. I've taken the training to my workplace and I've gotten involved with organizations at school. Instead of complaining about the way things are, I've decided I need to help fix them."

Stone's comments drew sustained applause from members of the commission.

High-ranking officials from governors' cabinets in the 13 Appalachian states, along with Governor Paul Patton and Congressman Hal Rogers, convened at the new Rural Development Center in Somerset to conduct official business.

Census bureau to gather job info

The nation's basic data on employment, unemployment, and characteristics of the labor force will be collected the week of November 17, when employees from the Commerce Department's Census Bureau will be in the area to conduct the Current Population Survey (CPS). Results from the CPS—which has been conducted monthly since 1942—will be kept confidential and will provide Americans with up-to-date information on the nation's work force.

Susan B. Hardy, director of the Census Bureau's Charlotte regional office, says, "Information from the CPS provides the nation with current and accurate employment and labor force statistics as well as a host of other important information. For example, data on how many people voted in the presidential election will be collected in the November 1996 CPS."

Local households selected for the survey will receive a letter from Martha Farnsworth Riche, director of the Census Bureau, informing them of the survey. Census Bureau interviewers carry an official identification card with their photograph and signature. All individual information collected is kept strictly confidential by law and only statistical totals are published.

A political metamorphosis?

by Scott Perry

We urged you a couple of years ago not to read too much into the GOP's Congressional takeover in Kentucky, believing at the time that the event was more of a minor rebellion than a signal that Kentucky was becoming a two-party state.

Could be time for reconsideration.

Tuesday's election results suggest that Kentucky's move to the right of center may be more than a passing fancy.

Five of six seats in the U.S. Congress will now be filled with Republicans, and half of the Senate belongs to the GOP despite the considerable efforts of state Democrat Party officials to turn the tide on the 1994 vote.

Republicans also picked up a seat in the state Senate, closing the party line gap there, and Democrats made no significant advances in their majority in the state House as a result of Tuesday's vote. And, despite Bill Clinton's narrow win in Kentucky, GOP candidate Bob Dole carried more counties than his predecessor George Bush did in 1992.

Let us caution you again, though, that the numbers aren't definitive proof that Kentucky has adopted the two-party system.

Many local races are decided more on personalities than on party affiliation, for example.

Still, this election and the 1994 vote indicate that Kentucky voters, regardless of their party registration, are becoming more independent on election day.

How else can we explain the massive crossover votes that gave Clinton a plurality, yet handed the GOP an additional seat in Congress?

Maybe we shouldn't try to explain it, and just relish the fact that our state's voters are showing some independence at the polls.

We would urge party leaders from both sides of the aisle to recognize that metamorphosis and to realize that their traditional reliance on party lines isn't enough anymore.

Is Kentucky a two-party state?

Who knows?

We've become much less partisan, though, it appears, and that's a sign of political maturity. Let's see if it sticks.

Writer asks for help with genealogy

Editor:
 Several years ago I wrote to your paper asking for help on my family research. Again, I am asking for help.

I seem to be having difficulty locating information on the Daniels family of which my husband's grandmother was a member. Her name was Mary Ann Daniels, born in 1905 and died in 1924. Her father was Ben Daniels and her mother was Lillian Shiping or Shuping, I'm not sure about her last name.

If anyone has any information on any of these people or their families, I would truly appreciate the help.

Also, I am researching the Salisbury clan. My husband's grandfather was Morgan "Nick" Salisbury. We know very little about him, we do know he remarried after Mary Ann Daniels died, but we know very little about her and her family. We do not know what Nick looked like or much about him at all. If anyone might have pictures or anything about them, we'd truly appreciate it.

We know there are several of our relatives still living in and around Prestonsburg. Hunter, Printer, Salisbury and throughout Floyd County. If anyone can help me with any of our other lines I am researching, I'd be truly grateful.

The other related lines are as follows: Sizemore, Gearheart, Walker, Cole, Allen, Carroll, Flannery, Martin, Milton, Brooks, Elkins, Stephens and Stumbo.

Thanks for the Halloween treat

Editor:
 Teachers and staff of the Witches and Warlocks Association at Adams Middle School came to school in costumes October 31 to treat their students to a day of Halloween fun.

The teachers' Halloween surprise was that indeed. The students were thrilled. They saw as professional as all of you are (at Adams) that also you are human.

I am certainly proud to volunteer for all of Adams Middle School staff. With Barb Hatfield's help doing all of the Halloween decoration, it was exquisite. Thanks Barb. Teachers, you were outstanding. Thanks to all of you. Also, the staff in the cafeteria made eating a delight for the students at Adams. Thanks.

I want to also thank Mrs. Allen for the consent to our treat to the students at Adams and, with this, it was a successful Halloween treat for all.

Here's why we stay!

Editor:
 Since our retirement, so many people have asked us why we don't move from the area. Let me give you a few reasons.

While in Prestonsburg and Martin recently, we had trouble with our truck. So many people stopped to help in any way they could. Let me especially mention the Martin City Police, and our mechanic, Jr. Anderson, who came from Jack's Creek to help.

There were several others, too many to name, but that's why we don't move. Eastern Kentucky has a unique brand of people, ready to help in any way they can.

To all who came to our aid, thank you, thank you.

The Political 'Party'

Should the judges be judged?

A few weeks ago a very beautifully engraved invitation arrived in the mail encouraging my dad "to attend a buffet in honor of Justice Walter Baker, Supreme Court of Kentucky."

Justice Baker was appointed to the Supreme court last April to fill out the

by David Porter

term of deceased Justice Charles Reynolds.

While the seduction of a buffet would certainly have peaked my father's interest the price of the meal would have given him a good laugh.

At the bottom of the invitation was the not-so-unexpected surprise "Contribution Minimum: $250 Per Person."

Justice Walter Baker just ran for reelection to the Supreme Court, and the invitation I told you about is part of the low-key fund-raising efforts which typically occur in election campaigns for a Kentucky judgeship.

Such invitations sent to attorneys raise a great deal of controversy among government watch-dog groups and even the Kentucky Bar Association.

They believe lawyers making contributions to a judge's campaign will tarnish the image of impartiality and give the appearance of preferential treatment.

In his fund raising, Justice Baker raised only $40,000, or about seven cents per person. By contrast, a winning state Senate race will typically cost ten times that proportional amount.

However, running in a different

Supreme Court district, Justice Nick King spent more than $600,000 (including $520,000 of his very own money) and set a state Supreme Court campaign spending record—grossly exceeding the old record of $136,000. Justice King's fundraising brought upon him a storm of attacks from the merciless media, a hypocritical citizenry, and various holier-than-thou legal societies. For some reason, those who interpret the law (our judges) are held to a much higher standard of campaign ethics than those who create the law (our legislators).

Many even declared that due to the "lofty" positions our judges occupy they should not even be subjected to the indignity of running for office.

An editorial in the Courier-Journal actually read "Running for the State Supreme Court should be a classier exercise than...running for President or Congress, this year." Have we truly resigned ourselves to accept an image of our Congressmen and President necessarily tarnished by big money campaign spending?

And where did the notion of judicial impartiality and incorruptibility begin? Since their creation, even our, highest courts have operated as political machines. The very fact that the courts are part of the governing process, and that their decisions directly affect policy, means that judges are political people.

Their value-based decisions often coincide with the changes in society's values and, by the nature of their business, justices must always side with a particular group or interest.

And, if elected they have survived a battle inside the political arena, and if appointed they are appointed by politicians.

Further, the vast majority of judges and justices have had a previous life in partisan politics. As a matter of fact, just six months ago, Justice Baker was a Republican State Senator from Glasgow. It certainly does not appear the judges and justices are "above suffering the indignity of the election process."

On the contrary, they should be compelled to stand tall and announce their intentions should they be elected to the bench. After all, whatever power they do have is still derived from the people—just the same as our Governor and our legislators.

We also should remember that explanations of decisions made by the Supreme Court are appropriately called "opinions"—something we all possess. If our judges and justices always had the correct opinions, they would never disagree with one another, forming what is called "dissent," which is the case more often than not.

From this we can infer that there is room for interpretation in most decisions, and the people have a Constitutional right to know which interpretation they are electing.

To conclude, in spite of the false image of the Judicial branch's ethical superiority, they are still government employees, paid with taxes supplied by the people and, therefore, should be held accountable to the people for their performance.

It is unfathomable that judges and judicial candidates who wish to inform and consult the people about how they should judge are strictly forbidden to do so.

Regulations, created to protect the dignity of the courts, have served only to mask a judge's particular partialities (however slight) and the inescapable tendency to think politically. It's time for a change.

Allen directs drama in Virginia

Poet and playwright M. Ray Allen, a native of Floyd County, is directing his latest play, a two-act drama entitled "The Life and Times of Mad Ann Bailey," that was performed by the Clifton Forge Players at the historic Stonewall Theatre (circa 1905) on Saturday, November 2, and on Sunday, November 3, at 2:30 p.m.

Allen, who has been recognized by Morehead State University for his literary achievements by being honored as the 80th inductee into the MSU Alumni Hall of Fame in 1991, wrote "The Life and Times of Mad Ann Bailey" in conjunction with the celebration of the Allegheny Highlands' 250th Anniversary of its settlement. Michele Wright, co-chairman of the 250th Anniversary Committee, approved Allen's plan to write the play. That was during the summer of 1995.

Allen said, "I finished writing the play on August 1, and I agreed to serve as the director. The Clifton Forge Players have involved more than 70 citizens in the Allegheny Highlands in presenting nine previous productions, and this play has one of the largest casts. Twenty-one plus two understudies."

The first play Allen wrote was "A Musical Tribute to the Railroad," a musical revue that drew more than 300 to the one performance that was part of Railroad Days in Clifton Forge during the summer of 1992.

Allen recalled, "That play was more of a compilation of the variety show type, and the Stonewall Players were joined by several retired railroad workers in singing 'I've Been Working on the Railroad' during the production."

Allen is in his 33rd year of teaching in the public schools. He has taught English, creative writing, drama and journalism over the years in Kentucky, Michigan, California and Virginia.

Currently, he teaches English, creative writing and mythology at Allegheny High School. Allen, who holds his B.A. in English and physical education and M.A. in secondary education from MSU, earned his M.F.A. in theater arts from U.C.L.A. in 1980. He has served as a varsity coach in five sports, in addition to his teaching.

In 1985, Allen retired from coaching and founded Appalfolks of America Association (AAA), a non-profit corporation that promotes drug-free living via programs in the literary and performing arts. The historic Stonewall Theatre was donated to AAA in December of 1991. Allen has served as president of AAA since 1985, and he has been instrumental in spearheading the restoration of the twin cinema as a center for the arts.

Allen made his debut as a poet in 1968 by reading his poems at the opening celebration of the Douglass House Center in Long Beach, California. He recalled, "Bud Schulberg, the screenwriter who wrote 'On the Waterfront,' was the guest of honor that day, and I recall reading my poems to the large crowd that gathered to open the Douglass House Center. I was teaching at Marina High School in Huntington Beach at the time."

Allen's poems have been published in "Westwind," "Black Times," "Image," "The Poet's Domain," "Nostalgia," "Potato Eyes," "Appalachian Heritage," "Appalachian Voices," "Mantrip," "Green River Journal," and several anthologies, including "Old Wounds," "New Words," poems from the Appalachian Poetry Project.

"The Roads I Travel," a chapbook of poems concerning Allen's experiences in traveling around the world in 1970 and his travels throughout the United States during the following decade, was published by Nighthade Press (Troy, Maine, 1990). "Between the Thorns: Windcarver Songs of Appalachia" (ROAD Publishers, Fairfax, Virginia, 1991) was published during the summer of the poet's 50th birthday.

Born in Martin, in 1941, Allen graduated from McDowell High School in 1959, and much of the material he writes about comes from his experiences in growing up in Eastern Kentucky, leaving that area to travel and teach in other states, and returning to Appalachia to write and teach.

He is the two-time winner of the Claude M. Law Memorial Poetry Contest, and he has won both the Shawnee Hills Blank Verse Poetry Contest and the Shawnee Hills Free Verse Poetry Contest. Allen has won more than two dozen poetry awards during his career as a poet, and he was nominated for a Pushcart Prize by the editor of Nostalgia Magazine located in Orangeburg, South Carolina.

Allen recalled, "Connie Martin, the editor of Nostalgia, selected 'Pick Your Own Strawberries,' a poem I wrote about my grandfather, and nominated it for a Pushcart Prize. I did not win that award, but I consider it an honor to have been nominated."

Allen won the Herbert T. Harris Poetry Award sponsored by the Green River Writers of Louisville for the first blank verse poem, "Grandma's Bed," that he wrote. Allen said, " 'Grandma's Bed' is a unique poem in that it is an acrostic and a blank verse poem all in one. The first letter of the first word in each of the poem's lines spells APPALACHIA where my grandmother is buried. The poem pays tribute to her."

In writing "The Life and Times of Mad Ann Bailey," Allen turned to blank verse to write the dialogue and monologues of the characters who lived from 1742 till 1825, all except the Indians. For the Indians in the play, Allen chose heroic couplets.

He remarked, "I wanted to elevate the language of the frontiersmen and the Indians, so I wrote the dialogue of the modern characters in the play in prose to contrast with the poetic language of the old-time characters."

Since Allen began teaching at Allegheny High School in 1978, his poems have been published in several area publications, including "Artemis," "Lumina," and "The Jackson River Mad Tom."

He has read his poems at Center in the Square, Kings Dominion, Radford University, Berea College, Douthat State Park, Dabney S. Lancaster Community College, Southern Seminary, the Allegheny Highlands Arts and Crafts Center, Mountain Book Company, the Berkeley Poets' Co-op, UCLA Poetry Workshop and the Stonewall Theatre.

Recently, Allen was invited to

Piano auditions held at MSU

On Saturday, October 19, at Baird Music Hall, on the campus of Morehead State University, the following students participated in a program of piano auditions and recitals sponsored by the Kentucky Music Teachers Association.

The students were selected to attend this state-wide event because of their outstanding performances for their regional KMTA Student Workshop programs.

Students, their parents and teachers were Britt Coleman, Phillip and Carol Coleman, Dena Gibson; Julie Mullins, Jean Morris; Britney Tackett, Greg and Tammy Tackett.

display his books in Williamsburg as part of the Virginia Library Association's conference that honors Virginia authors.

Allen has two original screenplays to his credit, "Bloody Harlan" and "Call of the Dragon." Allen noted, "I am going to write 'The Life and Times of Mad Ann Bailey' as a screenplay next, and I am currently working on completing a series of 24 songs entitled 'The Winds of Eden Collection.'"

In addition to plays and poems, Allen has had more than 500 articles published as a free-lance writer. He observed, "Most of the articles I have written were sold to newspapers, and most of them were about fishing, baseball, basketball, hunting, golf, or some other sport."

His sports articles have appeared in such publications as "Golf Review," "The Allegheny Highlander," and "The Virginian Review."

Allen, an athlete who lettered three years at MSU as an outfielder for the Morehead Eagles, turned to coaching in 1963, the year after he decided to quit pursuing a career in professional baseball. He served as varsity baseball coach at Lewis County High School where he doubled as varsity basketball coach for two years. His basketball team won the first 58th District Championship in the school's history, the first in Vanceburg's history since 1948.

Allen came to Virginia from California as varsity basketball coach at Allegheny County High School where his 1981 team won the only basketball Blue Ridge District Tournament Championship in the school's 20-year history. He retired after three seasons with the only winning record (32-30) in the school's history.

Allen said, "Sports have always been a part of my life, and I may be the only poet to ever have been published in the same year that he won a trophy for fighting in a karate tournament."

As for goals for writing, Allen said that his goal remains to be able to write for a living. So far, that goal has remained out of his reach.

Allen concluded, "During the nearly 30 years that I have been publishing my articles and poems, I have received less than my current salary as a teacher. In all, I have only made about $25,000 as a writer, but my goal remains to be able to write full time."

care of families and patients of all ages with various health problems and needs.

The clinic houses a growing residency program with UK faculty physicians constantly on site. "I love the teaching-learning atmosphere," Glennis states. "I'm constantly seeing, learning and doing new things everyday." Glennis has always lived in Eastern Kentucky near her parents, Glenn and Martha Stone. She enjoys the privileges and closeness of her very extended family roots and has chosen to raise her two sons, Dustin and Corey, in Eastern Kentucky as well.

Nurse practitioners are registered nurses with advanced education and clinical training and are nationally recognized as expert nurses. As primary health care providers there has been a large number of research studies documenting that nurse practitioners provide high quality, cost-effective care that results in a high level of patient satisfaction. They obtain medical histories and perform physical exams, diagnose, treat, and monitor patients with health problems; They order and interpret diagnostic studies, prescribe or recommend medications and other forms of treatment. Nurse practitioners are capable of providing prenatal care, family planning services, well-child care, emphasizing health promotion and disease prevention for people of all ages.

"A major part of my role is knowing when to consult a physician or refer a patient. So far I've not had a problem with this. The physicians in the area have been very easy to work with and the residency program provides me easy access to a doctor during my clinic hours."

Little obtained her Master of Science Degree in Nursing from the University of Tennessee. Later she attended the University of Kentucky's Post Masters Scholars Program to obtain her FNP courses. Clinical rotations included working with Mildred Sizemore, FNP from Salyersville; Dr. Blake Burchett from Prestonsburg; Drs. Ron Hall and Steve Shockey of Pikeville; and Susan Ziegler, FNP of the Frontier Nursing Service in Leslie Company.

Little is coordinator of quality assurance for the clinic and has been asked to initiate a formal patient education program. She is involved with teaching the residents about her role and scope of practice, as well as educating them about rural health care beliefs and attitudes of the people.

The American Red Cross recently announced plans to form a local chapter for the Big Sandy area. Serving Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties, the Red Cross chapter will provide disaster preparedness and relief, CPR and first aid training, swimming instruction and assistance to military families. According to Norwood Miller, field service manager of the state Red Cross office, "The formation of the Big Sandy Chapter is a commitment made by the national headquarters of the American Red Cross to ensure that consistent, vital services are provided in all communities."

Local leaders from each of the five counties have been recruited to serve on a steering committee to direct the project. Serving on the committee are Thomasine Robinson, Dr. Tim Skeen, Carol Holbrook, Christine Conley, Mike Howell, Betty Price, Doris Barnett, Jerry Hardt, Eddith Hensley, Phyllis Walker, Kennis Maynard, Eillene Patrick, Gerald Altman, Sharon Hall, Diane Lewis and Juanita Risky.

"The steering community is working to recruit local community leaders to serve on the chapter's Board of Directors, as well as hire a manager and locate a site for an office," explains Miller. "Plans are to open an office by February 1997," he adds.

"Red Cross has a long history of providing assistance to the residents of the Big Sandy area, and forming a chapter will only help to improve service delivery by involving local volunteers to identify needs and find solutions," Miller states.

Safety rule combats diesel dangers in underground mines

The Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) October 25, issued safety standards to protect miners against hazards from diesel equipment in underground coal mines. The new requirements will help safeguard miners from fires, explosions, toxic exhaust gases, and other dangers that diesels can pose in underground coal operations.

"With diesel use on the rise in the underground coal industry, coal miners need these requirements to help assure them a safe work environment underground," said Davitt McAteer, assistant secretary of labor for mine safety and health. "Until now, federal safety rules for equipment in underground coal mines focused mainly on electrically powered machines."

As internal combustion engines, diesels present a possible explosion risk in the underground coal mine environment where potentially explosive methane gas can occur. High-temperature components of diesel engines also can pose a fire hazard in the presence of coal and other combustibles. Handling and storage of diesel fuels underground can create additional fire dangers. In addition, diesel exhaust can be hazardous to miners.

With adequate safety precautions, diesels can be used safely in underground coal mines, McAteer emphasized.

MSHA's new requirements on diesel-powered equipment in underground coal mines fall into three categories: equipment design and testing, safety standards, and monitoring of exhaust gases.

Under the new rule, all diesel machines for use at the working face of an underground coal mine will have to be MSHA-approved. MSHA approval of diesels for use at the working face, where fire and explosion risks are highest, will require design features to reduce fire and explosion hazards. Electrically powered machines used at the underground coal mine working face already must meet similar approval requirements.

Further safety requirements for diesel equipment in underground coal mines include many features already required on electrically powered equipment such as safe brakes, lights, protective cabs or canopies, automatic fire suppression systems, and machine-mounted methane monitors. MSHA's new rule on diesels in underground coal mines also requires engine maintenance by persons adequately trained for the task and covers the safe storage and handling of diesel fuel.

In addition, under the new rule all diesel engines must undergo emissions testing to receive MSHA approval for use anywhere in an underground coal mine. Diesels in underground coal mines must use low-sulfur fuel. A specific ventilation requirement will protect miners from toxic gaseous emissions. Under the new rule, mine operators will monitor carbon monoxide and nitrogen dioxide levels in areas where diesels are used and if concentrations are too high, must take corrective action.

Diesel units operating in the U.S. underground coal mines have increased from roughly 150 in 1974 to more than 2,900 units in 1995, with an increase to some 4,000 units possible by the year 2000. Diesel machines most often used in underground coal mines include personnel carriers, utility trucks, and tractors. Other types of underground coal mine equipment that may be diesel powered include generators, scoops, hydraulic pumps, compressors, welders, shuttle cars, road graders and roof bolting machines.

MSHA's new rule on the use of diesel-powered equipment in underground coal mines becomes effective in six months, except for specific provisions scheduled to be phased in over a period of 30 days to 36 months. Copies of the diesel rule are available from MSHA's Office of Standards, Regulations and Variances, 4015 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, VA 22203, telephone (703) 235-1910, or may be found on MSHA's home page on the World Wide Web at <http://www.msha.gov> under "Statutory and Regulatory Information."

Words of Life

Time is of the essence

by Allan F. Hutchinson
Pastor
First Church of God

Time is truly of the essence. Have you found yourself rushing the children to school, ball practice, the dentist, then suddenly remember you were supposed to be at two other places 15 minutes ago?

Does this sound familiar? Some of the most frequently used adages to describe this type of predicament are: "Where has time gone?" or "Time flies when you are having fun."

Actually, the older I get, the more time flies whether I'm having fun or not.

Time is a vital commodity, a precious resource. God has allotted a certain portion to us like the number of grains in an hour glass.

Each grain represents an increment of time; seconds, minutes, hours, days...exactly how many we have is a mystery to us. We are simply instructed to "redeem what time we have."

People today must cope with a great deal of stress coming from many different sources such as: deadlines, pressure at work, appointments and time away from family, not to mention the numerous activities our children bring into our already overwhelmed schedule.

As a result of these stressors, society has adopted the notion "If I can't get it done today, I'll do it tomorrow," thus spending time they have yet to realize.

No doubt similar conditions which existed in James' day prompted him to pen words of wisdom to the church of his day, warning them of the danger which exists in assuming their time is infinite.

James warns, "Come now, you who say, 'Today or tomorrow we will go to such and such a city, spend a year there, buy and sell, and make a profit'; whereas you do not know what will happen tomorrow,

For what is your life? It is even a vapor that appears for a little time then vanishes away" (James 4:13-14).

The question James poses is one which stimulates our thinking in realms of eternity rather than tomorrow.

"What is your life? What do we use to measure the successfulness of our existence here on earth? Is it a bank account, money market fund, investment portfolio, educational accomplishments or social standing?"

While there certainly isn't any harm in having these things, to measure life's success by them is to miss the point James implies in scripture.

Our life is short, brief, momentary at best, similar to this vapor of steam which we see only for an instant, never to be observed again.

As we view our life in this manner, all which seems to be important fades away as a vapor and the reality of an infinite, never-ending eternity become prevalent in our mind.

Until a person is able to view their time of existence on earth in the light of eternity, they will never understand the importance of God's grace today. The Apostle Paul wrote to the church in Corinth stressing the importance of viewing time in this manner, "Behold, NOW is the accepted time; Behold, NOW is the day of salvation" (II Corinthians 6:2).

The precise amount of time a person will exist in this life is a mystery which only our Heavenly Father knows.

The best course for people to take is to prepare today for what may come tomorrow. Dr. Leslie Weatherhead has made a great contribution to the Christian community in providing valuable research on the subject of time.

Dr. Weatherhead calculated out the average length of life with the hours in one day to illustrate the importance of numbering our days and viewing our time as precious. He concludes: if your age is 15, the time is 10:25 a.m.; 20, the time is 11:34 a.m.; 25, the time is 12:24 p.m.; 30, the time is 1:51 p.m.; 35, the time is 3 p.m.; 40, the time is 4:08 p.m.; 45, the time is 5:15 p.m.; 50, the time is 6:25 p.m.; 55, the time is 7:34 p.m.; 60, the time is 8:42 p.m.; 65, the time is 9:51 p.m.; 70, the time is 11:00 p.m.

How quickly a day goes by, yet each one builds into weeks, months and years.

You have a couple of thousands of seconds left in this day, and then by averages, thousands of days to follow. Determine in your heart today to make them count by numbering them and using them wisely.

It has been said, "Yesterday is a canceled check, tomorrow is a promissory note, today is the only cash you have, so invest it wisely in God's service so you can reap eternal rewards."

"No eye has seen, no ear has heard, no mind has conceived what God has prepared for those who love him, but God has revealed it to us by His Spirit" (I Corinthians 2:9-10).

Home injuries can be costly

Seven million disabling injuries, more than 26,000 deaths and more than $94 billion in health care costs are associated with injuries in the home every year.

Osborne students hold mock election

In preparation for the election, students at Dr. W.D. Osborne Elementary recently held a mock election in Susie Tackett's social studies classes. Students were very enthusiastic and motivated throughout the week of activities. All students participated in activities including making posters, banners, and flyers. They held a presidential convention and debate. Candidates wrote their own speeches and developed their own platform. The hot topics of debate included the walleye system, economy, education, crime/drug abuse, and the environment.

All students were given the opportunity to vote, and Bill Clinton won in all classes.

Victory

Winners

Chasity Mitchell and Brittany Boyd were all smiles during a mock election at Osborne.

Campaigning

An important part of campaigning is a handshake and a promise. Candidate Lana Lackey is pictured shaking hands with Lekita Johnson and Mary Beth Little.

Paper art

Rie presented a hat to Kimberly Williams, watching were Shanna McKenzie, Zachary Clark, and Caitlin Hale in Leslie Ousley's primary class.

Primary students learn a different way of life

Leslie Ousley's Upper Primary Students at Prestonsburg Elementary were visited recently by two young ladies from Japan as a part of culminating activities centered upon the Olympic theme.

Rie and Yukiko discussed differences between Japanese and American culture, geographical make-up, as well as political systems.

While working with the students in "hands-on activities," they shared samples of Sinbei, a type of Japanese food, taught the students how to write their names in Japanese, and showed the students how to do a Japanese tradition called Oragami, art which involves careful paper folding.

Rie and Yukiko were in Prestonsburg for a one week stay as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Jones, whose daughter, Feagin, is a student in Mrs. Ousley's class. The class plans to continue their study of Japan through correspondence with Rie and Yukiko.

"DWOK" parent meeting

Parents in Renee Allen and Wanda Johnson's primary classes at McDowell Elementary School were introduced to the "DWOK" Curriculum during a parent involvement day.

The parents were introduced to a "DWOK" lesson and actually participated in the "hands-on" and problem solving activities. The "DWOK" (Different Ways of Knowing) Curriculum is a social studies based curriculum that incorporates science, mathematics, and arts and humanities into the thematic units.

Basic skills are also stressed throughout the units. McDowell Elementary is a pilot school for the "DWOK" Curriculum.

Awards ceremony

Leslie Ousley's Upper Primary Students at Prestonsburg Elementary celebrated the end of the 1995-1996 school year in a "mini" awards ceremony. The students were treated to a "congratulations" cake and received numerous certificates, ribbons, and trophies for their outstanding accomplishments throughout the year. Pictured are Cory Tinscher, Emily Sloan, Michelle Hackworth, Tanvir Salahaddin, Samantha Tussey, Alma Bentley, Savannah Campbell, and Casey Price.

Mountain Community Radio announces on-air fund drive

Ever wonder what happened to the good old days of radio when you knew the person you were listening to and live music was a regular feature?

You can stop wondering because the good old days of radio are very much alive and on your dial at 88.7 FM, WMMT, Mountain Community Radio, a station that has done all this without airing a single commercial in its 11-year history. How has it done this?

It is listener supported and licensed as a community radio station to the Appalshop in Whitesburg. One of the ways WMMT goes about raising money from listeners is a twice-yearly on-air fund drive. It will begin its fall drive on Tuesday, November 12, with a goal of $30,000.

To contribute to WMMT or simply get a program guide, you can write to: WMMT, 306 Madison St., Whitesburg, KY 41858, or call 606/633-0108.

Non-compliance is a doggone problem

Magoffin County is second on a list of Kentucky counties that are slated to be sued by The Trixie Foundation. The charge is non-compliance with state legislation requiring among other things, the employment of a dog catcher.

The legislation has been on the books since 1954. Magoffin is one of thirty counties at least partially in non-compliance.

The foundation, which now houses 105 dogs of all sizes and breeds, is a privately run, non-profit, no-kill animal shelter in Elliott County.

Randy Skaggs, founder and president of the foundation, contacted county judge executives, county attorneys, magistrates, state representatives, state senators and seventy county and regional newspapers across the state. His message was clear: comply or answer charges in court.

"From our research, we have discovered that there are thirty counties in the state of Kentucky in non-compliance with the state statutes as they pertain to dogs. It is now time that all counties comply, for the benefit of public safety and health and for the humane and compassionate treatment of abandoned and unwanted animals...Forty-two years has been more than enough time to address this particular problem," stated a letter from Skaggs and addressed to counties in non-compliance.

In order to comply with state statutes, Magoffin County would have to employ a dog warden and utilize the services of a dog pound. A contract is in the works that would allow Magoffin to utilize Lawrence County Humane Society's pound when needed. Lawrence County is the nearest facility that is in total compliance with statutes.

The title of dog catcher will probably be conferred to a current county employee, along with an increase to their salary of $1,000 a year.

Currently, deputy sheriff Greg Patrick is employed as dog catcher. Reportedly, he will not be retaining the office after the implementation of the new services.

Residents will be required to register their dogs with the county and to purchase dog tags which would have to be worn on a collar, to identify the animal.

Those animals found without registration will be fair game for the dog warden and owners could be charged a fine for not purchasing a license.

No prices have been proposed for either tags or fines. County officials new to the task of dog registration are seeking help with the organization of the program. Accordingly, Don Grubbs of the Greenup Humane Society, was on hand to answer any questions at an informative meeting held November 5, at the Magoffin County courthouse. — The Salyersville Independent

Governor's mansion

Lights, cameras, and action filled the rooms of the Governor's Mansion in Frankfort for two days recently as a production crew from the Arts and Entertainment Channel taped a segment for its "America's Castles" series. Kentucky's Governor's Mansion was built in 1914 with public rooms on the first floor and the upper stories used as the private residence of the governor and family. First lady Judi Patton of Pikeville was interviewed for the program on what it's like living in the mansion. There is no definite date for airing the segment, but Walker says it will likely be shown sometime in the spring of 1997.

Blaine woman killed when car hits propane truck driven by East Point man

by Jerry Pennington
The Big Sandy News

A Blaine woman was killed and two of her young children injured after the car they were in collided with a propane truck on Ky. 32 Wednesday, October 30.

Police said 32-year-old Peggy Ramey was traveling east on the highway about five miles from Louisa, when she apparently lost control of the car, she caused it to turn sideways in the roadway where the truck loaded with 1,500 pounds of propane struck the car in the driver's side.

"The best we can determine is that she was coming out of the curve and just totally lost control," KSP Public Relations Officer Gary Kistner said. "She had gone completely off the road to the left side."

Also injured in the accident was Ramey's four-year-old daughter, Jazzamine, who suffered a broken femur. Ramey's one-year-old son, Wade, had some broken ribs.

The propane truck, owned by Ferrellgas of Hager Hill, was driven by Hershel H. Stambough, 56, of East Point. Stambough told police he saw the car lose control and tried to avoid hitting it, but was unsuccessful.

"There was nothing he could do," Kistner said.

Stambough was taken to Three Rivers where he was treated and released.

Traffic along Ky. 32 was blocked for about an hour and a half following the accident, which occurred around 10:30 a.m. Both lanes were blocked by the wreckage and police wanted to make sure there were no propane leaks.

Kistner said no leaks were detected. The investigation is still open and Kistner said there was no evidence of excessive speed or drug or alcohol involvement in the accident. Also, he said there was no sign of any type of mechanical malfunction in the car.

The accident marked Lawrence County's fifth fatality this year.

Johnson man killed, Louisa man injured in work accident

A Johnson County man was killed and a Louisa man critically injured Tuesday, November 5, during an accident that occurred while the two men were working on railroad tracks near Ashland.

Gregory L. Ratliff, 44, of Thelma, was killed and Ronnie Holt, 46, of Louisa, was injured and listed in critical condition following the accident. Both men were workers for CSX railroad.

Police said the employees were taking up railroad ties with a back hoe near Meade Station, Tuesday afternoon around 1 p.m., when three railroad cars broke away from a crane that was pulling them nearby. The crane operator tried to catch up with the cars, but was unsuccessful.

Holt was working on the backhoe and Ratliff was standing on the ground when the cars struck both men, police said. Holt was ejected from the back hoe onto one of the cars, which traveled for 600 feet before stopping. He was airlifted to Cabell Huntington Hospital in Huntington, West Virginia, with multiple injuries. Ratliff was pronounced dead on the scene by the Boyd County Coroner. — The Big Sandy News

Library merger official

by Kim Stacy
Appalachian News-Express

After making a pair of changes to an inter parties agreement, the Pikeville City Commission has sealed the deal to allow the city and county libraries to merge.

Officials are hoping that the agreement signed Monday night, October 28, by the Pike County Public Library Board, Pikeville Public Library Board and the city of Pikeville will lead to a first-rate library-telecommunications center.

The two library boards voted last week to merge, along with the telecommunications center, into one facility.

The agreement turns over the new facility currently being constructed by the city library, once Phase I of the project is completed.

That new facility is expected to be completed in December. Plans for Phase II include additions for extra space for the joint library and the telecommunications center.

"You will be leading the way with this library as a source to other libraries in this region," said Roger Recktenwald, executive director of the Big Sandy Area Development District.

The new library will be constructed upon the city library's property on Hambly Boulevard in Pikeville.

Dead end a headache to Paintsville businesses

by Ralph B. Davis
Editor
The Paintsville Herald

While new U.S. 23 is certain to mean decreased traffic congestion in Paintsville, local businesses along Turner Branch are concerned about a loss of traffic.

Officials at the Department of Highways concede that they have received complaints from business owners along the now dead-end stretch of road, but stress that the inconvenience is only temporary.

Doug Wright, a construction engineer with the department, said crews will work over the next month to open up a new intersection of new U.S. 23 and the Turner Branch section of old U.S. 23 now known as Route 321.

"We look for the new intersection to open around the first week of December," Wright said.

For the time being, the road is restricted to local traffic only, but motorists can still get to homes or businesses along the half-mile section of highway.

But for at least one business, the closed road is only part of the problem.

Tammy Adkins, a manager at Jim's Stop and Shop, said the closing of Route 321 took her completely by surprise.

"The road has really hurt business very badly," Adkins said. "We weren't given any advance warning so we could cut our stock...A lot of customers just don't think they can get down here."

As a result of the road closing, Adkins said her store had to shorten its business hours and had to cut the number of hours employees can work.

Adkins said she has a message for her customers.

"Tell them we're still open and we'd like everyone to come down and shop with us," Adkins said.

Pikeville doctor's license suspended

From the Appalachian News-Express

A license of a Pikeville doctor has been suspended by the Kentucky Board of Medical Licensure because the board had good reason to believe he has become addicted to a controlled substance, a newspaper reported.

The board also said that Dr. James H. Cool Jr., 46, had prescribed more than 17,000 tablets, each containing 7.5 milligrams of Lortab, a narcotic painkiller, to nine patients in a year, according to the Courier-Journal.

According to the board's findings, Cool would write a prescription to a relative who would fill it with money provided by Cool. Then the two of them "would divide the Lortab units between themselves."

The board said that when Cool reported to work in the emergency room at Pikeville Methodist Hospital last July, he was required to give a urine sample that tested positive for opioids.

Once before that, the board said, Cool reported for work at the hospital but was told to rest for four hours because "he appeared to be under the influence of drugs."

Because of these two incidents, and because Cool "was prescribing large quantities of Lortab on hospital prescription blanks to patients who were not being seen in the emergency room," his contract with Pikeville Methodist was terminated.

Cool was licensed in 1973.

In the course of its investigation, the board used a confidential informant, who visited Cool to get Lortab prescriptions for two fictitious people. The board said Cool wrote prescriptions in each of the fictitious names, and then told a drug control investigator posing as a pharmacist that the prescriptions were valid, and that Cool was taking up to 80 Lortab tablets a day.

Cool couldn't be reached for comment.

Police eye alcohol in fatal wreck

A Pike County man is dead after the vehicle he was driving struck a coal truck bed.

Police say David Reynolds, 43, of Phyllis, was traveling along Route 3388 at Island Creek Road Friday, November 1, around 8:55 p.m. when he lost control of his car and ran into a coal truck bed parked on the side of the road.

According to a press release issued by Paintsville Police Chief Tom Haney, investigators suspect alcohol to be a factor in the wreck.

Reynolds was taken to Paul B. Hall Regional Medical Center and later transported to Cabell-Huntington Hospital, where he died.

Johnson County will receive emergency federal funds

Johnson County has been awarded federal funds under the emergency food and shelter national board program.

Johnson County has been chosen to receive $13,088 to supplement shelter programs in the area. The selection was made by a National Board that is chaired by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

A local board will determine how the funds awarded to Johnson County are to be distributed among the emergency food and shelter programs run by local service organizations in the area. — The Paintsville Herald

Roads which will receive initial blacktop surfacing are: 0.8 mile of County Road 1215, Howard Branch Road; 0.7 miles of County Road 1217, Montgomery Branch Road. A road that will receive blacktop resurfacing is 0.2 mile of County Road 1217, Montgomery Branch Road.

The work will be accomplished by contract. The projects will be financed with funds from the Rural and Secondary Roads Program. According to Transportation Secretary James Codell, the program receives its funds from the gasoline sales tax and is distributed to each Kentucky county based on the county's land size, population and amount of rural and secondary roads. The Transportation Cabinet estimates a total of $37 million worth of projects will be authorized under this program by the year's end. — The Salyersville Independent

State Auditor releases report of Magoffin sheriff's tax settlement

State Auditor Ed Hatchett has released his audit of the 1994 tax settlement of the Magoffin County Sheriff.

The audit found that the sheriff's financial statements fairly present the taxes charged, credited and paid in conformity with the prescribed cash basis of accounting.

The report further states that the sheriff's financial statements, with respect to the items tested, comply with applicable laws and regulations. It also contains a comment concerning the need for adequate segregation of duties. Segregation of duties is necessary to ensure proper security in the receipt and disbursement of official funds. — The Salyersville Independent

The new addition will bring 10 new classrooms to the school. Also included in the plans are a site-based council room, a conference room, and a family resource center office. Total cost for expansion will be nearly $1.3 million.

With unmined mineral tax funds on the way, at least $200,000 of that money will be spent on the SCHS project. The other $2 million will be bonded. If all goes as expected, the new wing at SCHS should be ready by the beginning of the 1997-98 school year. — The Martin County Sun

Gunshot victim loses baby

Pauline Hickman, 41, of Happy Hollow, near Inez, is listed in good condition after going through numerous surgeries from a recent gunshot wound.

Hickman, who was six months pregnant at the time of the shooting, on October 29, was transported to Cabell Huntington Hospital, but lost the baby as a result of her injuries. Hickman was shot in the chest at close range by her boyfriend, Calvin Pauley. Pauley said he thought the .357-caliber Magnum was unloaded when he pointed it at Hickman. He pulled the trigger twice. The second time the gun went off, striking Hickman.

The shooting has been ruled accidental, and no charges have been filed against Pauley. Kentucky law does not recognize a fetus as a person until the child's birth. The incident is currently under investigation by Detective Steve Bowman. — The Martin County Sun

Pikeville City School Board gets clean audit report

The Pikeville Independent Board of Education received a clean bill of health on its 1995-96 audit. The audit was conducted by Tom Sparks of Summers, McCrary, Craft and Sparks of Lexington.

The system came into the year with $3.1 million and ended the year with $1.6 million, according to Sparks. In the area of management points and federal programs, the audit showed the school system didn't misappropriate any funds. — Appalachian News-Express

Five Magoffin schools earn test rewards

Five of Magoffin County's elementary schools have been named as "Pacesetters" among Kentucky schools and are in line for monetary rewards, following the release of KIRIS test results.

John T. Arnett, Middle Fork, Millard Hensley, Salyer and Salyersville Elementary schools have all been identified as pacesetters, by either meeting or exceeding their goals.

As a district, Magoffin County schools are improving, according to results which categorize schools and districts either as reward, successful, improving, or in decline.

Test scores are evaluated on a two-year average. Each school is evaluated separately. — The Salyersville Independent

Marrowbone Development closes mine

UMWA sources confirmed Tuesday that Marrowbone Development Company has closed a mine at its huge Mingo County, West Virginia, operation. The mine, called Morris Way, was formerly known as Northern Mingo 1.

Some of the mine's workers were placed at other Marrowbone locations, but 23 hourly workers and four salaried personnel were laid off last weekend, a source, who asked to not be identified, said. He added that the mine was not profitable because of high costs. — The Martin County Sun

Superintendent unveils plans for $1.3 million addition to SCHS

With six teachers lacking a classroom, Martin County's Board of Education approved a measure Monday night that will take care of overcrowding at Sheldon Clark High School.

Members voted 4-0 to submit a plan to Frankfort that calls for the building of an addition to the 24-year-old

Coleman resigns as CEO of Pike National

Terry Coleman, president and CEO of Pikeville National Corporation, resigned Friday, November 1.

Burlin Coleman, chairman of the board, will serve as interim president and CEO until a successor is named, company officials said.

Terry Coleman, who took over the company's top spot on January 1, 1995, said he stepped down to pursue other personal opportunities. He did not elaborate. — Appalachian News-Express

Teens arrested Halloween night for egging

Two teenagers were arrested Halloween night after egging a Pikeville residence.

William Legge, 18, of Pikeville, was arrested by Pikeville Police Officer Sue Hayes on charges of criminal mischief and contempt of court. Joseph Collins, 19, of Lexington, was also arrested by Hayes for criminal — Right Place, Right Time: In Pittsburgh, during the Steelers-Ravens football game in September, Allen E. Adams was picked up on a previous arrest warrant when a police officer recognized Adams' name as a winner in the half-time field-goal kicking promotion and waited for him to come down onto the field. And a few days later, in Victoria, British Columbia, a federal tax agent heard the announcement of the winner of radio station CKKQ's song-identification contest, recognized him as a prominent tax delinquent, and within an hour had the winner's $1,000 signed over to the government.

News of the Weird by Chuck Shepherd

— Within two days of each other in August, in the Kansas towns of Lawrence and Dodge City, runaway tourist attraction stagecoaches crashed. The Lawrence coach veered into a ditch, injuring one man. A horse on the Dodge City coach slipped down on the street, then took off, carrying the coach into a parked car, after which it overturned and bloodied five elderly passengers.

— Opponents of Thailand's prime minister Banharn Sipla-archa said he lied about his birthday this year when he claimed it was Aug. 19 and not July 20, and they claimed that he changed the date on the advice of an astrologer so he could be a Leo and thus a better leader. And in June, India's new prime minister, H.D. Deve Gowda, said he moved into his official residence a week ahead of schedule because his astrologers said it would be better for him.

CULTURAL DIVERSITY

— A Washington Post story in May on marital abuse in central and southern African nations found that among certain ethnic groups, only three percent of wives think they should report a beating to the police. Said one social worker, "A lot of men — and women — think that beating your wife is something you do if you really care about her." In some groups, said another, if a man's wife dies without his having beaten her, he rehabilitates his manhood by beating the corpse.

— The New York Times reported in September on Tokyo's trendy "host clubs" which feature young men as servers and dance partners and which cater only to women — largely middle-aged women who say such clubs are virtually the only places in the country in which they can be treated well and not be expected to wait on men. And the Los Angeles Times reported in August on the success of the long-standing, 370-female Takarazuka Revue, whose most successful production number has its women cross-dressing and portraying the kind of man many Japanese women do not often get to see, according to them: the suave, romantic, affectionate, considerate male.

— In August, the Far Eastern Economic Review reported on the modernization of the traditional Mongolian meal of boodog, which is goat broiled inside a "bag" (which is merely the carefully cut and tied skin of the goat): The goat is no longer barbecued over an open fire; it is now typically cooked with a blow torch.

— The Islamic Court that sets rules for the northern half of Mogadishu, Somalia, announced in September that men must have beards, as did the prophet Mohammed. Said the court chairman, "Those who shave like Elvis Presley, Sylvester Stallone, and the U.S. Marines will not go unpunished." Two weeks later, Afghanistan's new ruling Taliban leadership made a similar decree for male government employees.

— In September, Peggy-Sue Khumalo, 23, the recently crowned Miss South Africa, said she would soon sacrifice a goat to her ancestors in gratitude for her success. She also said that if she won the Miss World title in India in November, she would step up her spiritual gratitude to slaughter a cow and 10 oxen.

We try to not make a habit of criticizing our peers in the newspaper biz, but we think it's about time Kentucky Educational Television found a replacement for David Hawpe on their election coverage programs.

Hawpe is editorial page editor for the Louisville Courier-Journal but, more appropriately, he appears to be stuck in the 1960s or otherwise unable to download the new, 1990s political software into his intellectual hard drive.

It's not that he just doesn't get it when it comes to evidence that Kentuckians are growing more conservative in their political preferences, it's the smugness with which he rejects the obvious.

We certainly don't deny Hawpe's right to believe what he wishes, but his pattern of not-so-subtle admonishments of the rest of us for believing what we wish is growing a bit stale.

We hesitate to apply those often misapplied labels like "liberal" and "conservative" because we think the vast majority of Kentuckians have discovered a way to blend the best of both philosophies.

Hawpe, though, still maintains the view that those philosophies are like oil and water. They don't mix. And, of course, his philosophy is that oil must always rise to the top.

Sorry. We're not stuck in that time warp.

We've discovered that we have to do more than "care" about problems to solve them and we've learned we're not evil or uncaring just because we think taxpayer money is a limited resource.

Don't let folks like David Hawpe make you feel guilty. Just remember that all good things, including the medicine that will cure our country's ills, work best when taken in moderation.

We've already overdosed on his approach, and that's why the prescription is changing.

The Weekend

Pikeville set to make minor cultural history

When Russian Ballet Fireworks hits the stage in the Booth Auditorium of Pikeville College, on November 11, at 7:30 p.m., local audiences will have the opportunity to see some of the finest ballet dancers that Russia has to offer—and most of them from a city closed to Westerners until five years ago. A city which once designed nuclear war heads aimed at America is now sending ballet instead of ballistic missiles our way.

Leading members of the Russian State Opera Ballet from Chelyabinsk will make up the core of a team of first-class dancers who will present a concert program of classical and contemporary ballet, touring America in October and November.

One of the leading ballet mistresses for the troupe is Galina Boreiko, a graduate of the famous school of the Kirov Ballet. But most of the troupe are graduates of the Perm State Choreographic Institute, the school which produced prima ballerinas for such companies as the Bolshoi, the Kirov, and most of the other leading Russian companies. Its graduates include leading dancers of major American companies in Boston, New York, Houston, and Los Angeles. Thus the Chelyabinsk company is like an extended family, with ballet traditions going back more than 250 years and an international network of brothers and sisters in ballet.

THE DANCERS

Yevgeni Popov is the Premier Danseur of the Russian State Ballet, and was given the coveted title of "Honored Artist of Russia" for his achievements. His technical and dramatic skills are a wonder to behold. He has been a guest soloist in Europe, Asia, and the Middle East.

Tatiana Sulimanova is one of the leading soloists of the company. A dramatic dancer with spectacular technique, she has been a guest artist on tours in Asia and North America.

Tatiana Predcina was a star of Moscow's famous Kremlin Ballet before going to Chelyabinsk. Her technique and grace on stage is matched by her natural beauty and warmth. She has been a guest soloist in major tours to France, Spain, and Italy.

Alexander Muntagirov is the ballet master of the company, and has been awarded the great honor as "National Artist of Russia," the amongst higher accolades the Russian government can bestow. For 23 years he has been with the company, and is a talented character performer. He has been guest soloist on tours to Australia, Holland, Germany, France, USA, and China.

Andre Buldakov is a spectacular dancer who has performed all the major roles in the classical repertoire. He has been a guest soloist in numerous companies, including tours across Europe and Asia.

James Dunne is a young Irish dancer from Dublin who studied ballet full-time in Russia for three years under the auspices of The Nadezhda Pavlova Foundation, following training at the Royal Ballet School in London. He is one of the few foreigners ever to be rewarded a Russian State Diploma in Ballet. He has been with the Chelyabinsk company since 1995. He recently excelled in his first major international concourse and has been invited to join prestigious companies in St. Petersburg and Moscow, but he is committed to his new home in

The Ghost and the Darkness

The title of this film is taken from an event in Africa's history which took place over 100 years ago. Imperial England was then involved in a railroad project in East Africa which involved over 3,000 men. However, the project soon became stalled when two lions, working in tandem (an anomaly in typical lion behavior), began systematically killing off the workers. In nine months, they killed 135 railway workers and soldiers. The Africans dubbed them "The Ghost and the Darkness" because they eluded capture and were impossible to hunt down.

Based on the memoirs of Lt. Col. J.H. Patterson (here portrayed by Val Kilmer), this is a grisly tale. When Patterson arrives in East Africa to oversee the project, he's happy with the progress being made. The workers, Africans and Indians (from India, not here), have been working diligently, despite their cultural differences and some minor upheavals. When a lion attacks and kills a worker, Patterson becomes a hero by trapping and subsequently killing said lion.

However, soon thereafter, two other lions begin preying on the workers and these are the two who become the Ghost and the Darkness, evading every trap put to them by man. Desperate, Patterson brings in an eccentric white hunter named Remington (Michael Douglas) to help him.

Kilmer's performance is right on the mark, despite a flawed Irish accent. However, for me, it was Douglas who stole the film. His is an exuberant, ebullient portrayal and he fairly fills the screen in every shot he's in, despite being in only half the entire flick.

My quarrel with this movie was its gore and violence. I don't need to actually see a lion killing and eating someone to get the gist of what's going on. I'd much rather leave that to the imagination. However, this is an excellent film, despite the blood. Don't miss it.

To Err Isn't Human

Past indiscretions, however small or insignificant, can make it extremely difficult for anyone to run for elective office. This is particularly true if the person is running for President of the United States. I discovered this when I overheard people from the leading political factions discussing future candidates to run for elective office from their parties.

"David, why don't you run for president?"

"I got a speeding ticket for driving 30 mph in a 25 mph when I was 17."

"People do tend to look down their noses at reckless drivers."

"What about you, Evan? Why don't you run?"

"No, I've had surgery."

"There's nothing scandalous about that."

"My doctor confessed to being a transvestite."

"What about John? He seems like a good candidate."

"Nope. He knows Michael Jackson personally. Guilt by association."

Smile
Awhile

Sara Hopson

"Is Bill still thinking of running?"

"Maybe. But the press is going to release that he received a spanking in the 5th grade for talking back to his teacher. Insubordination stinks."

"Yeah, it's hard to trust someone who doesn't respect his elders."

"What about Sydney?"

"He took Valium and Demerol after his open-heart surgery."

"Isn't that normal procedure for that type of surgery?"

"Yeah, but the public thinks a real contender would have gritted his teeth and endured the pain."

"How about James?"

"Pulled over for not wearing a seat belt."

"Frank?"

"He's a closet smoker."

"Lloyd?"

"His wife dated Rush Limbaugh in college."

"What about that hermit in Montana?"

"Guess you haven't heard he was the Unabomber."

"That only leaves Foy."

"Didn't you hear? He lost his virginity at 18. He tried to explain that it was consensual because it happened on his wedding night, but the media went crazy."

"I'm starting to believe that Superman couldn't get elected."

"He couldn't, man. He's an illegal alien."

"There's only one man I know that is above reproach. He never told a lie, can budget money, is astute on foreign affairs and knows about Social Security."

"Who is it?"

"My dad. But he's 92 years old, and his memory is going."

"I think we're misjudging the American public. The voters know that nobody's perfect."

"That's true, but they still expect perfection from the presidency."

"What we need is a self-made person with high principles, good morals and super intelligence. A man with integrity, spirit and a benevolent heart. A man who has no malice toward his fellowmen. Of course, the person would have to be photogenic, too."

"He's coming back, but it's not to run for president."

"Let's just choose one the democratic way. Heads, Sam runs, tails, Dick runs. Flip!"

SOAP UPDATES

ALL MY CHILDREN: Harold continued digging up evidence of Kinder's corpse. Erica, meanwhile, confessed she pushed him to his death to protect Bianca. Tad was shaken by Gloria's amorous attentions. Bianca told Erica she won't let her take the blame. Skye and Janet planned to dig up Kinder's corpse to save themselves. Grady posed a threat to Julia. Wait To See: The world changes for Julia and Noah.

ANOTHER WORLD: Kirkland's attic friend turned out to be Ryan who had to work on making it possible for him to protect Vicky from imminent danger. Josie left the charm bracelet Gary gave her with their secret wedding date on it at Sharlene's. Meanwhile, Grant worked up a plan to learn the location of the wedding, and then met with Cody. Rafael persuaded Maggie to tear up the prenuptial agreement. After Cody left him tied up in a dumpster, Grant freed himself and headed for the wedding, unaware that Carl was hidden in his car. Wait To See: Cody's evil plan begins.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Tom and Margo didn't buy John and Barbara's suspicions of Martin. Later, Lisa tossed John out of her house when he tried to show her a tape about Martin. Mike was stunned at what he found in the mysterious woman's hotel room. James Stenbeck's ghost told Paul he can't handle his feelings for Emily. Ben was puzzled when Zoe left suddenly after a phone call. After getting a "reminder" from the cartel, Martin urged Lisa to go on a cruise with him. Wait To See: Mike makes another discovery.

THE BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: Jessica and Maggie shared a tearful goodbye before she left for school in London. Before the men's fashion show, Brooke hinted to Grant to "go with the flow" no matter what happens. Later, at the press conference, she proposed to Grant. Although stunned, he "went with the flow" and accepted. Ridge accused her of doing this on the rebound, but refused to call off his engagement to Taylor if she would call off hers to Grant. After Sheila said Maggie might cause her to lose James, Mike took things into his own hands. Wait To See: Ridge won't let Taylor break their engagement.

THE CITY: Carla freaked to learn Gino was dining with Tracy. Richard admitted he persuaded Sydney to help push up Nick's place on the transplant list. A money-strapped Tracy learned Jacob had $15,000 to invest, and arranged to use one of Beth's (Dillon's nanny) friends to lure him into giving to her "troubled youth" charity. Tess met with a Broadway producer who seemed more interested in her than in her singing. Wait To See: Jealousy threatens Tony and Ally's relationship.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Marlena waited in the car as Kristen panicked in the doctor's office, hoping for a miracle. Realizing Peter planned to kidnap Jennifer and Abby, Jack found a file that could provide more information. Kristen's "miracle" appeared in the person of her "twin." Doug and Julie arrived as Hope and Bo were enjoying their pre-wedding festivities. Later, Bo raced off after learning the attacker might be after Billie. Wait To See: Stefano makes things "clear" to Kristen.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: Emily was upset to see Brenda and Jax together before their wedding. Jason brought Robin home from college for the nuptials. Sonny stirred things up when he arrived, uninvited, with a mysterious guest. Bobbie's world came crashing down after learning of Tony's feelings for Carly. Dorman had a plan to disrupt the Quartermaines. Wait To See: Jax faces a new challenge.

GUIDING LIGHT: Blake gave birth to her twins with Ross and Rick in attendance. Zachary was uneasy about seeing Michelle with J. Roger's plan backfired when he realized he might be stuck with Dinah for good. Alan collapsed in Phillip's arms when he heard his son was leaving Springfield. Blake was worried when Ross insisted on giving blood to one of the twins. Annie had a "solution" to her Reva-and-Josh problems. Wait To See: Is it the moment of truth for Blake?

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: The gun went off, but neither Kevin nor Viki were hurt. Bo didn't buy Dorian's story of why she was at the inn. Larry later assured Viki she can be deprogrammed. Maggie and Marty escaped from Grant and sought safety at the Wild Swan. Marty and Patrick gave Bo the book. Later, Keneally's loyalties were revealed. Alex realized she'd been set up by Carlo and told Todd she had information linking Carlo to Poseidon. Max tried to intercede with the Mother Superior on Maggie's behalf. Later, Maggie told him she's being reassigned to the Philippines. Elliot disappeared. Wait To See: Drew makes an important decision.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Tim was upset when Phyllis said she might not marry again. She and Danny later found little Daniel running a fever. Dru felt Neil had been unfair to coerce her into rejecting the modeling job. Kurt realized Kay and Esther were uneasy about him, and offered to call the police to have them check him out. Nikki learned Hope's husband died, and decided to ask Victor if that was why he didn't show up for their meeting. But before he could answer, Hope arrived with Victor, Jr. Chris explained to Paul that Benita's ex husband was being released from jail and threatened to kill her. Nina arrived to help Cole meet his deadline. Wait To See: Sharon may have told Nikki too much.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) All calms down this week on the domestic front and you are able to concentrate on important career developments. A link to the past comes up at an unexpected time. However, this is a pleasant surprise. The weekend is good for shopping and gadding about.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You are able to read between the lines at what a friend is saying this week. This person needs your help, but doesn't quite know how to ask for it. Your instinct will tell you what to do. Over the weekend, a surprise phone call brings good news.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You have a tendency this week to be sloppy and careless, particularly on the job. Use caution if operating machinery or out driving. As the week comes to a close, you are able to recapture your powers of concentration.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) As the week begins, you're a bit disoriented and experiencing some deja vu at the most inconvenient times. However, you conquer this and are able to effectively accomplish what you set out to do by week's end. A quick weekend getaway is in the stars for some.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You're positively "roarin'" to go in typical Leo fashion this week. You're a bundle of energy and an inspiration to those around you. It seems no one can resist your enthusiasm! Take advantage of this spirit of cooperation.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Nipiticking and harping over insignificant details won't endear you to those around you as the week begins. Your quest for perfectionism can sometimes lead to trouble for you. Later in the week, your mate confides a secret to you.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You're in one of your forlorn phases and feel as though everything's going badly. Instead of being such a fatalist, take steps to change what's bothering you. By week's end, you are once again your charming, sunny self. The weekend looks great for some happy social outings.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Jealousy doesn't become you and if you insist on giving into it, you could lose someone very special in your life. A mid-week career opportunity catches you by surprise, but once you recover, you are able to take advantage of this boon.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) This is a great week for catching up on those little work projects you've let fall by the wayside, whether at home or actually on the job. Bigwigs are looking favorably at your performance now and a raise or promotion could be in the works.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) If possible, take some time this week to get off by yourself and sort things out. The answer to what's bothering you can only be attained if you can reflect quietly without any interference. Once you do this, you come to terms with what's going on.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Your honesty pays off and your relationship takes a wonderfully, dizzying new romantic turn. However, the singles among you still aren't quite ready to make a commitment. Those who are married renew ties.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You have a tendency this week to take your troubles out on the person closest to you. As you know from past experience, this bodes ill for that relationship. Try to lighten up.

TUNING IN

We are in the midst of the November sweeps, so enjoy the best offerings the networks are serving up in hopes of raising their numbers and, ultimately, their advertising rates.

On the Disney Channel, catch the Beach Boys' new special scheduled to air Nov. 23.

On PBS, "Mr. Justice Brennan," a landmark documentary on the influential Supreme Court Justice, William J. Brennan, Jr. airs on Nov. 22.

On TNN, the Nashville Network, the venerable "Hee Haw" series returns in reruns to delight a new generation of viewers.

On ABC, there's "For Hope," the drama based on the life of Bob Saget's sister who suffered from scleroderma. The production, scheduled to air Nov. 17, stars Dana Delaney.

On NBC, there's "What Kind of Mother Are You?" starring Mel Harris and "The Nanny's" Nicholle Tom. It's set to air Nov. 18.

On CBS, the long-awaited "Dallas" reunion airs on Nov. 15, with as many of the stars of the series, including Larry Hagman (currently filming a new series) as J.R. Ewing and Linda Gray as Sue Ellen Ewing.

I spoke with Linda shortly after the reunion was taped and asked why the show remained such a favorite over the years.

"You can cite as many reasons as you like," she said. "The writing, the actors, the locale. But I think ultimately it comes down to one factor: It was a show about families; about the Ewing family and the families whose lives they touched, sometimes for better and sometimes for worse."

Linda, who is also a producer, commented that "the most successful works—whether they're in the theater, on film, or on television—invariably involve family dynamics. 'Dallas' had so many situations going in any one segment that viewers might have had nothing to relate to. How many of us have oil wells or make international business deals, for example? But that wasn't what drove 'Dallas' and made it so popular. It was always the family story line of the moment."

As for Sue Ellen, Linda says, "I admired her for her loyalty to J.R., but I admired her more for discovering her right to be loyal to herself. None of his wealth could keep her from deciding to free herself from this dominating, and power-driven presence to become her own person."

A Look At Sports

Early playoff games should be good ones in high school football

The high school football state playoffs kick off tonight and usually you don't find many good first round games. But that could be the exception tonight as Lloyd Memorial visits defending 2A champion Breathitt County tonight.

Lloyd was forced to forfeit three of its regular season games due to an ineligible player. The team received the fourth seed out of District 1. But don't sell them short. They are a fine football team.

With the forfeits, the third seed out of District 1 went to the Fleming County squad who will face a crippled Prestonsburg team in a 7:30 kick-off time. Ten players departed the Prestonsburg camp and have the community in disarray.

Look at this! Class A playoffs, Russellville did not win a game, went to 0-9 overall, and 0-3 in district play, but will play at Maysville in the playoffs. Todd County Central (2-8) plays at Murray.

Former Prestonsburg coach Bill Letton's Paris team will be in the playoffs this year. Paris (3-7, 2-3) will play at Bardstown.

Powell County will make its first appearance in the playoffs when the team travels to Newport tonight. Powell lost to Morgan County in the final game of the season (a district game) and, because the team defeated Betsy Layne in regular season play, they got the nod over the Bobcats for the fourth seed in District 2.

SEZ ME...

The article on the Melvin vs Martin game reported the one-sided result from the free throw line in a game that Martin won handily. The one-sided result was evident when one looked at the stat sheet. But Martin coach Doug Derossett took offense to it as making Martin look like "they cheated." In no way was that the intent of the article. But Martin shot 43 free throws to Melvin's 12 and, to me, that was one-sided.

"You had to see the game to see why it was that way," said Coach Derossett. "It was a rough game and a lot of fouls weren't called that could have been."

We appreciate the efforts of the Martin coach and the hard work he puts in with his team and, if it offended him, then I apologize. It wasn't meant that way.

CROWDS...

The crowds at the Right Beaver Classic have been great. You can tell folks are ready for basketball. Grade school basketball always brings out a good crowd. If only the high schools could draw as well.

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports. Take the kids to Sunday School and church Sunday.

Haubenreisser, Rinck cleared to play at Betsy Layne

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Two foreign exchange students from Germany, whose eligibility to play basketball at Betsy Layne was questioned, recently won an appeal and were declared immediately eligible to play for coach Junior Newsome this season.

Nico Haubenreisser of Gera, Germany and Stephan Rinck, of Gruenendeick, Germany, received notification this week from the Kentucky High School Athletic Association that a previous decision by Commissioner Louis Stout be set aside and a request for eligibility be granted to both students.

The students came to the United States through the World Educational Services (WES), a corporate sponsor of National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP). But WES had not yet been placed upon the Council on Standard International Educational Travel's (CSIET) approved list, although the application, according to the report, had been filed and fees paid.

George E. Barker, the hearing officer, found there had been no recruiting of the two students "nor seeking athletic advantage" involved in the assignment of the two students to Betsy Layne High School.

Mrs. Steve Stapleton, host parent for Rinck, said the two did not know each other until they arrived in the United States and were picked up at the airport.

"They did not know what school they would be attending," said Stapleton, "until we picked them up at the airport. They didn't even know each other."

Both were denied an earlier request because WES had not applied for NASSP membership. The hearing judge ruled the two students "should not be denied to do what they do in the United States."

"They are tickled to death to be playing basketball," Stapleton said. According to Stapleton, the two never played organized basketball other than pick-up games around their neighborhood.

"They are both tall kids, and that is why there is interest in them," she said.

Betsy Layne principal Coy Samons, athletic director Sean Ousley, and Andrea Saddler, regional coordinator for World Educational Services Foundation, appeared before the board and represented the two students.

Barker, after hearing the testimony and looking at the overall record, made the recommendation that the request was within the intent of KHSAA rules and that the two be declared eligible. The request for a one-year eligibility was granted under Bylaw 6, Sec. 2(c), of the KHSAA Handbook.

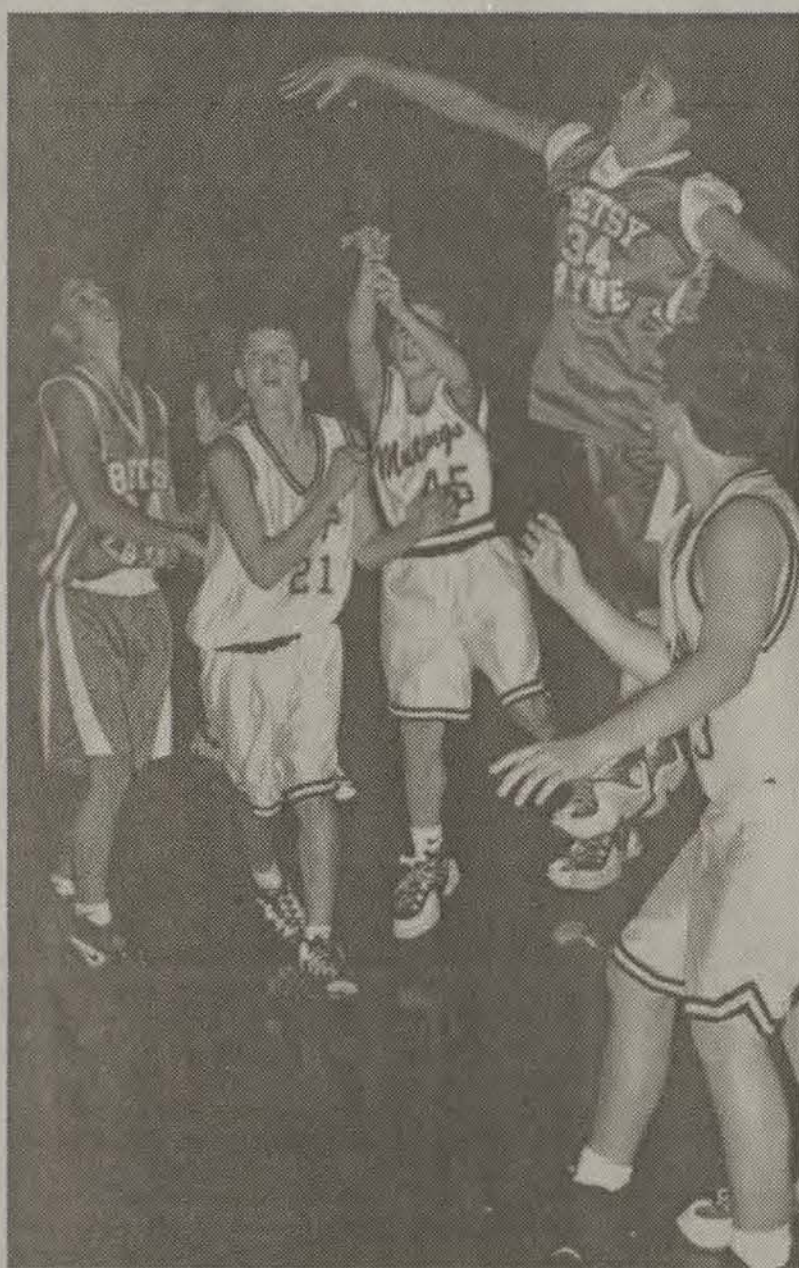

In Barker's recommended order he wrote: "It is recommended that the appeals be sustained; that the decisions of the commissioner be set aside; that the request for eligibility be granted; and that Nico H. Haubenreisser and Stephan Rinck are declared immediately eligible to participate in interscholastic athletics at Betsy Layne High School for a period of one year from August 19, 1996."

Although the teens are looking forward to playing basketball, they like other sports as well.

"They both like baseball," Mrs. Stapleton said.

"Both are practicing basketball right now for Betsy Layne," she added, "and loving it. Before the appeal was granted they were not even allowed to be on the floor. They are very pleased with the result."

McDowell edges Adams 43-41 behind Goines, Ward

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

James Goines scored a game-high 13 points, and Steve Ward tossed in 11 to lead the McDowell Daredevils (1-0) to a 43-41 win over a good Adams Middle School (0-2) team in Tuesday night's Right Beaver Classic at Allen Central.

Adams blew a nine point halftime lead, and the two teams were tied at 29 entering the fourth quarter. T.C. Hatfield tied the game on a short base line jumper and was fouled with 19 seconds to play in the third period. He missed the free throw that would have given Adams the lead.

Josh Moore put McDowell in front on a four-foot jumper. Craig Fleener hit a free throw for a one-point game before McDowell went on a 9-0 run, netting them a 40-30 lead. Adams wasn't ready to quit as they got a long jumper from Matt Clay, a rebound basket by Donnie Stephens, and a basket underneath from Brooke Stunnet to narrow the margin to four points, 40-36.

McDowell turned the ball over on its next two possessions. A free throw and layup by Shawn Newsome with 51 seconds remaining cut the lead to one point, 40-39.

McDowell, on an inbound play underneath its basket, got a layup from Ward that sent the Daredevils in front 42-39. Ryan Martin kept the Blackcats within one point with a layup with only nine ticks left to play.

With five seconds on the clock, Adams sent Joe Skeans to the line where he hit the first of two and it was a two-point McDowell lead. Adams had the final touch of the basketball but turned it over in haste to get a three point shot off.

McDowell led 11-9 after the first quarter. The game was tied at 6, 8, and 9 before Moore's basket gave McDowell the two-point lead.

Adams opened the second quarter by scoring the first nine points and taking an 18-11 lead with 2:24 to play in the half. Moore broke the McDowell drought with two free throws, but Adams scored the final four points of the half on two Stephens' free throws and a Newsome layup after stealing the ball.

Josh Moore and Joe Plalcus scored six points each for McDowell. Wesley Hyden, Jason Spriggs and Jeremy Lafferty had two apiece. Skeans finished with one point.

Stephens led Adams with 12 points. Newsome netted nine with Stunnet tossing in six. Clay added five points and Martin scored four. Josh Sloane and Hatfield finished with two points each.

Regional playoffs...

Shorthanded Prestonsburg faces tough task in hosting Fleming County tonight

Ten Blackcat players leave team week of state playoffs

The Prestonsburg Blackcats are still hurting big time after a 39-0 loss to Lawrence County last week to close out the '96 football regular season. But coach John Derossett's Blackcats will go an extra week after making the playoffs with a sparkling 7-2 overall record and 5-1 in district play.

Fleming County (6-4) will visit the Cat's Den tonight in the opening round that could find Prestonsburg shorthanded after ten players walked off this past Monday during a weight-lifting class.

Leaving the team were seniors: Jeremy Caudill, Rusty Young, Ricky Johnson, Robbie Cain, and Bill Willis. Josh Hubbard, Ryan Fitzpatrick and Wes McGuire, Pete Howard, Brian Johnson also left the team.

Fleming County was a third seed in District 1, Region IV, Class AA, and Prestonsburg was a second seed behind Breathitt County. The Panthers finished the regular season with a 19-8 win over West Carter.

Prestonsburg has been one of the top teams in the state in rushing defense but faltered against Lawrence County, giving up more than 400 yards on the ground. The Cats had been allowing their opposition little more than 80 yards rushing per game.

However, Coach Derossett is not taking the Panthers lightly.

"We're going to have our hands full," he said in scouting Fleming County. "They like to run a six-man front, much like Allen Central runs. On defense, they will go three across at linebacker."

The Prestonsburg coach said they had a chance to watch Fleming County earlier when they played Russell, and tapes have also helped in scouting the Panthers.

"They have some good athletes," said Derossett, "and will run the spread format. We will be well prepared for them."

Fleming County will run between 210 to 255 pounds on defense but give up a lot on offense. Aaron McKee (5' 9", 155) leads Fleming County in rushing with 674 yards on 48 carries.

"He is a very quick back, the Prestonsburg coach said. "He has excellent speed. We will need to concentrate on him."

But Coach Derossett says that the Panthers are capable of scoring and have a threat in their quarterback.

"They will flip-flop at quarterback," said Coach Derossett. "One of them (Kevin Belland) has a good strong arm. They have the capability to score some points."

Belland (5' 10, 165) has completed 40 of 89 pass attempts during the regular season showing the Panthers are not looking to pass the football that much. Gary Kinder (6', 190) is the second Panther quarterback.

Arnie Fields (5' 7", 175) leads the Fleming County defense with 75 tackles. Dusty Humphries has six interceptions this season.

Derossett said his Blackcats cannot afford a breakdown against Fleming County. "We have to take care of the football and play our game," he said. Derossett added that, despite the defections in the Prestonsburg camp, the Blackcats have enjoyed "three of the best practices that we have had in a long time."

"We will be ready," he said. "I feel we can win this one and go on to Newport, unless Powell County can pull off a major upset."

Prestonsburg will look to the trio of Brian Jones, John Ortega and freshman fullback Jeremy Caudill to move the football against the Panthers. Ortega has scored ten touchdowns this season and rushed for more than 600 yards. Grant Castle and Matt Lafferty, both suffering from earlier injuries, have added depth in the backfield. Jones has been a "big play" ball carrier and shown what he displayed earlier in the season. He has scored four touchdowns for Prestonsburg this season.

Mike Castle, quarterback, has completed 21 passes this year for 423 yards. Gavin Hale is the Blackcat's leading receiver.

Game time is set to kickoff at 7:30 p.m. Radio station WQHY-FM will carry the game.

Controversial basket at buzzer sinks McDowell girls, 27-26

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Was it good? Or, was it too late?

That was the question two officials tried to figure out by just glancing at each other when Jenny Parson's basket at the buzzer sunk the McDowell Lady Daredevils, 27-26, in tournament play at Allen Central Tuesday night.

The scene unfolded with McDowell tying the game at 23 with 1:23 to play on a free throw by Alexis Maldonado. The Lady Daredevils took a 24-23 lead when Monica Newsome hit the back end of a two shot technical foul. With 40 seconds remaining, Maldonado hit a short-jumper to give her team a three-point lead, 26-23.

Denise Jones buried a long jumper for Stumbo to pull the Lady Mustangs to within one point, 26-25, with only 33 ticks remaining to be played. A steal by Jones reverted back to McDowell when Jones was called for walking. With McDowell in control of the basketball, the Lady Daredevils had four attempts at the basket. Parsons scored on the fourth attempt with the ball leaving her hand as the horn sounded.

The two officials glanced at each other, and the basket was ruled good, causing McDowell coach Greg Johnson to search for the officials.

Parson led Stumbo in scoring with her 12 points. Jones finished with eight and Tabitha Mitchell added five. Amber Biliter scored two.

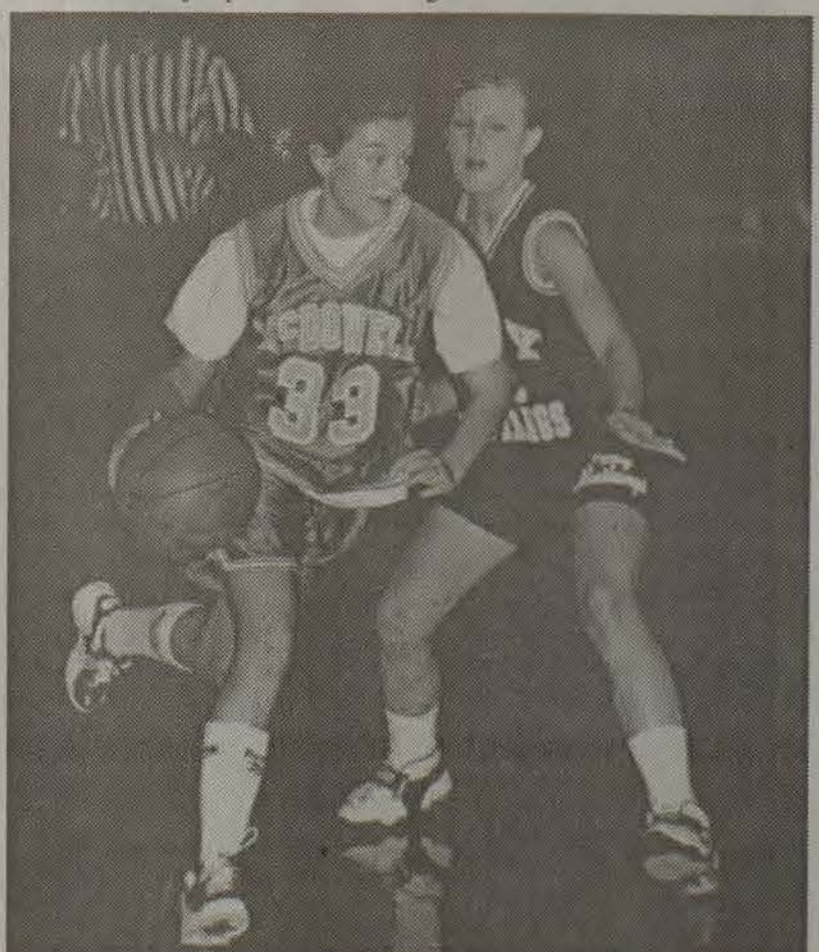

Newsome and Minnie Tackett led McDowell with eight points each.

Maldonado and Sara Johnson had four point apiece.

Stumbo led 4-0 early, holding a 6-4 lead after the first quarter. But the Lady Mustangs went cold in the second period, and McDowell went on a 7-0 run that netted them a 12-8 lead. Jones hit a short-jumper ahead of the horn for a 12-10 halftime McDowell lead.

The game was tied at 16 in the third period and again at 18 and 20 in the fourth quarter. Stumbo missed three front ends of bonus shots that allowed McDowell to stay in the game.

Martin handles McDowell 74-50

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Larry Mullins hit 12 of 14 free throws and scored 25 points to lead the Martin Middle School Purple Flash past McDowell, 74-50, in the second round of the Right Beaver Classic Wednesday night at Martin.

Mike Colley led McDowell with 20 points, while James Goines scored seven.

Martin jumped out early against the taller McDowell team, 24-4, after the first quarter, using their quickness for easy baskets. McDowell seemed to be standing on defense and committed 34 fouls in the game. McDowell, behind the scoring of Colley, closed the margin, but Martin raced back out to a 33-22 halftime lead. Colley hit two three-point baskets in the quarter in scoring 10 points. Martin had only two field goals in the second period. They hit only five of 14 free throw attempts in the stanza. Martin was never threatened after the third period, taking a 56-39 lead into the fourth quarter.

Patrick Martin and Dwight McKinney scored five points each for Martin with Henry Napier and Keith Crum finishing with four apiece. Chad Samons had three points and William Goodman had two points.

Joe Plactus finished with six points for McDowell. Scotty Bradley also had six points in the contest. Josh Moore netted four with Wesley Hyden and Steve Ward scoring two and one point, respectively. Jeremy Lafferty had four points.

Martin will play in the finals of the Right Beaver Classic against the winner of the Duff/Betsy Layne game. The championship game is scheduled for Saturday, 7:30 at Allen Central.

Scott pumps in 32 as Duff gets past Allen, 55-47

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Rodney Scott was almost unstoppable in leading the Duff Bulldogs past the Allen Eagles, 55-47, last Wednesday night in a second round game of the Right Beaver Classic at Martin.

Scott scored 32 points to lead all scorers, hitting 10 of 18 free throws. He went to the line 12 times in the fourth quarter, scoring 15 points. David Watkins finished with 10 points and Travis Francis had six.

Daniel Knausz led Allen with 19 points, while Jacob Fitzpatrick tossed in 12. Knausz was held to a first-half point before scoring 18 in the second half.

Both teams struggled offensively with Duff holding a slim two point lead, 8-6, at the first stop. Scott scored six first quarter points for Duff, while Fitzpatrick had four.

Duff more than doubled the score on Allen in the second period with a 16-5 blitz that netted the Bulldogs a 24-11 halftime lead. Watkins hit a three-point basket, and Scott scored seven points for the Bulldogs. Jesse Woods and Stephen Bobo had a field goal apiece for Allen.

It was all Allen in the third period as Knausz pumped in 10 points to lead a 20-10 run for Allen to pull his team to within three points, 34-31. But Scott then scored 15 points in the final period to hold off an Allen comeback. Knausz had eight points for Allen in the final quarter.

Allen hit three of 14 free throw attempts, while Duff connected on 16 of 28.

Mullins gets big assist as Martin Middle School rolls past MCA

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Larry Mullins had several assists for the Martin Middle School, but he had one big one toward the end of the game as Martin posted a 71-21 win over the Mountain Christian Academy Falcons. The two teams met Tuesday night in the second night of the Right Beaver Classic played at Allen Central.

Mullins, who finished with ten points to lead Martin's balanced attack, pulled down a rebound late in the fourth quarter with just seconds left on the game. He dealt the ball to Greer Andrew, who sizzled the net for two points. The only thing wrong with the assist was that it was to the wrong team.

The smaller Andrew waited under the basket among the taller players and Mullins gave him the pass that netted his two points.

Patrick Martin had nine points for the winners with Timmy Davis and Henry Napier tossing in eight apiece.

Matt Goings led all scorers with 14 points for the Falcons. Bart Barnette netted three points, while James Hall and Andrew finished with two points.

Mullins scored all ten of his points in the first quarter as Martin raced out to a 29-6 first quarter lead. Napier had his eight points in the second period as Martin built a 43-8 halftime lead.

"You just don't learn much about your team in a game like that," said Martin coach Doug Derossett. "But what can you do? I told my players not to press. You can't tell them not to score."

Martin played the bench most of the second half with Brandon Hansford and William Goodman scoring seven points each for the Purple Flash. Jeremy Hayes and Keith Crum finished with six points. Chad Samons and Dwight McKinney scored four each. Chris Owens had two points.

Hansford had two three-point baskets in the contest. Martin and Goodman had one each.

Gibson, Daugherty combine for 39 points in 58-49 win over Stumbo

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It was mentor against former player when the Betsy Layne Elementary Bobcats met John M. Stumbo Tuesday night in the Right Beaver Classic at the Allen Central gym.

Chase Gibson and Brad Daugherty combined for 39 points to lead the Bobcats, defending county champions, to a 58-49 win over Hayes Hamilton's Mustangs. Dwight Newsome, who played for Hamilton in the '80s, coaches Betsy Layne.

Gibson scored 20 points to share scoring honors with Stumbo's Nathan Tackett, who fouled out early in the fourth quarter on a technical foul. Daugherty finished with 19 points for the Bobcats.

The game was played much closer than the final score would show. Betsy Layne went on a 10-1 run to build a 58-42 lead with Stumbo scoring the final seven points of the game to narrow to the final margin.

Betsy Layne led 17-12 after the first quarter. Gibson was held scoreless in the first quarter with Daugherty carrying the load with seven points, including a three-point basket.

The game was tied at 21 on a 5-0 run by Stumbo in the second period. But Daugherty hit his second trey just ahead of the horn for a 24-21 Betsy Layne lead at halftime.

Gibson was a forced underneath the basket for Betsy Layne, coming up with four block shots. He scored the first four points of the third period, and Barrett Blankenship hit a short jumper off the baseline for a 30-21 lead with just under four minutes to play in the third.

Stumbo, led by the inside play of Josh Allen, went on a 7-2 roll to cut the lead to four points, 32-28.

Following a basket by Daugherty, Allen completed a three-point play for a 34-31 game, while Coach Newsome sat on the sideline floor in disbelief. Stumbo pulled to within two points, 36-34, on a three-point basket by Nathan Tackett. A basket by Eddie Tibbs on an assist from Gibson gave Betsy Layne a 38-34 lead after three quarters.

Daugherty hit his second three-point basket to start the fourth quarter that opened up a 41-34 lead for Betsy Layne. Tackett followed with a trey for the Mustangs, but Betsy Layne went on a 5-0 run and Stumbo never caught up.

Tibbs finished with six points for Betsy Layne. Blankenship had five and Brad Bevins scored four. David Johnson and Jeremy Clark scored two each.

Allen tossed in nine points for Stumbo while Matt Branham and Brent Hamilton scored seven apiece. Robbie Johnson netted four with Gerald Newsome scoring two.

With five seconds on the clock, Adams sent Joe Skeans to the line where he hit the first of two for a two-point McDowell lead. Adams had the final touch of the basketball but turned it over in haste to get a three-point shot off.

McDowell led 11-9 after the first quarter. The game was tied at 6, 8, and 9 before Moore's basket gave McDowell the two-point lead.

Adams opened the second quarter by scoring the first nine points and taking an 18-11 lead with 2:24 to play in the half. Moore broke the McDowell drought with two free throws, but Adams scored the final four points of the half on two Stephens' free throws and a Newsome layup after stealing the ball.

Josh Moore and Joe Placus scored six points each for McDowell. Wesley Hyden, Jason Spriggs and Jeremy Lafferty had two apiece. Skeans finished with one point.

Stephens led Adams with 12 points. Newsome netted nine with Stinnet tossing in six. Clay added five points and Martin scored four. Josh Slone and Hatfield finished with two points each.

PRO FISHIN' TIPS

Through years of fishing both graphite and fiberglass rods, I am convinced that the sensitivity of graphite rods works against hooking fish on fast-moving baits. Graphite rods are so sensitive that we're reacting a split-second faster than we had been able to react before.

And the fish is just not getting the lure into its mouth far and long enough before the fisherman feels him and reacts. We're talking about split-seconds, but that's the amount of time that determines whether the bass is hooked deep or is able to spit the lure out.

Rick Clum finished third in the 1994 B.A.S.S. Angler of the Year race.

NOTICE OF BOND RELEASE

In accordance with KRS 350.093, notice is hereby given that Progress Land Corporation, P.O. Box 784, Hazard, Kentucky 41702 has applied for Phase III Bond Release on Permit Number 836-9016 Increments 1 & 2, which was last issued on February 14, 1994. The application covers an area of approximately 19.92 acres located 1.0 mile south of Weeksbury, Floyd County, Kentucky.

The permit area is approximately 3.0 miles south from the junction of Highway 122 with Highway 466 and 1 mile east of Left Beaver Creek. The latitude is 37 degrees, 18 minutes, 23 seconds. The longitude is 82 degrees, 42 minutes, 02 seconds.

The bonds now in effect for Permit Number 836-9016 are sureties of $3,400 for Increment 1 and $6,300 for Increment 2. One hundred (100) percent of the remainder of the original bond amount of $65,000 is included in the application for release.

Reclamation work performed includes: backfilling, final grading, seeding and mulching completed in September 1985 for Increment 1 and the Spring and Fall of 1990 for Increment 2. All disturbed areas have been seeded as to provide adequate growth for plant species and provide appropriate conditions for the surrounding wildlife. Results thus far include growth of vegetation as per the revegetation plan.

Written comments, objections, and requests for a public hearing or informal conference must be filed with the Director, Division of Field Services, #2 Hudson Hollow, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, by December 16, 1996.

A public hearing on the application has been scheduled for December 17, 1996, at 1:00 p.m. at the Prestonsburg Regional Office of the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, 2705 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653-1455. The hearing will be canceled if no request for a hearing or informal conference is received by December 16, 1996.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF BLASTING SCHEDULE

N.A.L.R. Coal Corporation, P.O. Box 330, Ivel, KY 41642, telephone no. 606-478-3120, will conduct surface blasting operations on a contour strip operation in Floyd County. This site is located approximately 0.25 mile west of the junction of CR-1129 and KY-979 and is located along Tackett Branch. The latitude is 37° 30' 07" and the longitude is 82° 40' 06".

Detonation of explosives are scheduled to occur between sunrise and sunset, Monday through Sunday.

Blasting will be conducted only during daylight hours, sunrise to sunset, Monday through Sunday, unless required by unavoidable safety reasons.

Events which could lead to blasting at times other than those scheduled include, but are not limited to, rain, lightning, or other atmospheric conditions which involve personnel, operational or public safety. Residents within one-half mile will be notified orally and the blast shall proceed as a scheduled blast. If a nighttime blast is performed, the department will be notified as required.

Entry to the blasting area will be prohibited by blocking access roads at least 10 minutes before each detonation. Post-detonation access to the blasting area will be allowed only after an inspection determines that no hazards are apparent. Warning signals and all-clear signals will be generated from an air horn or other suitable device and will be audible within one-half mile of the blast area. Five minutes prior to blasting, the warning will be a continuous one minute signal. One minute prior to detonation, the warning will be a series of short signals. The all-clear indication will be two ten-second signals.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that J&S Leasing, Box 1709, KY Route 321, Prestonsburg, KY 41653, has filed an application with the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet to construct a fill beginning at the floodway of the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River. The property is located approximately 0.30 mile north of Prestonsburg, KY on Ky. Rt. 321 on the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River. Any comments or objections concerning this application shall be directed to: Kentucky Division of Water, Water Resources Branch, 18 Reilly Road, Frankfort, KY 40601. Phone 502-564-3410.

Getting What You Both Need In Bed

(NAPS)—"Drowned dreams, somnambulisms, reveries...tossing like slumberers in their beds," wrote Herman Melville in Moby Dick.

That's a whale of a description (pardon the pun) for what one or another bedmate experiences each night of his or her shared life. It's been the case because women tend to favor softer mattresses than men do, and few couples can get a good night's sleep from the same type of mattress. In fact, until now, when typical twosomes shop for bedding and take turns "test-bouncing and rolling," one or the other has had to settle. And that person has been doomed to "drowned dreams, somnambulisms, tossing and restlessness," because there's been no way to satisfy two people with divergent needs for a good night's sleep.

All that changes this month with the introduction of Pascal from Dux of Sweden. Pascal is the first sleep system that can be customized from both sides of the bed. It features two sets of three interchangeable spring modules, with different Dux densities to support shoulders, torso and legs. Sleep scientists long have known that the ideal mattress would allow flexibility in the middle for relief of back pain, not too much firmness for unnecessary pressure on one's knees, reduced tension at the shoulders, and less pressure on the head and neck.

The innovative Pascal system not only allows two people sharing the same bed to customize each side for their individual needs, it enables each one to adjust his or her own set of support modules for different situations. Such as during weight gain...or loss. Or during a pregnancy. Even temporarily, while recovering from an injury.

Pascal is the exclusive system available only from Duxiana shops. Its patented and durable Dux springs are made in Sweden and designed to distribute body weight evenly in repose to relieve pressure and provide better circulation. Conventional queen-size beds have between 365 and 900 springs. The patented Dux Bed with the Pascal system has between 1,730 and 3,450 springs.

As part of the Pascal launch, Duxiana shops are offering on a limited time basis $500 gift certificates for Dux bedroom accessories with any queen or king-sized Dux bed purchase. For the store location nearest you or an instant fax brochure call 1-800-834-8566.

Teen Mental Health Problems: What Are The Warning Signs?

(NAPS)—The teen years can be tough for both parent and child. Adolescents are under stress to be liked, do well in school, get along with their family and make important life decisions. Most of these pressures are unavoidable and worrying about them is natural. But if your teen is feeling extremely sad, hopeless or worthless, these could be warning signs of a mental health problem.

Mental health problems are real, painful and can be severe. They can lead to school failure, loss of friends, or family conflict. Some of the signs that may point to a possible problem are listed below. If you are a parent or other caregiver of a teenager, pay attention if your teen:

Is troubled by feeling:

- really sad and hopeless without good reason and the feelings don't go away;

- very angry most of the time, cries a lot or overreacts to things;
- worthless or guilty a lot;
- anxious or worried a lot more than other young people;
- grief for a long time after a loss or death;
- extremely fearful—has unexplained fears or more fears than most kids;

- constantly concerned about physical problems or appearance;
- frightened that his or her mind is controlled or is out of control.

Experiences big changes, for example:

- does much worse in school;
- loses interest in things usually enjoyed;
- has unexplained changes in sleeping or eating habits;
- avoids friends or family and wants to be alone all the time;

- daydreams too much and can't get things done;
- feels life is too hard to handle or talks about suicide;
- hears voices that cannot be explained.

Is limited by:

- poor concentration; can't make decisions;
- inability to sit still or focus attention;
- worry about being harmed, hurting others, or about doing something "bad";

- the need to wash, clean things, or perform certain routines dozens of times a day;
- thoughts that race almost too fast to follow;
- persistent nightmares.

Behaves in ways that cause problems, for example:

- uses alcohol or other drugs;
- eats large amounts of food and then forces vomiting, abuses laxatives, or takes enemas to avoid weight gain;
- continues to diet or exercise obsessively although bone-thin;
- often hurts other people, destroys property, or breaks the law;
- does things that can be life threatening.

To find help, discuss your concerns with your teen's teacher, school counselor or others such as a family doctor, psychiatrist, psychologist, social worker, religious counselor or nurse.

Free information about children's and adolescents' mental health is available through the Caring For Every Child's Mental Health: Communities Together national public education campaign of the Center for Mental Health Services (CMHS). Sanding Is Better Than Ever by Harry Wicks (NAPS)—Professional woodworkers and homeowners are happy that several newly configured power sanders have appeared on the scene over the past several years.

The important arrivals for both the active do-it-yourselfer and the professional include detail and profile sanders and, most importantly, the random orbit sander. It is probably safe to say that the latter sander is the tool that has had the most dramatic impact in the surface-smoothing world.

The random orbit sander, which was quickly accepted by woodworkers, was "born" in the automotive shop. It started as the grinder used by auto refinishing professionals for decades.

The sander's evolution to a wood-friendly tool didn't occur until about five years ago. The surprise for many has been the terrific performance of this tool. The random orbit sander brings to the woodworker the ability to sand across joints (where the grains are at 90 degrees to each other) without creating cross-grain scratches.

An important, but frequently overlooked point, is that any power sander, including the random orbit, is only as good as the sandpaper it pushes across the surface. For this reason, no matter which sander you use, make it your policy to use the best quality abrasives. Professionals know that, over the long run, a top-of-the-line abrasive is the most economical purchase because it lasts longer than other products. You can sand more square inches for your money.

For belts, my abrasive of choice is the 3M purple belt. It won't tear apart. The bi-directional splice does not bump or nick the surface.

An equally dramatic and fairly recent power sanding improvement is 5-inch quick change discs for use on the dustless random orbit sander. The 8-hole pattern disc, made with 3M Regalite industrial grade abrasive mineral, cuts faster and, because dust is sucked away, lasts longer than a conventional sanding disc. To extend the useful life of the medium, fine and extra-fine discs, these grits have a special coating that helps reduce clogging.

Do you have a power tool sanding tip? Send it, along with the size of the belts you use, to Country Carpenter Sanding Tips, 31 Kathleen Drive, Syosset, NY 11791. If we publish your tip, you'll receive a free box of 3M purple belts.

Cabinetmaker/finishing expert Harry Wicks authored the book, "Finishing and Refinishing." Contact him at Hammermark LTD., Box 20201, Floral Park, NY 11002. Phone: 516-352-5198.
