Downstream from sewage-filled abandoned mine :

EPA to fast-track well-water testing

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Testing of well water in one Floyd County community has been put on the fast track by Environmental Protection Agency officials.

Fred Stroud, on-site coordinator for the EPA's Superfund, was in town and announced Wednesday that testing of water in the Bill Hall Branch area should begin Monday, with results back within about two weeks.

Stroud said mobile labs will be set up to determine if the water in that area of the county has been contaminated by the dumping of more than 100,000 gallons of sewage and industrial waste into an abandoned mine on the property of Sam Hall.

Thirty-two families live in the immediate vicinity of the mine.

If the testing determines there is contamination, residents could have water lines in place within six months, with that project funded, most likely, by the EPA.

Hall owned a septic tank service and Stroud said he told EPA officials that he had dumped waste into the abandoned mine for as many as a dozen years. Stroud estimated that the amount of waste dumped could be as high as a million gallons.

Hall told the Times, however, that he had dumped sewage near, but not in, the mine.

"Our concerns are that this mine overlies the water supply in this area," Stroud said. "Mining earlier could have created a fissure that would allow the bacteria and chemicals from the sewage to seep into the water table."

Mining ceased at the site in the early 1970s, Gary Francis with the Department of Surface Mining, said Wednesday. Mine operators were not required by federal regulation to seal any mine that was abandoned before 1977, he added.

Nine chemicals, including oil and degreasers used in service stations, have been identified in samples of nearly 18 inches of sludge that remains in the mine. About 7,000 gallons of liquid waste was pumped from the mine last month, but Stroud said the sludge fills about half the coal seam, which is about 36 inches wide, and goes back as far as he can see, about 50 feet. He said he isn't sure how much further the sludge goes in the mine.

"We are concerned there is a threat to public health and the environment," he said. "But everything hinges on the testing."

Because some wells in the area are situated near septic systems, Stroud said an additional dye trace will be used to determine how far the contamination might have spread if it has seeped from the mine. That test will be completed down the road and will include markers that indicate the presence of certain chemicals.

The test will determine how far the contamination has spread if it has seeped from the mine and if other areas in addition to those near the mine might have been contaminated.

If that test shows the chemicals and waste have spread, Stroud said the EPA will pay to put in water lines in the area if the state and local governments can show they

Federal prison funding approved

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

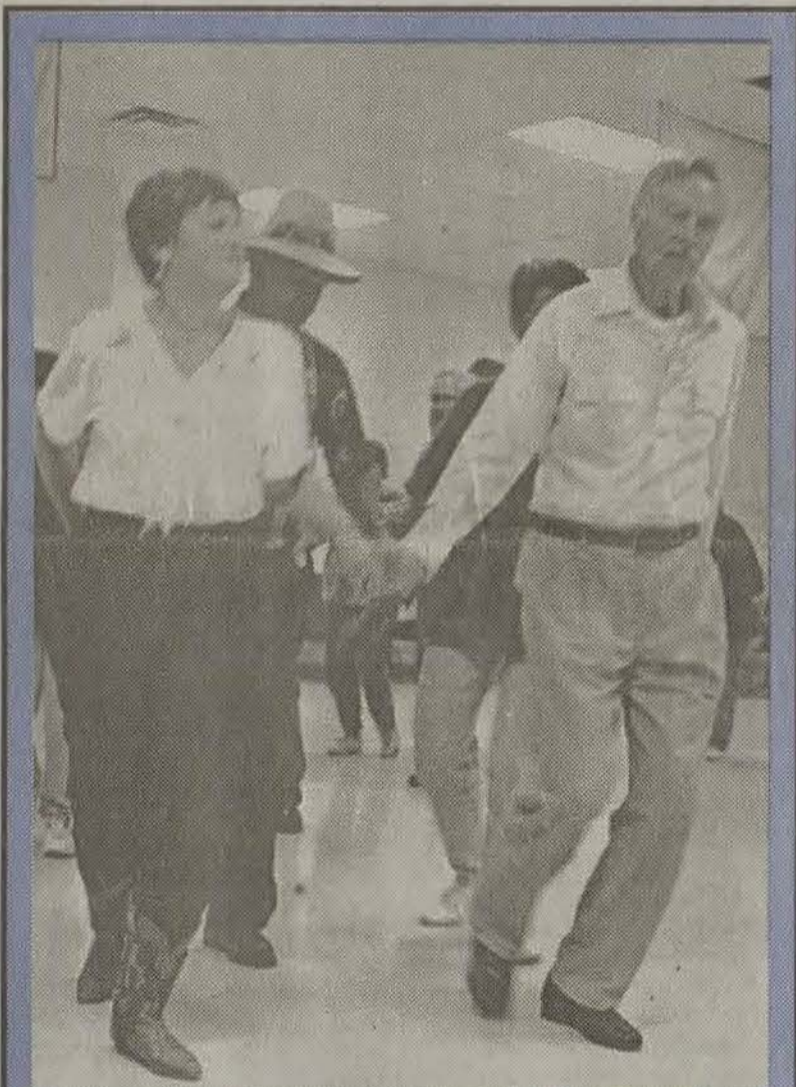

Local officials say they are pleased that funding for a proposed federal prison in the mid-Atlantic region of the country was approved as part of a last-minute budget passed by Congress last week.

But there is still work to be done before the $100 million facility proposed to be built in Martin County becomes a reality.

"We don't want to count our chickens before all the eggs have hatched," Floyd County Judge-Executive Ben Hale said Thursday.

While the federal budget includes $396 million for new federal prison projects and "a project that Kentucky Republicans hope to locate in their state," according to a report in The Wall Street Journal September 30, Hale said a regional authority needs to be put into place to make sure water and sewer service is available to the site and

'Patton to the People' tour coming to Floyd

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Floyd County residents will get a chance to talk about state government when Governor Paul Patton comes to the people next Wednesday.

Patton's tour of Eastern Kentucky, "Patton to the People," is just one of the events scheduled for next week that are sponsored by the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce.

Patton will be at May Lodge at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park from 1:30 to 3 p.m. Wednesday and the event will include a formal presentation by the governor concerning the state. The presentation will be followed by a question-and-answer session, according to Carla S. Coburn, executive director of the chamber.

Patton will be accompanied by his Executive Cabinet secretaries, who will also be available to answer questions from the public.

That evening, the chamber will sponsor a "Bubble Gum" contest at the municipal parking lot. The event is being held in conjunction with the Jenny Wiley Pioneer Festival and children of all ages are invited to come out and blow their best bubbles.

The following Saturday, October 12, the chamber will hold its first annual golf tournament.

Plans for the day include a cookout; a contest with a prize at every hole; specialty holes; cash prizes; and a door prize.

"No one will walk away empty-handed," Coburn said. "Our chamber members have put together gift bags which will go to each participant."

Coburn added this is a bring-your-own-team competition, but individuals and tourists are also invited to participate.

The cost is $25 per person with registration set for 8 a.m. Tee-off is scheduled for 9 a.m. at the Jenny Wiley State Resort Park golf course.

For more information or to register for the event, call Coburn at 886-1341.

October 16 trial set for man accused of hitting deputy

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

An Arkansas Creek man who was arrested last week for getting into a fight in the Floyd County courthouse will have his day in court and face a jury later this month.

George Hale Jr., 32, was arrested by Floyd County deputy Homer Neeley and charged with third-degree assault; disorderly conduct; and resisting arrest.

During a preliminary hearing Wednesday in Floyd District Court, Neeley testified that after Judge James R. Allen adjourned court after arraignments last Wednesday he heard someone in the hallway hollering about a fight.

"I went into the hallway and observed Hale in an altercation with other subjects," Neeley said.

Neeley said he was considering spraying pepper spray on Hale and the other subjects fighting, but didn't because he noticed other people in the close proximity.

"I heard someone say (one of the subjects) had a gun," Neeley said.

But, the deputy said he did not see a gun.

Denver Hall, 36, also of Arkansas Creek was also arrested and charged with disorderly con-

Daniels' second garbage trial delayed again, set for Nov. 13

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

An Auxier man will have to wait a little more than a month before he will get his second trial on charges that he has not paid his garbage bill.

Jim Daniels' trial was scheduled for yesterday (Thursday), but the trial was continued to give the county attorney's office adequate time to research constitutional is-ssues regarding the case, assistant county attorney Lance Daniels said after the continuance.

The new trial date has been set for November 13.

Daniels is charged with theft of services and for failing to comply with the terms of the county's solid waste ordinance.

An earlier conviction against Daniels was overturned February 15 by District Judge James R. Allen after he learned that a trial notification had not reached Daniels' residence.

The first trial was held in Daniels' absence. He was convicted and ordered to jail.

In that trial, solid waste director Mike Vance testified that Daniels refused to pay his garbage bill and that he had photographs showing that Daniels was receiving services from Rumpke of Kentucky.

In July 1994, the fiscal court adopted an ordinance making it mandatory for residents to participate in the county's solid waste program.

But Daniels said in March that he is protesting the exclusive franchise Rumpke has to collect residential trash in the county.

"We're going to take it all the way up to the Court of Appeals or the state Supreme Court," Daniels said after a March 5 trial continuance. "It isn't the $10 a month, it's the principle."

Cutoff arrives Monday for voter registration

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Residents who want to vote in next month's general election but haven't already registered better mark their calendars.

Monday is the last day to register to vote in the upcoming election, which includes several local races, the presidential race, and the county commissioner question.

"Everything has to be in to us by Monday at 4 p.m.," County Clerk Carla Boyd said Tuesday.

She said she has seen the number of registered voters steadily increasing since the motor-voter law went into effect last year. That law allows residents to register to vote at the same time they renew their drivers license.

"The numbers are increasing, but the problem is getting them to vote," Boyd said. "We've had an increase in registered voters before each of the last few elections."

Total number of registered voters in the county before the May primary was 30,229, up 45 from the November 1995 election.

"But that was the net total after the purging," Boyd explained. "We really had more people sign up than that."

She said there is a constant purging of lists of people who die or move away between elections, but registered voters who do not vote for several years are not dropped from the rolls as they have been in the past.

"If they don't vote for four years, they are moved to the inactive list, but they are never dropped," Boyd said. "All they have to do to become active again is vote."

She said she is anticipating a "good turnout" on election day.

Two injured after high-speed chase

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

A high-speed chase on Route 23 put two subjects in the hospital but left two others on the run after their vehicle ran off the road and flipped several times.

Prestonsburg Police Sergeant Mike Ormerod notified the dispatcher's office around 12:15 a.m. early Thursday that he was in pursuit of a white Pontiac Grand Am that was reaching speeds in excess of 100 miles per hour.

The sergeant soon thereafter advised that he was going to end his pursuit because of the high rate of speed the vehicle was traveling.

A few minutes after Ormerod

Brian Burke was transported to Highlands Regional Medical Center after the driver of the vehicle he was a passenger in attempted to evade a police officer early Thursday morning and ran off the road. Four subjects were reported by Prestonsburg Police Sergeant Mike Ormerod to have been in the car, but only two of the subjects were apprehended and transported to the hospital, Burke and the other subject, Jonathon Crider, were admitted into the hospital, where they are listed in good condition. Another video classroom coming to PCC

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Students at Prestonsburg Community College are going to help level the mountains of Eastern Kentucky.

The school will be getting a fourth video-linked classroom that will allow students to participate in classes that originate at other colleges in the state. It will also let community residents take part in seminars and other classes they might want to attend, but don't have the time to travel to.

In addition to the distance-learning classroom on the Prestonsburg campus, the school has a telemedicine classroom in Floyd County and another distance-learning classroom on the Pike County campus.

"Technology and communication has been one of the top priorities of our Star project," Floyd said Thursday. "This is a very welcome addition to that priority. These classrooms are full to capacity."

"We're trying to level the mountains by connecting the regions," Hilda Legg, executive director of the Center for Rural Development in Somerset, said.

Legg, through the center, secured the more than $383,000 grant that puts in the video classrooms at PCC, Somerset Community College, Southeast Community College, and Hazard Community College. The grant is funded by the federal Commerce Department and was announced in September.

Legg said the money will cover equipment costs, especially the teleconferencing equipment to link the four colleges and the Center for Rural Development.

"There is no salary and no administration in this amount," Legg said. "The schools will split the grant money with the center to get just a few pieces of equipment to facilitate the program."

The classroom will use real-time video and audio broadcasts with microphones that allow participants on either end to join in discussions and to link classrooms in different parts of the state together.

PCC put its first distance-learning classroom in place last year and expected some problems. The problems haven't been those they anticipated, however. Dr. Deborah Floyd said the class is always in use and is "at capacity." She has even lectured on-line.

Floyd said the school's plan is to continue adding "state-of-the-art" classes, including computer labs and distance-learning classes.

"We are beginning to reap what we've sown," she said.

The classrooms will be a plus for all those involved, Legg said.

"We knew these colleges had some video capabilities with links through the University of Kentucky," Legg said. "But the priority for those is UK classes. This gives colleges more room to add other classes to the program."

It also gives them flexibility. "If they want to offer a small business seminar, they can do so," she said. "If we want to present a training program, we can do so as well."

The Center for Rural Development opened several months ago and was designed to promote economic development in a 40-county area. It was the brainchild of Representative Hal Rogers.

The video classrooms also allow the colleges to offer a class they might not have the funding to offer separately.

"We are delighted to be having them as our partners in this," Legg said. "We're going to get together in the near future to work out the specifics of the program."

Hazmat team closer to becoming a reality

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

An incident in Floyd County last Friday shows one of the reasons why putting together a hazardous materials team has been a goal of Floyd County Disaster and Emergency Services director Lon May for several months.

May said a truck traveling through Prestonsburg had a broken hydraulic hose and spilled oil on the road. A misting rain began to fall, making the roadway slick.

While the spill was minor, the problems it could have caused could have been tremendous, May said.

"It was a low quantity, but it covered a lot of ground," he added. "We spread sand and directed traffic for safety's sake. This was just one example of what can happen."

Wednesday night May presented a preliminary budget for the start-up of the unit to representatives from the five-county Big Sandy area. He's looking at a team which consists of five volunteers from each of the five counties.

"We're looking at a little more than $50,000 to get this up and going," May said Monday. "I don't think anybody ever sat down and looked at what it would cost."

May says that about half of that start-up cost could be eliminated if he can put in place mutual aid agreements with fire departments in Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Magoffin, and Pike counties. "If we can use their breathing devices, we can cut that in half," May said.

The cost of eight self-contained breathing devices is about $24,500. May's total estimated budget for the team is $52,701.

Another big cost is physical exams for volunteers. May has estimated those costs at about $6,840, but he said he hopes to get the services donated by area physicians and hospitals to cut the funds needed even more.

"This would be a big help to hospitals," he added. "We can decontaminate patients before they get to the hospital, eliminating a costly step for those facilities," May added.

May has been asked to chair the hazmat team and has secured a place to house the truck that was purchased several years ago, but never put into place. Rumpke of Kentucky has agreed to lease a facility to the team for $1 a year.

May is looking for other corporate donations to make the unit a reality. He said he's planning to ask companies in the area for donations to the unit before he goes to each of the five county governments involved and asks for funding from them.

"The companies benefit the most from this," he said. "This can save them big money on containment."

He also said insurance costs for companies which store chemicals will drop and those companies who donate to the team will receive a tax write-off for their donations.

"I expect it to be up and running in six months to a year," May said. "We can start with a Volkswagen and build to a Cadillac."

discontinued his pursuit, he advised that he saw the vehicle off the side of the road and that the four subjects who were in the car, were gone.

The dispatcher told Ormerod that backup was on the way, and Ormerod reported that he had one of the subjects in custody and needed an ambulance.

The subject, Brian Burke, was transported to Highlands Regional Medical Center, where he was admitted and is listed in good condition.

When additional officers arrived at the scene, located near the caution lights on Route 23, a search was conducted for the other three subjects.

Floyd County deputies Steve Toy and Jason Kendrick located a second subject, Jonathan Crider, hiding under a trampoline at a nearby residence.

Crider was also transported to the hospital, where he was admitted and is listed in good condition.

A strong smell of alcohol was detected in the car.

An attempt was made to receive updated information on Thursday morning's accident, but dispatchers advised that Police Chief Darrel Conley was out of town, and Sgt. Ormerod did not report for duty until after press time.

Mayor Jerry Fannin said he would not allow dispatchers to release information from police dispatch logs.

Fannin said he was not sure what happened Thursday morning and would not comment on the issue because he said he did not know the legalities of releasing dispatch log information.

Book review

Sandra Robertson, director of Library Services at Prestonsburg Community College, presented a review of the book, Dakota: A Spiritual Geography by Kathleen Norris, during a recent community discussion sponsored by the Contemplative Studies Center at PCC. The next monthly meeting to be sponsored by the center is scheduled for October 22, at 6:30 p.m., in room 207, of the Magoffin Building. At that time, Sr. Judy Yunker will present a review of The Celestine Prophecy.

Time for Turtle Trots changed

Track time for the Turtle Trots during the Jenny Wiley Pioneer Festival has been changed to 11 a.m. on Saturday, October 12.

The turtle races will take place on the parking lot of Dr. Marty Minix, DMD's office across from the Prestonsburg Grade School. Heat winners will receive ribbons; race winners will receive trophies and cash prizes. Turtles sponsored by business will race first; turtles sponsored by individuals will race after the business race is won.

Children who wish to race turtles in the individual races are encouraged to arrive prior to 11 a.m. to decorate a turtle mini-poster. Prizes will be given for the best turtle mini-poster and turtle name.

The Turtle Trots is an annual fundraising, fundraising event sponsored by Our Lady of the Mountains School. All proceeds benefit the educational programs of the school.

For more information, contact Sandi or George Archer, 886-1597 or the school at 789-3661.

Date for Talent Search changed

TNC Productions and the Mountain Jamboree "Talent Search," that was scheduled for Saturday, September 21, at the Mountain Jamboree show in Pikeville, has been re-scheduled for Saturday, October 26.

Everyone who has already paid their entry fee for the show will be guaranteed a place in the competition on October 26, and all prizes previously announced will be awarded to the winners in the October 26th competition.

Anyone interested in entering this talent search or for more information, (606) 432-5289.

Working on Workers' Comp

by Scott Perry

Governor Patton's plan to call a special session some time after Thanksgiving to reform Workers' Compensation legislation is not getting a lot of support from mountain area legislators.

Some of the governor's closest political allies, like Pike County Representative Herbie Deskins, are urging Patton to hold off on the special session until reforms enacted in 1994 can be assessed for their effectiveness.

The proposed delay is not unworthy of consideration if Deskins is correct in his suggestion that comp rates have decreased 33 percent over the past two years.

We won't dispute Deskins' take on the issue, but we will swallow it with a grain of salt.

After all, Deskins and a number of his mountain-area legislative compadres are attorneys who collect tidy sums for litigating Workers' Compensation cases. They do have a vested interest in how the issue plays out in the legislature.

Perhaps a decision on whether or not a special session is necessary could be reached more appropriately by asking those who pay the premiums and those who receive the benefits.

While we're polling those folks, let's do a study on the fees paid to comp attorneys... just to see if they are fair and equitable.

Make no mistake about it, Workers' Compensation is big business in Kentucky, especially in the coalfields, where millions of dollars are paid out in benefits and millions more are paid out in fees.

Who benefits most from the current Workers' Comp set up, doctors and lawyers or injured or ailing workers?

That is the question. We know what the answer should be.

Gives praise for fire department

Editor:
I want to take this opportunity to give praise and thanks to Captain Eddie Clark and his crew. His crew, of course, was very few, the day my house burned.

These boys all have jobs and most are out of range of the fire alarm. They don't get paid. They're volunteer firemen and everyone does an excellent job when they are fighting fires. They're known to be the best volunteer department in Kentucky.

My house was so far gone by the time the fire was noticed that no one could have saved it. I'm so proud of them for trying and for saving my neighbors' homes on either side of me. I'm sorry that Norma Mullins' house received damage.

I've been told the fire department received some harassing calls. Shame! shame! Who could stoop so low. Everybody knows how hard these boys work and right now

Capt. Eddie Clark is ill and I pray it's not from these stupid calls. Please do not harass these people who put their life on the line for us.

If they were a paid, department, they would be there 24 hours per day, but they're not paid, and they have to make a living too. Let's all pray for Eddie. I'm satisfied they did all they could.

Thanks to Allen firemen for bringing their tanker. Thanks also for the other departments for sending help. We love and appreciate each and every one of you.

Thanks again, Captain Eddie Clark and Co-captain Edward Clark, Tony Case and the others I know were there but I just can't remember. May God bless you all. I'm sorry. I can't remember you all. Love you dearly.

I would also like to thank each and every person who offered help in any way during this trying time for us.

We'll soon be married 50 years, and a lot of memories went up in that fire, but our friends and neighbors gave us shoulders to cry on; gave us clothes to wear; had a shower and gave us a lot of good and pretty things plus the monetary help. Who in the world could ask for better friends and neighbors and family?

We love you all so very much. Your prayers are pulling us through.

'Clock is ticking' for Floyd Countians

Editor:
Thank you for the two front page articles on welfare reform, September 27, and October 2.

I hope you will continue to follow Kentucky's welfare plan as it unfolds. The "clock" is indeed "ticking" and for some unemployed, adult Floyd Countians there will be no food stamps after January 1, 1997, for at least three years. Legal immigrants' food stamps have already been stopped.

Other Floyd Countians will need to be studying, working or doing volunteer work by October 1, 1998, in order to keep their Temporary Aid for Needy Families (formally AFDC) checks. Each month they collect from now on is deducted from a five-year lifetime limit.

Most current food stamp recipients will find the amount of their stamps reduced because of changes. For example, heating assistance such as HEAP will count as income. The maximum shelter deduction is $247, and the standard household deduction is $134.

Earnings of 18-22-year-olds who are still in school will be counted as income whereas previously they weren't.

Those changes are mandatory. But there are other changes coming that depend on the Commonwealth and how it works out the details of the broad plan it submitted October 1.

Your paper's coverage of the plan and the debate over details can empower us to speak and shape the plan in ways that are best for our people and community. It can also help individuals plan for their and their children's futures.

Again, thank you for the information you've published so far. Please continue to keep us informed!

The Political 'Party'

Partisan politics: Has it gone far enough?

It would be totally impractical to run for a major office in America without declaring yourself a member of the Republican or Democrat party.

You must have the support of your party voters, but more importantly, to stay in office you need a party affiliation in order to wield power and attract financial backers.

The struggle for benefits of power has resulted in a constant bombardment of lies. A Democrats' campaign strategy is to say everything Republicans do is wrong, and Republicans tell us all Democratic ideas are immoral. Since both could not possibly be right, who should you believe? The answer, of course, depends upon who you ask, a Republican or Democrat?

However a shrinking minority still believe the worth of a man and the value of his ideas is not determined by his party affiliation. That minority represents the ideas which have made America great, and they are linked with the spirit of this great country's founding fathers.

The founders of these United States placed no value upon the role of political parties in our government.

On the contrary, they warned us against it. "If we mean to support the liberty and independence which has cost us so much blood and treasure to establish, we must drive far away from the demon of party spirit"—George Washington

Here in America, we live in a democracy led by a president and characterized by a separation of power.

The vast majority of the world's democracies, however, are governed by a Parliament. In the Parliamentary system, there is no separation of power. Government operations are controlled by the party who holds the majority of seats in Parliament.

If you have ever seen the fiery debates which take place in the British Parliament, you may be surprised to find out these heated discussions mean very little to the outcome of the votes on legislation. This is because members of the majority party always vote their party, thus ensuring the party will stay in power.

If they ever lose a vote, they become the minority party and lose control of the government. If this happens, it is said the government "falls" and a whole new set of officials replace the old ones.

Chief executives of these countries are also members of the Parliament, eliminating the possibility of any legislation being vetoed.

If Kentucky government was operated in this manner, Governor Patton would be a member of the legislature and would only support Democrat ideas and Democrat candidates.

And since the Democrats are the majority in the General Assembly, they would all vote the same on important issues and be in total control of government operations.

The party in power would be a virtual dictatorship. The people, in turn, would develop the attitude that they should allow others, those they deem as their betters, to control government.

The government officials would share this feeling of superiority and therefore conduct most of their decision-making in private.

Finally, elections would be nothing more than unproductive debates over which party is preferable to the other and result in "straight-ticket" voting, rather than discussion of issues and candidate qualifications. Luckily, Kentucky government and politics is not run like this.

Unemployment rate declines in August

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Floyd County's unemployment rate continued its slow decline in August as the number of workers without a job fell to 8.1 percent.

That number dropped from 8.5 percent in July and was down from 10.7 percent in June.

Across the state, unemployment rates fell in 90 counties between July and August with the state rate falling to 4.1 percent, the lowest in 19 years. The last time Kentucky's rate was lower was in September 1977 when it fell to four percent.

The main reason for the decrease, according to Carlos Cracraft, chief labor market analyst for the Department for Employment Services, was the opening of schools. More than 2,700 people returned to work during the month.

"This growth was mainly in local education, reflecting the trend for schools to open in August," Cracraft said.

In the Big Sandy area, the rate was more than double the state rate, with the five-county region recording an 8.3 percent jobless rate. That number is unchanged from July, but is down from ten percent in August 1995.

Johnson had the lowest rate in the area. Only 6.9 percent of the workforce there is out of work. That number, however, is up from July 1996 when the rate was 6.7 percent.

Magoffin County had the highest rate at 10.7 percent. That rate was unchanged from July, but lower than the August 1995 rate of 14.2 percent.

Martin's rate dropped more than a percent to 10.2 percent. It is down from 11.8 percent in July and 12.6 percent in August 1995.

Pike County's rate was up at 8.3 percent. It increased from 7.9 percent in July, but was down from 9.5 percent in August 1995.

The largest number of those unemployed in the area, 29 percent, had worked in the mining industry. An additional 23 percent were in manufacturing with 16 percent in the trade and services industry.

Across the state, the lowest jobless rate was 1.6 percent in Woodford County. Other low count yrates were posted in Jessamine (1.8 percent), Fayette (1.9 percent), Scott (2 percent), Shelby (2.2 percent), Bourbon and Oldham (2.3 percent each), Larue (2.4 percent), and Madison, Mercer and Trigg (2.5 percent).

The state's highest unemployment rate, 16.4 percent, was in Fulton County. It was followed by Elliott (12.3 percent) Cumberland (12 percent), Knox (11.6 percent), Magoffin (10.7 percent), Martin (10.2 percent), Wayne (9.8 percent), Harlan (9.5 percent), Carter (9.4 percent), and Lawrence (9 percent).

Floyd AFDC office gets $5 million check

Ronald J. Wright, field service supervisor in the Prestonsburg Department for Social Insurance Office, his granddaughter Hannah, and his wife Marsha were on hand when Governor Paul Patton accepted a $5 million check from U.S.D.A. representatives from Washington and Atlanta.

The check was presented to Kentucky as a result of Kentucky's low error rate in the Food Stamp Program. The representative from Washington said Kentucky has one of the lowest error rates in the nation and has been used many times as an example of how the Food Stamp Program should be run.

Floyd County is the only county in the Southeast Region to receive this prestigious award each year since its inception in 1989. This means that they have maintained an error rate below 5 percent each year. Wright said that it is nice to receive the praise from the governor and commissioner but that all the credit goes to the workers in the local office who made it happen through hard work and dedication. Floyd County was the second county in the nation to start issuing food stamps when the program began in 1961. They were also the first county in Kentucky to issue food stamps.

Wright is a 35-year-veteran with state government and has been a supervisor in the Prestonsburg office for 28 years. He also supervised Magoffin County in 1972 and 1973. Over the years, Wright served as president, vice-president, chairman of the nominating committee and on the board of directors for the following agency-related associations: American Public Welfare Association; Kentucky Human Services Association, and the Tenure Organization. He also represented Kentucky at the Regional

Floyd students earn degrees

Two Floyd County students earned their degrees with honors from Morehead State University during the 1996 summer sessions.

Rebecca Lynn Allen of Wheelwright received her Bachelor of University Studies. She graduated Magna Cum Laude.

Melinda S. Keathley of Harold was awarded an Associate of Applied Science. She graduated with distinction.

To earn a degree Magna Cum Laude, a student must have a cumulative grade point average of 3.6 to 3.89 on a 4.0 scale. Associate degree recipients who complete a minimum of 32 semester hours at MSU and earn a cumulative grade point average of 3.60 or better graduate with distinction.

A.P.W.A. Conferences at Tennessee, Florida and Virginia.

Also serving as field service supervisors in the Floyd County Office are Donna Allen and Charles E. Hackworth.

During the check presentation in Frankfort, the Wrights visited the State Capitol and various other landmarks as well as meeting several of their friends who work in state government. Hannah Wright told her grandmother it was the most exciting day of her life.

The Wrights have two other granddaughters, Christina and Rebekah, daughters of Steven and Rachel Wright of Cow Creek.

Hi Hat swinging bridges is subject of "Kentucky Life" on October 12

KET viewers take an adventure across the state in an encore Kentucky Life broadcasts at 8:30 Saturday, October 12.

In the first segment, Host Byron Crawford sets off through the mountains of Eastern Kentucky in search of swinging bridges.

These homemade structures, some generations old, are often the only means some residents have of reaching their homes across mountain streams. Crawford visits four family bridges and talks to residents in Hi Hat in Floyd County and Oneida in Clay County about what the bridges mean to their families.

Viewers can find out more about the Kentucky Life series by visiting KET's Internet home page at <http://www.ket.org>. Kentucky Life is produced and directed by Joy Flynn.

Segment producers for this program are Charlee Heaton, Judy Flavell and Guy Mendes. Kentucky Life, a KET production, is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

Customized training at Kentucky Tech schools more than doubles over two years

Kentucky Tech schools provided customized training to nearly 50,000 employees of business and industry last fiscal year. One of the fastest-growing components of technical education, customized training increased 15 percent last year and has more than doubled since 1994.

Customized training programs are developed to meet specific needs for individual employers, according to Emil Jezik, executive director of the Office of Development and Industry Relations in the Workforce Development Cabinet.

"Kentucky Tech schools are obviously responsive to business and industry and their specific training needs," Jezik said. "Some of the training is offered on a routine basis by schools, but much of the training is actually constructed around the requirements of a single business or company."

"The flexibility and variety of the training make it very attractive to Kentucky employers."

The 49,805 employees from 672 companies were trained in 2,761 programs, 844 of which were funded by Bluegrass State Skills Corp.—an agency of the state Economic Development Cabinet that funds technical training. Customized training is offered at technical schools and/or company sites. Local training and development coordinators work with employers and Kentucky Tech teachers to design and provide the training.

"For years, we've predicted that training and re-training will become absolutely essential for business and industry to compete," Jezik said. "The growth in customized training that Kentucky Tech schools have experienced is hard evidence that the prediction was right on the mark."

Customized training last year included robotic welding, plastic injection molding, intermediate locomotive electricity, deckhand training, robotic adhesive training, waste treatment and hydraulics and pneumatics.

Customized training can be arranged by calling.

Goldwater Scholarship at PCC

Prestonsburg Community College students interested in a career in mathematics, the natural sciences, or engineering are invited to apply to the Barry M. Goldwater Scholarship and Excellence in Education Program.

Established by Congress in 1986, the Barry M. Goldwater Scholarship and Excellence in Education Foundation operates an educational scholarship program designed to provide opportunities for outstanding U.S. students with excellent academic records and demonstrated interest in, and potential for, careers in mathematics, the natural sciences, and engineering.

In April 1997, the Foundation will award scholarships to students who will be college juniors or seniors during the 1997-98 academic year. In order to be considered for an award, students must be nominated by their institution. The deadline for receipt of all 1997 nominations is January 15, 1997.

The scholarship award covers eligible expenses up to a maximum of $7,000 per year. Junior scholarship recipients can expect to receive a maximum of two years of support. Senior scholarship recipients are eligible for a maximum of one year of support.

To be eligible, a student must be a current full-time sophomore or junior and must be pursuing a baccalaureate degree, have a B average or equivalent, stand in the upper fourth of the class, and be a U.S. citizen, resident alien, or U.S. national who will pursue a career in mathematics, the natural sciences, or engineering.

Interested students should contact: Robert McAninch, Pike Building, 217, 886-3863.

Hawks assigned to Pikeville

Ssgt. Wesley G. Hawks, 27, of Hurricane, West Virginia, has been assigned to the United States Marine Corps recruiting station in Pikeville. Hawks previously repaired and maintained the air traffic control surveillance and precision approach radars at MCA's Camp Pendleton.

With more than nine years of service to the Corps, Hawks will be visiting numerous high schools to include: Belfry, Prestonsburg and Whitesville as a career planner. He has been trained to assist young men and women to find jobs in one of more than 450 specialties.

During the Gulf War, Hawks was responsible for the air surveillance radar at Al Jubail, Saudi Arabia.

Hawks is an avid fisherman and his main hobby is electronics.

Hawks and his wife Nory and their daughter, Alyzza, plan to reside in Pikeville. For information the Marine Corps call 1-800-238-6190.

Tonya M. Lowe joins the Navy

Tonya M. Lowe of Prestonsburg, has enlisted in the United States Navy for guaranteed training in the Navy's Intelligence Specialists (IS) Program.

Lowe is the daughter of Raymond and Linda Lowe of Prestonsburg. She is a 1996 graduate of Prestonsburg High School. She will attend basic training at Naval Training Center in Great Lakes, Illinois.

Following recruit training, Lowe will receive training as a Navy Intelligence Specialist. They are involved in collecting and interpreting intelligence data. They analyze photographs and prepare charts, maps and reports that describe in detail the strategic situation all over the world.

According to the staff at Navy Recruiting Station Pikeville, Lowe will, upon completion of training, be assigned to one of the Navy's ships or stations around the world.

Enlists in Marine Corps Delayed Entry Program

Ernest Reynolds Jr., 22, son of Ernest and Brenda Reynolds of Martin, enlisted in the United States Marine Corps Delayed Entry Program. Reynolds, a graduate from Betsy Layne High School, decided to take advantage of the Marine Corps Delayed Entry Program and plan his future by joining the World's Finest, the U.S. Marines. Through the Marine Corps, Reynolds will have a wide range of academic programs to choose from. Not only will he be assured a good job upon graduation, he will also be earning job security, future pay raises, and technical job skill training. For more information about career opportunities in the Marine Corps, contact Ssgt. Hawks, at 1 (800) 238-6190.

Varney graduates from basic training

Army National Guard Pvt. Paul E. Varney Jr. has graduated from basic military training at Fort Leonard Wood, Waynesville, Missouri.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesies, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Salt Springs

This highway marker by the road that runs through David commemorates Boone Salt Springs. During the winter of 1767-68, Daniel Boone and William Hill hunted in this area and explored the upper reaches of the Big Sandy River.

Threatened by severe weather, they were forced to erect a shelter and spend several months at this location. Game was plentiful, however, and the two men were able to keep a good supply of fresh meat on hand by waiting patiently by the spring salt.

Unlike most of the other markers in Floyd County, this one is located next to a parking lot. The historic site is also marked by a cairn-like monument containing a bronze plaque. The monument was erected in 1948 by the David Troop 143 of the Boy Scouts of America. (Text by Robert Perry and photograph by John Pitts).

Baptists to meet in Bowling Green

November is a busy time for state Baptists as preparations get underway for the annual meeting of the Kentucky Baptist Convention, held in Bowling Green the second week of the month.

There are over 2000 Southern Baptist churches with over 750,000 members in the state committed to carrying on the great commission of reaching others for Christ. The administration of that commission is the focus of the two-day meeting of business sessions, annual departmental and college and institutional reports, special recognitions, music and inspirational messages. The 1995 annual meeting convenes Tuesday, November 12, at First Baptist Church in Bowling Green with the theme "Living the Truth (Being and Doing)," James 1:22, and is expected to attract approximately 2,500 Baptist messengers, elected by their local churches.

Activities began Monday, November 11, with various conferences: Kentucky Baptist Religious Education Association, Eastwood Baptist Church, 500 Eastwood Avenue, 10 a.m.; Kentucky Baptist Youth Ministry Association, Western Kentucky University Baptist Student Union, 1574

Normal Drive, 10:30 a.m.; Kentucky Baptist Association of Ministries with the Aging, Calvary Baptist Church, 3011 Elrod Road, 11 a.m.; Kentucky Baptist Music Conference, Living Hope Baptist Church, 1805 Western Avenue, 11:00 a.m.; and Kentucky Baptist Pastors' Conference, First Baptist Church, 621 E. 12th Street, 1:30 p.m.

Meetings have been scheduled by several ministerial groups and professional associations. Colleges, seminaries and auxiliary groups will hold reunions at various locations. The actual annual convention begins at First Baptist Church Tuesday, 8:15 a.m., and ends Wednesday, 12:00 noon.

Numerous KBC related exhibits will be on display throughout the convention. KBC related exhibits include those from the various programs and institutions, such as Kentucky Baptist Convention departments, schools, colleges and assemblies; Foreign Mission Board; and Southern Baptist Sunday School Board. The Baptist Book exhibit will offer for sale numerous books, programs and materials for use in churches and various ministries.

The convention sermon will be presented by Dr. Ted Sisk, retired pastor, Immanuel Baptist Church, Lexington, on November 12, 2:05 p.m. Esther Burroughs, assistant director, Church Growth and Associational Evangelism Department, Home Mission Board, will speak on November 12, 8:55 p.m. Tony Campolo, professor of Sociology and director of Urban Studies Program, Eastern College, Pennsylvania, will deliver the closing message, November 13, 11:25 a.m. Special music during the convention will be presented by Clear Creek Baptist College Ensemble, Princeton First Baptist Church Choir, Kentucky Baptist Chorale, Kentucky Baptist Singing Women, and Alma Randolph.

Persons wishing additional information about the Kentucky Baptist Convention schedule, services or special arrangements can contact the Executive Office of the KBC, 10701 Shelbyville Road, Louisville, Kentucky 40243, (502) 245-4101.

International club forming at PCC

On September 6, a small group of professors from Prestonsburg Community College (PCC) met to discuss the need for and feasibility of starting an international club in this area.

The group unanimously agreed that such a club was needed, due to the increasing population of foreign nationals who are settling in Eastern Kentucky.

Dr. John Shiber, spokesperson for the newly-formed group, explained that the club will be independent of any other organization and will be open to all people from overseas origin and upbringing and their families who are presently living in Eastern Kentucky.

The group agreed that the club will have two basic interests: 1) to provide internationals and their families a wholesome outside involvement in which they can feel at ease, meet people of similar and or varying backgrounds, and share their ideas and talents with one another; and 2) to help bridge the cultural gap between them and their "hosts," i.e., the people of Appalachia/Eastern Kentucky, by offering to have occasional panels, discussion groups, workshops, and/or classroom lectures about their respective cultures, emphasizing customs, art work, music, forms of dress, religions, food preparation, and more.

In addition, they hope to have some sort of "International Festival" each year, to be held at some central location.

The group has tentatively named the club, "International Club of Appalachia," and welcomes new members. They have already been invited to participate in PCC's celebration of Cultural Diversity Week (October 14-18).

They will set up a display of international clothing, jewelry, works of art, as well as a few trays of international foods for tasting, on Thursday evening, October 17th, from 6-8 p.m. in the Magoffin Art Gallery. This activity will be free and open to the public.

Anyone wishing more information about the "International Club of Appalachia" may contact any of the following people at PCC (606) 886-3864: Hassan Saffari, Reza Akhlaghi, Hailu Bogale, Ladan Mahmoodian, John Shiber, or Toufic Saad.

Prestonsburg has new development publication

A new "Resources for Economic Development" report for Prestonsburg in Floyd County has been issued by the Kentucky Cabinet for Economic Development.

Secretary of Economic Development Gene Strong said the report is a basic tool used in introducing and promoting the community to industrial prospects.

"Local economic development professionals and community leaders, as well as Cabinet for Economic Development staff members, can use the report to provide key data about the community to those companies interested in Prestonsburg as a potential business location."

The "Resources for Economic Development" publication is one of the ways the Cabinet for Economic Development can assist a local community in its economic development preparedness.

"A basic need when working with industrial prospects is to have available current and concise information on the community under consideration," Strong said. Included in the report is data on such things as population, utilities, labor supply, schools, existing industries and industrial sites.

Prestonsburg is one of some 200 communities for which economic development reports are updated every two years by the Cabinet's Division of Research.

The data was gathered by the Division of Research with the help of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce and the Big Sandy Area Development District.

At the request of Carla Coburn, Executive Director of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, the next report will bear the name of Floyd County in its title.

For a copy of the report, send $5.00 plus 6 percent sales tax to the Maps and Publications Office, Kentucky Cabinet for Economic Development, 133 Holmes Street, Frankfort, KY 40601, or call (502) 564-4715. Visa and MasterCard are accepted.

News of the Weird

by Chuck Shepherd

— Parrots in the News in August: Roger Schlup filed a lawsuit against a veterinarian in Sydney, Australia, for about $200,000 because the vet allegedly failed to fix the broken leg of Schlup's macaw and even broke the other one. Macaws can mate only while standing at odd angles on perches, and Schlup figures "Nelson" is done as a procreator. And in Chicago, transportation analyst Steve Lewins, using stationery of his employer, the investment firm Gruntal & Co., said he had information on alleged federal government complicity in the crash of TWA Flight 800 and the Challenger explosion and said he has had to deal with death threats against him by having a "killer parrot" guard his home.

— The Des Moines Register reported in July that among the treasures turned up at the excavation site of the steamboat Bertrand, which sank on the Missouri River near Omaha, Neb., in 1865, were four pocketknives with glass rivets that contained explicit, pornographic photos. They are evidence, said conservator Jeanne Harold, that people have not changed much in 131 years.

— A coroner's inquest in Bexley, England, in September revealed the dominance that the late Karen Morgan, 29, apparently held over her parents and younger brother. Morgan was long bedridden with a brain tumor and pneumonia but so comprehensively dictated the family's eating, bathing and television-viewing habits that the three survivors did not think they could function without her. Police found notes showing all three intended to kill themselves as soon as they had enough money to buy sleeping pills.

POLICE BLOTTER

— The California Style in Crime: According to police in Toronto, Ontario, in August, two men who had just executed a well-planned jewelry store robbery made a successful getaway but only after stealing a car in front of the store in order to drive to their getaway car, which was parked a half a block away.

— Steve Tsoukalis, 59, manager of the Raintree Super Foodtown in Freehold Township, N.J., was charged with a hunting law violation in March when he fired his .410-gauge shotgun at some sparrows, which were inside his store at the time. Foodtown employees said wild birds flying into the store had been a problem for a while and that this was Tsoukalis' preferred method for dealing with them.

— According to police in Huntington Beach, Calif., in June, it was the incessant chatter of Karen Pedersen, 52, that caused the man who was stealing her truck to give up and flee. She had intercepted the man before he could drive it away, and despite his having a gun, she just began talking nonstop. Said Pedersen later, "He sounded irritated. He said, 'I can't believe how this is going. This is like something out of the movies.'" After she gave him a T-shirt to wipe his fingerprints off the truck, he fled.

— In March, the police department in Nagasaki, Japan, began an investigation of several officers for allegedly helping a suspect get a gun while in custody. According to a witness, the police promised the man a lighter sentence if he would buy a gun from a friend over the phone, have it delivered to the police station, and then have it confiscated from him so that officers could claim a prized weapons-charge arrest for their records.

BOTTOM OF THE GENE POOL

— Marine Cpl. Corban Backstrand, 24, stationed near Hiroshima, Japan, won a dare in June while out with friends. He stuck his head in front of a moving cargo train and was knocked unconscious.

— In July, according to Gardner, Kan., Sheriff's Lt. Bill Garrett, a woman was treated at Olathe Medical Center for a scalp wound after her husband shot her Ever see the movie, "The Money Pit?"

It's a remake of an old Cary Grant flick called "Mr. Blanding Builds His Dream House," starring Tom Hanks and Goldie Hawn, who buy an old dilapidated mansion then spend a lot of time and a lot of money rebuilding it.

Our favorite line, which is repeated often, comes from the general contractor who, when asked how long the renovation work will take, answers, "two weeks."

Well, naturally, it takes about six months, but every time he's asked when he'll be finished, the builder gives the same answer...

"Two weeks."

We've been doing a retake on that story now for about four months, building a new office for our newspaper.

We actually started the project nearly four years ago, broke ground in late May and expect to move into the new facility in, well, two weeks.

We've been using that timeline for about two months and it's getting a bit stale with the rest of the office crew but, that's our story and we're sticking with it.

The new building is ready for immediate occupancy, but we can't make the move until our office furniture, ordered in early August, arrives.

It should have been here by now, so we called the company, asking what the hold up was and when we could expect delivery.

You guessed it.

Two weeks.

They must have seen that movie, too.

Critic's Corner

by Michael Greene

The Spitfire Grill

I joked around in a recent column about a movie I thought was cheapened by its use of violence and gratuitous sex, saying, "Where's Bob Dole when you need him?" If you recall, then Senator Dole made a speech last year decrying Hollywood's sleaziness in its films and television programs.

Well, someone must have been listening, because this flick is a real family-values winner in my book. I'm only taken aback by those who have criticized it because it was produced by a Catholic organization. What's wrong with that? I can only shake my head in wonder at those people who are so terrified by any hint of religion!

Newcomer Alison Elliott portrays Percy Talbott, a young woman who's just gotten out of prison and picks the small town of Gilead, Maine, to start her new life. Helped out by the local sheriff, she gets a job and a home with Hannah Ferguson (Ellen Burstyn) who runs the local diner, the Spitfire Grill. Hannah's a tough nut to crack, having been hardened by the death of her son in Vietnam. However, she likes what she sees in Percy and the two soon develop a relationship.

Hannah's niece, Shelby (Marcia Gay Harden), also takes to Percy and the two become fast friends. However, Shelby's super-dull, nasty husband, Nahum (Will Patton), is convinced Percy's up to no good and wants to somehow fleece Hannah out of her life savings.

Nahum's jealousy soon leads to tragedy, which is the turning point of the flick. Throughout the crisis, we see a beautiful, uplifting turn of events. Each character is able to bolster and inspire the other through almost unthinkable tragedy by her faith and courage.

There's nothing overtly "religious" going on here. The movie is simply about the triumph over the human spirit over adversity and about how we need each other in a sense of community.

I recommend this film highly. However, be forewarned: If you go, make sure you have a good supply of tissues with you. This is a four-hanky movie if ever there was one!

A Kiss Is Just A Kiss

Last week a six-year-old boy was suspended from school for kissing a female classmate on the cheek. The suspension came as quite a shock, not only to the people in the small South Carolinian town where the incident occurred, but to most of the people in the United States. In a country where scantily clad bodies are displayed on daytime television in view of two and three-year-old children, an innocent kiss on the cheek should not be misconstrued as an immoral act. However, if the young lady in question did not choose to be the recipient of the kiss, she had every right to protest. Even a six-year-old can be taught to rebuke unwanted advances.

How many times have you driven through a drive-thru and gotten home only to discover that your order was incorrect? Did you get angry and lose your temper? Did you call the restaurant back and yell at the employees? Did you drive back through the drive-thru and demand an exchange?

If you answered yes to any of the above questions, then maybe you won't be too upset when you learn that when a lady in Oregon discovered her order of Big Macs had been replaced with grilled chicken sandwiches, she experienced a Prozac Moment. The lady immediately drove back through the drive-thru, crawled through the window, cursed the employees and threw drinks at them. By the time the police arrived, the lady was next door at Taco Time calmly placing an order for a bean burrito supreme.

Many things could have prompted the lady to react the way she did. She could have been hungry, or she might have been craving two all beef patties, special sauce, lettuce, cheese, pickles, mustard on a sesame seed bun. That'll do it if you absolutely, positively have a Big Mac attack and have to eat immediately.

The truth is, the woman was probably suffering from PMS, anxiety, or was pre/post-menopausal. I wouldn't have thought about that two years ago, but now I'm mature enough to know that a hot flash has the power to induce temporary insanity.

In all honesty, if the woman was able to crawl through a space as small as a drive-thru window, she was probably starved to death. I couldn't fit through the golden arches.

My sister Amanda insists that one of her biggest fears is having to relieve one's self in a public restroom while others are waiting in line. While it didn't happen to her, she was recently privy—excuse the pun—to a similar event.

On a visit to Lexington last month, Amanda and I, along with our mother, walked into a department store restroom and were confronted by a most disagreeable odor.

Acknowledging that we had just passed two women on their way out as we made our entrance, I assumed there were no others present besides ourselves.

As usual, I was wrong.

"Phew!" I exclaimed in a voice loud enough to be heard by Kurt Cobain. "Someone just did the big number!"

No sooner had the words exited my lips, did my gaze turn downward to espy feet dangling from the bottom of the middle stall. Two brown shoes were

SOAP UPDATES

ALL MY CHILDREN: Brooke told Phoebe that Tad's divorced. Jack told Skye that Kinder disappeared. Under pressure from Marian to tell what she knows of Kinder's whereabouts, Janet blurted out she's having an affair with him. Gloria tried to awaken Tad, who was zonked by antihistamines, and wound up accidentally pinned beneath him as Adam and Brooke arrived. Palmer told Opal that Bobby's trust fund papers were tampered with. He confronted Kelsey but Bobby took the rap. Wait To See: Janet faces a new challenge from Trevor.

ANOTHER WORLD: Jake learned the identity of Bobby's organ donor. Vicky learned Bobby had received a corneal transplant a year earlier. Bobby took Jake's $300,000 to get out of Vicky's life, but later tossed the money into a linen cart. Nick kissed a startled Sofia passionately. Maggie defended Rafael when Carl warned him to stay away from her. Wait To See: How honestly is Vicky facing her feelings about Bobby?

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Mike saved Lily's life as Umberto's car crashed in flames. Lily felt Umberto's death cheated her of a chance to confront her husband's killer. Meanwhile, Diego discarded all traces of the dead Umberto. Following a surprising revelation from Mark, Jones destroyed his FBI file. Martin assured Lisa and Barbara that Chen will no longer be a problem. Emily warned Sarah to stay away from Paul. Lucinda offered a proposition to EAS investor, Antony Tilton. Wait To See: Margo makes a confusing discovery about Umberto's accident.

THE BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: After getting Jessica to dance with him, Sly traced her lips with his fingers, as the rapist had, and Jessica realized he was the man who attacked her. Sheila read Bible verses and hoped that God will let her become a good person with the help of James. As Jack tried to force C.J. to write a suicide note, Clarke suddenly realized Jack must be holding his son near the HOLLYWOOD sign. He rushed there in time to see Jack and Rocky lead the boy to the cliff edge. Wait To See: Ridge witnesses a potentially life-changing scene.

THE CITY: Frankie made a surprise appearance at Angie and Jacob's wedding. Jocelyn left a warning message for Danny about Molly. Meanwhile, in their hotel room, Molly drugged Danny and tied him up before releasing gas from the heater. Alex and Jocelyn learned Molly is actually Sally Carleson, a dangerous psychopath. The mother of the real Molly Malone suspected Sandra arranged her daughter's death. Wait To See: Sandra prepares to stop Jocelyn for good.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Jill told Bo her attacker had blue eyes. Hope reminded Bo that Franco has green eyes. A panicked Wendy learned Jonah entered Benjamin in a children's beauty contest and his photo will run in the paper. As Sami vowed to stay married to Austin, Austin told Carrie he plans to get an annulment as soon as they reach Salem. Lexie learned she was left a safe deposit box in Paris. Ivan's new cellmate had information about someone in Salem. Kristen was horrified to learn Marlena had scheduled a doctor's appointment for her. Wait To See: Kate worries about Billie's ability to move on without Bo.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: After Lois reluctantly left Port Charles, Ned set about retrieving control of ELQ and getting his mother, Tracy, out of his life. Monica confronted Dorman with a declaration regarding Alan's hand surgery, and then surprised him by turning up for the operation. A shaken Kevin relived his torment of Felicia. Luke and Laura tried to reunite the family, believing—erroneously—that Nikolas and Stefan were leaving. Tracy called her pal, Sydney Chase, in New York City. Wait To See: Lucy prepares to fight for Kevin while Bobbie faces a new crisis in her life.

GUIDING LIGHT: A devastated Buzz overheard Josh and Reva's impassioned words for each other. Buzz later confronted her about how much she wanted Josh back. Dinah overcame her fear of Roger and agreed to marry Hart. Griffin admitted to the truth about the shooting, which allowed Vivian to go free, while Marcus was devastated. Josh and Rick argued over Annie's addiction but then Rick learned his prescription pad was missing, and so was Annie. Wait To See: Reva makes a decision about the men in her life.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Andy, Antonio, and Dylan rescued Max and Maggie from the cave. Antonio, who agreed to work undercover for Bo against Carlo, learned Carlo's henchman, Spike, was found hanging in his cell. As Dylan prepared to surprise Marty that he can walk again, Luna appeared in a vision to tell him to let her go. Elliot decided to defy Carlo and remove Viki's post-hypnotic angry feelings for Kevin. Wait To See: Carlo makes an offer someone might not be able to resist.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Olivia told Paul she'll be happy to move into his old apartment with little Nate. Danny worried if Phyllis' fiancé could make a good father for Danny, Jr. Nina admitted to Chris that she let Cole Kiss her and that Victoria and Ryan saw it all. Flo was upset when Nina said Ryan was moving out. Jack paid Gregory to attempt to seduce Jill. After learning Sharon had read his first letter, Nick realized she may have gone to the family planning clinic for an abortion. Wait To See: Victor's plans are changed by word from Hope.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) It's a week of give and take in your dealings with those around you. Don't allow minor setbacks to throw you off, especially as the week progresses. The weekend finds you happily ensconced in the bosom of family.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Don't let minor snags entangle you—which could cause some delays in business this week. Something that has been on the back burner comes to the fore. You are able to apply yourself to this with relish.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Address that certain romantic decision you've been dancing around. Beating around the bush won't make it go away. Someone's patience is running thin on the job. The weekend is best for discussing a domestic problem which needs to be brought out into the open.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You and your mate are out of sync early in the week and a bitter argument is likely to erupt as a result. To avoid the fight, try being more solicitous and understanding. A business dream is realized by week's end.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Don't be afraid of that new job assignment you're handed early in the week. It can lead to much success if you apply yourself. Some of your friends are trying to put you in the middle of their quarrel.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Early in the week, a quarrel about money is possible. An assignment awaits that is connected to a group activity. Cooperation is the key to this. The weekend tempts you to overindulge in food or drink while socializing.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You seem to have all the answers this week and others flock to you for your "expertise." However, don't let this go to your head. You're not as omniscient as you'd like to believe. The weekend promises sheer bliss romantically.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Someone is spinning quite a tale of potential riches, and you're buying into it. The road to success isn't a fast and easy one and you'd do well to remember this. It's best to exercise healthy skepticism.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You're content, but perhaps a bit too complacent this week. Avoid falling into that trap by taking more of an initiative on the job. A possible quarrel with a loved one should be avoided over the weekend.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Patience is the key to success on the work front. You are at your self-expressive best this week and should take full advantage of this. The accent for the weekend is on family issues.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Your ambitions are soon to be realized. However, make sure you're on firm footing on the job with a coworker who's been manipulative in the past. Be careful not to spend too much while out shopping over the weekend.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You have an unfortunate tendency to let little things upset you too much, especially this week. A writing or speaking project is on your agenda in the near future. You excel in such communication and should show off your talents.

IN FOCUS—STEPHEN COLLINS: The star of "7th Heaven" was pleased to hear that most media mavens called his show the best new series on this season's WB network offerings.

"I'm really pleased about that," Collins said. "I know how hard we've all worked on the series. I know Aaron (Aaron Spelling and E. David Vincent are the producers) believed in it from the start and, obviously, he was right."

Stephen plays a minister, Eric Camden; Catherine Hicks ("Star Trek IV: The Voyage Home") is his wife, Annie. "We have five children," Collins says, "and we are not a dysfunctional family. As a matter of fact, we're very much a well-functioning group which is not your usual television family fare."

Collins laughed when it was suggested "7th Heaven" might be a latter day version of the successful "Cosby" show.

"With one big difference," he said. "Eric earns far less as a minister than Bill's character, Cliff, did as a doctor."

DIAL TONES: Peter Scolari says his new TV film, "Talk to Me," with Veronica Hamel and Yasmine Bleeth, airing on ABC October 13, "...may mark the first time a television film took a long, hard look at the phenomenon of television talk shows whose hosts—like my character—urge their guests to behave outrageously because the more outrageous, the higher the ratings. The movie makes you aware of how demeaning these shows are for everyone involved; host, producer, guests—and maybe, even, the audience."

"In the Wild: The Elephants of India with Goldie Hawn," debuts on PBS October 9. Hawn had met a wonderful blind elephant in India seven years earlier and was reunited with her old friend while making this film ... "Where in Time is Carmen Sandiego?" which emphasizes history, unlike "Where in the World is..." which deals with geography, debuts October 7 on PBS ... FNC, the FOX News Channel, launches October 7 with Catherine Crier, Mike Schneider and other big news names holding down the fort for Roger Ailes, Chairman and CEO of Fox News.

— In July, Owensboro, Ky., Road Department driver Sam Holinde, driving his 20-ton dump truck across a bridge with a "limit 3-ton" sign, got about halfway across before the bridge collapsed. The fall was short, and Holinde suffered only minor injuries.

— In March, "Slim Jim" James Schmedding was hospitalized in fair condition with a serious head injury after a stunt by deejays at radio station KQCC-FM of Rock Island, Ill. Schmedding had volunteered to be packed in a 55-gallon drum and rolled down a flight of stairs. When he did not fit inside initially, he agreed to remove all the padding from the barrel to make room.

— In June, the New Jersey Division of Consumer Affairs ordered Harold P. Weingold to provide $500,000 in restitution to customers who knew him as the "lottery doctor." During 1992 and 1993, Weingold somehow persuaded 2,000 people to buy an average of $250 worth of good-luck key chains and baubles, and "cosmic protectors" that were merely solar-powered calculators, to guarantee them a "93 percent" chance of winning lotteries.

UPDATE

News of the Weird's first report on the art of buttersculpting in 1993 covered works at state fairs in Pennsylvania and Minnesota and a Buddhist monk's Tibetan yak butter sculpture loaned to a Chicago museum. In August 1996, Norma "Duffy" Lyon sculpted a life-size butter cow for the 37th straight year at the Iowa State Fair and as her traditional second butter subject at this year's fair chose to portray the stoic "American Gothic" farmers. A few years ago, her second subject was singer Garth Brooks.

Tech Talk

by Linda Lyon
Marketing Director
at Mayo Tech

you to tune in.

This quarter will end October 22 and a new one will begin on the 24th. Students are already looking forward to the beginning of the new quarter. Many prospective students have applied for admittance to class but there are still some vacancies.

If you want a new career or just to enhance the old one, call our registrar, Patty McKenzie today at 789-5321 if you want to enroll in school or just want some information. She has the answers you need.

The feature of this week is a student here at KY TECH and his wife. This is a success story born of need and determination and brought to realization by perseverance and cooperation. My story begins with a young family, husband, wife, and two children. Marvin and Angela Rose had a problem.

They had two daughters, Britta age 9 and Heather, age 6. Marvin and Angela knew that they wanted a future for their children. They wanted to provide for them the things that every parent wants; a home, pretty clothes, good food, and an education.

The big problem was that they didn't have a way to provide those things in the manner that they wanted to. So they sat down in their Louisa home and formulated a plan.

They both were interested in health care and coming from a home where his mother was a registered nurse, Marvin knew that he would need training if he wanted to be able to command a good salary in the health care field. Both of them had heard of the Respiratory Care Technology program at KY TECH.

Marvin's mother Jeanetta Stewart, had graduated from the nursing program in the early 1980s and had the distinction of being the first state president of HOSA from Mayo, so he knew that the school was a quality institution. He and Angela decided that they both would train to become Respiratory Care Therapists.

The next step in the plan was to test for entrance into the program, which they did. After qualifying for the program. They decided that Marvin would go to school first while Angela worked and cared for the children.

All health care programs are very time demanding. With clinical rotations and lab work there is little time for other activities. Each student must make a commitment of time and resources to complete the program in five quarters.

Each student's family must also make a commitment to give that student the time and help needed to devote to this course of study. Marvin's family made that commitment.

The training for Marvin is almost finished. He will complete his program of study on October 22. He has the promise of a job at Three Rivers Medical Center after he receives his certification. He takes his state board exams on November 9 and should be working shortly thereafter.

The next step is for Angela to begin her training. She will start on October 24, when they will switch roles and Marvin will become the provider and child care giver. Angela will become the student.

This week, however, a surprise came for Marvin. After submitting an essay on Respiratory Care to the Kentucky Society of Respiratory Care, he was awarded a $1000 scholarship to be used to further his education.

He plans to begin work, through the California College Registry Program, to complete requirements by correspondence, and become a Registered Respiratory Care Technician. This he can do while Angela completes her Certified Respiratory Care program.

Marvin and Angela should get back to their lives in about 15 months and then they both will have new careers with a bright future ahead for them and their family.

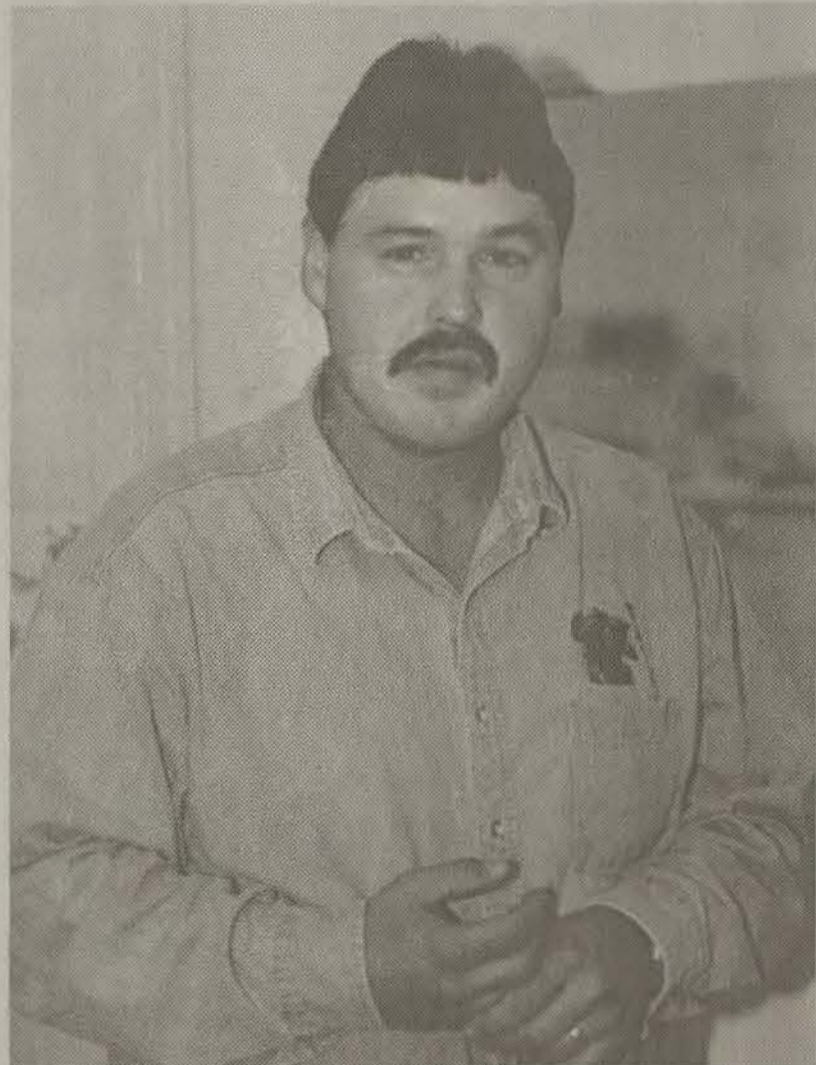

Not only will they have new careers but they will have the satisfaction of knowing they worked together to realize their dreams and goals.

The instructors in the Respiratory Care Technology program are Melissa Steele and Terri Lafferty.

You, too, can become whatever you want to be. You first need a goal and then you need to make a plan. After that you only have to follow through.

Call one of the counselors at Mayo to help you formulate a plan. The phone number is 789-5321.

Sixth annual Ministries workshop

Cooperative Ministries is the effort to unify black and white Baptists in Kentucky by establishing a network of fellowship and open communication between pastors, churches, associations, schools and conventions. It offers a cross cultural work and ministering experience for black and white seminary students.

The sixth annual Cooperative Ministries Worship/Evangelism conference is being held at Campbellsville Baptist Church, 420 North Central Avenue, Campbellsville, October 14-15. The theme is "Here's Hope—Sharing Jesus Together." Cooperative Ministries is the joint effort of the Kentucky Baptist Convention and the General Association of Baptists in Kentucky.

Featured personalities include: Robert Britton, Don Short, Jill Menseer, French Harmon, pastor of Allen First Baptist, Ava Bingham Reynolds, Joseph

Owens, Dr. William Sheals, Merrill Aldridge, Clyde Akin, Barbara Andrew and William A. Carter II. The conference includes special music, devotional messages and seminars: Gift-based Evangelism, Reaching Singles, Principles of Church Growth and Development, and Multi-family Housing Ministries.

For additional information, call Lincoln Bingham, Cooperative Ministries consultant, (502) 587-0642.

Six Floyd Countians—Laura Absher, Jasmine Archer, Lauren Damron, Alex Hieronymous, Morgan Caldwell and Robert Hall—will represent Our Lady of the Mountains School in ten events of the Johnson County Apple Festival School Activities on Friday, October 4. All are school winners or runner-ups in the competitions held at Our Lady of the Mountains School during September. Laura Absher, the daughter of Jack and Nora Absher of Prestonsburg, placed first in Division I Coloring for Headstart and 1st Year Primary.

Jasmine Archer, daughter of George and Sandi Archer of Prestonsburg, was runner-up in the Division II Drawing for 2nd and 3rd Year Primary. Lauren Damron, daughter of Jeff and Ann Damron of Prestonsburg, won the Division III Art competition for 4th grade. Runner-up in the same category was Alex Hieronymous, daughter of Charles and Gayle Hieronymous of Prestonsburg.

Morgan Caldwell, daughter of Jack and Barbara Caldwell of Prestonsburg, won the Division V (7th and 8th grade) Art and Penmanship contests. She was runner-up in Division V Spelling Bee and Old Fashion Adding Match.

Robert Hall, son of Cainer and Gwen Hall of Prestonsburg, placed first in the Division V Old Fashion Adding Match. He was runner-up in the Division V Art contest.

All six students will compete against other school winners in front of the Johnson County Courthouse on Friday, October 4. Penmanship Awards will be given at 10 a.m. and the art awards will be given at 10:15 a.m. The Adding Match will be held at 10:30 a.m. and the Spelling Bee will take place at 11:45 a.m.

Other OLM students who will compete are Ashleigh Workman, Jason Fouts, Robert Chafin, Shantha Param, Kevin Vogelsang, Shanyna Poindexter, Alyse Summers, Alexis Bohr, Ann Higgins, and Marie Dennison.

Grief support group to meet

A new grief support group will meet Thursday, October 10, at 12:30 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church of Prestonsburg. Anyone grieving the death of a loved one is welcome to attend and should bring a photo or memento of the deceased person.

The meeting will be held in the FLC Fellowship Hall of the church. Participants are encouraged to bring a bag lunch at noon in order to socialize prior to the meeting. The group meeting will begin at 12:30 p.m. and is expected to last about one hour.

The grief support group is being sponsored by Hospice of Big Sandy with the help of the Prestonsburg Catholic Social Service Bureau Outreach Office and the First United Methodist Church of Prestonsburg.

For more information, call: Hospice of Big Sandy at 789-3841; Catholic Social Services at 874-9170, and the First United Methodist Church at 886-8031. Evening calls should be directed to Reverend David Fultz and Mrs. Sue Fultz at 886-8431.

Classes help students prepare for ACT test

The Office of Continuing Education and Community Services at Prestonsburg Community College will offer a class to prepare students to take the ACT test. The first class will be Saturday, October 19, on both the Prestonsburg and Pike County campuses.

These courses will assist students in reviewing English, reading, math and science reasoning. They will last from 10 a.m. to noon for four consecutive Saturdays.

For more information, call PCC at 886-3863, ext. 240.

Academics

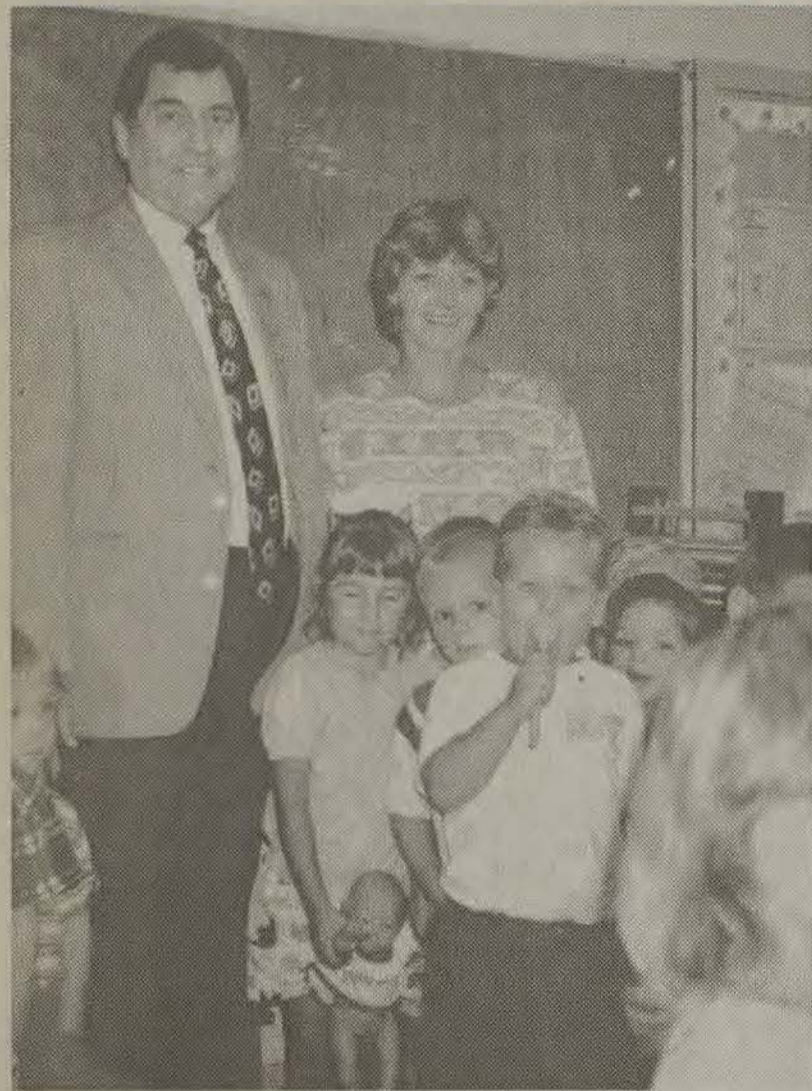

Auxier students study insects

Mrs. Pat Burke's fifth and sixth grade students at Auxier Elementary began the year with science units on insects. One of the topics was the life cycle of the butterfly. After researching the topic in the library media center, each student took part in an experiment provided in a Painted Lady School Kit culture. Each student placed one larva into a vial, provided the necessary nutrients, and began a daily journal of their observations. They watched the larvae spin silk and enter the chrysalid stage. They then placed the chrysalides onto the bottom of the butterfly box. They invited the whole school to visit their classroom to view the final metamorphic stage as the butterflies emerged. The butterflies were fed and released in warm weather.

Life cycle

New teacher

Terry Johnson is the teacher for the new Headstart-Preschool Program at Auxier Elementary. She has 20 students enrolled. Mr. Grigsby, school principal, visited Ms. Johnson and the students to learn firsthand about their exciting program. Ms. Johnson said that she facilitates learning by preparing the environment, providing a variety of developmentally appropriate activities, and by encouraging students to interact with each other and with her in learning centers.

Fall conference announced by KASC

"Accountability: Getting the Job Done" will be the theme of a November 14-16, conference sponsored by the Kentucky Association of School Councils. This event, to be held at Louisville's Executive West, will combine opportunities to explore state-of-the-art ideas on dramatically improving student performance with practical information on carrying out school-based decision making.

Special features will include:

- multiple sessions focusing on the special learning challenges facing high schools, middle schools, and elementary schools.
- opportunities to try out actual

KIRIS items for all levels of schools.

- an address by Commissioner of Education Wilmer S. Cody.

- preconference and breakout sessions with featured presenter James FitzPatrick on effective approaches to discipline.

Council members may count many of the sessions toward meeting the new SBDM training mandate. Eligible sessions will be clearly identified and training certificates will be provided. Leadership credit will also be offered.

For registration materials and additional information, please call KASC, 606/238-2188.

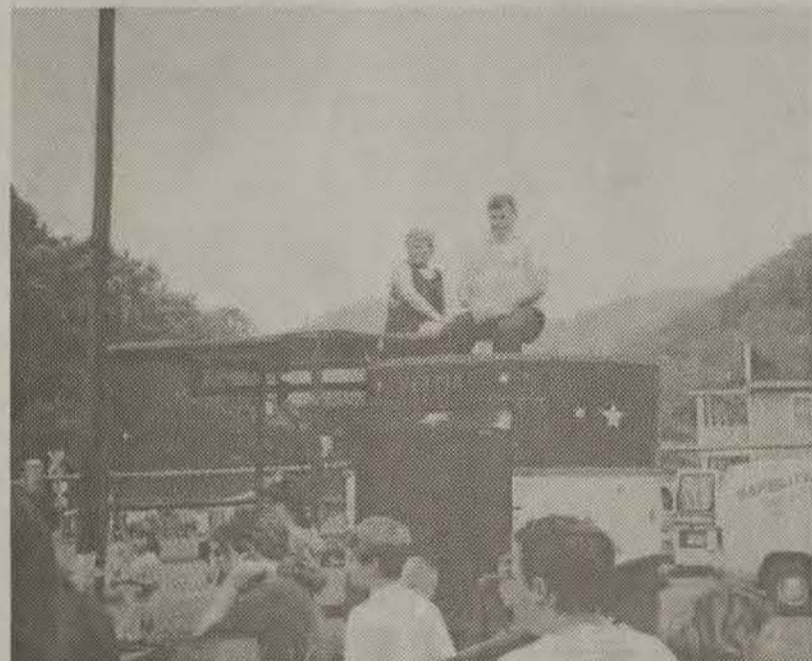

Science pen-pal program available

Science-By-Mail, a national pen-pal mentor program that pairs children in grades 4-9 with scientists, is accepting applications for the 1996-97 program year until October 15th.

This innovative program, developed at the Museum of Science, Boston, is designed to stimulate and challenge participants in different fields of science. This year's topics are "Simple Machines" and "Flight." During the course of the school year, members will receive these two hands-on activity packets which contain instruction and materials to perform a variety of activities, culminating with a "Big Challenge." As the children work on their Science-By-Mail activities, they will correspond with their scientist pen-pal, who offers ideas, advice, and encouragement. The program is designed to be open-ended and non-competitive, allowing children to work at their own level of ability and interest. Working together, the children and scientists promote communication and interaction as an important learning tool. This year, more than 28,500 children and over 1,500 volunteer scientists from across the country and around the world are participating in Science-By-Mail.

Members may register with their schools, families, neighborhood groups, scouts or other clubs, or as part of home schooling. For more information, call 1-800-729-3300, write Science-By-Mail, Museum of Science, Science Park, Boston, MA 02114-1099, or e-mail sbm@Al.mos.org.

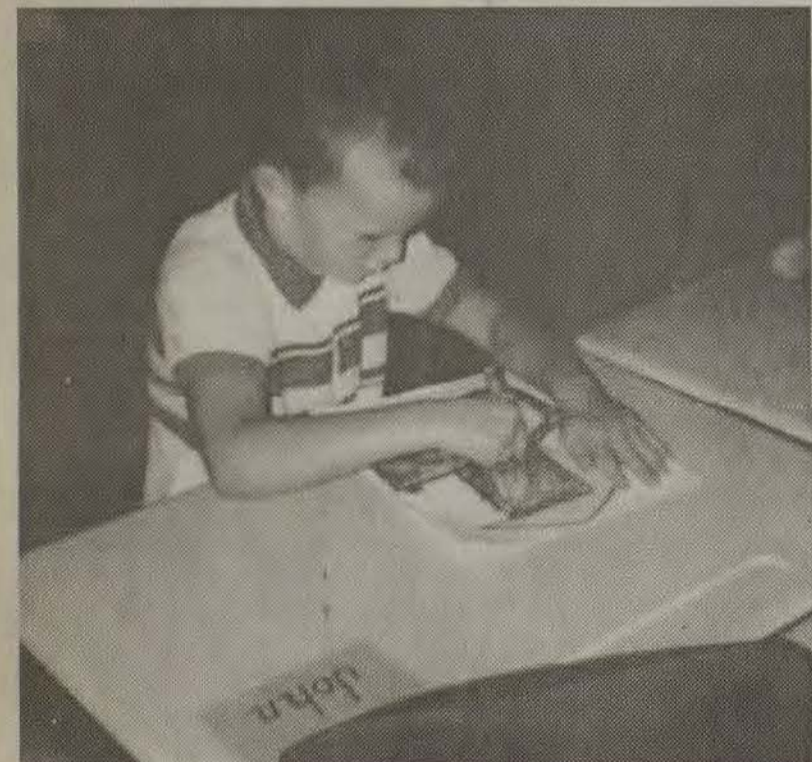

K.I.R.S. appreciation day

The principal, faculty, and staff at Melvin Grade School treated the students to an exciting day of fun because of the hard work they put forth during the two weeks of testing. This picture caught Mr. Bentley before he was sent for a swim by one of the students.

Alphabet creme

Students used their fingers as pencils to write letters of the alphabet onto their shaving cream-covered desk in Anna Shepherd's kindergarten classroom at Prestonsburg Elementary.

Finishing Touch

Student John Patton put the finishing touch on a color identification paper in Mrs. Allison's class at Prestonsburg Elementary.

Science experiment

Title I instructors Merelene Dingus and Gwen Hamilton assist students during a science experiment at McDowell Elementary School. Title I instructors are a valuable part of the instructional process at McDowell.

Welcome back

Pete Grigsby, Auxier Elementary School principal, welcomed students back the first day of school. Each morning he announces a moment of silence, then briefly speaks about aspects of students' rich national heritage. Students then lead the school in the daily recitation of the Pledge to the Flag. Grigsby then updates the school on any accomplishments the students have achieved. He visits classrooms and encourages all students to continue both their academic and extra-curricular activities.

Melvin Young Authors

Melvin Grade School announce school winners for the Young Author program for the 1995-1996 school year. These students are in kindergarten through third grade: Courtney Blocker, Christina Tackett, Nathan Short, Megan Castle, Cassie Elkins, Tara Little, Casey Anderson, and Faith Little. Peggy Bradford was the coordinator for this program at Melvin.

Visit Frankfort

The Melvin eighth grade class recently visited the city of Frankfort. Their trip consisted of a visit to the old and new capitol buildings, the history museum, and Daniel Boone's grave.

Poster contest

Melvin Grade School honored the following students during the awards day held at the end of the 1995-1996 school year. They were given certificates and pencils for participating in the "National Pet Week" poster contest. This contest was sponsored by the American Veterinarian Medical auxiliary. This was a nation wide contest for students in the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades. The certificates and pencils were given out in appreciation by the auxiliary for their excellent work! The students are Jordan Tackett, Tara Sword, Eric Hamilton, Vanessa Maynor, Clay Jones, Aaron Humphrey, Jessie Tackett, and Elizabeth Williams.

Children, Children

Kindergarten class at Prestonsburg Elementary on first day of school lined up for their picture that was used to make a big book titled "Children, Children, Who Do You See?"

A Look At Sports

Baseball is doing nothing to help itself out of fans' hole

Major league baseball. It is becoming more and more of a big joke. The game that was once considered America's favorite pastime has become America's favorite joke.

The game has forgotten the fans that once turned the turnstiles, payed the players' salaries and made millionaires out of a bunch of spoiled brats. Now the umpires have threatened to stop post-season play if something isn't done about Roberto Alomar, who spit in John Hirshbeck's face over a called third strike during regular season play.

The umpires want Alomar suspended for the required five games, and they want the suspension to take affect now, not next season.

The ruling passed down has Alomar sitting out the first five games of the '97 season, but has no punishment for this year.

Major league baseball cannot afford anymore black eyes. Alomar should be suspended for his actions and, that suspension should take effect for the next five games of the playoffs, world series. If the Cleveland Indians are eliminated in the first four games (he has played in the first two), then he should have to sit out the first three next season.

There has to be some example set for the players to let them know they cannot do what they want to do and get away with it. Most of them think they are above the law anyway and, doing dope, getting raving drunk, getting into bar room brawls and even being accused of rape, does not apply to them.

The shame of it all is the court system seems to agree with them by letting them off.

The game I used to love and enjoy every summer has become a big joke in this day and time. I cannot get interested in major league baseball like I did growing up here in Floyd County and following the Cincinnati Reds.

What has caused all the mess? Money. The get-at-any-cost philosophy. Major league players of the past played because of their love for the game. Signing autographs for kids was not a problem for them. But today, you have to fork over $8 (that's a modest figure compared to what some charge) if you want a player to sign one today.

Owners. A major, major problem for baseball. Most of them would sell their family if it meant buying a player whom they felt could help win a pennant. It has gotten out of hand.

Prizes, live entertainment highlight RW&B Car Show

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Trans Financial ninth annual Red, White and Blue Car Show, set for October 19, has already drawn a lot of interest. Several car enthusiasts are expected to converge on the parking lot of the Martin branch where cars from the past and present will be on display.

The Kentucky Junior Opry, who will perform opening night at the new Mountain Arts Center, will provide live entertainment in the bank parking area. The group will tune it up from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Also on hand will be two line-dance teams clicking the concrete in their dance shoes.

Prize, prizes and more prizes will be in each gift bag that car owners will receive when registering for the show on Saturday, October 19, beginning at 8:30 a.m. and running until 11:30.

The gift bags will include coupons good for four tires donated by East Kentucky Tire; five cases of oil, donated by Vance Auto Parts; neon lights for underneath car, donated by East Kentucky Tire; three front end alignments, car cleaning kit donated by Beaver Truck Parts; also included are key chains, cups, dash plaques, pens and pencils, certificates for bread sticks at Giovanni's and Dairy Queen blizzards.

Bank branches at Prestonsburg, Martin and Pikeville have a new shipment of car show sweatshirts and T-shirts.

Four sweatshirts and four T-shirts will be given away at the show. Savings bonds of $50 and $100 will be awarded to some car owners. The Best of Show receives a $1,000 savings bond. The Best of Show is sponsored by Music, Carter, Hughes and Carter, Hughes Toyota of Prestonsburg.

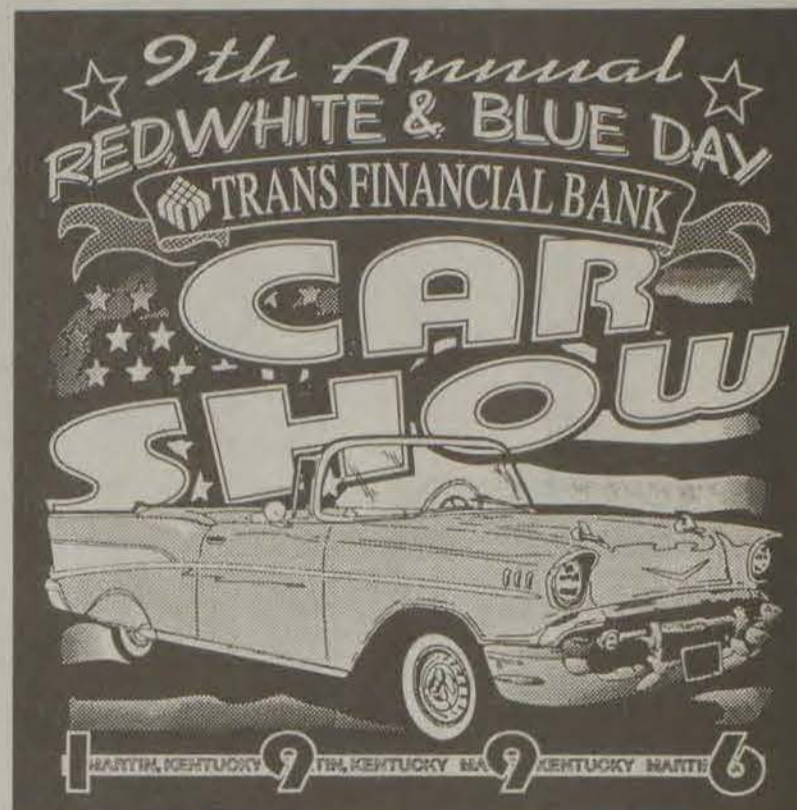

All the fun begins Friday night, October 18, with the Car Show Cruise that will run along Route 80, to Allen and back to Martin. Many have already registered for the cruise that will leave the Martin branch parking lot at 6:15 p.m. While there is no entry fee for the cruise, those participating are asked to bring a canned item for the food pantry. Registration for the cruise will begin at noon on Friday.

Walter Clyde Dingus and Tim Samons will be present on Friday night at the bank's parking lot, following the cruise, with the WDRH van. They will be playing favorite songs from the past. Samons and Dingus will also judge the talent show, which will include the popular hoola hoop and twist.

At 8 a.m. Saturday, the Allen Central Ridge Runners' Track and Field team will oversee the running of the Red, White and Blue 5K race. The race will start at the parking lot and return.

For more information on the cruise and car show, contact Tina Mills at 285-6332. For the 5K run, contact Dewey Jamerson at 874-9075.

Hites, Howell combine to lead Adams past Louisa

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Brittany Hites and Angie Howell combined for 19 points to lead the Adams Middle School Lady Blackcats to a 35-17 win over Louisa in the Middle School Basketball Conference this past Wednesday night at Adams.

Hites scored a game high 10 points while Howell tossed in nine points. Tara Ortega finished with six points and Stephanie Adams netted five. Cherish Shepherd and Jennifer Sanders totaled two points each, while Tiffany Frasure scored one point.

Walker led Louisa with her seven points and Roberts had three.

Adams outscored Louisa 12-1 in the second period to lead by 19 at the half, 25-6.

The Lady Blackcats took a 13-5 first quarter lead behind the scoring of Howell and Adams. Howell had five of her nine points in the opening period and Adams scored four.

Hites picked up the scoring for Adams in the second period with six points with Howell scoring four.

Prestonsburg's defense held Louisa to a single point, a free throw by Roberts, in the second period.

It was a 31-9 game after three quarters. Louisa outscored Adams 8-4 in the final period.

Neither team could connect from the charity stripe with Louisa hitting only three of 14 and Adams making only seven of 22.

"B" TEAM

Tiffany Frasure scored 10 points to lead the Adams "B" team in a 22-21 loss to the Louisa "B" team. Adams made a comeback in the fourth quarter, but the rally fell short by one point.

Louisa held a 10-point lead, 22-12, after three quarters but they failed to score in the final period as Adams made the comeback. Frasure buried a three-point basket, Ousley had a field goal and Lafferty scored a free throw, but missed the second attempt that was the difference in tying the game.

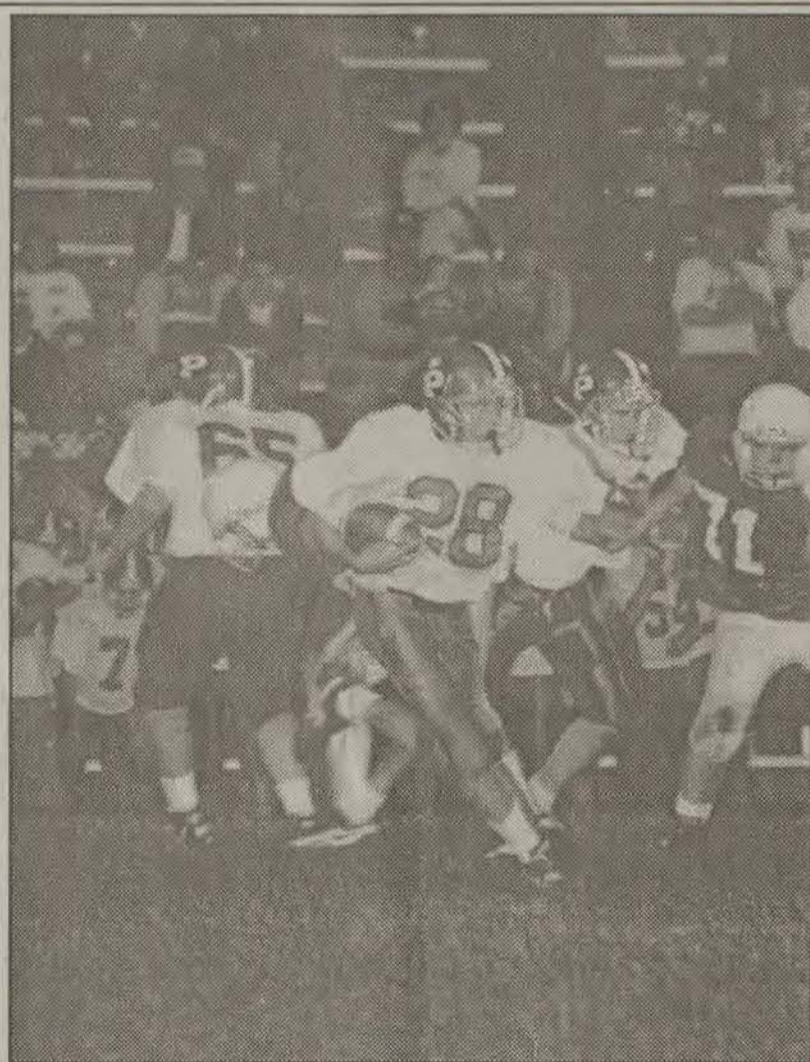

Louisa led 9-4 after the first quarter and took a 20-8 half-time lead.

Collectively, it was from the free throw line Adams failed to score. In the second period, they hit only three of 11 attempts and did not have a field goal.

Adams will host Johnson County this coming Tuesday night and will travel to Inez next Wednesday night.

Prestonsburg Jr. Basketball will conduct signups

The Prestonsburg Junior Basketball League will hold signups for the upcoming season this Sunday, October 6, at the Adams Middle School for ages 5 through 11 (as of September 1). Signups will be held from 2-5 p.m. A second sign date will be October 13, from 2-5 p.m., at the Adams Middle School.

Adams' Matt Stone (28) broke loose and went 46 yards for a touchdown against Allen Tuesday night at the Prestonsburg stadium. Allen held on for a 20-12 win over the Blackcats to improve to 4-2 on the season. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Two unbeaten district foes meet

Prestonsburg invades Breathitt Co. tonight

Morris certain to be center of attention for Bobcats' defense

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

In 1976, twenty years ago, the Prestonsburg Blackcats journeyed to Breathitt County under the guidance of Phillip Haywood, and came home with a 30-0 victory over the Bobcats.

Tonight, the Blackcats will make another trip to Jackson, but this time the stakes are higher. Unlike 1976, when it was a non-district confrontation, this time the game could very well be for all the marbles. Tonight, the two unbeaten District 2 rivals will put their unblemished records on the "lines" for the top spot in the district standings.

Both teams are playoff bound. And each will have the home field advantage in the opening round of the state playoffs. But the winner could very well have the advantage all the way through the playoffs with their sight set on Louisville.

Breathitt County is coming off a stellar season last year when they won the Class 2A championship, going undefeated through the '95 season. The Bobcats have won their first five games of this season, riding a 20-game winning streak. Prestonsburg traveled to the state finals in '93. But this group of present Blackcats were just freshmen then and, other members of the team have never been to the state, either.

Prestonsburg currently holds first place in the district with a 3-0 mark. However, the Bobcats have played only one district game and that was against Powell County. Breathitt's final five games of the season will be against district foes, beginning with Prestonsburg tonight.

Prestonsburg, on the other hand, has Powell and Morgan County remaining on the district schedule.

Needless to say, this is a big one for coach John Derossett's ballclub. A win over Breathitt, the state's fifth-ranked team, and barring any major upsets the rest of the way, would give the Blackcats something they wanted when the season started, a district championship.

It has been the Prestonsburg defense that has gotten the Blackcats off to a strong beginning, posting three shutouts in the first five games. The defense allowed a Leslie County touchdown and a touchdown by Allen Central.

Prestonsburg is second in the state in scoring, with defensive leaders giving up only 3.5 points per game. Breathitt County ranks eighth in the same category, allowing 6.5 points per game.

However, the Bobcats are number two in the state in scoring margin, beating their opponents by 34 points per outing. They are fourth in offense, averaging 40.5 points per game.

That is where the Blackcats fall

Allen takes advantage of Adams' turnovers to post 20-12 victory

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Jack Goodman's Allen Eagles knew when to take advantage of a good thing (for them) and converted two Adams Middle School fumbles into touchdowns en route to a 20-12 win over the Blackcats.

The Eagles improved to 4-2 on the season while Adams (5-2) lost for the second time.

Adams had four turnovers in the first half with three fumbles and an interception. But it was two of those fumbles that Allen took advantage of.

In the first quarter, with Adams facing a second and very long, quarterback Kevin Younce looked to pass. But the pass rush by Allen forced him to scamper. He was caught in the Adams' end zone where he fumbled the football. Allen came up with the loose ball for a touchdown. Jonathan Holbrook kicked the extra point for an 8-0 Allen lead with 2:57 remaining in the first.

It didn't take but just over a minute for Adams to strike back and make it an 8-6 game. On a third and one, Matt Stone broke two would-be tacklers and galloped 46 yards up the middle for an Adams' touchdown. The PAT failed.

After Allen had fumbled the football over to the Blackcats, Adams faced a fourth and eight and appeared to punt. But Younce, who doesn't punt for them, faked the kick and ran for a pick up of 8 yards, a yard short of a first down.

Allen took control of the football and marched into Adams' territory where the Adams' defense stopped them with 4:38 to play in the half.

Adams woes continued when

Younce had a pass intercepted by Jason Lafferty. The turnover set up the Eagles' second score. Lafferty returned the football to the Adams' 23 where Jesse Woods picked up 8 yards to the 15. Fitzpatrick then ran the ball into the end zone from 15 yards out and Allen led 14-6.

On the ensuing kickoff, Adams could not handle the spiring kick and Austin Clark came away with the loose ball at the Blackcat 18-yard line. Four plays later, Lafferty scored from 2 yards out with 36 seconds left for a 20-6 half-time lead.

Mike McDonald, who was the Blackcats' starting quarterback, and who saw limited playing time, scored in the final minute of the fourth quarter to make it a 20-12 game. Allen was forced to give the ball up with less than a minute to play, but the Eagle defense held its ground in recording win number four.

"B" TEAM GAME

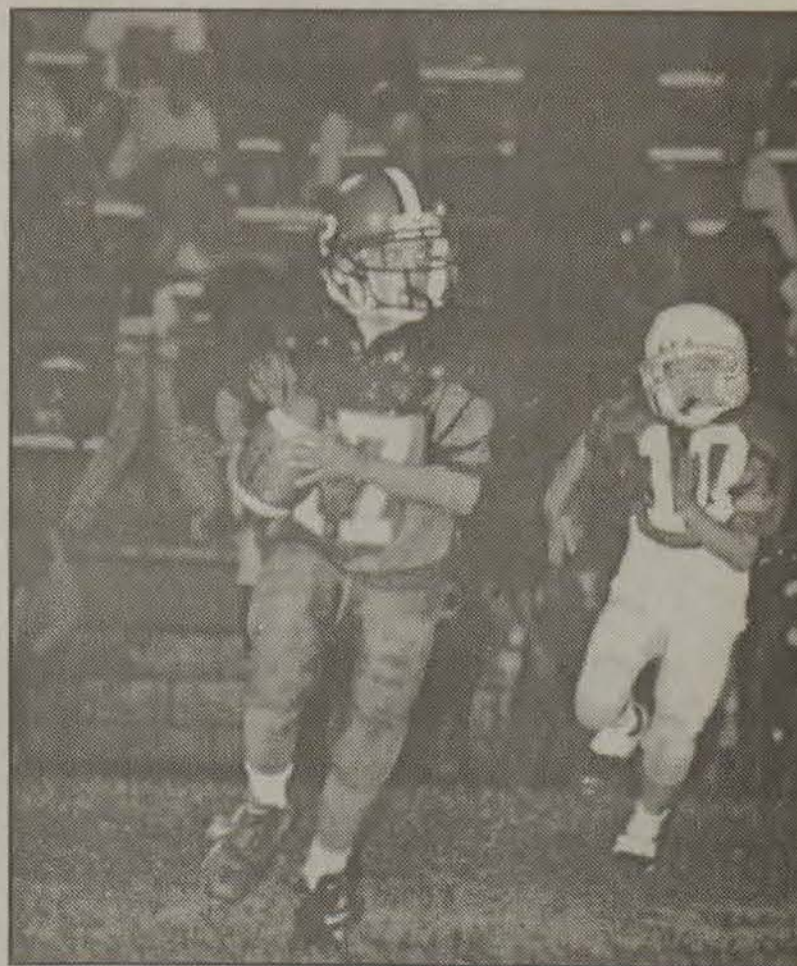

The two "B" teams played through the first three quarters scoreless until Allen scored in the fourth quarter and held on for a 8-0 win.

Nick Clay scored on a 14-yard run with six minutes to play and he ran the two-point conversion for the 8-0 score.

"C" TEAM GAME

Prestonsburg held on to win in "C" team play 8-6. The Blackcats led 8-0 on a pass play action of 18 yards. Allen scored in the final quarter with 2:45 to play, but missed the conversion play. Brandon Combs scored for all on a 82-yard run.

Allen will host Allen Central at the Allen field this Tuesday. Adams will travel to Paintsville Tuesday evening.

Second-half goals by Vogelsang, Magdits lead The Plague 5-3

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Floyd County Youth Soccer League continued play this past Thursday night with The Plague traveling to Pikeville. The Plague returned home with a hard-fought 5-3 win over the Pikeville Ravens. The game was played at the Bob Amos Park field.

The Ravens are new to the league and are in their first season (fall schedule) in the soccer league. They become the second team sponsored by the Pikeville YMCA.

It was eight minutes into the game before the first points were scored and that was when Robert Absher's shot was deflected by a Pikeville defender into the goal to give The Plague a 1-0 lead. Five minutes later, Absher added a second goal for a 2-0 contest.

The Plague held the Ravens scoreless through the first half of play on some excellent play by goalie James Barrett and the defensive work of Lakita Lykins and Anna Greene, who stopped several long runs by Pikeville forwards.

The Ravens mounted a comeback in the second half and scored two goals to tie the game at 2. The Plague got goals from Kevin Vogelsang and Erica Magdits to take the lead for good.

James Absher and Shane Sergent split goalkeeping duties in the second half for The Plague.

Games scheduled to be played at the PCC grounds were rained out and will be rescheduled.

This Saturday (October 5) at PCC: 9:30 a.m., Boomerangs vs The Plague; 10:30 a.m., Hindman Campus Kids vs Pikeville Pursuit; 11:30 a.m., Horde vs Orange Crush; The Steelers play the Pikeville Ravens at Bob Amos Park in Pikeville at 10:30 a.m.

Big gainer

Allen's Jesse Woods (39) had a big gainer against Adams Middle School last Tuesday night in the Big Sandy Football Conference at Prestonsburg. Allen posted a 20-12 win over the Blackcats. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Paintsville, Allen Central to square off in Classic...again

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Can you believe it.

For the second straight year coach Johnny Martin's Allen Central Rebels will face Bill Mike Runyon's Paintsville Tigers in the first round of the All "A" Classic at Pikeville.

The two teams opened the tour-namment last year with Paintsville pulling out an overtime win. Two years ago the two teams faced each other in the championship game.

The tournament will open January 22, with Elkhorn City facing coach Jim Rose's South Floyd Raiders. The second of the evening will pit Phelps against Joe Marson's Feds Creek Vikings.

Tournament play continues on January 23 with Pikeville facing the Millard Mustangs at 7 p.m. Paintsville and Allen Central will meet at 8:45 p.m.

The semifinals will be held on January 24, with the championship game played January 25.

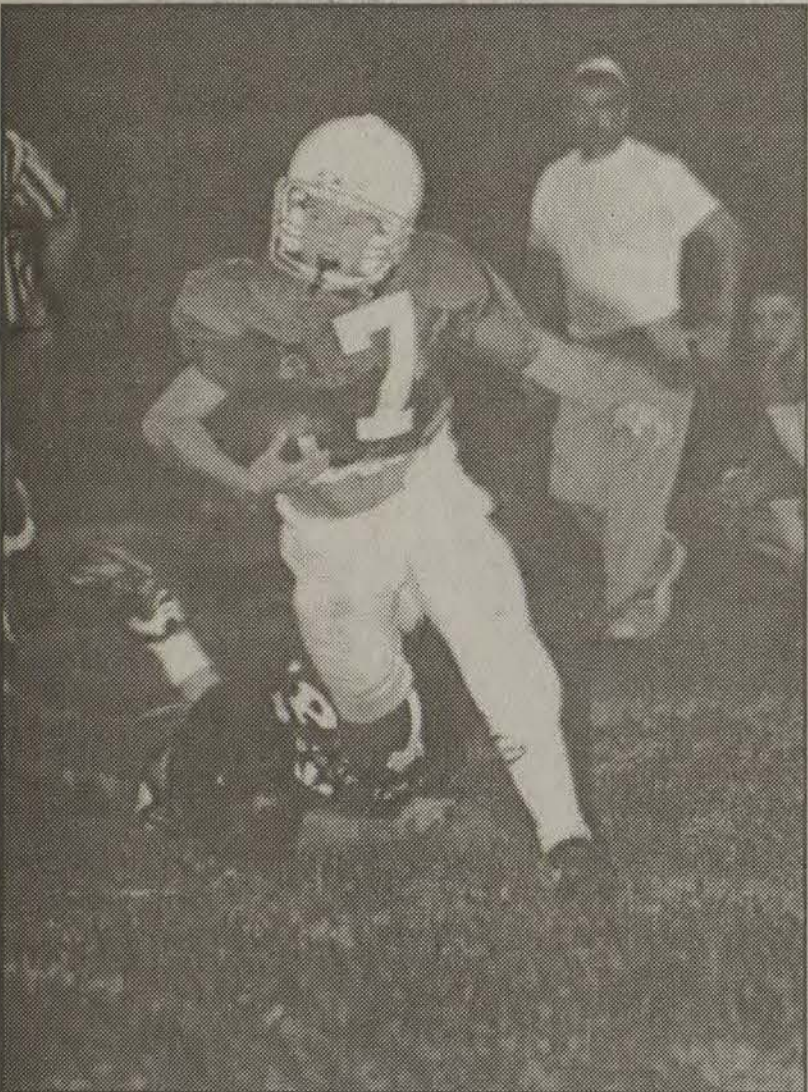

Paintsville, the defending state champion, will attempt to win their second All "A" regional classic. The Tigers will have a strong cast in J.R. Vanhoose and Todd Tackett. Allen Central will be down this season, but returns Thomas Jenkins, considered to be one of the top players in the region.

Elkhorn City will return a strong unit led by Joe Leathers. Coach Randy McCoy's ballclub will be an experienced group.

Phelps and Feds Creek could surprise some teams this year.

Coach Dave Thomas' Pikeville Panthers is ranked in the top three of the region and, why not with the power of Doug Powers returning.

Breaks tackle

Allen "B" team runner Michael Fannin (7) broke tackle and carried for a 7-yard pick up against Adams Tuesday night. Allen defeated Adams 8-0 on a late fourth quarter touchdown. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Harmon scores 34 in 52-24 win over Martin

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The Martin Middle School Lady Flashes basketball team must have thought they needed to call the fire department to put out the hot hand of Mandy Harmon as she pumped in 34 points to lead Inez Middle School past Martin, 52-24. Harmon hit three, three-point baskets while dominating the game.

Martin was led by Shannon Sizemore's 10 points while Barb Prater was held in check with six points.

Prater scored four of her six points in the first quarter on a three-point basket and a free throw. Harmon scored nine first-quarter points to stake Inez to a 10-6 first quarter lead.

In the second period, Harmon buried two treys and scored 10 points as Inez outscored Martin 17-4 in the period. Inez took a 27-10 lead to the locker room at the half.

Harmon kept up her personal assault with nine third-quarter points, and Inez doubled the score after three periods, 40-20.

Martin managed only two field goals in the fourth quarter, one each by Prater and Sizemore.

Angie Green, Jennifer Risner, Rebecca Smith and Brandi Moore had two points each for Martin.

Jennifer Wellman scored five points for Inez with Crystal Ray and Lauren Burke tossing in four each.

In the "B" team game, Jaclyn Martin scored 10 points and Megan Hyden added seven as Martin posted a 30-20 win over Inez. Martin outscored Inez 11-2 in the second period to take a 14-4 half-time lead.

Denna Cassidy had six points to lead Inez.

Jaclyn Brown, Jenni Jo Spurlock and Jessica Isaac had four points each for Martin. Tabitha Collins and LeAnn Brown scored one apiece.

Inez hit only two of 21 from the free throw line with Martin connecting on 10 of 25.

short, on offense. While the defense has been getting their job done, the Prestonsburg offense hasn't put all that many points on the scoreboard.

Prestonsburg is mainly a "run-at-you" type of offense. The ball is placed in the hands of capable runner Jon Morris, who has rushed for over 200 yards in his last two outings and is certain to be the focus of the Bobcat defense.

Morris, who seems to be so much quicker this season, has rushed for 756 yards in only four games, having to sit out the season's opening game against Leslie County.

Quarterback Mike Castle has certainly grown up this year and has done an excellent job guiding the offense through five games. He can pass the ball and has very capable receivers in Gavin Hale and John Ortega. He has passed for 257 yards in the first five games.

It will be defense versus offense when the two clubs square off tonight.

The game will be played on a delayed basis by Channel 7 on the CableVision network, Saturday morning at 10 a.m.

A Look At Sports

It is only going to get worse. Major league baseball in itself is good, but the owners and players are their own worse enemies. Some integrity must be restored to the game or else there will be no need for bigger and better parks.

OUR BOY ROY

Roy Ratliff of Martin commented on last Wednesday's column and he feels that, while Kentucky is not a football school, it can be.

"There has to be someone out there that can build it into a football school," said Ratliff. "Bear Bryant was the only coach Kentucky had that was a consistent winner. No one else really has been a winning coach at Kentucky."

He is right. So why should Bill Curry be any different? In the past eras of Fran Curci and Jerry Claiborne, no one was hollering (like they are today) for their heads. They just saw the handwriting and resigned. Curry says he will not quit. That leaves only one thing, but AD C.M. Newton says Curry will not be dismissed in the middle of a season, that this is not professional football.

I agree with that and, Lord, help us when we start acting and doing like the professionals in the college ranks.

Ratliff said he felt all along that Tim Couch made a mistake when he went to Kentucky. He also looks for Couch to depart for greener pastures, says Tennessee.

"I told Lori that Couch made a mistake going to Kentucky," said Ratliff. "He could have gone to Tennessee, played behind (Peyton) Manning, who would have turned pro after this season, and he could have been the starting quarterback of one of the top teams in the country."

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports! Take the kids to Sunday School and church this Sunday.

Officials' state clinic to be held Oct. 17 at Pikeville High School

The state high school basketball officials' meeting will be conducted at Pikeville High School on October 17, beginning at 7 p.m., according to signing secretary Ancie Casey.

Casey also announced that anyone interested in officiating this year should attend the clinic.

Re-Certification training for septic system installers

Continuing education classes for septic system installers are being offered at 17 Kentucky Tech schools, including Mayo Regional Technology Center on October 19. The two three-hour classes, which fulfill the continuing education requirement for annual renewal of certificates for Kentucky's 3,000 septic system installers, begin in mid-October and run through early December on a staggered schedule across the state. To receive documentation of program completion for certification renewal, students must attend the entire program and pass a test. Pre-registration is mandatory. For more information about the courses or pre-registration, call Mayo Regional Technology Center, Paintsville, at (606) 789-5321.

MSU to host Blue and Gold Festival

Morehead State University's Department of Music and MSU Bands will host the annual Blue and Gold Festival of Marching Bands on Saturday, October 12, in Jayne Stadium, from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Approximately 30 high schools from a four-state area are expected to take part in this fall's showcase. Also on tap will be an exhibition performance by the MSU Marching Band. Tickets to the festival will be available at the gate for $4 for adults, $2 for children 11 and under, and free to those under six.

Women in Leadership to sponsor workshop

East Kentucky Women in Leadership will sponsor a workshop on Wednesday, October 11, at Morehead State University's Adron Doran University Center. The workshop, the first in a series, will focus on personal skills development for women. The program, which is open to all women, will begin at 9 a.m. The cost is $10. The day's agenda will consist of four workshops, each featuring a woman in a leadership position on the campus as the speaker. Additional information is available from Shirley Hamilton at (606) 783-2077, Linda Gayheart at (606) 785-0606 or Gail Wright at (606) 674-6355.

USDA service center moves

The Johnson-Floyd-Martin-Pike County Farm Service Agency (FSA), formerly the ASCS Office, and Natural Resources Conservation Service, formerly SCS has moved to its new location. The office has moved to 100 Left Fork Teays Branch Road, Paintsville. To get to the new location travel east on Rt. 40 (old road into Paintsville) from the intersection of U.S. 23 and U.S. 460. The first road on the left is Teays Branch. The FSA is the first office on the left side of Teays Branch.

Isaac's prison term begins, other counts nixed

by Jerry Pennington
The Big Sandy News

Almost a year after his trial began in Boyd County, the case against Gallie Isaac Sr., appears to be over.

The Lawrence County pastor and former county clerk, convicted last year on child molestation charges, began serving a 25-year prison sentence Thursday, September 26, after the Kentucky Supreme Court upheld his conviction. He was also denied a motion October 1, to allow him to remain free until a state prison with a geriatric center could be found.

Isaac, 79, was convicted in Boyd County last November, on 13 counts of sodomy and sexual abuse charges filed against him by four young boys. The charges spanned over a period of 10 years. In a court appearance Tuesday, October 1, Isaac's attorney, Eldred "Bud" Adams Jr., asked that his client be released until a facility with a geriatric center could be found to house Isaac. He argued that the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center was not designed to hold prisoners on a long-term basis, and Isaac had health and medication needs due to a stroke he suffered earlier this year.

Prosecutor Luke Morgan, an assistant attorney general, said he opposed releasing Isaac until that time.

"I just ask you to put this monster behind bars," Morgan said to Judge Stephen N. Frazier. "It's time the victims know this pedophile is off the street so he can harm children no more."

Frazier said the decision was now out of his hands, and that the court now had only one duty—to see that the sentence was imposed.

Morgan then made a motion that the remaining charges in the case against Isaac be dropped. He was still facing 12 more counts of sexual charges involving four other alleged victims.

"I believe it's in the best interest of the victims that they not have to testify about what this man did to them," Morgan said.

Frazier granted the motion to dismiss the charges, adding that the state could seek new indictments on Isaac if the need should arise. Morgan will also ask that another sexual abuse charge filed earlier this year against Isaac be dropped. That motion will be heard before Lawrence Circuit Judge James A. Knight, October 11. Adams said he is glad to have the rest of the charges dropped.

"Naturally, we were gratified that that much is out of the way."

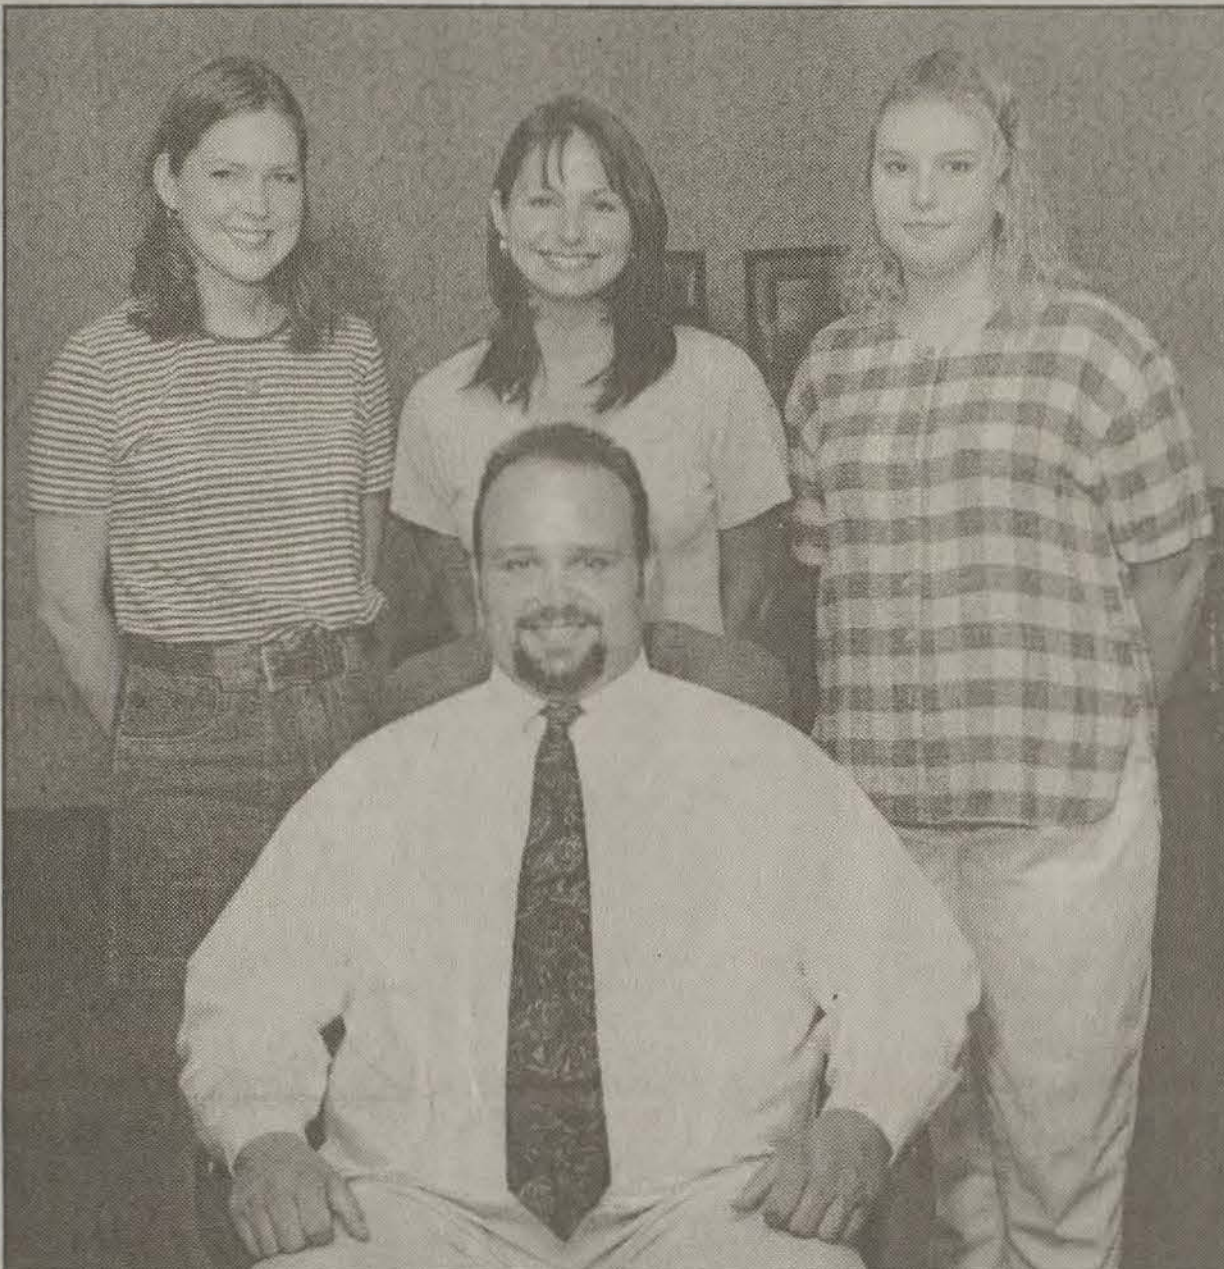

While in court October 1, Isaac talked with family members and supporters, and complained about being tired and not being allowed to shave.

"Lord, I'm wore out," Isaac said. "I haven't slept two hours since I've been there."

Isaac was arrested Thursday, September 26, shortly after the Kentucky Supreme Court handed down their opinion confirming his conviction. Adams had appealed on 11 different points in the case. Among them were arguments about the trial being moved from Lawrence, and the way the charges were broken down into separate trials. However, the ruling was 7-0 to uphold the conviction.

Morgan said Isaac will have to serve at least 12 years before he is eligible for parole, meaning he would be at least 91 before he could get out of jail.

"With that in mind, we felt it would be in the best interest to drop the remaining charges," Morgan said. Adams said he didn't know at this

Police crack burglary ring

By Ralph Davis
The Paintsville Herald

Paintsville police have solved a string of burglaries downtown and recovered more than $20,000 worth of items.

And while doing so, one person has been charged with burglary and two more face charges of complicity to commit burglary.

Police arrested Lawrence Thompson, 25, of Paintsville, and charged him with eight counts of third-degree burglary.

Thompson's wife, Diana Louise Thompson, 46, and step-son, Edward H. Beel Jr., 23 were arrested on the eight-count complicity charge. Paintsville Police Chief Tom Haney said Beel and Diana Thompson kept watch while Lawrence Thompson entered a business, usually through a window, and took the loot.

The arrest came at the end of a 12-day undercover investigation. The burglaries had been taking place for more than two weeks.

Haney said police just naturally suspected Beel and the Thompsons of the thefts.

"Seems like every time we had something hit, they were always around," Haney said. "We staked them out for four nights."

But while police were keeping their eyes on the trio, Haney said

Lawrence Thompson had the feeling he was being watched.

"He told me several times in the interview that he knew I was watching or had the hair raise up on the back of his neck," the police chief said.

Haney said all three have been cooperating with the police since their arrests and that Lawrence Thompson has given a confession of sorts.

"He came here and identified the stuff and told us where he got it, so I guess he did [confess]," Haney said. "They all three cooperated real well."

Haney and officers Bill Conley and Earl Gambill later recovered the stolen items, which had been taken from Wilma's Restaurant, Terry Office Supply, Mountain Outlet, Circuit Judge Stephen Frazier's courthouse office, Dr. N'Sunda Bangudi's office, Baldrige Barber Shop, Sparetime Lanes Bowling Alley and Fastco.

The $20,000 worth of stolen goods covers nearly all of the merchandise the eight businesses had reported stolen. The only exceptions, the police chief said, were a small amount of cash and items taken from Judge Frazier's office.

Haney said Lawrence Thompson said they had taken the items from Frazier's office and placed them in a dumpster, where they had planned to retrieve them the next morning. Unfortunately, a garbage truck got to the dumpster before the Thompsons did, Haney said.

New 23 will not open for Apple Festival

by Kate B. Dickson
The Paintsville Herald

Though it was hoped the new four-lane stretch of U.S. 23 around Paintsville would be open by this weekend's Kentucky Apple Festival, the official word is it won't be.

Rain delays get most of the blame for the $38 million, 5.1-mile stretch of four lane not opening in time for the festival. Also, all safety aspects of the road aren't in place.

But weather permitting, the highway leg from Hager Hill to U.S. 23 near Turner Branch Road will be open by month's end, according to Charles Neeley, district construction engineer, and Dexter Newman, branch manager of construction.

"Our main concern now is about people who cut through [the unopened segment]," Newman said. "There are also people who don't know where to go and we are afraid someone [motorists or highway workers] is going to get killed."

So, in the interest of safety, construction crews on Thursday will block access from Kentucky 825 onto the unopened section of new 23. The ramps there and at Highway 460 had been kept open to provide access for people living along the closed part of 23.

Beginning Thursday, October 10, entrance to these homes will be from Highway 460 only, Newman said.

The choice to leave only the 460 ramps open for homeowner access was made for safety reasons, because 460 provides quicker emergency access.

Freeburn woman found guilty in DUI-related wreck

Essie Daniels had been drinking beer and whiskey, and had taken prescription drugs when she lost control of her automobile in May 1993.

The result was an accident that seriously injured two people and could put the 56-year-old Freeburn woman behind bars for up to 20 years.

Daniels was convicted Thursday of two counts of second-degree assault. Each count carries a penalty of five to 10 years in prison.

Jurors have recommended the maximum on each count for Daniels, to be served consecutively.

Daniels was indicted on two counts of first-degree assault after the single-car accident. Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Ron Burchett said Daniels lost control of her automobile, running through a ditch, back across the roadway, and finally, into a yard.

In the process, Daniels struck two cars, with her vehicle landing partially on top of Mary Allen, who sustained fractures and a back injury. Also injured was Jeffery Compton, 11, whose leg was "crushed off," according to Burchett.

The prosecutor said Daniels, who did not testify during the two-day trial, claimed she had a mental condition that impaired her judgment. A doctor testified that she had a mental disorder and had been prescribed medication.

Kentucky State Police Trooper Joey Stidham, the arresting officer, testified that a pint bottle about half full of whiskey was found in Daniels' car. She allegedly told police she had drunk two beers, a "big drink" of whiskey and had taken two Thorazine, her prescription medicine.

Burchett said a doctor had instructed Daniels, whose blood-alcohol level was .12 after the accident, not to drive after taking the medication.

"That (her blood-alcohol level) was not too high," said Burchett, "but that coupled with the pills was just terrible."

During the trial, it was revealed that, since the 1993 accident, Daniels has had two DUI convictions in West Virginia. Burchett said, had he known about the convictions, the commonwealth would have had Daniels' bond revoked. He did not find out about the charges, however, until the first day of the trial.

Daniels' formal sentencing has been set for November 1.

MAPCO asks doctors for cuts

by Mark Grayson
The Martin County Sun

One of the Martin County's largest coal companies is again looking to cut the cost of doing business here—and medical expenses for employees is the target.

MAPCO Coal was purchased in August of this year by The Beacon Group, a New York investment company that specializes in energy production and transportation. MAPCO includes Martiki Coal and Pontiki Coal which, together, employ about 350 workers here whose aggregate medical expenses last year came to more than $1.6 million, according to company spokesperson Mike Templeman.

"We spent more than $600,000 for doctor bills and another $1 million for hospitals last year for our employees here—that's very high and we're asking local doctors if they will join a managed care system so we can get a handle on it," Templeman explained Friday, September 27.

He said he spoke to several local physicians including Lafferty, Wells, Chafin, and Aranas Friday. "Most of them were sort of apprehensive, they aren't sure what we are trying to do but all we want is to keep providing quality health care for our workers at an affordable price—we have to make a profit to stay in the coal business and it's getting harder and harder to do that with the coal market the way it is," he added.

Templeman says the new owners want to continue to provide the same health coverage that has been in force for the past few years.

"We will continue to provide the same coverage—we just want the doctors to realize that things aren't the same as they were when coal was selling for $75 a ton—and they need to adjust their office call prices to that fact," Templeman said.

The trend toward managed care is taking hold nationally with many health insurance companies requiring that clients see a physician that has agreed to charge a certain fee for treatments and office visits.

Templeman said Dr. Lon Lafferty seemed agreeable to the move. "He even said he is getting computerized in his billing so he can better provide what the companies need. Dr. (Raymond) Wells wanted to think it over but he seemed to understand the situation as well," Templeman said.

MAPCO currently provides an 80-20 plan similar to the one used for state employees.

Other companies are expected to follow MAPCO in asking health care providers to offer set prices for all their business which may mean that employees will be required to use only the doctors and hospitals that join the HMO's.

Councilman lives outside city

Roger Burton continues to serve on Paintsville's city council, even though he moved out of city limits several months ago.

"As far as I know, there's no problem," Burton said Monday, October 7. He added that he lived in Paintsville when he was elected and plans to stay with the council until the end of his term three months from now. He is not seeking re-election.

Burton says that he moved to his current home on Route 993 after his wife inherited the house from her father. But Liz Natter, director of the Democracy Resource Center, a non-profit group which tackles local government issues, disagrees with Burton's assertion that there is no problem.

Natter said Burton stopped being qualified to hold a seat on the council once he moved out of town. Other than a resignation from Burton, the only other way to remove him would be a unanimous decision of the rest of the council to impeach him, Natter said. With neither a resignation or impeachment, Burton will continue to be able to serve and vote. — The Paintsville Herald

Officials now say property tax bills could be early

In contrast to a published report last week, local officials are now saying the next wave of property tax bills may come out early after all.

PVA Michael Stafford says he was misinformed during a tax workshop when he was told that any rise in local tax rates would necessitate a 45-day waiting period before bills could be printed.

Stafford had said last week that the county school board's decision to raise its tax rate from 41.7 cents per $100 of assessed value to 43.3 cents would hold up the printing of the bills 45 days.

But after speaking with state officials last week, Stafford now says there will be no delay as long as all other tax rates are set on time.

County Clerk Betty Joe Conley says that her office is now only waiting for the fiscal court to set its tax rate before sending the bills to be printed.

Once the county sets its rate, the bills should be back from the printers about a week later. The fiscal court is scheduled to give final approval to its tax rate next Tuesday, October 8.

Sheriff Don McFaddin says that should give him enough time to have a "good chance" of getting the 1995 bills out November 1—just ten months after the 1994 bills got to local property owners. — The Paintsville Herald

Salyersville Cut-Thru Project construction bids are opened

Construction bids were opened Tuesday afternoon, September 24, at the Federal Building in Louisville for the Salyersville Cut-Thru Project.

Magoffin County Judge-Executive Charles Hardin and three staff members of the Big Sandy Area Development District in Prestonsburg, including Brenda Powers, who has been working closely with the project, attended the bid opening.

About a dozen contractors had voiced an interest in the project. Six bids were received, three which were within the amount of federal money allocated for the project. The lowest bid received was from Bizzack Brothers Construction Company, a Lexington-based construction firm.

Bids were evaluated this week. The company that receives the contract will be involved in all phases of the construction process. The project is expected to be completed in 1998.

When completed, the $12 million project will divert the Licking River from downtown Salyersville and through the cut-thru during serious flooding. — The Salyersville Independent

City council adopts tax rate

At a recent special meeting of the Salyersville City Council, members set tax rates for the upcoming year. The second reading of a state-mandated change in city policy was approved, setting a tax level on bank deposits for banks within the city limits.

The Bank Franchise and Local Deposit Tax is paid by banks themselves, not the individual taxpayer. The tax rate was set at .025 percent of all bank deposits.

The first reading of the real and personal tax rate was approved during the special meeting. Council members have been waiting for approval of the Magoffin County Sheriff's tax settlement by the State Department of Revenue in order to set the tax rate for the current fiscal year.

Rates were maintained at the same level as 1995, for the real property tax, at 23 cents per $100 estimated value. The rate for personal property taxes was set at 50 cents in comparison to last year's tax rate of 39 cents. A second reading is required for this vote. — The Salyersville Independent

Daniels get life plus 20 years in 1994 rape case

More than two years after the first guilty verdict was rendered by a Martin County jury against Tomahawk resident Jimmy Daniels, 39, for sexually abusing his daughter, another jury made the same decision Wednesday, October 2.

Daniels' first conviction in 1994 was thrown out by the Kentucky Court of Appeals on a technicality, but Commonwealth's Attorney Anna Melvin stuck with the case. Another Martin County jury found him guilty and recommended a life sentence plus 20 years, a more severe sentence than the two 30-year terms he was given the first time around.

Daniels, who will be brought back to Martin County for final sentencing on October 25, was returned to the East Kentucky Correctional Complex at West Liberty where he is serving a sentence in an unrelated matter. If judge Knight follows the jury's sentencing recommendations, Daniels will become eligible for parole in 17 years. — The Martin County Sun

State agency searches for lawyer in Steve Maynard case

After two circuit judges, a prosecutor, and a public defender have been excused from his case, Steve Maynard is now looking for a lawyer to represent him when he stands trial for first degree rape, seven counts of criminal abuse, unlawful imprisonment, and terrorist threatening.

Maynard, 34, has asked that both Circuit Judges Knight and Frazier recuse themselves because of prior knowledge or conflicts. And they have done so. Special Judge C. David Hagerman has been named to hear the case. A trial date has not been set for the case.

Commonwealth's Attorney Anna D. Melvin has been replaced by special prosecutor John Earl Hunt of Floyd County because of an alleged conflict. On September 5, Public Defender Mary Lou Chandler was allowed to withdraw also because of a conflict of interest. The state department of Public Advocacy is currently advertising for an attorney to represent Maynard, who is being held at the Big Sandy Detention Center in lieu of $100,000 cash bond. — The Martin County Sun

Knife fight conviction could mean 10 years

A 21-year-old Pikeville man has been convicted of first-degree assault. A Pike Circuit Court jury Friday, September 27, found Brian Waco Hall not guilty of first-degree wanton endangerment but guilty of assaulting a Pikeville man on March 30.

Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Ron Burchett said Hall has a drinking problem and "went looking for a fight." He apparently found it on Main Street in Pikeville, where he met up with Alex Hughes, 22.

Burchett said Hall had a knife and used it to make multiple cuts on Hughes' face, running from his hairline to his neck.

A first-degree assault conviction carries a 10 to 20 year penalty. Burchett said the jury recommended 10 years. Hall will have to serve at least half of his sentence because he caused "serious physical injury involving a dangerous instrument," according to Burchett. — Appalachian News-Express

Pikeville adopts curfew ordinances for juveniles

The Pikeville City Commission has passed an ordinance establishing a curfew for minors and penalties for those in violation of the curfew regulations.

The curfew came about after the city decided there had been an increase in crime by people under the age of 18. The curfew for minors is midnight to 6 a.m., Saturday and Sunday, and 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. Monday through Friday. Persons violating the curfew can be taken home or directed to go home, or the minor can be taken into custody, as provided by the law.

There are several exceptions to the ordinance, such as when the minor is accompanied by a person at least

Written

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE Pursuant to Application Number 836-0216, Amendment No. 1

In accordance with KRS 350.070 and provision of Section 2 (13) Kentucky Senate Bill 266, notice is hereby given that Costain Coal, Inc., 251 Tollage Creek, Pikeville, Kentucky 41501, has applied for an amendment to an existing surface coal mining and reclamation operation located 3.79 miles north of Ivel in Floyd and Pike Counties. The amendment will add 809.20 acres and delete 6.30 acres of surface disturbance making a total area of 1079.41 acres within the amended permit boundary. The amendment will allow for the disposal of coal combustion by-products. The proposed amendment area is approximately 3.79 miles northeast from U.S. 23's junction with Ivy Creek County Road and located 0.95 miles north of Ivy Creek. The latitude is 37° 36' 18". The longitude is 82° 37' 35".

The proposed amendment is located on the Harold and Broad Bottom U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle maps. The surface area to be disturbed by the amendment is owned by James Hatcher Estate Trust, Denver Collins Heirs, Burchett Heirs, Jackie & Bonnie Scalf, Benjamin Ferguson, Law Heirs, and Costain Coal Inc. The operation will use the area method of surface mining. The operation will affect an area within 100 feet of public roadS Ivy Creek Road, Buffalo Creek Road, and Clark Branch Road. The operation will not involve the relocation of the public roads.

The amendment application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 2705 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653-1410. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director, Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

This is the final advertisement of this application; all comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be received within thirty (30) days of today's date.

Hear Today, Hear Tomorrow

(NAPS)—Could you or someone you know be one of the 28 million Americans who have some degree of hearing loss?

Studies show that people with hearing loss wait an average of seven years before seeking help. For many of these people, what starts as a slight problem may gradually become a severe or profound hearing loss.

"Early evaluation and careful monitoring by a qualified health professional are essential to maximize existing hearing, and to customize treatment programs for people with all degrees of hearing loss—from the mildly hearing impaired to the profoundly deaf," explains Max S. Chartrand, Ph.D., national coordinator of the Cochlear Network of Audiologists and the
