Assistant prosecutor is cited on tax charge

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

A Floyd County assistant Commonwealth Attorney was charged in Franklin District Court Tuesday on charges that he did not pay withholding taxes for four years.

The Revenue Criminal Investigation Section of the Kentucky Revenue Cabinet obtained a criminal summons from Franklin District Court against Dan Rowland, a Floyd County attorney, after a six-month investigation.

Rowland was charged with criminal attempt to evade paying employee withholding taxes, a Class A misdemeanor.

Rowland allegedly failed to file and pay employee withholding taxes for the years 1991-1995 on the employees working for him in his private law office.

He allegedly owes about $2,000 plus penalties and interest in back taxes. If he is found guilty of the charges, he faces 12 months in jail, a $500 fine, or both.

"I have no comment," Rowland said Tuesday afternoon. "I didn't know anything about it."

But according to Alex Rose, general counsel for the Revenue Cabinet, Rowland should have known about the case. He said the criminal action against Rowland was "a last resort."

"We always start with civil actions on these cases," Rose said. "He had some opportunity to handle it before it got to this point."

Rowland's arraignment is scheduled for November 12 in Franklin District Court.

Rose said he could not specify on what prompted the investigation by the Revenue Cabinet.

"I can't comment on on-going investigations," he said.

Rowland will have the opportunity to enter a plea at his arraignment next month. Rose said if Rowland enters a guilty plea, he will probably face a lighter sentence.

"He could probably get probation and have to repay the tax and be good in the future if he enters a guilty plea," Rose said.

Commonwealth Attorney John Earl Hunt, for whom Rowland works in addition to his private practice, was not available for comment Tuesday afternoon to say whether Rowland will continue with his prosecutorial duties as assistant commonwealth attorney.

The Criminal Investigation Section is a relatively new organization established by the Revenue Cabinet to investigate and prosecute violations of the criminal tax laws of the state.

Complaint is lodged against city 'slate'

by Patti M. Clark

Four Prestonsburg City Council candidates have reportedly filed complaints against eight other candidates in the same race for alleged campaign finance violations.

In his complaint, Richard Price alleges that Hansel Cooley, Robert Allen, Gorman Collins Jr., Danny Hamilton, Bill R. Collins, Trent Nairn, Ralph Davis, and Estill Carter violated election laws by "attempting to run a slated ballot and have combined their resources to win their election to the Prestonsburg City Council."

Price said three other candidates — Mike Meade, Chris Gulick, and Roy Compton — filed similar complaints with the Kentucky Registry of Elections in Frankfort.

Registry officials would not acknowledge "whether a complaint has been filed or not."

Price said he based his complaint on KRS 121.180, which states that a candidate cannot spend money raised for one race on another race for a different office; on a different issue than the money was raised for; or for another candidate.

The eight against whom the complaint was filed have been run-

by Janice Shepherd

A Martin City Councilman and businessman received burns on about 30 percent of his body when an explosion from an open gas line ripped through a rental apartment he was remodeling Monday evening.

Earrit M. Hayes, 82, was listed in fair condition in the burn unit at the Cabell-Huntington Hospital in West Virginia where he was transported after the explosion Monday.

Hayes was renovating an apartment, located above his barbershop on Main Street in Martin, when the explosion occurred around 7:15 p.m.

Apparently Hayes installed a gas line and turned the gas on to the apartment just before the explosion, Martin Fire Chief William Petry said Tuesday.

A valve on the gas line remained open inside the apartment, creating a volatile situation, Petry said. "When he turned the gas back on, it filled up his house."

Hayes may have triggered the explosion by turning on a light switch, which creates a spark, or by turning on one of two power tools, a trouble light and a drill, that firefighters found in the apartment.

A Floyd County community leader and businessman died in Florida Monday from a heart attack.

Roy Ramey, owner of Ramey Insurance in Glynview Plaza, Prestonsburg, died October 14 in the condo he and his wife, Joyce, were staying during their visit to Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

Ramey was member of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, and had served as the Chamber's representative on the Floyd County Tourism Commission since 1994.

Employees at R&S reject union by one-vote margin

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

Employees at R&S Truck Body at Allen rejected union representation Friday by the slimmest of margins, but a final tally on the vote will likely be made in court.

The voting process was conducted at 2 p.m. Friday by secret ballot with the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB) in Cincinnati.

On Tuesday, the election clerk said the report of the vote was not available at the time.

A one-vote difference decided the union issue, with 56 workers voting against representation by the National Conference of Firemen and Oilers and 55 employees supporting the union.

A total of 19 voters were challenged, however, and the disposition of those challenges could alter the outcome.

The National Labor Relations Board, which monitored the election, disputed the voting rights of 14 people and union representatives challenged five others. Those 19 votes were not counted into totals. R&S officials made no challenges.

Court upholds rejection of conflict claim

by Patti M. Clark

The Kentucky Court of Appeals upheld a lower court's decision that a member of the Floyd County Development Authority had not violated the authority's conflict-of-interest policy.

Dolores Smith was exonerated in the decision from allegations by former Floyd County Attorney Jim Hammond that she had violated the authority's conflict of interest policy because she is a co-owner of R & S Truck Body.

The Court of Appeals upheld the decision of the Floyd Circuit Court based on Smith's disclosure of her interest in R & S Truck Body and her abstention from all votes in reference to a project by the authority to develop an industrial site for R & S.

Despite the fact that Smith wrote a letter to the chairman of the authority, Burl Wells Spurlock, on June 16, 1992 stating she would not participate in any way with the authority's activities relating to R & S Truck Body, Hammond, as county attorney, "repeatedly Emergency volunteers in Floyd County are upset with magistrates on the Floyd County Fiscal Court.

The group expressed its displeasure at an advisory board meeting held October 2 and asked that magistrates come to a special meeting so the volunteers might answer any questions they have.

Magistrates, at the last fiscal court meeting, tabled the purchase of pagers for volunteers and the remapping of the county, both of which are required to implement enhanced 911 in Floyd County and both of which had been recommended by the advisory board and the 911 board.

"There was a lot of displeasure expressed at that meeting," Jim Caldwell told members of the 911 board at their meeting last Friday. "They were very upset with the last fiscal court meeting when they voted to table the readdressing and the pagers."

Caldwell represents the advisory council on the 911 board. He read to board members a letter the advisory council drafted and mailed to magistrates asking them to attend a special meeting this evening, Wednesday. The magistrates would have to call a special meeting at least 24 hours before the meeting time if they plan to meet as a group with the advisory board members. They had not done so at press time on Tuesday. The fiscal court meets again Friday.

"The recommendations of these two boards were reached after painstaking research and long discussions on all topics concerning the implementation of E-911 service to benefit the people of Floyd County," the letter states. "The recommendations from these two

by Patti M. Clark

A former Floyd County contractor has appealed his conviction and sentencing on arson charges.

Floyd Carr filed an appeal Monday, the day he was scheduled to appear before Floyd Circuit Judge Danny P. Caudill to show proof that he had appealed the ruling or go to prison on the charges.

"His notice of appeal was filed today," assistant Commonwealth Attorney John Mann said Monday morning.

Carr was convicted in 1990 on arson charges in connection with a Prestonsburg house fire that occurred April 13, 1986. He was sentenced to serve five years on the charges, but was never imprisoned because of plans to appeal and for providing assistance in other arson cases.

ning joint advertising, with two or three of the candidates paying for each ad with the final cost of all newspaper advertising to be split equally between the eight.

The group has run four advertisements. Trent Nairn and Estill Lee Carter have paid $157.50 so far; Danny Hamilton, Gorman Collins Jr., Hansel Cooley and Ralph Davis have paid $105 each; and Billy Ray Collins and Robert Allen have paid $52.50 each.

Because the ads don't run at the same time, however, there is the appearance that the candidates paying for a single ad have contributed to the campaign of the other candidates.

Those candidates have said they did not intentionally violate the law, "if they violated the law," Carter, who has been coordinating placement of the advertising and has collected checks from the other eight candidates, said he and the others agreed to keep their advertising for the election under $2,000.

He also said he consulted with Scott Perry, publisher of The Floyd County Times in which the advertisements have been run, before the first ad was placed.

"While he's not the authority, I thought he would know the law," Carter said Tuesday afternoon.

Perry said he advised Carter that the law requires that the names of the persons paying for the ads be on the advertisements. "We fulfilled our obligations under that particular statute," he said.

Carter was attempting to contact Rosemary Centers, General Counsel for the Registry, Tuesday to determine if the eight had indeed violated the law and what he should do to correct any problem. He said his attorney has looked at the statute and doesn't agree with the Registry's interpretation.

"We had read the statute one way and they obviously don't agree with that," he said. "They are the final authority on that."

Carter said he was just trying to do what any good businessman would do, "make the money go as far as possible. We will do it the way they tell us to."

While Centers emphasized during a telephone interview Monday that she could not comment on a specific complaint, the eight should make sure they keep their campaign finances separate.

"It's not a good practice for one candidate to be involved financially in another candidate's campaign," Centers said. "That doesn't mean they can't run a joint ad."

She said only the candidate or the candidate's treasurer should be "expending money for a campaign."

"Each person has to make expenditures through their own treasurers or campaigns," she added. "That doesn't mean they can't do joint advertising. It just means they have to account for the expenditures separately."

She said the eight could run a joint ad if each of them pays one-eighth of the cost of each separate advertisement and the disclaimer line on the advertisement accurately reflects who paid for the ad.

The group is not running as a slate, which is prohibited by state law for any candidate except lieutenant governor and governor candidates. They are, however, asking that voters vote for each of the eight individually. Centers said a slating bill never got out of committee during last winter's session of the General Assembly.

The candidates could face fines of between $10 and $100 a day for the offense if it was "knowingly committed." The statute also states that the candidacy or the office could be voided by the Registry.

The Registry makes the decision on whether there is an offense and if an offense was knowingly committed and there is a long procedure before candidates could be ousted from the race or from the office.

If the offense was a "knowing" one, it becomes a criminal violation and goes through the Attorney General's office for investigation. If not, it's considered a civil violation with the penalty being the fine.

attempts to extend tourism advertising regarding Floyd County to tour groups and vacationers, tourism director Fred James said Tuesday. Ramey was also a supporter of the Kentucky Opry and the Mountain Arts Center, he said.

Ramey was a member of Prestonsburg Rotary Club, the Prestonsburg Kiwanis, and the Prestonsburg Jaycees. As a Jaycee, he was a leader in organizing the Prestonsburg High School Key Club.

Ramey was an avid fisherman and was a member of the "Prestonsburg Fisherman's Club," a group of close friends who took annual fishing trips together. He was also an avid golfer who "put his golf clubs in his bass boat on a trip to Tennessee," James said.

"He said that was in case the fishing wasn't any good, then he'd go golfing," James said.

Funeral services for Ramey will be held at 2 p.m., Friday at the Hall Funeral Home. Visitation may be made after 5 p.m. today, Wednesday.

Firefighters also found two open heaters in the apartment, and Hayes may have ignited the blast if he tried to light one of the heaters, Petry added.

"We know what happened, but we don't know what set it off ... until we talk to Hayes," Petry said.

The explosion lifted the apartment off the first floor of the building, and then set it back down, Petry said. "The walls were pushed out."

"The fire blew itself out. There was minor fire damage," he said.

Petry and some of his firefighters were at the fire station about 500 feet from the apartment when the explosion occurred. Petry said the blast shook the fire station.

"We felt it — half the town must have felt it," he said. "Then we saw a big ball of fire."

Firefighters and EMT Tim Conn rushed to the scene. When they arrived, two men were with Hayes, Petry said. Hayes had burns on his face, hands, knees and legs, and some of his clothing had burned to his skin, according to Petry.

Hayes was conscious and alert, he added.

"He's a pretty tough old bird. He's lucky to be alive. He was almost killed in a car accident and he made it through that," Petry said.

A three-foot flame extended from the open gas line, and several cardboard boxes and some insulation had ignited. Hayes was removed from the building, and firefighters doused the flames.

When Hayes was removed from the building, Our Lady of the Way Hospital operating room nurse, Evelyn Martin, was waiting on the steps. She had just finished a 12-hour shift at the hospital and was on her way home when she spotted the fire truck, the apartment's destruction, and some of her family members standing on the sidewalk.

Martin stopped to ask if Hayes, a close family friend, was in the building. When she received an affirmative answer, she dashed up the steps of the apartment. She hesitated before entering because she could see flames, but then Hayes was carried from the building and Martin assessed his condition.

"I was afraid we would have to give him CPR," she said. "The main thing was, could he respond and could he walk? He wasn't unconscious — that was in his favor." She discovered Hayes was alert, talking, and walking, and she made him sit down.

An ambulance had been called to the scene but, with the injured threatened to criminally prosecute Smith for violating the Kentucky Constitution," the appeal states.

The Floyd County Development Authority has been working on an industrial site on Route 23 near Ivel since 1992 and R & S has said it will relocate its plant to the site. The authority, through Floyd County, secured a Community Development Block Grant and has used county coal severance funds for the project.

R & S has signed agreements saying the company will create about 70 new jobs within two years after the company moves to the new site. The agreement also indicates that the positions will be filled with low-income workers from the area.

Hammond also contended at the time that an official inquiry was being conducted and that inquiry might be upgraded to a full-scale investigation.

The Court of Appeals, in its opinion rendered Friday afternoon, stated that Smith "has fully complied with the authority's conflict-of-interest policy by disclosing her man's consent, Rick Caudill, an announcer with WMDJ radio, and Martin rushed the burn victim to Our Lady of the Way's Emergency Room, only about a mile from the accident site, in a pickup truck.

Martin said she stayed in the emergency room with Hayes until he was transported to the burn unit at Cabell Huntington.

"He was talking to everybody that came in," she said.

Martin said the clothing Hayes wore when the explosion occurred probably bore the "brunt of the flames." Hayes was wearing leather boots that extended about half-way up the calf of his leg. He also wore a large jacket, she said.

interest in R & S Truck Body and by abstaining from all votes, hearings or discussions relating to R & S Truck Body."

The court also ruled that Smith's membership on the authority did "not create a disabling conflict of interest which violates Kentucky law," and the declaratory judgment for Smith and against Hammond made by Judge C. David Hagerman was a proper action.

Hammond had contended that he was not "a proper party" to the action. The Court of Appeals, however, ruled otherwise, saying that "the debate about this issue was raised by Hammond and continued by Hammond. It was not a hypothetical set of circumstances, but real and immediate. The circuit court's order in the declaratory judgment action served an important public purpose for Floyd County."

Hammond is serving a two-year prison sentence for his part in a scheme to defraud the state child-support program of more than $100,000 and of operating an $8 million check-kiting scheme.

Commissioner System

Magistrate Systems

TWISTED WORDS AND HALF TRUTHS TOLD BY THE POLITIC IN POWER

Half Truth #1) All the commissioners will be from Wheelwright or from Prestonsburg.
The Truth: KRS 67.060 (Kentucky State Law) requires the County Judge Executive to divide the county into three equal districts. There will be a commissioner from each district and he has to live in that district.
Twisted Words #2) We will have crooks for commissioners.
The Truth: The system of government is what helps keep the crooks honest.
Half Truth #3) The commissioner system will give the County Judge all the power in a tie vote.
The Truth: The County Judge will exercise an extra vote concerning small issues, like payroll. Million dollar issues, like the race track, would be tabled on a tie vote. In the next General Election, voters could come together and vote the yes Judge and yes Commissioner out of office, or they could vote the two no Commissioners out; therefore creating a safety clause within our government giving the power to the people.
Twisted Words #4) This issue helps a bunch of rich Republicans from Prestonsburg.
The Truth: It helps 2,000 Republicans and 30,000 registered Democrats. It also helps 50,000 residents of Floyd County.
Twisted Words #5) Sore Losers and mad people started this commissioner system of government.
The Truth: It was started by 450 residents of Floyd County who petitioned the citizens of Floyd County to change the government. The system is in such bad shape we had no other choice except try to change it. Floyd Countians have been left in mud holes and with iron and sulfur water while their politicians draw their big fat paychecks, yes, I would say they are mad.

Half Truth #6) This will give the Courthouse Bunch all the power.
The Truth: The commissioner system lets the country areas vote together in the General Election giving the voter power to the people.
Half Truth #7) Commissioners in Johnson County have broke their government.
The Truth: Johnson County has its problems, like all governments. The three commissioners in Johnson County cost the taxpayers $4,500 a month, including all benefits. The four magistrates in Floyd County cost the taxpayers $18,000 a month for less than two hours work, plus the other benefits no records are kept on or no one knows about.
Half Truth #8) 12,000 people will have to be moved to new districts.
The Truth: The magistrate districts are unequally divided. Under the commissioner system of government the state law requires the districts to be divided into three equal district.
Half Truth #9) Commissioners can make a maximum salary of $40,000.
The Truth: A magistrate's base pay is $32,654.44. Add their retirement and medical insurance and they cost us $42,773.44. Add their use of a vehicle, free gas and credits card expenses, they cost us $54,000. ## The light they shine

by Scott Perry

We've got one of those "good news" stories in the paper this week that some of you folks argue we never do and, we must confess, this one almost slipped right by us, too.

This is more than a story, though. It's a model, a prototype, of how a little cooperation can go a long, long way.

Former Times staffer Pam Shingler, who now works with the David School, wrote the article (the cover story on this edition's Lifestyle page) about how some employees and employers with the Kentucky State Park System and the state's Workforce Development Cabinet have gotten together to promote adult education in our area.

At least eleven employees at Jenny Wiley State Park are transforming their lives because of the program, which aims at providing those former high school dropouts with their General Equivalency Diplomas (GEDs).

The neatest thing about the whole project is that the GED classes are being taught in the historic Josie D. Harkins School, which was moved from Daniels Creek to the park in 1992. The classes are taught by Willis Little, an adult education specialist with the David Adult Education Program.

And get this, the park employees get paid for the four hours they spend one day each week in the GED program plus they'll receive a ten percent bonus when they pass the GED exam.

What a wonderful approach to a terrible problem.

Kentucky, particularly Eastern Kentucky, has long held the unfavorable distinction of leading the nation in the number of adults without a high school education.

But this project shows how the public and private sectors can become partners in the effort to change that picture.

Park manager Jim Kennedy and everyone else involved ought to get a free can of polish for their halos.

May the light they shine catch the eyes of others.

Letters to the editor

Letters to the editor policy

Letters to the Editor are welcomed by The Floyd County Times. In accordance with our editorial page policy, all letters must include the signature, address and telephone number of the author. Letters must be received no later than 10 a.m. Tuesday for publication in Wednesday's issue and 10 a.m. Thursday for Friday's issue. Letters may be sent to Editor, The Floyd County Times, P.O. Box 391, Prestonsburg, KY 41653. Letters may be edited for clarity and length.

Change in policy would aid citizens

Editor:
President Clinton is correct in classifying tobacco as an addictive drug. The regulations that he has proposed are reasonable. What direction will these changes take us? Criminalization for use of all recreational drugs, except tobacco and alcohol, with complete access to those has never worked well.

The best result that could come from a change in drug policy is regulation rather than criminalization of all drugs. A licensing system based on knowledge, behavior and age would accomplish this. A DWI offender should lose his license to buy alcohol, not his license to drive to work.

At the same time, those taking chemotherapy treatments for cancer and AIDS would not have to go to the streets to purchase cannabis for the side effects, and those with wide angle glaucoma would not feel like criminals when they must sneak to purchase this medicine. Had we listened to Gubernatorial candidate Gatewood Galbraith, in 1991, and 1995, many in need of this illegal medicine would not be treated as criminals. Who was the winner?

Actor Woody Harrelson recently came out in support of the industrial uses of cannabis, but had nothing to say about its therapeutic benefits. This is understandable in a capitalistic society, but this illegal medicine could benefit many disabled citizens reluctant to behave as criminals. Citizens of the land of the free should not be subject to arrest, trial, confiscation of property and incarceration for possession of this medicine.

Thanks for photo of seventh grade class

Editor:
Thank you so much for publishing the picture of my seventh grade class. I wonder if any of your readers noticed that two of the boys in the front row were barefoot. I wonder if other were sans shoes. I probably was, but I am not sure. Half of the boys were in the uniform of the period, dressed in bib overalls, popular school apparel 70 years ago. Alvin Taylor was the best dressed boy in our class. Long trousers, white shirt and tie were regular attire for Alvin. Alvin's father was deceased, and he was the ward of his much older half-brother, Ruben Taylor.

I believe all of the girls are no longer living. However, four of the boys, Jack Allen, Robert Hughes, Chester Meade and myself survive, a singular circumstance as females on the average outlive males. The name of the fourth young lady in the second row is Lula Mae Goble. I hope it wasn't my fault that the legend beneath the picture named her Luchaniay. I seriously doubt that any girl ever bore such a name that almost defied pronunciation.

Julia B. (Mrs. Henry) Stephens was my fourth grade teacher as well as the seventh, and my very best ever.

Being called 'clown' pleasing to writer

Editor:
For those of us closely identified with "United We're Strong," Magistrate Owens' editorial page political ad (FCT October 9, 1996) calling us clowns was a personal attack and I feel places a response outside the ban on political letters. Therefore, I request an opportunity to respond without mentioning issues or candidates.

Mr. Owens demanded again to know who our "personal appraiser" is. Now I would assume that a "personal appraiser" is an appraiser that appraises personals. We don't have a personal appraiser, and frankly, I have never had my personals appraised. Perhaps Mr. Owens has a personal appraiser and has had his personals appraised and wants to see if his personals appraise higher than our personals. Now, I am kind of shaky about this seemingly untoward interest in our personals. I am sure that if Mr. Owens personals appraised higher than my personals, he would say so in editorial half-page ad in The Floyd County Times. Now, I am kind of old-fashioned and don't want everybody to know how my personals appraise. So he can quit harping on the personal appraiser issue. We don't have a personal appraiser and I ain't going to have my personals appraised.

And being called a clown is really kind of nice. Clowns make people happy, which is kind of rare in Floyd County.

Opposes harvesting in Boone Forest

Editor:
One of Laurel County's Natural treasures is being threatened. The Daniel Boone National Forest District Ranger is proposing a project of harvesting timber, clear cutting, burning and spraying with herbicides around 2,000 acres of land in the vicinity of Laurel Lake. Most of the boat ramps and campgrounds in this area will be affected.

This scoping project is called the Baldrock Timber Sale and Red Cockaded Woodpecker Habitat Improvement.

Timber should be harvested in the national forest where it can be done responsibly, but this area is such a treasure to Laurel County that it should be preserved. There are many people in Kentucky and out of state that enjoy this natural beauty of this lake.

The DBNF tried to destroy the wild Rockcastle River by logging and clear cutting. Newt Gingrich tried to sell Laurel Lake.

It is time for the citizens of Laurel County and around the state to take action before it is too late!

Write by October 31, to: District Ranger, P.O. Box 907, London, KY 40743. Tell the forest service that you object to the above proposed project.

Coffee Break

by Scott Perry

Having just returned from the great midwest, we missed out on the big Salyersville Gas War which, as best we can tell, knocked the Hatfields and McCoys out of the number one spot on the region's historical record.

Don't know what started the price war, which had gas going for less than 2¢ a gallon on Saturday, but it would be real nice if it became contagious.

Unfortunately, though, the battle was a short one. Gas prices were back up to $1.17 a gallon Sunday in Salyersville.

Of course that's still nearly 20¢ a gallon cheaper than the prices we saw in Prestonsburg, about 16 miles down the road.

Wonder how we can be so near and still so far away?

Hate to admit it, but we're now able to identify with O.J. Simpson.

Before he became a star on Court TV, Simpson was often seen in commercials, racing through airports and vaulting over the unsuspecting in his hurry to make airplane connections.

We got to try that Sunday in St. Louis, where our arrival came about 12 minutes before our next flight out.

If you've ever done much traveling by air, you know that the gates between connections are never conveniently located.

Naturally, ours were situated at opposite ends of the terminal.

When it comes to physical fitness, though, we're no O.J., so we spent our time alternately jogging about a hundred yards and then gasping for breath.

At any rate, we made our connections...with about 20 seconds to spare and considerable resolve to work ourselves into better shape.

Yeah, right. We decided later, over a cheeseburger and a half pack of Marlboros, that it would be a lot easier just to shoot our travel agent.

Those people we knocked over in the St. Louis airport would probably testify in our behalf.

Justifiable homicide.

We were in Kansas City last week for a newspaper convention of sorts where a whole lot of people from small towns like ours got together to share ideas and swap tales.

It's kind of eerie how community newspapering is so similar no matter where you go.

Every small town has just about the same news...parking problems downtown, stray dogs, and an ornery politician or two. Only the names are changed.

We have some selfish motives for enjoying these annual get-togethers, too.

They tend to reinforce our notions that, whether you live in South Carolina or South Dakota, the local paper is an important piece of every community's puzzle.

A little self-assurance can go a long way, we hope, toward doing a better job for you.

Let us know how we're making out.

While we're massaging our egos, we'll note that our newspaper took top honors among papers our size in general excellence judging, giving us bragging rights for at least a year.

While our name is on the trophy, we take little credit for the award, preferring instead to give applause where applause is due.

That goes to our crew, many of whom you never see or hear from because their jobs usually don't put them in front of the public eye.

They're as dedicated as anyone we know in the business toward putting out a good newspaper and they do it without any guarantees of recognition.

Well, they've got a real nice trophy now and our praise for a job well done.

Other folks might have preferred a raise or a bonus for such an award-winning effort, but we know you guys aren't so mercenary.

Right?

Investigation into county court clerk's finances is continuing

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Nearly a year after former state auditor Ben Chandler initiated an audit into the finances of Floyd County Clerk Carla Boyd, the investigation is still underway.

"It is an on-going, active investigation," Jennifer Schaaf, spokesperson for Chandler, who is now attorney general, said Monday. "It is the policy of this office not to comment on on-going investigations."

The audit was one of the last Chandler completed before assuming the office of attorney general on January 1. The audit was filed December 22.

Floyd County Commonwealth Attorney John Earl Hunt asked Chandler in February to look into the audit, which alleged Boyd's office was nearly $200,000 short.

In the report released in Frankfort, the clerk's office allegedly had a $195,000 deficit and state officials said they could not determine if the shortfall was greater because of the condition of the records.

The report also indicated that

Boyd had used personal funds to conceal a "lapping scheme" in an attempt to hide the shortages.

The scheme was described as taking money from new accounts to cover shortages in old accounts, with the report indicating that about $44,000 was transferred to cover shortages for 1991 and 1992.

The audit also contended that Boyd used $11,704 of her own money to cover shortages.

The total of the alleged shortfall is $196,197 less a $1,071 bank balance in the 1992-93 fee accounts, which leaves a $195,126 deficit.

Boyd has said, however, that Chandler should not be investigating an audit that his office conducted, saying that puts her in "double jeopardy or something."

"That's silly," Schaaf said. "She's obviously trying to deflect the issue from her own guilt. There is no support for her assertion that he cannot investigate an audit that he conducted."

She said it is not the first time Chandler has prosecuted a matter he investigated as auditor.

"We prosecuted the Pitcock case and we are investigating numerous others," Schaaf added.

The Attorney General's office earned a conviction in the case of Monroe County Clerk Larry Pitcock, who was sentenced to jail for not paying taxes on vehicles he owned.

Schaaf also said the office is mandated by the federal government to conduct audits, do investigation and prosecute cases in connection with Medicaid and Medicare fraud.

Boyd has had an independent auditor going over the accounts of her office.

"He's about half finished," Boyd said. "It should take a few more weeks."

The Kentucky State Police is also still investigating the office, a KSP spokesman said Tuesday morning. Sergeant Mike Carhart said in July that he expects his case to eventually be presented to a grand jury. "I'm sure the findings will be presented to a grand jury at some point in time," he said at the time.

Boyd said Monday she hasn't heard anything new about the case. She said she is waiting for the independent auditor to finish his work.

Parking problems plaque Court Street customers

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

There's no parking on the left side of the second block of Court Street, Prestonsburg Fire Chief Tom Blackburn wants to remind store owners, employees and customers.

Monday afternoon it took the United Parcel Service truck 20 minutes to get up the street because there were cars parked on both sides. Another truck was stuck on the street Tuesday morning, forcing officers to close that end of Court Street until cars were moved and the truck could make its way down the street.

Blackburn said there was no way a fire truck could maneuver the street with vehicles parked on both sides. City officers found the owners of the vehicles and asked them to move their cars.

The city widened the sidewalk on the left side of the street, eliminating the parking spaces on that side. Spaces remain on the right side of the street.

"This is an immediate problem," Blackburn said Monday night during the Prestonsburg City Council meeting. "As soon as someone makes a mistake and parks there, there's a problem. Tomorrow, it's going to be a problem."

Mayor Jerry Fannin said paving work should be completed sometime this week, eliminating the faded paint from the old parking spaces on that side of the street. Only about half the width of a parking space remains.

"Before the week is out that should be repaved and new spots will be marked," Fannin said.

"That's the problem," Blackburn said. "They can still see half a parking spot. It's a little confusing."

Blackburn had asked council member Billy Ray Collins to put up no parking signs on the street, but Fannin said the problem should resolve itself.

Natural Resources. He claimed not to see any problem with unregulated logging in Kentucky. In fact, he seemed to suggest we should applaud the erosion of our Eastern Kentucky hillsides because "silt runoff created the Mississippi River delta which is some of the richest farmland in the world."

Excuse me? With thoughtful representation like that, is it any wonder that many Kentuckians are worried? Fortunately, there are good people (including many in the Senator's home county) who are working to protect our land and our heritage from another round of destruction.

boards, from the people who volunteer their time and efforts to this county were made by knowledgeable members."

While the letter was mailed to each magistrate last week by certified mail, Caldwell said he isn't sure the magistrates will show up for tonight's meeting.

County Judge-Executive Ben Hale emphasized that the magistrates did not reject the recommendations at the last meeting, but merely tabled them, they said, to get more information.

"It can be brought back up," he said. "There's no question we know what has to be done to get this done."

Hale said he would put the issue on the agenda for Friday's meeting and magistrates can decide whether to bring it back up at that session.

"We know we've got the money to get this up and going. This is not saying it's not going to happen," Hale added. "Everybody knows we're going to have to keep going to get 911 in Floyd County."

He said without the pagers and the remapping, the county doesn't have a 911 system.

Caldwell emphasized that Floyd County is the only county where the fiscal court has the final approval on 911 expenditures and that the recommendations to purchase pagers and remap the county were the first from the groups that had not been accepted by the court.

But he added that the 29 responders who were at the meeting said their professionalism had been eroded by the court's action.

"They feel like they are professionals and they know what needs to be done," Caldwell said. "It hurts their pride to get rejected. We've got to respect these professional people."

But Chris Waugh, Floyd County deputy judge-executive, said the advisory board and 911 board needs to remember that the fiscal court "has the final say so whether we like it or not."

"We have to respect their choices," he added. "But we need to try to answer their questions and concerns. If we give them answers, it may help them feel confident making this decision. If the fiscal court doesn't approve it, the buck stops with them."

The fiscal court meets at 10 a.m. Friday in the Division II circuit courtroom and could revisit the issues at that meeting.

Floyd County School board member Phyllis Honshell is concerned about the county's drop-out rate at the high school level and wants the system to do something about it.

The county average is 3.13 percent, with Betsy Layne High School having a 4.78 percent drop-out rate and South Floyd a 3.91 rate. Allen Central's drop-out rate for the 1994-95 school year was 2.92 percent, while Prestonsburg High School's was 2.41 percent.

"I think it behooves us to intervene, but I'm not sure high school is the place to do it," Honshell said during the October 8 meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education.

Phil Paige, director of instruction for the school system, said only one person in the system has the responsibility of watching drop-out numbers. That person works at Prestonsburg High School. He added that the best place to begin drop-out education is in the fifth grade.

Honshell's concerns stem from the system's performance report for the 1995-96 school year, which was released at the board's meeting last week.

Honshell said she is also concerned about special needs students, where she said the average drop-out rate is about 30 percent. She questioned whether guidance counselors could be left in place to help students handle problems, such as teenage pregnancy and drug use.

Paige said many guidance counselors are "glorified paper pushers." "I have seen a lot of guidance counselors do a lot of work this board could pay a lot less for," he said. The position of guidance counselor at many of the schools has been eliminated to save the system money.

Paige said family resource centers have helped a lot, but there needs to be a single person at each of the schools to handle problems.

Board chairman Eddie Patton suggested the schools leave guidance counselors in place and put them in charge of teenage pregnancy programs.

Paige explained that when a girl becomes pregnant, her pregnancy becomes a "social event."

"She becomes somebody," he said. "She becomes the focus of her group. And it is sad, but true, that you can watch her group and pick the one who will be next. It's true, that phenomenon exists."

"We've got to have pregnancy prevention programs and drug prevention programs," Honshell said.

But Paige said it is difficult to evaluate programs "that impact a child's development."

Honshell also expressed concerns about stagnant ACT test scores in the district.

The system's average composite score for 1995-95 was 18.1, two points below the state average of 20.1. That rate was the same as the 1994-95 composite score and lower

Union

er said the union challenged two votes because Smith's housecleaner and groundskeeper voted.

"They are employees and included in the voting process," Smith said Tuesday. "The representing group asked for who they wanted and didn't want in the voting unit." Smith said the union specifically asked for those employees in the voting process.

Thacker said the votes of three truck drivers were also challenged because they are paid by the mile.

But, Smith said the union asked in a petition that truck drivers be included in the vote. He added that the union challenged three of the than the 18.2 composite score average in 1993-94.

"Are we looking at programs? Are we looking at a means of improving what we're doing?" she asked.

Paige said the district's focus is the KIRIS test because of the accountability requirements it contains, indicating that teachers may still be "teaching the test."

"The ACT and KIRIS are quite different and it's difficult to set up curriculum to emphasize both," Paige said.

Honshell said the ACT is a "fairly good predictor of a student's success in college."

"It concerns me that we aren't rising rather than falling," she said.

Paige, said however, that the number of students actually taking the test is increasing, which in turn lowers the average.

votes of truck drivers, but did not challenge them all.

Smith and Thacker agreed that a decision on the vote would be made in court. Thacker said the issue would be heard before the National Labor Relations Board.

"We have to prove that these employees were laid off illegally," Thacker said Friday of the challenges issued by the NLRB.

"This is a trying time for everybody," Smith said Tuesday. "The election is over, we have to wait and see what the decision will be. We are concerned about the employees and we have to put everything back together again."

Floyd man wins $1,000

Charles Moore of Prestonsburg won $1,000 September 28 on Kentucky Lottery's "Lotto KY" game by matching 5 out of 6 numbers correctly. Mr. Moore purchased his lucky ticket at Happy Mart in Prestonsburg.

Super America in Martin sold a winning $1,000 Lotto KY ticket Wednesday, October 2, to Lois Foux of Berkshire, New York. Mrs. Foux won by correctly matching 5 of the 6 numbers drawn that night.

Appeal

Carr's imprisonment because he was to testify in the case of another defendant in the arson investigation.

Mann said it could be a year before a ruling is made on the appeal, but that Carr and his attorneys are trying to resolve the issue. "We are expecting a possible resolution and then a withdrawal of the appeal," Mann said.

Prestonsburg Fire Marshal Larry Adams said the case came to his attention when he never received a notice of final disposition. He presented the case to a special grand jury last year looking into alleged corruption in Floyd County.

According to Adams, Carr admitted during the trial that he set the fire, but he later recanted that testimony, saying he used the statement to pressure the homeowner into paying him money he was owed on the house.

Adams said Carr told jurors at the time that he made the story up and that he had the blessings of former Floyd County Commonwealth Attorney Jerry Patton, but Patton denied that statement during his testimony in the trial.

Last month, Carr said he never admitted to setting the fire and had not recanted the testimony.

At a hearing October 4, Caudill called the case "one of the most unusual" he'd ever dealt with, and imposed the sentence that an earlier judge had ordered.

He gave Carr the option of posting a $10,000 surety bond and remaining free on bail as long as he appealed the case by Monday. If the appeal had not been filed, Carr would have been ordered to jail.

Carr's attorneys, Doug Adams and John Coleman, have maintained that Carr's sentence should be probated because of the length of time that has passed and because he has cooperated with the prosecution.

Council members pat selves on back

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

Members of the Prestonsburg City Council took a few minutes Monday evening to pat themselves on the back.

"When we came into office in January 1994, the city was $529,000 in the red," Mayor Jerry Fannin said during the council's regular meeting. "By the end of the year, there was enough money in the bank to pay off every debt the city owed. We are financially in good shape."

Fannin presented at the meeting a four-page report listing all the grants the city has received since January 1994 and all the equipment and projects that have been funded.

That list included about $8.6 million in grants for such things as the Mountain Arts Center, the May House Restoration, the storm drainage project on Route 1428, and the bank erosion project in West Prestonsburg and at Archer Park. The MAC grant was $7 million.

"We're not building debt for future generations. We're paying as we go," Fannin said. "This is one of the reasons we're getting things done and we're not breaking the city."

He said the 1995-96 audit is being completed now. "We should end up in as good a shape as we were last year," he said.

The mayor also complimented members of the Jenny Wiley Pioneer Festival committee on "a job well done."

"The plans have already started for next year," he said. "It was a great festival that was a community effort."

"So what are we going to do tomorrow?" council member Estill Carter asked.

Council member Billy Ray Collins, who has served on the council for 12 years, said he is working with "the most cost efficient city administration I have served under and with since I've been here. Everything we've tried to do, we've paid for."

All of the city council members, except Paula Goble and Dick Clark, are running for re-election in the November General Election.

Voting machine inspection Tuesday

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

With less than four weeks before the general election, candidates and members of the Floyd County Board of Elections will gather Thursday to inspect voting machines in Floyd County.

County Clerk Carla Robinson Boyd originally planned to inspect the machines October 3. That inspection was postponed to give attorneys for the city of Prestonsburg and about 100 landowners opposing proposed annexation time to research who can vote for or against the proposal.

Floyd County Circuit Judge John David Caudill ruled October 3 that the annexation question be placed on the ballot. His only question, however, was who could vote on the issue. Only one person lives within the annexation area and that person has asked to be annexed.

Caudill gave the attorneys 15 days to research the issue and determine if residents who have adjoining property or who own property but actually live outside the proposed annexation area can be permitted to vote on the question.

He is expected to make that decision today, Wednesday.

Because of the late date, Boyd said that anyone who is eligible to vote on the annexation issue will do so on paper ballots, not on the electronic machines.

"They haven't even decided yet who can vote so the judge and both attorneys agreed to do the paper ballots," she said Monday. "The state Board of Elections said that is okay."

Anyone who is eligible to vote on the issue and has already voted on the absentee machine set up in Boyd's office will have to go back to the clerk's office if they want to vote on the matter, Boyd said.

The machine inspection will be held at 3 p.m. in the storage trailer across from the Floyd County Courthouse. All candidates are invited to attend.

Red, White & Blue festivities begins Thursday in Martin

The Red, White & Blue Festival begins tomorrow (Thursday) at Martin and will last through Saturday night.

A Gospel sing will kick off the festival Thursday from 5 to 10 p.m.

The music festivities will continue Friday at 7 p.m. with the Left Beaver Drifters, and the Carl Bentley & Blue Eagle Band at 9 p.m.

On Saturday, the flag raising ceremonies begin at 11 a.m., with a concert by Marlow Tackett immediately following the flag raising.

The flag-raising ceremony will be conducted by the U.S. Marine Corps League, with World War II veteran Daniel Newsom as Honorary Guard.

The Red, White & Blue Festival parade is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. on Main Street. The parade will begin at Our Lady of the Way Hospital and continue to the TransFinancial Bank.

The South Floyd High School band, Allen Central High School band and Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps (JROTC), and the Betsy Layne High's junior band are expected to be in the parade.

Following the parade, Coal Town Productions & Kristina Parsons, an 11-year-old "Kentucky Girl" will entertain the crowd from 5 to 7 p.m.

To conclude this year's event, fireworks will be displayed at dusk, and music will be performed from 8 to 10 p.m.

A variety of activities will be offered during all three days of the festival. A moon walk, safari attraction, Rosaire's pony rides, crafts, games, and food can all be found along Main Street of Martin and are just a few of the attractions planned for the Red, White & Blue Festival.

Appeals Court reverses decision

by Patti M. Clark
Staff Writer

A former inmate of the Otter Creek Correctional Complex has won an appeal of a decision that resulted in him serving forty extra hours of duty for not showing up for an assignment.

The Court of Appeals Friday afternoon reversed the decision of Floyd Circuit Judge Danny P. Caudill in which he denied a motion by Charles Hughes for a declaratory judgment and an "injunction from retaliation, compensatory damages, punitive damages, and expungment of the report from his institutional files."

Caudill dismissed Hughes' case with prejudice.

According to the appeal, Hughes was an inmate at Otter Creek in early 1995. On January 30, 1995, a memorandum saying that Hughes "needed to report to the Adjustment Committee Room on Thursday 2-2-95 at 1 p.m. for classification" was issued and posted on a bulletin board at OCCC.

Hughes claims he did not see the notice and did not attend the meeting. The OCCC Adjustment Committee adjudged him guilty of the offense of "unexcused absence from assignment" and sentenced him to 40 extra hours of duty for his failure to attend the meeting.

The Court of Appeals said Hughes was entitled to prior notice or "fair warning." It also indicted that OCCC's policy includes a requirement that each inmate sign "a form, indicating that he has been notified of the meeting a minimum of 48 hours prior to the scheduled time of the meeting."

The inmate is also to be informed of his obligation to attend the meeting, according to the appeal.

"OCCC did not follow its own rules in providing Hughes with notice of the classification meeting. It is undisputed that Hughes did not sign a form saying that he received notice of the meeting 48 hours in advance," the appeal states. "Since

Dear Voter,

SENATOR JOHN DAVID PRESTON is the son of the late J. Frank Preston, who worked for Columbia Gas Company, and Olga Auxier Preston, who ran a grocery store for years in Allen, and later was Betsy Layne School Librarian. He has been married for 19 years to Mary Stephenson, and they have a six-year-old daughter, Ellen.

JOHN DAVID PRESTON graduated from Allen Elementary, Prestonsburg High School, Harvard University, and U.K. School of Law. He is an attorney, Sunday School teacher, part-time farmer, NRA member, and a Mason.

SENATOR JOHN DAVID PRESTON was elected to the Kentucky Senate from the counties of Johnson, Lawrence, Boyd, and Elliott. After redistricting of Kentucky counties in 1996, his district now covers Breathitt, his native Floyd County, Johnson, and Knott.

Senator John David Preston's plan for a better future for Eastern Kentucky:

John David will fight to keep the jobs we have, for new better-paying jobs, and to keep jobs from leaving for foreign countries.

John David will fight to change Kentucky's unfair tax structure which hurts families and businesses. He will fight to eliminate the unfair vehicle tax, and will fight to return more coal severance tax to Eastern Kentucky.

John David will fight to make sure our children and unemployed workers receive the education they need.

John David will fight for health care. His 85-year-old mother has had six major surgeries in the past few years so he knows families need affordable health care.

We urge you to support SENATOR JOHN DAVID PRESTON running for the STATE SENATE in FLOYD, JOHNSON, KNOTT, AND BREATHITT COUNTIES. HE NEEDS YOUR VOTE!

Glenda Faye Robinson Watson

Glenda Faye Robinson Watson, 39, of Martin, died Saturday, October 12, 1996, at her residence.

Born February 16, 1957, in Martin, she was the daughter of Oakley and Mossie Robinson of Martin. She was a former employee of Woods Grocery and Mountain Manor Nursing Home. She attended Prestonsburg Community College and was a member of the Arkansas Church of Christ for seven years.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by her husband, Manuel Watson; three daughters, Martella Ann Wright and Vanessa Gay Smith, both of Martin, and Jennifer Johnson of Allen; one brother, Garry Robinson of Martin; one sister, Kimberly Ann Grubb of Martin; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services were Tuesday, October 15, at 2 p.m., at the Hall Funeral Home Chapel with the clergymen Delmar Jervis and Ronnie Samons officiating.

Burial was in the Oakley Robinson Family Cemetery at Martin, under the direction of Hall Funeral Home, Martin.

Serving as pallbearers were Ezra Robinson, Darrell Smith, Scotty Wright, Bobby Johnson, Robert Watson, and Steven Crum.

Lois Meade Perkins

Lois Meade Perkins, 65, of Hindman, died October 9, 1996, at the East Kentucky Health Services in Hindman.

Born November 26, 1930, in Hindman, she was the daughter of Johnnie Tilden Meade and Pearl Thornsby Meade. She was preceded in death by her husband, Manford Perkins.

Survivors include three sons, Larry Ray Perkins of St. Clairsville, Ohio, Gary Perkins of Wayland, and Gregory Gene Perkins of Hindman; one daughter, Cheryl Lynn Pridemore of Hindman; two brothers, Edward Gene Meade and Russell Marvin Meade, both of Michigan; three sisters, Alma Dean Smith of Texas, Edna Lee Rench and Connie Sue Diamond, both of Michigan; and six grandchildren.

Funeral services were Sunday, October 13, at 11 a.m., at the Hindman United Baptist Church, with Sterling Bolen, Bethel Bolen and Bill Kirby officiating.

Burial was in the Green Gayheart Cemetery at Hindman, under the direction of Hindman Funeral Services.

Legislative forum draws few

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

Eastern Kentucky residents had a chance Saturday evening to compare platforms of numerous political candidates, but few residents and fewer candidates took advantage of the opportunity.

In fact, only half of the candidates who were invited to the forum attended. Of 12 candidates invited, Senator Benny R. Bailey, District 29 Representative; District 97 House Representative Hubert Collins; 93rd District House Rep. candidate Kelsey Friend Jr.; John D. Preston, District 29; Chris Ratliff, candidate for District 93 House Rep.; and Charles Derrickson, District 25 Senate Representative candidate, attended the forum.

The legislative candidates were addressed by a questioning panel consisting of Judge Sara W. Combs, of the Judicial Department; Senator Barry Metcalf; WQHY-FM news director Norm Marcum; and the forum's organizer, David Porter.

The forum was moderated by WYMT reporter Mike Goins.

The first question of the forum asked the candidates to define themselves either as a liberal or conservative. Of course, none of the candidates would define themselves as either being one or the other at all times.

Combs questioned the panelists about the lack of interest young people show in the political process. She asked the candidates if they think this is a problem and, if so, how to correct it.

"Historically, young people don't vote," Bailey answered. "They do as they get older. It is important to make the voting process as easy as possible. Then you have to let the people choose whether to vote or not." Senator John D. Preston told Combs that her question was one of political freedom. "We have the right to vote, and we have the right not to vote," Preston said, adding that it was not an issue to impose on the people.

And, of course, the welfare reform issue made its way to the forum. Marcum asked if Eastern Kentucky could expect to see a massive exodus of people searching for employment in other places.

"It is a myth that we are dependent on welfare," Bailey said. "Things are changing in East Kentucky." He said the construction of the new Route 23 and Route 80 is evident of the changes.

"People ought to have to work for what they get," Bailey said. "I understand some cannot and that's the responsibility of the government."

Ratliff said the welfare reform itself would not cause a great exodus out of Eastern Kentucky, "but the government's failure to provide opportunity is what scares the people of welfare reform."

Other topics that discussed during the forum were same-sex marriages, workman's compensation and the future of education in Kentucky.

Seven volunteers help repair hiking JW trail

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

Seven volunteers spent their vacations in Floyd County last week to repair five miles of the Jenny Wiley Trail in Jenny Wiley State Park.

They came from New Jersey, Indiana, Georgia, Michigan, and Texas to give up their leisure time to give something back to something they have used most of their lives, hiking trails.

Cyrsti Jackson of New Jersey made her first trip on her working vacation.

"I work in an office all year," Jackson said. "I love to be in the outdoors...So far it has been a really nice trip. The work is hard at first, but if you can get up the next day...you'll be all right."

Another volunteer whose trip to Jenny Wiley State Park marked his first volunteer vacation, said he has been spending the last couple of vacations by himself, but wanted a different type of environment this year.

"I wanted to do something with a group of people this year," Greg Chase, an Indiana resident, said.

More experienced trail workers shared the trail with the first-timers. Doloris Kuykendall of New Jersey, Mary Payne of Michigan, Leonard "Boots" Holdsworth and Tom Holdsworth, both of New Jersey, and Fred Winkler of Texas have been repairing and building trails for several years and don't mind giving up their leisure hours to work.

"I am very aware of the usage of parks and how worn down a lot of trails are getting," Tom Holdsworth said. "This is my third trip working on trails — and the best."

Doloris Kuykendall said she has been spending her vacations to repair trails for about seven years. "It's my time to give back," she said. "I use hiking trails all year long where I live. Now, I give something back."

Mary Payne attended her first volunteer vacation in 1976. She agreed with Kuykendall that she feels obligated to help maintain the trails, since she also uses them.

So does Leonard Holdsworth. "I realize the parks need help with all their cutbacks," Holdsworth said. "They need the help with the trails, and I am glad to offer my assistance."

Fred Winkler enjoys the camaraderie while he works on the trails. He has attended more than a dozen sites with volunteer groups to help maintain hiking trails.

"I like the outdoors and being with others with the same interest," Winkler said. "Besides, it gives me an incentive to keep in shape."

Volunteer vacations are a service of the National Hiking Association. The portion of the Jenny Wiley Trail worked on by the volunteers begins at the entrance to the sky lift and ends at Route 3 and Route 302, according to Ron Vanover, park naturalist. The Jenny Wiley Trail extends 163 miles, from the Jenny Wiley State Park to Ohio.

Dewey Lake open house set for October 19

A live Canadian Lynx and an Arctic Fox will be among the featured attractions at the Dewey Lake annual open house set for this Saturday, October 19.

The Corps of Engineers at Dewey Lake are hosting the open house from noon until 3 p.m., at the Dewey Dam office.

Words of Life

God is faithful

by A. Wayne Burch, Pastor, Little Paint First Church of God Floyd County Ministerial Assoc.

A. Wayne Burch

God is the ultimate victim in all human cruelty, says the gospel; God bleeds for every human wound. In-as-much as we do good or ill to any human person, it is done to God. Forgiveness is not only a matter to be settled among ourselves—or left unsettled because of our in-adequacies. It is God's affair, too. The good news of Christianity is, since God suffers human pain, since God is the victim of human injury, then there is beyond all our sin, a love that is inexhaustible. God's love for this creation never comes to a point where it can take no more!

The last words attributed to Voltaire are ones he supposedly spoke to a priest when encouraged to forswear the Devil. Voltaire shot back: "Is this a time to make enemies?"

The current U.S. Monopoly Champion said these words, "Just be as nice as you can to every one and take their money!"

We hear so much about the "bureaucracy" at this political season of the year. Please remember it was "bureaucracy" that put forth the edict, "I must go to Bethlehem to be taxed!" David McCasland tells about a woman whose car was stalled at an intersection:

The car's hood was up, and the woman flagged down McCasland to help. "I can't get it started," she said, "but if you jiggle the wire on the battery, I think it will work." McCasland grabbed the positive battery cable and it came off in his hand. The cable was definitely too loose. "The terminal needs to be tightened up," he told her.

"I can fix it if you have any tools," the man said. "My husband says to just jiggle the wire," she replied. "It always works when you jiggle the wire."

McCasland paused for a moment, sarcastically wondering to himself why her husband didn't ride around town with her just to jiggle the wire, when it needed jiggling!

Finally he said, "Lady, if I jiggle the wire, you're going to need someone else to do it every time you shut the engine off. If you'll give me two minutes and a wrench, we can solve the problem and you can forget about it!"

Reluctantly, she fumbled under the front seat and then extended a crescent wrench through the window of the old car. As he tightened the battery terminal, it occurred to McCasland how, many times he had tried, in his own life, to get a "quick fix" from God! "I have this problem, Lord, and if you'll just jiggle the wire, things will be O.K.! I'm in a big hurry, so let's just get me going again the quickest way possible!"

But God doesn't want to "jiggle wires," does he? He wants to take the time necessary to deal with our real problem and fix it! To get the long-term solution to the pressing needs in our lives requires a complete surrender to God and a willingness to proceed on HIS terms!

We must cooperate with him in whatever it takes, for as long as it takes!

As the lady drove away with her tightened terminal, McCasland stopped for a moment and asked the Lord to say, "NO!" the next time he asked God to just jiggle a wire!

GOD IS FAITHFUL, and requires faithfulness! Disregard for this fact carries eternal consequences.

In Willa Carter's Christmas story—"The Burglar's Christmas" portrays a young man, the proverbial prodigal son, who had moved away from the family back East and was in Chicago.

Without food for many days, without friends, and with suicidal thoughts, he decides on Christmas Eve to steal some food from a nearby house. He had never stolen before but thinks that he is really owed some food, especially on Christmas Eve. When he breaks into the home, however, he finds that he has burglarized the house of his own parents—who had recently moved to the Chicago area.

His mother catches him in the act of stealing, and he confesses all to her and to his father. He prepares to leave, but they say, "Stay, We'll Make Things Right!"

He looks up at her questioningly, "I wonder if you really know just how much you will have to pardon? Mother then said, "Oh, my poor child, much or little, what does it matter? Have you wandered so far and paid such a bitter price for knowledge and not yet learned that love has nothing to do with the amount of pardon or forgiveness, that it only loves, and loves and loves?"

When God measures a person, he places the tape, not around the head, but around the heart! He measures for faithfulness, accountability, and responsibility!

Charles Wesley penned great words, "Father, let our faithful mind rest, on Thee alone inclined; Every anxious thought repress, Keep our souls in perfect peace!"

It is not why does God not hear you, but rather, why do you not hear God?

"Jiggle" and "wiggle" rhyme. Yes. Both depict quick, minimum action. Yes. But, neither quickness nor contortions carries any weight with the "Faithful-One who also demands our faithfulness!"

Card of Thanks

Card of Thanks

The family of Hazel Hicks would like to thank everyone who sent food, flowers, and who were there for us in our sad time. Also a special thanks to Buddy Jones and Jerry Manns for the kind words and beautiful singing; to the sheriff's department for traffic control; and to the Hall Funeral Home for the great job and all their kindness they showed our family. We will never forget you people—we love you all.

MSU to host music teachers' convention

Morehead State University's Department of Music will host the Kentucky Music Teachers Association annual convention, Saturday through Tuesday, October 19-22, in Baird Music Hall.

More than 350 teachers, as well as elementary, high school and college students will participate in this four-day event, according to Dr. Paul Taylor, MSU associate professor of music and convention coordinator.

The schedule includes student competitions for Saturday and part of Sunday, three evening concerts, and a "monster" piano performance as the final event.

"Some of the most talented music students will be on campus," Dr. Taylor said. "A special performance by grade school students will be held in Fulbright Auditorium, from 3 to 5 p.m., on Saturday," he added.

The highlight of the convention will be the All-State Piano Ensemble performance, set for Tuesday, noon, October 22. Approximately 120 students will be on the stage, using up to 25 pianos in each selection.

Music lovers may enjoy evening entertainment, Saturday through Monday. These performances, which are free and open to the public, will be held in Duncan Recital Hall at 8 p.m. Additional information on the KMTA convention or the evening concerts, is available from Dr. Taylor at (606) 783-2405.

Women in leadership workshops

A series of local and regional workshops to give women in Eastern Kentucky the opportunity to enhance skills; network with other women working to improve their communities; share skills and experiences with other women; and become eligible for partial scholarships to other leadership programs will begin October 18 by East Kentucky Women in Leadership.

The first of the series of regional workshops will be held in Hazard at the Gorman Center. Topics will include: Feeling good without feeling overwhelmed. A discussion of ways that you can feel better about yourself, develop more self-confidence and deal with the problem of having to be a super woman-having to be everything to everybody.

*Pressing your agenda without throwing your weight around, how to be effective in bringing about change in your workplace, your home and your community—without turning people off and without appearing to be overly aggressive!

*Charting your future: Move your dreams into action. How to determine your goals and develop a plan to achieve them: how to feel good about taking risks.

*To your health! A discussion of women's health issues, including stress management.

To register send registration form and check for $10, made payable to Kentucky Council of ADDS; or to Judy J. Lewis, Gorman Center, HCC 601 Main Street, Hazard, KY 41701.

There will be a limited number of scholarships available to women residing in Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties. For more information call: Darlene Starnes, Appalachian Women's Consortium, 606-886-8572.

Voters get to decide important issues

Voters now have an opportunity to discover which issues Kentucky's congressional candidates consider most important.

Secretary of State John Y. Brown III announced recently his office has established an Internet Home Page on the World Wide Web that will provide detailed, issue-oriented discussions written by nearly all of Kentucky's candidates for the U.S. Senate and the U.S. House of Representatives.

The "Kentucky Congressional Candidates' Profiles," located at www.state.ky.us/agencies/sos, is a non-partisan information service provided by Brown's office.

"Around election time, we're bombarded with sound bites and bumper stickers, attack ads and slo-ganeeing, but voters really have very little access to in-depth discussion of issues straight from the candidates themselves," Brown said. "We wanted to use today's technology to give voters insight into the candidates' political priorities."

The candidates were asked to submit 100 to 150 word narratives on five issues they consider most important to Kentucky and the nation. They were offered several suggestions, including the Food and Drug Administration's regulation of tobacco, balancing the federal budget and welfare reform, to name a few.

Voters may find their selection of topics as interesting as their discussions of the issues.

All candidates listed on the ballot for the U.S. Congressional races responded to Brown's invitation with the exception of Edward Whitfield, a Republican candidate in Kentucky's First District, and Harold "Hal" Rogers, a Republican candidate in the Fifth District.

In addition to the essays, the web site features candidates' pictures and biographies. It is available through election day, November 5.

"I encourage the media and anyone who finds the site helpful to tell others about where it is located," Brown said. "Spread the word. In today's political climate, voters must take the initiative to discover which candidates best reflect their own views."

Sign on utility poles dangerous to electric company workers

With political campaigns in full swing, Dave Lang, Kentucky Region manager for American Electric Power, says political posters and other types of signs mounted on utility poles can be dangerous for electric company employees.

"Our line mechanics often must use special climbers to ascend poles," he says. "These climbers have sharp steel gaffs, or points, about an inch and a half long at the bottom. With a climber strapped to each leg, the line mechanic actually drives the gaff deep into the wood with each step he or she takes up the pole. The gaff must support the worker's entire weight as it digs into the wood of the pole."

The danger, according to Lang, comes from nails, staples and tacks that are used to hold posters and signs to utility poles.

"When a climber encounters a hard obstruction, such as a staple, nail or tack, even the most skilled and experienced worker is in danger of falling. When the gaff fails to hold properly, it may 'cut out' of the pole and cause the worker to fall."

Lang adds that the danger is especially acute at night when it is difficult to see any obstructions in the pole.

Line mechanics sometimes need to climb at night in order to restore power after an interruption of service. Signs also pose another threat to workers. The fasteners used for signs and posters mounted on utility poles also have sharp edges and can tear holes in the protective rubber gloves and sleeve covers that line workers wear to protect themselves from electric shock hazards. Any hole in a line worker's protective equipment exposes him or her to an electrical hazard.

Lang points out that many people are aware of the danger to AEP workers and refrain from posting signs on utility poles. But others persist in the dangerous practice.

"We're asking everyone not to post signs on utility poles. Whatever the message, it's not worth endangering the safety of utility workers."

Corps of Engineers' fall fire prevention reminder

The Kentucky Fall Forest Fire Season began on October 1 and will run through December 15 of this year. During this period, the Corps of Engineers at Paintsville Lake is urging all park visitors to be extra careful with fire when visiting the lake.

The accumulation of dry ground litter combined with strong gusty winds and a careless person could result in devastation to the lake's surrounding forestland.

It is unlawful during the fire season to set a fire to any flammable material capable of spreading a fire located in or within 150 feet of any private woodland or brush land, except between the hours of 4:30 p.m. to Midnight, local time, or when the ground is covered with snow.

The Corps reminds all visitors that at Paintsville Lake, fires are not permitted except when contained in fire grills designed especially for that purpose. When fires are built, care must be taken to completely extinguish them to prevent a restart that could get out of control. Smokers should also make sure that a cigarette is completely safe before it is discarded.

For additional information, contact the Resource Manager or Ranger at Paintsville Lake at (606) 297-6312, Monday through Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. or write to: Resource Manager, Paintsville Lake, 807 Ky. Rt. 2275, Staffordsville, Ky. 41256-9035.

Conn recognized for 20 years as a volunteer weather observer

Cooperative Weather Observers perform a great service, recording daily weather information and, Dewey Conn of Martin is one of 11,000 volunteers nationwide that perform an invaluable service.

The recruitment of weather volunteers began over two centuries ago when Thomas Jefferson began this service in 1776. To date, a gentleman from Nebraska has the longest history as a Cooperative Weather Observer with 76 years of service.

This past September, George Marshall, with the National Weather Service located in Jackson, visited Dewey Conn at his home in Garth, near Martin, to present him with his twenty-year recognition and lapel pin.

Conn, as well as the other observers, donate their time, making the National Weather Service Cooperative Observer Program one of the nation's most cost-effective government sponsored programs.

Conn's reports are sent to Louisville and are used in a wide variety of ways such as: architecture, agriculture, commerce, engineering and industry; but the reports are also extremely important in forecasting and issuing warnings by the National Weather Service. They serve a vital role in the mission of protecting life and property through warnings. The volunteers and their reports often serve as the trigger for the issuance of weather warnings.

As of October 23, Conn will be sending his reports, not to Louisville, but to the new office in Jackson. On that date Congressman Hal Rogers will be in Jackson to dedicate the new facilities for the area and the public is invited to tour the new National Weather Office.

EMT class to begin

Monday, October 21 at 6 p.m., Prestonsburg Community College's Office of Continuing Education will begin a six month course for beginning Emergency Medical Technicians. This training class marks the beginning of new state guidelines for EMT training. Each new class will emphasize a deeper kind of training and a more rigorous level of work to become an EMT.

Steve Fraley, an experienced EMT instructor, is the teacher of this class. Fraley has been an instructor for PCC's EMT training program for a number of years. He brings to this new EMT training a deep understanding of the type of work which EMTs do in the field.

This class will be offered Monday and Wednesday evenings from 6-9 p.m. and will run for approximately six months. At the end of this course, there is a certification test which, when passed, will allow the trainee to become employed as an EMT.

Ambulance services, fire companies, hospitals and other health-related businesses use the services of trained EMTs. There are a number of companies which require EMTs on staff.

This class will begin Monday, October 21. Registration must be completed by Friday, October 18 at 2 p.m. The registration office for this class is in the Johnson building on the PCC campus, Room 105.

"Love" forms care of Pastoral Care Week

You might recall the "ER" television episode in which an elderly man, visibly moved as he looks as his dying wife, begins singing to her. It was a picture of how art imitates life. It was also a simple but beautiful expression of love.

Similar expressions of love take place in real life countless times and in countless ways each day in hospitals, nursing homes, counseling centers, prisons and other care institutions. Love is expressed in a look, a touch, a listening heart, in shared tears.

One sees love in the day-in day-out support offered by family and friends and in the care provided by physicians, nurses, therapists and other health professionals. There is no limit to how love can be expressed, or to the circumstance in which it is found.

Under the theme "Celebration of Love," pastoral caregivers this year are highlighting what is an essential part of caring for others and for themselves. Pastoral Care Week will take place October 21-27. Its aim is to draw attention to that which is often seen most clearly in painful situations, but which also enlightens the positive experiences.

"Love is what motivates and gives purpose to what we do. We celebrate love, not as an abstract idea, but as we experience it being expressed through people to people," says Sister Barbara, Chaplain at Our Lady of the Way Hospital. "As pastoral caregivers, we hope to represent that divine love, which we know to be always redemptive and always full of hope."

During the week-long observance, pastoral caregivers will mark the ways in which they see love lived out among people at work and in their community. Pastoral Care Week, sponsored by the Congress on Ministry in Specialized Settings (COMISS), highlights the work of pastoral caregivers in such places as hospitals, prisons, nursing homes and counseling centers. COMISS seeks to coordinate religious groups and pastoral care organizations nationwide to promote spiritual values as part of the healing process.

During the week October 21-27, Our Lady of the Way Hospital will celebrate by giving thanks for all those ministers who visit the sick in homes as well as special-ized settings.

Invaluable Service

Census bureau to gather vital job market info

The nation's basic data on employment, unemployment, and characteristics of the labor force will be collected the week of October 13, when employees from the Commerce Department's Census Bureau will be in the area to conduct the Current Population Survey (CPS). Results from the CPS will be kept confidential and will provide Americans with up-to-date information on the nation's work force.

Susan B. Hardy, director of the Census Bureau's Charlotte regional office, says, "Findings from the CPS are invaluable because they help local, state, and national policymakers make informed decisions affecting our communities."

On November 1, the Department of Labor in Washington, D.C. will release labor force statistics for the United States based on the data provided by local households collected by the Census Bureau for the October CPS.

Local households selected for the survey will receive a letter from Martha Farnsworth Riche, director of the Census Bureau, informing them of the survey. Census Bureau interviewers carry an official identification card with their photograph and signature. All individual information collected is kept strictly confidential by law and only statistical totals are published.

Combination of computer, telephone technology will improve employment services for residents

Local residents who utilize the Kentucky Department for Employment Services will receive quicker and more responsive service due to a union of computer and telephone technology now available in this area.

An automated system will enable unemployment insurance recipients to feed required information directly into a computer and obtain information by using the telephone; will enable employers to provide information on new employees by telephone rather than on paper; and will allow Employment Services staff to quickly contact applicants for job interviews.

The automated system is available in Pikeville. Floyd Countians can call the Pikeville number, (606) 433-7014, to link to the system.

Unemployment insurance recipients will be able to use the system to provide required information on continuing unemployment insurance claims. The information will be entered directly into the computer by telephone. Currently, claimants mail back a card that comes with their unemployment insurance check; this card is then manually processed in local offices.

Claimants can use the automated system to inquire about their claims' status, a process that now requires waiting to talk to a staff person.

The system will also allow employers to call and enter required information on new employees directly into the computer. This process now requires fill out a form and mailing it to Frankfort, where the information is entered into the computer by Employment Services workers.

The new technology will also advance services for job seekers one electronic step forward. Employment Services local office staff now computer-match job seekers with job openings and then notify them of interview opportunities by making individual telephone calls or sending them a card through the mail.

With the new system, as qualified applicants for specific job openings are identified by the computer, they will receive automated telephone calls with a pre-recorded message to notify them of the interview opportunity.

The system will make up to three call attempts to reach everyone in the computer-generated pool. When all attempts have been completed, a print-out of call results will allow staff to follow up with those people not contacted by automated calls.

Magistrate system not working!

My name is Clifford Hamilton, from Teaberry, Kentucky, a beautiful place on Mud Creek. The magistrate system is just not working for the people. It works for the bankers, private companies, and rich politic in power.

Mr. Owens, neither of us were born with a silver spoon in our mouths, but I'd wager since you've been elected magistrate you've had plenty of silver and gold. You have proven to be a person who represents himself and his wife's big fat paycheck. You will say or do almost anything to hang on to the taxpayers money. I quit school when I was a junior in high school to go 500 miles to Michigan to get my first public job. I made 85 cents an hour, and had to pay room and board out of mine. Doesn't hardly compare to the chicken house job does it?

The magistrate system has raised our taxes again and again. They have voted for the 911 tax for six years and now they have canceled everything until after the election. Our coal severance tax has been spent to build race tracks instead of putting good water in our homes and building good roads for our county. The Prestonsburg District has received $50,000,000 in the last five years, what has Mud Creek, and Left and Right Beaver received?

What else do these magistrates have to do to our families before we do something about it. For the first time in our lives we have got a chance to give the power to the people, instead of the politicians at the courthouse. Go vote for the commissioner system of government. If we don't make this change and get rid of the magistrate system now, then we deserve what we get.

Sincerely,
Clifford Hamilton

NEW, AGGRESSIVE LEADERSHIP FOR MARTIN

The city of Martin desperately needs new, aggressive leadership. Our city needs a team that will be primarily concerned with the growth and maintenance of our community. We need a team that will take the initiative to take aggressive measures. Measures that address such issues as our health insurance taxes, flood issues and attracting new businesses to our city. A city which is filled with potential. We feel that these are only a few issues that should be addressed and improved upon! This is just what we intend to do when you elect us as your city council on Nov. 5th.

We, as future leaders of Martin, truly feel that it is in the best interest of the citizens, to completely eliminate the taxes regarding health insurance. The elimination of this tax will save a substantial sum of money for Martin's citizens!

It is a well-known fact that our community's young adults are being forced to relocate away from their homes. This fact is due to lack of business opportunities. We, as a close knit community, must encourage the growth of our city. We, as your city council, will make attracting new businesses, both large and small, one of our highest priorities.

As a team, we feel that one of the first steps is attracting flood control. We, as potential, aggressive leaders, feel that new options must be investigated and pursued in order to solve these problems. We, as your future leaders, will seek out these new options and find new ways to eliminate old problems. Our city has sacrificed dearly for years as a result of flood conditions! We feel that now is the time to take that first step and make a change and find solutions.

We, as your future city council, will work hand-in-hand with Martin citizens in order to benefit all. We believe that old-fashion values and hard work do pay off. We hope that you, as citizens of Martin, will exercise your right to vote on Nov. 5th. We ask you to help us make a change for the better by voting for each of the following candidates for city council:

- Danny (Cook) Yates
- Thomasine (Tommie) Robinson
- Sanford A. Baca (Sammy)
- Mike Robinson
- Jeff R. Jones

(WRITE-IN) Pd. for by the candidates.

A Look At Sports

Roundball season takes first step as practice kicks off new year

Football season is almost a thing of the past with only three weeks remaining in the regular season. But Prestonsburg looks to be headed for the playoffs and their season will be extended, hopefully, four more weeks beyond the regular season.

Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

While the year has been disappointing to Allen Central and South Floyd (looking to return to the playoffs), still it has been an exciting year. The crowds have been larger this season. There seems to be much more excitement on the gridiron. We have seen a lot of improvement in the players.

But fans even around the gridiron are talking about the upcoming basketball season. The roundball season kicked off this past Tuesday when teams could officially begin practice.

A new basketball season means more work for this editor, but I am looking forward to the upcoming year. Our region will be wide open this year, and I am not overlooking Paintsville.

The Tigers are going to be strong again, but I still contend they will miss the play of Craig Ratliff and Matt Ratliff more than they will want to admit.

I like J.R. Vanhoose and Todd Tackett. They are two fine basketball players. So is the McKenzie kid. This should be a good year for the Tigers.

Coach Dave Thomas at Pikeville will have a strong unit with the return of Doug Powers. Don't overlook Prestonsburg, which is probably the most balanced team in the district. But coach Jackie Pack may have to look to some youngsters for help this season. I like Prestonsburg as my number two preseason regional team. I think they can compete against Paintsville and will match up well.

On the college scene, Alice Lloyd will have a new men's basketball coach. Although John Mills, a native of Inez, is no stranger to the coaching ranks (he is the former girls' coach at ALC), he will take the helm of the men's program for the first time since former coach Jim Stepp moved to a higher level as athletic director of the college.

Under Coach Stepp, also a native of Inez, the Eagles became one of the premier NAIA schools in the nation and one of the more successful programs. Look for Coach Mills to continue the tradition.

The girls' program will have a new coach this season. Hopefully, Stacie Moore will return to the Lady Eagles this year after missing most of last year with a knee injury. Moore

Junior Opry to entertain at RW&B Car Show

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Ahhhh fail! The hills are turning all the right colors and the autumn temperatures are enjoyable and more bearable than the summer's heat.

This time of year signals the beginning of several fall festivals around the area and the traditional Red, White and Blue Day at Martin is just one of those.

The kids will enjoy the parade, the food booths, and all the crazy characters that will go with the day. But car buffs will not be left out as the Trans Financial Bank's Ninth Annual Car Show will be held this Saturday, October 19, at the bank's Martin parking lot.

A little nostalgia will be the order of the day as car owners from far and wide descend on the city of Martin to put their vintage cars, which are their pride and joy, on display.

The Kentucky Junior Opry is not as ancient as some of the cars that will be shown. But the troupe will provide the music and entertainment from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

while fans browse through the parking lot, looking at the vintage autos. The Junior Opry has become a favorite with Floyd Countians and always draw a good gathering.

Prizes, prizes and more prizes will be given away throughout the day. Rick Caudill will be Mr. Emcee and he may do his imitation of Randy "Macho Man" Savage.

The top 50 cars will be recognized at the show, with a special class for cars circa 1980s and up. The top five cars 1980-and-up class will be included in the top 50.

The Best of Show, sponsored by Elite Insurance Agency of Pikeville, will receive a $1,000 savings bond. Trophies will be presented to winners in various categories of the show. Best Motorcycle (Prestonsburg Harley Davidson and Twin Bridge Auto Parts), Best Model Car (Wal-Mart), Best Competition (Reed Engineering), Best Graphics (Merion Signs), Best Display (TEM Equipment), Best Truck, Best Paint, Best Engine, Best Interior, Best Chevy (Music, Carter, Hughes), Best Ford (Tax Consultants), Best Modified, Best GM, Best Mopar (John Gray Pontiac, Buick), Longest Distance (First Commonwealth), Unfinished class (Hall Mart BP).

1980 and up: Best Late Model (First Commonwealth Bank), Best Mini Truck (Pappy's Mart), Best Ford (Transport Ambulance) and Best Chevy (Jenny Wiley Florist, Spud Mining Co.).

Among all the prizes to be given away will be three front-end alignments. Each car owner will receive a commemorative dash plaque. Cases of oil will be given away, as well as car show T-shirts and sweatshirts.

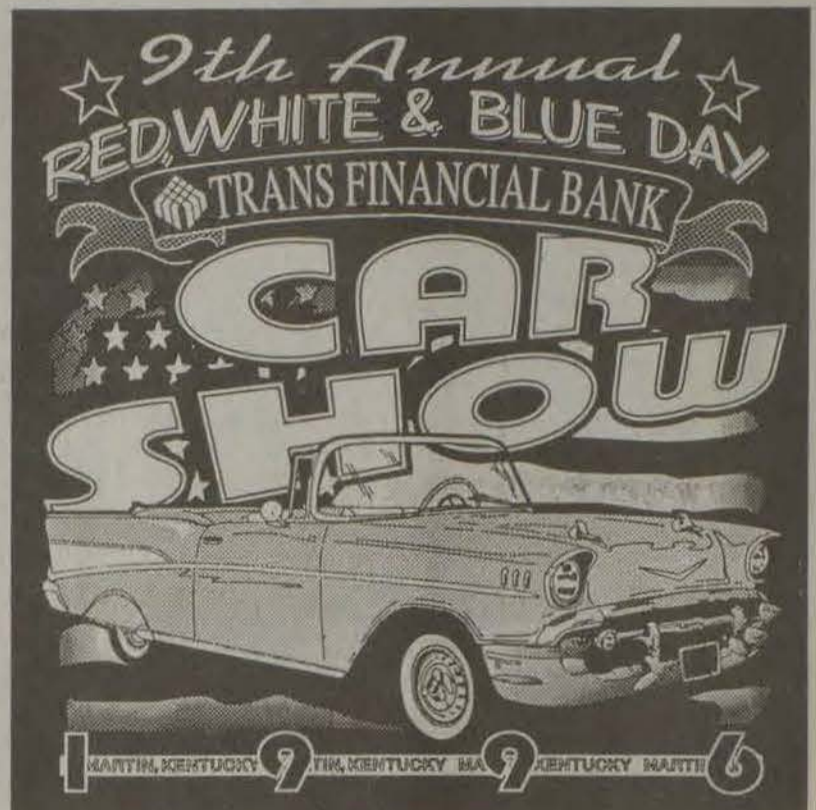

The show kicks off Friday night with a "cruise" and all car owners are invited to take part in the event that gets started from the bank parking lot around 6 p.m. There is no charge for the cruise, but each participant is asked to bring a can of food for the local food pantry. The first 50 cars entered will receive a free "Cruise" T-shirt, compliments of Tackett Furniture.

Trophies will be presented during the talent show contest. Remember the old hoola-hoop? Well, it will be revived this Friday night. Also, how about the twist? The dance will make a comeback

Friday night. Saturday morning the Allen Central Ridge Runners Club will sponsor the 5K run beginning at 8 a.m. For more information about the 5k run, call 874-9075.

For more information about the car show, call 285-6332.

South Floyd puts scare in Hazard

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The final score read: Hazard 15, South Floyd 0.

But the final count was not indicative of the game the Raiders handed the highly favored Bulldogs when Hazard invaded Brackett Field last Friday night for Parent Night.

The South defense was the star of the game on this night as they made the Bulldogs resort to special plays to pull out a district win that sent the Raiders to 1-4 in district play and 3-4 overall.

"I thought we played a heck of a game," said Raider coach Donnie Daniels. "What can you ask for? They played their hearts out. I am certainly proud of each one."

Even with a win at Elkhorn City in the season finale, it would be difficult for South Floyd to return to the playoffs this year.

It was the quickness of the Bulldogs that finally put them on the scoreboard after the two teams battled to a 0-0 tie through the first two periods. Jerome Christian took a "dazzle" play and raced 57 yards for the first score. Then, the PAT by Jon Olinger gave the Bulldogs a 7-0 lead with 6:17 to play in the third.

The play unfolded when quarter Ronnie Grigsby hit Olinger with a pass for a pickup of 8 yards. But Olinger then lateraled the ball to Christian, who broke down the sideline using his speed to outrun the Raider pursuers. The play almost did not materialize as Christian came close to fumbling the ball.

Neither team, with two possessions each could move the football in the first quarter. The Raiders took over the football to start the second period at their own 11-yard line. Quarterback Nick Compton orchestrated a drive that put the ball at the Bulldogs' 26-yard line when the drive stalled out. Compton had completions of 10, 10 and 8 to move the ball into Bulldog territory. A fumble, which was recovered by the Raiders, went for a long loss of yardage on a first-and-ten play. Compton tried to pass his team to the goal line. He hit Justin Holbrook with a pass at the 4-yard line, but the official ruled he had went out of bounds with the ball and called the catch incomplete.

"I felt that Justin had one foot inbounds when he made the catch," Coach Daniels said. "But that's the way calls go sometimes."

Hazard, one of the quickest teams in the mountains, found running against the defense of South Floyd very difficult. Grigsby found the secondary just as strong.

(See South Floyd, B2)

Playoff hopes grow dimmer for Raiders

On the sweep

McCreary Central shocks Allen Central Rebels, 23-14

Rebels drop fifth straight; fall to 2-5

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

McCreary Central, who is not playing for a district title this season, shocked 2A Allen Central this past Friday night on the Rebels' home field with a 23-14 win. The defeat left the Rebels wondering what it would take to get back to their winning ways.

Allen Central started the season with impressive wins in their first two games, but since has dropped their last five to fall 2-5 on the season.

It was a game that the Raiders dominated in the second half. The Raiders kept the Rebels out of the end zone after giving up 14 first-half points. The Rebels led 14-12 at the half.

It was a game of frustration for Allen Central in the second half as they were hit hard by penalties. In the second period, senior linebacker and running back Mike Goble was flagged for a personal foul and ejected from the game. Goble will be suspended for the Rebels' next game at South Floyd this Friday night.

Penalties negated the good things the Rebels did in the third and fourth period as they just could not get any ball movement.

The Rebels took a 8-0 lead in the first period on a pass play action from quarterback Shane Blackburn to Jesse Hall. The play covered 44 yards. Gordon Reeves ran the conversion play.

The Raiders came back to put six on the scoreboard for an 8-6 game before the first quarter ended.

In the second period, Craig Crase carried the football into the end zone from 8-yards out to stake the Rebels to a 14-6 lead; but McCreary Central scored just before the half and trailed 14-12 behind the Rebels.

In the third quarter, McCreary Central kicked a 30-yard field goal to take a scant 15-14 lead. The Rebels looked as if they were going to strike again when Gordon Reeves went on a 57-yard jaunt. But, again, penalties hurt the Rebels in the drive.

In the fourth, it was all McCreary Central as they scored to make it a 23-14 game and did not give up anything to the Rebs in the final quarter.

Gordon Reeves led the Allen Central ground game with 212

Cowboys end season with two victories

The Allen Central Flag Football season ended this past weekend with the Cowboys pulling in two victories to close out the season. The league's awards ceremonies will be held this coming Sunday afternoon at 2, weather permitting.

"If it rains, we may have to have it somewhere inside or change the day," said league director Terry Sizemore. "But right now, it will be at the Allen Central field at two."

In last Sunday's first game, the Cowboys were an easy winner over the Browns in a high-scoring 49-28 romp over the Browns. In the day's second contest, the Cowboys had an easy time against the Packers in a 28-7 decision.

Players in the league will receive trophies for their participation.

Allen Central competes in Berea Inv.

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Dewey Jamerson took his Allen Central cross-country team to Berea over the weekend and several personal bests were set by the Rebels.

Four different classes of races were held at Berea, including an elementary division for sixth grade-and-under participants.

Nicholas Jamerson placed 22nd out of 44 runners with a time of 6:23.98, while Blake Mullins placed 29th overall at 6:47.83.

Varsity squads can only have seven runners, so a reserve class was held for runners who didn't make the varsity list. Allen Central had one runner, Scott Yates, who placed 65th at 30:50.21.

"I think he may have gotten lost," said the Allen Central coach.

Out of 102 runners who took part in the girls' class, Crystal Martin finished 85th overall in 28:03.23. Annie Harvey placed 87th overall at 28:11.27 and Dreamia Isaac was 89th with a time of 28:48.20. Brook Mullins and Yvinda Turner competed but did not finish the race.

"Brook got hurt and had to drop out," Jamerson said. "Yvinda is new to cross-country and just went out too hard to start and got tired."

In the boys' varsity, John Goble ran for the first time under 20 with a time of 19:34.95 for 59th place out of 145 runners. Chris Damron placed 85th and Jay Harvey 88th, overall.

Jackie Owens posted a time of 20:57.05, Nathan Goble, 21:26.35 and Israel Shepherd, 23:03.15.

South Floyd

South Floyd had excellent field position when Hazard was forced to punt the football. On the kick, the ball went straight up and landed at the Bulldogs' 36-yard line where the Raiders took over. But it seemed to be a different Hazard defense that came on the field in the third. South Floyd had trouble moving the ball and could pick up only two yards in the drive.

Hazard then scored three plays after the Raiders punted the ball away.

After the ensuing kickoff, South Floyd appeared poised to strike when the Raiders moved the ball to the Bulldogs' 23-yard line on a second and one play. Compton chose to go to the air. He spotted Scotty Johnson in the end zone, but the ball was picked off by Christian to end the drive that started at the South Floyd 20.

Late in the fourth period, the Bulldogs put the game away when Payne Olinger raced 31 yards for a touchdown with 2:27 to play, and Grigsby hit Jon Olinger with the conversion pass for a 15-0 game.

On the series of plays, South Floyd quarterback Nick Compton was injured and helped off the field.

The Raiders had one last possession but could not move the football.

Ketrin Mays rushed for 77 yard for the Raiders on 21 attempts.

Rebels

yards rushing. Craig Crase had his season's best with 162 yards rushing on 12 carries. Josh Reeves rushed for 55 yards on 12 attempts.

Blackburn completed four passes for 89 yards passing. Hall had the 44-yard reception. Steve Hamilton had one catch for 38 yards and Matt Varney made two catches for 7 yards.

Gordon Reeves had 18 tackles and three quarterback sacks for the Allen Central defense. Josh Reeves had 15 tackles and Phillip Robinson had 11. Brady Scott finished with 10 tackles and two sacks with freshman Rodney Bentley getting nine tackles.

Allen Central (2-5) will be on the road for their final three games of the '96 season. After a trip to South Floyd this Friday night, they will have road engagements at Breathitt County and Whitesburg. The Rebels are 1-3 in district play.

A Look At Sports

was the Lady Eagles' leading scorer until she went down early in the year.

Coach Roy Cutwright will dress a strong Pikeville College team this year and the Bears could very well be in the thick of a national tournament come March. I am looking forward to attending some of the Bears' home games.

The grade school season is just three weeks away from beginning and I am constantly asked who I think will be the top teams in the county. I sort of like to keep those things to myself, so no one will think I am favoring one team more than another. But Melvin looks to be very strong this year. Osborne will be a top county contender, as well as the Osborne Eagles. So, if McDowell comes through, Left Beaver will be a hotbed of basketball.

Betsy Layne Elementary has to be placed up there with Chase Gibson, who is the top grade schooler. I really like this kid. But I like all of the players on every team, even the little fellow on the end who doesn't get that much playing time.

Girls' basketball in the grade school ranks will find the Duff Lady Bulldogs a team to reckon with. Martin is going to be very strong, as will the Adams' Lady Blackcats.

Back to the high school ranks and girls' basketball. Wow! What a season this is going to be. It will be one knock-down, drag-out affair. Three of the county teams should be ranked in the top five in the region. And if coach Henry Webb can get some consistent play from some young players, the Lady Raiders of South Floyd could make some noise.

But when Allen Central, Betsy Layne and Prestonsburg face each other on the hardwood, those will be very exciting and interesting games.

Coach Bonita Compton will be able to put the best five players on the floor and, this year she will have a bench that can contribute.

Bill Newsome's Betsy Layne Lady Cats return three of the premier players in the region and a center that will return with a lot of experience from last year.

Coach Harold Tackett's Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats will be clawing for another district title and this team is going to be very strong.

So, it is all stacking up to be one of the better years in girls' basketball.

The crowds have grown and the popularity of girls' basketball is on the upswing.

Well, we could talk and write more about the upcoming year and we haven't even mentioned the Kentucky Wildcats.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

Jonathan Paige totaled 49 yards and Chris Isaac had 42 yards on just four carries.

Compton completed six of 12 passes for 59 yards with Mark Smallwood on the receiving end of three catches for 19 yards. Heath Hall had two catches for 19 yards and Mays had two for 23.

Penalty flags were few during the game South Floyd being penalized three times for 25 yards. Hazard was flagged six times for 60 yards. South Floyd had one turnover, an interception.

Defensively, Compton had four first hits, four assists and one interception to lead the Raiders. Scotty Johnson had four first hits and two assists. Jonathan Paige had five tackles, all first hits, and Travis Johnson had five tackles.

Christian had 10 carries for Hazard for 115 yards. Olinger rushed for 77 on 10 carries. The Bulldogs totaled 266 yards on the ground and had 290 for the game.

Grigsby completed two passes for 24 yards.

South Floyd (3-4) will host the Allen Central Rebels in its annual Red, White and Blue Bowl this Friday night at South Floyd.

The Raiders will travel to Louisville Beth Haven in two weeks and return to close out the season at Elkhorn City on November 1.

RAIDER NOTE:

Compton was helped off the field in the fourth quarter when he was hurt playing on the defensive side of the football. But, according to Coach Daniels, he suffered just some bruised ribs and had his breath knocked out of him. Compton will be ready for the Allen Central game Friday night.

at first," said Coach Hager. "They would score and then we would score."

Phelps led at the half 14-8 on a 40-yard run by Moses, who also ran the two-point conversion.

In the third period, Phelps scored early for a 20-8 game when Moses scored from 10-yards out. On the ensuing kickoff to Betsy Layne, the line drive kick bounced off the helmet of a Bobcat and Phelps recovered the football. Matthew Robinette ran the ball into the end zone from 42 yards out and the Hornets were up 26-8.

Hamilton got the Bobcats' second touchdown in the fourth quarter on a 1-yard plunge into the end zone and Koger added the conversion. The Hornets got the final score when Moses scored his fourth TD of the game on a 53-yard run. The conversion play from quarterback Kyle Vanhorn to Luke McCoy made it a 34-16 game.

"I thought we moved the football well," said Coach Hager. "We just didn't take care of the football. We had three fumbles in the game and they scored off each of them."

Coach Hager thinks his team has matured and has played their best football in recent weeks.

"I feel like the last three to four weeks we have played very good," he said. "Maybe not really as well as we could, but we have played very good. Against Phelps, it was just a matter of poor tackling."

Defensively for Betsy Layne, Clifton Boyd and Cody Cepelchea had six tackles, as did Russell Hall. Darren Reynolds finished with five. Matt Rose and Chad Case each had five tackles.

Betsy Layne (2-5) will host McCreary Central (3-4) this Friday night. McCreary Central defeated Allen Central last week.

Berea

posted their fastest times," the Allen Central coach said. "It also was the first time our girls ran a 5,000-meter course (normal is 4,000)."

Allen Central hosted its own cross-country meets this year at Camp Shawnee, and the course has been listed as one of the toughest around. Coach Jamerson thinks this course has prepared his team better for the upcoming regionals.

"In their mind, they are not worried about the hill and they don't have to hold back when they race somewhere else," he said. "At Camp Shawnee, they don't go as hard at first because of the hill they have to go up."

"I told them that if they got their time down to the 20s at Camp Shawnee or the mid 17s to low 18s we would do well in the regionals."

Allen Central will travel to Oneida Baptist Institute for the regionals, if the site isn't changed.

"Some of the coaches around the region have written saying the OBI course is unsafe," said Jamerson. "So I don't know, I don't know what will happen."

Jamerson said he would like to host the regional at Camp Shawnee and made indication of that to the officials in charge.

In the Berea meet, Allen Central placed 14th overall, an improvement of three places from last year.

"Last year we had over 800 points, this year we scored 433," Jamerson said. "That is a big improvement of over 400 points."

"I was very pleased with our efforts at Berea. We ran faster than we had all year. I was disappointed with our placement but when we can have runners that knock off as much as two minutes off their time, you have to be pleased with that."

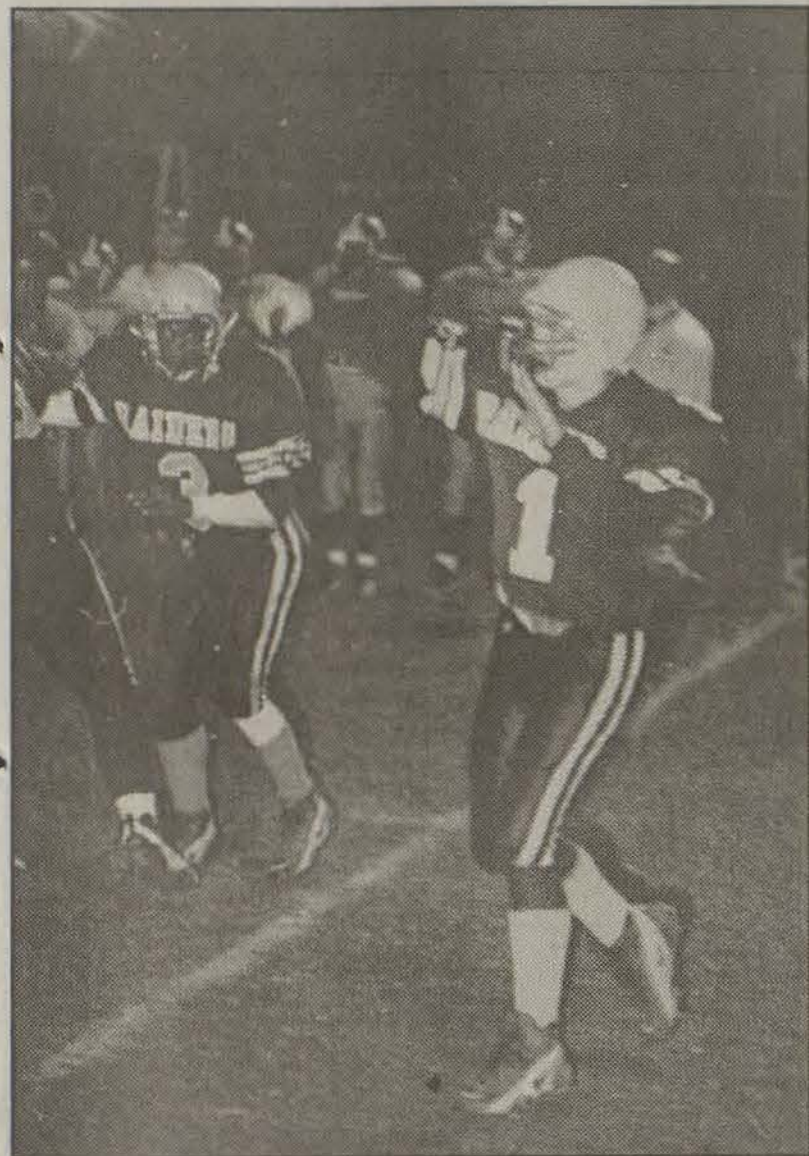

Allen Central will host its own invitational, the Wright Lumber Rebel Classic, on Saturday, October 18, beginning a 2 p.m. at Camp Shawnee.

Martin Lady Flashes romp past Paintsville, edge Magoffin County

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Coach Jimmy Hopkins' Martin Middle School Lady Flashes had little trouble in their 56-22 win over Paintsville last Monday night. But the Lady Flashes had to hold off a good Magoffin County team in posting a 44-39 victory at Maytown's gym last Thursday evening.

Angie Green tossed in a game high 20 points to lead Martin over Paintsville. Shannon Sizemore added 11 points and Barb Prater scored seven.

Coleman led Paintsville with her 12 points. Majakey netted six and Meek scored four.

Martin led 16-7 after the first quarter behind the scoring of Rebecca Smith, who scored all six of her points in the first period. Prater and Sizemore each had four points in the opening quarter. Coleman scored five of the Paintsville seven points in the first period on a field goal and three-point basket. Majakey had the other two points. It was 32-9 at the half.

Green was held scoreless in the first quarter, but came out hot in the second period, scoring nine points on three baskets and a three-pointer. She hit a trey in the third period and buried two three-point baskets in the fourth. Prater had a three-pointer in the third quarter as did Jennifer Risner. Risner finished with five points.

Sarah Adkins scored two points and Brandi Moore had three for Martin.

In the "B" team game, Martin fell to Paintsville 38-34 as Wills and Stauffer combined for 24 points for Paintsville. Leann Brown led Martin with 12 points, including two three-point baskets. Jaclyn Brown netted eight points and Megan Hyden finished with five. Jaclyn Martin added three points with Tabitha Collins and Jessica Isaac scoring two each. Jeni Spurlock and Dee Mullins had one apiece.

Martin faced Magoffin County for the second time this season, but had to hold on for the five-point victory at home at the Maytown gym.

It was a balanced scoring attack for Martin that produced the 44-39 victory. Rebecca Smith led Martin with her 11 points and Barb Prater netted nine points. Shannon Sizemore tossed in six.

Lovely led all scorers with 23 points for Magoffin County. Montgomery had six points.

Martin raced out to a 12-5 first quarter lead on a trey from Prater and Smith's four points. But Magoffin County went on a 16-8 spurt in the second period to lead 21-20 at the half. Lovely, with only three first quarter points, got the wake-up call in the second quarter, burying three three-point baskets and scoring 12 points to bring her team back to lead by one at the half.

Lovely hit a trey in the third quarter and had her fourth of the game in fourth period.

Smith scored six points in the third stanza to lead Martin in a 13-9 spurt that gave them a 33-30 lead after three quarters. But the Lady Flashes had to perform at the free throw line in the fourth quarter, but they did not fair so well from the charity stripe.

Magoffin County held Martin without a field goal in the final stanza and Martin connected on 11 of 21 free throws. They shot 50 percent from the stripe, hitting 17 of 34 attempts. Magoffin County could only make four of 15 tries.

In "B" team play, Martin held on for a 28-21 win behind Leann Brown's eight points. Jaclyn Brown scored six points with Megan Hyden tossing in five. Jaclyn Martin had four points in the win. Crystal Carver added four for Martin. Ashley Hancock scored one point.

Montgomery led Magoffin with eight points. Howard scored five and Arnett had four.

TURKEY SEASON RETURNS
The 1996 spring turkey season, with its miserable rainy conditions, was enough to give any hunter an excuse for not getting their prize. But do not fear, turkey hunting is not over for this year. In fact, the sportiest season of turkey hunting is just beginning. And the best news is that this time the season will last 61 days. That's long enough to accommodate a number of good weather days.
For the next two months turkey hunters can use bow and arrow to take their birds. The target is much more difficult to hit this time of year, especially a gobbler, because they are older and they are not vulnerable to mating calls. However, unlike the spring season, fall archery season allows the taking of one turkey of either sex. The fact that this season overlaps with archery deer season makes it even more enticing to bow hunters who can go in search of Kentucky's two largest game species at the same time.

Prestonsburg Junior Varsity reels off nine consecutive wins

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

When you talk about the success of a football team, you have to include the Prestonsburg Junior Varsity team as a very successful team. The JV team is 9-1 on the season and will be closing out the regular season against Pikeville this coming Monday night.

The junior varsity squad, coached by Tommy Poe, James Derosset, Ted George, Brian Combs, Kyle Fitzpatrick and Seth Hyden, is one of the strongest and tastiest units ever assembled at Prestonsburg.

After opening the season at Belfry with a loss, the younger Blackcats made a return visit to "Death Valley" and avenged the earlier setback with a 6-0 white-wash of the Pirates.

Since the opening day loss, the young Cats have reeled off nine consecutive wins, and they will welcome the hard-hitting Pikeville Panthers to Prestonsburg this Monday night.

"This game is sure to be filled with excitement and great football play by both programs," said Prestonsburg head coach John Derossett. "The future looks bright for Blackcat football and a lot of talented freshmen and sophomores have demonstrated their ability to perform."

Prestonsburg posted a 42-0 win over Shelby Valley's junior varsity after falling to Belfry. They dittoed that score in a win over Allen Central.

Facing as strong 4A school in Johnson Central, Prestonsburg rolled to a 30-6 win for their third straight victory. Win number four came against Paintsville in a 40-2 rout. Playing at the Hamby Athletic Complex at Pikeville, Prestonsburg was never threatened as they defeated Pikeville 30-6.

Pike Central was victim number six for the Blackcats in a 36-6 win. It was October 7 when the Blackcats returned to Belfry for the 6-0 win. Facing Paintsville for the second time, Prestonsburg rolled 44-0 over the Tigers. Last week, win number nine came at the expense of Allen Central in a 38-6 win.

The junior varsity coaching staff and Coach Derossett urges all Prestonsburg fans to turn out for this Monday night's matchup with Pikeville in a show of appreciation for the fine season the younger Blackcats have put forth.

Game time is set to kickoff at 6:30 p.m. Attending the game would be fine way to enjoy the autumn weather and to show these kids that you are behind them.

SKINNER WINS IN CALIFORNIA

Mike Skinner only led two laps of the NASCAR Craftsman Ford Truck Dealers 300 at Mesa Marin Raceway, but those were the last two laps and the ones that counted.

Even though Skinner won the battle, he is losing the war to Ron Hornaday. With only two more races left in the 1996 season, Hornaday leads the series by 86 points over Skinner. All Hornaday has to do to win the championship is finish ninth or better in the remaining two events.

TOP FOUR DRIVERS:

- 1) Hornaday, 3,551
- 2) Skinner, 3,565
- 3) Jack Sprague, 3,418
- 4) Joe Ruttman, 2,945

ALL-AMERICAN 400 GOES TO WAYNE ANDERSON

Wayne Anderson of Wildwood, Florida, son of Dick Anderson, captured the $120,675 NASCAR Slim/Jim All-Pro All-American 400 at Nashville Motor Speedway.

Mike Cope finished sixth, but poor finishes by series leader Toby Porter and Rick Crawford puts Cope back in front in the season points chase.

TOP 20 FINISHERS

- 1) Wayne Anderson

15 NEW CARS, TEAMS UNVEILED

Most car owners and sponsors have finalized their 1997 plans. Some of the new changes include: Derrike Cope in a new Winston Cup team sponsored by M&M/Mars Company.

Ky Afield

Hunting during fall season is allowed only during daylight hours and shooting turkeys while they are roosting is prohibited. All hunters must possess a valid hunting license (unless legally exempt) and a valid turkey permit. Check the turkey hunting guide for other regulations and wildlife check stations.

DRAW YOUR BOW

The first day of October marks the beginning of deer archery season, which closes after January 15. In most areas, the season gives hunters an extra 73 days, outside the modern gun deer season, to be out in search of deer. During this time, deer hunters must not carry firearms. Hunter orange clothing and hunter education card requirements apply to participants in this season.

In zones 1 thru 6, hunters may use their antlered/antlerless tag for any deer and their antlerless tag for antlerless deer only. In zone 7, the antlered/antlerless tag must be used for antlered deer only and the antlerless tag must not be used in this zone. All hunters not on their own land or the land where they reside must carry deer tags. Revenues from hunting licenses and tags fund the programs that conserve these wildlife resources.

COLLECT NOW FOR WINTER BIRD WATCHING

Bird watching opportunities do not end when the temperatures drop. But if you want to keep the singing beauties around your yard, it's time to collect wild fruits and seeds for winter bird food.

There are a number of fruits, ripe for picking now, that can be used as bird food in the winter. "Now is a good time to collect mulberries and elderberries," says Sherri Evans, native plant specialist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "Also, dogwood berries will attract birds. Don't look just for the flowering types but the grey and silky dogwood berries are good too." Some other berries to collect come from cedar trees, Hercules' club, burning bush, or wahoo, persimmon and paw paw.

According to Evans, you don't want to dry the berries. "Keep them moist. Package berries in your freezer and take them out as needed."

Mike Wallace's new ride will be the no. 91 sponsored by Spam, and owned by Pro-tech Motorsports.

Ken Schrader will be joining Andy Petree's Skoal Racing team.

Ricky Craven has signed a multi-year contract with Rick Hendricks. He will replace Schrader in the no. 25 Chevrolet Monte Carlo.

This announcement comes less than three months after Craven and Larry Hedrick had announced a partnership. But at a press conference at North Wilkesboro, Hedrick said the partnership deal never materialized, and Steve Grissom would be his driver for the 1997 season.

Dale Jarrett will have White Rain Shampoo as the 1997 sponsor on his no. 32 Busch Grand National car.

Jarrett's 1996 sponsor, Band-Aid, will be on Michael Waltrip's Busch Series Ford Thunderbird next year.

Felix Sabates has purchased a major interest in Joe Nemechek's team. Team Sabco will field three entries next year. They include Nemechek, Robby Gordon, and Wally Dallenbach. Sabates will break with Pontiac and use Chevrolets for 1997.

Seeds are also good to collect, and that brings up a whole other food source. Right now you can collect seeds from coneflowers, black-eyed Susans, partridge pea and thistle. Sunflowers, which are especially nutritious, are still blooming, but look to collect from them in October. Remember that pinecones and acorns are seeds, too. Basically, the rule in seed collecting is gather what you can find.

- 9) Ward Burton, 1
- 10) Derrike Cope, 1

WHO'S HEADED WHERE?

They affectionately call it the "silly season." It's that time of year when rumors of driver, sponsor, and team changes circle the track faster than a lap at Bristol. With only three races remaining before Doyle Ford waves his final checkered flag of 1996, a great deal of attention is being focused upon who will be behind what wheel when he waves his first green flag in 1997.

Back in early September, NASCAR's silly season got into full swing when John Andretti and Jeremy Mayfield switched rides. Since that time, rumors of who's going where have filled the garage area. Finally, pieces of the puzzle are coming together as teams, drivers, and crew members are busy making plans for the 1997 season. Let's take a look at some of the more prominent changes that are official at this time.

Derrick Cope is leaving the racing stables of Bobby Allison and his Badcock Furnishings Ford for a new team in '97. He will pilot the #36 Skittles Pontiac out of the JM Motorsports shops.

One of the more celebrated changes occur in the three-car operation of Rick Hendrick. Ricky Craven will be moving in to become a teammate of Jeff Gordon and Terry Labonte for '97 in the #25 Budweiser Chevrolet. Ken Schrader, who piloted the 25 car for several seasons now, will be moving over to the Andy Petree owned #33 Skoal Racing Chevrolet.

Two drivers currently without rides on NASCAR senior circuit do indeed have rides for next year. Steve Grissom will find himself behind the wheel of the #41 Kodiak Chevy which is owned by Larry Hedrick, while Mike Wallace heads up a new team in the form of the Neal Motorsports #91 Spam Ford.

Speaking of Spam, Lake Speed will have a new sponsor in '97. His sponsor will be the University of Nebraska. Yes, that's right. Speed will go from Spam to a Cornhusker.

Rick Mast will replace Morgan Shepherd in the #75 Remington Arms Ford and Robert Pressley moves over to the #29 Cartoon Network Chevrolet.

Several drivers will be making their home in NASCAR Winston Cup racing for the first time in '97. Both David Green and Chad Little will move their entire Busch Series operations up to Winston Cup. Green will drive the #95 Caterpillar Chevy, while Little will circle the track in the #23 John Deere Pontiac.

IndyCar standout, Robby Gordon leaves the world of open-wheel racing for a seat in the Felix Sabates owned #42 Coors Light Pontiac in 1997. NASCAR Craftsman Truck Series champion, Mike Skinner will become part of a two-car team owned by Richard Childress. His car will be the #31 NAPA Chevrolet and he becomes a teammate of the seven-time champion, Dale Earnhardt.

Although a sponsor has not been named, Harry Ranier has received backing from Ford to provide a seat for rising new star, Tony Stewart in the Ranier/Walsh Racing Ford.

These are just a few of the headlines with more deals expected to be announced in the near future.

This week, the NASCAR Winston Cup Series finds itself in Rockingham for the running of the AC-Delco 400. Aside from the race itself, this weekend also provides pit crews with some media attention as they will be battling it out in the annual Unocal 76-Rockingham Pit Crew Championship.

Last year's winners, the Lowe's Racing Ford team shocked the racing world with their victory in the exciting competition.

Sunday's race will be televised by TNN with action getting underway at 12:30 p.m.

Bassin' with Pros

Adjusting to conditions critical for bass pros

Some days, it seems, professional bass tournament angler Denny Brauer spends most of his time changing lures, techniques, or locations as he tries to catch fish.

"We don't like to refer to it as 'changing,'" laughs Brauer, a veteran competitor and member of the Evinrude Outboards Pro Staff. "Instead, we like to stay we're adjusting."

"We're searching for the right combination of factors that will let us catch bass, and on some days those factors change often and quickly. There are times when you can go out in the morning and fish the same lure in basically the same place all day and catch bass continually, but there are far more days when something changes and you have to figure out what has changed and adjust to it."

"Among the changes that affect bass the quickest," says Brauer, "are weather factors."

"Most bass fishermen have experienced a change as simple as the sun rising," explains Brauer. "You can go to a point or perhaps a grassbed before the sun comes up and catch bass on a topwater lure, but once the sun climbs above the horizon, the bass stop biting."

"You have to determine if the bass have simply gone to the bottom where you might catch them with a different lure like a jig or plastic worm, or if they have completely left the area. This is what we mean by adjusting. Something has changed, and you need to change with it."

The Evinrude pro admits not all changes are as easy to determine as a rising sun that brightens the water.

"When the fish suddenly stop biting and you're having trouble figuring out why, you may need to sit down for a few moments and analyze the situation," Brauer advises. "Has wind created a ripple on the water, have the clouds moved, is the temperature rising or falling? Look around carefully because something will give you a clue."

Before moving to a totally new location, Brauer says an angler's first adjustment should be to try a different lure. Switching from a mid-running crankbait, for example, to a bottom-bumping jig or plastic worm may be all that's needed. Likewise, changing retrieves from fast to slow could trigger action again.

"You can definitely wear a spot out if you fish it long enough and catch a lot of bass there," cautions the Missouri angler.

"Even though you may be releasing everything you catch, the school of bass can get tuned in to your lure and your retrieve. Sometimes they just stop biting that particular lure, but other times they will actually leave that area."

When changing lures and retrieves doesn't help, then it usually means the bass have left and you need to leave, too.

"The important thing to remember when you leave bass that have been biting is to look for another spot with similar conditions. Very often, you'll find fish there that will bite. And, after a while, you can return to your original spot and often start catching those bass again, too. It's all part of adjusting to changing conditions."

What's not to like about a new on-campus basketball arena at UK if... ?

A new on-campus basketball arena at the University of Kentucky. From a fan's perspective, what's not to like about Rick Pitino's trial balloon if it...

- Is financed by private money.
- Creates more seating capacity for more of UK's clamorous fans.
- Opens the possibility for a new streamlined system for ticket distribution.
- Offers private boxes, like those enjoyed by UofL at Freedom Hall, so UK can harvest revenues from those who can afford to pay and perhaps lessen the tuition squeeze on students and parents who cannot.
- Wishful thinking? Yes.
- Offers better parking facilities. UK keeps all revenue.
- Offers better atmosphere. A handsome arena design (as opposed to Rupp Arena's cardboard box-look with exposed plumbing inside).
- Is named in honor of Kentucky faithful fans and not Rick Pitino.

What's not to like about the new arena proposal? Unless: 1. You or your best friend is a lower arena season ticket holder at Rupp Arena. 2. Your livelihood depends on one of the 50 stores and shops in the Lexington Center complex. 3. You are employed by the Lexington Civic Center.

Will a new on-campus arena happen? Guess here is, not in this century. However, Rick Pitino has proven himself to be a magic man. Meanwhile, UK will use its feasibility study as leverage to have more say in when and how Rupp Arena profits can be shared with the university, and how it will be available to Pitino's team for practices. Stay tuned.

'BLUEGRASS ARENA'?

In an interview with Dick Vitale for the hoops analysts annual College Basketball magazine, Rick Pitino gave an intriguing response to one of Vitale's inane questions.

Q: ... is it true that a planned new arena will be called Pitino Palace?

Answer: There isn't even a hint of truth to that. A new arena is going to be built, but I would never allow it to be named after me. It's going to be Championship Arena or Bluegrass; it'll be a generic name, not named after me or, for that matter, any other coach."

NEW ARENA FALL-OUT

Interesting and predictable, the gathering storm in Lexington as the new arena idea came down on city officials like a 'Wildcats' 1-2-2 all-court trap defense. Councilmen and Mayor Pam Miller grumbled that the school was not acting in the city's best interests. And UK was not keeping faith with its downtown partners.

Wonder if these are some of the same downtown partners who raise prices on everything from hotel rooms and parking to food and souvenirs during Boys State High School Basketball Tournament week?

By some accounts, since the Wildcats moved into Rupp Arena in 1976, UK administrators have grown increasingly disenchanted with the arrangement while Civic Center officials reportedly have taken a stance of "take it or leave it" when UK basketball has sought special treatment as the Arena's prime tenant.

As we might expect when such high roller projects become public, the proposed new arena has produced bits of rancor and humor too. Last week, Lexington Councilman Roy Durbin weighed in with a couple of gems.

"(Rick Pitino) is not a legend yet. He hasn't won 800 games," Durbin told the Herald-Leader, referring to Adolph Rupp's 876 coaching victories.

It was Durbin's dabble in understatement that provided humor, however. "Now we know where their priorities are. It's not academics, it's basketball."

RICK PITINO SPIN

Whatever happens or does not happen with the on-campus arena proposal, the loud buzz about it amounts to the latest in skillful spin doctoring by Rick Pitino.

It has put basketball on the front pages of newspapers in early autumn just when a batch of potential recruits arrives to visit.

Da Coach has harvested early commitments from two recruits already. And the list of invitations accepted to Big Blue Madness this weekend by other school boy stars is unprecedented even in Kentucky's considerable basketball history.

ANTHONY PICKS UK

Good news for UK basketball fans is a signee and Myron Anthony, a 6-6, 210-pound small forward from Neptune Beach, Florida, near Jacksonville, verbally committed to Kentucky last week.

The better news is the youngster who averaged 25 points and 11 rebounds in his junior year, is academically qualified to participate as a freshman.

Perhaps the best news is Anthony chose UK because of its winning tradition and its basketball manic fans. And his sights are set on earning 20-25 minutes playing time as a freshman.

Postscript: Amusing, Anthony's reaction to his being rated 60th among the country's seniors by guru Bob Gibbons. "Half those guys doing those ratings haven't played basketball and can't rate you anyway," he told The Courier-Journal.

Indeed, a year ago, McCrady, who visited UK last weekend, was not rated among Gibbons' top 500. Now the 6-8 forward is rated in the top 10.

READERS (RIGHT) WRITE

Ted W. Tye of Jellico, Tennessee writes: "People want to know what's wrong with (UK) football. First it's a basketball school that tries to play football. Along with Tennessee, Kentucky's (high school) football programs are not among the better ones in the south. Teams that have won the SEC the last 30 years are Alabama, Florida, Georgia and Auburn. Tennessee and Kentucky may have won (maybe) one."

"Once upon a time when the SEC was all white, Tennessee and Kentucky were competitive. But Florida, Alabama and Georgia have large black populations from which (the state universities are now keeping at home) the best players."

COMMENT: Thank you for writing.

DIS 'N DATA

Name to scratch from the list of Bill Curry successors is Frank Beamer of Virginia Tech. Apparently Beamer, who is a VPI alum, is not interested.

The early signing period for college basketball is November 6-13. ... UK's first of two public intrasquad scrimmages is October 26 at Memorial Coliseum. An admission of $5 will be charged and fans should contact the UK ticket office as soon as possible.

THE KID'S GAME TOO

Like the usual righteous herd of sanctimonious sports media, my first reaction was that 12 years old or not, Jeff Maier stole a fly ball out and probably Game One from the Baltimore Orioles at Yankee Stadium in the American League playoffs last week.

Terrible, I said. A fan clearly interfered with play and umpire Rich Garcia looked right at it and blew the call. And the kid was made into a hero. Terrible!

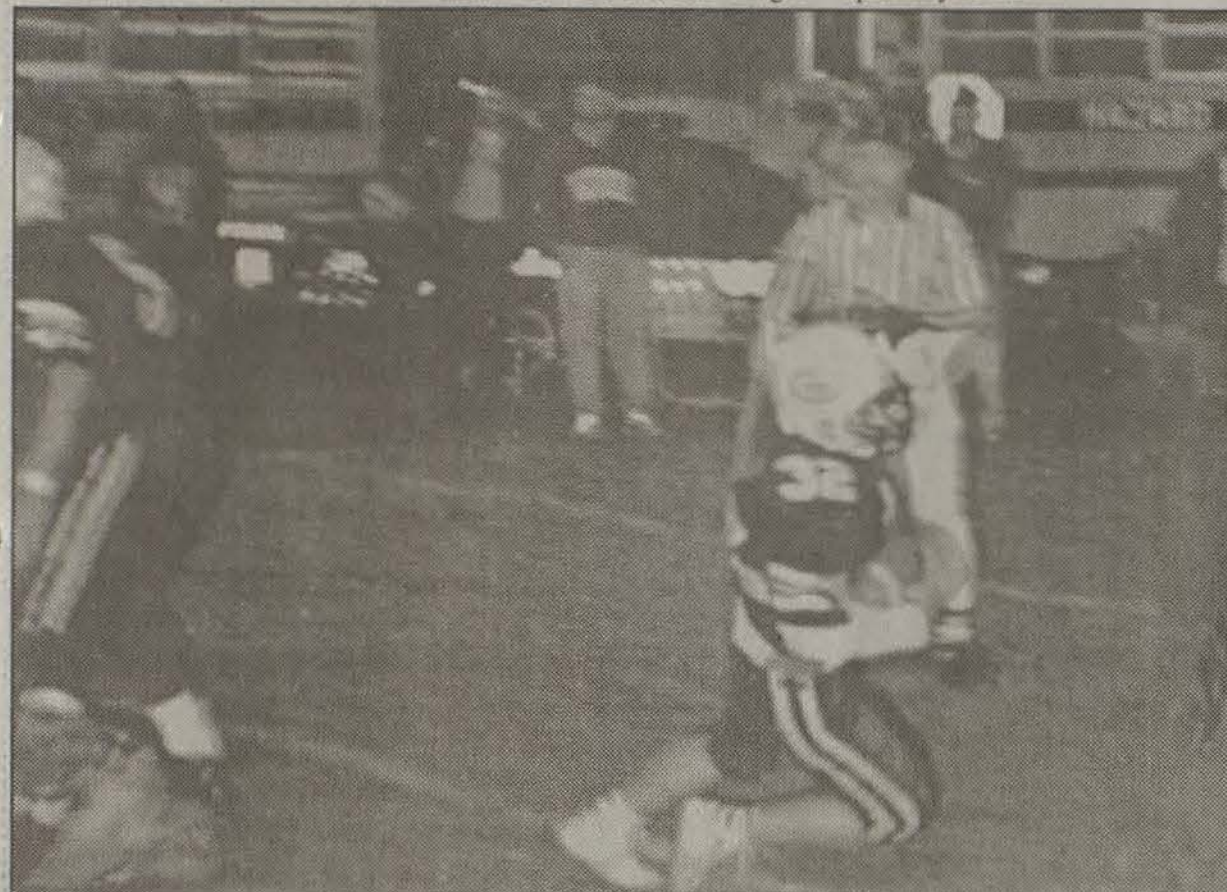

"Lighten up," a voice said. "The kid was standing there and grabbed the baseball. What would anybody do? Good for him."

How's that? What? "Good for the kid," the voice said. "It's a game. You people take all this too seriously, anyway. I think it's wonderful that a 12-year-old boy comes along and tweaks all these stuffy important people with their money and free agency and threatened work stoppage and their game. Well, it's the kid's game too. And he's going to remember this for the rest of his life. Good for him."

Ge. My wife has something here.

And so it goes.

Park employees bring new life to old school

by Pam Shingler
Contributing Writer

A pot-bellied stove sits in the middle of the room. Along the wall, closer to the high ceiling than to the oiled floor, is a chain of alphabet letters neatly lined in cursive capitals and lower case: Aa Bb Cc...

On the bookshelf near the door is an incomplete set of Compton's Encyclopedia, 1952 edition. Among other books on the shelf are several by Horatio Alger and a Manual of Composition and Rhetoric, dated 1891.

On this chilly, foggy morning with limited light coming in through the tall windows, the teacher is writing on the uneven surface of an old blackboard (a real blackboard). "Now, if you buy a piece of land and it's shaped like a rectangle and you've measured it off on the sides, how can you tell exactly how much land you've bought? Remember how we do that?"

A weak voice responds tentatively.

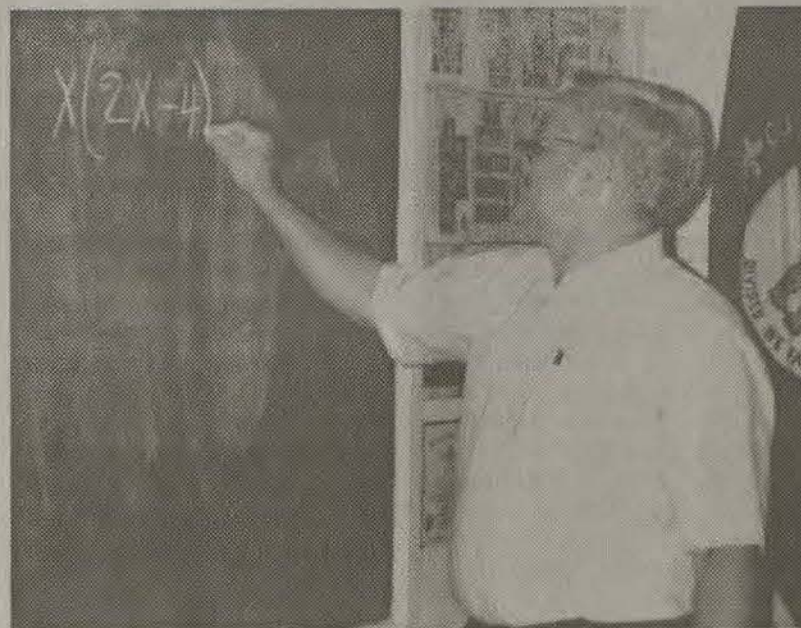

"Right! That's good." The slightly-built, gentle-mannered man seems genuinely proud of his students as he writes the formula on the board and explains each step, watching and listening for questions.

"Now, I promise you this one will be on the test in some form," he says as he erases the previous problem and launches into a lesson on finding out the length of the unknown edge of an isosceles triangle.

It's Wednesday morning in Floyd County's only operating one-room schoolhouse. But the teacher doesn't carry a switch, and the girls don't have pigtails for the boys to dip in inkwells. None of the students has to walk five miles to school.

Plus, the test the teacher refers to isn't a Friday quiz or a mid-term exam. For these students, it's the all-important GED exam, the passage of which will give them—all high school drop-outs—the equivalent of a high school diploma.

Since May, employees of Jenny

X marks the spot

Willis Little, adult education specialist with the David Adult Education Program, teaches the GED class at the state park.

Wiley State Resort Park have reported to "work" every Wednesday from 8 a.m. to noon at the old Josie D. Harkins School which was moved four years ago from its plot on Daniels Creek to the park, as part of the county's participation in Kentucky's Bicentennial Celebration.

At least once a week, the old schoolhouse, circa 1924-1987, is a living museum fulfilling its original purpose. The park employees get paid as if they are on their regular work assignment, and when they pass the GED exam, they'll get a 10 percent bonus in their pay checks and, perhaps, a better chance for career advancement.

"That first morning in May was chilly, and there was no heat," said Willis Little, an instructor with The David School, which conducts the classes at the park through its adult education program. "Some (of the employees) were enthusiastic and some were reluctant."

Little said he told the wary students a story from one of his favorite movies, "Cool Hand Luke"—the one where Paul Newman's character, Luke, gets beaten to a pulp but keeps coming back. "I asked them who won that fight," Little said. "The answer, of course, is Luke, because he doesn't give up, he keeps trying."

"Since then, it's worked out great. They're all determined to stick it out, to keep fighting until they succeed," he added. "We brought in a kerosene heater, and some mornings we've had to take the window shades down to let in

I don't speak with a forked tongue

I just can't understand it. Every time I tell somebody about some of the things that happen to me, there's always a skeptic around giving me the old "Are you telling me the truth?" look.

Honestly, regardless of how some of the things I tell sound, they're true.

one over me.

I was probably two-thirds asleep by then, but I heard her say in a low, calm voice, "Clyde, there's a snake in the floor."

Like I really did go swimming with a dead mule when I was a kid growing up in Muddy Branch. And Roger Burton really did take out his glass eye when he was in the first grade and scared fellow first grader Dave Fraley so badly that he quit school for a whole year. And, a bunch of us kids really did have a funeral for a stray cat... before it died. And we really did bury it and it really did beat us home.

How could I make up stuff like that?

Anyway, when I began telling folks at the Meade Memorial reunion the other night about a visitor Wilma and I had on Apple Day Saturday, I got that look again.

But, believing that the truth will set you free, here's my latest story.

We'd had company for lunch and after they left, I got to watching the baseball playoffs on TV. However, I soon got a little sleepy, so I turned off the TV, pushed the recliner back another couple of notches and thought I'd take a nap.

Wilma said that she thought she'd go into the living room and read, so I asked her to throw an afghan over me before she left the TV room.

She keeps several of them in a big basket behind the chair in which she'd just been sitting, so while I dozed, she tossed

I could tell by her tone that she was serious. As I righted myself in the chair and shook the sleepiness from my head, I pictured the tail of a tiny lizard or even maybe a small garter snake or something perhaps disappearing beneath the chair.

"It fell from the afghan," she said, as I looked in the direction she was pointing.

It was a black snake and at the time, it looked to be seven feet long. (Actually, its length was more like 24 or 25 inches.) There it lay, moving slightly, not trying to escape or anything, just kind of sleepy-like, as I had been only seconds before.

"Get the hoe," Wilma said, still as cool as a cucumber.

I couldn't see me chopping up our new carpet or cleaning up a bloody mess, so I said, "I can't do that."

That's when she suddenly thrust a butcher knife into my hand and said, "Use this."

I did. I pressed it flat on the snake about three inches from its head and picked it up.

I'd never handled a snake before, but I did this time. As I carried it outside, it gently wrapped itself around my arm.

We have no idea how it got into the house and just hope it came alone.

Perhaps if it hadn't fallen from the afghan before the afghan had gotten to me, last week's column would likely have been my last.

Wells family reunion held at Paintsville

The Wells Family Association Inc., descendants of Richard and Susannah (Hutchison) Wells, met at the Johnson Central High School, on Saturday August 31 and Sunday September 1.

A tour of ancestors graves were lead by Bobby Wells on Saturday evening. The historical committee provided a genealogical meeting for members on Saturday night and Sunday morning. The group was led by the committee: John B. Wells III, Bobby Wells, and Paula Wells.

Sunday's was a full day with members traveling from all across the country to attend the reunion. Members enjoyed visiting each other, plus the auction committee Ann Porter and Randy Wells, provided an auction with John Wells III, auctioneer. Proceeds from the auction will go toward setting monuments on unmarked graves of older ancestors.

Joe and Marcella Strobrough, photographers from Dayton, Ohio, took group pictures of family members.

Awards were presented to the following:

The oldest present: Gift awarded to 94-year-old Goldie A. Wells Stevens of Huntington, West Virginia. She is a daughter of the late Moses and Minta Bevins Wells.

The youngest present: Gift awarded to 6-month-old Gabriel Burchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Burchell of Van Lear. He descended from the George E. Wells and Moses Wells lines.

Largest family represented: Gift presented to the Allen Wells Family with 25 members present. This group descended from Georgie E. Wells line.

Member traveling the farthest distance: Gift presented to Virginia McMonegal from California. Virginia descended from Moses Wells line.

Door prize: Gift presented to Wanda Wells of Ashland. She is the wife of Phillip Wells, who descends from George E. and Nancy Butcher Wells line.

Drawing for cake made by Randy Wells, awarded to Pat Wamack, of Greenup, daughter of the late Bennie and Juanita Goble Wells.

1996, $500 scholarship for high school graduate: The scholarship committee presented Amanda McKenzie of West Van Lear with the 1996 scholarship. Amanda is a graduate of Johnson Central High School and will attend Prestonsburg Community College this fall. She is the daughter of Danny K. McKenzie and Susan L. Stambough McKenzie.

The Wells Family Association started the Wells Scholarship in 1995 and the first scholarship was given to Jacob Barrier Wells, the son of John B. Wells III and Terri Wells of Paintsville. Jacob is attending Vanderbilt University in Nashville, where he carried a 3.464 GPA last year.

Sunshine Lines

by Beverly Carroll

Senior citizens, your Sunshine Lines article today is part two in a series on the changes we can expect in Medicare.

As you will recall, I indicated that this series will be a "book review" of a booklet titled, "Your Guide to Understanding—An Important Message From Medicare." Last week I highlighted the "government issued document...that will require your signature."

Today, as promised, this column will provide a brief overview of the DRGs, PROs and HINNs. It is doubtful that there is enough space to cover all three in a reasonable amount of detail this week. This is important stuff we need to know.

First let's discuss the DRGs. While you are a Medicare patient you have rights. "You have the right to receive all the hospital care that is necessary for the proper diagnosis and treatment of your illness or injury. According to federal law, your discharge date must be determined solely by your medical records, not by "DRGs" (Diagnosis Related Groups) or Medicare payments." Don't ask me what Diagnosis Related Groups are. We'll have to learn about them together as we master this new Medicare information.

"You have the right to be fully informed about any and all decisions affecting your Medicare coverage and payment for your hospital stay, as well as for any services you may require after you leave the hospital."

You have the right to request a review by your Peer Review Organization of any written Notice of Noncoverage that you receive from the hospital. A Notice of Noncoverage is a statement that the hospital believes that Medicare will no longer pay for your hospital care. (Your Peer Review Organization is a group of doctors and other professionals who are contracted by the federal government to review medical necessity, appropriateness of care, and the quality of hospital treatment furnished to Medicare patients. The PRO serves as your representative.) Keep in mind that Medicare is a federal program. Your representative, the PRO, is comprised of individuals paid by the same federal government. Many senior citizens have concerns about this.

"If at any time you have questions or are unhappy with the quality of care that you are receiving or have received, you have the right to request a review by the PRO." (The telephone number and address for the PRO in Eastern Kentucky will be available in a later series.)

Now let's discuss the HINNs—Hospital-Issued Notices Of Noncoverage. "A Notice of Noncoverage is a document issued to you by the hospital when it determines that Medicare may not pay for your stay."

There are three basic types of HINNs:

- A Preadmission Notice of Noncoverage
- An Admission Notice of Noncoverage
- A Continued Stay Notice of

Noncoverage

All three are noncoverage denials. They can affect you, your stay in the hospital, and your financial liability.

Each type contains the same basic message:

- What coverage is being denied
- When you will have to begin paying for your care
- Your appeal rights and the time limits to request a review, reconsideration, or appeal
- Who you contact to request a review

"Medicare will pay for services only as long as they are "medically necessary...Medicare cannot pay for "custodial care."

Next week we will discuss, in greater detail, the three basic types of HINNs. You might be surprised at what we will learn. We still haven't learned for sure what Diagnosis Related Groups are. Maybe, as our "book report" progresses we'll understand more about those groups.

Until next week when we get into a deeper study of the basic types of HINNs, keep this number handy: 1-800-288-1499. "If at any time you have questions regarding your rights as a Medicare beneficiary, or questions regarding your care, do not hesitate to call."

This series in Sunshine Lines is brought to you through your local Kentucky Benefits Counseling Program for Senior Citizens. If you have questions about your Benefits Counseling Program or about changes that are coming in Medicare, call Carol Napier at 886-3876 or toll-free at 1-800-556-3876. If you live in Pike County call Anna Cassidy at 432-2181. These counselors will answer your questions or give you a contact number of a federal Medicare agency.

more light, but we've done great." The adult pupils have done so great, in fact, that two have already passed the GED exam and claimed their diplomas and their bonuses, as well as a big dose of pride.

Fred Reed, a maintenance employee from Thelma in Johnson County, is one of those early successes. Reed dropped out of Paintsville High School 39 years ago, worked for a while as a plumber apprentice, went into the military where he served 13 months in Vietnam, and today considers himself fortunate to have gotten a job at the park 14 years ago.

"I always wanted to try for my GED," said Reed, "but I was afraid

I couldn't do it. I found out I could."

Jeannie Crace of Lick Fork in Johnson County also passed the GED exam during the summer. "This was something I wanted to do for a long time, but I didn't take the time. Being able to take classes at work gave me an opportunity I couldn't pass up," said the 11-year veteran of May Lodge dining room at the park.

Both Reed and Crace heap praise on their teacher. "If we'd had teachers like that in high school, I might have finished," Crace said.

"He's a wonderful teacher, all right," Reed concurred.

The teacher likewise has praise for his students. "Most of them have had hard lives," Little said. "It makes me feel good to help them."

Education has been an important part of Little's life. He graduated from Wheelwright High School in three years and went to Alice Lloyd College which gave him a scholarship to complete his bachelor's degree at the University of Kentucky. While a map maker for Rand McNally, from which he is retired, he also earned a master's degree at UK.

But he grew up with an understanding of the obstacles to education that some people face. "My mother was illiterate," he said, "but she was smart and she made sure I went to school and learned. I don't accept that people who don't finish school are dumb. I believe we all need help and encouragement."

Little sees his role as a teacher of adults as an encourager and an explainer. For instance, among the park employees, Little estimates that nearly all of the students have a fear of math, a fear that goes back to grade school for most.

"If you break a math problem down into parts, it's easier. That's what I tell them," he said. "Math becomes easier if you do it a step at a time."

His Wednesday students appreciate the understanding and the opportunity, according to the park's training coordinator Lisa Baldwin. "This class has been wonderful," she said. "It has given these employees a new respect for learning and for themselves."

Mike Wilson, a maintenance worker from Tram, agrees. "I think it's really good that they (the state park system) are giving us a chance." Wilson, who dropped out of Betsy Layne High School some 15 years ago, added that "I think I'm beginning to catch on to some things I missed in school and I feel good about being able to take part." He began working for the park as a part-time employee in 1982 and has been full-time for the past five years.

Besides Reed, Crace and Wilson, the park staff members who have been making the old Harkins school come back to life are Robert Deerfield, who lives at the park; Hillard Hall of Abbott Creek; Patricia Burke and Mary Slone of Blue River; Alex Huff of Drift; David May of Boons Camp; Terry Freeman of Lick Fork, and Taylor Briggs of Bull Creek. (Patricia Burke's husband, William, who is not a park employee, is also enrolled in the class.)

Frances Brackett of Allen, one of the leaders in the relocation and renovation of the old schoolhouse, said she was delighted to learn that the facility is being used for an adult class. "This is more than we had hoped for when we set out to preserve the school," she said.

"We wanted to preserve an example of this part of our educational heritage and foresaw a type of museum where visitors could learn more about our heritage, but for the building to be used for real classes is very exciting," Brackett said.

The class was initiated by Park Manager James Kennedy and represents a cooperative effort of the Kentucky State Park System and the Workforce Development Cabinet.

The David Adult Education Program also coordinates adult education classes at David, Mud Creek, South Floyd High School, John M. Stumbo and Clark Elementary schools, Prestonsburg Community College, and the Floyd County jail. It also arranges onsite classes for businesses wishing to provide adult education to their employees. For more information, call 886-READ.

Recent graduates

Jeannie Crace of Lick Fork and Fred Reed of Thelma are the first two park employees enrolled in the park adult education class to receive their GED.

Historic occurrences at Cumberland Gap

The Grand Opening ceremony for the $265 million Cumberland Mountain Tunnel, at the tri-state of Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia, is scheduled for 1 p.m. Friday, October 18, at the Kentucky portal. I thought it would be well to reflect on prior occurrences at the famous pass whose name is one of the most identifiable in the world.

Dr. Thomas Walker and his small band of men documented the discovery of Cumberland Gap in early spring of 1750 during his trek into Kentucky which was highlighted by snakebites and attacks from bears.

"A large buffalo road is evident," he entered in his journal April 12 of that year. "We followed the buffalo trail across the ridge. We continued our movement four miles to a river (Powell) that I call Beargrass River. Ambrose Powell carved his name on several trees."

In the years that followed, hunters found Powell's carvings and named the river and several other geographic features after him.

"We traveled six miles on level land to Cave (Cumberland) Gap," Dr. Walker wrote on April 13. "We found a large spring from which the waters plunge very fast. Just above the spring is a small entrance to a large cave from which cool air and spring water is emitted. The creek following down the mountainside is strong enough to turn a mill."

"At the foot of the hill is a laurel thicket through which the spring water passes. We see an Indian road which passes through the gap, and atop the ridge we found blazed trees and others with carved crosses and figures on them. (Blazing was a method of marking one's trail).

"We came upon a branch and laurel thicket at the base of the mountain on the north side and carved our names in a large beech tree which stands at the left of the trail. The gap can be seen from a long distance."

Not far from where that large beech tree stood is the Kentucky portal of the Cumberland Mountain tunnel where the grand opening will be held at 1 p.m. Friday, October 18. Incidentally, ten years after this journal entry by Dr. Walker he named the Gap after William Augustus, the Duke of Cumberland, calling it Cumberland Gap.

In the ensuing quarter century, long hunters such as Daniel Boone passed through the Gap and hunted for months before returning with their furs. Some fell prey to Indians and never returned.

In the spring of 1775, Richard Henderson sent Daniel Boone with a company of woodsmen to open a road over a distance of 200 miles, from Sycamore Shoals (Elizabethton) to the Kentucky River. This was the original Wilderness Road which was used by thousands of settlers in the years that followed.

When Union Army General U.S. Grant visited Fort Farragut atop Cumberland Mountain in 1864, near where the tri-state marker is now located, he marvelled at the mountain range and commanding view.

"With just two brigades I could defend Cumberland Gap against the army of Napoleon," Grant, who would become the 18th U.S. president, said.

Author James Lane Allen visited the Gap in the mid 1880's and slept beneath the shadow of the Pinnacle.

"It was late in the afternoon when our tired horses began the long, winding, rocky climb from the valley to the brow of the pass," Allen wrote in Harper's Magazine. "As we stood in the passway of

FROM THE MOUNTAINS by Jadon Gibson

Cumberland Gap, amid deepening shadows of the twilight and the solemn response of the landscape, the air grew thick with ghostly utterances—primeval sounds, undistinguishable and strange, of creatures nameless and never seen by man; the wild rush and whoops of retreating and pursuing tribes; the slow steps of watchful pioneers; the wail of dying children and the songs of homeless women; the muffled tread of routed and broken armies, all the sounds of surprise and delight, victory and defeat, and hunger and pain, weariness and despair, that the human heart can utter.

"Here passed the first of all the white race who led the way into the valley of the Cumberland; here passed that small band of fearless men who gave the Gap its name; here passed the long hunters; here rushed the armies of the Civil War; here has passed the wave of westerly emigration, whose force has spent itself only on the Pacific slopes; and here in the long future must flow backward and forward, wealth beyond the dream of avarice."

Alexander Arthur read Allen's article and visited Cumberland Gap. He climbed to the top of Cumberland Mountain and visited nearby valleys, amazed at the vast mineral and natural resources in the area. Arthur returned to England and arranged capital which launched the rapid buildup of Middlesboro and the surrounding area.

Arthur and other dignitaries were on hand the night of August 8, 1889, when crews digging from both sides of the mountain met beneath the gap after 18 months of excavation work. The breakthrough set off a wild celebration as workers spilled from the tunnel into saloons which had built up along Cumberland Mountain. Train whistles screamed and gunshots were discharged in the air.

Editor's note: Jadon looks at more of the fascinating history of Cumberland Gap next week in the Floyd County Times.

Kentucky's billion-dollar club achieves record despite setback

Despite losing the nation's largest health care company, Kentucky has a record nine public companies which have annual revenues in the billions, the 1996 Kentucky 40 survey revealed recently.

This compares with seven companies with revenues in the billions in 1995. The survey, which ranks Kentucky-based companies by total revenues and financial institutions by average assets, is conducted annually by the Kentucky offices of Shandwick USA, formerly The Wenz-Neely Company. When the Kentucky 40 survey was initiated in 1972, only Ashland Oil (now Ashland Inc.) claimed revenues of a billion or more.

As it has in every year except 1995, Ashland again tops the list of the commonwealth's largest public companies, with revenues of $12.2 billion, up from $10.4 billion the previous year. Columbia/HCA Healthcare Corporation claimed the top spot in 1995 during Louisville's brief tenure as its headquarters city. Now headquartered in Nashville, Columbia no longer is eligible for the Kentucky 40 listing.

Three new names appear on this year's billion dollar list, each for a unique reason. They are:

• Vencor, Incorporated. A massive 1995 acquisition ballooned Vencor's revenues to $2.3 billion, compared with $400 million in last year's Kentucky 40 listing (because of the acquisition, Vencor has restated 1994 revenues as $2,032,827,000). By nearly sextupling its revenues, this Louisville company became the state's fifth largest public company, compared to an 11th place ranking in 1995. Vencor was the only company to advance more than one notch on the Kentucky 40 list.

• Lexmark International. This Lexington-based IBM spin-off offered shares to the public for the first time in 1995, debuting on the Kentucky 40 list as the state's sixth largest public company. Its 1995 revenues reached nearly $2.2 billion, a 16.5 percent increase over 1994 revenues of $1.9 billion.

• LG & Energy, which burst into the billion dollar strata for the first time on a 65.7 percent revenue increase, to $1.4 billion. The Louisville utility is Kentucky's ninth largest company.

Returning billionaires, in addition to top ranking Ashland, Inc., include Humana Inc., the state's second largest public company at $4.7 billion; Providian Corporation, third at $3.4 billion; Fruit of the Loom, Inc., fourth at $2.4 billion; Brown-Forman Corporation, seventh at $1.8 billion; and Dollar General Corporation, eighth at $1.7 billion. Humana, Providian and Brown-Forman reside in Louisville, while primary operating headquarters for Fruit of the Loom and Dollar General are 30 miles apart in Bowling Green and Scottsville, respectively.

The Big Nine shared the limelight with smaller companies in revenue and profit growth. Following LG&E in revenue growth were 17th-ranked Pomeroy Computer, Erlanger, at 59.6 percent; 26th-ranked Addington Resources, Lexington, at 57.4 percent; 15th-ranked Papa John's International, Louisville, at 56.8 percent; and 25th-ranked ARM Financial Group, Louisville, at 47.3 percent.

ARM Financial also led all Kentucky 40 companies in earnings percentage growth, at 133.2 percent. Thirteenth ranked Comair Holdings, Inc., Erlanger, increased earnings by 104.8 percent; 24th-ranked Caretenders HealthCorp., Louisville, gained 99 percent; Pomeroy was up 60.6 percent and Papa John's gained 55.6 percent.

Two companies increased revenues by more than $1 billion over the previous year. They are Ashland, with a gain of nearly $1.9 billion; and Humana, with a $1.1 billion advance. Other major revenues gains were by LG&E at $545 million; Providian at $429 million and Dollar General at $316 million.

Among the 10 largest financial institutions, Louisville's Great Financial Corporation retained its top ranking with a 25 percent gain in average assets to $2,164,270,000, the largest gain in both percentage and dollars. The next five largest financial institutions all held their positions of the previous year. They are, in order of size:

Trans Financial Bancorp, Bowling Green; Pikeville National Bank; Peoples First Corporation, Paducah; Mid-America Bancorp, Louisville, and Area Bancshares Corp., Owensboro. Among that group, Pikeville National achieved the greatest percentage increase in average assets at 10.9 percent and Area Bancshares realized the greatest gain in net income, $4.1 million.

CBT Corporation, Paducah, eased into seventh place ahead of Farmers Capital Bank Corp., Frankfort, which slipped to eighth. Ninth-ranked Cardinal Bancshares, Inc., Lexington, achieved a 22.6 percent increase in average assets, to $632 million. Rounding out the top ten is that prepared the survey, is an operating group of the world's largest independent public relations agency.

Central Bancshares, Inc., Lexington. Its average assets of $463 million represented a 5.8 percent increase. Shandwick USA, the organization

ARH announces appointment

Appalachian Regional Healthcare announces the appointment of Clyde Bolton as administrator of Summers County ARH Hospital in Hinton, West Virginia. Bolton succeeds Scot Mitchell, who is now executive director for the Partners in Health network.

Bolton has been administrator and chief financial officer of Dundy County Hospital in Benkelman, Nebraska, for more than three years.

According to ARH President Forrest W. Calico, M.D., "Mr. Bolton brings a wealth of administrative experience and financial expertise to his new position. We look forward to his contributions to Summers County and the entire ARH system with great enthusiasm."

As a commissioned officer with the United States Air Force for 22 years, Bolton served in a variety of executive positions requiring management of policies and procedures as well as fiscal and personnel matters. He retired in 1993.

Bolton is a native Kentuckian and a graduate of Russell High School in Russell. He earned a bachelor's degree at the University of Kentucky, and a master's degree in Administration from Central Michigan University.

Bolton and Marie, his wife, have two children, Stephanie and Cheryl. Bolton is the son of Arthur and Lorena Bolen, residents of Worthington, near Ashland. Marie Bolton is the daughter of Raymond I. and Virginia Klein, who reside in Ashland.

Appalachian Regional Healthcare is a private, not-for-profit health care system that operates hospitals, clinics, and other health services in Kentucky, Virginia, and West Virginia.

Pikeville National Corporation announces creation of new jobs for Pikeville area

Earlier this year, Terry N. Coleman, president and CEO of Pikeville National Corporation, announced the shareholders' decision to adopt a new name for the corporation—Community Trust Bancorp, Inc., effective January 1, 1997. A reorganization of the corporation's operating structure will occur in conjunction with this name change—merging nine affiliate banks into Community Trust Bank, NA. With this functional merger, certain departments will be consolidated in a centralized location to insure consistent, high quality operations.

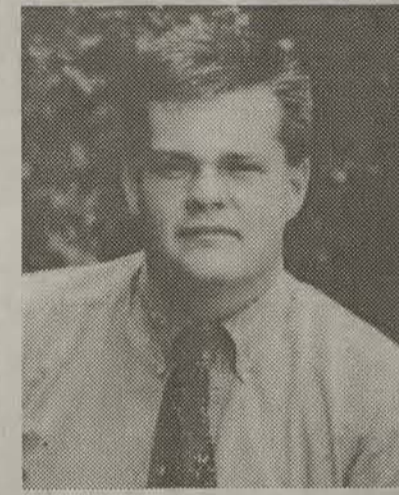

Pikeville will be the headquarters for these consolidated functions and additional job opportunities will be created. It is estimated that approximately 50 additional positions in managerial, technical, and clerical areas will be necessary to perform internal operations for the corporation. As Coleman stated, "We see our change as a positive for our customers and our employees as well as for the community in which this great organization began some 93 years ago." He went on to say, "We are always pleased when we have the opportunity to give back to our community."

Another symbol of Pikeville National's commitment to the community is construction of a new building to house the additional functions. Plans call for the building to be located adjacent to the main office on the North Mayo Trail with construction to begin by January, 1997. "This is one of the most ambitious steps in our commitment to our employees," Coleman said. "We want to provide the most modern and convenient work place possible."

Pikeville National Corporation currently operates with affiliates in Pikeville, Whitesburg, West Liberty, Ashland, Versailles, Middlesboro, Flemingsburg, Campbellsville, Williamsburg, and Mt. Sterling, and has assets totaling approximately $1.8 billion.

Dr. Lee Boyd

Dr. Lee Boyd now practicing

Dr. Lee Boyd, specializing in Pediatric Dentistry, opened his office in Allen, this past July.

Dr. Boyd is from Allen. He completed his education at the University of Kentucky College of Dentistry in 1994. He then completed his two-year Pediatric Dental Residency in New Orleans, Louisiana, at the Louisiana State University School of Dentistry and at Children's Hospital of New Orleans.

Mammography units at Pike hospital accredited

The American College of Radiology has granted three year accreditation to both of Pikeville Methodist Hospital's mammography units.

The Committee on Mammography Accreditation reviewed the hospital's two mammography units and images, staff and radiologist reviewers. Each unit, the unit located in the hospital and the unit at The Breast Care Center, had to meet rigorous standards to gain three year approval.

Both units successfully passed the review and were granted accreditation until 1999.

"It is very important that each patient receives the best possible care, whether it is preventative care or diagnostic care," Hospital Administrator Martha O'Regan Chill said. "Receiving three year accreditation from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and now the American College of Radiology is extremely exciting."

"I am truly proud that the American College of Radiology and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration have recognized the fine work that is performed in Pikeville Methodist Hospital's two mammography areas," Dr. Dennis Halbert, medical director of mammography services said. "The mammography staff works diligently daily to provide each patient with the best possible care."

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE Pursuant to Application Number 836-0265

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Locust Grove, Inc., P.O. Box 958, Hazard, Kentucky 41702, 606-439-5151, has filed an application for a surface and underground coal mining and reclamation operation located 4 miles southeast of Martin, Kentucky, in Floyd County. The proposed operation will disturb 140.0 surface acres and will underlie 11.9 acres, and the total area within the permit boundary will be 140.7 acres.

The proposed operation is approximately 1.2 miles east from Big Branch-Honaker Road's junction with KY 2030 and at the head of Gunstock Branch of Spurlock Creek. The latitude is 37° 30' 50" and the longitude is 82° 42' 20".

The proposed operation is located on the Harold U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The operation will use the contour, mountaintop, and auger methods of mining.

The surface area is owned by Marion Robert Heirs, The Elk Horn Coal Corporation, Dwayne and Sue Carroll, Ethel Carroll, Katie L. Allen, Cecil and Martha Hunter, Roy and Susan Hunter, Cecil Hunter, Oliver and Myrtle Hall, Montville and Shirley Parsons, Charlie Hunter Heirs, Lois and Donald Adkins, and Locust Grove, Inc. The operation will underlie land owned by Marion Robert Heirs, The Elk Horn Coal Corporation, Dwayne and Sue Carroll, Roy and Susan Hunter, Cecil Hunter, Lois and Donald Adkins and Locust Grove, Inc. The operation will affect an area within 100 feet of public road Big Branch-Honaker Road. The operation will not involve relocation or closure of the public road.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 2705 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, KY 41653-1410. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

NOTICE OF BOND RELEASE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.093 notice is hereby given that Buck Coal, Inc., 415 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, KY 41653 (606-886-2330) intends to apply for Phase II Bond Releases for Increments No. 1 and 4 on Permit No. 436-0107 which was last issued on July 16, 1984. The increments cover surface areas, and underground areas as follows:

Increment No. 1, 24 acres surface area, 17.83 acres underground area; Increment No. 4, 7.71 acres surface area, 8.27 acres underground area.

The operation is located 1.5 miles west of Drift in Floyd County and is approximately 3.4 miles south of the junction of KY 80 with KY 777.

The latitude is 37° 28' 30" and the longitude is 82° 46' 30", and is located on the Wayland 7 1/2 minute U.S.G.S. quadrangle maps.

The performance bond (Surety) now in effect for the operation on each increment is as follows:

Increment No. 1, $28,800; Increment No. 4, $16,500.

Approximately 80% of the original bond is to be included in this application for release.

Reclamation work thus far performed includes: backfilling and grading, sampling and testing, liming, fertilizing, seeding and mulching and was completed in fall 1985, for Increment No. 1 and July 1990, for Increment No. 4. Results thus far achieved include: establishment of vegetation in accordance with the approved post mining land use plan.

Written comments, objections and requests for a public hearing or informal conference must be filed with the Director, Division of Field Services, #2 Hudson Hollow Complex, Frankfort, KY 40601 by November 15, 1996.

A public hearing on the application has been set for November 18, 1996, at 9:00 a.m. at the Department for Surface Mining and Enforcement's Regional Office, 2705 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, KY 41653. The scheduled public hearing will be canceled if the cabinet does not receive a request for the public hearing or informal conference by November 15, 1996.

This is the final advertisement of this application; all comments, objections, or requests for a hearing or informal conference must be received by the Director of Permits by November 15, 1996.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE Pursuant to Application Number 877-0159, Major Revision No. 1

In accordance with KRS 350.070, notice is hereby given that Branham & Baker Coal Company, Inc., 148 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653, has applied for a major revision to an existing surface coal mining and reclamation operation affecting 486.94 acres located 1.5 miles north of Gunlock in Magoffin County. The Major Revision will not add any surface disturbance acreage or underground acreage to the permit area.

The proposed Major Revision Area is approximately 2.5 miles southeast from Ky. Rt. 7's junction with Ky. Rt. 404 and located 0.10 mile south of Big Branch of Licking River. The latitude is 37° 34' 14" and the longitude is 82° 54' 44".

The proposed Major Revision is located on the David and Martin U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle maps. The operation will use the area method of surface mining. The surface area is owned by Gobel and Bertha Shepherd, David L. Francis, Branham & Baker Coal Company, Inc., Kate Shepherd, Ruby Osborne et al, Earl Gibson, Kelly Hale Heirs, Abe Shepherd Heirs, Blackhawk Shepherd Heirs, and Hargis Shepherd Heirs, Branham and Baker Coal Company, Inc., Stella Wireman et al. and John G. Arnett. The operation will affect an area within 100 feet of public road (Brushy Fork County Road). The operation will not involve relocation and/or closure of the public road.

The Major Revision proposes to allow for dumping of refuse material from the Preparation Plant into the bottom void strip pits.

The Major Revision has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 2705 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments, objections or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director, Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

GINGERBREAD WITH WARM CRANBERRY COMPOTE

1 14.5-ounce package gingerbread cake mix
2 cups Ocean Spray® fresh or frozen cranberries
3 cups pineapple chunks, cut in half
1 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 whipped cream

Prepare gingerbread as directed on package. Cool completely. Combine remaining ingredients, except whipped cream, in a medium saucepan. Bring mixture to a boil and cook just until the cranberries begin to pop, stirring frequently. Cool sauce slightly. Spoon warm compote over each serving of gingerbread. Top with whipped cream. Makes 9 servings.

MEDITERRANEAN CHICKEN FOCACCIA

1 pound skinless, boneless chicken breasts, cut into strips
2 teaspoons Wyler's® Chicken Flavor Bouillon Granules
1 (10-ounce) packaged Italian bread shell
2 (6-ounce) jars marinated artichoke hearts or marinated mushrooms, roasted peppers or mixed vegetables, undrained

In large non-stick skillet, stir-fry chicken and bouillon with 1/4 cup water until tender and brown. Top bread shell with chicken and artichokes with marinade. Serve with crumbled feta cheese, peperoncini, chopped red onions, tomatoes and olives or other favorite toppings if desired. Refrigerate leftovers. (Makes 4 servings)

TOASTED PECAN CRANBERRY BARK

Reynolds Wrap Everyday Heavy Duty Aluminum Foil
1 cup pecan halves
1 package (20 oz.) vanilla candy coating, cut up
3/4 cup dried cranberries
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg

Preheat oven to 325°F. Line a cookie sheet with heavy duty aluminum foil. Place pecans in single layer on foil-lined cookie sheet. Bake 10 to 15 minutes or until lightly toasted, stirring once. Place cookie sheet on a rack to cool pecan halves. In microwave-safe bowl, melt candy coating in microwave oven following package directions. Remove from microwave; stir in toasted pecans, cranberries and nutmeg until well blended. Spread mixture to 1/4-inch thickness on foil-lined cookie sheet. Refrigerate until cool; break into 1-1/4-inch pieces. Makes about 3 dozen candies.

MICROWAVE MARVEL

Core a Michigan Apple, being careful not to cut all the way through. Peel 1/3 of the way down from stem end. Combine 1 Tbsp. brown sugar and 1/2 tsp. butter. Fill center of apple and sprinkle with cinnamon. Microwave 2 - 2 1/2 minutes on high. (Time varies depending on size of apple and wattage of oven.)

Other suggested fillings:

- Sugar and oatmeal
- Raisins and nuts
- Breakfast cereal
- Sausage and oatmeal
- Cheddar cheese
- Celery, raisins and nuts
- Red hot or peppermint candies
- Coconut and caramel
- Hazelnuts and chocolate chips
- Cranberry sauce

CHICKEN SALAD SANDWICH

12 oz. cooked chicken breast skin removed
1/4 c. pecan halves
1/3 c. diced celery
1/3 c. chopped fresh dill
1/4 c. Daisy Light Sour Cream
2 T. fat-free mayonnaise
2 T. light mayonnaise

1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper

Shred chicken into bite-size pieces and place in a large bowl. Add pecans, celery and chopped dill. Toss well.

In a separate bowl, mix sour cream and mayonnaise. Toss into the chicken salad. Season with salt and pepper. Cover and refrigerate for 2 hours.

Serve on whole wheat bread.

Yield: 10 servings

A standard recipe using 1/2 cup mayonnaise contains 12 gm of fat per serving compared to only 5 gm in the recipe makeover with Daisy Light Sour Cream.

TRADITIONAL FRENCH TOAST WITH ORANGE

4 eggs
1 cup Minute Maid® Premium frozen concentrated orange juice (undiluted)
1 tsp. fresh or dried grated orange peel
8 slices wheat or white bread
4 tbsp. margarine
powdered sugar, orange marmalade or syrup (optional)

In medium bowl, beat eggs, Minute Maid® Premium orange juice and grated orange peel until blended. Arrange bread slices in 9" x 13" baking dish. Pour egg mixture over bread. Cover and refrigerate at least 1 hour or overnight. Melt 2 tablespoons margarine over medium-high heat in a heavy large skillet. Add bread to pan in batches and cook until golden brown (about 2 minutes per side). Sprinkle with powdered sugar and serve with orange marmalade or syrup if desired. Makes 4 2-slice servings

TURKEY AND BROCCOLI STIR-FRY

2 teaspoons sesame seeds
2 teaspoons canola oil
1 pound turkey breast, cut in 1-inch cubes
1 clove garlic, minced
4 cups broccoli flowerets
1 medium red bell pepper, seeded and thinly sliced
3/4 cup low sodium chicken broth
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon water
4 teaspoons Butter Buds® Sprinkles
1 tablespoon lemon juice

In a large non-stick skillet, cook sesame seeds over medium heat until lightly toasted. Set aside in a small bowl.

Heat oil in skillet over medium heat. Add turkey and garlic; stir-fry for 5 minutes. Remove turkey from skillet and set aside.

Add broccoli, pepper and 1/2 cup chicken broth to skillet. Cook 3 to 4 minutes, covered, until broccoli is crisp tender. Return turkey to skillet.

In a small bowl dissolve cornstarch in water. Stir into skillet with remaining chicken broth, Butter Buds Sprinkles and lemon juice. Cook 1 to 2 minutes until sauce is slightly thickened. Stir in sesame seeds. Makes four servings.

YUMMY CARAMEL-APPLE TOPPING

2 tablespoons margarine or butter

3 medium tart apples, peeled, cored and sliced (approximately 3 1/2 cups)

1/4 cup caramel topping

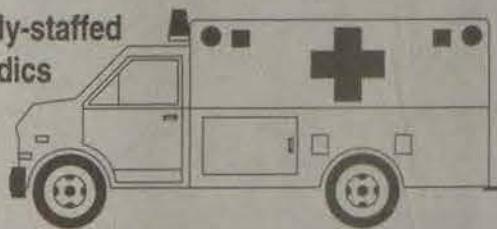

In a large skillet, heat margarine until melted. Add sliced apples and cook until apples are tender. Pour caramel topping over apples and heat until warm.

Pour Caramel-Apple Topping over fresh Bisquick waffles and/or pancakes and top off with a dollop of Reddi-wip whipped topping. Makes approximately 1 1/2 cups of topping.

Health Matters

CHOLESTEROL FREE FOODS—ARE THEY GOOD FOR YOU?

If it says cholesterol free, than it must be good for you. Right? Not necessarily. In spite of all the cholesterol free banners on bottles and packages throughout the grocery store, dietary cholesterol is not the most important factor in our cholesterol levels.

Consumption of saturated fats, fats from animal products or hydrogenated vegetable fats, is the most important factor in elevating blood cholesterol levels. When we see "cholesterol free," we should read the label carefully to determine if the product is high in fat, particularly saturated fat. The word hydrogenated should cue you that the product might be unhealthy. The product should contain no more than 30 calories from fat per every 100 calories. No more than 1 gram out of 3 grams of fat should be saturated.

Cholesterol free does not give the product a clean bill of health. Check the percentage of calories from fat and try limiting foods with saturated fat and hydrogenated fat. Your heart will thank you.

Tip of the Week: Worldwide, table tennis is the second most popular sport. Soccer is number one. For average players, a fast game of table tennis will burn 350-450 calories per hour. This is about the same as doubles in tennis or leisurely cycling.
