Board warned not to meddle in jobs

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd schools state manager Woodrow Carter warned board members Tuesday not to meddle in personnel issues and called on them to make political interference in the system a thing of the past.

School board members met in a special session Tuesday to address routine matters related to closing the current school year, but talks became somewhat testy during a discussion on the placement of an assistant in the personnel department.

Board members came very close to crossing the legal line regarding their oaths of office which prohibits any interference in personnel issues by quizzing officials about the qualifications of the individual working in the assistant job.

Carter and interim superintendent Mike King requested that the board approve an amended title of personnel assistant in the central office reorganization. The two explained there is a person currently working in the position and that official action was needed in order for the salary to conform to the district's salary schedule.

Under the schedule, the position would be for seven and a half hours a day, 260 days a year with a beginning salary of $21,450.

Personnel director Jane Meek said the position was necessary in order to broaden the scope of the department and to make it "more modern."

Last fall, a state management audit of the district revealed that the school system's personnel files were in a shambles and many employee folders were empty.

Board member Johnnie Ross said his survey of surrounding and comparable school districts revealed that a similar position was held by an accounting clerk or an entry level secretary. He said he was not in favor of creating a new position.

"Personally, I have a problem establishing a position in the central office at this particular time in our journey," Ross said.

Carter explained that the board had already voted on the reorganization plan that included the position, which was not a new one.

"We have shaken the central office from head to toe," Carter said. "In this reorganization there hasn't been one question by this board about those issues. I ask that you not take action to influence the hiring of personnel. I plead with this board publicly not to revert to the ways of the past. Today, we have not tackled anything as contentious as this."

Carter assured the board the request was not "political" in nature and that action was necessary to "align the duties and responsibilities" in the department.

Ross said he resented Carter's implication that the board was "playing politics like past boards"

Second storm in a week interrupts power service

Just as Floyd County residents were recovering from the effects of severe storms earlier this week, another violent string of thunderstorms rolled into the area Wednesday.

Torrential rains, high winds and strong lightning downed trees and power lines, knocking out service to 3,650 American Electric Power (AEP) customers in Floyd, Pike and Martin counties.

At Little Paint in Floyd County, a tree fell on the home of Bill Vaughn. The tree also blocked the road. Ricky Setser, who photographed the incident, said one of his relatives saw "quarter-sized hail" falling during the storm Wednesday afternoon.

Winds were reported to have reached 60 miles per hour and caused heavy damage to AEP facilities. More than 10,000 AEP customers were without power following the storms and crews worked throughout the night to restore power. In some areas, electrical service isn't expected to be back on until today (Friday).

Wheelwright was one of the hardest hit areas in the county and standing water blocked some streets in Prestonsburg.

Local law enforcement agencies said no major problems, other than power outages, were reported in the county.

During Monday's storms, power was knocked out in Mud Creek and Martin in Floyd County. Downed trees and power lines were also reported throughout areas of the county.

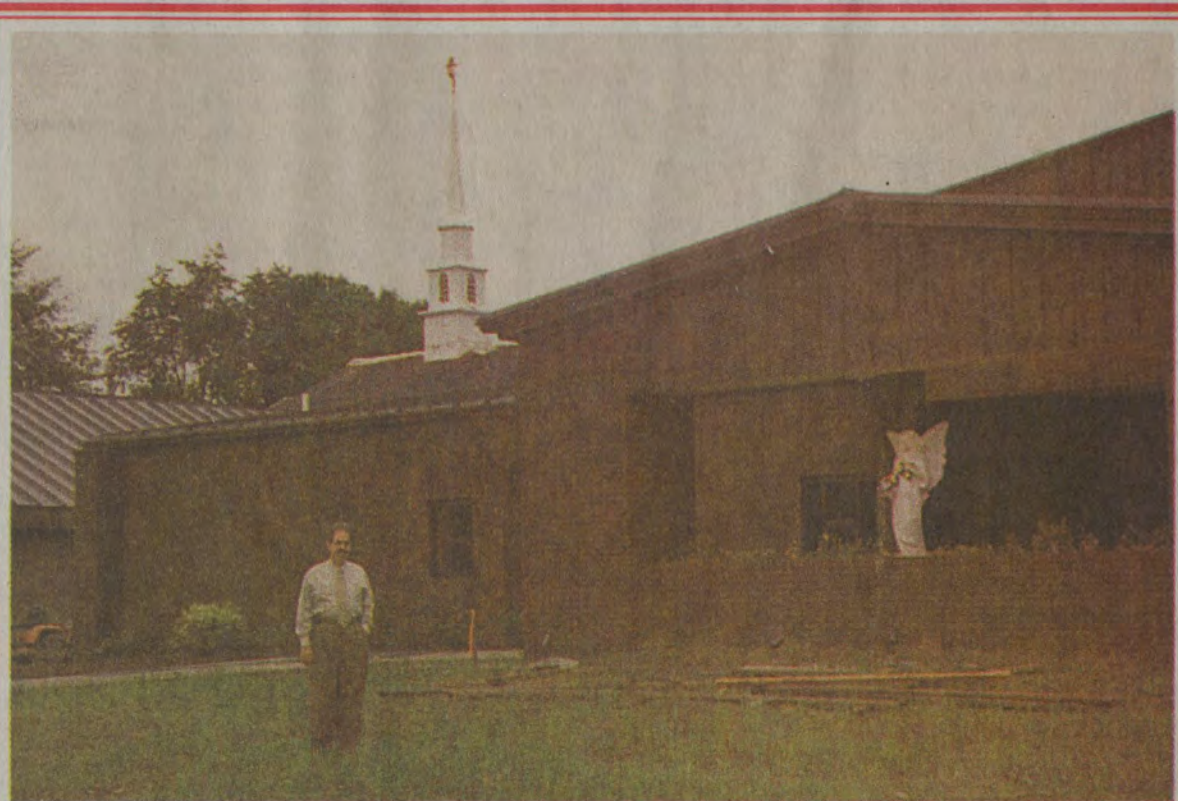

AEP workers continue to assess damage from this week's storm and cannot predict when all power will be restored. AEP advises those without service to disconnect appliances that operate automatically, such as air conditioners and refrigerators, to prevent power surges when service is restored.

Persons should avoid any contact with low laying or downed power lines.

AEP customers who have lost service and have not reported it, should call the company at 1-800-572-1113.

Wednesday was not the greatest day for a resident of the right fork of the Little Paint area, as Ricky Setser captured on film the aftermath of the storm damage to neighbor Bill Vaughn's home, where a tree fell. Here, a power crew works to repair lines. (photo by Ricky Setser)

The angel was given to the school in memory of the family of Sarah Lafferty, who died last May of leukemia. The statue weighs 600 pounds, and it took four men to set the angel on its pedestal. # There's a new school in town

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Ensuring a safe environment will include classroom cameras to monitor activities. The monitors will be continually checked, and the videotape will be stored for a brief period of time for reference.

The building may be new, but the concept isn't.

The new Christ United Methodist Church's Wesley School with its curriculum based on "readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmatic," will open August 24 to students in daycare through sixth grade.

"We will offer a strong education (program). We're getting back to the basics," the church's pastor, Kenneth Lemaster, said.

The 24,000-square-foot building will have music and art rooms, a daycare, and 13 classrooms. The classroom size averages 30 by 32 feet and can hold up to 17 students, but Lemaster plans to limit class size to 15.

The school is adjoined to the church by an enclosed walkway. It sits on a back street in Allen and away from traffic flow, creating a "safe, controlled environment" for the students, Lemaster said.

What's in it?

- A daycare licensed for 75 children
- Music room
- Art room
- 13 spacious classrooms

What's it cost?

- $70 per week for daycare students
- $2,400 per student per year
- Discounts apply for families enrolling more than one child
- Scholarships available

How to enroll?

Call 874-2344

Lemaster said that cameras will not only protect the students, but the staff as well, and parents who are concerned about classroom activities can view the tapes.

Plans to build the facility began five years ago, Lemaster said, when the church decided to extend its ministry into the classroom.

"We believe that Christian values are important to the community and important to the whole structure of society. If that cannot be taught in the public school system, then families have a right to get it somewhere else. Some schools have left out the most (important part of education) ... our relationship with our Creator. Children

Schools to receive funds for co-curricular programs

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Almost $400,000 was allocated to schools throughout the district by Floyd board members Tuesday for co-curricular activities, but school officials admit it isn't enough money to fully fund the programs.

The funds are to be used to pay for teacher and supply costs for the various after-school activities held at all schools in the district. Federal legislation, called Title IX, mandates that districts provide equal access for male and female students for all extra curricular programs. Earlier this year, the Kentucky

Board of Education passed a resolution urging all school districts to comply with Title IX requirements.

Board member Carol Stumbo told instructional directors Phil Paige and Jody Sword she was concerned the financial allocations to the schools would not be enough to properly conduct the activities.

Paige readily admitted that was the case, but the $370,000 allocation was the maximum the district—which has been in a budget deficit for the last three years—could afford.

"It's enough for suitable programs, but not for everything they would want to do," Paige said.

"Title IX hit us and we still don't have enough money," Sword added.

Stumbo also wanted to know how schools could be treated equal-

King said school officials are looking at that issue and there are plans to give control of those funds back to the schools.

Under the funding formula approved for co-curricular activities:

- Primary through fifth grade schools will receive $6,000;
- Primary through sixth grade schools will receive $8,000;
- Primary through eighth grade and, sixth through eighth grades will receive $14,000; and
- High schools are to get $60,000.

ly when some booster clubs pump extra money into select school programs, such as supplementing the salaries of athletic coaches.

Under the funding formula, primary through fifth grade schools will receive $6,000; primary through sixth grade schools will receive $8,000; primary through eighth grade and, sixth through eighth grades will receive $14,000; and high schools are to get $60,000.

In other action Tuesday, the board voted to declare Harold, Prater, Melvin and Auxier school buildings as surplus properties so the facilities and land can be sold. The board also authorized appraisals of the properties.

Chairman Terry Dotson said the district needed to get the tracts sold as quickly as possible so that the money generated can be used to "invest in next year."

When the board voted June 16 to close the schools, they stipulated that money saved or produced from the closings be used to buy necessities for schools, such as textbooks, curriculum supplies and other instructional materials students need.

In other business:

The board voted to allocate $2.4 million to Ross, Sinclair & Associates to be used for issuing tax revenue anticipation notes, which are expected to generate over $30,000 in additional funds for the system. Joe Nance, representing the investment firm, explained the notes would be sold and that the money would be invested for the

Floyd support group offers info on little-known disease

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

Suffering from a painful disease that can make simple, daily tasks nearly impossible is one thing, but having the disorder repeatedly misdiagnosed is even worse.

Such was the case for at least four Floyd County women who lived with a little-known disorder for years before being diagnosed with the disease fibromyalgia.

Fibromyalgia syndrome, or FMS, is a chronic, widespread musculoskeletal pain and fatigue disorder that causes pain in the fibrous tissues in the body.

The disease can cause every part of the body to ache and can carry with it symptoms that include chronic headaches.

The disorder cannot be detected with routine laboratory testing, causing many patients to be misdiagnosed and treated for ailments unrelated to the disease.

"(FMS) is usually misdiagnosed as a psychological problem," Stanville resident Sharon McIntosh said. "It's like an invisible problem. It's a chronic disease that doesn't go away, so you have to learn to live with it and deal with it."

Floyd County residents McIntosh, Phyllis Fields, Christine Meade and Eleanor Goble were diagnosed with FMS after years of seeking treatment for their ailments.

"I've been to three psychiatrists and they told me I was depressed," said Goble, of Dwale.

"I have been diagnosed with arthritis or told 'it was all up here,'" she said, pointing to her head.

Patients are frequently diagnosed with arthritis, McIntosh said, explaining that arthritis has many symptoms similar to FMS.

Studies have shown FMS can be as disabling as rheumatoid arthritis.

FMS is diagnosed by "tender points," which are clustered around the neck, shoulder, chest, hip, knee and elbow regions. Patients who are sensitive to pressure in at least 11 of the 18 tender points for three months meet the diagnostic criteria, according to the American College of Rheumatology.

Physicians have learned a lot about the disease within the last few years; however, the cause of FMS remains elusive.

There are many triggering events thought to precipitate the onset of the disease, though. Examples include an infection, an automobile accident or the development of another disorder.

"It can be caused by an accident or family trauma," Dwale resident Fields said. "Mine started with a headache" following a car accident. "I've been to an eye, ear and nose specialist and wasn't diagnosed with FMS until two years ago." She suffered with pain for years before the ailment was correctly pegged.

For 52-year-old Goble, though, her symptoms started decades ago when she was pregnant with her first child.

After living with the pain for more than 12 years, Betsy Layne resident Meade was finally diagnosed with the painful disease.

"Its not only changed my life, its changed my personality," Meade said. "If you know it early, many of the effects of the disease can be avoided. But, when it goes on and on, the damage is done."

And that's what the four residents want to do — make people aware of the disease and assist them with dealing with it.

"We want to reach out to people who've got FMS," Fields said. "(FMS sufferers) are not crazy, they're sick. They need group therapy they can go to."

"I was a fully productive person, I had an accident and from that point I went downhill. (FMS) completely changes you," she said. Goble added that the disease can get to the point "where it can control you," if it is not treated.

The four have established an FMS support group for people who think they may have the disease. The group meets on the first Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Betsy Layne Senior Citizens building.

The next closest support group for people who have FMS is in Lexington, but patients usually have difficulty making the trip because of their pain.

"Our pain, we will always have it," Meade said. "I feel better just talking about it and knowing that I'm not crazy."

Treatment for FMS patients is geared toward improving the quality of sleep, as well as reducing pain and fatigue.

Deep-level sleep is crucial for many of the body's functions, and the lack of it is thought to be a contributing factor to the symptoms of the condition.

Other treatments include gentle aerobic exercise and stretching daily; avoiding stress and overexertion; and patient education.

district. The notes will mature April 15 and excess funds will be returned to the district.

Board members tabled awarding a bid for fleet, liability, property and employee errors and omissions insurance so that an amended price quote can be evaluated. The Kentucky School Boards Insurance Trust and Hatton Allen Insurance were the only two agencies to submit bids. The bid is expected to be awarded at a special meeting called for Friday at 5 p.m.

Superintendent Mike King reported that inspections of the Betsy Layne gym bleachers and Betsy Layne Elementary have been completed by a structural engineer. The gym bleachers, which have been deemed unsafe and closed for use, can be repaired by school maintenance workers. King said there is not yet a cost estimate for the gym repairs. Also, school employees will be used to build four classrooms at Betsy Layne Elementary. The additional rooms are needed to accommodate students coming to the school from Harold and Prater schools that were closed. Facilities director Greg Adams said the project is expected to cost $40,000.

Inacomp Computer Centers was awarded a bid for computer maintenance in the schools. Technology Coordinator Debbie Dixon asked the board to consider hiring an in-house computer technician to make technology repairs. Dotson asked Dixon the average age of computers in the district's classrooms and she replied between 1990-91. There are approximately 1,300 computers in schools and 100 are not functional, Dixon said. The board will consider the request.

Additional special education units were approved for Betsy Layne Elementary and Adams Middle School to provide instruction for students affected by recent school consolidations.

and added it is the board's responsibility to establish positions.

Carter responded, "that's the way we had it put to us; that it's political."

Superintendent King said he didn't think Floyd County should be measured against other school districts.

"It's not fair to compare them," King said. "Things were in a shambles when we came here, but it's getting better. But, we need help. Help us crawl out of this death spiral and get on with educating children."

Board member Carol Stumbo said she didn't care if they hired "Elmer Fudd" for the job, she wanted to know how a person in that position could help straighten out the department.

Meek said the district's legal issues alone "are consuming us" and that the district would be accessing state teacher certification data bases themselves to check teacher qualifications.

Chairman Terry Dotson called for a vote which failed in a 2-2 deadlock, with board members Jimmy Osborne and Ross voting no.

King noted that he didn't know if he could legally pay the person doing the work because she does not fall into the district's salary schedule.

Ross said he is willing to reconsider the issue if he receives more information about the duties of the director and the assistant.

Prisoner warned to straighten up

by Chris McDavid
Staff Writer

A Prestonsburg man who has an extensive history of alcohol-related arrests was sentenced to 30 days in jail Wednesday and warned to stay out of trouble this time when he is released.

Danny Burchett, 46, was arrested Tuesday afternoon by Floyd Deputy Ricky Thornsberry and charged with alcohol intoxication, third-degree criminal trespassing, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Court records show Burchett has an 11-page history of arrests, mainly consisting of alcohol-related offenses. Assistant county attorney

Jimmy "Blue" Marcum said Burchett was in the county attorney's office last week because of similar charges.

During his arraignment Wednesday in Floyd District Court, Burchett pleaded guilty to the charges.

Marcum recommended that Burchett serve two weeks in jail for the alcohol offense and an additional seven days for the disorderly conduct and resisting arrest charges.

Floyd District Judge James R. Allen upped the punishment to give Burchett an additional nine days in jail.

"Mr. Burchett, I don't want to see you back here again," Judge Allen said. "If you (return), I'm going to give you the maximum sentence."

A person guilty of alcohol intoxication three or more times within a 12-month period can be sentenced to 90 days in jail and fined up to $100.

Burchett's most recent arrest and charges resulted from an incident Tuesday afternoon when he apparently tried to force himself into the residence of an elderly woman.

Girl Scouts Troop 557 helped the Odd Fellow Lodge at Dewey Lake with clean-up effort by picking up trash along the banks. They were recognized by the Army Corps of Engineers for their efforts.

Prestonsburg dispatch office gets overhaul with technology

After a tight squeeze for two months in a small room on the first floor of city hall, the Prestonsburg Fire-EMS dispatchers are back upstairs in their newly-remodeled office.

Computers have been updated, as well as two additional ones added to facilitate dispatchers to better serve the public.

Better technology calls for better surroundings, and over $100,000 has been spent "counting the new radio equipment, remodeling and security cameras in the office," said Prestonsburg city attorney Paul Burchett. "I feel it is the most modern facility in Eastern Kentucky," Burchett added.

A professional flair has been adopted as the dispatchers are now in uniform. Sgt. Mike Ormerod set up computer programs to maintain dispatch logs for the updated system.

"Basically, there will be two dispatchers a shift for now," said Missy Peppi, TAC officer for the dispatch office. "We have had an individual come in to train us on the computers, and now we employ six full-time and two part-time dispatchers."

Continued education is in store for the staff, as they must re-train in the link system every two years, and in basic telecommunications every year.

The department offers a tone-in system with monitors and radios for police, fire department and EMS personnel. The radios are "touch screen."

The dispatch office offers the services of police reports, incident reports, case reports and domestic violence reports.

"We are getting ready for 911," Peppi said.

She added that they also monitor alarms for different businesses.

Monitors installed in the office give dispatchers a 360-degree view of South Lake Drive and down side streets along South Lake Drive. It also includes a view of the parking lot of the municipal building, the dispatch office itself, and the downstairs portion of the building.

Following are the individuals who man the 24-hour office at the Prestonsburg Dispatch Office: Missy Peppi, Tammy Tackett, Rose Freeman, Rhoda Franklin, Doug Wells, Celina Hager, Ida Lafferty and Heather Conley.

Editorial

Good marks so far

By Ed Martin
Interim Publisher

After writing my first editorial concerning my front page fiasco a couple of weeks ago, I have had to build up the nerve to write a second. However, based on the remarkable response to our "letters to the editor" section reflecting your concerns about the county school system, I decided to share with you what I learned during a recent lunch with interim Superintendent Mike King, school board Chairman Terry Dotson and state manager Woodrow Carter.

The prevailing impression I took from our meeting was a genuine, deep-hearted concern for the children of this county. I know that recently these three men and others have had to make some very hard, and in some cases unpopular, decisions about closing five area schools. I had some concerns about the reasons behind these closures, but after discussing conditions that had existed in the school system for the past 20-plus years, it was evident that the decision was well-considered. These painful steps should lead to a stronger, more productive school system.

When these three men described their intentions for the future of the school system, I could feel their passion and concern. They talked about the current forum on Thursday nights to allow parents to ask questions and to learn about the policies of the board. They talked about a future Internet site to allow people to ask questions and make comments. They explained the need for better books and upgraded technology for the students and they spoke of the need for continued education for teachers and administrators.

As a father of six, the issues they discussed were important to me. As the publisher of the local paper, these ideas struck me as refreshing and long overdue.

Although not everyone will agree with the decisions or embrace the ideas, it is obvious to me that these leaders have our children's future and best interest in their hearts and minds.

The Floyd County Times will report all of the happenings of the school board and its future actions, good or bad. But I encourage each parent and concerned citizen to continue to ask the important questions and to be as involved as possible in the education and development of every child in our communities.

'Over here, over there'

by U.S. Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman

As the summer growing season gets into full swing, I wonder how many of us truly appreciate the large number of people around the world who benefit from the hard work our farmers do out in the fields. Sitting on our front porches, it is hard to imagine that what we do here has an impact halfway around the world, and vice versa.

We often hear talk of the global economy, but few of us really bring home its full meaning. The fact is, a good part of the reason for the success of America's farm economy in recent years is our ability to open up new markets overseas and grow existing ones. All over the world, people are eating American grains, munching on our apples, grilling our chickens and baking our hams. Even with the current financial crisis in Asia, agriculture's export numbers will be about $55 billion this year—one third of total agricultural output. That's a big chunk of the bottom line.

When President Clinton signed the Farm Bill, he focused on the need to provide economic security to farmers and ranchers in tough times. Creating and building markets overseas is an integral part of the farm safety net, which also includes crop insurance, research, credit and other programs. In order to expand on our successful trade record and grow farm incomes, we need to stay engaged in the world. There are two critical opportunities before us: the upcoming 1999 World Trade Organization talks and support for the International Monetary Fund.

Recently, I was in Geneva with President Clinton for a meeting of international leaders to lay the groundwork for new talks to further liberalize world trade. After noting agriculture's high priority, the President made his point crystal clear. Fair trade works.

To ensure a level playing field for our farmers, we need to cut tariffs, purge quotas and keep the heavy hand of state-run organizations far away from the marketplace. All countries need to lay off unfair trade practices—including weighty regulations, phony science barriers, unreasonable labeling requirements, and other creative maneuvers designed to get around the rules that govern fair and open trade.

Not only must we make sure that our trading partners are fair players, but also that they are healthy players. That is why we need to shore up support for the International Monetary Fund. The IMF has done a good job of stabilizing Asia, and preventing a global economic crisis. Their insurance on serious financial reforms, including more open markets, is good for U.S. producers. As these economies recover, so do several important markets for U.S. food and fiber. Support for the IMF's work is critical to agriculture, and it doesn't cost U.S. taxpayers a dime.

Wherever you work, whatever your trade, you are part of the global economy. As much as things happening overseas are felt here at home, the decisions we make have an effect in foreign lands. Your support for keeping the U.S. engaged in and leading a new world is critical to the future success of our farmers and ranchers, as well as our nation.

A CONSTITUTIONAL SALARY CAP THAT NEVER WAS

There had to have been a breakdown somewhere, or just some failure to communicate, to get what we have now—a situation where the state's attorney general is about to join in a lawsuit to have a state law declared unconstitutional, before the ink of the law is even dry.

Attorney General Ben Chandler has just publicly declared that the raises of the cap on county officials' salaries, passed into law just a few months ago by the general assembly, violates the Kentucky constitution. Where was he six months ago?

To pass the blame, the general assembly in 1949 was just as nearsighted, when they allowed a constitutional amendment limiting public officials salaries without adding a provision to account for inflation. If the text of the state constitution was followed to the letter, then county officials would be bringing home a whopping $7,200 a year.

But constitutions are seldom subject to the rigid interpretation that those cornerstone guidelines to governing truly deserve. They bend easily with each opinion of judges, and are sometimes twisted beyond recognition. For better or worse, such was the case from the beginning for the constitutional cap on public officials' salaries.

Before amended in 1949, the cap was at $5,000. In 1925, the General Assembly tried to raise the $5,000 limit, but when submitted to the vote of the public (a requirement for constitutional amendments) the voters said, no way. In 1927, they tried to get rid of the cap completely and, instead, allow the general assembly to change the salary level when it needed to be changed. The voters again said no. In 1929 and 1943 the voters still said no to the general assembly, until finally in 1949, the voters allowed an increase to where it is today.

Once changed to $7,200, it didn't take long before the job of setting the realistic cap was delegated to Kentucky's judges.

Part of the 1949 amendment specifically mentioned circuit judges and placed a cap of $8,400 on their salaries and a $12,000 cap on those with statewide duties. In 1962, the legislature raised the circuit judges' salaries to $10,800 by giving them statewide duties, without first consulting the voters. The law was challenged as unconstitutional and the court was blunt, noting that "candor compels the questions." Is this sort of indirect approach necessary in order to afford Circuit Judges an adequate salary under the constitution? Is the salary limitation provision (Section 246) of our state constitution a mere lifeless mathematical formula?

Whether anything in a constitution should be called "mere" is a question for constitutional scholars, but the court decided that no, "[the constitution] does not fix the compensation; it merely puts a limit on the 'dollars' that can be paid without stating whether they are 'dollars' of 1949 purchasing power or 'dollars' of current value." Thus is the story of the birth of the "rubber dollar" and the declaration that the constitution "does not fix the compensation" of public officials. If not the constitution, what or who does fix the compensation?

As a result of the "rubber dollar" case, the compensation is now based on a formula approved by the attorney general using the Consumer Price Index (current price level of goods and services purchased by the average consumer) as a guide to equal today what the constitutional limit amounted to in 1949.

Now, the attorney general calls the laws raising county officials' salaries a violation of the constitution which was interpreted by a court decision that said the constitution does not fix the compensation, and is the same court decision that led to the creation of compensation guidelines approved by the attorney general. Understand? Neither do I. But it's obvious that the constitution is not what has been violated, because it was never really followed to begin with.

Hopefully, the next time the legislature meets, they will talk to the attorney general first. How about another try at a constitutional amendment abolishing the salary cap?

MAYO MOMENTS

by Linda Lyon
Marketing Director
Mayo Technical College

It's Sunday afternoon and I sit down to write the Mayo Moments column thinking, "What do I want the readers to know about Mayo?" As I plan the ways I will market Mayo and its programs I consider many things about our history and our programs of instruction. Over the past two years I have focused on the staff as I tried to introduce you to the people who make Mayo the effective institution it is. I have tried to tie the rich history of Mayo to the present, and have detailed the diploma programs taught here.

I want to talk about something that is much in the minds of the public lately. There has been much discussion with the change to Technical College coming July 1, about our teachers and their preparation. So I thought I would explain the certification standards for technical teachers.

Like any other college, there are different certification standards for different departments. Our technical classes, like auto mechanics, electronics, welding, auto body, etc. require the teachers to have technical certification. These teachers come to us from business and industry with a proven track record of experience in their profession. They have five years or more of successful, professional work experience supplemented by college hours. Either prior to or after they are hired, they acquire an additional block of college hours in teacher training and subject areas. These teachers pursue this program of study which either leads to certification or degree and certification. After becoming certified, they then continue to update their certifications regularly with additional college hours. All of the technical teachers go through an internship after employment, being mentored by a master teacher. Many of our technical teachers already are degreed when hired and almost all who are not, acquire their degrees within two to five years. The wealth of knowledge the technical teachers come to us with is gained from a combination of being a skilled technician in their profession and collegiate preparation. These teachers also hold certifications such as ASE automotive certification, State Cosmetology Board certification, State Nursing Board certification, and other state and national certifications such as in welding, surveying and mapping, etc.

The business teachers, computer teachers, nursing teachers, adult education, and academic teachers all are required to be degreed professionals when hired. Most of these teachers at Mayo have Masters Degrees, Rank I's and additional certifications. Many of them hold certifications in more than one area. These teachers also complete a one year internship upon employment which makes them eligible for certification. They may have a vocational certification in business or a standard general certification in education. If they do not have education classes in their degree programs, they also will complete the block of teacher instruction classes.

Mayo's administrators and counselors are degreed individuals. They hold at least Master's Degrees, while most have Rank I with certifications in vocational administration and supervision. These employees also complete an internship program prior to certification.

As you can see, we have a well prepared staff. The statistics I have noted are the basics. Here at Mayo, almost every individual employee exceeds the minimum requirements for his/her position. As a staff, we constantly strive to prepare ourselves to keep our students current and to make every possible innovation available to them. Mayo's web page, located at <http://www.index.mis.net/mayortc> and the KCTCS web page located at <http://www.state.ky.us/agencies/kctcs> will keep you up to date on what's happening in technical education in KY. Please check them regularly as we work to keep you updated.

Call us at 789-5321 or visit our website if we can be of assistance to you. Remember, now is the time to apply for admission in the Fall.

ARH bake sale

On May 27, the McDowell ARH Rehabilitation Services Department received a check for $3,000 toward the purchase of a High/Low Table. The funds were donated by the McDowell ARH Ladies Auxiliary who raised the money through bake sales, raffles, and various other events. The Rehab Department is currently undergoing a remodeling and upgrading process that will be complete at the end of June. Pictured from left are Jill Dixon, physical therapist; Helen Stumbo, auxiliary secretary; Dena Sparkman, administrator; Ruby Damron; Roberta Luxmore, auxiliary president; and Melisa Bell, occupational therapist.

THE WEEK AHEAD...

Gunnells charged with killing a black bear

An apparent recent migration of black bears into the area after an absence of more than 50 years may have been altered by attacks against the protected animals earlier this month.

State wildlife officials have indicated that about 50 black bears have made their way back into Kentucky after more than a five-decade absence.

But, the black bears have not been welcomed by at least two area residents who have been arrested and charged with the slayings of two bears.

Floyd County resident Anthony Gunnells was arrested this week and accused of the slaying of a black bear near his Stanville home. He was charged with illegally taking, pursuing or molesting a bear.

Gunnells, 20, was arrested Monday by Fish and Wildlife

Officer Jim Vaughn. Officer Vaughn's report indicates Gunnells intentionally shot and killed the bear with no evidence of property damage to his home.

Gunnells' arrest marked the second in the area since reportings have indicated the bears had been spotted in the region this year.

On June 11, David Bingham was accused of shooting a bear and hauling its body away to dispose of it.

The arrest of 46-year-old Bingham, of Belcher, was less than a week after the capture of a bear at a Pike County daycare center. He was charged with possession of protected wildlife during a closed season and illegally killing a bear.

Bear sightings were reported in Floyd County last season, but area residents have not indicated the bears have been present in the area this year. — Staff report

Dr. R.V. Mettu directs Sleep Lab at Pikeville Methodist Hospital

Ramanarao V. Mettu, M.D., FACP, FCCP, has earned his third board certification, this one as a sleep specialist, and is now a Diplomate of the American Board of Sleep Medicine.

His previous board certifications are in Internal Medicine and Pulmonary Medicine. He is the only physician east of Lexington to hold this particular combination of three board certifications.

Sleep Disorders is a relatively new field; five years ago there were only a handful of sleep specialists in the entire country, Mettu said. To earn this board certification, Mettu had to complete a total of 12 months' training away from home. While continuing his practice as a pulmonologist (a physician who specializes in the diagnosis and treatment of lung disorders), Mettu worked non-stop for two years to complete the credits required to take the Sleep Disorders certification examination.

"We took no family vacations for two years," said Mettu's wife, Jyothi, a Pikeville pediatrician who shares medical offices with her husband in the Pikeville Medical Building or Town Mountain Road. Both Mettus have been members of the medical staff at Pikeville Methodist Hospital since 1982, the year that R.V. Mettu completed his Fellowship in Pulmonary Medicine through the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey.

The Sleep Lab at the hospital, which R.V. Mettu directs, opened in June 1994, during his tenure as chief of staff at the hospital. Four special diagnostic technicians work with Dr. Mettu at the Sleep Lab: Todd Werner, Susan Taylor, Kelly Justice, and Kay Casebolt.

"When I saw sleep disorders as a problem in the community," Mettu explained, "and I was sending patients to Lexington and Louisville for diagnosis and treatment, I realized there was a great need for a Sleep Lab here."

The American Sleep Disorders Association visited the hospital's Sleep Lab in 1995, barely a year after it opened, and awarded the lab itself a five-year accreditation. That, in itself, is unusual, Mettu said, because five years is the longest accreditation that ASDA ever grants.

"It is a high compliment to our hospital and the staff of the Sleep Lab that we achieved the highest accreditation possible on the first visit," he added.

The most common sleep disorder which Mettu sees among patients at the Sleep Lab is Obstructive Sleep Apnea in adults. People with sleep apnea actually stop breathing during sleep due to closure of the upper airway. Other sleep disorders that are routinely diagnosed include REM behavior disorder and Narcolepsy.

"According to a recent study," Mettu pointed out, "four percent of men and two percent of women have some kind of Obstructive Sleep Apnea with symptoms such as excessive daytime sleepiness, fatigue or tiredness, and decreased job performance."

He cautioned that there is an increase in auto accidents among people who suffer from OSA.

In fact, Mettu emphasized, sleep is not merely a "time out" from our busy routines, it is essential to our physical and emotional health. Without quality sleep, your daytime functioning can be impaired.

Quality sleep is a crucial factor in the healing process, too. If you have anything from the flu to a major surgery or chronic illness (such as fibromyalgia or rheumatoid arthritis), your healing time or remission potential will be affected by the quality of your sleep.

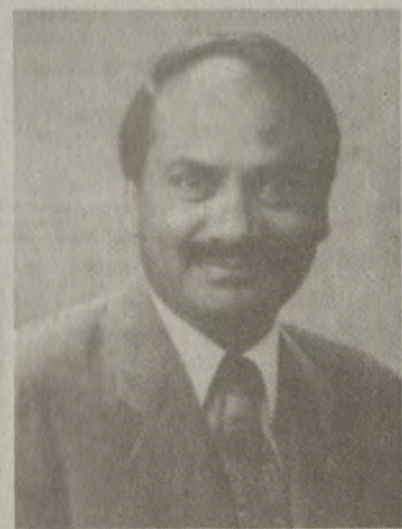

Pikeville Methodist Hospital's Sleep Lab is a diagnostic service which leads to a treatment plan. People are normally referred by their physician, but Mettu does accept self-referrals. "All people are properly screened as to their medical history," Mettu said, "and we will tell if you do not need the polysomnogram (PSG)."

That is what the test is called. What it involves is spending a night at the Sleep Lab, located on the hospital's seventh floor. A PSG takes about seven hours and monitors such activity as your brain waves and vital signs while you sleep. This gives Dr. Mettu the information he needs to develop a treatment plan which you take back to your family doctor for implementation and follow-up.

Mettu said that most insurance companies cover the test as part of their benefits, and he expects that even more will cover it now that not only is the Sleep Lab itself accredited, but he is board certified as a sleep specialist. People who are having problems with sleeping should discuss their symptoms with their family physician, who can then refer them to Dr. Mettu and the hospital's Sleep Lab.

"The two years of study and of being away from the family all the time were definitely worth it," Jyothi Mettu said. "If he can help people have better health because they have better quality sleep, then all this will have been a very small sacrifice for us to make as a family."

The Mettu family, in addition to Drs. R.V. and Jyothi, includes 19-year-old Prithu, a rising junior at Duke University; 17-year-old Praveen, a rising senior at Pikeville High School; and 15-year-old Pradeep, a rising sophomore at PHS.

Kathryn Tackett will be the coordinator of Bike-A-Thon

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital announced recently that Kathryn Tackett has agreed to be the coordinator of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital's Bike-A-Thon in Grethel, June 6.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer, Danny Thomas.

The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases that afflict our children. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and covers all costs of care beyond those reimbursed by insurance.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side-by-side seeking not only a better means of treatment; but also the causes, cures, and prevention of these terrible killers. All findings and information gained at the hospital are shared freely with doctors and hospitals all over the world.

Thanks to St. Jude Hospital, children who have leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, sickle-cell anemia, and other child-killing disease, now have a better chance to live.

The Bike-A-Thon program this year is dedicated to ten-year-old Amy Lyon, who represents one of more than 14,500 patients who have been treated at this world-renowned pediatric research and treatment facility.

Unfortunately, after treatment for fluid build-up, several hospital visits, tests, and numerous calls to doctors, Amy's problem had not been diagnosed.

Finally, Amy's last doctor referred her to St. Jude Hospital in August 1994 after diagnosing her with a form of brain cancer. There she underwent surgery and a series of chemotherapy and radiation treatments that ended in December 1994.

Unfortunately, the treatments have not been successful in curing Amy's cancer; however, the tumors are not growing, and according to Sue, Amy's mother, "this is good news, because Amy's tumors have been very aggressive."

Amy is only one example of the hope that is provided by our successful reserch, patient care, and educational programs made possible by the Bike-A-Thon campaign at this internationally recognized hospital.

In Kentucky, 418 children and their families have gone to St. Jude Hospital and received total medical care for a catastrophe illness. Thousands of others have benefited from the research findings that have developed better and more successful treatment methods.

We sincerely appreciate the concern that Kathryn Tackett has for our work to help children like Amy, and we hope the citizens of Grethel will support this year's Bike-A-Thon on June 6, to help provide the funds needed to preserve the world's greatest asset...its children.

Grant to help disadvantaged students with college money

A $2.6 million grant from the Department of Education will help more than 8,000 disadvantaged students who have the potential to succeed in higher education attend college in Kentucky, U.S. Senator Wendell Ford (D-KY) announced June 3.

Under the Education Department's Talent Search Program, individuals from disadvantaged backgrounds will receive assistance through academic, career, and financial counseling, tutorial services, mentoring programs and workshops.

"The goal of this program is to identify and assist those students in completing high school and going on to receive postsecondary education," Ford said. "We all know that education is the great equalizer, and a college degree will certainly help these youngsters realize their goals."

Nine postsecondary institutions in Kentucky will receive grants to implement the Talent Search Program:

First annual Liberty Celebration set for Boone's Landing Park

Former Floyd County resident, Father Ralph Beiting and staff of the Christian Appalachian Project (CAP) have organized the first Celebration of Liberty to be held at CAP's Boone's Landing Park on Yatesville Lake on July 4th.

Houseboat rides, food, refreshments, live musical entertainment throughout the day and access to numerous recreation facilities, such as badminton and volleyball courts, horseshoe pits, basketball court, softball field, a moon walk ride for kids, hiking trails and fishing holes will be available to anyone in the tri-state area looking for good clean family fun on the Fourth of July.

"And it won't cost a dime," said Albert Bloomfield, manager of the park. "Father Beiting simply wants families to enjoy the park that he has spent so much time and energy building. We plan on doing this every year, and as the park grows, we hope the celebration grows with it. In the meantime, we are prepared to feed and entertain everybody who shows up. Come one, come all."

Folks who like to stir early can join Father Beiting for prayer and a pancake breakfast aboard his large houseboat, The Daniel Boone, at Yatesville Marina at 9:30 a.m. Breakfast will be served during a scenic cruise from the marina to Boone's Landing Park. The Daniel Boone will dock at the marina approximately every two hours and the cruise will be repeated throughout the day.

Road signs easily direct guests to Yatesville Marina from Highway 23. Visitors who take the cruise may afterwards drive back to Boone's Landing Park, which is located six miles west of Louisa on Highway 32 and then three miles from 32 on Highway 3215.

An opening ceremony will be staged at the amphitheater near the entrance of the park at noon. Hot sandwiches and soft drinks will be served all afternoon at the Simon Kenton pavilion near the amphitheater. Softball, volleyball, basketball, horseshoes and badminton games will be organized after the ceremony.

Various entertainment will take place at other pavilions in the park, also named for Kentucky heroes like Benjamin Logan and Rebecca Boone, throughout the afternoon. Door prize drawings will be held at the amphitheater between 6 and 8 p.m. and a closing ceremony is scheduled at the Simon Kenton Pavilion at 9 p.m. Guests will be able to leave in plenty of time to catch the community fireworks display in Louisa.

"We encourage folks to bring lawn chairs and happy faces, but that's all they'll need," said Bloomfield. "This celebration promises to be a great experience for everyone who comes out. And it certainly couldn't cost any less."

Key House committees provide nearly $12 million in drug fighting money for Kentucky

U.S. Rep. Harold "Hal" Rogers (KY-5) announced Friday that three key House committees have approved nearly $12 million for drug fighting activities in Kentucky during 1999. The Kentucky National Guard will receive $5.2 million for its Counter-Drug Program; The Daniel Boone National Forest will receive up to $500,000 for marijuana eradication activities; and the newly-created Appalachian High Intensity Drug Trafficking Area (KIDTA), which includes 26 counties in Southern and Eastern Kentucky, is slated to receive $6 million next year.

"This funding is critical in Kentucky's fight against illegal drugs," Rogers said. "Kentucky has the dubious distinction of being one of the nation's leading suppliers of domestically-grown marijuana. Not only does this dangerous and illegal drug open the door to crime, corruption and violence in our communities, but it has also made its way into our schools and into the hands of our children.

"We can no longer stand by and watch our communities and children fall victim to illegal drug producers. This money will go a long way in helping us fight illegal drugs in Southern and Eastern Kentucky."

The Kentucky drug-fighting money must still be approved by the full House of Representatives, which should occur within the next several weeks.

House approves funding for Martin flood project

The House of Representatives has approved a bill that provides $730,000 to continue work on designing a flood control project for the city of Martin.

The money was included at Congressman Harold "Hal" Rogers' request in the 1999 Energy and Water Development Appropriations Bill, which funds the Army Corps of Engineers, the Appalachian Regional Commission, and other government agencies responsible for energy and water development.

"When complete, this flood control project will end the problem of flooding that has plagued the city of Martin for decades," Rogers said. "This will not only save people, homes and property, but it will also encourage businesses to expand and set up shop without worry of flood and mud."

The bill also includes $4 million for the Army Corps of Engineers to install wastewater treatment assistance projects in Southern and Eastern Kentucky and $750,000 to complete construction on a new system to capture and dispose of solid waste emptying into the Cumberland River and Lake Cumberland. Both provisions help carry out the Kentucky PRIDE—Personal Responsibility In a Desirable Environment—initiative Rogers and Kentucky Natural Resources Secretary Jim Bickford announced last year.

Additionally, the bill includes nearly $66 million for the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC). The ARC provides critical support for Kentucky's Appalachian communities, and Rogers has worked over the years to ensure the ARC is adequately funded.

Now, the bill must go to the House-Senate conference committee.

A Look At Sports

UK players continue to make news, but in a negative way

Does winning a National Championship give you the right to violate the laws of the land? Of course not. I just heard that great chorus of noooooo!

Since the University of Kentucky Wildcats captured the NCAA title back in April, all the news surrounding the Cats has been on the negative side. Myron Anthony, Ryan Hogan and Wayne Turner have had their day in court since then and now Jamaal Magloire has been searched by the police in a drug related case.

Poor Tubby! Maybe he would entertain an offer to an NBA team somewhere. After all, a brush with the law is a way of life in the professional league, isn't it?

Magloire, the heir apparent to NBA destined Nazr Mohammed, was traveling with some bad company when he was searched for drugs but none were found on the junior center.

Coach Tubby Smith has vowed things will change and Magloire will feel the wrath for his adventure. Looks like Jamal is not out of the woods yet.

Let see. We still have Michael Bradley coming back!

Oh, well!
• I still contend UK missed the boat on a solid player when they failed to recruit Paintsville's J.R. Vanhoose, who is headed for Marshall University this fall. Vanhoose could have played at UK.

• Our good man, Ken Griffey, Sr., says enough is enough and he is tired of being a patsy for the anemic hitting Cincinnati Reds. Griffey walked away from camp the other day and is not back in uniform but not until he aired out his frustrations to the General Manager Jim Bowden, manager Jack McKeon and the rest of the crew.

Griffey could be the answer to the problems of the Reds as far as a manager goes. I really can't understand why Bowden is allowing McKeon to hang around. Look what he did to Tony Perez a few years back. If the Reds are serious about building a contending team, then McKeon is not the answer but I feel Griffey is.

Let's see! Junior plays out his contract with Seattle, the Reds install Senior as manager, Junior comes to Cincinnati as a free agent to play for dad and help bring the fans back to the ballpark. It would work wouldn't it? Sure it would!

• Only Phil Jackson will be missing from the Chicago Bulls camp when NBA play resumes in October. But then will there be an NBA season? Sure there will be. Don't let the break down in negotiations fool you. The NBA owners are in the same deep hole (their own doing) that the major league owners have placed them. They can't survive without a season and there will be an NBA season.

• It is that time of year again and we can expect Rosenberg's Roundball column after the draft (Wednesday night).

• Speaking of the draft, Nazr Mohammed just about did not make the NBA league. Well, he went 29th in the first round and that is as low as you can go and not miss the big bucks. Very few second rounders get the big money or even stick around after a few seasons.

The big UK man was taken by Utah and then later traded to Philadelphia. Someone filled the young man's head with dreams that never materialized. Now he is out for the college season because he hired an agent. Oh, he will be part of the 76ers, for awhile. He has a long, long way to go before he will play at that level and you wonder if any NBA team wants to take on "a project."

• Listen. There are two teams in the state of Kentucky making their way to the National AAU tournament in Lafayette, Louisiana in July and one of those teams is right here in our area. The 14-and-under AAU girls' team, composed of players from Floyd, Johnson, and Pike counties have

Temperatures, tempers flare at Riverside

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Remember when fans were asking when it was going to "warm up and stay warm?" Well guess what, it is here and proof of that was this past Saturday afternoon at the Riverside Kart Raceway where the temperatures were in the high 90s.

But the temperature was not the only thing that rose, tempers were rising as well from parents and drivers as they displayed a moment of being upset at the Dwale track. It was the first such incident of the season.

Track director Ricky Setser said, "he will not tolerate unsportsmanlike conduct from drivers or parents."

"We will not allow any alcoholic beverages at the track," said Setser. "Nor will we tolerate any offensive language of any kind. Anyone disobeying these rules will be barred from the track for the rest of the season."

While things did not get too far out of hand, nearly 50 karts enjoyed the race day as water was kept on the local track in handling the dust problem.

Hazard driver Jeremy Hall stole the show as he took home first place finishes in both the Stock Medium and Open Class. Hall drove his No. 7 kart to the winner's circle in front of Eulis Combs. Darrell Day placed third.

In the Open Class, Hall raced past Lester Newsome and Bobby Wireman in taking the checkered flag. Newsome finished second, and Wireman third.

Michael Setser made it 10 straight wins as he placed first in the Kids' Single Pull class. Setser has been one of the consistent drivers this year at the facility. Donald Setser placed second in the event and Daniel Prater took third place.

Shawn Davis drove his No. 3 kart in winning the 250 Class. Last week's winner, Michael Stephens, finished third with Mike Sturgill placing second in kart No. 11.

However, Stephens did move up a spot from last week in the Stock Appearing by finishing second behind front-runner Jason Cantrell in kart No. 10c. Stephens placed third last week. Carlos Hall finished third this past Saturday. Cantrell, of Prestonsburg, took the green flag and raced all the way to victory lane as he lapped the rest of the field.

It was a first for Brandon Hall of Hazard as he picked up his first win of the race season. Hall drove his No. 11 kart to victory lane in the Briggs Junior class. Hall finished ahead of Patrick Porter and Jacob Ross.

David Pack picked up a first trophy and some points in winning the Stock Heavy class. Damon Runyon finished second and Shawn Porter placed third.

In the Rookie Class, Dustin Holbrook moved to the top spot from a week ago as he drove kart No. 33D to a first place finish. It was the first victory of the year for Holbrook. Josh Stumbo, who finished third last week, moved up to second. Justin Akers placed third.

Racing continues Saturday afternoon with the green flag falling at 4 p.m. It will be two-for-one grandstand seating for just $5. Pit pass is $8. Riverside Raceway is planning a big Fourth of July race day.

Despite blowing motors in the past, Chafins finds success

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

It was four years ago when Thunder Ridge Speedway became a reality here in Floyd County. Of course, the original goal was to establish a harness horse racing track in the county but the facility, located on Route 3, turned out to be more than just that.

With visions of crowds gathering and the popularity of stock car racing around the area, an oval track was installed inside the harness track and stock car racing came to Floyd County.

For local driver, David Chafins, it has been a learning experience but a good one. Chafins has experienced what every driver has to go through when making that plunge into the racing world, mechanical woes.

"We've had a bad streak of blowing motors and the car over heating," he said with a laugh. "We have done that a lot."

But good luck seems to have replaced the bad and Chafins has become one of the upcoming drivers in the bomber division at The Ridge.

"We've had some good success this year," said the driver of car No. 27S. "We won two weeks ago and that was my second win here at Thunder Ridge."

Chafins is fourth in the points standings but feels that will change.

"I think we should be higher," he said. "Last year we finished second. But the season isn't over yet and there is still plenty of racing left."

Chafins, like most drivers, was impressed with the facility and how things were moving quicker this race season.

"Brad has done a real good job," he said. "The track is a lot smoother than what it used to be."

Chafins will be part of the bomber division that will run Friday and Saturday night.

Thunder Ridge has many promising drivers and David Chafins is one of them. Chafins, along with his pit crew, will be part of the show at Thunder Ridge this weekend in the Thunder 100. Chafins runs in the bomber division. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Inks with Pikeville College

Allen Central golfer Greg Horne signed a golf letter-of-intent with Pikeville College recently. Horne finished eighth in the regional tournament this year and shot in the mid-30s during the regular season. He played three seasons at Knott County Central before transferring to Allen Central.

Ferguson leads Super Bomber class at East Kentucky Raceway

by J.R. Hopson
Track Writer

The track crew at the Eastern Kentucky Raceway was kept busy this past Saturday night as the humid temperatures made watering the oval track a must. The frequent watering of the track caused the final checkered flag to fall in the early morning hours.

The early season points leaders were announced with Harlan Ferguson leading the Super Bomber division with 34 points. Paul Steagall (32) and Joey Back (30) rounded out the top three.

Brent Layne had 30 points to lead the Bomber's, class followed by Kevin Smith (28) and Ron Moore (24).

Steagall even led the Road Hogs with 38 points. Mark Nicholas and Ronnie Hall were tied for second with 30 points apiece.

In the Road Hog feature, Hall took the early lead and was seemingly on his way to taking the checkered flag until lap 29 of the 30-lap feature. Nicholas overtook Hall on next to the last lap and held on for the win.

Robby Pigg had little trouble in winning the Super Bomber feature as he led from the green flag to the checker. Pigg dedicated his performance to the memory of Bear Ealey.

Teddy Blackburn placed second and Ferguson placed third.

It was a comeback effort on the part of Wylie Jeffrey of Barbourville, W.Va., as he battled hard to overtake Darrell Luniford to win the Legend's feature.

The Bomber feature was a crowded one as 17 cars battled on the oval track as Rodger Brown held off the field on his way to the winner's circle and a feature win.

The lead exchanged between Brown and Kevin Baker. Brown took his first lead on lap 9 but Smith rallied back to lead after lap 10. On the 12th lap, Brown regained the point on lap 12.

Due to the number of cautions and the 30 minute time limit about to expire, track officials decided to green, white, checker the feature. Brown held on following the final caution to take the checkered flag. Gary Miller placed second with Dale Hazelette finishing third.

This Saturday, a Super Bomber feature will highlight the racing card. Racing begins at 7:30 with gates opening at 6 p.m.

Migratory bird seasons, new fishing laws proposed

Tentative dates for this year's migratory bird hunting seasons were approved at the quarterly Fish and Wildlife Commission meeting in Frankfort Friday, June 19. These dates are pending federal U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service recommendations. The federal recommendations are announced the first of July with a 30-day comment period. Federal guidelines are anticipated to be unchanged for all species except wood duck.

Dove season will be three segments with a total of 60 days. The first segment is September 1 through September 30 with shooting hours from 11:00 a.m. to sunset. The second segment runs October 3 through October 26 with shooting hours from 11 a.m. to sunset. The third segment runs November 26 through December 1 with shooting hours from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. Bag and possession limit for doves is 15 and 30.

Woodcock season is October 17 through November 30. Bag and possession limit for woodcock is three and six, respectively. Snipe season is September 16 through November and the second segment is November 26 through January 24. Bag and possession limits for snipe are eight and 16.

The big question on the minds of bird hunters is whether there will be an early wood duck and teal season again this year. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has allowed Kentucky to have this experimental season for the past 17 years. The season proposed is September 16 through September 20. The daily bag limit would be four of which no more than two could be wood ducks. Possession limit is twice the daily limit. Both the Atlantic and Mississippi Flyway support continuing this season as it presently exists in Kentucky, Tennessee and Florida.

At their same meeting, the Fish and Wildlife Commission approved several fishing regulation changes.

On Grayson Lake white bass, yellow bass, striped bass and their hybrids will have a size limit of 15 inches and daily of five singly or in combination. The limits will be needed to protect an annual stocking program of hybrid striped bass.

On Dale Hollow Lake the size limit for largemouth bass will be 15 inches. The daily limit for black bass on Dale Hollow will decrease from six to five fish, only two of which can be smallmouth bass. There will also be a crappie size limit of 10 inches and a walleye daily limit of five on Dale Hollow. These regulations will go into effect March 1, 1999. The changes conform to existing Tennessee Wildlife Resources Agency regulations, which manages the majority of the Dale Hollow Lake.

Some smaller lakes will have more liberal fishing regulations come March 1, 1999. On Elmer Davis Lake the slot limit for largemouth bass will be 12-15 inches. On Peabody Wildlife Management Area's (WMA) Goose Island and South lakes the size limit for largemouth bass will be 15 inches. There will be a largemouth daily limit of three and possession limit of six on Upper Game Farm Lake, Leary Lake, Cyprus Amax WMA lakes, and Peabody WMA's Goose Island and South lakes. Also on Goose, Island and South lakes, the crappie limit will be 30 daily and 60 possession. The limit for channel catfish will be four daily and eight possession on Upper Game Farm Lake Leary Lake, Lincoln Homestead Sate Park Lake, and Peabody WMA's Goose, Island and South lakes. There will be no size limit for channel catfish on Cyprus Amax WMA lakes and Peabody WMA's Goose, Island and South lakes. The limit for bluegill will be 15 daily and 30 possession on Cyprus Amax WMA lakes and Leary Lake. There will be no size or creel limit for bluegill and redear sunfish on Lincoln Homestead Park Lake. The use of shad as bait will be prohibited on Beaver Lake.

The Fish and Wildlife Commission also approved a delayed trout harvest season for five streams in Kentucky. Beginning with the next license year, only catch and release trout fishing will be allowed from October 1 through March 31 in the following streams; Bark Camp Creek, Whitley County; Cane Creek, Laurel County; East Fork Indian Creek, Menifee County; Hawk Creek, Laurel County; and Rock Creek, McCreary County, from Bell Farm Bridge upstream to the Tennessee state line.

These streams are rated as good or excellent trout fisheries located on public land. The restrictions will provide greater winter fishing incentives and increased opportunity for holdover fish to reach larger size.

Finally, the Fish and Wildlife Commission voted to allow the harvest of catfish at night by bow fishing methods. Currently, bow fishing at night is limited to rough fish with scales.

The daily limit for catfish under the amended regulation will be five.

The next meeting of the Fish and Wildlife Commission will be August 21, 1998 at 8 a.m. Eastern. This meeting will be held at the Arnold L. Mitchell Building at the Game Farm on US 60 in Frankfort.

Students to watch Peregrine Falcons

Eight students from across Kentucky will get a close-up view of an endangered bird that's making a comeback in the Bluegrass.

The students won Kentucky Utilities Company's (KU) "Falcon Fridays" contest, an essay-writing competition for middle school students, and will spend a day at KU's Ghent Generating Station in Carroll County, on the Ohio River. They will assist wildlife biologists by learning how to monitor peregrine falcons, an endangered species that the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) is restoring to the state.

The students and the date they will be observing the falcons are:

- June 26: Winston Maupin, Lebanon and Krishna Veeraraghavan, Lexington;
  - July 10: Jessica King, Nicholasville and Emily Skaggs, Hodgenville;
  - July 17: Trevor Mills, Paynesville and Joanna Minch, Louisville; and
  - July 24: Ryan Kennedy, Marietta, GA and Emily Thompson, Verona;
- Co-sponsored by KU and KDFWR, the contest was open to students across Kentucky ages 9 to 13. To enter, each student submitted an essay on Why I Would Want Peregrine Falcons to Return to Kentucky. In addition to monitoring the peregrines, students will record bird activity for cable television, prepare food and feed fledglings.

Peregrines were once native to Kentucky, but in the 1950s the Peregrine population in the United States was nearly wiped out. Efforts to reintroduce the birds around the nation began in 1974. The program has been going on in Kentucky since 1993.

In 1995 and 1996, KU helped the KDFWR set up a falcon hacking house on a roof at KU's E.W. Brown Generating Station near Burgin. In 1997 and in 1998, falcons were released from the roof of the Ghent Generating Station.

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP SERIES

Yes, you could see it coming, but Jeremy Mayfield still had to take that all-important step from consistent top finishes to victory lane. He did so with a gusto, dominating the Pocono 500 in his Penske-Kranefuss Ford.

It was a big day for a lot of drivers. Darrell Waltrip led late in the day before fading to sixth. Wally Dallenbach Jr. finished a season-high seventh, and Dale Earnhardt earned a few notices with his eighth.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK SERIES

The annual Bristol Motor Speedway event was a stirring, race-long duel between Ron Hornaday and Jack Sprague, with Hornaday making it two years in a row in his blue Chevy.

The high-banked concrete claimed more than its share of sheet metal. The Loadhandler 200 had plenty of competition back in the pack, but the lead was a private matter between Hornaday and Sprague, both former series champions.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Dale Earnhardt vs. Ken Schrader

Dale Earnhardt vs. Ken Schrader: It's musical feuds: first, Gordon vs. Wallace, then Wallace vs. Earnhardt, now Earnhardt vs. Schrader. After being eliminated early after a love tap from the seven-time champion, Schrader noted that Earnhardt apologized. "Yeah, that's the same thing he did the last time he wrecked me." NASCAR This Week writer Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "This is better than an afternoon soap opera. I'd call it 'The Young and the Reckless,' but Earnhardt and Schrader aren't young anymore."

FROM THE ARCHIVES:

The rich history of NASCAR
The 1991 Banquet 300 at Sears Point had a finish that is just about unprecedented in NASCAR history. Ricky Rudd took the checkered flag but officials deprived him of the win. Penalizing Rudd for rough driving, the governing body handed the victory to Davey Allison and Rudd was relegated to second.

The return of Chrysler to Winston is imminent ... or is it?

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week
LONG POND, Pa. — The return of Chrysler Corp. to Winston Cup racing could be imminent.
NASCAR president Bill France Jr. has confirmed that meetings are under way between officials of the governing body and Chrysler. France said NASCAR is actively working on a process to make the Dodge Intrepid a viable participant in the Winston Cup Series.
BUT, THEN AGAIN ...: Yes, discussions between NASCAR and Chrysler Corp. are going on, but according to someone who ought to know, the impetus is coming from Daytona Beach, not Detroit.

Richard Petty, the greatest figure in the history of Chrysler Motorsports, last drove a Dodge in 1978. If and when Chrysler returns, Petty's No. 43 will probably cross over, and Petty Enterprises already competes in the Craftsman Truck Series with a Dodge Ram.
But Petty characterized the discussions this way: "Turn that thing around. Chrysler is talking to NASCAR about the Truck Series. NASCAR is talking to Chrysler about Winston Cup. That's where it is right now."

INSUFFICIENT EVIDENCE: Jimmy Spencer, or some other driver, may have thrown a piece of roll-bar padding onto the track to avoid being lapped at Michigan Speedway, but NASCAR could find no evidence of such an act.
"We have evaluated all of the videotapes, and the evidence is inconclusive as far as how the debris got on the race track," said Winston Cup director Gary Nelson. "While we consider the situation suspicious, there is no conclusive evidence as to how it occurred."
"NASCAR's view of a caution flag is to warn drivers of potential hazards. Obviously, roll-bar padding is not a hazard, but we don't know that until we go and pick it up."

LIKE FATHER LIKE SON: Bobby Hamilton Jr., 20-year-old son of the Winston Cup driver, made his ARCA debut in the 200-mile Saturday undercard at Pocono International Raceway.
The elder Hamilton served as crew chief for his son, who plans to run several NASCAR Craftsman Truck Series events this year. Larry McClure, who owns the father's Winston Cup Chevrolet, provided an engine for the son in the ARCA race.

The seaside towns of Sausalito and Tiburon, both located on the northern end of San Francisco Bay, are unrivaled in seaside eating accompanied by the most romantic of atmospheres. A delightful meal with a breathtaking view of one of the world's great cities: It doesn't get any better than this.

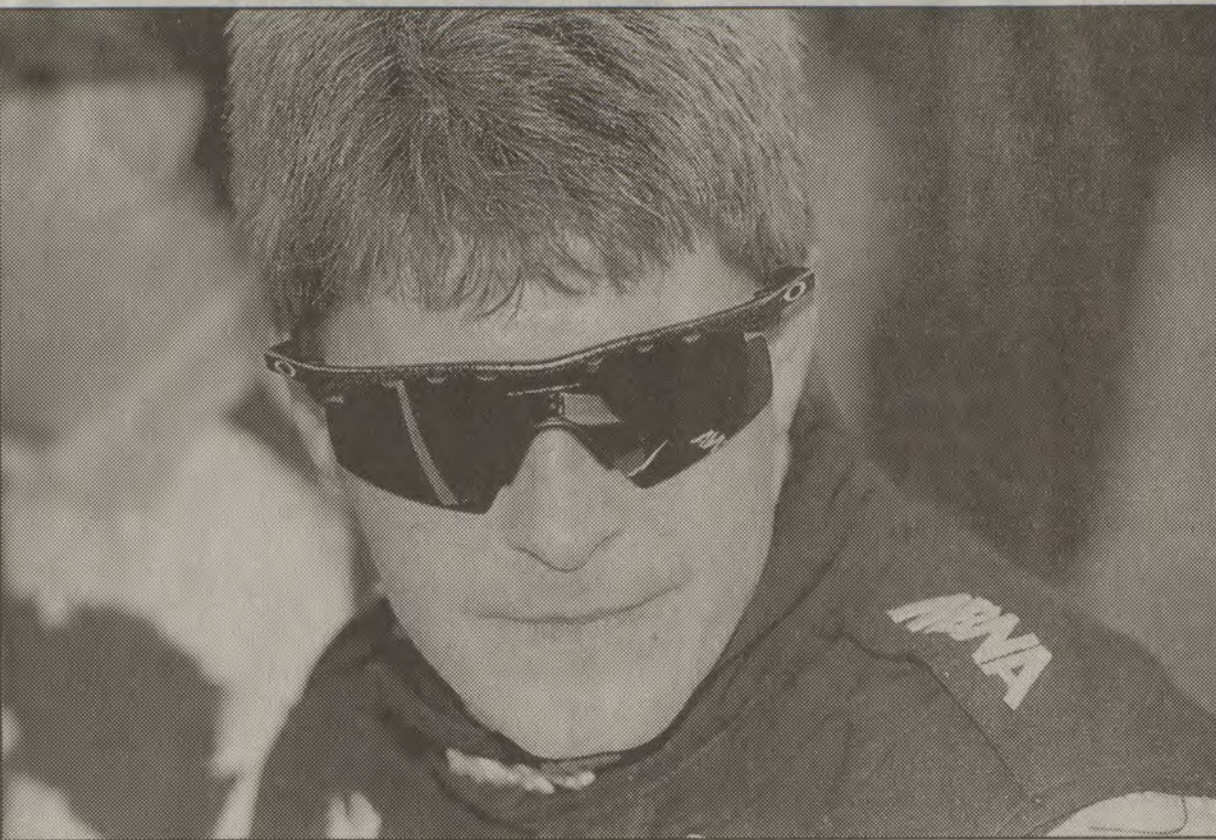

Bodine and Dale Earnhardt have also taken the checkered flag here.
NOTABLE: Martin swept both pole and race last year. ... Bodine's 1993 victory was the last of car owner Bud Moore's 63 Winston Cup wins. ... Wally Dallenbach Jr., a fine road racer in good equipment, must be considered a contender for his first Cup win.

OTHER FORMER WINNERS: Labonte, who will be at Sears Point with the Cup regulars, has won this race four times. Ernie Irvan and Bill Elliott have also won.
NOTABLE: McLaughlin is the only BGN regular ever to win the annual event at the Glen. ... This is the only road race on the schedule.

In the fall of 1995, the combination of driver Ward Burton and owner Bill Davis seemed like a match made in heaven. In their eighth start together, Burton won his first Winston Cup race at Rockingham. Burton, whose younger brother Jeff won three times in 1997, has been looking for an encore victory ever since, but this year he and Davis show signs of returning to victory lane, especially after Burton won the pole at Michigan recently.

CHILDREN: Sarah (11), Jeb (5).
CAR: No. 22 MBNA Pontiac Grand Prix, owned by Bill Davis.
CAREER RECORD: 128 starts, 4 poles, 1 win, 4 top 5s, 21 top 10s, almost $3.5 million in winnings.

WHAT IS THE REASON FOR THE TEAM'S IMPROVEMENT THIS YEAR? "No mechanical failures is the biggest difference in our team over last year. We were eighth in points after Talladega last year and had four motor failures in a row. Frank Leisson and Terry Elledge have done a really good job in making the motors live all day."

FOR THE REST OF THIS SEASON, WILL YOU TEND TO TAKE MORE RISKS IN AN EFFORT TO GET A WIN? "I don't know, maybe a little bit, but not much. You've got to finish the race first. You've got to have the mentality whether it's 400 miles, 500 miles, 500 laps, we've got to run all the laps first. If you're in a position to win, then of course we'll go after it with everything we've got. ... You know, the other thing is that we'll be going back to tracks we've been to for the second time. Not only my team, but everybody's team will have a lot of data and notes that we'll be able to use to have a good evaluation of what we'll do with the chassis for the second go-round."

HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT THE TEAM'S PROGRESS AS YOU APPROACH THE HALFWAY POINT? "The biggest thing we need to keep doing is finishing races. We're second in overall laps run. I'm proud of the team and myself in that we're capable of doing that. I've been lucky not to be involved in any wrecks, and the team has done a good job mechanically on the car. We need to keep doing that and, at the same time, some of the races we've had a better car than where we've finished."

YOUR TURN

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week,
Obviously Rusty Wallace is extremely jealous of Jeff Gordon and his capabilities. Why else would Wallace drive so sloppy and put Gordon in the wall before being passed? On purpose, I might add.
Rusty getting loose? Come on! The interview with Rusty afterward said it all. Who's the crybaby now when things don't go his way? What a poor sport.
What comes around goes around, Rust.
In 1998, Jeff will make it "three-time champ."
Rick Potter
Jacksonville, N.C.

Dear NASCAR This Week,
Why is it that, after the mishap at the Pontiac 400, the only thing that was said was Rusty did this or that?
Why was nothing said about Jeff Gordon's attempt to run over Rusty and almost hook his bumper on Rusty's wheel well?
Wonder Boy can run over anyone, but no one is supposed to touch him?
Remember, JG, what goes around comes around. Racers are only human.
They give back what they get.
Deanna Harrison
Saltillo, Miss.

The Times They Are A Changin'

It is becoming obvious that many traditions as we once knew them are rapidly changing. For example, family reunions are no longer just get-togethers for generational families, but now include extended relatives such as step-parents, grandparents, and siblings. And according to a friend of mine, we have now paved new territory concerning death arrangements.

In some areas of the state, paying your last respects is accomplished as easily as ordering a Big Mac and in much the same manner by driving through a drive-thru!

"You have to be kidding," I said to my friend one day when she called to tell me an acquaintance of hers had passed away and she had just returned from the viewing. "You actually went to the viewing in your pajamas?"

Sure. I just ran through another drive-thru and picked up breakfast for the kids on my way back.

"That seems so callous," I replied.

"Oh, Sara," my friend gushed. "It's just a ritual. I'll always remember her fondly regardless of how they put her away."

"How did she look?" I cried.

"There was a smudge on the window that distorted her lipstick, but aside from that she looked natural. The other one didn't look so hot though."

"There was more than one?" I asked incredulously.

"Yeah. Some man I never saw before."

"They were lying side-by-side?"

"Like two peas in a pod. There was room for two more. It will make things easier for you when they start doing this in Eastern Kentucky. You know, you can kill two birds with one stone, so to speak. Go to the store, run by the viewing, have your nails done . . ."

Speaking for myself, I was hoping this type of display never happened around here, but my friend was insistent.

"I was even able to order flowers over the intercom and charge it to my VISA."

"Did you sign a register?"

"It was just like going to the bank. In fact, it was a renovated bank. I took out the capsule, signed the paper, and sent it back. Easy as clockwork. The only drawback was when the guy behind me started honking his horn to hurry me up. You know, Sara. I was so close to the deceased I probably idled longer than I intended, but that was no reason for the guy to be rude. After all, I didn't put it in park."

"Where's the funeral going to be, in the parking lot of a drive-in movie?" I asked sarcastically.

"Absolutely not! That wouldn't be dignified. There is going to be a private ceremony in the vault."

If you ever visit me in this manner, in lieu of flowers pay my overdraft.

News of the Weird

In May, a Plainfield, Conn., religious sect called God's House, filed a $200,000 lawsuit against the state Department of Children and Families for sending to foster care, the young daughter of sect leader, Sister Rachael. According to the Sister, the little girl is very important to the sect in that she is the result of Rachael's impregnation by God.

Jim Gordon, a candidate for South Carolina's elected agriculture commissioner, told a campaign-stop audience in Greenville in May, that the two most important issues stifling the family farm are access to technology and "the homosexual agenda." "How does that relate to agriculture?" he asked rhetorically. "We can't have Bob and Bob being married" without hurting the concept of the family farm.

Job-training That Works

In February, police in Bemidji, Minn., raided a methamphetamine lab and discovered that several of the workers making the drug were local jail inmates on a work-release program. The alleged meth kingpin was also a local contractor and had requested the inmates for his legitimate business, but then diverted them.

Unclear on the Concept

In a 32-part series ending in December, the Providence (R.I.) Journal-Bulletin chronicled Wendy Moricas' pregnancy in which she received the sperm of her sister's husband, Joe, and bore the couple a child that would have many of the couple's genes. Said sister Kathy, after having given

A night to remember at Jenny Wiley Theatre

Jenny Wiley Theatre held its annual opening night activities Friday, June 19, with a reception and silent auction as a prelude to the first performance of the magical fairy tale Cinderella.

Special guest Governor Paul Patton assisted in the festivities by drawing the winner of the trip to New York. All money raised from the silent auction went for the 1998 production fund.

The auction was spearheaded by Jenny Wiley Theatre board member Tracie Sturgill.

"This was the best opening night I've ever seen. Everyone was thrilled with the reception, and the performance was exceptional," Jenny Wiley Theatre board member and Special Events Coordinator Inez Baldrige said.

One of the largest opening nights in recent years, the Jenny Wiley Theatre box office reported 427 people in attendance.

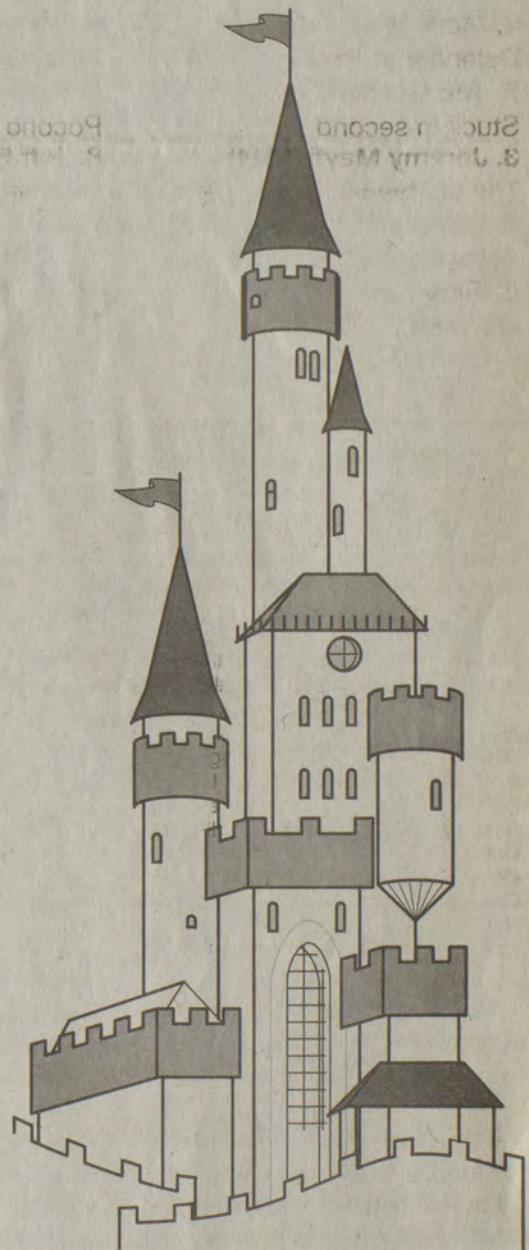

"Opening night was a tremendous success, everything went really well, and everyone did a great job,"

Jenny Wiley Theatre Chief Executive Officer Carla Coburn said.

If you missed the opening night of Cinderella, you can catch encore productions on July 4, 11, 17, 19, 21, 25, 29 and 30.

Wendy a syringe containing Joe's sperm. "This is God's will." Also in December, Pietra Thornton (estranged wife of actor Billy Bob Thornton) told USA Today that she was proud of her surgically enhanced breasts. "[S]uddenly everyone's looking," she said. "God gave me this body, and I shouldn't be ashamed of it."

Postal Services Still Have Some Issues

In April, an assistant to Vice President Gore told The New York Times that Gore's "Hammer Award," to the New York Police Department for creative excellence in government, "will probably be FedExed" to the mayor (rather than sent by Postal Service Overnight Mail). And Italy's controversial law forbidding the payment of ransoms was circumvented in late 1997 by the family of prominent businessman/kidnappee Giuseppe Soffiantini, who gathered about $2.3 million and was ready to pay, but never could, because the kidnappers' drop-point instructions were lost in the mail.

Nurture vs. Nature

Vying for a council seat in the town of Beaufort in Eastern France this spring were identical twins (i.e., every gene the same) Christian and Claude Buchots. Christian is of the Gaullist (conservative) party; Claude is a Socialist Green candidate. On the other hand, in March, the Albuquerque, N.M., jail was the temporary home of John Simms, 52, and his son Stacy, 27, both charged with separate rapes.

Cultural Diversity

In March, according to an Associated Press report, there were once again calls in Thailand to end the custom of the ex-Burmese Padaung tribe to routinely outfit some women with up to two dozen metal coils around their necks. A typical set of rings can weigh 11 pounds and severely elongate the neck by pressing down on the collarbone and ribs, and the practice continues largely for the photo opportunities it provides tourists at about $6 each.

In March, a representative of the former Soviet republic of Ingushetia made a formal plea to Boris Yeltsin for the Russian government to stop hampering the Ingush tradition (and that of most of the surrounding Caucasus) of a man's selecting a wife by kidnapping a woman and carrying her away. Said the Ingush lobbyist, "This practice should be [regulated] by local authorities, who understand local needs."

The chief justice of Sudan, Obeid Hajj Ali, issued a decree in April to halt the flogging of women, following an outcry over the recent government beatings of 40 females who had merely handed an official a note protesting Sudan's military involvements. However, the chief justice said there were exceptions to the decree and that women could still be flogged for drinking alcohol or committing adultery.

The Austrian parliament approved a law in February to require that husbands assume half the household chores and child-rearing responsibilities. (In a recent case, a man had won a divorce because his wife didn't use a certain dishwashing detergent.) On the other hand, after studying 1,000 women, Dr. Jean Claude Kaufmann, a sociologist at the Sorbonne in Paris, reported in March that more than half found housework pleasurable, with nearly all who worked in the home saying the work heightened emotion in some way, even erotically. One said she ironed immediately after breakfast to experience "explosions of joy"; another became "inflamed with passion" by touching "the merest dishcloth."

Least Competent Criminal

FBI agents arrested Jeffrey Brian Whitlock, 26, in Richmond, Va., in February and charged him with making telephone bomb threats to three downtown federal buildings. Agents went to the ransom dropoff point and found it to be the office of a telemarketing firm; when the agents explained why they were there, the manager looked over his work crew on duty and suggested that Whitlock might be the guy. Indeed, according

Tuning In

ABC's new comedy lineup includes:

"Two of A Kind," stars the Olsen Twins as pre-teen daughters of a single father, played by Christopher Siebert. Kate and Ashley — the twins — work together to play Cupid for their dad and their college-student nanny, played by Sally Wheeler.

"CUPID," is from producer Scott Winant who gave us "My So-Called Life" and "thirtysomething." The show centers around Trevor Hale (played by "Ellen's" Jeremy Piven) who claims to be the real Cupid. In any event, somehow he does manage to affect the divorce rate and other love-linked (or unloved-linked) factors of human life. "Brother's Keeper," stars William Ragsdale a no-nonsense English professor raising an 8-year-old son. His life is disrupted by the arrival of his rambunctious football star brother, Bobby (Sean O'Bryan) who must live with a responsible party (hello, Bro!) as required by his million contract with the 49ers.

"The Hughleys" is executive produced by Chris Rock. The series involves a husband father who seems to have it all — but is in danger of losing touch with his African-American roots.

"The Secret Lives of Men" from "Soap" and "Golden Girls" creator, Susan Harris. The series stars Peter Gallagher, Brad Whitford, and Mitch Rouse as a trio of men trying to cope with divorce, dating, visitation rights, and golf.

"Sports Night," from Academy Award-nominee Aaron Sorkin ("A Few Good Men") and Ron Howard takes the audience behind the scenes of professional sports and the people who report on it.

New ABC Dramas include the new "Fantasy Island" with Malcolm McDowell as Mr. Roark and "Twin Peaks" Madchen Amick as his assistant.

"Mr. Chapel" stars Michael Madsen ("Species II") as a man who loves children and chocolate and spends his time devising punishments for criminals who have beaten the justice system.

Happy July 4. Celebrate with Tony Danza hosting PBS's "A Capitol Fourth 1998" which features the music of America's great composers, George Gershwin, Irving Berlin, and George M. Cohan.

BAY LEAVES — This is for Linda P. of New York, N.Y.:

While she's sealing her food from roaches, that's fine. But those nasty bugs crawl on dishes and silverware.

Get rid of roaches forever. Put bay leaves in every drawer or cabinet in your home or apartment. I put them behind the refrigerator and stove, under the sinks, everywhere. In other words, I use these bay leaves all over the house and have used them for many years — NO ROACHES. Get your neighbors in their apartments to use them as well. Mabel S., Crossville, Tenn.

I put bleach in used wine vinegar squeeze bottles. I have it on my counter to place in water to freshen dish cloths.

I cut up cereal boxes to a handy size for my bag and pocket. I never lose them and they're great for my grocery list.

When I make a pot of beans, I put them into meal-size plastic bags and freeze. Just drop them into hot water to heat. Ellie M., Canada

PHOTO FINISH — I have finally decided to tackle all the photos and negatives and thought I would pass along my evolving file system.

The 8-by-10s and 5-by-7s go into those great clear sleeves from the office-supply store and then into three-ring binders. The clear plastic sheets used for sports trading cards also go into the binder with chronological wallet-size pictures of the kids and grandchildren.

Snapshots are filed in the great photo file boxes that are now so popular. Liz R., Findlay, Ohio

ON THE RUN — I have a folding overnight nylon bag with zippered compartments. I keep an extra toothbrush and toothpaste, a comb, trial-sized toiletries and first-aid supplies in it at all times.

When I'm packing, I throw it in my suitcase and off I go confidently knowing I did not forget anything. Jim W., Sacramento, Calif.

Mystery shrouds drowning death of local woman

Rescue workers recovered the body of Rebecca Moore, 52, of Lovely, from the shallow waters of Wolf Creek last Sunday night after family members had reported her missing.

The exact cause of death is yet to be determined according to Martin County Coroner Rex Endicott, who has sent her remains to the state medical examiner's office in Frankfort for an autopsy.

According to police reports, family members had reported Ms. Moore missing on Saturday after someone in the neighborhood had seen her walking down Wolf Creek carrying a sleeping bag. — The Martin County Sun

Vehicles impounded by sheriff's office

A recently opened Lovely business found itself the center of some "unwanted attention" last week when members of the Martin County Sheriff's Office seized two late model pickups that had been reported stolen from Huntington, W.Va.

Chris Bailey, owner and operator of Rinse and Wrench, a combination automotive repair and detailing shop, reportedly told police that he didn't know that the trucks police impounded from his business had been re-built from stolen parts.

The VIN numbers on the two vehicles didn't match. One of the trucks had three different VIN numbers and the other had two.

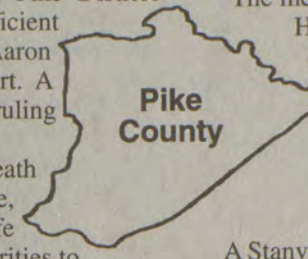

Police declined to comment on the department's investigation into the matter. — The Martin County Sun

In a closed preliminary hearing in Pike District Court, Judge Darrel Mullins found sufficient evidence to move the case against Aaron Jason Justice, 15, out of juvenile court. A grand jury now has 60 days to make a ruling on the matter.

Justice is accused of stabbing to death Darlena Hanners, 43, and Olivia Justice, 15, with a medium-sized pocket knife before calling 911 and waiting for authorities to arrive. — Appalachian News-Express

Stanville man jailed in killing of black bear

A Stanville man was jailed Monday after he shot and killed a black bear near his home, authorities said.

Anthony Gunnells, 20, is the second area man to be charged this month with taking the life of a bear.

According to the arrest warrant taken out by Fish and Wildlife Officer Jim Vaughn, Gunnells intentionally shot and killed the bear at his residence with no evidence of property damage or threats. He was charged with illegal taking, pursuing or molesting a bear.

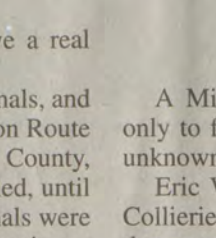

Earlier this month, David Bingham, 46, of Belcher, was charged with shooting a bear and hauling its body away to dispose of it. — Appalachian News-Express

Martin County has the opportunity to have a real animal shelter of its own in the county.

Martin County was collecting all of the animals, and bringing them to a temporary holding facility on Route 645, and then hauling the strays to Greenup County, where nearly all of the animals were being killed, until humanitarian Bob Calloway saw how the animals were being treated and decided to do something about it.

Calloway has chosen to take the task of providing a shelter and hopefully a good home for the strays in the county. The project is being fully funded by Calloway from his own pocket. — The Martin County Sun

Milo resident is victim of break-in

A Milo family returned from vacation this week only to find that they had been the victims of, as yet, unknown thieves.

Eric Washburn, a former employee of Wolf Creek Collieries, returned from his family vacation and found that, even though he had taken the precaution of hiring a house site, (after having been hit by thieves two years ago), roughs had torn the boards off of his outbuilding and stolen about $600 worth of yard maintenance equipment. — The Martin County Sun

Attempt to unseat Newsome aborted

Despite pledges of solidarity last week, the Pike County Board of Education may be more at odds than ever following a failed coup and one board member's allegation that school district employees are being used to defend board Chairman Alvin Newsome.

The coup was apparently attempted when member W. Keith Hall — usually linked with Newsome — worked with members John Blackburn and Bobby

Single-vehicle wreck kills Hager Hill man

A Hager Hill man died in a single-vehicle accident shortly after noon Tuesday in Collista after the Dodge pickup he was driving went off the road and flipped, causing its roof to crush downward into the cab.

Ronald D. Cunnagin, 38, was driving southbound on Route 825 when his truck "left the highway, went through the air and clipped a telephone," according to Coroner J.R. Frisby.

Cunnagin's vehicle apparently flipped end over end for 300 feet after leaving the roadway.

The coroner pronounced Cunnagin dead at the scene after rescue workers and a state police officer tried to free him by prying open the roof and doors on both side of the truck. — The Paintsville Herald

Preacher lands in jail after tax spat

A preacher, who refused to pay his property taxes, was arrested in the Johnson County Sheriff's Office last Thursday after he allegedly got into a scuffle with a deputy.

Gary S. Rice, 52, of Oil Springs, was charged with third degree assault, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest by Sgt. James McCarty.

"He came in saying that he didn't believe in government; that the Bible said there wasn't such a thing as government," McCarty said.

McCarty said in court papers that Rice went into the sheriff's office at 10:20 a.m. last Thursday, "shouting he would not pay his taxes and causing the people there an inconvenience, an annoyance and alarm."

Rice was released from custody later the same day on his own recognizance. He was ordered to not go into the sheriff's office until the case was resolved. — The Paintsville Herald

Ground broken for industrial parkway project

Dirt, sweat and smiles filled the air at the Boyd Carter County line last Tuesday as Gov. Paul Patton and other officials broke ground for a new $98 million parkway expected to pave the way for economic development and jobs in northeast Kentucky.

City budget gives raise to workers

A proposed budget for the city of Louisa reflects raises in several departments, despite the fact that the possibility looked bleak last year.

Council members voted to approve the first reading of the budget, which gave .75 to $1 an hour raises to police officers, street and sanitation workers and dispatchers, but may have made some revisions.

"We were very fortunate to not have as many people working for us as we did last year," Mayor James L. Vanhose said. "I'm glad we could (give raises) to them. I think the council has gained a lot of friends with this budget." — The Big Sandy News

Tap fees offered at reduced rate

Tap fees for a sewer line project to serve the Point Section of Louisa can be purchased at the discounted price of $350 until July 1. After that date, the price will return to $500. — The Big Sandy News

Morgan man drowns at lake

Mitchell Caskey, 42, of White Oak, drowned last Saturday evening while swimming in Cave Run Lake.

Caskey was swimming about 150 feet from the bank in the Paragon area of the lake around 8 p.m. when friends saw him go under in water 7 to 8 feet deep.

His body was recovered by the Morehead Fire-rescue dive team about an hour and a half later and was pronounced dead at 9:30 p.m.

Caskey is survived by his wife, Mona Caskey.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at the Herald & Stewart & Halsey Funeral Home. — The Licking Valley Courier

Licking River woman third snakebite victim this year

Sherry Robinson of the Licking River community was hospitalized two days last week after being bitten on the leg by a large copperhead snake.

Mrs. Robinson said she stepped on the snake while she was mowing her lawn.

She said her husband, Denzil, killed the snake, which measured 4 1/2 feet long, but a second copperhead lying close by escaped. She said the reptiles were lying about 20 feet from the house near a path frequented often by her young children.

Her husband drove her to the Morgan County ARH Hospital where she said she was administered two shots of morphine for pain then was transported on to St. Claire Medical Center in Morehead where she was admitted. Mrs. Robinson said emergency room personnel at ARH told her she was the third Morgan resident they had treated for copperhead bites this year. Adm. Dennis Chaney said ARH normally treats nine or ten snakebite victims each year. — The Licking Valley Courier

City council says no to zone change on close vote

The West Liberty City Council, with one member absent and two abstaining, voted Monday to accept a planning commission recommendation to deny a zone change requested by K & M Rentals to allow a new car-wash business in the city's central business district.

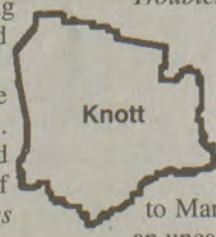

Voting to accept the planning commission's recommendation to deny the request were council members Belinda Jordan and Robert Nickell. Councilman Jerry Lindon voted not to accept. Council members Dwayne Nickell, a member of the planning commission, and John Motley, who with his partner, Tim Keller, had requested the change, abstained. Councilman Homer Rose could not attend the meeting.

The council also amended and approved a draft of a proposed interlocal agreement between the City and the Morgan Fiscal Court for operation of a single county-wide E-911 emergency telephone communication system. As amended, the agreement, prepared by attorneys for the city and county, would provide for an advisory board — not an administrative board suggested by the

Court approves budget

During their first meeting in two months and since the election, the Knott County Fiscal Court, in a generally friendly atmosphere, approved the 1998-1999 county budget of $5,031,966 and engineering services for two potential industrial sites and completed a long agenda.

This year's budget is very similar to the slightly larger budget of last year, $5,125,928. The budget suggested the county is in good financial shape having a carryover balance of about $1 million. — Troublesome Creek Times

Fossils are puzzle to family

Red Fox teenagers Jonathon and Marcum Mullins were playing near the Carr Creek Lake area when Jonathon noticed some odd-shaped rocks at the base of the cliff. He showed them to Marcus and they noticed several of the rocks bore an uncanny resemblance to human bones.

The boys' mother, Debra Mullins, showed one of the rocks to a friend who examined the rock under a microscope. The two agreed that it seemed to be a type of fossil and may have historical significance.

One of the rocks has been sent to the state's pathology lab for testing to determine if the rock contains fossilized human remains. — Troublesome Creek Times

Around 35 people attended the board meeting with Principal Bill David Hall. A representative expressing support drew loud applause from the group. — Troublesome Creek Times

When distant and unfamiliar and complex things are communicated to great masses of people, the truth suffers a considerable and often a radical distortion. The complex is made over into the simple, the hypothetical into the dogmatic, and the relative into an absolute.
