PFD wants super camera

The Prestonsburg Fire Department is raising money to buy an infrared imaging camera which will attach to a helmet and allow firefighters to "see" into the hot flames of a fire.

To buy the camera, the department needs to raise $25,000+, and several local businesses have already pledged to help. Four grocery stores — Food City, Foodland, IGA and Winn-Dixie — are each donating $100 worth of food which can be won in a drawing.

Shoppers can buy tickets in the stores for the Dec. 14 drawing at $1 for one ticket, $5/six and $10/12. Also assisting with the fund drive are Wal-Mart, CableVision, WQHY and Statewide Press.

Sgt. Bill Callihan says the special camera will help the department rescue persons trapped in a fire, including firefighters who can easily lose their way in the smoke. The manufacturer, CairnsIRIS, will be in town next Tuesday to demonstrate the camera, and the public is invited to stop by.

Find out for yourself

The public can learn more about the proposed Prestonsburg Recreation and Economic Development Complex, known as the Mountaintop Project, at a public meeting Monday at 5 p.m. at Prestonsburg City Hall on North Lake Drive. According to a notice from city officials, the "public is invited to attend and comment on such issues as economic and environmental impacts, service area, alternatives to the project or any other pertinent issues."

Council OKs PO for school board offices

by Pam Shingler
Editor

To keep the Floyd County Board of Education's central office in the city, Prestonsburg City Council voted Monday to offer the current post office building for use to the board.

The board has been looking into the possibility of moving its administrative offices from Arnold Avenue to the now-vacant Martin Elementary School, and the Prestonsburg Council is in the process of buying the post office, which is being replaced by a new building at the intersection of US 23 and KY 114.

At the special-called meeting, the council approved a resolution authorizing Mayor Jerry Fannin to "negotiate a lease with the Floyd County Board of Education for the use of the Post Office building as temporary office space until the Board can secure permanent space."

Further, the resolution offers the city's help in securing a permanent location for the school board, through the Prestonsburg Industrial Corporation (PIC).

Councilman Estill Carter told the other council members that the PIC had offered to build a building for the board's administrative offices more than six years ago when it was developing the area at Cliff where the Big Sandy Area Development District and other businesses and agencies are now located.

Blue-blooded

Scarlet Garrett of Betsy Layne gave blood Monday. She is participating in the first day of the Kentucky-Tennessee blood drive competition. Michelle Lynch of the Central Kentucky Blood Center in Prestonsburg draws the blood as University of Kentucky fans try to outdo University of Tennessee fans in blood donations this week. Donors receive a tee-shirt and their names are entered in a drawing for a turkey, donated by Estill Carter, and a UK football, signed by Coach Hal Mumme. The competition continues today and tomorrow from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Friday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The process takes about 45 minutes. The CKBC is on the second floor of Prestonsburg City Hall. ## Church serves up free food in Thanksgiving Day feast

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Local residents can gobble up some turkey and dressing as well as fun and fellowship this Thanksgiving at the Community United Methodist Church in Prestonsburg.

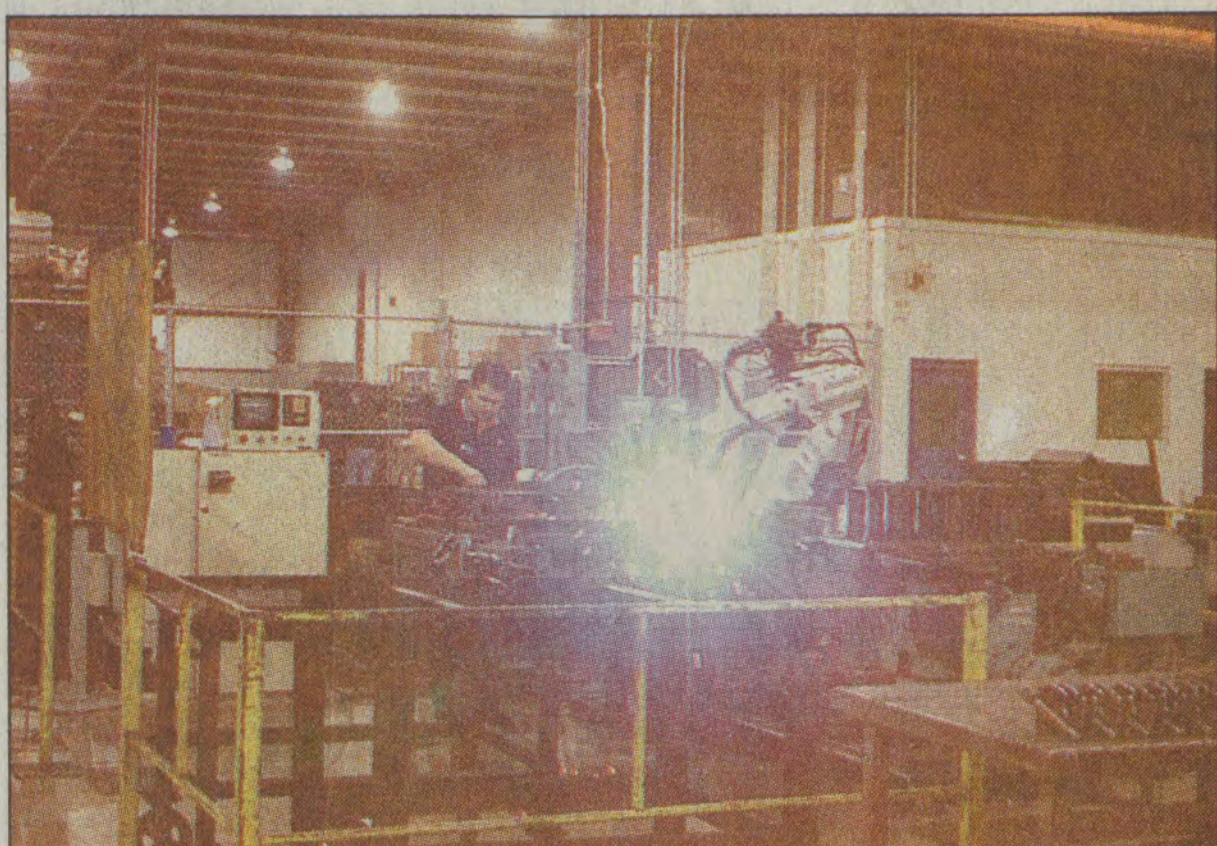

Each year, the Prestonsburg church, with the help of several other churches in the area, hosts a Thanksgiving dinner for people who want to share a Thanksgiving meal with others or who find themselves short of funds this holiday season. There is no charge for the meal, which features the traditional Thanksgiving food with a few extra trimmings. There's also no charge for the delivery service to home-bound people who don't have transportation to the church to pick up their meals. Delivery, though, is limited to a 10-mile radius of Prestonsburg.

The church prepares around 250-300 meals annually. They deliver two meals each to participants of the Meals on Wheels program, according to Debra Burke, who initiated the Thanksgiving dinner program at the church about 12 years ago.

Burke said she began the program after she participated in an event in Lexington called "Clear Day." Burke learned about volunteer efforts to help the needy. She

R&S shows off its new plant

by Willie Elliott

Visitors to the open house on Saturday may have thought the adage, "work smarter not harder," was the guiding principle behind the construction of the new R & S Body Co. which recently moved operations from Allen to Ivel.

The company, now a subsidiary of Standard Automotive which has other sites in Missouri and New Jersey, has been at the new location since Labor Day weekend. The company spent almost $7.2 million for the land and the 140,000-square-foot plant.

Additional money was spent from new equipment, but much of the equipment was brought from the Allen site, according to Charles Collins, president of the local manufacturer.

The modern equipment and streamlined layout make the work less demanding physically but more demanding in terms of skills, said Collins.

One of the first machines on view at the open house was a Whitney Plasma machine which burns and cuts holes in aluminum and steel. "This is a computer numerical control machine," said Hassel Hall, operator of the machine.

On down the line Keith Price was operating a Panasonic robot. Much of the heavy lifting has been eliminated by the use of cranes and lifts, Hall said.

The company, long associated with building of truck beds for coal haulers here in eastern Kentucky, now does most of its business in the Northeast, Great Lakes area, and Florida, according to Paul Nunn, chief financial officer.

Nunn noted that only about 20 percent of the company's business is coal-related.

The company, which employs about 180 (125-130 in the shop), sells more steel dump bodies than

Sweet news attached to Honey Branch site

Times Staff Report

Gov. Paul Patton swooped into the region Monday to buzz about the state's support of a new, cooperative industrial site at Honey Branch near the regional airport in Martin County.

The governor announced that the Kentucky Cabinet for Economic Development is recommending the development and funding of the proposed Honey Branch Regional Industrial Park. The park, he said, is a cooperative effort involving Martin, Johnson, Floyd and Pike counties.

If approved by the state Economic Development Finance Authority, the cost of the development, estimated at $4.9 million, will be paid through multi-county coal severance tax receipts targeted for the Regional Industrial Park Program.

Other state and federal sources are expected to fund infrastructure projects to both the new federal prison and the Honey Branch industrial site. Grants have already been approved for engineering work, water, wastewater treatment and land acquisition.

The 200-acre park is located off KY 3 on Airport Road and is adjacent to the 350-acre site of the prison which is under construction.

Patton said he asked county judge-executives — including Floyd County's Ben Hale — in coal-producing counties to look at economic development as a regional program. He also encouraged fiscal courts to form coalitions with other counties to create industrial development authorities. All of the counties in the coalition will share in the tax revenues generated by the industrial park, once it is operating.

at the time, did not follow up on the offer.

"PIC would be willing to do it again," said Carter, who is on the board of the industrial agency. "We could build the building, to the school board's specifications, and lease it to the board. When the building is paid for, the (school board) would own it."

The post office building on Central Avenue, for which the city is paying $175,000, will be available at the end of February or early March, Fannin said. According to a post office employee, the building has about 3,000 square feet on each of three floors.

The present central office building for the school system is in "terrible shape," according to Interim Superintendent Mike King, who cited uneven settling, water damage, sagging beams, and separation of the porch from the building, among other problems.

However, when contacted following the Monday council meeting, King said he knew nothing of the city's proposal to lease the post office to the board. He had placed on the agenda for last night's board of education meeting a report on moving the central office to Martin, but he said Monday he planned to ask the board for more time to get remodeling estimates.

Acknowledging that he was not thoroughly familiar with the post office building, King said he did not believe it has enough space for the school administration's needs. "I don't think it would fit all of our needs," he said.

"We would like to bring all (central office personnel) into one building," King said. The former Martin Elementary building, he said, would allow food service, Title Four and other instructional employees to rejoin the central staff. Those offices are now at the old Allen Elementary School.

A drawback of the Martin building is its location in the flood plain, but King believes the flood potential can be addressed with landscaping.

He also acknowledges that the Martin site could be affected in a few years by a proposal that the federal government buy properties in the flood-prone area and help businesses and property-owners to relocate.

Councilman Carter called the proposed plan to move the central office to the postal building a "win-win for everybody."

Mayor Fannin said that both the Floyd County Health Department and the Floyd County Library could use pieces of the property on which the current board of education building sits.

Contacted again yesterday, Councilman Carter said he did not believe the council would require the board to pay rent on the post office building. He said he sees the proposal as a way to get school system employees "into a safe building" and to have them remain in Prestonsburg. Regarding agreements between city and county agencies, Carter said, "We have got to show a better spirit of cooperation."

The old building, King said, dates to the mid-1920s and has been poorly maintained. The post office, which is on the National Registry of Historic Buildings, was constructed in the 1930s by the Depression-era Workers Progress Administration (WPA).

The board of education was expected to discuss the city's proposal at last night's meeting.

"I commend the county judge-executives in Martin, Johnson, Pike and Floyd counties for having the vision and the wisdom to be more concerned about economic opportunity for their people than they are in county boundaries, and more interested in jobs than in turf battles," Patton said. "They are demonstrating to the rest of the state what can happen when cooperation becomes more important than competition."

Gene Strong, secretary of the Cabinet for Economic Development, said, "The projects that are being recommended are those determined to best meet the overall goals of the Regional Industrial Park program. Now we will begin marketing these new industrial sites and working to recruit new and higher quality jobs in these areas of Kentucky."

Money for the development of the parks will come from the Local Government Economic Development Fund, which provides grants of coal severance tax revenues to coal-producing counties to assist those counties in diversifying their economies beyond coal.

Accident sends three to hospital

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

A three-car accident on Rt. 1428 at the entrance to Adams Middle School sent three people to the hospital yesterday morning.

Tammy McCoy, 39, of Prestonsburg was driving a Ford

Taurus north on 1428 when she came upon traffic and was unable to stop. She hit Ella Collins, 36 of Prestonsburg. Collins was in turn pushed into Sherry Burchett, 28, of Huesville, who was driving a Chevy Caprice. Burchett had three passengers with her—her daughter Jennifer and two other ladies.

Collins, Burchett, and passenger Hammy Wartz were taken to Highlands Regional Medical Center in Prestonsburg.

Prestonsburg police officers routed traffic through the campus of Adams Middle School while they cleared the cars involved in the accident.

Feast

Burke approached her church leaders and asked about supplying Thanksgiving dinner for local families.

"They said yes, yes, yes," Burke recalled, and the tradition began.

About 15 to 20 people help her with the food preparation. So do members of other churches who donate supplies or money for the project. Preparations begin as early as possible and Burke also passes along the wisdom she has learned as a volunteer.

"I tell them 'whatever you do, you're the servant. You've got to have the right attitude,'" Burke said. "The second year, maybe it was the first year — it was so cold that year, we had a family of ten that walked to our church. Some of the women left and went to Hecks and bought toys for those kids. That was a real memorable time — to think someone would walk through the bitter cold to get there."

She also often recalls the words of her friend Jean Rosenberg, whose father said "We are God's hands and feet."

"I thought that was so true ... Unless we become God's hands and feet, it won't be done. There's people who won't be fed," Burke said.

Burke's son was five months old when she started spending her Thanksgiving Day at the church. He's now 12.

"He thinks this is Thanksgiving. He thinks this is what everybody does," she said.

Burke's father had died just a couple of years before she started the program and it was difficult to tell her mother that she couldn't participate in their family dinner.

"It was hard for me to say, 'Mom, we won't be there.' She said 'I'll change mine. She has hers at 4:30,'" Burke said.

Burke said she has a lot of assistance from helpers who are faithful in their participation of the event.

One of those is Sandy Howell, who has dished out food since Thanksgiving of 1986. That was the year Howell's husband, Barry, died in an automobile accident and she dreaded facing the holiday without him. When Burke told her about the Thanksgiving meal program, she jumped at the chance to help.

"To me, it was a blessing. I had nothing to do, and I was really dreading (the holiday), but once you find people who have needs or problems worse than yours, it makes a difference. When you can help somebody, it makes you feel good," Howell said Tuesday.

Howell's children, Angela and Misty, also lend a helping hand. Often by delivering meals.

"The kids go out. They're amazed at things they haven't seen before — a lot of older people who are by themselves. My girls always were thoughtful of others, but it helps them (to participate). Even this year, some of the teenagers (in the church) have come to us and said they want to help," Howell said.

She experiences a lot of camaraderie with the church members and with the people who attend, and she encourages others to participate.

"I love it. I'm so excited about people coming down. It's like we take a day that normally people spend with their family. It just feels good to do something for somebody else."

"It's not always the less fortunate; it's just people who're by themselves. Some of the people from the church come and sit and talk. We don't have as many people (from the community spend time at the dinner) as we like..."

"We all eat there, too. We have couples that are just husband and wife that don't have children around who come and eat with us. It's not just for people who don't have something to eat at home. That's not it at all. It's a happy time. I don't think anybody ought to be by themselves," she said.

The dinner will be held from noon until 1:30 at the church, which is located on Burke Avenue in Prestonsburg. The dinner will be served in the church's fellowship hall, in the church basement.

Carryout is available, but people who need meals delivered must call now, Burke said. Call 886-2654 days; 886-6595, day or night; 886-1916; 886-8113 (leave a message); or 874-9143.

Churches helping in the event include the First Baptist Church, the First United Methodist Church, the First Presbyterian Church, the Trimble Chapel Freewill Baptist Church, the Pleasant Home Baptist Church, and St. James Episcopal Church.

any other product. Shop workers on average make about $9 per hour, Nunn said.

R & S Body did $20 million in business last year.

During the open house, employees escorted visitors through the operational process.

One visitor, David Collins of Allen, said he was impressed with the plant. He was shown the various departments by employee Moses Frasure of McDowell. "I learned some things I didn't know about this business," said Collins, who works for Coleman Oil.

The original company was started in 1957 in Hazard by Marcum and Gilva Reynolds as Reynolds Body Company. In 1963 the Reynolds brought the business to Allen, and in 1968 they went into business with their daughter and son-in-law, William and Delores Smith, forming R & S Body.

Standard Automotive retains the name R & S because of name recognition, Charles Collins said. Former owner William Smith remains a consultant.

During the open house visitors were treated to a buffet meal and other refreshments.

The best revenge

Surely no one in this region is ungrateful for the excellent medical facilities available to us in Lexington. Many lives have been saved or prolonged because of the treatment provided in the heart of the Bluegrass. We are fortunate to have the caliber of specialists fairly nearby to tend to our ailments.

But it was somewhat shocking to read in a recent Herald-Leader article that patients from outside Lexington — including a large number from the Big Sandy Valley — account for "at least $555 million a year in revenue" for the Lexington health service community. That's five-hundred-fifty-five MILLION, coming from our pockets and from the pockets of our insurers, both public and private — in which case it's still from our pockets.

And that's not all we leave there. The Kentucky Department of Travel estimates that if only one family member comes with each of the 30,000 patients who are not from Lexington each year, the city takes in almost $3.5 million.

Although many central Kentuckians like to poke fun at our extensive and intensive family system in the mountains, they have to take it seriously when we bring several carloads to stay with an ailing grandpa or aunt, staying in motels, eating in restaurants and picking up a few items at the mall. You do the math.

A map accompanying the article, which was in the Nov. 9 edition, indicates that between 1,100 and 1,199 Floyd Countians are among the thousands who seek medical care in Lexington. Add the counties of Johnson, Magoffin, Knott, Pike and Martin and the total comes easily to more than 5,000.

Some of the health care sought in Lexington results from occupational hazards that have been almost unavoidable in this region for a hundred years and more. Working around coal dust almost invariably leads to severe breathing problems of all kinds. Plus, we have a growing number of elderly in our area, and as the body ages, it breaks down. That's simply the way we're built. We are mortal.

However, we're sending a good bit of that money to Lexington unnecessarily. There are a number of health conditions we have the power to eliminate or at least control.

For instance, our region has the highest concentration of smokers in the country. Everyone knows someone — often in our own family — who has died of lung cancer, yet eastern Kentuckians continue to smoke, endangering not only themselves, but also those around them.

We also have a high concentration of persons with some kind of digestive malady, yet we remain grease gulpers. We forget that when our ancestors sat down to a plate of greens laced with pork fat, fried cornbread and fresh, whole milk, they'd been involved in hard labor all day — not just getting up from in front of the TV.

Likewise, most of us don't get anywhere near the amount

PARTY VOWS TO CHANGE ELECTIONS

Editor:

This is in response to the November 6, 1998, edition of the Floyd County Times in which Carla Boyd, the Floyd County Clerk, said that if she had the election to do over, she would have put more voter machines in the large precincts. Boyd's decision left thousands of voters standing in long lines in the cold drizzling rain on election day.

Her failure to place machines where the voters were gave the incumbents and the candidates backed by the political machine a big advantage. When the machine is backing a candidate, they have solid votes to put the candidate into office, no matter what the rest of the county thinks. An outsider's only chance of beating the machine is to bring 15 to 16,000 voters out to vote.

Thousands of voters waited in lines for hours, and thousands left the long lines after standing in drizzling rain, because of family responsibilities, comfort, or work schedules. When the Floyd County Board of Elections makes people stand in line for an hour in the rain to vote, it is impossible to get that kind of turnout.

The new leadership of the Floyd County Republican Party vows that this will never happen again. We will cause the voting machines to be open and equally accessible to all the people and work hard to have the largest voter turnouts Floyd County has ever seen.

While some of us had the chance to vote on election day, and exercise our rights under a democracy, for many the freedom of democracy was lost here in the long lines and the cold November rain.

DISAPPROVES OF DANCE CATS DRESS, ACTION

Editor:

I had the opportunity to take my daughter to Prestonsburg High School this week to get her picture taken. While there I saw many of the other children having their pictures taken.

We are very proud of our Prestonsburg Dance Cats. They are very talented young women. They are obviously very bright and beautiful. We have many wonderful children in our county. Many of them have great potential.

But, while at the school, and even now as I write this, I am troubled by something I saw.

I saw a few of the Dance Cats having their pictures taken. I took notice of the uniforms they had on. I was embarrassed for myself and for the young ladies. What is the message we are trying to send in our families and in our school system when we allow our children to dress this way and then dance what sometimes are very sensual dances in front of the public?

I am the father of daughters who are talented enough to be on the Dance Cats. As a father trying to teach them what is right and wrong, I could not consent to my daughters dressing or dancing in that way. I wish our parents and our school system felt the same way.

REROUTING WOULD ADD $20 MILLION

I cannot figure what building a bridge to a proposed industrial site off KY 1428 at the Ball Alley Curve has to do with not building or replacing the Town Branch Bridge.

To get from the proposed site at the Ball Alley Curve to the Town Branch Road would require building a road that would cost about $20 million.

The bridge is proposed to cost $3 million. That is a total of $23 million to build a bridge and road. Would it not make more sense to build the Town Branch Bridge for $3 million and apply for funds to build another bridge to the proposed industrial site.

The same result would be accomplished for $6 million. You save $17 million.

The money has already been appropriated for the Town Branch Bridge and work is scheduled for next year. As stated in the past, this is a very valuable bridge, not only to the people of Town Branch, but it is also used as a short cut from US 23 to downtown Prestonsburg.

The emergency agencies from Prestonsburg testified before the General Assembly in Frankfort that this bridge saved valuable time if an emergency occurred on Town Branch, as well as on U.S. 23. It is of great value as an exit and entrance to Prestonsburg. It relieves some of the traffic from the Combs Bridge leading into Prestonsburg.

I know the two councilmen as well as most of the people who live in the area where the bridge would connect to Prestonsburg. I feel that once they think this issue through, they would agree the bridge is needed and of great value to their city.

I am sure that most people who have a road or bridge near their home would prefer it to go some other way. They may be occasionally disturbed at night by a flashing light or siren or when an emergency vehicle goes past, but I would think it would be worth it, knowing valuable time was being saved.

Because we have the West Prestonsburg Bridge, a twin to the old Town Bridge, which can be preserved by the Historical Society for pictures, etc., I would suggest the old Town Branch Bridge be torn down and built back in the same location. This would cause very little disturbance to anyone's property, and no more inconvenience than the past 70 years the bridge has been there.

I would hope the people of Prestonsburg would not turn down another exit and entrance to their town. Common sense tells you the more ways in and out of a town can only help.

The Town Branch Bridge needs to be built now, with the money already appropriated for the job.

I know the mayor, most of the city council members and the city attorney, and I cannot see them turning down a $3 million bridge to their city. I believe they are for progress and anything that would benefit the city of Prestonsburg.

The Town Branch Bridge would, without doubt, be a major asset to downtown Prestonsburg. It would be especially helpful to people going to the courthouse, board of education and downtown businesses.

Mountain Voices

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

Recently, columnist Mary Schmich of the Chicago Tribune did a column based on John Glenn's return to space and his opportunity to relive a thrill of his younger days. She asked people what day, what thrilling event of their youth, they would like to recall.

As you literature students know, this is not an entirely new idea. Thornton Wilder did much the same thing in that wonderful play Our Town. Wilder had his character come back from the dead. Emily chose her 12th birthday, and...oh, read the play. It will take you back to the values of a younger America.

Which day would you choose? I asked some Floyd Countians to share with us the day they would choose.

Those magic moments

Since I am writing this article, I get to go first.

Willie Elliott, McDowell

I'm not picking births, marriages and those kinds of things. One thing that stands out in my mind is when the plane bringing me home from Vietnam landed in California. You know, I can't even remember the city—it probably was Oakland. It was a touching scene to see a whole planeload of men crying because a plane landed—safely. Not that I actually saw much of it—something got in my eyes.

Patty Murphy, Wayland

The day I graduated from college. That was something that Dad wanted for me. He and Mother made me go—I'm glad they did. I started and then quit for three years. Then I went back and finished. Mom and Dad were there that day, and they were so glad that I had done it. They were happy and so was I.

Delmas Saunders, Prestonsburg

The day I met Edna Burke. We had 56 years of the sweetest marriage two people could have. We never shouted at each other. We fell in love and never stopped. Edna passed away in 1994.

Clinton "Deaner" Moore, McDowell

The day I was baptized. It was the first Sunday in October 1963. I would want to relive that day, but this time I would wait for my friends (and my enemies). I would tell them, "This is not the same fellow you used to know because I have now dedicated my life to the Lord." This was a wonderful day for me, so I would want to share it with my teachers. I would especially invite Violet Moore and hope she could be there for the baptism.

Judge Hollie Conley, Eastern

I would have to say the day I got married because we have had so much fun. We have been married for 56 years.

Violet Moore, Drift

When I graduated from college and gained my independence, I knew I could make it on my own and not have to depend on others. I always told the girls that it was really important for them to get a good education so they wouldn't have to be totally dependent on a man or anybody else. I went on to teach 33 years at McDowell after going through grade school and high school there. (You best not say anything bad about McDowell—Violet T. will get you.)

Send us your moments. We want to see what magical moments Floyd Countians have experienced. The mailing address, e-mail address, and fax number can be found

BLOOD RIVALRY IS ON

Editor:
Kentucky has many winning traditions, including saving lives. Central Kentucky Blood Center and the Big Blue blood donors celebrated 10 years of helping others—and crushing Tennessee—during the 1997 Big Blue Crush blood drive competition. The yearly Battle for Blood between Kentucky and Tennessee generates spirited participation from University of Kentucky fans throughout Central and Eastern Kentucky.

Since CKBC and MEDIC Regional Blood Center in Knoxville began the off-field battle in 1987, 40,000 pints of blood have sustained hospital patients during the Thanksgiving holiday season.

Big Blue Crush '98 promises to be another great event. With the rivalry between the football programs revitalized, a record number of donors are expected to participate. 1997's Big Blue Crush set a new donation record, with 5,825 pints given. MEDIC took the trophy back to Knoxville, with 3,121 pints donated to Kentucky's 2,704.

Although Tennessee won last year's competition, it was the largest turnout by Kentucky fans since 1993. We count on our donors to prevent a Thanksgiving shortage, and they always exceed our expectations.

A record-breaking goal of 3,000 pints has been set for CKBC's 11th annual Big Blue Crush, November 16-20. If you bleed blue, we need you!

At this very moment, patients are receiving blood transfusions in hospitals just a few short miles from us.

Voices

on page 4. Or you can come in and see us and tell about your day.

Last week I was doing a story at the old court house. Ben Hale yelled down from the top story of the building and told me to knock on the window of the building next to the court house. I did with fear that I would be shot, but Judy Marshall looked out and I pointed to Ben and she came out and talked to him.

As I walked on toward the Detention Center, she yelled and said, "Willie, I was just reading your column when you knocked on my window."

And, hopefully, volunteer blood donors are stepping up to make the commitment to help save lives in our community. CKBC is counting on you to make that commitment. You have a great opportunity to impact your community and "Crush" Tennessee.

of exercise we ought to, which leads to all kinds of skeletal problems and contributes to obesity, which has its own complications.

We often complain about losing money to Lexington, but we have within our power the ability to control the amount. Sure, we want the medical facilities there to continue to serve us well, as they have been doing.

Yet, we don't need to take nearly as much money there as we have been. We could stem the flow by taking better care of ourselves right here at home. Someone once said it perfectly: Living well is the best revenge. — Pam Shingler

Engineering scholarship

Wesley Howard, a University of Kentucky student from Hueysville, was honored recently at the College of Engineering Scholarship Banquet. Howard, is a recipient of the Elk Horn Coal Corp. Scholarship. The scholarship was established in 1990 by the Prestonsburg corporation engineering students from Floyd, Johnson, Knott, Letcher, Magoffin and Pike counties.

The banquet honored 230 engineering students as well as the donors who made scholarships possible. Scholarship recipients were seated with the donors, in order to allow them to meet each other.

The East Kentucky Center for Science, Mathematics, and Technology is moving into its second year with increasing interest and support from the community it serves.

The center staff has settled into office space donated by The Bank Josephine of Prestonsburg. Bank Josephine President Dennis Dorton has been instrumental in giving the Center a "home" in which to house operations until the facility recently funded in the last legislative session is completed. The donated office suite includes storage and work rooms as well as staff offices.

The Center has hired Cathy Neeley to direct the outreach program, which is designed to bring science, mathematics and technology materials to schools and communities throughout Eastern Kentucky.

This program recently received a significant grant from the E.O. Robinson Mountain Fund in the amount of $13,500 to fund a mobile "Starlab" planetarium. This valuable educational tool can provide exciting experiences in astronomy, space science and other subjects.

Materials and programs utilizing the Starlab, physics, coal education, geology and environmental science are available by contacting Neeley at the center's toll free line 887/889-0303.

Neeley's first task was organizing and operating the 1998 Aerospace Challenge program offered at Bert Combs Airport in conjunction with Squadron 15215 of the Air Force Auxiliary, Civil Air Patrol.

During the brief run of this program, over 1,300 students were introduced to concepts of physics related to flight and to living and working in outer space. This program was an enhanced and expanded version of one offered last year.

A banquet will be held in celebration of these and other achievements by the center on Nov. 21 at the Wilkinson-Stumbo Convention Center in Jenny Wiley State Resort

Park. Proceeds from the dinner will be used to support the Outreach educational program. Tickets are $50 and reservations can be made by calling toll-free 887/889-0303.

Allen students get a dose of Shakespeare

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

The Bard's words came to eastern Kentucky Monday as students at Allen Elementary were treated to scenes from The Taming of the Shrew, As You Like It, and A Midsummer Night's Dream, courtesy of the Allen Family Resource Center.

Kentucky Shakespeare Festival's touring educational outreach program, Shakespeare Alive!, performed its Boy Meets Girl Meets Shakespeare workshop for about 100 students.

Mendy Garcia, from California, and Ernest Ray, from Illinois, delighted the students with scenes dealing with love and the spats that sometimes go with love. The two stayed with the theme "to thine own self be true."

In the 50-minute session, Garcia and Ray asked basic questions about drama and explained plot, character, dialogue, diction, language and theme. The two players also asked students what they knew about Shakespeare, and the students listed what they had learned about the playwright.

After each scene the two players checked to see if the students understood the scene and how the different elements were presented.

The students seemed to enjoy all three scenes, but group reaction suggested that they delighted in Kate and Petrucchio's squabbles in The Taming of the Shrew.

Rachel Delong said she liked the Taming of the Shrew best, adding that she would like to see the whole play.

Mikel Fannin said he liked both As You Like It and Taming of the Shrew. "The donkey in A Midsummer Night's Dream was a little childish," Fannin said.

Fannin answered several questions about the elements of drama. When asked how he knew the answers, he replied, "I learned this in Miss Carter's (Missy) class. She teaches us about these things." Fannin saw the Broadway hit Cats while he was on vacation with his family in New York City.

Since the seating for the play was limited to 125, the principal and faculty decided to send the eighth graders and the fourth graders since they will be tested on arts and humanities on the CATS test this coming spring.

Shakespeare Alive! is designed to address the KERA Core Content for the Arts and Humanities and National Standards for the Arts and Humanities. Since 1990 the tour has served over 170,000 students in Kentucky, Indiana, West Virginia and Tennessee.

Kentucky Shakespeare Festival, located in Louisville, is a year-round non-profit theater dedicated to providing quality classical theater and an educational touring programming throughout the region.

Any school official interested in the presentation should call Zach Bramel, public relations manager, or Celeste Santamassino, director of education at 502/583-8738.

Purse stolen at Wal-mart

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

The experiences of an Allen woman should alert shoppers to take extra care during the holiday seasons.

Sharon Woods was mugged at the entrance to the Wal-Mart store in Prestonsburg last Wednesday around 8 p.m.

Woods said a man in a hooded jacket, dressed in jeans, jacket, and tennis shoes, came up on her left side and grabbed her purse.

She said a woman at Wal-Mart tried to help her but the thief ran through the parking lot and into the lot at Reno's restaurant at the entrance to Prestonsburg Village shopping center.

Prestonsburg police climbed to the roof of Reno's in search of the suspect, but found no evidence. The incident is still under investigation.

"I lost quite a bit of money, plus all the personal things, but luckily I am able to work," Woods said. She added that she did have her car keys in a pocket.

Woods is mayor of the City of Allen and an employee of Worldwide Equipment.

It's been a year since you left us. It's really been a sad year, with our thoughts going back to happier times.

Not seeing you pull in the driveway, and hearing your voice, has really been hard. Nothing will ever be the same with you and Mother gone, but with the holidays coming again, there will be more sad moments, with thoughts of the past.

But you are with Mother, and even though we miss you so much, we know you both are happier.

Mother has been waiting so long for you, but it doesn't keep us from being sad.

Missing you so much,

Terry Ray Hunter
12-11-56 to 11-16-97

God saw he was getting tired and a cure was not to be. So, he put his arms around him and whispered, come with me. With tearful eyes we watched him suffer and saw him fade away. Although we love him dearly we could not make him stay. A golden heart stopped beating hard working hands to rest. God broke our hearts to prove to us, he only takes the best.

Still loved and sadly missed

Attorneys appointed to Trial Commission

Two Prestonsburg attorneys were sworn in November 9, as trial commissioners for the Kentucky Bar Association.

David H. Neeley and Steven A. Sanders were among 106 attorneys statewide appointed by Kentucky Supreme Court Justice Joseph Lambert to conduct hearings when an attorney is charged with unprofessional conduct, and to determine whether violations of professional standards have occurred.

Others from this area who were named to the Trial Commission are Stephen L. Hogg and Terri Smith Walters, both of Pikeville.

The commissioners' terms expire in 2001.

Sheila Mann, of Tomahawk in Martin County, was one of seven persons appointed as lay members of the bar association's Inquiry Commission.

Enrollment up at MSU

After five years of gradually declining enrollment, the count is up slightly at Morehead State University this fall, according to figures from the Office of the Registrar.

MSU has 8,263 students for the fall term. Enrollment for the fall of 1997 was 8,208.

"The increase is small but we are very pleased because it means we are making progress in keeping more students in school and on the path to personal success," said

MSU President Ronald G. Eaglin. "Maintaining enrollment is challenging in a shrinking marketplace due to smaller high school graduating classes and strong economy. At the same time, we have built the state's second-highest graduation rate among public universities."

MSU's highest fall enrollment was 9,162 in 1992. Eaglin said the institution's target enrollment is 8,700 students within the next two years.

Aging forum to be held at MAC

Eastern Kentucky area older persons are encouraged to address their concerns to policy makers at a forum scheduled for 9 a.m., November 30, at the Mountain Arts Center in Prestonsburg.

Hoping to combat what is perceived as growing indifference toward issues that affect people and to increase seniors own involvement, the forum is one of a series that the Kentucky Association for Gerontology is beginning across the state.

Under the title, "Forum on Legislative Issues on Aging: Preparing for the Year 2000," sessions are to be held in each of the association's five regions.

The sessions are viewed as a first step toward developing a legislative agenda on aging for the Kentucky General Assembly in 2000, although national issues such as the fate of Social Security and Medicare also will likely get attention.

"The concerns and interests of older people were barely a blip on the legislative radar screen during the 1998 session," said Bill Montgomery of Frankfort, association president-elect. "We all need to do a better job of ensuring that the voices of older people are heard in policy discussions that affect their health and welfare."

Montgomery said another goal of the forums is, "restoration of the bond of trust" that once existed between lawmakers and their elderly constituents. "We advocates must accept some of the responsibility for allowing aging to be placed on the back burner," he said. "We've allowed ourselves to become timid, and in today's policy environment, timidity and advocacy go together like Brooks and Dunn—when one of them has a sore throat."

The Kentucky Association for Gerontology is a 12-year statewide network of individuals and organizations aimed at, "enriching the lives of old Kentuckians through policy analysis, education, applied research, advocacy and practice."

Originally an organization made up strongly of people in higher education, it has since broadened its membership to include public officials, provider agencies and consumers. In recent years it has emerged as a major advocate voice on aging issues.

Other forums are scheduled at Lexington, Madisonville, Louisville and Park City.

For information about the local forum, call Carol Chapman, FIVCO Area Development District, Catlettsburg, 606-739-5191.

MSU seeks input on teacher award

Nominations are now being accepted for Morehead State University's 1998-99 Distinguished Teacher Award.

MSU's Professional Development Committee is soliciting nominations from MSU faculty, staff, students, alumni and the general public. The award, established in 1964 by the MSU Alumni Association, is given annually to recognize an outstanding teacher in the classroom.

The primary criteria is that the recipient exemplify the highest ideals of teaching and scholarship.

Nominations should include the name, address and telephone number of the person making the nomination, along with a one-page letter detailing how the nominee meets the criteria. Previous recipients of the award are not eligible.

All nominations should be submitted to Dr. Michael R. Moore, executive vice-president for academic affairs, by 4:30 p.m. on Monday, November 30. His mailing address is Morehead State University, 205 Howell-McDowell, Morehead, KY 40351-1689.

Additional information and detailed list of the criteria may be obtained by stopping by the Office of Academic Affairs, or calling (606) 783-2002.

Tourism group helps MAC with request

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

During Thursday's regular meeting, the Prestonsburg Tourism Commission found a way to honor the Mountain Arts Center's request for money for a data base department and still stay within guidelines of allocating money on a timely basis.

Tourism Director Fred James presented the request which called for $10,000 for the next year.

Commission member Mark Miller pointed out that the commission could not budget money beyond the fiscal year. He suggested that the commission give $6,000 now and budget the rest for next year.

"In March, he (Mac Arts Center Bob Meyer) can come back again for the salary for data entry person," said Miller, adding that the extra time will allow the commission to evaluate how well the data base department is working.

James said it would be good to evaluate the progress of the program but pointed out that once the money was allocated to the center, it could be used at the center's discretion.

The intention, James said, is to free up some time for him and Meyer to attend conferences and shows. Presently, both perform chores that would be done by the data base coordinator.

In other action, the commission allocated $1,000 for the coming year to the Middle Creek Battle Field Preservation Society. The society asked for $4,000 over the next three years. Again it was pointed out that money cannot be budgeted beyond the fiscal year.

Miller said the Tourism Commission will be asked to support other entities in the near future. He specifically mentioned the new golf course, which he said will need help in its first year of so.

Miller added, "The Mountain Arts Center needs to be weaned from our support at some time down the road."

Miller also made two other suggestions. First, he said, the commission should stay in the MAC building but should have some visible sign identifying the office. Further, he said, an agreement should be drawn up to insure the commission full use of the data collection and distribution system.

James indicated he will follow through on the suggestions.

Also present at the meeting were Linda Smith, Jim Ousley, and Boyd Thompson.

Donors needed to crush blood shortage

A record-breaking goal of 3,000 pints has been set for Central Kentucky Blood Center's 11th annual Big Blue Crush blood drive competition this week. The yearly Battle for Blood between the universities of Kentucky and Tennessee provides life-saving transfusions for hospital patients in both states during the Thanksgiving holiday.

"No other blood drive is as successful or as much fun as Big Blue Crush," said Terry Prater of the Prestonsburg Donor Center. "Although we enjoy competing against Tennessee, the true winners are the hospitals who will have blood available during the holiday."

All donors who would like to "crush" the Tennessee Volunteers can give blood at the Prestonsburg Donor Center, North Lake Drive, Wednesday and Thursday, 11 a.m.-7 p.m., and Friday, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

The winning state will receive a trophy during the Kentucky/Tennessee football game in Knoxville on Nov. 21. Kentucky leads the series, 5-4-1.

All donors will receive a free Big

Pikeville College sponsors daycare

by Pamela Slone
Pikeville College student

Pikeville College will once again be sponsoring daycare services during the spring semester to meet the needs of its students.

Pikeville College students with children may be eligible to have daycare services paid for by the college.

Based on a formula, the number of hours of daycare paid for by the college are determined by the number of hours for which the student is registered.

Pikeville College must approve the daycare facilities requested by students. "We use only state-licensed, legitimate daycare facilities," said Scottie Adkins, secretary of the business office.

Daycare facilities already approved by Pikeville College include Model City Daycare, Immanuel Baptist Childcare Center, Johns Creek Daycare Center, ABC Daycare, Shelby Valley Daycare, Li'l People Daycare, Cumberland Valley Daycare, First Baptist Church-Prestonsburg, and Porter Childcare.

Students who otherwise would not have been able to attend college have utilized this valuable program over the years.

For more information about this service, students should contact the Pikeville College Business Office at (606) 432-9302.

Four score in double figures as ACMS rolls past Allen Eagles

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

They are young, inexperienced, but they never quit. The Allen Lady Eagles never gave up but, in the end, they endured a 59-12 loss to the Allen Central Middle School Lady Rebels in a semifinal game Friday night at the Duff gym. The two teams met in the second round of the Right Beaver Classic. Tiffany Turner led all scorers with 15 points for the Lady Rebels. Amber Scott and Jaclyn Martin tossed in 12 points each, while Terri Mullins scored 10 points. Shelli Hayes and Becky Thomas scored four points each. Kristi Howard netted two points. Chanel Music scored six points to lead Allen. Rice, Crum and Jamenry scored two points each. Allen Central led 21-2 at the first stop. Allen Central, much taller than the rebuilding Lady Eagles, scored at-will inside. But Allen played hard and never quit as they tried different defenses against the bigger Allen Central team. Allen Central led 28-6 at the half.

Bulldogs bite takes Cats out of playoffs

Hall passes for 282 yards in 50-14 loss to Lawrence County

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The dream of a state championship finally came to an end for the Prestonsburg Blackcat seniors and other players this past Friday night, but no one expected what transpired on the Lawrence County field in Louisa.

It was all Lawrence County as they took the bite out of the Blackcats early in rolling to a 50-14 win in the second round of the state playoffs.

The tone for the game was set on the very first play when the Bulldogs kicked off to Prestonsburg and the ball was fumbled by Prestonsburg and recovered by J.R. Bentley at the Prestonsburg 46-yard line. It took 19 plays, eight by "Quick" Nick Meadows, to find the goal line and an 8-0 lead with less than three minutes gone in the game. Meadows scored from 3-yards out to give the Dogs the lead.

The rushing game for Prestonsburg was missing as they could find no holes in the front line of Lawrence County. To move the football, Prestonsburg had to go to the air where senior quarterback Adam Hall displayed his throwing arm that totaled 282 yards. Prestonsburg only picked up 43 yards on the ground and 33 of those came to senior John Ortega.

Prestonsburg had three turnovers in the first quarter that allowed Lawrence County to run out to a 22-0 lead. After the opening fumble, that allowed Lawrence County to take the first lead, Hall was intercepted by Gerald Parker. The Cats had just picked up 5-yards on an off-side call on the Bulldogs. But on the first play from scrimmage, Hall threw the ball into the hands of Parker.

It took seven plays to complete a drive that covered 74 yards and a 14-0 lead with 6:16 to play in the first.

Things did not get any better for Prestonsburg as Hank Mullins fumbled the ball on a second and eight play. Lawrence County recovered the loose ball at the Prestonsburg 42 and with less than two minutes left to play in the quarter, fullback Travis Hughes scored from one yard out for a 22-0 lead before the quarter ended.

Following a three and out for the Blackcats, the Bulldogs rolled on to a 30-0 advantage when quarterback Allen Short hit Parker, the state's top receiver, for a 19-yard touchdown pass with 7:55 to play in the first half. Short ran the two-point conversion.

On a second and 10 play, Parker picked off another Hall pass that gave the Bulldogs excellent field position at the Prestonsburg 39. The Dogs moved the football to the Prestonsburg five, but the Cats defense held as they took over the football with four minutes to play in the half.

Prestonsburg looked for the pass as they seemed to abandon their ground game. Hall hit Ortega with a 25-yard completion. On a great run, Ortega picked up 20 yards and on the next play, Hall hit him for a 28-yard completion placing the ball at the Lawrence County 22.

But the drive stalled out on a loss of yards and three incompletions by Hall. The Bulldogs

A LOOK AT SPORTS

HAPPY BIRTHDAY...

A big happy birthday to Tiffany Owens, Allen Central Middle School cheerleader, who turned 10 this past Tuesday, November 17. Happy birthday, Tiffany.

Also to a great person, Ryan Owens, who will celebrate his 18th birthday tomorrow, Thursday. Ryan plays basketball, football and baseball at Allen Central. Happy birthday, Ryan!

The Right Beaver Classic, held at the Duff gym last week, lived up to its name as the season's first tournament came to a close this past Saturday night.

While, like most tournaments, there were some cake walks for some teams, there were some of the classic games as well.

The gym was filled to capacity for most of the rounds, and it was a noisy crowd that showed up to take in some good basketball.

Of course, the Allen Central Middle School Lady Rebels and Betsy Layne Bobcats took home the championship trophies in their respective division, but it wasn't easy.

Although football is gaining in popularity in the county, basketball is still the number one sport and the excitement of the tournament demonstrated that.

Brian Handshoe, tournament manager, did a great job of overseeing the event and he seemed to be very busy staying on top of things.

Grade school basketball, it is still a great game!

FOOTBALL SEASON ENDS...

The high school football season came to an end this past Friday night as both Prestonsburg and Allen Central fell in their respective playoff games. The Blackcats lost to a powerful Lawrence County game, while Allen Central fell to Louisville Eminence in the 8-Man Tournament in Louisville.

The Blackcats will lose some great players, and it is hard to believe that they will not be back next season. They have been playing together since grade school and that seems like forever. But the Cats will be a tough team to contend with next fall.

Allen Central's program certainly received a shot in the arm with the 8-Man Tournament. The Rebels finished with a respectable 6-6 record. It gives the program something to build off next year.

BASKETBALL BEGINS...

The official starting date for the high school basketball scene is December 1 when most teams will get underway. There will be several panoramas in the region the next two weekends. All they afford is a chance to showcase their teams and raise a little money.

The Allen Central Rebels will hold a panorama on Wednesday, November 25. Four games will highlight the

Cold shooting South Floyd falls to Allen Central in finals 31-16

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Just how cold was the shooting for the South Floyd Middle School Lady Raiders Saturday night in the finals of the girls' championship game of the Right Beaver Classic? So cold that they only hit four field goals for the entire game.

For Allen Central, Jaclyn Martin scored a game-high 14 points to lead the Lady Rebels to a 31-16 win over South Floyd. It was the third win of the season by Allen Central over South Floyd.

Ashley Johnson led South Floyd with six points. Brandy Anderson added five and Leigh Ann Tuttle scored three. Megan Ousley had two points.

Both teams played "rag-tag" basketball as there were more turnovers than points between the two clubs. South Floyd had 17 turnovers in the game to Allen Central's 14.

Stephanie Skeans failed to score in the game and Ashley Johnson failed to get a field goal for the Lady Raiders. Johnson did hit six-of-six free throws for the top free throws shooter in the tournament. The Lady Raiders hit seven of 10 free throws. They got field goals

Betsy Layne edges Allen Central for Right Beaver Championship

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Michael Rogers scored 19 points, Bobo Hamilton netted 17 and Wes Howell scored 12 to lead the Betsy Layne Bobcats to a 55-53 edging of the Allen Central Middle School Rebels in the championship game of the Right Beaver Classic, played at the Duff Elementary gym Saturday night.

Neil Allen and Mike Murphy scored 16 points each to lead the Rebels scoring. Jonathan Hall added seven points.

Allen Central held the lead 53-52 with just 51 seconds left on the scoreboard. The Bobcats tied the game at 53 when Rogers hit the front end of a two shot foul. The Bobcats had chances to score but turned the ball over twice. Allen Central's shot selection wasn't that good as they missed opportunities to take the lead. With six seconds left in the game, Scott Mulkey made his first appearance and scored his first two points, which proved to be the winning basket for the Bobcats. Mulkey received the basketball off the right side of the

South Floyd edges Betsy Layne in Classic

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Ashley Johnson buried three three-point baskets and scored a game-high 18 points to lead the South Floyd Lady Raiders past Betsy Layne in the first round of the Right Beaver Classic Thursday night at the Duff Elementary gym.

Two other Lady Raiders joined Johnson in double figures when Megan Ousley scored 11 points and Stephanie Skeans added 10. Leigh Ann Tuttle finished with seven points.

Whitney Lykens led Betsy Layne with 15 points. Natasha Stratton tossed in 12. Kimberly Clark was held to seven and Jodi Stapleton finished with six.

Betsy Layne led at the first stop, 10-7, with Lykens scoring four first quarter points. Clark, Tabatha Whitt and Stratton had two points in the first quarter. Johnson buried her first trey in the opening period with Tuttle and Ousley scoring two points apiece.

A 22-7 spurt by South Floyd in the second quarter netted them a 29-17 lead at the half. Johnson scored 12 points in the period and hit two treys. Skeans had six points in the quarter with Tuttle and Ousley scoring two apiece. Stapleton and Lykens had the only field goals for Betsy Layne.

Ousley scored six points in the third quarter as South Floyd held a 41-31 lead after three quarters. Skeans and Tuttle each had three points.

Stratton scored eight of her 12 points in the fourth period as the Lady Cats rallied to narrow the lead to the final five points, 49-44. Johnson scored six points in the final quarter for the Lady Raiders.

took the 30-0 lead to the locker room at the half.

Lawrence County only had to punt the football twice in the game and the first came at the onset of the third quarter when they took first possession. But Prestonsburg did not keep the ball long as Hall was intercepted the third time, again by Parker. Parker picked the ball off and was brought down at the Prestonsburg 24-yard line. Three plays later Short scored from 13 yards out to make it a 36-0 affair.

Prestonsburg finally got on the scoreboard with 8:11 to play in the third period. Hall hit Seth Crisp with a 19-yard completion and then threw a strike to Ortega in the end zone from 23 yards out that made it a 36-6 game.

Lawrence County would score on each of their next two possessions to take a 50-6 lead. On a bootleg play, Short handed off to Meadows, who hit Parker with a 34-yard scoring pass. With less than a minute to play in the third period, reserve Michael West, a freshman, scored from two yards out with Short hitting Parker for the two-point conversion.

The Blackcats' final score came with 6:05 to play in the game when Hank Mullins hauled in a Hall pass for a 28-yard touchdown catch. Ortega ran the conversion for the final 50-14 count.

Ortega had six catches for 156 yards and one touchdown as he closed out his football career at Prestonsburg. Seth Crisp had four catches for 81 yards.

Meadows, one of the state's leading rushers, had 17 carries for 103 yards. Hughes carried 14 times for 83 yards.

The Cats end the season with a good 9-3 record. Lawrence County advances and remains unblemished with a 12-0 mark. The Bulldogs face Breathitt County Friday night in a rematch of last year when the Dogs defeated the Bobcats.

lane, turned from 10-feet out and sank a shot that gave the Bobcats a 55-53 lead. Allen Central could not get the ball up the court quickly enough to beat the clock as time expired.

It was a close game after the first quarter. The game was tied four times with only three lead changes. Betsy Layne appeared to be the quicker team and ran out to a 20-8 first quarter lead. The game was tied at six and eight each before Betsy Layne opened up a 19-6 lead by outscoring the Rebels 13-0. The Rebels turned the ball over five times in the Betsy Layne run.

Allen Central began to work the boards better and took better care of the basketball in the first five minutes of the second period as they pulled to within five of the Bobcats on Jonathan Hall's three-point basket. But the Rebels reverted back to old habits and turned the ball over on their last six possessions of the first half as Betsy Layne led 29-21 at the half.

Betsy Layne opened up the third quarter and built an 11-point lead, 33-22, before the squad got careless on offense. The Bobcats turned the ball over on second consecutive possessions, allowing the Rebels to climb back into the game. Allen scored five unanswered points to pull the Rebels to within two points, 33-31. Allen Central caught the Bobcats at 35 and took a 36-35 lead, their first lead of the game, on a basket by Murphy and Mike Slone's free throw. The game was tied at 36 and 38 when the third quarter ended.

The lead changed hands twice at the onset of the fourth quarter. Consecutive baskets by Rogers gave Betsy Layne a three-point advantage, 42-39. Prater kept the Rebels close as Betsy Layne could never get any further ahead than three points. Every time the Bobcats went up three, Allen Central would cut the margin back to one.

Allen blocked a Betsy Layne shot with the Rebels grabbing the ball. But the Rebels missed two consecutive close shots to miss taking the lead. With 51 seconds left, Ross Samons connected on two free throws that gave the Rebels a one point lead, 52-51.

Kiser finished with four points for the Bobcats with Mulkey scoring two and Hamilton one.

Sammons finished with six points for Allen Central and Prater tossed in five. Brian Paige scored two while Paul Francis and Slone added one each.

from Leigh Ann Tuttle, two by Brandy Anderson, and one from Megan Ousley.

Anderson started the game but banked in three-point baskets high off the backboard that gave South Floyd a 3-0 lead. Allen Central scored the next five for a 5-3 lead on a basket and free throw by Martin and a Terri Mullins lay-in off a steal.

Tuttle's rebound basket tied the game at 5, but Anderson's baseline jumper gave the lead back to the Lady Raiders. Tuttle hit a free throw that gave South Floyd an 8-5 first quarter lead.

The cold shooting night began for the Lady Raiders in the second quarter as they missed their first seven shots of the period that allowed Allen Central to race out to a 14-8 lead with 3:33 to play in the first half. Allen Central led 15-10 at the half.

The Lady Raiders looked sharper in the third period, pulling to within one point twice in the quarter. Two free throws by Johnson made it a 17-16 game but three turnovers by South Floyd allowed the Lady Rebels to go up 22-16 after three quarters.

It was a drastic fourth quarter for South Floyd as they failed to score a point in the period, allowing Allen Central to pull away.

Amber Scott scored just three points and did not have a field goal for Allen Central. Jeni Spurlock added two points.

overall trophy. In the Sheltoewe Series, Rowe raced in nine events where he won three races and finished second three times. In addition to racing in the two series, Rowe has recently received sponsorship from Sinisalo, a riding apparel company from France that supplies his riding clothes. Also in the Rowe camp is Performance Engineering of Orlando, Florida, who will be building his engines. Rowe is also sponsored by Podium One, a parts distributorship from Louisville and Suspension Plus of Louisville who builds his suspension.

"We would like to thank his local sponsors, Prestonsburg Cycle Center and Electroplate Battery," said his father, Bobby Rowe. Of course, it would be impossible for him to race without the support of family members, such as his father, Bobby, and mother, Beth Rowe. But there are others like his grandparents, Sam Rowe Jr., and Marguerite Martin, who also have helped a great deal. "Winning the Thoroughbred Series was really great, but my biggest race this year was the Mega Series in Dollywood, Tennessee, where I finished tenth overall," Dusty said. "I raced against some of the best riders in the country."

Rowe said his biggest challenge stills lies ahead as he recently began practice for the Motocross Mini Olympics in Gainesville, Florida, where he will race four days and through the Thanksgiving week.

Rowe will be facing some stiff competition but his goal is to come home with yet another championship.

"I'm going down there to win, but this is my first year racing," Rowe said. "If I can just finish in the top 20, it would be great."

For some people, finding success comes rather easily. It was a combination of both that propelled young Dusty Rowe, Prestonsburg, to the top in the Motocross world of racing in his first year of racing.

Rowe, who is nine years old and in his first year of Motocross racing, won the Thoroughbred Series Motocross Championship recently. To win the series championship, Rowe had to compete in 10 Thoroughbred Series races on his 60 CC Kawasaki and win seven events. In the three series, Rowe finished second.

Rowe also competed in the Sheltoewe Series Championship and claimed third place, winning the

HOOP SCOOPS

By Clark Francis, Editor & Publisher of the HOOP SCOOP
 It looks like South Carolina head coach Eddie Fogler is determined to become the Bob Knight of the South. Fogler is already infamous for the way he treated a reporter when he was at Vanderbilt and he has alienated most of the people in our business for years with his attitude and remarks about people in the recruiting profession. This includes his own friend, Bob Gibbons, whose credibility he once questioned publicly, because he is a former insurance agent turned basketball scout.
 But now Fogler has gone too far. At the Southeastern Conference media day a week ago Fogler took a cheap shot directed at two of the best people in our business — Bret Bearup, the president of Pro Trust, which does financial planning for professional athletes, and Billy Donovan, who is the head coach at the University of Florida. "Want to hear the new gig? This is a beauty," said Fogler. "The new gig - it's legal. Now is it ethical? You be the judge. The new gig is financial managers, money managers, who put together summer trips."
 Fogler was talking about the annual trip that Bearup has underwritten in recent years, whereby 10 of the better high school players in the nation get to tour in Europe for two weeks at the end of the summer. Among the players on this year's trip were 6'1 Ken Satterfield from New York (Rice) NY, 6'11 Jonathan Bender from Picayune (H.S.) MS, 6'6 Marshall Williams from Milwaukee (Vincent) WI, 6'2 Jr Imani Sawyer from Chicago (Martin Luther King) IL, 6'10 Jr Rio Logan from Hillcrest (Country Club Hill) IL, 6'11 Donald Little from Winchendon (School) MA, 6'2 Brett Nelson from St. Albans (H.S.) WV, 6'8 Mike Miller from Mitchell (H.S.) SD, and 6'9 Matt Bonner from Concord (H.S.) NH.

 Fogler's remarks were directed at the fact that Miller, Nelson, and Bonner all are going to the University of Florida and his intent was to question whether this was a major recruiting advantage. Well, I can assure you that it wasn't. I should know, because I went on this trip two years ago when the list of players included Baron Davis, Chris Burgess, Ricky Davis, Dean Oliver, Ricky Anderson, and a young Jason Kapono.
 Obviously basketball was a non-stop topic of conversation during the entire trip, but one of the reasons I have so much respect for Bearup is the way he conducts himself. I know first hand that Bearup didn't do anything to try to influence any of the players to become his future clients (which is obviously why he underwrites the trip), much less influence where any of them go to college.
 It's not that they don't tell us. As a matter of fact, Baron Davis not only said he was going to Duke, but on several occasions tried to call Mike Krzyzewski. Bearup, who obviously is a good businessman, deserves credit for trying to give something back to the game. From a business point of view, he is not a sports agent, most of whom are widely regarded as the lowest form of life, along with drug dealers and politicians. Instead, Bearup is a financial manager and a very good one at that. So good that if I ever have a lot of money, I would have to seriously consider letting him handle my portfolio.

 As for Donovan, he has built the Florida program the same way he played the game - with guts, determination, and class. He deserves all the credit in the world, instead of Folger being paranoid and insecure about maintaining his already established position as one of the best coaches in both the conference and the country.
 Another big controversy involved 6'11 Leon Smith, who is talking about transferring from Chicago (Martin Luther King) IL to Compton (H.S.) CA. The entire matter is a mess, because a number of people, including officials at Martin Luther King High School, are doing their best to stop Smith from transferring.
 There are also questions about Smith's residential status and his transcript. Smith is a ward of the state (essentially an orphan) that, although he is 18, still must go through proper channels to leave the state.
 We talked with Compton High School assistant coach George Barthwell about the situation earlier this week and he says he has never seen anything like it. "Out here it would be no big deal if a player transferred from one school to another in order to have a chance to become eligible academically," says Barthwell.
 But in Chicago the entire city is in an uproar, which makes no sense, because Leon will not be eligible to play this season if he remains at King. We are fully prepared to give him the support that he needs both to become eligible this year and as a freshman in college. Right now he's like a fish out of water. Nobody cares about the kid. But, when he wants to leave, everybody makes a big deal about it. He waited until he was 18 and now he wants to be able to do for himself and make his own decisions. But when they found out that he wanted to leave, he got scared and ran off (Smith was missing for three days earlier this week)."

 Barthwell also added that they will do everything they can to try and help Smith, if he transfers. But reading between the lines, I think he'd be surprised if Smith ever gets out of Chicago. It appears the establishment is prepared to do whatever it can to keep Smith at King. And if that happens, Barthwell thinks it will be a shame. He also thinks Smith will never set foot in college, because "he's played his last game at King, regardless of whether they let him leave or not."
 Indiana has picked up two major commitments from 6'11 George Leach from Charlotte (Olympic) NC and 6'7 Jeffrey Newton from Atlanta (Mays) GA. This is important, because they give Indiana three quality athletic inside players from the South, which is exactly what Indiana assistant coach Mike Davis, who was hired away from Alabama several years ago, was supposed to do.
 If you will recall, last spring Indiana got a commitment from 6'9 Kei Madison from Columbiana (Shelby County) AL, but stashed him in prep school for a year at New Hampton (Prep) NH. Like Leach and Newton, Madison ranks among the top 100 players nationally in his class.

Roger's 32 points lead Betsy Layne past MCA

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor
 The Betsy Layne Elementary Bobcats used defense and quickness in subduing a very good Mountain Christian Academy team, 74-54 in the semifinals of the Right Beaver Classic at Duff Elementary last Friday night.
 Michael Rogers scored a game-high 32 points to lead the Bobcats' scoring. Bobo Hamilton tossed in 14 points and Wesley Howell netted seven.
 Josh Caudill led the Falcons with 20 points while Andrew Burchett tossed in 10 points and pulled down 14 rebounds. Carlo Repuyan added nine points.
 Betsy Layne employed full-court pressure on the Falcons as they avenged an earlier loss to MCA earlier in the season. The Falcons turned the ball over seven times in the first quarter as they had trouble handling the pressure.
 Howell led the early scoring for the Bobcats, scoring seven of the first 10 Betsy Layne points. Betsy Layne took a 6-0 lead before the Falcons got on the scoreboard. Kyle Scalf scored the first two points for MCA on a rebound basket.
 MCA stayed close through the first four minutes until they started turning the ball over. With the score 8-6 with the Bobcats in front, three straight Falcon turnovers allowed the Bobcats to run in front, 14-6. After a basket by Repuyan the Falcons then committed five consecutive turnovers with Betsy Layne taking an 18-8 lead.

 Burchett's rebound basket made it 18-10 and a free throw and rebound basket by Repuyan cut the lead to seven, 20-13 after the first quarter.
 Turnover continued to plague the Falcons in the second quarter as they had eight miscues in the second stanza. Betsy Layne built their lead to 21 points, 38-17, before the Falcons trimmed it back to 15. Betsy Layne owned a 17-point lead, 42-25, at the half.

The lead was 20 points after three quarters as Betsy Layne led 55-35. In the fourth quarter, the tournament's only technical foul was called when play got rather rough and tempers flared.
 Chase Hamilton scored four points as did Adkins for Betsy Layne. Roberts, Mulkey, Preston, Kidd and Akers had two points apiece for Betsy Layne. Newsome had three points.
 Kyle Scalf, Bart Barnette and Randy O'Neal had two points each for MCA.

evening.
Betsy Layne faces Perry Central in a 5:45 tipoff. South Floyd meets Belfry at 6:45 and Prestonsburg takes on Cawood at 7:45. The final game will pit host Allen Central against Johnson Central at 8:45.

The panorama has been named for former athletic director, Pete Grigsby, Jr. Grigsby has contributed so much to the sports scene in Floyd County and, as Floyd County athletic director, had the high school programs going the right way. If Floyd County has an athletic need, it is the restoration of Grigsby as the county's AD.

I received a nice basketball media guide from Southeastern Louisiana where former Allen Central standout, Jeremy Hall is playing. According to the program, Hall is expected to draw duty for the Lions at both point guard and the shooting guard position.

The Piarist School, Martin, will open its second high school basketball season this week (Tuesday) and the boys' varsity will be competing in the 58th District and 15th Region this year. They will be taking part in the All A classic at Pikeville in January.
I understand the team has been working very hard and is excited about the upcoming season.

The Kentucky Wildcats officially opened their basketball schedule this past Tuesday night against Eastern Kentucky University. It has been a good recruiting year for the Cats. Already the top juniors of this year are looking at the Cats. Should be an exciting season.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports! Get out and support your teams this year.

Perspectives: Tragedy strikes UK football again leaving us with 'perspective'

"Something like this kind of puts bowl games and winning seasons and a big game with an arch-rival and all those kind of things in a whole different perspective," UK director of athletics C.M. Newton said Sunday.

The tragic deaths of men barely over the threshold of teenage is ugly, cruel and numbing to those left behind to wonder and search for reasons. Dying at 19 or 20 is rude, incomprehensible and happens to someone in the next town.

At 19 and 20 and 21 stout college men grumble about class and football practice and talk about winning on Saturday. Their world is opportunity and options like transferring from one college scholarship to another. At 21 some young men tease life by wrestling alligators and going deer hunting. Life is sweet and glistening and cool, and fast too. Then it isn't fast. It's pffft. Screen goes to black. Just like that.

For grieving survivors the picture is upside down as they speak eulogies and talk about perspective through tears and numbness. It's what we are left with to go with questions to which there are no answers. Suddenly, minutes, hours and days beyond the sounds of shattering glass and groaning twisted metal, it does not matter that Artie Steinmetz was a promising football player or that Scott Brock was a promising student at Eastern Kentucky University. And it is not important that severely injured Jason Watts won't play in Knoxville this weekend either.

Perspectives. Like acts of forgiveness and kindness and compassion, too often they come when it's too late.

Well, it isn't too late. Just as the shining faces of Watts, Steinmetz and Brock were admired, respected and looked up to, things worthwhile can still be wrung from the incredible tragedy last Sunday.

Things like, "... buckle up the way Jason and Artie and Scott should have done."

Things like, "... speed might get you where you're going sooner, but 5-10 seconds sooner? It might not get you there at all."

Reminders all. Quiet but stark ones loom up in our consciousness this week as we witness burly young men walk past caskets with heads bowed ... again. Another funeral cortege. Numb, empty, confused, heart-broken.

Perspective.

COUCH ON TO REDMAN

Tim Couch will make a decision on staying/leaving UK following the Tennessee game then announce his decision after UK's bowl game. On the chance his last game at Commonwealth Stadium was last Saturday against Vandy, Couch remarked last week, "It's kind of shocking, really. It seems like I just got here last week or something."

Indeed, Kentucky's charismatic play-caller staying for his senior year would be good for everyone except the quarterback. UK would sell every ticket for 1999, rake in merchandising (The Deuce) dollars, pick and choose which television network's money it would let air games at expanded Commonwealth Stadium, very likely qualify for another bowl bid, and reap an incalculable recruiting harvest. High school coaches would go even further imitating Hal Mumme's offensive philosophies.

Pike County to the Jackson Purchase, Couch returning for another year would make Kentucky a football madhouse.

A good thing from Couch leaving early for the NFL would be some sunlight shining on Chris Redman at least in-state. UofL's quarterback has credentials, on and off the field, and deserves accolades currently being showered on his UK counterpart. But Redman probably won't get them because of the realities of college football. Unfair or not, like Daunte Culpepper at Central Florida, Redman playing in Conference-USA will never have the same media appeal as competing in the SEC.

BITS 'N PEOPLE

✓ Heisman Trophy. Ballots arrived in the hands of voters last week. If I were filling mine out today it would read: 1. Ricky Williams, Texas; 2. Tim Couch, Kentucky; 3. Cade McNown, UCLA.

✓ The Kentucky high school basketball season is barely two weeks away and here are some dates many of you will be interested in. Madison Central (and UK signee Marquis Estill) plays at Clay County Dec. 4, in the PRP Classic Dec. 5-6, in the King of The Bluegrass at Fairdale Dec. 17-22, at Shelby County Jan. 5, at Mason County Feb. 6, and at Scott County Feb. 19.

✓ Tanner Turley, play-making guard at Shelby County High School committed to play for Kentucky Wesleyan earlier this month. For Wesleyan coach Ray Harper it's a steal. If high school sports had a poster kid for student-athletics, if the state of Kentucky had all the criteria for Mr. Basketball candidates in place, Turley would be a leading candidate. A double-digits scorer and unselfish team player on court, he is an outstanding student. With all that, he devotes time to church activities.

WORTH REPEATING

Mark Blaudschun of The Sporting News offered a sentiment Nov. 9 that appeared in this space last December: "Television not only won the (Heisman) for (Charles) Woodson, it lost it for Tennessee quarterback Peyton Manning" ... "November is sweeps month for the Heisman. (Texas' Ricky) Williams got a huge boost when ABC showed him running for 15-yards in a stunning 20-16 upset of Nebraska in Lincoln."

And so it goes.

If you have a point of view you would like to share, write to Sports In Ky, P.O. Box 124, Glendale, Ky. 42740, or e-mail Sptsinky@aol.com

The rut—elk mating season

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' Elk Restoration Project is well underway.

The first free-ranging elk in Kentucky were released last winter at the Cyprus-Amox Wildlife Management Area in Perry County. And they have adapted well.

At least four bulls formed harems during September and October. This activity marks the first successful breeding season for free roaming elk in Kentucky in over 150 years. Bull elk gather and tend groups of cows during the rut. The bull elk will defend the cows in their harem from other bull elk. The number of cows in a harem varies considerably.

This year in Kentucky the harem size ranged from 4 to 12 cows. Cows, not located near mature bulls, are thought to have been bred by yearling bulls. Typically, young bulls do not form harems or breed, since older bulls run them off. Kentucky received many young bulls last year.

In January and February, crews from the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources will travel to Utah and send back approximately 250 elk to Kentucky. The release site for these elk has not been chosen at the present time. As with the 1997-98 releases, all of the animals will be fitted with a radio transmitter and be followed by researchers from the University of Kentucky.

The restoration of elk to Eastern Kentucky is a nine-year project. Partners include the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation and the University of Kentucky.

For more information, contact Charlie Logsdon, KDFWR biologist, at (606) 889-0884.

UK helps KERA 'remake schools'

Jane Lindle travels from border to border in Kentucky, from Paducah to Pikeville, from Covington to Cumberland and all points in between, stopping in schools to cast a discerning eye on students, teachers, administrators and parents.

Lindle, associate professor of administration and supervision at the University of Kentucky's College of Education and co-director of the UK-University of Louisville Joint Center for the Study of Educational Policy, knows that hers is a critical mission. Her task, and that of her colleagues, is to describe various aspects of schools affected by the 1990 Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA).

"What Kentucky attempted to do was completely remake its schools," Lindle noted recently.

The goal was to develop schools that produce young adults prepared for the 21st Century's workplace, rather than churning out youngsters with diplomas that may or may not reflect the depth of each graduate's skills.

When Lindle goes into a classroom, she wants to see real evidence of learning.

"We want teachers these days to have hard data. We want the teachers to say, 'We started here and when we were finished, the pupils could do this, this and this.' We do a lot of document analysis," Lindle said.

But the UK College of Education is not simply standing as an evaluator of the schools. The college is actively engaged in developing new methods of teaching and ascertaining student needs.

One of those approaches involves developing what Sara Delano Moore calls "a standards-based mindset."

One problem that schools nationwide have faced is a lack of communication between schools about student needs. Moore, an assistant professor of curriculum and instruction, said there sometimes is a tendency for high school teachers to complain about middle school teachers—and middle-school teachers about elementary teachers—and the lack of adequate preparation from lower grade levels.

Moore is leading an initiative called in Fayette County's schools to bring teachers at all levels together, so a fifth grade teacher can better understand strengths that a seventh-grader teacher expects from pupils. The initiative also calls for teachers to visit one another's classrooms to observe the skills being taught at all levels.

"We want to develop a common core of curricula. When kids come from different elementary schools into a single middle school, the middle school teachers will know the pupils know these common things," Moore said. The same applies to students moving into high school.

Lois Adams-Rodgers, director of UK's Institute of Education Reform, noted the College of Education is celebrating its 75th anniversary this year. Many of the KERA initiatives—as well as teaching techniques being adopted statewide—have been developed at the college and built on philosophies advocated by its leaders.

"All children can learn at higher levels. KERA was based on the premise that we're going to raise the bar for all children," Adams-Rodgers noted.

But now that KERA has followed a generation through elementary and middle school, Adams-Rodgers noted that UK's education experts have shifted gears.

"We no longer place the emphasis on KERA per se, but rather on the strengthening of the Kentucky educational system. All of us have the job of creating a seamless web between elementary and secondary education and higher education—a 'kindergarten through Grade 16' system," Adams-Rodgers said.

In that regard, Kentucky's education reform effort continues to provide a guiding light to the rest of the U.S.

"The K-16 system is being discussed nationally as well," Adams-Rodgers said.

Breakfast Briefings advise small businesses

A series of free Breakfast Briefings will be held around the state to assist small businesses in complying with a new air quality regulation. The free Breakfast Briefings begin at 7:30 a.m., and conclude at approximately 9:30 a.m. The Kentucky Business Environmental Assistance Program will be available for small businesses to schedule one-on-one assistance or site assessments.

The Breakfast Briefings will teach small businesses what a Risk Management Plan (RMP) is; the issues that impact the ability to operate facilities that require a RMP; the information that needs to be released to the EPA and public; and how to avoid the RMP by modifying material handling procedures.

A Breakfast Briefing will be held November 20, in Ashland, at the American Electric Power Building.

For more information on these Breakfast Briefings, call the Small Business Assistance Program at 1-800-562-2327.

Census Bureau to gather important employment information

Data on characteristics of the nation's labor force, including people employed full or part-time, hours worked, earnings and people unemployed or retired, will be collected during the week of November 15 when representatives of the Commerce Department's Census Bureau visit the area to conduct the Current Population Survey (CPS).

By law, the Census Bureau keeps all information about survey respondents and their households strictly confidential.

"By participating in the CPS, households will provide policymakers at all levels of government key data that will permit them to make informed decisions that affect every one of us," said Susan B. Hardy, director of the Census Bureau's Charlotte regional office.

On December 4, the U.S. Department of Labor will release labor force statistics for the United States based on the data provided by a sample of households across the country in the November CPS.

Local households selected for the sample receive a letter from James F. Holmes, acting director of the Census Bureau, informing them of the survey. Census Bureau interviewers carry an official identification card bearing their photograph and signature.

Angel Tree project helps needy children

by C.J. Robinson
Pikeville College student

Now in its third consecutive year, the Angel Tree project, sponsored by the Pikeville College Psychology and Human Services Roundtable, has affected the lives of an estimated 400 children and countless students, volunteers, and businesses. Throughout the club's six-year history, it has sponsored several activities to assist local children and families with what needs they may have.

The Roundtable will have its annual Christmas party for local area needy children on December 18, in the college gymnasium.

"This year, we are sponsoring about 35 more children, bringing the total to 135 kids," responded co-president Delana Gilliam, when asked how many children were to be taken care of this year.

The Roundtable's Angel Tree project is the primary focus for the club during the fall semester. Since this activity requires the cooperation and hard work of many individuals, it is necessary for members to learn much more than simply how to be participants in an organization. To the contrary, the club's Angel Tree project requires what many members refer to as an "Ultra-team effort." This is evident in how the project is handled starting from the first week of the fall semester. The initial stages involve organizing the internal structure of the club, getting members' information, etc. The club has to begin raising money early for, as Troy Stroud, co-vice president said, "It takes a lot of money to make this party what it needs to be for these children." It is estimated that in years past, the club had to raise about $1000 to provide the children with pre-

The rewards of Scouting

Jordan Hale, Chris Caudill, Richard Vanderpool and Corey Howard, of Cub Scout Pack 839 Den 1, raced in their first Pinewood Derby in March. None of the boys' cars placed, but they said they had fun.

Jarrold Parsley, Chris Caudill, James Vanderpool, Richard Vanderpool and Jordan Hale of Pack 839 Den 1, participated in a swimming party in June, for their good behavior during den meetings.

Thomas Jones and Chris Caudill of Pack 839 at the Cub Scout Fall Camporee, held at German Bridge, October 2 and 3, played games, made eye patches and painted bandannas, Saturday morning, before leaving. Also attending Friday were Brandon Martin, Evan Lawson and Christian Francis.

Prestonsburg Girl Scouts met with Governor Paul Patton in October, during a campaign to encourage Kentuckians to vote.

Patton meets with Girl Scout troop

Wednesday, October 21, Girl Scouts-Wilderness Road Council presented Governor Patton with a "Girl Scouts Promise to Vote" sticker to wear on his lapel. The governor in turn presented Girl Scouts with his proclamation declaring October 24 as "Girl Scouts Promise to Vote Day."

The exchange took place in the Capitol Rotunda in Frankfort. Girl Scout Troop 1107, of Prestonsburg, earned the honor of meeting with the governor as a result of winning the Girl Scouts-Wilderness Road Council "Girl Scouts Promise to Vote" poster contest. The Wilderness Road Council received more than 200 posters from troops all over Central and Eastern Kentucky.

The girls who created the winning poster are Allison Dye, Alexandra Hackworth, Beth Allen, Brianna Slone, Erica Osborne, Heather Shepherd, Kristie Shepherd, Pamela Slone, Stephanie Prater, Tara Adkins and Timra Jacobs. Cindy Allen is the leader for Troop 1107 and Cheryl Slone is the co-leader.

"Girls Scouts Promise to Vote Day" is an annual service project for troops in the "Girl Scouts-Wilderness Road Council. The purpose of the project is to remind citizens to exercise their right to vote on election day. In addition to making posters, Girl Scouts from troops from around the Council sponsored "Promise to Vote" booths in their communities.

They asked adults to sign pledge sheets promising to vote on November 3, and also handed out red, white, and blue stickers as a reminder to vote.

Recent reports from election officials show that more Kentuckians voted on election day this year than have ever voted previously in a midterm election.

The Wilderness Road Council serves more than 24,000 girls, ages 5 to 17 of all races, religions and socioeconomic backgrounds in 57 counties in Central and Eastern Kentucky.

The land of missed opportunity

A few years ago, a writer by the name of Ruth Rath came out with a book entitled About Cows. I ran across a review that ran in the Sunday New York Times shortly after the book's publication, stating that "whatever you want to know about cows is in these pages."

Obviously, Rath was paying a lot more attention to her livestock than I was mine.

Of course, growing up in a coal camp like Muddy Branch, I was exposed to few farm animals. There was always somebody who kept chickens, and I remember someone owning a mule. Several of the men, including my dad, kept a hog. I remember, too, that when I was real young, we had a cow and sold milk and butter to some of the neighbors.

But like practically everything else to which I was exposed as a kid, I paid little or no attention to my surroundings, beyond of course, what was extremely important to me. For instance, I doubt there ever was a time that I couldn't tell you which cowboy was to be featured at the Saturday matinee at both of Paintsville's movie houses, the Royal and the Sipp. I also knew exactly who I could get to go swimming with me in the Number One Pond on any particular summer afternoon, and from whom I could get the best deal when I traded funny books.

Needless to say, then since I had all that important stuff on my mind, such ordinary things as barnyard animals were not exactly at the top of my "things-that-are-important" list.

All I knew about chickens, for example, other than that they were in the egg business, was that if you went inside the chicken lot, you had better be careful where you walked. All I knew about cows was that we had one and when, as a ten-year-old, I tried to learn to milk, I was an utter failure. I knew, too, that according to a song on the radio by Little Jimmy Dickens, Bessie the heifer was the queen of them all.

Unfortunately, all I ever really wanted to know about our cow was where she'd run off to when Dad assigned me the task of going to hunt her at milk time. I hated that job, and, whenever possible, would try to remember to be where Dad wasn't, when I'd hear him head for the barn yelling, "Sook, heifer."

But maybe if I'd been a little more observant back in those days, it could have been my book being reviewed in The New York Times. Oh well, guess we'll just chalk it up to yet another missed opportunity, unless of course some big publisher somewhere wants a book identifying the names of all the cowboys' horses, the style of hat each cowboy wore, or the name of Gene's, Roy's and Hoppy's favorite side-kicks.

We've received a couple of responses to the question we posed in last week's column regarding why the old folks say, "Going up Salt Creek" when you lose your vote. Perhaps, especially if we get a few more suggestions, in a couple of weeks, will share them with you.

Woman's club holds meeting

The GFWC-KFWC Prestonsburg Woman's Club met November 5 at the Club house at Archer Park. The meeting was called to order by President Beverly Oxford. The pledge to the flag was given. The devotional was given by Garnett Fairchild, followed by an Irish Blessing.

The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

Reports given, included the birthday calendar, which has been mailed to the printer, and the district meeting.

It was voted to participate in the Storybook Christmas as the club hopes to furnish the Prestonsburg Elementary with books at Christmas.

Christmas in the Park will be December 17.

Lyda Howard introduced Tonya Estep, who gave a program on Korea. Tonya's mother is Korean, and she has spent time in Korea. She also speaks the language. She wore a hand-painted outfit similar to those worn in Korea. Tonya answered a lot of questions that the members asked.

Refreshments were served by hostesses Wonnell Godsey, chairman, and Eileen Burchett, Roslyn Burchett, Lois George and Nancy Martin.

Attending were Eileen Burchett, Judy Bowen, Beverly Oxford, Elizabeth Ramey, Sabra Jacobs, Nancy Martin, Boots Adams, Sandy Burchett, Mable Brown, Sandra Robertson, Garnett Fairchild, Carolyn Traum, Lyda Howard, Joyce Short Allen, Burieta Gearhart, Denise Stewart, Teresa Apel, and Kristi Gray.

Guests included Tonya Estep and Rachel Vaughan.

"Show-and-Tell" featured at retired teachers' meeting

The Floyd County Retired Teachers Association met in regular session Thursday, November 5, at May Lodge, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

The meeting was called to order at 10:40 by Robert Fugate, president of the association.

Elmer Martin gave the invocation, and Alice Martin led the group singing of "America, the Beautiful."

The president dispensed with the reading of the minutes due to the absence of the secretary.

Larry Jervis gave the treasurer's report, stating that there are presently 205 members in the local organization. He gave the FCRTA treasury balance as $2,018.80.

Committee reports then followed. On health insurance, it was noted that there are different options throughout the state for those retirees under age 65. In Floyd County, the three options are CNA, Humana and Blue Grass. Those over 65 are still covered by Medicare.

On pre-retirement, Danny Branson said that 2,053 new retirees came into the Kentucky Teachers Retirement System in 1998, which was a strain on the retirement system. He stated that hereafter each county would be responsible for any funds offered as retirement incentives for those opting to retire.

There was no legislative report, but those present informally discussed the outcome of the recent election, particularly as regards amendment one and two.

Retirees were urged to have their monthly annuity checks paid by electronic transfer, which would eliminate the possibility of checks being lost through the mail.

Danny Branson reported on membership at the local level. He distributed lists showing those who had not paid their FCRTA dues. Members present were urged to contact anyone on the list they knew and remind them to send their $5 dues to Gene Davis, treasurer of FCRTA, Banner, Kentucky, 41603. Branson noted that for every 50 local members, FCRTA is entitled to a delegate to the Kentucky Retired Teachers Association which meets in April each year.

Judy Music made the observation that FCRTA members are given a discount on medical treatment bills at Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Alice O. Martin gave the notification report, stating that all telephone contact persons had been reached, and all the local media informed of the FCRTA meeting.

Betty Porter, as the AARP coordinator gave a report on recent activities of this group. She stated that a "55-Alive" driving program was currently underway in Floyd County which would reduce automobile insurance for senior citizens completing the two-day course. She also said that long-term care insurance was available through AARP.

Following committee reports, the subject of FCRTA's next meeting was discussed. Ruby Akers made a motion that $100 be given to the Prestonsburg Honor Choir which will perform at the December 3 meeting. The motion passed.

A "Show-and-Tell" presentation was then begun. Alice Martin gave everyone a copy of her Thanksgiving menu, with accompanying recipes for most of the dishes. Judy Music then gave the group a look at pictures of Wayland as it was in the late thirties and forties. Of particular interest was the railroad turn-table for engines pulling trains during this period. Music also displayed a booklet. She and her two siblings had prepared for the 1990 Wayland Homecoming.

Eileen Martin gave two presentations. She showed the group a Christmas tree she had made while at Camp Nathaniel, and did a special rendition of "How Great Thou Art" on the piano.

Roberta Fugate also had two items for "Show-and-Tell".

The first was a large afghan done in Kentucky blue with white lettering interwoven stating "1996 NCAA Champs, Kentucky Wildcats." There was also a basketball crocheted in the elaborate design. Mrs. Fugate said she intended to do a similar one for 1998.

Fugate's last presentation was the reading of a poem she had written entitled "Memories, Part I." In this writing, she described nostalgic recollections of life in a house of bygone days.

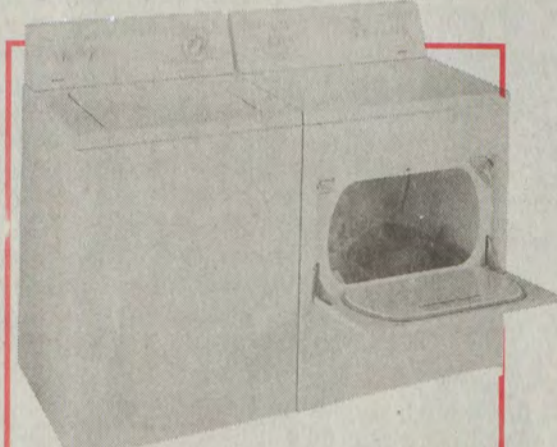

Numbers were then drawn for door prizes. Ruby Akers won two meal tickets to Reno's Restaurant in Prestonsburg and Danny Branson won a filter and oil change at Layne Brothers Auto.

The benediction was given by Danny Branson, after which the members adjourned for lunch.

Clean chimney for fireplace safety

With winter creeping up to our doors many people are warming up with fireplaces and wood stoves. Every year chimney fires cause millions of dollars in property damage and a significant number of those blazes could have been prevented by maintenance and common sense.

Professional cleaning eliminates dangerous buildup of creosote, a by-product of burning wood. It's carried upward in the smoke but rarely makes it all the way out of the chimney. The surfaces inside a chimney aren't as hot as the fire, so creosote tends to condense and collect there. If the deposits get thick enough, it can be ignited by a hot fire. Once it starts to burn, creosote can reach temperatures as high as 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit. The heat can cause structural damage to the chimney or even set the house ablaze.

Creosote typically forms a black, bubbly crust you can see looking down into a chimney from the roof, up through the damper, or by holding a mirror inside exterior clean-out doors. Smoking and back drafting fires are typical signs of creosote buildup. But if you haven't had your chimney cleaned since last fall, you can be sure it needs it now.

You should check your chimney regularly. Whenever the creosote accumulation is more than a quarter of an inch thick, it should be cleaned. Because it's such an important—and messy—task, it is recommended that you hire a certified chimney sweep.

If they're certified, their ad will say so. Certification tells you they've been trained and meet professional standards. You also want a sweep with liability insurance coverage. A certified sweep will check for crumbling mortar and other unsoundness that can lead to chimney fires.

Once your chimney is clean, there are steps you can take to keep creosote buildup to a minimum. The cooler the fire is, the more creosote you're going to get. Fires that smolder for a long time produce more creosote than hot, blazing fires. It is also recommended burning only well-seasoned hardwood. Freshly cut wood burns a lot cooler and produces more creosote, because it takes a lot of the fire's energy just to evaporate the moisture in unseasoned logs.

THINGS THAT MAKE ME CRY

Ever since I was a student being influenced by teachers such as Carlos Haywood, Phillip Dingus, D. W. Howard and many others, I have enjoyed writing and have been rather fascinated by words and what you can do with them. Words can make you laugh, and sometimes they make you cry.

Those factors relate not only to the reader. Sometimes a writer's own words can be used in a way that make him or her cry. I have experienced both these emotions just since I resumed this column a few weeks ago. Sometimes I laugh to myself as I put together some little stories that are shared with me. And sometimes I cry when they don't come out right.

I was so pleased to see letters to the editor that indicated some things I have written was so well received. Sally Allen's letter was a pleasant surprise and, even though I know Sally and that wasn't the first nice thing she ever did for me, it warmed my heart.

Then when Delia Mays of Bluefield, Virginia, wrote that she enjoyed the columns and even puts some of them in a scrapbook, it actually brought tears to my eyes. I'm sure Sara Hopson and Clyde Pack were also pleased that she regarded our efforts "like getting a big letter from home." (That's really what I want to do.) She hails from Wheelwright and evidently remembers some of the people we mention and enjoys the little stories we share about them. I didn't know Mrs. Mays but we are fellow Floyd Countians, and I am so pleased to be a link between her and our mutual friends.

There have been several other contacts that make our trying worthwhile. There have been letters, e-mail, phone calls and chance encounters that continue to surprise and please me. One letter was from the former Mavis Martin who lived at Harold before moving to Columbus, Ohio, many years ago. She said she hardly recognizes the people our paper writes about any more but she continues to subscribe and to comb the news from home. I know she actually reads and remembers what we write for she mentioned something I wrote more than six years ago about having been in Columbus. She sent her phone number and said, "Please call me when you come back again." I could almost frame her letter.

One of the phone calls was from Alta Leslie in Lexington. She had thought the column about her was very complimentary and wanted to tell me she liked it so much she went to Kinko's and had extra copies made. For as long as I've known Alta I have admired her, and it's so easy to write nice things about her. I guess I took for granted she knew how special she was and thought what I wrote would be 'run of the mill' for her. Her phone call made my day.

After sharing this much, I'm sure I have conveyed how good it is to do what I enjoy and then to have it mean something to others. There are far more good points than bad, and yet there are a few of those too and sometimes the bad ones make me cry. After I have written and rewritten a column and it gets jumbled a little in the typesetting, it fairly devastates me.

When Raymond Bradbury's name got printed as "Bradley," I felt badly for I know everybody's name is important to them. Then last week's edition had a few changes that made it fall a little flat.

I'm sure we all get discouraged now and then, and don't we just hate it when that happens?

Angels

sents, pizzas, drinks, sweets, and stockings.

Once the club has raised about half the money it feels it will need for the party, local resource centers are called and asked to select 25 or so students who they feel would benefit the most from the party. For some, the decision has proven difficult, for as Gilliam said, "I had one lady who couldn't narrow it down. So I told her to add them all, because we won't mind a little extra work or fundraising to take care of them too."

Once sent to the Pikeville College

Roundtable, the names children, along with the items they need for Christmas, (including a toy of their choice), are written on individual angel cutouts and placed on the tree assembled on the top floor of Record Memorial. From that point on, the project is entirely out of the Roundtable's hands. They can only hope that the members of the Pikeville College community, as well as those not associated with the college, will pick an angel or two of the tree to help needy children.

"We have such a tremendous response from the faculty, staff, and students here! We also have a lot of individuals who call us and ask if they can take a name or two, even though they don't go to school at Pikeville College," Gilliam said.

The club holds several fundraising activities to reach their goal during the fall semester. This year alone, the club has sold Pizza Hut certificates, held two yard sales, and sponsored numerous bake sales in order to raise money for the Angel Tree project. Another of the club's major fundraisers is the Jocks Socks game held between club members and a team from WDHR, a local radio station. The club raises money through this game by selling airtime to local businesses. Since WDHR donates the time to the club, the club is able to make money with no out-of-pocket expense. The club will also sponsor a bake sale to be held during the game to be held in the concession stand. "Any way we can make money for these kids, as long as it is legal, we will do it," Fredda Muncy, executive assistant to the co-presidents, said.

TURKEY MEAT BALL SOUP

- 1 pound ground turkey
- 1 egg white
- 1 cup coarsely chopped parsley leaves
- 1 medium-size onion, coarsely chopped
- 2 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 teaspoon kosher salt, plus more to taste
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly cracked black pepper, plus more to taste
- 1 teaspoon extra-virgin olive oil
- 3 shallots, minced
- 8 cups Chicken Stock or low-sodium canned
- 1 tablespoon thyme
- 4 bunch escarole (about 1/4 pound), trimmed, washed, and coarsely chopped

In a bowl, combine the turkey, egg white, parsley, onion, half of the garlic, salt, and pepper and fluff with a fork. Shape into balls the size of walnuts (about 24 meatballs). In a large nonstick skillet over medium heat, cook the meatballs until cooked through, crispy, and golden, about 5 minutes. Using a slotted spoon, transfer the meatballs to a paper towel-lined plate.

In a soup pot over medium-high heat, add the oil, remaining garlic, and shallots and cook until translucent and soft, about 5 minutes. Add the chicken stock and simmer. Add the thyme, meatballs, and pasta and return to a simmer. Stir in the escarole and salt and pepper to taste. Ladle into 4 deep soup bowls and serve.

The Floyd County Times BUSINESS/REAL ESTATE

Bill Gibson and his staff at Action Auction & Realty are now part of the RE/MAX network. The agency is now named the RE/MAX Action Team with offices in Pikeville and Prestonsburg.

Action converts to RE/MAX

Action Auction and Realty has joined the RE/MAX network of franchise offices, converting its 22-year-old operation to RE/MAX Action Team, located at 7104 North Mayo in Pikeville and the U.S. 23 Highway location in Prestonsburg.

Bill Gibson is the broker/owner for the RE/MAX Action Team.

"We are looking forward to our association with RE/MAX," Gibson said. "We had been considering joining a franchise for the past few years and always kept coming back to RE/MAX because of its name recognition and strong support system. The red, white, and blue RE/MAX hot air balloon is known world-wide and always gets a lot of attention wherever it goes."

Action Auction & Realty was opened in 1978 by Gibson, the first full-time real estate firm in Pike County. The company expanded in 1993 with the opening of the Prestonsburg office. The company services Pike, Floyd, Johnson, Martin, Lawrence, Magoffin, and Knott counties.

The RE/MAX organization, Gibson said, is one of the fastest-growing real estate franchises in the nation. Based in Denver, RE/MAX International consists of 3,000 independently owned and operated offices. Currently, there are over 50,000 sales associates throughout North America.

During 1997, RE/MAX was involved in more than 1 million real estate transactions.

First Commonwealth Bank introduces new money management program

A new educational program was recently announced by Linda Rose, branch manager of First Commonwealth Bank's Martin Branch.

The program, entitled, Your Checking Account, is being made available without cost to the Garth Area Technical Center, for students to learn the techniques and responsibilities associated with maintaining a personal checking account. Each kit includes a supply of checks, deposit slips, bank statements and related reference material.

After learning how to open an account, keep checkbook records and reconcile the monthly statement, students will actually maintain their own checking account for a simulated eight-month period. Additional banking services are also incorporated throughout the training program. These include the use of certified checks, stop payment orders, pre-authorized payments, ATM banking and other services. The materials are designed not only to teach an important aspect of money management, but also to correct poor checkwriting habits, which may otherwise persist throughout adult life.

Both First Commonwealth Bank and Doris Lawson, Business Education teacher at the center, emphasize the relationship between sound money management training in school and future financial stability. The program will be used as a banking simulation in select classes where personal financial management is an important part of the center's consumer education curriculum.

Linda Rose presented teaching materials to Lenville Martin and Doris Lawson. The First Commonwealth Bank has implemented an education program to teach students about money management.

How to be a good parent in spite of what you read and hear

by Judy Myers-Walls

Advice for parents is everywhere.

Popular books, newspapers, radio, television, newsletters, friends, relatives, and neighbors are full of ideas. They all have helpful hints to make you a more successful and efficient parent—and to make your child a smarter, healthier, and better-behaved youngster.

But for almost every suggestion, you can find a conflicting or opposite suggestion—sometimes from the same source!

So what should you do? Should you ignore everyone else and go your own way? That is one possible solution, but it may not be the best one. Most parents realize that being a good mother or a good father is not an inborn instinct. Every parent runs out of ideas at some point. There are important skills to be learned and shared with others, so a more constructive approach for dealing with this information overload is to learn how to sort through it.

EVALUATING INFORMATION

The first step in evaluating parenting information is to know yourself as a parent. Because there are so many "experts" telling you what to do, you may overlook your own expertise. You may feel that, because you don't have a child development degree, you can't really know the best way to raise a child.

For almost every parenting suggestion, you can find a conflicting or opposite suggestion—sometimes from the same source?

Remember, though, that no one knows your child better than you do. You have the unique role in your child's life of teaching values and direction.

You need to develop a sense of competency and consistency in the teaching of these values and directions. If you do not, or if you depend entirely on whatever advice you hear, you will begin to feel like a ping-pong ball, bouncing from one approach to another. Both you and your child will suffer, because neither will know what to expect next.

GET TO KNOW YOUR SKILLS

To get to know your parenting skills and needs, sit down with your spouse or a close friend and consider the following questions.

What is your overall philosophy of parenting? What makes a good parent good? For example, is a good parent one who always has the child under control or one who lets children make their own decisions? Should parents be totally open with their children or should they maintain a distance?

What kind of person would you like your child to be? For example, do you want him or her to be obedient, quiet, and well-behaved or questioning and a little rowdy? Do you want him or her to be competitive or cooperative?

What skills do you already have? In what areas do you need help? For instance, you may be very comfortable with your ability to help your child learn to read, but weak in helping him or her get along with others. You may feel good about your own abilities to deal with the child, but uncomfortable about cooperating with your spouse in the parenting role.

Think about yourself as an individual and also about you and your spouse as parents together. Give this step some time. It is probably the most important.

No one knows your child better than you do. You have the unique role in your child's life of teaching values and direction.

JUDGING INFORMATION

You can use the following four-step process to judge the information you get.

- Recognize your needs. Just as advertisements attempt to convince consumers that everyone needs a fur coat or a new car, some parenting information implies that all parents need to spend more time with their children or that all children need to be given more responsibility. Rather than being swept away by the "sales pitch," take time to sit back and consider your own needs. Answer the following questions whenever you read parenting advice:

Have I ever talked about this problem before? Can I easily picture myself in the situation(s) described?

Is the information stirring up guilt feelings? If so, where is the guilt coming from—my own expectations or what I think someone else expects of me?

Is the family form or lifestyle described anything like mine?

Answering these questions should help you avoid changing successful behavior. It should also help you avoid trying to be something that "they" expect you to be, or trying to fit a square peg into a round hole by trying to follow advice for a lifestyle or family form different from your own. On the other hand, try not to be so skeptical that you lose the opportunity to learn something about yourself.

- "Shop" for good-quality information. This step can be compared to shopping for a car to meet your needs after you have decided that you do indeed need a new car.

When you judge the quality of parenting information, consider the following:

BE SKEPTICAL OF STATISTICS

Consider the source of the information. Can you trust the individual or organization? Have you gotten useful information from this source in the past?

Be cautious of any sources that claim to have the final answer on anything. Family life is not simple and all parents and children are not alike.

Apply the information to your own life. Unlike cars, dishwashers, or watches, parenting information does not come with a user's manual. You will need to compose your own directions for use. The advantage of this is that you can use the information in the way it best fits your needs and lifestyle. Some hints for doing that:

- Determine if the recommendation fits your value system. Do you feel comfortable with the values you and your child will be supporting if you follow the advice?

Is the suggested approach really better than what you are doing now? Would it be possible to change back to your current behavior if the new approach does not work?

Listen carefully to the advice as it is given. Adapt the information to fit your situation, but make sure you understand the original version first.

If you decide to make a change that involves other family members, share the idea with them first. Any change you make will affect the entire family.

When you decide to make a change, be as specific as possible. Determine exactly what you will do, when, and who will be involved. The more specific you are, the more likely you are to succeed.

Evaluate your behavior. If you change your behavior based on parenting information, the next step will be to decide if the change was helpful in meeting your needs. This step is often overlooked. Do not continue with a practice that is not working simply because it was recommended.

To evaluate whether a change worked, consider what it cost you in time, emotions, or money. Most important, did you feel comfortable with the change? Does it "feel right" for you?

No matter what the cost and quality of the information, the best approach for you is the one you feel comfortable with. If you feel comfortable, you are likely to be more consistent and flexible, and therefore, more successful as a parent.

Whole Body Turkey and Turkey Breast

Special tips for whole body turkey:

- Cook same-size birds at the same time.
- Cook breast up, back down.
- The number of turkeys you cook at once depends on the size of your oven.
- Section turkey for faster cooking, if desired. Remove thighs and drumsticks and cook them separately from the breasts.
- Cook to an internal temperature of 180°F. in the thigh, 170°F. in the breast.

Special tips for turkey breast:

- Cook same-size breasts at the same time.
- Cook meaty side up.
- Do not overcook or delicate breast meat will dry out.
- Cook to an internal temperature of 170°F.

Cooking Equipment	Cooking Method	Cooking Equipment Temperature	Total Cooking Time
Whole Body Turkey: Conventional Oven	Roast	325°F.	14 to 18 lbs. 3 3/4 to 4 1/4 hrs.
			18 to 22 lbs. 4 1/4 to 4 3/4 hrs.
Convection Oven	Roast	300°F.	22 to 26 lbs. 4 3/4 to 5 1/4 hrs.
			14 to 18 lbs. 2 1/4 to 2 1/2 hrs.
Breast: Conventional Oven	Roast	325°F.	18 to 22 lbs. 2 1/2 to 3 hrs.
			8 to 12 lbs. 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 hrs.
Convection Oven	Roast	300°F.	12 to 16 lbs. 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 hrs.
			16 to 20 lbs. 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 hrs.
Convection Oven	Roast	300°F.	20 to 24 lbs. 5 1/2 to 6 1/2 hrs.
			12 to 16 lbs. 2 1/4 to 3 hrs.
Convection Oven	Roast	300°F.	16 to 20 lbs. 3 to 3 3/4 hrs.
			12 to 16 lbs. 2 1/4 to 3 hrs.

Note: When comparing whole body turkey and breast of the same weight, notice that the breast requires more cooking time. This is because a large breast comes from a large turkey (e.g., a 20-lb. breast from a 40-lb. turkey). So, the breast has a very high meat to bone ratio and, therefore, requires longer cooking.

Offers Turkey Trivia: Fun Facts About America's Favorite Bird

(ARA)— A long-time centerpiece of American holiday feasts, the turkey has a colorful and delicious history. Here are some intriguing facts about our nation's favorite bird, provided by Woodbridge Vintage Barrel Chips (www.woodbridgechips.com), that you probably didn't know:

- Turkeys originated in North and Central America, and evidence indicates that they have been around for over 10 million years.

- Until 1863, Thanksgiving Day had not been celebrated annually since the first feast in 1621. This changed in 1863 when Sarah Josepha Hale encouraged Abraham Lincoln to set aside the last Thursday in November "as a day for national thanksgiving and prayer."

- In Mexico, the turkey was considered a sacrificial bird.

- Domesticated turkeys (farm raised) cannot fly. Wild turkeys can fly for short distances at up to 55 miles per hour. Wild turkeys are also fast on the ground, running at speeds of up to 25 miles per hour.

- Only male turkeys (toms) gobble. Females (hens) make a clicking noise. The gobble is a seasonal call during the spring and fall. Hens are attracted for mating when a tom gobbles. Wild toms love to gobble when they hear loud sounds or settle in for the night.

- The heaviest turkey ever raised weighed in at 86 pounds — about the size of a large German Shepherd — and was grown in England, according to Dr. Sarah Birkhold, poultry specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

- Mature turkeys have 3,500 or so feathers. The Apache Indians considered the turkey timid and wouldn't eat it or use its feathers on their arrows.

- More than 45 million turkeys are cooked and 525 million pounds of turkey are eaten during Thanksgiving.

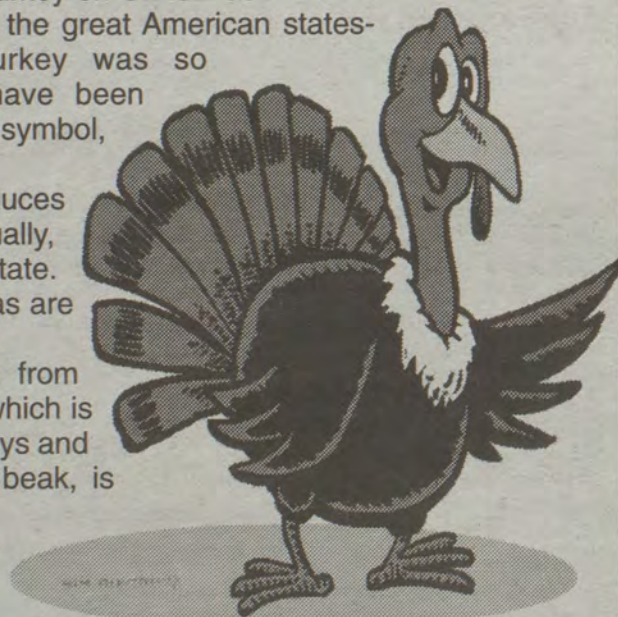

- Ninety percent of American homes eat turkey on Thanksgiving Day. Fifty percent eat turkey on Christmas.

- Benjamin Franklin, the great American statesman, thought the turkey was so American it should have been chosen as our national symbol, rather than the eagle.

- North Carolina produces 61 million turkeys annually, more than any other state. Minnesota and Arkansas are number two and three.

- The fleshy growth from the base of the beak, which is very long on male turkeys and hangs down over the beak, is called the snood.

KITTY LITTER CAKE

1 pk spice cake mix
1 pk white cake mix
1 pk white sandwich cookies

1 green food coloring

12 sm Toosie Rolls

1 pk vanilla pudding mix

Servings: 24

Prepare cake mixes and bake accordingly to directions. Prepare pudding mix and chill until ready to assemble. Crumble white sandwich cookies in small batches in blender; they tend to stick, so scrape often. Set aside all but about 1/4 cup. To the 1/4 cup cookie crumbs, add a few drops green food coloring and mix using a fork. When cakes are cooled to room temperature, crumble into a large bowl. Toss with half the remaining cookie crumbs and the chilled pudding. Gently combine. Line new, clean kitty litter box. Put mixture into litter box. Put three unwrapped Toosie Rolls in a microwave safe dish and heat until soft and pliable. Shape ends so they are no longer blunt, curving slightly. Repeat with 3 more Toosie Rolls and bury in mixture. Sprinkle the other half of cookie crumbs over top. Scatter the green cookie crumbs lightly over the top, this is supposed to look like the chlorophyll in kitty litter. Heat remaining Toosie Rolls, 3 at a time in the microwave until almost melted. Scrape them on top of the cake and sprinkle with cookie crumbs. Serve with a new pooper scooper.

CATHERINE CLARK'S CHRISTMAS RING

1 pk. yeast

1/4 c. warm water

3/4 c. scalded milk

3 3/4 to 4 c. flour

1/4 c. additional flour for kneading

1/2 c. sugar

1/2 tsp. salt

1/2 c. butter

1/2 tsp. cardamom

Combine yeast and water and stir with fork. In a large mixing bowl, mix milk, sugar, salt and cardamom. Add butter and yeast mixture, blend well.

Beat in 2 cups flour until smooth. Gradually stir in just enough flour to make a soft, workable dough that pulls away from the sides of the bowl. Turn out on a board which has been covered with flour and knead until smooth, and satiny about 10 minutes. Round in a ball and place in a warm greased bowl, covered loosely with plastic wrap and damp towel. Set in warm spot to double in bulk, turn out on a floured board and roll in a 22x10-inch rectangle. Mix filling ingredients except for candied fruits—and spread evenly over the dough, then sprinkle finely chopped candied fruit on top of filling. Roll up from long side as a jelly roll, wetting the edge to seal.

FILLING FOR CHRISTMAS RING

1/4 c. butter

1/4 c. sugar

1 tsp. grated lemon peel

1/2 tsp. vanilla or almond extract

1/2 c. toasted ground almonds

1 c. finely chopped candied mixed fruit

Cream together the butter and sugar and add remaining ingredients, except candied fruit.

Place sealed edge down, shaping dough into a ring on 16x14 inch cookie sheet, sealing the two ends together firmly. Take a pair of shears in hand and snip the roll a good 3/4 of the way through approaching it vertically from the top and snipping every 3/4". Turn the pieces on their sides alternately, right and left, so that fruit is visible. Place an inverted ovenproof custard cup or bowl in the center of the ring to keep the open center round during baking. Cover with wax paper in a warm and sheltered place until the ring increases about half again in size. Allow about an hour. Just before putting in oven, gently wash top off with beaten egg, using soft brush. Bake at 350° for 25 minutes.

Icing—when completely cool, blend together 2 c. powdered sugar, 1/4 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. vanilla, and 5 to 6 tablespoons half and half cream.
