Give blood at ARH

Residents of Left Beaver have the opportunity Tuesday to give a precious gift — blood — from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital bloodmobile. Goal for the Nov. 24 drive is 345 pints, the benefits of which are tripled, since one pint can save up to three people at local hospitals. All donors will receive a free gift. Donors should be at least 17, weigh a minimum of 100 pounds and be in general good health. The drive is sponsored by McDowell ARH and Central Kentucky Blood Center. For information, call Mickey Bowling at 606/439-2173.

NASA scientist is banquet speaker

Letcher County native Dr. Jerry Newsome, with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) will be the guest speaker tomorrow evening at the annual banquet of the East Kentucky Center for Science, Mathematics and Technology. Newsome is acting deputy director for the Space and Atmospheric Sciences Program Group at NASA Langley Research Center in Hampton, Va. Melissa Ratliff of Pike County and Jonathan Banks of Letcher County, winners of scholarships to the NASA Space Academy, will be special guests at the banquet, which begins with a reception and display at 6 p.m., at the Wilkinson-Stumbo Convention Center at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

Buckle 'em

From this Monday through Sunday, Nov. 29, Kentucky State Police are going to be on the lookout for cars where children are not in proper restraints. As part of a national effort, KSP will target drivers who do not place children in seat belts and booster seats and who do not put children under 40 inches in child restraint seats. Be warned, and buckle up the whole family!

Vandals spray paint Tram buildings, truck

Vandals painted over windows and lights on Jeffrey Spencer's truck Sunday morning and wrote obscenities on the sides, which The Times has blocked out. They also spray-painted other properties throughout the community of Tram.

by Pam Shingler
Editor

Elaine Spencer fears her husband might lose his job because of what vandals did to his semi truck early Sunday morning.

The vandals covered the truck with spray paint, filling the windows, mirrors, lights and license plates with gray and blue paint, Spencer said. In addition, they sprayed paint directly into the truck's air vent and made obscene words and drawings on the cab and truck body.

At the time of the incident, the truck was parked on the shoulder on US 23, where Jeffrey Spencer often parks it when he comes home from a long-distance run.

But the painters did not stop with Spencer's truck. They also painted various designs, including what some call a "devil's star," on the door of the Tram post office, on a local church, on the railroad crossing lights, on a railroad building beside the tracks that slice the community, and on the bridge that crosses the Big Sandy, giving access from the four-lane highway.

Much of the evidence remains on the buildings and bridge in the southern Floyd County community, but Elaine Spencer said she and her husband worked all day Sunday trying to clear the truck's windows and lights so he could drive it back to his employer, RSV Inc. in Kingsport, Tenn.

"It may cost him his job," the wife said Wednesday outside the couple's home. "We're afraid that if the company's insurance won't cover him any more, the company might not keep him on."

She said the company will most likely have to have the truck repainted, which could cost as much as $10,000. She also said that the truck was damaged last year when someone "took a crowbar" to it while it was parked on a private lot at Harold.

The paint that was used by the vandals likely came from the post office, according to Postmaster Glenna Stewart, who said she had several cans of gray and blue paint stored in a storage building next to the post office.

Floyd grand jury indicts county clerk

by Pam Shingler
Editor

In a case that goes back to late 1992 and early 1993, Floyd County Clerk Carla Boyd was indicted Tuesday by the Floyd County grand jury.

The case, brought by the state Attorney General's office rather than the local prosecutor, involves one count of "theft by failure to make required disposition of property over $300," a class D felony that could bring a jail sentence of up to five years.

The state's case alleges that Boyd received around $26,000, intended for property taxes, from RIFKIN/CCCG Inc., parent company of CableVision, the television cable company that serves the City of Prestonsburg, and apparently did not deposit it into the county fund.

A copy of the actual case file could not be obtained. Workers in the local circuit clerk's office and the commonwealth's attorney's office said that since the case was handled by the AG's office, the local offices did not have copies.

A spokesman for the AG's office in Frankfort, Corey Bellamy, said he could not furnish details because the case is in "continuous litigation and the file is being used."

Dan Perry of CableVision, however, said yesterday that he was Junior youth basketball play — not directly connected to the school system — was a spirited topic of discussion at Tuesday night's Floyd County Board of Education meeting.

Last week, junior youth basketball had been stopped until the issue could be resolved by the board. It took time and some emotional discussion, but the resolution was reached.

Supt. Mike King said that he and state manager Arnold Carter stopped the play because the calls that came into the central office indicated there were problems with the operation of the youth leagues.

Johnny Mayo, reporting to the board, indicated that the issue was not nearly as severe as Carter and King thought it was. Carter had asked the representatives from the leagues to provide various information including by-laws, proof of insurance, a grievance plan, and a financial accountability system.

When Mayo presented a docu-

Opry hails season

The Kentucky Opry will set the mood for a musical holiday season at the Mountain Arts Center, beginning next Friday with its Country Christmas show.

The show has become a Christmas tradition in the area, and this the third season for the Opry to present the holiday kick-off show at the MAC.

The Opry show will include many of the rich mountain selections highlighted with the mellow and inspiring harmonies of the Opry troupe.

This year, the show will feature the traditional favorite Christmas songs, as well as a special session with a children's choir. Ol' Saint Munroe will bring his antics into the show and members of the audience better watch out or, with the twitch of his nose, they may find themselves on the stage with him, to the laughter of a full house.

The stage is also set for Elvis and the Blues Brothers to exhibit a Christmas wish to all — "blues style." The Junior Pros will add their youthful celebration to the concerts as they take the stage with the Opry.

The November concert date is only the start of the Opry's Christmas activities. Christmas concerts are scheduled for December 4, 11, and 13.

Performances begin at 7:30 p.m. on December 4 and 11 but, December 13 and 20, the Opry's matinee performance begins at 3 p.m.

Tickets are $12 for adults; $10 for children and seniors; and $30 for a family package up to five members. Individuals who attend one of the five Christmas shows can register to win two free tickets to each 1999 Kentucky Opry performance.

For tickets, or information about the concerts, call (606) 886-2623 or, toll-free, 1-888-622-2787.

Board revisits grade scale

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

At Tuesday night's regular scheduled meeting, the Floyd County Board of Education had a second look at the proposed grading scale, discussed plans for moving the central office, heard a state of the school system address from Tom Willis, and listened to James A. Duff Middle School's corrective action report.

The board also discussed obtaining emergency certification for a director of pupil personnel (DPP). Earlier the board had made plans to raise the grading scale but had taken no action. Two groups at Tuesday's meeting voiced concerns about such a change.

Coy Samons, representing the Floyd County Principals Association (FCPA), asked the board to keep the 10-point scale (90-100 = A, 80-89 = B...).

Samons said the principals thought a change in the scale would lead to more failures, call for more Extended School Services and cause confusion among students. Samons asked the board to delay any decision on this matter at least until the start of a new school year.

Board member Johnnie Ross asked that the principals present a position paper to support their stand on the matter, and Samons agreed to have the report at next month's board meeting.

Board Chairman Terry Dotson said the board should go slowly on this matter because work being done statewide could result in a uniform grading system for all schools in the state.

The issue created a light moment when Ross distributed a paper with his ideas about the grading scale.

"This three-paragraph paper I have here?" Stumbo asked.

When Ross told her that was the paper, Stumbo

(See Board, page two)

Board

caused a ripple of laughter in the audience by her response: "Well, it needs some work."

Chandra Short, representing South Floyd High School, presented a parent-signed petition that asked the scale be left as it is.

Short, who is a straight-A student, said some of her grades would have been B's with the new grading scale. Short also said the D and D-student would become failures.

"Change the curriculum and teaching styles, but not the grading scale," Short said.

Ross asked Short to present a position paper much like the one he requested from FCPA.

Short suggested that if the scale is to be changed, it should start with next year's freshmen. She said the change would have great implications for scholarships and would make it appear that students in Floyd County are not as bright as students in other parts of the state.

The grading system previously proposed includes

- 95-100 = A, 90-94 = A-
- 87-89 = B+, 83-86 = B, 80-82 = B-
- 77-79 = C+, 73-76 = C, 70-72 = C-
- 67-69 = D+, 63-66 = D, 60-62 = D-
- and anything below 60 failing.

Later in the meeting, Tom Willis from the state Department of Education cautioned the board to go slowly on changes to the grading scale.

Interim Supt. Mike King told the board he was working on plans to move the central office to Martin, but on Monday, Prestonsburg City Council had agreed to offer to rent the board the old post office in an attempt to keep the central office in the city.

Ross added that the US Army

Corps of Engineers is considering a plan to move many businesses and residences in downtown Martin to different locations because of flooding.

King said he will gather more information on relocation proposals to present at the next board meeting. No action was taken on this item.

More than 90 percent of the faculty from Duff Middle School came to the board meeting to hear Principal Bonita Compton, two students, one parent, and several teachers present the corrective action plan to the board.

Each person talked on a different aspect of the school and each speaker related how well things were going in spite of the difficulties that arise from being a new school.

The board complimented the group for its effective presentation and was especially praiseworthy of Duff's staff attendance which is the highest in the county.

King told the board that the superintendent search committee would be at the December board meeting. "Have your timelines, questions, and concerns ready next month. Give the committee your charge," King said.

Ross asked if the board could have a workshop to help in this selection. King told him if the board wants a workshop, he will plan one.

Henry Risner, construction superintendent, along with contractor Sammy Martin, reported on the Prestonsburg High School project. Risner asked that the board approve a change order to have some electrical work done on the stage area of the gym.

Risner said this was necessary because the board's electrician was ill and the work should be done immediately. The board directed that the work not exceed $3,000.

Board member Jody Mullins asked about the dirt that has been piled up to protect the high school. He wondered why concrete was not used all the way around the building. Risner said this was one of the cost-cutting moves that the board approved.

Mullins said he feared a flood would cut the dirt out and undermine the foundation of the building. The building will continue to be protected by the piled dirt.

Associate Commissioner of Education Tom Willis gave an update on reports that the state department gives the Kentucky Board of Education (KBE). Willis said the Floyd County Board of Education is an agenda item every month for KBE.

He said that while the Declaration of Emergency that has existed for two years has been removed, the financial situation remains very tight in Floyd County.

Dotson said he was glad that Willis had pointed out the extent of progress made by the system and how much more needs to be done.

Ross said the board members understand that they have "breathing room, but we're breathing shallow," referring to the tight financial situation.

After contingency requirements and monies already allocated, the board has a balance of about $500,000.

Willis told the board he would be giving them reports every two months summarizing what the KBE has said about Floyd County.

When the discussion of the pupil personnel position came up, Stumbo said it appeared that the board was in the process of creating a position for someone.

King reminded her that the position was already there.

Stumbo said, "Yes, but you are getting ready to fill the position."

King said that was not the case — he simply wanted someone to be able to sign off on documents that are prepared by personnel who are working on 100-day contracts.

Ross pointed out that the board already has someone with certification for this position, Susan Compton. Ross asked the board that names not be used in these discussions. "I've asked for this before, yet the book is filled with names," he said, referring to the volume of information given to the board and media.

After more discussion, Stumbo said, "I can't vote for this."

When it was apparent that the no board member would make the motion, King said, "Thanks for the support."

ment that met all the requirements, board chairman Terry Dotson told Mayo, "You're back in business."

Board member Carol Stumbo said she had a problem with Carter and King unilaterally making a decision about the situation without the board's consent. Stumbo said the agreement was between the board and the leagues and any disputes should be handled by the board.

She also said she felt it was inappropriate for the board to get involved in the internal affairs of the league. She said it was especially troubling to her for the board to be involved in the financial affairs of the league.

King and Carter said they had called other board members and received verbal agreement that the operations should be stopped. Stumbo had been of town and could not be reached.

Following this discussion, other representatives from the leagues presented their documentation and were reinstated. The only exception was the Betsy Layne contingent which gave no report and will not be allowed to play until the information is provided to the board.

Paula Ousley of Martin, Rick Hughes of Prestonsburg, and Dexter Conley of the Duff area all presented needed information and were told they could resume play.

called to testify before the grand jury regarding the payment of around $26,000 in property taxes from his company to the county.

The AG's office said Boyd's arraignment has been set for Monday, Dec. 14, at noon in Floyd Circuit Court and that a summons has been issued for her appearance at the arraignment.

Boyd was assailed in 1995 by then-State Auditor Ben Chandler, who is now Attorney General, as having "the worst of any clerk's records" he had seen. Apparently unable at the time to account for $103,900 in delinquent property tax collections for 1992 and 1993, Chandler said he was forwarding the questions about the audit to the attorney general's office and to the Kentucky State Police for further review.

Chandler's audit alleged a deficit of $193,126 and said the clerk's office had three accounting systems for delinquent tax collections that did not agree.

Boyd has been clerk since 1983 and ran unopposed in the Nov. 3 election. She previously worked as a deputy clerk for her late uncle Ollie Robinson, who died in office.

Boyd was apparently out of the county and unavailable for comment all week.

Burke displays artwork at Morehead University

A Floyd County student, along with several of his classmates enrolled in the "Art 467: Native American Art" class at Morehead State University, has organized an art exhibit based on the students studies of Serpent Mound in Southern Ohio.

The show, entitled "The Spirit of the Earth," is on display through November 20, in Strider Gallery, Claypool-Young Art Building.

The gallery is open weekdays, from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. There is no charge for viewing.

Stoney Burke and several MSU students are involved in the project.

that vandals had hit the post office, Stewart said she went to check and found that the lock to the storage bin had been cut, apparently by bolt cutters. The paint was missing.

"I assume that the paint they (the vandals) used was my paint," she said, adding that she has notified postal inspectors of the theft and the vandalism.

Stewart also said that she has had problems before with groups of people congregating at the post office after hours.

"I have called state police on several occasions," she said.

Spencer's employer, RSV, is offering a reward of $500 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the vandals. Richard Venable, president of the company, which runs more than 40 trucks in 48 states, said yesterday that information should be directed to the Kentucky State Police.

KSP Trooper Robbie Wood responded to the truck vandalism call, but he has been unavailable for comment.

Math/Science Resource Center reaching out

by Barbara E. Williams
Pikeville College student
The Pikeville College Math/Science Resource Center provides educational events for area students and their teachers.

"We interact with students and teachers by going out to the schools and conducting professional development workshops," said Robert Arts, center director and assistant professor of physics at Pikeville College. "If we find something really interesting that's new and innovative with hands-on science, we go out and do it."

The center was established in 1990 as a partnership between the college and surrounding schools to enhance math and science education. Arts organizes physics demonstrations while Dr. Bryan Hearn and

Dr. Tom Hess, associate professors of chemistry, conduct chemistry shows.

Resource center activities are year-round, Arts said. Student workshops are conducted throughout the school year, and teacher workshops take place during the summer. A variety of workshops are provided for area teachers on subjects such as astronomy and environmental science.

A week-long science camp for students in grades five through eight is also offered on campus during the summer. Campers spend four days learning about physics, biology, computer science and chemistry, while an educational, science-oriented field trip is taken the last day.

The Math and Science

Olympics, one of the most popular programs, is a collection of 15 hands-on events which gives students an opportunity to enhance math and science skills, creative thinking and peer collaboration.

The Physics Petting Zoo is comprised of 30 hands-on displays which give students, as well as teachers, the chance to learn physics principles.

"We like to bring students in and do some of our science demonstration shows here," said Arts, though some demonstrations are simplified for presentation at area schools. In addition, students take tours of the Armington Science-Learning Center, in which they see where Pikeville College students learn and work, talk about lab safety, and view laboratory equipment.

MAYO MOMENTS

Linda Lyon
Marketing Director
Mayo Technical College

Have you ever thought about all the transitions that have come along in education in our lifetimes? We have experienced the 3R's, the Modern Math, the consolidation of schools, the Phonetic approach, the Back to Basics movement, KERA, mentoring, modeling, home schooling (I think we started with that too. LOL), KET, extended campus programs, computerized education, distance learning, and many other renovations and educational advances. The one thing that has remained constant through the years here is technical and vocational training and education. We have changed the name and changed the schedule but the basic core of Mayo Technical College programming is still the same. We still teach electricity, electronics, mechanics, construction, air conditioning, business, data processing, cosmetology, welding, drafting, machine tool tech, nursing, respiratory care, surveying and mapping, and all the other programs that fit in, around and under those categories. We still graduate men and women who are ready to work and able to make a living with skills acquired in our labs and classrooms. We still prepare people for the world of work.

When Mayo was first founded, one of the classes that formed the basic vocational core was electricity. In that day students learned to wire houses using small switch boxes with four 15 amp fuses that screwed into the panel and ran off of two cartridges. Radios (not TV) ran off of batteries and had tubes in the back to make them "go". There was no such thing as air-conditioned houses or all the other electronic stuff we use today. An electric iron was a real modern convenience.

Refrigeration had just come along and not many people had the pleasure of electric freezers and refrigerators. Iceboxes were still in many homes. Stoves were heated with wood or coal and cooking was a very hot job in the summer. Electricity students were on the cutting edge of technology in those days as Mayo met the need of the changing society around it by providing technicians to wire and troubleshoot as it advanced.

We still do that today. Our classes have changed but only to add too the basics we began with. Over the years, the codes have changed, the wire has changed, the appliances and gadgets we need the power for have changed and we have adapted to those changes. Today the tremendous need for electricity in each and every home in America keeps us on our toes and working hard to supply the workers who keep the lines humming.

Electricity has many occupational variations. You can talk to one of our instructors or to a counselor here at Mayo today to see if this may be the field for you. Call us at 789-5321 today to discuss how you may fit into an electrical profession with a future.

Civil War discussion hosted by May group

The Friends of the Samuel May House will host the Eastern Kentucky Civil War Roundtable on Saturday, November 28.

A general session, moderated by John David Preston, author of the book, The Civil War in the Big Sandy Valley, will begin at 10 a.m. in the Pike Auditorium at Prestonsburg Community College.

A Dutch lunch is planned at Jerry's Restaurant, with the group reconvening at 1:30 p.m. at the Samuel May House for afternoon panel discussions on various topics.

Lead topic for the afternoon will focus on daily life in this area during the war.

The event is free and open to the public.

Resort parks to offer continental breakfasts

On December 1, six Kentucky state resort parks will launch a new program to offer a lodge or cottage guest a free continental breakfast, instead of charging to order from a full breakfast menu. The program will continue through March 31.

The six participating parks are Dale Hollow Lake, Pennyrite Forest, Grenbo lake, Carter Caves, Buckhorn Lake, and Pine Mountain.

State parks official Jim Goodman said the new program is expected to have the dual benefit of saving a guest time and money during breakfast, while also saving each park operating costs incurred in maintaining full dining room services. The breakfast menu will include fresh fruit, pastries, muffins, juice and cereal. The six parks will continue to provide full dining room service for lunch and dinner.

Meanwhile, the remaining 10 resort parks will continue to offer full breakfast menus, with traditional Kentucky fare. The continental breakfast program will be evaluated at its conclusion, and, if successful, it could be expanded to include other parks next winter.

Help a child; limit TV time

Children studied by researchers at Stanford University had fewer problems with alcohol when they watched less television. The study offers additional reasons for parents to be concerned about the television their children watch.

There were plenty of reasons for parents to be concerned even before the study came along. Television is passive. It encourages intellectual flabbiness. Reading requires the brain to grow and develop.

Television forces children to be stationary. It takes them away from the outdoor play that promotes physical coordination and development.

Moreover, television presents an artificial view of life, from family relationships to sex, that, after being drummed year after year into the brain, seems more real to some people than reality.

The researchers followed 1,533 ninth-graders for 18 months. During that time, 36 percent of 898 non-drinkers began to drink. Television and videos made no difference in the drinking habits of the 635 participants who already drank.

Each extra hour the teens spent each week watching music videos increased by 31 percent their risk of starting to drink over the next 18 months. Every hour spent watching other types of television increased the risk by nine percent.

Dr. Thomas Robinson, a Stanford researcher, said alcohol is the most common beverage shown on television.

"The great majority of drinking on television is by the most attractive and most influential people, and it is often associated with sexually suggestive content," he said.

A separate study raised the hope that some families are getting control of their television time. Children surveyed by researchers at the University of Michigan averaged 90 minutes watching television each week-day, down from two hours in a comparable study in 1981.

Some television fare is good. But much of it is not.

The study relating drinking to television watching suggests that parents could do their children a big favor by keeping to a minimum the role of television in their lives. The study at Michigan shows that it's possible to cut down. — Omaha World-Herald

DEMOCRAT PARTY 'GOT HUNG ON THEIR OWN PETARD'

Editor:

As the old Indian in the motion picture, "Free Willy," said, "Things Happen." And things happened here in Floyd County on election day, November 3. No! Not a miracle; we did not have free and equal election. Far from it. We had machines breaking down, no parking places, and long lines of voters at the polls. In some precincts, hundreds of our citizens standing in line to vote, finally gave up in disgust and went home. Which, I believe, was exactly the intent of the long lines in the first place; to limit the vote out in the county precincts.

Polling places or precincts considered safe for the political machine and its chosen candidates for county commissioner got two voting machines; hostile precincts out in the county got but one voting machine. So the total possible vote in a precinct with one voting machine would be 240 votes if each voter was able to vote in three minutes during the twelve hours the polls were open. This was the case, even in precincts with more than 1,100 registered voters.

Thus, we estimate that at least 6,000 citizens of Floyd County were prevented from voting in the rural precincts of our county. And this assured that the correct commissioners, from the standpoint of the Little Kingdom, were elected to office.

Yes, the Little Kingdom won the local election. However, the loss of these estimated 6,000 votes in Floyd County cost the State and National Democrat Party dearly. They never lifted a finger to help assure a fair and equal election. And they got hung on their own petard.

There are 28,000-plus registered Democrats in Floyd County, and about 2,000-plus registered Republicans. Out in the county precincts, registered Democrats often outnumber registered Republicans by ratios of 40 to 1. And if these 6,000 citizens out in the county had been able to vote on November 3, we believe that 5,500 to 5,600 of them would have voted for the Democrat candidate for U S Senator. And guess who lost the election, state-wide, by about 5,000 votes. Yep! You're right!

There is almost a sense of grim humor, even gallows humor, about this election and its consequences for the State and National Democrat party. Yes, the local Little Kingdom was able to control the local election and elect their candidates. And they retain control of the county fiscal court.

But in doing so, they cost the State and National Democrat Party a US Senate seat, with incalculable impact and influence on state and national politics for decades to come.

To me, this seems to be poetic justice; held on to a county district commissioner's seat and lose a $30 million campaign for the US Senate.

If this was a chess game, it would be about equal to trading a bishop or a castle for a pawn, which does not seem to be good strategy in the game of politics. But, then, perhaps the Little Kingdom is not involved in politics. Perhaps they have a different agenda.

MAYO COUNTERS JUNIOR PRO ARTICLE

Editor:

Let's set the record straight, referring to an article in this paper dated November 11. Martin Junior Pro has been much maligned and falsely accused in this paper.

False statement No. 1. "At Martin, when a coach hits a referee in the face, we want to know two things," said Woody Carter. "What action the league is taking in correcting the situation. Johnny Mayo told me that the person was barred from the game. Is that all! Barred from the game! Has he been suspended, and how long?"

False statement No. 2. "To date, we have gotten no answers from the leagues," said Carter. "Johnny turned in his bylaws and procedures. The by laws read "see page 11 for handling violence;" but there were only 10 pages."

In reference to statement No. 1, no such incident has ever taken place at Martin Junior Pro, and absolutely no such conversation has ever taken place between me and Woody Carter. In reference to statement No. 2, I nor anyone else at Martin Junior Pro has ever turned in Martin Junior Pro by laws to Woody Carter or The Floyd County Board of Education.

Thousands of parents and kids have worked hard to make Martin Junior Pro the model program that it is today.

READER RESPONDS TO LETTER ABOUT PHS DANCE CATS

Editor:

I just read Barry Spurlock's letter to the editor, regarding the PHS Dance Cats, and I am compelled to respond. I certainly respect Mr. Spurlock's right to voice his opinion, but I don't want his comments to go unanswered.

The costumes or uniforms worn by the dance team are attractive and appropriate for dancers. They are no more revealing than those outfits worn by young Olympic skaters. As for the routines, the students who dance are true athletes who must maintain top physical condition and put in countless hours of practice to perform the dances.

Mr. Spurlock found some of the dances offensive, but we should remember that, through the years, certain people have been offended by the jitterbug, the twist and Elvis Presley's gyrations, all of which have

Once a week, I go to Ashland for a Morehead class in folklore, which relates well to our Appalachian heritage.

I drive up in daylight and drive back in dark, and it is the dark that is, by far, the more interesting, for it makes me face some of the conflicts that affect my being.

First, you need to know that I am an unapologetic environmentalist, not radical, but confirmed. I see nothing wrong with hugging trees — we could hug worse. I am irate at the ignoramuses among us who cavalierly throw their garbage over hillsides and out their car windows; if I had any influence, I who desecrate our living room. I am bothered by businesspeople who believe it's all right to damage our earth, water and air as long as they're not caught. You can really raise my dander by failing to respect the earth.

That said, I love the night lights that line the road coming south out of Ashland. On the left side of US 23, next to the river, the oil-related plants are outlined in lights and the open flames shoot blue and yellow into the heavens. It's beautiful.

I imagine that from an airplane these plants must look like intense, compacted cities of flickering light. I am in awe of the power and the brilliance, and I'm grateful for the show.

At the docks where coal is left to be put on barges going north to go west and east and south, the huge processing facilities are outlined in lights. Approaching from a ways away, they look like magnificent roller coasters, ready to whip your neck and thrill your soul.

And at night, the big coal trucks, behemoths driving our economy and trying to get in one more haul, are decorated for Christmas all year long with rows of lights that announce the coming a mile away.

Beyond the lights that, at base, are counter to an environmentalist creed, I am always thrilled by the optical illusion the road provides.

You whiz by the hints of communities that reflect the Anglo-Saxon heritage: Durbin, Burnaugh, Buchanan, Kavanaugh, Zelda. Looming ahead on the right side of your vision are the gargantuan cooling towers of the AEP plant, still easier said as Kentucky Power. Even in the dark you see the steam.

Nearing the old railroad crossing, you realize that the road swings around and the cooling towers are actually on the left. What you first perceived was an illusion created by the movement of the highway.

I am always reminded when I travel this way that so much of our life is illusion. The lights of the plants and the trucks are functional, not decorative, no matter how we see them. The burning gas cannot be safe, despite its lure. This wonderful four-lane road that came to us way too late takes away as much as it gives, perhaps more.

Sometimes, I suppose, we can take simple joy in the illusion.

THINGS TO PONDER

Mable Rowe
Lineberger, Ph.D.

Most likely, many grandparents recall the old song about an ideal life in a "blue heaven" with a husband, wife, and baby; perhaps it copied the Ozzie and Harriet household. Presently, instead of two adults focusing on the needs of the child, there often seems to be automatically four more with the coming of two sets of grandparents. Based on observations of family members and friends who are grandparents, it seems to be that grandparenting is a most significant positive state of being that compares to none. It is amazing, beautiful, powerful, so many other grand adjectives. The babe seems to bring with it bragging rights for the grandparent that they could or would not have expressed before.

As the baby begins to grow, the issues around the baby-parents-grandparents relationships begins to bloom. For example, a "practicing" loving grandmother of almost one year's experience asked, "what should be the grandparents' role in regards to disciplining the child?" In settings where the child's parents are available, the role of a grandparent is much more passive than the role of the parent. If the parents and the grandparents do not agree on opinions and techniques, the grandparents need to yield the right of way. Grandparents should be ready to give advice when it is asked for or when it is necessary to keep the parents from violating the rules of society regarding children. Otherwise, remain silent. When advice to parents is given, it should be given in private, in love, and with children absent from the meeting.

Of course, numerous attempts have been made to classify the different types of relationships between grandparents and grandchildren and five basic styles were identified in a mid-60's article: (1) fun-seeking—compassionate; marked especially by informality and playfulness; emphasis is on mutual satisfaction rather than on providing treats for the child; most common grandparenting style among those under 65; and seems to be a modern invention; (2) formal—pertains to those who follow what they regard as the proper and traditionally prescribed role for grandparents; they like to provide special treats for the child and occasionally assist parents such as by baby-sitting; they make sure there is a clear difference between parenting and grandparenting; they leave parenting strictly to the parents; this is the most popular style of grandparents over age 65; children are usually older; they expect "proper" behavior of grandchildren and emphasize adequate social control; (3) distant—grandparents become evident on holidays and on special occasions, graduations and birthdays fleeting and infrequent contacts with the child; and can be essentially distant and remote even though the grandparents may not live far away; (4) reservoirs of family wisdom—this represents distantly authoritarian relationship in which the grandparent—almost always the grandfather—is the dispenser of special skills or resources; and an emphasis such virtues as honesty, common sense, and responsibility; and (5) surrogate parents—this style appears almost exclusively among women; usually the young mother works and the grandmother assumes the actual caretaking responsibility for the child; and the line between parenting and grandparenting is blurred in these cases with little or no formal separation of responsibilities.

No matter how hard our society attempts to keep the picture of a loving nuclear family, 1.9 million children were living with their mothers in the homes of their grandparents in 1996 and 3.7 million grandchildren were residing with grandparents in 1997. About a third of these households did not have a parent parent. Multiple reasons have been given why the increase in this phenomena, such as substance abuse, death or incarceration of the child's parent, teen pregnancy, divorce, and parents having a chronic medical condition, cancer or HIV/AIDS. While grandparents and other relatives are stepping in to raise their family's children, no single dominant model exists of what a grandparent is supposed to do and how a grandparent is supposed to act. Even though full-time grandparents do not always support and assistance they need, it is important too for the full-time grandparent to accept that their children may have made some unfortunate or unwise choices in life, but they did not make the choices and the action does not reflect on the grandparent.

Cultural aspects in eastern Kentucky seem to be yet another prominent factor that impacts on the grandchild-grandparent relationship. Since so many of our extended families live on the same "family" land in such close physical proximity, it is not uncommon for family members not to have adequate boundaries; i.e., each adult may tend to mind the other person's business instead of what he/she needs to do in regards to the children. Often the foundation of a troubled family structure consists of issues such as some grandparents thinking they can do a better job than the parents at taking care of their children; some parents do not want to accept their parental responsibilities of their offspring and are willing for anyone to take kids off their hands. When the grandparents rear the families' little ones as they did their own and perhaps with the same inadequate parenting styles, the family's transgenerational issues continue, along with tendencies to inherit similar characteristic ways of solving problems. The same problems continue over and over. In contrast, if grandparents accept their responsibility of maintaining appropriate relationships with the family, even from afar they can have a wholesome and effective impact their generations that follow.

been proven, by time and reflection, to be simply entertaining and harmless.

Regarding Mr. Spurlock's concerns about "right and wrong" and the "message" these dancers send, I have to say that I know many of these young girls personally and consider their wonderful role models for my own young daughter. They are dedicated and serious about being a part of a winning team and serve as a good example for others.

Jody Shepherd, the team's sponsor, has extremely high expectations of the dancers, and their behavior in public is never less than exemplary.

Again, I do respect and understand Mr. Spurlock's expression of his opinion; however, the community, and the Dance Cats, must know that not everyone shares that opinion.

Vietnam veterans honored in exhibit

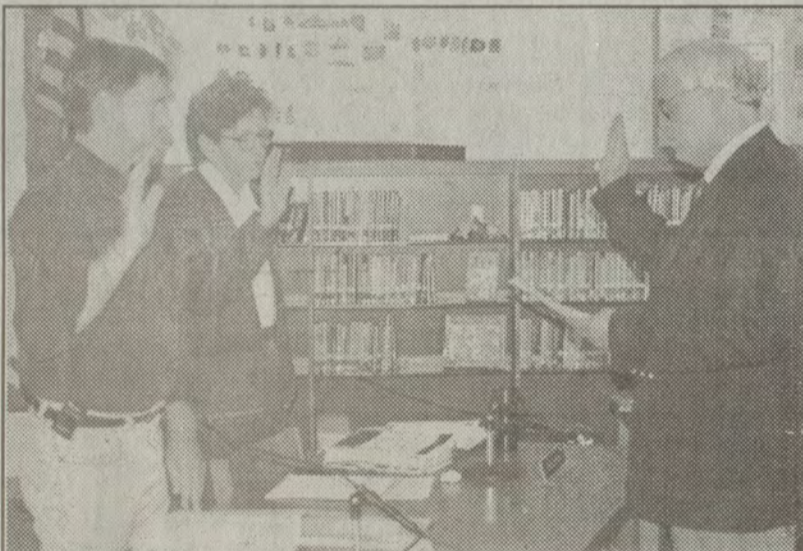

The Kentucky Historical Society announces a new exhibit at the Kentucky Military History Museum.

The exhibit, "A Time to Remember: The First Decade of the Kentucky Vietnam Veterans Memorial," opened November 11, following the tenth anniversary ceremony at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Frankfort. The exhibition will showcase memorabilia and tokens of appreciation that have been placed at the memorial during the last 10 years.

The monument is dedicated to Kentuckians who fought and died, or are listed as missing in action in Vietnam. The Kentucky Military History Museum is located on East Main Street in Frankfort.

For information about the exhibit, call 502-564-3265. Admission is free. The Kentucky Historical Society is an agency of the Education, Arts and Humanities Cabinet.

Shiber is published

Dr. John G. Shiber, associate professor of biology at PCC, recently presented three papers at the 84th annual meeting of the Kentucky Academy of Science, held in Louisville. He gave the paper entitled, "Study-Learning Habits of College Students: Evidence for Action" in the Science Education Section of the academy, and the other two in the Sociology Section. Their titles are, "Experiences of Familial Abuse by Adult Appalachian Students," and, "Non-traditional Students: The Importance of Getting There." Anyone wishing to read the papers may find them on the Reserve Shelf of the PCC library, for the next month.

The abstracts of Dr. Shiber's papers will be published in the March, 1999 volume of the Transactions of the Kentucky Academy of Science.

Hamilton Says Thanks

Mr. Jay Lee Hamilton would like to thank the medical doctors, nurses and staff at our Lady of the Way Hospital for providing quality care during my stay.

The staff provided friendly and quality service during my two-week stay.

A sincere thanks
 From Mr. Hamilton

"It's great to be alive and to help others"

Big Sandy Mended Hearts, Chapter #220 invites you to honor and remember those you love, by placing a light on its LIGHTS OF LIFE TREE this holiday season.

This holiday display of light and beauty is located at Highlands Regional Medical Center, Prestonsburg, on a live tree. It illuminates the night from December 1st until after New Year's, showing all the Big Sandy area your remembrance and your care for others.

This year, proceeds from the LIGHTS OF LIFE TREE will go to Mended Hearts, Chapter #220. Your gift will do double duty; it will represent your care for someone you admire or love, and it will help support our local heart patients.

Each gift of $5.00 for a LIGHTS OF LIFE TREE light will be acknowledged by a card to the person you honor, or the family of the person you remember. In addition to the card, a receipt will be mailed in acknowledgment of your tax-deductible contribution.

When you make a gift to the LIGHTS OF LIFE TREE, you are automatically invited to be our guest at the reception and/or the tree lighting ceremony, Tuesday, December 1st. The reception will be held at 6 p.m. in Meeting Room B, and the lighting ceremony will begin at 7 p.m., at the entrance of Highlands Regional Medical Center.

Saturday night at the MAC

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

On Saturday night, Hall Funeral Home of Martin brought the Kentucky Opry Junior Pros and the Opry of the Virginias together for an evening of song and fun.

The Junior Pros opened the program with a selection of songs and instrumentals that got the crowd into a foot-stomping mood. They opened with "Fiddling Boogie," which loosened up the crowd and put them in the mood for more good music.

As soon as the kids came on the stage, I was in love with them. It wouldn't have mattered if they could sing and play or not—but sing and play they could.

Now, I would never tell the Opry people what they should do—they do that quite well, thank you. So as a request, I ask that the musicians on the front line be introduced by name. It would take less than a minute. If I were that talented, I would want to be introduced.

I was especially drawn to little Ernest Collins. I thought to myself, "How can a child that young be so good?"

Then later in the show Brittany Hamilton sang "I'm All Right" and theatrically threw her hat into the audience. Later Morgan Hughes sang "Rocky Top," taking a break in the lyrics to do a little clogging. The song is always a crowd favorite and Morgan did it just fine.

What a trio—Ernest, Brittany, and Morgan.

Just a little older is Shane Boyd who really gets into his music. You can tell the boy enjoys playing and he feeds off the energy from the crowd. During the performance you can see Shane switching instruments quite regularly. What talent.

Ashley Hall did a good job on "Don't be Stupid." I was impressed with the range of her voice.

I would be amiss if I did not mention Chris Lafferty since he is a former student of mine. Chris performs with both the Junior Pros and the Kentucky Opry. Chris, did a good job on "Why Don't You Call Me?"

Toward the end of their segment the Junior Pros did a rousing version of "Orange Blossom Special."

I asked, am I biased or are these kids really this good? I asked the Burnette family—Larry, Betsy and Tammy Jo — from Pikeville what they thought.

Betsy immediately said, "They're really good to be so young." Tammy Jo said she would come see them again. She added that she was coming back soon to see Little River Band.

I know I'm supposed to say something about a weakness or something like that. I would just say, give Ernest a solo number. He would bring the house down.

Opry of the Virginias

At the break I told some friends, "The Virginia people will have to come up with the goods to match these kids." They had the goods.

The band for the Opry of the Virginias, the Midnight Special Band, does both country and rock 'n roll selections. Thus, the band has something for almost everyone in the audience. Attending one of its shows will teach tolerance and appreciation of other kinds of music.

To illustrate its range the band did two versions of "Walk Softly on This Heart of Mine," one in the Bill Monroe (bluegrass) style and the other in Kentucky Head Hunters (rockabilly) style. I enjoyed the Bill Monroe version better.

The pace of the performance was smooth. The group kept the audience into the performance by alternating performers and styles of music. The show opened with "O Lonesome Me" by Bob Campbell, who manages the Opry, and then headed into a lively rendition of

"Down on the Chattahoochee."

Then we were introduced to the female singers. Jana Allen, who has Floyd County roots, did a nice job on songs such "Baby, I Lied," "If You Loved Me Half as Much as I Love You," and "Life is Too Short to Live Like That."

I especially enjoyed Beth Miller's "Unchained Melody." Later she did a Martina McBride tune "Broken Wing."

The band also did some of my favorites, as if I had requested them. They did Roy Orbison's "Pretty Woman" and the tear-jerker "The Green, Green Grass of Home."

Hoop, the comedian, added greatly to the performance. Hoop writes songs about funny things to the tune of popular songs. For example he wrote (and sang) "Lawn Mower Cowboy" to the tune of "Rhinestone Cowboy." Anyone would enjoy Hoop's performance.

The Virginians included gospel music. Jimmy Lucas and Bob Campbell sang "Amazing Grace" and the band closed with "I Saw the Light."

This is a versatile group. If they come back, make it a point to get out to see them.

If they team with the Junior Pros, you can double your pleasure.

Pass the salt (up?), please

by John G. Shiber, PhD

Associate professor of biology Prestonsburg Community College

Salt, who doesn't love it? I would be at a loss to name one person. Not only is salt a vital constituent of the human body, it also gives flavor to bland, boring food and is used as a preservative for canned, frozen, and other processed foods.

Yet, it has constantly been drummed into us, for several decades now, that salt use can worsen certain health conditions, most notably high blood pressure/hypertension and heart disease.

So, like most everyone else, I try to limit my salt intake, especially in winter. I don't do it so much in summer because a person's need for salt increases, due to salt loss through perspiration.

Recently, I read an article in the American scientific journal, "Science" (14 August 1998, pp.898-907), which casts doubt on the salt-hypertension connection. And, interestingly, this "salt controversy" has been going on among epidemiologists for years, unbeknownst to most of us.

It seems that some very qualified epidemiologists who believe what we've been told for more than 20 years, i.e., that salt use contributes to hypertension, are getting some flack from some equally qualified epidemiologists, who believe it doesn't.

The article (which, by the way, was extremely well-researched), illustrated how impatience among well-meaning governmental health officials and scientists may have caused them to make premature statements about this issue.

Those opposing the salt-hypertension connection claim that the first studies, on which warnings to the public were based, lacked conclusive evidence to this.

Since those original studies, there have been scores of others, many of which have suggested there is little, if any, relationship between salt and hypertension. Such studies have been virtually ignored in the scientific literature, or re-interpreted in order to make the data seem to support the initial belief. Two were done quite recently, and were very thorough.

The first of these was called the Scottish Heart Health Study, which studied risk factors for cardiovascular disease in 7,300 Scottish men. The results, published in 1988, reported that sodium (salt) had no effect on blood pressure. It was ignored. Yet, it had been the most comprehensive study to date on the salt-hypertension connection.

In 1998, the same researchers published a 10-year follow-up, which concluded that sodium showed no relation to either coronary heart disease or death. It, too, was ignored.

The second comprehensive study was called "Intersalt." This one has become the most prominent in the salt controversy. It was designed to find a linear relationship between salt intake and high blood pressure.

One hundred-fifty researchers took part in this project. They studied men and women in each decade of life, from 20-60 years, in 52 small communities around the world, and it was found that some populations eat as much as 14 grams of salt (3-1/2 times that recommended for Americans) per day, and have no problem with high blood pressure.

When the results were published, a member of Intersalt, Lennart Hanson, went on record as saying, "It (the study) did not show blood pressure increases if you eat a lot of salt."

So, what are we, the public, to believe? What we've been hearing all these years? Or, what we have not been hearing all these years?

Frankly, I think we should keep an open mind about the salt-hypertension connection. As my father always told us as we were growing up, "Eat everything, but eat it in moderation." Very wise words, don't you think? So, I pass them on to you...and you can pass the salt on to me, please!

Words of Life

Decisions! Decisions! Decisions! We all make decisions—the President of the United States, the employer, the employee, the wife, the husband, the children, the teacher, the student — tough decisions, and our decisions affect what we do. But we have help: praise the Lord! One of my favorite scriptures in the Bible gives the solution, "Trust in the Lord with all your heart; And lean not on your own understanding; In all your ways acknowledge Him, And He shall direct your paths" (Prov. 3:5-6 The New KJV).

Trust in God. Trust in His Personhood. He has feelings of love and of compassion. Trust Him when problems are pressing you downward, and trust Him when you are in the best of circumstances. Just trust Him at all times. Trust in His character. God is omniscient, omnipotent, and omnipresent. Trust in His will and in His plan for your life. You do this with all of your heart, and don't depend upon your own understanding.

"In all your ways" means complete surrender. The Lord is to have all of life. We should trust the Lord with our time, serve Him with our talents, honor Him with our gifts, and praise Him with our total life. The Lord can use a surrendered life, but not an unsundered life.

The Lord our leader

"Acknowledge Him," remember Him every day, admit that He is the giver of every good gift as we find in James 1:17. Let's not take our good gifts and many blessings for granted. Without Him we can be nothing! Without Him we can do nothing (see John 15:5).

"And He shall direct your paths." What a wonderful promise! This promise is ours if we trust Him, depend upon Him, and acknowledge Him. Jeremiah 10:23 states, "It is not in man who walks to direct his own steps." If we try to direct our own steps, we will mess up our life. We must depend upon Him in all of life, in every decision!

Have you trusted Christ as your Savior? Do you depend upon Him to lead you each day? You must do this if you want life to be fulfilling!

In Loving Memory of HERSHELL HAMILTON

November 5, 1997

A year has come and past since the angels came that day. We still have our memories and you're still in our thoughts every day. It's been hard not having you around and seeing your beautiful smile. But we know from your teaching that you're only resting for awhile. We know that you're with the Lord Jesus, and Doug. We feel that you are in each others arms where no pain and sorrow will ever come. We want the world to know that we will always miss you both, and look forward to the day that we will all be reunited in a place called heaven, where we will never be parted again.
We love and miss you very much, Daddy.

THE HAMILTON FAMILY

Card of Thanks

The family of Thursa C. Reed would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone for their help in the loss of our loved one. Thanks to all who sent flowers, food or just spoke comforting words. A special thanks to the nursing personnel at the Riverview Nursing Home. We are especially grateful to the clergymen, Holbert Hurt, Paul Coleman and Don Crisp, for their comforting words; and the singers from Goble-Roberts Freewill Baptist Church. We appreciate the sheriff's department for escorting and traffic control; and the Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home for their kind and professional service.

We deeply appreciate you all.

Two new members will join local board of education

Two seats on the Magoffin County Board of Education will be filled in January with new members following last week's general election.

District 1 will now be represented by Caroline Isaac. While the District 4 seat will now be occupied by Vince Minix.

The district is currently represented by Nolan Hall, who did not seek re-election.

Minix was given a decisive victory over incumbent Billy Rand Joseph. — The Salyersville Independent

District Three fire department ready to respond to calls

Magoffin County's District Three Volunteer Fire Department is now responding to fires of any nature in a designated area.

Volunteers have already responded to a structural fire and a vehicle blaze.

The group has also choreographed three live burn situations for training purposes.

The District Three VFD has received $6,500 in state aid funds. If the department keeps up with training, the department will be in line to receive $7,500 from the same source next year. — The Salyersville Independent

More than 25 animals are rescued from fire

When members of the Salyersville Volunteer Fire Department answered a call to a house fire Friday night, all seven human occupants of the home were already safely removed from the blaze.

Firemen, however, worked for the next hour and a half to save the more than 25 animals that were housed in the dwelling.

Twenty-two birds, two dogs, a cat and a large aquarium full of fish were removed from the residence by the firefighters while they simultaneously fought the blaze.

The home, owned by Mabel Nickles, is located on KY Route 30, just west of Salyersville. — The Salyersville Independent

Kimper teacher suspended after alleged break-in

A Kimper Elementary teacher has been suspended from her job for allegedly burglarizing the home of a colleague.

Helen Biler of Phelps, 42, was charged with second-degree burglary, forced entry, and theft by unlawful taking, more than $300.

According to an arrest warrant filed October 19 in Pike District Four, Biler "unlawfully and intentionally forcibly entered ... the home of Paula Reynolds of Kimper and remained in the dwelling unlawfully for the purpose of stealing Reynolds' personal property and took the property with the intent to deprive her thereof said property, valued in excess of $300," on September 28. — Appalachian News-Express

Tram man jailed for using bathroom in Wal-Mart floor

An intoxicated Tram man was jailed last week after he reportedly used the bathroom on the floor at Wal-Mart Supercenter in Pikeville, authorities said.

Johnny D. Boyd, 29, was arrested by the Pike County Sheriff's Department on charges of alcohol intoxication and disorderly conduct. According to the arrest citation, Wal-Mart employees said Boyd used the bathroom on the floor, exposing himself. — Appalachian News-Express

Patton doles out over $300 million

Governor Paul Patton delivered a total of $3,049,000 in symbolic checks for various local projects, including $12.5 million for the Pikeville/Pike County Civic Center and $282 million for county road and bridge construction projects.

He attributed the availability of the funds to a strong state and national economy and efforts by his administration, local members of the Kentucky General Assembly, area officials and civic-minded individuals. — Appalachian News-Express

California woman searches for father

A California woman who may have been born in Martin County in the early '40s is looking for anyone who might have information about her father's identity.

Christine Fowler, a 54-year-old Bakersfield, California, resident has been searching for her father for medical reasons. Her biological mother was Lucinda "Patsy" Johnson, who lived at Oppy before her death in 1991.

Mrs. Fowler said her early childhood memories are of severe abuse and neglect. She was adopted by Nancy and George Sammons with a birth certificate bearing an October 16, 1944 birth date. However, she always thought she was born in 1942. — The Mountain Citizen

Wesley Jordan seeks new trial

A motion for a new trial and an order compelling production of interview notes in the Adam Wesley Jordan case against Carroll Kirk, superintendent William R. Slone and the Martin County Board of Education will be heard November 23 at 9 a.m. in Martin Circuit Court.

Prestonsburg attorney Ned Pillersdorf, who represents Jordan, filed the motion Friday, four days after an eight-man, four-woman jury ruled that Kirk was not at fault when Jordan failed to attend school.

Jordan's brutal torture at the hands of Steve and Bonnie Maynard, his stepfather and biological mother, gained national attention after Jordan appeared on the Montel Williams' show.

Jordan contends that Kirk, who was director of pupil personnel during the time Jordan was being abused at home, failed to check on him after he missed school for an extended period. Kirk filed Jordan as a student who had been withdrawn after he was absent from school for a three-month period from February 25 to late April 1994. — The Mountain Citizen

Former countian killed in accident

A former Martin County woman lost her life Monday, November 16, in a tragic automobile accident in Tennessee.

Summer Vinson, 22, of Morristown was reportedly a passenger in a vehicle driven by 19-year-old Reddy Lewis of White Pine.

According to police reports, Lewis reportedly made a left-hand turn after stopping at an intersection and hit a truck. The accident occurred at Morristown in Hamlin County. — The Mountain Citizen

County sues 27 for taxes

Ten more lawsuits have been filed by the Johnson County Attorney's Office in an attempt to collect overdue property taxes.

The latest suits, filed against 27 people, seek to collect more than $13,000 in delinquent property taxes.

The complaints were filed by Assistant County Attorney Lance A. Daniels on behalf of the Kentucky Revenue Cabinet and Johnson County taxing districts.

In September, Daniels filed 14 lawsuits against property owners who allegedly owed more than $27,000. — The Paintsville Herald

Art teacher loses lawsuit against county board

Johnson County school officials did not violate the law when they reassigned a former Johnson Central High School art teacher to three elementary schools in 1997, a judge has ruled.

In a judgment entered Monday, Johnson Circuit Judge James A. Knight denied a request for a temporary injunction that would have allowed Linda Sperger to return as an art teacher at JCHS.

Sperger filed suit in September 1997 against the Johnson County Board of Education and Superintendent Orville Hamilton, claiming they violated state law when she was assigned as a teacher in three county elementary schools. — The Paintsville Herald

City keeps searching for head of utilities

Following suggestions by Paintsville City Council members, the Paintsville Utilities Commission is advertising the position of city utilities superintendent, a job commission members had hoped would be filled last week.

After city council voted 3-2 last Tuesday to reject the commission's choice of Larry Herald for the post, the commission placed an ad in The Paintsville Herald seeking applicants for the job.

Ronnie Wells, one of the three council members who voted against hiring Herald, said he was "shocked" that Herald was even in the running because he was under the impression that Herald was serving as a consultant to the commission. — The Paintsville Herald

Two escape from Greenup County jail; one is caught

One escapee was captured but another is still on the loose following a jailbreak at the Greenup County Detention Center.

Police said early Monday morning Zeke Lee Davidson, 22, of Sandy Hook and Kenneth Hunt, 36, of Raceland both got out of their cells by crawling through a ventilation shaft.

Davidson was captured around 5 p.m. Monday following a chase in the Isonville area of Elliott County.

Church trying to rebuild after fire

Members of a church in Hitchens are trying to rebuild after a fire destroyed the building earlier this month.

The Savage Memorial Church was completely destroyed by the fire, which was thought to have been started by electrical problems.

Pastor Charles McGranahan said his congregation needs donations of lumber, seats, or "anything."

Anyone who would like to help can contact him at (606) 686-2486 or send donations to Rt. 4, Box 12070, Louisa, KY 41230. — The Big Sandy News

Construction underway for sewage project

As construction begins on a sewer project to serve the Point Section of Lawrence County, the fiscal court spent Friday afternoon finalizing some of the paperwork involved.

A typographical error in the user charged ordinance the county had previously passed also had to be corrected. In the old ordinance, the fee schedule called for a $12.50 per month minimum charge for 2,000 gallons. It should have read a $12.50 per month minimum for 1,000 gallons.

Work on the sewer is expected to be completed sometime in early 1999. — The Big Sandy News

Ashland picked to house 48-bed juvenile detention center for area

Ashland will house a new $5.3 million juvenile detention center, which should help cut down on some of the costs area counties suffer from having to transport juveniles over long distances.

Speaking at a lot off Roberts Drive in Ashland which will house the center, Patton said the 48-bed facility was part of his continuing plan to develop a statewide juvenile detention system. — The Big Sandy News

Survey to determine if Hazel Green routes get Morgan addresses

Morgan County postal patrons currently served by the Hazel Green Post Office in Wolfe County will have an opportunity soon to decide whether they want to retain their Wolfe County zip code or change them to West Liberty zips.

As a result of computerized mapping just beginning of Morgan County's rural areas for the county's new E-911 system, all rural roads must be assigned names and all residences assigned a house number to facilitate the E-911 emergency dispatching system.

For Morgan County residents with Hazel Green Route 1 or Hazel Green Route 2 addresses this means that to avoid confusion, their mailing addresses must be changed to reflect the new street or road name and house number assigned to them as part of the E-99 mapping. — The Licking Valley Courier

Murder suspect is identified as victim's cell mate

State police have identified the suspect in the murder of an inmate last week at West Liberty's Eastern Kentucky Correctional Complex as Alex Bennett, 47, the cell mate of the victim, Charles Kastlebun, 46.

Bennett is accused of murdering Kastlebun by repeatedly stabbing him in the back of the head and neck with a knife he had fashioned from a piece of metal. Kastlebun's body was found in his cell early Tuesday morning, November 10.

Bennett was serving a life sentence for murder. Kastlebun was serving a five-year sentence from Boone County on a fourth-offense DUI charge. — The Licking Valley Courier

Gun taken from Knott student

On Monday, November 2, Kentucky State Police Trooper Dean Craft assisted Knott County Deputy Phillip Slone at Knott County Central High School, where they located a 15-year-old juvenile who was carrying a concealed weapon, a .22 pistol.

The juvenile, a Knott County Central High School student, was arrested without incident. A juvenile petition was obtained and she was lodged in Breathitt County juvenile Detention Center.

The case has been turned over to the Knott County Grand Jury. — Troublesome Creek Times

Youth center project delayed

A bombshell was dropped in Knott Fiscal Court during its monthly meeting November 12.

Architect Randy Burchett opened bids for construction of the youth center and presented them to the fiscal court members. However, after he concluded, Magistrate Ray Bolen asked the court to delay the decision on the bids until the new administration took office in January.

County Judge-Executive Homer Sawyer said he felt the court was "wrong not to approve the project and get it started." — Troublesome Creek Times

"The Gospel According To Me"

Because of his extraordinary wisdom, not to mention his uncanny ability to foretell the future, the Old Testament prophet Daniel found himself exalted to chief administrator over Babylon, then the greatest nation on earth.

This story is told in Daniel 2.

Daniel's promotion by King Nebuchadnezzar appears to have been particularly remarkable because Daniel wasn't a native Babylonian. He was a foreign captive from Israel - in effect, a slave.

Nevertheless, Nebuchadnezzar showered Daniel with gifts and leaned upon his counsel.

Then Nebuchadnezzar died.

His son, Belshazzar, succeeded him. Exactly what happened to Daniel during those transitional years isn't clear.

But Daniel 5 offers some tantalizing hints.

It recounts the tale of Belshazzar's feast, to which the king had invited 1,000 of his nobles. As Belshazzar and his guests partied, a mysterious hand suddenly appeared.

The revelers gaped in terror. The hand wrote a message on a palace wall.

The problem was that no one could read the handwriting. Not the king, not his 1,000 top nobles, not his professional prophets and diviners.

Then the queen recalled a man who once had been renowned for his ability to unravel such mysteries. Maybe the king could find him, she said. His name was Daniel.

Of course, you know that Belshazzar did find Daniel, and that Daniel deciphered the gloomy message, which announced doom to the king and his country.

What's fascinating is that Belshazzar had to be reminded who Daniel was.

Just a few years earlier, Daniel had been Babylon's highest civil official, as well as the most prominent among the seers who served Belshazzar's father.

Now, apparently, Daniel didn't rate an invitation to a party for the nation's top 1,000 leaders. And when all the king's prophets initially were brought in to try to read the eerie handwriting, Daniel wasn't among them, either.

For whatever reasons, he had fallen pretty far pretty fast.

I thought of his decline after watching the recently deposed Newt Gingrich on TV. Not that I think Newt is a biblical prophet.

But it's hardly been any time since he helped create the Republican Revolution and got himself voted Speaker of the House, one of the country's most powerful jobs.

Now, boom, he's on his keister. One day he's in, the next he's out.

Life's like that.

I thought about Daniel again after I spoke recently to a journalism class at Eastern Kentucky University.

I'd been asked to offer tips for good writing (as if I knew any!), so I took along as an example a favorite book of mine, Famous People I Have Known, by my friend and former teacher, Ed McClanahan.

When I was a student at the University of Kentucky in the 1980s McClanahan, who lives in Lexington, was just about the hottest writer you could imagine.

His novel, The Natural Man, had won rave reviews, quickly was turning into a nation-wide sensation and had been optioned by a Hollywood movie producer.

Famous People I Have Known, a collection of essays and articles, soon followed and earned Ed even more attention.

Ed was famous in his own right. Deservedly so. He was and is one of my heroes.

But at ECU the other day, I held up his second book before a class of budding writers, less than a generation removed from my own university days.

"How many of you know who Ed McClanahan is?" I asked expectantly.

Not one hand went up. I asked again. Not a student had heard of him - although the classroom we occupied lay no more than a half-hour's drive from Ed's house.

How ephemeral fame is, I thought, how unfaithful all applause.

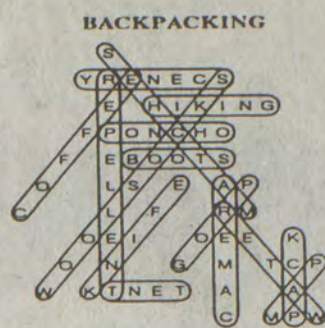

Graveyards are full of prophets, poets and politicians who surely believed they were the most important people on earth, since that's what everyone believes about himself.

Now they're in the earth, and generally they were forgotten before the headstones were placed above their coffins.

When all's done you and I won't fare any better. If we're lucky, God and our closest kin might remember us. Maybe we should try hardest to impress them.

Greathouse OK to return; Shelby Valley Panorama

Prestonsburg senior Shelly Greathouse was given clearance from her doctor to resume her basketball career with the Lady Blackcats and is expected to be at full strength when the season tips off December 1, according to her father, Jerome Greathouse.

"They weren't that sure she would be at 100 percent," Greathouse said, "but they said she could go back at full strength."

Greathouse, who will wear a brace the first year, said the knee was fine and that it did not hurt her anymore.

"I can move to the left, right and it doesn't bother me," she said. "I'm ready to get back on the floor."

Greathouse, as a sophomore, led the Lady Blackcats to the 1996 58th District tournament championship. She injured her knee in the first game of the regular season last year against Sheldon Clark. The injury caused her to miss the district tournament last season.

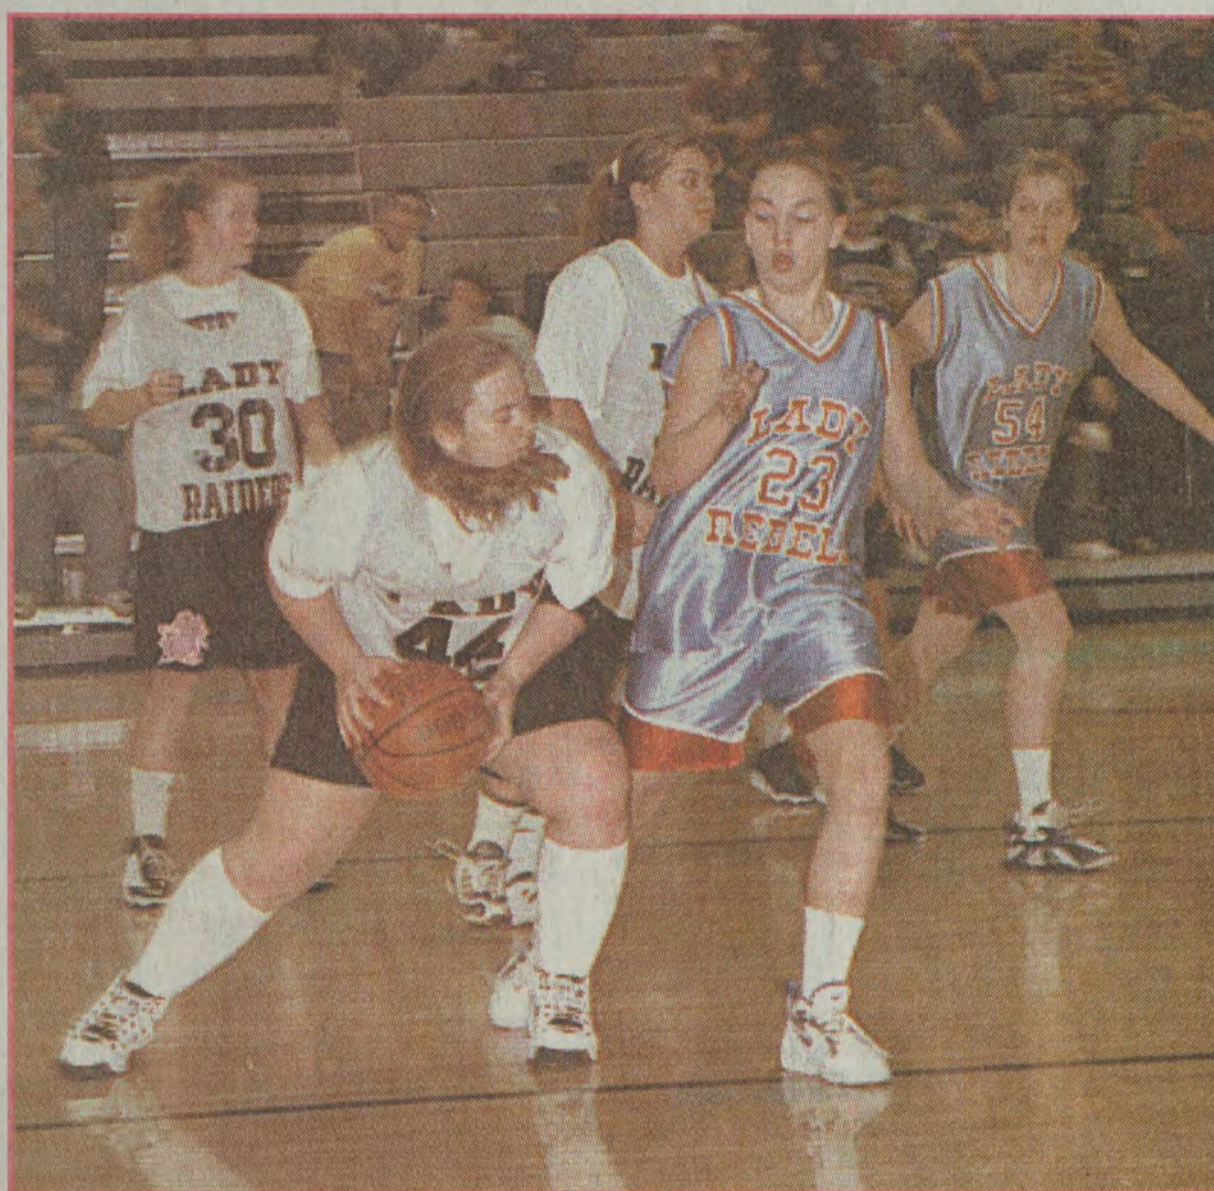

Ironically, Greathouse will begin the season where it ended for her last year.

"She injured it last year against Sheldon Clark and now she is going to open the season at Sheldon Clark," her father said.

Greathouse has not been practicing with the Lady Blackcats because her father felt it was too early for her to go back.

South Floyd wins over Allen Central

Strong game

South Floyd's Stephanie Skeans (44) scored 10 points and pulled down eight rebounds to help lead the Middle School Lady Raiders to a 38-26 win over Allen Central Middle School Monday night at Raider Arena (photo by Ed Taylor)

For the South Floyd Middle School Lady Raiders, fourth time was the charm. That's how many games it took for the Lady Raiders to find a way to subdue a team that had beaten them in the previous three games.

Megan Ousley scored 12 points and Stephanie Skeans added 10 to lead South Floyd to a 38-26 win over the Lady Rebels Monday night at South Floyd. The two teams had just met the previous Saturday night at Duff Elementary in the finals of the Right Beaver Classic.

Allen Central had posted two other wins over South Floyd before the tournament encounter. The Rebels defeated the Lady Raiders in the middle school conference season.

It was the early play of Skeans that established the inside presence of South Floyd. Her strong inside game got South Floyd out to a 4-0 lead and Brandy Anderson buried a three-pointer to run the margin to 7-0 with under four minutes to play.

The Lady Raiders smothered the inside game of Jaclyn Martin as they concentrated on stopping the big center for the Lady Rebels. Martin, a strong inside force, fin-

KIDS GET GYM TIME

It was good to hear the good news out of the school board meeting this past Tuesday night. The kids won in this round as they were allowed to get back into the gyms this weekend for their junior pro games. The school board voted, after each league met the requirements, to permit the youth league games to continue. I understand it was a long meeting and the board members stood with the kids and for that I am grateful. Thanks to Mr. Woody Carter and interim superintendent, Mike King, for allowing the kids to return to the gyms. To Carol Stumbo, Jody Mullins and Terry Dotson, thank you from all the many kids in Floyd County who look forward to playing weekend basketball. Some of them may never play high school basketball and they will always remember the days of playing in the Junior Pros. I talked with some of the people involved in the meeting and they were very happy with the action of the school board. All junior pro directors, get the score sheets fax to me and let's get these kid's names in the paper. You send them and I will see they get in.

It has been a rough week and I am trying to get some rest before the next full season begins. I have been battling gout and it is very painful.

Don't forget the Floyd County Times-sponsored Pete Grigsby Jr. Hoop-A-Rama at Allen Central High School Wednesday night. Four big games will be played and you will see some very good basketball players. All four county schools will be in action.

Tonight, the Rebels will showcase their team in their annual Red/Grey game, which will feature the middle school teams, freshmen and junior varsity as well as the girls and boys varsity teams.

There will be a lot of panoramas this weekend with most of the action taking place at Johnson Central this Saturday.

Word is that Ramanda Music will get her cast off the last of this month and should be ready to play when the regular season gets underway.

Leon Brown, Tyler Hall, and Shane Engle. Don't forget those names!

One has to wonder if Jamal Magloire will be able to fit into the lineup of Kentucky's when his suspension is lifted. Michael Bradley is playing like someone who has a say-so

South Floyd holds off Allen Central

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

The South Floyd Middle School Raiders have been billed as one of the best grade school teams to come out of Floyd County in recent years. They lived up to that billing in handing the Allen Central Middle School Rebels a 50-37 setback, in a game that was much closer than the final score indicated.

The two teams met for the first time this season at Raider Arena in front of a large crowd and in a game that saw a trio of players score in double figures for South Floyd.

The Raiders were led by Tyler Hall's 17 points. Hall also pulled down nine rebounds in the game. Leon Brown added 15 points and Shane Engle scored 11.

Mike Murphy led Allen Central as the only double figure scorer with 14 points. Neil Allen added nine and Ross Samons five.

It was in the fourth quarter that South Floyd started to put some distance between them and the Rebels. The Raiders held a 34-32 lead after three quarters. The Raiders went in front 38-32 with the first four points of the fourth quarter. Hall hit a short jumper and Brown had a lay-in. Free throws by Allen and Murphy kept the lead at four, 38-34 but a three-pointer by Justin Hall opened up a 41-34 advantage for the Raiders that Allen Central could not overcome. South Floyd went on a 9-3 romp that gave them the 13-point margin.

South Floyd scored on the opening tipoff when Engle went solo for a lay-in. Brown followed with a basket and it was 4-0 early. A free throw and Allen's rebound basket made it a 4-3 game and Murphy busted a three-pointer to tie the game at 6.

South Floyd scored the next seven points to go in front 13-6. Hall started the rally with a trey followed by baskets by Brown and Hall's rebound basket. South Floyd held a 15-8 first quarter lead.

Allen Central went on a 6-1 run at the onset of the second quarter to close the margin to two points, 16-14. Samons hit a jumper, Allen scored outside and Murphy scored off a steal.

But the Raiders, behind Engle, rolled back out to a six-point lead and led 25-18 at the half.

Allen and Murphy led a Rebel charge to start the third period as the Rebels took their first lead at 28-25 with 2:18 to play. Allen scored consecutive baskets and Murphy's three-pointer tied the game at 25 with 3:29 to play. Samons then drilled a trey to give Allen Central their first lead.

Brown completed an old-fashioned three-point play with 1:14 to play in the third to tie the game at 30. Allen Central led 32-30 on Samons' lay-in but, after Hall tied the game on a rebound basket, Allen Central coach Kevin Stumbo was whistled for a technical foul with Hall sinking both shots that gave the Raiders a 34-32 lead after three quarters.

Justin Hall finished with five points for the game. Charles Ray added two points for South Floyd.

Riverside spoils home opener for Piarist School

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Riverside Christian Academy spoiled the basketball season opener for the Piarist School this past Monday night at the Mountain Christian Academy gym after posting an 82-69 win over the Knights.

Riverside placed three players in double figures. The team was led by Mike Neace and Craig Miller with 20 points each. Michael Fugate finished with 19 points.

George Hall scored 21 points to lead the Knights in scoring. Robert Hall finished with 11 points, while Shawn Rose and John Keeton scored 10 points apiece.

It was a close game in the first eight minutes as Riverside held a slim 16-15 lead over the Knights at the first stop. The lead changed hands twice in the opening quarter. Matt Going, who scored eight points for the Knights, scored four of those in the first quarter. Rose also had four points in the period. Miller and Neace had 12 of the 16 points for Riverside as they scored six points each.

Three field goals was all the Knights could get in the second quarter as Riverside went on a 30-10 run that netted them a 46-30

Caudill scores 22 in win over Mustangs

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Josh Caudill scored 22 points and Andrew Burchett added 12 in leading the Mountain Christian Academy Falcons to a 56-43 win over John M. Stumbo in grade school basketball Tuesday night at MCA. Carlo Repuyan added 11 points.

Josh Slone led the Mustangs with 18 points while Iricks and Frasure scored six points each for Stumbo.

Stumbo held a 14-12 lead after the first period of play led by Frasure's four points. Mike Gillespie scored four points in the opening quarter for the Mustangs with Slone, Iricks and Hall netting two apiece. Burchett completed an old-fashioned three-point play and scored four points in the first stanza for MCA.

East Kentucky Dance champions

The Allen Central dance team captured first place in the East Kentucky Dance and Cheerleading Competition held on November 7 at the Mountain Arts Center. The squad includes Jennifer Anderson, Brittany Bailey, Telisha Brown, Samantha Caudill, Jamie Collins, Amy Combs, Julia Compton, Rachel Cooley, Amanda Crisp, Micca Crisp, Rayne Crum, Shelia Crum, Heather Deaton, Amanda Devers, Britta Fraley, Courtney Hall, Veronica Harris, Kari Hicks, Felisha Jones, Rose Jones, Kayla Moore, Brittany Murphy, Matissa Robinson, Amber Scott, Kelli Sizemore and Tiffany Turner. ished with only two points for the game, playing much of the game in foul trouble.

Where Allen Central's defense stopped the Lady Raiders on just four field goals in the Right Beaver Classic, South Floyd's defense did not allow an Allen Central player to score in double figures. Terri Mullins led Allen Central with just six points. Amber Scott scored five points, struggling on offense. She did hit a three-pointer in the second quarter. Tiffany Turner and Becki Thomas scored four points apiece for Allen Central. Jeni Spurlock had two points.

Allen Central could not find the basket in the first quarter as they trailed 11-3 at the first stop. But in the second period, Thomas led a comeback with the Lady Rebels, trailing by just four points at the half, 18-14.

With 28 seconds remaining in the first half, Thomas hit a six foot jumper to make it a 15-14 game, in favor of the Lady Raiders. Ashley Johnson, who finished with eight points in the game and two treys, hit a three-point basket that gave South Floyd the four-point lead at the half.

Turnovers hurt Allen Central against the good defense of South Floyd in the third period. The Lady Raiders had six turnovers and Martin picked up her fourth personal foul with 22 seconds left in the third. Ousley, who had only two points at halftime scored 10 in the third quarter, using her quickness and court awareness.

A 9-2 run netted South Floyd a 27-16 lead with 3:12 to play in the third period. Allen Central trailed 33-19 after three quarters.

South Floyd led by 16 points, 38-24, on Anderson's second three-point basket with 3:41 to play in the fourth quarter. Allen Central had cut the lead to 11 on a three-point basket by Jessica Isaac and Turner's rebound basket. Allen Central was able to score only two points — a layup by Mullins — in the final three minutes of the game. Anderson finished with six points for South Floyd. Leigh Ann Tuttle netted two.

Caudill

Repyan had three first quarter points with Caudill and Bart Barnette scoring two apiece.

The Falcons outscored Stumbo 17-7 in the second period to take a 29-21 halftime lead. Caudill had six points in the second with Burchett scoring four. Barnette netted three and Kyle Scaff had three points. Slone scored five of the seven second quarter points for the Mustangs. Iricks added the other two.

MCA led 43-34 after three quarters. Caudill pumped in eight points in the period. Slone scored seven in the quarter for Stumbo.

Gillespie and Hall finished with four points for Stumbo. Mitchell and Daniels had two points while Mitchell scored one point.

Randy O'Neal had two points for the Falcons with Barnette finishing with five points.

In the "B" team game, Chase Bradley scored 12 points to lead MCA to a 48-44 edging of Stumbo in overtime. Lewis Barnette added nine points with Adam Milam tossing in seven points. Matthew Potter netted eight points and Lincoln Slone scored five. Derek Slone totaled three points, while Sego Leslie and Charles Conley scored two.

Mason Hall scored 13 points to lead the Mustangs. Wesley Hall netted six as did Swain. Brandon Hall, Ryan Mitchell, Slone and McKinney scored two points each.

MCA outscored Stumbo 12-8 in overtime to pull out the win. Wesley Hall and Mason Hall had three point baskets for Stumbo in the extra period. Wesley Hall buried two three-pointers in the game.

halftime lead. Chris Weaver and Fugate buried treys in the second quarter for Riverside. George Hall had a three pointer and scored five second quarter points

After three quarters, Riverside opened up a 69-23 lead with Neace scoring eight points in the third. Fugate added six points in the period.

Jett finishes eighth overall in Kennedy Memorial Run

Brent Jarrell, the current record holder of the John F. Kennedy Memorial 3K Race, was a no-show for this year's event, after assuring race director, Rick Roberts of his intentions to return and defend his title.

However, in the absence of Jarrell opened the door for Jackson's Marlin Mullins as he posted a time of 11:52 to take overall first place in the Memorial run.

Prestonsburg's Kevin Jett placed eighth overall and was second in his age group of 30-34.

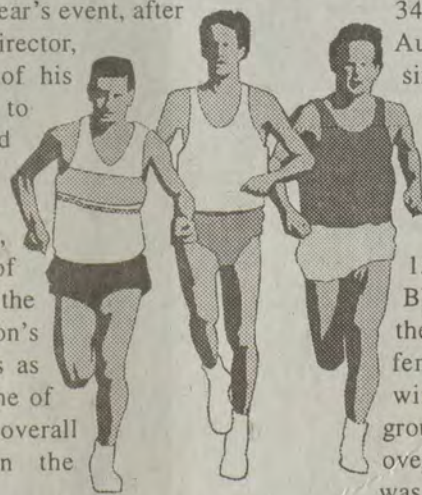

Mullins won first place despite going the wrong way for several yards. Oil Springs John Salyer finished fifth overall with a time of 12:24 to win his age group of 30-

34. Rick Roberts, Auxier, finished sixth in 12:33, and second in the 40-45 age group.

Brad Morris, Paintsville, finished 11th in 15:45, while Lisa Blevins-Salyer was the second overall female in 16:17, winning her age group of 25-29. The overall female winner was Jackie Holbrook of Morgan County at 12:52, one minute behind the overall winner, shattering the women's course record of 17:47 set by Renata Friend.

Shelby Valley to hold panorama

Coach Rodney Rowe and the Shelby Valley Wildcats will conduct their fourth annual Shelby Valley Panorama this Saturday, November 21, with four games on tap.

Millard, under new coach Joe Marson, will meet Jackson City in the opening game scheduled to tipoff at 1:30. In the second game, Phelps, with Shawn Clusky and company, will meet Cumberland at 2:45.

Pike County Central squares off against Gate City, Virginia at 3:30 with host Shelby Valley meeting Pound, Virginia at 4:45.

Hancock returns to coaching ranks

It is good to see Rick Hancock sitting on a bench somewhere and coaching. Hancock, who had some great country grade school teams, is part of Kevin Stumbo's coaching staff at Allen Central Middle School.

Finished second

The South Floyd Middle School Raiders placed second in the Virgie Invitational basketball tournament two weeks ago, according to coach Melena Osborne.

The Raiders are a strong unit with some very talented players.

 - In a career that began only in 1993,

- he has won at 17 tracks, or every track on the circuit except Phoenix, Texas and Las Vegas. No other driver has won at more than 16.
- He won a third Winston Cup championship at the earliest age of any driver in history. Pearson was 31 when he won his third (and final); Petty was 34 when he won the third of seven.
- He accumulated more points in a season than any driver in history, and his average number of points per race was second only to Cale Yarborough's showing in 1977.
- Gordon won 39.4 percent of the season's races.
- He became the first driver in modern history to win 10 or more races three years in a row.

PROFILE

Chad Little

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

Chad Little hopes to find the consistency in the Winston Cup Series that he found while racing Busch Grand National.

In 1995 alone, Little won six races while driving for Greg Pollex and finished second to BGN champion Johnny Benson. Ironically, Benson is now Little's teammate at Roush Racing.

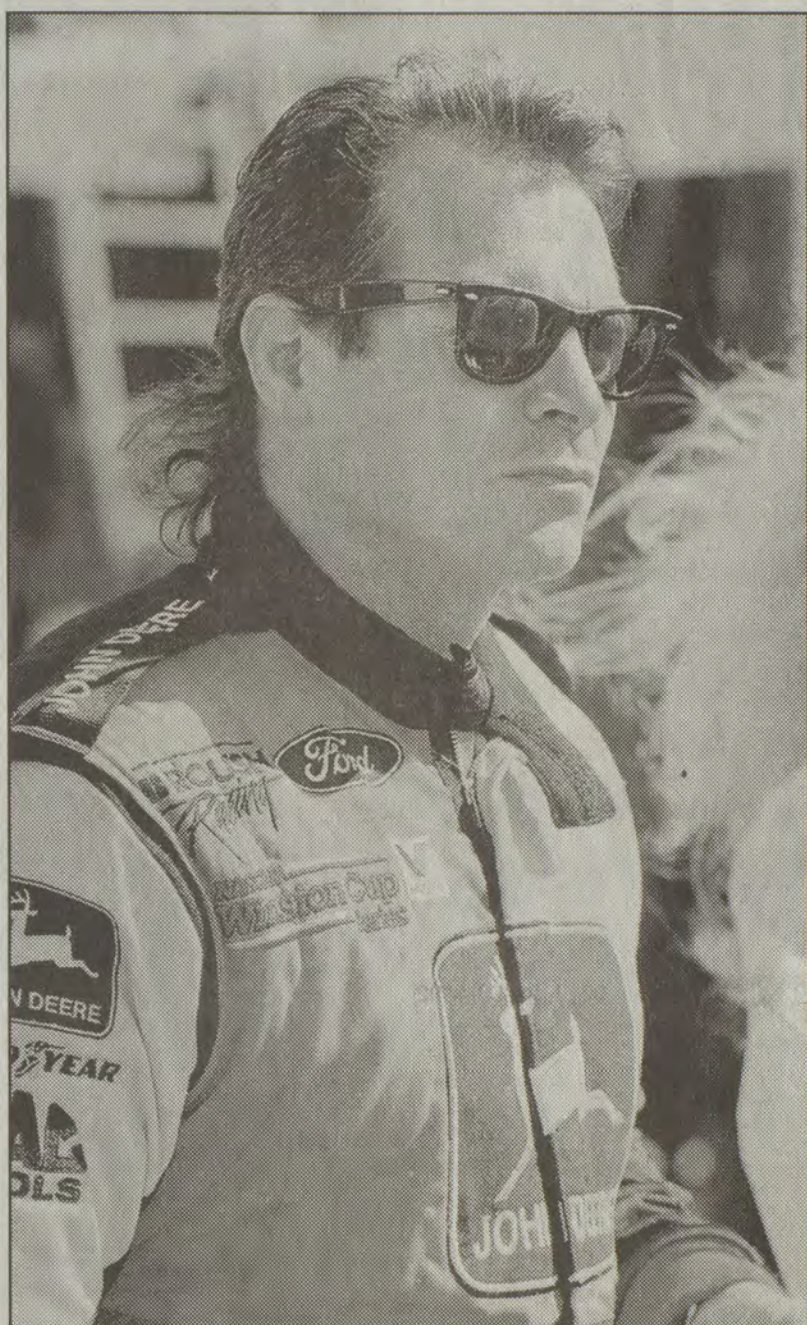

During the season recently completed, Little got the first top-five finish of his career and finished with seven of his 10 top-10 finishes.

He is also a former rookie of the year in the American Speed Association and NASCAR Winston West Series. He also won the Winston West championship at age 24.

AGE: 35
WIFE: Donna
CHILDREN: Jesse (1), Haley Steele (one month).
HOMETOWN: Born and raised in Spokane, Wash., lives in Charlotte, N.C.
CAR: No. 97 John Deere Ford Taurus, owned by Roush Racing.
CAREER RECORD: 155 starts, 0 poles, 0 wins, 1 top five, 10 top 10s, almost $3 million in earnings.

FIRSTS: Start (June 1, 1986, at Riverside), pole (none), win (none).

WHAT DOES IT TAKE TO BE A WINNER? "Ask any driver in the garage area and he'd probably answer, 'Four fresh tires that never wear out, even when everyone else's tires are hot and worn away.' We haven't found that set of magic tires yet, but I've learned that the secret to success is momentum. It's difficult to describe how important momentum is to a race team, and it's even harder to single out the reasons why some teams have it and Chad Little is hoping to have as much success in Winston Cup as he's had while racing Busch Grand National.

other teams don't. It isn't tangible like a chassis or an engine, so you can't fix it with the turn of a wrench. When it's on your side, though, the engine runs a little faster and the car handles a little better. Pit stops are smoother, and the car cruises past accidents on the track as if it were guided by an unseen force. If I could bottle momentum, I certainly wouldn't sell it."

WHAT IS IMPORTANT

ABOUT RACING THAT MOST FANS DON'T UNDERSTAND? "What most people don't realize is that every minute we spend at a race track is critical. Just as a second saved on pit road can gain a driver several positions on the track, five minutes of hard work during a Friday-afternoon practice session can mean the difference between winning and losing the race."

FROM LAST WEEK

BUSCH GRAND NATIONAL

For a racing season finale, the Busch Series final stop in Florida proved to be all the excitement fans could have expected. Despite ending early in Sunday's Jiffy Lube Miami 300, Dale Earnhardt Jr. became the first third-generation champion in NASCAR history, finishing ahead of Matt Kenseth for the title. While the points title was a lock after lap one, Jeff Burton, Jimmy Spencer and Mark Martin conspired to make the race itself as exciting a finish as possible at the Miami-Dade Homestead Motorsports Complex. Burton took the checkered flag, winning the second-closest three-way finish in Busch history. Burton's margin of victory was .01 second over Jimmy Spencer with Mark Martin finishing right on the leaders' bumpers.

YOUR TURN

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week, I am a 10-year-old, fifth-grade student and am very interested in stock car racing. I have been able to watch ARCA racing on a one-mile dirt track in DuQuoin, Ill., for several years now.

I enjoy the Winston Cup Series on TV. Last weekend, my dad and I saw the Busch Grand National race at Gateway International in Madison, Ill.

Please tell me the difference between Winston Cup and Busch cars. I am assuming that the main differences are in the engines, chassis setups and car weights. I would appreciate seeing the answer to this in your column. Thank you.

Jacob Baldrige
Salem, Ill.

Dear Jacob, Both Winston Cup and BGN cars use engines with a cubic-inch displacement of 358, but Cup cars are allowed to use a compression ratio of 12:1 while the BGN limit is 9.5:1.

Winston Cup cars must weigh at least 3,400 pounds; BGN cars must weigh 3,300. The wheelbase of a Cup car is 110 inches; BGN cars have 105-inch wheelbases.

Fan Tips

Like it or not, most Winston Cup events are sold out in advance, so the smart fan buys tickets early to secure admission and avoid having to deal with scalpers and ticket agencies. Construction of new grandstands might even make securing a ticket for the Daytona 500 possible, but you'd better act quickly.

ON THE MARKET

"Fifty Years of Stock Car Racing: A History of Collectibles and Memorabilia," by Ken Breslauer, is a fine look at the promotional items used to publicize NASCAR racing since the sport's beginning. Highly recommended. To order, call (602) 852-9500. The book retails for $24.95.

TRIVIA

1. Who won the first Busch Grand National race ever held?
2. Who was the first Busch Grand National driver to win $1 million in a season?

ANSWERS
1. Dale Earnhardt on Feb. 13, 1982, at Daytona.
2. Randy LaJoie in 1997.

AROUND THE GARAGE

FROM THE ARCHIVES:

The rich history of NASCAR
"Tiger" Tom Pistone paved the way for other Midwest-ers when he came south from Chicago in the 1950s. He totaled two victories, six runner-up finishes, nine thirds, four fourths and eight fifths in a Grand National (now Winston Cup) career that lasted from 1955 through 1968. His earnings over 131 career starts? A mere $45,694.

Hendrick says Roush 'crossed the line' with cheating claim

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

According to John Hendrick, president of Team Hendrick, rival car owner Jack Roush only harmed the efforts of Mark Martin when he accused Hendrick driver Jeff Gordon and crew chief Ray Evernham of cheating during the second half of the Winston Cup season.

"We knew there was nothing to the accusations," said Hendrick. "Jack crossed the line by blatantly saying that we were cheating. We welcomed the investigation by NASCAR. Things like that are what motivate Ray Evernham. It made him work that much harder and focus even harder." Gordon won 10 of the last 18 races en route to his third title, while Martin slumped to a distant second in the standings.

ON THE COMEBACK
TRAIL: On another matter, John Hendrick said that his brother Rick will devote considerable time to his NASCAR interests next year.

The elder Hendrick spent the current season as a bystander, both because of legal troubles and his battle with leukemia. A judge's ban on Rick Hendrick's participation in the affairs of Team Hendrick expires on Dec. 31.

"He (Rick) will be able to be back on site and be active any way he wants to," said John Hendrick on Tuesday. "He will be heavily involved next year, but it's been very difficult."

Describing his brother's medical condition, John added, "It's not in complete remission, but very close. An updated test will be conducted in December. So far every test has been better. His energy is coming back. The interferon treatment tires him out quickly. I'm worried about Rick's tendency to overdo it, but we'll watch him closely.

"We'll have to consult with the doctors and try to gauge how much it (racing) tires him out. That schedule is awful hectic for someone in great physical condition. I've got a new admiration for those who do it week in and week out."

THE NEW MONTE CARLO: Team Hendrick has constructed only one prototype of the new Monte Carlo, which most GM teams hope will be introduced next May in the Coca-Cola 600 at Charlotte Motor Speedway.

"It's changed a little bit (from earlier depictions)," said John Hendrick. "NASCAR is going to look at it and it determines what changes they make on it. We've only done one superspeedway car for Chevrolet. There's no need to build any more until NASCAR makes its modifications."

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR RECLAMATION DEFERMENT DUE TO COAL MARKETING PROBLEMS

In accordance with 405 KAR 16:020, notice is hereby given that Branham and Baker Coal Company, Inc., P.O. Box 271, 148 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653, has applied for a coal marketing reclamation deferment for its surface coal mining and reclamation operation. Permit Number 877-0159. Deferment of reclamation is being requested for approximately 28.18 acres. The operation for which the reclamation deferment is requested is located 1.4 miles Northeast of Gunlock in Magoffin County. The surface area is owned by Astor Clay Collins, David L. Francis Testamentary Trust, Luther Shepherd, John G. Arnett and Branham & Baker Coal Company, Inc.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE Pursuant to Application Number 836-8025, Renewal

In accordance with 350.055, notice is hereby given that Adams Diversified Corporation, P.O. Box 2320, Pikeville, Kentucky 41501, has applied for renewal of a permit for a coal loader,

The operation is approximately 0.30 mile Northeast from Brushy Fork County Road Junction with KY Route 7 and located 1.4 miles Northeast of Gunlock on Big Branch of the Licking River. The latitude is 37°34'14" and the longitude is 82°54'44" on the David U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map.

The deferment is sought due to a coal marketing problem and is being requested for an initial period of six (6) months. The deferment may be renewed for additional periods up to a maximum of 30 months.

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 503 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653. Written comments or objections must be filed within 10 days of this notice with the Director, Division of Permits, #2 Hudson hollow, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE Pursuant to Application Number 898-5054, Renewal No. 3

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Clark Elkhorn Coal Company, Inc., P.O. Box 2805, Pikeville, KY 41502, has applied for renewal of a permit for an existing underground coal mining operation located 1.0 mile south of Owsley in Pike County. The operation will affect a surface disturbance of 4.64 acres and will underlie an additional 494.53 acres, for a total permit acreage of 499.17 acres.

The proposed renewal is approximately 0.6 mile northeast from KY-1384's junction with CR-1552 and is located along Dog Fork. The latitude is 37°29'09"N, and the longitude is 82°35'18"W.

The proposed renewal is located on the Pikeville USGS 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be disturbed is owned by Clark Elkhorn Coal Company & Bob Billips. The proposed renewal will underlie land owned by Bobby Adkins; Harrison & Octavia Adkins; John & Betty Adkins; Mack Arthur & Charlene Adkins; Richard Adkins; Roscoe Adkins; Ernest Baldrige; Bob Billips; Robert C. Billips; Edward & Cloe Burgess; Clark Elkhorn Coal Company; Mrs. Marvin Gettings; James H. Hatchers Heirs; Dawson James; Abraham & Stella Justice; Jim Justice; Phil Dean & Thelma Justice; Mildred S.
