Slone shot in clash

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

A Wayland man is charged with first degree assault after allegedly shooting another man early Sunday morning.

Brian K. Mulkey, 26, is accused of shooting Michael Slone, 38, of David, one time in the leg during an argument between the two, according to state police.

The two men were at a party on a Branham and Baker strip mine road at Hippo when Slone was shot in the upper leg with a handgun, state police say.

After his arraignment in Floyd District Court, Mulkey was released from the Floyd County Jail on a $25,000 property bond. A preliminary hearing has been set for 2:30 p.m. September 16.

Slone was treated at Our Lady of the Way Hospital in Martin. The incident is being investigated by detective Phil Bowersock.

Missing teenagers found in Kentucky

Two Pike County cheerleaders who were last seen in the Prestonsburg area and who had been missing for almost a week were found unharmed Friday.

The girls, Melissa Bartley, 16, and Anetha Ratliff, 16, were last seen near the Super 8 Motel in Prestonsburg last Sunday.

The two teens had apparently left a bake sale at the Pikeville Wal-Mart Sunday with 16-year-old Joseph Cole.

The girls, who are members of the Shelby Valley cheerleading squad, were unchaperoned at the bake sale.

The students were located near Owensboro in Western Kentucky, according to reports.

They were unharmed. Cole has yet to be located.

Kentucky State Police are continuing their investigation into the incident.

Dream Factory grants Weeksbury teen's wish

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Chris Meadows, 14, will let his fingers do his walking around the world on his new computer.

The Weeksbury teenager Tuesday received a PC from the Dream Factory, a national nonprofit agency that grants the wishes of critically ill children.

Meadows was born with Spina Bifida, a spinal defect that, in the worst instances, causes paralysis to the lower part of the body. In some cases, patients can walk with the aid of crutches or braces. Meadows uses a wheelchair.

The medical condition hasn't slowed him down, according to his stepfather, Ed Senig.

An athlete, Meadows plans to keep in shape for Special Olympics competition. He has won four gold medals in past Special Olympics. He won two medals in Ohio and two in Kentucky in softball competition and wheelchair races.

He also lifts weights at South Floyd High School during his physical education classes.

The freshman said he plans to use his new computer to help him with his homework. He also hopes to explore the world through the Internet and retrieve information for school research projects.

Senig, submitted the teen's wish to the Dream Factory in April. The computer was Meadows' second wish. At first, he wished for a trip to the Montel Williams Show. The Dream Factory tried to fulfill that wish but couldn't, according to Lenore Blackburn, director of the local Dream Factory office in Prestonsburg.

"All they sent back was an autographed picture and said 'keep watching."
— Dream Factory director Lenore Blackburn regarding Chris Meadows' request to visit the Montel Williams show

"All they sent back was an autographed picture and said 'keep watching,'" Blackburn said.

Meadow's wish for a computer was granted, though. The PC was donated by the Kentucky Institute for the Blind. The Dream Factory paid a small fee to have the computer reprogrammed, Blackburn said.

Meadows now has education programs and games available on the PC. He and his stepfather played a computer game at the Dream Factory office, and it was a close race between the two as to who would come out the winner.

The student doesn't plan to spend all his time on the computer, though. During his free time, he is active in the Youth Fellowship in the South Floyd area. The nondenominational group plans some exciting events.

"One of the things they're going to do next summer is go on a rafting trip," Ed Senig said.

Meadows added that he's looking forward to that trip.

He is also the son of Linda Senig of Weeksbury.

To submit a wish to the Dream Factory, call Blackburn at 889-0707 or, toll-free, 1-800-317-7306 to schedule an appointment.

Lafferty will seek hearing

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The president of the Floyd County Education Association (FCEA), fired last week amid immoral conduct charges involving students, intends to appeal his dismissal, while FCEA representatives remain tight-lipped about the manner.

Jerry Lafferty Jr., an English teacher at Prestonsburg High School, was fired last week on charges that he watched pornographic movies with students; held discussions with students about circumcision and the sizes of male students' private parts; solicited money from students for his personal use; sending students during school hours to run errands for snacks and candy for him.

"The tribunal is the proper forum for the facts of the charges to be determined, not the news media,"
— FCEA advertisement

Local school officials received notice Tuesday morning that Lafferty intends to appeal his firing.

FCEA officials, in an advertisement in today's edition of The Times, say they will have no comments on the charge filed against their president until the matter is resolved.

"The Floyd County Education Association is gravely concerned regarding the charges filed against FCEA president Jerry Lafferty," the advertisement copy says. "Mr. Lafferty will file a response to these charges and request (a state tribunal) to which he is entitled.

"The tribunal is the proper forum for the facts of the charges to be determined, not the news media," the ad said. "Mr. Lafferty will be represented by the Brooks and Fitzpatrick Law Firm in Lexington, as a service provided by the KEA (Kentucky Education Association) Legal Assistance Program. Until the tribunal makes its findings public, the FCEA will have no further comment."

Under state law, a teacher who has been fired has 10 days to notify local and state officials that they intend to appeal the firing and ask for a hearing before a three-member state tribunal.

A hearing date has not been set.

Clean water may be only a drink away

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

For years, families in some areas of the county have had to drink water that smells bad because coal seams along their water tables are rife with sulfur.

The odor is so strong it permeates their homes.

Those days may be coming to an end. Homeowners may soon have a cleaner water source. Members of the Floyd County Fiscal Court Friday voted, in special session, to approve an AML (Abandoned Mine Lands) ground water study proposal for the west-central portion of Floyd County.

The fiscal court was awarded $46,100 from the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet for the study. Friday, magistrates agreed to award the study to Howard K. Bell Consulting Engineers Inc.

The study includes five subareas: Buckeye Branch on the Left Fork of Middle Creek; Pitts Fork near Pyramid; Henrys Branch, Johnson Branch and a portion of Turkey Creek, all located near Langley; Stephens Branch near Manton; and a portion of Spurlock Hill on Highway 122.

The engineering firm estimated that 265 households are included in the study areas.

The study will look at the areas' mining histories and gas and oil well locations.

Engineers will also randomly sample 25 water sources to check, among other things, for potential mine drainage problems, according to the study proposal.

At Friday's meeting, magistrate Gerald DeRossett asked that the Jack's Creek area be included in the study because residents of the John Hall Branch were without water.

Floyd County Judge-Executive Ben Hale explained to DeRossett that the ground study project was separate and that the Jack's Creek area, which needs water extensions, is on a smaller scale than the projects in the Howard K. Bell proposal.

"Some projects need more massive money than extensions," Hale said. "Some projects cost lots more because they don't have hydraulics in place ... Once we put this AML study together, we won't have any

KLEFP program will give local deputies pay increase

by Janice Shepherd
Managing Editor

Deputies with the Floyd County Sheriff's Department soon will see an increase in their salaries through a state program that will give them $2,750 more this year. That increase will amount to $3,000 next year.

Meeting in special session Friday at the Floyd County Courthouse, members of the Floyd County Fiscal Court approved a request by sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson to participate in the Kentucky Law Enforcement Foundation Program Fund, Training Incentive Program (KLEFP).

The increase is at no cost to the county, Sheriff Thompson said after the meeting, adding that the funds are generated through insurance policies.

"On everyone's (car) insurance policy, there is an added charge for trained police officers and trained firemen. Beginning July 1, that included qualified deputy sheriffs. The fund has had an excess of money for several years," the sheriff said.

The funds are administered by the Justice Cabinet, Hale said.

Thompson said he has about 16 to 18 deputies who will receive the salary supplement. To qualify, deputies must undergo 400 hours of law enforcement training. Beginning in 1999, they must receive 600 hours, Thompson said.

In other action Friday, fiscal court members:

• awarded a bid to Green Construction for the placement of 7,000 square feet of waterline at $4 a-foot in the Salt Lick area;

• agreed to pay Bob White Construction Company $15,000 for the

The Floyd County Community Action Program presented scholarships to the several students. Loretta Newsome, coordinator, presented CSBG scholarships of $471.60 each to Diana Bowman, Greta Halbert, and Andrea Griffith. She also presented a non-traditional scholarship in the amount of $475 to Bradley Moore.

EKCEP is chosen to operate welfare reform program in Floyd County

The Eastern Kentucky Concentrated Employment Program, (EKCEP) Inc. has been designated by the federal government and the Commonwealth of Kentucky as the agency that will operate the Welfare-to-Work program for Floyd County.

The Welfare-to-Work initiative began in July with a pilot program in Perry County. A second local program began in Floyd County in August. EKCEP will roll out local programs throughout its 23-county service area over the next several months. The program combines practical responses to the economic realities of Eastern Kentucky with lessons that have been learned from other welfare reform programs across the nation.

EKCEP's program will guide welfare recipients into the workforce through a carefully designed matrix of services, including job clubs, work experience, job placement services, and post-placement services. The job clubs—called "TOPS" (Through Opportunities People Succeed)—will be integrated into 12 of the Career Resource Centers which EKCEP maintains in cooperation with local community action agencies. These centers were selected to ensure that quality services are available throughout Eastern Kentucky.

The four-week job club curriculum blends activities that focus on orientation, skills assessment, career exploration, job readiness, motivation, job-search techniques, and actual job searches for the people enrolled. It is an intensive, 30-hour-per-week seminar on job readiness, with a focus on self-sufficiency. When fully implemented, EKCEP's TOPS job clubs will serve approximately 200 Eastern Kentuckians per month.

In keeping with the "Work First" emphasis of welfare reform, most of the participants who do not have a private-sector job by the end of the four-week course will either be placed in a paid work experience in a public or private-sector work site, or referred to on-the-job training or part-time work experience that includes occupational training provided through a Job Training Partnership Act program.

Even after finding a permanent job or being placed in a temporary work experience position, participants will continue to receive the help and guidance of EKCEP's career counselors. These counselors will help each participant develop a "career path" plan which will define the steps that will lead from the current job to better jobs in the future. Developing a career path reinforces the participants' need for lifelong learning. The career counselors will also deal with job retention issues and critical events in the workplace that often result in job loss or failure.

In addition, EKCEP is a non-profit agency which administers federal job training programs and special-need federal grants for 23 Eastern Kentucky counties (Bell, Breathitt, Carter, Clay, Elliott, Floyd, Harlan, Jackson, Johnson, Knott, Knox, Lawrence, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Magoffin, Martin, Menifee, Morgan, Owsley, Perry, Pike, and Wolfe).

The EKCEP-developed Welfare-to-Work program includes significant partnerships with local organizations and related programs, including EKCEP's nine local community action agency partners and the Kentucky Department for Community Based Services (CBS).

For further information about EKCEP's Welfare-to-Work program, call the EKCEP central office in Hazard, at (606) 436-5751.

problem. We're trying to tie all this together."

"Small problems such as extensions can be dealt with through the water companies and the fiscal court. We need to start doing that," Hale added.

The county judge-executive said that the groundwater study will determine if AML funds can be used to bring a clean water source to people in the study area.

"Once they verify (the contamination) is mine-related, then it comes up with whether it will be a fundable project. I think it will be," Hale said.

Magistrates attending Friday's meeting were DeRossett, Elmer Johnson, Ermal Tackett, and Jackie Edford Owens.

Floodplains and Wetlands Notice
Notice of Explanation

The Eastern Kentucky counties of Johnson, Martin, Floyd and Pike have joined forces to create a region-serving industrial park in Martin County. A portion of the park has been selected as the site for a federal prison. (A separate, comprehensive Environmental Impact Statement has been completed on the prison site itself.)

The City of Paintsville as the lead applicant, with the Martin County Government as co-applicant, have applied to the Community Development Block Grant program, seeking funding to construct and provide sewer services to the industrial park. Other funding sources include the Economic Development Administration, Appalachian Regional Commission, Kentucky Infrastructure Authority and multi-county coal severance funds.

Complete proposed infrastructure services for the industrial park include:

- construction of a 1.0 mgd WWTP to be located on Route 2381 in Johnson County;
- construction of a waste water collection line from the WWTP on Route 2381, along Route 302, Route 3 and an airport access road to the Industrial Park site;
- construction of a second waste water collection line from the WWTP along Route 2381 and KY 321 (locally known as old U.S. 23) to American Standard in Johnson County;
- construction of a water supply line extending from Floyd County along KY 321 and Route 3 to its junction with the airport access road; and, finally,
- construction of a second water supply line extending south from Martin County along Route 3 and then along the airport access road to the site. (Current plans call for the water supply lines to meet at one or more water storage tanks near the park site to provide a dual source of water for the prison.)

Portions of the project infrastructure are located in the 100-year floodplain and project activities, by virtue of their type and scope, must be conducted in the 100-year floodplain. The proposed construction will conform with all applicable local, state and federal floodplain construction standards. The proposed action will not affect the floodplain elevation.

Completion of this project will aid in the establishment of a federal prison at the Honey Branch site in Martin County. The prison is anticipated to create 400 jobs. Location of the waste water treatment plant on Route 2381 will also aid future efforts to provide sewage collection services to neighboring communities. It is the City's judgment that the project activities will not adversely affect the 100-year floodplain and that benefits to be derived from the project outweigh considerations of Executive Orders 11988 and 11990.

Portions of the project may also impact important farmland. The Rural Development Administration will be a participating lender in water line funding. Any comments regarding important farmlands (including impacts, alternative sites or actions, or methods to reduce impacts) should be directed to the Rural Development Manager at 220 West First Street, Morehead, KY 40351. Comments must be received by Friday, September 18, 1998.

Comments on the proposed project will be accepted until close of business Thursday, September 24, 1998. Please send written comments to Mayor Robin Cooper, City of Paintsville, Euclid Avenue, P. O. Box 71, Paintsville, KY 41240. A more detailed description of the project and FIA flood maps are available for citizen review by contacting Libby Ratcliff at the Big Sandy Area Development District, 100 Resource Drive, Prestonsburg, KY 41653; telephone (606) 886-2374.

Signed: Mayor Robin Cooper, Certifying Officer.

Nashville-based Continental Divide bluegrass band stars on Jubilee encore

The bluegrass band, David Parmley, Scott Vestal and Continental Divide brings to the screen an exciting blend of traditional and contemporary bluegrass music along with some pure country music in the next edition of KET's Jubilee series, encoring at 10 p.m. Thursday, September 10. Their performance was taped in the spring of 1997 at the Red Mule Bluegrass Festival in Berea.

The members of this versatile and talented Nashville-based group have played with such notable bluegrass bands and individuals as The Bluegrass Cardinals, Doyle Lawson and Quicksilver, Del McCoury, Bobby and Sonny Osborne and Bela Fleck.

Continental Divide features David Parmley on guitar, Scott Vestal on banjo. Mike Anglin on bass, Randy Kohrs (the newest member of the band) on Dobro (responohonic guitar) and Rickie Simpkins on mandolin and fiddle.

Parmley says the band owes its diverse music to the wide musical interests of the individual members. "Basically, our music is whatever we like to do [at the time we're performing]," he adds. "Our shows are not pre-planned."

Jubilee is a KET production, produced and directed by H. Russell Farmer. Viewers can find out more about Jubilee and other programming on KET by visiting the KET Web site at www.ket.org.

Pikeville College holds opening convocation

"It is important to know something about the region that you were born and reared in. Something about the land and about the people who settled the region."

Senator Benny Ray Bailey spoke these words to a crowd of approximately 500 Tuesday, August 25, in Booth Auditorium as the guest speaker at Pikeville College's annual Opening Convocation. The event officially began the 110th academic year at the college.

Faculty and staff members processed in academic regalia prior to the invocation by Janice Ford, associate professor of art at Pikeville College. Following a hymn, President Hal Smith provided a welcome and introductions. Senator Bailey then gave an address entitled "Appalachia...Our Home," which provided a wealth of information detailing the geological, ethnic, and social history of the Eastern Kentucky region. In additions, Senator Bailey emphasized the importance of growth in education and business in providing future economic security for this region.

"The new Medical School in Pikeville, the UK Center for Excellence in Rural Health Care, the psychiatric hospital in Hazard, and the new rehabilitation center in Knott County are a start toward preparing our people for health related careers and give our people an opportunity to get quality health care close to home."

Following his address, Senator Bailey, a 1966 alumnus of Pikeville College, was awarded an honorary degree by President Hal Smith. "For your distinguished careers in education, as a health care professional, and as a trusted servant and leader in the Senate of the Commonwealth of Kentucky; for your efforts to help people learn to learn, learn to care for themselves, and learn to govern more effectively and efficiently; and for your fervent commitment to all the people of Appalachia...I hereby confer upon you the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters."

Pikeville College is a four-year liberal arts and sciences college affiliated with the Presbyterian Church and nestled in the heart of Eastern Kentucky. It offers more than 20 majors, several pre-professional programs, and with the Pikeville College School of Osteopathic Medicine, the Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine degree.

Insuring kids

Gov. Paul Patton lectures other governors about the importance of early childhood development. Yet his administration can't work up even a glimmer of urgency about getting health insurance to kids.

Someone should be embarrassed.

A new national program enabled Kentucky last year to insure an estimated 55,000 youngsters who aren't poor enough for Medicaid but whose parents can't afford private health coverage for them.

The money became available in October 1997. But not until July 1999, almost two years later, is the Children's Health Insurance Program expected to be running statewide, Health Services Secretary John Morse said last week.

That's too long to wait.

As the governor recognizes, the first few years of life are crucial to intellectual development. Throughout childhood, and especially in the preschool years, timely attention can prevent medical problems from mushrooming into lifelong liabilities. Plenty of kids could use this help now, if only it were available.

A toddler who has earaches, but no insurance, for example, can go to the emergency room. But her parents must risk ruining their credit or dispense with something like food to pay the bill. Maybe they're lucky enough to have access to a low-cost clinic. More likely, they load her up on Tylenol and spend a few nights rocking a sick child, who, because of the damage from untreated ear infections, may lag in language development and reading.

That's reality for many, many children. These kids fall smack in the middle of Secretary Morse's blind spot. Morse argues — with a straight face, no less — that uninsured children already have access to the care they need.

Morse also displays an interesting variation of the famous Frankfort edifice complex. Instead of an obsession with raising buildings and highways, the former Humana executive must build the perfect system from scratch, creating a new form of managed care called "accountable pediatric organizations" before Kentucky kids get the care children in many states already are receiving.

Morse's vision may be impressive, but his priorities are screwy.

It makes more sense to care for kids through existing channels, then move them into the new system when it's perfected.

The quickest route would have been expanding Medicaid to include kids from working-poor families, the approach taken by 24 other states. Kentucky is doing a partial Medicaid expansion, opening the program to poor teenagers who had been excluded.

But Morse was adamant against any further Medicaid expansions, which he said would only enlarge a flawed program and risk busting the budget.

We disagreed, as did most children's advocates. Medicaid could certainly have been expanded temporarily, until a separate program was in place, without busting the budget, since children are gen-

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bingo player is disappointed with game

Editor:

On Sunday, August 22, I went to a Bingo game at the Harold Bingo Dome for the Left Beaver Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad. I would later become very upset, disappointed and regret going to this game.

The Bingo game began at 6:30 p.m. with three early bird games that paid $50, $100, and $200.

During the $200 game, I needed B5 to Bingo and win. While playing the $200 game, B1 showed up twice on the monitor. When this occurred, the woman that ran the game asked the Bingo caller from the night before and a different game to explain this. The caller from the night before said he had noticed B1 was missing so he replaced it, so therefore one of the B1 balls must have been stuck in the machine and came loose. Okay, I accepted that; I guess it can happen.

The caller from this game then said he would pull the balls after the early bird games to check them, which he did.

The caller then came to the back of the hall where I was sitting and opened a file cabinet and removed a blue ball with B5 on it. I then asked him "Wasn't B5 in the machine?" He told me that B5 was not in the machine, which he repeated at least twice more to me and other people.

I then told him that I had needed B5 for a Bingo for at least six numbers before someone had won the game. I showed him my paper, which he took from me, rolled it into a ball and threw it in the trash.

He then informed me that he didn't have time for this. I asked him if he had checked the balls before starting the early birds and he said he pulled all the balls from the machine and there were 15 blue balls. I then asked him if he had checked the numbers. He replied, "No, there were 15 blue balls and there was no need to check the numbers."

The woman that ran this game then made an announcement that she had no control over the machine and that it was malfunctioning. She said she wasn't responsible for this.

I feel these two people were rude and unwilling to listen to the facts. They felt they weren't responsible for the missing and duplicate number balls in the machine. The purpose of this letter is to make these three points:

1. If you have malfunctioning equipment and know it, aren't you required to inform your paying customers before they buy anything?

2. Isn't the caller responsible for checking the balls before the game begins? The caller should check the numbers on the balls to be sure they are numbered 1 to 75, no duplicates or missing numbers. Not just check for the pretty colors.

3. I was under the impression that if you ran a Bingo game, you were responsible for that game. I didn't think you were supposed to ask a caller from a different game on a different night to explain anything to your paying customers. It wasn't his responsibility—it was that night's caller's!

School days, school days

I just have to pass— no matter what!

Whether we want to accept it or not, cheating behavior has occurred for centuries, such as in ancient China on civil service exams, when the punishment was the death penalty. Cheating has been studied more than ever by today's society; it seems to be pervasive. A study done by UK's Department of Educational and Counseling Psychology (1998) found that 40 percent of 285 sixth, seventh, eighth graders admitted to cheating in science class. In 1993, a survey collected by Who's Who Among American High School Students showed that 89 percent of high school students thought cheating was usual behavior, and 78 percent had actually cheated. During the same year, Rutgers University's survey revealed that 82 percent of almost 1800 students at nine public universities acknowledged cheating on tests at least once, and 54 percent reported cheating at least four times. A newspaper writer (Snow, 1997) reported that "the North Carolina Biblical Recorder printed the results of a survey of 4,959 Baptist teenagers who said they pray. Yet 44 percent said they cheat on tests, and 68 percent said they lie to their parents." If other people's children are doing such unacceptable behaviors, are our children guilty of the same thing? Who are the cheaters within our school system. Why do they feel they need to be dishonest? Do our schools have a policy regarding cheating, and if so, is it followed through?

Things to Ponder

by Mable Rowe Lineberger, Ph.D.

After beginning college as a "much older" student, it was really a shock to become aware of the level of cheating. During the first semester at the local community college in Florida, one instructor had the seats farther apart than usual on the first test day. The reaction was a sense of feeling insulted. At the University of South Florida, the graduate assistant for the math professor suddenly picked up a student's paper during an exam. Why would someone with the smarts and money to be there take such risks and also what would happen later? In reality, classroom cheating may involve many behaviors: using crib notes, copying off another student, allowing others to copy homework, and plagiarizing. Cliff Notes, a summary of major literary pieces, has been for sale commercially for years. Are they a form of cheating? As in other areas of our lives, the Internet impacts on the possibility of cheating; i.e., some sites have prewritten term papers for sale and even a book advertised as teaching ways to cheat.

In addition to the "how" of cheating, typical characteristics of those who cheat have been identified. Students prone to cheat are more likely to have low grade averages, be less intelligent, be low-achieving, and be males, although not significantly different from females. Also, more males than females admitted to cheating in their courses and using a greater variety of cheating methods. Females showed a greater disapproval of cheating than males, and were more apt to have a higher level of guilt than males if they did cheat. The recent UK study reported, "Cheaters also worried about school and resorted to self-handicapping behaviors—blaming others and making excuses for not performing well at school—thought cheating would result in less homework and fewer academic demands (1998)."

Besides characteristics of individuals, other possible contributing factors to students cheating have been identified. Research found that cheaters were influenced by parenting styles—either reared by parents having severe strictness or with complete lack of discipline. This is yet another example of the value of children being reared in an environment with consistent boundaries and structure and with opportunities to learn to control him/herself.

Various reasons for cheating have also been identified. Concern about grades were given most often for cheating. Those having lower grades were more likely to cheat. Being pushed to achieve at a high standard by parents, teachers, and administrators was also listed to increase the likelihood of cheating. Some students who cheated gave low level of deception and supervision as cause for their cheating.

Other studies have shown that situational factors can help to decrease cheating activities. These include a "strong anti-cheating or moral climate, a strong chance of being caught and punished, and positive open and fair attitudes in teaching styles (1995)." Since the UK researchers thought that the schools' obesession with performance measures spurs cheating, a suggestion was that schools shift their focus from performance to the improvement the student makes. Thus, an "effort" roll would be posted for those whose work improved the most. Then the comparison would be with "self" and not with peers.

It goes without saying that, "It is not a perfect world." However, our children need to learn that they have to take responsibility for what they say and do where ever they are. They need to learn to identify choices with consequence, make decisions, follow through consistently, and to control themselves from the inside-out. Students need to learn to do classroom work as assigned, and study as needed, so that they do not have increased stress of not knowing at the last minute. Another important component is that adults need to role-model appropriate problem-solving techniques. The child may hear adults talk of cheating on income tax and having a "friend" fix a speeding ticket. Then the child's conclusion may be, "if they can get by with that, why can't I do what I want." Our society does not have to create situations in which dishonesty in regards to truth comes so easily, such as cheating in school, so that it is accepted as "normal." No matter who a student allows to influence him/her, teachers, friends, and/or pals, the decision of whether or not to cheat—to go by the rules—is always the responsibility of the person.

Kids

erally healthy and cheap to insure.

Moreover, an extra 55,000 kids would have enhanced state efforts to shift Medicaid into regional managed-care partnerships, since the extra patients (and money) would have made Medicaid contracts more attractive to private bidders. In this respect, piggybacking the new program onto Medicaid would have enhanced the state's efforts to fix the problems Morse sees in Medicaid.

That's all water over the dam, though. The planning process, which involves obtaining federal approval, may be too far along to make drastic switches now.

But even forgetting the possibility of expanding Medicaid, Kentucky needs to get cracking and, if necessary, simplify Morse's complicated proposal.

Eleven states that set up brand-new programs already are enrolling kids, according to the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities. Four — Florida, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and New York — had a head start because their children's health insurance programs were in place when the federal money arrived. Still, any way you look at it, Kentucky is taking too long.

The money's been there. Waiting almost another year to cover vulnerable kids would be unconscionable. How could a governor who's committed to children settle for that? —Lexington Herald-Leader

Nineteenth annual Floyd County Slone Mountain Squirrel Festival

Many folks will be making their annual trek to Slone Mountain in Floyd County near McDowell, on September 13, to attend the Floyd County Slone Mountain Squirrel Festival, now in its nineteenth year.

The festival hosted by Ray and Kelly Slone is held on the top of one of the area's highest mountains. Natural landscaping and tree-lined roads that wind throughout the property give the site a pleasant park-like atmosphere where people can gather to spend a day of old-fashioned family fun.

Lunchtime is probably the highlight of the day, but the arduous task of food preparation begins on Saturday afternoon. Many cooks work throughout the night, and when dinner is served on Sunday at noon, there is plenty of home-cooked food for everyone. The country cuisine consists of roast pork, roast beef, ribs, chicken and gravy, potatoes, green beans, mustard greens, soup beans, sauerkraut and weiners, bread and kool-aid. Anyone who does not wish to brave the food line or does not like the menu, may choose to bring a picnic lunch to enjoy on the premises.

In addition to the food, there is always a varied program of entertainment. Several music groups perform all day long, and the hillside makes a natural amphitheater where music lovers can sit on blankets or in folding chairs in front of one of the stages to enjoy their favorite country, Bluegrass, or gospel music.

The favorite among the children are the traditional games such as tug of war, greasy pole climb, hopscotch, egg catching, caver's crazy crawl, squirrel hunting safety game, squirrel golf, squirrel in the tree game, squirrel pilot relay, the squirrel sack race, and the traveling squirrels fasten your seatbelt game. Adults, on the other hand, have found the horseshoe pitching contest to be an important event, and many a former champion is given an opportunity to defend his/her title.

The craft area at the festival has become a relaxing place to browse and meet area craftsmen. Anyone who is interested in a handmade dulcimer, primitive chair, doll, quilt, hat, a bar of old-fashioned lye soap, or a host of other handcrafted items can find it there.

The origin of the festival was the Slone-Cassell reunion approximately 38 years ago. It was then that Virginia Slone and her husband, the late Helton Slone, met with their families and several friends atop a mountain on their farm to enjoy a day of food and fellowship. As more people became interested in the yearly event, the couple decided to include the public in the celebration.

Today, the old-fashioned family atmosphere and down-to-earth hospitality remains, but the original small group has increased to thousands of folks throughout Kentucky and bordering states.

The festival will begin this year on Sunday, September 13, at 9 a.m., and end at 6 p.m. The location is Slone Mountain near McDowell, on Route 1086 off Route 680 (Garrett-McDowell Road). Admission is free. No horses or all-terrain vehicles will be allowed on the premises.

Donor center is "Celebrating Second Chances" during National Marrow Awareness month

As the nation observes National Marrow Awareness Month throughout September, the National Marrow Donor Program (NMDP) and the Prestonsburg Donor Center, an NMDP donor center, are "Celebrating Second Chances" provided by unrelated marrow transplants. Each person who donates blood in September is encouraged to also be tested as a potential marrow donor.

As the only blood center in Kentucky which tests volunteer donors for the Registry, Central Kentucky Blood Center's donor centers, including the Prestonsburg center, have been an integral part of the NMDP. Of the nearly 15,000 people who have joined the Registry through CKBC, 48 have donated marrow for an unrelated transplant patient.

Each year, 30,000 people are diagnosed with diseases treatable by marrow transplantation. Many will have to rely on the NMDP to identify a suitable donor for them. More than three million people have joined the Registry in an effort to share life. "Marrow transplants can be a life-saving option for patients suffering with leukemias, anemias, lymphomas, and various other illnesses," said Judi Baker, CKBC's special programs manager. "When you join the Registry as a volunteer marrow donor, you are truly giving someone a second chance."

Because the characteristics of marrow are inherited, a patient's most likely chance for a match will be within his/her own racial or ethnic group. Most minorities who search the Registry have greater difficulty finding a matched donor than Caucasians. More minority volunteers will help improve these odds. That's why people of diverse racial and ethnic backgrounds are particularly encouraged to join the Registry.

For more information on becoming a volunteer marrow donor, call the Prestonsburg Donor Center at 886-1557 or the National Marrow Donor Program, 1-800-MARROW-2.

Business Tax Workshop

There will be two Small Business Tax Workshops presented by Jacquie Slone, and Linda Sumpter, of Slone and Sumpter CPA, PSC, on September 16 and 17.

These workshops will be held each night from 6-8:30 p.m. at the Big Sandy Area Development District building, 100 Resource Drive in Prestonsburg. These workshops are free and open to the public but will be limited to the first twenty who register.

Topics to be covered on September 16th will include; Starting a Business, Records to be Kept and Completing a Schedule C; topics for September 17th will include; Employment Taxes, Self Employment Taxes and Estimated Taxes.

The number of people who can attend these workshops will be limited only by available space. For additional information or to preregister, contact Linda or Mike at the East Kentucky Small Business Development Center, (606) 432-5848 or Jacquie at Slone and Sumpter CPA, PSC at (606) 285-0508.

POET'S CORNER

A Man called Bun

by Ralph Hall
Hi Hat

The barn is almost hidden by trees, a creek runs slowly by the barn,
where the horses once drank, their fill of clear cool water.
The little hollow road has felt the hoofs,
of the horses, as they once,
carried their rider for a joy ride.
On a trail that led to a new adventure, each time they left the barn.

One of the riders was a man named Otis, who most people knew as, "Bun."
He was a man in his 60s,
but a kid at heart
Who loved to ride out on the horses
as he sat tall in the saddle
And thought back on the days of childhood when his father, Bill, raised horses and cows on his hillside farm

Now that Otis is older he has this new four wheeler
he takes for long rides out in the hill looking for poke greens and old landmarks he remembers as a boy.

He enjoys his four wheeler, but his mind is on the days
he rode horses.
Whether it be horses or wheelers,
this man we call Bun,
just likes to have fun.
And dream about all those wonderful days when he rode horses.
Bun has now gone to ride horses in the greatest pasture of all in the fields of heaven. He had many friends who saw him as he sat tall in the saddle.

Wayland/Floyd County Poem

by Paul Allen

From Ohio I travel
Down Route 23
In Eastern Kentucky
Is where I will be.

As the hills grow larger
I know I am close
To the place that I love
And cherish the most.

As I cross to Kentucky
Through Greenup and Boyd
Through Lawrence and Johnson
And then on to Floyd.

Down Route 80 I go
And then to Route 7
Through Garrett and Lackey
And then on to Wayland.

Some things are gone
Many things still remain
But the mem'ries are here
They'll be here just the same.

It's where mem'ries were born
And they'll always be there
Of the joys that we had
And the love that we shared.

Yes, I've gone back to Wayland
So many times
To relive the mem'ries
So clear in my mind.

Yes, I was but one
When we left, it's true
But, I still recall
The fresh morning dew.

As thick as smoke
As it rose from the hills
It woke you at dawn
I remember it still.

The loaded coal cars
That sat on the track
Across from our yard
As I look back.

The old coal tipple
Has since been torn down
But I remember it well
As the coal would come down.

There's Wayland High School
That sits on the hill
In nineteen twenty eight
Is when it was built.

The jailhouse still sits
On the corner of the street
For so many years
Troy Mullins was the chief.

Up the road we would cross
O'er the bridge to Cook's Store
Mom and Dad bought us candy
Mr. Cook gave us more.

Though we moved to Ohio
In '53
Wayland still holds
Such fond memories.

For those who've never left there
Special, it might not be
But Wayland forever
Will be Home to me!!

"Happiness in the face of an old man"

by Ralph Hall
Hi Hat

I saw him at Long John Silver's as he sat eating fish and chips. With his granddaughter and great-grandchildren, a little girl and a smaller boy.

The little boy was making all kinds of noise and like all mothers, she kept saying.

"Kevin, be quiet, we are in a public place."

It wasn't the children or the granddaughter that caught my eye it was the grandfather. Who kept saying, Joyce, let him talk; he's just a boy.

Let him have fun as he enjoys his fish.

It was such a joy to see this old man in his joy as he watched the boy.

I am sure he was looking back on the days of childhood, seeing himself in the little boy.

He was a rather handsome old man, with silver hair, and most of it covered up in an old straw hat that should have been thrown away four-years ago.

He was wearing a pair of short pants; I would say he cut the off himself, because one leg was longer than the other.

His shirt was old and much worn; he had on a pair of six-inch boots—the kind that lace up.

Nothing he had on matched, but it didn't seem to matter to him for he was having the time of his life.

He was laughing and happy, the way a person his age should be—not sitting in a rust home on Thorzine, crazy as a fool.

When they got up to put away their trays, just as I thought, he had to push one foot at a time as he moved his cane to hold his body in place.

I am sure he was in great pain, but for today he pushed it out of his mind for a day on the town with his grandchildren.

As they were leaving the little boy said, "Pa Pa I want to sit by you when we get in the car." A great big smile came on the old man's face as he said, "Okay Kevin, I would like that very much."

I have always enjoyed eating at Long John's, but today the fish tasted the best they had ever tasted. As I think back on that day. I no longer see an old man, bent and broken, but rather, I see a face filled with joy, and a spirit that was higher than any drug the rest home has to offer.

It was such a joy to have seen this old man filled with joy and rigor. I guess it's true you are only as old as you feel.

Ortega's 3 TD's sink Sheldon Clark

Leslie awesome on defense in 34-13 win over Cards

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Senior running back John Ortega rushed for 159 yards and scored three touchdowns to lead the Prestonsburg Blackcats (1-1) to a rather easy 34-13 win over a good Sheldon Clark Cardinal (1-2) team Friday night. It was the first win of the season for the Blackcats.

Nathan Leslie, Jeremy Caudill and Mark Branham led a Prestonsburg defense that limited the Cardinals to only 113 yards on the ground. But quarterback Harley Hammonds completed seven of 20 passes for 104 yards.

Leslie (6'6", 240) had 12 tackles in the game and came up with two quarterback sacks. He also had three assists and a block punt.

"I feel that Nathan is one of the top three linebackers in the state," Coach John Derossett said. "Some college will get a good one in him. He can play."

Quarterback Seth Crisp, in a free safety slot, picked off a Hammonds' pass at the three-yard line and returned it the 97 yards for a touchdown. Crisp was filling in for the injured Adam Hall, who is expected to return this Friday night against Whitesburg.

Grant Castle scored one touchdown and rushed for 48 yards on 11 carries for Prestonsburg.

Prestonsburg got on the scoreboard early by scoring on their first possession when Ortega scored from 27 yards out with 6:44 to play in the opening stanza. The drive covered 54 yards on seven plays. Facing a second and ten, Castle picked up the needed 10 yards for the first down with Ortega scoring on the next play.

The game looked to be as advertised when the Cardinals went from their own 26-yard line and struck pay dirt when Nathan Harris scored on a one-yard plunge and the PAT by William Pauley gave the Cardinals a 7-6 lead at the end of the first quarter.

Prestonsburg turned the ball back over to the Cardinals when Ortega, who picked up six yards on a carry, fumbled the football and Nick Lewandoski fell on the loose ball. But the Prestonsburg defense stopped the Cardinals after they had moved inside the red zone.

Prestonsburg took over on their own 20-yard line but, on a first down play, Ortega scampered 65 yards before being hauled down at the Cardinal 15. Two plays later, Castle ran into the end zone from six yards out and Ortega added the conversion for a 14-7 Prestonsburg lead.

After the kickoff, on a first down play, the Cardinals fumbled the football with Branham coming up with the loose ball and the Blackcats taking over at the Cardinal 36. On a second and ten play, Crisp hit Ortega for a 32-yard gainer at the Cardinal six. Castle moved the ball to the three where Ortega ran it into the end zone for the touchdown and a 20-7 Prestonsburg lead.

But the woes for the Cardinals were not over as they fumbled the football on the ensuing kickoff with Hank Mullins recovering the football at the Sheldon Clark 41. Prestonsburg held a 20-7 halftime advantage.

Paul Harris overcomes Boggs for $5,000 purse

by Phillip Anderson
Track Writer

The temperatures had cooled down and it was dirt track racing at its best this past Saturday night at the Thunder Ridge Speedway as a good-sized crowd gathered to watch 20 late models race against each other for the grand prize of $5,000 in the 40-lap feature race.

Prestonsburg's Paul Harris, the points leader at The Ridge, won over Mr. Consistent, Jackie Boggs, to claim the check and the Shootout Championship.

It appeared that Harris was going to go from the green flag to the checkered without any difficulty, but several caution flags allowed Boggs to stay close to Harris. He finally caught and passed Harris on lap 10 and the battle ensued.

With Boggs running smoothly, Harris waited his turn to regain the lead. That came when Boggs had to exit to the pits after losing a tire, allowing Harris to reclaim the lead, a lead he never lost.

While the cars were running under a caution, Boggs had a chance to get back in the lead lap. He was able to

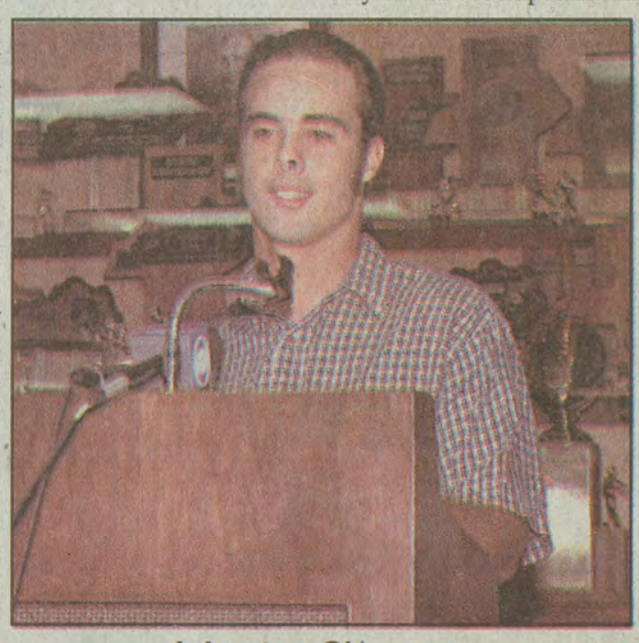
Chapman picks UK

Early attention of Wildcats factor

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Wanting to get his college choice over, Pikeville star running back Jonathan Chapman announced, at a called news conference, that he will be attending the University of Kentucky next year to play football for Hal Mumme and the Wildcats. His decision for the early decision was the attention and recognition the Wildcats gave him while at Breathitt County.

"They were one of the first to acknowledge me," he said. "Being raised in Kentucky, it was a big thing for me to have them to come in and show an interest in me."



Johnaton Chapman

Chapman helped lead the Breathitt County Bobcats to two state Class 2A state championships before transferring to Pikeville High School at the start of this school year. His father, John Chapman, was named the Panthers' new head football coach after serving as an assistant to coach Mike Holcomb at Breathitt County.

Chapman has been one of the state's most prolific runners since he came on the scene as a freshman. He said it has been his dream to play for UK.

"For several years and several weeks now I have thought of this day," he said. "I will be attending the University of Kentucky next year. I want to thank Claude Bassett for recruiting me. It is a great honor for me to be standing here, and I can't wait to get on with the season next year."

Coach Chapman said he was pleased with the choice of Jonathan.

"I am extremely proud of Jonathan," he said. "Not only for his accomplishments as a football player and the announcement he is going to be playing football next year for the Kentucky Wildcats, but as a parent he really makes you proud.

"He is an outstanding young man. He does well in school. He is the type of kid that doesn't give you a lot of problems. I'm proud to be his father."

Chapman said he likes the style of football at the University of Kentucky.

"The way they play is similar to the way we play here at Pikeville High School," Chapman said. "They play the style of football that my body frame is suited for."

Kentucky has gotten national attention with the coming of Mumme and Leslie County standout Tim Couch. Chapman is hopeful that he will get to play one season with Couch.

"If he stays at Kentucky," he said. "It would be an honor to play with him. But if he leaves, then we will still have a good team. I just feel honored to play at a quality university as UK as well as a Division I and SEC school."

Chapman knows that the next level will be more difficult than the high school level, but feels he can play there.

"If I work this hardin the summer months and lift weights, hopefully, I can go in and contribute," he said. "It is just a great honor to be standing here and going to UK."

A Look At Sports

Leslie turning some heads in high school football; McGwire notes

Happy Birthday, belated...

Happy birthday to Charles Justice, a St. Louis Cardinal fan and my brother-in-law and a great person. I will not tell you how old he is but a backward 66 will give you the answer. Happy birthday, Charlie!

LESLIE IN THE TRENCHES

Prestonsburg's Nathan Leslie is certainly getting some attention and the football season is only two weeks old.

The senior linebacker is making the tackles and the opponents are slowing getting up. I believe he ranks up there among the state's best.

"I think he is one of the top three linebackers in the state," his coach, John Derossett, said. "He can play at the next level."

Nathan has 24 tackles in the first two games for Prestonsburg and four quarterback sacks. He is playing great defensive football and it seems the opposition is running away from him. Wonder why?

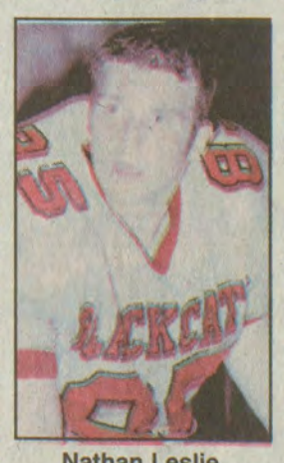
If you watch him play, he hits hard. Wow! Some blocks he made at Sheldon Clark Friday night. He is worth watching.

MCGWIRE NEARS BASEBALL HISTORY

Although major league baseball is not very interesting anymore, it is still good to see that something is keeping a little excitement in the sport. Let's face it, the races are boring and the game overall is anything but what we used to know major league baseball as.

This past Monday, Labor Day, St. Louis outfielder Mark McGwire tied the major league record for the most home runs in a 169-game season. Monday, the homerun hitter tied the Roger Maris record by belting his 61st round tripper of the season. He now only needs one more to become the all-time homerun champion. He could hit that in Cincinnati tonight against the hapless Reds.



Nathan Leslie

Baseball needs more Mark McGwires who aren't concerned about all the glory that goes with accomplishing such a feat. Although it will take more than players like him and his accomplishments to really get the fans back, it is a beginning.

McGwire, after hammering out number 61 against the Cubbies Monday afternoon, circled the bases with both hands in the air and outstretched knowing that a new era is beginning in baseball.

Now the question: Did Mike Morgan want his name in the record book as the pitcher who served up number 61? After all, the only way some will ever make the record books is by being involved in the record-setting shot. Now the Cardinals move to Cinergy Field and the Cincinnati Reds. Will the Reds be the victim of the tie-breaking home run record? You can bet that the ballpark along the Ohio River will be a packed stadium with the Cardinals in town, and they will not be coming to see two good teams, but the two worst in major league baseball, and to see what the Hammer will do against the Reds.

Major league baseball has had some great baseball players. Some outstanding hitters and you wonder why some of them did not break the Roger Maris record? Players like Hank Aaron, who holds the career home run record for the most hits in a career, 715. Others like Frank Robinson, last triple crown winner; Eddie Matthews; Frank Thomas; Richie Allen; Mickey Mantle, and the list could go on and on.

I feel like pitchers today are "grooving the ball" for both Sammy Sosa and McGwire. They are not putting anything on the ball and, therefore, are trying to do their part in keeping the fan interest in a game that is slipping away.

On a drive that took 14 plays to run, Prestonsburg went up 26-7 on a three-yard run by Ortega with 5:05 in the third period. The drive covered 61 yards.

Leslie and Caudill made things miserable for the Cardinals when Sheldon Clark took possession at the 5:04 mark of the third period. Leslie sacked Hammonds for a four-yard loss and then Caudill nailed the quarterback at the line of scrimmage, forcing the Cards to punt. But Rodney Porter got a hand on the punt and Prestonsburg had excellent field position at the Cards' 34, but could not move the football as the quarter ended at 26-7.

With 11:14 left in the fourth quarter, the Cardinals scored on a 22-yard pass play from Hammonds to Brent Weaver to make it 26-13. The Cardinals were chipping their way back into the game. What appeared to be a break came their way when a very poor punt by Prestonsburg gave the ball to Sheldon Clark at the Prestonsburg 29-yard line. Hammonds just missed completing two passes on the first two downs. On a third and ten, Hammonds went for Weaver in the end zone but Seth Crisp picked off the pass at the three-yard line and jaunted 97 yards for the touchdown with Ortega adding the conversion for a 34-13 game.

Again the Cards moved to the Prestonsburg 20-yard line only to have Mark Branham pick off a Hammond pass to stop the Cardinals' drive.

There were few penalties in the game, which is unusual when the two teams met on the gridiron. All the penalties went to Prestonsburg on eight flags for 65 yards. Sheldon Clark had no penalties.

The Cardinals had 12 first downs to Prestonsburg's nine. Sheldon Clark ran 59 plays to Prestonsburg's 55.

Hammonds completed seven of 20 passes for 104 yards while the Cards rushed for 113 yards. Harless led the ground game with 45 yards and Weaver rushed for 44 on 10 carries. Weaver had four catches for 73 yards.

The Cardinals had four turnovers, fumbling the ball twice, and two interceptions.

The Blackcats will be at home this Friday night as they host district foe Whitesburg.

recover enough to battle his way to the fifth spot but it was Harris taking the checkered flag and the purse.

Kenny Compton, Jr. finished second, followed by Eddie Carrier, Sr. in third place. The purse of $12,000 paid back to the top eight spots.

In the modified topless-vehicle race, 16 cars showed up for the purse of $700. It was a joyous time for fans at the track as Chris Prater made his return to racing at Thunder Ridge a month after he wrecked his car.

"I also blew my engine that night," said Prater, "but I think I am ready to race."

Prater experienced some problems with his car after the heat races.

Kurt Hofsess, who leads the modifieds in the points standings, took the checkered flag in winning the 30-lap feature race. Hofsess was at the pole position, next to Prestonsburg's Jerry Wicker.

A caution flag on lap five forced Wicker to the rear of the pack. It looked like Jody Coleman, in his C-4 car, was about to break into the top five before but he went too high on turns one and two. Glen May would give Hofsess a battle, but it was Hofsess who would drive to the winner's circle.

Tandy Spurlock took the checkered flag in winning the bomber feature, holding back a strong finish by Joel Johnson and Clint Shutts.

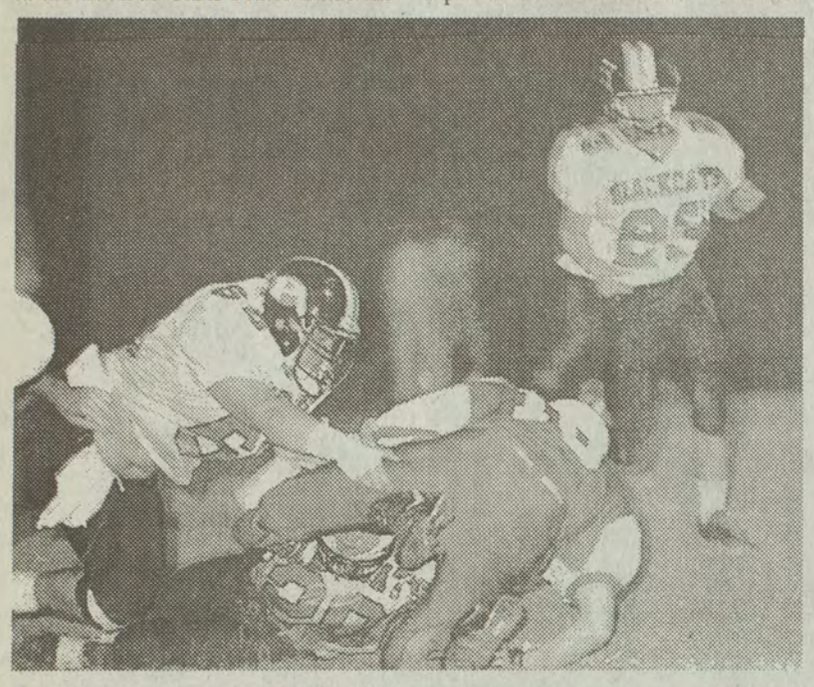
Jim Lemaster went from wire to wire in winning the super bomber feature holding off Robbie Pigg and Greg Ison.

In the road hog class, Jimmy Arnett finished ahead of Bucky Collins in taking the checkered flag.

The Thunder Ridge track was in excellent shape and the crowd excited about the large numbers of cars in the pit area.

Track promoter Brad Martin received news that the World 100 Dirt Track Championship was coming to Thunder Ridge in October. The event, that will feature the best drivers in America, will be held October 17-19 at the local track.

There will be no racing at Thunder Ridge this weekend, but dirt track racing continues September 19.



Prestonsburg's Hank Mullins (20) was in on this tackle of a Sheldon Clark runner Friday night. Prestonsburg posted a 34-13 win over the Cardinals to improve to 1-1 on the season. (photo by Ed Taylor)

Rebels ride two-game streak

Hall passes for 205 yards as Rebels roll 34-14

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

Not since the first two games of the 1996 football season has the Allen Central Rebels had the privilege of owning the longest-winning streak in Floyd County. But the Rebels are on a two-game roll, not bad for a program that had doubts they would play a '98 schedule.

Coach Kevin Spurlock is stressing his theme, "having fun again," at Allen Central and the Rebs' warrior call has been heard after they posted a 34-14 win over the Jenkins Cavaliers this past Friday night to improve their record to 2-1 on the season,

"The kids are really happy," Coach Spurlock said of the win. "They played very hard, and we overcame some adversity in pulling out the win."

But the game seemed never to be in doubt as the Rebels jumped in front 26-0 at the half after having trouble moving the football in the opening quarter.

"Jenkins stopped us on the ground," the first-year coach at Allen Central said. "We couldn't run the ball against them. We came out in the second quarter and went to the air."

The result in the change of offense was an outstanding night for senior quarterback Jesse Hall as he completed seven of 13 passes for 205 yards. Senior wide out, Gary Hunter, caught three of those passes for 133 yards. Brian Jones had four catches for 78 yards.

"Gary and Brian are playing great football for us," Coach Spurlock said. "This whole team is enjoying playing the game. I think Jenkins came out concentrating on our running game and, when we went to the air, it opened things up for us on the ground."

Mark Dunfee led the Rebels' running game that totaled 174 yards rushing. Dunfee had 78 yards on seven carries. Hunter, in a rare performance, carried the football thrice for 50 yards. Brandon Sizemore had five carries for 20 yards and freshman D.J. Hoover totaled 15 yards on four carries.

Jenkins rushed for 254 yards on 50 carries. They were five of 13 passing for 55 yards. Coach Spurlock said his defense could have done better in preventing the rush.

"I was disappointed with our rushing defense," he said. "They double the amount of time we ran the football and that is not good."

However, the Rebels' Ryan Owens got in the scoring column when he recovered a Jenkins fumble and raced 80 yards for the touchdown.

Sizemore put the Rebels in front 6-0 in the first quarter on a 1-yard run. In the second period, Owens recovered the fumble and raced for his 80-yard TD run with Hall running the two-point conversion for a 14-0 score.

The Rebels survived the first quarter after some players had to sit out the opening period because of disciplinary problems.

On one of the best plays of the game, Hall connected with Hunter for a 61-yard touchdown run as the lead went to 20-0. But the Rebels were not through before the half. Again Hall found Brian Jones for a 45-pass play, and it was 26-0 at half.

"We didn't throw the ball much in the second half," Spurlock said. "We didn't want to take a chance of getting Jesse hurt."

For a team that has been embarrassed so many times in the last two seasons when teams run the score upon them, the Rebels pulled back, get this, so as not to embarrass anyone.

"That is not us," Coach Spurlock said. "We're not out to embarrass anyone. We could have stayed with our offense and won by a big margin, but that is not the way we play. It allowed us to play some of our younger kids."

Jenkins got on the scoreboard at the onset of the third period with a good return on the kickoff and a facemask call. The call moved the ball to the Rebel 16 where the Cavaliers scored. The two-point conversion made it 26-8.

But the Rebels had yet another outstanding drive that cumulated when Hall hit Hunter with a 37-yard touchdown pass and the conversion made it 34-8. With three seconds left to play, Jenkins scored for the final 34-14 margin.

Hoover led the Rebel defense with nine 12 tackles. He also had a fumble recovery. Leroy Prater had five first hits. Mark Howard had four tackles as did Owen and Z.W. Chaffins.

"Because of some of the suspensions, we had some players step up and played hard for us," Coach Spurlock said. "D.J. did a great job for us. Z.W. had a good game as well as Leroy. It was a team defensive game and not just some individuals."

Allen Central will remain on the road this Friday night when they meet Tolsia, W. Va., a team that manhandled them last year at home. But Tolsia, who has yet to win a game, fell hard to Portsmouth last Friday night, 74-0.

South Floyd Raiders gets initial win behind Bryant

Undermanned Betsy Layne falls to Raiders 58-22

BY PHILLIP ANDERSON
Contributing Writer

The South Floyd Raiders picked up their first win of the 1998 football season in a 58-22 win over undermanned Betsy Layne this past Friday night at Brackett Field at Wheelwright.

The Bobcats, who are hurting badly, faced a Raider team with six starters in the wing. Five were out with injuries while one, James Akers, was suspended for one game.

Still, South Floyd coach Donnie Daniels was pleased with his team's effort.

"Things went good for us," he said. "We needed a win bad. It was a good win for us. We executed well on offense and played as we were expected to play."

South Floyd scored on their first four possessions of the game. Betsy Layne was impressive on its first possession, moving the football only to fumble the ball over to South Floyd. B.J. Bryant had an outstanding game.

Bryant continues to roll up the yardage by rushing for 210 yards on 12 carries. He scored three touchdowns and one conversion. Matt Tackett looked very impressive and scored two touchdowns while rushing for 65 yards on eight carries.

Quarter Charlie Williams completed eight of 10 passes for 154 yards, his season best. He tossed for two touchdowns and two conversions. Kyle Tackett benefited from the pinpoint passing of Williams and caught five passes for 106 yards. One for a touchdown and two conversions. Tackett scored the game's first touchdown on the first play of the game for the Raiders when he hauled in a Charlie Williams' pass for a 68-yards-scoring pass. The Raiders added the two-point conversion for an 8-0 lead.

Betsy Layne found themselves in poor field position and had to march nearly 90 yards. But the Raiders' defense caught Josh Howell in the end zone for a safety that made it a 10-0 affair. South Floyd scored on their next three possessions and blew the game open. South Floyd led 34-0 at the half.

Matt Tackett scored for South Floyd on the opening drive of the third period with 9:29 left to play in the period to lead 42-0.

Betsy Layne finally got on the scoreboard on their next possession when Chad Bryant scored from 28 yards out. Howell ran the two-point conversion into the end zone for a 34-8 game.

With 1:55 left to play in the third, Bryant scored his third touchdown of the evening with Matt Tackett scoring the conversion for a 50-8 affair.

Behind some strong running of Bryant and Bradley Brooks, the Bobcats struck again. Bradley scored for the Cats for a 50-14 game.

Coach Donnie Daniels went to his bench as the starters watched from the sidelines. At the 4:53 mark of the third, Andy Moore broke free for a 21-yard touchdown run with Josh Johnson, behind center, found Kyle Tackett for the conversion and a 58-14 game.

Betsy Layne got their final points with 2:02 left in the game when Howell ran into the end zone from 11 yards out. Bryant added the two-point conversion for the final 58-22 score.

SPORTS IN KENTUCKY

by Bob Watkins

McGwire and Sosa have made ours a Rockwellian summer

September, an apex. A convergence for sports titans in America. College (and high school) footballs fly, NFL openers (yawn), and Major League Baseball.

The last of these has ripened into a delicious chase after legends with stout names from days of black and white — Roger Maris and Babe Ruth and Hack Wilson. Each has been exhumed and examined anew by television and newspaper archivists as if to see if Mark McGwire and Sammy Sosa have the right DNA.

The faces of this September have a noteworthy twin-ness. Big Mac and Slammin' Sammy. There is Tim Couch and Chris Redman. And who will be the better NFL rookie, Peyton Manning or Ryan Leaf?

Kentucky high school football? In September we keep an eye on who's scoring most and who's rushing for more yards. Maybe a two-man race — from the midlands, Jeremy Britt at Danville and in the mountains, UK-bound Jonathan Chapman of Pikeville.

Competitions within competitions that stir athletes to an adrenaline rush from looking over their shoulder. All the while we watch more closely, listen keenly, comment frequently. Interest becomes a fever.

Baseball's September has become a Norman Rockwell, a shady respite leaned back on a front porch swing in fading but still hot summer afternoons with uncle Arthur wondering, "Did McGwire hit one last night? How about Sosa?"

Chances are both did. Launching not just homers but prodigious shots against Coca Cola signs causing a furious stampede for a ball and sending computer wonks scrambling to calculate distance as if a 500-plus blast might count more than one run. This season, it seems to.

Baseball '98 has been fresh air, revival, big gates and mad cheering. Gratefully, we have been spared sour Albert Belle, aloof Barry Bonds and too much Junior (Griffey), and given a big-shouldered, big-eyed Mark McGwire and star-glazed Sammy Sosa. Added treats? David Wells' perfection and Randy Johnson restored.

Since Ruth however, top billing in American baseball is the province of home run hitters. New York's John Olerud has a beautiful swing and San Diego nice guy Tony Gwynn has eight batting titles and is in the hunt for another, but an Olerud or Gwynn three-for-three night is a footnote to a McGwire two-fer.

Big Mac and Slammin' Sammy have invented a tape measure summer which ought to lead both to catchy commercials for Tru-Value Hardware. What resilience in the face of unyielding media pressure. What competition. What smiles. What gentlemen. And McGwire, what reluctance.

"We tell him, be more selfish (swing at 3-0 or 3-1 pitches), but he won't, Cardinals manager Tony LaRussa told Sports Illustrated, prompting writer Tom Verducci to add, "Scientists have figured it out. McGwire is missing the stud-jock-ego chromosome (in Latin: chromus Albertbellius)."

McGwire, who most days seems as astonished by the lunacy of grown men fighting for a baseball as the rest of us, has handled himself with composure and a grin and used the spotlight to acknowledge team play, his Cardinal mates, and to dote on his batboy son.

Meanwhile, Sammy Sosa, a dirt poor kid from the Dominican, whose strikeouts a season ago were Ruthian in frequency and pitiful in temptation for sliders away, wonders why grown men grumble about attention. In ponderous English Sammy says all the right stuff, concedes the race to McGwire and boffos his public with "...this is a wonderful country. God bless America."

What a glorious baseball summer.

In the end, woe be to those to whom the decision falls to choose the NL Most Valuable Player for McGwire and Sosa have done more for the game in this Rockwellian summer than any MVP since who can remember?

Baseball scenes '98 leave us feeling good in a world with too much Starr-Clinton, too much Piazza-squabble for money, and way too much, pontifical sports columns.

KENTUCKY-LOUISVILLE

√ Kentucky 68, Louisville 34. Any school, any team opening a spanking new house should not have to suffer a 68 spot. But, well.

√ Those distinct diesel sounds you heard around the railroad yards next to Pappa John's Cardinal Stadium Saturday evening? Bulldozers being reloaded onto flat cars for the trip back to Lexington. Names on the sides were Snedegar, Crowe and Major and, well, you get the picture.

√ Tim Couch, seven touchdowns and 498 passing yards to 11 receivers and no interceptions. No room for criticism, right? Right! Ex-UofL coach Howard Schnellenberger said any quarterback in America could have done what Couch did against UofL behind that offensive line. A compliment for a UK offensive line is new territory.

√ Couch and the Heisman. Bring on all-comers. In little more than three quarters, Hyden's finest not only spread around 498 yards and seven touchdowns to five receivers, but acted like a college kid after every score. Little wonder UK fans are bonkers these days.

√ Speed. Kentucky's kick coverage against UofL was the best since the 10-1 team 21 years ago.

√ Speed II. Kendrick Shanklin...Martez Johnson...Vince Harrison. And these are just the new guys.

√ James Whelan?

√ Best quote of the day? Tom Leach, Kentucky Network: Noting Tim Couch's time in the pocket: "They had enough time to cook one of those Pappa John pizzas for Tim Couch that time."

√ Recruiting. Little wonder Pikeville's Jonathan Chapman committed to UK last week. This Claude Bassett-band wagon is on its way to a reserved-seat-only plan.

√ Recruiting. Louisville is a good place. High school prospects can sign on to a new coach in a new stadium, and from the looks of the '98 Cardinals, playing time immediately.

√ One thing UK fans can expect to see much more? Da blitz. All out. From here and there and underneath, too.

√ Chris Redman. UofL's excellent quarterback is a brave kid. He has to be.

√ About UK's pass-happy attack ... Derek Homer, 19 carries for 123, Anthony White 66 yards on six tries.

√ James Whelan?

√ UofL coach John L. Smith took the blame for Saturday's fiasco. For the Cardinals, there was plenty for everybody.

BITS 'N PEOPLE

√ Don't you love to see a big ornery galoot like Jeff Snedegar square his cinder block shoulders and lick his chops on a third-and-short?

√ The 'Pass-happy SEC?' A label applied by Sports Illustrated. Curiously, the magazine ranks three SEC teams in its Top 10 and each features an All-America running back.

√ A major reason why UK football's postgame radio call-in show has been cancelled is obsolescence. Too bad those who make decisions regarding radio programming as connector fan-to-team, do not examine new technology. In 1998 more than ever UK's most avid fans can sign onto the internet and chat about the game in live time without commercial breaks.

√ Name of the week: Alabama defensive end Canary Knight.

WORTH REPEATING

Before the Kentucky-Louisville game Bill Doolittle of Louisville wrote to internet friends: "The smart guys say Kentucky will win easily. But who cares? The smart guys can get their own columns. Here's what could happen when the University of Kentucky Wildcats come to town to take on the University of Louisville Cardinals for the opening of Papa John's Cardinal Stadium: Louisville will win."

HOOPS RECRUTING SCUTTLEBUTT

Full Court/Recruiting Beat (scouting service) predicts Kentucky will land power forward Marvin Stone and backcourt star Keith Bogans as expected. But Georgia Tech's Bobby Cremins will make the biggest noise during the early signing period with commitments from guards Joe Forte and Damien Wilkins, and forward Donnell Harvey.

UK's Tubby Smith sought Forte and Harvey. Another high school star UK backed away from; Rob Grizzard, may sign with Alabama. In-home visits begin this week.

PARTING SHOT

San Francisco 49'er receiver Jerry Rice signed a contract last week for $36 million and said, "It's not about money. It's a pride thing."

$36 million worth of pride?

Question: For what good reason do we need this information?

NASCAR CONNECTION

by Steve Mickey
NASCAR columnist

Hmiel latest free agent!

Since 1987, the name of Steve Hmiel has been synonymous with Jack Roush Racing. Hmiel joined Roush in the early developmental stages of Roush's NASCAR Winston Cup operation. During the next nine-year span, Hmiel, Roush and driver Mark Martin established a relationship that became the envy of just about every team that fielded a car on the Winston Cup circuit.

The trio with Hmiel as crew chief was together until the beginning of the 1997 season and, during that time, they combined for 18 victories, 30 pole positions, 111 top-five finishes and 160 top-10 performances in 228 starts. Also, during their time together, the lowest Martin ever finished in the final Winston Cup point standings was 15th in 1988. Since then, he is the only active Winston Cup driver who has finished sixth or better in the season ending points standings each year.

Hmiel just missing winning the Winston Cup championship with Martin in 1990. At season's end, he found himself in second place trailing Dale Earnhardt's team by a scant 26 points. It would have been the year that Hmiel and Martin would have won their first championship if it hadn't been for a penalty imposed by NASCAR earlier in the year. In one of the early season races Martin's car was found to have an illegal part and the sanctioning body took away more points than what Earnhardt won the title by.

Jack Roush was experiencing the kind of success that very few owners ever get to experience on the Winston Cup circuit with the team of Hmiel and Martin. But, Roush seemed to feel the pressure that the multi-team effort of Rick Hendrick was putting on the rest of the circuit. His response was to field more teams in an effort to keep up with Hendrick.

In 1997, Hmiel sacrificed the day-to-day crew chief duties to assume general manager responsibilities of the No. 16 (Ted Musgrave) and No. 6 (Mark Martin) teams. While Musgrave only experienced limited success, Martin continued his winning ways by finishing third in the final point standings.

This year saw Roush increase his stable of teams to five with what was one of the biggest shakeups in all of Winston Cup. He moved his Valvoline team from its old Liberty, North Carolina shops up to Mooresville to be housed with another one of his teams, Jeff Burton's Exide Batteries team. That move severed all ties that Hmiel had with Martin and for the first time since Martin joined up with Roush he had no day-to-day contact with Steve.

The move left Hmiel in Liberty, but allowed him to return as an active crew chief with Roush's new Cheerio-sponsored team driven by Johnny Benson. He also remained as general manager of both Benson's team and the PrimeStar team.

Before the season, the concern was that Martin would be the one who would suffer with the departure of Hmiel from the day-to-day operation of the team. As it has turned out Mark hasn't missed a beat from last year which was by his own admission his best year ever in the sport.

The same couldn't be said for the way Hmiel's year has turned out. The number 16 PrimeStar team started the year with Ted Musgrave as driver but, by August, Musgrave was out as driver and was replaced with Kevin Lepage. To compound the troubles that Hmiel had with the two teams under his guidance was the fact that Benson was tearing up equipment as fast as the shop could repair it.

The on-track results was not up to the standards that Roush was used to and last week he relieved Hmiel of his duties at Roush Racing, in effect, making him a free agent for the 1998 season.

Although this season didn't unfold to Hmiel's liking, you can bet that because of his past record that he has become one of the hottest commodities available to a team for 1999 season. The list of teams already trying to line up his services for next season includes some big hitters. The Richard and Kyle Petty team have spoken with him already, along with Bill Davis, Joe Gibbs and Richard Childress.

In a sport that seems to have a shortage of proven crew chiefs, Steve Hmiel should be able to write his own ticket for his trip to Daytona next February.

201 Speedway

5TH ANNUAL BOMBER CLASSIC

The 201 Speedway played host to over 50 bomber drivers in the most prestigious race of the year this past Saturday night.

Johnny Osborne posted the fastest qualifying time. With the large number of cars on hand, only the top two transferred out of the heat races with two making the starting grid by virtue of the consolation race.

Locking into the starting field were super bomber champion, Scott McCloud, and runner-up Beadie Blackburn, as well as the top two in the claim bomber points, Eannie Blair and Rodney Webb.

Blackburn opened up the early lead over McCloud at the onset of the race. Blackburn's run at the point ended on the third lap as he drove his #74 car a little too hard into turn four, losing the back end. He was forced from the front to the rear of the running order.

At the point from there to the end of the race would be McCloud, the defending champion. McCloud faced challenges from Williamsport's Bill Butcher from lap four to circuit 21 when Michael Osborne took second place.

The closest race on the speedway ended up near the conclusion as a hard-charging Beadie Blackburn fought his way back through the field, taking positions from several good drivers and applying pressure to Osborne as the final laps quickly clicked off.

Blackburn would finally find a way around Osborne, with only two laps to go, using the inside of the turns.

When the checkered flag dropped for the $1,000 winner, it would be McCloud at the winner's circle in winning his second consecutive Bomber Classic at 201.

Ray Saylor, Oil Springs, led the first four laps of the road hog feature until lapped traffic enabled Michael Marcum to control the point from lap five through 10 when Saylor powered his road hog back to the front and posted the win.

McCloud returned to the dirt track and captured the late model victory. Mike Faylus finished second and Tommy Kenton finished third.

Racing continues this Saturday night with a full card of clam bombers, super bombers, road hogs and four cylinders.

The Raiders totaled over 500 yards on offense led by Williams and Bryant.

Betsy Layne had 216 yards rushing with Bryant rushing for 129 yards on 17 carries. Howell completed six of 13 passes for 87 yards and one touchdown.

Jarrod Johnson came up with five first hits and two assists for the Raiders on defense. He also had a fumble recovery and a safety. Andy Moore had five first hits and three assists. Clayton Williams finished with two first hits and five assists.

Coach Daniels used a number of players in the backfield. Andy Moore carried the football twice for 29 yards and a touchdown. Joe Plakus had nine carries for 52 yards and two conversions. Josh Ward carried twice for 52 yards

No stats were available for Betsy Layne.

South Floyd will have this Friday off while Betsy Layne returns home to host Morgan County.

SPORTS

Next season, who will be the new home run king? Ken Griffey Jr.?

Locally...

• The Allen Central Football Rebels have not enjoyed a two-game winning streak since September of 1996. The Rebs won their second in a row this past Friday night with a sound win over the Jenkins Cavaliers.

• My good buddy, Kalen Harris has enrolled as a football player with the Prestonsburg Blackcats. Kalen said he should have played when he was a freshman. "I like football a lot," he told me Friday night. "I should have come out sooner."

• I agree with Prestonsburg coach John Derossett. A college team that does not pick up Nathan Leslie is not serious about playing defense. Nathan can flat play the game on defense. He just doesn't tackle you, but he hits you hard. He made some monstrous tackles last Friday night All I could do was say, WOW!

• Pikeville's Jonathan Chapman made it official this past Thursday night when he announced he would attend the University of Kentucky and play football for Hal Mumme next season. Catch Jonathan on the 15th Region Sports Forum tonight and give us a call.

FROM CARTER'S DESK...

I was handed a memorandum from the desk of Woodrow Carter, state education manager. Seems the memorandum was sent to Floyd County school employees. Subject: School year opening.

Now the thing that struck me about the memo was to remind teachers and other faculty members that the high school football season was in progress and the memo urged the county employees to attend their respective school's games, if you "want to make the state manager smile."

One paragraph included this: "What Ed Taylor probably doesn't know about the game." He went on to list the things, evidently, that I fail to observe, like Color Guard and that the best cheeseburgers in Floyd County come from the concession stand run by the boosters.

Now, I know he is mistaken. But that is all right. Anyway, I prefer hot dogs to cheeseburgers. The Color Guard, they are great. I have to watch more closely there.

It is good to see Mr. Carter at the games. So, if you want to make him smile, meet him at the 50-yard line, shake his hand, brag on your team and wear school colors. I like that! I really do! Give us more administrators like Woodrow Carter.

Until Friday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

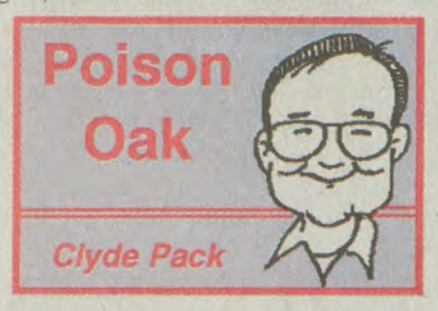
LIFESTYLES

ALL DISTRICT CHORUS SEPTEMBER 22 AT MOUNTAIN ARTS CENTER

It's the American way

One day last week I experienced a scary couple of minutes as I stood in line behind half a dozen teenagers (both boys and girls) at a local fast-food restaurant.



As I pretended to concentrate on the lighted menu over the counter, I couldn't help but listen to every four-letter word imaginable.

What was really so frightening is that these youngsters appeared to be just the average kids down the street; they didn't seem like gang members, or anything, nor were they being loud or unruly. They were just carrying on a normal conversation.

But profanity flowed so readily from the mouths of these young people that I truly believe they weren't even aware they were uttering words or phrases that were not acceptable outside an R-rated movie.

A few minutes later, as I ate my burger, I wondered if perhaps we're not indeed living in an R-rated society. The Eddie Murphys of the world appear to have left their mark, at least when it comes to teaching vocabulary. And, along with everything else that's going on, especially with our country's leaders, it would appear that the behavior of these young people truly does reflect the American way of life, at least as it is now.

American way or not, though, I can vividly remember what such talk would have gotten me when I was growing up in Muddy Branch 50 years ago. My daddy was a deacon at the Thealka Freewill Baptist Church and normal cussin' brought a penalty of a keen willow switch across boney bare legs and back. Black guarding, the term we used for what these kids were doing, brought the same from a good thick belt or razor strop.

Now that's the American way...or at least it used to be.

* * * * *

On a lighter note, I side with those convinced that Hillary Clinton remains one of her husband's strongest advisers. Unlike most, however, I don't think it's all that unusual.

Since Wilma and I have been married for 35 years, I've come to realize just how much a wife can direct her husband's thinking. I wouldn't be surprised if some of the biggest names in history, political and otherwise, became famous because, whether they realized it or not, they acted upon suggestions from their wives. And, as it is with practically everything else, I'm sure sometimes the ideas were good and sometimes they weren't.

For example, Mrs. Lincoln might have said: "Let's go to the theater tonight, Abe. That Booth boy's performance isn't likely to change the course of history, but he's supposed to be pretty good."

Other wifely statements may have come from the following:

Mrs. Nixon: "You left the pause button on again, Richard. When will you ever learn that you can't record that way?"

Mrs. Bell: "Ya know, Alex, since I never get to talk to my mother anymore, I think I'll ask her to visit for a few months."

Mrs. Revere: "Listen, Paul, if you ever come dragging in here at dawn again, you'd better have a good excuse."

Mrs. Franklin: "No, Ben, I don't think bifocals will ever catch on. Why don't you just go fly a kite, or something?"

Mrs. Ford: "That's a long ride, Henry, especially when you're staring at the back end of a horse. I have a better idea."

Mrs. Eastman: "Somehow, George, I Just can't picture that."

Show me a man who doesn't listen to his wife, and I'll show you a man who doesn't have one.

KENTUCKY HIGHLANDS FOLK FESTIVAL

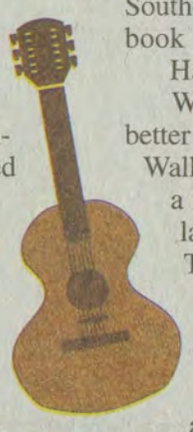
Religious music of the hills

Ms. Kathryn Frazier of Prestonsburg was a great asset to Ms. Edith James with organizing the Kentucky Highland Folk Festival. Ms. Frazier eventually took over the helm of the festival when "Miss Edith" died.

As told by Edith Fitzpatrick James Founder, The Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival

Edith Fitzpatrick James. She was "The Kentucky Songbird". She was founder of The Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival, which is held anually in Floyd County . This year the festival will be held on September 12 at the Mountain Arts Center.

"Miss Edith," as she was affectionately called by those who knew her actually began her journey by train. She possessed an exceptional contralto voice, and so left Prestonsburg in the early years of this century bound for The Roanoke Insitute in Virginia to begin her formal training in music. "Miss Edith" went on to study at the Peabody and Cincinnati Conservatories and at one point sang with the Baltimore Symphony. She toured with the Chatuqua companies.



The love of these mountains was deep in her heart, however, and they eventually drew her back onto the road that led home. She was the same young woman who had left these hills, yet in many ways she was not the same. Her education and experiences in the world had given her knowledge, appreciation and perspective on many of the things she had once left behind. She developed a keen interest in traditional music and this grew into a lifelong passion.

Edith came to appreciate the music that she learned from old men of the hills. Some of these songs had been handed down in the oral tradition. She put into musical notation two songs that she learned from them: "The Kentucky Mountain Footwashing Song" and "O, Death." Due to her formal music training, she was able to recognize in these songs the influence of Abrosian Chant, also known as Plain Song. Plain Song predates Gregorian Chant which is more commonly known.

Chanting was a part of Christian worship almost from the beginning. St. Ambrose, the Bishop of Milan who lived from about 340 AD helped to work out a set of rules for singing hymns. Plain Song that follows these rules is Abrosian Chant. Plain Song sets only the modes or relationship between notes and has no harmony or accompaniment.

"Two Coats" is a later mountain hymn, or modal tune which lends itself to harmony and accompaniment, but the influence of Ambrosian Chant is still felt in its harsh flow of melody.

Another important part of the mountain musical tradition is shaped note singing. The first shaped note songs that were sung here in the hills were written in the four note or scale or mifasola notation. In other areas this is referred to as Southern Harmony Singing because the songbook most often used was "The Southern Harmony and Musical Companion" by William Walker. This tunebook was and is better known here in these hills as "The Billy Walker Songbook." In mifasola notation, fa was a note with a triangular head, sol was round, la was square, and mi had a diamond shape. The scale was sung as fa sol la fa sol la mi fa.

The four-shape note system of notation first came into use in the British Isles at about the same time as the King James Bible—the early 1600's. Many scholars argue, however, that shaped note singing which first appeared in America developed independently of any earlier European influence. Shaped note singing was first practiced in this country in New England in the 1720's. William Walker's songbook was first published in 1835, but some of his songs, in whatever form they had been handed down, had much earlier origins.

Although the people of Kentucky and Tennessee claimed Southern Harmony or mifasola singing and made it their own, William Walker was a resident of North Carolina. The idea of songbooks had originated in New England where they were conceived of as textbooks for singing schools. The tradition of singing schools was one which survived in this area through most of the first half of this century.

"Remember Sinful Youth" from the Walker songbook will be recognized as a modern hymn tune now set to words that are more uplifting. "The Garden Hymn," also from the Billy Walker songbook is simply a beautiful song as written.

The four syllable system was gradually superceded by the seven-shape note system which is still used today. The shape of the note denotes its pitch so that the singer is able to sang the proper tone without necessarily knowing how to read music on the staff or without hearing the song played on a musical instrument.

Shaped note singing goes along with the practice of lining out a hymn. This is a method of performing in which the leader gives out either the words, melody or both, one line at a time to be followed by the congregation. This practice began in British parish churches in the early 17th century, as an aid to those who could not read. In these hills, the tradition was carried forth as a common practice which still exists in many churches.

Edith James has been gone for nine years. She lives on in spirit however in every note of the music that is performed during the Highlands Folk Festival.

Performances at this the 35th Kentucky Highlands Folk Festival include Eddie Bailey with his sounds of the Scottish Highlands bagpipes; Paul Neal Allen and Mike Hall; Marie Howard Bailey, and Homer Ledford.

Also performing will be Georgia Muncy; the Festival Band; the Hill Country Dancer; Kathy Lowe; and Curtiss Vickers and the Mellon Strings.

Deborah Thompson, Phil and Ann Case and the Mule Band will bring the festival to a close.

For more information about the Kentucky Highland Folk Festival, call Freddy James, Prestonsburg Tourism director, at 886-1341.

SUNSHINE LINES

by
Beverly Carroll

Senior citizens, as your 'Sunshine Lines' column continues its series of highlighting Senior Citizens Centers (SCC) in the Big Sandy area, this week we will learn about the center that is about as close to being "out-of-state" as you can get except for the SCC at Belfry. Have you any idea what center this might be?

Of course! It's the Phelps Senior Citizen Center housed in the relatively new Intergenertional building—a magnificent building of which the people of far Eastern Kentucky are very proud. Jannas Hatfield is the executive administrator of that building, but who do you suppose is the senior center director there?

Here's a clue. This center's director was its bus driver for seven and one-half years before taking hold of this center's steering wheel.

by Beverly Carroll

After the marriage and resignation of its previous director, there was probably little doubt in any of the minds of the Phelps Senior Citizen Board of Directors that Melissa Blankenship would be the perfect person to keep it "in the middle of the road" and guide it to new heights. Melissa already knew the seniors there; she knew the home-delivered meals route like the palm of her hand; she had a broad understanding of the center's goals and objectives; and, she knew the center's guidelines and monitoring processes which filtered down from the Division of Aging in Frankfort. She was already well-qualified for her new position and knew what the job entailed when she took control. She had, over the years, gained the respect and love of the seniors and she loved them.

At the time of our interview for this week's article, she made a statement that "hit home" for most everyone who is not familiar with our SCC's, their purpose and their activities. She said, "I never realized how important a program such as this (senior citizen center) was until I began working with it as a bus driver."

To elaborate further on what Melissa had to say, she spoke on how important it is for seniors to be afforded the quality of life that is made available through the center(s). She talked about how the Center at Phelps offers transportation, companionship, one nutritious meal per day, five days a week, where only a small donation is requested. However, she emphasized that no senior is turned away for not being able to donate toward their meal(s) and those who can't afford to donate are not made to feel embarrassed—they are only made to feel full and satisfied.

Melissa mentioned activities that take place in the center at Phelps to keep her seniors optimistic, their bodies active and their minds alert. She spoke of how the seniors have friends there to rely on for emotional support when they experience the loss of a loved one or during a time of crisis.

(Writer's interjection: Seniors, like most everyone else, must deal with problems on a regular basis. The support offered at our centers is as important to them as the psychological support is to we who are confronted with problems of daily living periodically. Unfortunately, our heartbreaks and problems won't end when we reach our Golden years. We should not think that our senior citizens are problem-free or pain-free just because they've attained the age of 55, 65, 75 or 100 or more. This just is not true! Many need us as much as we needed them from our births to adulthood and beyond. Loving and caring is a on-going circle.)

Here are more interesting facts about the Phelps SCC. Membership has increased by 33 percent of late. This center does its own cooking. Twenty to 30 meals are served each weekday in the facility's modern dining room. Twenty-five home-delivered meals are prepared and delivered each weekday from this center. "Yet," according to Melissa, "the money allotted for home-delivered meals does not come close to providing meals for all the handicapped and shut-ins who are financially deserving of them in her center's service area." This is this center's greatest need and probably the greatest need of all the sixteen centers in the Big Sandy area. Our older Americans need food!

Melissa was quick to brag on the Pike County Fiscal Court's support. In addition to all that they do for the Phelps Senior citizens center each year around, the fiscal court provides the Center with a 15 passenger van, and has their county maintenance crew fully maintain it every 3,000 miles. Melissa said, "The fiscal court is very, very good to this center and our seniors."

The Intergenerational building where the Senior Citizen Center is housed, is also the home of the day care center at Phelps. The day care director offers opportunities for seniors from the center to teach mini crafts to the children who are enrolled there. These seniors know that they are useful by sharing their talents and abilities with children, who today are Eastern Kentucky's future parents, grandparents and senior citizens. The seniors enrich the lives of these little ones. What the tots do not understand is how they enrich the lives of these seniors. Someday, when they are grown, these little tykes will understand!

The rec room at the Phelps center features a pool table; modified basketball court; a ping pong table and exercise equipment. A new shuffleboard game is about to become a reality. Many of them bowl, however, not on a team but they compete with themselves to see who can make the most strikes or at least the fewest gutter balls.

Out-of-doors is a nice; fenced-in yard complete with picnic tables and a bar-b-q-grill. Accessibility to the public park and swimming pool is but a stones throw of about 50 feet from the center. In the park are walking trails and tennis courts. Teenagers from the area can be seen walking and talking with the seniors. Some take part in pitching horse shoes with them. This speaks well of the teenagers in the far reaches of Eastern, Kentucky.

The seniors at the Phelps center visit nursing homes on a routine basis. They can be found chatting with their friends and others, many who at one time were active in their center but now have become confined or frail.

The seniors at Phelps go on shopping trips, attend out-of-door dramas at the Mountain Arts Center (MAC) in distant Prestonsburg, and attend stock markets and flea markets throughout the area.

The ladies and gentlemen at the Phelps SCC are active fund-raisers. They make and sell quilts. They operate perhaps the least expensive Bingo parlor in their part of the state and raise money by renting their community hall to the public. All monies go to fund the center and its activities.

Each month has a "special" day where the seniors celebrate birthdays that fall during the month. A Pike County bank supplies a beautifully decorated cake each month for this celebration. Additionally, each month has a theme, so the seniors use this for another excuse to spend time together and fellowship. They prepare food at home and have a festive covered dish dinner at the center where their favorite recipes can be consumed by all in attendance. Every month they honor a "Senior Citizen of the Month" by providing that senior with a decorative basket filled with necessities and goodies.

Melissa feels, "There is so much for my seniors and our community supporters to take part in." She laments, "I only wish more people from within our community and more seniors would participate."

"I only wish more people from within our community and more seniors would participate."
–Melissa Blankenship

"Senior Games are just around the corner. Seven seniors are registered to take part in the competitions that will take place in Elizabethtown."

This center and its seniors are moving toward their goals one achievement at a time. We've learned a lot already this week about this center. In conclusion, let's look more personally at the one who is responsible for keeping the wheels turning, Melissa Blankenship.

Melissa was born and raised in Stopover, the town she still calls home. She resides approximately six miles from the center with her two children, a son Nicki who is sixteen and a daughter, Whitney, three years of age, Whitney is her Mommy's co-pilot to and from work each day. You see, Whitney attends the day care center at the Intergenerational building where her Mom works. For relaxation, when she finds time between activities involving preschoolers, teens and seniors she likes to piddle in her garden—always thinking of ways she can improve the quality of life of all ages.

Seniors in the Phelps area, you are cordially invited to attend your Senior Citizen Center there. You won't know if you'll like it until you try it. You just might be pleasantly surprised to learn what you've been missing. For more information about the Phelps center call Melissa Blankenship at 456-8616. Remember, membership is free.

Seniors throughout the Big Sandy area, if you would like to learn more about the Center in your area contact Don Akers, Kentucky Benefits Counseling Coordinator for Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties at 886-3876 or toll-free at 1-800-556-3876. He is here for you!

After-school snacks pack nutritional punch

Children often can't eat enough at mealtime to supply the energy they need each day. An after-school snack is one way to provide a steady energy supply and help children make healthful snacks a lifetime habit.

"Because children have small appetites and stomachs, it doesn't take much to fill them up. However, growing, active children need a lot of energy. In fact, their total energy needs are comparable to an adults," said Sandra Bastin, extension food and nutrition specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Research indicates that snacking is a good way to give children the variety of nutrients necessary for growth and development, according to Bastin.

"Snacks don't have to be high-calorie, low-nutrient foods," she said. "Wise snack food choices can provide the essential nutrients children need. For example, fruits and vegetables make fast, easy snacks that are jam-packed with vitamins, minerals and fiber."

Lifelong eating habits are formed during childhood so this is a good time to instill a balanced approach to snacking. And the Food Guide Pyramid is a good place to begin.

The Food Guide Pyramid emphasizes five major food groups that give children the essential nutrients. Each food group provides some, but not all of these nutrients.

Youngsters ages two years and older need at least six child-size servings from the bread, cereal, rice and pasta group; a combined minimum of five child-size servings of fruits and vegetables; at least three servings from the milk, yogurt and cheese group; and at least two child-size servings from the group containing meat, poultry, fish, dry beans, eggs and nuts.

Other factors affecting the number of servings daily from each food group include the number of calories a child needs and the youngster's size and activity level.

The small tip of the Food Guide Pyramid represents fats, oils and sweets. Eat these infrequently because they generally contain a lot of calories, but have very little nutritional value.

"Foods like cookies, ice cream and potato chips can be part of a varied diet—in moderation. But remember, 'moderation' is the key here. Give your children small and infrequent servings of high-fat and high-sugar foods," Bastin said.

The following tips on after-school snacks are provided by Bastin and Janet Kurzynske, interim assistant director of Home Economics Extension.

If children aren't getting the recommended daily servings of a food group or groups, concentrate on providing them in afternoon snacks.

It's a good idea to use items from at least two different food groups for snacks.

Be sure to give children age-appropriate servings. A snack is a supplement, not a replacement, to a meal. Adult-sized servings can overwhelm children, causing them to eat less.

Don't be surprised if children don't eat as much as you think they should. Studies show that children who are given healthy food choices will eat what they need when they're hungry.

Serve snacks with various colors, textures, shapes and tastes (sweet, sour, etc.).

Don't use food as a "reward" for children.

Let children help plan and choose foods for after-school snacks. When children are old enough, encourage them to prepare snacks, too. Many children enjoy helping select and prepare snacks, and often show more interest in eating these foods.

Snacking too close to a meal can dull children's appetites. Encourage them to snack at least one and preferably two hours before supper.

If a child under age five years old is hungry, the child needs to eat. Children this age have an internal mechanism that says, "I need energy," and they need to eat something.

If children are hungry close to mealtime, incorporate a snack as part of the meal. Let them help prepare (and munch on) raw carrots, broccoli or other fresh vegetables. As a meal appetizer, serve the vegetables with a low-fat dip.

Using fresh, frozen or canned fruits and vegetables as part snacks is a good way to ensure that children meet the recommended "five-a-day" servings.

Unconscious over-eating patterns often originate from eating while engaged in other activities in the house. To help make snacking a safe, structured and purposeful experience, limit snacking to certain locations, such as the breakfast nook, kitchen or dining room.

Designate a "snack spot" to make it easy for children to find after-school snacks. It can be on the kitchen counter, refrigerator, cupboard or pantry.

Since some children will eat vegetables raw, but not cooked, keep a finger-sized supply in the refrigerator within easy reach.

Contact your county extension office for more information on good family nutrition.

Star Bank and Churchill Downs are off and running

Star Bank announced recently that it will be the first known bank in the United States to locate a full service branch inside a thoroughbred racetrack when it opens two branches inside Churchill Downs in Louisville, Kentucky, in October of this year. The Star Bank branches at the world famous race track will be located in the clubhouse area and the stable area. Construction of the two Star Bank branch offices will begin in the next 30 days.

Both branches will focus on serving the hundreds of people who work and have business at Churchill Downs, including track employees, vendors, horsemen and the stable area workers who care for horses. The clubhouse branch also will serve members of the local community and race day patrons.

John Taylor, regional chairman of Star Bank in Louisville, commented, "We are very excited about being associated with Churchill Downs, which to many people is the icon of our city. We presented the folks at Churchill Downs with the idea, they liked it, and we worked together to make it happen. We are both committed to customer service and as a team we will be able to offer our customers a very unique way of doing their banking. Star Bank with its 135-year history, combined with Churchill Downs' 124-year history, represent 259 years of serving patrons and customers. We believe this venture will be a winning combination."

Star Bank has long been an industry leader in placing branch locations in non-traditional banking areas such as in-store locations, retirement centers and corporate sites.

"These new Star Bank offices will be an added convenience for our employees, for our vendors, for those who put in so much time and effort working with the horses on our backstretch and our daily patrons," said Churchill Downs Chief Financial Officer, Bob Decker. "We are pleased to be doing business with Star Bank in such a creative way, especially when it means elevating the level of service for the many people who are important to the success of Churchill Downs."

The clubhouse area branch will be approximately 700 square feet and serve customers seven days a week from 11:30 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. during the racing schedule. On dark days and when the track has no events scheduled, the hours will be from 11:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. During the off season, the branch will be closed on Saturdays and Sundays. The branch in the stable area will be opened for business during peak activity hours at the track for use by employees, vendors and other racing personnel.

The clubhouse area branch will be staffed with four banking representatives, and the stable area branch will be staffed appropriately to handle the customer flow during various hours. Both branches will have a full offering of all Star Bank consumer products and services.

Churchill Downs Incorporated, headquartered in Louisville, is one of the world's leading horse racing companies. The company owns and operates Churchill Downs racetrack, which has conducted thoroughbred racing since 1875 and is home of America's premier race, the Kentucky Derby. RAM-page develops new paging products

RAM-Page, a division of RAM Technologies, has announced the development of several new paging products that will link a customer's alphanumeric pager to their e-mail account. The products are: E-Mail Notification, E-Mail to Pager, AlphaMail and PagerMail.

With these four new options, customers can choose to receiye the sender's name and subject of their new e-mail, a copy of their e-mail message up to 480 characters or have a copy of their alpha messages saved to their e-mail. Prices start at $1.95 per month.

E-Mail Notification, E-Mail to Pager and AlphaMail require an e-mail account. The customer may establish an e-mail account with RAM-Page or use an existing e-mail account.

"The explosion of e-mail correspondence today will make these new products very popular," said Mark T. Baldock, president of RAM Technologies. "Today's work schedules require many of us to be readily accessible to customers, employers, co-workers and family. We're pleased to offer another way for our customers to stay in touch."

RAM-Page's new alpha to e-mail products have all been developed in-house by RAM's Information Systems employees. "RAM continues to be on the cutting edge of technology with development of new, innovative products," Baldock added.

RAM Technologies is a regional wireless communications company offering paging, answering services and Internet access. RAM Technologies has four Kentucky offices located in Ashland, Lexington, Louisville and Prestonsburg, and two West Virginia locations, Huntington and Charleston.

The SMALLEST PEOPLE on Earth?

There is a group of people in Central Africa, and they only grow to be from 4 feet to 4 feet 8 inches tall.

These people, known as pygmies, live in parts of Africa-including Zaire, the Congo, Rwanda and Burundi. There are about 250,000 total. Sometimes called Negrillos, pygmies live in temporary camps throughout forests. A camp is usually made up of about 10 huts made of trees and covered with leaves.

Pygmies hunt, fish and collect insects and wild plants for food. Each group usually hunts in a different way. They hunt with bows and arrows that are sometimes poisoned, crossbows and nets. Tracking is done by the men of the group, but the women help hunt. When members of the group hunt together, the food is shared by the group.

Because they do not work with iron or clay, they trade with neighbors for pots, knives and other things they need. Along with trading with neighboring farmers, pygmies participate in their social activities and ceremonies. They speak a variety of languages, usually picking them up from neighboring people.

The basic social unit consists of 20 or more people. Pygmies usually marry people from other pygmy groups, many times by exchanging sisters. The eldest male has authority over the others in the group.

Discovering A New World

Born in the 10th century in Norway, Erik Thorvaldsson was descended from Viking chiefs. Because his father was banished from Norway when he was a child, the family moved to Iceland.

Thorvaldsson, who became known as Eric the Red, was a violent man; and he was kicked out of Iceland for murder. He then sailed west and discovered Greenland around the year 981.

After exploring Greenland for about three years, he returned to Iceland and led an expedition of 25 ships and about 500 colonists to settle in southwestern Greenland. Only 14 ships and 300 people survived the journey. That settlement lasted until the late 15th century.

Thorvaldsson settled at Brattahlid in Greenland, where he died some time after the year 1000. His son, Leif Eriksson, carried on the family tradition of exploration and discovered an area that he named Vinland. Some stories say that Vinland was somewhere in either Nova Scotia or New England.
