Police say Branham's death 'suspicious'

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

The Floyd County Coroner's Office, sheriff's department and Kentucky State Police have determined that the circumstances surrounding the death of a Wheelwright man are "suspicious."

Last week, the body of George Branham, 46, was found on Buckingham mountain after he had been reported missing for almost a week.

State police detective Lee Weddington said Thursday that the death is still being investigated and described it as being "suspicious."

Sheriff Paul Hunt Thompson also said Branham's death was "suspicious in nature," but declined to offer other details.

Branham's body remains at the state medical examiner's office in Frankfort where an autopsy was performed. Weddington said there has been no ruling on the preliminary cause of death.

Branham's wife reported him missing two weeks ago after he did not return from a hunting trip, officials said.

Police said Branham's nephews, Charles Johnson, Randy Johnson, Michael Neal Tackett and Stephen Johnson found their uncle's body at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, September 2.

The body was found 200 feet from an embankment on mountain, approximately 500 feet from the Knott County line. The body was found approximately 900 feet from the vehicle, officials said.

Coroner Roger Nelson said last week that Branham's vehicle apparently failed to make a curve and went over the mountain. A pair of pants and blood-soaked shirt were found at the scene.

Police are asking anyone with information about the death to contact state police, the sheriff's department or the coroner's office.

Death investigation continues

Local and state law enforcement officials are continuing to gather evidence surrounding the death of 48-year-old George Branham of Wheelwright. Officials say Branham's death is of "a suspicious nature" and anyone with information about the case is asked to contact police. This was the scene last Wednesday when the body was found on Buckingham mountain. (file photo)

Property sale hits snag when heirs claim title

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County's Board of Education has run into a snag regarding an effort to generate money by selling surplus school property.

One of the most valuable pieces of surplus property, Harold Elementary, could be tied up in the courts with a challenge from the original owners.

Heirs of the estate of former board chairman and county judge-executive John M. Stumbo are claiming the school site rightfully belongs to the Stumbo estate.

Board attorney Mike Schmitt told board members at a special meeting Tuesday that the Stumbo heirs maintain that they have first option to purchase the property for the price the school system paid for it in 1926.

Schmitt advised the board to allow him to file a claim for a quiet title and added he didn't believe the Heirs' assertion was valid. He said the issue could "cloud the title" for the land, which could make it difficult to sell and for a lower amount.

Also Tuesday, Schmitt informed the board that the deed for property at Middle Creek was held by the Floyd County School District Finance Corporation and would have to be deeded to school system.

The School District Finance Corporation is an agency of the school board and the corporate officers are the board members. State school construction laws mandate that school system's create those corporations to administer state school construction funds for building new schools.

The Middle Creek property was to be the site for a new Prestonsburg High School, but a previous board voted to instead renovate the current high school due to financial concerns.

At the board's regular meeting on September 22, Schmitt suggested the finance corporation convene and vote to deed the property back to the school system.

As for the Auxier Elementary property, there are some "problems" with leases affecting the land and the attorney is looking at those issues.

"I suggest we re-think it and address it at the next board meeting," Schmitt said. Plus, Schmitt reported, the Floyd County Fiscal Court holds title to properties at Garth and Clark Elementary. The land was deeded to the court in the 60s when state laws required fiscal courts to have title to properties in order to float bond issues for new construction.

Under current law, the fiscal court "must reconvey the property" back to the school district, Schmitt said.

Attendance equals dollars

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County school officials have their hands on "a million dollars" in extra funding if student attendance percentages can be maintained.

State manager Woodrow Carter told school board members Tuesday that if a six percent increase in daily attendance can continue, the district would receive

Community service is part of campus life.

Piarist School graduate and Transylvania University freshman, Monica Majmudar, headed to campus a week early to tackle some community service projects as part of Transylvania's First-Year Urban Program (FUP). FUP is a student-led organization sponsored by Omicron Delta Kappa, a leadership sorority.

Majmudar, along with 10 other student leaders and a group of 13 freshmen completed eight service projects during the week, including volunteering at the Metro Alternative Shelter House (M.A.S.H.) and Raven Run Nature Sanctuary. Students also took tours of other service agencies to learn about volunteering needs in Central Kentucky. "I really enjoy doing community service work," said Majmudar of her decision to participate in FUP. She is the daughter of Drs. Gopal and Mina Majmudar of Martin.

Transylvania, founded in 1780, is the nation's sixteenth oldest institution of higher learning and is consistently ranked in national publications as one of the top liberal arts colleges in the country.

Consolidation costs released

by Susan Allen
Staff Writer

Floyd County school officials spent almost $350,000 to close five schools and consolidate those students at other area schools.

In a report to the board of education Tuesday, state manager Woodrow Carter explained that expenses incurred ranged from renovations at schools to moving furniture and equipment.

The board voted in June to close Auxier, Harold, Prater, Melvin and Martin Middle schools, which is expected to

Going postal

Construction is ongoing at the site for Prestonsburg's new post office, which will be located on Rt. 114 near the on-ramp for new U.S. 23, across from Prestonsburg Village. Postal officials decided to move the facility out of downtown Prestonsburg due to traffic congestion and the lack of adequate space.

cut the district's annual operating costs by approximately $700,000.

Students at those schools were placed at Duff, Osborne, Betsy Layne Elementary, Adams Middle School, Prestonsburg and Clark elementaries. Renovations were made at Betsy Layne and Osborne elementaries to accommodate the additional students. Also, maintenance workers built two additional classrooms at Betsy Layne High School, a project that had been previously approved by the board.

School officials will also have to add two bus routes in the South Floyd area to transport students and two additional buses have to be purchased for runs in the Prater area.

General fund money will have to be used for the bus purchases, interim superintendent Mike King said.

Board chairman Terry Dotson said the expense was necessary.

"It's called the cost of doing business," Dotson said.

Board member Carol Stumbo said she had been contacted about the busing problems at South Floyd and Betsy Layne and, she wanted to know what was being done to address the problem.

Transportation director Jody Sword said a report on the situation would be made at the September 22 board meeting.

In other business Tuesday, the board voted 4-1 to adopt the 1998-99 motor vehicle and watercraft tax rate. The 55.4 cents per $100 of assessed value is the same as last year's rate. Board member Johnnie Ross voted against the assessment, saying he wanted to know all the board's options regarding the tax levy.

In other action:
 • Board members tabled requests by two groups to use the alternative school. Board member Carol Stumbo wanted to know when the board voted to move the school to the old Martin Elementary building. Carter and King said that they could not find any record of the vote and that the school had to be moved out of the Floyd County Technical High School building. Carter and King said it was an oversight and the issue would be put on the agenda for the next meeting.

• No action was taken on a request to change the title and salary scale for the district's coordinator of technology. Board members said documents related to the change contained too much information about the employee holding the position and it bordered on making a personnel decision. By law, board members are prohibited from being involved in personnel issues.

• Approval was given to purchase a file services for the system's finance office.

All members were present at Tuesday's meeting.

about $1 million in additional money next year.

The addition of three part-time attendance officers, plus efforts by teachers and principals have raised the percentage of daily attendance to 95.6 percent. Last year, school officials noted 89 percent average daily attendance.

School systems receive state funding based on daily attendance figures and Floyd officials have been trying for the past several years to get students in class.

Carter said that there appears to be more interest and excitement by students and staff during the beginning of this school year, as opposed to attitudes noticed last year.

Last fall, the school system was in a state of chaos and all but two board members resigned their seats. State education officials conducted a comprehensive management audit of the district which noted a host of financial and management problems.

In January, new board members were appointed and they have been working to address and correct many of the problems found by the state management team.

In February, state officials took control of the district, but have allowed the local board to function and make decisions affecting the operations of the system. Also, Carter was hired as state manager and trouble-shooter Mike King was named interim superintendent.

Pikeville College trustees approve faculty promotions

The Board of Trustees at Pikeville College has approved promotions in rank for seven faculty members.

Dr. Nancy Cade, Dr. John Legge, Dr. John Nelson, and Dr. Shirley Nelson have been promoted to professor.

Dr. Cade has been a member of the Division of Social Sciences and Business since 1986. She earned her bachelor's and master's degrees and doctorate from Ball State University. She is married to Dr. John Cade, chair of the Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics at Pikeville College. She is currently the sponsor of the Social Sciences Club and served as head coach of the Pikeville College Academic Team from 1989-1996. She was selected as a Walker Teaching Excellence Award recipient in 1990.

Dr. Legge earned his bachelor's degrees from Illinois College, his master's degree from Miami University, and his doctorate from the University of Oklahoma. A member of the Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics since 1992, Legge has served on several committees and was chair of his division for three years. In 1996, he was selected as a Walker Teaching Excellence Award recipient.

Drs. John and Shirley Nelson have much in common. This husband/wife duo received their bachelor's degrees from Cumberland College, their master's degrees from Eastern Kentucky University, and their doctoral degrees from Vanderbilt University. The pair have been members of the Division of Education since 1992. Dr. John Nelson is the site-coordinator for the Appalachian Graduate Consortium, which offers graduate level courses on the Pikeville College campus in conjunction with Morehead State University. In addition, he is the coordinator of Field-Based Experiences at Pikeville College. Dr. Shirley Nelson is currently the chair of the Division of Education.

Robert Davis, Howard Francis, and Peggy Jones have been promoted to associate professor.

Davis joined Pikeville College's Division of Humanities in 1989. He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Arizona, and his master of divinity and master of theology degrees from Princeton Theological Seminary. Davis is the sponsor of the College's Phi Eta Sigma honor society and is co-sponsor of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. In addition, he served as the college chaplain from 1989-1997.

Jones has served as a member of the Pikeville College Division of Social Sciences and Business since 1991. She received her bachelor's degree from Pikeville College and her masters from Appalachian State University. In addition, Jones is a licensed CPA. She also served as a Resident Director from 1993-1998 and currently volunteers her time as an instructor for the Pikeville College Community Education Program's CPA Review class.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ME

It's football season again. Praise the Lord.
Every September when I detect the first cool whiff of autumn on the night air, I start careening toward another plane of existence — Football Land.

By the time the trees finally lose their leaves, I'll have long since lost my mind.

My wife always anticipates my annual mental departure. She kisses me goodbye and mutters that everything will be all right come January.

Reconciled to the inevitable, she abandons me each Saturday to the radio pressed against my temple and the remote-control clenched in my hand, with which I click from game to game to game.

It's hard for me to unravel the manifold reasons behind my love for this particular sport. But as much as anything, I suppose, football season transports me back in time.

I turn into a kid again. My atrophied muscles tighten. My posture improves. Some of the gray flees from my hair.

Beginning more than 30 years ago, as a fourth-grader — can it really have been three decades? — I played nine consecutive seasons of football. For both good and ill, my childhood and adolescence revolved around that oblong ball.

I was a pretty fair player, but never a great one. I was a bit too small for the line and way too slow for the backfield.

But I compensated by being tougher than most of the other guys.

I did OK.

In little league, I made the all-star squad twice. In junior high I was considered a standout as an offensive guard.

In high school, I earned a spot in Worst of all I hated the sweltering August practices that preceded each season. I dreaded running endless wind sprints in 90-degree heat, trapped inside 20 pounds of clammy, airless plastic armor.

For several years after I graduated from high school, my ugly memories outweighed the good ones. I didn't attend many games, watched even fewer on TV.

But like an ex-lover returned home from a trip abroad, football gradually insinuated itself back into my life. The bad recollections faded.

Today, I have a son who is a 10th-grader.

I never have been able to explain to him properly what, in its best moments, the game meant to me as a boy — how, despite all the frustrations and bruises, it gave me a sense of worth, of belonging, of manliness.

My son doesn't play football. He plays the guitar instead. The hours I would have spent on the practice field at his age, he passes chatting with his girlfriend on the phone.

"Why should I put myself through that?" he says of football. "It's too dangerous. I don't see the point."

In a lot of ways, his attitude makes more sense than mine did. Maybe he's better off for not having played the game. I don't know.

I do know this: my own glory days were too quickly gone.

Now I'm a slug, with a gut like a Mississippi deputy sheriff's. The most strenuous exercise I get is walking from my recliner to the refrigerator.

I don't fantasize anymore about scoring touchdowns for the Dallas Cowboys. Even fantasies are too physically demanding for me.

And yet every September I realize that I'd happily clean out my bank account for the chance to suit up just one more time.

To be 15 and lean and full of sap, sheathed in my helmet, pads and purple-and-gold jersey. To be trotting onto a dewy autumn field to the shrieks of cheerleaders.

Maybe that's a big part of it: the sad fact that, once football is over, no one cheers much for you anymore.

This time of year I lose my senses

the varsity's starting lineup by the spring of my freshman year, and mostly stayed there from then on. I lettered three years. At various times I played offensive guard, defensive guard and linebacker.

All those nine seasons, and especially during high school, I maintained a love-hate relationship with the game.

I loved the crisp fall breezes that carried the fragrance of burning leaves across our practice field from nearby yards.

I loved the pop my shoulder pads made every time I crashed into a hapless halfback. I liked preening around school in my letterman's jacket.

I hated the screams, curses and taunts our coaches spewed at us players. I hated staying banged up all the time — breaking a rib, smashing my nose, wrenching a knee.

Floyd County Slone Mountain Squirrel will be this Sunday

Live entertainment, country, gospel and bluegrass music, arts and crafts, lots of food and fun for the whole family. That describes the annual Floyd County Slone Mountain Squirrel Festival.

The festival, in its 19th year, is set for this Sunday on Slone Mountain (located near McDowell, on Rt. 1086, off Rt. 680).

Various artists and groups are scheduled to perform throughout the day. On stage one will be Country Persuasion at 11:45 a.m., 1:15-2 p.m., 3:45-4:30 p.m. and 5:15-6 p.m.; Ranson Country Band at 11:45 a.m.; and Taylor Giese at 2-2:30 p.m.

On stage two will be Southern Hearts at 11-11:45 a.m.; 12:30-1:15 p.m.; and 4:30-5:15 p.m.

Stage three will showcase the McDowell First Baptist Church from 3:15-3:45 p.m.

On stage four will be Tommy Webb and Online from 9:30-10 a.m.; Kristina Parsons, 10-10:30 a.m.; Conn Gospel Group, 10:30-11:15 p.m.; Eldridge Vance & The Pinetop Ramblers, 11:15-noon; Lonesome Hollow Boys, noon-1 p.m.; Bluegrass Uprising, 1-2 p.m.; Bluegrass New Editions, 2-3 p.m.; Bluegrass Gospel Boys, 3-4 p.m.; Kristina Parsons, 4-4:15 p.m.; Lonesome Hollow Boys, 4:15-5 p.m.; and the gospel, bluegrass and country finale from 5-6 p.m.

Other activities for the day include arts and craft, horseshoes, squirrel hunting safety game, flying squirrel ride, squirrel mystery game, squirrel greasy pole climb, squirrel golf, greasy pig contest and many others.

Some trophies will be awarded.

Gearing up for cleanup

More than 28,000 trash bags were delivered to the Somerset PRIDE-Personal Responsibility In a Desirable Environment—office. The trash bags were purchased by the Beverage Industry Recycling Program (BIRP) for use during the PRIDE Fall Cleanup, November 7-14 recently. Each of the 40 counties in the PRIDE area will receive more than 700 trash bags to be used during their county cleanup this fall.

Ray Gillespie, executive director of BIRP, says the program is very pleased to be a part of the PRIDE initiative. Gillespie says he sees PRIDE as an enhancement of BIRP, which was formed in 1980, for the specific purpose of promoting recycling and cleaning up litter.

The bags were purchased from the Kroger Company, a member of BIRP. The trash bags will be distributed to Area Development Districts and PRIDE coordinators in the next few weeks.

Pikeville College Mining Technology reunion planned

In conjunction with Founders' Week festivities, Pikeville College will be having a combined class reunion of Mining Technology graduates on Saturday, October 17. The Mining Technology Program ran from 1971-1984 at Pikeville College and provided hundreds of qualified workers for the coal industry.

A full slate of activities are planned for the evening. Social hour will begin at 6 p.m. in the second floor lobby area of the Armington Science Learning Center, allowing former classmates to reunite, recollect, and reflect. A buffet dinner will follow the social hour in the college dining hall.

The evening will come to a close with "Thoughts From The Class"—a time for alumni to share their favorite memories of college days. Everyone is encouraged to bring photos, old yearbooks and plenty of stories to share with their former classmates.

A print commemorating the founding of the Mining Technology Program at the college will be available at the reunion. The original will be on display and personalized copies may be purchased. To register, reserve a print, or request additional information, call the office of external affairs at (606) 432-9326.

One bad call by the IRS

Once again, the IRS is backing and filing, trying mightily, but without much success, to avoid the impression that the agency's initials stand for Infuriatingly, Ridiculously Stupid.

On Monday, an IRS spokesman announced that anyone fortunate enough to catch Mark McGwire's 62nd home run, and nice enough to give the ball to the St. Louis Cardinals slugger, would be subject to paying a federal gift tax.

Since the lifetime gift tax exemption is $625,000 and some folks were willing to pay $1 million for the ball, a fan who did the right thing could get hit with a hefty bill from Uncle Sam.

Widespread criticism greeted this ludicrous interpretation of the tax code. So by Wednesday, when McGwire's record-breaker left the yard, the IRS had revised its position.

"All I know is that the fan who gives back the home run deserves a round of applause, not a big tax bill," said IRS Commissioner Charles Rossotti.

Amen! The question remains, though: Which dimwitted bozo in the supposedly kinder, gentler IRS thought up the "homer tax" in the first place?

Inverting the high school science curriculum

by John Shiber

Traditionally, youngsters in most U.S. high schools are advised to follow a sequence of taking biology, earth sciences, then chemistry, followed by physics. Many educators, from teachers and administrators to curriculum-preparers, may not have even thought that taking courses in this order might be one big reason why our students, in general, are doing so poorly in the sciences.

Furthermore, our high schoolers take a single-science course a year in this sequence. Over that short period of time, teachers are expected to cover a lot of material. Not only does coverage become, at best, superficial, the average student becomes frustrated or bored with science. Only the dedicated, disciplined ones, who work on their own, seem able to benefit from this approach. This has resulted in a dwindling of students eventually taking physics in high school (less than 20 percent). If we plan to avail "science for everyone," or "science for the people," this is not the way to do it, in my humble opinion.

Let's ask ourselves, "Has the traditional sequence of science courses in our high school been proven effective? If we go by the results of various studies done and the science scores of students from other countries, we would probably say, "No." In the recent Third International Mathematics and Science Study (TIMSS), for instance, our American high school seniors performed very poorly in comparison to their international counterparts.

Much of modern biology is geared toward molecular aspects, which inescapably depends a great deal on the clear understanding of several concepts in both physics and chemistry. How is it possible, therefore, to teach contemporary biology with a lot of stress in molecular concepts, when our students have no grasp of, or even exposure to, physical and chemical concepts beforehand?

A Montana high school teacher, Gary Freebury, is promoting some great ideas. Right now, he's involved in the American Renaissance in Science Education (ARISE), which was first put together by Nobel laureate, Leon Lederman. ARISE advises high schools to start their students with physics, rather than biology. Chemistry would come next. Then, because it depends so much on both physics and chemistry, biology would be taken last. In other words, we would be inverting, or reversing, the sequence of high school science classes. Now that makes "science sense!"

A related national effort, entitled Scope, Sequence, and Coordination (SS&C), for which Freebury wrote the original proposal, targets the teaching of every student, every subject, every year. With this interdisciplinary approach, all science courses would be taught each year, going into more detail as time progressed. Perhaps it would be labeled like English courses, e.g., Science I, Science II, Science III. Science I would emphasize physics with math (i.e., algebra), Science II would be mainly chemistry, but drawing from the concepts learned in Science and Science III would be primarily biology, integrating the principles learned in Science I and II. It's an exciting time to be involved in education in Kentucky! Thanks to a whole system of improvement programs designed by the legislature and implemented by educators and other concerned citizens, our schools are meeting the needs of students better than ever before. And our students are learning at higher levels than many people thought possible just eight years ago. This has occurred only because thousands of Kentuckians have believed that we could meet the challenge of building stronger schools and have worked hard to make it happen.

Starting last May, five groups of people have been working together to develop a new assessment and accountability system that will be able to show us how well our students are doing and how much our schools are improving. They have already reviewed, discussed and debated every aspect of the student testing program. Now each group is examining the accountability system with the same care and attention. As a part of the process, every public school teacher, principal and superintendent has been asked individually by mail to provide input. To date, almost 2000 people have responded with their ideas and suggestions!

The first of the five groups is the School Curriculum, Assessment and Accountability Council (SCAAC), a 17 member group representing educators, employers, parents and the public. Council members bring a variety of experiences and expertise to their work. Among them are several Eastern Kentuckians, including Kay Freeland, superintendent of the Rowan County Schools, Thomas Maynard, a parent from Catlettsburg, John Stephens, superintendent at the Raceland Independent Schools, and Anne Keene, assistant superintendent of the Pikeville Independent Schools and chair of the SCAAC. Kay, Thomas, John, Anne and their colleagues have already spent 10 very full days hammering out recommendations to build a stronger system.

The second group is the National Technical Advisory Panel composed of 5 testing experts who are recognized across the United States. They were organized to advise all of the other panels on ways to make sure the new system is valid and reliable. They are committed to seeing that our assessment and accountability programs merit the trust of Kentucky's citizens.

A special legislative subcommittee has been established to work on these issues. This panel advises other groups and will be responsible for reviewing each and every regulation related to assessment and accountability. The Office of Education Accountability, the legislative watchdog agency, is also a part of the process. And the Kentucky Board of Education, an 11 member board whose members come from all regions of the state, is the fifth group charged with responsibility for creating a new testing and accountability system. It, too, has spent many hours reviewing recommendations and coming to consensus on a new system that will be fair, reliable and understandable.

As a part of the continuing work, the state board and the Kentucky Department of Education are using a variety of means to get input and ideas from educators, parents, employers and other taxpayers. We want to hear from you. These are, after all, your public schools! And by working together - sharing our ideas, our hopes and our dreams for the future - we can build a better system of schools and produce the best educated generation of young Kentuckians in our history.

Helen Mountjoy of Utica in Daviess County was elected chair of the board earlier this year after serving as a member since 1991. A former teacher and local school board member, she served as chair of two state board committees: Learning Results Services and Curriculum, Assessment and Accountability.

Area Health Education Centers exhibit marks first interstate effort

by Pamela Slone
Pikeville College student

Area Health Education Centers (AHEC) recently held an exhibit at the Pikeville College School of Osteopathic Medicine (PCOM), allowing students to request areas for third and fourth year clinical rotations. The exhibit, held September 1 in the Armington Science Learning Center lobby, marks the first collaborative interstate effort between Kentucky and Southwest Virginia.

"Today gave us a chance to meet with the second-year students," said Karkie Tackett, who represented the Southeast area. "When students study in an area, they make friends and develop connections; we hope to keep them in the area."

Second-year students completed questionnaires providing their first, second and third choices. Preference will go to students who have school-age children so that those children can remain in their current schools. Approximately 20 students (one-third of the second-year class) will be placed in the Pikeville/Southeastern area, according to Carolyn Traum, an AHEC representative.

Founded in 1975, AHEC is both state and federally funded. Representatives from different AHEC's were on hand to answer questions about the hospitals in each area, as well as to provide information on housing, shopping, etc. in hopes of attracting students to their areas.

"It's an exciting opportunity to take advantage of the experience and expertise that AHEC's have in placing students into quality rotations," said Dr. Strosnider, PCOM dean.

AHEC places not only medical students but also students studying allied health, nursing, pharmacy and dentistry.

"We are a kind of clearing house for health care students. We make sure the hospitals have everything they need and that the students have all the immunizations and malpractice insurance," said Tackett.

Having worked with the University of Kentucky and the University of Louisville in the past, the representatives were excited about working with Pikeville College School of Osteopathic Medicine for the first time.

"We are enjoying meeting the students and getting mountain students in our area where they may like to stay," said Tackett.

Clinical rotations provide hands-on experience for medical students. Under the direction of a physician at a health care facility, students apply what they've learned to real situations. Students are required to spend their third and fourth years doing clinical rotations.

Tyler McKee, a student from Jackson Hole, Wyoming, chose PCOM because the school allowed him a special opportunity. "I believed in the osteopathic philosophy and its emphasis on family practice," McKee said.

McKee requested the Ashland area for several reasons. "One reason is that the Ashland area AHEC is taking osteopathic students for the first time."

Jody Johnson requested Pikeville for his clinical rotations. "I did work study at Pikeville Methodist for four years while I was an undergraduate at Pikeville College...I know the facility," Johnson said.

Johnson is looking forward to his clinical rotations with anticipation. "I'm anxious about third and fourth year clinical rotations for the simple fact that that's when true patient contact starts," said Johnson. "That's when we finally begin helping people...which is the reason all of us are here."

would include hands-on labs and other involvement, encouraging students to "do" science. This approach has worked over time in several European and Asian countries, so why not here? Students in Scandinavia, in fact, start the program even earlier, by taking physics from sixth grade and on through high school. No wonder they rated first in the TIMSS!

Of course, to revise an educational approach we are accustomed to can cause many difficulties. In this case, it would require that students take the appropriate math course at each level (Algebra I, II, Geometry, etc...). It would also require teachers who are knowledgeable in the sciences and trained to implement the change. Would we need more physics teachers in U.S. high schools? Definitely, yes. Will this affect the excessive number of biology teachers? Yes, of course. Since biology would be a higher-level course, teachers would have to enrich their professional backgrounds in physics and chemistry.

A change like this would undoubtedly create enormous logistical problems, such as how to prepare students for end-of-the-year achievement testing, how to prepare quality material, how to provide the professional development teachers will need, how to implement the new approach while the old one is still entrenched in our schools, etc. And, all these "HOWS" must be resolved without much disruption, antagonism, or resistance.

Can U.S. high schools insist on at least three years of science and three years of math for their science curriculum? Can we make it clearer in our high school curricula that chemistry is a pre-requisite for biology, and physics is a pre-requisite for chemistry? The answer to both questions is "Yes." In fact, a handful of U.S. schools have already dared to take the chance, and their data have shown that not only are many more students taking science courses, they are also doing better on national achievement tests.

A three-year sequence of each science and math will put our high school students in synchrony with today's technology, which is vital for the progress of science in the U.S. I believe that whatever the difficulties, such a program should eventually be available to and within reach of all American high school students, if they are to excel in the sciences in the 21st century and on. (You can access information on this topic through www.sciencemag.org)

Editor's note: John Shiber has a Ph.D. in biology and sciences education from Purdue University, and is currently teaching biology at Prestonsburg Community College.

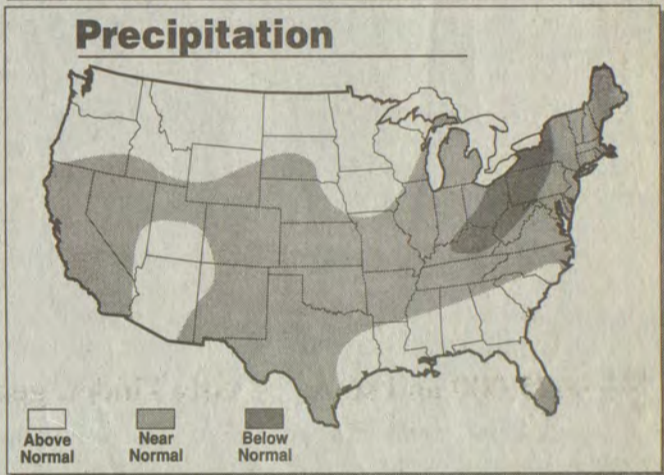

THE WEEK AHEAD...

NATIONAL SUMMARY

Warm weather will cover much of the nation during the time period. The warmest air is expected across the northern Plains and Great Lakes, where temperatures may average 10 to 15 degrees above normal. Showers and thunderstorms will spread rain across the northwest part of the country. Tropical moisture may keep the Texas and the Gulf Coast wet.

State employees kick-off fund-raising campaign

State employees and representatives from participating charities recently kicked off the 1998 Kentucky Employees Charitable Campaign (KECC) at the State Department of Library and Archives. The KECC gives state employees the opportunity to support the charity or charities of their choice by payroll deduction.

The annual kick-off congratulates state employees for the support they have given the campaign in the past, and introduces people who have benefited from the work of the Combined Health Appeal, United Ways of Kentucky and the Christian Appalachian Project.

James C. Codell III, secretary of the Transportation Cabinet is chairing the 1998 campaign which has a goal of $730,000. Secretary Codell introduced Governor Paul Patton, who with his wife, Judy, chaired the campaign in 1996. Gov. Patton told the group of nearly 200 that he and his wife planned to pledge one percent of their salary to KECC. "Well, Judy will give 100 percent," Gov. Patton said and encouraged others to match his percentage.

Missy Jenkins spoke of the treatment she received through Easter Seals after she was paralyzed during the recent shooting at Heath High School in Paducah. Jenkins said that Lexington's Cardinal Hill Rehabilitation Hospital became a home away from home where she not only re-learned living skills, but also learned to jet ski and ride horseback, things she never would have done before her tragic accident. Cardinal Hill receives funding through the Combined Health Appeal.

State Representative Eleanor Jordan spoke on behalf of the United Ways of Kentucky. Prior to her election, Representative Jordan was executive director of a United Way-funded day care center in Louisville's West End. Her two teenage sons attend an after-school program at Parkland Community Center, a United Way agency in Louisville's inner city, when her legislative duties make her unable to meet them after school. "In a neighborhood where crime and drugs are commonplace, it's important to make sure our young people have a safe, nurturing place to go."

Brenda Richardson told of her struggles to regain custody of her children with the help of programs of the Christian Appalachian Project, including Family Life Services and CAP Child Development in Berea. "If it hadn't been for CAP, I never would have gotten my girls back," Richardson said. Through CAP, Richardson is continuing to work on her high school equivalency diploma and has completed a job readiness program which led to full-time employment.

More than 30 percent of state employees participate in the Kentucky Employee's Charitable Campaign. It is estimated that as many as one in four Kentuckians benefit from one or more programs that receives support from KECC.

Governor Paul Patton and Brenda Richardson, who spoke on behalf of the Christian Appalachian Project, at the Kentucky Employees Charitable Campaign Kickoff.

Students see increase in grants

More than 47,000 Kentucky students have been offered College Access Program (CAP) Grants and Kentucky Tuition Grants by the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) to attend college this fall and next spring. The total number of awards offered represents a 31 percent increase over last year, and $16.8 million more in total dollars. Disbursements to students who accept the offers and use the awards are expected to total $44 million.

A substantial increase in appropriations for the two need-based programs by the 1998 Kentucky General Assembly provided full funding for all eligible students who filed their applications in a timely manner under current guidelines. Additional awards may be made if the outstanding offers are not used at projected rates, according to Executive Director Paul P. Borden.

A CAP Grant may be used at eligible Kentucky public or private colleges, universities, proprietary schools, or publicly operated technical colleges. The award amount for college students is equal to the community college tuition rate. For the 1998-99 academic year, the amount is $530 each semester for full-time enrollment and $44 each semester hour for part-time enrollment. The award amount for students attending a proprietary school or technical college is equal to the tuition rate at a publicly operated technical college, which for 1998-99 is $320 each semester for full-time attendance.

A Kentucky Tuition Grant (KTG) may be used at any private Kentucky college or university. The maximum award for full-time students is $1,500.

Since CAP and KTG funds are now committed for 1998-99, new applicants will not be sent individual notification letters. Borden said that the determination regarding whether to offer additional grant awards will be made after the fall disbursement period.

Several sources of student financial aid are still available. KHEAA is the agency that administers most state student aid programs—grants, scholarships, work-study, savings, and Federal Family Education Loans—to help families meet higher education expenses.

Applications for Federal Stafford (subsidized and unsubsidized) and PLUS Loans for parents are being accepted and processed daily by KHEAA.

Students may also establish eligibility for the Federal Pell Grant or other student aid through some Kentucky higher education institutions.

For the latest information about KHEAA student financial aid programs and services, write to KHEAA, 1050 U.S. Highway 127 S. Frankfort, KY 40601-4323; call 1-800-928-8926; fax 1-502-696-7373; or visit www.kheaa.com.

13th birthday

Charlie Johnson Jr., son of Terry L. Johnson of Prestonsburg and the late Charlie Johnson, will celebrate his 13th birthday today, Friday, September 11. He has an older brother, Bryan. His maternal grandparents are Opal Boyd of Martin and the late Ballard Boyd. His paternal grandparents are Myrtle Johnson of Prestonsburg and the late Malcom Johnson.

The event's emphasis will be on interaction. Visitors will be able to walk through Civil War camps, enjoy period music, and view Chautauqua performances. Also on tap is a ghost walk on the battlefield late Saturday evening.

Activities will begin at 11:30 a.m. both days; the event is free. In downtown Perryville, the celebration starts Friday evening with crafts, food, and flea market. A parade will be held on Saturday morning. For more information, contact the historic site at (606) 332-8631.

Perryville commemoration to have a different look

The annual commemoration at Perryville Battlefield State Historic Site, scheduled for October 10-11, will have a different look this year.

Traditionally, the event features a battle re-enactment; but to avoid conflicting with the Mills Springs Battlefield re-enactment near Somerset on October 2-4, organizers of the Perryville event have instead planned battlefield tours and other activities designed to get visitors close to the action. While a battle is not scheduled, re-enactors will be on hand and Civil War items

Monthly roundup of gospel singers at the MAC

On September 15, the Mountain Arts Center will present the monthly roundup of gospel singers in the Mountain Gospel Review.

The Review gives soloists, choirs and groups the opportunity to perform on a professional stage with excellent lighting and sound. Audiences can be a part of this program as it is recorded live for cable television rebroadcasting.

Participating in the review will be Linda Johnson of Salyersville; The Burkes of Neon; Debbie Branham of Versailles; Keith Akers of Allen; Jake Ravizee, the Ravizee Family and Friends Choir of Lynch; and Mike Cooley Singers of Pikeville.

A bed and breakfast for Butch

While my mother and I were visiting my sisters (her children) in Indianapolis over the Labor Day Weekend, Butch, our 16 year-old telepathic, Australian Shepherd, was living the life of luxury at a bed and breakfast in Huntington, West Virginia.

The Huntington Cat and Dog Hospital, owned and operated by Jan M. Ball, DVM, is a quaint little out-of-the-way, Old English countryside flavor, facility that accommodates all types of animals in their owner's absence.

This was Butch's first extended vacation and when Mother went to pick him up, he had a lot of information to mentally transmit to her.

"Get my bag. It's in the foyer," he said telepathically.

"Butch, you didn't bring a bag," Mother chided.

"I purchased one when I bought the bath robe," he whimpered pitifully.

"But Butch! What did you need with a bath robe?"

"I didn't know many of those animals in the rooms next to mine. I wasn't going to expose myself to strangers."

"Oh, I understand. How was the food?"

"The cuisine was excellent. And you simply have to get the recipe for those exquisite doggie tea biscuits they served in the afternoons after our walks. They are scrumptious!"

"A recipe! You'll have to talk to your mother about that. You know I don't cook. How were the rooms?"

"Mine was rather small, but the view was excellent. I could see directly into the cage of a French Poodle named Fifi. Ooo, la la. The only complaint I had was that the room service was not as speedy as I would have liked."

"Really?" Mother asked.

"One night I barked for one solid minute before someone came and ran my bath."

"What did you do?"

"I just left off the gratuity. Make sure they don't include it on the bill," Butch whined.

"Well, I see you had time for a pedicure, flea-dip, rabies shot, and a blood profile," Mother said as she read the bill. "What else did you have done?"

"Dr. Ball suggested worming me, but I reminded her that I was paying for this vacation, and I expected to do what I wanted. She appeared to be very understanding, but I think her influence kept me from getting early time on the tennis courts."

"Did you sleep well?" Mother asked as she opened the back door of the car for Butch.

"All except for the night the cur in the whelping room went into labor. I never heard such carrying on. Don't forget my shampoo and shower cap," Butch added. "I just love those complimentary items."

The next time Butch goes on vacation, Mother and I are going with him.

The Lonesome River Band

Lonesome River Band to perform

The Lonesome River Band will perform on stage at the historic Stonewall Theatre, in Clifton Forge, Virginia, on Saturday, September 12, at 8 p.m.

Described in bluegrass circles as one of the nation's best young bands, The Lonesome River Band packs a powerful punch for audiences throughout the country, from festivals to music halls. Each member of the band has recorded and released a solo project involving other band members as well as many of their musical contemporaries. Drawing on a rich legacy of old-time country and gospel, the band members continue to honor their musical roots and embellish them as well.

The Lonesome River Band features Ronnie

Bowman as a vocalist who had won international acclaim. He has been recognized as "Male Vocalist of the Year" in 1995 by the International Bluegrass Music Association.

Also, the group features Sammy Shelor whose considerable instrumental talent has garnered several awards for him, including three consecutive International Bluegrass Music Association's "Banjo Player of the Year Award," the first coming in 1995.

The Lonesome River Band puts a high-energy show that has become part of the band's trademark. Don Rigsby is regarded as one of the best tenors in bluegrass music today. Rigsby's pure, mountain harmonies equal his exceptional mandolin playing.

Rounding out the band, Kenny Smith provides hot picking with his flat-top guitar. He is a national champion of flat picking, and his singing is equal to his playing.

A best-selling CD for the group is entitled, "One Step Forward." The album features songs such as "When You Go Walking," "Say I Do," "Sorry Country Blues," "Southern Comfort," "Thank God for a Mama," "Flat Broke and Lonesome," "Carolyn the Teen-Age Queen," "Crossroads," "Katey Daley," "This Lonesome Song," "Crazy Heart," and "Georgia Mail."

All tickets are $12 and available at the Shoe Box in Covington and Nicely's Exxon in Clifton Forge. The theatre seats 512.

Celine Dion: A voice full of heart

Celine Dion has pretty much everything: romantic husband, enviable career, ample money, model-perfect figure and a big, loving family of 13 older brothers and sisters. Yet the one thing Dion desperately wants is a baby.

Can Dion, highlighted in October's Biography magazine, slow down enough to embrace motherhood? Even before her current hit album, which features the "Titanic" megahit, "My Heart Will Go On," sold more than 26 million copies, she worked tirelessly.

Among other accomplishments, the stunning five-octave soprano with a gift for musical interpretation had already sold more than 55 million albums worldwide and won an Oscar and Grammy for her duet of "Beauty and the Beast."

The Dions were a French-speaking version of "The Sound of Music's" Von Trapp Family. Dion's parents, now retired, ran a piano bar in Quebec. In 1981, her brother Michel jumpstarted his baby sister's career by helping the 12-year-old cut her first demo and sending it to manager Rene Angelil, who vowed he'd make her a star within five years.

Angelik took full control of Dion, choosing her songs, her clothes, her work schedule. He had her teeth straightened, her hair styled, her look redone. By 18, Dion was a star in Canada and France. But the obsession took its toll. Angelil's wife filed for divorce. Their relationship gradually intensified until Dion admitted her love in the liner notes of her 1993 album, "The Color of My Love." They wed lavishly in 1994. Dion was 26; Angelil, 51.

Sometimes, to protect her voice, Dion has to discipline herself not to speak. When performing, she doesn't talk until 4 p.m. For studio sessions, she observes three days of silence beforehand, with everything in writing. As much for her perfectionism, she's known for her warm heart and her caring personality, which will come in handy when le bebe Angelil finally debuts.

News of the Weird

Lead Stories

— In separate incidents over a three-day period in July, three cousins in Shasta County in northern California lay down on or dove onto Highway 89 directly in front of approaching cars, apparently on purpose, resulting in the death of one and serious injuries to the other two. There was no evidence of suicidal intent, and according to the Redding Record Searchlight newspaper, "Authorities are baffled ... and fear more members of the large family may partake in (this) odd behavior." Killed was Lance Wilson, 19; injured were Mark Wilson, 20, and Lee Alex Gonzalez, 18.

— Dickson and Cynthia Unoarumhi of south London, England, told reporters in May that they believe they hold the record for the largest number of white children (three) born to a black couple, and the Guinness people apparently agree because they are inaugurating the category next year with the Unoarumhis' achievement. Possible explanations for the children's fate include a genetic regression, a parent's carrying a pigment-changing gene, or a parent's carrying an albino gene.

— In August, Sony Corp. announced it would modify its popular Handycam video camera after a Japanese magazine revealed that a $7 filter used with the lens's infrared feature could enable users to see underneath the clothing of lightly dressed people. An Associated Press reporter likened the effect to seeing a body through a thin curtain rather than viewing someone nude, but that did not stop a brief run on the cameras before Sony's announcement.

Milwaukee'- Blood Sport

In June, in a Target department store parking lot in Milwaukee, Dawn Chapman, 25, allegedly tried to run down a woman whom she had just accused of butting in line at a checkout. And in April, Etharine Pettigrew, 41, was arrested in Milwaukee after allegedly trying to run down a 27-year-old woman in the parking lot of a Kohl's Food Store. The victim had been invited into the express checkout line by the cashier, even though she had more than 10 items, and Pettigrew took offense. Both victims required hospitalization.

You Can Imagine What the Biology Course Was

In June, the New York City Board of Education revoked the diplomas of 61 Brooklyn high school students (and was reviewing the records of 113 more). Principal Marcia Brevot had waved them through with full credit for "interdisciplinary" courses such as "Wiffleball theory" (physical education), "flower-arranging" (botany), and "sports 'rotisserie leagues'" (math).

Dog Heaven

A May Associated Press dispatch reported that the "dog (owners') culture" in New York City adds about $500 million to the city's economy every year. Included in that figure must have been sales at the 19 upscale restaurants that serve dogs, featured in a July New York Times review; dog psychics; a limo service for dogs; a workshop for dog actors; a mechanical automatic dog wash; and an upscale dog fashion industry (selling tuxedos, wedding dresses, kilts, blazers, and a teddy designed to hold a diaper).

Compelling Explanation.

— In April, a California Court of Appeal upheld an $80,000 judgment to a right-leg amputee against the El Torito restaurant in Burlingame because the customer could not access the restaurant's second-floor rest room and was denied entry to a ground-floor, employees-only toilet. The restaurant's owner claimed that it could not permit customers to use the employee rest room because they'd have to go through the kitchen to get there, and they might steal food.

— In June, Rob Sherman, prominent anti-religion media activist around Chicago (known as The Atheist Guy), was charged with misdemeanor domestic battery for allegedly punching his 16-year-old son. Sherman told reporters he was disciplining the boy for refusing to do his chores and merely wanted to "put the fear of God into him."

— At first Diane Guiles, 43, complained to a New Britain, Conn., judge in March that ex-boyfriend Clarence Lloyd, 41, was bothering her despite the judge's stayaway order against him. However, as the judge questioned her, it looked more and more like Guiles was not particularly bothered. She reluctantly admitted that Lloyd still has the key to her house and that he "sneaks in" every night. Judge: "Let me get to the bottom of this. Does he sleep with you?" Guiles: "I got me two fold-out beds." Judge: "You didn't answer my question." Guiles: (pause) "Against my will, yes. ... But I keep a big pillow between us."

Least Competent Criminal.

Two Tacoma men were arrested in Lynnwood, Wash., in July and charged with robbing a Lynnwood Key Bank branch. The robbers were not much of a challenge for the police because they made their getaway in a motor home that belonged to one of them, which became ensnared in typical noontime traffic several blocks from the bank and was overtaken by patrolmen on foot.

Update

News of the Weird reported on Milwaukee's Gary Arthur Medrow in 1991 and 1997 for his obsession with telephoning women at random and persuading them through various ruses to lift another woman in the room.

SOAP UPDATES

by Seli Groves

ALL MY CHILDREN: Kit told Edmund she had a story for him, and despite his skepticism, he found himself drawn to her. Erica was upset because Palmer betrayed Opal. Meanwhile, Palmer told Opal he'll give back the paintings and when she agreed to help him, he locked her in the secret room. After Ryan rejected her, Gillian and David heated things up. Allie decided to stop Jake's involvement with Liza. Wait To See: Palmer's car goes off the bridge.

ANOTHER WORLD: Cass and Lila confronted each other over their feelings. Felicia made an admission to Cass. Lila hoped to score points with Amanda and Rachel. Cindy persisted in her campaign against Grant. Chris and Toni faced a new crisis in their relationship. Wait To See: Marley plays her trump card, much to Donna's chagrin.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Lily and Julia were both at David's mercy. Meanwhile, Carly and James found themselves in an unusually tight spot. Emily and Tom shared a close moment, while Margo tried to put back the pieces of her life. Later, she was stunned by the treatment she received at her son's school. Wait To See: Eddie learns Margo's news. Molly stumbles upon important information.

THE BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL: (Note: The show was preempted on Monday and Friday for the U.S. Open.) Eric planned a romantic surprise for Lauren. Meanwhile, Sheila devised a way to see Mary but while holding her daughter, she heard Stephanie approach. A saddened Macy learned Grant might not be able to leave the hospital. Wait To See: Stephanie makes plans to be Mary's "mommy."

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Sami fainted at the sight of Franco's dead body. In the meantime, Kate thought fast to save her son. Tragedy struck

Lucas and Will as he made his getaway. With his sight regained, Bo marveled at Swamp Girl's face. Hope learned there's no way she could have had the plastic surgery she claims she had. Greta (Swamp Girl) told Bo she blames Stefano for her suffering. Wait To See: Hope and Stefano finally meet aboard the Orient Express.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: Laura cautioned Stefan that Helena was using Katherine. Nikolas and Laura bonded. Later, Stefan and Laura worried that Katherine might remember the truth about Nikolas' paternity. Jax realized Veronica had a history of suicide attempts. Bobbie and Jerry decided to keep their love-making a secret. Jason told Justus he's leaving the mob. Wait To See: Ned is upset by Edward's plans.

GUIDING LIGHT: Ben urged Blake to tell the truth and end her pain. Sean clashed with Hart over Cassie. Don left a "gift" for someone. Beth rejected Phillip and Harley's accusations. Blake tried to prove her love to Ross. Wait To See: Ross makes a decision that can change his life.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Unaware that Max had made a copy, Blair destroyed the tape of Todd confessing he's faking his alternate personalities. Later, Max confronted Todd with the tape and blackmailed him for control of The Sun. Blair told Max she loves Sam. Jessica was horrified to realize she and Will had had sex. Drew questioned Sykes about Barbara. Wait To See: Dorian faces trouble with the police.

PORT CHARLES: Lucy saw an innocent embrace between Eve and Kevin and had a Japanese monster dream about it. Eve's fingerprints turned up on the shoebox that held the vial of cyanide, prompting Frank to try harder to pin the murders on her. Later, Eve found human organs in her take-out food. Later, while everyone searched for the missing Eve, Chris found a shrine to the victims in her closet. Wait To See: Victor takes the stand. Lucy and Scott face danger.

SUNSET BEACH: Bette inadvertently wound up with Francesca's purse and the stolen emeralds. Gabi decided not to spend the night with Ricardo. Cole called Gregory's bluff about telling Caitlin about him (Cole) and Francesca. Tim signed over his Liberty stocks to Annie in exchange for her silence about Maria being alive. Annie's aphrodisiac plan went awry. Wait To See: An unlikely person calls Annie for help.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Unaware that Michael had left his tape recorder on when Victor threatened him, Victor got a surprise when he met with Chris to discuss having Michael disbarred. Grace was upset when someone walked in while she picked up her sexy lingerie for the trip with Nick. Nina met her computer date. Grace noticed an intimate moment between Tony and Megan. Diane was puzzled by Jack's coolness to her. Wait To See: Jill's plan to crash Katherine's party takes a strange turn.

"I have my doubts."

TUNING IN

The classic feature film, "Rear Window," starring Grace Kelly and James Stewart, is being remade for television and will air on ABC November 22. The new version stars Christopher Reeve ("The Remains of the Day," "Superman") and Daryl Hannah ("The Real Blonde," "Steel Magnolias," "Splash"). Reeve has done some directing since his accident in 1995, but this marks his first acting work since that tragic event. In the '90s version, Reeve portrays Jason Kemp, a recently paralyzed architect, confined to a wheelchair, who believes he has witnessed a murder from his apartment window. In trying to discover the truth, he finds himself caught up in a deadly game of cat and mouse with a killer who wants no witnesses to the crime. Daryl Hannah plays his colleague, Claudia, who helps him try to solve the murderous puzzle.

Melissa Gilbert stars in "Barbara Taylor Bradford's 'Her Own Rules,'" airing on CBS in October. Others in the cast include Jeremy Sheffield ("Merlin") and the incomparable Jean Simmons.

The remarkable Barbara Taylor Bradford, who is forever writing something that inevitably gets onto the best-seller lists and on our television screens, is said to be working on a project that could turn into a new daytime soap. If so, remember who told you first.

Fans are the most determined people in the world. They've saved shows such as "Gunsmoke," "Cagney & Lacey," etc. Up to now, they've been happy to be rewarded by having their shows put back on the air. However, for Patti Kleckner, the woman who led the Internet campaign to save CBS's "The Magnificent Seven," the reward will be more substantial. She's being flown out to Hollywood and will not only be feted by the cast and crew, she'll also have a role in one of the episodes.

On September 20, SHOWTIME will air "The Inspectors," starring Louis Gossett and Jonathan

Silverman in a story involving the investigation of a bombing by mail.

Also on September 20, TLC airs "The Ultimate Guide: The Octopus" which will tell you things you never knew about this remarkable and intelligent animal.

NATASHA'S STARS

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You won't exactly be pleased with a friend who keeps you waiting in the wings. The unreliability of others is a definite concern in general. The weekend favors romance and cultural interests.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) There could be a few false starts before you get a handle on a current assignment. Concentration may be difficult to achieve until late in the week. By week's end, though, you've managed to accomplish much.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) You may stall for more time rather than answer someone's question right now. Try to be on time for appointments. After dark is your best time for fun pursuits and get-togethers this week.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It's just not a good week for shopping or financial transactions in general. Someone could try to sell you a bill of goods. Studying and bookkeeping are favored for the weekend.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) A mix-up in appointments could occur now or someone fails to return your call. Confusions make it hard to confirm plans, though things improve for the better eventually. A weekend of fun socializing eases your stress.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Unexpected developments at home could cut into time you had planned to spend at job pursuits. Still, you'll meet with a bona fide chance to improve income and status. Don't pass this opportunity by.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You may find the behavior of a close tie somewhat bewildering. Singles should be wary of insincere types. Get-togethers with friends are favored during the weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You may not accomplish as much as you'd like on the job this week. Distractions and escapist tendencies need watching. The weekend favors quiet pursuits at home.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Lines of communication between you and a close tie could be garbled. Still, the accent is on fun and entertainment in general. You will be proud of a child's accomplishments.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Though you'll be pleased with your progress on the job now and delighted with the potential for increased income, be wary of those who take advantage in financial transactions. A potential business transaction needs further research before making a commitment.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) There are liable to be changes in plans and mix-ups in communications now. Other people either are ambiguous or not telling the truth. Couples, however, understand each other and romance is renewed this weekend.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You seem to be torn in two directions this week. Both career and home demand your attention at the same time. By the weekend, however, you'll be able to spend relaxing times with family.

A Look At Sports

Sports around the region and beyond

The weather has been beautiful the past several days as the temperatures cool down and folks can breathe once again. The area is full of sporting events and we just added yet another when girls volleyball got underway last night.

We have now going on: high school and grade school football; cross-country; volleyball; golf, and soon to start Monday night, girls middle school basketball.

It is a busy time for us in the sports coverage business. And it appears that is the way it will be until August of next year.

Other items...

- Kurt Hoffsess set a new track record at Thunder Ridge when he collected his 16th win of the season and 13th at Thunder Ridge. Brandon Kinzer held the previous record for most wins, 12, but now that has fallen to Hoffsess.

- Jimmy Branham tells me that his new speedway outside of Royalton is taking shape and hopefully the new facility will be open for live racing next season. Many of the drivers around this area are looking forward to the new track opening up. Knowing Jimmy, it will be a fine place to race and a place where everyone is treated the same. We look forward to the grand opening. We will have more on this later.

- ThunderRidge will host the World 100 Dirt Track Championship in October. ThunderRidge track promoter, Brad Martin, tells us that local fans should get their ticket request in early as a huge crowd is expected for the event. Also, more on this later!

- I talked with Prestonsburg basketball coach Jack Pack—we talked a little golf and a lot of basketball. The veteran coach believes this could be the year for the Blackcats with what he has returning. He also mentioned that conditioning will begin the latter part of this month when the golf regional is over with. Just to talk basketball got me ready for the season.

- I understand that Nick West could return to the Betsy Layne lineup this Friday night against Morgan County. Look for the Bobcats to get their first win of the season. Bradley Brooks has been playing great football for the Bobcats and Josh Howell has been a solid replacement for senior Tyler Puckett, who is out for the season. Let's pull for the Cats to get that initial win.

- Prestonsburg will continue to be tested this Friday night as well as next Friday night when the Cats meet Whitesburg and Cawood over the next two weeks. Both teams will challenge the Cats, but with Nathan Leslie and John Ortega and a bunch of others, Prestonsburg will arise to the challenge.

- The Christ United Methodist Church will host their sixth annual Golf Scramble this Saturday at the Beaver Valley Golf Course with proceeds going to the new Wesley School. Tee off time is set for 9 a.m. with a $50 entry fee per golfer. It goes to a good cause, so get the clubs out and enjoy a fall day on the links. Need more information? Call Lowell Marcum at 874-2917.

- Another note on Mark McGwire: Wouldn't it be something if Sammy Sosa of the Cubs were the new home run king in major league baseball? Think about it! What if McGwire hits 66 and Sosa 67. Would they take McGwire's uniform and all the other items out of the Hall of Fame and replace it with Sosa's garb? Would the media get all excited about what Sosa did like they did over McGwire? I know it may not happen, but it could. I believe Sosa will hit over 62. McGwire could cool off and Sosa get hot. Something to think about.

- Another baseball note: Both players have really put a charge in what has been a dull season. Oh, yeah, did you know the Yankees clinched their division? Say, did we not once have Paul O'Neil playing for the Reds?

- Can you imagine a packed Cinergy Field this past Wednesday night to see the Reds and Cards, two teams going nowhere? Thanks Mark for the big crowd.

- Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports! Take the kids to Sunday School and church this Sunday.

MIDDLE SCHOOL FOOTBALL

Crunch

Bradshaw's TD's leads Allen past Lil' Rebels

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Zach Bradshaw was on the receiving end of two passes and both resulted in scoring opportunities for the Allen Elementary Eagles on their way to a 22-6 win over the Allen Central Middle School Tuesday night at Allen.

Nick Clay led the ground game for the Eagles with 67 yards rushing. Matt Setser rushed for 38 yards. Quarterback Michael Fannin tossed for 56 yards and, on a halfback pass, Clay completed a 47-yard pass to Bradshaw. Fannin also had 34 yards rushing.

Allen Central quarterback, Alex Patton, had two completions for 36 yards. James Thornsberry had one catch for 27 yards and Derek Kennedy pulled in a 9-yard pass completion. Thornsberry rushed for 26 yards and James Prater had 22 yards on the ground.

The Eagles got on the scoreboard in the first quarter as they took an 8-0 lead. Fannin connected with Bradshaw for a 56-yard touchdown pass and Matt Setser added the PAT (good for two points) with 48 seconds left to play in the first quarter. Allen Central put together a good open drive but it stalled out at the Eagle 35-yard line.

After Allen Central took possession of the football, Setser came up with a big interception to give the ball back to the Eagles as the first quarter ended. Allen Central's defense held the Eagles forcing them to punt the football. A high spiraling kick gave the Rebels good field position but the Rebs could not move the football against the Eagles front line.

Patton hit Kennedy with a 9-yard gainer and connected with Thornsberry for a 27-yard pick and a first down with 2:33 to play. But two penalties moved the ball back and the Rebels gave the ball up to the Eagles on downs.

Allen scored their second touchdown while the clock was winding down to end the first half. On a half-back pass, Fannin lateral the ball to Clay who threw to Bradshaw. Bradshaw made a nice over the shoulder catch and never broke stride scoring on the 47-yard pass play.

Allen Central appeared to have scored with 4:23 to play in the third quarter when Nick Hoover picked off a Fannin pass and ran it back into the end zone only to have the score nullified with a holding call against the Rebels. Allen got the ball back on an interception only to cough up the football that led to the Rebels only score. With just seconds left in the third quarter, Nick Hoover scooped up an Allen fumble and raced into the end zone with only three seconds on the clock. The PAT failed with a 16-6 score on the board after three periods.

Allen's final score came in the fourth quarter when Fannin went around the left end and scored on a 33-yard run with 1:33 left to play. Setser missed the PAT. The drive was set when Allen Central fumbled the football away.

Both teams return to the gridiron Tuesday evening. Allen vs. South Floyd Allen Central vs. Betsy Layne.

Allen Central travels to Tolsia in hope of keeping streak alive

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Last year the Allen Central Rebels, who were in district competition, were buried by another group of Rebels, Tolsia, W. Va., in an embarrassing moment in the school's football history. The Rebels trailed by 49-0 at the half and was humiliated by Tolsia on their own home field.

This Friday night, the Allen Central Rebels travel to West Virginia and Tolsia High School to meet the Rebels in a contract game they wish they never scheduled. But, all may not be as bad as you would think. Last year's Tolsia team is gone and the booster club may sell more programs this year because Tolsia will have a new look all the way around.

The Rebels, out of West Virginia, will return only four starters from last year's team and the school will also have a new head coach. Drew Waller, former assistant at Tolsia, becomes only the second coach in the history of the school. He will replace veteran coach Terry Porter who had coached at Tolsia for the past 10 seasons.

Allen Central (2-1) will be coming off a 34-14 win over Jenkins last week and looking for their third consecutive victory. Senior quarterback Jesse Hall has been outstanding in the first three weeks of the season. He tossed for 205 yards against Jenkins.

Gary Hunter and Brian Jones continue to catch the football giving the Rebels a more balanced offense than last year. Mark Dunfee is the Rebels feature back.

The Allen Central defense has been the key to the two wins for the Rebels. Led by Ryan Owens, Leroy Prater, D.J. Hoover and Jones, the Rebels are one of the top defensive units in the area.

Coach Kevin Spurlock was not impressed with the defense his team played against the Cavalier's rushing game last Friday night.

"Other than the four returning starters, we are all new." We had to replace our whole line from end-to-end and that was on both sides of the football."
 —Coach Waller

Whitesburg visits Blackcats in district play

Hall to return behind center against Yellowjackets

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

Three weeks into the season and the Prestonsburg Blackcats has had no cake-walk yet. And things won't be any easier tonight when coach John Derossett's football team host the Whitesburg Yellowjackets in their first district game of the '98 season.

Fans from around the area know of the rivalry between the two long-time opponents. Some of the best games have been played between the two schools.

The Yellowjackets will come to the Prestonsburg stadium as a much improved team from last year. The Yellowjackets gave Class 3A opponent, Belfry, all they wanted before falling to the Pirates last Friday night.

"They like to run the wing-T offense which makes it hard to pick up the ball," said Prestonsburg coach John Derossett. "They are a much improved team from last year. They have the same linemen they had last year, but this year they are seniors. They will go over 300 pounds on their line."

Coach Derossett said that Cawood and Whitesburg pose the same kind of problems as Cawood also likes to run the wing-T offense.

"We will be facing the wing-T the next two weeks as we have to play Cawood," he said. "I think both Whitesburg and Cawood are much, much improved."

"They have a line-backer who is definitely a Division I prospect. They have a fine quarterback who can throw the football."

KEYS TO A WIN

The Prestonsburg mentor said that his team's front five players are the key to tonight's game.

"We can be an awful good football team," said Derossett, "if our five players upfront go hard all the time and get down to business. I watched the Sheldon Clark tape and sometimes they would look great and other times not so great."

"The key for us is to play good defense and run to the ball and play smart," said Coach Derossett. We need some run backs from our specialty teams. We have Grant (Castle), John (Ortega) and Hank (Mullins) back there and we need for them to run the ball back for us."

Coach Derossett says that senior quarterback Adam

South Floyd blitz Inez, 44-14, behind McCrae

by Ed Taylor Sports Editor

The South Floyd Middle School Raiders turned some early mistakes by the Inez Indians into early scores and rolled to a 44-14 win in the Big Sandy Middle School Conference Tuesday night.

The Indians inability to take care of the football resulted in two of the Raiders first three touchdowns. Matt Kendrick picked up an Indian fumble on the opening kickoff and raced 40 yards for the first touchdown. Josh McCrae added the extra point for an 8-0 lead.

In the same quarter, McCrae broke two tackles and jaunted 35 yards for pay dirt and Landon Hall added the extra point as the Raiders went in front 16-0 at the end of the first quarter.

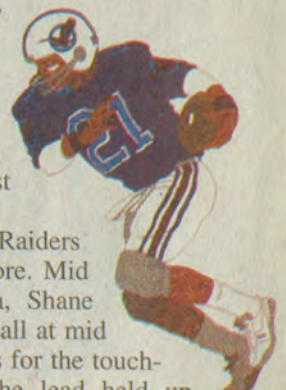

In the second period, the Raiders continued to add to the score. Mid way of the second stanza, Shane Engle scooped up a loose ball at mid field and raced the 50 yards for the touchdown for a 22-0 lead. The lead held up through the first half.

The Indians played hard but the Raiders were just too much on the ground. McCrae opened the third period by scoring his second touchdown of the game on a 20-yard run that gave the Raiders a 28-0 advantage. McCrae wasn't through. He capped off the third quarter with a 44-yard touchdown run that put the game out of reach at 34-0.

The Indians avoided the shutout by scoring their first TD and conversion in the fourth quarter for a 34-7 game. But South Floyd came right back with Landon Hall connecting with Heath Hall for a 18-yard pass completion and touchdown.

Following a touchdown by the Indians, the Raiders final score came on a 65-yard touchdown run by Engle.

The Raiders will entertain the Allen Eagles this Tuesday evening at Brackett Field.

JEFF GORDON GETS ANOTHER BIG WIN AT DARLINGTON
Jeff Gordon won the Winston Cup Southern 500 for the fourth consecutive time, Sunday, September 6. But, in addition to winning the race, he collected the $1 million Winston No-Bull Bonus. Gordon is now three-for-three in the Winston Million races. His other

$1 million prizes came in the 1997 Southern 500 and the Brickyard 400 at Indianapolis, August 1.

In spite of accusations by Jack Roush, owner of Mark Martin's No. 6 Ford Taurus, that Gordon and his team may have doctored or soaked tires during the CMT 300 at London, New Hampshire, crew chief, Ray Evernham and team were able to keep their cool all week.

"It's been a tough week," Evernham said. "I tried not to get involved in that stuff about tires. I concentrated and focused real hard on winning, and 'Thank God, we did.'"

It was a typical Gordon race. Gordon did not lead the most laps, and even though he had qualified fifth, his No. 24 Chevrolet Monte Carlo didn't appear to be the dominant car until late in the race. Jeff Burton led the most laps, but on the last green flag pit stop on lap 313, Evernham and his team used tire pressure to give Gordon what he needed. Back on the track, Gordon was able to run Burton down and pass him within nine laps.

"I certainly couldn't have done it today without a lot of great people," said Gordon. "I was loose, then I was tight, but they took care of it all." Gordon's earnings for 1998 now total over $5 million.

Dale Jarrett, Dale Earnhardt, and Jeremy Mayfield rounded out the top-five finishers.

Mark Martin who had finished second to Gordon in the previous four races dropped a valve in the engine of his No. 6 Ford Taurus and wound up 40th.

Hall will be back in the Blackcat lineup tonight against the Yellowjackets.

"He's back. He will be in the lineup," he said. "That allows us to move Seth (Crisp) to the outside and gives us more to throw to."

Hall has yet to take a snap this season after being injured in pre-season.

Ortega leads the team in rushing with 277-yards on the ground. He leads in all other areas as well. He had caught eight passes for 213 yards. Ortega has scored five touchdowns in two games.

Grant Castle will be at a half-back slot with Jeremy Hall filling the fullback position. Hank Mullins will get the call at times.

Defensively, the Blackcats are led by Nathan Leslie, who is The Floyd County Times defensive Player of the Week. Leslie has had 12 tackles and two sacks in the first two games. He had 12 tackles, two assists and two sacks versus Sheldon Clark last week. They were not "just slow you down" type of hits, but "put you down hits" and had Prestonsburg fans applauding the effort.

Prestonsburg (1-1).

Kickoff time is set for 7:30 p.m. and the game will be aired over WQHY, 95.5 and on a delay basis over WPRG, Channel 5.

ALLEN CENTRAL

"I didn't like the way our defensive rushing game played and that concerns me," he said.

Tolsia (0-2) fell very hard to Portsmouth, Ohio, 74-0, last Friday night and lost in overtime in their opening game of the season to Fayette, 20-14. Against Fayette, Tolsia had a 14-0 lead only to lose it. The Rebels' offense did not fair well against Portsmouth as they were minus one yard on the ground and minus three yards in the air for a minus four yards for the game on total offense.

"Other than the four returning starters, we are all new," Coach Waller said. "We had to replace our whole line from end-to-end and that was on both sides of the football."

Fortunately for the Rebels, all four players returning will fill important skill positions. Senior Cameron Justice (6-3, 175), who was the Rebels backup quarterback last year, moves to the number one position. Senior tailbacks Mike Boone (5-7, 149) and Ashley Pertee (5-11, 157) both return to the backfield, although Coach Waller may use Pertee more as a receiver.

Boone was a Class AA Special Honorable Mention All-State selection last year and rushed for 1,163 yards on 144 carries. Pertee also garnered Special Honorable Mention All-State honors.

Coach Spurlock has his team playing good football and just hopes for a good game at Tolsia.

"They are a good team and I just hope we can go over there and play well and not get anyone hurt. That is the big thing, come out of there with no injuries," he said.

The game will air over WFGH-FM, 90.7.

Riverside Raceway picks up this Friday

by Ed Taylor
Sports Editor

After taking last Friday night off, the Riverside Raceway go-kart track will reopen this Friday night with a big night of racing. The track will feature a 100 percent payback and several karts are expected to be on hand, according to track manager Henry Setser.

The track opens at 4 p.m. with time trials set for 7 p.m. Setser said that there was no drinking allowed at the Dwale track and profanity will not be tolerated.

"Anyone who is drinking or using language they should not,

will be asked to leave," he said.

"These things will not be allowed." Racing will move, according to Setser, back to Saturday afternoons beginning October 3.

"We will race the rest of September on Friday nights and then move back to Saturdays," he said. "We have about six or seven more race dates in this season."

Setser said he and others visited a kart track in Tennessee and he liked what he saw.

"They run theirs about the same as we do," said Setser. "They give a larger purse, I learned some things we will try at our track."

WEEK 3

HOOP SCOOP

By Clark Francis,
Editor & Publisher
of Hoop Scoop

People are always asking me when college coaches can go on the road for recruiting purposes and when players can begin signing the national letter-of-intent. The first day of the signing period in both the fall and the spring, almost always begins on the second Wednesday of November and April. But even more important, right now is the beginning of the fall contact period, which begins this week, on September 9, and runs through September 26.

This is when college coaches can make in-home visits, as well as watch potential recruits in many of the important fall tournaments and shoot-outs, which the final time they'll get to see prospect before he signs with a four-year school. College coaches always seem to want the first or the last in-home visit and it appears that the University of Kentucky is in a perfect position.

The Wildcats will be the first school to go into the home of two of the top three players in America. On the first day of the contact period, Wednesday, September 9, the Kentucky coaching staff will make their pitch to 6'10 Marvin Stone from Huntsville (Grissom) AL. The following day, they will go into the home of 6'4" Keith Bogans from Hyattsville (DeMatha) MD.

As it stands now, we think Bogans is a near lock to go to Kentucky. He still may make a visit to Michigan, but most of the other schools previously on his list, like North Carolina, Duke, Connecticut, and Georgia Tech, are no longer actively recruiting him.

The Wildcats also still appear to be the heavy favorite for Stone, but Alabama head coach Mark Gottfried is making it interesting, despite the fact that he has to overcome the possibility of NCAA sanctions involving the recruitment of 6'4 Antonio Falu from Houston (Waltrip) TX. Falu committed to the former regime, but has since committed to Houston. If Stone goes ahead and makes a decision soon, it favors Kentucky, but if it drags on, Gottfried could get the advantage, because the pressure to stay home will continue to build and Alabama would have a chance to get the NCAA problems behind them.

Kentucky also has an in-home visit set up with another one of the top five players in the nation - 6'7 Donnell Harvey - on September 12, but we don't think that this was the lock that it once was. Georgia Tech and Georgia are both right there and Clemson is making a strong push.

A lot of scouts also think that Georgia Tech is the favorite for 6'4 Joe Forte from Hyattsville (DeMatha) MD, who is ranks #21 nationally and is originally from the state of Georgia. However, the smart money is North Carolina, which didn't just back off Bogans for no reason. It is widely known that Forte doesn't want to follow in Bogans' footsteps to college. So it makes perfect sense that North Carolina would go hard after Forte, if they thought they were going to finish second to Kentucky for Bogans. Also on Forte's list are N.C. State and Villanova.

As it stands now, we have 6'11 George Leach from Charlotte (Olympic) NC ranked #42 nationally, but he likely will pass up many of the players in the class who are ranked ahead of him. If you look at his incredible wing span, great athleticism, and tremendous natural talent, it is easy to see why his upside could be unlimited, assuming that he gets tougher both physically and mentally.

Leach's list of schools is also very impressive. Indiana is scheduled to get the first visit on September 10; followed by South Carolina on September 12, Florida State on September 13, Maryland on September 14, and North Carolina on September 20. He will also make an unofficial visit to UNC-Charlotte on September 21. Who is in the lead? The co-favorites appear to be Maryland and Kentucky.

One of our favorite players in the senior class nationally is 5'11 Hollis Price from New Orleans (St. Augustine) LA, who ranks #46 nationally and #9 at the point guard position by the HOOP SCOOP, and right now he has narrowed his list to nine. He has in-home visits with Southwestern Louisiana on September 9, Oklahoma on September 10, Oklahoma State on September 11, Southern Mississippi on September 14, Texas on September 15, USC on September 16, and Oregon on September 18. He's also thinking about Tulane and Xavier, but has yet to set up in-home visits.

However, not everybody elects to wait to make their college decision. The University of California has gotten the most early commitments, as 6'10 Nick Vanderlaan from Oakdale (St. Thomas More) CT, 5'10 Shantay Legans from Goleta (Dos Puebles) CA, and 6'4 Brian Wethers from Murietta (Murietta Valley) CA, all have recently announced for the Golden Bears. This is especially interesting, because Vanderlaan, Legans, and Wethers all play for the same club team - the L.A. Rockfish.

Even more interesting is that 6'11 Solomon Hughes from Fork Union (Military) VA, who signed with Cal last spring, also played for the L.A. Rockfish, as do 6'8 Rafael Beruman from Simi Valley (H.S.) CA and 6'8 Dalron Johnson from Los Angeles (Verbum Dei) CA. However, California only has one remaining scholarship and Beruman's and isn't nearly as far along right now.

"Cal and UNLV have been there the longest and are the strongest," says David Benezra, who is the coach of the L.A. Rockfish. "But I still think he wants to wait and see what else is out there." Among the other schools on Johnson's list are USC, Notre Dame, and Clemson. Benezra thinks it is even less likely that Beruman will jump at the last scholarship that California has available. New Mexico and Florida State might even be the leaders right now and Duquesne, Southern California, Hawaii, and Oregon State are also on his list.

And then there are 6'8 Justin Davis from Alameda (St. Joseph) CA and 6'9 Andrew Gooden from El Cerritos (H.S.) CA, both from Northern California, and either one could commit to California first. In Gooden's case, this probably won't happen, because Kansas and Michigan are the heavy favorites. But with Davis it could, because we expect him to stay close to home, as he'll likely go to either Stanford or California. The question is how soon will Davis make up his mind?

We're also expecting the University of Michigan to have a big recruiting year, but it is possible that the Wolverines could strike out with all the four outstanding players in the state. As it stands now Michigan State appears to be the leader for 6'5 Jason Richardson from Saginaw (Arthur Hill) MI and 6'2 Brent Darby from River Rouge (H.S.) MI. Many in the business think Georgetown is the favorite for 6'6 LaVell Blanchard from Ann Arbor (Pioneer) MI and the Hoyas and Michigan State are also right there with 6'8 Aloysius Anagonye from Detroit (St. Martin DePorres) MI.

However, as it stands now, Michigan already has a commitment from 6'4 Kevin Gaines from Las Vegas (Clark) NV, who ranks #10 nationally by the HOOP SCOOP, and now appears to be the heavy favorite for Gooden. Gooden, who currently ranks #44 nationally and is one of the fastest rising players in the nation, also has Kansas, Duke Connecticut, UCLA, California, and Arkansas on his list. Also, we'd be surprised if Blanchard, when it is all said and done, gets away.

The final five for 6'11 Samuel Dalembert from Elizabeth (St. Patrick) NJ, who ranks #48 nationally by the HOOP SCOOP, but who will move much higher once he develops more consistency and improves his offensive game, are Seton Hall, Rutgers, Villanova, Syracuse, and Massachusetts.

It has been reported that Bradley has released 6'2 Anthony Grundy from Chatham (Hargrave Military) VA from his national letter-of-intent, but that is not correct. The National Letter-of-Intent Steering Committee based in Birmingham, AL, which governs the National Letter-of-Intent, has ruled in favor of Grundy's appeal, because his mother never signed his letter, which is what was binding him to Bradley. As a result, the letter is null and void and, after almost two years (he signed with Bradley in November of 1996), he is finally free to go to another four-year school.

Apparently Grundy, who found out about his release on Friday, hasn't wasted any time in getting his recruitment under way. According to Mike DeCourcy of the Cincinnati Enquirer, Grundy spent Friday visiting the University of Cincinnati. "Cincinnati is an attractive option because it operates on the quarter system," says DeCourcy. "Classes begin Sept. 23."

Also on Grundy's list are Kentucky, Auburn, N.C. State, Louisville, and Texas, but that list will likely get longer before it gets shorter, despite the fact that school has already started for most colleges. That's the bad news - he doesn't have much time to make a decision and according to Grundy, who we talked with yesterday, he is still wide open. The good news is that he will be eligible to play immediately.

We've heard rumors that 6'0 Val Brown from Springfield (Robert E. Lee) VA has committed to George Washington. Apparently he has already told the new coaching staff that he's coming, but it won't be officially announced until the middle of next week. We also believe that George Washington will also get another major steal in 6'3 Chris Monroe from Wheaton (Good Counsel) MD. Neither Brown nor Monroe ranks among our top 100, but they are both real close and both will fit in perfectly to head coach Tom Penders' fast paced style.

Right now the race appears to be too close to call for 6'4 Roger Mason from Wheaton (Good Counsel) MD, who currently ranks #49 nationally by the HOOP SCOOP. Clemson, Michigan, Syracuse, and Louisville are all being mentioned, but it would be a major upset if he went anywhere, except Maryland, which is where he was over the weekend for an unofficial visit, or Virginia, which is where he will visit next weekend.

We are now predicting that 6'10 Curtis Borchardt from Redmond (Eastlake) WA, who ranks #56 nationally by the HOOP SCOOP, will pick Stanford over Washington. However, the darkhorse and only other school left on his list is Kentucky. If you will recall, George Felton was an assistant coach at Oregon State for two years, before being reunited with Tubby Smith at Kentucky.

Another one of the top events of the fall promises to be the Converse September Slam in Oklahoma City, OK. Among the players expected to be in attendance are 6'6 Joe Johnson of Little Rock (Central) AR, 6'9 Donnie Wallace of Goddard (H.S.) KS, 6'10 Brian Cardwell of Sapulpa (H.S.) OK, 6'10 R.T. Guinn of Albuquerque (Cibola) NM, 6'0 Antonio Reed of Tulsa (Washington) OK, 6'4 Ryan Stock of Springfield (Kickapoo) MO and others, as well as nationally-rated juniors like 6'6 Terrence Crawford of Oklahoma City (McGuiness) OK, 6'11 Jack Marlow of Tulsa (Union) OK, 6'4 Stephen Alexander of Midwest City (H.S.) OK; top sophomores like 7'4 David Schneider of Tulsa (Victory Christian) OK, 6'7 Eric Castro from Oklahoma City (Mt. St. Mary's) OK, 6'6 Pat Moore of Pawnee (H.S.) OK, 5'10 Jonathan Bluit of Oklahoma City (McGuiness) OK; and top frosh like 6'7 Sheldon Williams of Midwest City (H.S.) OK and 6'9 Julius Lamptey of Oklahoma City (Heritage Hall) OK. For more information contact Greg Swaim, who runs the Midwest Basketball/Converse Shootouts, at Converse September Slam.

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1998

Under Saturday's date, but actually on Friday night, we mentioned that 6'7 Sean Axani from Little Silver (Red Bank Regional) NJ, is on the verge of making a commitment to Rutgers. Since that time one of our competitors has turned that into a verbal commitment. While Axani is expected to announce publicly on his official visit to Rutgers on the weekend of September 25th, anybody who lists Axani with Rutgers now is jumping the gun and could have egg on his face, if he changes mind. Axani's decision could also be influenced by whether he thinks 6'1 Todd Billet from Lincroft (Christian Brothers) NJ, who also will be visiting Rutgers on the weekend, will follow in the footsteps of his older brother, Geoff Billet, who currently is the starting point guard at Rutgers.

We had never heard of 6'6 Ricardo Marsh from Hillsborough (Orange) NC when he verbally committed to Clemson in the middle of July, but sources since have told us that he wasn't even close to being good enough to play in the tough Atlantic Coast Conference.

However, now it appears that Marsh is renegeing on Clemson and looking elsewhere, as Louisville, Western Kentucky, Virginia, and Virginia Tech apparently are on his list. While Marsh is a nice kid and a hard worker, people who have seen him play say he is not good enough for any of those schools either - he does not rank among our top 1000 nationally.

We mentioned yesterday that it was possible that the University of Michigan could strike out with all the top players from Michigan - 6'5 Jason Richardson from Saginaw (Arthur Hill) MI and 6'2 Brent Darby from River Rouge (H.S.) MI and many think Georgetown is the favorite for 6'6 LaVell Blanchard from Ann Arbor (Pioneer) MI. Georgetown and Michigan State are also right there with 6'8 Aloysius Anagonye from Detroit (St. Martin DePorres) MI.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1998

Yesterday we mentioned Wayne Simone's And One Hoop Challenge, which will be held September 11th-13th at Fairfield University.

But we didn't tell you that nearly everybody in the East will be there. The 60 team field includes the Madison Broncoes, Albany City Rocks I, Albany City Rocks II, New York Riverside Church, Connecticut Warriors I, Connecticut Warriors II, North End Rec., Brooklyn Beasts I, Brooklyn Beasts II, Rhode Island Breakers I, Rhode Island Breakers II, Connecticut Knights, South Jersey Pioneers, Monmouth Waves, Tim Thomas Playaz II, Jersey Shore Warriors, Massachusetts Wildcats, Pioneer Valley, The New Jersey Roadrunners, Long Island Rimrockers, New Hampshire Falcons, Greater Boston I, Greater Boston II, Middlesex Magic, Sullivan (NY) Eagles, Hillhouse, Vagabonds, Buffalo Basketball, Ricciardi Celtics, Metro Boston, Diaper Dans, Upstate NY I, St.

Thomas More, Connecticut Select I, Connecticut Select II, Connecticut Select III, St. Michael's AAU I, St. Michael's AAU II, Granite State Raiders, Team Connecticut, Long Island Lightning, Silver City Slammers, Massachusetts AAU, Maine Bombers, New York Jaguars, Stamford Express, Middlesex Magic II, Bridgeport Invasion, Jersey Jaguars, Long Island Roadrunners, Canada, Bronx Gauchos, Massachusetts Hoops, New Jersey Celtics, Montreal Select, Believe to Achieve, Positive Image, Cheshire Cats, Worcester West, and Tim Thomas Playaz. The tournament will begin at 6:00 PM on Friday, September 11th, and it will run all day (from 9 AM to Midnight) Saturday, and from 10 AM to 6 PM on Sunday.

We aren't predicting that all this will happen, but it could and it is interesting food for thought.

Friday, September 4, 1998

Just when we thought it was going to be a slow Friday right before a holiday weekend, University of Pennsylvania comes up with 5'11 David Klatsky from Holmdale (H.S.) NJ, who finished ranked 7th in assists at the Adidas ABCD Camp and ranks #296 nationally by the HOOP SCOOP. We also expect Klatsky's high school teammate, 6'4 Adam Fleischer, to go to the Ivy League. Word is that Fleischer is close to making a commitment to Brown.

Following an outstanding recruiting class in the spring, which ranked #11 nationally, Rutgers got a commitment earlier this week from 6'9 Kareem Wright from Mercersburg (Academy) PA and 6'7 Sean Axani from Little Silver (Red Bank Regional) NJ, who ranks #195 nationally by the HOOP SCOOP appears to be on the verge of making a commitment to the Scarlet Knights. Some question whether Axani is good enough to play in the Big East, but we think he's an excellent role player, because he's strong, effective on the boards, and he uses both hands around the basket.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1998

We continue to hear rumors that 6'7 Travis Robinson, who does not plan to enroll at Missouri this fall, may be transferring to N.C. State, but we don't think that's going to happen. Right now a lot of schools are interested, but the two schools that appear to be the strongest are Fresno State and the University of Connecticut. As a matter of fact, we hear he'll be at Connecticut next week.

In case you were wondering what ever happened to 6'2 Anthony Grundy from Chatham (Hargrave Military) VA, Bradley never released his national letter-of-intent, so he has the option of sitting out next year or going the junior college route and then transferring to a four-year school after a year. He could do this because he was academically qualified when he graduated from high school. If he hadn't been, the national letter-of-intent would have been null and void and he would be free from going to Bradley. All this is important, because very reliable sources are telling us that Kris Vance, a former assistant high school coach at Louisville (Central) KY and Louisville (Moore) KY, is about to be named as an assistant coach at Dixie (JC) UT. It is a well known fact that Vance is also Gundy's mentor, so don't be surprised if Grundy also surfaces at Dixie Junior College.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Dale Earnhardt vs. Jeff Gordon

Earnhardt, the seven-time champion, still aspires to the success currently being experienced by Gordon, who has won 20 races to

Earnhardt

Earnhardt's one over the past two seasons. "He'd better ride that horse while it's running," cracked Earnhardt, referring to Gordon. "That thing might break a leg." NASCAR This Week writer Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "Earnhardt is a master of gamesmanship, and he's trying to mess with Gordon's mind. It's worth a try, I guess."

The races here are at night, which means the only way to have a sumptuous dinner is to bring charcoal and grill to the parking lot, especially if you have tickets for the trucks on Thursday and Busch Grand National on Friday. For lunch, check out the Main Street Grill in downtown Richmond.

DEFENDING CHAMPION: Steve Park
TRACK QUALIFYING RECORD: Michael Waltrip, Ford, 122.227 mph, Sept. 5, 1997.
RACE RECORD: Kenny Wallace, Ford, 104.928 mph, Sept. 8, 1995.
OTHER FORMER WINNERS: Mark Martin has four wins, tying him with Harry Gant for the most. Kenny Wallace has won three.

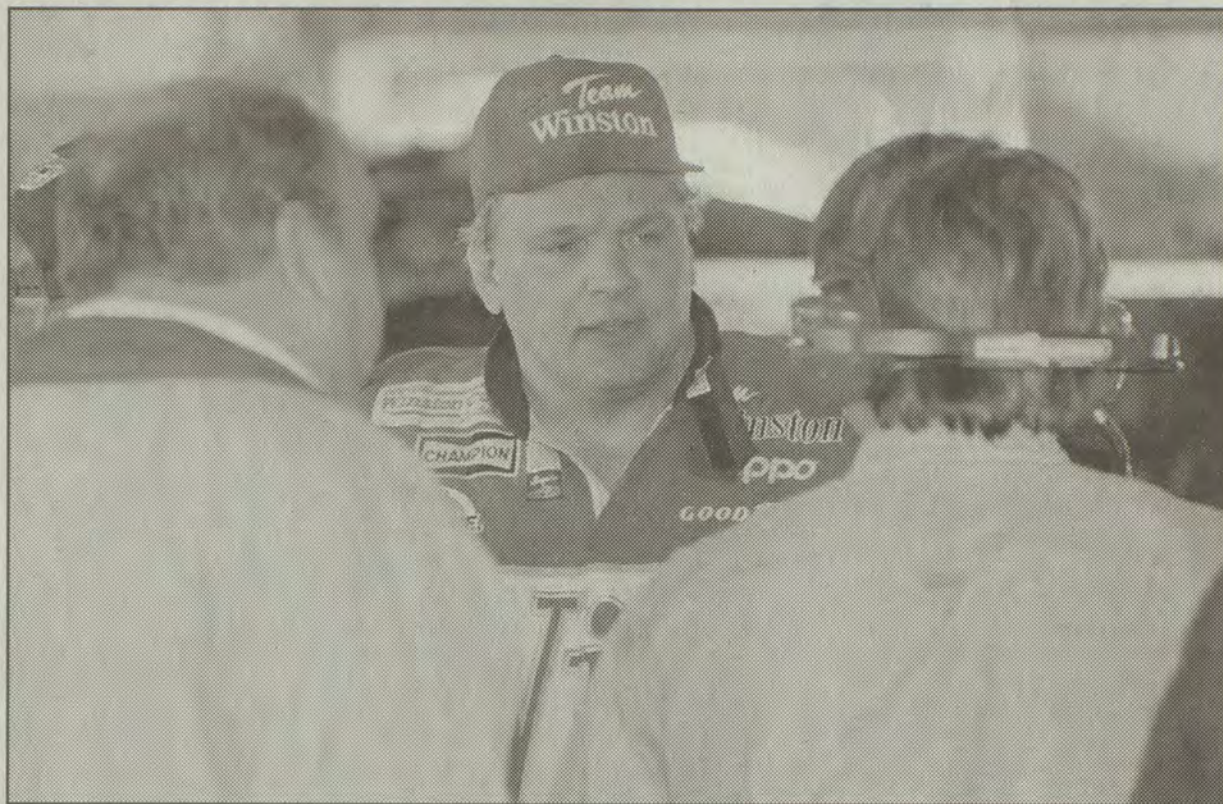

NOTABLE: Ed Whitaker, who won four with Gant and once with Morgan Shepherd, has more car-owner wins than anyone else. Filbert Martocci had three wins with Wallace and one with Bobby Hamilton.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK SERIES

COMING UP: Memphis Event

Jimmy Spencer

John Clark/NASCAR This Week

Jimmy Spencer, center, says he's recovered from a concussion earlier this year.

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week
Jimmy Spencer has been able to improve his consistency while driving for car owner Travis Carter, but "Mr. Excitement" has been unable to duplicate the two Winston Cup victories he earned in 1994 while driving for Junior Johnson.

Until he was injured at Indianapolis, Spencer was in and out of the top 10 in season points. He sat out two events while recovering from a concussion. His career best in the points race was 12th place, which he earned in 1993 while driving for Bobby Allison. In 1986-87, Spencer was the national champion of NASCAR's Modified Tour and made his Winston Cup debut in 1989.

HOMETOWN: Originally from Berwick, Pa.,

resides in Huntersville, N.C.

AGE: 41
SPOUSE: Pat
CHILDREN: James (12), Katrina (10).
CAR: No. 23 Winston Ford Taurus, owned by Travis Carter.

CAREER RECORD: 257 starts, 1 pole, 2 wins, 17 top fives, 10 top 10s, nearly $6 million in career earnings.

HAVE YOU BECOME A SMARTER DRIVER? "I think so. I realize that I have to drive a lot smarter at certain tracks. The guys always give me a good car every week, and it's up to me to get the most out of it. I can't ask for any more than what those guys have given me, and I want to win for them, not for me."

HOW IS YOUR HEALTH? "I think I'm completely recovered, and so do the doctors. After the accident at the Brickyard, I started the car the next week (at Watkins Glen), but then I had a discussion with my doctor, and it really scared me. He made me understand the need for a full recovery, because if I came back too early and took another hit, it could end my career."

DO YOU THINK YOU'RE STILL MAKING PROGRESS? "Absolutely. Right now it feels as though we've got a new lease on life. We haven't won any races, which of course we would have liked, but I still think it's going to happen. Donnie (Wingo, the crew chief) and I have a good relationship, and I think it's something that's going to come, if we can just manage not to get sidetracked anymore."

YOUR TURN

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week,
Why is it that Dale Earnhardt can continue to bump and shove his way around a Winston track, and everyone seems to put up with it? They just smile and call him the "Intimidator" and say, "he's just an aggressive race car driver." ... When will his bumping and shoving be called?

I have been a Winston race fan since the '50s and have watched the "bumper" for a long time. But his overaggressive tactics on July 26 at the [Pennsylvania] 500 were really something! ... When is enough enough?
Henry Hecky
Garrettsville, Ohio

Dear NASCAR This Week,
I'm a new fan to NASCAR. I would like to know how many flags in racing there are and what they mean.
Kenny Bonus
Butler, Pa.

Dear Kenny,
A green flag is a signal to begin racing, waved at the beginning of the race and end of caution periods. A yellow flag signals caution and warns the competitors to slow down. A white flag indicates one lap to go. A red flag indicates a more serious condition and signals the competitors to come to a stop. A checkered flag signals the end of a race. A blue flag with a lateral yellow strip signals a slower car to move over and allow faster cars to pass.

CREW OF THE WEEK

■ Kenny Wallace needed a provisional starting spot to make the field in Sunday's Pepsi Southern 500, and crew chief Newt Moore recently moved to another team. Wallace drove from 39th to a 10th-place finish with veteran David Ifft calling the shots on pit road.

TRIVIA

1. Who was the last Winston Cup rookie to win a short-track race?
2. When was Ken Schrader's last Cup race victory?
3. Where did Matt Kenseth win his first Busch Grand National race?

1. Dale Earnhardt in 1979
2. June 2, 1991, at Dover
3. Rockingham

ANSWERS

Who's hot... Who's not

WHO'S HOT?
Amazing: Jeff Gordon has scored 11 consecutive finishes in the top five, with seven victories during the span.

WHO'S NOT?
Bill Elliott does not have a top-five finish this season.

AROUND THE GARAGE

FROM THE ARCHIVES:

The rich history of NASCAR
From the second race of 1970 through the second race of 1973, Richard Petty won seven consecutive races at the Richmond Fairgrounds, the .542-mile track that was located on the site of the current .750-mile layout. Amazingly, in five of those seven races, Bobby Allison was the fastest qualifier.

Nov. 14 race added to Winston Cup schedule for next year

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week
DARLINGTON, S.C. — The addition of a Nov. 14 race at Homestead (Fla.) Motorsports Complex was the only major change in the NASCAR Winston Cup schedule for 1999, which was announced on Sept. 3. The south Florida track has hosted a Busch Grand National event since 1995 and a Craftsman Truck Series race since 1996. The season will begin, unofficially, with the Bud Shootout on Feb. 7 at Daytona International Speedway, followed a week later by the Daytona 500. The 34-race schedule will end on Nov. 21 at Atlanta Motor Speedway. A few minor changes were made. The Las Vegas and first Atlanta races will be held a week later, thanks to an open date inserted between Rockingham and Las Vegas. Texas flip-flopped races with Bristol's first event, with Texas now being run on March 28 and Bristol on April 11. Richmond's first race was moved up three weeks to May 15, and New Hampshire's second race was moved back to Sept. 19. THE KING CHIMES IN: Richard Petty, inducted into the National Motorsports Press Association's Stock Car Hall of Fame at Darlington, offered some historical perspective concerning Gordon's alleged dominance. "This is not the first time this has happened," said Petty. "For a year or two now, they (Gordon's team) have just dominated. They've got a chance to make history, yes, but the deal is, this has been done before. There's been a bunch of drivers who have had a year or two when they were head-and-shoulders over everybody else." And, Petty added, "No one who has ever won a race has done it without somebody accusing them of cheating."

FREE HMIEL: Jack Roush surprisingly fired Steve Hmiel, a long-time employee, last week. Hmiel, who from 1992 through 1997 served as crew chief and team manager for Mark Martin, was separated from Martin during an off-season shake-up. Martin's team moved from Liberty to Mooresville, where he was paired with Jeff Burton. The Liberty operation housed the teams of Johnny Benson and Ted Musgrave, while a fifth team, Chad Little's, was located nearby. Hmiel managed the Liberty operation while Buddy Parrott directed the Mooresville teams.

Is it the "Man" or the "System"?

Footballs winging through the autumn air, launched seemingly by a cannon. Players in strange formations, moving strategically into position to catch, run and score. This is the high profile, high octane offense of Wildcat football in 1997.

In the aftermath of the excitement and successes of last season and the bright future now the present, a question looms for UK football fans across the commonwealth, a question that is both truly ponderous and scary in the same tone in which it is asked.

Is it the "Man" or the "System"?

Is it the new computer with the Pentium II arm or is the programmer? ...that makes it fly. Is it the NASCAR "car" or the driver? ...that puts in the winners circle. Tim Couch the "Man" or Hal Mumme the "System"? ... that as they say, is the question!

However, with at least one season left for Couch, ...that's another debate ...and with Mumme firmly implanted in bluegrass for now, one can only wonder.

So lets go directly to the source, in this question of questions. When we asked both the player and coach to respond to this dilemma, here is their responses ... According to Couch it is truly the system. "Coach (Hal Mumme) has been able to turn this program around because of the style of play he brings to the field - the system works -thankfully for me! So, its the system!

But wait, Coach Mumme on Couch, "I've never been around a player with all the physical tools and work ethic that Tim possesses - that allows himself and the team to get better each week - he makes it happen!" So, now its the man!

The debate continues, even among the participants themselves and with modesty aside lets close our eyes...and remember back (I know this is asking a lot of you blue fans) to the coach Bill Curry era just a few short seasons ago and in vision Couch running the option... OK...so, that's one for the system. However, with your eyes still closed can you truly picture anyone else besides ole number "2" standing in the pocket and then making that autumn... air sing with a shot from that cannon arm?

You make the call ...drop us a note or letter to The Cats Page ...let us here from you Is it the "man" or the "system"?

Only time will answer this question, but thankfully for us UK football fans ...we still have a little time to watch and enjoy the show and the debating!

Bishop's Theft Gives UK Victory

DARRYL BISHOP of Louisville, whose final season was 1973, remains the UK leader in career interceptions with 14 ... One of his most notable interceptions took place on Nov. 6, 1971, at Dudley Field in Nashville ... With UK and Vanderbilt knotted at 7-7 and less than 50 seconds to play, Kentucky elected to punt facing a 4th-and-8 situation from its own 44 ... Walter Overton made a fair catch at the Commodore 30, giving Vandy a first down ... After QB Steve Burger lost four yards on the first play, the Commodores elected not to use a timeout ... Then as time expired, Burger lofted a pass toward receiver Gary Chesley ... The ball never got to Chesley as Bishop picked off the aerial and raced 43 yards for the winning score, giving UK a 14-7 victory on the game's final play.

Jury finds Kennard guilty of second-degree manslaughter

It took a jury five and one-half hours to find William "J.R." Kennard guilty of second degree manslaughter in the 1994 death of Johnny Simpkins.

The panel, made up of ten men and two women, fixed Kennard's sentence to ten years in prison, the maximum punishment allowed for the crime of which he was charged.

It took three days to impanel a jury and only a day to try the case. —The Salyersville Independent

Man re-enters burning house to save son's life

A fire on Coon Creek early last Sunday morning resulted in the serious injury of two occupants of the dwelling.

Emergency 911 received a call that the house of Scott Blanton was engulfed in flames.

Neighbors reported that Blanton and his son were caught in the burning building and in order to escape the fire Blanton crashed through a plate glass window. Once outside, he became aware that his son was still inside and he re-entered the burning building to search for the boy.

Justin was found unconscious in a hallway floor and brought to safety by his father, who suffered lacerations and first and second degree burns. —The Salyersville Independent

Two of 27 students aboard school bus sustain minor injuries

A head-on collision involving a school bus last Friday sent a Louisville man to the hospital, but caused no serious injuries to any of the 27 children on board.

Lawrence County Sheriff's Deputy Joseph Tomblin said Clifford Endicott, 48, was traveling north on Ky. 2565 shortly after 3 p.m. when he drifted into the southbound lane, striking Lawrence County School Bus #931 head on.

According to the accident report, the bus driver saw a blue truck in his lane coming head on, and locked up the brakes on the bus in an attempt to avoid hitting him, but the truck still struck the passenger side of the bus.

Endicott was flown to Cabell-Huntington Hospital in Huntington, W. Va., where he was released the next day.

Two of the 27 kids on the bus were treated for minor injuries, as was the driver of the bus, 52-year-old James Daniels. —The Big Sandy News

Judge rules Hinkle liable for officer's injury

Lawrence Circuit Judge Stephen N. Frazier ruled last Friday that Billy Joe Hinkle was responsible for the disabling injuries to former Kentucky State Police Trooper David Ross, but will leave it up to a jury or the attorneys to award damages in the case.

Frazier's ruling closed the books on the four-year-old lawsuit in which Ross was seeking to recover damages from the estate of Hinkle, who was shot by a

PVA candidate to be announced

Johnson County Republicans are expected to nominate a new candidate for property valuation administrator Wednesday and then file suit to get her name on the ballot.

The county GOP executive committee will likely nominate Hager Hill resident Pam Rowland as the replacement candidate for Susan Meade Gay, who died August 9 of a heart attack, Robert VanHoose, the local Republican chairman, said.

Rowland, who unsuccessfully sought the Republican nomination for PVA during a special election in 1995, is the only Republican to express an interest in the race, VanHoose said.

Whether Rowland's candidacy will stand will depend on the outcome of a lawsuit the GOP plans to file to get her name on the November 8 general election ballot.

Both the Secretary of State's Office and the Revenue Cabinet have said that Johnson County Republicans can't pick another candidate for PVA because state law does not provide for the naming of a replacement when there is a vacancy in candidacy.

Under the law, candidates for PVA must pass a written test administered by the Revenue Cabinet. Tests are given every four years and special exams are allowed when there is a vacancy in the office. —The Paintsville Herald

Clerk's office burglarized

Employees in the Johnson County Circuit Clerk's Office came back from a three-day weekend to find their office had been broken into.

Nearly $1,000 was taken during the break-in which occurred sometime between Friday night and early Tuesday morning, according to Circuit Clerk Vicki Crace Rice.

The burglars apparently gained entry into the offices by breaking a window in Rice's personal office. They then ransacked the offices, prying open cash drawers

Knott school enrollment down

Declining enrollment and poor attendance are a threat to the quality of education in Knott County.

Eddie Gibson, Director of Pupil Personnel, expressed his concern last week as he compared enrollment statistics.

On the 19th day of classes in Knott County, 3,242 students were enrolled in the district, compared to 3,305 at the same mark last year — 63 less students. Gibson said the trend is a loss of around 50 students per year.

Even more frustrating to Gibson was the number of absences — 251 on Sept. 1, or 92.2% attendance.

Gibson said students should be rewarded for good attendance practices. One effort in this direction is a traveling attendance trophy. "An award like this to recognize

Citizens protest paving

A group of Magoffin County citizens protested the placement of approximately four-tenths of a mile of blacktop on a portion of Buffalo Road, claiming that a political vendetta motivated the choice to pave the area.

Magoffin Judge-Executive Charles Hardin denied the claim. "There was no political motivation at all," Hardin said. "Due to a surplus in the road fund, we have been able to spend $400,000-$425,000 on paving various roads in the county."

The road is paved from the intersection of Buffalo and KY Route 2019 to the Buffalo bridge. There is then three-fourths of a mile of unpaved road before reaching the new pavement, and then back to gravel road. —The Salyersville Independent

Feds to investigate stolen guns

The Salyersville City Police Department working in conjunction with the Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms to continue the investigation of a Magoffin County man recently charged with the theft of guns from a local sporting goods store.

Jeff Marshall was apprehended two weeks ago after he and a juvenile accomplice allegedly broke into Sportsman Unlimited and stole several guns from their inventory. Marshall was also being sought on past warrants for the alleged burglaries of Bailey's Hardware as well as that of the Magoffin County Judge's office in the Magoffin County Courthouse. —The Salyersville Independent

Fallsburg store's WIC disqualification over 3-ounce mistake

A Fallsburg store's disqualification from the WIC program came from a mismeasurement of three ounces of cereal, and store owners say the penalty is very harsh.

"It was an honest mistake," Melloydey Waugh, one of the owners of Fallsburg Grocery, said. "We have never tried to defraud anybody and we have never tried to cheat the government."

On August 19, the Kentucky Cabinet for Health Services issued a release, which said the store's six-month disqualification was effective on August 4.

Waugh said a cashier simply didn't add up the total amounts correctly, which resulted in three more ounces of cereal than was allowed to be placed on a voucher.

"For three ounces, I can understand a warning, but they took it away," Waugh said. "It's like slapping us in the face."

To regain authorization, Fallsburg Grocery must reapply to the program following the six-month disqualification and be accepted. —The Big Sandy News

Vet center operations scaled back

On Wednesday, the Veterans Referral Center on Euclid Avenue in Paintsville is closed. At least until Monday.

"We just simply don't have the money to operate full time," volunteer Bill Scurlock said. "Therefore, we have no choice but to cut back to two days a week. We'll be open for service work on Mondays and Tuesdays only, from 8 a.m. until noon."

Howard said that the center has $470 coming in each month from a lease payment and dues from 17 active members.

Scurlock said that it was the understanding of the group that the Johnson County Fiscal Court had a $5,000 per year donation written into its budget. He said the group had only received that amount one time, and that was in 1994.

However, Judge-Executive Gail Gillem said that was not the case.

"To my knowledge, money for the Veterans Referral Center has never been a line item in our budget," he said. "As far as I know, the group has never requested any money from us. That's not to say that if they did request it we'd be able to help. But people who are funded usually make a formal request."

Paintsville Mayor Robin Cooper said the group had requested $1,500 from the city in order to help pay utility bills, but that the request had been denied. —The Paintsville Herald

State auditor reports on sheriff's first year in office

State Auditor Ed Hatchett released comments Tuesday on his audit of the Knott County Sheriff's office for 1994-95 (Sheriff Wheeler Jacobs' first year in office).

Hatchett pointed out that property tax bills for tangible taxes and franchise taxes were incorrectly billed, resulting in a $10,323 overcharge to taxpayers.

Sheriff Jacobs told The Times that the billing error was the result of an incorrect rate and related mistake in printing tax bills. The error was discovered and overcharges were refunded. —Troublesome Creek Times

Supreme Court upholds murder verdict

The Kentucky Supreme Court has denied the appeal of the Pike County woman who last year was sentenced to life in prison for convincing her lover to kill and decapitate her ex-husband.

The decision to deny the appeal of Arlene Hall Rowe, 36, formerly of Virgie, was handed down last Thursday, according to court records.

Former assistant commonwealth's attorney Ron Burchett, who prosecuted the case, said he is thrilled with the decision.

In April of last year, Rowe was found guilty of complicity to murder and tampering with physical evidence in the 1995 death of Everett "T." Hall. Hall's body had been dumped in an abandoned coal mine and decapitated by Robert James Frazure, who admitted to the crimes and was also sentenced to life in prison.

According to court records, Rowe offered Frazure money, sex, a place to stay and the loan of a car in exchange for killing Hall. —Appalachian News-Express

School name change sought

While the Pike County Board of Education tried to avoid a fight in regular session, it may soon be embroiled in a battle of a different kind.

The board authorized attorney Rick King to, at his discretion, initiate condemnation proceedings against Kentucky Berwind Land Company, Pike-Letcher Land Company and Berkely Energy Corporation for the property at Lick Creek designated as the site for Cumberland Valley High School.

However, King and superintendent Frank Welch said, they will attempt to negotiate for the property before trying to condemn it.

A petition reportedly signed by more than 100 people seeking to change the names of Reo Johns Boulevard and the Alvin D. Newsome Athletic Complex at Shelby Valley High School be changed to Shelby Valley Wildcat Boulevard and Shelby Valley Sports Center circulated around the board room.

A board spokesman said the signatures on the petition would have to be verified before the board could take any action on the matter. —Appalachian News-Express

Feds seize records

Agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation last week reportedly seized documents from the controversial Kentucky Youth Academy.

The FBI could neither confirm nor deny that nine agents executed a warrant to search KYA CEO Rocky Hall's office for documents concerning the creation of the juvenile treatment facility.

A spokeswoman for U.S. Attorney Mark Wholander said she could not comment on whether Hall's office was searched either.

"We had a few visitors come out here the other day from the FBI," Hall said.

Hall said agents took some documents, but said he was unsure what they were looking for. —Appalachian News-Express

Census jobs available

The U.S. Census Bureau is recruiting people in this area to work in phase one of the census effort for year 2000 census.

Although the decennial census is more than two years away, the early recruitment is an effort to give the process a head start.

In this area, jobs are available for office clerks, enumerators, and crew leaders. Hours will be 20 to 40 hours a week for four to ten weeks as pay rates of $6.50 to $9.50 an hour plus a transportation reimbursement of 31-cents per mile.

Pharmacy burglary investigated

West Liberty police are investigation a burglary that occurred last Thursday night at Clinic Pharmacy on Liberty Road (Wells Hill). According to a police spokesman, entry to the pharmacy was gained by lobbing a concrete block through the front door.

Two bottles of an unspecified drug were taken. Police were alerted by a burglar alarm that was triggered when the door was broken, but the burglar, or burglars, had fled when police arrived.

Water hopes dashed

Hopes for a grant of federal Abandoned Mine Lands funds to extend a water line to serve the Wrigley and Redwine communities appear to have been dashed by the findings of a recent groundwater study conducted by Baker Engineering Unlimited Inc. of Frankfort.

According to a report from the firm's president, James H. Baker, the state Department of Abandoned Mine Lands has concluded for a second time that the area has not been adversely affected by mining and thus, does not meet the criteria for Department of Abandoned Mine Lands funding for water line extensions.

The study, completed in June, was a follow-up on a study begun a year or so earlier but which was concluded after no record could be found in state archives that deep mining had ever occurred in the area. —Licking Valley Courier

*Along Came You
(A Song for Stephanie)*

*I thought I knew all there was to know
I knew all about love
I lived the highs and made it through the lows.*

*I knew all about love
but now I must admit I'm surprised and only scratched the surface,
'cause baby when I look in your eyes
I understand my one true purpose*

*You were sent to me
by angels up above, I'm certain
I thought I'd show you what love can be but what did I know
until along came you
to teach me about love
Oh yes, along came you
to teach me about love*

*And as this feeling grows with every day you awaken my heart
a heart so full I fear it may break if we're ever apart and though one day you will be on your own,
you know I always will be near you,
as near as on the day you were born
Call on me, you know I'll hear you*

*You were sent to me
for one reason I can tell you you're here to show me what love can be cause what did I know*

*Until along came you
to teach me about love
oh yes, along came you
to teach me about love*

Dear Jax,
How does hair mousse work?
What chemicals make your hair stiff?

Question, name & address

Dear Jennifer,
As you can tell by my hairdo, I'm a big fan of hair mousse. Not only does it help keep my hair standing straight up from the top of my head, it also explains a lot of cool stuff.

First, there's language. Mousse is a French word. (The French have a different word for everything!) In French, mousse means foam or froth. And foams are truly wonderful things.

Jax Place
Jax Place

Fire-Fighting Foams – Because foam spreads out stuff over huge areas, some fire extinguishers use foam to spread out the chemicals that smother fire. This works well at airports, where whole runways can be covered with foams.

Plastic Foams – A curse on the planet is plastic foam – mainly because teensy bits of plastic are puffed up into huge objects. Plastic foams use hundreds of times the space in waste disposal sites.

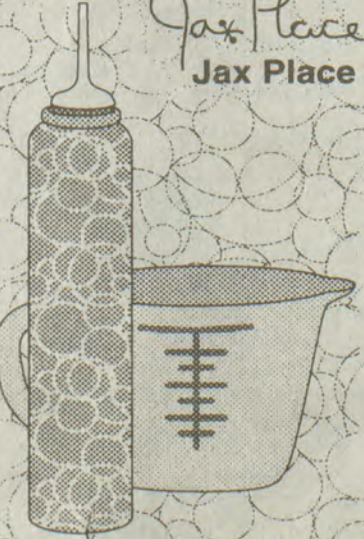

The Ink – The foam behind this whole comic strip is another example of how foams can spread out tiny bits of stuff over big areas. The ink in this small box is all it takes to create the whole comic background in gray foam.

experiment #1

WHAT YOU NEED: Hair mousse – rubbing alcohol – measuring cup – help and permission from a grown-up.

WHAT TO DO: Have your grown-up read the warnings that are on the labels of the mousse and alcohol. Both are flammable and that can make them dangerous. Measure 1/4 cup of rubbing alcohol. Fill the rest of the measuring cup with the mousse. Stir down the foam until there's none left – just liquid remaining. Measure the amount and compare it against the 1/4 cup you started with. Make sure to dump the mixture down the sink.

SO WHAT: You just demonstrated 2 things about hair mousse. The first is that it's soluble in alcohol. Your mousse is made from plastic molecules that are dissolved in a mixture of alcohol and water. In fact, those are the first 2 things listed on the ingredients label. You also showed that the shape and structure of foam can spread tiny bits of chemicals over a huge area. Your cup full of mousse dissolved to practically nothing. When you measured the second time, it was still just about 1/4 cup of liquid – even though the mousse was dissolved in it. Hair mousse spreads out just a few plastic molecules over a huge area – your head!

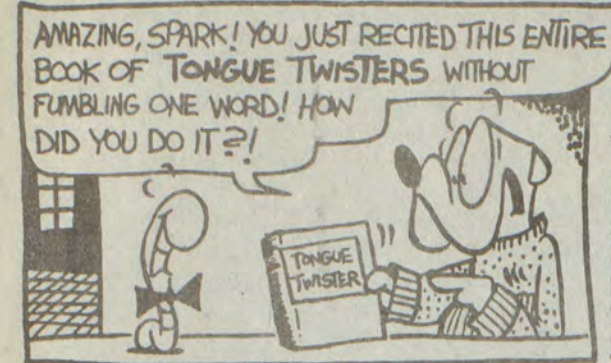

P.S. from Beakman: Other foams that are fun include whipped cream and dishwashing suds. Let a cup of dish suds dissolve for several hours and then measure again.
