Problems, tempers heat up schools

by Willie Elliott
Staff Writer

Bus routes, security measures and dress codes are making many parents hot under the collar, as Floyd County Schools wind down their first full week of classes.

The school system is receiving criticism from both bus drivers and parents over changes that have been enacted for the school year.

Some parents are concerned that students are spending more time on buses and waiting for classes to begin.

Driver Daryl Greer said she starts her runs at 6:15 a.m. and she makes the last run of the morning at 8 a.m. She starts her afternoon run at 3 p.m. and drops off the last students at 4:50.

She said that if parents do not meet her to pick up some students, 10 minutes are added to the time. She said some students spent as much as an hour and 15 minutes at the gym at McDowell waiting for classes to begin.

In some sections of the county, the parents are blaming the bus drivers for the long waits.

State manager Woody Carter said the system has "a 95-98 percent solution" to the problem. He said system officials know they have to get the wait time down to between 50-55 minutes to comply with a state law.

He said the transportation department will continue to work on the problem and, if necessary, an extra run will be added.

Security issues

Last year during the Columbine, Colorado, tragedy, many parents asked why security was not tighter. Duff Elementary initiated a system whereby the school would have better control of people who enter the building, including parents.

But, many kindergarten parents want to be able to take their children directly to their rooms and not have the students escorted by someone else. Thursday morning, several of them protested outside the school and planned a more formal protest for this morning.

Parent Norma Samons said parents were told they have to drive around and release the students to teachers.

Danette Conley said her two boys were "taken from my arms." She added that the children who resisted being escorted by someone other than their parents were counted tardy because they were late going into the building.

Union issues strike notice

According to Kathy McCormick, hospital organizer for SEIU, District 1199, the union has issued a new 10-day notice of a strike at Highlands Regional Medical Center — unless the two sides can reach an agreement before noon on September 2. McCormick said the two big issues remain health insurance and job security.

Blood drive moves to PCC

With fall semester classes still new and minds and bodies fresh, Prestonsburg Community College will be the scene of a blood drive on Tuesday, August 31, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The drive, sponsored by Central Kentucky Blood Center, will be in Room 102 of the Johnson Building. For information, call Dawn Wheeler, donor resources consultant, at 606/432-4979.

School student gets unwanted mark parents said a physician told them the youngster may have to have plastic surgery to remove it. The eighth grader, who is about 110 pounds and 5'5", estimated his alleged attacker to be about 180 pounds and 5'8" or 5'9". The middle school student said some other students were "egging on" the activity, and he was afraid the high school student would hurt him more seriously.

The older student, Brandon said, told him he "would have made a better sign if he'd had his razor."

The middle school student also said the boy told him as he carved the symbol that it was a "n—— hate sign."

Brandon's parents, Bradis and Gracie Burchett of David, spent much of yesterday trying to find someone who would address the problem with them. They claim they received "the run-around" at the central office of the Floyd County School System.

"We were under the impression that high school kids weren't going to ride the same bus as the younger ones," said Bradis Burchett.

Gracie Burchett said that when Brandon came home from school Tuesday, she saw that his forehead had been scratched. "It was so sore he didn't want anyone to touch it," she said. She did not, however, notice what the scratch was.

The father said that when he came home, he recognized the sign immediately. Gracie

Burchett said she told him, "It can't be."

Both parents said people on the street have stopped Brandon when they recognized the imprint and that the young man was embarrassed to go to school and have other students see his forehead.

The Burchetts also have an 11-year-old son, who is a seventh grader at AMS. They said he is also "jittery" about riding the bus now.

Bradis Burchett said the high school student who allegedly defaced his son was taken to the Floyd County Detention Center and had a hearing in juvenile court yesterday.

Normally, the Prestonsburg Fire Department tries to put out fires — not start them. In this case, the burning was a controlled burning. The fire department used the burning of a house on North Lake Drive to practice various firefighting techniques, and Prestonsburg Community College instructor Mike Dixon used it as an introduction to arson investigation in one of his law enforcement classes. Brandon Burchett got a tattoo on the way home from school Tuesday, without anesthetic and with unwanted symbolism.

The 13-year-old Adams Middle School student said a high school student pinned him against a school bus window and etched a swastika in his forehead with a metal lead pencil.

Yesterday, the image of the Nazi symbol was still plainly visible in Burchett's skin, and his

AG's office brings words of warning to senior citizens

Roberta Luxmore of McDowell won a purse during the Seniors Crime College Wednesday. (photo by Pam Shingler)

by Pam Shingler
Staff Writer

Officials of the Attorney General Ben Chandler's office played a dirty trick on senior citizens from around the Big Sandy region Wednesday, but it was for their own good.

As almost 60 older-but-wiser citizens filed into the Mountain Arts Center in Prestonsburg to take part in the AG's Seniors Crime College, they were asked to fill out a form to be eligible to win a prize.

Two hours later when Jeff

Lagrew was winding down his presentation, he announced the prize drawing, but he eliminated 27 of the entrants because they wrote down their Social Security number as they were asked to do on the form.

"Don't give your Social Security number to anybody," the attorney raved, waving the invalid forms in the air, "even if they're as good looking as me."

Lagrew warned seniors not to put the number on checks, rather insist on using some other form of identification.

(Twenty-eight persons did not put their Social Security number on the prize entry form and the winner — Roberta Luxmore of McDowell — was given a small shoulder bag which is considered the safest size purse for women to carry.)

"The only people who need your Social Security number are your doctor and your bank or stockbroker," Lagrew advised.

What he was trying to impress on the participants was the danger of what he called "identity theft," which he called the fastest growing crime in the country.

It's a crime in which thieves steal a person's identifiers and credit card numbers, apply for credit under the victim's name, and run up sometimes huge debts. Although victims generally don't have to repay the debts, they often have to spend months or even years correcting and clearing their credit records.

The crime is so serious that Lagrew advised the senior citizens to spend around $30 to buy a paper shredder and use it to destroy "any papers that have your identity on them" — from credit car receipts

Because of the extremely dry weather, Floyd County Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson has issued an executive order prohibiting outdoor burning.

The proclamation — an all too common message these days — went into effect Wednesday at noon and will continue until further notice.

"I urge all Floyd Countians to comply with this proclamation so that we can preserve Floyd County's timber resources," Thompson said.

The story remains the same in terms of rain. A spokesman for the National Weather Service at Jackson said some thunderstorms were passing north of Floyd County yesterday afternoon, but he did not think they would dip in this direction.

In fact, he predicted a dry weekend, with a 30 percent chance of rain by Monday.

He pointed out that the very

(See Burn, page two)

to sweepstakes entry forms to credit card offers to solicitation letters. Even labels on medicine containers should be shredded, he said, since they have a person's address and sometimes other information.

He also advised participants to call the major credit bureaus and tell them to put a "fraud alert on your credit," in which the credit companies call the person to get permission before any information is given out. This stops thieves when they try to establish credit using stolen identity.

He said some people — known as "dumpster divers" — will go through garbage cans and dumpsters in search of identifying information, which most people routinely throw out.

Lagrew and Lori Farris, also of the AG's office, talked to the seniors about other threats to their financial well-being.

Farris warned of the newest scam the AG's office has been hearing about, in which telephone solicitors tell victims that the law now requires them to purchase credit card "protection insurance" — which is not true.

Another one, she said, has callers scaring victims over the Y2K issue, preying on fears that computer-reliant companies will not be prepared when the year 2000 begins. Erroneously, callers are telling listeners that their bank is not in compliance and they need to transfer their funds to an account suggested by the caller.

She also warned of "phone slamming" scams in which telemarketers tell phone customers that their company is taking over AT&T's accounts, and the customers unwittingly agree to the switchover. She said the AG's office had received a call from a Floyd County resident on this scam.

"Look at your phone bill and make sure you're with the carrier you want to be with," she said.

She advised, too, to look for added charges on phone bills that were not ordered. This is referred to as "cramming," she said.

Regarding requests for charitable donations, Farris said seniors should ask solicitors, "How much of my dollar gets to the cause?" If the agency is legitimate, it is obligated to furnish this information.

Farris led the workshop participants in a script for responding to unsolicited telemarketing calls: "No, thank you, I'm not interested. Please add my name to your 'Do not call' list, and do not call me again."

Lagrew had advice concerning safety in the home. Among his tips:

- Have double key dead bolts on all doors.
- Don't leave keys in the locks.
- Install a fisheye peephole in the front door.
- Put locks on all first floor windows.
- Don't open the door to strangers.
- Have good lighting, preferably motion detector lights.
- Put timers on indoor lights.

Alarms with loud sounds and dogs that bark when someone comes near the house are also effective, he said. "Burglars don't want the attention that noise creates."

He also advised using landscaping to advantage. "Trim bushes so people can't hide in them," he said.

Homeowners who want plants under windows and near doors should use prickly ones, such as holly or rose bushes.

Lagrew admitted that if a burglar wants to get into a house, he probably can. The homeowner, then, must make the entry as difficult as possible. "If it takes them more than a minute to get into your house, they'll probably go next door," he said. Unfortunately, in 65 percent of robberies, the thief walks in the door, he added.

He also advised making sure house numbers can easily be seen by fire, ambulance and police personnel; writing down serial numbers for all high theft items, such as TVs, VCRs, computers, etc.; and having someone you trust take in your mail and newspaper if you're gone.

FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

INSPECTION PERIOD FOR THE PROPERTY TAX ASSESSMENT ROLL

The 1999 Floyd County real property tax roll will be opened for inspection from August 23 through September 8, 1999. Under the supervision of the Property Valuation Administrator or one of the deputies, any person may inspect the tax roll.

This is the January 1, 1999, assessment on which state, county and school taxes for 1999 will be due about September 15, 1999.

The tax roll is in the office of the Property Valuation Administrator in the county courthouse and may be inspected between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Any taxpayer desiring to appeal an assessment on real property made by the PVA must first request a conference with the PVA or a designated deputy. The conference may be held prior or during the inspection period.

Any taxpayer still aggrieved by an assessment on real property, after the conference with the PVA or designated deputy, may appeal to the county board of assessment appeals.

The taxpayer can appeal his assessment by filing in person or sending a letter or other written petition stating the reasons for appeal, identifying the property and stating the taxpayer's opinion of the fair cash value of the property.

The appeal must be filed with the county clerk's office no later than one work day following the conclusion of the inspection period.

Any taxpayer failing to appeal to the county board of assessment appeals, or failing to appear before the board, either in person or by designated representative, will not be eligible to appeal directly to the Kentucky Board of Tax Appeals.

Appeals of personal property assessments shall not be made to the county board of assessment appeals. Personal property taxpayers shall be served notice under the provisions of KRS 132.450 (4) and shall have the protest and appeal rights granted under the provision of KRS 131.110.

The following steps should be taken when a taxpayer does not agree with the assessed value of personal property as determined by the office of Property Valuation Administrator.

- (1) He must list under protest (for certification) what he believes to be fair cash value of his property.
- (2) He must file a written protest directly with the Department of Property Valuation within 30 days from the date of the notice of assessment.
- (3) This protest must be in accordance with KRS 131.110.
- (4) The final decision of the Revenue Cabinet may be appealed to the Kentucky Board of Tax appeals.

"Teachers get to take their (children) to the classrooms, but we couldn't," Conley said. "We should have a right to take children to this class."

Conley said parents were not allowed to talk to their children's teachers, and Samons said school officials locked the front door on them at one time yesterday morning. Principal Liz Compton said the school was "trying to control the school so we know who is in the building at all times." She said she will meet with parents and be open to their suggestions.

Carter said the implementation may have been too abrupt, but he said parents should realize the change was for the protection of their children.

He said as many as 72 parents were in the halls at Duff waiting for children at one time. Carter said that was a large number of people to deal with. "With that many people, it's hard to know who are parents and who is an unwelcome visitor," he said.

Clothes matter

Some parents at Adams Middle School are still upset by the dress code. The parents had a meeting at the municipal parking lot in Prestonsburg Monday evening, and another one is planned for Bull Creek Trade Center on US 23, just below the Lancer-Water Gap exchange.

Parents said the dress code was intended for both students and parents, and it is not clear if all teachers are abiding by the code.

School personnel have told parents they will take their concerns under advisement and "fix the ones we can."

Parents are concerned about the timing and severity of the code.

Teacher wins award

Joan M. Radjeski, D O and associate professor of osteopathic principles and practice of the Pikeville College School of Osteopathic Medicine, recently received notification that she and her co-authors have won the George W. Northup Medical Award.

Radjeski, senior author of the paper, "Effect of osteopathic manipulative treatment on length of stay for pancreatitis: A randomized pilot study," was awarded an all-expense paid trip to attend the AOA convention in San Francisco, California, where she will receive the award. Radjeski has been asked to present her paper at the AOA research conference at the convention.

The award-winning paper was published in the May 1998, issue of the Journal of the American Osteopathic Association (JAOA) as the outstanding article of 1998.

Correction

A story in the August 4 edition of the Times concerned the extradition of Harlin Jo Schenck of Dwale to Texas to face charges there. It should be noted that the charges for which he was being held in Floyd County have been dismissed.

The name of Laura Ruth Ousley of Martin was omitted from the list of Floyd County students who were named to the Dean's List and the President's List at Prestonsburg Community College for spring semester.

The Dean's List recognizes students who have earned a 3.5 or higher grade point average, and the President's List is reserved for those with a perfect 4.0.

forests that are in danger of burning have been this area's salvation from possibly worse conditions. The trees, he said, are drawing moisture from deeper down in the earth and are adding some to the air around us. In areas without the dense tree cover, conditions are much worse, he said.

Nevertheless, the drought here is "officially bad and getting worse," the meteorologist said.

Alice Lloyd publication features Chuck Stamper

Reprinted with permission from "Pippa's Song," alumni publication of Alice Lloyd College

When Alice Lloyd walked the Alice Lloyd campus years ago, she inspired countless students with her faith in their abilities.

Her philosophy that "the leaders are here" gave the young people of Appalachia the encouragement to set goals for themselves and dream of a future bright with opportunity.

The only thing Mrs. Lloyd required in return for providing an education was a pledge from the student to remain in Appalachia and serve his fellow man — the ideal outcome being a better community for all.

In modern Appalachia, a new generation of Alice Lloyd alumni spread that faith to the next mountain leaders. Just down the road in Floyd County, Chuck Stamper is passing on what he learned at Alice Lloyd College: responsibility, integrity and character, along with a deep appreciation for the potential his students possess.

Chuck grew up in the small town of Brinkley in Knott County, just a few miles from the Alice Lloyd College campus. His family has a rich tradition on Caney Creek. His father, Herbert Stamper, attended ALC in the '40s, and his great-grandfather was Sam Stone, one of Mrs. Lloyd's first supporters on Caney Creek, whose old rifle still hangs in Mrs. Lloyd's former office in "Eagle's Nest."

Of Chuck's six siblings, three others attended ALC, as well.

"My parents always taught me that family was the most important thing in the world — second only to God," says Chuck. "Alice Lloyd College supported that idea."

When it came time for Chuck to go to college, he wanted to stay close to his family in Knott County without sacrificing a challenging education. "I had a lot of other opportunities, but I found what I needed at ALC."

Chuck graduated from ALC in 1991 with his degree in education and went on to complete his secondary English certification, as well. While a student at ALC, he served on the national board of Kappa Delta Epsilon, a teacher education fraternity of which ALC was the first Kentucky college to join. In fact, he was president of the ALC chapter. Chuck has a deep love for dramatics and was highly involved in the drama program at ALC. As part of his student work assignment, he was given the opportunity to direct June Buchanan School students in theater productions and to coach forensics. He credits ALC and JBS with helping prepare him to effectively work with young people.

Today, he is in contact with more than 3,000 students — his kids, as he fondly refers to them — per month through the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service in Floyd County, which includes leadership of the Floyd County 4-H.

"The 4-H pledge," he states, "is along the same lines as what we were taught at ALC in 'The Purpose Road' philosophy: Focus to make yourself a better citizen."

Chuck has faced his share of challenges, one of which is muscular dystrophy — but that doesn't deter him from giving life his best effort.

"I always wanted to show people that it's all right to be different," he said. "Just because you have a disability, doesn't mean you have to forfeit your dreams. The encouragement I received from ALC faculty members kept me from giving up and quitting, he continued.

"They told me I was too bright to quit and that I just needed to make sure I was headed where I needed to be. I am grateful to those folks, and I try to teach my kids not to wait until people who care about them are gone to start thanking them for their help and inspiration."

His background in teaching gives Chuck the edge he needs to work with young people in the areas of citizenship, communications, parliamentary procedure, and character building. The training he received at ALC in working with adults made it easier for him to reach the families of his kids and encourage them to be productive citizens. His position as County Extension Agent also puts him in a working environment with legislators and other government agents.

Chuck refers to Mrs. Lloyd as "a very progressive woman." He believes she certainly would approve of the advancement in dyslexic education, an area in which he devotes much time. Chuck was a tutor for dyslexic students in high school and college, and now directs the Hindman Settlement School's after-school dyslexic tutorial program in Prestonsburg.

In addition to his many forms of service to the youth of eastern Kentucky, Chuck is president of ALC's Floyd County Alumni Chapter and first vice president of the ALC Alumni Association.

He feels the alumni program at ALC has taken great strides under the director of Teresa Greider, director of alumni relations. "The Floyd County chapter members wanted to do something for the college," Chuck related. "Teresa made some excellent suggestions, and we were highly impressed with the idea of a scholarship fund.

"I can remember going to school and needing money for books, supplies, etc., and I know that can keep kids from going to school."

LOST CAT
Samantha is yellow and white with traces of black. Lost in George's Branch area. If you have seen her, or have any information, please call 789-7050, or leave message at 889-0001.

The Floyd County Alumni Chapter has since established The Purpose Road Scholarship, which will provide at least one scholarship per year to selected freshmen entering ALC from Floyd County high schools. Applications are made available to high school counselors, and recipients are chosen by a screening committee.

The award will be made in increments of $500 per semester, and a student is eligible to receive it for two consecutive semesters. The funds will help pay for books, supplies and fee expenses. "We hope to add to the fund annually," Chuck stated. "That way, we can help more students."

Chuck was recently married to Stephanie Burrows of Dayton, Ohio. Stephanie's family is from Letcher County, and she is a teacher at Betsy Layne Elementary School.

☆☆☆ VOTE FOR JEFFREY D. DAMRON ☆☆☆

I am a native Floyd Countian, born and raised in Weeksbury on Left Beaver Creek.

My parents are the late Atha and Ola Mae Hall Damron. They operated a general merchandise store in Weeksbury for many years. For several years while I was growing up, I worked in the store with my parents.

I have been married to Ann Ritchey Damron since 1986, and have two children. My other immediate family includes my brother, Steve, and his wife, Billie Linkous Damron, who live in Weeksbury; and my brother Phil, and his wife, Marthan Archer Damron, who live in Prestonsburg.

I graduated from Wheelwright High School in 1980. I continued my education at Prestonsburg Community College, then the University of Kentucky. I received my Bachelor's Degree from U.K. in 1984, and my Juris Doctor from U.K. Law School in 1987.

I have been a practicing attorney for 12 years. I have worked as a Trustee in the United States Bankruptcy Court; as an Assistant Floyd County Commonwealth's Attorney; and worked in the general practice of law.

If elected as your Family Court Judge, I pledge to be fair to all who come before the Court — wives, husbands, mothers, fathers, grandparents, and especially the children who need the protection and guidance of the Court.

Your vote and support will be greatly appreciated.

A TIGHT BUDGET

Has the revenue gravy train come to a halt in Kentucky?

Although the new fiscal year has just begun, Gov. Paul Patton already is warning that the 2000 General Assembly will have to put together an extremely tight budget.

And in so doing, the governor may be attempting to derail any talk of legislators approving a major tax cut in 2000.

A year ago, with the state economy booming, so many tax dollars were flowing into the coffers in Frankfort that the 1998 General Assembly approved a wish list of projects to be funded from an anticipated surplus in the 1997-98 budget. The surplus was large enough that virtually all those projects were funded.

Legislators should expect no similar surplus from the budget for the fiscal year that began July 1. Just the opposite, in fact.

The panel of economists who make Kentucky's official revenue forecast said Wednesday that current figures indicate revenue receipts for this fiscal year will be $53 million less than estimated. If that proves true, there will not be enough money to pay for everything, leaving an unbalanced budget, which the constitution does not allow. However, if necessary, there are plenty of ways to cut state spending between now and June 30 to balance the budget.

Kentucky voters last November approved an amendment in the Kentucky Constitution that clears the way for the elimination or reduction of the unpopular property tax on motor vehicles. Opponents of the tax are expected to make its demise a major goal during the 2000 session.

If the tax is eliminated, legislators either are going to have to replace it with another source of revenue or make significant spending cuts. That essentially is what the governor is warning with his rather dire financial predictions.

The governor is right. Elimination of the motor vehicle tax not only would have a negative impact on state revenue, but it would reduce county, city and school tax revenue, further hamstringing local governments.

We're not opposed to eliminating the tax — as long as it is done responsibly. That means providing means for compensating for the lost revenue.

Letters to the Editor

Thanks to community

Editor:

Jenny Wiley Theatre would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the volunteers who helped to make the 1999 summer season one of the best ever.

Special thanks goes out to the Jenny Wiley State Resort Park (especially the maintenance department) for their continuing support, the Kentucky Youth Academy and Carl D. Perkins Job Corps for helping to clean up and paint the theater before the opening of the season.

JWT would also like to take this time to thank

Alex Cassell, Mary Trimble, and the numerous girl scout troops for all of their volunteer efforts during the 1999 season.

Without the help of individuals and groups like these, the people of Eastern Kentucky wouldn't be able to enjoy a night of magic under the stars at Jenny Wiley Theatre.

Back-to-School time is not just for kids anymore

by Richard W. Riley
U. S. Secretary of Education

Back-to-school time has always been exciting for children. It's a time to meet new friends, new teachers, and resume the adventure of learning.

But back-to-school time is not just for kids anymore.

If our schools are going to do the job we expect them to do, everyone must pitch in and help. That includes parents and everyone in the community.

The fact is, schools today can't do the job alone. There are more children in our schools this fall than ever before—more, even, than at the height of the baby boom! There is more diversity—in some schools, students come from dozens of nations. We are living in the Information Age, a time when our nation's economy and security depend more on the quality of education than at any other time in our history. That's why more and more states and communities are requiring students and teachers to reach for high standards of learning, and why the public is demanding real results for its tax dollars.

So I encourage every parent, family, and citizen to use this back-to-school season to make a personal commitment to supporting better education in their community. When children are surrounded by adults and communities that value education, they get the message that their education is important. And they're more likely to buckle down and do their best. When children see that adults and communities don't care about education, they get the opposite message. And we all lose.

To spread the message about the importance of family and community involvement in education, the U.S. Department of Education conducts a national initiative each year called "America Back to School." We hold events all around the nation to stir excitement for the new school season.

This year, I'm personally taking a five-state bus tour to spread the message. I'll be traveling through Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, and North Carolina. If you pass me on the highway, be sure to wave. I'll also be visiting communities in the East, West, and Midwest.

We've also prepared a colorful, fact-filled "America Goes Back to School" kit which provides plenty of good ideas for getting involved in your schools and staying involved all year long. It's called, "Challenge Our Students and They Will Soar," and you can get a free kit by simply calling the U.S. Department of Education at 1-800-USA-LEARN, or by visiting our web site at www.ed.gov/Family/agbts.

Here are a few ideas that can get your started:

- Employers: Be "family-friendly." Give your employees the time to meet with teachers or volunteer

AN ANSWER TO THE DOG DUMPING PROBLEM

If I had any say-so in how the world is run — or even how our local governments are run — I know what I'd do with people who dump their dogs and cats along our roadsides.

I'd take them up in a helicopter (one at a time, no partnering) and drop them on top of a lonely hill 20 or 30 miles from where they live — no compass, no sleeping bag, no special shoes or clothes, no food, no water, no tools to defend themselves or carve a path. Just a scantily-clad human animal alone in the woods to find his way or perish.

Too harsh? Too inhuman? I don't think so.

I used to drive about 30 miles to work, and I kept an informal body count. Nearly every day I would see abandoned animals, generally along the four-lane or at wide-place-in-the-road dumpsites, some dead, some barely alive.

You can almost tell if they were put out in the last day or so. They'll stay close by where the car or truck let them out, good dogs waiting for the master they depended on to come back for them.

If they've been out longer, they take on a despairing look, trying to puzzle out what's happening. They range a little farther in search of food. They check out the wealth of garbage that lines the road ditches. A french fried potato slice and the leavings of a hamburger here, some chicken bones and half a biscuit there.

If they're really, really, really lucky (about one percent of all abandoned animals), they will be picked up by or wander onto the property of a tender-hearted soul who will take them in or find them a secure home.

If they're pretty lucky (maybe 10 per-for school activities. It's good for education, and good for your bottom line. Giving parents flexible work schedules helps you keep your top-notch workers. Also, encourage your employees to be mentors and tutors to young people. Offer students internships and work-study experiences. And invite teachers into your workplace to show them the skills that today's workers must have. This will help teachers to make sure students take the courses they'll need to gain those skills.

• Parents: Try to slow down your lives and help your children grow. Spend at least 30 minutes a day supervising your children's education. Start early, and read to youngest children. Share books with your older children. Keep in touch with teachers. Make sure your children are doing homework. Keep TV watching to a minimum. And talk with your children frankly about drugs and violence and the values you want them to have.

• Educators, community leaders and law enforcement officials: Many communities are holding town meetings with mental health professionals to talk about troubled youth and school violence. Think about holding one in your community. Talk about ways to help troubled youth and find ways to connect each young person to at least one caring adult.

Every child should feel that he or she is the most important person in an adult's life. Creating connections and a caring environment in the home, at school, and in the community is an important part of preventing violence. And work with others in your community to develop quality after-school and summer programs. Isn't it better to have children in school where they can continue learning, rather than being at home alone, or going to the mall to play violent video games?

• Teachers and school officials: Make your school parent-friendly. Reach out to families and remove the obstacles that sometimes make them reluctant to get involved in school activities.

• Students: Challenge yourselves! Take the tough courses in middle and high school that will put you on the road to college and careers. Take algebra in 8th grade, geometry in 9th grade, and physics, chemistry, and trigonometry in high school. Take four years of a foreign language, and an Advanced Placement art, music, English, or history course. Explore tech prep and other career courses. Studies show that students who take academically challenging high school courses are more likely to attend and complete college and earn more in the work world, regardless of their family's financial status, race, or gender.

Elementary school students should focus on reading, reading, and reading—and math, too. Develop these basic skills. And no child should be promoted to a grade they're not ready for. Let's get rid of social promotion. If some children aren't making the grade, give them the extra help they need, either after-school or over the weekends and summers.

At the national level, we're working hard to provide communities like yours with more of the resources you'll need to accomplish these goals. If Congress agrees, we will expand after-school programs, help reduce class size by hiring 100,000 well-prepared teachers, fund safe and drug-free schools programs, provide mentors for middle school students and put them on the road to college, and build or modernize schools to alleviate overcrowding and put computers into every classroom. Technology is critically important if we're going to prepare our children for success in the 21st century.

If you want to get involved, you don't have to go it alone. Building partnerships is the key. Join with others in your community to determine your school's needs and then ask teachers and principals how you can support their efforts.

No one stands taller than when they stoop down to help a child. Get involved with your community's young people, and you will stand taller—and feel taller—than you ever have. Back-to-school time is the perfect time to start.

cent), they'll be picked up and taken to an underfunded animal shelter where they'll at least be fed until someone adopts them or they're put painlessly to sleep. (This scenario, of course, depends on whether they're lucky enough to be left in a county where there is an animal shelter.)

If they're just somewhat lucky (another 10 percent perhaps), they'll link up with some of their own kind who have also had the misfortune of being born into an irresponsible family. They'll at least form their own family—pack, some call it—and conjure ancestral memories of life in the wild. It's hardly a desired life, but together they may be able to catch enough chickens, goats and deer for some of them to survive.

If none of the previous alternatives is presented, you could call it luck if they make a misstep and wind up under the wheels of a vehicle, a rapidly-disappearing, smashed blob on the road or a slowly decaying lump on the side. Judging from the bodies I see on the road, this is the ending of at least 50 to 60 percent, maybe more.

The rest, the truly unlucky ones, get no easy way out. They simply starve to death—slowly, painfully and alone.

God, they say, made man in his own image. Most of us are brought up to think of an ancient, white-haired, Nordic-looking man. (Truth be told, the majority of the peoples of the world do not resemble that image.)

We're also told that God can take many forms. I'd kind of like to see God as a sinewy, dark-complexioned Doberman, able to love boundlessly and with abandon, yet capable of great anger and vengeance. For my vision, God would almost have to be female, as well, since in the family pet realm the females are the mostly likely to be abandoned.

Taken a little further, I'd like to see that omniscient Doberman in pursuit of that irresponsible human I just dropped from the helicopter on that mountaintop. I see the big dog (god?) on the heels of the human as he runs out of the woods and onto the road just as a monster coal truck comes around the curve.

No change

Pikeville Mayor Frank Morris won't get his wish to see a change in the form of city government any time soon.

Morris said he failed to get enough signatures on a petition he supported to have the issue of changing from a commission form of government to a council form put on the November ballot. — Appalachian News-Express

Source of bad water found

Residents of Mill Branch at Elkhorn Creek may have awakened with soapy tap water again Sunday, but the source of the sudsy liquid, which began in homes last week, will not longer be in question.

Lab tests conducted by the state Environmental Protection Cabinet in Frankfort have determined that Blue Flame Energy Corp. is responsible for the contamination of the water supply at Mill Branch.

"We have determined that the water supply was contaminated by the drilling operation and we are going to hand deliver a notice of violation to the responsible parties," said EPC Inspector Ferris Sexton. — Appalachian News-Express

Man who led police chase indicted

An Ohio man who led local law enforcement on a high-speed chase through the county in late April has been indicted on several charges by a Pike County grand jury.

Jerry L. Pinkerton, 52, of Chillicothe, was indicted on one count of first-degree fleeing or evading police, a Class D felony; two counts of first-degree wanton endangerment, and driving under the influence in connection with the April 30 incident. — Appalachian News-Express

Sting nets two

An undercover sting operation by Inez City Police Chief Mitchell Williamson netted the arrest of two Pike County men on charges of obtaining controlled substances by fraud and forgery.

Roger Chaney, 22, and Billy R. Bevins, 48, both of Shelbyana, were arrested August 10 inside Rite-Aide after attempting to buy controlled substances with forged prescriptions in the name of Elmer Bowling of Turkey. — Mountain Citizen

Carnival worker arrested

A Milton, West Virginia, man remains in the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center in Paintsville on a $9,000 bond after being charged with third-degree sexual abuse and harassment involving two young girls August 11 at the Martin County Fair.

Twenty-seven-year-old ride operator James Williamson, aka "Scarface," was arrested by Kentucky State Police Trooper Mike Goble after parents came to him telling him that Williamson had allegedly touched one of the girls in a sexual manner.

According to Goble, the girls and their parents originally said Williamson touched one of the girl's private parts, but when taped statements were taken, the girls said they were not touched in a sexual manner. After it was determined there was not sexual contact, the third-degree sexual abuse charge will be amended, but the harassment charge will remain, Goble said. — Mountain Citizen

Gas-fired power plant to locate in Lawrence

Officials with Dynegy Inc., a Houston-based energy company, has announced it plans to build a $100 million natural gas-fired electricity generating station in Lawrence County.

The 500 megawatt plant will be located on an 18-acre site just a few miles north of AEP's Big Sandy Plant, along US 23, and will work with AEP by selling electricity to them and other power companies.

The new power plant, which will adopt the name Riverside Generating Company, is what is known as a peaking plant. This means it will tap into AEP's power grid at the Baker Substation, allowing the plant to sell electricity to other plants across the eastern US during peak times. — Big Sandy News

Health insurance increase debated

Last month, members of the Lawrence County Fiscal Court thought they were saving county employees money when they decided to switch health insurance carriers for a lower rate.

However, a representative of Elite Insurance brought a new set of rates before the county Monday morning that was considerably higher than the price quoted in the original bid.

Fair starts next week

The 1999 Morgan county Agricultural Fair starts Saturday afternoon with the annual Mountain Horse Celebration. The show, which will feature 28 classes of competition, is open to registered Mountain Pleasure, Rocky Mountain, and Kentucky Mountain Saddle Horses only, and will get underway at 3 p.m. at the Morgan County Fairgrounds. — Licking Valley Courier

Cutbacks by ARH to cost nine jobs

A total of nine employees will be laid off at the Morgan County Appalachian Regional Hospital in West Liberty. They include seven jobs at ARH Home Health and two at the hospital. The cuts are part of a reduction of 190 employees at the hospital chain's 10 facilities in eastern Kentucky and West Virginia. — Licking Valley Courier

Ambulance service expands

The Knott County Ambulance Service continued to grow over the weekend with the opening of a satellite station in the Beaver Creek area.

The second ambulance service site, located on KY 7 south, 3.5 miles from the intersection of KY 7 and KY 899, will reduce time required to reach patients in distress, according to ambulance service director Reggie Tuttle.

The Beaver Creek site will be staffed 16 hours a day to start, 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. The satellite location covers Beaver Creek, out to Hemp Patch on Caney, and to Buffalo Road on Pinetop. — Troublesome Creek Times

Three Area Development Fund grants totaling $162,107 have been awarded to Knott County, with the recommendation of the Kentucky River Area Development District.

Two new Lifepak defibrillators/monitors for use by the Knott County Ambulance Service will be purchased with $37,342 of the funds. A new 1999 International dump truck will be purchased for $79,382, and a New Holland TS90 truck and Tiger TRB50C sideboom

Patton steps into PMH fence issue

After a Sunday meeting between Gov. Paul Patton and Pikeville Methodist Hospital's registered nurses and CEO Walter May, the hospital has agreed to move fencing it installed last month back 20 feet from By-Pass Road. Representatives from the United Steelworkers union had claimed placing the fence so close to the road infringed on pro-union workers' right to gather in front of the facility. — Appalachian News-Express

PMH RNs want to break with union

A petition bearing the signatures of at least 30 percent of Pikeville Methodist Hospital's registered nurses was filed Monday with the National Labor Relations Board, marking the first step in a process that could sever that group's ties with the United Steelworkers. Claude Herrell, supervisory examiner for the NLRB's regional office in Cincinnati, confirmed the petition was filed Monday, but would not comment on the number of signatures on it or any other specifics. — Appalachian News-Express

Pikeville gets $1.2 million for water project

The City of Pikeville has gotten a $1.2 million boost from the US Department of Agriculture's Rural Development to help upgrade its water system.

The funds consist of a $668,000 loan and a $550,000 grant. Other sources are also contributing.

The money is to be used to rehabilitate the raw water intake structure, to install a telemetry system to all tanks and pump stations in the area and to install three 500,000-gallon storage tanks and a raw water supply grit removal system that will improve service to the city's customers. — Appalachian News-Express

Police seeking motive for killings

A man and a woman, who were well-known Magoffin County natives and maintained a part-time residence in the Dixie community of Salyersville, were found dead August 5 in their Union Township, Ohio, home.

A Cincinnati man was arrested about six hours after the discovery of the victims' bodies and was taken into custody in Licking County, near Columbus.

Abram Walter "A.W." Smith III, 55, who grew up and lived for many years in the Bloomington section of Magoffin County, and Jimalee Arnett, a Salyersville native, were found shot to death at Arnett's Union Township home.

Police discovered the couple's bodies just after 1:30 p.m. About six hours later, Anthony Larry Rudolph, 42, said to be a friend of both the victims, surrendered to police. He was charged with two counts of aggravated murder and one count of aggravated robbery and was taken to the Butler County jail where he was placed under a $1.5 million bond. — The Salyersville Independent

BOE approves raise for classified employees

The Magoffin County School Board, meeting in special session August 9, approved the motion that will give the system's 250 classified employees a six percent across-the-board raise. The six percent will be based on individual employees' current hourly pay.

Board members also approved a salary schedule, which in part determines employee pay increases according to years of service. — The Salyersville Independent

Feds indict two

Joseph L. Famularo, US Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky, and Jim Brown, special agent in charge, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, have jointly announced a federal grand jury in Ashland returned an indictment charging two Magoffin County men with drug-related felonies.

Harold Dean McCarty, 35, and Joe Douglas Helton, 34, have been indicted on charges of possession with intent to distribute cocaine, use of a firearm during the drug trafficking and a felon in possession of firearms.

The indictment alleges that on June 4, McCarty and Helton possessed 10 grams of cocaine with the intention to distribute. Both defendants were also charged with possessing a firearm after previously being convicted of a felony, and using such firearm in their drug trafficking. — The Salyersville Independent

Sheriff switches gears on delinquencies

Delinquent taxpayers in Johnson County may have gotten a reprieve from Sheriff Bill Witten's frontal assault on unpaid 1998 property tax bills, but they can expect a flanking move very soon.

After running up against obstacles in his plan to seize the personal bank accounts of 565 delinquent taxpayers, he announced Tuesday that he is giving tax delinquents just seven days to pay up if they hope to avoid court action.

He said he will pursue collections under KRS 135.010, which permits the sheriff to attach bank accounts through circuit court action. — The Paintsville Herald

LeMaster not a suspect

Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms spokesman Don York confirmed last week that Johnnie LeMaster is no longer a suspect in the arson fire that destroyed the historic Hotel Herald building on August 5.

LeMaster, who owned the building, and his secretary, Wanda Williams, were cleared of any responsibility for the fire after they underwent polygraph tests. — The Paintsville Herald

In Loving Memory Of Berlin Johnson

October 7, 1943-August 23, 1998
Son of Homer and Hazel Johnson

We would like to thank you, Lord, for this special being, for allowing us to be a part of his life! We thank you, Lord, for answering his prayers and taking him home swiftly when his pain became too much for him to bear. And as we wait here to be with him again in paradise, we thank you, Lord, for our memories of him! May we always remember how much we love you, Bertie!

We miss you so!
From all of us — The Family!
We also want to thank everyone again who helped us during the loss of our precious loved one last August.

Pikeville College introduces new major in criminal justice

Pikeville College is offering a new baccalaureate degree and an associate degree program in criminal justice. Both programs begin with the fall semester of 1999.

The two degrees will give students an opportunity to choose between a baccalaureate four-year degree program and an associate two-year degree program.

Graduates from either program will be trained to assume positions in many areas within the criminal justice system. They may choose from jobs in a variety of court, law enforcement, or correctional settings at federal, state or local levels. Positions in correctional education case management, victim-offender mediation, or chemical dependency counseling are among employment possibilities.

After graduating with a four-year degree in criminal justice, students may also choose to enroll in graduate and professional programs such as law, social work or counseling.

Beyond the core requirements for the major, students may choose a concentrated emphasis of 21 hours from law enforcement, corrections, or a self-designed interdisciplinary emphasis. The minor in criminal justice is also available at Pikeville College and consists of 21 hours of required curriculum.

Dr. Wallace Campbell, vice president for academic affairs and dean of the college, said, "This program appeals to a broad spectrum of student interests and career options, while maintaining the liberal arts orientation of Pikeville College."

I can see this program not only meeting the needs of the area, with the increase in interest in corrections and law enforcement, but also serving to prepare students for positions anywhere in the United States.

Hands-on learning will be available through internships and field experiences in a variety of settings such as correctional institutions, juvenile services, courts and law enforcement agencies. A special feature of this type of learning is the portfolio, in which qualified students may document their work experience and/or training for advanced academic credit.

"My confidence in the program stems from its adherence to national standards; its attention to recent trends such as victim-offender mediation; community policing and restorative justice; and its utilization of portfolio and practicum experiences. The experience and educational background of the faculty employed to teach and coordinate the program is exceptional," Campbell said.

The coordinator of the program is Dr. Lori Kepford, who holds a Ph.D. in sociology with a concentration in criminal justice, and has several years of experience in programming and professional services in the criminal justice field.

Appalshop is seeking entries for traveling exhibit

Images From the Mountains, a traveling exhibit of Appalachian artists is seeking entries for its upcoming show.

Sponsored by Appalshop, this 14th annual exhibit is a juried exhibition of original paintings and works on paper. It is an opportunity for both established and emerging artists from the Appalachian counties of Kentucky to exhibit their work in the state.

The exhibit is open to any artist currently residing in eastern Kentucky. An artist may submit up to three entries for which there is no entry fee. Entries must be post-marked by October 9.

The show will open at Appalshop in Whitesburg on November 14, and then tour in Kentucky through December 2000.

For more information and/or to request an entry form, contact Barbara Church at Appalshop 606-633-0108 or E-mail afp@appalshop.org. Information will also be available on the web site at www.appalshop.org.

JWT to host fashion show

Jenny Wiley Theatre (JWT) is planning to host its first-ever fundraising fashion show on Thursday, September 16 at 7 p.m. The Jenny Wiley Theatre Fall View will include a runway show, booth exhibits (including cosmetics, jewelry, clothes and make-up), entertainment and a light dinner.

Tickets for the 2000 season fund raiser will be $20 each, and all of the money raised will be used for production costs. JWT also encourages local vendors to purchase a booth at the fashion show for $50. The two primary lines of clothing to be showcased at the benefit are Doncaster fashions and apparel from Mickey's in downtown Pikeville.

"It's going to be a really fun fundraising event, and numerous of our board members are going to model the fashions," JWT board member Pat Preston said.

Anyone interested in attending the JWT Fall View needs to purchase tickets in advance by calling JWT at 606/886-9274 or toll free at 1-877-CALL-JWT.

Three Rivers Medical Center

Welcomes

Curt Edens, D.O.
Obstetrician/Gynecologist

The doctors who work at Three Rivers Medical Center all have different stories about how and why they became doctors, but there's one thing they all have in common. They are very good at what they do. One of our newest doctors to our medical staff is Dr. Curt Edens who practices as an Obstetrician/Gynecologist in our community.

Dr. Edens offers a full scope of obstetrical and gynecological services. He brings a wealth of expertise and experience to his new practice with TRMC in Louisa. He received his medical degree from the West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine in Lewisburg, West Virginia. His four-year OB/GYN residency was completed at Riverside Regional Medical Center in Newport News, Virginia.

His office is located in Three Rivers Medical Plaza, Suite 106. Hours: Mon., 1 p.m. to 7 p.m.; Tues., Wed., and Thurs., 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Fri., 8 a.m. to 12 noon. Appointments and consultations may be made by calling 606-638-4900.

CHAMBER NOTES

by Rebecca Derossett
Executive Director
Floyd County
Chamber of Commerce

Many thanks to the Board of Directors for a productive meeting last Monday. The turn-out was impressive—17 out of 22. President Dennis Dorton kept the agenda flowing as item after item was addressed. Bylaws revisions, committee restructuring, training plans, membership recruitment, new maps, and the Jenny Wiley golf tournament were among the list of concerns. The board is comprised of representatives from a wide variety of businesses: Manufacturing, health care, insurance, education, natural resources, government, tourism, and banking, to name a few. Think of that! In one room, in one accord, this diverse group met for two hours to address matters that directly or indirectly impact the business community.

This is no small thing. The service these folks provide is immeasurable in dollars, unknown and quite often unappreciated by the general public. The Board of Directors of the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce is the guiding force for economic progress and a better quality of life for the community and citizens of the Big Sandy Valley. A round of applause is certainly appropriate for those who have volunteered time and talents to serve their community.

Board members are:

President Dennis Dorton, Citizens National Bank; President-elect Carla Coburn, Jenny Wiley Theatre; Treasurer Stephanie Baldwin, Manpower Temporary Services; Past president Suzanne Hyden, Kinzer Drilling Company; Phillip Hunt, Hall and Clark Insurance; Harold Warman Jr., Highlands Regional Medical Center; Dr. Fred Meece, dentist; Kathy Lou Friend, Coal-ition Inc.; Norm Marcum, WDOC-WQHY Radio; Greg Wilson, First Commonwealth Bank; Mark McLemore, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park; Dan Hitchcock, Big Sandy RECC; Leigh Ann Maynard, McDowell ARH; Trent Naim, Naim Inc., and REMAX Realty; Charles Collins, R/S Truck Body; Chris Carter, Music-Carter-Hughes; Gary Bailey, Cooley Medical Equipment; Jim Combs, Combs and Isaac Law Office; Tim Hites, Inacomp; Gary Frazier, Country at Heart; Doug Pugh, Castle's Jewelry and Gifts; O. Sam Blankenship, Edward Jones Investment; Rebecca Derossett, executive director. You have an opportunity to serve with a great bunch of civic-minded people. Join the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce today by calling 606/886-0364. Come out to the next meeting on Monday, September 13, at noon, Jenny Wiley State Resort Park, and see your Chamber of Commerce at work. See you, same place, same time, next week. Stay in touch!

Special gate admission and Thrillway promotions available at state fair

The Kentucky State Fair and Kroger are once again offering discount advance gate admission and ride tickets to this year's Kentucky State Fair, August 19-29. Advance gate admission and Thrillway ride tickets are being sold at Kroger locations throughout Kentucky and Southern Indiana, and will continue to be available through August 18. By making advance purchases, Fair patrons can save $2 off regular adult gate admission, and $1 off admission for seniors and children.

Ride tickets are discounted by one-third when purchased in advance. Ride tickets to the Kentucky State Fair Thrillway will include attractions at both the Cumberland Valley Shows Midway and Six Flags Kentucky Kingdom. The Fair will also offer special gate promotions on Tuesday, August 24. Thanks to Rite Aid Pharmacies' Senior Citizens Discount Day, seniors can get in for only 25 cents with a coupon from Rite Aid Pharmacies. Thursday, August 26, is Kentucky Farm Bureau Carload Day. Everyone in a vehicle can purchase Fair admission for only $6, effective until noon. Regular rates will be charged after 12 p.m. Parking is $3. Gate admission pays for all attractions, displays, and shows at the Kentucky State Fair, other than paid concerts and evening performances of the World's Championship Horse Show. Visitors can enter the State Fair Thrillway at no extra charge; however, Thrillway rides and games cost extra. The midway portion of the Kentucky State Fair Thrillway opens at 3 p.m. on weekdays, and at noon on weekends, and runs until closing. The Six Flags Kentucky Kingdom portions opens at 4 p.m. on weekdays, and at 10 a.m. on weekends, and also runs until closing. Hurricane Bay will not be open during the Fair.

Concert series announced

The Eastern Kentucky Concert Series announces its annual meeting will be held on Thursday, August 26, at 7 p.m. The meeting will be held in the Campbell Building at Prestonsburg Community College. Signs will direct people to the conference room. All interested persons are welcome to attend. Election of officers for the new season will be held, in addition to the usual business pertaining to the upcoming concert season. The Eastern Kentucky Concert Series is also pleased to announce the 1999-2000 season: Rural Route Classix, two flutes and Cello, September 10; MSU Faculty Brass Quintet, November 9; Emanuele Segre, guitar, March 24; MSU Faculty Jazz Ensemble, April. For season ticket information, call 606/886-3863 ext. 311 or 606/789-5625. The Eastern Kentucky Concert Series is a non-profit community organization. Contributions beyond the cost of tickets are tax-deductible.

 School Team: Betsy Layne Bobcats
 # 64
 6'0" 220 lbs So.
 3.38 G.P.A.
 Bench Press: 150-155 lbs.
 Leg press: 400 lbs.
 Squats: 220 lbs.
 Position: Right Defensive Tackle, Occasional Sub Offensive Right Tackle, also plays on special teams.
 Favorite Movie: Varsity Blues
 Goals: "Win more games than we did last year. Try our best and win as many games as we can."
 Thoughts on the Team: "We are improving, doing better against teams we played against last year."

Future plans: "I plan to go on to college majoring in wildlife biology."

Comments on the game: "I like playing on the defensive line and getting into the backfield."

Joshua Allen is playing football for his seventh year now. He started playing while at Betsy Layne Elementary where he played on the area flag football team. He has always played on the defensive line as a tackle, but he has played as a guard or center. Allen has also played on the Betsy Layne grade school team. He says his best memory of his career thus far was of the 6th or 7th grade teams.

"I have a lot of memories. I broke through the line and tackled a running back in the back field. That's my best memory so far."

Allen has just started into heavy lifting but is improving with every set, according to his team.

In his future: "I would like to start as an offensive lineman as a tackle or guard. I would like to get stronger in weightlifting and just like to help make the team as successful as I can."

Coach Ted George said of this unknown player, "He's improving. He's just a sophomore. He's getting better every day. He has come a long way. (He's a) good kid in the classroom. Teachers love him. (He's) an enjoyment to coach. He's a 'Yes, Sir, No, Sir' type. (He) takes all the hard classes. He'll be a good one, and he'll probably be leading the team in few years. We will probably be playing him both ways. He has a life beyond football. He never complains, and he's a super kid, real polite."

Assistant Coach Brandon "Bubba" Combs said of Allen: "He's a smart kid, comes out every day and listens to the coaches. He tries hard. He didn't know much about the game until this year, but he's absorbing it all."

Allen has the desire to be one of Betsy Layne's finest. According to his coaches and teammates, he is learning and is improving with every effort. Keep an eye out on this kid's progress. Coach George and Bobcat opponents will.

Betsy Layne Cheerleaders are ready for the season

by Karen Joseph
 Sports Writer

The varsity cheerleaders at Betsy Layne High School are ready for the upcoming football and basketball seasons. They have practiced all summer.

Veteran coach Carolyn Clark is the cheerleading coach for the Bobcats this season. Clark says she loves working with the girls and in previous years has coached the boys varsity, girls varsity and the dance team all at the same time. But this year she is only coaching the boys varsity squad.

Coach Clark says she has a young squad this year. "We have 16 girls this year, with only two seniors," she said. "We have a new captain this year, senior Brittany Blankenship. The other senior Crystal Williams was on the dance team last year. We have six juniors, two sophomores and six freshman."

"This is a young squad with seven who have never cheered on a high school team and one that took a year off."

The girls have practiced two hours a day throughout the summer. Chris Lemaster, with Delta State University in Mississippi, has been helping the girls. "We had a three-day camp this summer and the girls learned a lot of new things," Clark said.

"I am very excited about this year," she added. "The girls are easy to work with and I really enjoy them. They are young and inexperienced, but they have worked very hard this summer and I am very proud of them."

 Spotlight on Kevin Spurlock

by Karen Joseph

Kevin Spurlock is in his second year as head football coach at Allen Central High School. He is the assistant coach for the boys basketball team and is head baseball coach. He is a very busy man.

An Allen Elementary School alumnus, he attended Betsy Layne High School and graduated from Allen Central High School. He received his teaching degree from Alice Lloyd College and teaches Global Issues and History at Allen Central High.

The coach enjoys coaching football. "We practice about six hours a week. I never practice the boys on the weekends. I try to make it fun for the boys," Spurlock said. "You know with as few players that you have to come out for football, you can't afford to lose any. So we try to make it as enjoyable as possible."

Coach Spurlock thinks his team this year is ready. "We had a very good summer camp. We held our own camp, with Elkhorn City and Fleming Neon attending," he said.

"This team is more disciplined and more athletic. We have more players this year, but less experience and they are not as football knowledgeable. But, we are getting there. The boys have more confidence since we were five and six for last season."

Importantly, said Spurlock, "They believe they can win."

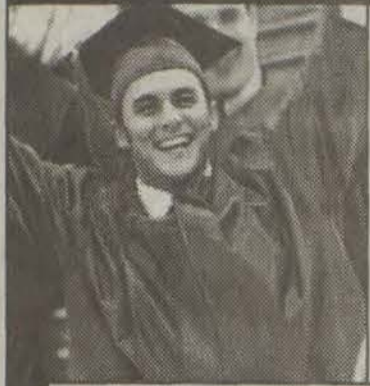

Spurlock gives a lot of credit to the Allen Central Corvette museum...

NASCAR star Terry Labonte at the Museum

Two-time NASCAR Winston Cup Series champion Terry Labonte will be on-hand at the National Corvette Museum Wednesday, August 25, with festivities beginning at 4 p.m. CDT. Driver of the Chevrolet Monte Carlo Kellogg's Corn Flakes No. 5 car, Labonte is a member of the Hendrick Motorsports Team, the reigning three-time Winston Cup champion owner.

A native of Corpus Christi, Texas, Terry Labonte is a familiar fixture on the NASCAR circuit. The 22-year NASCAR veteran known as the "Ice Man" was the 1984 and 1996 Winston Cup Series Champion, and has 21 victories, 172 Top Five's, and 330 Top 10 finishes to his credit. Labonte is nearing the $20 million mark in career winnings, with $19,912,030 in the bag, including $1,330,731 in 1999 through July 25.

"Texas Terry," along with brother Bobby, is a part of the only brother duo to win championships in two major NASCAR series. Terry is currently 8th in the 1999 Winston Cup standings, 766 points behind series points leader Dale Jarrett. Along with crew chief Andy Graves, Labonte is a teammate of reigning back-to-back Winston Cup Series champion Jeff Gordon and Wally Dallenbach.

Labonte's racing roots can be traced back to 1964, when as a seven-year-old he began a 14-year apprenticeship racing quarter-midgets in his native Texas under the tutelage of his father, Bob. He made his NASCAR Winston Cup Series debut in the 1978 Southern 500, finishing 4th, and his first victory, ironically, was his 59th start, the 1980 Southern 500 at Darlington. His first pole was captured a year later at the Coca-Cola at Atlanta.

Beginning in September, 1978, Labonte drove 12 seasons for car owner Billy Hagan. In his first season with Hendrick Motorsports in 1994, Terry set personal single-season bests for wins with three and winnings with $1,125,921.

In April of 1996, Labonte equalled and then surpassed Richard Petty's all-time NASCAR record for consecutive starts when he made his 513th straight start on April 14 at North Wilkesboro and his 514th straight start on April 21 at Martinsville. The "Iron Man of NASCAR," Labonte has not missed a race since the start of his full rookie season in 1979 and joins Dale Earnhardt as the only drivers to start in every race in the 1980s and 1990s. Terry finished the 1996 season as Winston Cup Series champion, a year in which he earned more than $4 million in winnings. The 42-year-old Labonte resides in Thomasville, North Carolina, with his wife, Kim, and children Justin and Kristen.

The media interview and autograph session, which will run from 6-8 p.m., will be held outside in the Museum's Front Circle. Tickets went on sale August 12. Because of time constraints, a limited number of people will actually be able to get autographs from Terry Labonte. Tickets will be sold to the public for $25 each. These 500 ticketholders are eligible to receive an autograph from Labonte during the autograph session.

In addition, there will be 500 general admission tickets sold to the public for $10 each. While these tickets do not provide an autograph opportunity, ticketholders will be able to listen to the media interview and take pictures (within about 6-8 feet). They will also be able to purchase Terry Labonte merchandise in the Corvette Store. Those holding autograph eligible tickets will have numbered stubs, and will be called onstage for autographs when their ticket number is announced. There will be one ticket required per autograph.

A 68,000 square-foot landmark, the National Corvette Museum is a non-profit foundation dedicated to educating the public through the preservation of the Corvette's heritage, past, present and future. Located on I-65 at Exit 28 in the Corvette capitol of the world in Bowling Green, just across the street from the world's only Corvette Assembly Plant, the Museum is open daily from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

This year's annual Labor Day festivity features the return of the Corvette Caravan, with approximately 5,000 Corvettes expected to participate. The 1999 Corvette Caravan culminates on their arrival in Bowling Green for the 5th Anniversary Corvette Celebration, September 3.

For additional information, regarding the 1999 Corvette Caravan and Celebration, call (800) 53/VETTE or visit our website at www.CorvetteMuseum.com.

Spurlock

Middle School coach, Roy Harlow, who is also the defensive coordinator for the Allen Central Rebels.

"We are beginning to see great improvement with the football program and much of this improvement can be accredited to Coach Harlow working with the middle school", Spurlock said. "When the boys reach the high school level, they know the game and this makes it a lot easier to coach."

Kevin says he owes a lot of credit to his wife, "I do a lot of sports, but I could not do as much as I do if it was not for the love and support of my wife. During ball season she handles everything at home and gives me all the support in the world. I really appreciate her."

He is married to Angela Dye Spurlock, and they reside at Langley with their two daughters, Hannah, four, and Savannah, two.

"The future looks good at Allen Central High School in the football program", says Spurlock. "We have very supportive parents and that is what it takes."

Cup resembles musical chairs

The real excitement in the Winston Cup series may be starting to switch from the track to the garage area. Dale Jarrett seems to know how to protect his commanding lead each week and much of the drama and excitement associated with a close points chase is gone. The excitement of a points battle may be close to being over, but the excitement associated with Winston Cup's famous "Silly Season" is just beginning to move to the front burner.

It seems like the fire was turned up on "Silly Season" last week when owner Robert Yates and Texaco driver, Kenny Irwin decided it would be the best for both parties to go their separate ways next season. That move ended months of speculation on whether or not Yates would release his young driver and go searching for a driver with more experience.

Now it seems speculation is intensifying about who might drive Yates' Ford. Those on the list include Ricky Rudd, John Andretti, and now even Bill Elliott. Often times are just tossed out for a vacant seat, but each of these drivers mentioned have circumstances that might just land them in one of the most famous rides in the series.

Rudd who lost his Tide sponsorship for next year has given himself a 30-day window to try and put a sponsorship package together for his own team. If none is found, he will begin looking for a ride next season. Elliott, like Rudd, has his own

Kentucky Afield: Squirrel season opens soon

It's almost time for one of Kentucky's traditional fall pastimes — squirrel hunting. The 1999 statewide squirrel season opens August 21 and runs through January 31. Squirrel hunting is closed during a county's modern gun deer season.

Squirrels are plentiful across the state and the hunting forecast looks good. "We had a moderate mast crop which means the squirrel population will be equivalent to last year's," said Chris Garland, Upland Game Biologist with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR).

He added, "Mast production was slightly higher in eastern and central Kentucky." This means squirrel populations will be a little larger than last year in those portions of the state.

Shooting hours for squirrel hunting are one-half hour before sunrise until one-half hour after sunset. The daily limit is six; possession, 12.

Don't forget that wearing hunter orange is required during deer firearms seasons.

Hunters are encouraged to participate in a squirrel hunting survey, available from the department of fish and wildlife.

Data collected by these surveys are used to monitor the squirrel population. The number of hunters participating in the survey impacts the quality of data gathered.

Each participant receives a diary-type hunting log in which he or she records dates hunted, number of hunters, number of hours hunted and number of squirrels harvested. At the end of the season, the hunter sends the information to the KDFWR for analysis. Each participant's diary will be returned to the hunter with a summary of the collected data and a small gift of appreciation for their participation.

For additional information about hunting opportunities in Kentucky or to receive a squirrel hunter survey, write KDFWR, #1 Game Farm Rd., Frankfort, KY 40601, call 1-800-858-1549, visit www.state.ky.us/agencies/fw/kdfwr.htm or e-mail info.center@mail.state.ky.us.

Not just for the birds

It's estimated that cats kill millions of birds and billions of other small animals each year. In addition, hundreds of millions of cats are killed each year by automobiles, dogs, human cruelty, poison, traps, wild animals, disease and parasites. All this suffering is unnecessary and can be stopped.

The American Bird Conservancy (ABC) has initiated Cats Indoors! The Campaign for Safer Birds and Cats to end the unnecessary suffering and death of wildlife and cats.

Cats Indoors! promotes grassroots efforts to educate cat owners, decision-makers and the general public that free-roaming cats pose a significant risk to birds and other wildlife, suffer themselves and pose a threat to human health.

Cats Indoors! also advocates laws, regulations and policies to protect cats and birds, including the humane removal of free-roaming cats from areas important to wildlife.

The campaign's goal and message is: End predation of birds and other wildlife by cats. Cats, whether owned, stray or feral should not roam free.

Cats cannot be blamed for killing wildlife — it's part of their nature. Cat owners, however, are responsible for ensuring that their cats are safely indoors.

As a descendant of the wild cat of Africa and southwestern Asia, the domestic cat instinctively hunts and captures prey. Even well-fed cats kill wildlife. The cat's urge to hunt is controlled by a different portion of its brain than its urge to eat.

Contrary to what some may believe, strapping a bell on a cat doesn't prevent the cat from hunting. A cat can learn to stalk prey silently even when wearing a bell. Besides, wild animals do not necessarily associate the ringing of a bell with danger.

Free-roaming cats often experience short lives filled with pain, suffering and deprivation. While an indoor cat may survive for 17 or more years, outdoor cats only live an average of two to five years.

Outdoor cats are constantly in danger. Millions of cats are run over by automobiles each year. They are often injured and even killed in attacks by dogs, other cats, coyotes, raccoons and foxes.

Outdoor cats are also often subjected to human cruelty ranging from shooting, stabbing, drowning and burning to using the animals for research and to using cats as bait to train fighting dogs. Cats allowed to roam outdoors risk exposure to fatal diseases and debilitating parasites.

Thousands of cats are also killed by pesticides, rodenticides and antifreeze poisons each year. Cats are also maimed and killed in traps.

The logical solution is to keep cats indoors. Keeping cats indoors protects both wild animals and cats. Kittens that are kept indoors usually show no desire to venture outside as they mature. With knowledge, patience and time, you can change most outdoors cats into happy indoor pets. These tips will help:

- Provide a safe, outside enclosure, such as a screened porch.
- Provide window shelves to let cats monitor the outdoors while safely indoors.
- Play with you cat each day. Provide toys to keep them occupied while you are away.
- Plant kitty grass (available from pet supply stores) in indoor pots so your cat can graze.
- Clean litter boxes regularly.

team, but sponsor McDonald's is leaving after next season, leaving him looking for a new deal. The up side to signing Andretti is that it would be part of a package that would bring along his current STP crew chief, Robbie Loomis.

Jimmy Spencer and Wally Dallenbach are a couple of other drivers who are looking for employment next year and it is likely that a move won't be made until Yates names his driver. It won't take long after Yates decision that the rest of the drivers will sign a deal with another team for the 2000 season.

Cal Wells, the owner that took both the Tide and McDonald's sponsorships away from Rudd and Elliott also is eagerly awaiting Yates' decision. Wells already has an engine leasing program in place with Yates for next season and is said to be interested in talking with Irwin as a possible driver for one of his teams.

Wells, since announcing his intentions to get into Winston Cup earlier in the year, has wasted very little time in beginning to put together his teams for next season. He has already hired several crew members from other teams and has had conversations with some of the top talent in the garage area.

Michael Kranefuss said that Wells has talked with his Mobile One driver, Jeremy Mayfield, but said that Mayfield will remain with his team. Wally Dallenbach is also on Wells' list, and there are indications that Wells might be trying to put together a package with crew chief Tony Glover to help start up his organization.

Just as Glover is on a want list, the names of several other crew chiefs have been mentioned as possible candidates to move over to take the place of Ray Evernham as Jeff Gordon's crew chief. Evernham may take over the role of general manager for Hendrick Motorsports overseeing all three of Hendrick's teams. Evernham has tried to make the move for the last couple of seasons so he wouldn't have to spend as much time on the road as he does now as Gordon's crew chief.

The top name on the list to replace Evernham if he does go into a management role apparently is current Caterpillar crew chief, Tommy Baldwin. Baldwin has become one of the hottest commodities in the garage area with the on track performance by his driver, Ward Burton.

Burton's owner, Bill Davis has already resigned both Burton and Caterpillar for the next season and wants desperately to keep Baldwin in his organization. The rumors have angered Davis because he views it as another multi-car operation growing at the expense of a single car operation. Davis, no doubt also remembers back in 1992, when Hendrick recruited another one of his employees, Jeff Gordon.

Although very few moves have already been made for next season, it sure looks like we are going to have to buy a program to keep up with all of the changes come February in Daytona!

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP SERIES

Jeff Gordon, mired in a season that is by his standards mediocre, started third but was out front by the second lap of the Frontier at the Glen, the only official NASCAR race without a number in the title at the only track that does not refer to itself as either a speedway, a superspeedway or a raceway.

From lap two on, everyone else was playing tag football while Gordon was playing smash-mouth. He led 55 out of 90 laps and probably would have led more had not his pursuers insisted in playing strategic games designed to give them fleeting track position.

Others — most notably the long-shot runner-up, Ron Fellows — were impressive, but only Gordon was dominant.

Gordon, who has won more races (47) at age 28 than any driver in NASCAR history, was not always so proficient on the twisting, turning road courses.

"It's not hard for me to go back just three or four years ago when a good race for me was if I stayed on the track and didn't miss a shift," Gordon said.

Those days seem like ancient history. Gordon has now won five road races in a row: Watkins Glen in 1997-99 and Sears Point 1998-99. No one has done that before, not even road-racing specialist Dan Gurney, who won three in a row and four out of five at the old Riverside, Calif., course in the 1960s.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Joe Nemechek vs. Bill Elliott

Nemechek blamed Elliott for the late incident that relegated him to a 30th-place finish. "I drove my car in way too deep and here comes Bill Elliott, and I knew there was no way he was going to make it," said Nemechek. "I still had to go around the corner or else get penalized. When he runs into my back tire, it's kind of stupid. It's a shame. The last lap, running good, the car is torn all to heck. We were running eighth and ended up 38th (actually 30th) or something. ... I don't know what Bill Elliott was thinking."

"I got inside of Joe Nemechek and we got together," said Elliott, "hard enough that I had to finish with a flat left-front tire. We went from ninth to 28th, but that's just last-lap racing sometimes."

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "Excuse me, but didn't this start because Nemechek, by his own admission, drove into the corner 'way too deep'?"

PROFILE

David Green

John Clark/NASCAR This Week

David Green has not won a race in 59 starts.

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

To this point, David Green has never been able to duplicate his Busch Grand National success in Winston Cup.

A former World Karting Association champion, Green won the BGN championship in 1994 and was second in 1996. He has been rookie-of-the-year runner-up in both BGN and Cup, but his best-ever Cup finish is 16th at Charlotte in 1997.

Green's current sponsor, Kodiak, is leaving at the end of the season, but his team got a lift at Indianapolis with a third-place qualifying effort.

AGE: 41
HOMETOWN: Born and raised in Owensboro, Ky., lives in Archdale, N.C.
WIFE: Diane
CHILDREN: Kaylie Rae (2)
CAR: No. 41 Kodiak Chevrolet Monte Carlo, owned by Larry Hedrick
RECORD: 59 starts, 0 poles, 0 wins, 0 top-five finishes, 0 top-10s, more than $1.5 million in career earnings
FIRSTS: Start (Feb. 23, 1997, at Rockingham), pole (none), win (none)
HOW DID IT FEEL TO QUALIFY SO WELL AT INDY? "For the guys from 30th down in the point standings, it was probably the most pressure-packed day of the season. We needed it, and we need a few great performances on race day. ... Before you can win a race or finish in the top 10, you've got to be participating."

WHAT IS THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN QUALIFYING AND RACING? "For us to qualify at Indy as well as we did, we had to put all our eggs in one basket. For one lap, it all worked out. We just had to suck it up and go, and that's what we did. Qualifying is one thing and the race is something else. Between Thursday (pole day) and Saturday (race day), we had to work four times as hard just to get to where we needed to be."

YOU FINISHED 20TH IN THE BRICKYARD 400 AFTER STARTING THIRD. WHAT HAPPENED? "We were decent. We had very little practice the day before the race. What little we did, we couldn't find the handle. I was very concerned. The guys worked hard. We threw a lot of stuff at it, but I just didn't sleep well the night before the race, knowing we didn't have a good 'happy hour' (the final practice). The pit stops were good, but we just caught an unlucky break, and maybe Indy will be a turnaround for us. The competition gets tougher and tougher, but we'll see what happens."

Who's Hot... Who's Not

■ HOT: In what is likely his only start of the season, Ron Fellows finished second.

■ NOT: Joe Nemechek has finished 16th or worse in the last 10 races.

Trackside Trivia

1. What NASCAR track has the longest grandstand in the world?
2. What was Curtis Turner's hometown?
3. Who was the first driver to win a Grand National (now Winston Cup) race in a car with a three-digit number?

ANSWERS
1. Talladega Superspeedway; 2. Roanoke, Va.; 3. Tim Flock, in No. 300.

AROUND THE GARAGE

Wallace not pleased with performance so far

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. — By the standards of most drivers on the Winston Cup circuit, Rusty Wallace is having a solid year.

Wallace, who turned 43 on Saturday, won a 500-lapper at Bristol earlier in the season. In 21 starts, he has 11 top-10 finishes and five top fives. The pole he won at Watkins Glen was his second, and he ranks eighth in the season standings.

These numbers do not, however, please the relentlessly ambitious Wallace.

"Nah, we gotta do better than this," said Wallace. "This race team is interested in winning races and championships. It's not for lack of effort — I'll guarantee you that — but we're not satisfied with the top 10, either in races or in points."

IRWIN'S FUTURE: Kenny Irwin, now officially out as Robert Yates' No. 28 driver at the end of the year, said he has talked to several other car owners, but none of them is Mark Melling, whose No. 9 Ford is being vacated by Jerry Nadeau.

At least not yet. Irwin's account of his demise: He went to the shop and asked to talk with Yates, and over the course of a two-hour heart-to-heart, Yates cited reasons why he didn't believe the pairing was working and why he believed it would probably not get better. Upon hearing this analysis, Irwin agreed there was no sense continuing, hence the "mutual agreement" cited by Yates in the press release.

PASSING THE TEST: Dale Jarrett's Achilles' heel is road racing, meaning that his pursuers missed an opportunity at the Glen to chip away at Jarrett's edge in the season standings, which went up from 274 to 300 points.

Jarrett has never finished higher than fourth (his Watkins Glen placing) on a road course and has only four top-five finishes in 27 career starts. He was, however, sixth earlier this season at Sears Point, prefacing the solid finish at the season's latter road race.

"I think that each year we go to Watkins Glen, I've been able to learn more about what it takes to run well (here)," said Jarrett. "The team wants to win a championship, and in order to fulfill that goal, we not only have to be competitive on the ovals but the road courses as well."

"One of the most important things to learn on a road course is where the gains outweigh the risks. By that I mean, you've got to know where you can pass and make up time without hurting yourself position-wise or running off the course."

CREW OF THE WEEK

■ As usual, the Rainbow Warriors were magnificent in Jeff Gordon's victory at Watkins Glen. No NASCAR driver had ever won five road races in a row until Gordon's Sunday triumph topped off a streak that began at this track in 1997, and the Ray Evernham-led crew has every right to share in the credit for this achievement.

Your Turn

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week, My son and I are having a dispute we hope you can settle.

What do the NASCAR pit crew members do between races? Do they have jobs independent of the team they work for, and if so, how do they maintain their high level of performance when they work together on race day?

Beverly Kunkle
Frankfort, Ky.

There are almost as many answers to this question as there are teams. Some teams have pit crews that are full time or close to it, meaning that they work out and practice together on a daily basis between races. Others have crewmen who work at the race shops in another capacity, such as engine builder or fabricator. Some pit crews are made up of weekend volunteers who work on weekends for little more than food and travel expenses. There are all kinds of combinations.

Dear NASCAR This Week, Can you tell me the Winston Cup champions for the years 1981, 1982, 1983, 1985 and 1992?

Wendy DePeau
Lebanon, Pa.

In order, Darrell Waltrip, Darrell Waltrip, Bobby Allison, Darrell Waltrip and Alan Kulwicki.

Dear NASCAR This Week, I noticed a mistake in your July 21 Trackside Trivia. You asked who drove the Tim Flock Special in the Southern 500? (Darrell Waltrip) drove this in the TranSouth Financial 400 (the spring race at Darlington).

J. Nicholas Exley
Springfield, Ga.

You are absolutely correct. The source material we used was in error, but we should have caught it.

NOTICE OF BOND RELEASE

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.093, notice is hereby given that V & M Mining Company of Paintsville, Inc., P.O. Box 905, Flatwoods, KY 41102 (606-325-8234), has applied for Phase I, II and III bond release for permit 436-5007, which was last issued on March 5, 1997. The application covers an area of 9.98 surface acres and underlies approximately 135.46 acres located approximately 2.6 miles southeast of Printer in Floyd County.

The operation is located 2.8 miles southeast of the junction of KY 2030 and KY 122, and is 0.9 mile east of Spurlock Creek.

The latitude is 37° 41' 54" and the longitude is 82° 38' 04", and is located on the Harold 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map.

The performance bonds (Letters of Credit) now in effect for the operation is $26,600.00. 100% of this bond amount is included in this request for release.

Reclamation work thus far performed includes: backfilling and grading, sampling and testing, liming, fertilizing, seeding and mulching, and was completed in Fall 1995.
