Planning and hard work keep Clark's scores high

by WILLIE ELLIOTT
 STAFF WRITER

Clark Elementary had the highest scores on both the CATS and CTBS tests and has received reward money the last two cycles. So there must be some magical formula there, right? Yes, there is — it's called good planning and hard work.

A first impulse would be to say that Clark has better students than other schools. Obviously they do, but they are better because of the environment that has been fostered by the school and community. Clark has 66 percent of its students on free or reduced lunches, which is typical for schools in Floyd County.

Dingus and the other teachers are provided with documents on core all starts with high expectations, but adds that just having high expectations is not enough — plans have to be implemented to insure those expectations are met.

Combs also says that good attendance is important. To that end his school maintains an attendance percentage of around 94.5 percent.

Third-grade teacher Jan Dingus said the whole school was involved in writing the school consolidated plan and that made it easier to address the needs identified in the plan. Dingus said she felt wonderful about going to school each day. She said the faculty was a close-knit group that planned together to meet the needs of the students.

Dingus and the other teachers are provided with documents on core content, curriculum alignment plus the consolidated plan and the faculty does a novel thing with the documents — they use them.

Combs said these documents are part of a teacher's daily routine. He visits his teachers on a daily basis and does something that is free but quite effective — he lets his teachers know when they are doing a good job, which is most of the time if the scores mean anything.

Combs does other things that help learning. He knows each student by name, uses the intercom very sparingly and calls home each day that a student is absent — not just to check up on the student but also to show concern for the child's

First of PCC candidates to be interviewed

Prestonsburg Community College has narrowed the number of candidates for the position of college president to five and has released the name of the first of those candidates to be interviewed.

The first interview for the position has been scheduled. The preparations for the visits and interviews of the five candidates will begin at the end of August and continue through the month of September.

During the interview process, the candidates will visit the Paintsville, Pikeville and Prestonsburg campuses of Mayo Technical College and Prestonsburg Community College.

The first candidate to be interviewed is Barry Vann, a native of east Tennessee. The interview is scheduled for August 2.

Vann is the vice president for academic affairs at Northeastern Oklahoma A&M College. He is the former chair of the Division of Social Sciences and professor of Geography at the University of Arkansas.

His master's and bachelor's degrees were awarded at Western Kentucky University and Tennessee Technological University, respectively. He has published a critically acclaimed book and a number of professional articles on cultural and sociological issues affecting community and workforce development in the Southern Uplands.

Vann and his wife Sandy, who is a native of southeastern Kentucky, have two children, Sarah, 7, and Preston, 5 months. Vann enjoys fishing and gardening, but his favorite activity is golf.

The community is encouraged to participate with Prestonsburg Community College in the selection of the new president. A community reception will be hosted at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, August 29, in the Pike Technology Building auditorium, room 102. All community members are invited.

Dr. Charles E. Stebbins of Elizabethtown has served as interim president following the retirement of Dr. Deborah Floyd.

Bypro man charged with attempted arson

 MANAGING EDITOR

A Bypro man accused of attempting to burn down a house will be in court Monday to learn whether the charge will be taken before a grand jury.

Rodney Thomsberry, 45, is charged with attempting to commit first-degree arson in Floyd District Court.

The charge arises from an incident which allegedly took place August 17. According to court records, Thomsberry allegedly "planned to burn down [Michael Spears'] home by starting a fire and throwing it on [Spears'] home."

Thomsberry pleaded not guilty to the charge during his arraignment Monday.

In that same hearing, the court appointed Vicki

Former Negro League player dies at home

Times Staff Report

A Floyd County man who played professional baseball during a pivotal period in the history of both the sport and the nation has died.

Richard A. Watts, 73, of Wheelwright, died at his home on Tuesday.

After Watts graduated high school and served in the military during World War II, he followed a tradition set by grandfather, father and brothers and went to work in the coal mines.

But it was during the times that he wasn't working in the mines that he Mayben, Ala., native found time to pursue his love of baseball.

Watts' career brought him to Wheelwright, as he said in an interview in 1990, "to play baseball and get a job." When he wasn't working in the mines, he played for coal company teams for several years and ultimately earned a spot with the Birmingham Black Barons of the Negro American League.

The Negro Baseball Leagues, borne out of segregation, had their start in the years after the Civil War and enjoyed their greatest popularity in the 1920s, 1930s and 1940s before declining after Jackie Robinson broke the color barrier in Major League Baseball in 1947. By the 1960s, the Negro Leagues were gone altogether.

The Negro Leagues were already in decline by the time Watts reported to the Black Barons in 1949. His team had enjoyed a successful history, having played and lost its third Negro World Series the year before he joined the team.

But by 1949, the integration of Major League Baseball and its minor leagues had siphoned away many of the Negro Leagues' best players and the 1948 Negro World Series turned out to be the last.

Because of the decline of the Negro Leagues and the subsequent loss of media coverage, statistics from Watts' career could not be found. However, the Biographical Encyclopedia of Negro League Baseball does list Watts as a player during

Kodak executive focuses on skill shortage

(NAPS)- As employers across the nation are facing critical shortages of skilled workers, a group of executives has decided to take this challenge head on. John Lawrence, Vice-President, Corporate Quality and Director of Customer Satisfaction and Total Quality at Kodak, has accepted leadership of the Department of Labor's innovative strategy for improving workforce quality-the Workforce Excellence Network. The Network is a private-public partnership designed to ensure that this country has the best trained and educated workforce in the world.

Lawrence said that he has taken on this challenge because the skill shortage we face in the New Economy will only get worse if we don't begin to focus on bringing excellence to the workforce system. It's time for employers to get off the sidelines and get into the workforce excellence game. "If not us, who? If not now, when?" The Workforce Investment Act, passed in August 1998, opens a window of opportunity for employers to take control of job training and employment services in the U.S.

According to Labor Secretary Alexis Herman, the Workforce Investment Act envisions a workforce in this country that is not only focused on providing the highest quality of services to its customers, but is operated in partnership with the private sector. "We challenge employers across the country to get engaged in building this new workforce system."

John Lawrence and 34 other executives have accepted Secretary Herman's challenge. John will serve as Chair of the Workforce Excellence Board, which is guiding this effort. Before joining Kodak, Lawrence was an executive with Xerox where he was instrumental in that company winning two Malcolm Baldrige Awards and one European Quality Award.

Lawrence will draw on his extensive Quality experience to lead the Workforce Excellence Board in promoting performance excellence, continuous improvement, and a focus on customers throughout the nation's workforce system including: state and local workforce investment boards, one-stop career centers, job corps centers, welfare offices, community colleges, and private sector training, including corporate universities.

Lawrence challenges corporate America to "step up to the plate" and take control of workforce development by getting involved with the local and state workforce investment boards created under the Workforce Investment Act.

According to Lawrence, each member of the Network has a role to play in providing employers with the skilled workers needed if this economy is to continue to thrive. Network members also have the responsibility to provide job seekers and workers with training and employment services that enable them to participate in the economy in a meaningful way.

If you are an employer concerned about workforce skills in your locality or state, Lawrence urges you to get engaged in the crafting of a local workforce system that meets your needs. Contact your local or state workforce excellence board or one-stop career center to become part of this drive to workforce excellence. If you don't know the locations of your local organization, or, if you just want more information on the Network, visit the website at www.workforce-excellence.net.

Inspecting the plumbing

(NUE) - You think you've found your dream house and everything about it seems perfect. There's even a pool in the back yard. But before you purchase your new home, be sure to check out the plumbing system.

According to the plumbing experts at Roto-Rooter, 24 percent of customers call a plumber within one year of purchasing their new home. Here is a helpful checklist for visually inspecting your new home for problems:

- Check around the base of the toilet for rolled vinyl, black or white stains, and a soft, spongy floor. All of these are signs of water damage and a spongy floor is probably rotting or weakened. Also be sure to check to see how fast the toilet flushes.

- In the bathtub, check for leaky and loose tiles. Press on the walls where they come in contact with the bathtub. If the walls are soft, there is water damage to the sheetrock, plaster or wood behind the tiles.

- Check the water volume by turning on the water in the bathtub and the kitchen sink or in the bathtub and an outdoor hose. If there is a noticeable reduction in volume there may be deposits in the piping, and the pipes will have to be replaced.

- If there is a basement, check exposed piping in the basement for leaks and signs of repair. Find the location of the main line cleanout and ensure that it is accessible.

- Make sure the water heater is not old. Any heater over 15 years old will have to be replaced. If the water heater vent ties into the chimney, check to see that a metal liner sticks out of the top of the chimney on the roof of the house and a drip tee sticks out in the lower level. In homes without a basement, make sure that the water heater vent is at least 6 inches away from wood.

- In the kitchen, check that garbage disposal and dishwasher connections work properly when operating. With a flashlight, look inside of cabinets for signs of water damage such as warped cabinet bottoms or stains. Make sure that traps and supply tubes are not leaking.

- Washing machine hoses should be checked for ruptures and leaks by turning valves on and off.

For more information about plumbing tips and product information, visit Roto-Rooter, America's Neighborhood Plumber, at www.rotorooter.com or call 1-800-GET-ROTO (1-800-438-7686).

Thornsberry was released on a partially-secured $25,000 bond. As a condition of his release, he has been ordered to stay at least 1,000 feet away from Spears and his family.

Thornsberry is scheduled to appear in court Monday for a preliminary hearing. At that time, a judge will determine whether there is enough evidence in the case for it to be considered by a Floyd County grand jury.

Watts

the 1949 and 1950 seasons.

But Watts' baseball career did leave him with memories of playing with such players as Don Newcomb and against Jackie Robinson. His widow, Annie Laura Watts, recalled Thursday that her late husband started his baseball career with Willie Mays. The two remained friends throughout life.

After his baseball career, Watts devoted himself to the mining industry, ultimately becoming a mine inspector with the state Department of Mines and Minerals and later supervisor of the agency's Martin District. In both jobs, he was the first African-American in the state to serve in those posts.

Watts was a member of the United Mine Workers of America and a member of Friendship Baptist Church in Wheelwright.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, three daughters, four brothers and two sisters.

A complete obituary appears on page A6.

welfare. Both Combs and the teacher have praise for the involvement that parents have in their children's education. Dingus said she couldn't ask for a better principal. "He shows a lot of faith in us and tries his best to get what we need to do our job," Dingus said.

Dingus said the success of Clark is the result of many years of work and planning. The same sentiment was expressed by Drina Warrix, a veteran teacher of 17 years (all at Clark). Warrix also expressed appreciation for the support that Combs provides for the faculty.

Dingus said the school makes good use of support personnel. She said the family resource director, Pam Meyer, provided excellent support for the teachers.

Can these excellent scores continue at Clark? Dingus says there will be gradual progress at the school, but there may be lulls when one well-performing group is replaced by one that does not achieve at the same high level.

While the school does not have a librarian, they are fortunate to have Trina Staggs, a tech librarian, who does the work normally done by a librarian. Staggs says she is working on her certification to become a media specialist, a certified degree position.

A visit to a classroom at Clark looks much like a visit to other schools until the students start to perform and then it becomes evident the students know why they are there — to learn.

Dingus' class did an activity in oral language. She wrote sentences on the board with various mistakes and the children clamored for a chance to correct a part of the sentence. Even though they are just third-graders, the students use proper proofreading marks when they make a change.

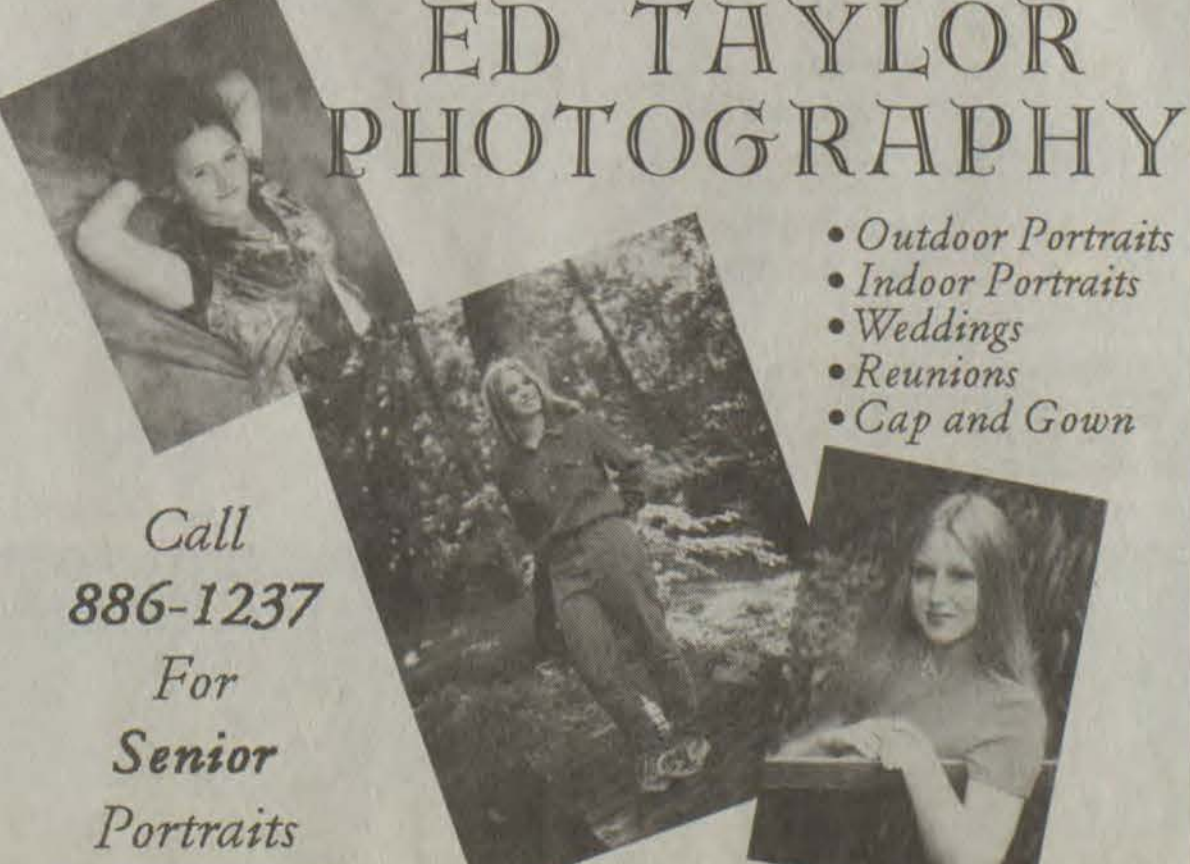

One of yesterday's sentences was, "she dont like to stop at pats house." They were up to the challenge, finding and correcting each mistake.

Dingus said the students made use of the skills they gained in the activity by writing a personal narrative and a fiction piece sometime during the school year. The pieces will follow them to the fourth grade when they may be the start of a portfolio piece. The students do journal writing on a daily basis.

Clark, a K-5 school, has 236 teachers and 10 teachers (not counting support personnel). This calculates to 23.6 students per teacher, which is slightly above the ratio set by the board. Combs hopes that he can be allocated one more teacher to reduce the ratio.

Clark Elementary has come up with a way of meeting the need to educate students — make a plan and then "just do it."

Governor announces conference on Latin America

Frankfort — Gov. Paul Patton has announced that the Governor's Conference on Latin America will be held January 8-10 at the Kentucky International Convention Center.

The conference will be all-encompassing, exploring new opportunities for Kentucky in Mexico, Central and South America in business, agriculture, travel and tourism, academia, culture and local government.

"The Latin American market is one of the fastest-growing in the world, and it is vital that we begin to explore the new opportunities available to the Commonwealth in this region," Patton said. "This conference will allow us to bring together Kentuckians with representatives from all segments of Latin American industry to discuss the multitude of opportunities available to our state."

At the conference, high-level speakers and guests from the United States and Latin America will focus on opportunities for Kentuckians within this growing marketplace. Conference organizers hope to attract more than 800 participants, as well as dignitaries from Mexico, Brazil, Argentina, and Chile and other regions in Latin America.

Breakout sessions will be featured focusing on the identified areas of opportunity. Sessions designed for local communities and governments are also being developed to increase awareness of international opportunities at the local level.

The conference will host a trade show, where trade commissions, embassies, consulates, service providers, and others can share information with conference participants.

Throughout the 1990s, Latin American markets for Kentucky goods and services grew exponentially, with exports to Brazil increasing 847 percent, to Argentina 417 percent, and to Chile 172 percent.

Brazil and Mexico are among Kentucky's top 10 trading partners. A proposed Free Trade Agreement of the Americas has the potential to create even more opportunities in the region for the Commonwealth.

The program for the Governor's Conference on Latin America is under development, and details will be released as they develop. Developments are available on the Web at <<http://www.state.ky.us/agencies/gov/ltamconf.htm>>

Registration for the conference will be $150 per person, including meals. A student rate of $75 is also available. Booth space for the trade show will be $150, and a dinner-only registration can be purchased for $50. For registration or sponsorship information, contact Mary Beth Cordy at the Cabinet for Economic Development at 502/564-7670 or 1(800)626-2930.

Christa McAuliffe Fellow selected

Frankfort — Diana P. Anderson, a library media specialist in the Pineville Independent school district, has been selected as a 2000 Christa McAuliffe Fellow, the Department of Education has announced.

Anderson received the fellowship based on her proposal to assist the department in the Content Teacher Academy Program. Middle-level teacher academies currently are being implemented in reading, mathematics, science and social studies.

Anderson has 12 years of experience as an educator, beginning as a grades 7 through 12 English teacher. She was a presenter at the National Middle School Conference in 1995 and has worked as a library media specialist for the past four years.

Beginning in the spring of 2001, Anderson will work with the department's Office of Academic and Professional Development to implement the teacher academies.

The Christa McAuliffe Fellowship is a federally-funded program honoring the late Sharon Christa McAuliffe, the teacher who served aboard the ill-fated Challenger space shuttle in January 1986.

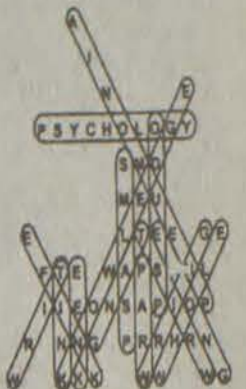

Each year, the program provides one fellowship per state to an outstanding teacher for up to 12 months to participate in educational activities that improve the knowledge and skills of teachers and students.

Each state will receive nearly $29,000 to implement its fellowship. Kentucky will use the funding to pay the salary of Anderson during the time she is assisting the department.

Has the invention of the airplane changed us?

(NUE) - When Orville Wright guided the first successful powered airplane into the air for 12 seconds at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, on December 17, 1903, neither he nor his brother, Wilbur, could have imagined this possibility: That thousands of airplanes with wingspans greater than the length of that first 120-foot plane would routinely take to the air decades later.

More than 23,000 domestic and international flights — from a total of 5,610 aircraft in service — travel per day, going an average length of 1,011 miles per trip. Because of this, the airplane is considered one of the greatest mechanical engineering achievements of the 20th century by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

"No other machine of man's invention has done as much to make the world accessible to so many people," according to the July 2000 issue of Mechanical Engineering magazine. "The most obvious role of the mechanical engineer involves the design of engines. From the Wrights' four-cylinder, 12-horsepower engine, aircraft propulsion has evolved into today's high-bypass turbofans developing over 90,000 pounds of thrust in some instances."

The flagship publication of ASME celebrates the airplane as a marvel of science and engineering, and rightfully so. Statistics show:

- Nearly 49 million passengers traveled by air between the United States and the rest of the world during the first half of 1995, according to the U.S. Department of Transportation's Office of International Aviation.

- Air transportation is an $80 billion industry employing half a million Americans, according to the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Aviation and International Affairs.

- In 1999, International Air Transport Association airlines carried more than 1.3 billion scheduled passengers, a growth of 3.8 percent from 1998, according to World Air Transport Statistics issued annually by IATA.

- IATA's member airlines carried 27.7 million metric tons of cargo in 1999, up 5.9 percent from 1998, according to WATS.

- The top six passenger-carrying airlines in 1999 were American, while international rankings were dominated by European airlines, according to WATS.

"Over the years, mechanical engineers developed new designs, including vee, rotary, radial and opposed-cylinder engines to suit an increasingly wide range of military and civilian applications," the magazine says. "From baggage bin mechanisms to the seats and from sanitary systems to the beverage cart, there is little in the modern airliner that has not been shaped by the mechanical engineer."

QUOTE OF THE DAY...

Let us never forget that government is ourselves and not an alien power over us. The ultimate rulers of our democracy are not a President and Senators and Congressmen and government officials, but the voters of this country.

Franklin D. Roosevelt

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people to peaceably assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

Soft justice?

Those who are convinced that our judicial system is plagued by double standards found reinforcement in sentences handed down over the past week in two high profile cases.

In one, Randy Kimbrough, a former deputy commissioner in the Kentucky Department of Education, was sentenced to two years (with no parole) for the embezzlement of $719,000 in state education money.

Her husband, who had a $45,000 contract as a "consultant" to school boards (thanks to his wife), got four months in federal prison for mail fraud. He is a former high school principal, she a former school superintendent in Warren County.

Another pair, Janice Law Phillips and her husband Joseph, were sentenced to 27 months and 21 months, respectively, for teaming up to steal more than $800,000 from Kentucky State University. She was a senior assistant to the university's comptroller. He was in the plumbing business and was a landlord of about 50 rental properties in Frankfort whose "financial troubles" caused his then-fiance to steal the money, according to her attorney, as reported by the Associated Press.

In both cases, the guilty parties have been ordered to make restitution, although the odds of that happening may in fact be slim.

Meanwhile, in our own newspaper court records we report on greater sentences almost weekly for crimes that many would deem far less serious than clipping the taxpayers for almost $1 million.

If you believe there is a more lenient standard of justice for white collar crime, it might be fair to take notice that high profile, white collar crime usually brings bigger headlines and greater public scorn for the offenders.

Maybe that will soothe the feelings of the "blue collar" criminal doing up to five years for stealing $350 or for growing a couple of marijuana plants in the basement.

...and the enemy is us

by ROBERT LINNELL

The older generation will remember the famous words of comic strip hero, Pogo, "We have met the enemy and the enemy is us." We Americans are gluttons when it comes to the use of oil products. As the rest of the world starts to follow our behavior the pressure on the world's non-renewable oil reserves will continue to force prices upward.

The U.S. trade deficit in June was the highest on record at $30.6 billion due mostly to an increase (and record) in oil imports. Sales of gas guzzling SUVs (which make big profits for auto makers) have skyrocketed. SUVs cause more traffic accidents and fatalities. Higher gas prices have had one good effect: both Ford and GM have announced plans for a 25 percent increase in gas mileage for their SUVs.

Are gasoline and fuel oil prices really high? Due to an oversupply (from the Asian economic slump) crude oil was $11 per barrel just a year and a half ago but now is $32. Consumer complaints have been loud as prices at the pump reached over $2 a gallon in some areas. In typical fashion no one wants to take responsibility so we blame others: President Clinton and gouging oil companies are favorite targets.

Understanding the reason for oil prices now being over $30 per barrel is simple Economics 101 — supply and demand. Supplies are tight and demand is increasing worldwide. Asian economies are recovering and underdeveloped countries are developing, increasing the worldwide demand for oil. With the exception of Saudi Arabia, oil producing countries are producing at maximum current capacities and United States production is in decline.

We now import more than 50 percent of our oil and are the world's largest user. As other nations continue economic development, world demand will continue to grow and the long-term trend, in spite of much new drilling, will be for higher prices. In terms of constant dollars, oil prices are actually lower now than they were in the period 1975-85 and about the same as they have been over the 1990-99 decade (excepting the brief $1 per gallon prices at the end of 1998 and early 1999).

Another measure of oil prices is the contribution to total GDP (Gross Domestic Product) from oil costs. This percentage has steadily declined from a peak of 4 percent in the early 1980s to about 2 percent now. This decline means that the impact of oil prices on inflation is now much less than it was 15-20 years ago.

Oil prices will probably drop a bit this fall as Saudi Arabia increases production but winter heating costs will definitely be up by as much as 50 percent in some cases. Other nations look with envy at the American way-of-life. Electronic era communications have shown the rest of the world how we live and they want some of the same. Our lifestyle, with a car or two in every garage, is now the goal of peoples around the world. This means more demand for oil, a finite resource that would be rapidly depleted if everyone in the world used oil like we do.

There are only two responsible paths for us to pursue to deal with this long-range problem. Conservation and development of renewable energy sources. But first we must stop trying to blame others and, as Pogo said, look to ourselves.

Every one of us can contribute to energy conservation. In the home there are many cost effective ideas. Additional insulation, automatic thermostat control, high-efficiency lighting and appliances can pay for their added costs in months or a few years.

Autos offer a lot of cost-effective opportunities for reduced gasoline consumption with the added advantages of increased safety, reduced maintenance costs and lower insurance rates. Keeping tires fully inflated can increase gas mileage by several miles per gallon and tires will also last longer. Following a regular maintenance schedule (oil change, lubrication, tune-up, etc) increases gas mileage and also reduces maintenance costs.

Driving habits have a major impact on gas mileage as well as on safety. Speeding and rapid acceleration and deceleration and braking can reduce gas mileage by 10 percent or more, cause more accidents and deaths, cost more in maintenance and increase auto insurance rates.

Economically viable alternative energy sources are now at the point of breakthrough. Renewable energy methyl alcohol in fuel cells will be ready for mass markets within the next few years. Solar is already the cheapest power

Question put on ballot improperly

Editor:

It is my considered opinion that the petition delivered to County Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson regarding a return to the magistrate form of county government is fatally flawed. This opinion is based on the following sections of KRS 67.050, "County commissions; elections to ascertain having; return to a prior form of government."

I. KRS 67.050, section 3, lines 6, 7, 8 and 9, clearly states that, "A petition for an election on a return to a fiscal court composed of justices of the peace and a county judge-executive shall state a proposed number of justices of the peace." The operative word here is "shall," which in Kentucky law directs compliance with the provision of the statute. The petition in question here, apparently circulated exclusively by the former magistrates, omitted any reference or statement concerning the number of justices that would serve in the proposed change.

II. KRS 67.050, section 1, lines 21 through 30, requires that the county clerk, within five (5) days of a signed executive order resulting from the petition, give a certified copy of the order to the sheriff or other officer "and the sheriff or other officer shall have the order published pursuant to KRS Chapter 424 and in addition advertise it by handbills posted at one or more conspicuous places in each precinct for the time that publication is required, stating when the election will be held and the purpose thereof." Again, the operative word is "shall," which mandates compliance with the provisions of the statute. The county clerk did not comply with this section of KRS 67.050.

III. KRS 67.050, section 1, lines 6 through 12, states that "upon a written petition signed by registered voters of the county equal in number to at least 15 percent of the total number of votes cast in the preceding presidential election, or 1,200 registered voters of the county, whichever is less..." From memory, the petition presents 1,390 signatures, of which 1,284 were certified by the county clerk as being the names of registered voters. This does not mean that these registered voters signed the petition. On the contrary, it appears that single individuals signed the names of up to 20 other people. We have identified 167 signatures which we dispute. If this suspicion is borne out by the proper authorities, the petition will have 1,117 registered voters' signatures, short of the 1,200 required to put the issue on the ballot.

Folks, this petition and the drive to return to the magistrate form of county government represents the dark side, the ugly side of machine politics here in Floyd County. The petition was sprung on us full grown out of the darkness, much as a thief sneaks upon his prey at night. It was not advertised in the newspaper, on our several radio stations, nor did we see copies of the petition in grocery stores, etc. Rumor has it that it was hand-carried by the former magistrates and presented to county workers, their relatives and others who could ill afford to refuse to sign it. However, even here, in this fashion, they could not garner the number of signatures required.

There is no mystery as to why the political machine wishes to return to four magistrate districts, as opposed to three commissioner districts. They have difficulty controlling elections in three large commissioner districts, as opposed to four small magistrates districts. In the four magistrate districts, they can also control the election of school board members. But this is our history and our people are well aware of it.

Folks, we did not want this fight. We did not want to spend our personal time, our own money and our energy to defeat this system again. Our people need to direct their attention to our schools, our lack of water, and our declining economy. But we will fight and we will go and do what is necessary to defeat this blight again.

Road name is 'wrong'

Editor:

I just came back from Middle Creek, KY 850, where I was born and went to school at Open Fork School.

It saddens me to see our branch name wrong. They have Pyramid Road on it. The name is Billy Shepherd Branch or Open Fork School Branch.

As far back as time, it was Billy Shepherd Branch — before the school house was built.

Please help us get this corrected. An injustice is being done. I love my Middle Creek, KY 850 and the old school grounds. But, it is Billy Shepherd Branch or Open Fork School Branch.

I will have tears in my eyes until this is changed.

Water quality meetings set for Floyd County

Two meetings to help landowners prepare agriculture water quality plans, mandated by the Agriculture Water Quality Act, have been scheduled this fall in Floyd County.

The meetings are set for October 5, at 1 p.m. and October 19, at 7 p.m., at the Floyd County Cooperative Extension Service Office, across from Carter-Hughes Toyota on South Lake Drive in Prestonsburg.

The Agriculture Water Quality Act, KRS 224.71-140, was passed by the Kentucky General Assembly in 1994. The goal of the act is to protect surface and ground water resources from pollution, as a result of agriculture or silviculture (tree farming).

An agriculture operation, according to extension agent Ray Tackett, is any farm operation on a tract of land, including all income-producing improvements and farm dwellings, together with other farm buildings and structures incident to the operation and maintenance of the farm, situated on 10 contiguous acres or more of land used for agriculture or silviculture.

It also includes operations that meet the requirements and qualifications for payments to agriculture programs under an agreement with the state or federal government.

Landowners with 10 or more connected acres for agriculture or silviculture are required to develop and implement a water quality plan based on guidance from the Statewide Agriculture Water Quality Plan.

The state plan consists of best management practices from six different areas: crops, livestock, pesticides and fertilizer, farmstead, silviculture, and streams and other waters.

Landowners must assess their operations and determine if they need an agriculture water quality plan. Existing farm plans may be incorporated into this plan. Once the assessment is complete, the landowner must choose the appropriate best management practices for his/her operation.

A producer workbook has been developed to aid landowners in assessing agriculture and silviculture operations, Tackett said. The workbook summarizes the best management practices included in the statewide plan.

The landowner is responsible for preparing a plan that best meets the needs of the particular farming operation. The plan must be available in the event a water pollution problem is identified and traceable to the operation. A self-certification form, in the workbook, can be filed with the local conservation district.

Farmers have until October 23, 2001, to fully implement their individual plans, with the exception of operations that involve activities along or in streams or other water bodies.

The best management practices relating to water must be implemented now, because the activities are also regulated through the Federal Clean Water Act. They relate to minor streams, bank stabilization, and stream and wetland filling and excavation. Under these circumstances, the landowner should contact the Kentucky Division of Water for guidance.

Assistance is available to landowners in developing and preparing the plan. Educational resources and technical information can be provided by professionals with the Cooperative Extension Service, Natural Resources Conservation Service, Farm Service Agency, Kentucky Division of Water, Waste Management, Forestry and Conservation, and the Department for Health Services.

Financial assistance may be available from a variety of sources. Both state and federal programs have monies available for projects that protect water resources.

Additionally, the local conservation district has information about water quality-related, cost-share programs. However, the lack of cost-share assistance does not relieve the landowner of the responsibility for developing and implementing a water quality protection plan.

For more information, contact the extension service at 606/886-2668.

Is someone's alcoholism suffocating you?

(NUE) — Do you feel like you are always holding your breath? Every time the door opens in your home, do you fear who it might be? Do you wonder whether your spouse, parent or friend will be mean, violent, subdued or withdrawn — someone totally different from who he or she is when not drinking?

If someone's alcoholism is suffocating you, you must realize that to help that person you first must help yourself. And help is out there.

For nearly 50 years, Al-Anon has been a constant resource for families and friends of alcoholics. Beginning with 87 groups, it has grown into a worldwide fellowship of 30,000 groups in 112 countries.

Families and friends of alcoholics usually require medical and mental health care for various symptoms, according to the 1999 Al-Anon/Alateen Membership Survey. The survey represents Al-Anon's sixth study of a three percent sample of Al-Anon groups and a 10 percent sample of Alateen groups in the United States and Canada, with a 23 percent combined response rate.

In the survey, 88 percent of Al-Anon members said the alcoholic's drinking affects their mental health and well being, 80 percent said the alcoholic's drinking affects their ability to function daily at work or home, and 67 percent said the alcoholic's drinking affects their overall health status.

Al-Anon members also rated the benefits of their recovery program on a three-point scale:

- Improved mental health/well being - 2.9.
- Increased ability to function daily at home and work - 2.9.
- Better overall health status - 2.8.

Survey results show that more than half of all Al-Anon members and 40 percent of the Alateens (young Al-Anon members, usually teen-agers, whose lives have been affected by someone else's drinking) received professional help before attending Al-Anon or Alateen. After becoming involved in Al-Anon, 50 percent seek medical treatment or counseling.

Al-Anon, based on the Twelve Step program of Alcoholics Anonymous, provides non-professional mutual support to families and friends of alcoholics.

For more information, visit Al-Anon/Alateen on the Web at www.al-anon.alateen.org. For meeting information, call 1-888-4AL-ANON (425-2666) or write to: Al-Anon Family Groups, Inc., 1600 Corporate Landing Parkway, Virginia Beach, VA 23454-5617.

Ethyl alcohol (ethanol) made from corn fermentation is not a renewable fuel (because the total energy required to grow the corn and convert it to alcohol is greater than the energy yielded by the alcohol) and relies on massive taxpayer subsidies for its current use as a gasoline blend; its use should be discouraged.

National politics play an important role and we need to encourage our elected officials to support development of alternative energy sources and more fuel efficient automobiles. The technology is available to double current miles per gallon. Auto companies don't want to develop such vehicles because they make a lower profit on them.

Each one of us needs to make a commitment to reduce our waste of energy. If we do this and take the time to tell our elected officials that we want higher auto fuel efficiency and alternative renewable energy, then we can avoid a new oil crisis in the future.

Quick fixes for computer problems

(NUE) — You're in the middle of typing an e-mail, playing a game or just working on your personal computer when a confusing error message pops up on the screen, warning you of impending disaster.

Naturally, you want to deal with the issue and move on, but what do you do? Will your next action fix the problem, or throw your computer into chaos?

Many computer users find these messages confusing and frustrating, and most people don't understand how to fix the problem. They also don't have hours to pour over computer manuals or wait on hold with a software company's technical support line.

We all know these messages are vital to keeping a system running smoothly, but how do you fix something you can't understand?

PC users now can fix the problem without having to read technical manuals cover to cover. A free Web-based service is available that will advise you of many computer problems and tell you how to solve them. The service is called "Attune," and you can sign up for it on the Aveo Web site (www.aveo.com).

Not only is this PC tech support service free, it's easy to use, completely private and personalized to your own computer system.

Attune is an invisible helper that monitors your computer for problems and conflicts that might occur. If you are about to do something that could crash your computer, Attune sends you a message before anything bad can happen. The message comes in the form of a friendly, animated bell man, who tells you in plain English what the problem is and how to avoid or solve it.

The message, called an "Intelligram," is prompted when you use a program on your computer that has been flagged as having a problem or an available enhancement.

For example, if you have a game on your computer, the Intelligram will notify you that there is a new improved version available, and then direct you to the site where you can download the upgrade for free. The Intelligram also lists the modifications in the new version so you can make an informed decision.

Attune is updated regularly when you use the Internet. You can't tell it's running, but you can tell when it's working, because of the timely, relevant messages that pop up on your screen. Messages only appear when you need them, so you never have to deal with "spam" that doesn't relate to what you are doing.

How the Internet makes search for roots easier

(NUE) — Genealogy — the search for one's family roots — has become the "in" hobby of millions of Americans, especially for retirees who have both the time and money to look into their past.

So many Americans are pursuing genealogy that it has become one of the country's most popular hobbies, surpassed only by stamp and coin collecting.

Genealogies have existed since ancient times, largely through oral tradition and later through written records. People who get into genealogy often find it impossible to abandon the pastime. It often starts out as a hobby, becomes an avocation, and then an obsession.

Why does genealogy turn on so many people? Frequently, it's a desire to find out if they're related to some famous person. Or it could be to learn their family's medical history and how that might affect their health.

Genealogy got a big push in the late 1970s with the publication of Alex Haley's "Roots" and the television miniseries based on that book. Since then, the quest for one's origins has occupied more and more people.

According to the "Reader's Digest Illustrated Encyclopedic Dictionary," over a period of 30 generations, each one of us has more than 2 billion ancestors. This being the case, the search for one's ancestry becomes a never-ending task.

Tough as the quest can be, building a family tree can be fun and rewarding. And, thanks to the Internet, amateur genealogists are finding the research much easier than just a few decades ago. For example, computers can connect individuals with relatives and genealogy libraries around the world.

Thousands of Web sites — more than 108,000 by one estimate — are devoted to genealogy. Ancestry.com, a leading online source for family history, offers free tips on how to get started. Its online family tree lets you view original documents such as Civil War pension cards. Genealogy.org ranks the 100 leading genealogy sites based on a site's popularity (number of hits).

FamilyTreeMaker.com boasts accessibility to 470 million names.

If you're serious about creating a family-tree Web site, it's time to register your domain name. A domain name is an online address where people can share their genealogical know-how and discoveries.

But you'll need to act quickly. Domain names are dwindling. Registrars.com, a pioneer in the Internet domain registration industry, can be of immense help in your search for ancestral roots.

To learn more about registering your own domain name, visit www.registrars.com today.

City Council approves tax hike on autos, water craft

For the first time in over a decade the Salyersville City Council has agreed to a tax increase on automobiles and water craft.

Not since 1987 had the city council raised this particular tax, and the four percent increase did not come without discussion and disagreement among current council members.

Mayor Joe Howard instructed council members that the tax could be raised by four percent or allowed to remain at its current rate.

Councilman Belsey Connelley wondered aloud why the tax could not be lowered instead, but fellow council members Paul D. Conley and Jayne May had much different opinions on the matter.

Conley made a motion and May added a second to increase the automobile and water craft tax by the four percent allowable.

"Nobody want to pay more taxes," May said. "But I think it should be raised a little bit each year. Let's be realistic. If we just sit here, the city will be left with nothing."—The Salyersville Independent

Former Prater home altered into church at Pioneer Village

The latest addition to the Magoffin County Pioneer

Village and Museum is the pioneer church located just behind the old Salyersville Post Office on South Church Street. The logs used in the construction of this edifice were once part of the John Prater home, which stood for many years on Burning Fork. It had been dismantled and stored in the Prater barn to make way for the present Burning Fork Community Church that was built on the original site of the home.

Tommy Keith had the foresight to store those logs after the old home was dismantled and donated them to the Magoffin County Pioneer Village.—The Salyersville Independent

Butterfly garden is result of school, community effort

A group of determined students, with the assistance of school personnel and community volunteers, is now ready to share the results of their year-long effort with the public.

The students, members of the Herald Whitaker Middle School Community Problem Solvers Team, have all but completed an outdoor classroom project that they hope to soon open for the community's use and enjoyment.

The students made their yearly project a butterfly garden and have located the outdoor classroom near the entrance to the school's parking lot.—The Salyersville Independent

Construction bid accepted for school consolidation

Although the projected opening date for East Ridge High School has been moved back, the Pike County Board of Education Tuesday night took one more step toward its completion as it approved a bid from a local contractor for building the school.

Elliott Contracting, a Pikeville company, submitted the lowest bid at $14 million for the school, which will consolidate Millard, Elkhorn City and Feds Creek high schools.

Lloyd Fields, building and grounds director for the school system, said the bid asks for the school to be substantially complete by March 2002 and ready to move into by August of that same year.

Original estimates had called for the school to be fully constructed by August of next year.

Development work on the 50-acre hillside site at Lick Creek is almost complete, and construction on the school could begin by next month, Fields said.—Appalachian News-Express

Murphy gets 18 years for Pike killing

A Regina man who pleaded guilty in connection with the death of a Jimmies creek man just days before his trial was set to begin in June, was sentenced 18 years for the crime.

Pike Circuit Judge Charles E. Lowe II excluded the possibility of alternative sentencing for Curtis Murphy, 22, who pleaded guilty to first-degree manslaughter and robbery in connection with the September murder of 27-year-old Chad Ratliff.

Lowe's decision comes just one week before sentencing of Tommy L. "Boonie" Dotson, 33, of Greasy Creek, who was found guilty of manslaughter and robbery for his part in the killing in a June trial in Pike circuit Court.—Appalachian News-Express

Vandals strike Virgie

About half of Virgie Middle School's 125 sixth-grade students sat clustered at the front of the school's auditorium intently watching a movie yesterday morning.

But as those students participated in what appeared not much different than a typical activity, maintenance crews just a few feet away worked feverishly to clean up and repair damages to their classroom done last weekend in a vandalism spree that Kentucky State Police estimate racked up a damage total of several thousand dollars.

Despite the ongoing work, classes at the school resumed yesterday after being halted for one day due to the vandalism, with sixth-graders either working in the auditorium or in classrooms in the main school building.—Appalachian News-Express

The clock is ticking on trash

Time is quickly running out for the Martin County Fiscal Court to adopt a solid-waste plan.

Floyd County businessman John Burke offered a potential solution, a device which effectively recycles garbage using a "crock-pot" method of gasification.

He intended to present his proposal at Thursday's court meeting, but due to the absence of magistrates Darrell Mills, Dave West and James Jarrett, no quorum was available. This will delay action on Burke's plan until the regular September meeting.

Burke approached the court July 18 about the possibility of installing a pilot "waste gasification/thermal oxidation" plant in Martin County. The plant would recycle all the county's garbage and could eliminate the need for transfer stations, transportation of trash to Green County, dependence on landfill and establish a recycling program for the county.—Mountain Citizen

No entrance; no exit! Route 292 ridge closed

"Survivor," the hit show this summer where viewers tune in to see who wins $1 million for surviving on a deserted island in the South Pacific, could apply to folks at Riverfront near the Martin/Pike county line.

Their main access, route 292, was closed Monday for repairs, leaving residents with one option, traveling back to Lovely, crossing the bridge to Kermit and then taking US 52 and US 119 to get to Williamson, South Williamson, Pikeville or Logan.

Some miners use the route to work in the mines at Big Creek, a short distance from the closed bridge. Its estimated that repairs will take about two weeks.—Mountain Citizen

Waterline extension halfway complete

Middlefork residents are waiting for water to come their way as the $2 million water-extension project is halfway completed.

Parsons Construction has been hard at work since late March laying the 16-mile line that will add 90 customers to the Martin County Water District, as well as transport water to the Big Sandy Regional Airport, the Honey Branch Regional Industrial Park and the United States Penitentiary-Big Sandy.

The project started in Stepp Bottom on Coldwater and proceeded onto Route 645 before heading up Route 3 at the intersection. Despite recent heavy rains, the company is on schedule to finish the project in the nine-month allotted time frame.—Mountain Citizen

More dogs tested in June attack on girl

More than two months after a Lawrence County girl was attacked by a pack of dogs, local police continue their investigation into the incident that left the 12-year-old victim physically and emotionally scarred.

Sheriff Bobby Workman, noting that his investigation initially centered on four dogs, picked up soon after the June 2 attack on Heather Jarvis, said his inquiry has now expanded to include other canines in Blaine, where the incident occurred. Workman said his office has taken hair samples from other dogs in the Blaine area after hearing rumors they were involved in the attack.

The four dogs apprehended by authorities following the attack were quarantined at the animal shelter. After the quarantine was lifted, authorities were granted a court order to keep the animal at the shelter while the investigation continued. Stool and hair samples were taken from the animals for testing, but test results have not been released.—The Big Sandy News

Thanks to Louisa man, church built in Kenya

In a big county far, far away stands a tiny church whose tiny congregation will forever be grateful to a man who lives in a tiny town called Louisa.

The church that was built in Kenya, Africa is the result of a woman's wishes to spread the Gospel to the people of Kenya, leaving in her will $35,000 to accomplish her dream. When Ruth Moore, a minister died in October 1996, her husband, Dewey, saw to it that her wishes were fulfilled.—The Big Sandy News

RECC workers to decide on Friday if they still want union

A union decertification election will be held today (Friday) by the national Labor Relations Board for Licking Valley RECC employees who are members of Local 317 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The election, requested by both the union and the RECC to determine if the Co-op's outside employees still wish to be represented by the union, comes in the aftermath of the firing of another RECC's union employees and charges by the union that the dismissal constitutes an unfair labor practice.

Brent Gray, business manager for Local 317, said Tuesday an unfair labor practices complaint is being filed with the National Labor Relations Board charging that Keith Gullett, a member of the union's local negotiating committee, was illegally discharged on August 9 "solely on the basis of his involvement with the

Morgan couple found shot in Bath County

The Kentucky State Police are investigating the multiple shooting of a Morgan County couple Monday in rural Bath County.

Brandi Leigh James, 24, and her husband, David L. James, 32, of Route 1 Hazel Green were found inside Brandi James'

Ford van, each with a gunshot wound to the head.

Brandi James was pronounced dead at the scene by Bath County Coroner Robbie Powell. David James was transported to Lexington, where he died Tuesday afternoon.

The Bath County coroner, as well as the Fayette County coroner are investigating David James' death as a suicide, and according to Powell, the Bath County coroner, evidence suggests that David James shot his wife, then shot himself.—The Licking Valley Courier

School enrollment continues to decline

The trend of falling enrollment numbers in the Knott County school system continued this year, with 159 fewer students registered on the first day of school than the corresponding day in 1999.

William Madden, new director of pupil personnel, said that 2,893 students were registered in the district, August 10, compared to 3,052 on the first school day last year.

"We were concerned," Madden stated. "We lost 123 students since the close of last semester."

However, Madden said, last week brought a sizable increase in numbers; enrollment was up to 2,995 on Tuesday, August 22. Madden said this was not unusual, especially with the first day for students falling on a Thursday.—Troublesome Creek Times

Knott County students receive scholarships

Three Knott Counties are among students receiving scholarships from the Varia Family Foundation. Jared Handshoe of Mousie, Justin Ritchie of Mousie and Kari Thornsberry of Pippa Passes are beneficiaries of a scholarship fund set up by Dr. Chandra Vara.

Dr. Chandra Vara came to Martin in 1979, and established an obstetrics/gynecology practice. From 1979 to 2000, she delivered 3,400 babies. (Her practice is now limited to gynecology and she no longer delivers babies.)

Dr. Chandra came up with a way of making those births special. She decided to give each child the opportunity to go to college. She and her husband, Dr. Mahendra Varia, owner of Martin Veterinary Clinic, established the Varia Family Foundation. More than $1,000,000 in the account, there should be enough money to educate all 3,400.—Troublesome Creek Times

Sgt. Charlie Cornett retires from KSP

Recently, at a retirement dinner in his honor, sergeant Charles Cornett, of Knott County, was recognized for his accomplishments with the Kentucky State Police.

Cornett grew up at big Branch of Irishman Creek where his family owned a sawmill. His parents are Marie Cornett and the late Leslie Cornett. When he was about nine years old, he began working at the family sawmill after school. Cornett lived in Knott County until 1966, when he entered the police force. He attended the 35th class of the Kentucky State Police Academy. He was first assigned to Breathitt County. He continued working there until he was reassigned to Knott County in 1971.—Troublesome Creek Times

Wolfpen is a constant stop for cops

Alleged drug activity at a Wolfpen Hollow residence has kept deputy sheriffs on their feet, literally.

Within the past two weeks, the sheriff's office has made six drug-related arrests at the same residence while conducting routine police work.

And, each time police arrived at the residence, they became engaged in foot pursuits of some of the accused.

The first incident occurred on August 2, when police attempted to serve three bench warrants on 24-year-old Christopher Brown, who was sought for failing to pay fines totaling about $200 and for a charge of driving without a license.

Police reported that several subjects "bolted out the back door" when they arrived, an investigation into the incident resulted in the confiscation of an undisclosed amount of cash and processed marijuana.—The Paintsville Herald

VanHoose asks judge to name new defender

A double murder suspect's hand-written plea for a new attorney is nothing more than a "misunderstanding," public defender Kristi Gray said Monday, and she expects the request to be withdrawn.

In a note written August 12 and filed with the court last Friday, murder suspect Chadd VanHoose asked Circuit Judge Daniel Sparks to replace Gray, indicating that her status as "an assistant" public defender made her unqualified to "handle a case of this magnitude."—The Paintsville Herald

Discovered error means more funds for city schools

Close scrutiny of figures used to determine the amount of state funding for Paintsville Independent revealed an error that cost, and would have continued to cost, the school district thousands of dollars.

Superintendent Jim Roe recently took on the task of sifting through calculations used in the formula that establishes the amount of Supplemental Education Excellence in Kentucky (SEEK) funding the school receives annually.

But his effort paid off when he discovered that state officials were using an inappropriate figure when calculating the school district's local funds, which directly affects SEEK funding.

Last year alone, the error cost the district about $83,000, which the state Department of Education reimbursed to the school district in June. Roe said the error would have cost the district even more this year had the error gone unnoticed.—The Paintsville Herald

PONTIUS PILATE, THE MAN WHO COULD HAVE SAVED JESUS' LIFE!

PILATE, ROMAN PROCURATOR OF JUDEA FOR TEN YEARS (A.D. 26-36), WAS AN UNFIT RULER, NEVER ABLE TO UNDERSTAND THE RELIGIOUS PRINCIPLES OR THE NATIONAL PRIDE OF THE JEWS OVER WHOM HE HELD SUPREME POWER. FROM THE VERY INCEPTION OF HIS GOVERNORSHIP, HE MADE MISTAKE AFTER MISTAKE, ROUSING THE IRE OF THE PEOPLE EACH TIME / WHEN HE WAS ASKED TO CONDEMN JESUS, HE WAS ALSO WARNED THAT IF HE DIDN'T, COMPLAINTS WOULD BE SENT TO ROME / AFRAID FOR HIS OWN POLITICAL SAFETY, PILATE WEAKLY COMPLIED, ALTHOUGH HE STATED PUBLICLY HE THOUGHT JESUS WAS A MAN UNJUSTLY ACCUSED!

AS A YOUNG MAN, PONTIUS PILATE, OF HIGH EQUESTRIAN BIRTH, SERVED HIS TIME, AS ALL YOUNG NOBLES, IN THE ROMAN CAVALRY UNTIL HE WAS IN LINE FOR A LUCRATIVE POSITION. ON RECEIVING HIS GOVERNORSHIP HE COULD HARDLY HAVE REALIZED HE WAS EMBARKED UPON A ROAD OF MISMANAGED AFFAIRS, A RECALL TO ROME IN GREAT DISGRACE, AND EXILE TO GAUL WHERE HE WOULD FINALLY COMMIT SUICIDE!

NEXT WEEK: IF YOU WANT TO EAT BREAD, FIRST YOU MUST MAKE IT!

Survey finds drivers may take vacation from abiding laws

Celebrating the end of summer is a rite of passage for Americans. As you take to the road this Labor Day weekend, celebrating the end of a very wet or very dry summer, bear in mind the findings of a recent survey by progressive.com:

- Fifty-seven percent of respondents said they were more likely to drive when overtired or fatigued while driving home from a weekend getaway.
- Fifty-nine percent were more likely to drive when they shouldn't have because they wanted to get to a summer getaway in one night.

- Twenty-six percent of respondents reported driving when they shouldn't due to alcohol consumption at summer barbecues.
- Twenty-three percent of respondents said they would be more likely to drive after drinking at a summer barbecue if they didn't have very far to drive to get home.

"People are stressed out working too many hours each week and traveling for business. So when it comes time for vacation, people's attitudes are different. They want to enjoy the outdoors, relax and de-stress," said Alan Bauer, Internet Business Leader, Progressive.

"But what we found was that while people go to great lengths to enjoy the summer, they may be pushing the limits of safety and letting their busy lives affect their driving habits. It's extremely important that consumers are aware of the risks that they and their friends and neighbors create when traveling this holiday weekend."

Further, the progressive.com study of more than 400 consumers found that more than one-fifth of consumers reported having taken their kids out of their car seats while driving on a summer trip. And it looks like women are more likely to take chances — women were four times more likely than men to break a traffic law (i.e. speed, run a red light, drive on the shoulder) while stuck in summer traffic with kids in the car.

Also, families with children were six times more likely to drive home from a long day trip while fatigued during the summer than those people without children.

Progressive offers the following tips on safe summer highway travel. Follow them this Labor Day weekend:

1. Wear a seat belt/restrain children. It is estimated by the NHTSA that safety belts save 9,500 lives a year. If every passenger over the age of four was strapped in, an additional 9,000 lives could be saved annually. An estimated 312 children under age five are saved annually in the U.S. by being strapped into a car seat.
2. Allow extra time to reach a destination. Speeding causes 30 percent of all fatal crashes and more than 13,000 lives are lost each year due to speed-related accidents.
3. Keep children under age 12 buckled up in the back seat to avoid injury from airbag impact.
4. If you're on a long drive, stop for a walk or meal at dusk — the most dangerous driving period of the day — and avoid city travel during rush hours.
5. Take frequent breaks. Stop, get out of the car and stretch tired muscles. Exercise increases the oxygen flow to the brain and boosts wakefulness. Avoid sugary snacks and caffeine that give drivers a surge of quick energy but leave them feeling more tired later.
6. Stop to read maps or discipline children. The rule of thumb is both eyes on the road and both hands on the wheel at all times.

Workshop on Clean Water Act is Saturday

A TMDL Workshop is being offered via interactive television at four sites across Kentucky on Saturday, August 26, from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Dr. Thomas Vierheller, interim associate dean for academic affairs at Prestonsburg Community College, will be the site host for the eastern Kentucky region. He will lead the viewing at the ITV room of PCC's former, two-story classroom building on Main Street in Pikeville.

Under the Clean Water Act, every body of water can carry a certain pollutant load before it is considered impaired.

The process for calculating the maximum pollutant load a water body can carry and allocating portions of it to all the users in a watershed is called Total Maximum Daily Load. By setting TMDLs for a stream, resource management agencies hope to restore the water quality in that stream.

This TMDL Workshop, organized by the Kentucky Water Resources Institute, will explain how this process will be implemented in Kentucky and what role citizens can play in applying this tool to their watershed.

To register, call 1-800-928-0045, ext. 473, or complete on-line registration at <http://kywater.org/watch/tmdl/register.htm>.

A Look At Sports

GRIFFEY VS. BRENNAMAN

Well, Ken Griffey, Jr. has taken his feud with everyone else to the Reds radio booth and Marty Brennaman.

Marty and Junior got into it when Griffey confronted him in the Reds clubhouse over a remark that Junior did not hustle on a base hit that could have resulted in a double.

Marty told the spoiled player that he was there before Junior arrived and will be there when Junior is gone. Way to go, Marty!

Junior continues to look for those he can blame for his troubles in Redsland. The best thing the Reds could do for the franchise is try and unload the centerfielder this winter. For you Griffey fans, sorry!

While we are getting rid of dead weight, might as well look for a taker on Dante Bichette as well.

ROSE VS SELIG

Is baseball commissioner Bud Selig giving the snub to all-time hits leader Pete Rose?

Word is that Rose's lawyer med with a top official of commissioner Selig's but that was seven months ago and Pete is wondering, out loud, why he has gotten no response to the meeting.

Rose has been banned from baseball for life over betting on baseball while a manager with the Cincinnati Reds.

The hits leader says the issue may have to be settled in a court of law.

"I don't want a fight," he said.

Rose contends that his lawyer has evidence that he did not, in fact, bet on baseball.

GET THIS

Colorado catcher, Brent Mayne, went to the mound in the 12th inning and hurled a perfect 12th to pick up the win against the Atlanta Braves. It was the first time since 1968 that a position player was a winning pitcher.

D.J.'S DAD RESPONSE

While reporting in a story in Sunday's paper that Allen Central's running back, D.J. Hoover, was absent from the Allen Central game at Betsy Layne last Friday night because of not showing up for practice, Hoover's father says the player was sick and that was the reason he did not practice.

"He had been involved in an accident and missed two days of practice because of it," said Mr. Hoover. "He then got sick and showed up for picture day only to find he could not practice for being sick. He had that stomach flu. He tried to practice but couldn't. So he went home."

VACATION TIME

I will be on vacation for the upcoming week. All volleyball and football coaches, fax your games to Steve Lemaster to report them in the paper. Remember, if you want it in sports, then take a little time and report it.

PELFREY'S GONE

Doug Pelfrey, who starred as a punter for the University of Kentucky, was cut by the Cincinnati Bengals as the Bengals look to improve their kicking game for the upcoming season.

Seems to me the Tigers need to do more than change part of the specialty team. They need a lot of changes and it looks like another dismal season for Cincinnati fans.

Club officials contends that the kicking game was one of the weakest phase of the Bengals game last year. Oh, my!

NASCAR TO KENTUCKY SPEEDWAY

Maybe! But don't go out and look for tickets just yet.

When NASCAR announces their 2001 Busch schedule, it could just be that one race will take place at the new Kentucky Speedway. Seems that the folks at Myrtle Beach Speedway and South Boston announced they will not host a Busch Series next year because they felt they were not quite ready.

With the two tracks dropping out, that opens a chance for the Kentucky Speedway to be considered for a race date next year.

Kentucky Speedway hosted a Craftsman Truck Series this year and it was very successful.

Until Sunday, good sports everyone and be good sports! Take the kids to Sunday School and church this Sunday.

Golf scramble

Christ United to host annual golf scramble

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

The Christ United Methodist Church will hold its eighth annual golf scramble on September 9 at the Beaver Valley Golf Course in Allen.

The scramble is one of the oldest continually running scrambles in the local area. Proceeds from the scramble go to benefit the Wesley School, located in Allen.

"A lot of the scrambles that are held locally got started from our scramble," said Frankie Francis, organizer of the scramble. "In fact, I have helped a lot of the schools with theirs."

The tournament is open to the first 80 players to register and teams will be determined by the blind draw.

The format will be shotgun start at 9 a.m.. Entry fee for the tournament is $30 a person.

"We always wait until everyone else, like the schools, has had theirs before we schedule ours," said the former county athletic director, now retired. "We don't want to take away from theirs."

First place will be worth $600 to the winning team with second place netting a nifty $400. A third-place finish will pay $300 while the fourth-place team receives $200.

Many other prizes will be given away during the course of the tournament. Free food and drinks will be available to all participants.

"This has been a good fundraiser for us," said Francis. "A lot of golfers like to play in it because it is a lot of fun. That is what we are out there for, to have fun."

For more information, contact Rev. Ken Lemaster at 874-2624, Lowell Marcum at 874-2917, Ricie Derossett at 874-9514 or call the Allen Park clubhouse, 874-2837.

PRESTONSBURG QUARTER BACK Austin Clark (12) will look to lead his Blackcat team past a good Pikeville team tonight at the Prestonsburg Stadium.

Pikeville at Prestonsburg Prestonsburg to host mighty Panthers

MATT CLAY hopes to show this same form, when he scored against Perry Central last Friday night, against Pikeville tonight.

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

Coach John Derossett and the Prestonsburg Blackcats will roll out the red carpet this Friday night in what could very well be the biggest game of their 2000 season.

The Blackcats will play host to the Pikeville Panthers, a 46-36 winner over the mighty Bulldogs of Lawrence County last Friday night.

Prestonsburg will be coming off a big season-opening win of their own, a 45-15 rout of Perry Central.

"There is a lot of excitement at school now," said Coach Derossett. "I came to school Wednesday and all the kids had copies of The Floyd County Times reading about the game. That was one of the finest stories I have read."

It will be a contrast of games as both clubs have their own feature players.

Pikeville will showcase one of the top quarterbacks in Class A football in Matt Branham. Branham was a "one-man gang" last weekend when he completed 19 passes for 171 yards. He accounted for five of the touchdowns for Pikeville by tossing for three and running the other two.

"He can hurt you several ways," said the Prestonsburg coach. "He can throw against you or just keep it and run it. He is a tremendous athlete."

Rumor has it that Pikeville already has a banner with state champions on it as they are self-proclaimed as Kentucky's top Class A school.

"That may be so, but we are going to line up and play them," said the Prestonsburg coach. "Beechwood may have something to say about that."

"Pikeville is a very talented team and Chase Gibson is as good as they come. They have a great running back in Barrett Rogers. They have a kid by the name of Nick King who has great speed. Isaac Ratliff plays linebacker for them and he is a tough one."

If there is a weakness on this Prestonsburg team is might be found in the secondary. But Prestonsburg has their own weapon (and others to go with it) in Matt Slone, who rushed for 234 yards last Friday night. But Prestonsburg's ground game could pose a problem for Pikeville's front line. Not only is there Slone but Kevin Woods as well and Coach Derossett could throw a half dozen more in the backfield like Matt Clay, Chris Spriggs and Mike McDonald. Prestonsburg is a team blessed with depth in the backfield. They have a good option quarterback in Austin Clark, who jaunted 49 yards for a touchdown last Friday.

Pikeville's counter will be in receiver Chase Gibson, a favorite target of Branham. Add Nick King and Barrett Rogers and you can see why Coach Chris McNamee likes to go to the air. Rogers gives the Panthers some excellent speed in the backfield along with Jarrod Frasure. But look for the Panthers to air it out until the Prestonsburg secondary can prove it can stop the pass.

KEYS TO A WIN

"We have to be very, very physical," said Coach Derossett. "From the opening kickoff to the last play we have to be a very physical ballclub. We have to play a strong defense and we must contain the ball and not let them have any big plays."

Allen Central hoping to make first win of the season a big one

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

The Allen Central Rebels will travel to Paintsville tonight to take on the Tigers, a Paintsville team coming off a win against Fleming County in last week's Big Sandy Bowl.

Senior Matt Brown leads the Tiger attack on both sides of the football.

The Rebels will try to rebound from an 18-12 loss they suffered at the hands of Betsy Layne last Friday night. Sophomore James Prater paved the way for the Rebs in the Best Layne game last week, with a strong ground-gaining performance.

Paintsville has their sights set on a return to the playoffs this season, while Coach Kevin Spurlock has the Rebels concentrating on the tasks at hand and an appearance in the eight-man state football playoffs at the end of this regular season.

Playing Paintsville is something Coach Spurlock has his Rebels looking very forward to.

"The kids are really looking forward to the Paintsville game," said Spurlock.

"Paintsville will probably be one of the best teams that we'll play this year. They've got a real good fullback and a good quarterback. Paintsville runs the ball a lot, so we'll have to step up and try to stop that early. We just need to go out and play hard like we did in the second half of the Betsy Layne game. If we do the things we're capable of it could be a real good ball game."

Coach Spurlock and Allen Central will be going with basically the same lineup as they went with against Betsy Layne last week. Senior Jonathan Ellis will again be looking to lead the Rebels as their starting signal-caller.

Fortunately Spurlock and his coaching staff have no injuries to report. Fullback D.J. Hoover will be returning from an injury he suffered last week.

Leading up to last week's season opener with Betsy Layne, the Allen Central defense had played stingy defense in two previous scrimmages with Fairview and Knott County Central. Signs of that stingy defense showed at times in last week's opener.

Coach David Lemaster also has the Paintsville Tigers taking it one game at a time. Lemaster walked away from the Fleming County game feeling uncertain about his team's composure.

"We had too many penalties that we can't make if we want to win the ball game," Lemaster said. "The Allen Central game will be a tough one. They've got a real

INJURED LIST

"We are pretty healthy with the exception of Matt Slone, who has a little shoulder problem. But he is tough and will be ready," said the Blackcat mentor. "We have a great group of sophomores and we will not hesitate a bit in putting them in the game."

Coach Derossett applauded the Floyd County school board for help in getting their field ready for the big non-district game.

"We really appreciate them a lot for what they are doing," said the Prestonsburg coach. "They have sent their maintenance people over to get the scoreboard going and get other things done."

"Also, we want to thank Mayor Jerry Fannin and the city of Prestonsburg for getting the field in good condition. Without these people we would not have been able to play on this field."

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. and the game will be carried live over Q95-FM, 95.5. The game will be played on a delayed basis over CableVision, channel seven.

BLACKCAT NOTES:

• Coach Derossett announced that the Prestonsburg Blackcats will open their 2001 season with county rival South Floyd at Prestonsburg. It is the first step in getting a bowl series in Floyd County involving the four county high schools.

"I got the contract from Coach (Nathan) Jones and now it is up to Betsy Layne and Allen Central," said Coach Derossett. "If they want to move their game here we can have our own bowl. We can call it the Big Sandy (Betsy Layne and Prestonsburg) versus Beaver Creek (Allen Central and South Floyd) Bowl."

Allen Central played at Betsy Layne last this year and the Bobcats are scheduled to visit Allen Central in 2001.

in a game played with few Allen Central mistakes.

"In order to go out and beat Paintsville, everybody has to give an all-out effort on both sides of the ball," Spurlock said. "I think we match up well with Paintsville all across the line. We need to get the offensive game going early and try to get the pass worked in with the run. We need to be aggressive on defense and stop their running game early."

A win over Paintsville would be a great way to get the Allen Central Rebels' season off to a good start. A win over the Paintsville Tigers on any playing field is always a good one.

Penalties are one thing the Rebels cannot have a lot of if they expect to come away with a win.

"We need to keep the number of penalties down," Spurlock said. "If we keep the number of penalty yards down, then we can stay in the game. We don't want to be taken out of the game because of penalties."

The Rebels will be heading into tonight's game hoping to avenge a homefield loss they suffered to Paintsville last season.

Kickoff time is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at Paintsville's Memorial Field.

Drivers pay tribute to Buddy Mills with victory laps

by CHRIS BELCHER
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Saturday night's race at 201 Speedway started on a very sad note. Following late model and super bomber qualifying, racers and fans observed a moment of silence in memory of Martin County driver Buddy Mills.

Mills' life was tragically cut short following last Saturday night's races, when he was involved in an automobile accident while driving back home. Buddy will always be remembered by all that had the opportunity to know him as having a warm personality and a witty way that made being around him a rewarding experience. He will also be remembered as the driver of the #15 and #1 Four-cylinders as well as driving the #26 super bomber for car owner Gary Rager.

This past Saturday night, every feature winner took a moment to remember Buddy with victory laps dedicating their victories in memory of him.

On behalf of the staff of 201 Speedway, including myself, track announcer Chris Belcher, our deepest sympathies are extended to the Mills family in their time of such great loss.

Late model qualifying put the #97 of David Powers with the fastest run around the red clay with a time of 14.73. Falcon's Jim Lemaster bested the super bomber field with a quick lap of 16.33 in his #3 Camaro.

Late models rolled on to the racing surface first Saturday night, and as the field took the green, David Powers soon found familiar ground at the front of the pack through turns one and two.

Brandon Kinzer made a move on the second-place car of Roger Dilley and pulled up to the front behind Powers. With Powers showing the way out front, Kinzer took to the inside line through the corners.

Third spot became the position to watch early, with Grayson's Steve Littleton and Prestonsburg dentist Marty Minix rounding the red clay side by side several laps.

Minix finally came down the third spot on lap 14 following eight or nine laps of some of the best battles for position between two late models.

When the $1,200 late model checkers hit the air, it would be Salyersville's David Powers with his eighth win of the year in the division. As always Powers would like to remind all youngsters to "Just Say No To Drugs!"

Following Powers to the checkers Saturday night Allen's Brandon Kinzer, Prestonsburg's Marty Minix, Steve "The Preacherman" Littleton, Roger Dilley, and 201 late model Points Leader Glenn Patton.

Saturday night's super bomber feature put two racers from Falcon on the front row. Jim Lemaster started to the inside of the first row, beside of Buck Lemaster. Both Lemasters would pass the flagstand side by side, with Jim Lemaster finally gaining the advantage exiting the second turn and powering down the backstretch with the lead.

The early battle for third position was between current points leader Michael Paul Howard and last year's points champion, Gary Cunagin. Cunagin managed to get to the inside of Howard through the second turn, yet Howard wasn't willing to let go of the third spot and came up charging back on the #98G of Cunagin.

Back to the front Jim Lemaster continued to show the way, with Buck Lemaster running nearly the same lap times as the leader.

Ronnie Conley sat sixth at the halfway point, and chose a line around 201 that no one had challenged, running the farthest line to the outside through the corners, trying to make a run toward the front. Conley's strong charging effort was not enough as Jim Lemaster would win his seventh super bomber feature of the season.

Finishing in the runner-up spot was the #17 machine of Falcon's Buck Lemaster. Ronnie Conley took the third spot on the final lap, and fourth place went to current points leader Michael Paul Howard, followed by Gary Cunagin, Darren Muncy and Lester Robinette.

Going into Saturday night's super bomber feature, Melvin's Jody Puckett enjoyed only an 8-point advantage over second-place Keith Potter. Potter started the super bomber feature from the front row. After running three wide along with Puckett and Maynard, Coldwater's Albert Butcher would take the win holding back the late charge by Potter. Third place went to Kevin Baker.

West Liberty's Scott Pennington took the lead with only three laps to go in Saturday night's road hog feature, and held off early race leader, Ronnie Conley, to post the win. Third-place finisher Lloyd Kimbler was followed by points leader Steve Lewis and Michael Marcur.

Saturday night's four-cylinder checkers went to the #6 ride of Offutt's Robbie Baker, followed by Paintsville's Jack Clevenger Jr., Bobby Goff and Aaron Ratliff.

Next Saturday night 201 Speedway welcomes the legendary "Bama Band" in front of the main grandstands, with performances at 6:45 p.m. and during intermission.

Betsy Layne looks for second straight at Powell County

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

Coach Ted George and the Betsy Layne Bobcats (1-0) hopes for a victory tonight at Powell County is twofold.

First, a win would give the Bobcats two consecutive wins, something they haven't done since the start of the 1998 season when they won their first three games.

Second, it would avenge last year's loss to the Pirates, a 14-6 setback suffered at home last year.

Powell County finished 4-6 last season and is 0-1 as they prepare to host the Bobcats. Powell dropped a 28-20 overtime decision to Frankfort last Friday night.

Confidence is high in the Betsy Layne camp and so should it be. Coach George returns some of much talent in mountain football this season.

Running game. Tune into Adam Collins and Brent Hamilton along with others. The duo will handle the ground game for the Cats.

Passing. Brandt Brooks is capable and he has a good target in Brock Keathley. Brooks threw for 155 yards against Allen Central last Friday night and Keathley caught five of the seven completion for 137 yards.

Listen to Coach George and you can expect the Bobcats to really air it out at Powell County.

"We have been throwing it all week in practice," said the Betsy Layne coach. "We have been using some double coverage on Brock in practice because I expect they double him in the game. We want to go to Brent as much as we can."

SCOUTING REPORT

"Powell County is fast, real good and they play hard," said Coach George. "They are better than we thought. They lost a tough one against Frankfort, a game they should have won."

Powell County had built a 20-0 lead late in the game but the Pirates were unable to take care of the football and Frankfort scored three times in a matter of minutes to tie the game.

"But we will just have to use our size and play harder."

KEYS TO A WIN

"We definitely have to contain their speed," he said. "We did not contain Allen Central's speed and I was disappointed with the way we played."

"I have a lot of confidence in Brandt and we plan to throw as often as we can tonight. We have had a good week of practice. We need to get this one back after losing to them last year."

"We have a chance to be 2-0 when we go to South Floyd next week."

Kickoff is 7:30 p.m. at Powell County.

Rebels close but fall to Tigers in two

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

The Allen Central Rebels volleyball team ventured into Paintsville this past Wednesday hoping to capture a win against the home team Paintsville Tigers.

Following two very close JV games, the Rebels and Tigers squared off against each other on the varsity court in two games which would also prove to be very close. The Rebels battled all the way, only to fall in both match-ups.

Allen Central was the first team to serve in the opening varsity game, Amanda Potter got the visiting Rebels started with a serve that fell in for a point.

Following a misplayed volley by the Rebels, the ball would go back to the Tigers. Samantha Coleman got the Tigers their second point of the game, on a successful serve past the Allen Central interior.

The Tigers were unable to keep the ball long and lost possession of the ball on the very next serve. Allen Central's Johnna Ison got the Rebels rolling with three straight points off serves. The Rebels then faltered somewhat and the ball went back to Paintsville on a misplayed serve by the Rebels.

Paintsville's Lindsay Traglio served her team to three straight points to bring the Tigers up to par with the Rebels. Back and forth volleys soon gave way to a Paintsville rally that put the Tigers ahead for good.

Leslie Martin served for points 9, 10, 11 and 12 before the Tigers would regain control of the ball and put the first game away. Paintsville's Amanda Hensley accounted for four of the last five Paintsville points en route to the game one win.

Potter came up big for the Rebels once again when she posted point number 13, bringing the Rebels within one point of a deadlock with the Tigers.

The Paintsville player who had gotten the Tiger scoring attack started would put the final touches on as Lindsay Traglio came through with the 15th and final point of the first game.

The Rebels battled close in game one but fell to the Tigers by the final of 15-13.

Game two started with a Paintsville run of sorts. The Tigers posted three straight points on a strong performance by Elizabeth Combs. Combs got the Tigers started in the second game and would account for a large part of their game two offense.

The Rebels got the volleyball back and scored before Paintsville would post two more tallies to go ahead 5-1. All the Rebels could muster on the following possession was just one lone point.

Paintsville got the ball back, and scored to go ahead 6-1. The Allen Central Rebels needed a spark, and it would come in the form of Amanda Potter.

With Potter serving, the Rebels reeled off nine straight points to go ahead of the Tigers. When the Rebels lost the ball back to the Tigers it would be Elizabeth Combs once again leading the way.

Combs got the Tigers up to a 14-11 advantage. Paintsville went on to win the game 15-12.

The first-game loss by only two points and the second-game loss of only three was two of the closer contests the Rebels or Tigers have been in this season. At times the Rebels were in contention to go ahead and stay ahead, and at other times they faltered.

Coach Larry Maynard's Rebels will be back in action early next week.

Allen Elementary hosting grid to begin the season

by STEVE LeMASTER

Allen Elementary will be the site of a pre-season grid Saturday August 26. Several teams will take part in the grid. Teams from Floyd County along with teams from Johnson, Martin, and Magoffin Counties will be taking part. The pre-season grid to begin the season has become a constant in past years. As usual Inez and Johnson County look to have strong teams. The grid will give all teams the opportunity to get a look at the competition they'll be facing this season. The host Allen Elementary will especially want to view all of the guests they've invited onto their field. A grid of this type is beneficial to all involved, and that's just what the Allen Elementary coaches feel will help them to get a jump-start on the season.

Allen returns a good nucleus from last year's team. The key to a good football team is often leadership, this year's Allen Elementary team seems to have just that. Coach Ashland Gearhart leads his troops into the rugged confines of Floyd County youth football. The Allen Elementary squad has a very optimistic outlook on the 2000 football season. That optimistic outlook could very well be attributed to the head coach. "I just tell the kids to go out there and have fun," said Gearhart. "Football is a fun sport, and I want the players on this team to have fun playing it. The competition that fills our schedule is top-notch. We play in a very tough conference that features the other Floyd County schools along with teams outside of the county. We'll get a real good look at the other schools in the pre-season grid that we're hosting." The Allen coach knows from previous seasons that it isn't going to be easy to accumulate wins. Every game in the conference is a battle. The Allen team is solid all around, returning experienced players who started last season.

The Allen team has a never say die attitude that should carry them far this season. As long as the Allen Elementary players give it all they've got, then coach Gearhart will be happy.

"We've got some speed on this team, and that will allow us to run around the ends more," said Gearhart. "We've got some big kids on this football team, which is always a plus when you play the teams we play. I think heading into the season that we'll be all right as far as being able to stand up to the competition."

Allen Elementary starts its 2000 season with the pre-season grid on their home turf Saturday August 26.

Adams to mirror high school Blackcats

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

Check it out — football at Prestonsburg High School has been a tradition down through the years.

At Adams Middle School, that tradition has been in place as well and for new head coach James Derossett, he wants to continue the tradition beginning with his first year at the helm of the program.

Coach Derossett, brother of John Derossett, head coach at the high school, wants his Adams Middle School Blackcats to mirror the high school program. Look for it to happen as James Derossett is an assistant at the high school with his brother.

"We want to run pretty much the same type of offense that the high school runs," he said. "We want to be in the stack formation and "I" formation but we are going to simplify it a little bit."

Coach Derossett said the Blackcats would start with 10 or 12 offensive plays in their book and increase that as the season advances.

"I don't want to throw a lot at them right off the bat," said the new Adams coach. "As the kids work hard at learning the plays then we will progress from there."

Coach Derossett will handle the seventh and eighth grade team while parents in the program will work with the fifth and sixth graders.

"We want to start a fourth and fifth grade team, in pads, and try to have a C team," said Derossett. "If not, they we will have a flag football team at that level. Denny Ousley and Randy Tincher will handle that team."

Adams will be the first middle school team for Derossett since he coached the Sandy Valley Bobcats just a year out of high school.

"For a lot of young kids, this is where it starts," said Derossett. "At this stage, you get turned on to football or you get turned off."

Trevor Compton will run the team from the quarterback position with Jesse Chaffins running at tailback while Justin Carr will play fullback.

"It seems the kids have shot up over the summer," said Coach Derossett. "We are going to have players like Elzie Webb and Zack Lafferty on the line. Also we have some sixth graders who will play like Brook Herrick, Zachary Ousley, Cory Tincher."

The kids who will dot the Adams roster come from a strong tradition.

"A lot of the kids who will be playing for us will come from fathers who played here," said Derossett. "It is always great when you have tradition. The fathers of these kids have been giving me a lot of support."

Adams will play in the tough Big Sandy

Middle School Conference.

"It has really changed since I played here," said Derossett. "When I played you played the county schools but with this new format they play like the SEC, but, of course, you still play the county schools, that's the Southern Division. Then you play four teams out of the North Division."

John M. Stumbo will add a team this season and Magoffin County will place two in the conference.

"Of course, you have Paintsville, Inez and Warfield as well as Johnson Central, who has two teams," said Derossett. "It is much more competitive than it used to be. The person we should thank for that is Don Chaffins."

Adams will have a lot of size when the season gets underway on August 28.

"Of course, there is some athleticism in Trevor and Jesse," said Derossett. "The Carr kid is a big boy but at fullback he can still run."

The Adams team could get a shot in the arm if Michael Morrison is permitted to return and play this year. Morrison was hurt last year toward the end of the season.

"I hope to be able to play again this season," said Morrison. "I have to go back to the doctor and if he tells me that I can play, then I am going to. But if he advises me not to then I won't. I want to play basketball this year."

The conference will hold its annual grid on Saturday, August 26 at Allen Elementary.

Young Bobcats hoping to win with inexperienced team

SPORTS WRITER

The Betsy Layne High School Bobcats opened their season up with an impressive 18-12 win over the Allen Central Rebels. When Coach Ted George took the job at Betsy Layne High, he knew it would take time to build a football program at the school. The key to building a program is having a good strong basis to build from. That strong base is often a feeder program from a grade school or a middle school. Coach Dwight Newsome hopes to provide George with the very best talent coming up from his program at Betsy Layne Grade School.

Newsome enters his third season as the head man at Betsy Layne Grade School. In his three years at the school the grade school Bobcats have enjoyed vast success on the gridiron. Playing in-county rivals like South Floyd Middle School, Adams Middle School, Allen, and Stumbo is a season in itself. When you factor in a schedule that also normally includes Inez, Magoffin County, and Johnson Central, then you've got the makings of a very tough schedule. The 2000 Betsy Layne Grade School football team is one of youth and inexperience. The Bobcats lost a whole lot of talented players from last season's team. Coach Newsome is optimistic going into his third season at the school, but also contends the Bobcats will have to step up and grow up quickly. "We are very young and in experienced this year," said Newsome. "We lost a lot of players from last year's team but we've got a real good bunch of kids out this year." Numbers are down at Betsy Layne Grade School, as they are at several other area schools. Some county schools such as South Floyd have the huge numbers, while Betsy Layne doesn't have the large numbers as a South Floyd or a even a Johnson County Middle School will bring to the playing field. "It's definitely a battle when you're up against the Johnson Counties and the Inezes, but we've faced that type of adversity before," said Newsome. "I've learned in coaching, that you just have to line up and get after it."

Getting a late start might hinder the Betsy Layne Grade School Bobcats, as they head into the season. The Bobcats have had limited time practice time this pre-season, and have been practicing indoors at The Dome. Their first outdoor practice was earlier this week at the high school field. "Not being able to get out and practice on the football field, has definitely put us behind, we had several kids who were late on getting their physicals," said Newsome. "All of those things leaves us behind a little, and looking to make up some ground heading into the season. To be honest we're just right now finding out what we've got each position, as far as players go. As the season gets started we hope to have a good football team." The Betsy Layne Grade School Bobcats play in the Allen Grid this Saturday.

South Floyd Middle School will challenge in conference race

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

For the past two middle school seasons, the South Floyd Middle School Raiders have advanced to the finals of the Big Sandy Valley Middle School conference only to lose in the championship game.

This year coaches Charles Hall and Lanny Hall are hoping things will turn out a little different and the talent that will return for the middle school team will be good enough to end Johnson Central's reign in the conference.

"We competed last year and we hope to compete this year," said Charles Hall. "We want to take it a step further than last year. We have been blessed with speed in the backfield here at South Floyd. You can't teach speed."

The Raiders lost by one point to Johnson Central's eighth grade team in the finals of last year's tournament.

"Johnson Central will always be there, they are a tough program," said Coach Hall. "Magoffin County will have a seventh and eighth grade team. We will play in the south division where all the county schools will be."

Wesley Hall will quarterback the Raider team with a backfield consisting of Jordan Johnson, Joey Bacay, and Robert Mullins.

"Robert played at the end of last season and was a newcomer to the backfield," said Coach Hall. "He really impressed me against Inez when we played them up here and he looked good against Johnson Central in the Big Sandy Bowl."

Cory Hall and Adam Taylor will lead the offensive line for South Floyd Middle School.

"Adam has done a real super job for us. Also we will have Dusty Moore and Gabe Stewart there," said the South Floyd coach. "We have to find some offensive ends. We

John M. Stumbo searching for wins this season Stumbo coach excited about getting started

The beginning of the 2000 high school football season also signals the beginning of the middle school football season. More and more, the middle school ranks are becoming as competitive as the high school ranks. Floyd County boasts several talented middle school football programs. The Mountain Middle School Conference is a huge football conference with schools holding membership from several counties including Floyd. Middle school football programs are often just teaching the players in their young program the fundamentals of the game. Football is a rough sport that makes boys into young men. This 2000 football season holds uncertainty as teams begin the season. One county team is hoping to build on past success it has enjoyed in previous seasons. John M. Stumbo Elementary heads into the 200 football season looking to post some wins on its way to a Mountain Middle School Conference championship.

Coach Gerald Newsome returns as head coach of the John M. Stumbo Mustangs. The head man is hoping to lead the Mustangs to a winning season. "The conference we play in is very tough, and we play a bunch of very good football teams, so we've got our work cut out for us," said Newsome. "This year, I really want to come in and get the team started out good, teaching them the basic fundamentals, along with letting them know what I expect out of them. So far practice has went very well, with the weather holding up for us, and the kids working very hard in practice. It's going to take an all out effort for us to come out and play well against the schools on our schedule, but I think we can do that if we continue to work hard. The running game is something most schools in the pre-high school ranks rely on. John M. Stumbo, will be no different.

"We will be running the ball a lot, but we just might surprise teams sometimes, by going to the air. It's kind of a risk to pass the football on this level of play but I think we've got the athletes that are capable of making the receptions, and the big plays that come with the passing game. Some of the teams on our schedule will probably pass the ball, so they too will have the athletes capable of playing in a passing offense. The run will definitely be what we rely on the most. As far as defense goes, we've got some players over on defense that can get after an offense, and that really like to hit.

We've still got a couple of question marks, but we'll be ready to play when it comes time to strap on the helmets."

The stiff Floyd County competition remains on the 2000 John M. Stumbo Elementary School schedule, along with tough out of county opponents such as the Johnson County Middle School. "The middle school down in Johnson County is big and will be a big challenge for our kids when we face them," said Newsome. "We've told our kids just to take it one game at a time and play like we know how they can play, and they'll be fine."

The John M. Stumbo Mustangs open up play in the Allen Grid on Saturday August 26. "Our kids are really looking forward to getting started, and I think they'll be ready to play," Said Newsome. "I'm really excited about getting started."

Numbers a concern for

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

When ever a middle school football season is played Coach Roy Harlowe always puts a competitive team of the field from Allen Central Middle School.

Coach Harlowe is one of the more successful coaches who has had no problems in getting players to turn out for a grade school football season.

But when the Lil' Rebels kick off the 2000 campaign the numbers will not be there and that has become a concern for the veteran coach.

"Our numbers are way down," he said. "We lost a couple of players I thought were going to be pretty strong players and would have been eighth graders this year. I don't know why they decided not to play.

"But the numbers are down all over the county, not just middle school but high school as well. I don't know what to contribute that to."

For a middle school program it is vital that good numbers from both the seventh and eighth grades come out for the sport. While the numbers look good in the fifth and sixth grade ranks, they are not there in the upper two classes.

However, Coach Harlowe expects his team to be able to compete this season.

"Right now it is sort of rough. We are going to have a decent line," said the Allen Central coach. "We have a couple of good size kids who are going to be returning."

Quarterback is a question mark for the Lil' Rebels this season, not that they don't have skill people to play the position. The question mark is who will play there.

"Robbie Vanderpool was out 'B' team quarterback last year and did a good job," said Coach Harlowe. "Andrew Prater could be under center as well. If Andrew plays there, then we will split out Robbie or run him in the backfield some."

Allen Central had a strong "B" team last year and most of those return as seventh graders.

"We have a strong seventh grade class coming up," said Harlowe. "I look for us to be able to compete in the conference this year. I don't think we will surprise anybody. Everyone knew our "B" team was pretty strong last year."

Coach Harlowe said it is too early to tell what kind of "B" team will dress for Central this season.

"It is hard to tell right now what the fifth and sixth graders will do," he said. "We are very little out there."

Coach Harlowe said Johnson Central and South Floyd are likely to renew their battles for supremacy in the conference.

"Johnson Central, when you are playing against 40 eighth-graders day in and day out, they are going to be hard to contend with," said the Allen Central mentor. "South Floyd is probably going to be one of the strongest teams in our district. They are going to be really strong. It is going to be between them and Johnson Central."

"Magoffin County's numbers are up. They have a good number of players out.

They split their team into seventh and eighth grade teams."

Harlowe said most of the Lil' Rebels will have to go both ways.

"Jeremy Stone is a big kid and he definitely will have to go both ways," Coach Harlowe said. "He is probably the biggest kid we have on the team."

The Lil' Rebs open their season on Saturday, August 26 at Allen Elementary in the Big Sandy Middle School Conference gridiron.

No negatives in Prestonsburg camp as football season opens

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

After sitting down with veteran Prestonsburg football coach John Derossett, it doesn't take long to conclude the coach is excited about the upcoming football season and things are going mighty good in the Cats lair.

Prestonsburg is trying to forget the dismal 3-8 finish of last season and wants to return to the state playoffs again but not as a team that enters by the "skin of their teeth."

The Prestonsburg mentor is upbeat about the season and the young players he has back. The Cats defense will be the highlight of this season and the coach said defense is always ahead of the offense but the offense will be there.

"Our defense may be our strength right now," he said. "I am awful pleased with our front eight. I think the reason we are doing so well defensively is because we have a lot of fast guys there. You can't block a moving man."

While only eight seniors will dot the Prestonsburg roster, Prestonsburg will have the strongest junior and sophomore class mixed with an array of talented freshmen.

Junior Austin Clark will return at the quarterback slot, a position he inherited late last year but performed well

"We tried some people there last year," said Coach Derossett, "but at the end of the year Austin played quarterback for us. He did a good job for us and we expect the same this year."

Backing up Clark will be sophomore southpaw, Joey Willis. "He is a good one," said Derossett. "I am sure you will see him on the varsity this year."

Coach Derossett said he and his coaching staff had placed a lot of emphasis on this year's junior varsity schedule and for a good reason.

"A lot of these players will be in transition. Some will play varsity ball and others will not," he said. "We don't want those who won't be playing varsity to get discouraged. We are going to try and keep that group intact and let them play some good quality competition."

The JV schedule will include the likes of Lexington Catholic, Leslie County and Hazard.

The backfield at Prestonsburg will see a change with Kevin Woods moving from the offensive line to the full-back slot.

"It has been a good change for us," said Coach Derossett. "At Corbin (scrimmage) he missed a few well, and he has had an excellent preseason, according to Derossett.

"He has great potential and is a tall kid with long arms and long legs," said the Prestonsburg coach. "He is the second fastest player we have on the team."

Josh Slone will move to the defensive line for Prestonsburg, moving from a linebacker slot. Dusty Scott will play inside the defensive line while Prestonsburg is getting good play from other players.

"We have been good interior play from players like Rodney Porter, Charley Johnson, Josh and Rudy Pennington, two sophomores who have played well."

Kevin Younce will anchor the defensive end on the strong side, according to Coach Derossett.

"But, again, you put a player like David Harris there and you don't fall that much off," he said. "It is going to be a luxury of ours to be able to substitute and not drop off that much."

Tony White will play "the whip" position along with Burchett.

"Our four linebackers, we feel like are the best group I have ever been around as far as having overall speed," said Derossett.

Matt Slone will play the "bandit" slot while Chris Spriggs will be at the "Sam" position. Kevin Woods will be at the "Mike" slot with Mike McDonald playing the "will" position.

"Behind them we have players like Michael Fannin, Adam Dixon, John Hunt, Tommy Nelson and Matt Setser coming in."

While areas have their strong points, still the Prestonsburg coach confesses that his defensive secondary is a question mark.

"We all know that is where we need a little bit of work," he said. "We have shuffled that around a little bit this year and taken Matt Slone, who was a defensive back last year and put him close to the ball. I think that is going to help us, but at the same time when you help that front out, you weaken your defensive backfield."

Andrew Howell will be at a corner for the Blackcats. "He is a real physical player and had a good scrimmage for us," said Coach Derossett. "He needs to work on his coverage ability."

Coach Derossett is confident his team can handle the running game but...

"We also know when we get down the road against Breathitt County and Leslie, teams like that, they are going to throw it around," said Derossett.

Ralph Mullett will be at a corner while Clark and Chris Jervis could see time as free safety. The other corner will feature Kevin Jervis. Some youthful freshmen could see time there also, according to the Prestonsburg coach.

"I want to tell you something, we have some freshmen in Nicholas Jamerson, Gino Stratton, and Rob Murray. Their foot speed is what has got them a little bit ahead of others right now."

Will the Blackcats throw the ball?

"I like the way we ran the ball in scrimmage," said Derossett. "I don't want to be just an old three yards and a cloud of dust. When you got players that move you have to put them in position to score. We are going to run the football. We are going to run some option. But we are also going to play action-pass."

Coach Derossett said his team still has the shotgun package in the play book used during the days of John Ortega.

"We have been working on that some," he said. "But I think you will see more of a Pro I pack with two tight ends. Two tight ends is a nice formation because people can't shift their defense that much."

Prestonsburg is expected to be a quick team with good speed.

"I sometimes think they have a little too much energy," said Derossett. "I am 34 years old but I think I am a little too old to keep up with them sometimes."

Dancing is a joy, an exercise, and fun. When you get those steps perfect, you know you've won! Good Luck & God bless in this millennium season, Dance Cats! May you soar beyond your wildest expectations and mine!

Allen Central looking for eight-man state championship

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

Before the 2000 high school football season even thought about getting underway, the Allen Central Rebels learned that they were voted out of district play for the 2000 season. This was a damaging blow to any program to say the least. With no chance at a state, regional, or even a district title, the Rebel coaching staff were left searching for something to fuel players' desire to play. What The Rebels stumbled upon was a second chance at a state title. This season the Rebels will be competing for the KHSAA eight-man football championship.

The Rebels return a good group of players, with a strong senior class, supported by a more than able group of underclassmen. An eight-man state football championship is at stake, and the Rebels feel they have a good chance of capturing a state title on the eight-man level.

Coach Spurlock's offensive unit will be led by a strong offensive line. "Our offensive line is going to be the strength of our team," he said. "Chad Webb will be starting at center, Harlow and Hagens will be starting at the guards, and Z.W Chaffins and Jerry Bailey will be starting at the tackles." "Tight end is a position we are fortunate enough to have some depth at, Patrick Martin and Jonathan Ellis will both play tight end for us this season." The Rebel backfield is made up of some young backs. "Sophomore James Prater will be our quick back, James Hunter will play the other tailback position, and D.J. Hoover will line up in the backfield at full back," the Rebel mentor said.

A battle for the starting quarterback role continues between Alex Patton and Jonathan Ellis. "We're still not completely set on our starting quarterback, nothing is for sure just yet," Spurlock said. "Somebody has to step up before the position is filled by any one player." Ellis is a player that could have a legitimate shot of playing football on the college level. The kicker/tight end/quarterback/defensive end is the type of versatile player many college recruiters come looking for. Patton does hold an advantage over Ellis in the foot-speed category. What Ellis lacks in foot speed he makes up in experience, and pure athletic ability.

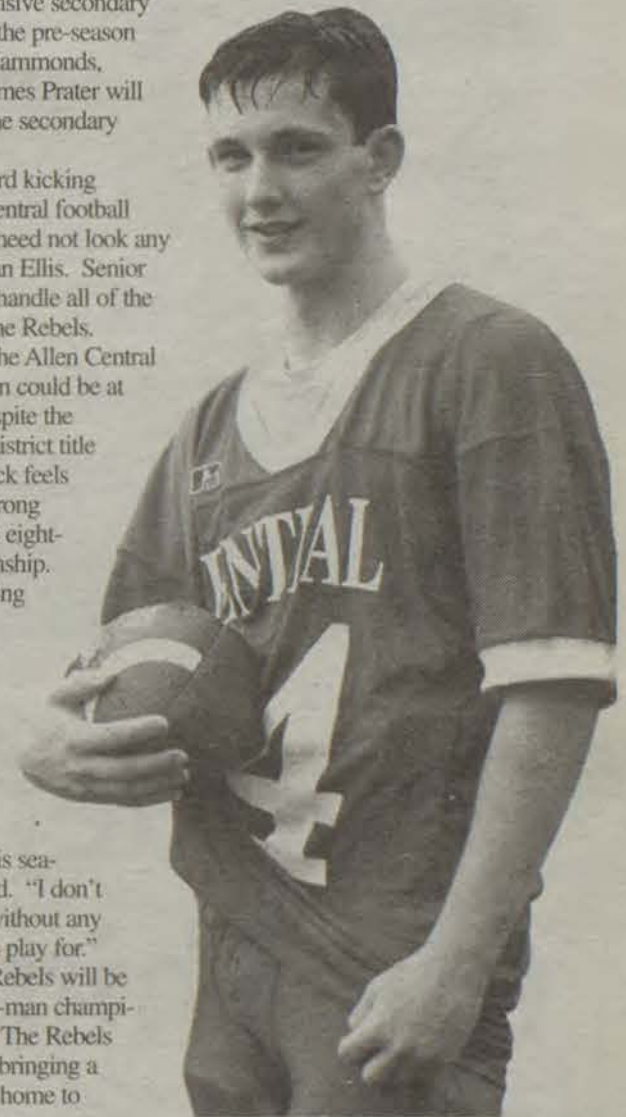

The Rebel defense could pose a problem to some of the teams on their schedule. The Rebels run different defensive fronts against opposing offensives. Spurlock likes the advantage running fresh defensive players in and out will give his team. "We're going to run two new defensive lineman in after every two plays, alternating two plays and out," he said. "This season we'll be running three different fronts, Chad Webb, Jerry Bailey, Mike Slone, Patrick Martin and Jonathan Ellis will all see playing time on the defensive line."

The Allen Central defense will boast an experienced group of linebackers. "At the linebacker position we'll have Z.W. Chaffins, Jared Harlow, and D.J. Hoover," he said. "Our defensive secondary played real well in the pre-season grids, Kennedy, Hammonds, P.D. Francis and James Prater will play a lot back in the secondary for us this season."

Mention the word kicking around the Allen Central football program, and you need not look any farther than Jonathan Ellis. Senior Jonathan Ellis will handle all of the kicking duties for the Rebels.

Motivation for the Allen Central Rebels football team could be at an all-time high despite the team being out of district title contention. Spurlock feels his troops have a strong shot at capturing an eight-man state championship. The hope of capturing an eight-man title could have quite possibly saved the program. "If we didn't have eight man football, this football program may have folded this season," the coach said. "I don't know what teams without any hopes of a state title play for." The Allen Central Rebels will be playing for an eight-man championship this season. The Rebels have high hopes of bringing a state championship home to Eastern.

Betsy Layne Bobcats

Confidence runs high in Betsy Layne football camp

Collins, Newsome make for fearful backfield

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

Betsy Layne coach Ted George has learned about "robbing from Peter to pay Paul."

You see the Bobcats' backfield was depleted after last season and when Ricky Goble decided that he was not going to play football this season.

So in order to have a "backfield" he had to pull off some of the defensive players and convert them into running backs.

How has the move worked? Well when the 2000 season gets underway, Betsy Layne could have one of the most potent tandems in the area in Adam Collins and Brent Hamilton. But Matt Williams is no slouch in the backfield himself.

"We are so young on the line," he said. "We are expecting big things from everyone though. Everyone around is down in terms of numbers but we have 20 players this year but a year ago we had only 18."

All three were "yanked" from other positions of last year and asked to take their positions behind quarterback Brandt Brooks and be the offensive threat for Coach George.

The move has been an excellent one, proven during the preseason scrimmages. Of course, preseason scrimmages don't count but you will never convince these Bobcats of that as they won both of their preseason games.

Before this year, Betsy Layne rode a streak which ended in the first game of the season against Allen Central. The Cats had lost 17 consecutive games and have not won since the 1998 season when they won their first three games.

Coach George said his line could be a question mark this season.

"We are so young on the line," he said. "We are expecting big things from everyone though. Everyone around is down in terms of numbers but we have 20 players this year but a year ago we had only 18."

One of the most pleasant surprises, and there have been many, has been the play of first year senior Brock Keathley. Coach George said he has been a real shot to the offensive arm of Betsy Layne at the split end position.

"He is a first year player. He has great hands and great speed," said the Betsy Layne coach. "I would like for him to be a little bit stronger. Players like Brock, they look great when no one is defending them. But in our first scrimmage he caught six passes and one for a touchdown. He is going to be a big help to us."

The tight end position was a question mark but the steady improvement of senior Kevin Bentley answered the question that was there.

"When he first started he was so bad he could not catch a cold," said George. "I told him to his face, 'Son, you were so bad I didn't know where I was going to play you."

Bobcats

But hard work and determination have turned Bentley into an outstanding receiver.

"We worked with him at the Georgetown camp," said George. "We would take him over to the side and just throw, throw and throw. We get in a game (versus Lewis County) and he catches his first pass and he takes off from there. It is just amazing."

Last year Adam Collins, a senior, played a tight end slot but this year he has been converted to the tailback slot and has made his coach look like a football genius with the move.

Collins is a big kid with good speed and strength.

"That is the position that Ricky Goble played for us last year," said the Betsy Layne coach. "We really didn't know how he was going to perform back there. He is big and fast, more of a tight end size. He carried the ball 15 to 20 times against Lewis County and had a great game against Elkhorn City in the preseason (113 yards, four touchdowns).

"Against Lewis County he started off a little sluggish, unsure of himself, but by the second half they did not want anything to do with him. He just lowered his shoulder and averaged about four or five yards per carry."

Matt Williams, another converted player, will run at the full-back slot, but mostly for blocking purposes.

"He played offensive guard for us last year," said Coach George. "We got him in the weight room and got his speed down to where he is running a 4.8/40. He is bench pressing 290. He is the type of player who will run flat over you. He is one of these straight ahead runners. Moving him off the line has weakened our line a little but helped in the backfield."

Brent Hamilton is full of energy and an excited runner to watch. He will be at the Z-back for the Bobcats. Last year he was a split end.

"He is lighting fast. He is small for our backfield and he doesn't get many carries. We put him back there to mainly block and catch some passes out of the backfield."

The Bobcats will be blessed with a strong throwing quarterback in Brandt Brooks (6'4", 210), who Coach George says is different player this year.

"He has grown up a lot since last year," he said. "His freshman year was the year we got hit by the injury bug and Brandt was out the whole season. Last year he played a little quarterback for us and some on defense. Toward the end of last year we played him strictly at quarterback.

"He had a lot to learn and we knew that. In the off season he had his ankle repaired and the day the doctor let him come back he hit the weights."

"Brandt has matured. People who came to see him play are saying he is better than last year. Well, he has grown up. He is awful young and should be a sophomore age wise. We have worked with him and he is staying in the pocket. Last year he didn't. He would panic."

Matt Hamilton will back up Brooks at the quarterback slot.

With the numbers low at Betsy Layne it is only reasonable that most players will be required to go both ways. Adam Collins (6'1", 250) will play the weak side linebacker position. "He plays it well and they will not run at him," said Coach George.

Matt Williams will also be at the middle linebacker position. Josh Hayes (6'2", 295), who has been plagued with injuries, will anchor a defensive tackled position. Also, on the line will be Josh Allen, a junior.

"He has played consistent for us," said Coach George.

Jared Flannery also will play on the defensive side of the football.

Labeled as the "toughest and meanest" of the Bobcats, Travis Campbell play one defensive end position.

"He loves to hit," said George of Campbell.

Nick Hall and Nick Spears will also see time as defensive ends.

Coach George likes this year's speed and quickness.

That is one thing we have, speed and quickness," he said. "The size of our line is not that great but we are so fast at our guards spot and defensive ends positions we have gone to a four-front defense. That looks a lot better for us because of our speed."

Of course, the Betsy Layne coach knows that even with speed and quickness, you have to play the game.

"That's right. They still have to go out there and play the game," he said. "You can have the best looking uniforms but when you go on the field you have to prove you can play."

DISTRICT SUMMATION

The Betsy Layne coach believes his team can be more competitive this season.

"You have to figure Belfry and Prestonsburg are going to be tough," said Coach George.

"Prestonsburg was a little down last year but they still made the playoffs. Belfry has all kind of kids out and they are always tough.

"We feel we can play with Pike Central, Shelby Valley and even Whitesburg. We pretty much played with them last year but ran out of gas.

"The new weight room has really helped us get stronger. We are just a different team physically."

Coach George said the goals the Bobcats have set are lofty ones but yet realistic ones.

"We always shoot for the one and two spot in our district," he said. "but really we are setting our goals to make the playoffs."

A lot will depend on the play of the defensive line and, again, the lack of numbers could make the difference.

"We have to play both ways," said the Betsy Layne coach. "That is the way it has been since I have been here. Keith Howell will be at the corner spot for us and he has impressed us. Kevin Bentley will be a defensive back for us as well as Matt Hamilton.

"We are very excited about the season and ready to play!"

PLAYOFF HOPES for the South Floyd Raiders will ride on the shoulders of running back B.J. Bryant (2).

New season, new coach, new look for South Floyd

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

Everyone is optimistic as the 2000 high school football season unfolds in August, but no one is more optimistic than South Floyd Raider fans.

You see, there was a time when they were not expected to have a winning season let alone make the state playoffs each year. After all, that was the ballpark the Pikeville's, Prestonsburg's, Hazard's, Paintsville's and other area teams played.

That was then and this is now. For the past three seasons the Raiders has become of those consistent winning programs thanks to the leadership of veteran coach Donnie Daniels. While at the helm of the Raider program, Daniels led them to the state playoffs four of the last five years and sort of spoiled Raider fans.

Can Raiders make it four straight playoffs

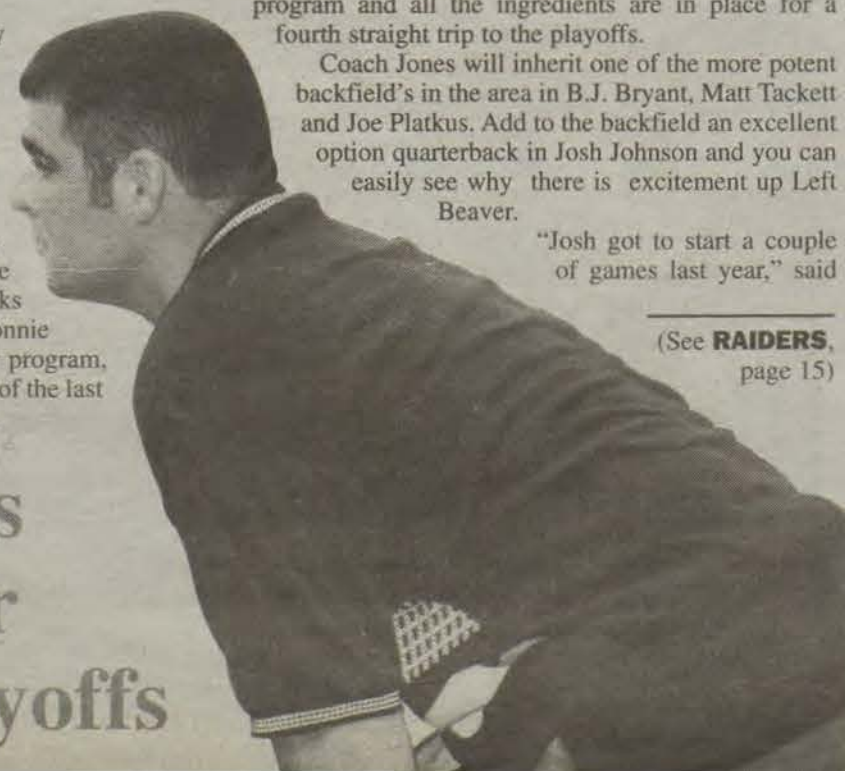

There will be a new kid on the block when the 2000 season kicks off and South Floyd fans will not use that as an excuse if the Raiders failed to make the state event this year.

Nathan Jones will be heading up his first-ever football program and all the ingredients are in place for a fourth straight trip to the playoffs.

Coach Jones will inherit one of the more potent backfield's in the area in B.J. Bryant, Matt Tackett and Joe Platkus. Add to the backfield an excellent option quarterback in Josh Johnson and you can easily see why there is excitement up Left Beaver.

"Josh got to start a couple of games last year," said

Coach Jones. "This year he needs to learn how to read the defense a lot better. We worked on that everyday in practice.

"He is agile and can move a little bit. He also plays cornerback on our attack team which is our defense. He definitely an all around player and looking to lead this team this year.

B.J. Bryant is one of the most feared runners in mountain football and finds a way to make his own holes. Coach Jones rates Bryant as one of the top backs in the state.

"After the past years, no one can argue with that," said the South Floyd coach. "He is very, very quick."

Perhaps the quickest player on the South Floyd team is Matt Tackett. Tackett's excellent quickness makes him a threat on the sweeps.

"He is a tough little grinder," Coach Jones said. He will get you the needed yardage each time. He is deceptive. When you look at him you don't think of him as a power back but he won't go down real easy."

Power and strength belongs to Joe Platkus who will fill the fullback position.

"He is probably the fastest back you will see," said Coach Jones. "He is quick enough when he needs to be. His blocking has improved a lot during the preseason."

Leon Brown will see a lot of playing time in the backfield as well for the Raiders, according to Coach Jones, along with Jeremy Tackett.

"Those backs will rotate in lots," Jones said. "That way we can keep some fresh legs in there. I don't think we are losing much when they come in there. This is Leon's first year out but he has a lot of talent."

Brian Newsome will be at the center post on offense for South Floyd. "He is a big boy, a senior who has played all four years," said Jones. "He is a veteran and will lead the line."

Ryan Hall, another senior, is expected to show leadership on the line as well.

"He has a real big mouth," said Jones. "Johnny Spears as well as Danny Hall will also be on our line. We also have J.J. Perry another senior. We have four seniors and a junior on our line."

The Raiders front line will average 6'2" and weigh in at an average of 300.

"That is a large line. We should be able to use that line for some tough yardage," Jones said.

The Raiders will run a four-front on defense. Ryan Hall and Johnny Spears will be at the defensive tackles. They will be replaced by Danny Hall and Perry. Todd Caudill will see some playing time as well at the defensive tackle slot.

Josh McCray will fill one defensive end position. "He is a real quick kid," said Jones. "He is not big in size but big in heart and stature. He is one of these kids who will give you everything every day. He doesn't have to ask any questions.

"You also have Brandon Kohler, the exact same. He is a senior and will do anything you ask of him. He, along with P.J. Cox will play receiver on offense. They do a good job there too."

Platkus will play the middle linebacker position on the defensive side of the football with Matt and Jeremy Tackett flanking him.

"They work well together as a team," said Coach Jones. "These three have bonded real well."

Bryant and Josh Johnson will play the corners on defense. "They are two of our best athletes on the team. They can make the plays on the corner and not let any one turn the corner on them."

Brown and Cox will play at the safety positions.

Coach Jones feels his team is solid on both sides of the football.

"We have about 17 kids who are going to get a lot of playing time," said he first year coach. "We have some younger players who are learning their positions and learning the game. They are learning new offense this year and it has taken time to learn it but it is coming together real well."

Matt Kendrick will be the Raider's place kicker. He and Platkus will handle the kicking on the specialty team.

"I am big on specialty teams," said Coach Jones. "I

High school volleyball in Floyd County will enter its third season and much is expected this time around the previous two years.

At Allen Central the Lady Rebels will have a new head volleyball coach in Larry Maynard, but the game is not new to him.

Maynard officiated volleyball last year after becoming interested in the sport while in the military.

"I watched them play at a time when I was refereeing basketball and umpiring baseball," said Maynard. "We had something like 300 to 400 people watching them play."

Coach Maynard said he decided then to learn more of the game.

"I started reading on it and started refereeing last year," he said. "This year they asked me to coach and I told them I would love to coach volleyball if I had the opportunity. I am just thrilled to death to have the opportunity to do it."

The Allen Central coach confessed that this area has a lot of catching up to do in girls volleyball.

"Our biggest problem here in eastern Kentucky is we are about eight years behind what schools in western and northern Kentucky are," said Maynard. "I would like to start building a good Coach Maynard brought in the University of Kentucky volleyball coach to conduct a two-day skills camp.

"We are focused on trying to win and getting the basics of the game down," he said. "The hard thing for them to learn is you learn all the picture perfect moves and things like that. Here, you may not have that big spectacular move, but at least learn the basics and keep it simple and you will do well."

Maynard said he is trying to stress control of the ball.

"That is the hard thing."

Allen Central was one of the stronger teams last year in the 15th District.

"They did a real good job last year and I am extremely proud of them," said the new head coach. "This year we have set our goal to become district champions. We are going to try real hard to win the district championship."

Maynard said that was the one thing he wanted to instill in the Lady Rebels — being champions.

"Last year they had a good bunch of girls and most of those are back this season," said Maynard. "We only lost one or two girls from last year."

dedicate a lot of time to it every day. They can win ball games for you.”

Brown and Bryant will use their speed to return the ball. “They both have wheels. I have to usse them. They havē a lot of talent.”

Coach Jones, who said he did not like to compare offenses with last year, said the Raiders would run a spread offense much like what Coach Steve Spurrier runs at Florida.

“We will pass the ball a lot more than they did last year,” said Jones. “I am a passing coach. I am not a heavy-handed passing coach but I do like to pass.”

Another change in the offense means more people will touch the football for the Raiders this year, according to the South Floyd coach.

“We have so many weapons I want to get these kids in the game touching the ball,” he said. “If we have adequate people in there touching the ball we have fresher legs.”

Coach Jones said if there is on area the offense needs to show improvement from last year is being more consistent on offense.

“At times they look kind of dead last year,” he explained. “A lot of times they were really explosive. They just wasn’t consistent. We need to deal with ball control more.”

“On defense, they got beat on sweeps last year. There were different factors for that, not just one person. This year we have worked greatly on sweeps. Now they may bust one up the middle, I don’t know.”

The Raiders have shown a tremendous improvement on learning the offense, according to Jones.

“The amount of plays we have, and we have close to 40 plays in there, and I have talked with other coaches and they only have 15 or 20, and not to brag about it, I think that is a compliment to these kids. The dedication they have put in to it. It is tough to learn 40 plays. I am really proud of them.”

While the season is progressing on schedule, still there is a concern for the new South Floyd coach.

“My only concern right now is our depth,” he said. “But a lot of teams are the same way this season, a lot of them are down. We have small senior class this year and the number of students in school are down and that may contribute also.”

DISTRICT SUMMATION

“I do know Pikeville will come out with a variety of different offenses,” said Coach Jones. “At the line of scrimmage you do not know what they are going to run.”

“Hazard is the same way. They have a good program up there right now. They have that winning tradition. I have watched Paintsville and I like what they are doing up there also.”

“Fleming-Neon will throw the ball a lot against you. They are a hard-nose team.”

STATE PLAYOFFS

Coach Jones said he would be disappointed if the Raiders failed to make it four straight in the state playoffs this season.

“As long as we don’t get major injuries, the talent is here for another state play-off,” said Coach Jones. “I don’t see why in the world we cannot go.”

blocking assignments but he ran the ball well. That will come in time as he picks things up."

Matt Slone finished the season last year at the tailback slot and he figures to return there to become the team's feature ball carrier.

"He did a great job closing out the season last year against Breathitt County and rushing for 120 yards," said Coach Derossett. "He has put in a good off season and he will be our big go-to guy."

It is in the backfield that the Blackcats figures to be strong and enjoy depth they did not have there last year.

"We really have a stable of good backs," said the Prestonsburg coach. "We have other fullbacks in Tony White and Josh Slone, Matt's brother. He can play a tailback or fullback for us."

But there are more. Adam Dixon and Michael Fannin figure into the scheme of things offensively for the Blackcats.

"We have a player who is very versatile in Matt Setser who can play either the tailback or fullback position," said Derossett. "Andrew Howell is a tailback. Kevin Jervis, we moved him from a split end to a tailback because of his speed."

Coach Derossett was very optimistic about Prestonsburg's offensively line.

"I am really pleased with our line right now," he said. "We return Dusty Scott who played about 70 percent last year with a bad ankle.

"Ricky Joseph, a senior, will play at one tackle for us with Matt Stephens at the other."

Andrew Burchett will play the center position for Prestonsburg. Coach Derossett has high hopes for Evan McNutt.

"Evan has the potential to be another Division I player out of this high school," he said. "He is a big kid for a sophomore.

"Another big player is Charley Johnson, who made a start for us against Corbin and played well along with a player named Scott Francis. Jason Hall will play at a guard for us."

The Blackcats will be strong at the tight end positions with Kevin Younce and Chris Spriggs in place.

"We also have Tommy Nelson and Ralph Mollett out there and they are solid players," said Derossett. "Everyone looks out there and sees Chris and Kevin but Tommy and Ralph does a good job for us as well."

Depth is a luxury this season Prestonsburg did not have last year thanks to a talented group of freshmen players who are sophomores this year.

"We are going to be able to do some things that we were not capable of doing last year, and when we sub we won't drop off that much," explained Derossett. "We put sophomores in the game against Corbin, and we put them in with confidence. That was nice to see."

Flanker will be held down by a small but dangerous Matt Clay. Clay had worked hard over the summer and is expected to give some quality time on the field.

"He has muscled up a little bit over the summer," said Derossett. "He is not a big player but he can play."

he said. "Focus on the three hits. I really want them to do the three hits and do the pass and the attack. That is what we are going to focus on this year."

Team drills had been the rule of practices early but now the Allen Central coach has been stressing individual play.

"I have been trying to get them to learn all the individual plays and individual defenses as well."

Shannon Sizemore, Becky Smith and Kari Osborne are expected to be the anchor for this year's squad, having played since the sport was introduced three seasons ago.

"Shannon is very, very athletic inclined," said Coach Maynard. "There is no doubt in mind that she will be one of the leaders this season."

Sizemore said her senior season will be looking for a little revenge of sorts and pointed toward Prestonsburg.

"I didn't like the way we played against Prestonsburg last year. Brook (Coleman) is my cousin and throughout the year, in volleyball, basketball and softball, she is ready for me and aiming at me," said a laughing Sizemore. "This year I just want to beat Prestonsburg."

Sizemore, who plays all three sports, likes the game of basketball over the other two but enjoys volleyball because of the challenge it presents individually.

"You are always on the floor," she said. "It is different. You are not doing one thing all the time."

Rebecca Smith was uncertain whether she would return to the game or not but a stint at camp was enough to convince her to return for her senior season.

"She went to camp this year and got the skills down," said Coach Maynard. She is definitely going to be one of our leaders."

"We all went to a couple of camps this year and learned the positions we played. We had the UK coach down for a two-day camp. That helped me, learning the techniques of the game."

While players have their difficult moments with the game, Smith said hers was setting the ball.

"Yeah, that is the most difficult for me," she admitted. "But in camp we learned more plays and more hits. That should help me a lot."

Kari Osborne brings experience to the Allen Central scheme of things this year, and like Smith, one thing has been more difficult than others.

"Serving overhand has been the hardest thing for me to learn," said the three year player. "Volleyball is a great game. It is not just one person on the floor. Everyone has to work together."

"Kari is one of those players who wants to play and plays hard all the time," said Coach Maynard. "This whole team wants to play and they do play hard."

"The first year I played, I liked it," said Osborne, "but I was scared. I had trouble serving the ball and getting it over the net. I have gotten better at it after practicing a lot. I think this year they will let me serve."

Allen Central opened it season at home against Magoffin County. The Lady Rebels will play a 20 game schedule and hopefully compete in one tournament.

The beginning of the 2000 school year rolled around, and the Betsy Layne Volleyball team was without a head coach, or an assistant for that matter. Coach Roberta Epperson resigned just before the start of the school year. Epperson had accepted a job closer to her Perry County home. She left the program following a volleyball camp she arranged which was conducted by University of Kentucky assistant Kevin Steele. Those players who attended the camp really got a thorough lesson in the game of volleyball.

The school first turned to veteran teacher Sharon Barker. Barker has been a mainstay on the BLHS faculty for quite some time. Barker took over the volleyball program at the high school and was to be assisted by Betsy Layne teacher and dance team coach Karen Wilson. Wilson is in her tenth year of teaching math at the school. She explained the then-coaching situation as being a good working relationship at the time, but things were soon to change. Working with the volleyball team and the dance team would allow both coaches to work with each other. The only thing was one coach couldn't seem to find the time to devote to coaching.

Barker acknowledged that she really couldn't fit coaching the volleyball into her schedule. After

The Prestonsburg Volleyball 'Cats head into the 2000 KHSAA volleyball season looking to build upon their 1999 performance of a district championship, and an appearance in the 15th Regional Tournament. Coach Russell Shepherd returns a very strong nucleus form last year's team.

team left a lasting impression with many of the opposing teams they played. Five starters return from last season's district championship team. Seven experienced players return from the 1999 team.

Coach Russell Shepherd sees this year's group of players being the best he's had in the three years he's headed the program. "The team we've got here this year is a very athletic team," said Shepherd. "Seven of the girls we've got playing also play on the high school basketball team, all the girls we've got out for volleyball this year are a real athletic. Those girls who are playing both basketball and volleyball include Brooke Coleman, Amelia Conley, Stephanie Adams, Angela Howell, Chrissie Nelson, Cheri Shepherd, and Megan Hyden. Hyden is a first-year player that Coach Shepherd is really counting on to come around as one of the better performers on the team. "This is Megan's first year out for volleyball, and she's really picking up on it, she's a great all-around athlete." Cheri Shepherd is the other Junior on this year's squad.

The senior class will undoubtedly be the strength for the Prestonsburg volleyball team. Shepherd will be depending on those returning players who were with him last season and the season before, to really step up and lead this season. "All five of my seniors were with me last season," he said.

"Brooke, Amelia, Angela, Chrissie and Stephanie are all going to be counted on again this season. "We play in a very tough region with teams like Breathitt County, Letcher County, and Perry Central," he said. "Our goal this season is to repeat as district champions, win the region and move onto the state tournament." Those goals for this group of seasoned players could be very much within their reach.

all, coaching a high school sport of any kind is a major time consuming undertaking that can wither the best coach. With Barker gone, that left Wilson as the assistant without a head coach. Enter Karen Wilson's husband, Larry. Mr. Wilson is entering his seventh year of teaching English at Betsy Layne High School. When the offer of coaching along side his wife was pitched to him he gladly accepted. Larry Wilson's excitement is clearly evident when he expresses his interest in the new coaching endeavor. "I'm very excited about coaching volleyball here at Betsy Layne High School," he said. "Coaching along side Karen is just added bonus." Karen Wilson sees the Betsy Layne volleyball coaching stint as a win-win situation.

"Larry and I have always worked together, with each other," she said. "This way when we were coaching volleyball, were spending time together." Time is just what Karen Wilson might need some of as she is also busy working with the Betsy Layne dance team. Although both the dance team and the volleyball team are busy practicing, Wilson sees no major scheduling conflicts. "The dance team is practicing right after school, and the volleyball team is practicing at 5, so that gives me a chance to do coach both activities."

Betsy Layne has fifteen girls out for this year's team. Getting a late start is something the Wilson's hope doesn't slow the team down. "We got a late start, but the players are working hard in practice, and I feel we'll be competitive this season. Fact is the Wilson's are new to the volleyball coaching ranks, but they are very familiar with sport. Both Larry and Karen have played the sport and are quite familiar with the basic rules of the game. "Both Larry and I have played volleyball, so we know the sport."

The 2000 campaign may hold several ups and downs for the husband-wife coaching duo. Players' spirits are up now that a head coach is in place and the Bobcats are ready to growl. Key returning players from last year's team include Seniors Denise Jones and Charlie Mullins, along with Junior Cara Hunt. The first year husband and wife coaching duo will look to returning players for much needed leadership. The Wilson's team of Volleyball Bobcats hope to win a district championship this season, and advance on into regional play.

■ South Floyd Volleyball

South Floyd volleyball to be more competitive

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

The South Floyd Lady Raiders and coach Jackie

McKinney have opened their fourth season of high school girls volleyball and the 2000 season looks promising with a good group of junior players returning.

Coach McKinney, who played volleyball in college intramural as well as high school, said the problem with volleyball in this area is learning to communicate.

"Today, in volleyball, if a team does not communicate together you have a lot of missed balls and misplayed balls," said McKinney. "That is one thing we have been working hard on trying to communicate so each one knows what the other is doing."

Volleyball, since McKinney's playing days, has changed and one of the bigger changes has been the serve.

"Yes, the rules have changed a lot since I played," she said. "The rule that a lot still don't understand that we used to have what was the net ball. That is on the serve if it went over the net, like in tennis, it counted. Nowadays, if it hits the top of the net, regardless of what happens, it is a side out."

McKinney agrees that fans need more educating of the sport of volleyball, which is still new to the area high schools.

"Last year we got red carded because our fans were cheering while we were on defense, at the wrong time," explained McKinney. "The other team was serving and our fans were yelling, 'let's go defense!' The referee red carded us which gave the other team a point. You have to be silent when the other team is serving."

While McKinney does not agree with the rule, she feels that officials should be a bit more lenient since the sport is rather new to the county area.

The Prestonsburg coach went on to say how his squad is very coachable and receptive to his teaching. "It would be real hard to find a better bunch of girls to coach, these girls are a real good bunch to work with." Great senior leadership just might be enough to carry the Volleyball Blackcats to the state tournament.

The partnership between basketball and volleyball makes for a very athletic volleyball team. "Volleyball is a real good sport, and it's a very athletic sport," said Shepherd. "You run and jump in volleyball, just as in basketball, and you also shoot in volleyball, it's just a different kind of shooting than in basketball."

Heading into his third season as head volleyball coach Russell Shepherd has high expectations for his veteran team. "We play in a real tough district, but we've got a very good group of volleyball players who I feel can step up and play with anyone in the state.

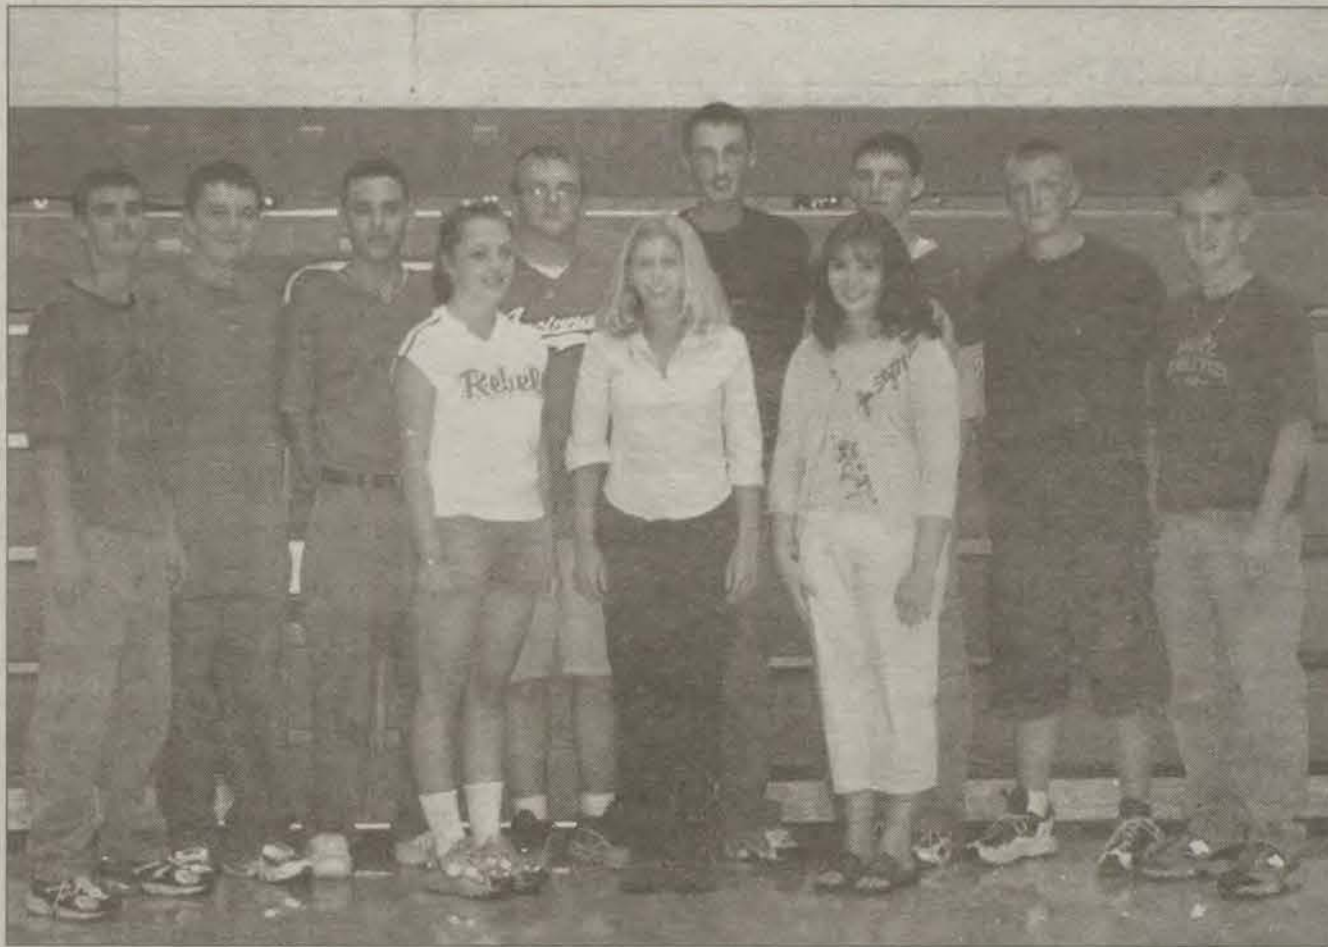

The Prestonsburg High School Volleyball team will open the season looking to repeat as district champions and then some.

and feels they have come a long ways since the infant days of three years ago.

"I believe we are going to be more competitive," she said. "I understand more teams are involved in camps. We had a UK camp here and that help the girls because it helps them to get another look at how to do things. I think the sport is going to get more competitive each year."

Becky Isaac, a junior, agreed that camp was very beneficial this year.

"It was real helpful to me," she said. "It helped me to get my vertical jump down. Coach McKinney has been letting me do a little bit of front line. It helped my vertical jump a lot."

South Floyd will return a veteran team led by senior Minnie Tackett.

"Minnie will be the lone senior and we will have six juniors," said McKinney. "They are all good players. In fact, we had all but two of last year's players come back."

Tackett was on the first team when the sport arrived at South Floyd. She has spent most of her summer in one camp or another.

"That seems to be all I have done this summer," she said, "is volleyball or basketball. I enjoy playing volleyball. I like the spiking and serving the best. Really I enjoy all of it."

Tackett said there have been some problems with learning the game.

"Things like the rules of it and how to play the game," she said. "The settings and how you are just suppose to use your fingertips. That has been difficult."

Tabitha Berger will return for her junior season and she said setting has been the most difficult part of the game for her to learn.

"I am bad at the sets," she said. "I love everything about volleyball. I really like the spiking and serving."

Berger looks for her team to be strong this year.

"I think we will have a great team this year," she said. "I am doing better at jumping straight up. I have learned better ways to hit the ball."

"Everyone is starting to come together better," said Isaac. "Everyone is starting to work as a team. We are becoming more team oriented." Stephanie Hall is a third player and a junior this season and she is finding it difficult to play the line.

"I am not that tall so that is going to make it difficult for me," she said. "Playing the front line and trying to block against the taller teams is difficult."

Coach McKinney said the game has become popular with some of the area fans but she believes it could be better.

"We are hoping the crowds will improve this year," she said. "But part of the problem with our crowd is the cost of $4 for adults and $3 for students. That is a little steep. That holds down your crowd a little bit."

"I love volleyball. It is really hard to get the energy but I love it," she said. "The girls really enjoy it and the fans love it."

Other juniors playing this year include: Monica Hopson, Stephanie Hall, Tabitha Berger, Becky Isaac, Sarah Smith, and two sophomores in Megan Hall and Ashley Reynolds.

"If I can keep Megan going by her senior year she is going to be an awesome player," said Coach McKinney. "Ashley is coming on strong and going to be a good one."

Pigskin Report...

It is football time once again and we will witness the weather getting cooler and the leaves starting to run before long.

It is an exciting time for players, coaches and football fans as they anticipate the beginning of the 2000 season.

We will miss those players who have moved on and some are playing college football this year.

One player who has really moved to the next level was Prestonsburg's Jeremy Caudill. Jeremy has been enduring the three-a-days but with the regular college season not too far away, eyes will turn toward Lexington and the Wildcats.

Caudill has already earned the respect of the Kentucky coaching staff.

I remember when Jeremy walked onto the Prestonsburg football field as a freshman and I thought, "this kid is big." Wow! It was the first year that Coach John Derossett arrived as the school's head coach.

Jeremy was very impressive as a freshman and late in his first year he started for the Blackcats.

This year, 2000, Jeremy will be playing for a different kind of cat — Wildcat. Coach Hal Mumme and UK are fortunate to have a player the caliber and personality of one Jeremy Caudill.

My first look at Jeremy was not on the gridiron but the basketball court. A lot of folks forget that he was a very good basketball player at Adams Middle School. But Jeremy made the decision to concentrate on football as his number one sport.

We also will miss players like Bradley Brooks who starred at Betsy Layne. I have always contended that Bradley was one of the most underrated players in Floyd County and the mountain area.

Bradley inked with Campbellsville College and will play football there this fall.

Bradley was a three-sport person. He was an excellent catcher in baseball and a power hitter. He told me that he did not think he would attempt to play baseball while at Campbellsville.

Prestonsburg sent Seth Crisp to Campbellsville and Seth was a three sport player for the Blackcats. Along with Crisp went Kyle Shepherd.

Hank Mullins took his talents to Pikeville College and will go down as one of the first players in the early history of the new program. Adam Bailey, a former Blackcat, who signed with Eastern University out of high school, will also play at Pikeville College.

We wish all the player well as they embark to further their careers at different institutions.

We will see you around the gridiron.

Thank you to the Lexington Herald-Leader for the photos of Jeremy Caudill

WELCOME TO FLOYD COUNTY ATHLETIC PROGRAMS

Our school year must always have academic learning progress as the first priority for students. One of the other important activities provided at schools is athletic programs. While these programs are directed toward students involvement which builds skills necessary for teamwork, sportsmanship, and physical development, they may also serve as another link among schools, families and community.

to move to the next level in 2001.

- Allen Central. What a great job coach Kevin Spurlock has done with the Rebel football program. The Rebs will return to district competition next season.

- Betsy Layne. The Bobcats may not have the numbers this season but they have good talent. Coach Ted George hopes to get his team in the state playoffs this season.

- Prestonsburg Blackcats. The Cats may be a year away from being a district contender but look for Coach John Derosssett's 2000 team to make some loud noise even this season.

- South Floyd Raiders. The Raiders will have a force in the backfield this season. But the question mark facing the Raiders will be at quarterback. Can they throw the ball to keep the defense honest.

Well, we hope to see you around the gridiron this football season. It will be 10 quick weeks so enjoy each and everyone of them. Be sure to get out and support your favorite team.

"Hello football fans and welcome to the start of the 2000 football season!"

So were the voices of radio announcers over the air waves when the season began last week.

I have always wanted to say that in a column. So, "hello, everyone and welcome the start of the 2000 high school football season."

The season is a week old with our preview coming out today, Friday, August 25. We hope you enjoy this special 32 page section as we preview not only football but volleyball and the grade school football teams.

The cover design was created by Heath Wiley in our composing department. When you see all the nice cutouts and designs in our sports sections or special editions, Heath is "da man!"

A lot of hours and work went into, as in any tab, putting all this together. But all of it would have been even more difficult without the cooperation of all our grade and high school coaches to whom I am deeply grateful to.

To all the players, volleyball and football, you are the greatest and I hope you have a great season. Without you this project would not be necessary. I have always contended that we have some of the greatest kids around, right here in Floyd County.

The photos, well we wish we could had room to put everyone's mug shot in. But the lack of space does not allow us to do that.

Inside the pages you will find schedules of both volleyball and football along with rosters (no not roosters) for each team.

We even included the Pikeville College Bears in this issue because of it being their inaugural season. We wish Coach Zak Willis and the Bears a big season as they venture into a new frontier — college football.

Bears looking to usher in inaugural season

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

The Pikeville College football program is set to kick off the inaugural 2000 season. South Carolina native and the first year coach Zak Willis comes to the program from the University of South Carolina, where he spent last season as a graduate assistant under legendary coach Lou Holtz. Willis has a B.A. from Furman University, where he was part of an NCAA Div. I-AA national championship. The coach began his professional career at Greenville College in Greenville, Ill., where he worked his way to assistant head coach, defensive coordinator and recruiting coordinator.

Mac Bryan will be the assistant head coach, offensive coordinator and offensive line coach. A native of Traphill, N.C., Bryan has a master's degree from Appalachian State University. He comes to Pikeville after spending six seasons as head football coach and director of athletics at Boiling Springs (S.C.) High School. Prior to that, he coached at the University of Southern Mississippi, Lees McRae College (where he was head coach from 1986-1990), West Wilkes High and Appalachian State. The remainder of the coaching staff is filled with a good mix of football prowess. Alan A. Hall will be the special teams coordinator, along with serving as quarterbacks coach and running backs coach. Hall was a member of the 1991 NCAA national championship team at Miami (Fla.). He comes to Pikeville after spending a season at Ridgeview (Fla.) High School, where he was assistant head coach and offensive coordinator. One area coach on the Bear coaching staff is Shawn Thacker. Thacker, a graduate of Johns Creek High School is the linebacker/strength coach. He is a 1997 graduate of Sue Bennett College with a Bachelor Degree in kinesiology with an emphasis in athletic training. For the last two seasons he was defensive lines and strength coach at Kentucky Wesleyan in Owensboro. Wayland Rice, Robert Staggs and Eugene Newsome are also members of the Bears coaching staff.

The 2000 Pikeville College football roster is made up of 83 players. Out of those 83 only seven are sophomores, the other 76 come in as freshman. Prestonsburg natives Adam Bailey and Hank Mullins are on the inaugural Pikeville College football team. Bailey is a sophomore offensive tackle, while Mullins is a freshman defensive back. Both Prestonsburg High alumni should see significant playing time this season. Thirty players on the Pikeville College team hail from Kentucky. Twenty players are from Pike County. The biggest out of state contingent hails from South Carolina. Twenty-five players hail from South Carolina, while 16 hail from Georgia.

One of the deep positions for this year's inaugural team could be the quarterback position. Belfry graduate Jonathan Wright, along with Maryville, Tenn. native Scott Branton are just two of the very capable quarterbacks on the Bears squad. Coach Zak Willis feels this season will be one of ups and downs, but in the have some promising kids who are out this year who might be able to play there. At this time we are looking at Stewart as a possible split end."

South Floyd will run basically what they did on defense last year.

"We ran a 63 last year and will run it again this year," said

Coach Hall. "That is the old Middlesboro defense that Donnie Daniels ran in high school last year. We will also run some of Coach (Nathan) Jones' 43 in passing situations."

On the defensive side of the football Bacay and Mullins will play at linebackers. Cory Hall will anchor the defensive line.

"Timmy Tackett came out last year and he is a big kid. He is going to help us there," said Hall.

Steven Stanley sat out last year after playing his fifth and sixth grade years, but has returned for his eighth season with the Raiders.

"Brandon Little will be one of the corner backs," said Coach Hall. "He has come a long ways from last year and is just a seventh grader."

The numbers are up for South Floyd as they practice 36 kids. Coach Hall said the thinking is positive in the South Floyd camp over the upcoming season that kicks off Saturday, August 26 in a gridorama at Allen Elementary.

"We have a lot of new kids and I haven't had time to learn their names," confessed Coach Hall. "We will miss our quarterback from last year in Landon Hall. We also lost our fullback, Adam Tackett and Brian Meade."

Coach Hall said it is needful that the newer players pick up on football terminology as the season moves forward.

"We have some kids who have not played before," said Hall. "Some of our sixth graders played for Robbie Harris last year and they are all right there."

end it'll all be worth waiting out. "You know this first season we could get embarrassed, and what I mean by that is not getting embarrassed on the scoreboard but getting embarrassed by lining up wrong or something," said Willis. "We've got eighty-three young men in here who really want to play football for Pikeville College, and that's just what we're going to let them do."

The Pikeville College Bears play a six-game schedule this season, as a junior varsity club team. The Bears open up at Georgetown College on Thursday, September 7. Their first home game will be Monday, September 25, against Cumberland College at Belfry High School. Following road dates with Maryville, Centre and Campbellsville, the Bears finish the season with the University of Kentucky JV team at Shelby Valley High School on Thursday, November 9.

Soulful night of Bluegrass at the MAC

Dave Evans and Lynn Morris

On Saturday, August 26, at the Mountain Arts Center, Dave Evans and Lynn Morris will perform their soulful magic at the increasingly popular Bluegrass at the MAC show.

Dave Evans is considered by his peers and Bluegrass fans as one of the most soulful entertainers in Bluegrass. He started his career back in the late '60s, playing banjo for Earl Taylor.

His big opportunity occurred in 1972 when he went to work for Larry Sparks and became one of the Lonesome Ramblers. Evans sang tenor for Sparks, which helped him to create a singing style that he maintains to this day.

In 1978 he created his own band, known as Dave Evans and River Bend.

Lynn Morris is one of only a handful of female bandleaders in Bluegrass music today. Since founding the group in Winchester, Virginia, in 1988, she and her husband, Bassist Marshall Wilborn, have earned international acclaim for their straightforward, soulful singing and genuine warmth onstage.

Showtime is 8 p.m. For ticket information, call 1-888-MAC-ARTS.

Salome's STARS

ARIES

(March 21 to April 19)

A relationship with a family member needs attention. Try to be less demanding and more accommodating. A kind approach encourages openness and honesty.

TAURUS

(April 20 to May 20)

Sometimes Cupid doesn't score a perfect "Bull's-Eye" for romantic Bovines. But don't give up; he's got another arrow pointed in your direction, and this time he won't miss.

GEMINI

(May 21 to June 20)

Being cool is still the right way to handle a heated situation. Deal with things as they occur. Becoming agitated over problems that might not happen just drains your energy. Be positive.

CANCER

(June 21 to July 22)

This is a good time to restart those work-place projects you've put off for too long. Then make plans to spark up your love life with a romantic weekend getaway.

LEO

(July 23 to August 22)

A jealous co-worker might try to goad you into losing your temper. But instead of reacting with an angry roar, just purr happily away as if nothing is bothering you.

VIRGO

(August 23 to September 22)

Resist the impulse to confide secrets in people you don't know too well. What you said in confidence could soon come back to haunt you. Be careful.

LIBRA

(September 23 to October 22)

A family member calls from a far-off place to give you some startling information. What you do with this news could lead to some changes in your life.

SCORPIO

(October 23 to November 21)

You're beginning to feel more confident about making decisions than you have for some time. But you still need to know the facts before making a move.

SAGITTARIUS

(November 22 to December 21)

Some surprises this week are fun, and some are upsetting. Enjoy the fun and handle the rest by getting all the facts before deciding how to react.

CAPRICORN

(December 22 to January 19)

Your belief in traditional values might be

AQUARIUS

(January 20 to February 18)

You usually prefer to let unpleasant things work themselves out, but this time you might want to confront the situation and take action to deal with it.

PISCES

(February 19 to March 20)

You will soon mark an important milestone in your life. The event reunites you with people from your past, including someone you thought you'd never see again.

YOU WERE BORN

THIS WEEK:

You have a natural gift for bringing people together and creating wonderful, loving friendships.

Elvis in the spotlight at Virginia theatre

"A Musical Tribute to Elvis" will be performed at the historic Stonewall Theatre in Clifton Forge, Virginia, by nationally prominent Elvis impersonator Michael Hoover, Saturday, August 26, at 8 p.m.

Hoover and his band have performed the "Tribute to Elvis" throughout the country, including Las Vegas, one of Elvis' favorite cities. Hoover not only sings like Elvis, but he looks enough like Elvis to make a career of impersonating the "King of Rock 'n' Roll." Hoover will perform with his band and dance set, Sweet Water.

M. Ray Allen, president and founder of Appalchians of America Association (AAA), the non-profit organization that owns and operates the historic Stonewall Theatre, said, "This show that Michael Hoover takes on the road as 'Memories of Elvis' will mark the fourth year that AAA has presented 'A Musical Tribute to Elvis.'"

Allen noted that the annual "Tribute to Elvis" has drawn more Elvis admirers to the theatre each year, and he said that he expects this year's show to bring more Elvis fans to the theatre than ever before, since Michael Hoover is known nationally for his "Memories of Elvis" production.

Recently, two of Elvis' hits were named to the Top Ten All-Time Greatest Rock 'n' Roll Hits, and his CDs and tapes continue to sell well long after his untimely death.

"I grew up listening to Elvis, and the impact he had on American music and the culture of the 1950s was most unique, a phenomenon that every teenager of the 1950s will remember," Allen said.

Advance tickets for "A Musical Tribute to Elvis" are $5, compared to $6 at the door. Tickets may be reserved at the advance price by calling Olde Forge Travel in Clifton Forge at 540/862-1234 or Creations of Sorts in Lewisburg, West Virginia, at 1-800-889-4242.

The historic Stonewall Theatre, recognized by the Appalachian Artisans' Guild as "Appalachia's Theatre," seats 550, is air-conditioned, and features deco art with a cove ceiling in the theatre's lobby. Previous tributes to Elvis were performed by Bob Campbell, Southern Country, Jody Whittaker and the Downing Brothers Band.

Renfro Valley welcomes Ronnie McDowell

He's a performer. He's a songwriter. And he is unquestionably one of the world's most underrated entertainers. What many of his fans don't know is that Ronnie McDowell is also a very talented artist. He does sculpture, signs, animation, watercolors and caricatures.

Attending a Ronnie McDowell show is like putting on a comfortable old pair of jeans. Songs like "Older Women," "You're Gonna Ruin My Bad Reputation" and his salute to his long time idol Elvis Presley, "The King is Gone," are a step back in time for those who love the country sounds of the '70s and '80s. The singer and songwriter endears himself to an audience with a sincerity rarely seen in stage performers.

He will appear in two shows at Renfro Valley Entertainment Center on Saturday evening, September 2. Show times are 7 and 9:15 p.m. Tickets are $17 and $19, plus tax and handling.

For information or reservations, call 1-800-765-7464 or 606/256-2638.

The aging process

Before some smart aleck puts an unflattering grade school picture of me in the newspaper accompanied by a cheesy unoriginal poem about it being 'nifty to be 50,' I'd like to spill the beans right now and tell you that this past Monday I reached the half-century mark.

Many well meaning friends and family members showered me with gifts and cakes and my sister Melinda did her famous "bump and grind" Happy Birthday to You song. In fact, it was such a momentous occasion, my son even remembered to give me a birthday card.

And just to drive the point home that I had reached the big 5-0, my good friend, Cinder Salyer, presented me with a special LARGE PRINT edition of Richard Smith's "You Know You're Fifty When..."

Following are a few cute (and some not so cute) observations about the new decade I am entering:

The good side of the bed is the side closest to the bathroom and the humidifier; "Hip Huggers" refer to cellulite; digesting Hungarian Goulash without incident definitely makes you believe in a higher power; you drop off your dry cleaning at the post office; you remember when people still snickered at the concept of bottled water; it can take up to 15 minutes to climb out of a hammock; you try to outdo your friends' back-ache stories; you put on your reading glasses to listen to books on tape; "incontinent" no longer refers only to a major large mass; you draw a blank when you try to recall why you're standing in front of an open refrigerator; you start believing that laugh lines are distinguished; you associate kidney-shaped pools with passing a stone; twice a night now refers to bathroom visits; you're still able to recall where you left your keys but not what they unlock; not only do you know who Perry Como is, you also know which song made Johnny Ray famous; a bad hair day pertains to those growing out of your nose; at last it's OK to sleep late but you can't; you flirt with writing an autobiography; substance abuse means sweet and sour pork; you spot money on the sidewalk but refuse to bend over for anything less than a dollar; you have no guilt about appearing in pajamas and flicking the lights off and on when it's time for the dinner guests to leave; you head straight for the "relaxed fit" section when you buy GAP jeans; during idle moments you wistfully wonder if it's not too late to become a Texas Ranger; "kicking up your heels" means lifting your feet so your wife can vacuum; on your second honeymoon you bring an oxygen bottle; you think menopause entitles you to park in a handicapped zone; if you watch Baywatch for the plot line; your doctor is younger than you are; your carry-on luggage includes a defibrillator; and finally, you realize that the next diaper you change may be your own.

And speaking of decades, here's a few signs that you've had too much of the one that just passed — the '90s:

1. You just tried to enter your password on the microwave.
 2. You haven't played solitaire with a real deck of cards in years.
 3. You have a list of 15 phone numbers to reach your family of three.
 4. You call your son's beeper to let him know it's time to eat. He e-mails you back from his bedroom, "What's for dinner?"
 5. You check your blow-dryer to see if it's Y2K compliant.
 6. Cleaning up the dining room means getting the fast food bags out of the back seat of your car.
 7. Your reason for not staying in touch with family is that they do not have e-mail addresses.
 8. You consider second-day air delivery painfully slow.
 9. Your dining room table is now your flat filing cabinet.
 10. Your idea of being organized is multiple-colored Post-It notes.
 11. You hear most of your jokes via e-mail instead of in person.
- I guess the best thing about being 50 is, I'm still here to celebrate it!

Three programs offer in-depth look at modern Russia

Though alliances have strengthened between the United States and Russia in the years following the end of the Cold War, the lands and peoples of the former Soviet Union are still largely unknown to most American citizens.

As a means of breaking down this cultural "iron curtain," KET premieres three programs examining life in present-day Russia.

"Yeltsin," airing Monday, August 28, at 9 p.m. on KET and Thursday, August 31 at 9 p.m. on KET2, profiles the man who managed the dismantling of the Soviet Union. The documentary follows Yeltsin from his early years as a renowned Communist leader and ally of Gorbachev to his later political turn away from Communism in support of a democratic constitution.

"From Chechnya to Chernobyl," airing Monday, August 28 at 10:30 p.m. on KET and Thursday, August 31 at 10:30 p.m. on KET2, explores the village and people of Raduga. Despite the dangers of radiation exposure, many ethnic Russians have moved to the village—situated only 80 miles downwind from Chernobyl—in order to flee the war that is ravaging their native Chechnya.

"Widow of the Revolution: The Anna Larina Story," airing Tuesday, August 31 at 8 p.m. on KET2, examines the fascinating life of Anna Larina, daughter of one founding father of the Soviet Union and wife of another. Larina spent her early life in the Kremlin and nearly 20 years in forced labor camps and Siberian exile under Stalin's regime. Under the last Soviet leader, Mikhail Gorbachev, she at last found vindication.

"Yeltsin" is produced by First Circle Films and Pacem Productions in association with WETA/Washington, D.C. "From Chechnya to Chernobyl" is produced by Slawomir Grunberg. "Widow of the Revolution: The Anna Larina Story" is produced by Rosemarie Reed Productions in association with WNET/New York.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

by CHUCK SHEPHERD

Prominent attorney Alan Dershowitz, whose best-selling 1991 book "Chutzpah" celebrated the virtues of impudence, asked a team of Florida lawyers in July for a cut of the $3.4 billion judgment they had just won against the cigarette industry on behalf of smokers. Dershowitz, who said it was his strategy that won the case, admitted that "promises" the team made to him were "not in writing," but nevertheless claimed they owed him "1 percent," or $34 million, for his advice, which according to time sheets, he had dispensed over the course of 118 hours, which works out to $288,000 an hour, or $80 a second.

Despite televised professional wrestling's on-screen admonitions against trying such stunts at home, the New York Daily News reported in July that as many as 40 amateur (mostly teen-age) "backyard wrestling" clubs are operating in the New York City area, practicing moves nearly as dangerous as the pros'. A Daily News reporter witnessed 14-year-old boys smashing each other with wooden poles until they splintered, landing "chair shots" to the head, diving from platforms or rooftops onto their opponents, slamming each other through plywood tables, and even engaging in "barbed-wire" and "fire" matches. Said one "wrestler's" mother, who watched nervously as her son and his opponent went through their paces: "Easy ... easy...."

VOLATILITY IN THE INTERNET PRICE OF KIDS

Denise Thomas was sentenced to a year's probation by a Littleton, Colorado, judge in August for offering her nine-year-old daughter for sale on the Internet for $4,000. Two weeks earlier, Helen Chase had been arrested in Vacaville, California, and charged with child endangerment for allegedly giving away for free her 10-year-old son to a couple in St. Petersburg, Florida, whom she had met on the Internet. (Police said the latter kid had been rambunctious and incorrigible despite her threats to give him away, and was apparently thriving in his new home.)

THE WEIRDO-AMERICAN COMMUNITY

John Murphy, 64, was arrested in Toms River, New Jersey, after a May 10 spree in which he vandalized 12 doctors' offices because they had refused his request to perform prostate biopsies on him without a medical reason for doing so. According to police, an enraged Murphy went from office to office, breaking windows and spraying black paint over the urologists' signs. One doctor, expressing prevailing medical practice, told a reporter that he wouldn't do the procedure unless some alarming sign sur-posed because the procedure "is pretty invasive."

Firefighters and police called to an apartment in Fargo, North Dakota, in June encountered thick smoke pouring out of a window, an odor one described as "noxious and terrible," and the tenant standing in the corner with his fists up as if ready to fight. The tenant finally revealed that once a year, he piles into a skillet all the hair he has saved from his haircuts and burns it. He was arrested when he threatened the firefighters, claiming that he worked for the FBI.

In July, according to police, John Hawk, 43, the town eccentric of Celina, Ohio, took it to the next level. While communing with his just-deceased uncle's body at the Ketcham-Ripley Funeral Home in nearby Rockford, Hawk allegedly decapitated it with a hacksaw and carried the head away, presumably to fulfill a religious belief that Bluegrass bookmarks to feature Thomas G. Barnes

The Kentucky Historical Society welcomes Dr. Thomas G. Barnes on Saturday, September 16, at 2 p.m., as part of Bluegrass Bookmarks, a new program at the Kentucky History Center. Admission to the event is free, and refreshments will be served.

Bluegrass Bookmarks allows visitors the opportunity to meet Kentucky authors. More than simply a book-signing, Bluegrass Bookmarks provides a forum where an author can discuss aspects of his or her book and field questions from the audience. The Kentucky History Center creates an intimate atmosphere where adults can get to know the personalities behind the book.

Thomas G. Barnes is the author of "Gardening for the Birds," a detailed book which shows how to design a wildlife-friendly environment for both the urban and rural homeowner. "Gardening for the Birds" gives information about the birds and butterflies of the Upper South and their desired food and habitat requirements.

Barnes believes that landscaping for wildlife can be as simple or complex as the gardener wants to make it. He has filled the book with practical advice for creating a habitat that is hospitable for wildlife and humans to share.

"Gardening for the Birds" will be available for purchase the day of the program. Dr. Barnes will sign copies afterward.

The Kentucky Historical Society is an agency of the Education, Arts and Humanities Cabinet. The Kentucky History Center is the headquarters of the Kentucky Historical Society and is located in downtown Frankfort.

Jack Wagner, (ex Frisco, "General Hospital" and ex Peter, "Melrose Place"), is rejoining his "MP" boss Aaron Spelling in Spelling's new NBC primetime sudser, "Titans." He plays Jack Williams, the younger brother of corporate mogul Richard Williams, played by another ex "MP-er," Perry King. Look for Jack to interact with Richard's much younger wife played by Yasmine Bleeth (ex "Baywatch," "One Life to Live" and "Nash Bridges").

The last time I spoke with Wagner he was about to start his run in the Broadway hit, "Jekyll and Hyde," had wrapped a film for television and was negotiating for an independent flick. I asked him if Aaron Spelling called him to work in one of the media-meister's (inevitably) new productions, would he do it?

"In a minute," Wagner said. "If I had something else going at the time, I'd ask Aaron to keep a place open for me. He's always been great to work with. He likes and respects actors, and he gets our affection and respect in return."

Lexington to host Roots Festival

A tapestry of African-American music, art, drama, literature, sports, issues and comedy will be woven together next month to become the 12th annual Roots and Heritage Festival.

The month-long calendar of activities will feature art exhibits, children's programs, film presentations, a golf tournament, a nationally-known speaker, a comedy night, a literary reading, midnight basketball, a health fair, a charity ball and the popular two-day street festival.

Legendary rhythm and blues artist Bobby Womack will be the headline performer in the street festival set for September 9, downtown. Other major entertainers will be the Flintstone Hoofers, a Michigan-based tap dance company; blues artist Ronnie Baker Brooks; and reggae singer Ras Lidj from Washington, D.C.

On September 8, from 7 p.m.-midnight, Jazz 'n Street will kick off the two-day street fair. The Michael Wade Quintet from Cincinnati will be featured, along with regional jazz artists.

"It has been amazing to watch this festival spread its wings and grow over the years," said Lexington Mayor Pam Miller, who invited everyone to come downtown and enjoy the event. "It is an opportunity to make some important discoveries about the rich African-American culture."

"The growth and success of the festival affirms our original vision of this celebration," said Festival Chair Catherine Warner. "We now know that events like the Roots and Heritage Festival are vital to the positive development and growth of our community and, particularly to our young people. We are elated by its success."

One of the highlights of the month will be a keynote address by former U.S. Congressman Cleo Fields of Louisiana. Fields, an African-American attorney and the youngest person ever elected to the Louisiana State Senate, will speak at 6 p.m., September 6, at Worsham Theatre at the University of Kentucky Student Center.

In 1992 Fields was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives as Congressman of Louisiana's 4th Congressional District. At age 30, he became the youngest person to serve as a member of the 103rd Congress. He served two terms before leaving politics for private business.

As has been its tradition, the centerpiece of the festival will be the two-day street festival. Set along the historic Elm Tree Lane, the fair will feature the African Marketplace, comprised of a variety of vendors offering a wide array of food, artifacts, artwork, ethnic clothing, and educational information. The annual parade, featuring bands from Clark-Atlanta University and Kentucky State University, will begin at 9 a.m., at the corner of Fourth St. and Elm Tree Lane.

Voter education and registration will be a special focus of this year's festival. Persons who register during the festival to vote will be eligible for prizes including a drawing for a miniature go-cart sponsored by Valvoline Company.

Although the two-day street festival is a highlight of the month, numerous other events surround the month-long extravaganza.

Other events in the festival calendar will include:

- A free gospel concert on September 10 at the house of God International. Featured will be Nathan and Suzanne Young, formerly with the Bobby Jones Super Choir out of Nashville, Tennessee; Amani from St. Louis, and David Frazier, primary writer for nationally-known gospel singer Hezekiah Walker. Frazier will be teaching and singing along with the Roots and Heritage Community Choir.

- A literary reading showcasing African-American literature and art and a creative writing workshop will be presented at the Carnegie Center during the month.

- Actor's Guild will present a play, "Avenue X," September 14 through October 8.

- The film "Love and Basketball" will be presented at the Kentucky Theater on September 22. Popcorn and soft drinks will be free to moviegoers.

- A Comedy Night featuring Diane Ford will be featured at Comedy Off Broadway on September 28.

- An African-American Heritage Charity Ball will be held September 30 at the Hyatt Regency. Proceeds will go to the African American Health Network. Live entertainment, a silent auction and fashion show are also on tap.

- Other events will include a Body and Soul Fest health fair and Health and Wellness Walk-A-Thon at the new northside YMCA and an African dance workshop.

The Roots and Heritage Festival began in 1989 as a small neighborhood street fair. It now won the Governor's Award for the Arts and has been recognized by the Kentucky Tourism Council as "one of Kentucky's Top Ten Festivals."

The street fair is held on Elm Tree Lane (formerly Rose Street Extended), a site that for decades was the hub of the business community for African-Americans in Lexington.

It also was the location of the Lyric Theatre, which during its hey-day saw such entertainers as Duke Ellington, Cab Calloway, Bessie Smith and Ray Charles.

Corporate sponsors of the festival are the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government, Kentucky Lottery and Pepsi. Platinum sponsors are Bank One, Ball Homes, Firstar Bank, Blue Chip Broadcasting, Freedom Dodge, Lexington Community College and WKYT-TV.

For information on the festival, call Catherine Warner at 859-533-7668, or for a complete schedule of events, call 859-258-3012 or go to www.lfucg.com/roots/.

Cynthiana jewelry artist joins Kentucky Crafted group exhibiting at New York International Gift Fair

Terri L. Corkhill of TLC Originals in Cynthiana joins three other returning juried members of the Kentucky Craft Marketing Program, as she exhibits for the first time at the New York International Gift Fair (NYIGF), August 19-23.

Since 1985, Kentucky Crafted exhibitors have occupied booth 5304/5403 in the Handmade division at the Jacob Javits Convention Center.

Joining TLC Originals at the NYIGF in the Kentucky Crafted booth are Aardvark Woodworks Inc., Beattyville; Gail Cohen Designs, Lexington; and Judy's Kentucky Crafts, Tollsboro.

Corkhill said, "I'm really excited about reaching an international audience to see how my work is received. It's a great opportunity for Kentucky as a state to be able to market its talented artists."

In addition, five other juried participants will exhibit in their own booths. They include returning Berea businesses, Churchill Weavers and Berea College Crafts; June Fenestra Jewelry, Bloomfield; Bandana/Yardbirds, Louisville; and Berni Enterprises, Louisville.

"The NYIGF is the largest gift and decorative accessories show in the United States, with an estimated attendance of 45,000 national and international buyers and an estimated 2,600 exhibitors. This semi-annual event fills 590,000 square feet, including the entire Jacob K. Javits Convention Center and the Passenger Ship Terminal Piers," says Kate Doyle, spokesperson for George Little Management.

"Aside from allowing Kentucky craftspeople to break into the national and international gifware market, this exhibit provides great exposure to Kentucky crafts and gives us the opportunity to invite buyers to Kentucky Crafted: The Market," says program director Fran Redmon.

Kentucky Crafted: The Market is a wholesale/retail market featuring more than 240 exhibitors of traditional, folk and contemporary crafts; food products; musical recordings and books; two-dimensional visual arts; and wood products.

The Market is March 1-4, 2001, at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville. Buyers may also take advantage of the Craft Marketing Program's Buyers' Services—a complimentary program connecting retailers with Kentucky crafts.

The Kentucky Craft Marketing Program, a state agency, is a division of the Kentucky Arts Council in the Education, Arts, and Humanities Cabinet. For more information, call 888-KY CRAFT.

What's new in Philadelphia?

Van Gogh's faces, Rodin's figures, Faberge's eggs: all are in store on the University of Kentucky Art Museum's trip to Philadelphia in November.

A wonderful way to enjoy the arts before the rush of the holiday season, the weekend will include visits to several major exhibitions and a stop in Delaware's Brandywine Valley.

Tour members will have the opportunity to visit the blockbuster exhibition "Van Gogh: Face to Face" at the Philadelphia Museum of Art. The museum also houses a stellar permanent collection of American, Asian, and European art.

Tours of the Rodin Museum, home to a collection of more than 120 Rodin original sculptures and casts, and of the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts, an outstanding example of Victorian Gothic architecture, are also scheduled.

A day trip to nearby Wilmington, Delaware, will include a tour of the Faberge exhibition at the Riverfront Arts Center. The weekend will wrap up with a visit to the Brandywine River Museum, a restored 19th century gristmill converted to a museum that houses paintings by three generations of the Wyeth family.

Contact Ann Friderich at the University of Kentucky Art Museum for more information on the trip to Philadelphia. The deadline for reservations is September 8.

The University of Kentucky Art Museum is open noon to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Sunday, and noon to 8 p.m., on Friday; closed Monday and university holidays. For more information, contact Jane Boswell at 859/257-5716. Visit the website at www.uky.edu/ArtMuseum.

The Highlands Museum and Discovery Center announces the opening of a new clothing exhibit, entitled "Music Makes Me Dance," on September 5.

The exhibit is taken from the museum's clothing collection of 1930s men's and women's evening wear. The exhibit will include ball gowns, evening wraps, tuxedos, and top hats.

Hands-on activities for young visitors will include dress-up clothing for evening, jewelry, and furs. Music from the decade will be featured along with paper dolls sporting '30s fashions.

The 1930s was a decade that opened in the Depression and ended in World War II. Fashion, beauty, and glamour were important aspects of everyday life for many people during this era, as styles were fueled by the fantasies of Hollywood movies.

The big-band swing era was underway and the popularity of dance couple Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers had a great influence on evening designs. Men's evening fashion was dominated by the black tuxedo and the top hat. The styles in women's wear included backless dresses, long hemlines, bias-cut skirts and elaborate costume jewelry.

These escapist follies and fashion fantasies continued throughout the decade until the beginning of World War II, when more practical fashion became the style. This exhibit will run through January 5.

For more information, contact the office of the Highlands Museum and Discovery Center. Admission is $3 for adults, $2 for children, students, and senior citizens; children two and under and members are free. The museum is located at 1620 Winchester Ave., Ashland. Museum hours are 10 a.m.-4 p.m., Tuesday-Saturday; 7-9 p.m., Monday evenings.

Dukes of Hazzard reunion tour returns to Renfro Valley

Tom Wopat, John Schneider, Sonny Schroyer and, of course, The General Lee, will return to Renfro Valley Entertainment Center on Saturday, September 9.

The last Dukes of Hazzard reunion appearance in the Valley was in 1998. This year's event promises to be just as thrilling for Duke fans young and old.

There will be two shows in addition to a photo session with The General Lee in Renfro Valley Village.

Syndicated reruns of The Dukes of Hazzard television series are as popular with today's youngsters as the original was to their parents.

Whether the Duties of Hazzard Reunion Tour brings back memories or helps create new ones, it's a show you don't want to miss.

The concerts will be at 7 and 9:15 p.m. Tickets are $20 and $22, plus tax and handling. For information or reservations, call 1-800-765-7464 or 606/256-2638.

Folk art exhibit to open Aug. 29

The Highlands Museum and Discovery Center announces the opening of a new Folk Art Exhibit created by Nora Johnson of Flatwoods. The exhibit opens August 29, and runs through December 29.

A native of Flatwoods, and one of a family of eight children, Johnson was raised where Russell High School now stands. She has one son and has been widowed for 11 years. After her husband died, she built a cabin and moved in to stay.

Like all folk artists, Johnson has no rigid rules. Two years ago she began working with paper sculpture. She read books on paper mache, but started doing things her way. She buys a newspaper once a week and makes two or three sculptures to keep her hands limber.

She states that "I set down and start and make one way and one another. I work in front of the television. The hardest part is keeping the dogs out of the paste and paint."

Her themes are things she remembers growing up or the memories of family members. Her sculptures are painted with acrylic; she uses two coats or perhaps 20 to produce the right color. Some of her subjects include, "Grandma's apple butter," "wash day," "night guard at the still," and "milking the family cow."

Folk art is produced in every country in the world and is especially at home in the tri-state region. Folk artists have no formal art training and create from the need to express their artistic talent. Their art is often primitive and uses found materials in unique and inventive ways. The art is popular with viewers, because it conveys an emotional message easily grasped by both the art critic and the interested visitor.

For more information, contact the office of the Highlands Museum and Discovery Center at 606/329-8888. Admission is $3 for adults, $2 for children, students and senior citizens; children two and under and members are free. The museum is located at 1620 Winchester Ave., Ashland. Museum hours are 10 a.m.-4 p.m., Tuesday-Saturday; 7-9 p.m., Monday evenings.

CRITTERS CORNER

by CAROL COMBS-MORRIS, DVM

When someone mentions "training" an animal, most of us think of dog obedience class, schooling a horse, or maybe of a professional trainer working with lions, dolphins, killer whales, or some other wild species. In any case, we tend to picture structured, serious work done within a specific period of time.

The truth is, if we have pets, we are all trainers, and the pets are actively learning every waking moment.

You say your dog or cat is untrained? You're kidding yourself. The dog may have never darkened the door of an obedience school, and the cat certainly has better things to do than come when you call, but make no mistake, you have trained them.

Does kitty materialize out of thin air anytime she hears the can opener? Does Spot start looking out the window for the school bus 10 minutes before it's due?

In a less positive vein, are you subjected to begging at the kitchen table or claw damage to the couch?

All of these activities, for better or worse, have been to some extent "trained." If that isn't scary enough, you started training your animal the day you brought it home. (We won't even discuss what you may have unintentionally trained into your kids or spouse.)

The good news is that once you are aware of your role as trainer, you can make positive changes. It's never too late to train, or for the animal to learn. Granted, it is much easier to teach something the right way at the beginning than to have to unlearn something else first, but it certainly isn't impossible.

Age is not that big a deal, either. My Chow-Golden Retriever mix, Casey, was the best dog I've ever had at formal obedience work. He was at least three or four years old before he had any structured training for this.

At the other extreme, it is a snap to train a five-week-old puppy to sit on command for a food treat within five minutes. This is not to say you have a formal and reliable sit exercise trained, just that the pup is able to grasp the concept that quickly.

"Training" can be something very complicated, with many different methods and numerous complex theories. To break it down to its simplest form, however, we can say that the object of training is to increase the chances that a desirable behavior will be repeated in the future.

Let's say that you want your new puppy to come when you call her. Puppies, being curious, generally will come bounding over to you when you make interesting sounds in a friendly voice—and that's all the puppy is hearing at first. It's not a "command" at this stage. The connection between the action and the words will come later.

What you do when the puppy comes to you will determine whether she is likely to repeat this behavior in the future. If she gets attention, a scratch behind the ears, a food treat, a minute of play or something similar, there's a good chance she'll come running the next time she hears those sounds.

On the other hand, if what she got was a scolding for the spot you found on the rug, what do you think that has done for the odds of her being so quick to respond again?

In both these scenarios, reinforcement was used. Reinforcement can be positive or negative. Positive reinforcement is not the same thing as reward, and negative enforcement is not equivalent to punishment.

That sounds like splitting hairs, but the big difference is in the timing. Reinforcement occurs at the same time the behavior is happening, and the animal can do something to earn or avoid it.

Confused? The first example was obviously of positive reinforcement. The puppy came to you (the desired behavior), and immediately received something it wanted (food, attention, etc.). The puppy earned what it received, and it increased the probability that it would respond the same way that the next time it heard those inviting sounds.

Now let's look at that second example—this is a good explanation of the difference between negative reinforcement and punishment. What actually happened was that when the puppy performed the desired behavior (coming when called), it immediately received something unpleasant. This will have the effect of reducing the probability of the same response next time.

Instead of working to obtain a positive reinforcement, it will work to avoid the negative reinforcement—and the easiest way to avoid it is just not to come when you call. Your intention was to punish the dog for the mess on the carpet, but that's not the message she got.

The biggest difference between punishment and negative reinforcement is that punishment occurs after the behavior occurred (piddling on the rug), and often so long afterward that the animal can't make any mental connection between the two. (In puppies you are talking in a time frame of much less than a minute). You reinforce the behavior that is occurring at that time.

A second difference is that the animal can't do anything to avoid the punishment. The pup could avoid the immediate negative reinforcement by failing to come to you, but if you're determined to punish, you will eventually find the opportunity.

Let me give you time to digest all of this for a week, and next time, I'll try to give you some pointers on using positive reinforcement in practical situations.

Cat owners, don't tune out—this works with cats too. (In fact, it's about the only method that does work with them.)

If you also start to see opportunities to use this with children, parents, spouses, coworkers, etc., then you are really starting to think like a trainer.

Dwight Whitley headlines Showdown

Dwight Whitley, brother of the late Keith Whitley, headlines when the Mountain Arts Center hosts the 19th annual True Value Country Showdown Kentucky State Final in Prestonsburg.

The Showdown kicks off Saturday, September 16, at 7:30 p.m., at the MAC.

Eleven talented, new, country music singers and bands from Kentucky and Virginia will chase the dream of fame and fortune, competing for a $1,000 prize and the chance to advance to the Midwest Regional Final—one step away from $50,000 and the National Title of the True Value Country Showdown's "Best New Act of the Year."

This year's state winner hopes to follow in the steps of past Country Showdown state level winners Martina McBride, John Michael Montgomery, Neal McCoy and Sweethearts of the Rodeo.

The Country Showdown is America's biggest talent showcase and has become a real tradition in country music. Other country music acts that have participated in the contest include Chad Brock, Garth Brooks, Billy Ray Cyrus, Sara Evans, Vince Gill, and LeAnn Rimes.

Following a win at the state show, the Kentucky winner proceeds to the Midwest Regional Final at Silver Dollar City in Branson, Missouri, on October 17. The contestants at this level represent state winners from across the midwestern United States.

Each hopes to advance to the True Value Country Showdown National Final to be televised at the Grand Ole Opry House on November 29, with host Lorrie Morgan. The show will air next spring.

Awaiting the national winner is an impressive prize package: a national TV appearance; a $50,000 check; and, just added this year, an invitation to appear on the world-famous Grand Ole Opry, the longest-running radio show in history.

For more information about the Grand Ole Opry and its 75th Anniversary Celebration, visit its website at www.opry.com.

The True Value Country Showdown is America's biggest talent showcase and radio promotion. The Showdown will produce more than 700 live events, staging more than 100,000 artists, involving more than 400 country radio stations, drawing more than four million country music fans to its shows this year.

For the past 19 years the Showdown has given new country music artists the chance to play and gain invaluable experience in front of a live audience. For more information on the 19th Annual True Value Country Showdown and how to participate, log on to: www.countryshowdown.com.

Competing in this year's Country Showdown Kentucky State Final are artists from the following radio stations: WBVR/Bowling Green; WGRK/Campbellsville; WKDP/Corbin; WVLK/Lexington; W F G E / Murray; W B I O / Owensboro; WDHR/Pikeville; WDXC/Pound, Virginia; WULF/Radcliff; WVVR/Russellville; and WLKS/West Liberty.

Admission is $12. For more ticket information, call 888-622-2787.

KET follows Giuseppe Verdi's celebrated opera, La Traviata, to the Paris streets

Great Performances moves Giuseppe's Verdi's immortal opera, "La Traviata," out of the theater and onto the streets of Paris, the city that inspired it.

Airing Sunday, August 27 at 9 p.m. on KET, Great Performances "La Traviata from Paris" showcases the talents of Argentine tenor Jose Cura, Russian soprano Eteri Gvazava and the RAI Symphony Orchestra and Chorus, under the direction of Zubin Mehta.

Performed over the course of two days—during time periods indicated by Verdi—"La Traviata from Paris" is staged at sites that evoke the glory of Belle Epoque Paris. Locations such as the Hotel Boisgelin, Notre Dame and Marie-Antoinette's hamlet and Petit Palais at Versailles, bring one of the opera's primary protagonists, the City of Lights, to life.

Based on the novel and play "La dame aux camelias" by Alexandre Dumas II, "La Traviata" (The Lost One) tells the story of Violetta, a woman on the fringe of respectable society, and her lover, Alfredo.

Though Violetta is terminally ill, Alfredo's father forcibly separates the young lovers. The pair eventually reconcile, yet their reunion is brief. Violetta dies in Alfredo's arms to some of the most heart-wrenching music ever written.

Telecast live via satellite throughout Europe in early June, the Paris production of the opera has received widespread critical acclaim. The New York Times cheered Gvazava's portrayal of Violetta as "beautiful and moving."

Great Performances "La Traviata from Paris" is produced by Rada Films in association with WNET/New York.

News of the Weird

he could bring the uncle back to life by eating the brain (a belief that was the subject of one of Hawk's periodic rants delivered in handbills around town over the years).

GOVERNMENT IN ACTION

Brian Ellingwood had a briefcase stolen from his car in Washington, D.C., in February and reported it, but six weeks later, according to a Washington Post story, he was notified that the D.C. Department of Public Works had levied a $1,000 fine against him for littering because the abandoned briefcase, with contents strewn about, had been found in an alley about six blocks from his home. After what he estimated as "hundreds" of calls to various government offices, Ellingwood could not clear the matter up and was forced to go on trial in June to have the charge removed.

According to a June Chicago Sun-Times report, Illinois Republican activist Connie Peters has virtually no other duty in her $23,000-a-year state job except to be an "observer" at two state water-management meetings a month. The newspaper estimates that she has collected $185,000 in the 15 years she has been in this arrangement, primarily because the legislature inexplicably kept raising her compensation, which in 1985 was $150 a year.

The Environmental Protection Agency acknowledged in July that it knew as far back as 1982 that asbestos fibers from a W.R. Grace Co. mill in Libby, Montana, were implicated in the deaths of residents (casualties now number as many as 200) but did not notify the town. The agency had dismissed its own toxicology study and squelched follow-up studies, relying instead on company assurances that asbestos levels were minimal in its building-insulation materials.

IN THEIR OWN WORDS

Krystin Nicely, 14, in a July St. Petersburg Times story about the closing of the 28th Street Drive-In theater (which her mother, now 30, and father had frequented on dates): "If it wasn't for that place, I wouldn't be here." And Maryland legislator Van T. Mitchell, during a March debate in the House of Delegates on a bill banning marriages between first cousins: "If this law was in effect in 1918, I (wouldn't) be (here).

RECURRING THEMES

News of the Weird reported in March 2000 that the stretch of I-95 between West Palm Beach, Florida, and Miami (and connector freeways) was the "impalement capital" of the country because of the frequency with which unsecured objects fly off of speeding trucks. In May, Yanier Torres escaped decapitation by moving his head a couple of inches, avoiding a sheet of 3/4-inch-thick iron that had flown off of a flatbed truck, through his windshield, and which sliced his headrest in two. As is typical, the truck's driver did not stop, and, said a Highway Patrol spokesman, "was (probably) not even aware that this object fell off his truck."

THINNING THE HERD

University (Big Rapids, Michigan) freshman died in March of excessive alcohol consumption (0.42 level) during a drinking game. An intoxicated Keene (New Hampshire) State College student was killed in May while celebrating his 21st birthday when he jumped into a dangerous waterfall despite the pleadings of eight friends not to do it. A University of California at Davis senior choked to death on his own vomit in April (0.54 blood-alcohol level) after downing 21 drinks at a bar on the day he turned 21.

ALSO, IN THE LAST MONTH ...

An Ohio law went into effect imposing a five-day waiting period for a person to buy five or more kegs of beer at the same time. A 34-year-old woman, "Queen Shahmia" (God's only daughter), was sentenced to 25 years in prison for ordering her servants/disciples to commit five robberies while she lounged at resort hotels (Fort Myers, Florida). Seven nudists had their feet badly seared in a mesquite-wood firewalking ceremony at a naturists' convention (Jacumba, California). United Kingdom coast guard ships off Wales rescued boater Eric Abbott, 56, for the 11th time this year (cumulative cost: about $90,000), owing to Abbott's habit of "navigating" mainly by an automobile club atlas.

Documentary on Newt Gingrich's dramatic rise and decline, airs on KET

If Bill Clinton was the embodiment of Democratic politics in the 1990s, then his undisputed nemesis was Newt Gingrich. Though no longer in the limelight, Gingrich was once the highly regarded architect of the first Republican House majority in more than 50 years.

"The Fall of Newt Gingrich," airing Wednesday, August 30, at 8 p.m., on KET and Friday, September 1 at 8 p.m., on KET2, traces the events surrounding Gingrich in the months leading up to his surprising resignation as Speaker of the House.

The program begins with a look at Gingrich's legislative work on the stalled 1998 Budget Bill. Cameras then capture Gingrich's political savvy as he delivers rousing speeches in support of Republican congressional candidates.

The documentary concludes by examining the end of Gingrich's 20-year reign in the U. S. Congress, and his attempt to reinvent himself as a private citizen.

"The Fall of Newt Gingrich," produced by Manifold Productions Inc., is closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

Viewers can find out more about programming on KET by visiting the KET Web site at <http://www.ket.org>, a Kentucky.com affiliate.

Hopkinsville hosts Pow Wow

The Trail of Tears Commission is hosting the 13th annual Pow Wow at the historic Trail of Tears Commemorative Park on US 41 in Hopkinsville, site of the actual trail and encampment used during the forced removal of the Cherokee people from 1838-39.

September 8, 9 and 10 are the dates for this Native American weekend. The Pow Wow begins with a free showing of the native American film, "Koyaanisqats," Friday night at 7:45 p.m. at the park. The film is directed by native American Godfrey Reggio and presented by Hopkinsville Films of Hopkinsville Community College.

The pow wow continues Saturday with dance competitions, Native American arts and crafts, Cherokee storytelling, flint knapping, tipi displays, Indian foods, tomahawk throwing, and authentic Native American Indian dance contests with contestants in full Native American regalia.

Native Americans travel from all over the United States and Canada to participate in these dance competitions provided at the Trail of Tears Pow Wow, competing for more than $13,000 in prize money.

Men's dance competitions are traditional, grass, straight, golden age and the spectacular fancy dance. Women's competitions are in buckskin, fancy shawl, jingle, cloth and golden age.

Junior competitions are for male and female dancers 11-16 years old, and youth dance competitions are for boys and girls ages 6-10, along with tiny-tot competitions for boys and girls five and under.

This year's Pow Wow will also showcase the past year's efforts by the Commission on Land Acquisition.

The event is open to the public.

For more information, call 270/886-8121.

Hopkinsville, located in Christian County was a major stopping point for the thousands of American Indians, primarily Cherokee, who were moved overland on the infamous Trail of Tears.

Along the banks of Little River in Hopkinsville, was one of many sites where the Indians camped and received provisions for their journey westward to Oklahoma. While several thousand died during this forced march, two of notable standing in the Cherokee nation, Whitepath and Fly Smith are buried in Hopkinsville.

The Cherokee Nation was known as one of the five civilized tribes, with their own schools, churches and villages, having fought with a young Republic during the American Revolution. The Cherokees patterned their form of government after that of the United States. These were home builders who wished to live in peace, on their lands east of the Mississippi.

The discovery of gold on Cherokee land in Georgia in 1828 signaled the beginning of the end of the Indian's way of life in this region. Despite even appeals to the Supreme Court to remain on their lands, President Andrew Jackson had fought with the Cherokees, in the War of 1812, and had personally decorated some of them for their participation, as well as having had his life saved by a Cherokee.

In 1838, the Indians were rounded up, divided into groups, and set out for the West, and a sad chapter in this country's history was written.

Toby Keith in concert at Hazard

Toby Keith, recently cited as "one of country's most underrated singers" by USA Today, brings his firebrand style of country music to the Black Gold Festival in Hazard, on Saturday, September 16, at 9 p.m.

Ticket prices are $15 for floor seating, and $10 for bleacher seats. Tickets for this concert will be on sale during the festival, and can be reserved in advance by calling 606/436-0161. Find out why audiences nationwide are clamoring in response to his best-selling cd, "How do you like me now?"

Music critics across the country have embraced both Toby's live show and recording efforts. "Keith has the kind of expressive and deep voice that begs you to listen," said The Boston Phoenix. The Richmond Times-Dispatch reported, "Keith has mastered the art of stepping out and trying new things rather than sticking to one style and the same rhythm. In the world of music, change means success."

With his athletic, 6'4" frame, an all-knowing grin and an easy-going demeanor, Keith dominates every stage he commandeers, using natural charisma and talent to keep his audience in the palm of his hand from start to finish.

The Oklahoma resident exploded on the Nashville scene in 1993 with the smash hits which he wrote, "Should've Been A Cowboy" and "A Little Less Talk," taking the industry by storm with his unique sound and classic voice.

Since then he's racked up one self-penned chart-topping song after another, including "Who's That Man," "Does That Blue Moon Ever Shine on You," "You Ain't Much Fun," and the decidedly different "Getcha Some." He earned prestigious Grammy and ACM nominations, thanks to this high-profile duet with Sting, "I'm So Happy I Can't Stop Crying."

Weather Channel breaks prime time barrier

The Weather Channel (TWC) proves that weather is the star with the launch of its new prime time show that explores the human element, the science and the culture of weather.

Atmospheres, which debuted August 23, marks a new direction for the all-weather network, showcasing weather in fresh and original ways that TV viewers have never seen before. It will provide a living, breathing anthology of weather and its effect on human life.

Atmospheres will be co-hosted by 14-year TWC veteran meteorologist Jim Cantore, and a new addition to The Weather Channel, Mishelle "Mish" Michaels, Boston's favorite meteorologist at "7 News" WHDH-TV.

The program will air Wednesdays from 8 to 9 p.m., and will rerun on Saturdays at 8 p.m. and 11 p.m., and Sundays at 5 p.m.

Atmospheres comes to life through profiles of men and women who were heroic against Nature's fury, as well as workers whose livelihoods are inextricably tied to the whims of weather. The hour-long program includes four segments.

• Feature of the Week tells dramatic stories such as rescue efforts in severe weather. During the Coast Guard and Hurricanes segment of episode No. 1, viewers will see how the U.S. Coast Guard prepares for hurricane rescues. Footage will include the 1992 Hurricane Andrew rescue of refugees stranded on a raft.

FUTURE FEATURE OF THE WEEK SEGMENTS INCLUDE:

—Hurricane Floyd Navy Rescue: The dramatic story of the events that lead up to the rescue of eight tugboat crewman marooned at sea. The Coast Guard had already exited the area and the only vessel in the vicinity was the aircraft carrier, USS John F. Kennedy—which had been put out to sea to avoid the storm—making the carrier the crew's only hope.

—Storm Chasers: The Weather Channel's own husband and wife storm chasing team, Matt Crowther and Betsy Abrams, take viewers on one of their "vacations" in the mid-west to track down a tornado.

• From continent to continent,

Destinations takes the viewer across the globe to learn about unique geographical weather patterns. In episode No. 1, viewers will learn about the near perfect weather conditions of Aruba.

FUTURE DESTINATIONS

SEGMENTS INCLUDE:

—Sydney: Atmosphere explores Australia's weather patterns and illustrates what weather conditions Olympian athletes will face.

—Panama: A seemingly storm-proof tropical destination with consistently warm temperatures, Panama's location naturally suppresses cold fronts and most tropical storms, while still receiving the benefit of tropical rains.

• In the Elements is a segment that profiles people facing the challenges of working or living in nature's extremes. During the Wind and Tall Buildings segment of episode No. 1, viewers will learn how the architects of Chicago's John Hancock Building and the Sears Tower designed the skyscrapers to sway with the wind. Viewers will see how the sways affect the chef of a 95th floor restaurant.

FUTURE IN THE ELEMENTS

SEGMENTS INCLUDE:

—Steve Fossett: The millionaire thrill seeker, known for his balloon expeditions, hires his own team of meteorologists in his attempt to break the world record, and prove his catamaran is the fastest sailing vessel to cross the Atlantic.

• Unique Weather stories will showcase segments like a behind-the-scenes look at Hollywood weather magic with the Chicago-based company that recreates weather for movie blockbusters. Viewers will also learn about the weather of outer space; the latest scientific insights on our weather patterns; or, how different parts of the world have been geologically shaped by evolutionary weather conditions. Episode No. 1 Project Space: Shuttle Atlantis, shows how weather can impact the most sophisticated machine made by man.

FUTURE UNIQUE WEATHER

SEGMENTS INCLUDE:

—Indy Racing: Atmosphere will follow a dentist-by-day/racer-by-night to learn the effects of weather on car racing.

—Australia—Surfer's Paradise: A surf forecaster tracks low pressure areas to determine the winds on the sea's surface as he searches worldwide for the "perfect wave."

The on-air Atmospheres programming is complemented by an interactive feature, accessible at weather.com/atmospheres, which offers internet users additional information on the show's topics. Additionally, a weekly quiz located on weather.com, "When was that Weather?" invites participants to submit their guesses as to when significant weather events occurred.

Immediately following the Wednesday evening cable broadcast, weather.com will regularly host on-line chats with Atmospheres fans, from 9 to 10 p.m.

The Weather Channel on Microsoft Web TV Plus Service will present an additional interactive experience, inviting viewers to explore supporting content for each week's Atmospheres episode before, during, and after the program airs.

Local outreach projects address death and dying

A great divide separates the kind of care Americans say they want at the end of the life, and what our culture currently provides.

Surveys show that we want to die at home, free of pain, surrounded by the people we love. But the vast majority of us die in the hospital, alone, experiencing unnecessary discomfort.

While a rising chorus of patients, their families and health care professionals say the time has come to change how we die in America, talking about dying has remained one of our most intractable taboos. Until now.

A groundbreaking, four-part report from Bill Moyers will soon place a national spotlight on the subject of death and dying in America. "On Our Own Terms: Moyers on Dying" airs Sunday through Wednesday, September 10 through 13 at 9 p.m. on KET, and Tuesdays beginning September 12 at 9 p.m. on KET2.

As an accompaniment to the series, KET and its project partners are providing several resources and outreach services. On the nights that the series airs, KET and Hospice of the Bluegrass will provide a toll-free helpline for those wishing to further discuss some of the end-of-life concerns raised by the program.

There will also be a Web site available at <http://www.ket.org/MoyersOnDying> (set to launch August 25) to provide information on the series, a link to an on-line discussion forum and links to area resources. Individuals as well as churches, businesses, community groups and other organizations can also download a discussion guide from the Web site.

Additionally, Journey's End, a broad-based coalition of individuals and organizations who believe in the need to improve end-of-life care in Kentucky, is currently sponsoring numerous forums across the state in an effort to gauge public opinion about the status of health care for the dying. More information can be obtained at http://www.journeysend-

"The end-of-life movement in Kentucky and throughout the nation is challenging educators, practitioners and the general public to consider the qualitative aspects of life, rather than just the presence of vital signs, when considering treatment options for those with a terminal diagnosis," says Cindy Keeney project director for Journey's End.

Immediately following each episode of "On Our Own Terms," a companion program, "With Eyes Open," provides a living room dialogue between real people sharing everyday wisdom about loss, grief and healing.

Each 30-minute program models the kind of direct, caring conversations Moyers hopes will occur in living rooms across the nation.

Also, on Monday, September 18, "Kentucky Tonight" will provide a follow-up to the Moyers series, addressing end-of-life issues in Kentucky.

"On Our Own Terms:

Moyers on Dying" is produced by Public Affairs Television Inc. "With Eyes Open" is produced by KQED/San Francisco. "Kentucky Tonight" is a KET production, produced by Deidre Clark. All programs are closed-captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

Viewers can find out more about programming on KET by visiting the KET Web site at <http://www.ket.org>, a Kentucky.com affiliate.

Archaeological dig, llama farm, historic town tour on Kentucky Life

Viewers can dig deep into the past and meet some unusual inhabitants of Kentucky on the next edition of "Kentucky Life." Hosted by Dave Shuffett, the program airs on Saturday, September 2, at 8:30 p.m. on KET.

The first stop in the program is Riverside Farm near Louisville, where archeologists turn young people into students of history—and get real help in excavating and reconstructing several of the farm's out-buildings.

Viewers see how students' work on the antebellum plantation offers hands-on lessons about life in the 1800s as well as how archeologists investigate the past.

Next, llamas and alpacas take center stage in a visit to Seldom Scene Farm in Woodford County. Owners Paul and Lindy Huber, raise the friendly animals, native to South America, for breeding stock and for their highly priced fleece.

The visit proves that the unusual farm animals are easily handled, even by children—like the Hubers' young son, Bobby. Viewers also see that llamas make good hiking companions, as the Hubers prove with their frequent "llama treks."

Finally, Shuffett makes a stop in Warsaw, an Ohio River town that boasts 118 buildings on the National Register of Historic Places. "Kentucky Life" explores these landmarks, while illustrating the great value Warsaw's citizens place on traditions of the past and the beauty of their many historic buildings.

"Kentucky Life" is produced and directed by Joy Flynn. Series writer is Ellen Ballard. Segment producers for this program are Cheryl Beckley, Ellen Ballard and Dave Shuffett. Craig Cornwell is executive producer.
