Lawmakers to study racial and · ethnic health gap

FRANKFORT - What steps can be taken to eliminate any health status disparities among racial and ethnic groups in Kentucky? That's one question a legislative committee will look into when a panel of medical and health policy experts gathers at the next meeting of the General Assembly's Medicaid Managed Care Oversight Advisory Committee.

The meeting begins at 10 a.m. Oct. 25 in the Capitol Annex, Room 131. Sen. Gerald Neal, D-Louisville, the committee's co-chair, said the meeting will be an opportunity to look into the current health status of Kentucky's population while determining what steps need to be taken.

"Assembling a panel of experts will help paint an honest picture of the health status of Kentucky's various racial and ethnic groups," Neal said. "And it will help us consider possible ways the Medicaid program can further improve health care delivery and eliminate any disparity among Kentuckians.'

The panel is also expected to discuss the resources and funding streams available to help eliminate any health disparities, as well as the policies other states have in place to address similar con-

Water system contractors hailed as heroes for fighting fire

"Blazing Buckets" could have been the film title for an episode that occurred on Tuesday morning in the Galveston area of Branham's Creek.

A crew of workers that had been contracted by the U.S. Filter division of the Southern Water and Sewer District were busy with the task of laying and replacing water lines in the Galveston area when they noticed flames shooting out of the windows of a nearby home.

The workers said that the flames were extending out and above the top of the house. Fearing for the lives of the occupants, particularly the children of the family, the crew of men began immediately to try to squelch the fire and determine whether or not any members of the family were at home.

They drove their backhoe to the house, and one of the men, Jamie

City sets tax rate, moves on annexation

by KATHY J. PRATER STAFF WRITER

A special called meeting of the Prestonsburg City Council was held on Thursday at City Hall. Present were councilmen Robert Allen, Bill R. Collins, Estill Carter, Trent Nairn and Danny Hamilton, Mayor Jerry S. Fannin called the meeting to order.

The first business conducted was the second reading of Ordinance No. 11-2000, which relates to a tax levy on real and tangible personal property and franchises within the

'For purposes of providing funds for the general operating expenses of the city for the fiscal year from July 1, 2000 to June 30, 2001, and for each year thereafter, until this Ordinance is amended or enacted, the following taxes are levied: Upon all real estate within the city, not specifically exempted from taxation, a tax of 0.217 per one hundred dollars of assessed value will be levied," the ordinance reads. "Also, a tax upon all tangible personal property and franchises not specifically exempted from taxation, a tax of 0.262 per one hundred dollars of assessed value will be levied.

The ordinance provides for a discount of 2 percent of the total amount of the tax bill to be allowed upon all tax bills paid prior to November 30 of each year.

Additionally, a penalty of 6 percent of the total amount of the tax bills that are not paid on or prior to December 31 of each year shall be imposed and collected.

The council voted unanimously to approve the ordi-

In other business, the council gave initial approval to two ordinances which call for the continuance of the process of annexation of the Big Branch of Abbott Creek area and the areas contained within extension boundaries of the "Tiger Mart Hollow" to the left side of the Big Branch of Abbott Creek to Middle Creek and across state route 114, into the city corporate limits.

On October 9, two similar ordinance were approved announcing the city's intent to annex the above mentioned areas, whereas the new ordinances provide for the actual process of annexation into city limits to begin.

Residents of both areas had filed petitions against annexation proceedings in prior weeks, but according to Mayor Fannin, County Clerk Chris Waugh has notified the city that the petitions contained an insufficient number of signatures to warrant placement on the 2002 ballot so therefore, the annexation process will now move forward.

Also, Fannin said the Osborne Branch and Frank Arnett Lane areas of Abbott Creek were never intended for annexation, as some area residents had originally

A ceremony held in honor of National Neighborhood Networks Week, a campaign supported by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, was held on Wednesday at the Cliffside Neighborhood Center.

In attendance at the ceremony were John Milchick, state coordinator of HUD programs, and Janice S. Page, state project manager for HUD programs.

by HEIDI COUCH

Being a Floridian, Kentucky will never cease to fascinate me. Only twice have I seen snow and only three times have I seen the leaves change colors. Growing up every season was the same. For my family, a bad winter was if the grass turned brown.

My senior year of high school I remember asking my parents how far from Florida I could go. A week later they answered "Kentucky." Since then, I have rarely returned to my humid home.

My first Kentucky experiences began at Cumberland College. I couldn't believe how close the mountains were. During that first year I learned how to translate the native Kentucky tongue, how to drive in snow, and I also learned the important lesson of making friends whose families live close to school.

My second year of college was at the University of Louisville. During that fall semester I became engaged. School was no longer a priority and my grades began to slip. After long conversa-

The following fall I got married. I transferred to Eastern Kentucky University where my husband later graduated. Our first year of marriage focused on my husband's graduation and acceptance into medical school. He was later accepted to the Pikeville College School of Osteopathic Medicine and I again transferred.

When my husband came on campus for his medical school review, I took the time to drive around town and mentally compare Pikeville to my previous college homes. No other town I had seen was built around a mountain. I was first amazed at the sight of the college on the side of a mountain. I just kept thinking, "What is keeping it from falling off the side of that mountain?"

Now that I have been here for a couple of months, I know that Pikeville is a nice place to be. The people are friendly and considerate of out-of-towners. I find it amazing that in different parts of the state there are different terminologies for the same things. I've learned that I go to the school "on the hill," that to get to Wal-Mart I go out on "the four-lane," and that when people

The challenge

The real success story in Kentucky's public schools in recent years has been the marked improvement in student reading skills. The challenge now is to achieve that same level of success in other subject areas without sacrificing

That schools have emphasized reading skill is understandable. Reading is an essential skill that opens countless doors of opportunity for success in all academic fields. If Johnny can't read, he also probably can't multiply or divide and can't tell an igneous rock from a sedimentary one.

Reading skills have shown such a dramatic improvement in state tests to the point of where most Kentucky kids are reading at or above the national level. However, those same students are lagging behind in science, math, social studies and arts and humanities.

"When you look at the data, you can see the choices schools have made," said Susan Weston, director of the Kentucky Association of School Councils, who does an annual report on school tests based on student performance on the Commonwealth Accountability Testing System. "We're already looking at a bunch of schools who say they've done the job in reading, the next thing we have to do is take a big step in science or social studies.

When it comes to making a choice between buying a new set of reading books or updating the science lab, most elementary schools are going to opt for the reading books. And if science tends to take a back seat to reading, then art and music are even more widely ignored.

Why does it have to be an either-or situation? Why can't students excel in both reading and science? Why always push art and music to the back burner, especially when studies show that younger students are able to learn such things as music much more quickly than older students?

Sure, a well-rounded education can be more costly, and there are only so many hours in a school day. But we are doing a disservice to young people if we ignore other skills while teaching them to read.

I read where gas was being bought from out of state and, therefore, gas prices reflect the added cost. I was told once before that no gas can be sold from interstate transmission lines.

My question would be, how does gas from well production pickup lines reflect any cost from purchased gas? If gas is going to fire electrical generating plants as compared to coal-fired plants, then the EPA mandate would be an unfunded mandate paid for by the people of eastern Kentucky.

Problem is, a lot of us live on very limited Winter is coming on and my natural gas bill has income or fixed income. A cold winter is going to cut into the purchase of such things as food and medicine. I know some laugh at these problems, but get in the poverty line and the outlook isn't so great.

Ten thousand czars

by JAMES BOVARD

The Founding Fathers sought to build a government that was constrained both by law and by the Bill of Rights. Modern legislators and bureaucrats have completely forgotten the reasons coercive power must be confined in narrow boundaries to avoid becoming a public curse. Instead of the rule of law, we have one new government czar and petty dictator after another. Arbitrary power has become more fashionable as government itself has been exalted. It is symptomatic of the contemporary attitude towards government that the term "czar" now has a positive connotation.

Political and popular demands for appointments of a czar routinely stem from fundamental defects or contradictions in underlying federal laws. The first modern-era American "czar" was Energy Czar John Love, appointed by President Nixon in 1973 during the gas crisis, followed by other energy czars appointed by presidents Ford and Carter. Yet, while the appointment of an energy czar consoled some people sitting in gas lines, the fundamental cause of the energy shortages - federal price controls and other restrictions - were kept in place until Ronald Reagan took office in 1981

When Congress enacted a law in 1982 that created a drug czar, President Reagan scorned the provision: "The creation of another layer of bureaucracy within the Executive Branch would produce friction, disrupt effective law enforcement, and could threaten the integrity of criminal investigations and prosecutions... The so-called 'drug Czar' provision was enacted hastily without thoughtful debate and without benefit of any hearings."

The drug czar remained a largely ceremonial post until President Bush appointed William Bennett; however, the chain-smoking, tough-talking Bennett did not find the magic words to make all Americans vir-

'Beatlemania' strikes again

So! Another week gone by, time to chat again...

Did any of you happen to catch that little item in the news concerning John Lennon's piano? It's the one that he sat with as he composed "Imagine," one of the truly greatest songs ever written, in my opinion. Anyway, it went up for auction this week - got me thinking again about a performance I saw a few weeks back at the MAC.

It was "Getback!" a concert put on by cast members of the original Broadway London productions of "Beatlemania!" The performers did outstanding impersonations of John Lennon, Paul McCartney, George Harrison and Ringo Starr — the Beatles. It was the closest to the real thing that I'll ever get and, actually, I had to keep reminding myself that it wasn't the real thing! I can't stress enough how good these guys were. If you are a Beatles fan and you missed this concert - shame. It was truly impressive. I found myself quite caught up in it - singing along, applauding enthusiastically. As a matter of fact, the entire audience seemed to be having the same experience as I.

One of the main reasons I wanted to attend this concert was because through the years, my children have asked various questions about the Beatles. You know, we would be traveling along in the car, a Beatles tune would come on, "Mom, would you turn up the volume," you know the scenario. Questions such as "Who were the Beatles, anyway?" and "Were they good? As good as the Backstreet Boys?"

Well, how can you explain a phenomenon like the Beatles and give due credit? You can't, so when I saw the ad for "Getback!" I thought, "What an opportunity. I can show the kids first hand what it was all about."

To tell you the truth, I never really expected the event to be as exciting as it was, what with knowing that it was, after all, not really the Beatles and all. But, again, I turned out to be truly delighted at the stellar performance that I witnessed.

The song, "Imagine" was not performed, but later I discovered that Lennon had actually written this song after the break-up of the Beatles, so, therefore, the Beatles as a unit would not have performed this tune. A repertoire of just about every Beatles classic was performed, however. "I Want to Hold Your Hand," "I Saw Her Standing There," "Get Back," "Strawberry Fields" - I think about 30 songs altogether. The performers traveled through three different time eras: The Ed Sullivan era, the Sgt. Pepper era, and the Abbey Road/Let it Be era. Costume changes and friendly jokes and banter were witnessed throughout the event to create a warm, comfortable atmosphere for the audience.

Afterwards, the kids and I, along with a few other "groupies" that hung around, had the opportunity to talk with the members of the group. A fellow by the name of Pucci Lowery played George, Jack Patrilla played Paul, Jerry Sommer did an incredible job playing John.

It's interesting to note that all of these guys exuded a tremendous amount of energy on stage, and came across as real dynamos; but, once they removed the wigs and changed into their own clothes, they became really subdued and almost shy. Oh well, I've read that about performers before, that they throw off their own personalities and become different people when they are on stage, and that oftentimes, they are actually very introverted people. Or perhaps they were just really tired after performing for over two hours.

At any rate, they were incredibly nice and went out of their way to make the evening even more spefor those who "hung around." They signed autographs, answered questions and gave away souvenirs. My own daughters walked away with autographed ticket stubs, guitar picks and even an autographed drumstick. I had jokingly told my children earlier that I planned to get love you!" Of course, they gave me those, "Oh, Mom, puh-leceze!" looks when I told them of my plans, but, hey, guess who really ended up screaming? Yep, those same kids who gave me the looks. I loved it.

Something I have to mention about the evening. One thing I couldn't help but notice was the broad range of ages of the individuals who attended. I saw people who appeared to be in their 50s and 60s as well as people my age (and I'm not tellin'!), along with some folks who most definitely had to be in their early 20s and teens.

I spoke with one young lady, Kaila Bradley, who caught my attention because she was wearing a really cool Beatles t-shirt and she appeared to be quite young. In talking with her, turns out that she is 17 and has been a Beatles fan since the age of 7. She credits her mom with introducing her to Beatles music and she told me that she is a real collector of Beatles memorabilia. Let me tell you. I was a child (note played Ringo and Peter McGann crazy and scream, "Paul, Paul, I that word, "child") of the 1960s and can remember seeing the Beatles on the Ed Sullivan show and going with my brother to the Strand theater to see the Beatles movie, "Help!" and have enjoyed the music of the Beatles for all of my life, but, this 17-year-old had a much more vast knowledge of the Beatles than I could ever claim to.

It felt good to know that this music is being appreciated by younger generations. That's one of the really wonderful things about music, films, the "arts" in general, how beautiful works live on to touch the lives of generations to come. I took a couple of pictures of Kaila in her Beatles t-shirt, but for some reason, they didn't come out disappointing, to say the least. Anyway, it was a really fun evening and a great opportunity for people of different generations to bond. If an encore performance is scheduled for next season - I'm

Until next week, thanks for listenin', and - "peace, man!"

President Clinton appointed a former general, Barry McCaffrey, as his second drug czar to prove that he was finally getting "tough" on drugs; the czar-general's grandest moment was his threat to revoke the medical licenses of California and Arizona doctors who mentioned cannabis to patients after citizens of those states endorsed legalizing the medical use of marijuana. McCaffrey is also using federal law and subsidies to bribe television programs and Hollywood producers to covertly include anti-drug messages in the entertainment that Americans watch.

In recent years, Americans have also been blessed with a "healthcare czar" (Ira Magaziner in 1993). an "AIDS czar" (various political appointees since 1993), and endless local "zoning czars" and "land-use czars." But no matter how many czars are appointed, it is never enough. A government advisory panel in 1998 called for the appointment of a "food czar" to "oversee the patchwork of food safety regulations."

And even where federal officials more discretionary power than the Founding Fathers would have approved. Consider how the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission has twisted the Civil Rights Act of 1964 to maximize its power to punish. EEOC officials have proclaimed private companies guilty of violating or impeding "equal opportunity" because of their failure to race-norm test scores (i.e., covertly increase the scores of "protected groups" to make them appear more qualified than other test-takers); failure to disregard employee theft; failure to disregard an employee's assaults on co-workers; and failure by the Hooters restaurant chain - a "Playboy club for rednecks" - to hire men to serve beer to its customers. The EEOC capitalizes on the vagueness of the concept of equal opportunity to maximize its power to manipulate findings of guilt or innocence. Americans of earlier generations would be as shocked by the current adulatory use of the term "czar" as contemporary Americans would be shocked by the use of "fuehrer" as a to restore the credibility of the fed-compliment for a political leader. In are not called "czars," they have far an 1866 Supreme Court case involving the power of military governors in the conquered Southern states, one attorney declaimed to the court concerning his suffering plaintiffs: "So far as constitutional liberty is concerned, they might as well be living under a Czar or a Sultan, upon the banks of the Bosphorus or the Neva, as in this free country." In an 1895 case, an attorney denounced a newly enacted income tax as conferring powers on the federal government worthy of a Czar of Russia proposing to reign with undisputed and absolute power; but it cannot be done under this Constitution."

The more arbitrary power government employees possess, the more they are transformed into a master class. At some point, the sheer accumulation of penalties and threats in the statute book fundamentally changes the citizen's relation to the government. Rather than a government of laws, it becomes a government of threats, intimidation, and browbeating.

If Congress and the courts want eral government, the federal statute book and the Code of Federal Regulations must be stripped of those edicts that hang like thousands of swords of Damocles over the heads of peaceful Americans.

The time is come to end the reign of the czars and to cease expecting salvation from arbitrary power. James Boyard is the author of the newly published Feeling Your Pain: The Explosion and Abuse of Government Power under Clinton-Gore (St. Martin's Press). This article is adapted from an essay published by The Future of Freedom

Build Equity.

Home ownership is the first step most people make toward a lifetime of financial security. Owning a home lets you build financial equity. In effect, you pay rent to yourself, then end up owning the home.

One of the best ways to become a homeowner is to purchase a mobile home or manufactured home. At Citizens National Bank, we've helped many people realize the dream of home ownership in a new or used mobile or manufactured home. Whether you are dreaming about a starter single-wide or a luxury double-wide, talk to the bank for your life to learn how your dream can come true.

Pension exclusion, standard deduction increase

Kentucky's individual income tax pension exclusion for the 2001 tax year is increasing to $37,500. This exclusion applies to tax returns due April 15, 2002, and takes effect on January 1, 2001.

Retirees who make quarterly estimated Kentucky individual income tax payments should take this revised pension exclusion into effect when calculating their quarterly payments for 2001. The first payment is due on April 15, 2001.

For the 2000 tax year, for which returns are due on April 15, 2001, the pension exclusion is $36,414.

The revision is made pursuant to KRS 141.0105, which requires the Kentucky Revenue Cabinet to adjust the exclusion annually for inflation.

Additionally, Kentucky's standard deduction for individual income tax increases from $1,700 to $1,750 for the 2001 tax year as authorized by KRS 141.081(2). Taxpayers who do not itemize deductions on their individual income tax return are entitled to claim the standard deduction.

Women In "Working women of Eastern Kentucky"

More and more, women are venturing out into the world to start their own buisnesses—and doing quite a good job at it. We at the "Times" are not at all surprised. We have put together a few profiles of women in our own area who are busy at work each day in businesses that they own and manage. We think that these hard-working women deserve a little recognition!

Eastern Kentucky Physical Therapy, P.S.C.

Gwendolyn S. Hall, P.T. Owner and manager of Eastern Kentucky Physical Therapy, P.S.C. Located on North Lake Drive, Prestonsburg

Gwendolyn is a physical therapist who opened her own private practice in 1999. She employs one office worker at this time, but hopes to add additional staff soon. She says that instrumental in her decision to open her own practice was a desire to be her own boss and to be in a position to make daily decisions about her own career. Her goal is to provide quality physical therapy services to the people of this area.

She says that the greatest obstacle she faced in establishing her business was gaining financial assistance. She realizes that it is difficult enough to finance any new business, but she believes that for women, it is even more challenging. Gwendolyn feels that women have to prove themselves more than do their male counterparts; that women have to work harder at proving their dedication.

Gwendolyn admits that it can be difficult for women to handle the responsibilities of owning their own business, especially since they more often than not, also have the responsibility of the home and children to attend to. She adds that being in control of her own scheduling allows her more flexibility in her daily responsibilities.

Gwendolyn's advice to women who are interested in forming their own business is to research everything and to be prepared; don't allow the financial aspect to intimidate you; consult attorneys, accountants and bankers for information, and, above all, don't be afraid to ask questions!

Gwendolyn says that the support of her family was paramount in giving her the encouragement to attempt her business venture. In preparation for opening her own practice, she spent nine years working at local hospitals as a staff therapist and she also took numerous continuing education courses in order to keep her skills current.

Gwendolyn's advice to young girls and young women who dream of one day owning their own business is to study general business and accounting; be self-confident; learn to manage and delegate activities to others; and be organized!

Gwendolyn hopes to be an active part of the community through involvement in the Chamber of Commerce and by being supportive of young people by encouraging them to become sucessful, productive members of society. She hopes to become more involved with young people by increasing their awareness of injury prevention and attempting to educate them about overuse syndrome.

Above all, Gwendolyn feels strongly that women need to be supportive of one another's efforts and businesses, even if they are in totally different lines of work. She would like to see the development of a local women's network.

Eastern Kentucky Physical Therapy, P.S.C. is open 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. most days; but flexible hours are available to provide service around work or school chedules. The number to call is (606) 889-0492.

Wal-Mart Vision Center

Regina Coleman, Optometrist Owns and operates office next to Wal-Mart Vision Center. Located on 254 Cassidy Blvd.

Regina has been offering private, professional optometric services and eye examinations in her own office since March of 1998. She employs one office helper.

Regina says that opening her own office has not been difficult at all for her and even though she was initially a little nervous about giving up a salaried position for an unsure situation, she says that the decision to open her own office has been the best eareer move of her life. She says that it has proven to be the best opportunity that she has ever taken advantage of. Her most difficult decision was that of determining the location

Regina does not feel that being a woman has created any difficulties for her in establishing her practice. She says that she believes that most people expect to see women in different fields of work. She says that she often hears from her patients that they enjoy having a female doctor. She feels that being a woman gives her a bit of advantage in that patients seem to become comfortable easily with her.

Regina feels that, in general, women generate the same respect in the business community as do men. She feels that the respect you get from others is dependent upon how you present yourself to others. Regina says that she tries to provide quality professional service with compassion and consideration of her patients and she feels that people respect that sort of care no matter who it comes from.

Regina says that her greatest satisfaction comes from knowing that her success comes as a direct result of her own efforts. Her advice to women who are thinking of opening their own business is to consider that the success of any business depends in great part to the type of business itself. Location and demand are among other factors to consider. She feels that being a woman can work for you or against you, depending on the the type of business you are in.

She says that the support of her family and friends has been a huge factor in her success. She also believes that being a native of eastern Kentucky has been a plus for her in the operation of her business. She graduated from Phelps High School in 1987, Morehead State University in 1991, and Indiana University School of Optometry in 1995. Eastern Kentucky has always been her home and she feels that people enjoy receiving service from someone they

Regina says that she strives to create a positive impact on each of her patients each day and that she hopes that her positive influence will spread throughout the community to make life for everyone a little easier from day to day.

Her advice to young girls and young women who hope to one day own their own business is to decide as early as possible on what you want to do and then work hard to get it. She says that she believes that many dreams are never reached because people don't believe that they can reach them. Hard work is one way to achieve your

Regina's future goals for her own business is to expand her office hours so that more evening appointments can be available to help working

Regina enjoys spending her leisure time with her two children, Ryan, age 3, and Parker, age 2. She also enjoys gardening, landscaping and working around her home.

Regina's office is open Monday and Thursday, 9:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. and Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. The number to call is (606) 432-

Hair Gallery & Spa

Janice Ritchie Owner, Hair Gallery & Spa Located in Weddington Square Plaza, Pikeville

Janice is the sole owner of a full-service hair salon and spa. She established her business in 1996 as a salon only and just recently achieved one of her initial goals in that the salon has now been upgraded to the level of being a full spa.

Janice employs a staff of eleven technicians. Among them are five master stylists, two nail technicians, a massage and facial technician, and a permanent cosmetic artist.

Janice does not feel that being a woman created any extra difficulties for her in the formation of her business. She also feels that women generate the same respect from the business community as do men. Janice says that she is a very determined individual and that she has an innate competitive edge in her business dealings. She feels that this aspect of her personality has opened doors for her rather than creating difficulties. She feels that if you present yourself as a person deserving respect from the community, then you will receive that respect. She feels that this is true whether you are a man or a

Janice's advice to women who are interested in forming their own businesses is to first, love what you do; second, find dedicated, trustworthy staff; and thirdly, put customer satisfaction and service first above all

Janice is pleased to announce that she and her staff have just recently welcomed aboard Patricia Collins of Floyd County to their establishment. They are very happy to have her working with them.

The Hair Gallery and Spa has a full line of hair and facial products available and three tanning beds with new bulbs. They invite you to call or come in to inquire about their "Full Day of Beauty Package" (sounds like a terrific gift for that special woman, be it "Mom" or "Sweetie") and "The Fassage"

The Hair Gallery & Spa is open for business Monday-Friday, 9:00 a.m. until 9:00 p.m. and Saturday, 9:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. The numbers to call are (606) 432-5900 and (606) 437-7220.

Rags to Riches Interior Design, L.L.C.

Rebecca C. Castle Owner and manager of Rags to Riches Interior Design, L.L.C. Located on 154 Second Street, Pikeville

Rebecca owns a retail accessory shop and Interior Design Studio that she established in June of this year; she actually is running two separate businesses. Available in the retail accessory shop are prints, plants, lamps and other small accessories for the home. She also has a design studio and workroom in which she can design her customers' interior needs as well as fabricate them in the work-

Naturally, this much going on gets pretty hectic at times. Rebecca employs three helpers and says that it is essential to learn to delegate work to others. She says that she would not be in business today if it were not for the help of two of her closest friends, Carol McGhee and Rhonda Potter. She stresses that these two women work just as hard as she

Rebecca says that among the factors instrumental in her desire to open her own business was the hope of gaining personal satisfaction from establishing her independence and being able to help in the financial support of her family. Also, she desired to be able to do work that she truly enjoyed.

When asked about some of the difficulties she faced in establishing her business, Rebecca said that learning to balance supply and demand was something that she grappled with. She says that she does not feel that being a woman created any extra resources are more readily available hard work. She goes on to say that to women today than they were, say, ten years ago. She says that some of her best advice came from women who started their own businesses ten years ago. She says that these women have helped pave the way for todays businesswoman.

However, Rebecca does feel that the scales are not equally balanced in the respect department. She says that she believes that women do not automatically command the same respect that their male counterparts do. She says that women have to work twice as hard and twice as long to earn the same respect that comes more easily to men. She believes that the best way to earn respect is to become sucessful, and that becoming sucessful requires this can be more difficult for women because their workday does not necessarily end at 5:00 p.m.; more often than not, this just signals the beginning of the second shift, as they return home to children and household responsibilities.

Rebecca's advice to women who are interested in forming their own business is to use common sense in all aspects of the creation of the business. Study the demographics in your area; make sure there is a need for your services or products. Apply for a small business loan; don't try to fund the start up of your business out of your pocket. Research the resources available to women in business; find out what grants are available and apply.

Rebecca's advice to young girls and young women who hope to one day become owners of their own businesses is to first and foremost, get an education. Rebecca says to take computer courses because the Internet is the gateway for business growth. Make sure that you have a passion for the business you enter and make sure that you save time for yourself and for your family. And, last but not least, make plans to hire a C.P.A. He or she can lay out a business outline to help you get started, give you financial guidance, help you manage the growth of your business and handle your dealings with Uncle Sam.

Rebecca says that the support of her family has made it possible for her to become sucessful in her business venture. Her brother, John Collins, and her husband, Mike, have offered invaluable support and guidance. Their combined efforts work to help her maintain focus and balance.

Rebecca says that she is very active in her community and that she is a member of the Pikeville Main Street Program, as well as the Chamber of Commerce. She also donates her services to local charities.

Rebecca recalls a conversation that she had with her mother (who Rebecca credits with instilling her with a good work ethic) when she was thinking of starting her own business. She expressed fears and doubts to her mother in relation to business failure and the fact that it would take at least two years for her business to start making money. She said, "Mom, I am terrified. What if I fail? And it could take two years for my business to start making money and by then, I'll be 40 years old." Her mother replied, "If you don't try, then you can't fail, and in two years, you will still be forty.

Lasting Cosmetics, L.L.C.

Keith Ann Kilgore Owner, Lasting Cosmetics, L.L.C. Located in Pikeville, Cross Roads Shopping Center

Keith Ann is somewhat of a maverick in this area as she is among the first to introduce permanent cosmetics into the local region. Permanent cosmetics are applied through a process known as dermapigmentation; a process that is similiar to tattooing. Keith Ann has centers in Pikeville and

Keith Ann established her business in March, 2000. Some of the factors instrumental in her decision to open her own business were a desire to be her own boss and the challenge of a new venture. In her own words, Keith Ann is a "risk-

Keith Ann says that she realizes that permanent cosmetics is very new to our area and that is required to answer many questions about the process, as well as doing the actual work of applying the cosmetics.

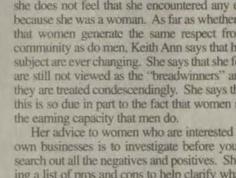

She says that she had difficulty becoming established because she was new to the area and would encounter reluctance in her business dealings with financial institutions, but she does not feel that she encountered any extra difficulties because she was a woman. As far as whether or not she feels that women generate the same respect from the business community as do men, Keith Ann says that her views on this subject are ever changing. She says that she feels that women are still not viewed as the "breadwinners" and that at times, they are treated condescendingly. She says that she feels that this is so due in part to the fact that women still do not have

Her advice to women who are interested in forming their own businesses is to investigate before you invest; and, to search out all the negatives and positives. She suggests making a list of pros and cons to help clarify what you want and what potential obstacles you may be facing; then work on the

Keith Ann derives satisfaction from knowing that she has the desire to satisfy herself first and to do the best she is capable of in her service to her customers. She hopes to have an impact on her community through maintaining a positive attitude. She says that "life is too short to go around always looking for doom and gloom". She says that she looks for the good in every situation. She strives to not only make her customers look prettier on the outside, but also to make them feel even prettier on the inside. She says that feeling pretty on the inside is what really gives her customers that special glow when they leave her establishment.

Top of the Inn Restaurant, Top of the Inn Lounge, Mark II Lounge, Mark III Bowling Center

Debra Huffman Co-owner Landmark Inn, Top of the Inn Restaurant, Top of the Inn Lounge, Mark II Lounge, Mark III Bowling Center Located on South Mayo Trail, Pikeville

Debra co-owns five businesses with her husband, Thomas. The Landmark Inn and Top of the Inn Restaurant were established businesses that Debra and Thomas purchased in 1983. Since then, they have expanded by opening the Top of the Inn Lounge in June of 1987, The Mark II Lounge in December 1990 and The Mark III Bowling Center in May, 2000. They employee approximately 60-70 full-time and part-time workers.

Debra says that she and her husband were looking for a project to become involved in when they made their original purchase in 1983.

Debra says that they had no idea that they would expand as much as they have. She says that they have faced various difficulties in their years in business, some of a financial nature and other difficulties brought on by "Mother Nature"-flooding, to be exact. Debra says that the decline of the "coal boom" created a decline in motel business that was a difficult situation to deal with, but they have managed to stay on top by working together as a team.

Debra does not feel that she has encountered any extra difficulties or obstacles in the establishment of her businesses by being a woman, but she does admit that she has a husband who is a great help to her and that without him she would probably have had to deal with greater

Debra also feels that women in business generate the same respect from the community as do their male counterparts once they prove themselves capable of good management. She goes on to say that once a woman does this, that she probably generates even more respect than a that a lot of people today still don't expect a woman to do a job as well as a man, and once she does, it gets attention.

Debra derives satisfaction from running her own business because she enjoys the freedom that comes from being her own boss. She says she is in a better position to act upon her own ideas and strive to make her business the best that it can be.

Her advice to women who are interested in forming their own businesses is to realize that the business world is a tough world and to be prepared to work hard and expect little in return at first. She says that patience and an ability to handle stress are essential traits to possess.

To young girls and young women who dream of one day owning their own business, she says to develop a strong will and be determined. She says to develop an attitude that says to others, "I am here to stay"; and be prepared to do whatever it takes to make your business a success.

Debra strives to have a positive impact on her community through involvement in the tourism board and also by being a member of the Pikeville Methodist Hospital board. She also regularly employs area high school students; even giving those who have been in trouble a man does. The reason being that she believes chance. She says that she often becomes close to her employees and their families and that she realizes that it can be tough growing up in today's world and she always tries to make herself available to help when she can. She also does work in community services, promotion of area schools and funding for charities.

Debra says that one of the keys to her success is that she is always open to change. She and her husband never say that they have reached their full potential because they are always looking for new opportunities.

The Landmark Inn is open for business 24 hours; Top of the Inn Restaurant is open from 6:00 a.m. until 10:00 p.m., Monday-Saturday and 6:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. on Sunday; Top of the Inn Lounge is open 5:00 p.m. until 1:00 a.m. Monday-Thursday and 5:00 p.m. until 2:00 a.m. Friday and Saturday; Mark II Lounge is open Wednesday from 8:00 p.m. until 1:00 a.m. and on Friday and Saturday from 8:00 p.m. until 2:00 a.m.; Mark III Bowling Center is open Sunday-Thursday from 5:00 p.m. until 11:00 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 5:00 p.m. until 2:00 a.m.

Calendar items will be printed as space permits

Editor's note: As a service to the many clubs and committees that meet in our community, The Floyd County Times' Community Calendar will post meeting and public service announcements. Articles for the Community Calendar must be submitted in writing to The Times no later than 5 p.m. Monday for Wednesday's publication, 5 p.m. Wednesday for Friday's publication, or 5 p.m. Thursday for Sunday's publication. These cannot be taken over the telephone.

AARP to hear singer

The Floyd County chapter of AARP will have its regular monthly meeting Friday, October 20, at 6 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church in Prestonsburg. Loretta Hammonds, a singer on the staff of the Mountain Home Place in Johnson County, will present the program.

PHS, BLHS blood drives

Central Kentucky Blood Center and Prestonsburg High School have scheduled a blood drive on Wednesday, November 1, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Science Room. Betsy Layne High School is having a blood drive Friday, November 3, from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the school library. The Betsy Layne High School Fall Blood Drive is sponsored by the Beta Club.

For information, call Dawn Wheeler, 606/432-4979.

FCRTA to meet

The Floyd County Retired Teachers Association will have a called meeting on November 2, at the Jenny Wiley Lodge at 10:30 a.m.

Haunted House at Martin

The Martin City Fire Department will host its eighth annual drive-through Haunted House on October 31 from 6-9 p.m. Visitors may drive through in their own vehicle or travel through on a hay wagon that will be on site. Fire Chief William Petry promises that there will be ghosts and goblins galore to frighten young and old alike. Cost of admission is one non-perishable food item per carload. The food collected will be used to fill Christmas baskets for needy families in the area.

Blood drive at OLW

Central Kentucky Blood Center and Our Lady of The Way will sponsor a blood drive on Friday, October 20, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the front entrance of the hospital.

By donating a pint of blood, you could save the life of a leukemia patient, a burn or shock victim, or possibly help restore vitality to an accident victim. A pint of blood can be separated into three different components, which can aid up to three different patients. Donating blood takes less than an hour. You must be at least 17 years old and weigh 100 pounds or more. For more information, call Dawn Wheeler at 606/432-4979.

Volunteers needed

The smiling individuals dressed in maroon vests who greet you in the lobby, take your ticket, show you to your seat and provide you with assistance during performances at the Mountain Arts Center are all members of the MAC volunteer program. Although volunteers are frequently seen during performances ushering and working in the coat check room, in reality, volunteers are involved in all phases of the Center. Prior to a show, volunteers stuff playbills, and once the crowds are gone, they assist with cleaning the theater. On non-performance days, there is still work to be done at the MAC. Without the dedication and continuing support of the volunteer staff, the Center could not function. If you are looking for something to do, or if you would like to be a part of this service opportunity, then we are interested in talking to you. Call 606/886-2623 and ask for

Singing and dinner

The monthly singing and pot luck dinner at New Beginning Outreach Church in Garrett, will be Saturday, October 21, at 6 p.m.

Election

The By-Laws of the Big Sandy Area Community Action Program, Inc. require that an election be held each year to appoint low-income representatives to serve on the agency's Board of Directors. These elections are held in each of five counties served by Big Sandy Area C.A.P. Inc. To be eligible to nominate candidates and to vote in this election, you must meet the 100 percent poverty income guidelines. The representatives do not necessarily have to be low-income themselves, but will serve as a voice for the low-income residents in their county.

Floyd County's low-income representative election will be held on Friday, October 20, at 8:30 a.m., in the BSACAP Inc. office located at the Courthouse Annex, Prestonsburg, All low-income residents of Floyd County are encouraged to attend.

Social Security rep to visit Mud Creek clinic

A Social Security representative will visit the Mud Creek Clinic each Tuesday during the month of October. The representative will be in the clinic to assist people in filing Social Security claims and appeals.

People can also apply for Supplemental Security Income (SSI), Black Lung and Social Security numbers, pick up booklets on Social Security, and get questions answered.

Tigers on the prowl Paintsville set to take on South Floyd

by STEVE LeMASTER SPORTS WRITER

The Paintsville Tigers (6-2) bring a near perfect 3-1 district record into Wheelwright tonight to do battle with the South Floyd Raiders. The Tigers are sky-high following a huge 36-6 beating of Hazard just one week ago.

Senior fullback/linebacker Matt Brown got the host Tigers going with a 64-yard touchdown on the first play from scrimmage. The burly senior went on to total 215 yards rushing on the night. The only thing that faltered for the Tigers last week was the passing game. Sophomore quarterback Chas Harmon was 0-8 passing.

The Paintsville defense stepped up big in the game, holding the Hazard offense to just 47 yards rushing.

Paintsville took a 5-2 record into last week's crucial district game. Coach David Lemaster's team was reeling from a 32-22 setback to cross-town rival Johnson Central in the 27th annual Apple Bowl. Lemaster saw his squad get down 20-0 before scoring two touchdowns within 33 seconds and went into halftime down 20-16. The visiting Tigers came out of halftime and put a quick score on the board giving them a 22-20 lead. The lead was short-lived, as the 4A Golden Eagles put two more scores up and cruised to the Tonight's game at Wheelwright is of the utmost importance to both teams. A South Floyd loss eliminates them from the playoff hunt. A South Floyd win gives them a slight chance to play in November.

A Paintsville Tiger win tonight will give them added momentum heading into next week's showdown with Pikeville. Paintsville's only district loss to date was a week four letdown to the Fleming-Neon Pirates.

The South Floyd Raiders are coming off a big game themselves. South Floyd defeated cross-county rival Allen Central very handily Senior P.J. Cox looked very good under center against South Floyd. Senior tailback B. J. Bryant ran all over the Rebel defense. something he's been known to do in his high school football career.

Senior fullback/linebacker Joe Platkus returned last week from an ankle injury that sidelined him for the Jenkins game. South Floyd could be playing their best football of the season.

One thing is for certain, the Raiders will have to be at the top of their game tonight if they expect to hang with the Tigers.

The Paintsville offense is a balanced one with seniors Matt Brown and Brad Austin sharing carries. Freshman Tate Harmon carries the ball and sometime gets the ball thrown his way from brother Tate.

Brad Austin and Matt Brown are leaders over on defense. Sophomore defensive end Josh Conley is a very good defender. South Floyd will need to set the tone of its running game early. Kickoff for tonight's South Floyd-Paintsville game is set for 7:30 p.m.

Prestonsburg beats Breathitt in first round match

Game one was just about as onesided as it could possibly be. Game two proved to be a much different contest.

Game two saw Coach Russell Shepherd's Volleycats struggle early and fall behind, something they haven't done much of this season.

Prestonsburg stopped a Breathitt County game point attempt and miraculously came back to win a tight game two by a final score of 16-14. The Prestonsburg win set up a semifinal game with Whitesburg.

Blackcats look to get back on track at Shelby Valley

by STEVE LeMASTER SPORTS WRITER

The score of last week's Prestonsburg-Pike Central football game weighs heavy on the minds of many Blackeat football supporters.

Seemingly, what could have went wrong for the Blackcats in the Pike Central game did go wrong. Now with a three-way tie for first place in the district, the Blackcats travel to Shelby Valley to take on the Wildcats hoping to get back on the winning track.

Shelby Valley is the last district opponent on the Blackcats' schedule. Prestonsburg faces the so-far undefeated Harrison County Thoroughbreds to finish up the regular season.

Shelby Valley (4-4) traveled to Harold last Friday night and took a 14-6 contest from Ted George's Betsy Layne Bobcats. The Betsy Layne district win gave Shelby Valley their first district win of the season.

The Wildcats are 1-2 in the district this season and with some help have a slim outside shot of making the

Whitesburg ends Volleycats win streak and season

by STEVE LeMASTER SPORTS WRITER

Sadly enough, the streak and the run at state is over. The Prestonsburg Volleycats' season unfortunately ended short of their expectations. The talented Volleycats were eyeing an 8th Region championship and were undefeated with a record of 33-0 going into Wednesday night's game with the Whitesburg Lady Jackets. A driven Whitesburg team recovered from an early game one 5-1 deficit and went on to post a 15-9

On a roll, the Lady Jackets cruised to a relatively easy 15-6 game two victory, giving them the match win and a free pass to the regional championship game against Letcher County.

The Volleycats got out to a 4-0 lead in game one, powered by the senior setkill duo of Angela Howell and Amelia Conley. Following a sideout, Whitesburg took over possession of the ball and went on a run of its own.

Trailing 9-6 Prestonsburg Coach Russell Shepherd called a time-out Following the time-out Lady Jacket Ashley Slone tacked on an ace, giving Whitesburg a 10-6 lead.

Prestonsburg senior Stephanie Adams served up point 7 for her team, and Conley gave the Volleycats two back-to-back kills. However, Prestonsburg could only get within 4 points as

Lady Panthers feel the sting of Lady Jackets

by STEVE LeMASTER SPORTS WRITER

The Pikeville Lady Panthers nearly pulled off an upset in the first round of the regional volleyball tournament Tuesday night at Pike Central Central High School, before succumbing to a good Whitesburg team.

Pikeville came out strong in the first game of what would be a tl cegame match and defeated the Whitesburg Lady Jackets, 15-5. Pikeville seniors Michelle Hall and Jill Kimberlain did what seniors are supposed to do, setting the tone of the game and leading the way to a game one victory.

Game two began with Pikeville jumping out to a

5-1 lead courtesy of some strong play by senior Elizabeth Sowards. The Lady Panthers saw their early game two lead diminish as the Lady Jackets went on a big run and pulled out a close victory. Whitesburg junior Crystal Morton served up the gamewinning ace to give Whitesburg the 15-12 win.

PARABLES - THE GREAT INSTRUMENT OF TEACHERS! IN BIBLICAL TIMES, THE OLD STORY-TELLER, THE RECITER OF PARABLES WAS THE TEACHER, THE INSTRUCTOR OF THE PEOPLE—HIS CLASS-ROOM WAS ANY CONVENIENT STREET CORNER WHERE YOUNG AND OLD ALIKE LISTENED TO WHAT HE HAD TO SAY. THIS METHOD, AGES BEFORE THE PRINTED BOOK, WAS JUST ABOUT THE ONLY WAY TO INFORM. THOSE WHO COULD READ THE
WRITTEN WORD WERE FEW AND FAR BETWEEN SO, BY WORD OF MOUTH, HISTORY
WAS PASSED DOWN FROM ONE GENERATION TO ANOTHER-BUT THE PARABLE WAS MORE THAN JUST HISTORY—IT PRESENTED TO THE LISTENER MORAL ETHICS, IT MADE HIM PONDER ON WHAT WAS THE RIGHT THING TO DO AND WHAT WAS WRONG! WHEN JESUS BEGAN HIS MINISTRY, HE RECITED THE LAW, HE GAVE HIS "SERMON ON THE MOUNT" BUT THESE DIRECT TEACHINGS WERE MUCH TOO STERN AND DEMANDING—AND TURNED MANY PEOPLE AWAY.... ... BUT WHEN JESUS BEGAN TO ILLUSTRATE HIS SERMONS WITH THE WELL-KNOWN FORM OF THE PARABLE, THE COMMON MAN COULD UNDERSTAND HIM, COULD PLACE HIMSELF IN THE STORIES -A FISHERMAN COULD GET THE POINT IN "THE NET CAST INTO THE SEA" A HERDER COULD WELL UNDERSTAND THE LOST SHEEP", AND A FARMER "THE SEED CAST INTO THE GROUND"

Fast Fact

Bobby Laborte and Dale Earnhardt are the only drivers among the top 10 who have no DNFs for the 2000 season.

The Week Ahead in NASCAR 🔹 Oct. 20, 2000

By HENRY MILLER Track & Speed

E'S coming." Those were the only two words Sterling Marlin heard from crew chief Tony Glover in his headset during the 1995 Daytona 500.

Marlin knew what that meant, and he knew who 'he" was.

With less than 15 laps remaining in that seasonopener, Dale Earnhardt was sitting harmlessly back in the pack, definitely not living up to his "Intimidator" tag.

Then he started picking them off, sometimes one at a time, sometimes in bunches.

Before Marlin knew it. Earnhardt was in his rearview mirror and they were in a shootout to the fin-

Marlin, then driver of the No. 4 Kodak car, knew he was in for a battle with the sport's greatest restrictorplate driver bearing down on him. But he was able to hold off Earnhardt for his second straight Daytona 500 victory

For Earnhardt, driver of the No. 3 Goodwrench Service Chevrolet, Sunday's Winston 500 at Talladega Superspeedway was much like that Daytona 500.

Except this time,

Earnhardt won.

And nobody had time to say, "He's coming."

He came. He went.

He won.

The seven-time Winston Cup champion was 18th with four laps to go. He was an also-ran, a byproduct of the race. He was nowhere in the picture:

Three laps later, Earnhardt was the picture. Five minutes later, he was in victory lane and had amazed even himself by what just had transpired.

"I don't know how I won it, honestly," said Earnhardt, who won for the 10th time at Talladega and the second time this season. "With 10 to go, I think we were 22nd or something. We had moved up and got pushed back again, I was up and down there between 10 and 15 to go. To be 18th or wherever we were with five to go is pretty

It is also impressive that somehow, some way, Earnhardt is still in the Winston Cup championship hunt, seeking that unprecedented eighth title. His victory Sunday - the 76th of his stellar career - brought him to within 210 points of leader Bobby Labonte with four races to go. With Sunday's win, Earnhardt gained 48 points on Labonte.

But Labonte can clinch the championship by finishing 10th or better in each of the final four races of the season regardless of how Earnhardt finishes. If last season is any indication of how the last four races will go, however, it doesn't bode well for Earnhardt, Labonte's average finish last year in the final four race was an impressive

Then again, Earnhardt wasn't in a championship battle at this time last year.

2.25. Earnhardt's was 17.0.

'You've got to gain every race like that, and if we can gain 50 or so every race down to the last race, it'd make it a heck of a race at Atlanta," Earnhardt said, 'Charlotte was a good race for us, but we should have finished better than we did there. Dover was a good race for us, but we should have finished better there and did-"We've got to start having the luck like we did at Talladega, and capitalize our good finishes and beat Bobby.

The last few weeks has seen some major shuffling around of Labonte's nearest. competitors. Earnhardt, Dale Jarrett and Jeff Burton each have taken their shots at second only to be denied time and again. Jarrett's hopes were squashed last week at Charlotte when he finished 40th while Labonte won the

So while all facts and figures point to Labonte winning his first championship, Earnhardt - the 49-year-old driver who began his fulltime Winston Cup career in 1979 - is still looming in the shadows. And while he realizes he'll need some help to win the title, he also knows he's still in the hunt.

"Hopefully Bobby finishes further back than us. Earnhardt said of the final four races in Rockingham. Phoenix, Homestead and Atlanta, "If it gets down to two or three races to go and he's still got 100 or 150 points on us, it's going to be tough to beat him. If we can get it down to 150 or less with a couple of races to go, I think we've got a shot at putting the pressure on. Anything can happen." And if Earnhardt can from 18th to first in four adrenaline-filled laps of fivewide racing on the highbanks of Talladega, what's a mere 210 points in four races?

Again ... for the third time was going to write the column about Dale Earnhardt and all the drivers who let him pass them at Talladega.

Instead, I'm writing about death for the third time this year.

I am sending my condolences to the family and friends of Tony Roper, who was killed during the truck race at Texas Motor Speedway.

Three series Three tragedies.

Forget the fact that NASCAR is the fastest-growing sport in the country. All the victories and all the celebrations cannot clear away the dark cloud that has anchored itself over the sport.

Will there be more deaths? A couple of years ago, I would have said no. But I wonder, at the start of next season, if the biggest question in NASCAR will have shifted from "Who will win the championship?" to "Who will be the first to die?"

It hurts to say that. It hurts even more to know it's true.

What can be done about it? I don't know. We all thought restrictor plates were the answer. But spectacular crashes in the past at places such as Talladega reveal that speed isn't necessarily the problem. I thought the overall safety of vehicles needed to improve, but Geoffrey Bodine's ability to drive again this year despite his horrific truck crash at Daytona in the season opener disproves that notion, Some will say, when speaking of Adam Petty and Kenny Irwin and now Tony Roper, that it was simply their time, that they died doing what they loved to do. Those people have hardened hearts. No, wait - those people are idiots. Sports are meant to be fun. It doesn't really matter who wins or loses, unless what's lost is a life.

I understand that these drivers are risking a lot when they get in their cars, but how much more tragic must this sport become? What can be done? I usually have answers for ething. But for these questions, even I'm speechless.

e ends the season with mixed emotions

By HENRY MILLER Track & Speed

THEN Greg Biffle looks back on the 2000 NASCAR Craftsman Truck Series season, memories will fill his mind.

He'll first remember Friday, Oct. 13, the day he clinched the series points championship despite a 25th-place finish in the O'Reilly 400 at Texas Motor Speedway.

Unfortunately for the driver of the No. 50 Grainger Ford owned by Jack Roush, there will be haunting memories as well.

On the same day Biffle removed the stranglehold Jack Sprague and Ron Hornaday had on the championship (they combined to win the past four titles), the truck series was dealt a devastating blow as driver Tony Roper was seriously injured during the race. Roper crashed head-on into the frontstretch wall after bumping with the No. 43 Dodge of Steve Grissom. Roper's truck was hit a second time by Grissom's truck and, after being taken to the infield care center, he was airlifted to the hospital.

Roper, 35, was a second-generation driver of Fair Grove, Mo. He was pronounced dead at 11:55 a.m. Saturday at Parkland Hospital. Officials at the hospital said

Roper suffered a severe neck injury that caused the flow of blood to the brain to stop.

'He was left without any brain function," a spokesman for the hospital said.

It was the first fatality in Texas Motor Speedway's threeyear history, and the second fatality in the six-year history of the Craftsman Truck Series. John Nemechek, brother of Winston Cup driver Joe Nemechek, died from head injuries suffered during a race at Homestead-Miami Speedway in March 1997

When Biffle won the title, he knew only that Roper was in critical condition. The mood in the air was somber, despite the fact that a championship had just been clinched.

Still, Biffle was excited about his first title.

"I was just sitting in a tree stand the other day, thinking about how far along I have come as a driver," Biffle said. "And it's pretty incredible to be sitting here as the champion considering where I was three years ago,

Biffle contended for last year's championship and led the points race heading into the final event. However, even a seventh-place finish in the season-finale at California Speedway wasn't good enough to hold onto first place, and he lost out to Sprague by eight points.

When it comes to memories, Biffle still has those final standings in his mind.

'After the season last year, we sat down and decided that we had to put last year behind us and focus on winning the championship this year," Biffle said.

"We really learned a lot last year, and knew that we were ready to win a championship. [though] it really should have been our second in a row.

Biffle, a 31-year-old native of Vancouver, Wash., and third-

3 and 4: 25 degrees

driver in the Truck Series, will drive a Grainger Ford for Roush next season in the NASCAR Busch Series Grand National Division.

In Brief

In memoriam

We were all saddened to learn of the death of Tony Roper following a crash last week at Texas Motor Speedway.

A Tony Roper Scholarship Fund has been established at Fair Grove (Mo.) High School. Roper, who graduated from the school in 1983, was heavily involved in sports and activities as a student. Anyone who wishes to express their sympathies are encouraged to send a donation to the scholarship fund to:

Being called one of the best restrictorplate drivers' sounds a lot like being called one of the best bumper car drivers in the history of the county fair. It's hard to tell exactly whether you're being complimented or not. The prettiest pig in the pigpen is still a pig. But if you're going to be a hog, you want to be the best hog out there.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 836-5283, Major

Revision #6 In accordance with KRS 350.070, notice is hereby given that Koch Victory, a Division of The C. Reiss Coal Company, P.O. Box 1067, Richlands, VA 24641, has applied for a major revision to an existing underground coal mining and reclaoperation located 0.5 miles south of Alphoretta in Floyd County. The major revision will not add any surface disturbance acreage or underground acreage to the permit area. The proposed major revision area is approximately 0.6 miles east from KY 80's junction with KY 3188 and located immediately east of the Right Fork of Beaver Creek. The latitude is 37°33'02". The longitude is 82°45'46"

The proposed major revision area is located on the Martin USGS 7-1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be affected by the major revision application is owned by Beatrice Turner.

The major revision proposes a postmining land use change from forestland to residential for 1.08 surface acres and will also address the subsidence control plan.

The major revision application has been filed for public inspection at the department Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 2705 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, 41653-1410. Written comments, objections or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director, Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow, U.S. 127 Frankfort, South, Kentucky 40601-4321.

NOTICE OF HEARING

The Floyd County Board of Education will hold a public hearing at the May Valley Elementary School Library on October 30, 2000, at 6:00 p.m. to hear public comments regarding a proposed general fund tax levy of 61.6 cents.

The General Fund tax levied in fiscal year 1999-2000 was 58.9 cents on real property and 59.2 on tangible property and produced $5,150,005. The proposed General Fund tax rate of 61.6 cents on both real and tangible is anticipated to produce $5,512,434. Of this amount $1,232,756 is from new and personal property. The compensating rate for 2000-2001 is 59.3 cents and is expected to pro-

The general areas to which revenue in excess of 1999-2000 revenue is to be allocated on a prorated basis are as follows: Cost of collections, $7,249; Building Fund $22,881; Instruction and Student Support $191,421; Administrative Support $54,089; Plant Operations and Maintenance $49,814; Transportation $30,607; and Building Renovations $6,368.

The General Assembly has required publication of this advertisement and the information contained herein pursuant to KRS 160.470 (10) (b).

MCCC Focus Groups

Regarding access to care for mental illness and substance abuse

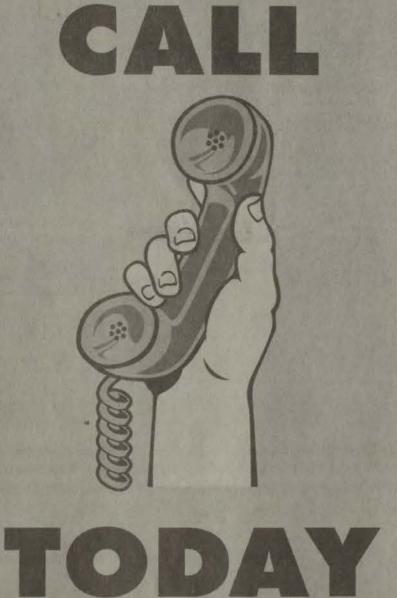

The Mountain Comprehensive Care Center, HB 843 Regional Advisory Council is sponsoring seven focus groups throughout Floyd, Johnson, Magoffin, Martin and Pike counties to provide opportunity for input in a long range planning process for increased access to behavioral health care. These focus groups will be held during the week of October 24-26.

The focus groups are intended to gather information to assist in the assessment of the needs within our area regarding mental illness and substance abuse, to review the current services available and to assess coordination and collaboration among public and private providers of services. The outcome of the focus groups is to gather information, which will strengthen the planning strategy to increase access for community based treatment programs and effective medications, to promote support groups and to reduce criminalizations of the men-

The focus groups will be from 11:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m. at seven locations. Lunch will be provided for those who call ahead for reservation. If you plan to attend please call the contact number for the location closest to you to reserve your lunch.

he Phantom the Opry

The Kentucky Opry and the Kentucky Opry Junior Pros are up to their old tricks. The performers are staging their annual "Phantom of the Opry" on Friday, October 27, at 7:30 p.m. at the Mountain Arts Center.

If the kiddies get by the frightening decorations in the lobby, they can take part in a costume contest and coloring contest, and they can bob for apples and get their faces painted.

The Opry stars will be howling at the "Boo Moon of Kentucky," and Munroe, no doubt, will tickle some funny bones and scare up some ghosts.

Small children in a Halloween costume are admitted free, when accompanied by a paid adult. General admission is $12 for adults, and $10 for seniors and youngsters. A family package is $30 for a family of four. Special rates are available for groups of 20 or more.

For reservations, call toll-free 1-888-MAC-ARTS, or locally 886-2623.

The Terror of the Theatre

A spine-tingling tour of the depths of the theatre with the undead is planned at Jenny Wiley Theatre on Friday and Saturday, October 27 and 28.

"One visit and grown men will run screaming like little girls," said one experienced viewer.

The guided tour through the underworld will begin at 8 p.m. each evening. Tours will end by 11 p.m.

Tickets are $5 at the box office on the day of the tour. Concessions will be available.

Warning: Children under 8 will not be admitted without adult supervision.

Ashland museum presents sand artistry from Tibet

Under the sponsorship of Artists in Concert, Tibetan Buddhist monks from Drepung Loseling Monastery will construct a mandala sand painting during a four-day residency at the Highlands Museum and Discovery Center October 31-November 3.

This residency will culminate in a musical presentation of multiphonic singers at the Paramount Arts Center in Ashland, on November 3, at 7:30 p.m.

The mandala sand painting begins with a opening ceremony, October 31, at noon at the museum, during which the lamas consecrate the site and call forth the forces of goodness. This is done by means of chanting, music and mantra recita-

The lamas begin the exhibit by drawing an outline of the mandala on a wooden platform. On the following days, they lay the colored sands. Each monk holds a traditional metal funnel called a chak-pur while running a metal rod on its grated surface. The vibration causes the sands to flow like liquid.

From all of the artistic traditions of Tantric Buddhism, that of painting with colored sand ranks as one of the most unique and exquisite. Millions of grains of sand are painstakingly laid into place on a flat platform over a period of days to form the image of a manadala.

The subject of a Tibetan sand panting is known in Sanskirt as a mandala, or cosmogram, of which there are many types. In general all mandalas have outer, inner and secret meanings.

On the outer level they represent the world in its divine form; on the inner level they represent a map by which the ordinary human mind is transformed into enlightened mind; and on the secret level they depict the primordially perfect balance of the subtle energies of the body and the clear light dimension of the mind. The creation of a sand painting is said to affect a purification and healing on these three levels.

Every tantric system has its own mandala, and thus each one symbolizes a particular spiritual approach. For example, one may symbolize compassion, one wisdom and yet another may emphasize the need for courage and strength in the quest for sacred knowledge.

Most sand manalas are destroyed shortly after their completion. This is done as a metaphor of the impermanence of life. The sands are swept up and placed in an urn; to fulfill the function of healing, half is distributed to the audience at the closing ceremony, while the remainder is carried to a nearby body of water, where it is deposited. The waters then carry the healing blessing to the ocean, and from there it spread throughout the world for planetary healing.

This closing ceremony will be atnoon on November 3, at the museum, and the monks will process to the Ashland Fifteenth Street Riverfront boat ramp to deposit the Public museum hours for viewing the sand painting will be: Tuesday, October 31, noon (opening ceremony)-5 p.m.; Wednesday, November 1: 9 a.m.-4 p.m.; Thursday, November 2: 9 a.m.-4 p.m.; Friday, November 3: 9 a.m.noon (closing ceremony).

Museum admission is $3 for adults; $2 students, senior citizen and children, members and children under 2, free. For more information call the office at 606/329-8888. For tickets to Friday night's 7:30 p.m. performance, phone 606/325-1132.

Nature on KET follows Julia Roberts' encounters with nomadic herdsmen

From her roles in "My Best Friend's Wedding" and "Notting Hill" to "Runaway Bride," the glamorous characters Julia Roberts typically portrays seem the type of women unlikely to fare well without running water, heat-and nearby shopping.

The actress, however, jumped at the opportunity to forgo these modern "necessities" in search of adven-

Airing Sunday, October 22, at 8 p.m. on KET and Wednesday, October 25, at 8 p.m. on KET2, Nature "Wild Horses of Mongolia with Julia Roberts" follows Roberts as she travels halfway around the world to explore the fascinating culture of Mongolia's nomadic herdsmen.

Mongolia is home to the only true wild horses known to exist, and the Mongolian people depend on them absolutely. From the fermented mare's milk that is a primary food staple, to transportation and the races that are central to the nation's culture and religious festivals, the horse has been an integral part of the Mongolian culture for millennia.

Roberts, who shares the Mongolian people's passion for horses, spent several weeks living with a nomadic family on the steppes of central Asia. Before arriving at her destination—the family's one-room, transportable "ger"-Roberts wonders, "What will they make of me-a girl from New York?"

The question proves difficult to answer at first, as Roberts and her hosts cannot communicate beyond smiles and universal gestures. Gradually, however, Roberts bonds with her host family. When the time comes to leave, Roberts is offered a horse by her hosts, their ultimate sign of acceptance.

Launching Nature's 19th season, the program continues the series' "recent focus on the always fascinating relationship between wildlife and people," says executive producer Fred Kaufman. "Ms. Roberts' experiences...provide a compelling glimpse of a society whose culture and economy are bound to one of the most historically significant animals on Earth."

Nature "Wild Horses of Mongolia with Julia Roberts," produced by Tigress Productions and WNET/New York, is closed captioned for the deaf and hard-of-hearing.

Hurley to appear at Renfro Valley

Either Carl Hurley knows the funniest people in the world or he has the world's greatest imagina-

His delivery is so sincere and his tales so cleverly woven that audiences are never quite sure whether his aunts, uncles, cousins and friends are truly prone to such hilarious misadventures and misunderstandings or if Carl just makes them seem so. Either way, when Carl Hurley takes center stage and begins to tell his tales, audiences are in for a banquet of belly laughs.

Recognized as the only honorary member of the Renfro Valley Barn Dance family. Hurley joins his friends in the Valley for the seventh straight year for performances on November 2, 3 and 4,

This one-time college professor turned comedian and humorist draws from his roots in the tradition of other American humorists such as Andy Griffith and Garrison Keillor. He always delights his audiences with reflections on life as viewed by a native of Appalachia, with a singular sense of the Hurley's comedy style, coupled with his background in public education, earned him the title Funniest "America's Professor." He explains: "I try to encourage people to look for the humor in life, to take life seriously-but not too seriously."

Coming from a family of natural-born storytellers from the rural community of East Bernstadt, Hurley combines his innate skills as a yarn-spinner with the expressiveness of a great comic actor. With an impish giggle and a twinkle in his eye, he spreads an infectious form of fun that is often outrageous, but always goodnatured

Hurley will appear in Renfro Valley's New Barn Theate for three shows: Thursday, November 2, Friday, November 3 and Saturday, November 4, at 7 p.m. Opening for him each night will be Dale Ann Bradley and Coon Creek, a tions and information.

Hair today, wrong tomorrow

One evening this week, my hairdresser, Pam Fraley, and I found ourselves in a deep philosophical discussion about life. In the time that she washed, cut, and styled my hair and manicured my nails, we had discussed everything from the Rapture to the water problems in Lawrence and Martin counties. (In case you hadn't heard, their water has been contaminated by sludge from some coal mines.)

"I can't stand to be without water," I told Pam.

"I know what you mean!" she exclaimed. "I can't even run the vacuum without water."

"It's funny you said that," I told her, "but it seems that if you don't have water everything else is dirty. I can do without electricity and heat, but not water. And I don't even drink the stuff!"

"It's not especially good for my business either," Pam laughed, "Not many customers come in wanting me to 'dry' wash their hair. I'm just rendered helpless when the water is off. I don't know how those people are going to stand it. I mean, the restaurants have to close and it hurts other businesses."

"I'm just glad we're not in that mess," I continued. "I've grown accustomed to the sound of flushing toilets and I'd miss if it were gone."

Obviously I wasn't as interesting a conversationalist as I thought because while Pam did my nails and talked, she also played "Jeopardy." Pam, a professed trivia buff, plays the game extremely well. So as she filed and buffed, she would quickly interject an answer to a question—and more often than not her response was correct.

"You're really good at this game, Pam," I stated.

"Sara," she proceeded without looking up, "you should have been here a couple of weeks ago. I was doing a manicure and I kept answering every question that was asked. My client was really impressed, and I was starting to feel my oats myself. It was amazing! When they got to the final question, I answered it almost before it was posted on the screen. And I got it right!

"I could have won thousands!"
"You should try and get on the show, Pam," I encouraged her.

"Not so fast, Sara," she cautioned. "When I finally looked up and saw Alex Trebek shaking hands with the contestants, I nearly fainted. The oldest one couldn't have been older than eight. I don't even think it was a college team. It was a high school or middle school tournament, I think."

"Ah, Pam," I assured her.
"Don't worry about it. I'm sure the questions were difficult even if they weren't as difficult as they usually are."

"Don't patronize me, Sara," Pam continued. "After I thought about it a minute, I remembered wondering why they had asked if Mickey and Minnie Mouse were married. That's not a very intricate question."

"Well, I think it's a valid question," I answered. "And a very interesting one at that. I don't think I ever knew if they were married. Did you know the answer?"

"I can't remember," she sighed. "I had to get up to measure out some color, and I forgot."

"Think about it, Pam? I don't remember a wedding between the two of them.

"And, to the best of my knowledge, they didn't have children, I mean, little mice."

"No," Pam blustered, "but they sure went on a lot of pienics! When I was reading those books to Jill and Trenton, it seems like all those mice ever did was picnic."

I had to laugh because Pam was right. Minnie was always cooking up a bunch of food and stuffing it into a picnic basket. But I never thought much about it since Goofy and Pluto were usually tagging along, and they always got into one of those crazy predicaments and ended up never eating what she'd fixed. Strange how you remember things like that when you're older, but when you're younger you never question it.

"Pam, I don't think they were married," I answered. "I think they were just two rodents in love."

And, speaking of love, when I got home, I had received an e-mail from the infamous Susan Stauter of San Francisco fame, and it made me think that kids probably think a lot more about love than we do. So to continue in my deep, philosophical vein, here is a partial list of observations made by 4 to 8 year olds about love:

"When someone loves you, the way they say your name is different. You know that your name is safe in their mouth."

"Love is that first feeling you get before all the bad stuff gets in the way."

"Love is when a girl puts on perfume and a boy puts on shaving cologne and they go out and smell each other."

"Love is when you tell a guy you like his shirt, and he wears it every day."

"Love is when your mommy sees your daddy on the toilet and she doesn't think it's gross."

And, my personal favorite, because I said it one time to my mother after I saw her and my daddy kiss each other, "Love is when you kiss all the time.

"Then when you get tired of kissing, you still want to be together and you talk more. My Mommy and Daddy are like that. They look gross when they kiss."

You can learn a lot from a haircut and a manicure.

NEWS OF THE WEIRD

by CHUCK SHEPHERD

Legitimate Chinese cricket-fight promoters once again staged their national championship matches in Beijing in October despite fears from their ranks that illegal gambling was ruining their "sport" that has endured for 1,000 years, according to a New York Times dispatch. Thousands of men descend on farmers in Shandong province each summer, seeking crickets of the proper physique and character to endure rough matches inside 8-inch-wide plastic containers. Matches end when one contestant tries to flee or gets tossed around hopelessly by the other.

The University of Surrey (Guildford, England) announced in October that it was adding to its curriculum in service-sector management by appointing a professor of airline food. A Surrey official said the school intended to beef up its graduate and undergraduate course offerings in in-flight catering and told The Guardian newspaper that the professor would be appointed from either the field of gastronomy (how food is served) or the field of food science (concentrating, for example, on freshness).

Oops!

Newcastle, England, body piercer Lorna Larson accidentally hit a vein while working on the tongue of Gemma Danielson, 18, in July and by the time Danielson got to the hospital, she had lost four pints of blood. Said Danielson, "(Doctors) said they had never seen anything like it." Larson said she was mortified: "That's the last tongue I

Joseph Pileggi, 69, filed a lawsuit in Akron, Ohio, in July seeking money damages over his 1997 marriage to Carli Buchanan, 61. He claims he intended to marry not Buchanan, but his long-time girl-friend, who is Buchanan's mother, Ducile Palermo, 83. He claimed that he did not realize until May 1999 that the "wrong" woman's name was on the license (despite Buchanan's insistence that Pileggi consummated the marriage with her on the wedding night).

Latest Highway Truck Spills: 26 alligator carcasses, weighing nearly 5 tons (headed for a processing plant near Fort Lauderdale, Florida, October); U.S. Army Multiple Launch rockets (from a military truck, adjacent to an elementary school near Hugo, Oklahoma, August); and a load of completed Advanced Placement tests (being taken from a New York City testing center to Educational Testing Service in New Jersey, of which 84 were never recovered, thus hindering those students' college careers, May).

ADVENTURES IN IGNORANCE

In August, Davidson, North Carolina, police officer Scott Searcy asked to search a woman's car for drugs, giving as his legally required basis ("reasonable suspicion") solely the fact that on the front seat was a copy of the weekly newspaper Creative Loafing, whose cover story on local drug enforcement was illustrated by a photo of a marijuana plant. Said Assistant Chief Butch Parker, "(Searcy) thinks he had reasonable suspicion, and we do, too." (The woman consented to the search, and nothing illegal was found.)

In July, Rev. Nelson W. Koscheski, a delegate from Dallas to the national Episcopal convention in Denver, was seen scattering salt under the tables of openly gay and lesbian delegates. According to some authorities, tossing the salt is a symbolic gesture to rid the premises of Satan.

After some participants expressed their outrage, Rev. Koscheski resigned as a delegate.

Lisa Alger of Roy, Washington, had to take her claim all the way to state judge Paul Treyz in June, but she finally got a dis-

Big Bone Lick hosts Salt Festival

Big Bone Lick State Park in Boone County hosts its 14th annual Salt Festival October 20-22.

Why a festival to salt? The park owes its reputation as the birthplace of North American vertebrate paleontology to its salt springs. Prehistoric animals, such as woolly mammoths, trekked to the springs to draw sustenance.

Many became stuck in the boggy ground and died. Their bones were discovered thousands of years later, first by Native Americans, then by European explorers.

Reports by pioneers of the rich deposit of bones at Big Bone Lick intrigued President Thomas Jefferson, who ordered an expedition to the area. Jefferson, along with fellow scientists such as Benjamin Franklin, was confounded by the appearance of the bones brought back from the expedition. Only later did scientists come to understand that they were the remains of extinct species, such as giant sloths, woolly mammoths and mastodons. From the discoveries at Big Bone Lick, the study of prehistoric mammals in North America was born.

A feature of this year's festival is guided trail walks that show off a new diorama featuring life-size models of prehistoric animals. Visitors also may view the salt springs that still flow today. The event also includes traditional music and dances.

An added attraction is a Native American pow wow presented by Shadow of the Buffalo. Pow wow activities will include story telling, flute playing and dance demonstrations.

The festival runs from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free. For more information, call the park at 859/384-3522.

missal of one of the municipal citations against her for housing an unlicensed cat named "Patches." Reason: "Patches" is a stuffed animal. (The local Humane Society monitors for violations of licensing law by knocking on doors and asking kids the names of their pets, so it can check license lists. When Alger's 7-yearold son mentioned the highly regarded "Patcnes," and the Humane Society found no license for it, it wrote Alger up without investigating.)

PAYBACK

Jail guards employed by the Nova Scotia government had their "privilege" of being able to eat free in the inmates' dining room taken away in July because of budget cuts and must now pay $2.50 to get their prison meal. And Brazilian multimillionaire Jair Coelho, 68, was arrested in August and locked up before trial; he had made a fortune on the country's jail contracts, supplying nearly inedible food, but the government proved that he got the contracts through bribery, and thus he must now eat his own food.

THE ONLY WAY OUT

In August, a 20-year-old man who worked at a landscaping business in Phoenix proposed to his girlfriend (she accepted), took her to the worksite, turned on a woodchipper, climbed in, and tried to pull her in, too. He was killed, but she escaped. Also in August, the style and etiquette columnist for The Times of London was found dead, clad only in a shirt, beneath his fourth-floor apartment window, but colleagues said the suicide scenario was too tacky for the man. Said one friend, "(H)e'd have wanted to be really dressed appropriately." Said the coroner, "It would be likely that he would write a letter to explain, and no doubt on the Smythson's notepaper that was found in the (apartment).

ALSO, IN THE LAST MONTH ...

The new head of a Hudson River environmental organization, on a well-publicized maiden kayaking voyage around New York City, discovered a floating corpse. A Zambian man was granted a divorce after testimony that his wife routinely locked him in the bedroom at night to stop his philandering (Lusaka, Zambia). Police said two burglary suspects, left alone briefly in a stationhouse storage/interview room, stole some Twizzlers and the change from the coffee fund box office (Albuquerque). Police-dog trainee Ben, let out of a squad car on a rural road to relieve himself, picked up the scent of a nearby, 125-plant marijuana field (Perkins Township, Maine).

Frontline on KET investigates today's army and the future of war and military readiness

Last year, Gen. Eric Shinseki became the U.S. Army's 34th Chief of Staff. The first Asian American to wear four stars, Shinseki surprised many with his bold plan to remake the nation's largest military force.

Yet even as he attempts to prepare America's soldiers for tomorrow's wars, the general's toughest battle may be the one occuring on the home front, as he tries to convince Congress, the Pentagon and some of his own generals to stop fighting the wars of the past and embrace a new military future.

Through interviews with America's top military leaders, policy analysts and the presidential candidates' defense advisors-including vice-presidential nominees Dick Cheney and Sen. Joseph Lieberman-Frontline examines the battle to reinvent the U.S. Army. "The Future of War" airs Tuesday, October 24, at 10 p.m. on KET.

Frontline producers Michael Chandler and William Kistner were granted exclusive access to major army exercises, including the highly secret strategic war games of the Army War College.

"The Army has begun to ask itself some tough questions, and tury war. However, not everyso should we," Chandler says. "The question is not, 'Are we ready?' but 'Ready for what?' 'Who is the enemy?' 'And what is America's global responsibility in a post-Cold War world?"

In his first interview with a national television news program, Gen. Schinseki describes his vision for the new army. Chief among the challenges before him, he says, is a 21stcentury army still training and arming itself to fight a 20th-cenone agrees with the general's vision for the future of our mili-

CRITTERS CORNER

by CAROL COMBS-MORRIS, DVM

When I left my narrative last week concerning our adventures at the Apple Festival, Pat and I had finally managed to get the tent set up for the Eastern Kentucky Kennel Club's information booth and were headed home. The entire trip consisted of a lecture concerning what Pat dubbed my "harebrained ideas" and my tendency to volunteer us for projects that never seemed to run smoothly.

We set out the next morning, somewhat late, with our Dalmatian, Destiny, in tow. She was wearing the little green vest that I made her, with "Eastern Kentucky Kennel Club" written on both sides. Desi is a typically hyper Dalmatian, but she loves kids, and we knew she would draw attention to our booth.

Once we found a parking space, it took us a while to get to our booth. I walk slowly since I slipped a disc this spring, but Destiny was wired for sound; we had to put on her Gentle Leader halter to allow me to lead her without pulling me off balance. Pat was carrying two folding chairs and a 1x12' board we had forgotten the previous day.

Now we were stopping every few feet, not only to allow children to pet the dog, but to explain to their nervous parents that Destiny is not left. Before the day vicious, and that she was not wearing a muzzle of some sort. We also had to stop for a quick doggie clean-up, appropriately enough, right in front of the porta-potties. (We never take a dog out in public without carrying along paper towels and plastic bags.)

As we rounded the last corner, I asked Pat to see if the tent was still up; I was afraid to look

"Hey, actually it is standing-sort of," he replied.

That was surprising, but we soon learned that it was only because Barbara Dunn had arrived earlier (the same time we were supposed to be there), and had already shored it up three times. This was not easy, since she had also brought her dog. Shadow, along. Thanks to a couple of strangers who volunteered to help her with the dog and the poles, they had reerected the collapsed tarp. She had been struggling with it ever since, and the wind was picking

> Later on, a couple of city police came over and told us the tent had fallen several times the night before, but was standing when they

was over, we had come to covet the canopy set up next to us. which never seemed to waver no matter how gusty the breeze became. I heard summarized version of the previous night's lecture from Pat.

On the bright side, Destiny and Shadow had become fast friends, the threat of rain seemed to be diminishing, and people were starting to drop by the booth. The dogs took turns wearing the EKKC vest, while Barb and Pat strolled them through the crowds. Soon, kids were pulling their parents to the booth to meet the dogs and look at the displays. The grown-ups were sticking around to look over the available literature and ask questions.

We answered inquiries about everything from registration procedures to breed-related health problems to showing dogs: Luckily, the AKC sent enough literature so we could at least point people in the direction of finding answers when we didn't know something.

At least once, I saw Barbara doing an impromptu obedience demonstration with Shadow. When he wasn't walking Destiny around or introducing her to throngs of children, Pat was usually moving the cement blocks to keep the tent ropes

Saturday morning we arrived to find the tent once again flat as a pancake, and since rain was no longer forecast, we took the thing down for good. We noted that the canopy for the hairpinning booth next door was as solid as ever. Our cement blocks were now holding down the display boards that kept blowing over.

Trish Osborne had come to help out that day, and her years of experience managing the literature table at dog shows were obvious. The fact that she had come without a dog probably helped, since she could use both hands to arrange pamphlets.

Another EKKC member, Fairchild showed up with her champion St. Bernard, Alex, who stole the show and give Destiny some needed rest from her admirers. He posed for pictures with kids, adults, and even the D.A.R.E. bear; he apparently regarded the event as some sort of odd dog show and took it all in stride.

The weekend as a whole was a success. I think, and I'll use some of the questions we were asked as material for future columns, Shadow, Alex and Destiny definitely enjoyed the experience as much, or more than we did.

Even Pat had mellowed a little by Saturday evening. That night's lecture concerned the necessity of the club purchasing a canopy for next year.
