Group seeking to combat drug abuse among children

by MARY MUSIC
 STAFF WRITER

MILLARD — You'll find ample stories and information in the media about recent drug problems with adults throughout the Eastern Kentucky. You'll hear about arrests, drug busts, marijuana growing operations and traffic-related incidents or arrests involving drugs and/or alcohol.

What you won't find in those stories, however, is a description of how these problems are affecting the youth in our area. What you don't read, hear or see in the media is what it means to those children to see their parents or other members of their family suffer through the adverse affects of drug or alcohol addictions, and how those addictions form a "pattern" of addiction that those children often take on themselves.

This is something Karen Conn, assistant principal and part-time counselor of Millard High School in Pike County, says area citizens need to be aware of. It is something she says Millard High School has decided to do something about, and something she, with the help of other concerned citizens in the area, is working to defeat.

Conn, who has worked in the educational field in both Floyd and Pike counties for several years, says her experience as an educator has broadened her view on drug abuse in local school systems.

"Young people are becoming involved with drugs as early as the sixth grade," said Conn. "Some children even start using tobacco as early as the third grade.... This occurs to all types of children, regardless of all social-economic barriers, all academic abilities, and all the different personalities types displayed by these children. You can't 'group' which children are using and which are not."

Conn says she has counseled children who steal pills like Soma, Xanax or Lortab from their parents, or children who actually sell the drugs for their parents. According to Conn, these drugs, LOUISA — A lawsuit filed May 21 in U.S. District Court in Ashland claims neglect and repeated violations on behalf of the Louisa Water and Sewer Commission. The commission, however, says those claims are unfounded.

Now a federal judge will decide whether the case will proceed or be dismissed, following a motion by the city of Louisa to throw out the case.

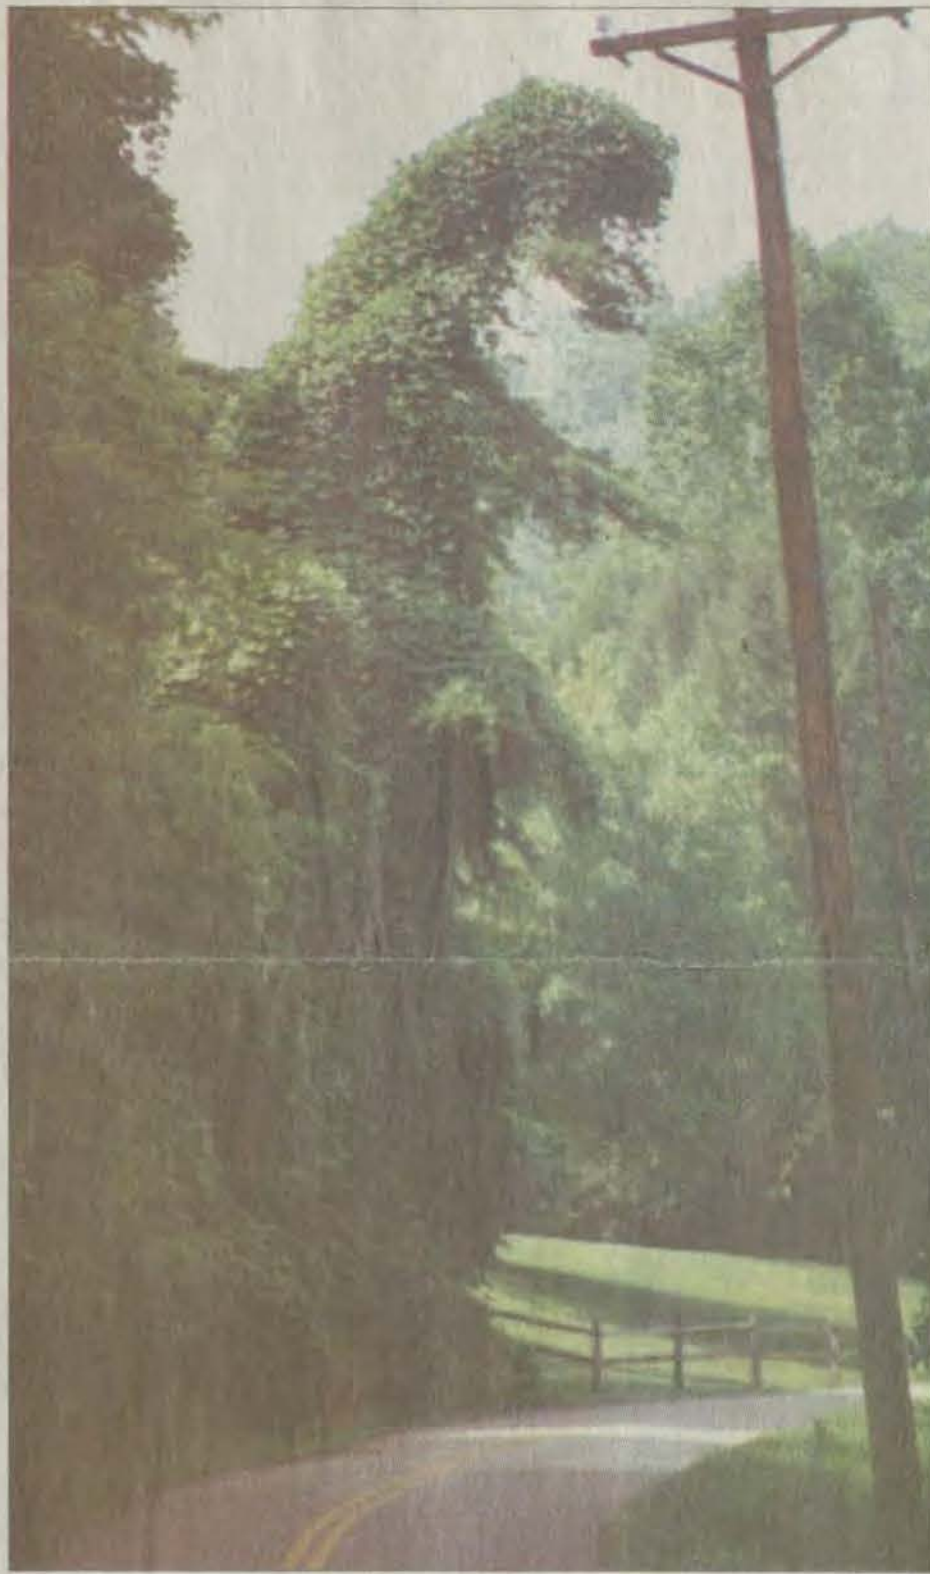

The lawsuit, filed by Carolyn Smith Pravlik, attorney for the American Canoe Association and the Sierra Club, says that the Louisa Water and Sewer Commission has violated state EPA requirements on numerous occasions and seeks a declaratory judgment against them.

According to the claim, the Louisa Water and Sewer Commission exceeded the discharge limitations of their permit at least 405 times during a 50-month period, violated their monitoring requirements of their permit at least 93 times, and violated reporting requirements of their permit at least 12 times, resulting in a total of at least 6,600 days of permit violations.

The ACA and Sierra Club also believe the commission violated its permit on additional occasions prior to, during and subsequent to the period of these violations.

Pravlik says the ACA and Sierra Club are seeking judgment on behalf of the two groups asking that the Louisa Water and Sewer Treatment Commission be prevented from oper-

East Ky. test scores mix of good and bad

by RALPH B. DAVIS
 MANAGING EDITOR

Test scores released this week paint a picture of disparity across Eastern Kentucky, with more negative than positive.

While there were bright spots to see in the latest results from the Comprehensive Test of Basic skills taken in the spring, including one school district boasting a number one ranking in one category, many Appalachian school districts could be found huddled near the bottom, making up a significant portion of the bottom 10 percent.

Overall, as has been the trend statewide, third-graders were far and away in better shape than students in higher grades. Of 16 school districts compared, most third-grade classes scored over the national average in each subject.

The gap between Eastern Kentucky schools begins grows wider among sixth-grade students, as fewer districts placed above state and national averages. Results are still worse for ninth-graders.

Third-grade results

Among primary students, Paintsville Independent showed the best results overall, scoring in the 74th percentile and ranking 12th out of 176 districts in the state reporting results.

Other districts scoring above the state average included Jackson Independent, ranked at 22; Johnson County, 32; Pikeville Independent, 53; Hazard Independent, 63; Perry County, 88; and Pike County, 95.

Six more school districts, while under the state average, performed at or above the national average. They include Lawrence County, ranked at 108; Breathitt County, 115; Letcher County, 136; Floyd County, 137; Leslie County, 145; and Jenkins Independent, 152.

Three school districts fared worse, falling not only under the state and national averages, but also in the bottom 10 percent of school districts statewide. They were Magoffin County, ranked at 161, and Knott and Martin counties, which tied to rank at 164.

Third-graders at Meade Memorial in Johnson County had the best overall test score among Eastern Kentucky schools, ranking seventh in the state. Other schools finishing in the top 10 percent of the test included Kimper Elementary in Pike County, which ranked 23rd of the state's 763 third-grade classes; Central Elementary in Johnson County, 29; George F. Johnson Elementary in Pike County, 40; Johns Creek Elementary in

State turns down request for relief

by SHELDON COMPTON
 STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — Floyd County Property Valuation Administrator Connie Hancock's request for tax relief for flood victims was recently turned down by the state Revenue Cabinet.

Hancock took to the field the Monday following the devastating flash flooding earlier this month with cabinet member Dennis Miller to show him "firsthand" the effects of the flooding and to meet some of the families who suffered as a result.

According to Hancock, Miller reported back the damages to the cabinet but the decision was based on the tax calendar, rather than the extent of damages caused by the flood.

Hancock said Friday she was notified by phone by the Revenue Cabinet that the tax break would not be assessed for 2001 tax

Elliott leaves Legal Services after 11 years

by RENEE M. SNOWDEN
 BREATHITT COUNTY BUREAU

JACKSON — Cynthia Elliott, who is originally from Detroit, Mich., but who has been a citizen of Breathitt County for the past 11 years, is leaving legal services.

Elliott's last day at the Jackson office of the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky (Legal Services) will be September 1. She will be moving on to work in Frankfort as a supervising attorney with the Kentucky Department of Public Advocacy.

Elliott will be a team leader of the unit that represents disabled children who have claims of discrimination. This will begin around the second week of September.

Elliott said she feels she is doing the right thing.

"I personally feel like I'm answering God's call," said Elliott. "I also feel that this is were my focus is."

Elliott has a bachelor's degree in jour-

1,500 pot plants found in Breathitt

by RENEE M. SNOWDEN
 BREATHITT COUNTY BUREAU

UPPER BUCKHORN — On August 8, the Breathitt County Sheriff's Department and the Kentucky State Police Marijuana Task Force executed a search warrant for a home located at Upper Buckhorn in Breathitt County.

According to police reports, officers went to home after obtaining a search warrant due to prior findings at the site. Also according to the police reports, the Kentucky State Police Marijuana Task Force cut down about 1,500 marijuana plants.

Officers found a metal garage in which they searched and, at first, found nothing. However, officials kept searching and discovered that the garage had a hidden room with a trap door on top of the garage. Once inside the hidden room, the officials found around 80 plants.

According to the police reports, officers confiscated three grow lights, scales, potting soil, a sophisticated timing system, a large quantity of processed marijuana in a freezer, and an undisclosed amount of marijuana.

Kentucky State Police say they are still investigating and no arrests have been made at this time.

Drugs

and others, such as marijuana, are crushed and hidden inside ink pens, sprinkled on a cigarette or even mixed with fruit drinks they bring to school.

"I've spoken to parents who say there is nothing wrong with their kids smoking cigarettes," said Conn. "What they aren't seeing is that the kids can get $1 for a cigarette. If they sell three, they can buy a Soma. If they sell five, they can buy a joint. If they sell seven, they can buy a Lortab. Parents aren't just buying cigarettes for their children, they're buying them drugs."

Conn said she came to her "breaking point" when approached by a teenage girl in her school who had been a "user" for three or four years. The child, she said, came to her for help with her drug problem. Conn said she couldn't give her the help she needed because of the lack of residential treatment facilities in the area. The ones which are available, located in Louisville, Ashland and Hazard, are full to capacity with month-long waiting lists.

Later, said Conn, the girl passed out in the school bathroom and began having a seizure. On the way to the hospital, Conn said she began looking at the problems in her school differently.

She brought her concerns to a principal's meeting shortly after the incident, and began in May working with Dr. Steve Payson, associate dean of affairs with the Osteopathic School of Medicine at Pikeville College, to develop a four-phase program to bring a residential treatment facility to Pike County.

Pike County Board of Education to discuss these issues, and several representatives of various community organizations are expected to attend, including Floyd County Superintendent Dr. Paul Fanning.

"I think it's something that needs to be addressed," said Fanning. "We know we have substance abuse issues in this county and this would be a positive effort to battle that problem."

During a survey done by the Kentucky Incentive for Prevention Program (KIP) from September 15 through October 15, about 5,000 sixth-, eighth-, 10th- and 12th-grade students in Pike and Floyd counties were asked a variety of questions relating to their experience with drugs or alcohol. The surveys were performed anonymously and prove what Conn is concerned about.

Students reported, according to Darley Starns, drug prevention specialist, that 14 percent of all sixth-grade students said they used narcotics at some point in their life. That number only matures as the students get older, said Starns, as 32 percent of all eighth-graders surveyed said the same, as do 42 percent of all 10th-graders and 45 percent of all 12th-grade students.

If those numbers aren't surprising enough, 8 percent of all sixth-graders surveyed also said they used marijuana at some point in their lives, and 57 percent of 10th-graders said the same.

In fact, according to Starns, of all the children mentioned during the survey, numbers are surprisingly scary as to how many are using drugs or alcohol at school.

Four percent of all sixth-grade, 26 percent of all eighth-grade, and 22 percent of all 10th-grade students mentioned in the surveyed said that they frequently get high or drunk while on school premises.

"We would certainly like to see a treatment center in our area where we could send those children that need help," said Starns. "From prevention standpoint, if you treat a child for drug abuse problems, other children are less likely to find use of drugs or alcohol attractive. If you don't treat the child and they continue in their use, it's more likely they're going to get other children involved."

Conn said being able to communicate with children is extremely important when dealing with the drug issue.

"You have to be able to talk to them, know what they're doing, know who their friends are, listen to their stories and problems and even their music," said Conn. "Parents just have to take the time to care about what their children are doing."

"If you, as a parent are asking me to educate your children, improve their test scores, lower the drop out rate and keep your children safe in school," continued Conn, "then you have to help me sober up the kids. That's what it's all about. Who's going to help the kids?"

The public is invited to the organizational meeting, which is scheduled for 6 p.m. on August 23 at the Pike County Board of Education.

Elliott

Elliott has a bachelor's degree in journalism, received her law degree at Wade University in Detroit, and recently completed a 10-week training at Buckhorn. She also is a 1999 graduate of Leadership East Kentucky, a member of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association, the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence, the Kentucky River Regional Planning Council advisory committee, Breathitt County FEMA, and advisory board for the Foundation for a Healthy Kentucky. Elliott was appointed by Gov. Paul Patton to the Supreme Court of Kentucky in 1997.

Elliott has been the only lawyer in the Legal Services office in Jackson for the past several years. She has handled cases from Breathitt, Owsley, Wolfe and Lee Counties.

Score

Independent, 172.

Big Creek sixth-graders in Perry County finished tops among Eastern Kentucky schools in reading and ranked seventh in the state. Beaver Creek Elementary in Knott County was last among Eastern Kentucky and next to last of the state's 472 sixth-grade classes.

The results on the language portion of the test were a little lower than in reading, but Pikeville Independent sixth-graders finished strong by ranking number two in the state. Other districts above the state average were Hazard Independent, 8; Paintsville Independent, 26; Johnson County, 33; and Pike County, 81.

Only one district finished between the state and national averages — Lawrence County, at number 91.

Results for the remaining districts were Breathitt County, 106; Perry County, 114; Letcher County, 129; Leslie County, 136; Floyd County, 146; Magoffin County, 151; Knott County, 158; Martin County, 161; Jackson Independent, 163; and Jenkins Independent, 172. Once again, Martin County and Jackson and Jenkins independent districts all finished in the bottom 10 percent of the state.

Pikeville Elementary sixth-graders led Eastern Kentucky on the CTBS language exam, ranking 10th in the state. Beckham Combs in Knott County not only finished last among Eastern Kentucky schools, but was also last of the state's 472 sixth-grade classes.

Ninth-grade results

High school freshmen in Eastern Kentucky had a more difficult time with the CTBS, producing fewer districts above the state and national averages and more districts in the bottom 10 percent of the state.

The number of districts finishing above the state or national averages on the entire exam was cut to three, all independent districts. They were led by Pikeville, ranked at number four in the state, followed by Hazard, 40, and Paintsville, 55.

The remaining districts were led by Johnson County, which finished at 123rd of the 172 districts taking the ninth-grade exam. Other results included Pike County, ranked at 124; Jackson Independent, 135; Lawrence County, 143; Martin County, 145; Jenkins Independent, 150; and Knott County, 153.

Finishing in the bottom 10 percent statewide were Letcher County, 155; Perry County, 163; Floyd County, 164; Breathitt County, 167; Leslie County, 168; and Magoffin County, 169.

Pikeville High School was the only Eastern Kentucky school to finish in the top 10 percent of the state's 235 schools. Pikeville finished ranked seventh.

Seven Eastern Kentucky schools, however, finished in the bottom 10 percent, including Breathitt County High School, ranked at number 220; Phelps High School in Pike County, 221; Leslie County High School, 225; Magoffin County High School, 226; Letcher High School, 227; Buckhorn High School in Perry County, 228; and Cordia High School in Knott County, 232.

The reading exam placed the most school districts over either the state or national averages, but just as many finished in the bottom 10 percent.

The four schools beating the state average were all independents, beginning with Pikeville, ranked at number five. The others were Paintsville, 51; Hazard, 62; and Jackson, 82.

Lawrence and Pike county ninth-graders tied the national average and each other to rate at number 115.

School districts in the bottom 10 percent included Knott County, 159; Floyd County, 160; Perry County, 164; Breathitt County, 167; Leslie County, 169; and Magoffin County, 170.

Other results were Jenkins, 124; Johnson County, 133; Martin County, 139; and Letcher County, 151.

Pikeville High School led the way for Eastern Kentucky on the reading exam, placing 10th among the state's 235 high schools. Cordia High School in Knott County finished last among Eastern Kentucky schools third-from-last statewide.

Eastern Kentucky saw its only district statewide leader on the language exam, when Pikeville Independent rated first in the state by scoring in the 75th percentile. Only two other districts finished above the national or state averages, Hazard, ranked at 23, and Paintsville, 31.

Six districts placed in the bottom 10 percent of the state, including Letcher County, 162; Floyd and Perry counties, tied at 163; Leslie and Magoffin counties, tied at 166; and Breathitt County, 170.

Other results were Pike County, 96; Johnson County, 105; Lawrence County, 137; Jackson Independent, 146; Jenkins Independent, 148; Martin County, 149; and Knott County, 153.

Pikeville High School once again led Eastern Kentucky on the language exam. But despite finishing first as district, the Pikeville freshmen ranked only third as a school, trailing DuPont Manual and Male high schools in Jefferson County. Meanwhile, Letcher High School was last among Eastern Kentucky schools in language, finishing 232nd out of 235 schools.

The math exam proved to be the most difficult test for Eastern Kentucky ninth-graders to excel in, with only two districts scoring above the state or national averages. Pikeville led the way, ranked eighth, followed by Hazard, 51.

Five districts placed in the bottom 10 percent of the state in math, including Perry County, ranked 159; Floyd County, 161; Breathitt County, 163; Magoffin County, 166; and Leslie County, 168.

Other results in math included Paintsville, 87; Johnson County, 127; Pike County, 137; Martin County, 140; Jackson, 142; Jenkins, 148; and Knott and Letcher counties, tied at 154.

And Pikeville High School made it a clean sweep in leading Eastern Kentucky on the CTBS by finishing first among mountain schools in math and 19th in the state. Cordia High School, meanwhile, finished last among mountain schools, ranking 231st in the state.

Editor's note: The Kentucky Department of Education does not rank and does not endorse ranking school or district test scores. The Floyd County Times calculated school rankings by comparing each school's and district's real scores on each portion of the 2001 CTBS and on the overall test.

Mixed results

Progress in education doesn't always show large gains from year to year. The results from a single round of tests scores in any one year shouldn't be overplayed.

Still, those concerned about education in Kentucky might want to watch closely the scores Kentucky students next earn on the math portion of the National Assessment of Education Progress, or NAEP, as it's called.

The scores earned by the fourth-graders and eighth-graders who took the test last year showed mixed results.

In a state that has put such emphasis and importance on boosting education, mixed results on the test known as "the nation's report card" are not at all what's wanted.

Scores released earlier this month by the U.S. Department of Education show 17 percent of Kentucky fourth-graders who took the national math test last year performed at or above a "proficient" level. That was little improvement over the 16 percent who scored proficient in 1996, the previous year for the test.

Of greater concern, that percentage was significantly below the national average of 25 percent proficiency.

Additionally, 59 percent of Kentucky fourth-graders scored at a level indicating a basic understanding of math, compared with 65 percent nationally.

Kentucky eighth-graders fared better on the test. Twenty-one percent of the eighth-graders - an increase of five percentage points from 1996 - scored at the proficient level, compared with a national rate of 26 percent. Sixty percent scored at the basic level, compared with 64 percent nationally.

Not surprisingly, critics of education reform seized on the fourth-grade test scores to criticize Kentucky's primary education system for failing to teach the basics.

Nobody wants to see Kentucky students lag behind the national average and it's disconcerting when gains in proficiency for fourth-graders are only nominal.

But rather than bash teachers and trash reform, the wiser response would be to use the test scores as a tool to solve problems and address weaknesses. It may be that standards need to be clarified. It may be that curriculum needs to be adjusted. It may be that teachers need more training. It may be that additional instruction or more resources are needed in the classroom for students.

Rather than tear down, better to shore up the problems. Then closely watch the next round of testing and expect and insist on improvement.

What O'Reilly doesn't know

by SHELDON RICHMAN

Bill O'Reilly, populist star of the Fox News Channel's O'Reilly Factor may be the hottest television property around, but he doesn't know beans about how markets work.

The other night he charged the oil companies with conspiring to keep gasoline prices high. He quoted a 1995 Chevron memo stating that refining capacity was too high and profits too low. In much of the 1990s, you'll recall, gasoline prices were historically low, and profits were down. In 1998 I was buying gasoline for 73 cents a gallon in the south. Adjusted for inflation, prices nationwide were lower than in 1950.

Apparently the other oil companies agreed that prices in the mid-1990s were too low to justify the level of production. To O'Reilly and other populists, that is prima facie evidence of collusion to harm consumers. Naturally, he called on the Bush administration to investigate. A populist is someone who believes scarcity is a capitalist plot. He therefore thinks the price system is merely a device controlled by producers to gouge the public. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Scarcity is a fact of nature, and the price system is a communications network for coping with scarcity. Since at any given moment nature forbids us to have everything we want, we must make tradeoffs. If we want more computers, we'll have fewer washing machines. The tricky question is, how can we tell producers what to make? One reason socialism — which abolishes or cripples the price system — fails is that central planners can't make production decisions according to consumers' preferences even if they want to.

Producers make investments on the basis of prices and expected returns. They must pay attention to the prices of the labor, machines, materials and land they need to make their products. If consumers are willing to pay only $2 for an item, no producer can afford to spend $3 on the components needed to make it. That's a recipe for bankruptcy. Consumers are in effect telling producers, "Don't make that item. Make something for which we are willing to pay more than $3."

Profit (the money left over after all expenses are paid) is how consumers indicate to producers what tradeoffs they are willing to make in a world of scarcity. Producers are rewarded for creating value and penalized for destroying it. If a producer can take $3 worth of components and change them into something consumers are willing to pay $4 for, he has created $1 in value. But if he takes those same components and makes something consumers are willing to pay only $2 for, he has destroyed value.

The genius of the market is that, left free, it relentlessly induces people to create value for consumers and ease the conditions of scarcity. Today people generally have more than their parents or grandparents had, even though there has been no increase in the amount of matter available from which to make things.

Let's look at O'Reilly's oil case. If gasoline is selling for, say, $1 a gallon, the oil companies will not — cannot — make investments equivalent to, say, $1.10 a gallon. Intentionally going broke is no way to lower consumer prices.

To maintain or build refineries, the oil companies would have had to hire workers and buy capital goods and materials. But producers of other goods also wanted to hire those workers and buy those things. None of them could afford to pay more for the components than consumers were willing to pay for the final products. A bidding process took place, with the winner being those producers who made the things consumers were willing to pay the most for. In the 1990s the oil companies were outbid because consumers wanted other things produced more than they wanted additional gasoline. Had the oil companies built the refineries anyway, we would have had to do without those other things.

Thus the implication of O'Reilly's diatribe is not only that the oil companies should have produced more gasoline than we consumers wanted, but that other companies should have produced less of the things we did want.

That's typical for a populist. Posing as a man of the people, he actually seeks to substitute his preferences for ours.

Wrongful death suit filed in jail suicide

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

PAINTSVILLE — The Big Sandy Detention Center in Paintsville may find itself haunted by a death occurring there after a complaint filed on August 3 in U.S. District Court in Pikeville.

The lawsuit was filed by Lexington attorney Edward Dove on behalf of Marquetta Allen, the wife of former Big Sandy Regional Detention Center inmate Shawn Rittenhouse. It asks that the Johnson County facility, along with then administrator Ken O'Bryan, be held accountable for her husband's death August 18, 2000.

The 30-year-old Rittenhouse, who was the father of Allen's four children, was found dead on the morning of August 18 hanging in his cell with a blanket around his neck in what officials ruled a suicide after initial investigations.

Rittenhouse was being held at the prison after being arrested on August 14 of last year on non-payment offenses, and according to the complaint, on August 17, was escorted by Corporal Aaron Fairchild, an employee of the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center, to appear in Johnson County District Court to answer those charges.

While in court, Rittenhouse made clear to the court and Corporal Fairchild that he "feared for his life" within the prison and requested to be moved, the complaint said.

According to the complaint, the request concerned Fairchild to the degree that he kept Rittenhouse at the Johnson County Courthouse so he could speak with Kentucky State Police Trooper Billy Hall and Chief Deputy Russell Preston about Rittenhouse's threats of bodily harm.

Fairchild was told to return Rittenhouse to the detention center, the complaint says.

Allen maintains in her suit that Rittenhouse explained to Fairchild at this time that if he were returned to the detention center he would be "raped" and that he was "going to hang himself."

The complaint alleges that Fairchild then went to the jail administrator Ken O' Bryan and informed him that Rittenhouse had threatened suicide, stating Rittenhouse was placed in a cell at the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center after this meeting and was consequently found dead the following morning.

The suit contends that having Rittenhouse placed in his cell even after the his request for removal and complaints of bodily harm resulted in his being deprived of his Fourth, Eighth and Fourteenth Amendment rights. The complaint states Rittenhouse had the Fourth Amendment right to be "free from unreasonable searches and seizures" as well as Fourteenth Amendment rights of an "expectation of minimal standards for the physical condition of the jail facilities with respect to for safety, health, well being and security" and an interest to "freedom from the deprivation of life without due process of law". The suit also cites an alleged violation of Rittenhouse's Eighth Amendment right to "be free from cruel and unusual punishment and adequate medical and supervisory care" while an inmate at the detention center.

"As a direct and proximate cause and consequence of [The Big Sandy Detention Center's] conduct resulting in a denial of [Rittenhouse's] constitutional rights," the suit claims. "[Rittenhouse] suffered the injury when he committed suicide in his cell on August 18, 2000."

A second point brought before the court within the complaint was that of negligence.

The suit claimed negligence became a factor when, despite Rittenhouse's warnings that he would "suffer harm" and commit suicide" if placed within the detention center, the jail, under

Division of Forestry firefighters go west

Kentucky Division of Forestry firefighters are preparing to travel to assist with fires in the western United States.

Forty division firefighters, some full-time, and some part-time, gathered in London, recently to join additional crews sent from the U.S. Forest Service (about 40 additional firefighters). They will travel to Knoxville, where they will fly to their assigned destination. The situation is changing so rapidly that the firefighters' destination is unknown at this time.

One additional division employee has been dispatched to Wenatchee National Forest near Lake Chelan in Washington, to act as an information officer on fires in that state.

The U.S. Forest Service notified the division that it needed assistance. The division has a cooperative agreement with the U.S. Forest Service to provide assistance during forest fire emergencies. The federal agency consistently provides assistance when Kentucky faces similar fire emergencies.

"We are fortunate that current conditions in Kentucky allow us to offer assistance," said Leah MacSwords, director of the Kentucky Division of Forestry.

State employees volunteer for this opportunity to assist other states. They will be on leave from the division, and paid by the U.S. Forest Service during this time. Fourteen days plus travel time is the maximum number of days the firefighters will be away from home.

ills, as the cabinet explained the decision would affect the set guidelines for the adjustments.

The alternative for those affected by the flooding and having damages to report would be to include the assessment, based on accurate documentation and costs, in the January reports for 2002 tax adjustments.

"In no way am I making a negative statement toward the Revenue Cabinet for this decision," said Hancock. "I do understand that we do have guidelines to follow and that making exceptions to these guidelines would open doors for compromising the guidelines from here on."

Hancock expressed disappointment about the decision, but not on a personal level, stating again she understood but couldn't help to feel that she had failed the flood victims.

"My job is to serve the people of Floyd County to the best of my ability," continued Hancock, "and I feel I have let these county residents down by not being able to provide them with this much-needed relief. It is not because of a lack of effort. I did my best and took the necessary steps to accomplish this."

Hancock's sense of failure did not end her motivation to provide victims with some sense of relief as she acted quickly on an alternate plan that could still prove to be beneficial if approved.

In an August 10 letter to Gov. Paul Patton, Hancock asked that a 90-day extension for payment of 2001 tax bills be granted for only those taxpayers who were affected by the flooding.

"The results of such severe flooding and property damage have taken a great toll on the residents of Floyd County," wrote Hancock. "A lot of these residents have no flood insurance and will have to rely on assistance from the county and state."

In support of her request, Hancock included in her letter Kentucky Revised Statute 134.030, which details situations involving "extreme destruction of property."

The statute says that "in the case of extreme drought and the failure of crops in the state, or in case of continued unemployment due to economic changes, or in case of extreme destruction of property by any act of providence, the Governor may, by proclamation, extend the time for payment of any taxes or interest, or both, due to the state or counties, for not less than thirty (30) nor more than (90) days."

The statute goes on to say, and was included in Hancock's letter, that the proclamation may apply to one or more counties or to the entire state.

Hancock said on Friday that she had not been contacted by Gov. Patton's office with a confirmation or denial of the extension and was not sure what stage the written request was in.

If the request is granted, Hancock explained that she would be running an advertisement for those who have property damage to gather the needed information concerning those damages and report them to her office in written form or by phone.

History of region republished for new generations

by PAM SHINGLER
CONTRIBUTING WRITER

When Floyd County historian and Times writer Henry P. Scalf wrote "Kentucky's Last Frontier," it was hailed as a long overdue history of the state's forgotten region.

Scalf, whose family had been in these hills since early settlement, first published the result of a lifetime of research in 1966, after generations of mountain children were led to believe they had no history of significance.

Scalf's book showed that Kentucky history is not limited to the Cumberland Gap, the Ohio River and the Bluegrass. It proved so popular that it was reprinted by Pikeville College in 1972, seven years before the author's death.

But, unfortunately, over the last two decades, the regional history has been out of print. Even libraries in the area had lost their copies or retired them because of their well-worn condition.

Thanks to The Overmountain Press of Johnson City, Tenn., and to Scalf's family, Eastern Kentuckians have easy access once again to their history.

The historian's three children — Wallace, Albert Devon and Brenda — gave permission for the republication of the book, with profits going to the Samuel May House in Prestonsburg, which has played a prominent role in area history.

The re-release is on sale at area bookstores and through the May House.

Scalf begins his history with the earliest facts that are known about the region. From Ashland to Paintsville, he writes, there was once evidence of Native Americans known as Mound Builders. Later Indian settlements have been unearthed in Lee, Magoffin, Lawrence, Pike and Floyd counties, although few of us are aware of this today. Among his examples, the author mentions two skeletons, believed to be an adult Indian and child, found in a rock shelter at Harold in 1956.

The book title denotes the fact that the mountains were still a "frontier" when proper Lexingtonians were daintily sipping tea in frock coats in front of brick fireplaces and carved mantels. Floyd, the mother of eastern Kentucky counties, was not formed until 1800, eight years after Kentucky became a state.

But Scalf informs us that white explorers, notably Gabriel Arthur and James Needham, were in these parts as early as the 1600s, when even the Atlantic coast was sparsely settled. The French sent Celoron deBienville to claim the Big Sandy Valley in the mid-1700s.

Several Virginians, with familiar surnames such as Howard, Draper, Harman, Porter, Dorton, Auxier and Fraley, went in and out of the hills in the 18th century. Famed Appalachian explorers Dr. Thomas Walker and Christopher Gist traversed the forks of what came to be known as the Big Sandy River, before pointing the way into the Bluegrass.

In addition to Jennie Wiley, the captive whose legend is dear to most eastern Kentuckians, Scalf relates a similar story about Mary Engles, whose captivity in this region predated Wiley's by about 40 years.

Obviously, the hardest of pioneers did decide to settle in the mountains instead of going on to the easier life of central Kentucky, and Scalf records some of their experiences, particularly the Leslies, Sellards, Laynes, Auxiers and Strattons.

From those early settlements, the book takes the reader through the formation of Floyd, which included all of the present counties in this region, and the establishment of the county seat at what was then Preston's Station, to the Civil War, to the lumber and coal booms, to the vast outmigration that took place in the middle of the 20th century.

The book provides verification for those who already know that Appalachian Kentucky has a past of value and interest that supersedes the image affixed to the region by folks farther west. It also offers information that most local people have never been exposed to.

Among some of the more interesting facts:

■ Virginians laid claim to eastern Kentucky lands well into the 20th century.

■ Coal was being taken out of the Big Sandy Valley by boat for shipment to Cincinnati as early as the 1840s.

■ Logs came up the Big Sandy all the way from Virginia in the late 1800s by means of splash dams and mule teams.

■ The Civil War was at its most divisive in this region where the "father against son — brother against brother" cliché was true, spawning feuds and long-term family and religious schisms.

■ Preston's Station (Prestonsburg) had a population of only six when it was designated county seat of the extensive Floyd County in 1800.

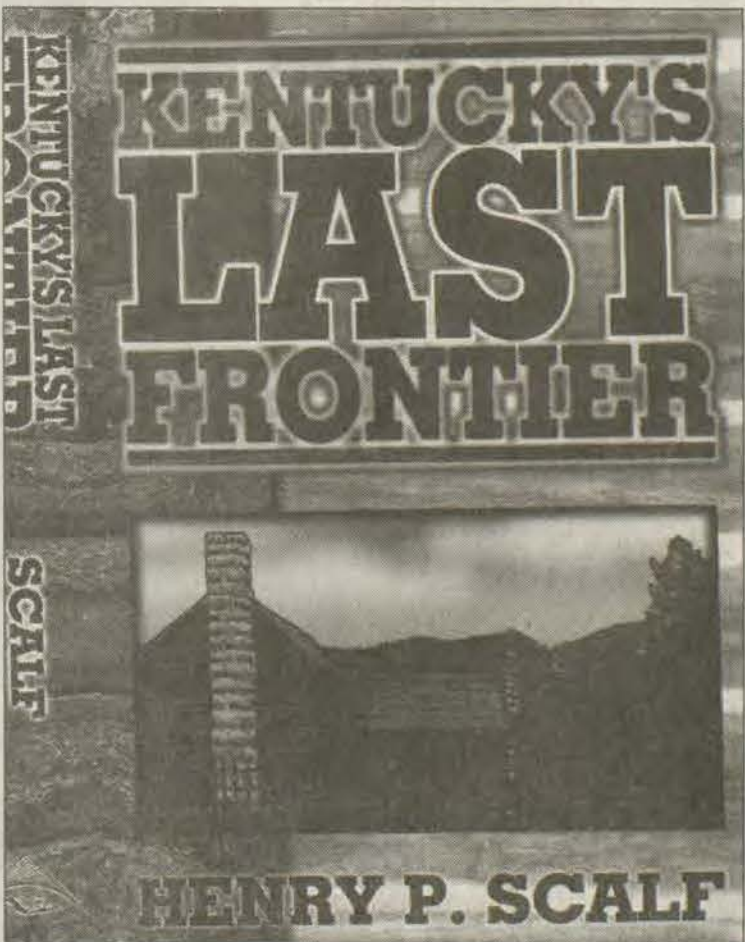

■ The Depression years brought about a wave of lawlessness in the region, some of it bizarre, including alleged cult sacrifice in Martin County and a school board election shootout in Floyd County.

■ The infamous 1957 flood left damages totaling more than $38 million in the Big Sandy River basin.

■ Eastern Kentucky lost close to a half-million people to the industries of Ohio, Indiana and Michigan in the 1940s, '50s and '60s.

Writes Scalf near the end of his rendering, "Abounding and full are the annals of Eastern Kentucky, the events of the past impinging upon its people, directly affecting each hour and day."

Kentucky's preeminent historian Dr. Thomas D. Clark provides the foreword for the book. He writes, "Mr. Scalf has written of every phase of life in eastern Kentucky. He writes of a land which he loves and understands. Its story is an intimate part of his emotional and physical fiber. He has been able to view it from the perspective of its pioneer beginning, its struggles in a sectional war, the coming of the exploiter and industry, and from the more important perspective of this modern age."

A drawing of Harmon's Station, one of the earliest settlements in the area, is on the cover of the reissue of Henry Scalf's book, "Kentucky's Last Frontier." The art is by John C. Thrasher, an art teacher at Ohio State University at Mansfield and son-in-law of Frances Preston Brackett, a Harmon descendant.

Dr. Robert Perry, who has championed Scalf's work and seen to its reissue, writes the introduction, giving background about the historian and about the effort made by the Scalf family and other interested locals to see the book in print again.

"Buck" Scalf, as he was known to friends and readers, began submitting articles on local history to the Floyd County Times in the late 1930s and was associate editor of the newspaper from the early '50s until 1965. Perry, who teaches English at Prestonsburg Community College, encouraged the paper to reprint many of Scalf's historical pieces several years ago.

"Kentucky's Last Frontier" retails for $34.50.

KCTCS receives national grant to enhance technology programs

A prestigious national grant will assist the Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS) in increasing the enrollment and success of students in technology programs.

The National Science Foundation (NSF) has awarded KCTCS a three-year grant totaling $462,276 to develop an Advanced Technology Education (ATE) program modeled after an NSF national center of excellence. With KCTCS contributions and matching funds, the project will total about $750,000.

Goals of the project include:

- Developing pre-technology curriculum to serve under-prepared students.

- Adapting freshman year courses to accommodate industrial and engineering technology programs.

- Increasing faculty expertise.
- Designing and implementing an integrated curriculum in math, communications, English and physics.

- Involving employers to ensure that the curriculum meets workforce needs. Workers with technology skills are in high demand by business and industry.

"Adapting the national model to Kentucky has the potential to increase the quality, quantity, retention, diversity and graduation rates of engineering technology students enrolled in our 28 community and technical colleges," said Michael B. McCall, president of KCTCS.

"This project fits very appropriately with our mission to enhance access, increase enrollment and retention, and ensure the rigor, relevance and effectiveness of our programs," McCall said.

The KCTCS project is called "Adapting a Proven Pre-Engineering Technology Program in Kentucky."

KCTCS is matching the NSF grant with $180,000 of its own resources. Also, in the Ashland District of KCTCS, the funding is being matched with a $100,000 gift from Speedway and the Ashland Inc., Foundation to develop technology education. The Ashland District includes Ashland Community College and Ashland Technical College.

The Ashland District has announced that the project there will support the following technical programs: Industrial Technology, Engineering Technology, Applied Process Technologies, Industrial Chemical Technology and Information Technology.

"We are grateful to have Speedway and the Ashland Foundation as partners in education," said Greg Adkins, ACC president and CEO of the Ashland District. "Our goal is to make it possible for more people in the area to enter college, learn technical careers, and find good jobs."

The statewide project focuses on helping a more diverse population enroll in, and succeed in, technology courses. Project goals include reducing the time that students spend in remediation and improving students' preparation for the workforce and/or bachelor's degree programs at universities.

A core group of KCTCS colleges will serve as pilot sites. The project is expected to be operational in fall 2002, in the following KCTCS districts: Ashland, Jefferson, Maysville and Hopkinsville.

According to the grant application, the project will be implemented later in these KCTCS districts: West Kentucky, Bowling Green, Northern Kentucky, Bluegrass (Central Kentucky), Owensboro and Madisonville.

The KCTCS team members who worked on the project are Vince DiNoto, team leader, Jefferson Community College; Diane Calhoun-French, co-team leader, JCC; Paul Drake, co-team leader, JCC; Robbie Graves, Maysville Community College; Randy Wilson, Hopkinsville Community College; and Thomas Stanley, Ashland Technical College.

KCTCS includes 28 colleges with 50 campuses that operate in 16 seamless districts. KCTCS colleges change lives by providing accessible and affordable education and training through academic and technical associate degrees; diploma and certificate programs in occupational fields; pre-baccalaureate education; adult, continuing and developmental education; customized training for business and industry; and distance learning. For more information, visit www.kctcs.net.

School's dropout figure incorrectly reported

The dropout figure for Perry County's Perry Central High School was reported incorrectly, the Kentucky Department of Education announced recently.

In data released, the school's dropout percentage was listed as 15.66 percent. The correct percentage is 5.83.

The school district's overall dropout rate figure also changes—from 13.41 percent to 5.61 percent. The Region 8 overall dropout figure moves from 6.31 percent to 5.54 percent, and the state dropout figure moves from 5.06 percent to 5.01 percent.

"The error likely occurred when district officials entered figures in the department's web-based data collection system," said Bill Insko, director of the Division of Assessment Implementation. "It is a simple typographical error that is easily fixed, but it points to the importance of data review by schools and districts."

School districts provide non-academic data to the department's Division of Finance through an electronic, web-based system. Dropout figures, along with attendance, retention and successful transition to adult life data, are forwarded to the Office of Assessment and Accountability for use in the state's testing and accountability system.

A data review process enables schools and districts to confirm correct data and make any changes necessary. The process begins when figures are released, and continues until all data is confirmed, or until regulatory deadlines have passed.

Agreement expands market for creating affordable rural rental housing

USDA officials recently highlighted the immediate impact a recently signed agreement between the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Freddie Mac is having on creating new rental housing opportunities in rural areas. As a result of a June 21, agreement, Freddie Mac has already agreed to purchase $3.75 million in USDA Rural Housing Service (RHS) Multi-Family Housing Guarantee Loans (Section 538 program), which is expected to result in the creation of 144 new rental housing units in the state of Indiana.

"This new agreement provides USDA a unique tool to increase the availability of affordable rural rental housing to families throughout the United States," said James R. Moseley, deputy Secretary of Agriculture. "The opening of new markets for multi-family housing loan guarantees will bring lenders greater flexibility in developing lending strategies, and stimulates further development of new rental housing in historically underserved areas."

The Section 538 program is a guaranteed loan program designed to provide loan guarantees to lenders interested in serving tenants with low- and moderate-incomes. The program is an effective way to ensure that USDA Rural Development meets rural housing needs and promote rural economic stability and development. Prior to the agreement with Freddie Mac, RHS had limited success in selling loans originated under the Section 538 program in the secondary market.

Freddie Mac is a stockholder-owned corporation established by Congress in 1970, to support homeownership and rental housing. Freddie Mac purchase single-family and multifamily residential mortgages and mortgage-related securities, which it finances primarily by issuing mortgage passthrough securities and debt instruments in the capital markets. Over the years, Freddie Mac has opened the doors for one in six homebuyers and more than two million renters across America. Additional information may be found at <http://www.freddiemac.com>.

USDA Rural Development serves as the lead federal entity for rural development needs, and administers program assistance through three agencies: Rural Housing Service, Rural Business-Cooperative Service, and Rural Utilities Service.

Further information on USDA Rural Development can be obtained by visiting USDA's web site at <http://www.rurdev.usda.gov> the administration of O'Bryan, "failed to take adequate measures to safeguard" Rittenhouse while being detained.

A wrongful death action was also included in Allen's suit which argues that because of the alleged negligence of the detention center, Rittenhouse was caused to suffer death, leaving as his only next of kin Allen and their four children to deal with the mental anguish as well as the expense of his death and burial.

Allen also explained in her complaint that her four children with Rittenhouse were, because of events of August 18, 2000, deprived of his support, maintenance, gifts and other benefits in addition to the loss of their father's society, comfort, protection, guidance and advice.

Allen's complaint has asked the federal court to assume jurisdiction over the complaint and find the actions of O'Bryan and the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center in violation of Rittenhouse's constitutional rights as well as being negligent and the cause and consequent of his death.

The suit also requested Rittenhouse's estate, of which Allen is the executrix, be awarded compensatory damages, exemplary and punitive damages with interest from the date of the occurrence.

Kentucky Historical Society opens 'temporary' branch office at state fair

The Kentucky Historical Society takes its show "on the road" this week with the debut of the new Historymobile and an information/membership booth at the Kentucky State Fair in Louisville.

The Historymobile, a new traveling exhibit, featuring "The Life and Legend of Daniel Boone," is located in "Main Street Kentucky" in the South Wing of the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center. A booth featuring staff and volunteers from the Kentucky Historical Society adjoins the handicap-accessible trailer.

"Members of the KHS staff are often found on the road or in communities across Kentucky through our outreach efforts," said Joedy Isert, communications officer for the society. "This, though, allows us to centralize some of our efforts, and to share with a lot of people over a short time, the services, programs, benefits and opportunities the society provides."

The booth, which will be open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., daily, August 16-25, and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., on Sunday, August 26, offers information about the agency's museums, historic buildings, children's and adult programs, library and special collections, current and upcoming exhibits, membership and outreach.

"This is a chance to show people that the Kentucky Historical Society is much more than a steward of Kentucky's historical artifacts, papers, manuscripts, maps...we have the opportunity to tell people about our many other programs as well.

"Literary programs, children's programs, film showings, lunchtime discussion groups, museum theater, educational partnerships, genealogical research, and so very much more," said Isert. The fair also affords the opportunity to let people know about the upcoming Kentucky Folklife Festival, September 27-29, in downtown Frankfort.

The three-day festival features music, dance, food, crafts, storytelling, demonstrations, and river lore that demonstrate the culture and heritage of the commonwealth.

"This year's festival, the fifth for us, is something we are very proud of and want to share with everyone, from within and without Kentucky," said Isert. "It's a snapshot of the richness of the state, with something for everyone. The music, too, is something you won't find anywhere else."

This year's concerts feature headliners and Kentucky legends such as Homer Ledford, Jean Ritchie, Clyde Davenport and thumb-picker Eddie Pennington. Mandolin master Sam Bush, from Western Kentucky, also will play, as will a host of entertainers from the theme ara, Highway 31W, the Dixie Highway, which snakes through Louisville, south to Bowling Green, to Franklin.

"The State Fair gives us a chance to introduce ourselves and reintroduce ourselves to more than 600,000 people over the 10-day run," said Isert. "These are people who come from Kentucky, who love Kentucky, and who have a stake not only in the state's past, but in its future as well.

"We want to share with them the work the society does to help protect and preserve that past, and demonstrate to them that everything we do is with an eye toward the future. We strive to show that we are working just as hard for their memories, their parents' memories, and their grandparents' memories, as we are for their children's memories, and eventually their grandchildren's memories."

The odd couple

During their years together at the University of Kentucky, head football coach Hal Mumme and recruiting co-ordinator Claude Bassett were an odd, but close, couple. Here was Mumme, who paced the sidelines wearing sunglasses, a towel draped around his neck, his flaxen hair tousled. And here was Bassett with his sumo wrestler physique and his plantation owner's hat. The beauty and the beast, if you will.

They were next-door neighbors in the Commonwealth Stadium office area. During the season, you seldom saw one without the other. And yet, when UK's internal investigation of Mumme's program revealed that Bassett had been the godfather of a shocking cheating scam, Mumme insisted that he knew nothing about it.

Taking Mumme at his word, the university gave him a sweet-heart departure package — $1 million spread over four years, the use of two luxury cars as long as he lived in Lexington, and payment of his legal fees.

But that deal was predicated on

President Bush to attend Little League Baseball World Series

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. — George W. Bush, the first Little League graduate to be elected President of the United States, will be on hand for the championship game of the Little League Baseball World Series on Aug. 26 at Howard J. Lamade Stadium, it was announced today by a White House spokesman. President Bush will be the first sitting president to attend the Little League Baseball World Series in its 55-year history.

"Little League is honored and privileged that President Bush will be taking part in the world's greatest youth sports event," Stephen D. Keener, President and Chief Executive Officer of Little League Baseball, said. "I am sure, like millions of children, President Bush dreamed of making it to Williamsport someday. I know he will have a wonderful time here."

Mr. Keener announced that President Bush will also be enshrined into the Hall of Excellence of the Peter J. McGovern Little League Museum. Last year, Academy Award-winning actor Kevin Costner, NBA Players

Sportsmanship has been forgotten, but is not dead

by TONY MCGUIRE
SPORTS WRITER

HAZARD — As high school sports begin to mimic their professional counterparts more and more, it seems that we are losing track of what sports on the high school level are all about. When winning becomes the bottom line, and a coach can lose their job based on their record, they fail to focus on the true purpose of their job, teaching. What should they be teaching?

How about sportsmanship?

Children displaying any type of sportsmanship is such a rare thing these days that when it does happen it automatically catches our attention. Such was the case the other night when Perry County Central traveled to South Laurel for the opening game of the volleyball season.

Things were going well as the match progressed midway through the second game. With South Laurel up one game and leading the second 9-8, tragedy struck. One of the Lady Commodores went down with a severe seizure.

After the paramedics had done their job the young lady was taken to the hospital for future observations. But to the fact that Perry Central does not have an assistant coach, the game had to be canceled so coach Pray could be with her player.

In many cases this would have signaled the end of the evening for everyone except the player, the coach, and her family. But that was not to be the case on this evening.

When coach Pray arrived at the hospital she was surprised to find not only did she still have all of her players in tow, but the South Laurel players, coaches, and parents. The large crowd stayed at the hospital well into the night until the young lady was out of danger.

The compassion shown on both sides was an example of the true meaning of athletics and sportsmanship. It showed that sportsmanship is not dead, just not being taught in many cases. This is not a condemnation of the coaches, but one of society and its misplaced values on the importance of winning. In conclusion, I would like to add that schools should hire and fire coaches based on what that teach our children, not their records.

UK men's soccer ranked 23rd in NCAA preseason poll Jantti named preseason All-American

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

LEXINGTON — The University of Kentucky men's soccer team received its first preseason ranking in school history at No. 23 in the National Soccer Coaches Association/adidas® Division I Top 25. The ranking matches the Cats' position in the final poll of the 2000 season.

"This is a great achievement for our team," Coach Ian Collins said. "It is a great award for the success we had last year and is something for us to build on in 2001."

The Cats' schedule pits them against five of the Top 25 this season. They will match up against No. 17 South Carolina and No. 19 Alabama-

EKU names new baseball coach

Elvis Dominguez new man in Richmond

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

RICHMOND — Eastern Kentucky University Director of Athletics Chip Smith has announced that Elvis Dominguez, assistant coach at the University of Iowa, has been named head baseball coach at ECU.

Dominguez, 38, recently completed his fourth year as an assistant coach at Iowa where he had been serving the Hawkeyes as infield and hitting coach and recruiting coordinator.

"Elvis Dominguez is a dynamic young coach with experience as both a coach and a player on the college level. His recruiting acumen has produced nationally-ranked recruiting classes for five of the past eight years," said Smith. "We are fortunate to have him to carry on the tradition of Colonel Baseball."

As the recruiting coordinator at Iowa, two of Dominguez' last three recruiting classes have been nationally ranked as one of the top 50 classes in the annual Collegiate Baseball recruiting rankings.

"I'm extremely excited about joining the athletic department and family at Eastern Kentucky," Dominguez said. "This is a great opportunity for myself and my family and something I've been working toward for the past 13 years. "I hope to build upon the success and outstanding achievements coach (Jim) Ward has accomplished there. I'm anxious and ready to meet the players."

"I also would like to thank the selection committee for their very thorough job of showing me what Eastern and the Richmond community has to offer. I was very impressed with the campus and the city of Richmond."

This past season, Iowa finished the year ranked 13th nationally in fielding percentage (.970). Following the 2000 season, the Hawkeyes were ranked 20th nationally in fielding percentage (.967) and eighth in double plays (65), which broke the school mark for the latter record.

During Dominguez' first season with the Hawkeyes, Iowa finished third in the Big 10 and 17th nationally in Division I with a .966 fielding percentage.

Prior to joining the Iowa staff, Dominguez spent five years (1993-97) as assistant head baseball coach at Creighton University, serving as the infield and hitting coach. He also served as Creighton's recruiting, academic, schedule and practice coordinator.

Many of his former players are currently playing professional baseball. From Iowa, shortstop Nate Frese and second baseman Brian Mitchell are with the Cubs and Blue Jays, respectively. Four of his former Creighton players, Kimera Bartee (Tigers), Chad Meyers (Cubs), Scott Servais (Giants) and Alan Benes (Cardinals).

interviews at that time.

"The media is our link between the program and our fans, and we want to foster a good relationship with it," said Zak Willis, who will begin his first year as a varsity head coach this season. "We want to invite all members of the local, statewide and regional media to come out and take advantage of this opportunity to meet our players and staff."

Expectations in the Mid-South Conference are high this year for the first-year program. When the coaches' poll was released earlier this week, Pikeville was tabbed fifth out of eight teams before it had suited up for the first time.

"We think the coaches were being generous toward us, to be honest with you," Willis continued. "We are glad they hold our program in a positive light, but it's premature to have expectations like that at this point."

Sunday will be the Pikeville College football team's second Media Day. The school conducted one last season prior to the team playing a JV schedule.

Pikeville College opens its first varsity season Sept. 1, playing Stillman College in Tuscaloosa, Ala. Opening kick is slated for 5 p.m. CDT.

NAIA adds staff members

TIMES STAFF REPORT

OLATHE, KAN. — The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics is pleased to announce the recent hiring of five full-time staff members. These five have already made an immediate impact at the national office.

Elaine Eastep has been hired as the administrative assistant for both membership services and legislative services. She is accountable for updating the NAIA membership database and will also be answering calls regarding legislative cases. You can reach Eastep at extension 130.

Dawn Jackson has spent the last 18 years in the field of accounting and is now the NAIA Controller. Any questions regarding invoices or our accounting procedures should be directed to her. Jackson's extension is 111.

Mindy Pinkerton joins the NAIA after 15 years with the NCAA. Mindy is the Executive Assistant to NAIA President and CEO Steve Baker and Chief Operating Officer Jim Carr. Please call Mindy at extension 101 to contact Baker or Carr or for any questions regarding the Council of Presidents.

Jenni Rodwell will serve as the Assistant Director of Sports Information. A graduate of Albertson College (Idaho), Jenni is familiar with NAIA schools and their needs and will be a terrific asset in assisting member schools with various questions. Contact Rodwell at extension 125.

And the voice you will hear whenever you call the NAIA is that of Melanie Schaller. Melanie recently moved to the Kansas City area after living in Madison, Wis. Where she graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Clark 15-1 in the first game and took the second game 15-4 in easy fashion as well.

Back guiding the Betsy Layne volleyball program is head coach Larry Wilson and his assistant coach, wife Karen Wilson. The head coach is pleased with how his team has come into the season ready to work. Betsy Layne returns several key, experienced players from last year's successful team.

"We've been going pretty hard since July," said Larry Wilson. "I'm real pleased with the way the girls have stepped up and accepted the challenge of getting better and being a good volleyball team."

Betsy Layne was in an all-day tournament at Bryan Station High School yesterday. Results were unavailable as the newspaper went to press. The Volleys play host to Paintsville tomorrow. Allen Central, Prestonsburg and South Floyd are other Floyd County high schools joining Betsy Layne on the volleyball hardwood this season.

Johnson Central joins Betsy Layne in regional play. Central fields its first ever volleyball team this fall.

Association Executive Director Billy Hunter, and renowned transplant surgeon Dr. Robert Stratta were enshrined.

"Enshrinement in the Hall of Excellence signifies that a former Little Leaguer has demonstrated a commitment to excellence in their chosen profession and exemplify the values learned as children in Little League Baseball," Mr. Keener said. "President Bush obviously fits that description."

President Bush's love for baseball has become even more evident with the Tee Ball on the South Lawn program. The President and First Lady have invited six Little League teams to the White House over the last few months for games and picnics.

"We have been delighted with the gracious hospitality shown by President and Mrs. Bush at the Tee Ball on the South Lawn games," Mr. Keener said. "He is very interested in seeing more children participate in baseball, and we're glad to help out. We're looking forward to showing him the same kind of hospitality here in Williamsport."

As a boy, President Bush played in the Midland (Texas) Central Little League for several years during the 1950s. His mother and father, George and Barbara Bush, were volunteers in the league at the time. In interviews, President Bush has cited Little League as providing his fondest childhood memory.

Frank Iltner, who was President Bush's coach on the Cubs at Midland Central Little League from 1955 until 1958, spoke about young George W. Bush in a recent interview with Little League Baseball: "He was a good catcher, and you could always rely on him to be there for every game and every practice. He was very dependable."

Six teams have been determined for the Little League Baseball World Series: Guam Little League, Hagatna, Guam; Kitasuna Little League of Tokyo, Japan; Club Activo 20-30 Little League of Santiago de Veraguas, Panama; Pariba Little League of Willemstad, Curacao, Netherlands Antilles; Matamoros (Mexico) Little League; and Arabian-American Little League of Dhahran, Saudi Arabia. The other ten teams, eight of which will be from the United States, one from Canada, and one from Europe, will be determined next week.

The Little League Baseball World Series for 11-12-year-olds is being played now-26. Sixteen teams from around the world will take part as the series expands from its traditional eight-team field.

Two games will be televised on ABC rather than the single championship game as has been the case since 1963. The championship game of the Little League Baseball World Series can be seen live on ABC-TV at 6:30 p.m., on Sunday, Aug. 26 — the first prime-time telecast of the Series final. ABC will also televise the U.S. Championship Game on Saturday, August 25, at 4:30 p.m. The total televised World Series games will be 19, compared to 11 last year. In addition, ESPN2 will carry all eight of the U.S. Regional Championship finals in the Little League Baseball Division.

The regional finals have been televised by ESPN2 every year since 1997. Little League Baseball is the largest organized youth sports program in the world, with nearly 3 million participants in all 50 states and 104 other countries. Little League is the only sports organization holding a federal charter of incorporation.

* UK opponents in bold the belief that Mumme was telling the truth about his ignorance of Bassett's dealings. Now, however, the NCAA has concluded that Mumme was lying. In its report issued earlier this week, the NCAA fingered Mumme for two major violations — using booster money to supplement a secretary's salary and ignoring three warnings that Bassett was breaking the rules.

So what new UK president Lee Todd needs to do now is order athletics director Larry Ivy to terminate the agreement with Mumme, on the grounds that Mumme deceived the university — again — and breached the terms of his severance package.

In other words, dare Mumme to file a lawsuit to get his money. He probably wouldn't do it, because he may have more to hide than already has been made public. But if he did, what's the university to fear, assuming that nobody above Mumme has dirty hands?

From the beginning, the Mumme payoff looked like hush money. Just go away, Hal. Don't talk to the media. We won't tell on you if you don't tell on us. Mumme certainly has done his part, doing a disappearing act that would make Houdini proud. And Bassett, now working as a high school coach in Texas, has turned down all requests for interviews, including those from NCAA investigators.

For UK, the advantages of this course of action are twofold.

First, it would save the Athletics Association a million dollars at a time when Ivy is trying to come up with creative ways, such as eliminating media courtside seats at basketball games, to generate new revenue.

While $1 million may not seem a lot to your basic Ken Griffey Jr. or Michael Jordan, it's an astounding sum to the average Kentuckian. Let's say you're lucky enough to make $50,000 a year, a nice salary in Kentucky's economy. To make $1 million, you would have to work 20 years.

So explain to me how Mumme deserves that sort of payoff for presiding over a program that cheated and brought disgrace to the university and the state.

Second, a lawsuit would mean that Mumme and Bassett would be required to testify under oath. They couldn't lie in a courtroom the way they might lie to the NCAA Infractions Committee, which doesn't have the power to put them in jail for perjury.

Sad to say, but it's going to take a lawsuit to flush out Mumme and Bassett from their retreats. Both have made it apparent that they're committed to stonewalling, which cheats the public from knowing the truth. So Todd should cut off payments to Mumme on the grounds that he breached his agreement with the university. He DID know something about what Bassett was doing. If Todd has been told the truth, UK should have nothing to fear, but knowledge to be gained, in the event that Mumme would file a lawsuit.

That's the only way that Bassett will ever be forced to confront his transgressions against the football program, its supporters, and the university's image.

It'll be interesting to see how Todd reacts. The easy way out is to do nothing. Accept the NCAA sanctions and brush the whole thing under the carpet. But if Todd is really interested in knowing the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, he will act in the best interests of the university by voiding the ill-conceived payoff to Mumme and daring the ex-coach to file a suit.

For UK, assuming that none of Mumme's bosses has anything to hide, it's a win-win. The university saves money and it gets to know the truth. And the truth should help Todd and UK take measures to prevent another scandal in the future.

catcher John Buck and former Legends RHP Ryan Jamison and RHP Nick Roberts to the Arizona Fall League's Phoenix Desert Dogs for the 2001 season. The Arizona Fall League is a six-team developmental league owned and operated by Major League Baseball.

Each Major League Baseball team sends six top prospects to the Arizona Fall League, 180 players in all. There are six teams in the Arizona Fall League: the Maryvale Saguaro, Phoenix Desert Dogs, Grand Canyon Rafters, Peoria Javelinas, Scottsdale Scorpions, and Mesa Solar Sox. The games are played in the Spring Training stadiums used by the Giants, Mariners, Padres, Cubs, A's and Brewers.

Major League clubs hold a position draft to determine the players who will go to Arizona in August. Most of the players selected are Double-A and Triple-A players. However, each club can choose to send one class-A player. The Houston Astros have selected Legends catcher John Buck to fill that slot. Buck has hit .266 with 20 homeruns, 21 doubles and 60 RBI this season.

RHP Ryan Jamison was the first Legend to be promoted to Double-A Round Rock on June 19. Before leaving the Legends he was 4-2 with a 2.28 ERA in nine appearances. Jamison is 5-1 with a 3.97 ERA in six starts for Round Rock.

RHP Nick Roberts was promoted to Round Rock on July 26. Roberts had a 10-1 record with a 2.95 ERA, three complete games and one shutout for Lexington in 20 starts. Since his promotion he is 0-3 with a 4.84 ERA in four starts for Round Rock.

The 2001 Arizona Fall League begins on October 2.

Winston Cup Transporter Parade slated for Thursday

TIMES STAFF REPORT

The streets of Bristol, Tennessee will soon become engulfed with NASCAR transporters.

One of the most popular pre-race events during Bristol Motor Speedway's Sharpie 500 August race week is the Transporter Parade for Winston Cup teams. The Third Annual Winston Cup Transporter Parade will take place on Thursday, Aug. 23, beginning at 9 p.m., following Food City Family Race Night.

The tractor-trailer semis that bring the Winston Cup cars and team equipment will take part in the parade, which begins at the Bristol Mall. The parade travels east on Euclid Ave., turns south onto Commonwealth Ave. and crosses the Virginia/Tennessee state line onto Volunteer Parkway. The parade continues down Volunteer Parkway and ends when the transporters arrive at Bristol Motor Speedway for NASCAR's Most Popular Race, the Sharpie 500.

AC-Paintsville game could change site

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

The site of Friday's Allen Central-Paintsville football game could be changed. The game is scheduled to take place in Eastern, home to the Allen Central Rebels. However, the two sides have reportedly been in talks concerning moving the game to Paintsville, the place where the two teams squared off against one another last season.

Paintsville opened the season up against West Carter in the Big Sandy Bowl Friday night. Allen Central's season-opener was a home game against county rival Betsy Layne. The Allen Central-Betsy Layne game was also played on Friday night.

Exhibit to feature NASCAR photography

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

Tom Raymond, nationally renowned photographer and owner of Fresh Air Photographics in Johnson City, will present some of his original photographs in an exhibit titled "Hot August Nights. A Photographic Exhibition" at the Adelpia Centre at Millennium Park, 2001 Millennium Place. The show will run from August 10 thru mid-September. A reception for the artist will be held at the Centre on Thursday, August 9, 5:30-7 p.m.

The display contains photographs collected during ten years of traveling the NASCAR circuit for DuPont, John Deere, Sports Illustrated, ESPN Magazine and others. Many of the photographs were taken at Bristol Motor Speedway and the exhibit is co-sponsored by the Speedway as a kickoff event to the August races. Jeff Byrd, General Manager at BMS, will speak at the artist's reception held on August 9. All of the prints will be available for sale, with a portion of the proceeds going to benefit Speedway Children's Charities.

For information on this program, contact the Adelpia Centre at 423/232-2001, or Tom Raymond, Fresh Air Photographics, 423/928-2700. Additional information about Fresh Air Photographics also may be found at www.freshair-photo.com.

Former Phil wins Classic

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

Former Philadelphia Phillies pitcher Shane Rawley won the fourth annual Central Baptist Hospital Charity Classic at Kearney Hill Links by one stroke over defending champions Rick Rhoden. Rawley shot an 11-under-par for the two-day tournament and took home the $25,000 first-place prize.

Rhoden, former pitcher for the New York Yankees, ended the tourney in second place with a 10-under-par. Steve Bartkowski, Atlanta Falcons quarterback, took third place with a score of 68.

Rawley is the fourth leading money winner in this year's Celebrity Players Tour (CPT) through July 2001. He has earned $65,554 in CPT tournaments. Rick Rhoden is in the number one position with $125,000. Steve Bartkowski is seventh with $38,629.

Rawley won his first tour victory in 1998 at the Dan Marino Celebrity Invitational. He never finished out of the top 10 in any CPT event he entered in 2000.

This event is one of 16 stops on the CPT this year. The Central Baptist Hospital Charity Classic is hosted by the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government. Proceeds from the Classic benefit the Healthy Kids Project.

EKU's Finley to play professional basketball in Germany

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

RICHMOND - Former Eastern Kentucky University Lady Colonel Candice Finley (1997-2001) will continue her basketball career overseas as a member of the Luxembourg, Germany professional team.

Finley, a 6-1 center, was signed to a pro contract after attending a showcase this summer in Atlanta for collegiate players who either had not signed or were not selected in the Women's National Basketball Association (WNBA) draft. Professional scouts and agents attend the showcase to evaluate players as they perform drills and scrimmage on a daily basis.

"I'm very happy to have the opportunity to continue to play basketball," said Finley. "This will be a great experience for me, and I look forward to the challenge."

The Michigan native finished her outstanding career at EKU with 113 games played, 489 rebounds, 48 blocks and a .641 free-throw percentage. She is only the 13th player to reach the illustrious 1,000-point mark at Eastern with her 1,022 career points. A three-year starter, Finley led the nation's top-scoring team with an average of 13 points and 5.5 rebounds per game last season, while earning second team All Ohio Valley Conference accolades.

"I think this is an excellent opportunity for Candice to play at the next level and it's certainly a well-deserved honor," said EKU head coach Larry Joe Inman. "I am very proud of Candice and all that she's accomplished. I think she has the potential to do very well in her professional career."

EKU presidential search committee invites five candidates to campus

RICHMOND — The Eastern Kentucky University Presidential Search Committee has submitted the names of five candidates to the university's Board of Regents.

The candidates began visiting the EKU campus August 16 to meet with groups of faculty, staff, students, alumni and community leaders and participate in two forums open to all members of the University community.

The finalists and dates for campus visits are:

■ Dr. Jim Ferguson, vice president for administrative services, Auburn University, Auburn, Ala., Aug. 16-18.

■ Dr. David J. Prior, provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs, University of Wisconsin-Whitewater, Whitewater, Wis., Aug. 19-21.

■ JoAnne K. Glasser, Esq., executive vice president for institutional advancement, Towson University, Towson, Md., Aug. 20-22.

■ Dr. David Payne, vice president for academic affairs, Sam Houston State University, Huntsville, Texas, Aug. 21-23.

■ Dr. Janelle Ashley, vice president for academic affairs, Stephen F. Austin State University, Nacogdoches, Texas, Aug. 22-24.

Complete curriculum vitae and visit itineraries can be viewed at the presidential search website, www.psearch.eku.edu.

"The EKU Board of Regents and the presidential search committee have worked diligently to conduct a national search for highly qualified candidates," said C. Fred Rice, EKU Board of Regents chair. "We are pleased with the search process and the quality of the candidate pool. We look forward to the candidates' visits to the campus to meet with the University community."

Rice also chairs the EKU Presidential Search Committee.

The 13-member committee reviewed applications and nominations and conducted neutral site interviews before selecting five candidates for campus interviews. The committee - composed of student, faculty, staff, alumni, community and Board of Regents representatives - was assisted by A.T. Kearney Executive Search, Alexandria, Va.

Robinson Scholars study Appalachia

BLED SOE — The UK Robinson Scholars participated in an Appalachian Studies Institute entitled "Valuing Yourself and Your Community" at Pine Mountain Settlement School in Harlan County from July 21-28.

The scholars successfully completed seminars and workshops in Appalachian Culture and History, as well as the traditional mountain arts such as story telling, painting, music and crafts. The Scholars also participated in field trips to the Godbey Appalachian Center Archives at Southeast Community College, the Appalachian Media Institute at Whitesburg, and the Cudjo's Cave at the Cumberland Gap National Park in Tennessee.

The Robinson Scholars Program recruits eighth grade students from 29 east Kentucky counties to participate in the pre-collegiate program which provides for a full-expense paid academic scholarship to the selected students after their completion of high school and meeting the admission standards to the University of Kentucky or an affiliated KCTCS Community College.

For more information about the Robinson Scholars, contact your school counselor or telephone James M. Davis, regional coordinator, at Hazard Community College at 435-2186.

Student loan borrowers get big interest break

Students taking out loans to pay for college will see the lowest interest rates ever on federal student loans this year, according to the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA). KHEAA is the state agency that administers grant, scholarship, work-study, savings, and Federal Family Education Loan Programs (FFELP) to help students pay for college or technical training.

"The interest rate on Federal Stafford Loans made this year, dropped to 5.39 percent on July 1," said Londa

Lewis Wolanin, KHEAA's chief operating officer. "That's down from 7.59 percent borrowers paid during the 2000-2001 fiscal year. In fact, it's the lowest rate ever. The interest rate when the student loan program began in 1965 was 7 percent."

Borrowers already repaying their student loans will also see interest rates drop from 8.19 percent last year, to 5.99 percent this year. Student loan interest rates are set each year, based on the auction rates of 91-day Treasury bills. Lowering of the interest rates by the Federal Reserve Board this year is the reason student loan rates have fallen so low. The student loan interest rates that went into effect July 1, will be effective for 12 months.

The U.S. Department of Education estimates that student borrowers repaying loans under the standard 10-year repayment plan will save about $136 for each $1,000 they owe.

Interest on Federal PLUS loans, which are made to parents to help pay for a child's college or technical training, dropped to 6.79 percent, down from 8.99 percent.

The new rates do not apply to loans disbursed before July 1, 1998. Borrowers who are repaying loans disbursed before that date may be able to take advantage of the lower interest rate by getting a Federal Consolidation Loan. Borrowers can get an idea of how much they can save through consolidation by accessing KHEAA's web site www.kheaa.com and using the College Aid Calculator, developed by Think Ahead Inc., of Dresden, Maine. As the FFELP guarantor for Kentucky, KHEAA guarantees Federal Stafford, PLUS, and Consolidation loans.

For more information about KHEAA's programs and services, visit KHEAA's web site www.kheaa.com; write to KHEAA, 1050 US Highway 127 S, Frankfort, KY 40601-4323; or call (800) 928-8926, extension 7381.

business before turning to public service. He has served as Kentucky's deputy state transportation secretary, leader of the state Democratic Party and three terms as Pike County Judge/Executive. In 1991, Patton became Kentucky's lieutenant governor, and made history by also serving as secretary of the economic development cabinet. In 1999, he became the first Kentucky governor in nearly 200 years to be elected to two successive terms.

Gov. Patton has gained both state and national recognition for his leadership and his efforts to promote learning. He was recently elected by his fellow governors to serve as vice chair of the National Governors Association, and is one of only three Kentucky governors to have been selected to serve in a leadership position in the organization. Patton will also co-chair the organization's Post-Secondary Education Initiative along with Gov. Jane Swift of Massachusetts.

Pikeville College's opening convocation ceremony will be held at 11 a.m. in Booth Auditorium, located in the Record Memorial Building. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Medicare AND YOU

Donna R. Morton
Medicare Beneficiary
Outreach Coordinator
AdminaStar Federal

Many of you have been enrolled with Medicare Part B for quite some time. But for those of you that are age 65 or older and signed up for Medicare Part B during the general enrollment period this year, your Medicare Part B coverage started on July 1. It is important for you to know that your effective date for Medicare Part B automatically begins your Medigap "open enrollment period," so this column is devoted to questions and answers about Medigap.

Q What is a Medigap plan?

A Medigap plan is a health insurance policy sold by private insurance companies to fill the "gaps" in original Medicare.

Q How long is my Medigap open enrollment period?

A Your Medigap open enrollment period lasts for six months. It starts on the first day of the month in which you are both:

- Age 65 or older, and
- Enrolled in Medicare Part B.

Your red, white and blue Medicare card shows the dates that your Part A and Part B coverage start.

Q Do I have any special rights during my open enrollment period?

A Yes. Insurance companies cannot deny you coverage or charge you more for a policy if you are in your Medigap open enrollment period.

Q Are all Medigap plans the same?

A No. There are 10 standard Medigap plans called "A" through "J." Each plan A through J has a different set of standardized benefits. Plan A offers the least amount of benefits and Plan J offers the most benefits.

Q Do all Medigap plans cost the same?

A No. There can be big differences in the premiums that insurance companies charge for exactly the same coverage. The plans are standardized. This means the benefits of any one plan will be the same regardless of the company you buy from. In other words, if you decide Plan C is best for you, you can get prices on Plan C from any insurance company that sells Plan C in your state. The benefits of Plan C from any insurance company will be the same, but the premium may vary from company to company. It is wise to shop for a Medigap policy.

Q Do I need a Medigap plan if I choose to enroll in a Medicare Managed Care Plan,

Local disadvantaged children attend camp

Area children were able to spend a portion of their summer attending camp thanks to Citifinancial Kentucky East branch offices, located in London, Harlan, Pikeville, Paintsville and Hazard. The branch offices were able to secure a Citigroup Foundation grant in the amount of $25,000 for Trooper Island, which allowed Kentucky disadvantaged children and children with physical disabilities to attend summer camp programs.

Kentucky East district managers for Citifinancial's city offices, applied for the money and presented the check on July 18 to officials of Trooper Island. Kentucky State Police Commissioner Ishman Burkes was in attendance during presentation ceremonies.

"The employees in our network of branches are in tune with specific needs of the communities where they live and work. We feel they are the best front-line representative for our company's philanthropic program," said Michael S. Knapp, CEO and President of Citifinancial Corporation.

The local contributions program, funded by the Citigroup Foundation, was begun in 1990, as the Travelers

Foundation Grants, in order to provide assistance to non-profit community projects in areas where Citifinancial offices are located. Worthy programs are identified by local managers, who recommend grants for programs or projects deemed vital to their community.

Criteria for selection are that an organization's programs must be open to everyone in need of its services without restriction, and the organization itself must be an official "not for profit" operation.

Citifinancial is a member of Citigroup (NYSE:C), the preeminent global financial services company which provides some 120 million consumers, corporation, governments and institutions in more than 100 countries with a broad range of financial products and services, including consumer banking and credit, corporate and investment banking, insurance, securities brokerage and asset management. Major brand names under Citigroup's trademark umbrella are Citibank, Citifinancial, Primerica, Salomon Smith Barney, and Travelers. Additional information may be found at: www.citigroup.com.

Wal-Mart associates contribute $5,000 for disaster relief

PRESTONSBURG and PIKEVILLE — Wal-Mart associates in Eastern Kentucky have donated $5,000 to the Red Cross and Salvation Army to support the organizations' flood-relief efforts.

The associates of the Prestonsburg Wal-Mart have made a contribution of $2,500 to the American Red Cross Big Sandy Area Chapter to help flood victims. The Red Cross reports that 306 homes have suffered extensive flood damage. In addition, the Red Cross has already delivered a total of 5,290 meals, 600 cleanup kits and 116 comfort kits to families recovering from the devastation.

"We are very grateful to Wal-Mart for their $2,500 contribution," said Eleanor Holehan, disaster fundraising officer for the Eastern Kentucky Flash Floods Disaster Operation. "This gift will be used to help the American Red Cross provide free emergency relief and assistance to the many families that have suffered a terrible loss of or major damage to their homes and possessions. Through this gift, Wal-Mart shows its concern for and commitment to families and communities."

In Pikeville, Wal-Mart associates gave $2,500 to the Hazard-Perry County Salvation Army, serving the Mud Creek area, for flood relief.

Robin Newsome, personnel manager of the Pikeville Wal-Mart Store, said, "We have been a longtime member of the community and we see it as our privilege to help our neighbors in need. As families are preparing for their kids to go back to school, we know that this tragedy came at a terrible time of the year. We're glad we can help in this worthy endeavor to help the community."

Wal-Mart Stores Inc. operates more than 36 Wal-Mart stores, 38 super centers and five Sam's Clubs in Kentucky and employs more than 24,718 associates in the state. Last year, the company's associates in Kentucky donated more than $4 million to the community organizations.

In 1999, Wal-Mart was recognized as the No. 1 corporate citizen in America. More information on the company's "Good Works" activities can be found at www.walmartfoundation.org.

ARH promotes five to leadership promotions

Appalachian Regional Healthcare Inc. today announced the creation of two system-level leadership positions and two new regional CEO assignments. The administrative change is designed to "take ARH to the next level in its quest for Appalachian Excellence," said Stephen C. Hanson, ARH president and CEO.

"During the past 18 months, ARH has made great strides toward enhancing the System's fiscal health and the quality of care we deliver in the communities we serve," Hanson said. "The creation of two new system-level positions, which will be based in the Eastern Kentucky service area, and the assignment of two veteran ARH professionals to our new ARH Perry County and ARH Harlan-Bell County regions will accelerate the positive momentum of our ongoing turnaround."

The following ARH team changes will be effective immediately and the transitions will be complete by September 4.

■ Dan Fitzpatrick, a 23-year ARH veteran, is the new system director of education and training. He will provide leadership and oversight in the training of the system's more than 4,800 employees. Fitzpatrick was community CEO of ARH Harlan County for more than five years and has been active member of the Harlan County Leadership Project.

■ Louis Roe Jr. is the new director of special projects. He is responsible for the system's Appalachian Excellence quality initiative, which is designed to standardize and streamline ARH's core processes. Roe, who has been with ARH for nine years, has served as community CEO of Williamson ARH since 1999. He and Fitzpatrick will report to Ron Sellers, vice president-administrative services.

■ Dennis Chaney is community CEO, ARH Perry County. In this role, Chaney will oversee the operations of the Hazard ARH Regional Medical Center, four clinics, a home health agency and DME stores. Chaney brings more than 11 years of system experience to his new position. Most recently, he was community CEO of Morgan County ARH, where he has led a financial turnaround and substantially expanded services. Under his leadership, Morgan County ARH was selected as one of 100 communities in the U.S. to participate in the Bureau of Community Health Services Diabetes Quality Initiative. He will report to Hanson.

■ Paul Miles assumes the position as community CEO of the newly created ARH Harlan-Bell County Region. This new system region, which includes two hospitals, five clinics and two home health agencies, is designed to provide ARH with a base to advance technology services by developing more shared opportunities between the communities. Miles was community CEO of Middlesboro ARH, a position he has held since 1993. Paul has been with ARH for almost 20 years.

■ Charles Hensley, who has been community CEO of ARH Perry County, is considering another key leadership position within ARH. Searches will be conducted internally and externally to fill the positions of community CEO for ARH Morgan County and ARH Williamson. Hanson said. In the interim, ARH has assigned experienced system veterans Paul Caudill at Morgan County ARH and Tim Hatfield at Williamson ARH to lead their respective institutions as Acting Administrators.

"We are fortunate to have this exceptional group of experienced ARH leaders, who have contributed significantly to the system's mission during their years of service, and we are excited about the potential each individual brings to our newly configured team," Hanson said.

Hanson indicated that the financial and quality turnaround of Appalachian Regional Healthcare continues and that the system has made significant improvements, closing the fiscal year with a positive bottom line.

"Every individual and members of the ARH communities who have been involved in the improvement work is to be thanked and congratulated," Hanson said "With their continued support, we can now move forward together as we focus on improving the health and well being of all people in Central Appalachia."

Home Equity Loans may help increase your wealth

Submitted or contributed by Morgan Stanley Dean Witter
200 SECOND ST., SUITE 1,
PIKEVILLE, KY 41501

Home equity loans extend credit to consumers based on the amount of equity they currently own in their homes. In most cases, this equity equals the current value of the home minus the current balance remaining on the mortgage. For many homeowners, a home equity loan is an important source of additional funding that can be used for purposes such as debt consolidation and meeting major life expenses. Some homeowners, however, have taken home equity borrowing one step further by using it not only to meet specific expenses, but to help create and preserve their personal wealth.

Traditional home equity lending

Second mortgage loans were among the first home equity loan products to be developed. Most second mortgage loans are fully amortized, have a fixed rate of interest, are disbursed in lump sum payments and are repaid in equal monthly installments. Borrowers applying for second mortgage loans usually do so in order to meet specific financial needs. And, once the loan is paid in full, that particular borrower-lender relationship comes to an end.

The development of home equity lines of credit

Once federal income tax deductions for interest paid on non-mortgage consumer debt were phased out, demand arose for more flexible forms of consumer borrowing than traditional second mortgage loans. To meet this demand, financial institutions began introducing home equity lines of credit—which allow borrowers to meet their purchase or credit obligations and avoid the high rates of interest imposed by some other lenders, such as credit card companies.

Expansion of Jennmar of Virginia

The president of Jennmar Corporation, Frank Calandra Jr., has announced the expansion of the Pounding Mill, Va., manufacturing facility.

The more-than-$1 million expansion will include a complete stamping operation and completely automated National forging equipment, increasing capabilities to 40,000 bolts daily. The manufacturing facility will increase an additional 10,000 sq. ft., and new delivery trucks have been ordered. The Bank of Tazewell County has provided partial financing for the expansion. The project will be completed by September 30. The additional manufacturing space and equipment is needed for the increased coal mining activity in the Southern Appalachian coalfield.

Jennmar is a leading supplier or roof support systems for the coal, hard rock and tunneling industries. Sales offices and plants are in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, Utah and Australia. Jennmar Corporation is located in Pittsburgh, Penn.

A roundtable discussion with Pioneer Investment Management Inc.

Kenneth J. Taubes, senior vice president and head of fixed income David J. Eurkus, vice president, municipal board portfolio manager Margaret D. Patel, senior vice president and portfolio manager, Pioneer High-Yield Fund Richard A. Schlanger, vice president and portfolio manager, U.S. government issue Salvatore P. Pramas, vice president and portfolio manager, international bonds

Q. What lesson should investors be drawing from recent stock and bond market performance?

Taubes: It's a lesson that investors have heard before: diversification. There have been major, largely unforeseen shifts in the economic environment causing equity prices to decline significantly in many sectors. In the last 18 months, U.S. large-cap stocks declined by more than 15 percent, as measured by the Standard & Poor's 500 Stock Index™, while the damage to the NASDAQ Index, a proxy for technology stocks, has been much more dramatic. Meanwhile, most bond markets have done much better, with investment grade corporates, governments, and municipals recording very positive returns.

We think equity returns will regress toward the mean—the returns we saw in the 90s were certainly not typical of long-term equity results. So investors might do well to seek a better balance between risk and reward. Adding fixed-income holdings to their portfolios is a logical way to do that.

Q. Won't lower interest rates lead to higher stock prices?

Schlanger: Maybe so, but it may take quite a while. The Fed's rate cuts are the best evidence that the economy is slowing. Although the bulk of the cuts are probably behind us, more easing could be necessary. The economic expansion was the longest ever, and the recovery may be a bit more drawn out than people expect.

Q. Haven't many bond sectors already risen quite a bit?

Taubes: They have. But we are convinced that many portfolios are still distorted in favor of equities. Meanwhile, baby boomers are heading into retirement in large numbers. As time passes, they will feel the need for more income, and be less concerned about appreciation—they'll want to protect their wealth from market volatility. This wave of retiring boomers is a demographic imperative that could increase demand for fixed-income securities substantially.

While there's little yield to be found in stocks, yields in most bond categories are very attractive. We think investors can get the income they want and add stability to their portfolios by moving out of stocks and into our bond funds.

Q. Where should those investors be looking?

Eurkus: Let's start with municipal bonds, where investors can earn income that's free of federal, and some state, income taxes. The crossover tax-rate—the point at which individuals are better off in tax-free rather than taxable bonds—is now below 30 percent in many cases. Meanwhile, the yield on 30-year AAA-rated munus was 92.5% of comparable maturity treasuries as of the end of June 2001 (Source: Lehman Brothers).

All this means that for investors seeking a relative safe haven from the volatility of the equity market, munis are an attractive, tax-free alternative. The taxable equivalent yields are greater in most tax-frees than in comparably rated taxable corporate bonds. We also find these ratios attractive on a historical basis. In addition, according to Moody's and Standard & Poor's, the tax-free universe has substantially more credit upgrades than downgrades, in comparison to corporates.

Q. Is there enough demand to absorb the supply of munis?

Eurkus: Absolutely. Municipals continue to benefit from positive institutional fund flows, increased allocation from money managers, and steady retail investment—due to coupon/maturities (reinvestment of principal) and baby boomers rebalancing in favor of bonds as retirement approaches.

Q. What other fixed-income sectors look attractive?

Taubes: Particularly in corporate sectors, spreads over equivalent-maturity treasuries are high, giving a nice yield cushion to compensate for risk while the economy remains sluggish.

Patel: For example, although high-yield spreads have narrowed somewhat, they are still quite wide in historic terms. There are good values to be found. We continue to like energy, even though oil and gas prices may soften for a time. An oil price of $18 to $20 is high enough to encourage drilling. We also think technology will rebound faster than the general economy, so we've been buying semiconductor manufacturers and telecom equipment makers. And real estate is looking attractive right now. Fears of a downturn have not been realized, and lower rates have made financing easier.

Q. What's the outlook for international bonds?

Pramas: The outlook for global bonds is mixed; it is quite positive for high grade, sovereign bonds such as German Bunds, especially given the decline we anticipate in the US dollar, but the outlook is still fairly risky for emerging market debt, such as Argentina and Turkey.

In the high-grade sector, 10-year bonds issued by the governments of Germany, Canada and Australia offer yields slightly below or above the 5.10 percent yield of comparable US Treasury bonds. But in addition to this yield, investors have the potential for significant currency gains, should the US dollar decline from its recent super-strong level. Our favorite bond in this sector is an inflation-protected French government bond that actually yields more than conventional French government bonds with no such protection.

In the emerging debt market things are not so rosy. Both Argentina and Turkey are in the midst of their own financial crises, and investors are beginning to suspect that some form of debt restructuring may be necessary in both countries in order to avoid outright default. Fundamentals are deteriorating elsewhere as well. Brazil is dealing with a weak currency and an energy crisis, Mexico is slowing down dramatically, and the entire Asian region is being hurt by the huge dropoff in world demand for their exports, namely technology and electronic goods. Despite a significant rise in yields year-to-date, the risks are still too high to be too aggressive in the emerging debt sector.

can be no assurance that countries, markets or sectors will perform as expected.

International investing involves risks that include, but are not limited to, currency fluctuations, social and economic stability, differing securities regulations and accounting standards, limited public information, possible changes in taxation and periods of illiquidity. Emerging markets are normally more volatile than the markets of more developed nations; you should consider this increased market risk before investing.

Software watchdog settles software piracy lawsuit with engineering company

Washington, DC.—The Business Software Alliance, a watchdog group representing the leading software manufacturers, announced on August 15 that Bocook Engineering, an engineering firm located in Paintsville, Ky., paid $20,000 to the BSA to settle a lawsuit claiming piracy of unlicensed copies of Autodesk, Bentley and Microsoft software programs. Bocook also agreed to delete any unlicensed copies, purchase replacement software and strengthen its software management practices.

The case began with a call to BSA's anti-piracy hotline (1-888-NO PIRACY). BSA filed a complaint for copyright infringement in the federal district court in Pikeville, Ky., and the court ordered the raid of Bocook Engineering's computers, which was carried out by BSA and the U.S. Marshall's. The court also entered a temporary restraining order preventing Bocook Engineering for deleting software from its computers.

"Software piracy in the workplace needs to be stopped," said Bod Kruger, vice president of enforcement for BSA.

"Business must examine their software management programs to avoid becoming a target of a BSA investigation. When BSA knocks on your door, it's too late to come clean."

"Companies need to be aware of the importance of purchasing licenses for the software programs installed on their computers," said BSA's attorney and Paintsville native Gene Vance, of Stool, Keenan, and Park. "It's important for all companies to be committed to copyright law compliance."

According to a 2000 study, the U.S. software lost more than $2.6 billion to software piracy in 2000. This loss has a significant impact on the U.S. economy. It is estimated that software piracy cost the U.S. economy more than 107,000 jobs, $3.5 billion in lost wages and almost $1.8 billion in tax revenue.

The Business Software Alliance is the voice of the world's software and Internet industry before governments and with consumers in the international workplace. Its members represent the fastest growing industry in the world. BSA educates computer users on software copyrights, advocates public policy that fosters innovation and trade opportunities, and fights software piracy. BSA members include Adobe, Autodesk, Bentley Systems, CNC Software/Mastercam, Macromedia, Microsoft, Symantec, and UGS. For more information, visit the BSA website at www.bsa.org.

Medicare

Medicare Private Fee for Service Plan or if I can get Medicaid?

No. Medigap plans only help pay health care costs if you have original Medicare.

What if I am under 65 and eligible for Medicare because of a disability or plan to continue working after I am 65?

These are special situations and you need detailed information about the guidelines and your rights. Please see the next question and answer for resources.

Where can I find out more about Medigap plans?

There are several ways to learn more. You may call 1-800-633-4227 and ask for your free copy of "Choosing a Medigap Policy," publication number HCFA-02110. You can also print this book from the internet website at www.medicare.gov. The Kentucky Department of Insurance at 1-800-595-6053 is another great place to get information about Medigap plans.

Have questions about Medicare? Call 1-800-MEDICARE (1-800-633-4227), TTY/TDD 1-877-486-2048 (toll-free for the hearing impaired), or visit www.medicare.gov on the internet.

Home

One benefit of a home equity line of credit is that it establishes an ongoing financial relationship between the homeowner and the lender. As a result, it need not be renegotiated whenever future financial needs arise.

With the increasing availability of these lines of credit, consumers began to use them for a variety of major life expenses—such as funding a child's higher education, vacations or buying a new car or other large ticket item.

Home equity borrowing today

Although the decision to take out a home equity loan has traditionally been driven by a specific financial need, that is beginning to change. In many cases, home equity loans are now being driven by a desire to add to or preserve personal wealth.

One relatively new approach to wealth creation combines home equity lines of credit with Total Balance Sheet Management (TBSM)—the active management of liabilities in order to help increase or preserve financial assets. Rather than view all debt as negative, TBSM investors believe that certain kinds of debt can help improve their overall financial health. TBSM-based investment strategies commonly include:

■ Consolidating high-interest debt into lower-interest alternatives.

■ Maximizing tax deductions and minimizing capital gains events.

■ Using credit cards only when necessary.

The TBSM approach to home equity lending has helped change the borrowing patterns of many Americans. For some investors, a home equity line of credit allows for debt consolidation that can free up additional funds for the purchase of stocks and bonds. For others, buying a new car through a home equity line of credit offers allows for tax deductible interest payments that are not available with traditional auto loans.

You've cleaned out your attic, your basement, your garage and now you're ready to host a garage sale. Before you proceed, follow these signs for placing the type of classified ad that will help turn your event into a best-seller.

Be sure to include in your Garage or Yard Sale ad...

- 1 WHAT. Describe the type of sale you're hosting. Is it mostly household goods? Nursery furniture? Apparel?
- 2 WHEN. Give dates and time of sale, and rain date information.
- 3 WHERE. Where the sale will be held, with directions or phone number for directions.

- 4 WHY. Reason for sale, especially if it is a "moving" sale, since these tend to attract more customers.

TACKLE YOUR

TASTE BUDS

Kick off football season with tempting tailgates. Make the game-day spread easy and portable with winning flavors to satisfy hungry fans.

Touchdown Beef Chili and Kickoff Beef Fajita Salad are tasty main dish choices guaranteed to please. Both can be made ahead and refrigerated overnight for extra convenience. To make the chili, simmer pieces of beef chuck or round to fork-tenderness with tomatoes, beans and chili seasonings. Just before leaving for the game, reheat the chili to a full rolling boil, then spoon into preheated thermal containers. The chili will be hot and ready-to-eat at tailgate time.

For the salad, a flavorful mixture of lemon juice, garlic, fajita seasoning and oil does double duty as both the marinade and dressing. Marinate the top sirloin steak in part of the lemon mixture and reserve the remainder for the salad. For extra ease, use bottled lemon juice from concentrate—no need to squeeze, and the lemon flavor is consistent every time.

Round out the menu with an assortment of cut-up, ready-to-eat fruits and vegetables—and for dessert, luscious Lemon-Raspberry Bars. Refreshing lemon filling tops a buttery shortbread crust with a layer of raspberry jam spread over the baked bars.

For transporting, make sure the salad, fruits and vegetables, and lemon bars are well chilled and stored in tightly covered containers. Place them in an insulated cooler packed with frozen gel-packs or plenty of ice.

Football fans are sure to rally "round this "taste bud-tackling" tailgate!

• Bottled lemon juice from concentrate adds a citrusy splash to beverages like mulled cider, hot tea and toddies. It also makes a great lemonade and iced tea for warm weather games.

• Use RealLemon Lemon Juice From Concentrate to clean and freshen cutting boards. Never use the same board for raw and cooked foods unless it's thoroughly washed between uses.

• A full cooler will stay cold longer than one partially filled.

• Keep coolers in the shade or sheltered from the sun. If possible, pack beverages and perishables in separate coolers.

• Bring moist towelettes and wet disposable cloths and paper towels packed in sealable plastic bags for cleanup.

• Return perishables to the cooler immediately after eating.

Tailgating Safety Quiz

Test your food safety knowledge.

- Return leftovers to the cooler or refrigerator within 3 hours of serving. True False
- Ice or frozen gel-packs are a must for keeping cold foods cold even if you use an insulated cooler. True False
- Steaks should be cooked to a minimum internal temperature of 145°F and burgers to 160°F. True False
- Marinating up to one hour at room temperature is OK. True False
- To save time, it's OK to pack coolers the night before if you use plenty of ice. True False

Answers

- False. Return to cooler or refrigerator within 2 hours of serving—within 1 hour if the temperature outside is 90°F or higher.
- True.
- True. Use an instant-read thermometer inserted horizontally to check the temperature.
- False. Always marinate in the refrigerator or in a chilled cooler if cooking outdoors.
- False. Pack just before you leave. Make sure cold foods are completely chilled before you pack them.

TOUCHDOWN BEEF CHILI

Chili can be made ahead and refrigerated. To transport, pre-heat thermal container with boiling water. Heat chili to a full rolling boil. Drain water from container and fill with chili.

Total preparation and cooking time: 1-1/2 hours

- 2-1/2 pounds boneless beef chuck or round, cut into 1/2-inch pieces
- 2 cans (15-1/2 ounces each) black beans, rinsed, drained
- 1 can (15-1/2 ounces) chili-style tomato sauce with diced tomatoes
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 2 teaspoons chili powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon ground cumin
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup prepared thick-and-chunky salsa

1. Combine all ingredients except salsa in Dutch oven; bring to a boil. Reduce heat; cover tightly and simmer 1-1/4 to 1-1/2 hours or until beef is fork-tender. Just before serving, stir in salsa; heat thoroughly.

Makes 6 to 8 servings (10 cups total).
Cook's Tip: If chili-style tomato sauce with diced tomatoes is not available, substitute one can (14-1/2 ounces) chili-style diced tomatoes plus 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce.

VICTORY LEMON-RASPBERRY BARS

Place chilled or frozen bars in a sealed container and pack in an insulated cooler with frozen gel-packs or ice.

Total preparation and cooking time: 1 hour

- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter, at room temperature
- 1/2 cup powdered (confectioners') sugar
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 6 eggs
- 2-1/4 cups granulated sugar
- 3/4 cup RealLemon Lemon Juice From Concentrate
- 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
- 1-1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 cup raspberry jam
- 1/2 cup vanilla baking chips

1. Heat oven to 350°F. Beat butter in large mixer bowl until fluffy. Add powdered sugar; beat until combined. Gradually beat in 2 cups flour. Press dough onto bottom of well-greased 13 x 9-inch baking pan. Bake in 350°F oven 18 to 20 minutes or until golden.

2. Combine eggs, granulated sugar, lemon juice, 1/2 cup flour and baking powder in large mixer bowl; beat 2 minutes. Pour over hot crust. Bake 25 minutes longer or until custard is set and top is golden. Remove pan to wire rack.

3. Place jam in microwave-safe bowl. Microwave on HIGH 30 to 45 seconds or until melted. Gently spread over lemon bars. Cool completely.

4. Place baking chips in microwave-safe bowl. Microwave on HIGH 1 minute; stir. Microwave 30 seconds longer or until smooth when stirred. Drizzle over cooled bars. Store in refrigerator.

Makes 30 bars.

Cook's Tip: Bars can be made ahead and frozen. Wrap airtight in aluminum foil, in single layer; freeze up to 2 months. Unwrap and defrost at room temperature.

KICKOFF BEEF FAJITA SALAD

Chill salad completely in the refrigerator. Place cold salad in sealed container and pack in an insulated cooler with frozen gel-packs or ice.

Total preparation and cooking time: 35 minutes

Marinating time: 15 minutes to 2 hours

Chilling time: 2 hours or overnight

- 1 well-trimmed boneless beef top sirloin steak, cut 1 inch thick (about 1-1/2 pounds)
- 2 red or yellow bell peppers, cut in half
- 1 large sweet onion, cut into 1/2-inch thick slices
- 4 cups uncooked corkscrew pasta
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 tablespoon fajita seasoning
- 1/4 cup chopped fresh cilantro

Marinade:

- 1/2 cup RealLemon Lemon Juice From Concentrate
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 4 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 tablespoon fajita seasoning

- Combine marinade ingredients in small bowl. Place beef steak and 1/2 cup marinade in food-safe plastic bag; turn steak to coat. Close bag securely and marinate in refrigerator 15 minutes to 2 hours. Reserve remaining marinade.
- Remove steak from marinade; discard marinade. Place steak, bell peppers and onion on grid over medium, ash-covered coals. Grill steak, uncovered, 17 to 21 minutes for medium rare to medium doneness, turning occasionally. Grill vegetables 16 to 18 minutes or until tender, turning occasionally. Remove from grill; let stand 10 minutes.
- Meanwhile cook pasta according to package directions; drain. Combine reserved marinade with 2 tablespoons olive oil and 1 tablespoon fajita seasoning in small bowl; whisk until blended.
- Cut steak lengthwise in half, then crosswise into thin slices. Cut peppers into 1/2-inch wide strips; coarsely chop onion. Combine pasta, beef, peppers, onion, dressing and cilantro in large bowl; mix lightly. Cover and refrigerate at least 2 hours, or overnight if desired, before serving.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Cook's Tip: To test the doneness of steak, insert stem of instant-read thermometer horizontally into center of steak, without touching fat or grid. Allow 10 to 15 seconds for thermometer to register internal temperature. Thermometer should register 145°F for medium rare; 160°F for medium.

TV producers are planning to lay down the law this fall

by JOHN CROOK
TVDATA FEATURES SYNDICATE

TV's motto this fall: "There ought to be a law." Several of them, in fact. Joining long-running shows such as Law & Order and NYPD Blue, an unusually large number of new network shows this season are set in some law and order venue, two of them from the creators of the above established hits.

Law & Order creator Dick Wolf, who managed a successful spinoff two seasons ago with Law & Order: Special Victims Unit is back this fall with a third series, Law & Order: Criminal Intent.

Wolf's new series reportedly inserts a new psychological component into the Law & Order formula by investigating major crimes from the perpetrator's perspective. This fresh viewpoint means the new show is no threat to the other two established L&O shows, Wolf says.

"On an average week, over 60 million people watch Law & Order in some form," he explains. "I think there's a huge appetite for the show, and ... I think there is about as much similarity between Criminal Intent and (the original) Law & Order as there is (with) NYPD Blue.

"What we are telling the audience is that you will get writing at a certain level. And the casting is superb. ... I think there is an audience of 60 million people out there who expect a certain level of quality and will tune in to see that when (the phrase) Law & Order is on the front of the show."

Criminal Intent stars former Emmy nominee Vincent D'Onofrio (Homicide: Life on the Street) as homicide detective Robert Goren, while Ozaluma Kathryn Erbe plays his partner, Detective Alexandra Eames. Jamey Sheridan (Chicago Hope) co-stars as their commanding officer, Capt. James Deakins, while Courtney B. Vance (Boston Public) plays Assistant District Attorney RonCarver.

The casting is almost as prestigious on Philly, Steven Bochco's first foray into the legal drama arena since his smash L.A. Law. The new show, which takes over the Tuesday ABC slot previously held by NYPD Blue (which moves to Wednesdays), stars Emmy winner Kim Delaney as hard-driving Philadelphia lawyer Kathleen Maguire, whose budding law firm is jeopardized by the nervous breakdown of her older partner (Joanna Cassidy). Homicide: Life on the Street alum Kyle Secor co-stars as Kathleen's ex-husband, an arrogant assistant district attorney.

Bochco says he thinks the public perception of the legal system has changed and darkened since the glory days of L.A. Law, and the new show will have a grittier feel to it.

"Fifteen years ago, L.A. Law was a bit of a fantasy, very upscale, very L.A., you know?" he says. "(Philly) is a little more real. L.A. Law really was only nominally involved in criminal law. Philly is about the criminal justice system, and to that extent, I think it's a profoundly different show, both in its look and in its feel, but also in its focus."

"On most law shows, a judge sits up there and is essentially a cipher and isn't really part of the drama. We just felt (with Philly) that if you're doing a series about criminal defense attorneys and they're in and out of courtrooms all day long, there's a world in that courthouse - and that world is, by and large, run by judges. We thought we could have a very good time characterizing these judges." While these Wolf and Bochco shows may hold most of the spotlight for now, other law-related shows are on tap as well. The Guardian (CBS Tuesdays) casts Australian newcomer Simon Baker as Nick Fallin, a self-absorbed young lawyer whose priorities slowly begin to change after drug charges land him in a community service capacity at a child advocacy office run by Alvin Masterson (Alan Rosenberg, Cybill). Dabney Coleman also stars as Burton Fallin, Nick's gruff, self-made father in this drama with real sleeper potential. Crossing Jordan (NBC Mondays) finds Jill Hennessy - erst while assistant prosecutor Claire Kincaid from Law & Order - newly cast as a brilliant yet irascible Boston medical examiner who wears her emotions on her sleeve and tends to become overly involved in the investigation of suspicious deaths. Miguel Ferrer co-stars as her long-suffering boss, while Ken Howard plays her father, a retired cop haunted by the still-unsolved murder of her mother.

Of course, none of the above even scratches the surface of the shows about covert crimefighters, with Odad Fehr (The Mummy) and Jon Seda (Homicide: Life on the Street) sharing top billing in UC: Undercover (NBC Sundays); Jennifer Garner as a La Femme Nikita clone in Alias (ABC Sundays); Kiefer Sutherland as the leader of a corps of anti-terrorists in 24 (Fox Tuesdays); Gil Bellows (Ally McBeal) and Paige Turco (American Gothic) as CIA spooks in The Agency (CBS Thursdays); and John Stamos (Full House) as a professional stickyfingers blackmailed by the government into performing bureaucratic risky business in Thieves (ABC Fridays). Finally, as if all this weren't enough, Murphy's Romance stars

James Garner and Sally Field both have midseason dramas set behind the scenes of the Supreme Court in the works. His is on CBS; hers, ABC. Kathryn Erbe (left) and Vincent D'Onofrio star in NBC's Law & Order: Criminal Intent, one of the fall's many new dramas with a law-and-order theme.

Golf

Maybe Tiger Woods is saving his best for last: the final round of the season's last major, the PGA Championship. Since winning the Masters, Woods has struggled in the U.S. and British Opens, majors he dominated in 2000. But making the turn today is bound to conjure up memories of his classic battle last year with Bob May, when a match-play duel ensued between the two which Woods eventually won in a three-hole playoff. Will another Bob May, who at this time a year ago was an unknown 31-year-old rookie, emerge today? Or is Tiger preparing to hoist the championship trophy for the third year in a row?

out of his current relationship, while Annie and Robbie (Catherine Hicks, Adam LaVorgna) seek clues to the mystery of Ruthie's (MacKenzie Rosman) chronic truancy from homeroom. Beverley Mitchell also stars.

Becker

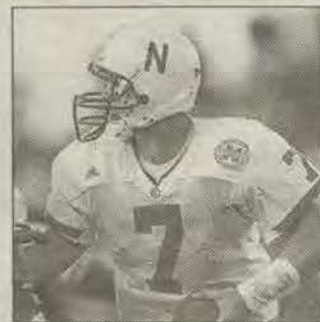

Leonard Nimoy guest stars as Professor Fowler, Becker's (Ted Danson) mentor from college who is in town to sign his new book. Becker, of course, has fond memories of their relationship — but the same can't be said for the professor. In fact, he doesn't remember Becker at all, but he's very interested in Reggie (Terry Farrell). So his old protege goes to great lengths to refresh his memory in "The Tor Mentor." Alex Desert also stars.

Movie: Within These Walls

This TV movie is based on the true story of Sister Pauline Quinn (Laura Dern), who visits a women's prison with three dogs and a dream: to have inmates train the animals as assistance dogs for the disabled. Ellen Burstyn plays Joan, a tough, bitter lifer who reluctantly acquires a four-abled cellmate named Gypsy after reporting the dog's original owner for hitting him. It doesn't happen overnight, but Gypsy's unconditional love and Pauline's revelations about her own rocky youth eventually break through Joan's hard shell, with three-hankie results. Lucinda Davis, Maria Herrera, Karen Glave and LaTanya Richardson also star.

Nebraska quarterback Eric Crouch leads his team against Texas Christian University in the Pigskin Classic, airing Saturday on ABC.

Taxi Dreams

A century ago, the vehicle out of poverty for many, new immigrants to New York was a push-cart. Today it's often a taxi. This special profiles five men who have come to the United States in search of a better life and gone to work driving cabs in the mean streets of New York. Narrated by Judd Hirsch, who's not a cabbie but played one on TV, it follows a 24-year-old aspiring computer programmer from Bangladesh on his first day behind the wheel, accompanies an accountant-turned-cab driver from Pakistan to the spot where he was robbed on his first day, and catches up with a driver from Ghana as he's reunited with the family he'd left behind. The program also includes a trip to India with the most prosperous of the five, who takes his two sons there every year so they'll remember their roots.

Investigative Reports

The 1996 report "Dirty Secrets of Cromwell Street" revisits a serial murder story from England that, while not well-known on this side of the pond, is as grisly as the John Wayne Gacy and Jeffrey Dahmer cases. And what makes it even more bizarre is the fact that one of the perpetrators was female. Fred and Rosemary West were accused in the killings of more than 10 girls and young women, many of whose bodies were found buried in the cellar and the garden of their humble home in Gloucester. Some had been hired as nannies, others had been kidnapped as sex toys, and one was their own daughter. The centerpiece of the hour is an interview with two of the Wests' surviving children, who stoically spin a horrifying tale of physical and sexual abuse, adultery, prostitution and worse.

JAG

The U.S. Navy's real judge advocate general, Rear Adm. Donald Guter, guest stars as a special assistant to the secretary of the Navy in "Liberty," which finds Harm and Bud (David James Elliott, Patrick Labyorteaux) defending Bud's brother, Mikey (Michael Bellisario), in a murder case. It happened in a bar brawl in Mexico, and the prosecutor is pushing for a plea deal. But Harm and Bud would rather take the case to trial, even though the prosecution has a parade of witnesses willing to testify they saw Mikey do it. The defense may have a secret weapon, though: Gunny, who's diligently digging dirt on the victim. Catherine Bell also stars.

8 p.m. FOX

That '70s Show

Rocker Ted Nugent guest stars as himself in "Backstage Pass." Through her job at the radio station, Donna (Laura Prepon) gets tickets to a Nugent concert, which quickly melts Eric's (Topher Grace) budding resentment toward the station for monopolizing her time. But on concert night, she is faced with a dilemma: Does she stay by Eric's side or use her backstage pass for the once-in-a-lifetime chance to hang with Ted? Fez and Hyde (Wilmer Valderrama, Danny Master-son) are at the show, too, selling Nugent T-shirts, but a typo in Ted's name is a dead giveaway that these aren't exactly official merchandise. Howard Hesseman also guest stars.

Nova

Hal Holbrook narrates "Super Bridge," the story of the difficulties engineers and construction workers faced as they labored for four years to span the Mississippi River at Alton, Ill. in this special two-hour presentation. Located just north of St. Louis, the Clark Bridge has been hailed not only for its impressive design, but for how its construction has influenced the building of future cable-stayed structures.

9 p.m. HISTORY

Gold! The Gold Wars

An ambitious four-part series of specials chronicles the world's love affair with gold, that precious yellow substance for which people over the centuries have fought, killed, died and up-rooted their lives. It opens with a bang — an hour tracing the violence spawned by gold, including the pirate trade and the bloody conquest of the Americas. Later installments, airing Wednesday through Friday, cover the California gold rush; the mythology surrounding gold; and the implications of the gold standard.

9 p.m. TNT

Witchblade

Sara (Yancy Butler) has a series of learning experiences in the season finale, "Transcendence." The most important is new insight into the power of the Witchblade — and just in time, as a revelation about Dante (Nestor Serrano) and his crooked cops is the catalyst for a major show-down, with information about Sara's father's killer on the other side. David Chokachi and Eric Etebari also star.

9:30 p.m. NBC

Three Sisters

Honey (Dyan Cannon) wants to spend Mother's Day with her daughters, but Bess and Nora (Katherine LaNasa, Vicki Lewis) have a problem with this year's setting: a reunion with her fellow former Playboy bunnies. So she tells them they're not welcome after all and goes without them. Soon, however, the guilt gets to them and with Annie (A.J. Langer) in tow, they crash the party, where Bess learns something new about her mother from an old friend (guest star Loni Anderson). Dawn Wells (Gilligan's Island) and Joanna Cassidy (Diagnosis Murder) also guest star in "Mother's Day."

episode visits a different small town and rounds up the locals to perform a movie spoof — Jurassic Dog Park, for example, or The Silence of the Yams. It's one of several new TNN series premiering this week that spotlight real people. The others are Pop Across America, a look at local popular culture; Lifegame, a cross between This Is Your Life and Who's Line Is It Anyway? in which actors improvise someone's life story as he tells it; Ultimate Revenge, a kinder, gentler variation on Spy TV; and Robot Wars: Extreme Warriors, a battle of the 'bots pitting robots built by amateurs against the "pros." Wrestler Mick Foley hosts Wars.

Ed

As a lawyer, Ed (Tom Cavanagh) gives lots of advice, but Carol (Julie Bowen) believes he overstepped his bounds in advising socially challenged high-schooler Warren (Justin Long) to ask his dream girl to the prom. He gets a warmer reception from his latest client, a golfer who lost a match — and a cash prize — because a heckler distracted him on the final putt. Phil (Michael Ian Black) plans a Las Vegas night at the bowling alley. Mike (Josh Randall) plans a banquet to honor Dr. Jerome (Marvin Chati-nover) — whom he can't stand. Jana Marie Hupp also stars in "Mixed Signals."

Live From Lincoln Center

In Mostly Mozart 2001, soprano Ute Selbig, mezzo-soprano Florence Quivar, tenor Michael Schade, baritone Richard Zeller and the Desoff Choirs join the Mostly Mozart Festival Orchestra for a performance of Mozart's Requiem in D minor. Also on the bill is pianist Emanuel Ax, playing the composer's Piano Concerto No. 22. Gerard Schwarz conducts.

Movie: Pee-wee's Big Adventure

When his beloved red bicycle is stolen, Pee-wee Herman (Paul Reubens) goes on a cross-country journey to find it. As director of this cartoon-like comedy, Tim Burton (Edward Scissorhands, Mars Attacks!) made sure the quirky film had plenty of eye-popping visuals and genuinely funny moments. Danny Elfman (Batman) composed the score.

8:30 p.m. FOX

Grounded for Life

Sean (Donal Logue) learns that doing the right thing comes with a price in "I Wanna Be Suspended." He considers attending a Ramones concert to be a valuable learning experience in its own way, so he has no qualms about pulling son Jimmy (Griffin Frazen) out of school to attend. And when it's time to write the obligatory "Jimmy was absent because ..." note, Sean sees no need to hide the truth. But the principal, Sister Helen (Miriam Flynn), doesn't consider that a valid reason, and Jimmy is slapped with a suspension. Megyn Price and Kevin Corrigan also star.

American Justice

"Raised on Hate" is the story of Chevie O'Brien Kehoe, a gifted student who wanted to become a military pilot. His father, a Vietnam veteran, wanted Kehoe to be a warrior, too — but not for Uncle Sam. A white supremacist with dreams of creating a new nation for Caucasians only, he pulled the boy out of school at 17 and began training him as a killing machine. The training took, and in his early 20s, Kehoe killed an Arkansas family of three. He'd also acquired the ability to elude police, and it wasn't until his brother turned him in that he was caught a year and a half later. Not only did his brother testify against him; so did his mother, sending Kehoe to prison for life.

Miss Teen USA 2001

There's no talent competition in Miss Teen USA, kid sister to the Miss USA and Miss Universe pageants, but that doesn't mean these girls don't have talent. Several Misses Teen USA have reappeared on the big and small screens over the years, including Kelly Hu (Martial Law), Bridgette Wilson (I Know What You Did Last Summer) and Shana Moakler (Pacific Blue). Texas' South Padre Island is the home base for this year's crowning of a new teen queen from among 51 hopefuls. Singer Mandy

THURSDAY
AUGUST 23, 2001

6:15 p.m. HBO

Movie: The Princess Bride

Rob Reiner's fourth big-screen directing effort scored big with all ages; children love the fantastic fairy tale, and its tongue-in-cheek touch keeps grown-ups chuckling. As told to a sick boy (Fred Savage) by his grandfather (Peter Falk), it's the tale of a simple farm boy (Cary Elwes) who loves a princess (Robin Wright), and faces all sorts of bad guys and creepy creatures on his quest to rescue her from her evil fiancé (Chris Sarandon), Mandy Patinkin, Christopher Guest, Andre the Giant and a scene-stealing Billy Crystal also star in the 1987 fantasy.

8 p.m. A&E

Biography

Ivana Trump profiles one of the world's most famous divorcees, who didn't need to marry money to be a success — although it didn't hurt. Born in Czechoslovakia, where she found success as a skier and model, she fled Communism by marrying an Austrian and moving to Canada. On a modeling trip to New York, she met real estate tycoon Donald Trump, eventually becoming his wife, the mother of his children and his company's vice president in charge of interior decorating. When the marriage fell apart, the ex-Mrs. Trump used her divorce settlement to start a clothing line, making her own millions. But as this profile reveals, despite all her money and celebrity status, she still has both feet firmly planted on the ground. Immediately following is a Biography of the man she used to call The Donald.

8 p.m. CBS

NFL Preseason Football

It's the second-to-last pre-season game for each team, meaning gunslingers Donovan McNabb and Steve McNair should be prominently featured when the Eagles visit the Titans. With camp nearly complete, coaches traditionally give their starters the most playing time in the third game, so this one should have the feel of a regular season matchup. The list of good, young quarterbacks is growing again in the NFL, after years of the league leaning on marquee names like Marino, Elway and Aikman. McNabb and McNair are two of the best, and not only because of their throwing skills, but their ability to elude defenders by running as well.

8 p.m. NBC

Friends

In "The One With Ross and Monica's Cousin," Monica

(Courteney Cox Arquette) sends her gorgeous visiting cousin, Cassie (guest star Denise Richards), to stay with Ross (David Schwimmer) because Chandler (Matthew Perry) can't stop staring at her. Unfortunately, Cassie's looks do a number on Ross, too. Joey (Matt LeBlanc) is up for a big movie role, but it requires full frontal nudity. He's OK with that, but the part also calls for a part he doesn't have. Jennifer Aniston and Lisa Kudrow also star.

8 p.m. TNT

Movie: Carrie

Sissy Spacek and Piper Laurie didn't win the Oscars, but Stephen King won the title of horror king with this 1976 adaptation of his first novel. Spacek, who was in her mid-20s at the time, is utterly convincing as a timid, tormented teenager who discovers she has the power to move things with her mind. When she becomes the butt of a cruel prom-night prank, the whole town, including her religious fanatic mother (Laurie), pays a terrifying price. Amy Irving, Betty Buckley and John Travolta also star.

Movie: Nobody's Fool

Paul Newman earned an Oscar nomination for his portrayal of Sully, an unemployed construction worker with a blown-out knee, in this 1994 adaptation of Richard Russo's novel. Nearing retirement in a small New York town, Sully has one last chance to piece his world and family back together. Bruce Willis, Melanie Griffith and Jessica Tandy also star.

Traditional Art: The Next New Thing?

You've heard the expression, "What goes around comes around," and that's an apt description for what's happening in the art world. Over the past 100 years or so, artists moved beyond painting the old-fashioned way, venturing into cubism, abstract expressionism, surrealism and other nontraditional forms. But like bell-bottom pants and platform shoes, traditional art has come back into vogue. Host Ben Wattenberg looks at the trend and speculates on its implications for 21st-century culture.

Major League Baseball

A string of games against teams in the National League East continues for the Los Angeles Dodgers when they open a four-game set against the division's best team, the Atlanta Braves. The Dodgers took two of three when these teams met for the first time back in May, but that was before injuries wiped out three of L.A.'s starting pitchers. Still, first-year manager Jim Tracy has maneuvered his club into position to battle Arizona and San Francisco for first place in the N.L. West, with the help of big seasons from sluggers Gary Sheffield and Shawn Green.

Providence

Syd (Melina Kanakaredes) is on a mission to persuade a drug company to continue trials on a low-demand but high-performing new medicine. The disease it has great potential to cure is rare, but it's a killer — and it affects children. Syd finds what appears to be a sympathetic congressman (Steven Eckholdt) to help plead her case, only to discover that he's actually in the drug industry's pocket. Speaking of drugs, Jim (Mike Farrell) is getting his beloved dog into the business, sending him for police training as a narcotics sniffer. Seth Peterson also stars in "Trial and Error."

Lexington 13th annual Roots and Heritage Festival

One of the premier African-American festivals in the South is spreading its roots to be even bigger and better this fall.

Lexington 13th annual Roots and Heritage Festival will be held August 25 through September 29, offering activities to attract young and old alike. Whether your interest is art, music, sports, literature, comedy or mouth-watering soul food, this cultural "happening" has something to enlighten and enliven persons of all ages and walks of life.

"Don't miss a minute of the Roots and Heritage Festival—it's great fun, great food, great music, and a great way to celebrate African-American culture," said Mayor Pam Miller. "This year, the Festival will be bigger and better than ever before. Join us downtown on Elm Tree Lane."

The two-day street fair and African marketplace will be held September 7 and 8, on Elm Tree Lane (formerly Rose Street Extended). The street fair will teem with a variety of vendors, selling a wide array of food, artifacts, artwork, and ethnic clothing. For decades this site was the hub of the business and social community for African-Americans in Lexington. It also was the location of the historic Lyric Theatre, which during its hey-day, showcased the talents of Duke Ellington, Cab Calloway, Bessie Smith, and Ray Charles.

On September 8, at 10 a.m., the annual parade will launch the day's activities. The parade, featuring the battle of the bands between Kentucky State University and the Central State University (Xenia, Ohio), will begin at Elm Tree Lane and Fourth Street.

Voter registration and education will be a focus of this year's festival, with a voter registration booth operating during the street fair.

Music is a mainstay of the festival each year, and festival-goers will not be disappointed with this year's fare. Nationally-known rhythm and blues singer, Jeffrey Osborne, will be the headliner for Saturday night's Stage 1 entertainment.

On Friday, September 7,

Friday Nite Blues-N-Street will bring some soulful musical sounds to Elm Tree Lane, from 7 p.m. to midnight. Entertainers scheduled include Louisville's Robbie Bartlett and Ron Jones; P. Ann Everson of Cincinnati, Ohio; and Lexington's own Andrew's Groove.

On Sunday, September 9, the music continues with a free Gospel Concert at Wesley United Methodist Church, Russell Cave Pike. The concert will run from 3 to 5 p.m.

Other events scheduled as part of the festival are:

■ A Creative Writing Workshop for Young People, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., August 25, at the Carnegie Center.

■ A Kentucky African-American Artists Exhibition, 5-9 p.m. September 7, at the Carnegie Center. The exhibit will highlight the works of nationally-known as well as local artists. Featured will be works of Louisville sculptor Ed Hamilton who designed the African-American Civil War Memorial, dedicated in Washington, D.C., in 1998.

■ A Golf Tournament, September 8 and 9, at Lakeside and Tates Creek Golf Courses.

■ An Actor's Guild play, "Jar The Floor," September 13-October 7, at Actor's Guild, 139 Short Street.

■ A Roots and Heritage Basketball Tournament and Step Show, 1-7 p.m. September 15, at Dunbar Center.

■ A Links Walk-A-Thon for Health and Wellness and YMCA/Body & Soul Fest on September 22, at the North Lexington YMCA.

■ A literary reading, featuring nationally-acclaimed The Last Poets, who enthralled a pre-rap generation, and have come back to capture a new generation of listeners. The reading will be at 7 p.m., September 22, at UK Memorial Hall.

■ Comedy Night at Comedy Off Broadway, 8-10 p.m. September 27, featuring Lavell Crawford, former Black Entertainment Television's Comedian of the Year. Proceeds will benefit the Dunbar Blazer Track Team; the Kentucky Central Angels Girls Basketball Team; and the Douglas Park T-Ball Team.

■ A Festival Charity Ball from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m., September 29, at the Embassy Suites. A dinner, dance, music by the band U-Turn, and a silent auction are on tap for this year. Proceeds will go to the African American Health Network.

The Roots and Heritage Festival began in 1989 as a small neighborhood street fair. It now draws more than 40,000 people each year from throughout the nation, and is one of the state's largest festivals. In 1998 it won the Governor's Award for the Arts, and has been recognized by the Kentucky Tourism Council as "one of Kentucky's Top Ten Festivals."

Corporate sponsors of the festival are the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government and the Kentucky Lottery. Platinum sponsors are Bank One, Ball Homes, Firststar Bank, and Lexington Community College.

Horoscopes...

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)

You sometimes go to extremes to prove a point. But this time, you won't have to. Supporters are ready, falling over themselves to come to help you make your case.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)

Venus might be your ruling planet, but Mars is in the picture as well. So don't be surprised if your romantic relationships are a bit rocky at this time. But they'll soon smooth over.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20)

Geminis might rush into romance and risk being wrong about someone rather than be left with no one. But this is one time when it's wiser to be wary of where your heart takes you.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22)

With all (or most) of those pesky problems behind you, take time for your family and friends. Travel aspects are favored, with long-distance journeys high on the list.

LEO (July 23 to August 22)

You might have started to question the wisdom of being open with someone you hoped you could trust. But be assured that you won't be disappointed. You'll soon hear good news.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22)

You have a reputation for honesty and integrity, and that will help turn around a situation that was not only disappointing but also quite unfair. Good luck.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22)

A happy event creates a closer tie with a family member who seemed hopelessly estranged. Positive aspects also dominate in important career matters.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21)

Your ruling planet, Pluto, helps you adjust to change. So, stop putting off that long-delayed move, and make it with the assurance that you're doing the right thing.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21)

You have a wonderful capacity to learn quickly and well. This will help you when you are faced with an opportunity to move on to a new path in life.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19)

Good news. You suddenly find that you're not facing that new challenge alone. You now have someone at your side, ready to offer whatever support you might need.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18)

Your versatility — which is just one of those aspects of yourself that makes you so special — helps you adapt to the challenges of a new and exciting opportunity.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20)

Your sensitive nature picks up on the needs of others. But what about your desires? You need to take more time to assess what your goals are and, if necessary, redirect them.

BORN THIS WEEK:

You give your trust openly and easily. People find you easy to be with and enjoy your wit, your good sense and your capacity to love and be loved.

ALL MY CHILDREN

Chris admitted to Tad, Dixie and Mateo that he was with the FBI. Edmund urged Anna to call her brother-in-law, Mac, in Port Charles, to learn if there were any leads on Robert. Jesse forced Gillian to leave Opal's body when she (Gillian) asked Ryan to make love to her. Later, as the fire in front of Gillian's shrine spread, an unconscious Ryan was unable to hear her voice as she appeared in the flames. Adam admitted to Stuart that he slept with Kay to protect JR. Wait to See: Mia threatens Liza.

AS THE WORLD TURNS

Barbara faced up to taking the stand. Meanwhile, Hal and Emily found evidence that could point to the real perpetrator. Lien decided to follow her heart. Molly was shaken to learn that her former boyfriend, Nick Scudder, had come to Oakdale. Dante and Lily came to an agreement. Wait to See: Craig demands justice. Rose agrees to help Paul.

THE BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL

Brooke told a flabbergasted Ridge she intended to prove they belong together. Taylor comforted Tony when he learned he was HIV positive. Later, Kristen fumed when Taylor (without betraying Tony's secret) urged Kristen to hold off being intimate with Tony. Clarke was upset when Sofia told him Tony had not yet broken the news to Kristen about his condition. Wait to See: Tony tries to be honest with Kristen.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES

In Salem, Brady and Chloe shared a close moment as they sang along with an opera CD. Grandpa Shawn urged Victor to try to dissuade Bo from returning to Ireland. Meanwhile, on the island, Paul pointed to a place on the treasure map and asked (young) Shawn how long he could swim underwater in a shark-infested area. Stefano sent word to Rolf not to turn Hope into Princess Gina. Jennifer had flashbacks of Colin. Wait to See: Greta considers acting on her feelings for Jack.

GENERAL HOSPITAL

Bobbie told Sonny that Carly is not pregnant. Later, Carly tried to pull the plug on Sorel, but was unable to kill him. Helena and Alexis accused each other of stealing Kristin's necklace, unaware that it was in Jax's possession. Elizabeth stopped Nikolas from revealing the truth to Gia. A drunken Luke railed against Nikolas, who responded by punching him out. A bear interrupted Roy and Melissa's romantic evening at the campsite. Wait to See: Helena sets a new test for Nikolas.

GUIDING LIGHT

Phillip's search became increasingly difficult. The people of San Cristobel were shaken by a strong earthquake. Blake worried about her relationship with Ross. Danny and Michelle each searched for the same piece of evidence. Wait to See: Dax looks for answers. Danny faces a distressing reality.

Construction and exhibit design on schedule for spring 2002 grand opening

The new Kentucky Music Hall of Fame & Museum, currently under construction at Renfro Valley, is on schedule with building construction, exhibit design, and induction proceedings for a spring 2002 grand opening.

"All of the committees are hard at work, and the elements of the project are coming together," said David Jury, chair of the museum board of directors. "We're planning for Grand Opening celebration the third week of May 2002."

The Building Committee, the Education/Exhibit Design Committee, and the Induction Committee are the committees facilitating most of the progress on the project.

The Building Committee, co-chaired by board members Ernie Tackett and Larry Carter, are responsible for oversight of the builders and building architects. Hacker Brothers Construction Company of Corbin, and CMW

Architects of Lexington, respectively. Concrete has been poured. Land has been cleared and excavated; and the demolition of designated portions of the Lair Stables, and new roof and siding for the Lair Stables are all nearing completion. The historic Lair Stables is being renovated and will act as the portal to the new 16,000 sq. ft. Hall of Fame and Museum.

The Education/Exhibit Design Committee, chaired by Ann Lair Henderson (board member) and Jan Crase (advisory board member), are responsible for the oversight of exhibit design and internal aspects of the building, working with Jack Rouse Associates of Cincinnati, the exhibit design firm.

Final detail exhibit design documents have just been reviewed by this committee and the fabrication bid documents should be ready for publication within two weeks.

The Education Committee has also been working very closely with the Kentucky Department of Education on a "music room," designed for the education of school age children. This attraction will allow visitors to see, touch, hear, and experiment with musical instruments and sounds. They will learn about composition, beat, pitch, timbre, melody, harmony and dynamics. Children will even be able to write and perform their own music.

The Induction Committee, made up of members of the state-wide Advisory Board, is hard at work reviewing nominations and developing the inaugural "pioneer" class of the Hall of Fame. This committee intends to announce the 2002 inductees in November, and is planning a gala induction event in Lexington, on the tentative date of February 28, 2002.

The Induction Committee and Board have spent many long hours developing a specific list of criteria which had to be met to be considered for the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame, including the candidate must have been born or lived in Kentucky, must have left an indelible impact on the music industry, and must have been a professional in the music industry for at least a decade.

In the inaugural year, only "Pioneers" will be elected. "Pioneers" are defined as those who shaped, or so profoundly affected the evolution of music, that it prepared the way for others who followed." The class must be at least 70 percent from the country and bluegrass genres of music. "Contemporaries," or artists who began their careers after 1960, will be eligible for induction beginning in 2003.

Bluegrass festival event to aid local children

The Hillbilly Clan #1 Outhouse #2, along with the Pike County Shrine Club, and Whitewater Shrine Club, will join together in hosting a Bluegrass Festival at the Hurricane Creek Saddle Club, located in Boldman, on the Floyd-Pike county line. The purpose of the event is to raise funds to be used toward the purchase of a new van equipped with a wheel chair lift to transport children to and from the Shriner's Children's Hospitals in Lexington and Cincinnati.

Featured acts and dates include: Friday, August 24 - Blackberry Jam, Frank Hammonds, Virginia Bluegrass, and Ernie Thacker and Route 23.

Saturday - August 25 - New Kentucky Grass, Shades of Tyme, The South Mountain Boys, Allen Amburgey & Kentucky Mountain Grass, Southern Storm, Virginia Bluegrass, Ernie Thacker and Route 23, and Dave Evans.

Ticket prices: Friday - $8.00; Saturday - $15.00; and two-day pass - $20.00.

Camping fees: Tent - $10 per night; RV - $20.00 per night. For camping reservations, call 606-478-8383 or 606-478-8883.

Advance ticket sales may be arranged by calling Regina Mine Supply at 606-754-5056.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE

Todd returned to help a distressed Blair, only to learn that Max got to her first, thanks to Gabrielle's alert. Meanwhile, Blair admitted to Larry that Todd, not Max, fathered her baby. Everyone attending the reading of Colin's will was startled when "Colin" walked in and insisted he's Troy, Colin's twin. Wait to See: Colin/Troy's true identity is revealed. Rae connects with someone from Viki's past.

PASSIONS

Charity had horrifying visions as she stared into the campfire on Warlock Island. Theresa urged Julian to reinstate Ethan as a Crane. Grace broke down as she confronted her past. Kay got into Miguel's sleeping bag. Norma set fire to the boat on which Tabitha and Timmy were hiding, trapping them both. Wait to See: Theresa has a strange dream.

PORT CHARLES

Jack stopped Caleb and Livvie's wedding. Meanwhile, Gaby began to tempt Chris with promises of immortality. Lucy wondered why Caleb seemed to be afraid of her. Later, after learning she's the descendant of a woman who lived in Transylvania, she and Kevin flew there to learn more about her family. Wait to See: Jack asks Jamal for an impossible favor. Eve makes a dangerous mistake.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS

Colleen found Abby's adoption papers. Raul refused to reconcile with a heartbroken Rianna. Phyllis suffered a sudden pain in her abdomen. Sharon and Nick were reassured that her traumatic experience with Matt hadn't affected her pregnancy. Meanwhile, Tricia told Matt's ghost what she plans to do next to bring down the Newmans. Mac told Kay of Billy's concern over Jill's relationship with Sean. Wait to See: Malcolm and Olivia await the decision on Nate's custody.

The Marshall Tucker band keeps on rockin'...

The Mountain Arts Center presents The Marshall Tucker Band, Thursday, August 30th, 7:30 p.m.

From their first LP in 1973, to their powerful stage presence recently, the Marshall Tucker Band has played countless concert venues around the world. With the success of the Volunteer Jam Tour, and release of their latest CD Gospel, in 1999, the good ol' boys from Spartanburg, South Carolina, remain as a powerful force in the world of music.

"The buying public ever really cared whether we were country or rock and roll" says founding member Doug Gray. "They called us a Southern rock band, but we have always played everything from country to blues and all things in-between. We're still playing all of the classic songs, but we are moving ahead into other styles as well. We're also playing for a younger audience than we have in the past, perhaps to the kids of the fans we played in front of in the 70's and 80's."

Gray also notes that people have gotten "married and buried" to classic MTB songs like "Desert Skies" and "Can't You See." After nearly 30 years, The Marshall Tucker Band continues to be played on classic rock and country radio, and they have never stopped touring.

"We never play less than 150 shows a year," and sometimes we play as many as 200 shows. We feel we owe it to the fans who have supported us through the years to deliver the music in person," says Gray.

Years of rigorous tours schedules earned the band the respect of critics and countless dedicated fans. With hit singles like "Heard It In a Love Song," "Fire On The Mountain," "Can't You See," and "Take The Highway," The Marshall Tucker Band earned seven gold and three platinum albums while they were on the Capricorn Records label. During the 90's, the MTB scored four hit singles on Billboard's country chart and one on Billboard's gospel chart. Their music has also been featured on the soundtracks of movies such as Smokey and the Bandit, The Pursuit of D.B. Cooper, and Shipwrecked.

In years to come, The Marshall Tucker Band would wow critics and influence major country acts like Alabama, The Kentucky Headhunters, Confederate Railroad, and Travis Tritt with its definitive blend of rock, rhythm & blues, jazz, country, and gospel. Now, thanks to the expanding scope of today's music, a new generation of fans is learning what the rest of their fans have known for so long—that good music knows no boundaries.

"As we've become older," Gray grins, eyes twinkling, "our Southern heritage seems to come out even more. But no matter how old we get, we can still rock your socks off."

News of the Weird...

■ July marked the appearance of a glossy, 32-page publication, Mainline Lady, funded by the Health Ministry in the Netherlands and designed to resemble a newsstand fashion magazine, for the purpose of helping drug-addicted women feel better about their health and appearance. Included are articles on rejuvenating heroin-ravaged dry skin, putting on weight, and disguising needle marks with makeup, as well as an upbeat horoscope column tailored to the everyday problems of drug addicts.

■ In 1993, John and Narda Goff's 10-year-old daughter was sexually molested by a man using his finger for penetration, an attack which at the time was, under Ohio law, merely "assault" and not "rape." The Goffs campaigned and finally persuaded the Ohio legislature in 1996 to broaden the law to include any forced penetration. In July 2001, the Goffs were charged with violating that very law, having impregnated the same daughter in 1998 with stepfather John's sperm (using a syringe), allegedly because Narda is infertile and the couple wanted a baby "together." (Actually, according to the daughter, John Goff was sexually molesting her before that, even during the time the Goffs were crusading for a stronger rape law.)

■ Max & Mina's kosher ice cream parlor in Kew Gardens Hills, N.Y., was featured in a July Jewish Week piece, bringing readers up to date on the many offbeat flavors the store makes (all rich in butterfat but meeting various Jewish dietary standards): "lox," "corn on the cob," "horse-radish," "peanut butter and jelly," "beer and nuts" and "campfire delight" (principal taste: baked beans). The store also once made (but has discontinued) a "broccoli" ice cream.

First, Do No Harm

■ A 30-year-old patient was awarded $2.1 million by a jury in Spokane, Wash., in January after evidence that neuropsychiatrist Donald Dudley (who died before trial) tried to chemically erase part of the man's brain and turn him into a trained killer. And in June, a medical board in Ontario found psychiatrist Raymond Danny Leibl guilty of "disgraceful" conduct in treating a 53-year-old woman by disciplining her like a baby, giving her sodium amytal with vodka to improve her memory, and having her call him "Mommydaddy Ray." And in May, a medical board in Oklahoma removed plastic surgeon Scott Gilbert's license after evidence of several lapses of care, including the use of wood screws and Superglue on patients.

Can't Possibly Be True

■ According to a June report in Britain's The Guardian, at least two schools in Belgium's Limburg province will begin serving a kind of very-low-alcohol beer in public school cafeterias beginning in September, in an effort to wean kids aged 3 to 15 from sugary sodas and fruit juice.

■ The Washington state board charged with evaluating college-degree programs last year approved a bachelor's and master's degree curriculum in "astrological studies" for the Kepler College of Astrological Arts and Sciences in Seattle. According to the Chronicle of Higher Education, only 20 of the 31 initial enrollees made it through the first year. Said Kepler president Enid D. Newburg, "Most people weren't used to a college level of study." Said one student, who said she is a veteran of an honors program at the University of Texas, "The faculty at Kepler just blows away any of the professors I had (in

■ At the Innovate 2001 expo in London in July, British inventor David Morrow introduced "Consent Condoms," designed to protect men from charges of date rape in that each condom comes with a fingerprint-sensitive tab of paper on which the man's partner can acknowledge that the act is consensual. Morrow says the fingerprint is more reliable than oral assent and that, unlike a signature, is deliverable while the partner is in the throes of ecstasy.

■ Singapore's Straits Times reported in July that the health office in Muar, Malaysia, had shut down a food stall and arrested its proprietor because he was boiling dirty underwear in pots with food, which he said, according to legend, improved the taste of the food. Said a health official, "This is an untrue belief and must be stopped."

People Different From Us

■ In July, Greg Daniels, 51, said he will challenge the Austin, Texas, police department's towing of his cars, arguing that just because he happens to own about a dozen cars, which he parks in the street in front of his house and uses in rotation, doesn't mean that any of them is junk (which is what he has been cited for as police tow the cars away). Daniels, who told the Austin American-Statesman that his cars are always legally parked, was forced to buy some of them back once after the city confiscated them. He says he's just not ready to settle down with just two or three of his favorites.

Least Competent Criminals

■ Richard S. Markey, 44, convicted in Hartford, Conn., of defrauding investors of $4.8 million, wrote U.S. marshals in April that he thought he had presented a strong case for his innocence and that therefore he wouldn't be reporting to prison as scheduled on May 2, but rather was going to a relative's place near Syracuse, N.Y., and that if he didn't hear anything more from the marshals, he would consider the case closed. (He did hear from them; they looked him up and re-arrested him. During his trial, Markey had described himself not as a "person" subject to the laws of the U.S., but as a "sovereign," and besides, he claimed the charges had to be dismissed because the prosecutor had spelled his name in all-capitals on the indictment.)

Recurring Themes

■ In 1997 News of the Weird reported on two mid-career professionals (a nurse and a lawyer) who had made new beginnings as "pet psychics," who charged $40 a half-hour to help on relationship problems between owners and pets by conversing directly with the animals about their problems (even though some pet-clients are handled only by phone). In a June 2001 story, the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel profiled pet "intuitive" Carol Schultz, 35, who does paw-readings and counsels pets that suffer trauma, such as the three-legged cat feeling guilty because he was inadequate at litter-box-burying, and the dog that felt trapped inside a cat's body (who "had some issues," Schultz said, because his name was Duke).

Thinning the Herd

■ A 22-year-old man was killed when he stopped his car in traffic and walked back to the driver behind him to express his road rage, and was fatally hit by a driver in the next lane (Columbus, Ohio, May).

A 19-year-old student at the University of Texas at Austin, notorious for playing fire-related pranks on his friends, was killed after apparently starting a prank fire that destroyed his apartment (May). An 18-year-old man was killed when three sticks of dynamite that the man habitually carried around (for no apparent reason) in a backpack exploded (Winnemucca, Nev., June).

Also, in the Last Month ...

■ Three men and a woman hoisted a homeowner's entire metal, two-car garage onto their pickup truck and attempted to drive off with it before abandoning it in the street when the structure broke (Detroit).

An Oklahoma State University research team said its sliced peanut butter (wrapped in plastic sleeves like single-slice cheese) would be on grocery shelves in U.S. test markets soon.

Political correctness hit India when authorities in Jammu and Kashmir banned the word "widow" for fear it would further upset women whose husbands have died in recent separatist battles (approved: "wife of late (name)").

A barroom gunfight was averted when an inebriated man, waving a pellet gun in his prosthetic arm, watched as the arm came off and fell to the floor (El Paso, Texas).

Poppy Mountain Bluegrass

Poppy Mountain Bluegrass, the "largest traditional bluegrass festival in the country," will be held this year during the third week of September, in Morehead, Kentucky. Poppy Mountain is a fine place to meet old friends, family, or acquaintances, as well as making new acquaintances. People from all around the world attend this special Rowan County event. Poppy Mountain is located just off I-64 and east of Morehead on US Route 60.

A great line-up of Bluegrass legends and greats such as Bill Monroe, the "father" of bluegrass, Alison Krauss, and Ricky Skaggs, to the Seldom Scene and the Country Gentlemen, to Larry Sparks and the Lonesome River Band. Not to mention, yearly hosts, IIIrd Tyme Out. Each year 20,000 or more fans and families migrate to the Poppy Mountain Bluegrass Festival.

The Playground and Youth Activities and Stage keep the younger set having the times of their lives while all the moms and dads pick away at the jams, workshops, and other activities planned just for them. And, if you find yourself so inclined, the party never stops on Jamin' Ridge! Horseback, mule and buggy rides appease all ages.

Camping is free starting on the first of September every year - first come, first served. Folks come from all over the U.S. to get that "prime spot." Showers and modern restroom facilities are placed strategically around the festival site for the convenience of all.

In addition, Poppy Mountain give-aways compare to no others! Vacations, automobiles, and many other fine things are given each year to lucky Poppy contest winners! Cabin vacations and Corvettes are among some of the past prizes.

Classic automobiles, train, and tour bus provide a means of transportation to shuttle folks around the great mountain.

Free camping, firewood, and beverages are provided and large screens with which to view the stage are just a sprinkling of what you and your family can expect when attending the next great Poppy Mountain Bluegrass Festival this September in Rowan County.
