Blood center issues call for donations

Officials with Central Kentucky Blood Center are declaring an emergency shortage of blood and calling on all healthy citizens to help.

CKBC issued the call Thursday after declaring an emergency earlier in the week.

Officials at the center explained that shortages are compounded because a nationwide shortage of blood means that other states cannot help with Kentucky's shortfall.

A statement from the center estimated that 500 donors will be needed each day throughout the weekend in order to keep pace with demand.

"Now is the time for response," said Marsha Berry, CKBC spokesperson. "Don't wait until tomorrow or the weekend — if you're healthy, give blood."

Despite issuing an emergency appeal earlier in the week, Berry said donor response has been "sluggish."

CKBC is based in Lexington and has offices in Prestonsburg, Pikeville, Hazard and Somerset.

Parents voice concerns over traffic near Betsy Layne Elem.

Traffic safety was the issue at large at a special meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education, held Tuesday evening at 6:30 p.m. in the Betsy Layne Elementary gymnasium.

A crowd of approximately 50, composed of parents, teachers and community members, was on hand to meet with state Highway Department officials to discuss the feasibility of installing a traffic signal on U.S. 23, near the school's entrance and exit point.

Parents and teachers alike have voiced complaints in regard to traffic congestion in the area during early-morning and late-afternoon hours, when children are being dropped off and picked up by parents and school buses.

The general consensus of the crowd attending the meeting seemed to be that they were greatly in favor of the installation of a traffic light in the area, in order to create an easier transition off of and on to U.S. 23, after either depositing or picking up school children.

Charles Neeley, branch manager for the Division of Traffic, Chris James, project engineer, and Robin Justice, resident engineer for construction and fieldwork, were on hand to answer queries and provide information from a

Seniors turn hugs into help

by MARY MUSIC

Residents at the Riverview Manor Nursing Home spent last week gathering donations for their annual "Hug Campaign."

Each resident offered hugs for a 10-cent donation to a charitable cause of their choice. In the past, their efforts have contributed to organizations such as the American Heart Association, Shriners, the Dream Factory, and the Alzheimer's Association.

This year, the residents chose to donate to the Leonard Lawson Cancer Society at Pikeville Methodist Hospital. Shirley Coleman, program coordinator at Pikeville Methodist, and Lisa Hopkins, cancer registrar, accepted a check for $264 worth of hugs.

The residents celebrated with a Valentine's Day party, and were visited by the Law Enforcement Club of PCC (Mike Dixon, program coordinator), which gave out Valentine treats and a few hugs of their own.

Rufus Stevens, Garnett Burchett, Ocie Caudill and Alvin Davenport were crowned as the Valentine kings and queens of the first and second floor. Joann Hall and Helen Bradley were credited with selling the most hugs and received trophies for their contribution to the annual event.

The Leonard Lawson Cancer Center at Pikeville Methodist currently has 14 treatment rooms, 17 treatment chairs, and utilizes

Construction breaks water lines a fifth time

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

Water problems have once again stirred the residents of Lake View Village and surrounding areas, leaving them frustrated and without water a third time.

The Tab Construction company miscalculated during blasting and hit a water line, forcing Auxier Water Company owner and operator Phil Ward to relocate 200 feet of PVC line in hope that this will prove effective in preventing another break.

"We relocated another 200 feet of line closer to the pavement, but there's really no good place to relocate," Ward said. "They (Tab Construction) have cooperated. They helped us dig for the new line and so they've been helpful, but anytime you have a project like this, there's going to be problems you run into. One of the problems that we deal with after a leak or break has been trying to get water through the line across the top of the hill — there's a lack of pressure — pressure picks up going down the other side but there's not much going up."

The break occurred Monday evening around 8:30

A traffic accident along a rain-slickened Route 321 near the Floyd-Johnson county line snarled traffic for workers headed home Thursday afternoon. Few details were available at press time, but only minor injuries appeared to result from the wreck.

W'wright council turns ethics matter over to county attorney

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

Wheelwright city council member Andy Akers examined a general contract to be used for all city employees. A motion to accept the contract was passed at Wednesday morning's meeting.

A full agenda went quickly as the Wheelwright City Council approached each item swiftly at Wednesday's meeting.

Of the many items that were discussed, three items in particular seemed to raise the most questions.

Sometime last week the city council was given a letter from an unnamed individual serving on the Utility Commission concerning a discussion that person had with a member of the city's ethics board.

The nature of the letter has not been disclosed by the city council or the ethics board, but it seems to be garnering much attention.

During Wednesday's meeting, Mayor Marlee Sammons made a motion to go into executive session to further discuss the ethics board and also the nature of the letter.

As the council returned, a motion was made to take a close examination of the Ethics Board Ordinance and to submit the letter to the county attorney for further discussion.

"I feel we should just hand it over to the county attorney so he can further investigate the whole thing," said council member Andy Akers.

Another pressing problem for the city of Wheelwright is the search for a city police officer to work in place of Charles Johnson, current city police officer, while he finishes academy training.

Johnson's training is to begin February 25 in Richmond and will last several weeks.

Council member Bruce Johnson presented a contract for Johnson and pointed out that it was still unsigned.

This sent the council into a discussion centered around the need for a city police officer during division traffic study that had been performed in regard to the area.

According to Neeley, past studies have shown that traffic signals installed in high traffic areas on busy highways can actually increase the occurrence of traffic accidents.

"As a matter of fact," said Neeley, "our study shows that five accidents have already occurred in the area of the Velocity Market, where a traffic signal exists, as opposed to no accidents at the location we are discussing."

The study Neeley made reference to was conducted over a 12-hour period, during which time a determination was made in regard to the number of vehicles passing through the area that traveled straight through, those that turned right, and those that turned left. The aforementioned five accidents near Velocity Market did not occur during this frame of time.

Resulting from this study, state project engineers have formulated three alternate routes of travel into and from the school area. A map detailing the alternate routes was presented to those in attendance, prompting many questions and comments and resulting in a meeting that lasted well into the evening.

Alternate Route #1 proposes that the now existing walk-bridge near the school be torn down and a bridge capable of supporting vehicle traffic be constructed in its place, providing an outlet that would direct traffic to the "Velocity Market" traffic signal.

Community residents commented that this route would only lead to increased congestion and a greater possibility of accidents, not only those involving vehicles, but also the possibility of pedestrian injuries.

Also, one resident stated that this area commonly was congested with large delivery trucks and that the incorporation of any further traffic into the area would lead only to "mass confusion" by adding new congestion to an already busy area.

Alternate Route #2, providing for a straight exit from the school to U.S. 23, would involve the relocation of at least two families, whose property would have to be obtained in order to construct the exit route.

This plan also was treated with some disdain by those present, who voiced concern over the necessity of relocating the families and the inconvenience they would suffer, in addition to the cost of relocation.

Alternate Route #3 provided for a traffic route through the small housing community located near the school, with traffic still ultimately exiting at the "Velocity Market" traffic light.

None of the proposed alternate routes incorporate the installation of additional signal lights in the area.

According to Neeley, the area does not meet criteria standards for the installation of a traffic signal, according to the guidelines set out in the Division of Traffic's guidebook and manual of traffic control devices.

Justice also commented to the crowd that a traffic signal installed on the busy highway could very well take the general public by surprise, contributing to an increase of highway danger and accidents.

The possibility of installing a flashing "caution" light warning signal was then introduced by Betsy Layne Principal Karen Allen. Allen also inquired as to the possibility of installing a traffic signal that would only operate during high traffic hours, namely early morning and late afternoon.

Allen's suggestion brought a loud and hearty applause from the crowd in the gymnasium.

The alternate route sheets that were handed out at the meeting provided space on the back for community and parent comments.

Board member Johnnie Ross informed those present that after inscribing their comments, they should sign the form, list their telephone number, and return the form to Allen's office. The collected forms will then be gathered for review by the school board in order to aid in their decision concerning traffic problems at the school.

Correction

In a story concerning a roundup of alleged oxycontin dealers in the Feb. 9 edition of The Floyd County Times, it was reported that Roland Patrick was arrested during the sweep. The story should have further stated that Patrick was not charged with any drug offenses, but was arrested for receiving stolen property.

In addition, Patrick's name was inadvertently used in reference to drug charges filed against Dwayne Pack.

Water

p.m. at the Dewey Lake construction site, leaving some residents to rely on the three or four hours of stored water from the lake and others, especially the homes on the lower level at Lake View Village, to be completely without water.

The break has inconvenienced nearby communities again and also brought an unwelcome amount of extra work on Ward.

"We've had to use so much water flushing the lines out to make sure the water is safe for people. It costs, but it's important to us that everybody gets good water," Ward said. "Tab has promised to keep in contact with me, keep me better informed from now on. This should help in many ways. Part of it is that when there has been a problem, I've not found out about it until water has been cut off for three and four hours."

Some citizens have expressed concerns about how this was going to be paid for.

"In all there's been five breaks. Of the five, I've billed them (Tab Construction) for four," Ward said. "I didn't bill them for the first. They promised they'll pay and I hope they do."

Ward, in cooperation with Tab Construction, has made advancements toward further plans.

"There's been a plan all along, since construction began, of course, but there's a plan now, too," Ward explained. "The plan is to finish a bench about 18 feet from where they are working now so that we can run a polyethylene line through there."

The polyethylene line would be a change from the previous PVC line that was in place. It would provide a more flexible line that would be less likely to break. This, according to Ward, would enable the workers to continue with the project with less worry of another problem occurring and give the quality of water service a boost.

"I think, overall, we'll have a better water system once this is completed," Ward said.

During his interview on Thursday, Ward, who had just returned from taking water samples to McCoy & McCoy, was fairly confident that a boil water advisory for citizens in areas surrounding the construction site issued after the latest break would be lifted by Friday.

Juvenile justice hires advocate to reduce disproportionate minority confinement

In an effort to identify and to reduce juvenile disproportionate minority confinement in Kentucky, Governor Paul Patton and Department of Juvenile Justice Commissioner Ralph E. Kelly, Ed.D., announced the hiring of Ellen Kelley—a 20-year advocate on the local, state and national level.

"The hiring of Ellen Kelley is another step in the Commonwealth's effort to study and address minority overrepresentation in the juvenile justice system," Gov. Patton said. "The Department of Juvenile Justice and its advisory committee have ensured that Kentucky's mission is to treat all youth equally regardless of race, color, or ethnicity."

Joining Gov. Patton and Kelly were Chief Justice Joseph Lambert, Sen. Gerald Neal (D-Louisville) and Hasan Davis, chairman of Kentucky's Juvenile Justice Advisory Committee (JJAC).

Studies have shown that throughout the nation, minority youth are disproportionately confined in juvenile detention centers, youth correctional facilities, jails, and prisons, and initial reports indicate that Kentucky is no exception. This means that the proportion of minority youth securely confined exceeds the percentage of minority youth in the general population.

In an effort to better understand and address this issue, Kentucky's Juvenile Justice Advisory Committee (JJAC) formed a Subcommittee on Equity and Justice for All Youth (SEJAY). The subcommittee was charged with the mission of developing a comprehensive strategy to raise the awareness of overrepresentation of minority youth in the juvenile justice and child welfare systems and to promote best practices and policies to reduce the problem of overrepresentation in these systems. Representatives of various state and public agencies concerned about equal treatment for all youth serve on the SEJAY.

The SEJAY contracted with an out-of-state technical assistance provider to conduct an initial assessment of minority overrepresentation in Kentucky's juvenile justice system. The provider's report identifies that juvenile disproportionate minority confinement is an issue for Kentucky, denotes limitations of Kentucky's available data, and details issues other states have faced in seeking to study and address this issue. Specific findings are as follows:

■ In 1999, 41 percent of the youth admitted to detention were minorities, a rate four times greater than their percentage of the general population. Black males were the most overrepresented group of juveniles with a detention rate seven times greater than their proportion of the general population.

■ In 1999, black males were committed to DJJ at a rate five times greater than their overall representations in the total juvenile population.

■ Overrepresentation was even more pronounced among those juveniles transferred to criminal court for prosecution as an adult as minority youth made up more than half (56 percent) of the transfer population.

"The initial report tells us that disproportionate minority confinement (DMC) is a problem for Kentucky, but does not tell us where in the system DMC is most prevalent, or why DMC is occurring," JJAC Chairman Hasan Davis comments said. "In order to consider these issues, the SEJAY determined that a more thorough analysis of Kentucky's juvenile justice system would need to be conducted and a full-time project coordinator would need to be hired."

Upon interviewing candidates, the SEJAY selected Ellen Kelley to coordinate Kentucky's DMC effort, Kelley has more than 20 years of advocacy experience. She has worked on local, state, and national levels and has superior research and program creation skills. She has a Bachelor's Degree in Political Science from Indiana University Southeast, and a Master's Degree in Social Work from Spalding University in Louisville. Her past research efforts include work for the National Association of Child Advocates and the Minority Caucus of the Indiana House of Representatives.

"The department fully supports the SEJAY's mission to study and address juvenile disproportionate minority confinement," Commissioner Kelly said. "We hope the study will help us identify where minority overrepresentation is most prevalent in the juvenile justice system so we may implement strategies to address these issues."

Report on water quality in Kentucky released

The 2000 Report to Congress on Water Quality in Kentucky is now available on the World Wide Web at water.nr.state.ky.us/2000-305b. The report satisfies requirements contained in Section 305(b) of the Clean Water Act for each state to submit a biennial report to Congress evaluating the quality of its streams, rivers and lakes. The Clean Water Act seeks to make the nation's waters "fishable and swimmable." The report assesses the extent to which the state's waters have attained that goal.

The 2000 report includes the first year of an interagency watershed monitoring effort conducted cooperatively by state, federal and local agencies. Except for the main stem of the Ohio River, it presents assessments only of waters in the Kentucky River basin.

The Division of Water initiated a five-year rotating watershed management approach in 1997, and the Kentucky River basin was the first unit to be monitored. Because each report covers data from a two-year period, future reports will contain assessments of two watershed management units. Under this management plan, waters in all areas of the state will have updated assessments by April 2004.

Of the Kentucky River basin's 8,466 stream miles, 5,375 (63.3 percent) were assessed for the report. This is approximately three times the number of miles assessed in the Kentucky River Basin for the 1998 report. The 664 miles of the Ohio River bordering Kentucky were assessed by the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission.

Assessments examined the degree to which streams have attained the goals of being "fishable and swimmable." The major causes of waters not fully supporting uses were pathogens (swimming use) and siltation and habitat alterations (aquatic life use). The major sources of these problems were nonpoint, such as agriculture, logging and urban runoff. Municipal point sources, resource extraction, straight pipe and onsite waste systems (improperly operating or lacking) also accounted for a significant number of impaired waters.

Tables in the report list water bodies assessed, the agency responsible for monitoring and criteria used for assessments. Use support is also shown on maps of the river basin. The information submitted to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is usually prepared in a narrative format; however, in April 2000, electronic data were submitted rather than the usual narrative. To obtain a paper copy, contact Dru Hawkins, Division of Water, 14 Reilly Road, Frankfort, KY 40601 or by telephone (502) 564-3410.

The Web site for this report also contains additional data and maps.

Patton makes appointment to Kentucky Appalachian Commission

Governor Paul Patton recently appointed Michael Sanders, president of the Christian Appalachian Project (CAP), to serve on the Kentucky Appalachian Commission.

The commission was established in 1995 as a citizen-based effort to advance regional development as envisioned by the Kentucky Appalachian Task Force. The commission's objectives are to provide ongoing monitoring of strategic development planning in eastern Kentucky and to act as a vehicle for communication with policymakers to bring Appalachian issues to the state agenda.

The Kentucky Appalachian Commission brings together a cross section of people representing public agencies and private organizations concerned with improving the quality of life in eastern Kentucky.

Sanders' appointment to the commission will provide a valuable link to concerns in a number of Appalachian counties. Being president of CAP, the largest non-profit agency in Eastern Kentucky, Sanders is instrumental in directing services that benefit thousands of residents in isolated and often forgotten regions of the state. Services vary, whether it be construction of a home for an disadvantaged family, teaching a parent to read a story to their child, or sheltering a victim of domestic violence.

Christian Appalachian Project is an interdenominational, nonprofit Christian service organization, committed to serving people in need in Appalachia by providing physical, spiritual and emotional support through education, crisis intervention and community development. With more than seventy programs and services, CAP's efforts reach people through the thirteen Appalachian states.

Perry to lead cemetery tours

Prestonsburg Community College professor Robert Perry will be leading tours of family cemeteries throughout the local area, in conjunction with an eight week course he will be teaching on the history and genealogy of Floyd County.

A few of the scheduled tour stops include the John Graham Cemetery at Emma, the Weddington Cemetery on Trimble Branch, the May Cemetery on May's Branch, the Lucy B. Hall Cemetery at McDowell, the Dings Cemetery at Dinwood, the Gearheart Cemetery at Hueysville, the Martin Cemetery at Allen, and the Salisbury Cemetery at Printer.

Other historic area cemeteries will also be visited.

Perry intends to highlight the graves of those who played significant roles in the development of Floyd County.

For more information, or to register for the class, contact Karen Houston in the Community Center for Lifelong Learning, Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. You may telephone either (606) 886-3863, ext. 258, or e-mail Karen.Houston@kctcs.net.

Perry serves as the curator of the Samuel May House and is the author of "The Oldest House in the Valley" and "Jack May's War."

Limits of bipartisanship

The Kentucky Senate these days is no place for the faint of heart. It is always more pleasant to be in the company of adults who are agreeing than with those who are disagreeing, and agreement in the Senate chamber is rare.

This is especially troubling because senates traditionally are viewed as the deliberative bodies in government — in fact, U.S. Senators fancy themselves members of nothing less than "the world's greatest deliberative body." But right now, in Kentucky, even the raucous, reactive House is more often the place you'll see deliberation. The Senate is a war zone.

The temptation is to be alarmed — to see this conflict as a threat to the commonwealth. That would be a mistake. As Sen. President David Williams says, "This is a partisanship system. Partisanship is good, even though it's maligned."

Partisanship may make passing a particular piece of legislation difficult, but it's central to the pursuit of an important larger goal. Political parties represent value systems and approaches to governing. Partisanship — that is, sticking together as a group — is important in promoting value systems that are at the core of governance.

Senate fighting made headlines Tuesday, in the legislature's first few minutes of the first real week of work. Minority leader David Karem of Louisville rose to criticize Sen. Williams and the GOP majority for the way it has been exercising power.

Sen. Karem's criticisms were legitimate. They centered on how Republicans have changed the Democrats' committee assignments, and how they have stifled Senate debate. These tactics don't affect just Democratic senators, as Sen. Karem pointed out, but "nearly half of Kentucky's citizens, those represented by Democrats."

But not long ago, when Sen. Karem and the Democrats were in charge and the Senate was considered the place where nobility resided and progressive legislation was saved, the chamber also was a very partisan place. President John "Eck" Rose ruled with an iron hand, killing bad bills and pushing through important reforms. Those were the good old days in terms of achievement, but they certainly couldn't be called the good old days in terms of inclusion. In fact, they came to an abrupt halt when a coalition of Republican and Democratic senators who felt shut out voted in a new slate of leaders.

Partisanship has been responsible for the very best and worst moments in governing. It's not pleasant to watch; it produces incredible tension and anxiety; it's most visible when the numbers of Rs and Ds are close, as they are now in the Senate.

But this competition between parties and value systems is nothing to be feared. Partisanship has been built into the system over time, for a reason.

Yes, partisanship can collapse into stand-off, and it can become impossible to accomplish much of anything that's meaningful.

We trust Kentucky's political leaders won't let what can be a healthy and cleansing exercise degenerate to that point.

Think About It

Just another day?

Valentine's Day may just be another date on the calendar to most of us men, but let me tell you, guys, the women take it seriously.

To allow this all-important day to slip past without a box of candy or roses or at least an "I love you" is, and I can't stress this enough, a mortal sin.

I was fully aware of this, of course, and acted accordingly, asking my girlfriend, Linda, to marry me.

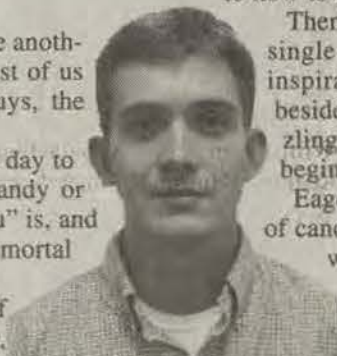

Overboard, you say?

There is no overboard on Valentine's Day. The bigger, the better.

Everything went well, she accepted and the evening was spent in the special glow that happiness can often afford to those fortunate enough to be in love.

But if she only knew the glow that occurred before I got home with the ring.

On the way home Wednesday, I was searching my endless well of creativity and romantic genius for the perfect way to present her the ring. I had stopped after work and bought a single rose, a heart-shaped box of chocolates, and a card. But there was still the question as to how to present THE RING.

Then it occurred to me, in a single moment of bright inspiration, and I pulled beside the road in the drizzling rain — prepared to begin my Valentine opus.

Eager now, I took the box of candy, which I noticed was wrapped in a red tinted plastic, and opened it carefully. I slid the box from the wrapping and placed it carefully aside. I opened the box and took a piece of chocolate, putting the ring in its place, and closed the box.

The final step was to ensure a surprise.

Sliding the box back into the red tinted wrap and resealing it would be perfect. She would never see it coming.

Now the problem was how to reseal the wrapping. Quickly (my creative power was in full swing by now) I lit my Zippo and let the flame linger just under the underside of the box where the wrapping was loosened.

(Note: Gentlemen, red tinted wrapping is highly flammable.)

In an instant the cab of my vehicle was lit up. Held within my grasp was a sizable ball of pure, yellow flame and my Valentine Day surprise, along with most of the hairs on the back of my hand, were slipping away.

But, luckily, I was able to blow the flame into submission with only minor damage to my front dash, venting system, the right side of my steering wheel, my speedometer, the gear shift, and a palm-sized section of my passenger seat.

Even in the face of such an obstacle the plan went through and made for a very nice Valentine's Day experience, proving that even when there are minor burns and throat irritation to deal with, the payoff is phenomenal.

To skip a Valentine's day is to miss an opportunity, if at least for one day, to be able to do the right thing for the woman in your life.

Take that opportunity, guys.

God knows there'll be plenty enough times when the whole car catches fire.

Criminals have all the rights

My house was robbed in August. The items that were stolen were a laptop computer, stereo, jewelry and my calling card.

A week after that happened, a friend told my husband that some of his friends bragged about robbing our house and wanted to know if he wanted to buy our computer. The thieves had no idea that our friend was giving us this information.

We had our friend write a statement. We gave that to the Prestonsburg Police. I later got my phone bill. The thieves used my calling card and called their own homes. Thinking I had enough evidence, I pushed the police department to send out warrants.

Prestonsburg Police Department doesn't think I have enough evidence, which goes to show criminals have more rights than hard-working people that pay their taxes.

Electoral College protects the republic

The manner in which the presidential election was finally settled and the vocal calls in some quarters to abolish the Electoral College are a manifestation that practically all who are part of this period have been miseducated about the proper form of our government. There are deeper issues involved, and tampering with the procedures laid down in the Constitution always places our republic (and our freedom) in jeopardy.

Why do we defend the Electoral College, and what does it have to do with American freedom? America's founders established a republic, a government not run directly by the whole body of the people — although the people, quite providentially, approved of the new government. Records of the 1787 convention tell us a great deal about the founders' determination to restrain the chief executive from expanding his power in demagogic fashion by appealing directly to the whims and passions of the masses. If he were elected by direct popular vote, the framers feared he would likely overstep his authority and increase his power by persuasion and promises aimed at the lowest level of society. Throughout history, this has been the customary pattern of democracies and the most cunning route to dictatorship.

On this basis, the founders reasoned that the best way to limit a president's passion for power was to leave his appointment — or reappointment — to a small number of selected wise citizens, the electors, who were less susceptible to manipulation than the populace in general. However, an indirect link between the president and the people existed: The electors would be appointed by their state legislators (or by whatever alternate method the legislators so decided), and these legislators, being directly accountable to the people, would be prudent in their choice of electors and confident of the backing of their constituents.

America's founders gave us a republic, not a democracy. Let's keep it that way! James Madison said, "...democracies have ever been spectacles of turbulence and contention ..." Thomas Jefferson said, "Put not your faith in men, but bind them down by the chains of the Constitution." Our founding fathers also said, "Democracy carries within itself the seeds of its own destruction as people determine that they can vote to themselves largess from the public purse." We must remember that the Electoral College provides stability to our great republic.

HELP LEAD FLOYD COUNTY TO EDUCATIONAL EXCELLENCE

Kentuckians have an unprecedented opportunity to serve the community by volunteering to be considered for membership on the local school board of education. Share a sense of pride with other citizens by serving the children of Floyd County.

You are invited to nominate yourself or a qualified acquaintance to serve on the Floyd County Board of Education (Educational Division #2).

There is a vacancy created by the resignation of a current board member

Activity

Board members are involved in four main tasks:

- *Developing policy that governs the operation of schools.
- *Providing visionary leadership and vigorous stewardship that establishes long-range educational plans and programs for the district.
- *Hiring the district superintendent and issuing annual evaluation reports.
- *Setting local tax rates and ensuring that public funds are spent wisely.

Requirements

Board members must be:

- *At least 24 years old.
- *A Kentucky citizen for the last three years.
- *A registered voter in the district and voter precinct of vacancy (District #2).
- *Have a high school diploma or GED certificate.
- *Except in limited circumstances, not related to employees of the school district or provide contract services for the district.

Applications can be picked up at the Floyd County Board of Education Office at 106 North Front Avenue, Prestonsburg, Kentucky.

Applications should be mailed to: Gene Wilhoit, Commissioner of Education
First Floor Capital Plaza Tower
500 Mero Street
Frankfort, Kentucky 40601

Applications must be postmarked by February 20, 2001.

The Kentucky Department of Education does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, age or disability in employment or the provision of services.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHT

MORE BIBLICAL WOMEN'S LIB!

IN THE DAYS OF MOSES, A MAN NAMED ZELOPHEAD DIED. BY LAW, ONLY MALES COULD INHERIT. BUT ZELOPHEAD LEFT NO SONS, ONLY FIVE DAUGHTERS, HAVING NO RIGHTS, MAHLAH, HOGLIAH, NOAH (YES, A GIRL!), MILCAH, AND TIRZAH. BUT...

...THE DAUGHTERS DIDN'T QUITE RELISH HAVING FATHER'S WORLDLY GOODS DIVIDED AMONGST DISTANT MALE RELATIVES, SO THESE FIVE FEISTY FEMALES WENT BEFORE MOSES HIMSELF, BOULDERING ARGUING THAT THEY SHOULD INHERIT! MOSES, AS USUAL, TOOK IT UP WITH THE LORD (NUMBERS 27:1-11) "AND THE LORD SPEAKS UNTO MOSES SAYING, 'THE DAUGHTERS OF ZELOPHEAD SPEAK RIGHT, THOU SHALT CAUSE THE INHERITANCE OF THEIR FATHER TO PASS UNTO THEM.'"

THESE COURAGEOUS EARLY "LIBBERS" WON FOR WOMEN THE LEGAL RIGHT TO INHERIT FROM THAT DAY FORWARD!

NEXT WEEK: SIX FORGOTTEN SONS!

Group takes wait-and-see approach to shortfall

by JACINTA FELDMAN
KPA NEWS BUREAU

The state's official budget forecasters agree that there will be a shortfall in this year's budget, but they are waiting until they see February's revenue receipts before they determine how big it will be.

"We don't think we're going to hit, but we don't know at this point how short we're going to be," said Mark Berger, the director of University of Kentucky's Center for Business and Economic Research and a member of the Consensus Forecasting Group.

The Consensus Forecasting Group met Feb. 8 to discuss the state's budget. After seeing receipts from previous months, the group of economists, who make official estimates about the state's budget, decided they want to see February receipts before making any estimates.

"Obviously, we're going to hit the mark closer the more we hold off," said Greg Harkenrider, who works in the Governor's Office for Policy and Management.

State officials have projected that Kentucky could face a $200 million or more shortfall in this year's budget. Slow growing sales tax revenue and a greater-than-anticipated number of Medicaid participants have all contributed to the lack of funds.

The Supreme Court's January decision not to rehear the Murphy Camera case has also added to the problem. The Lexington camera store used a tax exemption that had long been interpreted by the Revenue Cabinet to apply only to machinery used in traditional industrial manufacturing or processing equipment, and the Supreme Court upheld the exemption. In January, it refused to rehear the case.

November and December were particularly bad months for Kentucky's sales tax revenue, State Budget Director Jim Ramsey has said, but the near future might not be so bleak.

Receipts from January show an increase of 9.4 percent over January 2000, Ramsey said. And the state will not see the extra revenue from the 6-percent sales tax on interstate phone calls until the February receipts are in.

The forecasters, who still agree the state will not have as much money as predicted last year, have decided to wait to make any new estimates.

If the group does decide to readjust the numbers, and budget cuts are required, then the budget reduction plan, which is part of the budget, would be put into action.

Finance Secretary Kevin Flanery said the group will meet again in mid-March to make any changes.

Council

Johnson's leave.

Considering that Johnson could not agree to the terms of the contract, as he was not present at Wednesday's meeting, the council decided to pass a motion to ensure a general contract suitable for all city employees.

"We're going to have to have a contract to stand by regardless if it's Charles or whoever. How many people have we trained and now they're working for Prestonsburg or Martin?" Akers said.

Near the end of the meeting, a letter from Gary McCoy, Wheelwright's superintendent of utilities, stirred the council with distressing news.

McCoy's letter stated plainly that gas prices were increasing. He asked for a rate increase to balance the buying and selling of gas for the city.

At this time, Wheelwright is purchasing its gas from Kentucky Gas and Oil at nearly $10 per 1,000 cubic feet. With rates for citizens at just under $6 per 1,000 cubic feet, there could be huge losses generated.

The council agreed to have the utility commission meet with alternative general contractors closer to the city of Wheelwright to see if gas could be purchased without the high cost of transport in hopes that this could trim costs and help to possibly avoid a rate increase for citizens.

The Wheelwright City Council plans to meet again Wednesday, February 21 at 11 a.m.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Phynetta Howell Newsome would like to take this opportunity to say a special thank-you to the family and friends who sent food to the home, along with their thoughts and prayers, during the illness of our loved one. Hospice was there when we really needed them—we would like to thank them for their comfort and support. We would like to say a special thanks to those who came and sat with the family at the church, sent food or flowers. The Zion Church of Gethel for a warm welcome; the Regular Baptist ministers for their comforting words; Teddy Ray Tackett and his crew for their help at the cemetery; the sheriff's department for their help with traffic control; Nelson-Frazier Funeral Home for their kind and efficient service. Thank-you to so many friends that did so much for Phynetta and her loving family. Our hearts are with you all.

It's a great job!!!

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

There are people who would do just about anything to have a position that I currently fill. I have been blessed with such a job and it has been the kids of Floyd County and the 15th Region that has made it so enjoyable.

We are approaching the time of year that I just love. I mean, if you are a basketball junkie like me, you love this time of the year.

Spring will soon be in the air, the district and regional tournaments will lead into the Sweet Sixteen in high school basketball. Add the SEC tournament and then the NCAA tournament and boy you are in basketball heaven.

Then add the start of spring training and soon opening day of major league baseball along with the high school season.

Now that means long hours away from home and eating a lot of hot dogs (pizza nowadays) and nachos.

But, to be honest with you, I have loved every bit of it. I have sat and listened to the complaints (very few compliments) but, you know, I understand how parents feel about their kids. There are times I just wish I could put every kid's picture in the county, in the paper.

I have even been asked for a few autographs in my time. Imagine that. What a pleasure it is when a young adult will come up to you and express their appreciation for the coverage I gave them during their school days. Now they are family people and I have taken pictures of their kids. I am getting old.

The 58th District tournament is not far from tipping off. It is going to be a great week of high school basketball and we are going to see some quality games played by quality kids and coaches.

After the district, look out for the regional tournament at Shelby Valley. It is anybody's guess who will win it all this year.

I like this year's format with the boys and girls being held at the same location. It will make it more fan friendly and will create an even greater atmosphere.

Prestonsburg falls on the road

Music, Powers net high totals in 15th Region setback

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS WRITER

The Prestonsburg Blackcats got a 33-point game from one senior, Dustin

Music, and a 21-point game from another senior, Ricky Powers, but couldn't manage to combat 28 and 27 point efforts from Adam and Jeremy Brown. The Blackcats fell 93-84 on the road at Sheldon Clark Tuesday night.

The game looked spectacular on paper. Both teams are competitive and both play in tough districts. One team had to fall and it just happened to be the visiting one.

Powers put the first two points of the game in after Prestonsburg won the opening tip. The Blackcats took a 6-2 lead on consecutive field goals by another senior, Brandon Branham. The visiting Blackcats led by as many as five points, 10-5, midway through the opening frame, before a late-quarter run by the host Cards. Sheldon Clark closed the first quarter out with a 23-21 lead.

The second quarter began with Music tying the game on a layin from a Josh Justice assist.

Justice connected on a three-point bomb on the next Prestonsburg possession to give the Blackcats a 26-23 lead. The Prestonsburg lead was short-lived as Adam Brown connected on a trey the next Sheldon Clark offensive trip to tie the game at 26-26.

The two teams swapped baskets and exchanged the lead for most of the second period. Prestonsburg took a 37-34 lead on a Brad Bevins field goal off a Ryan Martin assist. Adam Brown closed the first half out by connecting on a field goal, leaving Prestonsburg with a 37-36 lead at the half.

Music put Prestonsburg up 39-36 with two points at the start of the third quarter. Following a Sheldon Clark miss, Powers put Prestonsburg ahead 41-36 on a short jumper. Powers was fouled on the play by Sheldon Clark's Shane Stafford. The

Allen Central conference champions

Rebels edge South Floyd on last second basket

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

The Allen Central Rebels reclaimed the Floyd County Basketball Conference last Monday night with a thrilling 63-61 victory over visiting South Floyd in a game that had fans on the edge of their seats in the second half. South Floyd was the defending conference champions.

The weather outside was not all that cold but Allen Central was cool, then cold, then ice cold from the floor in the final 13-plus minutes of the game.

In what was a very physical game between the two district powers, a packed lower arena certainly got their money's worth as Coach Henry Webb's Raiders roared back from a 21 point deficit and caught the Rebels and went to a three-point lead themselves.

Coach Martin said his ballclub just hit a wall in the third quarter.

"It was a physical game. We came out and jump on them early and kind of set the pace with a big 12 point lead," said Coach Martin. "We went up with a 14 point lead at half time. We extended our lead at the middle of the third quarter and then we just hit the wall."

With 5:41 to play in the third quarter Jeremy Hayes 10-foot jumper gave the Rebels their biggest lead at 21 points, 43-22.

"Henry (Coach Webb) called time out with 5:40 to play and then they just came back at us," said the Allen Central coach. "Kevin (Spurlock) and I just looked at each other"

Coach Spurlock said the Rebels were tired. "Our basketball legs were gone," he said.

"I don't think we had anything left," said Coach Martin who's team played four games in five nights and became a little weary on the court. He said he should have changed his tactics in the second half.

"I would have been better off to go to a delay game at that time and bought us some time," he said. "We were just physically depleted. Playing four games in five nights takes it's toll on you."

Allen Central, who had returned to their pressing

"It was a physical game. We came out and jump on them early and kind of set the pace with a big 12 point lead," said Coach Martin. "We went up with a 14 point lead at half time. We extended our lead at the middle of the third quarter and then we just hit the wall."

Sizemore, Mullins lead Allen Central

Lady Rebels gets 3rd seed in district

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

In a high scoring girls basketball game, the Allen Central Lady Rebels posted a 75-68 win over rival South Floyd in what was a battle for the third seed in the upcoming 58th District tournament.

With the win, Allen Central receives the third seed and will face Prestonsburg in a first round game. South Floyd meets top-seeded Betsy Layne in a first round game.

Shannon Sizemore and Terri Mullins combined for 42 points to lead the Rebels to their seventh win of the season against nine setbacks. Sizemore scored 22 points with Mullins adding 20. Mullins, a freshman, sank three three-point baskets in the win. Jennifer Risner netted 17 points with two treys.

South Floyd placed four players in double figures led by Megan Ousley's 15 points. Minnie Tackett tossed in 14 as did Valerie King. Stacia Stanley totaled 10 points.

The Lady Rebels improved to 2-4 in the conference. Their two games with the Piarist School was voted as forfeits at a recent tournament meeting. Neither South Floyd nor Allen Central actually played the Piarist School.

Coach Cindy Halbert was pleased with her teams efforts of late.

"I have seen an improvement every time out," said Coach Halbert. "I just wish we had shot our free throws better."

Piarist School's Matt Goeing set an all-time individual record last Tuesday night against Riverside when he pumped in 36 points.

The total points are the most scored my a player in the four-year history of the school's basketball program. Goeing is a senior at Piarist.

The Piarist School will say good-bye to their seniors this coming Tuesday night by holding Senior Night when the Knights will host Cordia.

The group of seniors are the first four-year students in the basketball program for the school.

SOUTH FLOYD'S Valerie King (22) picked up Allen Central point guard Terri Mullins (12). Mullins scored 20 points to lead the Lady Rebels past South Floyd.

Central

How dry was it for the Rebels?

Hayes field goal with 5:41 to play in the third would be the last one until Shawn Newsome split the Raider middle and laid the basketball off the glass and into the net in what was the game winning shot.

Newsome's basket came with just three seconds left to play.

"It was a set play for us," said Coach Martin. "It was the only thing that worked well for us that night."

Michael Hall went to war for the Raiders in leading the comeback. Rusty Tackett's basket with 1:41 to play gave the Raiders their first lead since they led 5-4 in the opening quarter. The Raiders would go on to build a three-point deficit, 59-56 with just over a minute to play.

However, Allen Central kept close from the free throw line where they hit five of six in the next 1:06 of the game. From the charity stripe, the Rebels took a 61-59 lead on a Hayes free throw.

But Tackett, who missed in close on a bank attempt, rebounded his missed shot and scored underneath on a strong move that tied the game at 61-61 with 21 ticks of the game left.

After an Allen Central time out, the Rebels put the ball in Newsome's hand and stood back as he drove the middle for the winning basket.

Coach Martin said losing the 21 point lead and the game could have been devastating for his team.

"I can't remember, since I have been coaching, losing a 21 point lead and the game," he said. "It would have been devastating. But fortunately they had enough left to hang in there and it took a lot of courage. We came back and it was a great win for us."

Allen Central trailed 5-2 on a Hall three-point basket but the Raiders began to neglect taking care of the basketball and turned the ball over six times allowing Allen Central to take a 19-7 lead. A 7-2 Raider spurt cut the margin to seven points at the first stop, 21-14.

South Floyd managed to cut the margin to one point, 21-20, but a 15-2 run by the Rebels sent Allen Central to the locker room holding a 36-22 margin.

As the third quarter unfolded, Larry Mullins drained a trey, Newsome sank a base line jumper and Hayes hit the 10-footer for the 21 point lead.

The drought by the Rebels did allow them a chance to get into their pressing game, according to Martin.

"The second half we couldn't press," he said. "We were so tired coming out that we couldn't press."

"South Floyd is a good team. They came back and Mike Hall got hot. They were playing really hard and playing for their life. We were playing for the number one seed and that is the type of conference basketball games are all about."

Hall led all scorer's with 25 points for the Raiders. Tackett finished with 14 points but he pulled in 17 rebounds. John Meade added 10 points before fouling out. Charles Ray, Joe Skeans, and James Slone finished with four points each.

Mullins finished with 20 points to lead the Rebels. Newsome totaled 19 and Hayes finished with 12. Rodney Scott and Neil Allen scored four apiece while Travis Francis scored two.

Allen Central finished their conference schedule at 7-1 while South Floyd dropped to 6-2 in conference play.

With the number one seed in the district tournament, Allen Central will face the winner of the Prestonsburg/Piarist game.

South Floyd, a two-seed, meets three-seed Betsy Layne in what promises to be one of the top games of the tournament.

Hayes resurrects Allen Central

Senior forward hits seven three's in win

"Oh no, not another one!"
"He did it again!"
"Someone is going have to guard him!"
Those were voices coming from the Belfry Pirates bench Tuesday night as the Pirate coaching staff was trying to figure out a way to stop the hot-shooting Jeremy Hayes.

All Hayes did was drained seven three-point baskets and scored a game and season high 31 points in leading Allen Central to a 74-69 win over visiting Belfry. It was the fourth straight win for Allen Central who improved to 21-4 on the season.

Shawn Newsome added 17 points while Larry Mullins netted 10. Mullins had eight assists in the game.

It was a sluggish Allen Central team, who was playing their fifth game in six nights, who opened the first quarter. The Rebels appeared to be going through motions in the first eight minutes when they fell behind by 11 points at the first stop. The Pirates came out firing up the ball led by Casey Lequire and Boo Hager.

Trailing 12-4, Allen Central pulled to within two on a three-point play by Newsome for a 12-10 margin. But Belfry went on a 10-1 run to lead 22-11 at the first stop.

The biggest lead for the Pirates were 13 points and that happened thrice in the second quarter. Hayes first trey cut the lead to 28-23 with 3:53 to play in the first half. Hayes hit number two at the 45 second mark and it was a 34-32 game. Belfry went to the locker area with a 38-34 lead at the half.

Hayes got the Rebels off quickly with a 12-foot jumper at the onset of the third period and Rodney Scott followed with a rebound basket that tied the game at 38-38.

Allen Central took their first lead of the game at the 2:30 mark when Travis Francis scored underneath for a 43-42 Rebel lead. The game was tied at 45 and again at 47 after three

Music, Conley lead Prestonsburg at Phelps

by ED TAYLOR
SPORTS EDITOR

Ramanda Music and Amelia Conley combined for 35 points in leading the Prestonsburg Lady Blackcats past host Phelps, 66-44 last Monday night on the road.

Music finished with 19 points and six rebounds while Conley finished with 16 points. Brooke Coleman continues her scoring and netted 11 points to go with her four assists. Chrissy Nelson came off the bench and tossed in nine points with Angela Howell scoring four. Taryn Harris and Vicki Bowling had two points apiece with Stephanie Adams netting three. Coleman had the lone three-point basket for the Lady Blackcats.

Nikki Smith led Phelps with 12 points and was the only double figure scorer. Sherry Plymale finished with nine and Lisa Hatfield scored seven.

Music scored 13 of her 19 points in the opening quarter as Prestonsburg outscored Phelps 21-7 in the first period. Conley had six in the initial quarter and Howell had a basket.

Coleman drained her three-point basket in the second quarter scoring five points as Prestonsburg took a 36-19 lead to the locker room at the half. Nelson had four points in the second stanza.

Coleman added six more points in the third period where Prestonsburg outscored the Lady Cavs 19-12 and led 55-31 after three periods.

"We played well," said Prestonsburg coach Harold Tackett. "We played a lot of players and they had fun."

Prestonsburg improved to 14-10 on the season. Prestonsburg will host Sheldon Clark Monday night.

Allen Central made only 28 of 46 attempts for the game while South Floyd hit 10 of 24.

"Our kids were ready to play and gave forth a great effort," said the Allen Central coach. "It was a good effort for a whole game."

South Floyd held a 9-5 lead until Allen Central went on a 10-0 run to lead 15-9 with 43 seconds to play in the opening quarter. Mullins scored six on the 10 points on a three-point basket and a three-point play the old-fashion way. The Lady Rebels held a 18-13 advantage at the first stop.

Allen Central built a 10 point lead late in the second quarter but the Lady Raiders stayed close and trailed 41-33 at the half in a high scoring first half.

"We are looking to score more," said the Lady Rebel mentor. "Our seniors stayed up during the game and Kari (Osborne) rebounded well for us. Shannon played well as did Barb (Prater). Jackie (Martin) had a couple of put backs for us and took a couple of charges."

Allen Central held a 48-40 lead mid way of the third period but went on a 9-4 spurt that netted them a 57-44 lead, their biggest of the game, after three quarters.

Tackett and King scored opening baskets of the fourth quarter to cut the lead to nine. But Allen Central led by 13 twice in the final period.

Although the free throw shooting for the Lady Rebels left something to be desired, they did connected when they needed to.

In the final 3:24, the Lady Rebels hit 10 of 16 attempts to put the game in the win column.

"Free throw shooting is all mental," said Coach Halbert. "We work hard on it in practice. Hitting your free throws can make a difference in close games. But I can't go out there and shoot them for them."

Coach Halbert, who has a very young team, has matured some during the course of the season and noticed one area they have shown improvement also shot selection has been questionable.

"I think they are learning how to win the close games," she said. "And it is a learning process. You have to control the tempo and know the difference between a good shot and a bad shot."

"I am pleased with were we are. We have five games remaining and they are five games I believe we can win. It is going to be a good challenge for us."

Ashley Johnson was held to four points in the game, something that hasn't happened too often. Kandance Mitchell, in foul trouble most of the night, finished with four points. Brandi Anderson added four points and Tiffany Williams scored two.

Osborne netted six points for Allen Central. Prater netted four while Tabitha Caudill had three, a three-point basket. Jackie Martin scored two and Tonya Howard had one point.

Allen Central will host Pike Central Monday night while South Floyd will entertain Sheldon Clark Saturday night.

Prestonsburg senior converted an old-fashioned three-point play by connecting on his lone free throw attempt, making it a 42-36 game.

The Blackcats then looked to be in the driver's seat with a six-point lead. However, Sheldon Clark didn't think so, and proved it by going on a huge 17-0 run.

Music got the Blackcats back on the scoring track with a pair of free throws at the 3:54 mark of the third quarter. Sheldon Clark finished out the third quarter with a 63-52 lead.

Ryan Martin put Prestonsburg in the fourth quarter books with a one-of-two free throw shooting effort. Martin's free throw made it a 63-53 game.

The Blackcats cut the Sheldon Clark lead down to single digits midway through the final quarter. Powers scored off a steal of a Sheldon Clark pass with 2:43 remaining, to cut the Cardinal lead down to a 78-73 advantage.

Adam Brown extended the Sheldon Clark lead back out to eight points shortly after Powers' bucket. The Cardinals outscored Prestonsburg by just two points in the final two minutes of the game.

Martin chipped in nine points for Prestonsburg. Justice and Branham finished with eight and seven points respectively.

Stafford added 14 points for Sheldon Clark.

Prestonsburg will be back in action tonight when they play host to the Elkhorn City Cougars.

GAME NOTES:

■ Ryan Martin, a Prestonsburg junior, didn't start on the road against Sheldon Clark. Martin had been starting at one of the guard positions for Prestonsburg.

■ Chad Howell, a Sheldon Clark senior, is out with a foot injury. Howell is a three-sport performer for the Cardinals. He excels in basketball, baseball and football. Sheldon Clark junior Ryan Howell, Chad's younger brother, finished with five points against Prestonsburg. Ryan is also a member of the Sheldon Clark golf team.

SHELDON CLARK (93) - A. Brown 28, J. Brown 27, Stafford 14, Hammond 9, McCoy 9, Howell 5, Evans 1.

PRESTONSBURG (84) - Music 33, Powers 21, Martin 9, Justice 8, Branham 7, Slone 4, Bevins 2.

Sports

over Tennessee Wednesday night has Cat fans thinking SEC championship. But keep in mind when Kentucky pulls out a big win over a quality opponent they usually go in a skid. The Cats have five games to go and need to win four to clinch the top spot in their division.

Of course, the winner of the SEC tournament will get the automatic bid to the big dance.

Arguably, the SEC could very well place eight teams in the NCAA show but don't look for it. Six at the most will make it. But that gives the NIT a good field to choose from.

It seems to have been a quick high school and college season. Seems like the pros never quit.

The boys of summer will be getting their bats and gloves out and it will be time for the first pitch. We need all high school baseball and softball schedules to be sent into us.

It looks like the Ladycats of Betsy Layne will have a field to play on this season. I know they are excited about it.

They tell me the football field at Prestonsburg will definitely be ready when they kick off the 2001 season. When the weather turns nice they will make up for any lost time. But then again, have other things like waiting until the South Floyd field is in place. Surely, they jest!!

Prestonsburg will be a loaded team next season with a wealth of talent on the gridiron. I heard that Dustin Hammonds has transferred to Prestonsburg, leaving Allen Central. He is a good one.

Brent Rose and Cassandra Keathley, co-tournament managers for the district tournament, are working hard, along with everyone else, in getting ready for the big event that tips off February 26.

Until Sunday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

SPORTS FAN OF THE WEEK

If you are the sports fan circled here... it's your lucky day!

Bring this photo to The Floyd County Times office at 263 South Central Avenue (down the street from the courthouse) to claim your Gift Certificate, which will entitle you to a free 8-inch ice cream cake of your choice, redeemable at DAIRY QUEEN OF PRESTONSBURG, and a SPORTS FAN OF THE WEEK T-SHIRT.

There is only one 500!

by STEVE MICKEY

I know the argument will always be that the best super-speedway racing is at Talladega and that the atmosphere surrounding the night race at Bristol is something that isn't duplicated at any other stop on the schedule. But, when you consider everything that makes a great 500 mile race, the Daytona 500 stands all alone!

Most tracks not only have a week to really begin building up its race while the media begins putting Daytona before the fans as soon as the last lap of the season ending race at Atlanta is put into the record books. The speedway uses the media attention to attract thousands of fans to the track not only for the 500, but for the a variety of races that make up what is known as "Speedweeks".

While most tracks create that carnival type atmosphere for a weekend, Daytona is able to create and maintain that same atmosphere for over a week. It's not just practice either, there is qualifying and the unique qualifying races held on Thursday known as The Gatorade Twin 125's.

Winston Cup isn't the only series starting its schedule at Daytona. The Busch, Craftsman Truck, Goody's Dash and ARCA Series all use Daytona International Speedway as the site of their first race of the season. Also scheduled during Speedweeks is the first IROC race of the season. Add all of the practicing, qualifying and actual racing that these six series brings to the speedway and it becomes easy to see how the atmosphere surrounding all of Daytona Beach is turned into a racing frenzy!

Having been lucky enough to go to the last five 500's, I can attest to the fact that Daytona Beach more than lives up to its self proclaimed title of "The Birthplace of Speed." Every store, restaurant or attraction you visit will do its best to carry out the racing fever that has engulfed the area. Show cars seem to be parked on every corner and everywhere you see a line you where there is a driver conducting another auto-graph session.

As the days to the final Sunday begin to dwindle down, the excitement level begins building for the 500. Everywhere you go you overhear talk of the latest speeds posted by drivers and the price of tickets being scalped continues to rise as the last of the fans begin to arrive in town looking for both a place to stay and a ticket.

My favorite time at Daytona during Speedweeks is actually the Saturday night before the 500. Just driving by the empty track bathed in flood lights heightens the anticipation of the next day's event to the point it can be overwhelming. People are everywhere and nobody seems to meet a stranger. They all share the same excitement knowing that in just a few hours 43 drivers will start a 10 month odyssey that will lead to one of them being named the next Winston Cup Champion.

Your Daytona race day experience starts early (to avoid traffic and to assure that good parking spot) as the majority of the crowd witnesses the sun rising over the speedway. I have always suspected as the darkness of night gives away to those first few light rays of morning that the people I see are actually the same ones I saw the night before.

Then suddenly it all begins to go in fast motion as the slow pace of the week now begins to turn to a blur as all of the activity leading to the actual start of the race seems to fly by. You spend the entire race on your feet as this is one track that you don't buy a ticket to sit down. 200 laps go by quickly as you soon find yourself in your own car for the long drive home feeling like what you just experienced has been somewhat of a dream.

DUSTIN MUSIC (34) put a shot up over a Sheldon Clark defender. Music netted 33 points in the Blackcats 93-84 loss to the host Cardinals.

Hayes

quarters. Hayes opened the Allen Central scoring with a rebound basket and a 49-47 Allen Central lead. The Rebels picked up the Pirates at three-quarter court and the Pirates were shaken by the move on defense by the Rebels.

Allen Central quickly ran out to a 55-50 lead on back-to-back three-pointers by Mullins and Hayes. Hayes buried consecutive three-pointers at the 3:42 mark and again with 3:12 to play in the game, that gave Allen Central a 64-52 lead.

Belfry was not through. With two minutes to play, the Pirates trailed 65-55 but three-point baskets by Hager, Lequire and Curtis Childers narrowed the margin to six points, 70-64. Childers hit another trey with 24 seconds to play to pull his team to within three, 72-69 off an Allen Central turn over. Neil Allen hit two of four free throws down the stretch to salt the game away for the Rebels.

Travis Francis finished with seven points while Scott and Z.W. Chaffins netted three each. Allen finished with two points.

Lequire led Belfry with 22 points including five three-point baskets. Hager totaled 17 and three treys. Childers scored 11 and Jonathan Ranyon had 11.

Allen Central travels to Paintsville tonight.

MEGAN OUSLEY (12) of South Floyd hit from the head of the key against Allen Central last Monday night in conference basketball. Allen Central defeated the visiting Lady Raiders for the third seed in the district tournament.

Basketball Bears ranked No. 20

After spending a season building toward it, the Pikeville College Bears have finally entered the NAIA Div. I Top 25.

The Bears debut in the poll this week at No. 20, which is an enormous jump from last week's rating of 35th. Four new teams entered this week's Top 25, and Pikeville College heads the list.

"This is something our staff and players can take a great deal of pride in," said Randy McCoy, in his second season as head coach of the Bears. "The way things are done in the NAIA, being ranked in the national poll is one way of securing an at-large bid in the national tournament. Tulsa is still our goal, and this is a huge step in that direction."

The NAIA holds its annual Div. I tournament in Tulsa, Okla., each March.

Transylvania University is still atop the poll, receiving nine of the 13 first-place votes. This is the third week the Pioneers have been ranked No. 1. Science and Arts, getting the other four first-place votes, is second.

Other teams Pikeville has played this season which are ranked this week are College of West Virginia, rated third nationally; No. 18 Georgetown; No. 19 Barber-Scotia (N.C.); and Lambuth University, which beat Pikeville Saturday and entered the Top 25 at No. 23.

Of the teams getting votes but not in the Top 25, Mid-South foes Cumberland (Ky.) College (five votes) and Campbellsville University (four) are getting votes this week.

Pikeville is 5-4 against teams getting votes in this week's poll.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 836-5156, Major Revision No. 6 In accordance with KRS 350.070, notice is hereby given that Coal-Mac, Inc., P.O. Box 436, 1628 West 3rd Street, Williamson, West Virginia 25661, has applied for a major revision to an existing underground coal mining and reclamation operation located 1.2 miles southeast of Alvin in Floyd County. The major revision will not add any surface acreage or underground acreage to the permit area.

The proposed major revision area is approximately 1.2 miles southeast from KY 194's junction with KY 1428 and located 0.3 miles south of Cow Creek.

The proposed major revision is located on the Harold and Lancer U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle maps. The surface area to be affected by the major revision is owned by John Gobel.

The major revision proposes to change the post mining land use from residential to industrial/commercial.

The major revision application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 3140 South Lake Drive, Suite 6, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653-1410. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director, Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

This is the final advertisement of this application; all comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be received within thirty (30) days of today's date.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 836-5248, Operator Change

In accordance with 405 KAR 8:010, notice is hereby given that Marine Coal Corporation, P.O. Box 940, Paintsville, Kentucky 41240, intends to revise Permit Number 836-5248 to change operator. The operator presently approved is Cheyenne Elkhorn Coal Company, P.O. Box 2767, Pikeville, Kentucky 41501. The new operator will be Miller Bros. Coal, Inc., HC 75, Box 220, Leburn, Kentucky 41831.

The operation is located 2.90 miles northeast of Hueysville, and situated in Floyd and Magoffin counties. The operation is approximately 1.50 miles northwest from KY Route 2029's junction with KY Route 7, and located in Salyers Branch. The operation is located on the David, Martin, Wayland and Handshoe U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minutes quadrangle maps at latitude 37°30'45", and longitude 82°53'06".

The application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg Regional Office, 3140 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, Kentucky 41653-1410. Written comments or objections must be filed with the Director, Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow, U.S. 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. All comments or objections must be received within fifteen (15) days of today's date.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 836-5197 Major Revision

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.070, notice is hereby given that Cross Gates Mining Company, Inc., P.O. Box 905, Flatwoods, KY 41102, has applied for a major revision to an existing underground coal mining and reclamation operation located 1 mile west of Woods in Floyd County. The major revision will add/delete no acres surface disturbance, and will underlie no additional underground area, making a total area of 295.29 acres within the permit boundary.

The proposed operation is approximately 1.4 miles east of KY 194's junction with KY 1428, and is located just south of Cow Creek.

The proposed operation is located on the Lancer, and Harold U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minutes quadrangle map. The surface area to be affected by the major revision is owned by Stanford Burchett.

The major revision proposed a post mining land use.

The surface mining application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement's Prestonsburg, Regional Office, 3140 South Lake Drive, Prestonsburg, KY 41653. Written comments, objections, or requests for a permit conference must be filed with the Director of the Division of Permits, #2 Hudson Hollow Complex, Frankfort, KY,

This is the final advertisement of this application; all comments, objections or requests for a permit conference must be received within thirty (30) days of today's date.

Are you eligible for the Earned Income Tax Credit?

...fying child must live with the taxpayer in the United States for more than half the year; if he/she is a foster child, for the whole year. An eligible foster child is a child who is the taxpayer's brother, sister, stepbrother or stepsister; or a descendant of any of them (including an adopted child); or is placed with the taxpayer by an authorized placement agency. In addition, the taxpayer must care for the child as their own.

To qualify, workers must have earned income from wages or self-employment.

nonresident aliens.

Workers, their spouses (if filing jointly) and any qualifying children must have valid Social Security numbers (SSNs) issued by the Social Security Administration. If an SSN was obtained solely to receive federally funded benefits, such as food stamps, this SSN is not valid for EITC purposes and the Social Security card will state "not valid for employment." If workers (or their spouses if filing jointly) have an individual taxpayer identification number (ITIN), they cannot get the EITC. And for those workers whose qualifying child has an ITIN or an adoption taxpayer identification number (ATIN), they cannot get the EITC on the basis of that child.

"A qualifying child can be a son, daughter, adopted child, grandchild, great-grandchild, stepchild or eligible foster child"

Certain workers may be able to get extra money added to their paychecks throughout the year with the advance EITC. Details of the credit are on Form W-5, "Earned Income Credit Advance Payment Certificate," which the employee must fill out and give to his/her employer.

While the IRS wants people who are eligible for the credit to claim it, they are also cautioning taxpayers who claim the credit to be certain they qualify. For people whose EITC for 1997 or later was denied or reduced by the Internal Revenue Service, to claim the credit for 2000, they may need to attach Form 8862, "Information to Claim Earned Income Credit after Disallowance," to their return.

Most people can use the EIC instructions in their tax forms package to see if they can claim the credit. IRS Publication 596, Earned Income Credit, has details about the EITC and which forms or worksheets are required to claim it. To order a free copy of Publication 596, Earned Income Credit, or Publication 596SP, Credito por Ingreso del Trabajo, or other free IRS publications and forms, call the IRS at 1-800-829-3676. You may also download publications and forms from the IRS Web site at www.irs.gov.

Their 2000 modified adjusted gross income (AGI) must be less than $31,152 if they had more than one qualifying child or less than $27,413 if they had only one qualifying child. A worker without a qualifying child must have a modified AGI of less than $10,380, be at least 25 and under 65, not be eligible to be claimed as a dependent on anyone else's return, and must have lived in the United States for more than half the year.

Workers claiming the credit cannot have more than $2,400 in investment income, such as interest or dividends, and cannot be a qualifying child of someone else. Special rules apply to U.S. military personnel and to

The Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) is for people who work, but don't earn high incomes. Those who qualify could pay less federal tax or no tax — they could even get a tax refund.

The amount of the EITC varies depending on total earnings, other income and certain other considerations. Yet some people who are eligible for the EITC fail to claim it. Why? Because to get the EITC, they must file a tax return. Some workers earn so little that they legally don't have to file. By not filing, they're missing out on money they're entitled to receive, from a few dollars to as much as $3,888.

The credit is based on the amount of income earned and the number of qualifying children the worker has. Workers without a qualifying child get a smaller credit than those with one or more qualifying children.

A qualifying child can be a son, daughter, adopted child, grandchild, great-grandchild, stepchild or eligible foster child. The quali-

IRS e-file 2001

(ARA) - People who want to get their tax refund faster can help speed things up by using IRS e-file. IRS e-file is the government's name for a number of ways taxpayers can electronically file and pay their taxes.

IRS e-file users get their refund quicker, often in less than half the time it takes for paper filers to see their refund. Folks who choose direct deposit for their refund get it fastest. And IRS e-file is more accurate. Increased accuracy means e-file users have less chance of getting a letter about mistakes on their return from the IRS.

For the second year, IRS e-file offers additional benefits to those who owe money with their return. Taxpayers who owe can pay by credit card, or they can "file now, pay later." To "file now, pay later," e-file users provide bank information when they e-file and indicate when they want their payment made to the U.S. Treasury. Payments can be made anytime after the tax return is filed until April 16. This feature will let people file early, have the peace of mind of knowing the IRS has accepted their return, and manage their finances without waiting until the last minute to file and pay.

People who choose to pay by credit card can use MasterCard, Discover Card or American Express Card. These filers are charged a fee. IRS isn't involved with nor does it receive any of the fee.

There are several ways to use IRS e-file. People can ask their tax professional to e-file their returns. They can use their personal computer and commercial tax preparation software to e-file from home. People with simple tax returns who receive the TeleFile tax booklet in the mail can use the telephone to file from home.

Last year nearly 35 million returns were sent to the IRS electronically. It's the IRS' goal to make e-file the preferred way to file. The accuracy, speed of refunds, and ease of filing are benefits many people have noted in previous years. And, of course, people can still e-file and send a paper check if they choose.

Small businesses can file Form 941 by phone

Small businesses have an option to file their Form 941 quarterly returns using a system that has proved highly popular and successful among individual taxpayers. Each quarter, the Internal Revenue Service is mailing the 941 TeleFile package to millions of eligible small businesses. The package allows qualifying businesses to file using a Touch-Tone telephone.

The package contains everything a business needs to successfully use 941TeleFile: the 941TeleFile Tax Record, a payment voucher, and a paper Form 941 for those who do not meet the filing requirements. Instructions on the first page list the qualifications. A business that meets these requirements should complete the tax record using the instructions, then call the TeleFile system using a Touch-Tone phone and the toll-free number listed. A recorded message guides users step-by-step through the phone call and all the entries are repeated so users can check their accuracy. As the user enters information, 941TeleFile computes all the taxes and balances. At the end of the phone call, the system provides a confirmation number that the user records on the space provided on the 941 TeleFile Tax Record. The tax record is the proof of filing the return and should be saved. The call takes about 10 minutes; there is nothing to mail.

The 941TeleFile system will begin accepting calls for the first quarter of 2001 on April 1, 2001. The IRS TeleFile help desk is available to answer user questions and to help them file. The toll-free number is 1-800-583-5345. Form 941 can also be filed on line. For more information, visit www.irs.gov/elec_svs/bap.html.

Check, Money Order, Credit Card, Direct Debit May Be Used to Pay Taxes

(ARA) - When you owe federal income taxes, you have choices of how to pay. This year, based on which filing option you use (paper, e-file by computer, or TeleFile by phone), you may be able to pay your taxes via check, money order, credit card, or direct debit.

If you pay taxes you owe by check or money order, make it out to the United States Treasury. Please show your correct name, address, social security number, daytime telephone number, and the tax year and form number on the front of your check or money order. Enclose your payment with your return, but do not attach it to the form. Do not mail cash with your return. If you pay cash at an IRS office, keep the receipt as part of your records.

With the quick and accurate IRS e-file options (computer or phone), you have the opportunity to file now and pay later (up to April 16, 2001) using a direct debit from your checking or savings account. Some computer filers may use tax preparation software that allows them to include a credit card charge as part of the e-file return.

The IRS has authorized Official Payments Corporation (OPC) and PhoneCharge, Inc. to accept credit card charges for federal taxes by phone. All individuals - whether filing on paper or electronically - may use this system to charge taxes to American Express Card, MasterCard, or Discover Card accounts. Call 1-800-2PAY-TAX (1-800-272-9829) to call OPC. Reach PhoneCharge, Inc. at 1-888-ALLTAXX (1-888-255-8299).

OPC accepts three types of credit card payments this year:

- taxes owed on a 2000 return;
- a projected balance of 2000 taxes a taxpayer chooses to pay with a request for an automatic extension of time to file; and
- estimated tax payments for tax year 2001.

Taxpayers who charge a payment with an automatic extension request or who charge an estimated tax payment will not need to file the respective paper Forms 4868 or 1040-ES. OPC accepts 2000 federal tax payments beginning January 1, and the estimated tax payment option starts March 1, 2001.

The credit card processor will charge a fee based on the amount you are paying. You will be told what the fee is when you call and you will have the option to continue or cancel the call. Do not include the fee as part of your tax payment. You can also find out what the fee will be on the Internet at www.officialpayments.com or www.About1888ALLTAXX.com. If you paid by credit card before you filed your tax return, enter the confirmation number you were given at the end of the call on page 1 of Form 1040 in the upper left corner. You may file a return early and wait until April 16, 2001, to phone in a credit card charge.

Visit the IRS Web site at www.irs.gov for more information about IRS e-file, paperless filing, private sector partnerships, and electronic payments.

Child tax credit to benefit some parents again this tax season

(ARA) - Your children may be worth more than you realize.

Depending on your income and if you have at least one qualifying child - you may be able to take the Child Tax Credit of up to $500 for each qualifying child on your 2000 federal income tax return. This means you can reduce your tax by up to $500 for each child. Better yet, this credit is in addition to the Child and Dependent Care Credit and the Earned Income Tax Credit.

What constitutes a "qualifying child?" Quite simply, a qualifying child is a child who is claimed as your dependent, was under age 17 at the end of 2000, is a United States citizen or resident alien, and is your son, daughter, adopted child, grandchild, stepchild, or foster child.

The more children you have, the better the tax credit may work for you. If you have one or two children, you can use the credit to reduce the tax you owe to zero, but you will not receive any remainder as a refund (non-refundable). If you have three or more children, however, you may qualify for the additional Child Tax Credit, which is refundable.

As with all good things, there are certain restrictions in that the amount of the Child Tax Credit that you claim depends on your income. While the value of the credit is $500 per qualifying child, the total credit is reduced by $50 for each $1,000 (or part thereof) that your adjusted gross income exceeds $110,000 for joint filers, $75,000 for single filers, and $55,000 for married filing separately.

But any way you look at it, the Child Tax Credit helps put money back into your wallet, where you need it the most... for food, clothes, school supplies, etc.

For more information on the Child Tax Credit, see the instructions for Form 1040 or Form 1040A. Also, you can download Publication 972, Child Tax Credit, on the IRS Web site at www.irs.gov, or ask for a free copy of the publication when you call the IRS toll-free at 1-800-829-3676.

Know Your Rights as a Taxpayer

(ARA) - Taxpayers are entitled to fair treatment, privacy, and representation, in addition to specific rights that apply in collection, examination or appeals matters. The IRS has a number of publications to guide you when confronted with these processes.

IRS Publication 1, Your Rights as a Taxpayer, and IRS

Publication 1SP, Derechos del Contribuyente, highlight some of the key rights as a taxpayer, and explain the examination, appeals, collection, and refund processes.

Publication 556, Examination of Returns, Appeal Rights, and Claims for Refund, provides more in-depth information on the examination and appeals processes.

Publication 594, Understanding the Collection Process, and Publication 594SP, Comprendiendo el Proceso de Cobro, define the rights and duties of a taxpayer who owes federal taxes.

These publications can be downloaded from the IRS Web site, www.irs.gov, or ordered free from the IRS by calling 1-800-829-3676. For taxpayer assistance, call the toll-free IRS help-line at 1-800-829-1040.

Raise your employees' take-homepay with advance EITC

(ARA) - Employers can help many of their employees get extra money in their take-home pay with a tax benefit called the advance earned income tax credit (advance EITC).

Advance EITC allows employers to add a portion of their employees' earned income tax credit (EITC) directly to their paychecks. It could mean up to $1,457 throughout the year 2001 for qualifying employees.

To get the advance EITC, employees must expect to earn less than $28,281 in the year 2001, expect to have at least one qualifying child, and expect to be eligible to claim the credit. An employee must complete Form W-5, "Earned Income Credit Advance Payment Certificate," and give it to his/her employer. See Publication 15, Employer's Tax Guide (Circular E), for more information.

To learn more about the advance EITC and to download the form and publication, visit the IRS Web site at www.irs.gov.

To order a free copy of the form and publication, call the IRS at 1-800-829-3676.

Taxpayer advocate service can help with tax troubles

(ARA) - The IRS handles 98 percent of all tax returns without a hitch, and most tax problems can be solved with a quick phone call. But if you have a stubborn tax problem that you have not been able to resolve through normal IRS channels, you can get help from the IRS Taxpayer Advocate Service. The Taxpayer Advocate Service, an independent IRS organization, will ensure that your case is handled promptly and fairly, and that your rights as a taxpayer are

Here's how it works:

First, you should try to resolve your tax problem through the usual IRS channels (call IRS Customer Service at 1-800-829-1040). If you are unsuccessful, you should contact the Taxpayer Advocate Service. If your situation qualifies, they will assign a Taxpayer Advocate who will take a fresh look at your problem and work with you to reach a quick, fair resolution.

While the Taxpayer Advocate Service cannot change the tax laws, they can cut through red tape and can often help with unusual situations involving you should be ready to provide:

- Your name, address and social security number
- Your contact telephone number and hours when you can be reached
- Your previous attempts to solve the problem and the office you contacted
- The type of tax return, and the year(s) involved
- A description of the problem or hardship

THE MOUNTAIN ARTS CENTER PRESENTS "THE LITTLE MERMAID"

For the entertainment delight of the young

In keeping with the Mountain Arts Center's commitment to continue to provide more family entertainment geared to the younger set, "The Little Mermaid" will be presented on Monday, March 19, as the second in a series of family-oriented entertainment.

An early morning performance for area school children is scheduled for 10 a.m. with an afternoon matinee following at 12 noon. An evening performance is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

Teachers may call 889-9125 to make reservations for their classrooms, and the general public is invited to call 886-2623, locally, or 1-888-MAC-ARTS, for reservations and ticket information.

Prices for the evening performance are $8 for adults and $4 for children under 12.

Earlier in the season, "Winnie the Pooh" was presented to a packed house. Afterwards, the characters lingered in the MAC's lobby to sign autographs and pose for pictures. The same courtesy will be available following the performance of "The Little Mermaid."

"The Little Mermaid" is a beautiful tale of a young mermaid's love and her desire to live and walk upon the land above her. It is a story that has brought entertainment delight to both young and old alike for many generations.

— Among the problems uncovered in a November Detroit News investigation of the city's firehouses was the absence of a central system of flashing alarms or bells to notify stations when 911 calls come in. Rather, each firehouse is equipped with a dot-matrix printer with a lead weight resting on the paper feed on a table and tied to a switch that activates a bell on the wall; when the 911 operator sends a message to the firehouse computer, the "print" function automatically engages, moving the paper feed up, dislodging the lead weight from the table, and tripping the switch, which triggers the bell. Detroit Fire Commissioner Charles Wilson told the News that there are no plans to replace the 15-year-old system, in that it seems to work pretty well.

— Even though "nonlethal" military firepower might satisfy nations' needs for war, without loss of life, some experts counsel against developing such armament, fearing that such sophisticated weapons might spook Iraq and other countries to step up development of the lethal kind. According to a December report in New Scientist, feasible nonlethal weapons include a dust that would put everyone in an area to sleep (or in a mellow state); bombs dispersing microbes that eat up enemy rubber tires or eat up storehouses of oil and gasoline; and bombs that would suck up oxygen in an area to disable automobile or aircraft engines.

— Barry and Rhonda Conrad filed a formal, pre-litigation complaint against Hendricks Community Hospital (Danville, Ind.) in February for mishandling the body of their stillborn son last April. The grieving couple had wanted to view the body (and have it examined to help learn the reason for the stillbirth) before it went off to a funeral home, but according to the complaint, hospital employees mistakenly left it in with the sheets to be laundered, and by the time the Conrads could see the body, it had been washed, bleached and dried.

Update

Brian Boone, 29, on probation since June in Lincoln, Ill., for attempting to abduct a child (and written up in News of the Weird last year for his penchant for collecting used socks from teen-age girls), was sentenced to 30 days in jail in November following his disorderly conduct conviction for asking two teen-age girls to give him the gum they were chewing by spitting it into a cup for him. He said he needed it to fix a flat tire. (His probation requires that he stay away from minors.)

ALC Students to Perform

"Antigone," the third and final part of Sophocles' Theban plays written around 438 B.C., will be performed March 1 and 2, at 7:30 p.m. in the Campbell Arts Center Auditorium on the campus of Alice Lloyd College.

This play centers on the same family struggles modern man continues to be faced with each day.

War and devotion to duty have torn this family apart with fatal results at every corner. Immediately following the war, Antigone, a young girl and member of the royal family, buries her dead brother against the orders of her uncle, the new ruler.

This act of disobedience unleashes a chain of events, which completes the prophecy of destruction that has plagued the family for generations.

This contemporary retelling of this timeless family struggle in a modern military setting, retains the feeling and scope of the Greek original, but deals with issues at the core of today's family structure.

The performance is free to the public, and all are invited to attend.

For more information, call (606) 368-6050.

Classical Guitarist to Perform

Peter Fletcher, a classical guitarist, will visit the Alice Lloyd College campus, Tuesday, February 20.

His diverse repertoire of music spans from the Renaissance Period through the 20th century.

His combination of talent, expertise, and beautiful musical selections provide for an evening of inspirational and relaxing entertainment.

The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Campbell Arts Center and the public is invited to attend at no charge.

For more information, call (606) 368-6136.

The Highlands Museum & Discovery Center in Ashland, announces its schedule of events and exhibits for Black History Month

The events are sponsored by Sim Fryson Motor Company Inc., Dr. Charles Rhodes, Dr. and Mrs. Michael Canty, Boyd County NAACP, Ashland Community College and the Highlands Museum & Discovery Center. The month-long celebration includes special community events along with special museum exhibits and educational programming.

From the museum collections, an exhibit entitled "The Beat of the Drum: The Evolution of African American Music" opened January 16. Using artifacts taken from the museum collections, visitors can explore the impact of the African drum and rhythm on American sacred and secular music over the past 150 years.

February 15 at 7 p.m. at the museum, J. Blaine Hudson, associate professor of Pan African Studies, University of Louisville, will present "The Underground Railroad in Kentucky."

Hudson begins west of the Appalachians where the Ohio River was the border between slavery and freedom. Thousands of slaves crossed its each year, many with the assistance of the Underground Railroad. Hudson will explore the operations, notable events, and fascinating personalities connected with the Underground Railroad in Kentucky. He is from the Kentucky Humanities Council Speakers Bureau. A public reception will follow the presentation with the Blazer High School Human Relations Club serving as hosts. There is no charge for this event.

February 24 at 7 p.m. at Ashland Community College's Sowards Theater, the Tri-State Multicultural Talent Revue will be the closing presentation of the month's celebrations. Hosted by Kevin Harrison, assistant dean of minority and campus affairs at ACC, the revue will draw on the multi-cultural talents of individual students and adults as well as groups and choirs of the tri-state. There will be a public reception following the performance.

Contact Kevin Harrison, 606/326-2211 for more information or a performance reservation. Admission to the revue is free and open to the public.

The museum will have special exhibits on display throughout the month of February. The Boyd County High School Multi-cultural Studies Class under teacher Kay King, will display a class project: "Hidden in Plain View; Quilt Patterns with Secret Messages." Viewers will discover how slave quilt patterns recorded special events and contained information for the Underground Railroad. A historical pictorial exhibit from the Paul Blazer High School Human Relations Club will also be on display.

"Marketplace: Africa," a Discovery Workshop, will be offered at the museum throughout the month of February for school tour groups, and on Saturdays for walk-in visitors. Visitors will experience an African market place by bartering for materials to complete an African inspired craft project. Visitors will also learn about the African night sky inside the Snyders of Berlin STARLAB, a portable planetarium system.

For more information, call the museum office at 606/329-8888. Museum

Hours are 10 a.m.-4 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday; Monday by appointment. The fourth Monday of each month is free night from 7-9 p.m. Admission is $3 adults, $2 seniors, students and children; members and children under 2 free.

Natural Bridge Offers Beginners' Backpacking Trips

Want to learn the basics of camping and hiking in the great outdoors? Then pack up your troubles and take part in one of two beginners' backpacking trips scheduled at Natural Bridge State Resort Park near Slade in Powell County. The events are scheduled for Feb. 24-25 and March 24-25.

A trained park naturalist will lead the group on a 10-mile overnight hike through some of the most spectacular scenery in Kentucky. The $45 registration fee covers all equipment and meals. For each trip, groups will be limited to 12 people.

For more information, call the park at (606) 663-2214.

"Cargo" by Ed Hamilton is part of the art exhibit, titled "Inequitable Conditions," that runs February 2-24 at the Gallery for the Arts, 44 E. Main St., Mt. Sterling. The exhibit features works by artists from Kentucky, New York and Europe. It was developed under the guidance of Julien Robson, curator of modern art for the J.B. Speed Art Museum in Louisville, and is sponsored by the James N. Gray Foundation, Kentucky Arts Council and Montgomery County Council for the Arts. For information, call 859/498-6264.

Getting our priorities straight

Last Saturday I stopped at a local service station to get my car filled with gasoline. That's when I discovered that there are a few things more important in this life than making a buck.

It was approximately 1:30 p.m. when I pulled up to the pump and waited for the attendant to come out and fill up my tank and clean off the windshield.

"Fill'er up," I hollered.

"Can't do it," he yelled back.

"What's wrong?" I asked. "Out of gasoline?"

"Nope," he said, as he shook his head. "I'm closing."

"But it's only 1:30," I protested.

"I realize that," he said, as he closed the door on his garage. "But I'm in a hurry."

"Can't you pump me a few gallons so I can get home?"

"Look, I told you I was in a hurry."

"What's so important that you can't give me a tank of gas?"

The man seemed to disregard my question as he continued to close his station.

"Excuse me, but what's the rush?"

"Do you know what today is?" he asked.

"Yes, it's Saturday," I replied.

"Ring any bells?"

"Is it your birthday?"

"Don't be silly, U.K. is playing in twenty minutes."

I couldn't believe it. The country's in a recession, businesses are begging for customers, the unemployment rate is at an all time high, and this man was closing down his only source of income because of a U.K. game.

"You're not serious?" I queried.

"Serious as a heart attack," he answered, quickly.

"But don't you want my money?"

"I'll take your money, lady. I'm just not going to waste any time pumping gas into your car. It's past empty as usual, isn't it?"

"Would I have stopped if it hadn't been?"

"See, I was right," he said, sarcastically.

"But I don't have enough gas to get home," I cried. "What am I going to do?"

"I sympathize with you, but being a Good Samaritan minutes before a U.K. game isn't one of my virtues."

"I've got a good mind to call your distributor and tell him about this."

"Go ahead, but you won't get him today."

"Why not?"

"Because as we speak, he's sitting two rows up from the floor at Rupp Arena. Can I call you a cab?"

I was incredulous.

"Absolutely not," I said, as I tried to restart my car. "See, I don't even have enough gas to start the car."

"Well, feel free to use the pay phone on the corner."

"You're just too kind," I whined as I started for the telephone. "You can't depend on anyone these days."

"On, on U of K," he sang, as he jumped into his car and pulled away.

"Honey," I said, as my husband answered the phone. "Can you come and pick me up?"

"Where are you?"

"I'm at the gas station. The attendant wouldn't fill my car up because he was leaving to go home and watch the U.K. game. Have you ever heard anything so ridiculous?"

"Not lately," he said, hurriedly. "I'll be there in forty-five minutes."

"What's going to take you so long?" I asked.

"That's about half-time of the game."

Don't let anyone ever tell you that we Eastern Kentuckians don't have our priorities straight.

Weird

Vermont officials ordered practice restrictions on surgeon Frederick Lord for 11 serious incidents in an 11-year period (e.g., operating on the wrong body parts), including one resulting in death and another in a patient's becoming a quadriplegic (Windsor, Vt.). And according to January testimony, a 65-year-old man died at a Hong Kong hospital last year after being left poorly attended because Dr. Chau Chak-lam failed to write "acute" angina on the patient's chart because, as he later testified, he did not know how to spell it in English.

Can't Possibly Be True

— New York City writer William Adrian Milton, 59, and his doctor told reporters in January that his recent CAT scan revealed to his complete surprise that he had a bullet in his head. Searching his memory, Milton recalled a 1976 incident in which he wandered too close to a fight on a loading dock, heard a noise, and was knocked down. He said he staggered home bloody and went to bed, but failed to seek medical treatment because the bleeding soon stopped and the remaining lump was consistent with being hit by a brick. Milton said he'll leave the bullet there.

Police in Bangkok charged Japanese businessman Yukio Tatsuka, 50, with the attempted murder of his son in November in what they say was a plan to eliminate him from the family because of his aggressive behavior. According to police, Tatsuka brought the 19-year-old on a holiday to Bangkok to show him "the best time of his life" so he wouldn't feel so guilty about killing him. A police colonel said Tatsuka might have mellowed just a little during the excursion, but when the son began scolding the father anew, Tatsuka grabbed his gun and allegedly shot the boy in the neck.

Least Competent People

In January, Daniel F. Everett, 38, was charged with disturbing the peace after he allegedly pulled down his pants in the busy first-floor lobby of the St. Louis County Courthouse and photocopied his buttocks. From his position atop a machine, he had made two copies and was working on a third when Clayton, Mo., police officers arrested him. According to witnesses, Everett beseeched the officers: "What did I do? What did I do?"

Undignified Deaths

— A 46-year-old woman was killed in September in Molalla, Ore., when a 2-ton concrete wall collapsed onto the portable toilet she was using. And a 64-year-old man was killed in Reno, Nev., in January, found underneath several hundred pounds of old newspapers that had been stacked to the ceiling throughout his house. And at the airport near Luanda, Angola, in January, an out-of-control airplane managed to land safely, sparing the lives of all seven on board, but its erratic path caused a fatal collision with a pedestrian who was relieving himself too close to the runway.

Also, in the Last Month ...

British pro soccer player Rio Ferdinand went on the disabled list with a strained tendon caused by having his leg propped up for too long on his coffee table while watching the Super Bowl on TV (Leeds, England). A fistfight broke out in the middle of a highway funeral procession when a 20-year-old motorist became angry that he had to wait for the line of cars to pass and began yelling vulgarities and tossed a bottle at a car full of mourners (Florence, Ala.). The fire department had to rescue a 67-year-old man when the ground over his septic tank caved in and trapped him inside the rusty container for nearly an hour (Warwick, N.Y.) An 8-year-old boy was suspended for three days under a school's "zero tolerance" policy, for pointing a piece of breaded chicken at a teacher and simulating gunfire (Jonesboro, Ark.)
