Delays on US 23

The Transportation Cabinet's Department of Highways, in conjunction with Mountain Enterprises, will be black-topping at the Allen intersection, the north and southbound lanes of U.S. 23, at the junction of Route 1428, directly beneath the traffic lights. Work began yesterday and is expected to last approximately two days.

The public is asked to please expect delays and to account for delays in travel time. All appropriate barricades, flagmen, signs, barrels and other traffic control devices will be used to mark the area.

Correction

In the Sunday issue of The Floyd County Times, Chuck Davis of the Prestonsburg Fire Department was mistakenly identified in a photograph of an automobile accident on North Lake Drive as William Burke. Burke is an EMT at Respond Ambulance Service. The Times regrets this error.

A steady crowd gathered around The Typhoon during Archer Park's Fourth of July Carnival Tuesday evening. It is the carnival's newest attraction and kept workers busy as the line leading to the ride never really finished but seemed instead to recycle as those who would finish would simply get right back in line for another whirlwind trip.

Door-to-door trash pickup begins

by MARY MUSIC
STAFF WRITER

Making Floyd County a cleaner, more beautiful place to live is what Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson and other members of the solid waste committee had in mind when they began an initiative to promote universal garbage pickup for Floyd County.

"By having universal pickup and everybody paying," said Thompson, "we believe that it will eliminate a lot of illegal dumping, and trash in creeks."

Floyd County Solid Waste assumed garbage collection services previously directed by USA Waste Management for all Floyd County residents on Monday, with the exception of those in Prestonsburg who receive garbage collection services from the city of Prestonsburg.

All customers — anyone who lives in a home within Floyd County — will be billed for garbage collection services on their monthly water bills. Those who do not have county water will

Departments complain after threat to funding

by MARY MUSIC

Several Floyd County volunteer firefighters brought strong opinions to the 911 advisory Council meeting on Monday, after receiving a letter that they would not receive funds unless they were in attendance.

"We're all volunteers, and we're the ones getting stepped on," said Eddie Clark, from Betsy Layne Volunteer Fire Department.

According to chairman Jim

Caldwell, the meeting-requirement letters, which were sent by certified mail to each volunteer fire department, were planned during the last three meetings as an "incentive" to improve attendance from volunteer firefighters at monthly meetings.

The letters stated that in order to qualify for money at the end of the fiscal year, volunteer firefighters needed to attend at least eight of the 12 monthly meetings.

Floyd County Sheriff John K. Blackburn and Deputy Bobby Hackworth stand against a wall of marijuana plants the two confiscated Saturday morning from an "old, abandoned road" on Salt Lick. According to Blackburn, the haul represents approximately $10,000 of marijuana in street value prices. Additionally, the sheriff and his team located and confiscated about 40 more illegal plants on Sunday morning that were discovered growing in Emma. No arrests have thus far been made in either case.

Drivers parked bumper to bumper for nearly half a mile along the shoulder of Route 80 near Watergap yesterday to take advantage of Cardinal Mart Country Store's eye-catching gasoline prices. The station offered a special promotion price of 79.9 cents for a gallon of unleaded regular. The promotion lasted from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. and was part of a promotion to "give something back to the people" according to store representatives on hand to assist employees with the three-hour business rush.

911 Advisory Council members were forced to hold their meeting on Monday in the courthouse parking lot, after realizing their usual meeting place, the fiscal courtroom, was occupied by another group. Volunteer firefighters who attended the meeting came to voice their opinions about a "meeting requirements letter" sent by the advisory council which stated that funding would be cut off to those departments who failed to attend at least eight out of 12 monthly meetings of the advisory council.

"We were concerned by the lack of department representation," said Caldwell. "The council has been trying to make decisions to cover every department, but we did not know what their concerns were. What we got is a handful of people trying to make decisions for the entire county."

Clark voiced his disapproval of the letters, stating they were "illegal." Clark said he contacted two insurance agencies who told him the funds received by volunteer fire departments each year come from Kentucky surcharge money from fire insurance policies which come to each county for distribution to the fire departments.

"They can't take the money away if it doesn't even belong to them," said Clark.

According to Roy Compton, of the Allen Volunteer Fire Department, the lack of participation from local volunteer firefighters at 911 advisory council meetings stems from an incident which occurred three years ago, under a "different administration."

At that time, said Compton, volunteer firefighters presented their concerns about the purchase of new communication devices to the advisory board, which then presented it to the executive board. When the proposal to purchase new paging systems for volunteer firefighters was given to the fiscal court, however, decisions were made to purchase cheaper devices.

"We told them what we felt and they turned it down," said Compton. "Since then, it's been a sore spot in everybody's side."

According to one man in the crowd, volunteers quit coming to the meetings because they felt like they were "spinning webs."

"I think you get to a certain point in time when you know that was then and this is now," said Denise Davidson, 911 coordinator of the Kentucky State Police. "We have to concentrate on what we can do now and develop a strategic plan to handle one problem at a time."

who voiced disapproval concerning the letters during the meeting, advisory council members also heard complaints of other problems within the departments, such as radio communication problems, problems with inadequate beepers, and communication problems between volunteer firefighters and local police dispatchers who are not allowed to give information concerning vehicle owners without the assistance of police officials.

Concerns from the volunteer firefighters led to ideas and motions that were passed to address the issues, all voting favorably.

Before the meeting was adjourned, a motion was passed to "discard" the meeting requirements letter. It was replaced, instead, by a motion stating that those who do not attend at least 8 of the 12 meetings would lose their voting rights on the advisory council for six months.

"We have heard more concerns tonight than we have heard in the last six months," said Caldwell. "The problems we have heard tonight have probably been going for a long time, but this is the first we've heard about it on the advisory council."

According to Lon May, Floyd County DES Coordinator, the advisory council "knew" the council was not able to relinquish funding for Floyd County Volunteer Fire Departments.

"Even if the motion was taken all the way to the fiscal court and everything was passed," said May, "we knew they wouldn't do that. But we had to come up with some kind of idea to get people to come to the meetings. And it got everybody here."

donate the bone marrow to a child he doesn't even know.

"It's pain that's well worth it," said Crisp, who has undergone extensive testing over the last few weeks in order to ensure an accurate match. "Even though it's a little bit painful, you're taking the chance to save someone's life."

Crisp, along with several other Prestonsburg Fire Department employees, underwent bone marrow screening at the Holiday Inn in 1997, where they were put on a waiting list to obtain a possible match. Crisp said he hadn't heard any information about the screening until he was approached as a possible donor.

According to Judy Baker of the Central Kentucky Blood Bank, the odds of finding a bone marrow match is one in a million, and finding a donor doesn't necessarily mean that the donors will complete the task.

"It is harder to match bone marrow than it is to find a match with any other organ," said Baker. "A person's best chance to find a match for bone marrow is usually from a sibling. Their (Crisp's and the child's) genetic make-up are identical."

Bone marrow transplants are the only "cure" for diseases like leukemia. Baker said it takes 21 days before doctors can tell whether or not the marrow donation has been successful.

According to Baker, seven days prior to the transplant, the patient is given large, "almost lethal" doses of chemotherapy and radiation treatment in order to destroy their weakened bone marrow stem cells.

During a marrow donation, the healthy stem cells are collected from the donor during a surgical procedure using a special needle inserted into the hip bone. Those healthy cells are then transfused into the patient, where the cells "seep" into the bones and start producing duplicates of the donor's cells.

According to Baker, at the end of the procedure, the patient's blood type becomes the donor's blood type.

The boy, who Crisp is still yet to meet, now has an optimistic future, said Baker.

"With a transplant that involves a donor who is as good a match as he was," said Baker, "I would say that this little boy has an excellent chance at being cured."

Volunteer donation is performed anonymously through the National Marrow Donor Program (NMDP). Patient and donor may communicate only in anonymous writing through NMDP for at least the first year after the transplant.

Crisp, who lives at Goble Roberts with his wife Vicky and children Matthew, 12, and Adam, 6, said that he is no one special.

"A lot of people go through pain for somebody they don't even know," said Crisp. "I would do it again if I had to."

Anyone between the ages of 18 and 60 and in general good health can become a volunteer donor. New volunteers can join the NMDP Registry by taking a simple blood test.

Prichard Committee receives grant from Humana Foundation

LEXINGTON — The Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence has been awarded a grant of $15,000 from the Humana Foundation to develop a plan for providing information on the Commonwealth Institute for Parent Leadership to parties outside of Kentucky.

"Our number one priority is and always has been Kentucky parents. But to help sustain the institute here, we need to explore ways to lend our expertise to organizations outside of Kentucky," said Bev Raimondo, Commonwealth Institute for Parent Leadership director. "States such as Ohio are considering the institute because of the positive impact it has had in Kentucky. We are realizing our goals and people from around the country are watching." The Prichard Committee will work with a Washington D.C.-based consulting firm, Community Wealth Ventures, to develop a business plan for disseminating the institute. The committee will explore ways to respond to out-of-state requests for expertise and assistance in developing programs like the Commonwealth Institute for Parent Leadership in places such as Ohio, Kansas City, Albuquerque, California, and Indiana.

"We want to make clear that although we are looking at ways to help other states duplicate our success in Kentucky, our main focus will still be on our work here," Raimondo said.

The Commonwealth Institute for Parent Leadership helps parents become advocates for improved achievement in their children's schools. Reaching parents who have difficulty being involved in their schools is a priority.

In 1997 the Prichard Committee launched the institute, which trains 200 parents each year. After training, parents return to their local schools and work on projects that engage other parents in student achievement activities. Since the program began, about 700 parents have been trained.

Institute participants are recruited annually. The cost of tuition, meals, and lodging is provided; childcare assistance is available. For more information, call the Prichard Committee at 859/ 233-9849 or 1-800-928-2111. The email address is cipl@prichardcommittee.org. For more information on the institute, including news about projects being carried out across the state, visit the website at www.cipl.org.

"The importance of education in Kentucky and beyond cannot be emphasized enough," said David A. Jones, chairman of Humana Inc. and the Humana Foundation. "A program that empowers parents to take an active role in their child's education is valuable in our efforts to raise the standard of education and to enhance the well being of our communities."

The Humana Foundation, the philanthropic arm of Humana Inc., was established in 1981. The foundation is dedicated to improving the health and well being of communities throughout the United States and abroad. The foundation supports charitable organizations and institutions that promote education, health and human services, community development, and the arts. For more information, visit the website at www.humanafoundation.org.

Primary support for the Commonwealth Institute for Parent Leadership comes from The Pew Charitable Trusts, the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, and The Edna McConnell Clark Foundation. Additional support comes from other foundations, Kentucky businesses, and individuals.

The Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence is an independent, nonpartisan group of volunteers dedicated to improving education in Kentucky. For more information, visit the Prichard Committee's website at www.prichardcommittee.org.

guilty plea, Chaffins was to be privately supervised for two years. The arrest warrant which came as a result of Chaffins' probation violation, was issued by Judge Danny Caudill in May, after Commonwealth's Attorney Brent Turner filed a motion with the Floyd County Circuit Court to revoke his probation. According to Turner, Chaffins allegedly violated his probation by failing to attend a sex offender's program which was stipulated in his sentencing in April 1998.

Chaffins now remains lodged in the Floyd County Detention Center, serving a six-month sentence after pleading guilty to the parole violation earlier this month.

According to Marcum, although the case was dismissed from district court on Monday, he "assumes" it will be presented to a grand jury at a later date.

receive a separate bill for services.

Pickup days will remain the same for all residents, said Thompson. No stickers are needed for display, and no one pays for services before they are rendered.

"I'm excited about it," said Lon May, who began his position as Floyd County solid waste coordinator on Monday. "I believe this new initiative will lay groundwork to open a lot of doors for us."

Thompson and May agree that the appointment of the new garbage collection services will be beneficial to Floyd county, but both expect delays during the first few months of service.

"There are going to be problems," said Thompson. "We are going from picking up about 74 percent of the garbage in Floyd County to picking up 100 percent. We need everyone to bear with us until we get this lined out."

According to Thompson, people who haven't utilized garbage services before are likely to have an abundance of garbage to be picked up.

"You're looking at some homes with 25 to 30 bags of garbage," said Thompson. "It's going to take a month or two for us to catch up. Once we return to where these people have a normal amount of garbage per week, then it will run more smoothly."

According to Thompson, Floyd County Solid Waste will also make services available to pick up larger materials such as appliances or furniture throughout Floyd County free of charge until August 18. Anyone interested in this service can call (606) 452-1001 or (606) 478-1001. Wood or hazardous materials will not be accepted. Thompson also stated that individuals should place all garbage to be picked up in a place easily visible and accessible to garbage collection employees.

"We just want to keep people from dumping," said Thompson. "There's no reason to haul garbage off somewhere and dump it if people are already paying for services and we come and pick it up."

Individuals who have already paid for garbage collection services through USA Waste Management will receive credit to their accounts. A list of those individuals will be provided by USA Waste Management to Floyd County Solid Waste at a later date.

Commercial customers will still receive services from USA Waste Management.

Those who do not pay for garbage collection services, said Thompson, will be taken to court.

"I realize that there's going to be a lot of problems, and I'm probably going to take a lot of heat for this," said Thompson, "but this needs to be done. It's the right thing to do."

Thompson urges anyone with questions, concerns or complaints about their garbage service to contact Floyd County Solid Waste at 886-7890.

Worth Repeating ...

"Death? Why this fuss about death? Use your imagination, try to visualize a world without death! ... Death is the essential condition of life, not an evil."
— Charlotte Perkins Gilman

Our View

The forgotten meaning of America

America's cities and towns will today fill with parades, fireworks and barbecues. They will be celebrating the Fourth of July, the 225th birthday of America. But — except for a few bromidic speeches — there will be little attention paid to exactly what is being celebrated. And therein lies the tragedy. The Fourth of July is Independence Day, but America's leaders and intellectuals are trying to move us further and further away from the meaning of Independence Day, away from the philosophy that created this country.

What we hear from politicians, intellectuals and the media is that independence is passé, that we've reached a new age of "interdependence." We hear demands for mandatory "volunteering" to serve others, for sacrifice to the nation. We hear demands from trust-busters that successful companies be punished for being "greedy" and not serving society. But this is not the message of America. It is the direct opposite of why America became a beacon of hope for the truly oppressed throughout the world. They have come here to escape poverty and dictatorship; they have come here to live their own lives, where they aren't owned by the state, the community, or the tribe.

"Independence Day" is a critically important title. It signifies the fundamental meaning of this nation, not just of the holiday. The American Revolution remains unique in human history: a revolution — and a nation — founded on a moral principle, the principle of individual rights. Jefferson at Philadelphia, and Washington at Valley Forge, pledged their "lives, fortunes and sacred honor." For what? Not for mere separation from England, not — like most rebels — for the "freedom" to set up their own tyranny. In fact, Britain's tyranny over the colonists was mild compared to what most current governments do to their citizens.

Jefferson and Washington fought a war for the principle of independence, meaning the moral right of an individual to live his own life as he sees fit. Independence was proclaimed in the Declaration of Independence as the rights to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." What are these rights?

The right to life means that every individual has a right to his own independent life, that one's life belongs to oneself, not to others to use as they see fit.

The right to liberty means the right to freedom of action, to act on one's own judgment, the right not to have a gun pointed at one's head and be forced to do what someone else commands.

And the right to the pursuit of happiness means that an individual may properly pursue his own happiness, e.g., his own career, friends, hobbies, and not exist as a mere tool to serve the goals of others.

The Founding Fathers did not proclaim a right to the attainment of happiness, knowing full well that such a policy

Mary's Musings

Perseverance

I am writing this to you as I sit on a rock near our campsite. It is Saturday. The flame of the campfire flickers before me, casting shadows in the thick of trees that surround us. The ground is wet with dew drops.

They told me I was crazy for taking the kids out tonight. They told me Mother Nature would bring rain after the stormy weather on Friday. I almost agreed. I almost gave up on the night all together. It began to thunder shortly after we climbed the hill and pitched the tent. But after planning this trip for almost two weeks, the kids wanted to wait just a little while longer. So we stayed, and the threat of nasty weather passed by us just as quickly as it came.

Storm clouds that lined the sky were no longer visible. The mist left soon enough for the stars to visit with us. Now, the moon raises her head slightly above the treetops. Christy and J.D. are sitting by the fire, laughing.

MARYMUSIC

And I'm glad we stayed. Someone once told me that the trick in making it through life is having the ability to brave the storms along the way. Perhaps this is simple logic. Perhaps this is what makes it worthwhile.

It is for me, anyway. I had a conversation the other day with a friend of mine who doesn't believe in the love of faith, of God or of destiny. He said that life was nothing more than life, and after life, there is nothing. I am thinking of him now as I sit back on my little rock watching fireflies dance in the night. If only he could see through my eyes, I think. If only he could watch the magic of the night come alive.

If only he could realize how much more beautiful it is when there is a meaning behind it all.

My views of life differ from some. Without my faith, my hope, I couldn't survive. There would be no meaning to it.

Why bother to wake in the morning? To me, life is more than just the challenge of death. To me, it doesn't end at that moment. I believe we only get one chance to make one statement here on this earth. My statement is my journey.

If there is no reason for this journey, then why are we here? Why battle challenges of life if there is nothing to be gained at the end of it? Do we not grow with each challenge?

Although my friend does not understand now, I am sure he will understand eventually. My hope, however, is that it happens before the moment of his death, so that he may have the chance to live a little bit before he moves on.

I have lived a host of challenges in my life, and I am sure the road ahead is lined with several challenges that are yet to come. There have been times I felt I couldn't move on. But I made it through those times. There have been times when pain or sadness brought tears to my cheeks. But those tears were wiped away. There was even a time in my life when I didn't have the love of faith to guide me. But the emptiness went away.

Christy and J.D. are sitting by the fire, laughing.

Gas prices lower elsewhere

The gasoline price last week, June 22, was $1.349 per gallon in the midwest and June 27 in Lexington the price was $1.259 per gallon. On July 2 in Paintsville, gasoline is $1.349 a gallon.

With these local oil companies, the price very seldom is ever a penny's difference. Are we being overcharged?

Fortunate to have had Robinson

In a recent article (June 22), you announced the retirement of Ron Robinson from his teaching position with Prestonsburg High School. I wanted to take this opportunity to add my thoughts on my association with Mr. Robinson.

As a graduate of Prestonsburg High School, I was fortunate to have Ron Robinson for a teacher and coach. I have a great deal of respect for Coach Robinson and the things I learned from him. Not only did he prepare his students for success in the classroom, as well as on the court, he prepared us to succeed in life. He treated his students and players fairly and honestly. Other than my parents, I do not know of anyone who had a greater impact on my life than Coach Robinson. For that, I am grateful.

For most great teams and players, success is measured by the number of games won. Although the basketball teams I played on did not win any titles, Coach Robinson taught us how to be "winners." He handled himself on and off the court and in the classroom like a "winner." He led by example and expected us to follow. I hope the same can be said of me someday.

I consider myself lucky to have had Coach Robinson as my teacher and coach. But most of all, I am fortunate to be able to call him "friend." Thanks, coach!

Congratulations on a successful career and good luck in your new endeavor.

'Backstreet Boys' came to the rescue

Editor's note: The following letter was originally sent to Jenny Wiley Theatre and is being reprinted at the request of the theater.

On June 22, my daughter's Daisy Scout troop (5- and 6-year-old girls) attended the performance of Annie. After the performance, one of the mothers in our group had a flat tire. Three of your employees, James Wallen, Josh Caudill and Bart Barnett, were kind enough to assist us in changing the tire. It was pouring down raining and it was very late at night, yet not once did these fine young men ever gripe or complain. Our Daisy Scouts referred to them as "The Backstreet Boys!"

I want to commend these gentlemen for their act of kindness. They were great role models for our young Daisy Scouts, helping to teach them the importance of lending a helping hand. Jenny Wiley State Resort Park should be proud to have these men working for it.

I wish I could personally thank the parents of James, Josh and Bart for raising these fine men. If you could see that their parents receive a copy of this letter, I would greatly appreciate it. And pass our thanks on once again to Daisy Troop #87's "Backstreet Boys!"

would carry with it the obligation of others to make one happy and result in the enslavement of all to all. The Declaration of Independence was a declaration against servitude, not just servitude to the Crown but servitude to anyone. (That some signers still owned slaves does not negate the fact that they established the philosophy that doomed slavery.)

Political independence is not a primary. It rests on a more fundamental type of independence: the independence of the human mind. It is the ability of a human being to think for himself and guide his own life that makes political independence possible and necessary. The government as envisaged by the Founding Fathers existed to protect the freedom to think and to act on one's thinking. If human beings were unable to reason, to think for themselves, there would be no autonomy or independence for a government to protect. It is this independence that defines the American Revolution and the American spirit.

To the Founding Fathers, there was no authority higher than the individual mind, not King George, not God, not society. Reason, wrote Ethan Allen, is "the only oracle of man," and Thomas Jefferson advised us to "fix reason firmly in her seat and call to her tribunal every fact, every opinion. Question with boldness even the existence of a God." That is the meaning of independence: trust in your own judgment, in reason; do not sacrifice your mind to the state, the church, the race, the nation or your neighbors.

Independence is the foundation of America. Independence is what should be celebrated on Independence Day. That is the legacy our Founding Fathers left us. It is a legacy we should keep, not because it is a legacy, but, because it is right and just. It has made America the freest and most prosperous country in history.

KCTCS Board of Regents advances seamless system

MADISONVILLE — The Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS) Board of Regents took action on Friday to promote seamless pathways and enhance service to students and communities across the Commonwealth.

In a series of votes, the regents supported the consolidation of functions, services and programs in the community and technical colleges of KCTCS.

During its meeting at Madisonville Community and Technical colleges, the board:

■ Endorsed the pursuit of single accreditation for community and technical colleges. Currently, community colleges are accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS), while technical colleges are accredited by the Council on Occupational Education (COE).

Because of the vote on Friday, each of the 16 districts of KCTCS will move as appropriate to have all of its colleges accredited by SACS, said KCTCS President Michael B. McCall. Pursuit of single accreditation will promote seamlessness within KCTCS districts and will simplify students' transfer of credits to Kentucky universities, which are accredited by SACS.

"To be comprehensive, all of our colleges need to offer a full array of technical and academic programs," McCall said. "A comprehensive community and technical college system will provide Kentucky and its citizens access to technical and university transfer programs that integrate the critical academic skills demanded by business and industry with the specific knowledge required for careers in the new economy."

■ Gave final approval to consolidation of functions, services and programs by Madisonville Community College and Madisonville Technical College.

■ Endorsed the pursuit of a single accreditation by the same colleges, which compose the Madisonville Community and Technical College District.

"What you have accomplished in a short period of time is wonderful," Regent Richard Bean of Louisville said. "You will serve as a model for other colleges."

■ Gave initial approval to the consolidation of functions, services and programs in the Southeast Community and Technical College District, which includes Southeast Community College and Cumberland Valley Technical College.

"I am really pleased to see Southeast and Cumberland Valley moving forward in this direction," said KCTCS Student Regent Alesha Ann Brittain, a Southeast student.

In other action, the Board of Regents:

■ Approved a new name - Kentucky River Community and Technical College District - for the district that comprises Hazard Community College and Hazard Technical College. The name emphasizes the colleges' service to the region through campuses in Hazard, Hindman, Hyden and Jackson, all of which are located along the river.

■ Endorsed the system's capital budget request for 2002-04. The request includes 42 construction projects valued at a total of $331 million. The request now goes to the Council on Postsecondary Education (CPE) for approval. CPE then will submit a capital construction request for all higher education institutions to Governor Paul E. Patton and the Kentucky General Assembly for consideration during the 2002 legislative session.

■ Approved a series of technical programs proposed by Maysville Community College. The college will offer an associate in applied science (AAS) degree in General Occupational and Technical Studies. Maysville CC also will offer diploma programs in practical nursing, horticulture technician, automotive technician, collision repair technician, combination welder, industrial maintenance technician, machine tool technician, medical assistant and surgical technology.

Several of the diploma programs will be offered in conjunction with the Mason County Area Technology Center, a secondary vocational school. Others will be offered at the postsecondary technology center scheduled to open in fall 2002 on the Maysville CC campus.

Students will have the option of taking only a diploma-level program, or expanding their studies to earn the associate degree.

■ Approved new programs at the following colleges:

Jerry Fannin, Mayor
City of Prestonsburg
Prestonsburg, KY 41653

Dear Mayor Fannin,

On January 5, when I tendered my resignation from council, I was asked to reconsider and continued to serve. I agreed to do that, because of my love for this city and it's citizens. I am also excited about the opportunity for Prestonsburg and Floyd County to grow.

I must also say that the continuing demands on my time with my family, my mother, whose health continues to decline, the changes at my dealership, and the ongoing problems associated with settling my father-in-law's estate have caused me to revisit this issue.

I regrettably have come to the conclusion that I must tender my resignation as a member of the Prestonsburg City Council, effective June 21, 2001. As you are aware Mayor, one of my great pleasures is to help you complete projects for our wonderful community, but I must confess I have lost my appetite for meetings. Especially when they seem downright divisive at times. It is my fervent hope that members of council will never forget we are just volunteers for this great city, and that the really constructive work is done between, not during, most meetings.

Jerry, I do want you to know I think you are doing a very commendable job for all of us, as evident by all the progress made in the last seven and one-half years. Most people don't even know perhaps that you are presently doing over $200,000.00 in paving because of extra money you were able to get from the Department of Transportation.

I don't believe there is one part of Prestonsburg that has not been touched by this administration, and I am grateful and proud to have been a part of that progress. There is much more work to be done however, and I would hope all council members; not just some, would roll up their sleeves and get to work. The citizens of Prestonsburg deserve no less.

With that said, I want you to know that I will still offer my services to help you shepherd any project along for our city. But, where time is so valuable to us all, I just believe I would rather use mine working for the city, and not in acrimonious debates.

We have proven in the last few years just how much progress can be made when we all pull together, and I pray everyone will covenant with one another to continue that approach, as we cannot afford to waste any more time. It is far too precious.

I trust everyone will understand the reason for my resignation, and realize that I wish nothing but the best for you and the great group of employees who serve the city! They are truly dedicated and do a wonderful job.

Sincerely,
Estill L. Carter

Boat safety urged during Fourth of July holiday

With the July 4th holiday approaching, thousands of boaters will be enjoying Kentucky's lakes and waterways.

The Kentucky Department for Public Health and the Department for Fish & Wildlife Resources want boaters to have a safe holiday.

"Water and boating can be great fun for families, but you must use some good judgment to make it safe," said Dr. Rice Leach, the commissioner for the Department for Public Health. "We encourage boaters to follow some simple safety tips to make sure their families have a safe holiday."

Here are a few safety tips if

In a resolution, regents commended Johnson for her "energy, talent, dedication and leadership."

"Serving as chair I have you plan to be on or around the water this July 4:

- Watch out for carbon monoxide near and under the swim deck at the stern when boat engines and generators are in operation. The Department for Public Health and Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources issued 50,000 flyers at Kentucky marinas this spring as part of an effort to educate boaters about carbon monoxide. This followed reports of deaths due to carbon monoxide poisoning in other states and an investigation by the National Institutes of Occupational Health and Safety.
- Adults should watch children while they swim or while focused on both process and issues," Johnson said. "Now I will continue to serve as a member and will be able to focus more on the issues."

- Alcohol and water can be a dangerous mix. Anyone operating a boat or swimming should not be drinking alcohol.
- Boaters should observe warnings and avoid hazards such as turbulence near a dam.
- Passengers on boats should sit in approved areas. Riding on decks and gunwales is dangerous. Approximately half of boating fatalities result from falls overboard.
- Wear a life preserver when in a small boat. All passengers under 12 years old are required by law to wear life preservers when riding in open boat.
- Head for shore during electrical storms.

Make friends with the world

American Intercultural Student Exchange, Inc. (AISE) announced recently that families are being sought to host high school age exchange students from more than 23 countries. Students arrive in August to live with American host families and attend the local high school for the 2001/2002 school year.

These eager young people, between 15 and 18 years of age, are coming to learn about America and our customs, while sharing the culture of their native countries with their host families, communities and schools. Students speak English, have their own spending money, medical insurance and the desire to participate as an active member of an American family.

"The warmth and companionship between the student and host family have proven to be the single most beneficial element in the student's international experience," remarked Kevin Donaker-Ring, AISE executive director. Families have the opportunity to learn about other countries without leaving home. Prospective host families are interviewed by a program representative and assisted with the selection of their student. Host families provide a room and food for the student and a loving, supportive atmosphere where the student can discover American traditions and experience cross-cultural understanding.

Call AISE's toll free number at 1-800-SIBLING or visit the AISE web site at www.aise.com, to learn more about the benefits and rewards of hosting an exchange student.

President's message on Independence Day 2001

President
GEORGE W. BUSH

Two hundred and twenty-five years ago, the signers of the Declaration of Independence boldly asserted that all are "created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness." With these words, the Signers announced the birth of a new Nation and put forth a vision of liberty and democracy that would forever alter history.

Every Fourth of July, Americans celebrate this pivotal moment in our national story, which set into motion the development of a land of freedom and opportunity unequalled in the world. The Declaration brought forth a new style of government, where democratic institutions gained their power from the consent of the governed. Today, we recognize that people around the globe have also drawn inspiration from the Declaration of Independence. Our prosperity and strength stand as a testament to the ideals it embodies.

Independence Day serves as a special time to remember the achievements of our great statesmen, social reformers, inventors, and artists. We pause to give thanks for the many men and women who gave their lives to defend our freedom. At the same time, the Fourth of July provides a unique occasion to reflect on the challenges ahead. By building on the efforts of previous generations and pursuing opportunity and justice for all our citizens, we will continue our Nation's development and help ensure a brighter future for all Americans.

On this great day, I extend my best wishes to all Americans for a safe and memorable Independence Day. God bless you, and God bless America.

PSC to hold hearings on Kentucky's adequacy of power

FRANKFORT — The Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) announced on Monday that it has initiated an administrative case to review the adequacy of Kentucky's generation capacity and transmission system.

The commission is opening this case in response to Gov. Paul Patton's recent executive order issuing a moratorium on the construction of new power plants in the commonwealth. In the executive order, the governor directed the commission to look at the need for new electric generating capacity, the impact new construction would have on the electric supply grid, the siting of power plants and economic development issues.

"Kentuckians have traditionally enjoyed some of the lowest electric rates in the country," PSC Chairman Martin Huelsmann said. "With the increased demand on western states to supply energy to California, Kentucky now has the lowest rate for electricity in the nation, due in large part to the abundance of native coal used to generate electricity. The PSC wants to ensure that, in addition to good rates, Kentuckians also have sufficient transmission infrastructure to meet today and tomorrow's demand."

Parties to the case are American Electric Power, East Kentucky Power Cooperative, Kentucky Utilities Company, Louisville Gas and Electric Company, Big Rivers Electric Corporation, and the Union Light Heat and Power Company.

Other interested parties include city-owned electric systems, the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA), TVA distribution cooperatives serving Kentucky, independent power producers, consumer advocates, and retail customers.

"The commission hopes and urges all interested parties to intervene and fully participate in the sharing of information related to the adequacy of generation and transmission in Kentucky," said Huelsmann.

The commission's order is available on the PSC website at www.psc.state.ky.us.

Kentucky's odd and unusual place names now have a website

Ever been curious about the large number of unusual and odd place names in Kentucky — places like Rabbit Hash, Fearsville, Black Gnat, Tiny Town, and Hell-for-Certain?

Now the multitude of strangely named little communities that dot the Kentucky map can be found on an internet site devoted solely to them — www.realkentuckyplaces.com.

Kentucky author and illustrator Jim Erskine (who lives just down the road from Wigwam, Goodnight, and Bearwallow), created the web site out of his long fascination with Kentucky's quirky, colorful place names.

"Over the past 12 years, I've visited dozens of these unique little out-of-the-way places," said Erskine. "They offer a wonderful glimpse of Kentucky the way it used to be — as long as there's still something there to find."

A collection of over 300 strange but true Kentucky place names, along with Erskine's comments on his travels to them, can be found on the website.

CPSC, KB Toys announce recall of activity gym toys

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, KB Toys, of Pittsfield, Mass., is voluntarily recalling about 115,000 Electronic Light N' Learn activity gyms.

Five detachable hanging rattle toys have small round pegs at the top of the toys that can break off, posing a choking hazard to young children.

CPSC and KB Toys have received six reports of the pegs breaking off, including two reports of a 6-month-old-boy and a 14-month-old-boy beginning to choke off of a broken piece of the rattle attachment.

The Electronic Light N' Learn activity gym is a multi-colored toy that converts into three different toys, including a crib toy, a floor gym and a musical keyboard. The gyms' main console has five buttons with numbers that make music when pressed and automatically light up when the continuous song play option is selected. Five detachable rattles in the shape of a bear, snail, star, half-moon and horse hang from the bottom of the console. A label under the handle on the gyms' main console reads in part "Electronic Light N' Learn Activity Gym Model: 8735, Made in China."

KB Toy store, KB Toy Works, KB Toy Outlet, Big Lots, Odd Lots, Pic N Save and MacFrugals nationwide sold the toys from September 2000 through January 2001 for between $20 and $30. The toys also were sold online at KBKids.com.

Consumers should take these toys away from young children immediately and return the toy to the store where purchased for a refund. Consumers who purchased the toy online, should return the toy to the closest KB Toy store or contact KB Toys for return information.

For additional information, contact KB Toys at (800) 279-5066 between 8 a.m. and 1 a.m. ET Monday through Saturday and between 10 a.m. and 10 p.m. ET Sunday.

Today, for the Middle East, the only available short-term solution, is a revival of the Oslo Accords, but, this time, without World Bank and other sabotage allowed to prevent the launching of the general development of basic economic infrastructure which provides the only concrete basis for initiating a durable peace among the peoples of the region as a whole.

It is time when all responsible officials in the U.S.A. and Europe, will be studying, and embracing the model of the Treaty of Westphalia as the model for the policies of the U.S.A., Europe, and others toward the present threat of a prolonged, virtual new dark age throughout the Middle East as a whole, and who knows what might lie beyond that. As for Israel, we must save it from the follies of Sharon, even despite its present government.

Halls of Fame are nice, if you're in one, Copper John Campbell isn't

by BOB WATKINS
TIMES COLUMNIST

Halls of Fame are nice, I suppose ... if you're in one. Nice surprise, finding out, nice introduction at a banquet, applause, nice plaque. Nice memory. Nice.

Too often however, seems, there is more fuss about who is not in than who is.

Joe DiMaggio is in, brother Dom is not. Ted Williams believes Dom DiMaggio should be. Should that be enough?

Mickey Mantle is in, Roger Maris isn't. Bill Mazeroski is in, a host of other slick fielding .260 hitters are not. Carousing Babe Ruth and villainous Ty Cobb are in, Shoeless Joe Jackson and Pete Rose are not.

Halls of fame are too exclusive for my tastes, but I am delighted when names of men and women I admire and respect show up on induction lists.

Example: A few years ago the Bird brothers from Corbin, Jerry, Calvin, Billy and Roger, were put into the KHSAA Hall of Fame together.

Last week broadcaster Wes Strader and popular Jack Goose Givens were among a dozen to be inducted into the KHSAA's next spring. Congratulations.

Yet, as the pattern goes, it is bothersome to think of those left out, in particular ones who've passed on and been mostly forgotten who deserve to be honored.

Consider Copper John Campbell who died in the mid-70s. In 1939 he helped Hindman to the Sweet 16 title game scoring a team-high 13 points in a 42-39 loss to Brooksville. Campbell and teammates Paul Johnson, Clark Stone and Charles Cornette were voted to the All-State Tournament team.

Then Campbell attended Eastern Kentucky State. In 1946 he became head coach at Wayland in Floyd County and a year later had Wayland in the State Tournament where Edd DeCoursey became the first player ever from Floyd County to earn all-state honors.

In 1951 Wayland was back in the Sweet 16 again. One of its stars, Fred Fraley was selected to the Kentucky all-stars.

In 1956, Copper John's team, led by King Kelly Coleman, reached the Sweet 16 quarter-finals. Later that spring Coleman of tiny Wayland became our first ever Mr. Basketball.

From 1946-1957 Campbell's Wayland team won four district titles and three trips to the State Tournament. Copper John retired then and was mostly forgotten until recently when Kelly Coleman and Jerry Fultz in Floyd County, revived efforts to see Campbell recognized for his contribution to high school basketball as a player and coach.

The campaign is a worthy one. There are others of merit. Don Morris coached Breckinridge County to the State Tournament finals in 1964, and, despite losing four starters, guided his 1965 team back to the State and a championship. Morris coached the Kentucky all-stars in 1967.

And, Ervin Stepp (Mr. Basketball, '80) has his name mentioned 46 times in the Kentucky hoops record book. Halls of Fame are nice tributes ... if you're in one. But, because of indifference, politics or poor research, many deserving men and women are forgotten, left out.

Out there somewhere is another Copper John Campbell. Questions & answers

Daytona under the lights

by STEVE MICKEY
NASCAR COLUMNIST

The return trip to Daytona has always been one of the more traditional stops on the Winston Cup schedule. For years it was known as the Firecracker 400 because it was either held on the Fourth of July or the closest Saturday. The traditional start of the 400 was always 11 a.m. so the fans could have a day of racing and still spend a day on the beach.

While the decade of the 90s was one of tremendous growth for most tracks on the schedule, Daytona was having a hard time selling all of its tickets to the 400. Fans decided that it just wasn't worth leaving the beach to go and sit in ninety-degree weather in grandstands that don't afford any room between the people next to you.

The solution to the problem was simple, put up some lights and run it at night. Bristol and Richmond had been doing it for years and in the process had become two of the toughest tickets in the series. Both of those tracks are less than a mile in length with their top speeds nowhere near those that Daytona's giant 2 1/2-mile tri-oval produces. Cars would be reaching speeds around 200 MPH down Daytona's long backstretch and there was some concern that kind of speed, night racing might be too dangerous to consider.

The decision to light the track was made for the 1998 July race and soon after the announcement the excitement began to build for the first ever restrictor plate night race. Shortly before the race an open practice session was held at night with fans being allowed to watch at no charge. When Dale Earnhardt drove on the track as the first driver that night, there was more electricity in the air than what it took to light up the track!

Every driver and fan left the speedway that night saying that the '98 edition of the Pepsi 400 would indeed be something special.

Everything was in place for the tele-

East Kentucky Raceway Park, located in Willard (Carter County), got back to racing Friday night, with racing in all classes.

Friday night's racing saw Harold Redman capture a win in the Late Model division. Redman outraced Mike Sampson, Paul Bachwitt, Charlie Massey, Chris Hunt and Rick Lucas.

Bill Demient claimed a win in the UMP Modified division ended the race with a first-place finish while Jim Allen guided his No. 3 car to a second-place finish while David Kelly, driving the No. 24K, wound up with a third-place finish.

Terry Hicks (64) was tops in the Super Bomber division with a first-place finish ahead of Johnson County resident Ronnie Conley.

Peanut Day (3D) won the Bomber division race ahead of Paul Day (5D) in second, and Josh McGuire (41) in third. Jeff Flaughner was fourth in the Bomber division in his 9F car while Phil Rice rounded out the top-5 in the Bomber field with a fifth-place showing in his No. 31R machine. A total of Dirt track racing at Thunder Ridge is over for this year. Track officials have looked at the possibility of blacktopping the current racing surface.

No more dirt track racing at Thunder Ridge

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

Area race fans wanting to see dirt track racing will not be able to do so at Thunder Ridge Raceway. Thunder Ridge has decided to cut short its 2001 dirt track racing season.

A representative from Thunder Ridge confirmed Tuesday that the dirt track had been closed for the season.

Reasons for the closure of the popular track were that racing wasn't as profitable as it had been in previous seasons. Other tracks in the area, East Kentucky Raceway Park in Willard, Sitka's 201 Speedway and the soon-to-be-opened Half Mountain Speedway could have also had a hand in Thunder Ridge's slow start this season.

One possibility for next race season in blacktopping the dirt track and making it into a totally different race surface. A blacktopped track would likely attract a new group of fans and drivers to the track.

The most successful race of the 2001 dirt track season at Thunder Ridge Raceway was by far the May Hav-A-Tampa race in which Grayson native Jackie Boggs took over the lead of the

Little League tourney begins tomorrow

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

Little League All-Star teams throughout the world have been busy preparing for all-star competition. Area 2, District 7 teams are no different.

Paintsville Little League hosts the tourney this season as three Floyd County charters hope to bring home district championships.

Play in this year's district tournament begins tomorrow. Brackets for the tourney appear on page two of this sports section.

Both visitors and home will be allowed to loosed up and stretch from 5:30 -5:35 before the first game and 7:30 to 7:35 of five minutes after the completion of the first game before the start of the second game.

Visitors shall begin infield practice at 5:38 and be allowed eight minutes to complete. No expectations. The second game will follow the time limits for each team.

During infield practice, the team that is not taking infield will be in their respective dugout. Pepper, soft-toss hitting into the fence, throwing in the outfield or foul territory will not be allowed. Only the pitcher and the catcher may loosen-up in their own bullpen. Each team will provide a player that will stand beside the pitcher in the bullpen, to prevent any errant throws from hitting the pitcher.

Infield practice for the home team will be over at 5:54 (for the 6 p.m. games), this will allow for any work that needs to be done on the field.

Only a catcher that is on a team's player roster, or an umpire may warm up a pitcher. Providing that the catcher is wearing a mask and protective cup. Coaches, managers, or any other personnel, are not permitted to warm-up a catcher, or catch during infield.

Only players in uniform and on the team roster, a manager, two coaches (one which can be a scorekeeper) will be permitted to be in the dugout. Inside of the playing field. No exceptions.

Glass bottles, tobacco products, cigarettes and chewing are not permitted inside the gate of the playing field and will not be tolerated, you will be removed. Each team should clean up after each game, within the dugout area.

Stone should move on. More recently you said Keith Bogans ought to leave Kentucky. What's up with that?

A. If a student-athlete is not happy where he is, he should go somewhere else, freeing scholarships for one who wants to be in college and play sports.

Q. What about the UK Wildcats without Jason Parker?

A. Not as deep, but just as good if Marvin Stone is eligible and makes the most of his opportunity. Jules Camara is quicker than Parker, not as foul-prone and can make Tubby Smith's team better in transition.

Q. The over-the-scholarship-limit UK basketball team, what's your view of internet message board talk suggesting Tubby solve his limit by asking J.P. Blevins to give up his scholarship?

A. Even the suggestion that a senior with a 4.0 GPA who has waited for playing time and been the consummate team player, give up his scholarship is reprehensible. Also, Marquis Estill surrendering his scholarship seems commendable, it is no more heroic, than Cory Sears and Matt Heisenbuttl doing the same. Tubby Smith's accommodation of Estill violates the spirit of the NCAA rule designed to allow each school 13 scholarship players for competitive balance.

Woulda, Coulda Been Mr. Basketball There was no Ky. Mr. Basketball in 1952, but the honor woulda, coulda gone to Phil Rollins of Wickliffe or Jerry Bird of Corbin. Rollins scored 28 in the Kentucky-Indiana all-star game and went on to star at UofL. Bird was named All-State Tournament in '52 and starred at UK.

Gem Gyms - Glendale

Gayle E. Rogers, Brunswick, Ga.: "My memories of the old Glendale high school Thoroughbreds, gym are that it was the social center of the school and small community of Glendale. It was a wooden building that housed the gym on the ground floor and cafeteria in the basement. The back of the building abutted an alley which we ne, er-do-wells would disappear into, on our way to one of the two stores in town to spend our nickels. Didn't have any dimes.

"In addition to hosting the Sadie Hawkins Day Dance, Halloween festival and other social activities, the gym was the site for a movie about once a month.

As I recall admission was a nickel or maybe one of the dimes I didn't have. This occurred on school time which made the movies very popular. If you didn't have the money for the movie you were sent to study hall which wasn't bad either as you didn't have to listen to a teacher for an hour or so.

"For basketball, the gym held about 200-300 people, most of them standing. I remember running full-tilt down court, dribbling the ball and all of a sudden it would not be with me any longer. Looking around for the ball, I would find it resting peacefully where it had hit a dead spot in the wood floor. We memorized locations of these dead spots.

"However, my most vivid memories of the Glendale gym are that it was the center for courting on school grounds, both during school and at basketball games."

■ About some media and fans prematurely conceding the NCAA title to Kentucky... Brant Welch, Danville (e-mail): "Liked your column on UK fans rushing to declare this 1996 (title year) all over again. I think this team can be formidable, but we're talking a team that has lost 10 games in back-to-back seasons. Also, you have to bank on (Jason) Parker improving (since injured) and (Jules) Camara, who has yet to show it, being a force.

"I still think they can be really good. But '96 didn't get its mystique until the team reeled off 27 wins in a row, mostly in blowout fashion. The '96 team was ranked No. 2 for most of the year behind UMass.

"Also, the '93 team losing to Michigan, in retrospect, wasn't that big of an upset (though the bookies had UK favored). Michigan had (Chris) Webber, (Juwon) Howard and Jalen Rose - three NBA starters. UK had (Jamal) Mashburn and then just some other good players." And so it goes.

vising of the first ever super-speedway race to be held at night. Television crews were already setting up and the team's haulers were all lined up ready for the beginning of practice. Many of the 150,000 fans expected for the race had already begun checking into the area motels, the only problem was there was something in the air that just didn't smell right.

That smell was the hundreds of forest fires that were burning out of control in Florida that had caused the evacuations of many towns and the closing of highways. Interstate 95 that runs just a mile east of the speedway had been closed down which made getting in and out of the Daytona area rough. The fires had gotten close enough to the speedway that NASCAR moved its records and computer equipment to a safer place.

Officials at the speedway kept a close watch on the situation, but the county in which the speedway was located, Volusia, was one of the hardest hit. Two days before the race, the announcement was made that the race had been postponed. NASCAR officials didn't want to put anybody in harms way and they felt that the speedway could be put to better use if it was used in the firefighting efforts.

When the race day came, instead of haulers and crew members in the infield there were fire truck and firemen. The speedway had been turned into a staging area for the emergency crews and as a place to feed the hundreds of volunteers.

The race was rescheduled for later that fall and although much of the hype had died down, the race turned out to be one of the best at Daytona in quite some time. Since each 400 has been one of the more anticipated races on the schedule and ticket sales are once again back up.

This Saturday's race will once again offer something different from Daytona. It will be the first race at the track since the death of Dale Earnhardt at the track's February Daytona 500. Dale's history with the track is really one of both love and hate. He is the all time leading winner of Daytona races, but only had one trip victory lane in the prestigious Daytona 500. But all of the near misses in that race made that one trip so memorable to everyone that has followed the series. I was lucky enough to be there that day and the sight of Dale turning those donuts in the Daytona infield is still etched in my mind. When he finally made it to victory lane and crawled out of his Chevy, he was like a 20-year-old driver that had just won his first race.

The races have gone on without him, but I got a feeling Saturday night, I along with a bunch of others, will be looking to see what position of Earnhardt is starting from.

A new class set to begin racing this Friday night at East Kentucky Raceway ark is the Chevette Stock division. Only Chevettes will race in this division. All other Four-Cylinders will race in the Four-Cylinder Stock division.

A pair of children's bicycles will be given away in upcoming weeks along with NASCAR trading cards to the first 200 fans attending races. Dates and times for both giveaways will be announced as soon as they are made available.

A number of Ohio and West Virginia drivers are making their way out to EKRP. Many Kentucky drivers have yet to make their way out one of the finer tracks in all of the Bluegrass State.

"We have a loyal driver following from West Virginia and Ohio, and the drivers we've had from here in Kentucky, have also raced loyally, but we still haven't got as many of the local drivers as we would like to have on a regular basis," said track owner Jim Allen (not the driver). "We think East Kentucky Raceway has a whole lot to offer the dirt track fans and drivers alike."

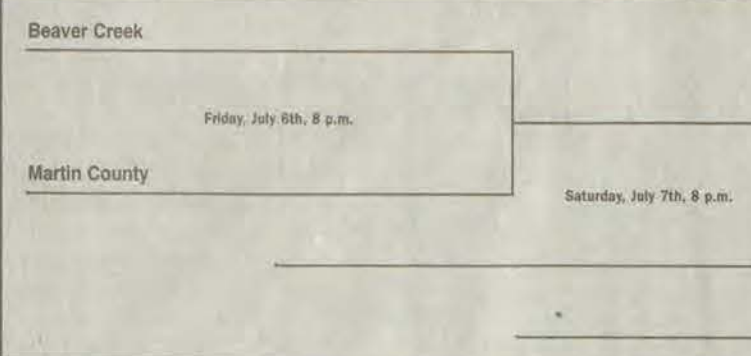

A new event, "Saturday Night Special" is slated to debut Saturday, July 21.

Several EKRP Junior Fan Club events are also tabbed for the upcoming weeks. On July 6, a remote control car race for the kids will happen. A bicycle race is scheduled for both July 12 and August 10. On July 20 a Power Wheel race will take place. The Junior Fan Club events close out

Pop on the Fourth

by CLYDE PACK

The dates on the calendar meant little to me as a 1940's coal-camp kid. But, despite the fact that I hardly knew what day it was, I always knew when it was the Fourth of July because of the pop.

On weekdays Dad would stop at the company store on his way home from work and pick up staples, like bread and bologna and a can of carbide. But on Saturday, he and Mom would go to a store in town and shop for groceries. And, without fail, on the weekend before the Fourth of July, there'd be a case of pop - all mixed up in various flavors. There'd be a bottle or two of RC or Pepsi, but the rest would be fruit flavored, like strawberry, orange, grape and peach.

With only 24 bottles to a case, sometimes there would be only one bottle of a particular flavor. Therefore, as soon as the delivery man would set it onto the porch, little brother Joe and I would pounce on it like a hungry chicken would a june bug and stake our claims to our favorite colors.

"I get the red one," he'd say, "and one of them oranges."

Of course, if Dad or Mom or one of our older brothers or sisters - unaware of the way Joe and I had divided up the bounty - beat us to one of our choices, we'd settle for whatever was left.

I guess I was grown before I ever saw a real Fourth of July fireworks display, but back then, for the special occasion Dad or older brother Ernest would come up with a pack or two of firecrackers. There would be about 30 in a pack and Joe and I, being careful not to pull out a single fuse, would separate them. Much to the distress of neighborhood dogs, some of the kids would light a whole pack at a time. But not us. Firecrackers were too hard to come by and we enjoyed them one at a time. Even when on fizzled out and didn't go off, after making sure it was indeed a dud, we'd break it in half, dump out the powder, and light it. It would flame out like a sparkler and make a lot of smoke.

All this was preceded, of course, by the story Mom would tell us about the nameless little boy who wasn't careful and let a firecracker go off in his hand and it blew off his fingers. I'm not sure, but I think he must have been a brother of the other nameless little boy she'd always tell us about during dog days. It seems he went swimming one time with a chigger bite on his arm, took lock jaw, and after his arm rotted off, he died.

Anyway, I doubt I'd ever heard of the Declaration of Independence. Had it not been for pop and firecrackers, the Fourth of July would have pretty much been like most other sum-

I AM AMERICA

by CLARENCE NEWELL SHOEMAKER JR.

Note: This article was submitted by Grace Moore in memory of her brother, Wade Moore.

My birthday certificate is the Declaration of Independence, and I was born on July 4, 1776. I am a fabulous country of many things and many people. I am the United States of America. I am over 200 million living souls and the ghost of millions who have courageously lived and died for me. I am William Penn and Paul Revere. I stood on the Lexington green and fired the shot heard 'round the world. I am Washington, Jefferson, Hale, and Patrick Henry, Bunker Hill, Valley Forge, and Yorktown are a part of my heritage. I am John Paul Jones, Daniel Boone, the Green Mountain Boys, and Davy Crockett. I am Generals Lee, Grant, and MacArthur. I am Abraham Lincoln and the Gettysburg Address.

I remember the Alamo, the Lusitania, Pearl Harbor and Iwo Jima. Whenever freedom called, I answered that call. I have left my heroic dead in the Argonne Forest, Flanders Field, on the rock of Corregidor, and on the cold bleak slopes of Korea.

I am the Golden Gate Bridge, the wheatlands of Kansas, the farmlands of Idaho, and the fabulous forests of the Northwest. I am the Grand Canyon and Old Faithful. I am a small village in the hills of New England, an open-pit copper mine in Montana, and a farm in South Dakota.

My capitol, Washington, D. C., is like no other American city. It is completely free from any state government and there are no factories or commerce here. It has but one business and that is government.

From the top of the Washington Monument you can look north to the White House and to the east you see the Capitol. To the west is the long reflecting pool and the memorial to Lincoln. Inside is the famous statue of him by Daniel Chester French. His face is compassionate, sad, and strong.

Looking south, you see the Tidal Basin, the famous cherry trees, and the memorial to Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, and our third President.

Across the Potomac river in Arlington, Virginia, in the huge national cemetery, is the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. All during the day and night, back and forth, paces an armed sentry in honor of those men who are known "but to God." There is no other memorial in my capitol which is quite so symbolic of our Republic as this one. There have always been the unknown Americans who have played a fundamental part in my progress, in addition to the famous men whose names have been known to all.

I am a Christian nation, founded upon Christian principles. My people recognize God's power and authority, and their responsibility to Him.

I am a nation that believes in the worth and dignity of the individual, and his inability to solve his own problems without the help of God.

A sense of responsibility to God carries my people beyond the short range view of what they can get for the moment. They consider the future benefits or damages as a result of their action and conduct.

A friendship shared

When Shannon Greer passed away a few days ago, Floyd County lost a fine citizen. Both he and his wife Opal were good professional people who had many friends and neighbors that will truly miss him.

I'm sure many people have their own special memories of Shannon and stories they could share about experiences shared with him. I know that my husband, in particular, enjoyed a long standing friendship with him.

In our early days of operating a business, we had both a grocery and a furniture and carpet store. The meats we carried were provided by the J.S. Greer Meat Company in Prestonsburg, and it was our pleasure to deal with Shannon and his brother, Dewey. Not only were they fair in their dealing, they were just good people to get to know.

Just as we appreciated the customers who traded with us, they also let us know they valued our business. One day Shannon and Opal came to our furniture store to look at some carpet. Opal wasn't sure she saw what she wanted, but Shannon said, "If you really want new carpet, we're getting it from Walter, so see what he has that you like best." He believed in returning loyalty for loyalty.

What better memory could you have of a friend?

After work

What began as a business relationship became an alliance that Shannon and Walter shared after their working hours. Each learned that the other liked fishing, so it wasn't long before they were ending their business transactions with deciding where and when they could go try their luck at catching a big one. Sometimes they would even leave some of their work for others to do in order to get started. So avid were they about fishing that one of our neighbors, Mae Crum, commented, "If those men were measuring gold by the peck, they'd throw their shovels down when somebody mentioned a fishing trip." I think that opinion was aimed more at Walter.

They heard once that fish were really hitting down at Kentucky Lake and, as Mae had suggested, they started loading their fishing gear. But the federal meat inspectors had chosen that same day to make their routing and an unannounced check of Shannon's business.

He couldn't leave until they were finished and it hindered their leaving for about four hours.

The drive to the lake was about 400 miles and, with the late start, they arrived in Cadiz, KY, at about 2:00 a.m. They found a motel and fell in bed. Around 6:00 a.m., Walter heard water running and realized Shannon was in the shower.

"What are you doing," he asked. "It seems like we just got in bed."

"It doesn't take long to spend a night in Cadiz," Shannon answered, "and, besides that, we came down here to fish."

Mid-summer a 'Hot Time' for Japanese Beetles

Before long, you might see metallic greenish bugs munching on your favorite plants or trees. Mid-summer is the "hot season" for adult Japanese beetles to invade Kentucky.

And these perennial pests aren't choosy eaters either; adults will feed on up to 300 different species, ranging from roses and fruit trees to even poison ivy. Odor seems to be important in their selection of suitable plant foods.

Japanese beetles feed in groups, preferring plants in direct sunlight. They feed on the upper surfaces of foliage, chewing out tissue between veins giving the leaf a skeleton-like appearance. Infestations spread as adults make usually short flights in search of favored food and suitable egg-laying sites.

You have several options as far as controlling Japanese beetles.

To avoid the annual battle with Japanese beetles, select plant species that are unappetizing to the pest when replacing or adding to your landscape. Those that are relatively free of feeding by adult Japanese beetles include red or silver maple, all species of holly, euonymus and magnolia, white or green ash, white or scarlet oak and rhododendron.

And avoid landscape plants that are inevitably attacked when Japanese beetles are abundant. These plant materials include Japanese maple, Rose-of-Sharon (shrub althea), black walnut, cherry, black cherry, plum and peach, roses, American or English elm and table grapes.

Another way to manage Japanese beetles is to manually remove beetles from plants. You should do this as soon as you see the adults because the presence of a few beetles on a plant tends to attract more to the same plant. The best time is in the cool, early morning when beetles are less active. If the infestation is small, simply remove them by hand, or shake them off the plant onto a bed sheet, towel or newspaper. You can kill the beetles by putting them in a solution of soapy water.

Another approach is to use attractants that lure Japanese beetles to traps where they are captured. Unfortunately, these attractants often work too well and attract more insects than are captured. Having a small number of traps in your yard actually could increase Japanese beetle problems rather than reduce them.

If you prefer to use insecticide sprays or dusts, several labeled products are effective against Japanese beetles. Contact me at the Floyd County Cooperative Extension Service for the current insecticide recommendations. And remember to always read and follow label directions when applying these or any other pesticides.

Educational programs of the Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

Catch of the month

Americans are eating more seafood than ever before. Last year more than four billion pounds of seafood were consumed in the United States. Seafood is low in fat and cholesterol, and a good source of protein. Shellfish are especially low in fat and high in minerals, contributing to a healthy mind and body. Aside from canned tuna, shrimp is the most popular seafood.

Summertime is the perfect time to enjoy seafood. It's light, healthy and easy to cook. Many varieties of fish and shellfish can be cooked on the grill.

What better way to celebrate summer weather than by "throwing some shrimp on the barbie?" The gourmet experts at 1-800-FLOWERS.COM offer the following recipe for grilled shrimp:

Combine:
1 stick (1/2 cup) butter, melted
1/4 cup olive oil

Ten Years Ago (July 3 and July 5, 1991)

Floyd County Circuit Judge Hollie Conley has asked that a special judge be appointed to preside over a 12-year-old murder case and the suspect in that case surrendered to jail officials Tuesday morning. Wendell Ray Newman, 37, of Jack's Creek turned himself in to the Floyd County Jail at 9:45 a.m., Tuesday, jail officials said. Newman returned to jail after a state Court of Appeals panel reinstated an $10,000 cash bond Friday, overruling an earlier decision by Court of Appeals Judge Janet Stumbo that Newman's bond be set at $100,000. A Pike County coal truck driver was arrested and charged with murder, Tuesday afternoon, after a 40-year-old Floyd County woman was killed in an auto accident at Harold. Michael Johnson, 37, of Virgie was lodged in the Floyd County Jail on a murder charge when Glenda L. Akers of Dana died after her pick up truck was struck by the coal truck Johnson was driving. Akers was turning onto U.S. 23 from Rt. 979 at the Harold bridge when Johnson, witnesses at the scene said, ran through the intersection while the traffic signal was red, and struck Akers' vehicle and two others, a Kentucky State Police dispatcher said Tuesday. The symbolic torch was passed, Sunday night, at midnight from retiring Prestonsburg Community College president Dr. Henry Campbell to his successor, Dr. Deborah Lee Floyd. Floyd will officially come on board at PCC on July 29. Dr. Floyd told the Floyd County Chamber of Commerce, Monday afternoon, that she was "looking forward to moving to Eastern Kentucky and working with the Chamber." Rescue workers continued searching Tuesday in Floyd and Magoffin counties for a Magoffin County woman reported missing since Saturday. Ruth Irene Baize, approximately 41-years-old, was last seen at 2 p.m., Saturday, at a home in Rough and Tough in Floyd County where she stopped for a drink of water, said Prestonsburg fire department officials, Tuesday. Baize was reported as being 5'7", weighing 130 pounds and was wearing a flowered pull-over top, gray tinted jeans and green shoes. A Magoffin County Rescue Squad member said they have no clues to her whereabouts. A Floyd County Circuit Court jury recommended five-year prison terms, Monday, for two men found guilty on first degree assault charges in connection with the May 1990 beating of a 54-year-old Pike County man. If you see sheriff's deputies holding roadblocks this weekend, don't be afraid to stop—it's for a good cause. The Floyd County Sheriff's Department will be holding roadblocks throughout the county this Fourth of July weekend asking for donations for the D.A.R.E. program and the Kentucky Sheriff's Ranch. A Floyd County teacher filed a second charge Wednesday against a middle school principal alleging she was harassed during an incident last May. Gwendolyn Hammond, an Adams Middle School teacher, filed a charge, of harassment Wednesday, against principal Thomas Tackett. Hammond filed the charge after appearing in district court, Wednesday, on an abuse of a teacher complaint she had filed against Tackett. An anonymous tip led Floyd County Sheriff's deputies to a small marijuana patch, Thursday, near Cow Creek and the plants were confiscated. Chief deputy Linzie Hunt said a "concerned citizen" came upon the patch while hunting for berries in the Cow Creek area, and phoned the information into the sheriff's department. Hunt dispatched deputy Lloyd Powers to the scene and the plants were found. Martiki Coal Corporation, in Martin County, will receive an Excellence in Surface Coal Mining and Reclamation Award from U.S. Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan on Monday. Lujan will present the award at 12:30 p.m., and guests at the ceremony will include U.S. Senator Wendell Ford, Harry Snyder, director of the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement; Mapco Coal chairman James E. Barnes; Norfolk Southern Chairman Arnold B. McKinnon; and Morehead State University President C. Nelson Grote. ## Twenty Years Ago (July 8, 1981)

Concerned Floyd County parents presented a petition with 1258 signatures to the Floyd County Board of Education calling for firm action against school personnel and teachers involved in illegal drug use. Superintendent E.P. Grigsby Jr., said the board would not adopt a policy that would supersede state law. Highlands Hospital workers voted to accept a contract ending their 105-day strike against the hospital. The contract was approved by a vote of 140-43, and provided wage and benefit increase of 50 percent over 3 years; more liberal vacation leave; and time and a half holiday pay. Frankie Gibson of Garrett pleaded guilty to a manslaughter charge in connection with last year's shooting death of his brother, Grover Gibson. Frankie Gibson was sentenced to a 15-year jail term. The David Community Development Corporation joined two citizens group filing a brief in an Indiana land case to be decided by the U.S. Supreme Court. The issue in the case is the constitutionality of an Indiana law which provided that where mineral rights have been severed from surface rights by the so-called "broad form" deed, the mineral rights pass to the surface owners if the mineral owner fails to use the property over a 20-year-period. A Fourth of July gunfight at close range marred the holiday celebration at Martin, and sent two men to the hospital, both reported seriously wounded. Joe David Stumbo, 29, of McDowell was shot in the back and the right side. Joe Howard, 32, a C&O locomotive engineer, had two bullet wounds in his face and a third in his side. There married: Robert Dale Carpenter, 21, and Patty Sue Slone, 16, both of Prestonsburg; Clark Johnson, 19, of Dema and Debbie Lynn Vanderpool, 16, of Wayland; There died: Lula Bolen Gibson, 85, of Garrett at her home; Pauline P. Burchett, 49, of Allen at U.K. Medical Center; George Thompson, 75, of Topmost at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital; Lucille Bowe Ratliff, 60, of Wayland, at Zion Deliverance Church at Wayland; Hibbert Meade, 77, of Columbus, Ohio, formerly of Floyd County, at the University of Columbus Hospital; and John Brady Henderson, 6, of Mayport, Florida, formerly of Floyd County, at Mayport, Florida.

Thirty Years Ago (July 8, 1971)

More than 400 workers were employed for the operation of the Floyd County school system at Saturday's meeting of the Floyd County Board of Education on recommendation of Supt. Charles Clark. If ARC funds are made available for road and sewer construction within the area to be developed, work on a central campground to accommodate at least 100 camps at Dewey Lake will be begun this summer, Floyd Countians were told, last Thursday, at Frankfort. The identity of three men who kidnapped Harold Davis, 26, former Dwale man, at his service station near Ft. Mitchell, Ky., last Wednesday, and later killed him and left his body in an Ohio ditchline, was being sought this week by federal and state authorities. There died: Airman Sanford (Sandy) Newsome, 20, of Harold, in an auto accident near Ft. Bragg, N.C.; Joe K. Stumbo, 76, of Drift, at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital; Mrs. Nannie Johnson, 35, of Martin, at Mountain Manor Nursing Home; George Washington Belcher, 73, of Allen, at Prestonsburg General Hospital; Betty Jean Bryant, 12, formerly of Prestonsburg, by drowning near Columbus, O.; Mrs. Elsie Little King, 49, of Bypro, at the University Hospital in Birmingham, Ala.; Tony Craft, 56, of Lackey, at McDowell Appalachian Regional Hospital; Mrs. Gertrude Hurd Benedict, 75, wife of the Rev. Walking Helps Control Appetite, Reduce Stress

(NUI) - Today, more than 50 percent of adults in the United States are overweight or obese. This is a dangerous statistic because obesity is a risk factor for type 2 diabetes, heart disease, stroke, high blood pressure, and some forms of cancer and other conditions. Obesity also is associated with psychological disorders such as depression. Fortunately, lowering your risk may be as easy as healthy eating and a walk in the park.
 Physical activity decreases the risk of obesity and factors associated with being overweight. The Surgeon General recommends that adults exercise five times a week for at least 30 minutes. However, according to NIH, only 22 percent of adults are getting this amount and about 25 percent claim they do no physical activity

I am a government that is responsible to God and the people. Most of my organic documents of government, the Mayflower Compact of 1620, the Declaration of Independence of 1776, the Constitution of 1789, give recognition to God.
 I am a nation of freedom-loving people. God created my citizens as free moral agents with the power to choose between right and wrong. Freedom is possible for those citizens who choose the right. Tyranny, suppression, and slavery is the lot for those who choose the wrong. William Penn, one of my great statesmen and patriots, summed it up accurately when he said, "If men will not be governed by God, then they must be ruled by tyrants."
 I am the front porch of a farmhouse in the Midwest. The front porch is associated with no other country. It is a place to sit and relax for a few moments before you finish the day's chores. It is a place to sit and read the paper or visit with your neighbors.
 Political posters tacked on the country store near the crossroads down by the creek are a part of my heritage. The tiny country churches, roaring snows, howling winds, endless fields, and crystal-clear lakes are all a part of me.
 I am big. I sprawl from the Atlantic to the Pacific, more than three and one-half million square miles of throbbing private enterprise. Within my boundaries lies a wondrous country. I am a land of fertile fields, country mailboxes, and winding country lanes. I am remote quiet villages and large metropolitan cities that never sleep.
 I am a republican form of government with the Constitution as my cornerstone. It is the best plan ever devised by man to assure freedom, and to release the creative powers of everyone. Its guarantees of life, liberty, and property have made possible the great "American Way of Life."
 You can look at me and see Patrick Henry ending his fiery speech before the Virginia Convention with these defiant words, "I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!" You can see the colonists discussing their problems at a town meeting, the building of the Wilderness Road, and Lewis and Clark crossing the Continental Divide. You can see the multi-colored lights of Christmas, and hear the strains of "Auld Lang Syne" as the old year passes.
 Yes, I am the United States of America, and these are the things that I am. I was conceived in freedom and, God willing, in freedom I will spend the rest of my days.
 May I possess the integrity, moral courage, and strength to keep myself unshackled, to remain a stronghold of freedom and a beacon of hope to all the oppressed throughout the world.
 This is my prayer... my goal... my wish. May God be with me, always.
 Have a safe and happy Fourth!

Barbecue your way to Australia's Outback

Barbecues have always been thought of as American as apple pie, but the folks down under in Australia also are experts in this popular culinary pastime.

Whether it is barbecuing jumbo shrimp or steak, or more exotic meats such as crocodile or kangaroo, Australians have always enjoyed a finely prepared barbecued meal during the warm months. This year, Jacob's Creek and Wyndham Estate, two of the world's most popular Australian wines, will combine Australia's love of barbecue cooking with their equally enthusiastic love for high quality wine in the first annual Great Australian Barbecue Cook-off.

The Great Australian Barbecue Cook-off encourages consumers, 21 years old and over, to submit their favorite barbecue recipes for an opportunity to win a trip to Australia and - for one talented epicurean - a new Subaru Outback Sport.

The best recipes, accompanied by a suggested Jacob's Creek or Wyndham Estate wine for complementing the meal, first will be selected for regional cook-offs in New York, Chicago and Las Vegas.

Food Network celebrity chef David Rosengarten and a panel of local food experts and wine columnists will judge contestants at the regional cook-offs.

"Barbecued foods go great with Australian wine," says David Rosengarten. "Whether the meal is smoky or peppery or sweet, the fruit flavors of Australian wines make them very attractive partners for grilled foods. Not to mention that most of us barbecue ... out back."

Entrants are encouraged to be as creative as possible since recipes will be judged on originality, taste appeal and presentation style. Eighteen semifinalists will be selected from the initial entries for the regional cook-offs - three from Jacob's Creek and Wyndham Estate respectively. One Jacob's Creek and one Wyndham Estate winner will be selected from each region for a luxurious six-day, seven-night trip to Australia where the regional winners will prepare their culinary masterpieces at the final cook-off for the grand prize of a 2001 Subaru Outback Sport. Contest ends Sept. 15, 2001.

Eligible consumers can pick up an entry form at participating liquor stores or supermarkets across the country, where the purchase of a Jacob's Creek or Wyndham Estate bottle comes with a $1.00 coupon off the purchase of beef, chicken or fish for use in any prospective barbecue dishes.

at all.

If you're interested in starting to exercise, walking is one of the easiest and most effective forms of physical activity you can choose. You can do it almost anywhere at any time and there's no need to join a gym. All you need is a comfortable pair of shoes.

There are many benefits of walking, including that it:

- Gives you more energy.
- Makes you feel good.
- Helps you relax.
- Reduces stress.
- Helps you sleep better.

■ Tones muscles.

■ Control your appetite.

■ Increases the number of calories your body uses.

To walk correctly, hold your chin up and your shoulders slightly back. Walk so the heel of your foot touches the ground first. Roll your weight forward, walk with your toes pointed forward and swing your arms.

For tips on starting a regular walking program, as well as safety reminders and warm-up exercises, read "Walking ... A Step In The Right Direction," a free brochure from the Weight-control Information Network.

The skinny on peaches, plums and nectarines

As the hot weather sets in, science is ripe with suggestions for healthy summer skin.

In short, practice what you preach.

Consumers stock up each summer on sunscreen, sunglasses, and cover-ups to protect their skin from the sun, but some of the most effective combatants in the battle against the sun's harmful ultraviolet (UV) rays can be found in the produce section at the local grocery store.

It's no secret that fruits and vegetables are important for good health. According to the National Cancer Institute, eating five servings of fruits and vegetables a day can reduce the risk of cancer. Several national health organizations concur with those recommendations for the prevention of heart disease and other illnesses.

A less well-known fact, however, is that summer fruits like peaches, nectarines and plums also have phytochemicals (chemical compounds produced by plants) that are important for healthy skin. A recent study from the University of California-Davis showed peaches, nectarines and plums from California are good sources of several phytochemicals, which act as antioxidants. These compounds are critical in maintaining healthy skin.

Antioxidants are substances that protect the body by capturing free radicals and eliminating them. Free radicals cause cell damage and can contribute to aging. Here's how antioxidants work to protect the skin. People experience two types of aging: intrinsic aging, which is mainly affected by genetics and lifestyle; and photoaging, which refers to skin changes resulting from exposure to UV rays.

Aging happens when there is an imbalance of pro-oxidants—free radicals—and antioxidants in the skin's cells. The sun's UV rays can accelerate free radical production while at the same time depleting antioxidants. Photoaging happens when damage from UV rays affects skin cell function, usually reflected in rougher, drier, wrinkled and less elastic skin.

Antioxidants protect skin cells by counteracting free radical activity. Peaches, plums and nectarines are rich in phytochemicals, called phenols, that act as antioxidants. Ascorbic acid (Vitamin C), carotenoids (orange or red colored substances found in many fruits), and provitamin A/beta-carotene are the most notable.

"Peaches, plums, and nectarines are a delicious way for everyone to get their 5-a-day," said Pat Baird, MA, RD, and author of "The Pyramid Cookbook." "They are great sources of fiber, vitamins and minerals, and now we learn they are good sources of antioxidants, which are important to good health and good skin." "Summer tree fruits have long been considered a delicious source of nutrition, but the fact that the benefits extend to promoting healthy skin is great news for consumers," said Marilyn Dolan, consumer programs director for the California Tree Fruit Agreement, which represents approximately 2,000 peach, plum and nectarine growers in the state of California. "Especially those interested in maintaining a peaches-and-cream complexion."

SUMMER SMOOTHIES FOR YOUR SKIN
As good sources of antioxidants which contribute to healthy skin, California peaches, plums and nectarines are a great addition to summertime meals. Try these refreshing beauty drinks and enjoy the healthy benefits.

Mix ingredients in a blender and whirl until smooth. (Note: Fresh fruit may be previously frozen. A good trick is to puree fruit and freeze in ice cube trays for later use.)

Creating a Painless Dental Experience for Children

(NUE) - Nearly 50 percent of the U.S. population experiences some form of anxiety when visiting the dentist. Often that anxiety stems from an event that occurred during childhood.

Many times, children are unable to express their discomfort and dentists mistake pain as impatience and confusion. Unfortunately, dentists can't remove an unpleasant visit from a child's memory, but they can try to replace it with consistent pleasant visits.

According to pediatric dentists, a child's biggest anxiety is usually fear of the unknown. That's why it's a good idea on a child's first visit for dentists to show the instruments that will be used - such as gloves, rubber masks and tooth polisher - and let the child touch them while explaining what they do. Giving a child a fun ride in the dental chair beforehand will help, too.

But parents can help make seeing the dentist painless by choosing a dentist that is used to working with children. What should parents look for in a "good" dentist?

A good dentist will:
* Use language like "Do you feel discomfort?" rather than "Does that hurt?"

* Instead of saying "drill," will say "Remove the decay and sweep the germs out of the tooth or put a filling in a hole where the germs were." And will explain "We put a little medicine in the gums," instead of using the word "shot."

* Use new dental technology or procedures to reduce pain and anxiety, such as The Wand developed by Milestone Scientific, Inc. The Wand system delivers a droplet of anesthesia to the injection site before the needle enters the tissue; this eliminates the pricking sensation patients dread. When advanced slowly, the drops of solution anesthetize the tissue ahead of the needle thereby yielding a virtually painless needle insertion.

Parents also can help by taking their children to the dentist early - before they need such procedures as fillings or having a tooth pulled - so they can have as many positive experiences as possible.

Eat smart when you're on the road again

Car trips are great for family togetherness and usually easy on the budget. But they can be murder on a sensible eating program.

Fortunately, by planning ahead, you can step out of the car feeling just as good about yourself (and your self-control) as you did when the trip began.

If you'll be driving for a long time, take along a cooler filled with containers of ice water, diet drinks, lowfat milk, and/or small cartons of fruit juice. Also pack low-calorie snacks like whole grain crackers, chilled and sliced raw vegetables, lowfat cheese, and fruit.

When you're sitting in the car all day, smaller meals will suffice. Make sure, though, that these meals are well-rounded and wholesome.

Fast food can be a lifesaver when you're traveling. Yet who knows what evil lurks in the kitchens of fast food restaurants? You could blow your entire day's budget of calories, fat grams and sodium on one ill-chosen meal.

That's not to say you shouldn't take advantage of a fast food place when you must catch a quick meal. Nearly every restaurant chain offers something that's healthful and tasty and just as fast and cheap as the fatty, salty foods featured more prominently on the menu. Here are some tips:

As far as sandwiches are concerned, smaller is better and skip the sauces and cheese, please. Chicken may sound like a better choice than hamburger or roast beef, but make sure the chicken is grilled, not deep fried.

Side dishes range from wholesome to horrid. Plain baked potatoes are great; rich toppings often provided with baked potatoes aren't.

Salads aren't automatically okay. Salads can be high in fat if they include meat, cheese, or fatty dressing.

Instead of high-fat, high-sodium breakfast specialties, choose plain toast, packaged cereals, and/or orange juice when available.

Milk - especially low-fat milk - is available at a surprising number of restaurants. It provides the most nutrients for the fewest calories. Watch out for shakes, which can have as much fat as whole milk and as much sugar as a can of soda pop.

So go ahead - enjoy yourself this summer when you're "on the road again." Just don't leave sensible eating habits by the wayside.

We love it when people say nice things about us.

Golf Digest recently listed Alabama's Robert Trent Jones Golf Trail among the top 50 golf destinations in the world!

And in its current Places to Play ratings, Golf Digest gave most of the Trail's 21 courses 4 stars—and some even got 4½. Not bad when you consider that 5 stars only go to those once-in-a-lifetime courses. And all of the Trail's courses got top honors for service.

Frequent Flyer Magazine listed us among its top 10 trips in the world and The New York Times called us "...some of the best public golf on earth."

Golf Magazine listed THE SENATOR course at our new Capitol Hill location among its top new courses in the country and THE LEGISLATOR course in the top 25 newcomers. And wait until you see THE JUDGE!

So, we hope you'll understand when, like all good golfers, we like to brag about our scores.

Call today to book your golf and hotel package and get ready for one of the best golf trips in the world.
