Suspect gives police false ID

PRESTONSBURG — A Johnson County man was arrested in Prestonsburg over the weekend for public intoxication and possession of hydrocodone tablets and later charged with giving police false information while in custody.

According to arrest reports from Floyd County Sheriff's Deputy Jeremy Shepherd, Jody Allen Kestner, 25, of Staffordsville, was arrested Sunday after being pulled over on George Branch for suspected public intoxication.

Kestner allegedly told Shepherd he was "Harry Vanhoose", whom police later found to be a Paintsville resident, and that the Lorcet tablets he had on him had been purchased from Orville Moore, a fellow passenger of Kestner's.

Shepherd said he was later contacted at the Floyd County Detention Center and told that the man he had in custody claiming to be Harry Vanhoose was, in fact, Jody Kestner.

Shepherd ultimately charged Kestner with giving a peace officer a false name or address, noting that the Staffordsville man

Police shoot man in traffic stop

Trooper shoot suspect after scuffle; son of suspect being sought

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

WATERGAP — What began as a routine traffic stop along Watergap Road on Route 80 late yesterday evening quickly turned sour and escalated into a multi-agency manhunt after one man fought and was shot by the state police trooper attempting the traffic stop, leaving his son to flee on foot into the woods nearby.

Trooper Kerry White shot 57-year-old Allen resident Aaron Tackett after the two became involved in an altercation. Tackett later died just before 5 p.m. from a single gunshot wound to the chest, according to Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson.

The shooting and manhunt for Tackett's son, Jason Aaron Tackett, led to a sizable number of state, county and city police officers searching the area and effectively bringing traffic to a halt. The younger Tackett is wanted for questioning and faces no charges.

Route 80 was choked off at about 5 p.m. yesterday with only a slow-moving but steady line of traffic passing a scene that included dozens of police cars, ambulances and firetrucks, as well as more than three dozen police officers armed with rifles and handguns and wearing bulletproof vests.

All eyes were on the hills while another team of police moved in with search dogs and joined the hunt.

Although Tackett died after the encounter, his son was, as of press time, still at large, having fled into the hills just off Route 80 where the father and son had initially been pulled over.

Numerous police agencies covered Watergap road early yesterday evening during a manhunt for an as-of-yet unidentified suspect who fled after a routine traffic stop. The suspect's father, Allen resident Aaron Tackett, was shot and killed during the incident by a state trooper.

Reports from the Kentucky State Police say that at approximately 1:58 a.m. Joe Allen Evans, of Inez, was traveling north along Route 3 about a half mile south of Inez when he struck a guardrail along the right side of the road.

PRESTONSBURG — The Floyd County Fiscal Court agreed Monday to do its part in seeking funding to ensure Letcher County's Gateway Regional Business Park is further developed.

The court voted during special session Monday morning to commit again, under new amendments, to join Pike, Knott and Letcher counties to form an industrial development authority that will continue to combine efforts in securing grants from Kentucky's Cabinet for Economic Development.

The amendment will make sure that each of the four representing county judge-executives have an equal number of appointees on the Appalachian Industrial Authority, said Floyd County Deputy Judge-Executive Brett Davis.

Floyd County Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson said Monday the decision to amend the resolution that formed the authority in September 2000 and also the agree-

Sheriff probing fire death

Potential witness being sought

BEAVER — Police are continuing to question people and search for clues in connection to a house fire along Stone Branch Saturday evening that left a Floyd County man dead.

According to reports from both the Floyd County Sheriff's Office and the Kentucky State Police, William Blankenship, 21, of Beaver, was found dead in his burned home at approximately 11 p.m. Saturday night.

State police reported Monday that Blankenship was at home drinking and on medication when the neighbors saw smoke and followed it to the home.

When the unidentified neighbors arrived, the house was fully engulfed, according to police, at which time authorities were contacted.

State police, who are still investigating the fire and Blankenship's death, said Monday they could not determine how the fire started, but reports from the Floyd County Sheriff's Office gathered at the scene say the fire may have started only a short time after Blankenship entered his home.

"Some of his family members said during questioning they saw him go in the house and then about 20 minutes later they said it was on fire," said Sergeant Gary Tackett, who responded on behalf of the sheriff's office.

When the fire was brought under control, Floyd County Sheriff John K. Blackburn said mention of someone entering the home soon before it was found ablaze prompted his office to search the shelled out home as soon as

■ FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP, N.J. — People who live in glass houses might not get the asking price.

That's the reality facing the owners of Chalan Farm, a 34,000-square-foot glass mansion hidden on 48 wooded acres near Princeton. Made of commercial-grade tinted glass, the house has been on the market since last July. List price: $12 million.

Owners John and Prudence Boulton "were disappointed, not depressed" when their dream house failed to sell at auction in May, said Thomas E. Hora of Prudential Fox & Roach in New Hope, Pa., who is assisting in the sale. It failed to attract even the minimum bid of $3 million.

John Boulton, a retired Columbia Electronics CEO, indulged his whims when he built the 420-foot-long ranch, patterned after designs by architect Ludwig Mies Van der Rohe. With building costs at nearly $10 million, the house isn't done yet, Hora said. Only three of nine bathrooms are finished, he said, and the temporary kitchen, while it works, isn't the $150,000 kitchen the owners planned.

The Boultons had barely obtained a Certificate of Occupancy in 2000 when they began rethinking their location. Prudence Boulton's bad back, sustained during a career as a horsewoman, persuaded the couple to live closer to her Manhattan doctors.

The house is not made entirely of glass. The eight-car heated underground garage is constructed of conventional materials. The 17,000-square-foot first floor, however, — including bedrooms and baths — is enclosed by floor-to-ceiling panels of green-hued glass, separated by metal supports.

"It really is glass from one end to the other, said Carl Carter, a spokesman for J.P. King Auction Co., which handled the auction. "You can stand in the front and watch a squirrel in the back."

■ KEY WEST, Iowa — Rusty the cat just can't seem to forget where he came from.

In the past two years, he's navigated more than 3 miles of hills and busy streets to visit the old neighborhood — 33 times.

When the Beidler family moved to Key West from Dubuque, they kept Rusty inside to help him adjust to his new digs. They thought the long-haired feline would love their ranch house in this northeast Iowa town.

"He has got ground squirrels, birds and field mice to chase and a heated, air-conditioned house to live in," said Jodi Beidler. "He rules the roost around here."

No matter. One day, Rusty broke a front window and headed out on his first adventure.

Beidler was certain Rusty, who she said looks like an orange raccoon, returned to his old home. She went back to the house every day, but there wasn't any sign of him.

Two weeks later, Beidler got a phone call from a former neighbor who said Rusty was sound asleep in his favorite spot on the deck.

Rusty endures a flea bath when he returns, eats a lot and usually hangs around for a few weeks. Then he starts sniffing the air as if getting his bearings.

"When we see that, we know he is ready to leave again," Beidler said.

Rusty's longest trip lasted more than six months, Beidler said she wants to know what draws him to the old house.

"I would like to strap a 'kitty-cam' to him and see where he goes and if anyone takes care of him along the way," she said.

Galbraith starting bid for attorney general

by BRUCE SCHREINER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOUISVILLE — Perennial candidate Gatewood Galbraith said Tuesday he will begin collecting signatures to try to get his name on the ballot as an independent candidate for state attorney general.

Galbraith said in an interview that his priorities would be cracking down on public corruption and curbing illegal drug use.

Galbraith gained notoriety early in his political career for his support of legalizing marijuana. He said Tuesday that he supports permitting medical marijuana use, but said he would not use the attorney general's office as a "bully pulpit" to press the issue.

"I'm going to enforce the laws as they stand on the books," he said. Galbraith informed the state Registry of Election Finance that he intends to begin raising and spending money for his bid to become Kentucky's top law enforcement official.

To win a spot on the general-election ballot, Galbraith must collect signatures from 5,000 registered voters in Kentucky by Aug. 12.

If he reaches the ballot, Galbraith would challenge Democrat Greg Stumbo of Prestonsburg and Republican Jack Wood of Louisville.

Galbraith has made three unsuccessful runs for governor, twice as a Democrat and once under the banner of the Reform Party. He received 15 percent of the vote in the 1999 election as the Reform Party candidate.

He also lost two bids for Congress, most recently in 2002. Galbraith said he thought the timing was right to run for attorney general. He said that Wood — a onetime district court judge in Monroe County — has generated only "lukewarm support" among Republicans. He said that Stumbo, the powerful majority leader of the Kentucky House, would be a "continuation of the Patton legacy" — a reference to

Gov. Paul Patton, who has been tainted by scandal.

Galbraith said that as attorney general he would prosecute corruption at "every level."

"Corruption has kept this state poor, it's removed our ability to face the chronic, serious problems we face as a state," he said.

Galbraith said he would ask pharmaceutical companies to contribute money for drug treatment programs that would cater, among others, to people abusing prescription medicines. He said that Kentucky has become burdened by "rampant illegal drug use," and he mentioned methamphetamine and crack cocaine as the main scourges.

Galbraith, of Lexington, has been a lawyer for 23 years, specializing in criminal defense and personal injury cases.

Fletcher would push amendment for medical malpractice

by JOE BIESK
ASSOCIATED PRESS

FRANKFORT — Republican Emie Fletcher on Monday said as governor he would push for a constitutional amendment aimed at limiting the cost of medical malpractice insurance for doctors.

Fletcher, a doctor himself, said Kentucky's health care system is in a state of crisis as doctors continue to leave Kentucky.

"Kentucky's patients cannot afford to lose any more of their physicians, and yet that's exactly what's happening," Fletcher said. "Kentucky is in a medical crisis placing our state's patients at risk."

Fletcher spoke with reporters before a statewide fly-around with scheduled stops in Barbourville, Paducah, Henderson and Louisville.

As part of his medical malpractice reform plan, Fletcher said he would favor capping non-economic damages — the amount patients could recover for pain-and-suffering. He also favors establishing a medical review panel to sift through malpractice lawsuits and would not limit economic and punitive damages, he said.

"For the sake of Kentucky's patients we must stop this hemorrhaging," Fletcher said. "My prescription for the problem is to call for a constitutional amendment that will grant the governor and legislature the authority to tackle the medical malpractice issue."

Attorney General Ben Chandler, the Democratic nominee for governor, said Fletcher's plan "misses the point entirely." Capping the amount patients can recover for pain-and-suffering would not help lower doctors' insurance rates, Chandler said.

Instead, Chandler said, the state should help prevent medical accidents from occurring. Chandler said he would push for a state-run malpractice insurance company to help lower doctors' costs.

"Medical malpractice rates are a problem for doctors, and the answer to that problem is taking away the profits that insurance companies make," Chandler said. "Medical malpractice insurance companies are raping doctors."

Chandler said that would reduce malpractice rates, "a whole lot quicker than having to go get a constitutional amendment."

State Sen. Daniel Mongiardo, a doctor and vice chairman of the Democratic Party, said he thought the state should try to digitize some information to cut costs and boost patient safety. He said so-called "e-health" would help prevent doctors from making crucial mistakes.

A legislative report earlier this month concluded doctors' premiums are not lower in states with caps on pain-and-suffering and other non-economic damages.

Police began investigating Reynolds in January after a female family member turned over copies of computer files from his home with images of adults engaging in sexual acts with children and infants, according to a statement from FBI agent Gail Y. Thomas.

The family member, who was not identified, said she found the images while playing a computer game, the affidavit stated.

The indictment of Reynolds did not claim that he produced child pornography or sexually abused children.

His sentencing is scheduled for Oct. 15.

Also arrested was Orville Moore, the man Kestner had told police he had purchased the pills from. However, the charge was for intoxication instead of possession.

Moore, a 35-year-old East Point man, was charged with one count of alcohol intoxication after being arrested along with Kestner.

The driver of the vehicle, Alicia Davis, 20, of Boonscamp, was arrested with the two and charged with failure to wear a seat belt, operating a motor vehicle on a suspended license and possession of a controlled substance.

Further details were not readily available concerning the charges against Davis.

All three are scheduled for preliminary hearings on July 7.

Shooting

One eyewitness signing statements for state police said yesterday he and a friend were traveling along Route 80 when they noticed an officer sitting in the driver's seat of a vehicle that had been pulled over. The eyewitness said a man in a white shirt was standing outside the vehicle near the passenger side door and when the officer stepped out of the vehicle, the man threw his hand up and then bolted over the guardrail and into the heavily wooded area beyond.

Although early reports were that the state trooper was shot during the incident, dispatch units at Kentucky State Police's Post 9 in Pikeville denied that report, saying the trooper had not been wounded during the incident.

possible. "When they said they saw somebody go in 20 minutes before it caught fire, it raised some suspicions for us that there might have been somebody in there," Blackburn said. "So when the smoke cleared we went in to search."

Tackett said Blankenship's body was found in the bathroom of the home, near the room's only window.

"He might have been trying to get out the window," Tackett said. "But we don't know for sure right now. It's still under investigation."

The 21-year-old was pronounced dead at the scene by Floyd County Coroner Roger Nelson, who said Monday autopsy results and dental records would be returned from Frankfort within the week.

One aspect of the investigation that now has the sheriff's office at a standstill is a report from a witness who said they saw Blankenship's cousin, Jeremy Pennington, and Pennington's girlfriend leave the house just prior to the fire. Both had reportedly been living with Blankenship.

Blackburn said as of Monday he had not located Pennington or his girlfriend for questioning, adding that an outstanding indictment warrant held by his office against Pennington for an alleged probation violation might explain the difficulty he had encountered.

Assisting clues Pennington could likely provide the sheriff's office about the nature of the fire and Blankenship's death is something Blackburn says will be considered after service of the warrant.

"We have a warrant against Pennington and that's why he hit the track, but we'll find him."

The Gateway park is a 358-acre industrial site near U.S. 23 in Letcher County that has much of the utility infrastructure in place, according to the Big Sandy Center for Economic Development. Representatives of the center say more work is planned soon, including construction of a 40,000 square foot speculative building which is now in the pre-construction phase that should be available by the end of the year.

The industrial park, which is one of many sections of "post-mined" land across Kentucky and neighboring states that have been utilized through cooperation with the National Mining Association, is and will continue to be managed through the efforts of the Appalachian Industrial Authority.

Time for 28th Amendment?

Two very different Washington veterans - one a long-time confidant of Democratic presidents, the other a crusty, savvy Wyoming Republican — have joined forces to confront an ominous but plausible question. What's more, they also have supplied a possible answer to the problem it highlights.

What if United Airlines Flight 93 had reached its destination on Sept. 11, 2001? Flight 93 was the plane hijackers may well have hoped to crash into the Capitol building in Washington, D.C. Instead, it went down in a Pennsylvania field.

The likely result of such a decapitating attack would be not only national trauma, but government paralysis — an unnecessary paralysis, according to Lloyd Cutler, counsel to Presidents Carter and Clinton, and Alan Simpson, GOP senator from Wyoming between 1979 and 1997.

In the Senate, the 17th Amendment empowers governors to fill vacancies almost immediately by making temporary appointments. But no such mechanism exists for replacing members of the House, Cutler and Simpson note. Neither is there any constitutional mechanism to replace a senator or member of the House who has become incapacitated - injured, perhaps, in a terrorist attack.

A commission headed by Cutler and Simpson has recommended a potential solution - a 28th Amendment to the Constitution. It would enable Congress to propose and pass legislation providing for the prompt, temporary appointment of replacements to fill vacancies in the House after a catastrophic attack. The law also would provide a way to temporarily fill seats in the House and Senate held by members who have become incapacitated.

These caretaker lawmakers would serve only until special elections could be held to choose permanent successors or until the incapacitated lawmakers recovered, died or concluded their terms of office.

Exactly how these replacements would be chosen at the state level is something Congress would have to decide. But absent a constitutional amendment, Congress does not now have the power to choose any method to deal with the kind of mass murder that the age of terrorism has made possible.

Republicans and Democrats have deep differences, and they may well disagree about this proposal being promoted by Simpson and Cutler. But at a minimum, the issue is one that their friends on Capitol Hill ought to engage and debate.

Sticks & Stones

Let 'em complain, just make 'em work

During a fiscal court meeting a couple weeks ago, a man sitting behind me said to no one in particular that elected officials shouldn't complain when faced with a heavy load. He said we elected them for their broad shoulders and strong backs.

I agree, as any red-blooded American voter would.

Keeping in mind that Floyd and surrounding counties have been tested in the past several years with flood after flood, these people are faced with responsibilities and work schedules that would probably stagger the best of us. However, the elected official is not your long-lost uncle humping it out at some engine plant in Michigan and holding his breath for the time clock, stuck in a job he can't stand and didn't ask for but left with no other option but to continue. These officials are working the jobs they have because they want to be there, even campaigned and spent some of their own money to make sure the problems fell to them.

Still, there's a part of me, a logical and often nonexistent part of me, that believes no one should be asked to go about their work and not vent a little from time to time.

I've watched Paul Hunt, Gerald, Larry, Jackie and now Alan, exchange sighs and complaints across the panel more than once, but hesitate to cast a stone or a stick too forcefully in their direction.

I'm guilty of the same digressions when struggling with my own work.

But comments, gripes and complaints I might harbor never find a path to the ear of my reader, the people I serve. Ideally, they should never know what I have to do Monday through Friday to bring them whatever news I can manage to offer. It should appear to them that the task was completed with only their interest in mind, and not how tired I was at the time or how long this meeting lasted or how late I worked to wrangle in this quote or that. None of that matters to the public, and it shouldn't.

But I can look across my desk, our officials can lean across their panels or conference tables, and we can share our angst with someone who can relate and appreciate the details of our efforts. There's nothing wrong sharing and encouraging in order to keep putting one foot in front of the other.

Don't gauge the work someone does by how often they are found swapping grievances with a coworker. Measure their effectiveness by the work they have accomplished and by that which they have not.

If you find complaint in that respect I'll be the first to join you, sticks and stones in hand.

Changing lives in the Commonwealth

by DR. MICHAEL B. MCCALL
PRESIDENT, KENTUCKY COMMUNITY AND TECHNICAL COLLEGE SYSTEM

The Kentucky Postsecondary Education Improvement Act of 1997 represented an ambitious agenda to provide businesses and industries with the competitive edge they need to succeed in the global economy and to assist citizens in attaining a standard of living that exceeds the national average.

A major step toward achieving those goals was taken when the General Assembly created the Kentucky Community and Technical College System (KCTCS). Combining the state's public two-year colleges into a comprehensive, flexible and responsive system, KCTCS is a catalyst for economic development and enhanced educational attainment.

Although the General Assembly approved higher education reform in 1997, the community colleges and technical colleges technically remained separate until July 1998. This article summarizes the five-year progress of KCTCS toward fulfilling the mandates of the Kentucky Postsecondary Education Improvement Act of 1997.

By all measures, KCTCS is exceeding expectations and changing the lives of Kentuckians. KCTCS has achieved remarkable growth over five years, increasing enrollment about 50 percent to more than 67,000 students in credit programs by fall 2002. Distance learning has helped to fuel the expansion — nearly 10,000 KCTCS students took such courses in fall 2002. Also, enrollment of secondary students in college courses is growing rapidly, approaching 9,000 students.

Here is how KCTCS is further responding to the goals established in the Postsecondary Education Improvement Act of 1997:

Creating a comprehensive system

KCTCS colleges are improving service to students, employers and communities by consolidating neighboring community and technical colleges and pursuing single accreditation of consolidated colleges under the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS).

Through the process of consolidation and single accreditation, KCTCS is providing comprehensive community and technical college education in each of its 16 districts.

KCTCS is expanding physical access to postsecondary education in Kentucky. The 1998 and 2000 legislative sessions authorized 32 new construction projects. When those expansions are complete, KCTCS will serve the Commonwealth through 62 locations.

Providing liberal arts education

Among the thousands of program options available on KCTCS campuses, the single most popular area of study is liberal arts/baccalaureate transfer, which allows a student to earn an associate in arts degree or associate in science degree at a KCTCS college and transfer those credits to any public university in Kentucky. In the 2001-02 academic year, 22 percent of all KCTCS credit-seeking students enrolled in these programs.

The KCTCS focus on liberal arts is reinforced through the Global Studies program, which features the British Experience in Learning and Living (BELL). This partnership with Georgetown College offers students and faculty the opportunity to study at some of England's finest higher education institutions.

The seamless nature of KCTCS creates linkages with high schools as well. Through advanced placement and dual

In announcing the appointment, Maryanna Coyle, SC, chair of CHI Board of Stewardship Trustees, said, "Catholic Health

The board evaluated both internal and external candidates for the president and chief executive officer position, and believes that Lofton possesses the leadership skills and vision to affirm the vitality of Catholic Health Initiatives

Lofton joined Catholic Health Initiatives in 1998 as the president of the former Southeast Region. In July of that year, he was named Louisville Group President. He was promoted to Chief Operating Officer in 1999 and was also appointed as Executive Vice President in 2000.

■ WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — A gardener found $1,700 under some hedges, turned the green stuff in and then turned down a reward.

Paul Wilson, of Lake Worth, was honored for his good deed Monday by West Palm Beach police. He also got a tearful thanks from the money's owner.

Wilson was working at the Oakwood Center of the Palm Beaches on Friday when he spotted a black makeup bag. Inside were three envelopes full of cash.

Wilson gave the money to his supervisors, who called police. He said he didn't even consider pocketing the money.

"There was really nothing to think about," he said. "It wasn't mine and I could imagine how (the bag's owner) must feel."

A set of address labels in the bag identified the owner as Kathryn Bruckner, of Lantana, who had not reported the money missing.

Bruckner lost the bag Wednesday while taking her father to an appointment at the center. She was bringing him the money so he could pay some expenses.

The bag included almost $800 that Bruckner and her husband had saved for a vacation to Universal Studios with their 8-year-old son, Erik. She had been putting aside $1 a day for the vacation, and the bag had $90 in singles.

The bag also contained about $900 that Bruckner's father had saved toward buying a car from his Social Security checks.

"I cried for two days when I had to tell my dad," said Bruckner, who tearfully thanked Wilson during a ceremony Monday at police headquarters. "It was devastating. I had to tell my son, 'I don't think we'll get to go on vacation.'"

Wilson also turned down Bruckner's offer of a reward, saying he doesn't see himself as a hero.

"I didn't know this was going to be such a big deal," he said before Monday's news conference.

"You know why?" Bruckner responded. "This just doesn't happen."

■ DES MOINES, Iowa — A woman bought a bag of potato chips at a convenience store but discovered more than munchies in the bag.

Lois Campbell, 42, of Des Moines, opened the small sack of Uncle Ray's garlic-flavored chips Saturday and found another bag inside.

"We were eating a few of the chips, and I was about to give some to a 3-year-old child," Campbell said. "I thought it was a little bag of seasoning inside. When I saw what it was, I called the police."

A police report said the contents of the heat-sealed bag smelled like marijuana.

The leafy substance — and the chips — were seized as evidence.

The Git-N-Go store where Campbell bought the snacks has taken the rest of the Uncle Ray's chips off its shelves, said Mandi Lockridge.

The chips were packaged in Detroit, Lockridge said.

"To find out what was in there, they will have trace it back to Detroit," she said.

an extension of Oak Lane Road.

■ An agreement was made to hire Joshua Kidd as a seasonal employee at the hourly rate of $5.25. Kidd replaces a worker who recently quit in District 4 and will assist in garbage cleanup, according to fiscal court records.

■ Fiscal court members approved a budget transfer of $140,000 from the general fund to the road and jail fund, which will both receive equal $70,000 transfers. The court also approved to transfer $13,250.85 from the general fund to cover a $6,283.77 reimbursement for election officers, $5,632.14 for voting machines and another $1,334.94 for printing costs and related expenditures.

■ Payments were approved to Ellis Little for $3,600 and Wright Lumber Company for $1,342.85 in exchange for labor and materials provided through the court managed construction of Kentucky Tech Houses number 4 and 5.

Murder

Amanda Maynard, also of Inez, was thrown from the vehicle, according to reports, which Evans then negotiated across four lanes of traffic before striking the guardrail along the left side of the road.

Police say Evans then continued and left the scene without stopping to offer Maynard help. Martin County Coroner Mike Crum later pronounced Maynard dead at the scene as a result of injuries sustained in the accident.

Evans was located by police afterwards and taken to the Big Sandy Regional Detention Center in Johnson County.

The accident is still under investigation by the Kentucky State Police.

as a crucial resource for economic development and workforce training. KCTCS forges partnerships between colleges and businesses to provide Kentucky workers with the skills they need today, and to help industries and individuals develop the capabilities they will need tomorrow.

Since KCTCS was created, the Board of Regents has approved more than 700 new programs that culminate in certificates, diplomas or associate degrees (students may choose from more than 2,600 program options). All of the new programs are occupational/technical in nature and are increasing the skill levels of Kentucky workers.

KCTCS colleges delivered some 3,600 courses in the 2001-02 academic year to more than 44,000 individuals and 1,500 businesses through economic development programs.

The centerpiece of KCTCS economic development efforts is the Kentucky WINS (Workforce Investment Network System) program. Through KY WINS, colleges in KCTCS provide training for employees of new and expanding businesses, and assist communities in coordinating the delivery of economic development services.

Promoting community development

KCTCS provides lifelong learning. Thousands of non-credit courses — ranging from culinary arts to computer skills — help Kentuckians meet their personal and professional goals. In 2001-02, more than 25,000 Kentuckians benefited from non-credit continuing education courses.

Kentucky's two-year colleges serve as cultural centers, enriching daily life through fine arts performances and lecture series. More than 500,000 citizens enjoy music, theater, traveling exhibitions and art shows in KCTCS fine arts centers and cultural facilities each year.

Courses at KCTCS colleges teach adults to read and write, and help them prepare for the GED exam. Statewide, KCTCS colleges serve about 20,000 students a year in adult education programs.

The role of KCTCS colleges in their communities is much more than academic. KCTCS improves and enriches everyday life for Kentuckians of all ages.

Mortgage Company, L.L.C.

What is a Mortgage Broker?

A Mortgage Broker is an independent real estate financing professional who specializes in the origination of residential and/or commercial mortgages. Right now, across the country, there are over 20,000 mortgage brokerage operations.

Why go through a Mortgage Broker as opposed to a bank?

Over 50% of Americans do. Many times mortgage brokers can often receive better rates etc. from the banks, as opposed to you, the Borrower, going directly through that same bank.

The reason?

The mortgage broker does all of the paper work and the leg work on a file for the bank. If the bank had to use their own support staff to do the work that the mortgage broker does, the bank would incur considerable overhead costs.

In addition, the mortgage broker can offer the borrower a more extensive choice of loan programs and access to more affordable loans. When obtaining financing through a bank, you are limited to only their products and services.

Are Mortgage Brokers regulated?

Brokers are regulated by several federal laws and regulations, and dozens of state laws and licensing boards.

Have people benefited from the use of Mortgage Brokers?

Yes!! Mortgage Brokers have pioneered the "subprime" credit market, using unique loan programs to allow low to moderate income borrowers, with less than perfect credit histories, to start enjoying the benefits of home ownership. Without the assistance and dedication of a Mortgage Broker, home ownership would be a difficult task to achieve. The brokerage industry plays a significant role in the mortgage lending process and the economy by increasing competition and driving down costs.

Fraley wins Women's State Am

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

PRESTONSBURG — The Women's State Am came down to two very talented golfers Friday. And in the end, the younger of the two, a high-schooler, played the best.

Katie Fraley, a junior-to-be at Meade County High School, won the Kentucky Women's State Amateur golf championship Friday at StoneCrest by beating Jessica Grace 2 and 1.

Fraley becomes the third high school player to win the championship in the last few years, following in the footsteps of Whitney Wade of Glasgow and former Western Hills star Mandy Goins.

Meade County High School student Katie Fraley is the new Women's State Am Champion. Fraley claimed the title Friday morning in a victorious effort at StoneCrest Golf Course. Fraley will be a junior at Meade County High when classes resume in August. The next big event for StoneCrest Golf Course is its invitational tournament later this month.

After an Austin Stepp single, Preece hit into a fielder's choice in Martin County's half of the fifth inning. Preece later scored on a passed ball.

Nik Slone, Johnson and Reed drew back-to-back walks to start Martin County's rally in their final at-bat. After one fielder's choice hit by James Jude and a strikeout, Preece hit a double to pull Martin County within 9-8. Jude scored on a passed ball to tie the game. Jared Keener's hit scored Preece to win the game.

the time, because that was just how the system worked. The bowl games weren't included as part of picking the national champion."

But Griggs said the players have talked about it more over the years, especially after bowl games began being included in the polls.

"We believed we had the best team in the country that year, and we've often said what a shame it was that we couldn't be listed as national champs," said Griggs, who lives in Lexington.

Oklahoma was named as the 1950 champion in the final poll conducted by The Associated Press that season. But that poll was released Nov. 28, more than a month before Southeastern Conference champion Kentucky stunned the Sooners 13-7 in the Sugar Bowl and ended Oklahoma's 31-game winning streak. Kentucky finished 11-1, losing only to Tennessee 7-0 in the regular-season finale. Oklahoma finished 10-1.

The Wildcats finished seventh in the 1950 AP poll. The AP included bowl games in the final poll for the first time in 1965 and has done so each year since 1968.

The 1950 season, which some say remains the best in the Wildcats' football history, is always a popular topic at reunions of those who played for Bryant during his tenure at Kentucky from 1946 through 1953.

This weekend is the 17th such reunion since 1983. Of the 57 men expected to attend, the youngest is 67 years old, and time has faded some details of the Bryant years.

But most of the memories continue to flow freely for men like Vito "Babe" Parilli, a junior All-America quarterback for the Wildcats in 1950.

"Tennessee lost only one game, and they went to the Cotton Bowl that year and they won," beating Texas 20-14, said Parilli, who went on to play and coach in the NFL and now lives in Denver. "We beat the No. 1 team in the Sugar Bowl. So there should be co-champs — Tennessee and Kentucky.

"To me, (Kentucky) was the best team in the country. There's no question in my mind," Parilli said. "You look at the defense that we had. They shut out five teams (five others scored seven points or less). You've got to on Minix's two-run home run. Parker hit Meade's very next pitch over the left center field fence.

In the bottom of the third inning, Lyons led off as he was hit by the pitch.

Andrew Brown grounded into a fielder's choice for the first out. Caleb Sloan reached on an error moving Brown up a base. After Brown went to third and Sloan to second base on a passed ball, Cyrus delivered a two-run single to make the score 10-0. Stacy drove in Cyrus with an RBI double. Stacy scored on an error. Minix drilled a hard single up the middle but was left on base.

Parker struckout the side in the top of the fourth to seal the win. Tyler Mitchell hit a double in the fourth and scored and Tommy Joe Hall walked and scored in the third inning to account for Beaver Creek's two runs.

Justin Jackson had an infield single in the second inning.

The Paintsville 11-12s will face Morgan County in the final of the winner's bracket on Thursday beginning at 8 p.m. The loss drops Beaver Creek (1-1) down into the loser's bracket.

Saturday's games

Like their counterparts in the 9-10-year-old ranks, the Prestonsburg and Beaver Creek 11-12-year-olds were busy doing battle Saturday.

Tyler Mitchell hit a walk-off three-run home run in the bottom of the seventh inning to give Beaver Creek an 8-6 win over Prestonsburg during first round action of the Area 2 Little League All-Star Tournament at Paul B. Hall Field on Saturday.

The final was a heartbreaking loss for the Prestonsburg team, sending it down into a loser's bracket contest.

Mitchell also pitched six innings in the game, striking out 11, allowing five hits and walking two. He hit three batters.

Chad Nelson earned the win pitching the seventh inning. Nelson allowed on hit, one run and fanned two hitters.

Both teams scored in their first at bat. Billy Robinson singled and scored for Prestonsburg in the top of the first. Zac Hall walked and scored for Beaver Creek in the bottom half of the inning.

After Chris Schoolcraft was hit by the pitch, Allan Crayon smacked a double to plate Gearhart and Schoolcraft.

Beaver Creek answered with two runs in the bottom of the third inning. After Brandon Tackett reached on a walk, Hall bounced into a fielder's choice. Chad Nelson followed with a single. A Logan Crowder base hit sent Hall and Nelson in for the score. Prestonsburg remained in the lead at 4-3.

Jody Tackett earned a base on balls, stole second and scored on a Gearhart double in Prestonsburg's fifth inning. They led 5-3. Hall singled to right field and scored on a double hit by Nelson in Beaver Creek's half of the fifth inning. Nelson scored as Logan Crowder reached on an error. The game was tied at 5-5 heading into the sixth inning.

Tyler Sparks hit a single for Prestonsburg in the sixth but was put out trying to stretch that into a double.

Tommy Joe Hall singled for Beaver Creek in the bottom of the sixth but was left on base.

The game went into extra innings.

Prestonsburg got a run as Seth Setser singled, stole second base, moved to third base on an error and scored on a ground out by Gearhart.

With Prestonsburg ahead 6-5, Beaver Creek put two runners on as both reached on errors. Mitchell followed with the game winner. Schoolcraft went six innings for Prestonsburg and fanned seven hitters.

He walked five and allowed six hits in the no-decision. There were two double plays made in the game, one by each team. In the second inning, Beaver Creek's Tommy Joe Hall hit a fly ball to center field which was caught by Tackett. Tackett fired the baseball to DJ Ousley at first base who tagged out Corey Wallen who over ran the bag. In the fourth inning, Billy Robinson lined a pitch back to Mitchell on the mound. He threw to first base to pick off Josh Blackburn.

Morgan County 16, Magoffin County 0: Tyler Adkins pitched a one-hit shut out as Morgan County won in four innings. Adkins faced 14 batters and struckout eight. Tyler Gambill had the lone hit for Magoffin County. Morgan County turned a 1-5-4 double play in the second inning.

A look at sports: Joe Back was a good friend

by Ed Taylor
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

I just returned from my vacation in Kentucky (as well as Indiana and Ohio) and heard the sad story of the passing of Joe Back at the age of 37. I was shocked to hear of his passing and still do not really know what had happened. But this I know, we in the sports world lost a good friend.

As everyone knows, Joe teamed with Jim Ed Allen behind the microphone for several years calling both basketball and football games to be broadcast into homes in the area. Now both of them are gone.

Joe used to attend UK basketball games with when I received press passes. He did not meet a stranger and seemed to know everyone. I lost Joe at one UK game and finally spotted him mid way of the center section talking with Chris Welsh, Cincinnati Reds TV color man. I walked over to where they were and Joe said, "Ed, I want you to meet a good friend of mine, Chris Welsh!" Well, that may have been the very first time Joe personally met Welsh but you would not have known it.

Joe would always adopt a team in the 15th Region and pull for them to win the regional basketball tournament.

I don't think I ever seen him pick one right. But Joe was for all the kids. He was promoting the kids in the eastern Kentucky mountains. He would take money out of his own pocket and buy a kid a pair of shoes if he was not good enough to play in. I have known Joe to buy suits of clothes for individuals. He was special!

Jim Ed, Joe and myself became very close as we were often at games together; the duo on the radio and myself covering for the Floyd County Times. Often they would ask me to come by at half time and we would talk sports.

When you think about the Big Dipper, Joe, Jim Ed, Lockhard (one time sports editor for Pikeville paper) being gone you look at your other friends in this business and wonder. Real good friends like Rick Bentley and Jason Blanton. Don't tell me reporting sporting news is an easy job. Very stressful! Very!

look at those scores, and they'll tell the story. It's a great story. Bear Bryant was a great defensive coach."

The loss to Tennessee weakened Kentucky's claim to the title and gave Tennessee a claim to the 1950 crown. (However, the 11-1 Volunteers suffered an early-season 7-0 loss to Mississippi State, a team Kentucky beat 48-21.) Three teams — Princeton, Wyoming and Clemson — finished undefeated that season, although Clemson had a tie.

After the loss to Tennessee, some of Kentucky's players didn't want to go to the Sugar Bowl. They remembered the brutal practices they'd endured the season before, when they had accepted an Orange Bowl bid. Exhausted from those practices, heavily favored Kentucky lost 21-13 to Santa Clara. The seniors on the team wanted to decline the bid, Parilli said.

"So (Bryant) said, 'Wait a minute.' He grabbed Bob Gain and the other captain (Wilbur "Shorty" Jamerson) and he talked them into it. They came back and said, 'We'll play in the Sugar Bowl if we can play the No. 1 team, Oklahoma.' That's what they did."

Bryant "always got his way. He knew what he was doing," Parilli said.

Going up against Oklahoma's vaunted T-formation offense, Bryant tweaked his defense and played four tackles, including Gain, the 1950 Outland Trophy winner, and Walt Yowarsky, the game's most valuable player.

Parilli guided the Kentucky offense to two quick touchdowns, the first on a 22-yard pass to Jamerson and the second after an 81-yard second-quarter drive. Up 13-0 at halftime, Bryant ordered Parilli to stop passing the football.

"The Bear told me we'd handle them on defense," Parilli said. "I threw one pass in the second half."

Oklahoma running back Billy Vessels, who would win the 1952 Heisman Trophy, threw a touchdown pass with seven minutes left, but Kentucky held the ball for all but one play the rest of the way.

Kidd, Harris take Late Model victories

— P'burg driver Blackburn finishes third —

TIMES STAFF REPORT

COEBURN, Va. — Race action continued at Lonesome Pine Raceway over the weekend with two feature winners being acknowledged in separate races.

Michael Kidd and Chad Harris drove to Late Model Stock feature victories Saturday night by winning separate 50-lap features during the Kinzer Drilling 260 at Lonesome Pine International Raceway.

Kidd started from the pole and led all 50 laps of the first Late Model Stock race.

After winning last week's UARA-Stars tour race at LPIR, Eric McClure was looking for another win when he started alongside Kidd on the front row.

Harris challenged McClure for the second spot throughout the race, but neither driver could catch and pass Kidd.

McClure won the battle for second while Stacy Vicars and Doug Mate finished fourth and fifth in the opener.

There were only two caution flags during the first race. The first came on lap 24 after fifth-running Kres VanDyke had made several attempts to get under Vicars. As Vicars and VanDyke were exiting the second turn and entering the backstretch VanDyke tried to make the pass under Vicars, but he spun and hit the inside retaining wall. VanDyke was forced to pit for tires and fell from contention.

EKU next up for Halbert, Pikeville girls

by STEVE LeMASTER
SPORTS EDITOR

PIKEVILLE — New Pikeville High School girls' basketball coach Cindy Halbert, like most all other area coaches, is enjoying some time away via the KHSAA Dead Period. Halbert, who comes to Pikeville from Allen Central, wasted little time in getting the Lady Panthers into a team camp a couple of weeks back at Western Kentucky University. The next event for the Pikeville girls is a team camp at Eastern Kentucky University later this month.

Lady Panther tracks

■ Maria Shockey, who stepped down as the Pikeville girls head coach, will remain on the staff as an assistant under Halbert.

■ Halbert and Pikeville will contend for a 2003-04 15th Region All "A" Classic title on a familiar floor, at least for the former Allen Central head coach. The 2003-04 Girls' 15th Region All "A" champ will be decided inside South Floyd's Raider Arena.

GETTING INTO HIGH GEAR

You can once again take your bike for some long spins now that summer is here. Doctors of Chiropractic recommend making any necessary bicycle adjustments so you do not harm your body by improper stretching and straining.

Frame size: There should be a comfortable clearance between the top bar and your crotch when you straddle the frame—1 to 2 inches on a road bike and 1.6 to 4 inches on a mountain bike.

Seat height: Your leg should be nearly fully extended at the bottom of the stroke. Make sure your hips are not tilting side to side to reach the pedals. Most people like having the seat level or slightly upturned.

Handlebar height: Lower handlebars place you in a crouching position, providing less wind resistance and more ability to apply power to the pedals. However, this can strain the back and neck. Raising the handlebars allows you to sit up more, thus decreasing the amount of stress on your body.

heard that Jackie Pack was returning to the high school coaching ranks. Jack will take over the Prestonsburg girls job, vacated when coach Harold Tackett took the AD job at Betsy Layne.

I always thought that Jackie would be back in coaching. The last time I talked with him personally he told of how he had gotten his life straightened out and felt good about himself. Everyone is deserving a second chance and I am the folks at Prestonsburg are giving Jackie that chance. I know he will do a great job because he is one of the most knowledgeable coaches in the game today.

Whether you agree with me or not, I still felt he got a bad deal when he was asked to step down as boys coach at Prestonsburg. Prestonsburg was one of the top teams in the region under Coach Pack. But that is all water under the bridge and it is a new beginning for Jackie. I wish him the best.

■ With the basketball summer camp season on the horizon, all the coaching chairs in Floyd County are filled as of now. Mark Martin and Johnny Martin will lead the Allen Central girls and boys programs. Up at Betsy Layne, Cassandra Akers and Bret Rose will be at the helm for the Bobcats. Jackie Pack and Jackie Day Crisp at Prestonsburg while Tony Isaac and Henry Webb will work at South Floyd.

Cindy Halbert has made the move to Pikeville and the Lady Panthers are getting a good one. I wish Coach Halbert the very, very best at the Pike County school.

Made two visits to McDonalds while I was home and ran into Jennifer Mullins behind the counter. Jennifer played for the Lady Rebels at Allen Central. The next day, I ordered from her sister, Terry Mullins, who currently plays for the Lady Rebels. It was good to see them. It is always good to come back home and see friends. Ran into "Katbird" Isaac at the pancake house and Barry Clark's mother at Walmart.

With all the running to Indiana and Ohio, I did not have that much time in the county and seen more people. But it was good to "come home!"

Until Wednesday, good sports everyone and be good sports!

Guidugli sentenced for fight

CINCINNATI — University of Cincinnati quarterback Gino Guidugli was convicted Friday of misdemeanor assault for punching an opposing player during a brawl in an intramural basketball game in March.

Guidugli, a junior from Fort

Thomas, Ky., was sentenced to 60 days of house arrest and one year of probation for his part in the fight that broke out after a hard foul.

The sentence could keep the Bearcats' starting QB from participating in practices that start

Aug. 7. Guidugli, 20, could ask Hamilton County Municipal Judge David Stockton to allow him to practice, said Mike Walton, the county's chief probation officer.

Bearcats coach Rick Minter said Guidugli will remain on the team.

"He'll be paying his own price due to the judicial process," Minter said. "We'll have some things internally. This won't go unnoticed."

Guidugli said he was trying to break up the brawl and acted in self-defense. But he testified that he "turned around and retaliated," which the judge said in his ruling was different from self-defense.

Two Cincinnati students testified that they saw Guidugli punch Levi Harris. Football players Doug Monaghan and Justin Laforgia testified in Guidugli's defense, but admitted they did not watch him during the fight.

The fight was the second time Guidugli was arrested since November. He was cited then on a charge of underage drinking. Municipal Judge Ralph E. Winkler dismissed the charge on Jan. 14 for lack of evidence. — The Associated Press

Floyd drivers fare well at Willard

TIMES STAFF REPORT

WILLARD — The tables were turned at Willard Speedway over the weekend in a Bomber showdown between the No. 1F car of Harlen Ferguson of Willard, and the No. 248 ride Conrad Newman of southern Ohio. Some squealing tires and racing motors set the stage as Ferguson pulled off the victory with Newman coming in a close second. (Last week the results were just the opposite between these two drivers.)

A dozen other Bombers were scrambling for position in the rivalry with Brian Lawson (L2) coming in third; fourth was Jeff Flaughar (9F), and fifth was Darrell Davis.

The No. 4B car Greg Thompson of Ironton outlasted the 11B machine of Jason Ball of Huntington, W.Va. for the Modified win. Other top-five finishers included, in third place, Brian Sammons (B5), a fourth-place Scottie Porter (71), and John Miller (XX), rounding out the top-five.

In the Super Street contest, the 85 Billy Hutchinson of Price came in first just ahead of second place driver 42A Jamey Adams of Laurelville, Ohio. Third place went to the No. 24 car Eric Steagall, fourth was Gary Rager (16), and fifth to Jason Wright (J5).

The relatively new class racing at Willard, the V6 Stock is growing and picking up a new car with each week of racing. The No. 42D machine Darrell Davis of Catlettsburg won the feature in this class with Daniel Jordan (6) coming in a close second. The third place driver was Keith Hutchinson (27). Jon Allen finished fourth and Angie Lawson, fifth.

Finally, in the Four-Cylinder race, D.I. Henson of Wayland took the top spot with the No. 72 of Dennis Meadows coming in second. Third place went to David Smith (D18).

This Saturday (July 5), Sprint 305's will be racing for the championship of a series that begins this week at KC Raceway in Ohio. The regular show will be presented, also, along with some celebration of the holiday. Giveaway drawings will be held at intermission.

A couple of weeks ahead, on July 12 at Willard, Late Models will be racing. Gates open at 4:30. The drivers' meeting will get underway around 7:30, with racing to follow at 8.

For more information, go online to the track's website at

Football

Kidd

The second yellow flag was triggered by a tangle involving the cars of Doug Price, Matt Wolfe, Ronnie McCarty and Rusty Skewes in fourth turn.

Kidd finished second in the second race, but he said after that he might have hurt his car by running it too hard in the first Late Model Stock feature. This resulted in him running the second race on abused tires. Track rules mandate that drivers must run the same tires in both races of a twin 50-lap event unless a flat or cut tire requires a change.

Finishing third through fifth in the second race were Prestonsburg driver Steve Blackburn, McClure and Doug Price.

This week, racing will resume at Lonesome Pine Raceway with action on the pavement Friday night, instead of Saturday.

Pecan/Parmesan Crusted Chicken: Grease a baking pan (a jelly roll pan works well) with olive oil and set aside. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Gather the following ingredients: One package chicken tenders (approximately 12 tenders per package); one egg mixed with 1/4 cup buttermilk in a flat dish; 1 cup bread crumbs, 1/2 to 2/3 cup finely chopped pecans and 1/2 cup shredded parmesan cheese, tossed and mixed well in another flat dish. Salt chicken and dip in the egg/buttermilk mixture to coat, then dip into the bread crumb mixture. Press the crumbs into the chicken and place on the olive-oiled pan. ## There was once a little boy: a 4th of July story

I must have been about four or five years old the first time I heard the tale of the pitiful little boy who didn't mind his mother and got his hand blown off by a firecracker. Although I never ever heard his name or exactly where he was from or how folks came to know what happened to him, his story circulated throughout the neighborhood with such frequency - especially at this time of year - that I felt the poor little feller was a personal friend of mine.

Anyway, when kids in the neighborhood began shooting off firecrackers in celebration of the Fourth of July, Mom, or some other parent in the camp, would gently remind us that if we were going to shoot firecrackers, we should not hold them in our hands and light them. Obviously, that's what this little boy had done, and bless his little heart, he didn't throw it soon enough and, well, the rest...and eventually he, too...became a part of history.

The first time I heard his tragic tale, the boy had lost the very tips of a couple of his fingers. Before too long it was his whole hand,

Salads...year round favorites

by Theresa M. Scott

COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT FOR FAMILY & CONSUMER SCIENCES FLOYD COUNTY EXTENSION SERVICE

Almost everyone enjoys a salad with a meal. Salads are refreshing and come in all colors, shapes and sizes. Salads are in season all through the year. Some salads are light, some salads are hearty and filling.

A salad means many things to different people. It can consist of torn lettuce with a few vegetables added, such as carrots, broccoli, celery or cauliflower, or a congealed salad with fruit. Some folks like chopped vegetables in a dressing. There are many ways to enjoy salads.

A salad can be a complete meal in itself. Adding meat and cheese to a lettuce salad makes it a "chef" salad. Chef salads are good meals in the summertime, because you don't have to heat up the kitchen to prepare a meal. Stuff a tomato or green pepper with your favorite tuna or chicken salad. You have made a simple delicious main course. Low-fat dressing makes the salad lighter and healthier.

Fruit salads add sweetness to any meal. Combine your favorite

Kim's Korner: Polite Introduction

Kim Little Frasure

Many are the times we have heard in our lives, "Money is the root of all evil!"

Well, I am convinced the almighty tongue takes precedence over the money theory, ten to one.

It is flat-out amazing how our tongues can cause so much flack, pain, and sorrow. It is also amazing how sometimes we don't even have a clue that our words can hurt, and most importantly, were never intended to.

For instance, while watching TV the other night, these two sisters were on, sharing stories from their childhood. The older of the two said she had always felt her mother favored her younger sister for she always introduced her as her oldest daughter. When her sister was introduced, she was referred too as "the baby," which made her feel her sister's place was more special than her own.

OUCH! That's when I began to replay my own introductions of our daughters, and even reflected on introductions made by my parents toward my brother and me. Scott, (my brother) has always been referred to as my mother's "Pride," while I get the title of being her "joy."

So far I have managed to stay off the proverbial psychologist's couch because of such an introduction, and in all honesty, have never given it a second thought until I watched this show.

It made me aware that I, too, had been guilty of introducing Ashleigh as the "old

Ten Years Ago

(July 7 and July 9, 1993)

Kentucky Court of Appeals Judge Janet L. Stumbo, on Tuesday, formally announced her bid to become the first woman ever to become a Justice of the Kentucky Supreme Court...Public hearings have been set to hear comments on a four-year facility plan for the Floyd County School System. On Tuesday, July 19, at 6 p.m., at Allen Elementary the Floyd County Board of Education will hold its public hearing on the plan, before submitting it to the Kentucky Department of Education and then to the State Board for Elementary and Secondary Education for approval...The state attorney general's office has declined to issue an opinion on an alleged Open Meeting Law violation because a lawsuit has been filed in Floyd County Circuit Court on the issue. Attorney Mickey McGuire, who represents three Floyd County school administrators, claims the Floyd County School Board violated the state's Open Meeting Law by discussing a district reorganization plan in closed session. The jobs of administrators, Pete Grigsby Jr., Tommy Thompson and Wayne Ratliff were eliminated under the reorganization plan...Floyd County native Harry Hale is to be extradited from Laurel County to Carroll County, Georgia, to face various theft and bail jumping charges. After a hearing Friday in Laurel County District Court, judge Henry Stoltz ordered that a governor's warrant be issued and that Hale be returned to Georgia. Hale was scheduled to be picked up by Georgia authorities on Monday, but jail officials said, Tuesday, that Hale is still at the Laurel County Jail. Hale was arrested in May at Levi Jackson State Park by Kentucky State Police detective Ed Lynch...Johnson County's Republican nominee for sheriff may be among the first victims of a relatively new state law restricting campaign finances. Don McFaddin, who claimed a narrow, 26-vote win in Johnson County's GOP primary in May, apparently will not be his party's candidate in November's General Election. McFaddin withdrew from the race Tuesday with a brief statement that did not disclose specific reasons for his departure. He was unavailable Tuesday to confirm or deny reports that he had apparently violated a pre-election agreement to limit campaign fund-raising and expenditures to $3,000...It will be at least another week and most likely longer before a decision could be handed down in a case involving three Floyd County school administrators who sued the board of education because their jobs were eliminated under a reorganization plan. At a hearing Thursday in Johnson County circuit Court, Special Judge Stephen Frazier asked both sides for additional information in the case...Although the Floyd County Solid Waste Commission has begun efforts to collect nearly $100,000 worth of unpaid bills through the courts, a commission spokesman said Thursday, all that glitters is not necessarily gold. The problem, Dave Cooley, director of the Floyd County landfill at Garth said Thursday, is that, while the solid waste commission's trash collection system is one of the finest in the state, its eleven-year-old fee collection system still has some bugs in it...A retired state police detective will apparently become Johnson County's sheriff in January, by default. Former KSP detective A.C. "Pete" Cantrell, the Democratic nominee for the office, lost his GOP opposition Tuesday, when Republican nominee Don McFaddin withdrew from the race. McFaddin reportedly left the race after he was apparently found to be in violation of state laws governing campaign finance...There died: Edison Gibson, 63, of Raven, Sunday, July 4, at the U.K. Medical Center, Lexington; Narmon Prater, 87, of Prestonsburg, Friday, at his residence; Betty Marriah Stanley Bursley, 57, of Ashland, formerly of Pike County, Sunday, at the University of Kentucky Medical Center, Lexington; Ersel Mullins, 75, of New London, Ohio, Thursday, at his home; Arthur Collins, 70, of Huntington, Indiana, formerly of Melvin, Monday, at Huntington Memorial Hospital, Huntington, Indiana; Jeff Scott, 70, of Garrett, Friday, at his residence; Mary L. "Lulu." Lulu is a Bassett Hound owned by Earl and Linda Hughes, of Price. According to the Hughes', "Lulu loves to take rides on the four-wheeler with her Papaw Earl." She also enjoys spending time lazing outside by the pool. "We love her very much," says Linda.

By Dr. Carol Combs-Morris,
DVM

Thanks to Glenda Barnett, of Allen, for this week's question. She would like some information on a new product called Neutersol®, which has just gained FDA approval.

Neutersol® is an injectable solution (chemically, zinc gluconate neutralized by arginine) that is designed to be injected directly into the testicles of puppies 3 to 10 months of age, as a non-surgical alternative to neutering. According to the manufacturer of Neutersol®, the product has a 99.6% success rate for producing permanent sterility, and it decreases, but does not eliminate, the male hormone testosterone. Administration is supposed to be quick and easy, and may not require anaesthesia. Potential side effects range from testicular swelling, pain and irritation to loss of appetite, vomiting and diarrhea.

My opinion on this? I'm not sure yet. I'm not one to jump on to the bandwagon for a new product until it has actually been used out in the field, no matter how promising preliminary lab tests are. I like to sit back and see how it performs in the real world first. Here are the pros and cons of this new approach to neutering as I see them so far:

It's fast. There is a brief description of the procedure in a press release from the manufacturer, Addison Biological Laboratory, Inc. "With the puppy lying on its back and properly restrained (chemical restraint may be used, if necessary, to prevent the dog from moving during the injection), the veterinarian gently injects Neutersol® into each of the testicles using a very fine needle. The exact dose is pre-calibrated by measuring the width of the puppy's testicles using a custom dosing caliper."

OK, speed is good when you think of how many more animals could be sterilized in a given amount of time. I do, however, have a problem with "gently" injecting something into a testicle, which sounds like a contradiction in terms. I think I would want a little sedation for the puppy's sake, and not just to limit movement. It would still be faster than a traditional neuter, and significantly less anaesthesia would be needed. I like that. There is no good way to objectively compare the post-procedure pain between surgical and chemical neutering, but the percentage of puppies with obvious post-injection side effects was low.

Ms. Barnett had also asked about the possibility of doing chemical sterilizations in the field, such as during a Rabies Clinic, as part of the SNOOP organization. This wouldn't be very feasible, due to the need (in my opinion) to sedate the puppy, and the need to monitor it for a couple of hours for reactions to the injections. If there were ever a specially equipped mobile spay/neuter service in the area, like there is in some of the larger cities, there's no reason it couldn't be done there. If the procedure became commonplace, SNOOP would have to decide whether they would provide the same financial assistance for the injections as for surgical castration. (In terms of money, the literature says that the cost of the chemical procedure would be about the same as for surgery).

The 99.6% sterility rate of Neutersol® is excellent, but still not the 100% reached with surgical neutering. Because some sperm are left in the reproductive tract at the time of surgery, it is theoretically possible for a castrated male to impregnate a female for several days after the operation. The Neutersol® literature says that sperm may survive much longer following injection, so a chemically sterilized animal should be kept away from females in heat for at least 60 days.

One of the biggest concerns I have about the new method is that the levels of testosterone are only reduced by about 40-50%. From a behavioral standpoint, this means that it may not help as much as surgery with problems such as roaming, urine marking and aggression. It might also not be as effective in preventing hormone-related diseases like prostate disease or testicular cancer.

The biggest potential benefit I see for this product is that in a shelter situation, it would give us a way to ensure that young male puppies were sterilized before they went to their new homes. In an ideal world, no animal would ever leave a shelter with the ability to reproduce—pediatric spay/neuter would be the rule rather than the exception. In reality, it is nearly impossible to just keep up with the need for adolescent/adult surgeries. Sometimes it feels like putting out brush fires when the whole forest is ablaze.

I suppose my feeling about Neutersol® at this point is that I'm cautiously optimistic. Eventually chemical sterilization may make neuter (and spay) surgery a thing of the past, but I don't see this happening any time soon.

Thanks bunches for the question, Glenda. You made me dig for this one! Here are some web sites where you can get more information: www.neutersol.com, www.addisonlabs.com, and www.hsus.org.

Salads

Fruits. It is your choice if you use a dressing. Many fruits are naturally moist and tasty and thus don't need an additional dressing. Fruits used in salads can be fresh, frozen or canned. Fruit salads are in season all year. In the wintertime add fresh bananas, apples and/or oranges to canned or frozen fruit. You can't go wrong with fruit.

Most cooks have their favorite potato salad recipe—plain or fancy. For a change, try this Red Potato Salad:

Red Potato Salad
3 pounds red potatoes
1 chopped white onion
3 chopped celery stalks
2 tablespoons sweet relish
Dressing: 8 oz. Italian dressing

Peanut Butter Bars:

Mix together: 1 cup peanut butter, 1/2 cup brown sugar and 1 egg. Mix ingredients until fully incorporated. Spoon into an 8-inch square pan and smooth. Bake for 22 to 25 minutes at 325 degrees. Sprinkle 1 cup (or more) chocolate chips on top of the peanut butter mixture and return to oven for 5 minutes; gently spread the melted chocolate. Let cool completely in order to allow chocolate to set. Cut into squares. Options: Use butterscotch chips in lieu of chocolate chips, or mix butterscotch with chocolate chips for a delightfully unique flavor. Chef's Note: Butterscotch chips do not melt as completely as do chocolate chips but the flavor is wonderful!

Happy Fourth!

then both hands, then his arm, then, he died.

As I moved into my early teens, I couldn't help but wonder if the young man might have been related to the other nameless little boy whose arm rotted off because he went swimming during dog days and got a chigger bite infected.

Of course, there were those among us who were skeptical about both tales and accused the adults of "just making all that stuff up" in order to scare us into being more careful. If that was the case, it must have worked because, to my knowledge, no one ever lost as much as a fingernail from a firecracker nor got blood poisoning during dog days.

Roman candles, now, that's a different story. On one Fourth of July, one of the neighborhood fathers had been to Tennessee and stopped at Crazy Somebody's fireworks stand and brought a whole case of Roman candles to Society Row.

Most of us knew about firecrackers. And, we knew not to stand too close whenever we put a cherry bomb under an empty coffee can. But Roman candles were new to us. Anyway, the first time any of us ever used a Roman candle without adult supervision, the holder was holding it in a horizontal position. It was about dusk dark and when the first bright orange ball of fire bounced off Jeff Sparks' front screen door, instead of simply turning the business end skyward, the holder dropped the whole works. As the blue, green, and red bursts of fire shot out among us, the dozen or so coal-camp kids, both boys and girls, who had gathered for the brand-new pyrotechnic display, suddenly vanished, leaving only a thin red, white and blue cardboard tube smoldering from both ends lying in the middle of the road.

Have a safe holiday...and be careful. Remember the little boy who didn't mind his mother.

Korner

From now on I will know better. Yes, from now on she will get the title of our "First Blessing!" Who would've ever thought a mere introduction of one's child could cause pain from one little six letter word? And yes, we must all choose our words more carefully! So until next week, speak positive, and God Bless.

Baldrige graduates with honors

The Reverend Bobby G. Baldrige, age 51, of Eastern, graduated on May 10, 2003, with honors, from Morehead State University, with a Bachelor's Degree in Social Work. Rev. Baldrige had also been named to the university's Dean's List. The new graduate is the husband of Beulah Baldrige. The couple have three children, Patricia Borozo, Mary Skeens, and Bobby Baldrige II.

The elderly white lady in her nightgown chews contentedly on a piece of pie, her walker nearby. Next to her sits a not quite so old black gentleman, neatly dressed in a suit, holding the next bite of pie on the fork ready. There is the undeniable air of contentment to their silence as the lights dim. But in less than a second, that silence is broken by the thunderous applause and shouts of "Bravo" from the audience who just finished watching Jenny Wiley Theatre's production of "Driving Miss Daisy."

Driving Miss Daisy, which won both the Pulitzer Prize for Best Play and an Academy Award for Best Movie, is the story of how friendship can evolve and be sustained against all odds. Miss Daisy is a stubborn, opinionated, southern, Jewish woman who doesn't like being told what to do by anyone, least of all her son, Boolie. As the play opens, Hoke is the newly employed black chauffeur Boolie has hired against his mother's desire, after she has managed to decimate both her car and the neighbor's carport. Witnessing the early encounters between Miss Daisy and Hoke (Hoke trying to convince Miss Daisy to let him drive her to the Piggly Wiggly, Miss Daisy fiercely insisting she will take the bus), enduring friendship appears to be the least likely outcome. But despite the cultural gulf that separates them, friendship is the result. The twenty-four years covered by the play reveals how true friendship bridges differences in religion, in race, in financial status and in education and leaves us with what makes us most human — kindness.

To render such characters and such a friendship believable takes enormous talent and Paula J. Riley, Frank Bowman and Adam Baritot deliver with great style and charm. As Miss Daisy, Riley displays the perfect combination of sharp tongue and impatience as well as enormous generosity and warmth that makes Miss Daisy such a complex and challenging character. As she talks about how poor her childhood was on Forsythe Street she could be anyone's grandmother reminding us to finish everything on our plate. Riley's Daisy ages convincingly both physically and emotionally, and we are drawn to her more and more with every scene. Perhaps one of the most touching moments comes when Daisy suddenly realizes that Hoke can't read, something that's clearly never occurred to her. In the combination of stern schoolteacher instruction, an encouraging push and unflinching faith, Riley perfectly reflects the many facets of Miss Daisy.

Frank Bowman's Hoke is a perfect compliment to Riley's Daisy. Hoke is both deferential as his status demands, yet independent thinking and not afraid. Bowman lets us see a man who both knows what is expected of him yet never ceases to surprise both his employers and the audience with his intelligence, his kindness and his humanity. It is from Hoke that we get the play's most important lessons on what it is to be a good person in this world. Bowman captures the nuances of Hoke beautifully — his accent is subtle and believable and never falters, his physical presence reveals his awareness of his place as well as his strong character, and his pauses are perfectly timed. Hoke, too, is familiar — his is the story of every working man who has to abide by employers who don't always understand him or the world. Bowman gives Hoke the perfect balance of reality and acceptance and the hope that we can and do make a difference.

The third wheel in the story is, of course Boolie, the grown but not quite grown up son of Miss Daisy. Boolie, as played by Adam Baritot, represents the rest of society — people who move and live among the gems like Daisy and Hoke without ever knowing they are there or understanding what makes them so special. Boolie cannot shake off society's expectations, and he can't stand up for what he believes in lest it cost him social status. Boolie cannot comprehend the friendship that evolves between his mother and the Chauffeur — in fact, it's not even clear that he recognizes it as true friendship. Baritot provides a terrific Boolie — dapper in appearance and manners, resorting to humor as the substitute for most emotion, and impatient with his mother's particularities. Yet, as the play draws to a close, he allows us to see a more tender and knowing side of Boolie, one that reminds us that perhaps the matchmaker to this remarkable friendship is not so unaware of it after all.

The production is further enhanced by the set and costumes. David Utley's set draws us into Daisy's living room, with attention to such details as old copies of Life magazine and a period lampshade. The lighting design by returning JWT designer Yousif Mohammed gives us a sense of the heat in Boolie's office as well as the changing seasons with each scene. Corey Martin's costumes complete the characters and the visual effect perfectly, while his make-up ages all three characters with just the right amount of graying hair and added wrinkles. Director Mark Smith, a long time stage alumni of JWT can add direction to his list of accolades with JWT and will hopefully be back to share both his acting and his directing talents with JWT in future seasons.

Jenny Wiley Theatre will continue to show Driving Miss Daisy through August 13 with Dinner Theatre, Luncheon Matinees and Performance Only show options. Tickets for performance only are $13 for adults, $11 for seniors, $8 for youth and for luncheon and dinner shows are $26 for everyone.
