eBay theft suspects face more charges

by TOM DOTY
STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — Two women charged with stealing items from their neighbors and selling them at the internet auction house eBay were back in court Tuesday after being charged in a new case stemming from a Johnson County resident's complaint.

The complaint accuses both Gora Wicker, 59, of Abbott Creek Road, and Deborah Wallen, 36, who now lists her address as the Floyd County Detention Center, of receiving stolen property that disappeared from a River home on Feb. 10.

The pair were charged with receiving over $8,000 in various items which included jewelry, a power saw and various household items.

Judge James Allen arraigned the pair on Tuesday and set a preliminary hearing for the case on Friday at 10 a.m.

Assistant County Attorney Jimmy Marcum noted that the women are currently being held under high bonds that have added up with every

No arrest in fatal shooting

STOPOVER — An early morning get-together between two men led to a heated argument that ended when one shot the other in Pike County on Monday morning.

Willis Casey Jr., 37, of Majestic, allegedly showed up at the Stopover residence of Jerry Stiltner at 5 a.m. Monday and the two proceeded to argue. Casey allegedly advanced on Stiltner with a baseball bat, prompting Stiltner to shoot him with a 9 mm handgun. Casey collapsed when the shot penetrated his chest and was pronounced dead at the scene by Pike County Coroner Ernie Casebolt at approximately 6:20 a.m.

There has been no arrest in the case and Casey has been scheduled for an autopsy. The case is still under investigation by Det. Stewart Howard, who received assistance at the scene from Det. Amos Adkins, Troopers Jared Alfrey and C. Phillips, and STAT Ambulance Service.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

What appears to be the hottest race of the fall campaign is already heating up this summer ... at least in the fight for the attention of voters' eyes. Prestonsburg has quickly become engulfed in competing signs in the race between Mayor Jerry Fannin and challenger Burl Wells Spurlock, with several instances like this scene across from city hall, where both candidates have staked out territory.

Pikeville man convicted in vote-buying scheme dies

by SAMIRA JAFARI
ASSOCIATED PRESS

PIKEVILLE — Ross Harris, an Eastern Kentucky coal operator and attorney convicted in a high-profile federal vote-buying conspiracy, has died after battling cancer. He was 59.

Harris died Saturday afternoon at the MD Anderson Cancer Center in Houston, Texas, said his attorney Larry Mackey, of Indianapolis. Harris was diagnosed 2002 with bile duct cancer which ultimately spread to the rest of his body, Mackey added.

"It was my honor to represent Ross over the past 2-plus years," said Mackey, who was Harris' defense attorney during his federal trial in 2004.

Harris was accused of illegally contributing some $40,000 to former state Sen. John Doug Hays' unsuccessful judicial race in 2002. Prosecutors also claimed that Harris and his business associate, Glenn Turner of Pikeville, gave an additional $20,000 to the re-election campaign of Knott County Judge-Executive Donnie Newsome, who served 16 months in federal prison after being convicted of election fraud in 2003.

Harris was convicted of sending bogus campaign finance reports to the state and conspiring to buy votes through a scheme disguised as an effort to get out the vote.

Attendance up, enrollment down in county schools

by KATHY J. PRATER
FEATURES EDITOR

BETSY LAYNE — The Floyd County Board of Education met in regular session Monday evening at Betsy Layne High School. Board members received reports from Kristina Springer, director pupil personnel, and Bonita Compton, principal of Opportunities Unlimited.

Springer reported that attendance improved by 1.5 percent overall during the 2005-06 school year but that enrollment declined, therefore the district will not see the monetary gain it had hoped for.

Board member Mickey McGuire commented that he was not satisfied with the report and expressed concerns in regard to low attendance. In response to McGuire's query as to what the board could do to improve the situation, Springer replied that she felt that the attendance policy adopted last year had helped to create the noted gain and that she felt that continued efforts with attendance reward programs would help the district to see future gains. She also noted that if students formerly reported as dropouts during the past year decided to return this coming fall (prior to Oct. 1) that they would not be counted as dropouts and that change would be reflected in the October report. "We've sent out letters to each of these students, inviting them back," she said.

Compton appeared before the board to review a very positive Kentucky Department of Education report in which the Bill to provide tax breaks moves to Senate

by ROGER ALFORD
ASSOCIATED PRESS

FRANKFORT — A measure that would provide tax breaks to a proposed $1 billion power plant while also reducing taxes on small businesses could be sent to Gov. Ernie Fletcher to be signed into law as early as Wednesday.

The legislation, which has broad support among Democrats and Republicans, cleared the House on Monday and moved to the Senate for consideration.

Lawmakers said the special session Fletcher called to deal with the tax issues is progressing well and, barring unforeseen circumstances, should be wrapped up after two more days. They returned to Kentucky's Capitol last week to consider tax cuts, expected to total about $45 million for some of the state's smallest businesses and to offer up to $90 million in tax exemptions to the proposed FutureGen power plant.

The tax cuts are intended to provide relief to some 70,000 businesses hit by a 2005 tax code overhaul. A glitch caused some small businesses that have healthy total receipts but low profit margins to pay more in taxes. Those companies traditionally would have paid little or no state taxes.

Businesses with less than $3 million in annual gross profits or receipts, but make little or no net profit, and businesses with annual gross profits or receipts between $3 million and $6 million receipts would see relief under the plan.

State Rep. Tanya Pullin, D-South Shore, said the tax exemptions being considered could help give Kentucky an edge in an effort to get the FutureGen power plant built on a site near Henderson in western Kentucky. The measure calls for $60 million to $90 million in tax exemptions for the plant, which would convert coal into highly enriched hydrogen gas to fuel the generation of electricity.

Plans call for the 275-megawatt plant to capture most of its emissions of carbon dioxide — a "greenhouse" gas widely blamed for global warming — and inject them permanently into underground reservoirs, a process called sequestration.

Lawmakers added the measure as an amendment to the small business tax bill in an effort to compete with other states vying for the plant, which would generate more than 1,000 construction jobs and 150 permanent ones.

Illinois has up to $80 million in incentives on the table, from grants to low-interest loans. Ohio is offering twice that, while Texas has passed a law making it responsible for any legal entanglements stemming from the coal-fired plant's carbon dioxide emissions.

Kentucky's current offer provides

USED CARS TO BE SOLD FOR COST PLUS PROFIT*

The cost breakdown of every vehicle will be posted in the windshield.

Bruce Walters Ford, part of Eastern Kentucky's largest volume new and used car dealer group, has announced plans to hold a huge used car and truck sales event. For a limited time only, over 450 used vehicles will be sold AT COST PLUS! That means cars and trucks will be sold at actual dealer cost plus a nominal, fair profit.

Cost plus pricing equates to huge savings to those who buy during this sale! And furthermore, you are buying with the peace of mind you get from the Walters Way 30 Day Exchange and Warranty. If for any reason you are not satisfied with your vehicle, you can exchange it within 30 days for one of equal or greater value. We also offer a 30 day bumper to bumper and 60 day powertrain warranty. Here, every car is on sale, first come, first served, with no hassles, no haggling, and no worry about buyers remorse.

Over 450 used cars and trucks will be at Bruce Walters Ford, 302 South Mayo Trail, in Pikeville. Every vehicle will be clearly tagged with a simple, no hassle COST PLUS price! This innovative approach to selling used vehicles will make it easy for anybody in the market for a good used vehicle to get a great car or truck, at a very low price, with NO HASSLE.

*Cost plus pricing is actual cost of vehicle plus a fair profit. All vehicles subject to tax, title and tags. This is an advertisement.

"Wholesale buyers will be represented to take trade-ins during this sale." According to a family member, "there will be additional business managers who will help buyers arrange low-cost financing. We've got over 5 million dollars in inventory to choose from. Our total inventory will be close to 450 used cars and trucks. We encourage those who want the best deal to get here fast as the best will go first! When our inventory has been reduced to acceptable levels, we will remove the sale prices and return to normal operations." The whole Walters family feels that they would rather allow local people to buy these overstocked vehicles at COST PLUS PRICING rather than wholesale them to out of state dealers at auction.

The gang's still there

To take over al-Zarqawi's band of thugs, apparently, one must kill and mutilate some infidels.

Street gangs, it is said, sometimes require would-be members to commit a crime as a rite of initiation. The Islamist gangsters in Iraq seem to have adapted that practice in changing leaders.

It was only last week that al-Qaida in Iraq, deprived of the sadistic inspiration of Abu Musab al-Zarqawi by well-placed American bombs, put forward one Abu Hamza al-Muhajir (another non-Iraqi, by the way) as its new boss.

It hardly seems coincidental, then, that two American soldiers who fell into the hands of insurgents last Friday have been found dead, their bodies bearing signs that they were brutally tortured.

The U.S. military has yet to officially release the condition of the bodies of Pfc. Kristian Menchaca and Thomas L. Tucker, who were captured after their colleague, Spc. David J. Babineau, was killed.

But an anonymous military source said Wednesday that at least one of the soldiers was beheaded, reminiscent of the penchant of al-Zarqawi and his thugs for decapitating civilian captives like Nicholas Berg. A statement posted Tuesday on the Internet under the name of the Mujahideen Shura Council, an insurgent umbrella group, used the Arabic word nahr, The New York Times reported. That word can refer either to throat-cutting or killing.

If that statement is authentic — and at least one Western expert on such things doubts it is — al-Muhajir himself executed the soldiers.

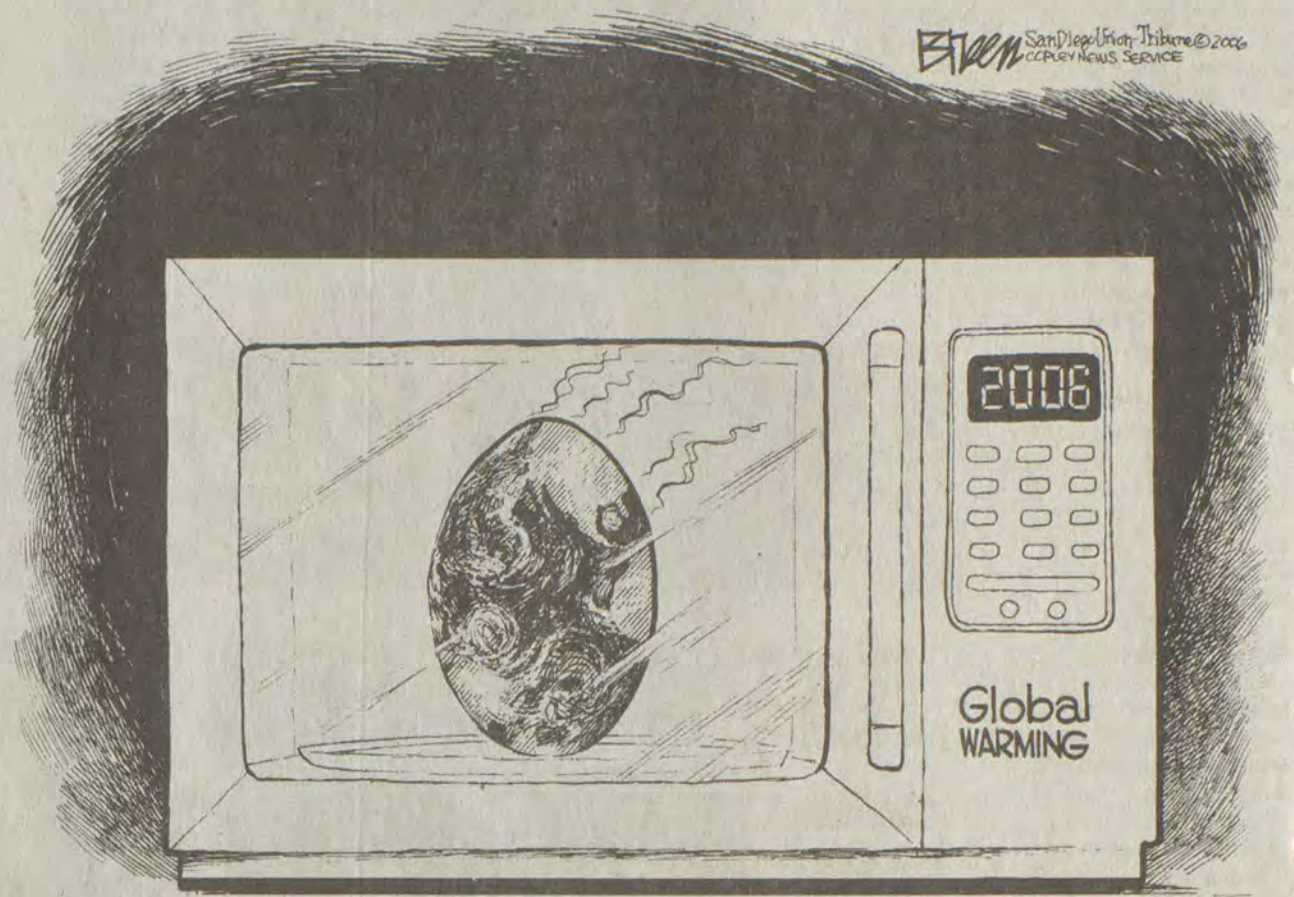

Another sign of the insurgents' state of mind can be seen in the deadly obstacle course that search teams had to navigate. One U.S. soldier was killed and 12 were wounded as patrols tried to evade snipers and bombs placed along the road and around the bodies.

The message the jihadis in Iraq want the West and the Arab world to hear is clear: We're still here, and we're not giving up. One would hardly expect anything else.

But their message also carries the subtext that too many Americans have tried to ignore: We deplore your freedom, your culture, your democracy, your refusal to embrace our radically violent view of Islam. We will do all in our power to stamp out your beliefs and impose ours. You infidels, military or civilian, deserve no quarter.

The more that jihadis behave like Crips or Bloods defending and expanding their turf, the less that freedom-loving peoples should be deluded into thinking that peace and harmony would follow a unilateral end to the terror war.

Slashing Medicaid hurts rural areas most

by THOMAS D. ROWLEY

There are two sides to every coin. Take the $338 billion one known as Medicaid.

On one side — call it "heads" — the 31-year-old federal-state program pays for health care for 55 million poor and disabled people. It serves more folks than any other single U.S. health program, more even than Medicare. Medicaid covers services from doctor's visits to hospital stays to rehabilitation and more. In fact, Medicaid pays for over one-third of all births; approximately 40 percent of U.S. long-term care; and is the primary payer for publicly provided mental health services. It covers people who otherwise would likely go without — low-income working parents, low-income elderly, poor pregnant women, the disabled, and poor children. Nearly half of Medicaid beneficiaries are children.

Because the rural population is disproportionately older, sicker and poorer, and has less employer-provided health insurance, the importance of Medicaid in rural America is even more pronounced. According to a Rural Policy Research Institute report, in 2002 nearly 15 percent of rural residents were enrolled in Medicaid versus 11 percent of urban residents. Likewise, 10 percent of rural elderly versus 8 percent of urban elderly got benefits.

In addition to serving rural patients, Medicaid is also critical to maintaining our nation's rural health care system ... and rural communities. According to the report, as the source of health insurance coverage for so many rural residents, Medicaid is an all-important source of revenue for rural providers. Those dollars help keep open rural doctor's offices, hospitals and nursing homes that would otherwise be hard-pressed to stay in business. That, in turn, helps rural communities survive by providing residents, workers and employers with must-have health care and by having those dollars turn over and multiply within the local economy.

On the tails side, $338 billion is a mighty tempting target for budget cutters, especially in the program-slashing frenzy of Washington these days. Also in state capitals where Medicaid takes up an average of 22 percent of budgets, more than any other single budget item, save for public education. What's more, the cost of Medicaid has been increasing rapidly — more rapidly than state revenues.

Not surprisingly given its name, the Deficit Reduction Act (DRA) passed and signed into law last December landed on tails. The act cuts federal Medicaid expenses by $43 billion in the next decade. It also allows states to cut their Medicaid expenses by restricting benefits and forcing Medicaid beneficiaries to pay premiums and/or co-payments for services.

Now, I admit there's something to be said for the rationale behind DRA. States should be given latitude to better fit programs to the local context. And people ought to bear more responsibility, financial and otherwise, for their own health-if they are able.

But when it comes to Medicaid beneficiaries, that's an enormous "if." That's why we have Medicaid: to take care of those who aren't able to take care of themselves. Do we really want to unravel further the safety net that helps those in need? Do we really want to add to the 48 million uninsured in this country? Should rural Americans, who already bear the brunt of so many budgetary cuts and misguided policies, be further penalized?

Compassion aside (which is where it seems usually to be), what of the true costs of the changes? A report by the non-profit Families USA rightly calls the approach "penny-wise and pound-foolish" and cites research showing that "even moderate levels of cost-sharing cause low-income people to delay or forgo needed care, even if seeking care early on could prevent serious and costly complications." The report cites Congressional Budget Office findings that most of the savings of cost sharing will come not from collecting revenue, but from decreasing use of services.

Finally, the cuts seemingly ignore the economic benefits generated by Medicaid. According to Families USA, $98 billion in Medicaid expenditures by the states in 2001 returned nearly three times that, $279 billion, in increased goods and services. Based on such numbers, one might well call Medicaid an investment rather than an expense.

Did the authors of the Deficit reduction Act consider this morbid fallout? Don't bet on it.

Book to be published

Sometime soon this summer I will be having my collection of poems, titled SALUTE, printed myself and available for sale, of which free copies will be sent to certain talk shows in hopes of appearing on them to promote this work as well as a free copy to each the Pentagon, the Department of Veterans Affairs, and to the Stars and Stripes Newspaper's central office. At each governmental facility whomever first ends up with such a copy can pass it around and any potential customers interested in purchasing a copy of their own can contact me. It will also be available to the general public as well.

Below is the main blurb that will appear on the back cover, reading as such:

This collection of poetry is about and dedicated to all of our men and women who have been, air, and will be serving in out United States of America armed forces. It is the author's intent that this work will inspire those men and women in uniform to the fact that there are a great many who appreciate and respect their services and sacrifices for our great nation. He hopes that in times of depleted spirit during periods of stress and danger each soldier can read from these pages and replenish their inner peace and belief in themselves and the ideals of each their own stints and tours of duty.

I want this book of poems to be my ultimate "thank you for serving our country" to each and every person in uniform, past, present, and future, dead or alive, and the disabled among the living as well.

Opportunities Unlimited School was deemed fully functioning and considered as a role model for Kentucky alternative schools.

"I'm very proud of this report, very proud," Compton said.

Compton said that she and her staff plan to continue with current programs and procedures that have resulted in a positive impact at the school, among them daily morning talk sessions that Compton says the students react positively, as well as implementing "a few gender separation classes."

McGuire expressed concerns in regard to this plan, saying that oftentimes females do better in such a setting but males do not. "We'll see,"

Compton said, "and we'll give that report to you next year." Compton said that she had hopes to see some positive improvements through the gender separation classes.

In other business, board members voted to approve requesting assistance from the Kentucky School Boards Association in regard to the upcoming task of evaluating the performance of the district's current superintendent, Dr. Paul Fanning.

"This is one of the most important duties we have," said board chair Jeff Stumbo, as he encouraged the enlistment of KSBA services. Vice chair Carol Stumbo was initially resistant to having KSBA included in the process but decided to go with the chair's suggestion that they invite an independent facilitator into the process.

"I think having KSBA involved will also help us with our goal setting," he said.

Community member Jean Rosenberg appeared briefly before the board to present them with further information in regard to secondhand smoke and encouraged them to review the findings of a recently released secondhand smoke and smoke-free state policy.

fined Harris $100,000 and sentenced him to 18 months of home confinement and three years of probation after doctors said his cancer left him only months to live. He was also suspended from practicing law.

Hays and his wife, Brenda Hays, were convicted of mail fraud charges for submitting false campaign reports in the same case.

Mackey said that during the trial, Harris' true character was lost in the public eye. He noted that Harris grew up as a coal miner's son, worked in Detroit's auto factories to raise money for college and fought in the Vietnam War, "all to make himself a better man."

Harris is survived by his father Austin Harris, one sister and three brothers, and one son and three daughters.

Wicker was last in court on Thursday, June 8, for a preliminary hearing involving eight other cases accusing her of burglary and theft. Before the proceedings could begin, she

Marlboro Man' soldier files for divorce

by SAMIRA JAFARI
ASSOCIATED PRESS

PIKEVILLE — A Pike County Marine, famous for his portrayal in an iconic photograph from the Iraq War, has filed for divorce less than a month after an dozens of Americans contributed to a dream wedding for him and his bride.

Millions became intrigued with James Blake Miller, 21, after first seeing the down-home soldier in a 2004 Los Angeles Times photo, in which the grubby, exhausted Marine lance corporal takes a break from combat in Fallujah with a cigarette dangling from lips. The picture earned Miller the nickname "Marlboro Man."

His story as a young Appalachian husband who couldn't afford a proper wedding for his wife caught the attention of a California couple, who helped foot the bill and drew more contributions to a $15,000 wedding June 3 at Stonecrest Golf Course.

But by June 12, Miller and his bride, Jessica Holbrook, were living apart, according to court papers. Miller filed for divorce on June 20, saying the marriage was "irretrievably broken with no prospect of reconciliation."

"I'm just sad for them," said Eunice Davis, of Pleasanton, Calif., who spearheaded the contributions for the couple's wedding. "It must be a very difficult time and a very difficult decision."

The couple was initially married at a county building in June 2005, but Miller had expressed in a Jan. 29 story by the San Francisco Chronicle that he wished he could give his wife the wedding she had always wanted.

"My heart went out to that wish," said Davis, who was moved by the article. "I thought I'd like to make that dream come true."

Davis contacted Pikeville wedding planner Missy McCoy, of Signature Events, to help with the arrangements. McCoy said contributions were made coast to coast, and included a pair of wedding rings from a jeweler in Maryland.

McCoy said she was also saddened by the news of the divorce filing, but added that she had no ill feelings toward the couple.

"They've been through a lot," McCoy said. "They're a sweet couple I hope they can work it out. I don't believe for a minute that this couple had any plans to do anything underhanded. None of the money went to them, it all went into the wedding."

Added Davis: "I have nothing negative to say. I'd like to give them a hug."

Miller was discharged from the Marines in 2005 and has spoken in newspaper interviews about suffering from post-traumatic stress disorder, which is often characterized by symptoms like flashbacks and nightmares.

Miller and his wife have unlisted telephone numbers and couldn't be reached for comment by The Associated Press on Monday. Miller's attorney, Michael de Bourbon, declined to comment on behalf of his client.

However, for a story published Sunday in the Appalachian News-Express of Pikeville, Miller said he "would like to inform everyone that I have filed for divorce but I'm still trying to resolve my problems with my wife."

"I would like to start saying I'm trying to talk things one day at a time," I continued. "I can't stress enough what it's like to deal with PTSD and every other day problems."

Brent Graden, Director of Economic Development for the City of Prestonsburg, recently attended an economic workshop in Campton geared towards communication between state and local governments. "Brent has shown an innate ability to light a fire under people and get communities involved" says Lonnie Lawson, President and CEO of the Center for Rural Development. "In fact, we have asked Brent to serve on our council in an advisory position to help us with economic development here. I know Brent will represent Prestonsburg well and help Eastern Kentucky as a whole."

Last of 3 E. Ky. mines allowed to reopen after methane concerns

HINDMAN — State mine safety officials on Monday lifted a closure order over the last two of three eastern Kentucky coal mines shut down after extremely high levels of methane and oxygen were detected underground.

The Mine Safety and Health Administration and the state on June 1 ordered the Ember Contracting's No. 10 mine and Abundance Coal Inc.'s No. 1 Mine after a seal breach was discovered at a third operation, Consol of Kentucky Inc.'s Jones Fork E-3 mine.

The seals are designed to act as barriers containing flammable gases from active parts of underground mines. Their effectiveness has come under scrutiny after explosions at two mines that used them — Sago in West Virginia and Darby in Eastern Kentucky — left 17 miners dead.

Consol was allowed to reopen June 16 after repairing it seals and getting its methane and oxygen levels under control. Similarly, the Ember and Abundance mines repaired their seals and passed inspections by the state Office of Mine Safety and Licensing, said department spokesman Chuck Wolfe.

The two mines on Monday were still awaiting a decision from MSHA on whether their federal closure order would be lifted.

Hall attends drug court conference

by TOM DOTY
STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — District Judge Eric Hall suspended court for three days last week when he received an invitation to attend the National Association of Drug Courts.

Despite spending four days in Seattle, Wash., Hall didn't have time for much sight-seeing, as the convention provided nine hours of training a day and Hall attended all of it.

"My only complaint was that it was sometimes hard to choose between lectures, with three often going on at the same time," Hall said.

On May 1, Hall presided over the first Floyd County Drug Court graduation, at which five young men and women reported that the program worked for them and said it was hard to accomplish but worth the effort. The most common feedback was that the program helped them follow through on tough choices, such as breaking their association with friends who they abused drugs with in order to remove those outlets from their lives. Hall praised them for their commitment to the goal of living a drug free life and stated there was plenty of room for growth in the program which currently serves its maximum population at 30 participants.

Hall attended training sessions on various topics at the convention, which included running a drug court in a rural area and supervising younger addicts between 18 and 26 years of age.

Hall reported that some grave news marked the proceedings when it was announced that Congress was slashing the federal budget of drug court by over 80 percent.

"It's unimaginable," the judge said. "We are finding that drug court works. It gives a life back to folks who thought the drugs had won. It offers an alternative that saves the taxpayer money and, most importantly, it works."

Hall noted that through the support of contributors like U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers with Operation UNITE, the local drug court is safe, but he lamented that many such courts across the country will now be forced to close.

"It makes no sense to me. There are 1,800 drug courts operating across the country with ample waiting lists and many will be closed down if this budget cut passes the House," Hall said.

Hall doesn't like the alternatives, noting, "A lot of these people will wind up in jail when they could be in a program like drug court."

Fire marshal issues fireworks reminder

by TOM DOTY
STAFF WRITER

The state fire marshal issued his annual statement about observing safety guidelines when using fireworks but stressed that the best way to avoid potential injuries is to attend a fireworks show rather than have one in your backyard.

Marshall Rodney Raby began his comments by getting to the heart of the matter, saying, "Leave fireworks displays to the professionals." He went on to note that fireworks-related injuries are as much a part of the holiday as the displays and would like to see the trend reversed.

Raby pulled no punches, saying, "The most at risk for fireworks-related injuries are our children." He noted that there were 38 injuries reported on the Fourth last year with 63 percent of those incidents involving children.

Raby's statement reiterated that many fireworks are illegal and that it is a crime for merchants to sell certain fireworks that violate state guidelines such as those that fly, emit flaming pellets or are labeled "explosive." Raby noted that the vast majority of injuries occur from "skyrockets," "firecrackers" and "sparklers." Raby elaborated on the seemingly harmless sparklers by noting they burn at high temperatures which can exceed 1,800 degrees.

Realizing that many families will persist in performing their own displays prompted Raby to include safety tips in his message for those who can't resist the allure of setting off displays.

They include:

- Choose an outside area away from buildings and clear of flammables such as dry weeds, grass and other vegetation.

- Never allow youngsters to participate unless they are strictly supervised by adults.

- Never light them from a doorway or through an open window.

- Do not try to re-light fireworks that appear to have gone out. Instead douse them with water and throw them away.

- Place all fireworks on the ground before ignition and never light them in a container, especially a glass or metal one.

- Never let fireworks come in contact with clothing.

- Never supervise the use of fireworks while under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

- Never point fireworks at another person.

KIM'S KORNER

Is Reality TV destroying our Morals?

It never ceases to amaze me, the shock factor that is, that comes along just when you think nothing more could be surprising.

There is so much wrong in this world of ours that sometimes it becomes overwhelming trying to find the good, or see the good in others or in a given situation.

Kim Little Frasure

Morals seem to be gaining more and more something of the past than being present. In today's society, it seems to be more accepted to lie, cheat, and sleep your way to the top than getting there the "old fashion way" by working to get there.

Take the Big Brother show for instance. In order to win a ridiculously large sum of cash, men and women are placed in a house where they are put to the test to see just how dirty they can play the game to win the loot. They lie, they cheat, they "sleep," whatever they think it takes to get the prize.

Whether Reality TV's to blame for the way of getting what you want and caring less about how to get it, one thing is for sure and that is that it's becoming more fact than fiction off screen as it is on.

The days of backstabbing with regular

POISON OAK

Little Rock, Sputnik and the Inez Indians

I couldn't keep from smiling the other day when a co-worker was telling how upset she'd been when she turned 35.

I guess the reason it struck me funny was that Wilma Jean and I - along with some close friends our age - had just recently been talking about how we were going to celebrate our 50th, which is coming up next spring.

But the half century we had in mind did not relate to birthdays; next May will be 50 years since we graduated from high school.

As the Statler Brothers once sang, "The class of '57 had its dream."

Yep! We're genuine, bonified senior citizens now. We're that older generation of Medicare recipients they're always talking about on the news. But, as I've written before, in many ways it doesn't seem all that long ago that we were walking the hallowed halls of Meade Memorial High School, completely oblivious to what was going on in the rest of the world.

Oh, we'd get bits and pieces of world events from the 6:30 newscast on TV, but in those days before CNN and news-by-the-minute cable channels, the only thing really important to us was what we could see and touch. Nevertheless, although we had no earthly clue of world events, in 1957 we were indeed living in truly historic times.

For example, that was the year that Martin Luther King Jr. helped organize the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. We little noticed nor long remembered that Congress passed the first civil rights

Floyd Chamber welcomes new member

The Floyd County Chamber Of Commerce is pleased to welcome new chamber member, SHRED-ALL Documents, a confidential information destruction company.

Locally owned and operated by Mike and Tracy Syck, SHRED-ALL Documents offers secure mobile document destruction on-site or document containment and removal to the company's new processing plant for same day destruction. All shredded paper is recycled. "We saw a tremendous need to remove the amount of paper going into the landfills about 11 years ago and began the business simply as an effort to aid our business customers with disposing of those materials," said Mike Syck, President of Operations. "Then with the terrible rise in identity theft through 'dumpster diving' we began the ultimate in secure removal by investing in the first mobile destruction unit in eastern Kentucky.

"Now our customers can save money, time and stress by allowing us to come to their locations or storage units and watch while we weigh and destroy their confidential records, plastic id tags and much more," Syck continued.

All SHRED-ALL employees are background checked, drug tested, and insured. They have an extensive list of clients whose identities, though kept confidential, are some of the largest corporations, banks and utility companies in the state. Local and state governments also use SHRED-ALL to secure customer private information.

SHRED-ALL Documents can now service the entire nation but will always remain a local business here in the mountains. They are a member in good standing of NAID, an association dedicated to the advancement of the information destruction industry by promoting education and the highest ethical standards. For more information, or free help with implementing your HIPPA or FACTA requirements by a Shred-ALL technician, call (606) 432-1166 or visit www.shredalldocuments.com.

"Floyd County has been a tremendous asset in helping us grow our small business and we are thrilled to be able to be a part of such a great community," Mike Syck said.

WCS students take part in solemn ceremony
Trip to nation's capitol part of eighth-grade send-off

There are many milestones to mark on this journey through life and one of those is leaving behind elementary and middle school days to embark upon a new level of learning - high school, that is.

Celebrating this new transition with all the respect it deserves, the eighth grade class of Wesley Christian School traveled with their school principal, Mrs. Janie Tincher, family members and friends, to the nation's capitol where they were honored to be selected to participate in the Wreath Ceremony, at Arlington National Cemetery.

"It's really a great honor to be chosen," Tincher said. "The kids were all really excited and so were we."

Upon arrival at the national historical site, the students were turned over to the Relief Commander at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, with whom they traversed to the top of a tall staircase where they awaited the signal to begin the wreath laying ceremony. "It was all very proper, official, and very reverent," Tincher shared. "Everything was extremely important - the way the kid's were dressed, even down to their shoes, and of course, their behavior. Our kids were great. They just did a great job and I was so proud of them."

During the solemn ceremony, the students were granted the honor of placing a wreath of fresh flowers, bearing a banner with their school's name, on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. "I don't think there was a single one of us that didn't have a tear in our eye," Principal Tincher said.

In addition to their participation in the wreath laying ceremony, the students were also granted the opportunity to tour Colonial Williamsburg, visit the White House and other national monuments, and even spend some time at Virginia Beach.

"It was a great trip. We all had a wonderful time and it was something these kids will never forget," Tincher said. "But most of all, it was a trip that they all worked hard to earn...they deserved it."

Members of the Wesley Christian School 2006 eighth grade graduating class are: Cameron Tincher, the son of Randy and Janie Tincher; Zak Key, the son of Jimmy Key; Whitney May, the daughter of David and Ocie May; and, Bryan Stratton, the son of Gary and Jerry Stratton.

To learn more about Wesley Christian School, located at Allen, or to find out how to enroll your child, call the school office at 874-8328. Registration for the upcoming fall semester is currently going on.

CRITTER CORNER

Frogs are critters, too

By Dr. Carol Combs-Morris, DVM

Sakes alive! Lots of rain of late. Frogs around town don't seem to mind. Dr. Carol has been too busy to send any critter tales along, so we'll try to entertain in her absence. The good doctor promises to be back with us soon!

FROGTASTIC FACTS:

- Frogs lay up to 4,000 eggs at one time. The jelly around the eggs helps to keep them warm. The temperature inside a clump of eggs is often much higher than the temperature of the pond water around them.
- Frogs absorb water through their skin so they don't need to drink.

- Tree frogs have developed disks, or adhesive pads, on the toes of their feet to help them climb into the tree canopy.

- Frog bones form a growth ring every year when the frog is hibernating. Scientists can count these rings to discover the age of the frog.

- Frogs must shed their skin as they enlarge in size. The old skin is discarded like a piece of clothing that has become too tight. Usually the shed skin is eaten.

- Under the water, a frog's eyes are protected by an extra transparent eyelid called a nictitating membrane.
- Frogs can live equally well in water

(See CRITTER, page eleven)

If this ain't a "critter," then we surely don't know what one is. Hmm, maybe this little guy was really trying for a spot in Tom's Black Lagoon? Well, we saw him first. The little guy lives in Justin E. Moore's swimming pool, at Martin, and it was Justin who coaxed him up on his thumb and managed to take this great shot. Thanks, Justin, for sharing with us!

legislation since Reconstruction, and established a Civil Rights Commission in the attorney general's office.

It probably speaks more of our innocence than of anything else that we were far more interested in defeating the Inez Indians in basketball than we were in the fact that President Eisenhower sent federal troops to Little Rock, Arkansas to protect nine black students seeking to attend all-white Central High School.

The year we graduated from high school, the Soviets launched the first man-made satellite, Sputnik I, in orbit around the earth, and later that year, sent the first living creature into space: a dog named Laika.

The most-watched TV show when we were seniors - although it came on CBS and the only station we could pick up was WSAZ in Huntington, which was an NBC affiliate - was "Gunsmoke." The most popular song that year was "Tammy" by Debbie Reynolds. Of course, Pat Boone and Elvis were also listed in the Top 10.

But to be perfectly honest, about the only thing that really interested us at the time was passing all our subjects so we could graduate. The most important thing in the world to us was becoming members of the class of 1957 so that 50 years later we could get together with a few friends and wonder how to best celebrate such a momentous occasion.

The class of 1957 joins other Meade Memorial graduates in mourning the passing of Helen Elam, one of our beloved teachers.

A frog can change the color of its skin depending on its surroundings.

Frogs use a variety of ways to attract a mate such as courtship calls, body color and limb movements.

Some frogs can survive in conditions well below freezing. The Grey tree frog, for example, can survive even though its heart stops. It does this by making its own antifreeze which stops its body from freezing completely.

FROG JOKES:

What happens if a frog parks on double yellow lines? A: He gets toad away.

What's a frog's favorite game? A: Hopscotch!

Which frogs can jump higher than a house? A: All of them - a house can't jump!

Why are frogs normally so happy? A: Because they eat whatever bugs them.

Why do frogs love reading Sherlock Holmes novels? A: They really enjoy a good croak and dagger.

What is the game preferred by big frogs round the world? A: Croak!

What does a stylish young tadpole wear once it metamorphoses? A: A jumpsuit!

What do frogs like to order at their favorite fast-food restaurant? A: French fries and a diet croak!

Water sports and alcohol deadly combination

The captain of the ship isn't the only one who should abstain from alcohol during a boating trip.

Studies have proven that passengers who drink are killed just as frequently as the operator of the boat. According to David Jackson, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Park Ranger at Paintsville Lake, U.S. Coast Guard statistics showed that 43% of the 676 boating fatalities that occurred in the United States in 2004 involved alcohol.

When passengers are "tipsy" from alcohol, the unstable, moving platform of a boat can easily cause them to fall overboard—even when the boat is at dock.

Even worse, this could cause the boat to capsize and make a bad situation even deadlier.

Another important factor relating to drowning is the fact that most of these deaths could have been prevented if a life jacket (or personal flotation device) had been used. The alcohol that makes passengers lose their balance also reduces their body's ability to protect them against the cold water, which increases the risk of hypothermia.

Alcohol also intensifies disorientation caused by water in the ear. Intoxicated people whose heads are immersed become so confused that they literally swim down to their own deaths instead of up to the surface. This explains why some "good swimmers" drown while intoxicated.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers encourages all boating enthusiasts to always "buckle up" and stay away from alcoholic beverages when on or near the water this summer.

Billie Jean Osborne, founder, Ky Opry and Mountain Arts Center, takes to the stage to perform "Heartaches by the Number" during this season's Opry summer show.

Ms Billie Jean Osborn, Founder of the Kentucky Opry & the Mountain Arts Center, entertains this year on stage at the Kentucky Opry Summer Show

Kentucky Opry usually has an entertaining summer show. When you consider all the members of the troupe and all their many styles of performing, everyone usually leaves with a satisfied feeling of having been well-entertained. This year, however, Keith Caudill, director of Kentucky Opry and the Mountain Arts Center, and some of his creative geniuses, have added a "wonderful" surprise for every member of the audience - Ms. Billie Jean Osborne, Founder of the Kentucky Opry and the Mountain Arts Center, is introduced as a performer. She sings while accompanying herself on the piano - "I've Got Heartaches by the Number," a honky-tonk classic written by Harlan Howard and recorded by Dwight Yoakam. All we could say was "wow!" There was a standing ovation! Don't miss it!

An Ancient Egyptian Legend

CATS Save The World From Darkness

Read each panel. Then number them in the correct order to tell the story.

Panel 1: But each night, the great sun god, Ra, would turn himself into a cat and use his sword to chop Apep into pieces.

Panel 2: The great serpent of darkness, Apep, would try to eat the sun and make the world dark forever.

Panel 3: Apep, however, was so powerful that he came back every night to try and defeat Ra as he traveled through the underworld.

Panel 4: When the sun rose each morning, the people knew that once again Ra had won the battle.

Panel 5: Every night the sun traveled through the underworld.

Animal Hieroglyphics

Ancient Egyptians told stories using pictures called hieroglyphics. To practice your drawing skills, start by finding a picture of a pet or other animal in the newspaper. Cut the picture in half from top to bottom and glue one half on a piece of drawing paper. Now draw and color the other half of the picture.

Weekly Writing Corner

The Cat's Meow

Long ago, people used to say something was "the cat's meow" when they wanted to say something was cool. How do you think that saying got started?

When a cat says meow, it really gets your attention. I think this saying began when someone saw how the sound made you notice stuff. Then somehow it was associated with things that were cool. Then they put the two things together for the saying.

Jocelyn, 5th grade

I think the saying was started when a kid found something that made a cool new toy. By chance there was a cat sitting near the new toy and when the kid jumped up and down with excitement, the cat made a loud meow. That's how I think the phrase came about.

Ben, 4th grade

Cleopatra was the Queen of the Nile and cats were very important in Egypt. One day, Cleopatra found a kitten meowing in a window in her palace. She looked out of her window to see a beautiful view of the Nile and from that day on, she called beautiful things "the cat's meow."

Lauren, 6th grade

People say something is "the cat's meow" when they like something. I think the saying began when a kid saw something she liked and started to meow like a cat and from that day on the saying stuck.

Stacy, 3rd grade

I don't think there is a saying like this. Least, I've never heard it.

Jordan, 5th grade

There's lots of sayings that started with cats like, cool cat, cat's pajamas, cat's cradle. I think there was someone back in history who liked cats a lot and he thought up all these sayings. He probably had ten cats in his house.

Erin, 5th grade

Cats are supposed to have nine lives. I think that the phrase, "the cat's meow" came about because every time a cat came back to life it would make a meow.

Riley, 5th grade

I think Dr. Doolittle came up with this saying. He could talk to all the animals and he understood what they were saying. I expect he was having a long conversation with a cat and the cat's meow meant that something was really excellent. Dr. Doolittle was the greatest and the only person in the whole world that could communicate with animals.

Luke, 6th grade

This is the story of a happy cat that lives with a nice young couple called the Brickers. Then a new baby joins the family. Suddenly, the Brickers are sharing their laps and love with Charles William, and the cat is getting into trouble. But as Charles William grows, the cat discovers that his life has changed in other ways as well.

Notice of Availability of Draft Environmental Impact Statement for the Floyd County, Kentucky (Levisa Fork Basin), Section 202 Flood Damage Reduction Project

Pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA), the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, DoD, Huntington District has prepared a draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS) which documents planning analyses undertaken for a proposed flood damage reduction project in the Levisa Fork basin in Floyd County, Kentucky. The study area includes the incorporated areas of Prestonsburg and unincorporated areas in Floyd County which are subject to flood damage from the potential of a reoccurrence of the April 1977 flood. The study area does not include the City of Martin, Kentucky, where a separate flood damage reduction project is underway. The DEIS documents agency evaluation of four alternatives, two of which include floodwall/levee alignments intended to protect Prestonsburg and non-structural flood-proofing measures, a total non-structural alternative, and the No Federal Action alternative.

A public hearing on the content of the DEIS will be held at Prestonsburg High School, 825 Blackcat Boulevard, Prestonsburg, KY 41653, date and time to be announced. Copies of the DEIS may be reviewed at

Boys' All-Stars

INDIANAPOLIS — Mike Conley made all his teammates look good, even without Mr. Basketball Greg Oden in the lineup.

With the 7-foot Oden watching from the bench, his right wrist in a cast from recent surgery, DeJovaun Sawyer-Davis scored 14 points and Conley had 14 assists to lead Indiana to a 94-66 victory over Kentucky on Saturday night. The win gave Indiana a sweep of this year's boys All-Star series.

Overshadowed by Oden on Lawrence North's three straight Indiana Class 4A championship teams, Conley reinforced his All-Star credentials with 11 points, six rebounds and two steals, controlling the tempo of the game whenever he was on the court. He also was named the game's MVP.

The 6-1 guard, who will remain Oden's teammate next season at Ohio State, had assists on six of Indiana's first 10 baskets, including back-to-back 3-pointers by Cole Holmstrom and Vaughn Duggins for a 22-11 lead. Kentucky, which never led, came close after Conley took his first break, pulling within 28-27 on a 3-pointer by Joshua Mack, but Conley returned and led a 22-4 run that put the game out of reach.

Conley hit a 3-pointer and a reverse layup and assisted on two other baskets by Sawyer-Davis during that run. Two free throws by Sawyer-Davis with 10 seconds left in the first half gave Indiana a 43-31 lead at the break.

The Hoosiers completed their streak by scoring the first seven of the second half, including a fast-break layup by Conley and a 3-pointer by Andrew Warren off another assist by Conley. Kentucky pulled within 16 points but couldn't come any closer as Conley had assists on each of Indiana's next three baskets, including two in a row by Duggins.

Indiana built the lead to 26 points midway through the period and 28 in the final seconds.

Harangody, Duggins and Holmstrom added 12 points each and Warren finished with 11 for Indiana. Kentucky was led by Tyler Wilkerson with 16 points and Robert Buckner with 11.

The victory was Indiana's 15th in the last 17 games and gave the Hoosiers a 77-41 overall lead in the series that began in 1940.

Girls' All-Stars

INDIANAPOLIS — Indiana made Kentucky's All-Stars pay dearly for their mistakes.

Ashley Barlow had 17 points and 11 rebounds and Indiana forced 34 turnovers in a 75-63 victory over Kentucky on Saturday night, completing a two-game sweep of their annual girls All-Star series.

Amber Harris added 15 points and six blocked shots and Dee Dee Jernigan had 10 points for Indiana.

Kentucky was led by Miss Basketball Arnika Brown with 13 points and 17 rebounds.

Both teams shot poorly most of the game and Kentucky dominated the boards, but the turnovers were the difference, leading to 27 points for Indiana.

Barlow, who played at Indianapolis Pike and is headed for Notre Dame in the fall, had 13 points in the first half, but Indiana blew a 12-point lead and led by only five points at the break. Kentucky hit its first two baskets of the second half and twice pulled within one point before a 10-point run put Indiana in control.

Harris, Indiana's 6-foot-5 Miss Basketball from Indianapolis North Central, had five points during that streak, and Kentucky came no closer than eight points the rest of the game.

A free throw and basket by Melanie Thornton, two free throws by Barlow and two straight baskets by Amanda Stull pushed the lead to 61-46, and Indiana took its biggest lead minutes later at 67-50 on free throw by FahKara Malone.

Kentucky outrebounded Indiana 48-35, but its big advantage was offset by its repeated turnovers, especially in the first half.

Brown had 13 rebounds in the opening period, but she had four of Kentucky's 15 errors that led to 12 early points by Indiana.

A 3-point basket by Audrey McDonald broke a 6-6 tie, then Barlow had Indiana's next seven points as the Hoosier team began pulling away. Another basket by Barlow and one by Melissa Lechlitner gave Indiana its biggest lead of the first half at 28-16 before Kentucky came back in the closing minutes.

Two free throws by Amber Norton and one by Meredith Marsh pulled Kentucky within six, and after Malone hit one of two free throws for Indiana, a basket by Kentucky's Laquisha Wharton made it 31-26 at the half.

Indiana's victory was its sixth in the past seven games and gave it an overall 34-28 lead in the annual series. In the two games this year, including last week's 71-64 Indiana win at Bowling Green, Kentucky had 59 turnovers.

NCAA tourney may expand

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

INDIANAPOLIS — In a perfect world, college basketball coaches would nearly double the size of the 65-team NCAA men's tournament field. Realistically, they'd accept a smaller victory.

Motivated in part by George Mason's remarkable Final Four run last season, coaches will urge the NCAA to expand its most lucrative championship event during the men's and women's basketball committee meetings in Orlando, Fla., this week.

Jim Haney, executive director of the National Association of Basketball Coaches, proposed the 128-team field in part because postseason bids may help coaches keep their jobs.

Gordon earns road racing victory

by MIKE HARRIS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

SONOMA, Calif. — Jeff Gordon called crew chief Steve Letarte with two pieces of important news Sunday morning.

"I told him, 'Steve, I'm engaged and we're going to win today.'"

Gordon, who let the world know Sunday that he and long-time girlfriend Ingrid VandeBosch are planning to marry at some as yet unspecified date, also made good on his promise to Letarte, leading a race-high 44 of 110 laps at Infineon Raceway on the way to a record ninth road racing win.

"I can't even describe the emotions of winning today because it's been a while," Gordon said after parlaying patience and a fast car into his 74th NASCAR victory, but his first since last October at Martinsville. "It's a relief."

"It's so important to get that first win because, as the season goes on, you just feel more and more pressure," added the four-time NASCAR champion.

NASCAR's top "Road

Warrior" started 11th in the 43-car field and took the lead for the first time on lap 49. He went on to earn his fifth victory on the picturesque wine country circuit.

Gordon said he choked up in the car after taking the checkered flag.

"You know, I guess it suddenly hit me everything that was going on," Gordon said. "I had gone 30 days without telling anybody about the engagement, so I had been holding that in, and it's been a long time since we got that last win. Everything all just came together this weekend."

Perhaps most important, the victory also vaulted Gordon back into the top 10 in points with just 10 races until the Chase for the Nextel Cup championship begins. The top 10 drivers in the points after the 26th race of the season are eligible for the 10-race playoff.

Last year, Gordon struggled, failing to qualify for the Chase, and switched crew chiefs, with Letarte replacing Robbie Loomis for the last 10 races. Gordon promised his fans and the team he was going to bounce back, but they went 16 races into the 2006 season before getting that first victory, only the third time since he came into NASCAR's top series full-time in 1993 that Gordon has gone that long without a win.

This latest one didn't come easy, either.

Two-time series champion Terry Labonte grabbed the lead for a while with a slick fuel strategy, but Gordon was able to hunt NASCAR's "Iceman" down, regain the lead on lap 88 and eventually pull away for his first Sonoma win since June 2004.

"Man, I didn't know if we were ever going to win another one of these races. I knew this team was something special, we just haven't had a chance to really show it," he added. "They gave me such an awesome race car this weekend that I had to get them this win. If we didn't win with this car, we can't ever win."

Labonte, driving this week for the first-year Hall of Fame Racing team co-owned by former Dallas Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach and Troy Aikman, pitted for the final time on lap 60 and found himself in the lead on lap 71 after all the other leaders made their final stops.

Gordon was about 12 seconds behind Labonte after his pit stop on lap 70. With Labonte conserving fuel in an effort to make it to the end, Gordon steadily cut into the margin, finally passing Labonte with a strong inside move on the hairpin 11th-turn.

Three late caution flags helped Labonte save fuel and kept the field bunched up. After a six-car crash on lap 105 brought out the second red flag of the race to allow for a cleanup — this one for 13 minutes — Labonte and the rest of the contenders got one last shot at Gordon.

But the No. 24 Hendrick Motorsports Chevrolet was just too strong. Gordon took the green flag for the start of lap 108 and pulled away. Ryan Newman finally got past Labonte for second place on lap 109, finishing 1.25 seconds — about eight car-lengths — behind the winner.

Greg Biffle finished fourth, followed by pole-winner Kurt Busch, Carl Edwards and Jeff Burton.

"We should have been second but I didn't get my tires good and clean after that last red flag," said Labonte, who earned his nickname with a cool, quiet demeanor that paid off again on Sunday. "I didn't want to use too much gas. It took me a couple of laps to get going and the 12 car (Newman) got me."

Labonte, who plans to retire from the cockpit at the end of this season, ran only nine races last year and has run 10 of 16 this year, splitting time between Hall of Fame Racing and the Hendrick team. This was the first top five finish for the 49-year-old Labonte since winning the second race at Darlington in 2003.

The victory by Gordon broke a string of three straight road race victories for Tony Stewart, who had another unlucky day. The defending race champion and reigning Nextel Cup champion, who was knocked out of last week's race at Michigan, overcame a drive-through penalty for speeding on pit road Sunday and appeared strong enough to contend for another win until he lost a cylinder late in the race. He wound up 28th.

Series leader Jimmie Johnson, Gordon's teammate, survived a spin to finish 10th and increased his lead over Matt Kenseth — 17th on Sunday — from 74 to 101 points. Gordon jumped from 11th to eighth in the standings, while Stewart fell from sixth to seventh, 26 points ahead of Gordon heading into next Saturday's race at Daytona.

Tabron, Burnquist win Dew Action Sports Tour events

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOUISVILLE — Simon Tabron won the BMX Vert competition and Bob Burnquist took the Skateboard Vert title Sunday during the final day of competition in Dew Action Sports Tour's season-opening Panasonic Open at the Kentucky Expo Center.

The 32-year-old Tabron, from Britain, successfully completed an alley-oop, no-handed 540, helping him earn a score of 94.75 during his first run to edge 2005 BMX Vert champion Jamie Bestwick. Bestwick, also from Britain, came back after recent neck surgery to place second with a score of 93.50. Kevin Robinson was third.

"I'm very grateful for this win," Tabron said. "I've been working hard and trying new things."

In Skateboard Vert, the 29-year-old Burnquist, from Brazil, claimed his first Dew

Tour victory with a score of 92.00 on his first run. Burnquist finished the 2005 season in fourth place overall. Placing second was Bucky Lasek, last season's Skateboard Vert champion, with a score of 91.00. Andy Macdonald was third.

Highlighting Burnquist's winning run was his execution of a switch backside air over the channel on the vert ramp.

"It feels great to finally come out on top," Burnquist said. "Most of the time this doesn't happen to me but I really felt solid today. I had an image in my head of what I wanted. So I have been working hard, adding more technical tricks and believe in myself."

Sunday's competition concluded the first stop on the five-city Dew Action Sports Tour that features skateboarding, BMX and freestyle motocross. Other Panasonic Open winners include Scotty Cranmer, BMX Park; Anthony Napoliton, BMX Dirt; Nate Adams, Freestyle Motocross; and Ryan Sheckler, Skateboard Park.

The next stop on the Dew Tour is the Right Guard Open in Denver.
