ATV rider
faces charges, after hitting trooper's car

The Associated Press

WHITESBURG — Kentucky State Police said charges are pending against an Eastern Kentucky man who crashed his all-terrain vehicle into a trooper's car.

Police said Tommy Newman of Whitesburg was airlifted to Holston Valley Medical Center in Kingsport, Tenn., after the incident on Friday. Newman was reported by the Lexington Herald-Leader as recovering from his injuries.

Trooper Ben Campbell said he spotted Newman riding on Route 317 and turned around to pull him over.

Campbell said Newman braked suddenly, causing the trooper to swerve into the other lane — then Newman made an abrupt turn into the side of the cruiser.

Newman had no helmet and was thrown from the ATV.

Stranded motorist escapes abduction attempt

HINDMAN — The car was overheating, but she wasn't worried. It does this all the time, and all she needs to do is pull over and let it cool down before she puts in some water.

She popped the hood to make sure everything was okay. It was around 10:30 a.m. on Sunday and she was heading to the walking track at the Knott County Sports Complex.

That's when the truck pulled over to the side of the road and backed down to the front of her car. It was a stranger offering assistance to a stranded motorist. It wasn't an uncommon sight, and she had no reason to be suspicious. She told him everything was okay and thanked him for his concern. He didn't leave.

"I'll be fine," she said. "I just need to wait for it to cool down."

The next thing she knew, a gun was pressed hard into her ribs and she was being pulled toward the truck.

"Get in the truck or I'll shoot you right here," he said.

The woman, who prefers to remain anonymous due to concern for her safety, walked toward the truck for a moment before realizing that the man would probably kill her.

"I started to go along with him," she said. "Then I just thought that he was going to take me somewhere and kill me, and that my daughter would never find me."

She decided to fight back. A quick elbow knocked the man off balance, and she tried to run.

"He grabbed me and started hitting me everywhere," she said. "He was hitting me with something hard in the face, and he punched me in the stomach with his fist and knocked me down. I was able to kick him and put him on the ground. That's when I ran into the highway and started waving my arms."

All county schools show gains, but Martin school leads the state

by RALPH B. DAVIS
MANAGING EDITOR

All Floyd County schools either met their two-year goals or showed some progress, according to the latest standardized test results released this morning, but one school in particular blazed an unprecedented trail.

May Valley Elementary, in Martin, soared to the top, recording the highest two-year combined score among all 1,174 schools in the state.

Under the state's Commonwealth Accountability Testing System, schools are measured for progress in two-year increments.

"We take great pride in May Valley Elementary being the number-one P-5 school in the state for the second year," said Supt. Henry Webb. "We want to commend the students, staff and community for their commitment to student achievement."

Principal, teachers say they expected excellence

by JARRID DEATON
FEATURES WRITER

MARTIN — May Valley Elementary is number one, achieving the highest CATS test scores out of 1,174 schools in the state, but it comes as no real surprise to Tonya Williams.

Williams, principal at May Valley, knew that the school performed well, although she didn't know they would top the list.

"Anybody can walk in the school and see what is going on in the classrooms," Williams said. "We scored really high last year, and I knew that we would perform well this time. We don't lose a moment of instruction time during the day. We don't waste a minute."

The high expectations that the teachers and administrators have at May Valley is one major factor in the school's success, according to Williams.

"We don't accept anything less than proficient," Williams said. "We don't move on without making sure that every student has the concept mastered."

May Valley also utilizes team teaching, where Anita Huff adds fun, like marble painting, to her kindergarten curriculum at May Valley Elementary.

County gets $40K refund

by JARRID DEATON
FEATURES WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — The Floyd County Fiscal Court will be getting a refund of $40,741.67 from the Department of Natural Resources as part of mining permits and acreage fees collected by the organization.

Gov. Steve Beshear announced the funds on Monday, saying that 33 counties in the state will receive refunds totaling $550,678.

"Our administration is making every effort to assist the mining industry to extract coal in a manner that is safe, efficient and protective of our environment," Beshear said. "Our coal-producing counties are partners in this endeavor and these funds provide a direct benefit for their efforts."

The Floyd County Fiscal Court was one of nine counties that will receive more than $24,000. The largest amount will be going to Pike County, with $114,983.33 heading to one of Kentucky's top energy producing counties.

The money can be used for any general purpose determined by the fiscal court.

State still working to scale back road projects

by JOE BIESK
ASSOCIATED PRESS

FRANKFORT — Facing rising costs and dwindling finances, Kentucky officials think they could save hundreds of millions of dollars in road construction with a little frugality.

The plan is simple, sort of. Instead of building a road with extra turning lanes and expansive shoulders, transportation officials are scaling back where possible. Think fewer lanes on some less traveled roads, or rumble strips or narrower medians to separate lanes.

"It's building a Chevy that's very serviceable instead of building a Cadillac with all the frills," Transportation Secretary Joe Prather said.

State officials are still working to identify which projects will be scaled down. But a decision is expected before the end of the year, Prather said. Maintaining safety and traffic flow is key, he said.

Every project in the pipeline is up for review. The plan, which was first announced in early August, has the poten-

Major Charles E. Holbrook

Major Charles E. Holbrook, USAF, Ret. of Canton, Ohio, formerly of Anderson, South Carolina, passed away peacefully, on Friday, August 1, 2008.

He was born in Prestonsburg, on December 27, 1920, the son of the late Adam Kelsey and Virgie Lee (Preston) Holbrook.

He grew up surrounded by the majestic beauty of the Appalachian Mountains. A graduate of Prestonsburg High School, he served as captain of the debate team, and forever enjoyed engaging in lively conversation. He completed officers cadet training and aeronautical engineering at Texas A&M.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by his sisters: Ortha Meece, Marie Vance, and Gertrude Arnett; and brothers: Bert and Boyd Holbrook.

He is reunited with Betty Holbrook, his wife of 61 years, who passed away in May of this year.

He is survived by a son, Dennis (Marilyn) Holbrook; two daughters: Rebecca (Olin) Thomason, and Trudy (Doug) Morris; and a brother, Ralph E. Holbrook.

Local survivors include a niece, Jenny (Bill) Bottoms; two nephews: Mike Vance and Don Holbrook; and a cousin, Mable Brown.

He was "Papaw" to his grandsons: Sean (Kristine) Holbrook, Kelsey (Patricia) Thomason, and Brett (Jessica) Thomason; a granddaughter, Amy (Chris) Chambers; and great-grandchildren: Meghan Holbrook and Rylin Thomason.

He enlisted in the Army Air Corps, and retired from the United States Air Force after 24 years of service. He flew P-51 fighter planes in WW II. In 1943, he was shot down by enemy aircraft over New Guinea. He was able to deploy his parachute, and landed in the jungle behind enemy lines. Traveling only at night, he maneuvered through the jungle and returned to his base 14 days later.

He served during the Korean War, and served at Da Nang airbase in Vietnam in 1963-1964.

He enjoyed traveling, reading, gardening, fishing, and spending time with his family.

He frequently spoke of the thrill of flying. We wish him Godspeed on this, his final and most magnificent flight.

Major Holbrook was interred with military honors, at Arlington National Cemetery in Arlington, Virginia, on September 4.

New state Supreme Court justice takes seat on bench

by JOE BIESK
ASSOCIATED PRESS

FRANKFORT — Daniel J. Venters officially took his seat on the Kentucky Supreme Court Monday, nearly a month after being selected to replace the state's retired chief justice.

Venters, a 58-year-old attorney, succeeds Joseph Lambert on the seven-justice panel that represents the state's 3rd Supreme Court District.

"This is, judicially speaking in Kentucky, where the buck stops," Venters said from the bench in his first formal remarks to the public. "And I feel awed by that responsibility, but at the same time I'm comforted here by the fact that there are six other honorable and brilliant people with whom I share that responsibility."

Venters was sworn in during a public ceremony that attracted state constitutional officers, U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers and Gov. Steve Beshear. It was just for show, however, because Venters took his oath of office last month.

Venters had served more than 20 years as a district and circuit judge in southern Kentucky. He also had been a prosecutor who once worked for Rogers.

Beshear appointed Venters last month to replace Lambert, who retired in June. John D. Minton Jr. succeeded Lambert as chief justice.

Beshear, a first-term Democrat, said he picked Venters based on his more than two decades as a judge.

"He listens," Beshear said. "He treats people with respect and dignity and he follows the law."

Rogers, a Republican, said Venters would represent the values of the 27 counties in his southern Kentucky district.

Americans stay tuned, nation triumphs

The conventional wisdom not so long ago was that political conventions didn't matter much any more. They were seen as old-school exercises that excited only partisans and the hordes of reporters dispatched to cover them.

My, how two weeks can change perceptions.

Consider that Democratic presidential nominee Barack Obama attracted 38.4 million TV viewers for his acceptance speech in Denver on Aug. 28. It was a record audience for a convention speech, according to Nielsen Media Research.

Then along came Republicans a week later. Vice presidential nominee Sarah Palin drew more than 37 million viewers, just shy of Obama's mark.

The night after Palin wowed her audience, Republican nominee John McCain set a new record, with 38.9 million Americans watching his acceptance speech. That was a 41 percent increase from President George W. Bush's viewership at the 2004 Republican convention.

Why the sudden interest in political speech-making?

Well, the stakes have seldom appeared higher for many Americans, who are worried about the economy, frustrated with high energy prices, concerned about national security.

This year's presidential nominees also provide voters with a clear choice about which direction the nation should head. Both speak about change, but that change will look very different depending on whether McCain or Obama prevails in November.

And then there is the Palin factor.

Introduced to an American public that knew virtually nothing about her only nine days ago, the Alaskan governor, a hardnosed political reformer and a self-proclaimed hockey mom and moose hunter, has enraptured conservatives, frightened liberals and piqued the interest of millions of Americans in the middle.

This election also is historic for its diversity, with the major parties promoting an African-American and a woman for peak positions in the nation's civic life. Voters who in the past felt forgotten now have hope that their interests will be advanced.

For years, good government types (including newspaper editorial writers) have begged the public to pay closer attention to politics, promising that, like spinach, the taste wasn't nearly as bitter as it appeared. There's no need to beg this year.

In 2008, Americans sense that their nation needs them to listen intently to each candidate's plans and vision, and then make a careful, informed choice.

That development isn't just good for the future of civic engagement. It's good for the nation.

General election is crucial

In Eastern Kentucky, politics is next to godliness — or does it come before?

As a Christian, I feel it is my duty to speak out once again on some crucial choices we will make in the coming election in November. The Bible clearly teaches that a Christian cannot vote for a candidate to endorse abortion, civil unions and same-sex marriages. Sen. Barack Obama clearly states his beliefs on those issues. These issues are a blatant contradiction of God's law and commandments.

Today, people are far more concerned about their own finances and the traditions passed down from generation to generation than the declining morals of our great country. Here in Eastern Kentucky, people are spiritually and politically ignorant. I challenge you to attend one convention of Kentucky Right to Life in Louisville. Educate yourselves on the issue of abortion and the written Word of God.

Christians say they are against murder, but yet they cast their vote for one who believes in abortion. Only 10 percent of abortions are due to incest or rape. Most abortions are due to women of promiscuous lifestyles.

How we vote this November will not only decide the future of our great nation, but quite possibly the destiny of our souls.

As I have stated before, Eastern Kentucky could very well be the only place in America where if Satan ran for office on the Democratic ticket against Jesus Christ, he would win by a landslide!

Copper theft can kill

A recent death on the electrical facilities of Kentucky Power has driven home the most serious aspect of copper theft in our area — the unfortunate, untimely and avoidable death of a 28-year-old Knott County man.

In the early hours of Sunday morning, August 24, one of Kentucky Power's employees responded to a service call in an isolated hollow off of Route 80 in Knott County. Upon his arrival, he found the horrifying sight of a body hanging from a utility pole, the victim of electrocution. On the ground below the victim were tools of the copper theft trade — pliers, flashlight and a gym bag of copper wire scraps.

As sad as the scene was, perhaps sadder is the extent some people will go to get a few bucks. At three-something per pound, it takes a good amount of copper to add up to "big money." Sadder still is that loved ones and others who knew individuals are stealing copper allow it to continue. They are, in effect, enablers of illegal activity that can, and in this case did, lead to someone's death. It's a sad situation, certainly, but one that is completely preventable.

In recent months, Kentucky Power employees have been meeting with law enforcement officials and commonwealth's attorneys to address the issue of copper theft. Kentucky Power takes the problem seriously and works with law enforcement and prosecutors to punish copper thieves. We have also taken measures to safeguard our facilities, but in the end, we cannot protect every inch of our more than 11,000 miles of power lines. We need your support and assistance.

We encourage members of the public and anyone who has information about the activities of copper thieves to report it to their local law enforcement agency of Kentucky Power at (866) 831-5845. Kentucky Power offers a cash reward to anyone providing information that leads to the arrest and conviction of persons stealing copper from our electrical facilities.

Please join us in combating copper theft. It not only steals from Kentucky Power, it steals from all of our ratepayers, all of our employees and all the citizens of the communities we serve. Worst of all, as we witnessed Sunday, copper theft can steal lives.

UNITE recognized for fishing program

FRANKFORT — Operation UNITE was recently honored by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources for its contributions to furthering the agencies mission and goals.

UNITE was presented a Certificate of Appreciation for its "outstanding service" to the department "and for furthering the cause of wildlife conservation in Kentucky" during a dinner meeting held at the Salato Wildlife Education Center on August 14.

"Operation UNITE, with its network of grassroots coalitions, provided the perfect opportunity to meet the mutual goals of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources ... through the Hooked On Fishing-Not On Drugs(r) (HOFNOD) program," said Marc A. Johnson, aquatic education director and HOFNOD state director for the department.

HOFNOD is the flagship education program of the national Future Fisherman Foundation, the recruitment and education arm of the American Sportfishing Association. It is widely used in more than 30 states and territories to foster angling skills, conservation ethics and social skills.

UNITE partnered with the Kentucky Department of Fish & Wildlife Resources in April 2005 to offer HOFNOD in the Fifth Congressional District. Through 2007, more than 300 people have received facilitator training and more than 5,000 youth in all 29 counties have benefited from a coalition-sponsored program.

"Liz Wilson was instrumental in making this partnership work," Johnson continued. "She did her homework and approached the department for help executing the Medical school's class of 2012 to receive symbolic 'white coat of compassion'

PIKEVILLE — Pikeville College School of Osteopathic Medicine (PC SOM) will formally welcome members of the Class of 2012 during a traditional White Coat Ceremony on Saturday, Sept. 13, at 7 p.m. in Booth Auditorium.

White coat ceremonies are rites of passage for beginning medical students. The ritual encourages a psychological contract that emphasizes professionalism and empathy in the practice of medicine and focuses on the importance of both scientific excellence and compassionate care for the patient.

As they embark on their quest to become tomorrow's physicians, the 83 incoming PCSOM students will take the oath of commitment and don white coats for the first time. The ceremony also helps to foster a special bond students will have with patients, colleagues and teachers as they begin medical school. In the presence of family members, friends and the campus community, students from the Class of 2012 will be "coated" by the students from the medical school's Class of 2011.

The keynote speaker for the ceremony will be William G. Anderson I, D.O., F.A.C.O.S. Anderson is past president of the American Osteopathic Association, senior advisor to the dean at Michigan State University College of Osteopathic Medicine and vice president of Academic Affairs, Osteopathic Medical Education, responsible for the development of osteopathic medical education programs for students, interns and residents at hospitals within the Detroit Medical Center.

Anderson began his professional career in medicine and surgery in Albany, Ga., where he practiced for six years. During that time, he was a founder and first president of the Albany Movement, which spearheaded the Civil Rights Movement in Southwest Georgia. He completed his training in general surgery in Detroit where he conducted a successful group surgical practice until 1984. He also served as executive vice president and chief medical officer of the Michigan Health Corporation, as director of governmental affairs for the Detroit Osteopathic Hospital and as associate director of medical education at Detroit Riverview Hospital until assuming his current position.

Anderson is a graduate of the Des Moines University College of Osteopathic Medicine. He is board certified in general surgery and a Fellow of the American College of Osteopathic Surgeons. Recognized for his distinguished service and leadership, Anderson has received Doctorate of Humane Letters degrees from Ohio University, the University of New England College of Osteopathic Medicine and the Kirksville College of Osteopathic Medicine. He also received a Doctorate of Science Degree from the West Virginia School of Osteopathic Medicine and a Doctorate of Public Service from the University of North Texas Health Science Center.

Along with his wife Norma, Anderson is the proud parent of five children, three of whom have followed him into careers in osteopathic medicine.

The community is cordially invited to attend the White Coat Ceremony. For more information, contact the Pikeville College Public Affairs office at (606) 218-5270.

CHOLESTEROL SCREENING
High cholesterol. You can't feel it, see it or hear it. But when your cholesterol sneaks up above a desirable level, it puts you at an increased risk for a heart attack and other heart diseases.
To find out in just 5-10 minutes if your cholesterol level is healthy, call, email or stop by to schedule an appointment for a cholesterol screening. All the test requires is a finger stick, similar to a blood glucose test, and for you to fast for 10-12 hours before the test. During this screening, your Pharmacist will also access your risk for heart disease, and provide you with valuable information to help lower your risk.

KSP awards $350,000 in grants to enforce underage drinking laws

FRANKFORT — Kentucky State Police Commissioner Rodney Brewer announced today the agency awarded $350,000 in federal grant funds to enforce underage drinking laws that prohibit the sale, purchase and consumption of alcoholic beverages by minors.

Funding is provided by the U.S. Department of Justice, Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP), Enforcement of Underage Drinking Laws (EUDL) block grant. KSP serves as the designated state administrator for EUDL grant funds and monitors each project. As part of this initiative, each state, territory, and the District of Columbia receive $350,000 in the form of block grants. KSP has been administering the annual EUDL block grant funding since 2004.

"Our agency is fortunate to be responsible for distributing this federal grant money. EUDL funds allow communities to work together to identify local needs and sustain a successful strategy to combat underage drinking. Our goal is to make minors and their parents more aware of underage drinking laws and the dangerous consequences of underage drinking," said Brewer.

The awards support a wide range of activities including a strong emphasis on compliance checks of retail alcohol outlets to reduce sales to minors, crackdowns on false identification, programs to reduce older youth or adults from providing alcohol to minors, "party patrols" to prevent access to alcohol at large youth gatherings, "cops in shops" to deter minors' attempts to purchase alcohol and alcohol awareness programs targeted at schools and colleges.

"We believe that strong community involvement increases the odds of reaching our community goal: Education is essential to this effort as well as enforcement of the law," added Brewer.

Kentucky EUDL programs have received national exposure for their efforts including the Department of Alcohol Beverage Control and the Bluegrass Regional Prevention Center. ABC received the "Law Enforcement Partner of the Year" award for their 91 percent retail compliance rate by the Underage Drinking Enforcement Training Center (UDET) last month at an awards ceremony in Nashville, Tenn. The Bluegrass Regional Prevention Center presented their EUDL program "Keep It Real," an interactive video media project, to attendees at the National EUDL Conference. The "Keep It Real" project challenges teens to create a 30-second public service announcement that depicts the prevention of underage drinking. The videos are then uploaded to a website where students across the state can vote on their favorite video.

KSP will accept applications for the 2009 EUDL block grant beginning Dec. 1. The grant application package will be posted on the agencies' website at www.kentuckystatepolice.org on that date.

This year's EUDL grant recipients and funded projects include:

- Kentucky Department of Alcohol Beverage Control ($130,000), Zero Tolerance EUDL Project

- Kentucky Department of Alcohol Beverage Control Education Branch ($20,000), S.T.A.R. (Server Training in Alcohol Regulations) Project

- Morehead State University ($20,300), College Campus Prevention of Underage Drinking (Kentucky Network).

- Louisville Metro Police Department ($25,000), LMPD Underage Drinking Prevention Program

- Henderson County Police Department ($14,500), Henderson Underage Drinking Enforcement Program

- Radcliff Police Department ($12,500), Under

- 21 Enforcement Program
- Paducah Police Department ($15,700), Enforcing Underage Drinking Laws Project

- MADD - Mothers Against Drunk Driving, Youth In Action Project

- Seven Counties Services Prevention Center ($40,000), Keep It Real program

- Kentucky EUDL Program ($17,000), Special Programs and Planning

KFC shoring up security for secret recipe

by BRUCE SCHREINER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOUISVILLE — Psst. The secret's out at KFC. Well, sort of.

Colonel Harland Sanders' handwritten recipe of 11 herbs and spices was removed Tuesday from safekeeping at KFC's corporate offices for the first time in decades. The temporary relocation is allowing KFC to revamp security around a yellowing sheet of paper that contains one of the country's most famous corporate secrets.

The brand's top executive admitted his nerves were aflutter despite the tight security he lined up for the operation.

"I don't want to be the president who loses the recipe," KFC President Roger Eaton said. "Imagine how terrifying that would be."

The recipe that launched the chicken chain was placed in a lock box that was handcuffed to security expert Bo Dietl, who climbed aboard an armored car that whisked away with an escort from off-duty police officers.

Eaton's parting words to

Dietl, "Keep it safe."

So important is the 68-year-old concoction that coats the chain's Original Recipe chicken that only two company executives at any time have access to it. The company refuses to release their names or titles, and it uses multiple suppliers who produce and blend the ingredients but know only a part of the entire contents.

Dietl, a former New York City police detective, assured Eaton that the iconic recipe would be safe.

"There's no way, shape or form ... that anybody is going to get their hands on this recipe," he said. "And if they get their hands on this recipe, they have to take me with them."

His security firm is also handling the security improvements for the recipe at headquarters, but he wouldn't say what changes they're making.

KFC executives said they decided to upgrade security after retrieving the recipe amid preparations to add a new line of Original Recipe chicken strips.

The recipe has been stashed at the company headquarters for decades, and for more than 20 years has been tucked away in a filing cabinet equipped with two combination locks. To reach the cabinet, the keepers of the recipe would first open up a vault and unlock three locks on a door that stood in front of the cabinet.

Vials of the herbs and spices are also stored in the secret filing cabinet.

"The smell is overwhelming when you open it," said one of two keepers of the recipe in an interview at company headquarters.

The biggest prize, though, is a single sheet of notebook paper, yellowed by age, that lays out the entire formula — including exact amounts for each ingredient — written in pencil and signed by Sanders.

Others have tried to replicate the recipe, and occasionally someone claims to have found a copy of Sanders' creation. The executive said none have come close, adding the actual recipe would include some surprises.

Sanders developed the formula in 1940 at his tiny restaurant in southeastern Kentucky and used it to launch the KFC chain in the early 1950s.

Sanders died in 1980, but his likeness is still central to KFC's marketing.

"The recipe to him, in later years, was everything he stood for," said Shirley Topmiller, his personal secretary for about 12 years.

Larry Miller, a restaurant analyst with RBC Capital Markets, said the recipe's value is "almost an immeasurable thing. It's part of that important brand image that helps differentiate the KFC product."

KFC had a total of 14,892 locations worldwide at the end of 2007. The chain has had strong sales overseas, especially in its fast-growing China market, but has struggled in the U.S. amid a more health-conscious public. KFC posted U.S. sales of $5.3 billion at company-owned and franchised stores in 2007.

LEGALS

COMMON WEALTH OF KENTUCKY FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT DIVISION II C.A. No. 08-CI-00094 HSBC Mortgage Services, Inc. Plaintiff vs. Pauline Mullins Defendants NOTICE OF COMMISSIONER'S SALE

BY VIRTUE OF Final Judgement and Order of Sale, referring to Master Commissioner of the Floyd Circuit Court, entered on the 12th day of May, 2008, in the Floyd Circuit Court, in the above styled action, in the principal sum of $117,216.34, together with interest, costs and fees, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Old Floyd County Courthouse Door, South Central Avenue, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, (behind the new Floyd County Justice Center), to the highest bidder, at public auction, on Thursday, the 11th day of September, 2008, at the hour of 10:00 a.m., the following described real estate, lying in Floyd County, Kentucky, and more particularly described as follows:

TRACT 1: A certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in Floyd County, Kentucky, on the Right Fork of Bull Creek, more particularly described as follows, to-wit: Beginning at the edge of Bull Creek Road and the line of Thelma Wallen up the hill in a northerly direction to an oak tree; thence around the hill in a westerly direction a distance of seventy-seven feet to a stake; thence in a straight line down the hill to the Bull Creek; thence in an easterly direction with the road one hundred-twenty-five feet to a stake at the point of beginning. TRACT II:

A certain tract of parcel land lying and being in Floyd County, Kentucky, on the Right Fork of Bull Fork, more particularly described as follows, to wit:

Beginning at the line of the Grantees and the County Road; thence in a westerly direction with the County Road a distance of twelve feet; thence on a northerly direction up the hill a distance of approximately 190 feet to a stake; thence in a northerly direction around the hill a distance of 12 feet to the line of the Grantee; thence running down the hill in a southerly direction with the line of the Grantee to the point of beginning being a tract of land fronting twelve feet on the County Road adjoining the property now owned by Grantee and running up hill parallel with Grantee's line.

Being the same property conveyed to Pauline M. Mullins, a single person, by deed dated the 18th day of February, 1999, executed by Jerald F. Combs, a single person, of record in Deed Book 430, Page 552, in the Office of the Floyd County Clerk.

TERMS OF SALE: (a) At the time of sale, the successful bidder, if the other than the Plaintiff, shall either pay cash or 10% of purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days.

(b) The successful bidder shall be required to execute a bond with good surety thereon for the unpaid purchase price of said property, if any, bearing interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum, from the date of sale until paid, having the force and effect of a Judgment. (c) The property shall be sold subject to any easements and restrictions of record in the Floyd County Clerk's Office, and such right of redemption as may exist in favor of the United States of America and/or the record owners thereof, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 2410 or KRS 426.530.

(d) The purchaser shall be required to assume and pay all city and county ad valorem taxes for the year 2008, and all subsequent years which are not yet due and payable. Any and all delinquent city and county ad valorem taxes will be paid from the sale proceeds.

(e) In the event the Plaintiff is the purchaser of the above described property, for an amount equal to, or less than, its first lien, it shall take a credit against said lien for the amount of the bid, and no bond shall be required of the Plaintiff, and it shall only be obligated to pay court costs, the fees and costs of the Master Commissioner, and any real estate taxes assessed against the real estate.

Any announcements made on date of sale take precedence over printed matter contained herein.

Hon. William S. Kendrick Floyd Master Commissioner

Plaintiff, and it shall only be obligated to pay court costs, the fees and costs of the Master Commissioner, and any real estate taxes assessed against the real estate.

Any announcements made on date of sale take precedence over printed matter contained herein.

Hon. William S. Kendrick Floyd Master Commissioner

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE Pursuant to Application No. 836-5501 Renewal No. 4

May Valley actually had the second-highest single-year scores in both 2007 and 2008 among all elementary schools in the state, but the combined score was just enough to put the school at the head of the pack.

Today's release marks a crowning moment for schools in the wider region, with Big Sandy area schools claiming the top three spots statewide. Perennial testing superpower Central Elementary, in Johnson County, once again tallied the highest score in the state for 2008, but the school slipped just behind May Valley when that score was combined with a fourth-place showing in 2007. In Magoffin County, Middle Fork Elementary had a slight dip from its first-place showing in 2007, but still recorded the third-highest two-year score in the latest results.

All three schools far exceeded the state-mandated goal of reaching a score of 100 on a 140-point scale by 2014, and, along with Veterans Park Elementary in Lexington, were the only four schools to score higher than 120.

Two other Floyd County schools, Duff and McDowell elementary schools, also crossed the 100-point threshold, and both scored in the top 10 percent in the state. Duff ranked 43rd out of 727 elementary schools in the state, while McDowell ranked 71st.

Osborne Elementary was the only other Floyd County elementary to score in the top half of Kentucky schools, ranking 269th.

Three other elementary schools in Floyd County met their two-year goals, with Betsy Layne Elementary ranking 403rd, Prestonsburg Elementary ranking 426th and Allen Elementary ranking 524th. Stumbo Elementary was the only Floyd County elementary school to not reach its two-year goal, but the school still showed some progress over the previous biennium and ranked 637th in the state.

All three Floyd County middle schools ranked in the top half, with Allen Central Middle School ranking 47th out of 224 middle schools statewide, Adams Middle School ranking 68th and South Floyd Middle School ranking 110th. Both ACMS and Adams met their two-year goals, while South Floyd showed progress despite not meeting its goal.

High school results, however, still remain an area of weakness for Floyd County. None of the district's four high schools met their two-year goals and all four scored in the bottom 50 percent statewide. Prestonsburg High School ranked 150th out of the state's 231 high schools, Betsy Layne High School ranked 162nd, Allen Central High School ranked 165th and South Floyd High School ranked 206th. All four schools did, however, score higher than their results in the previous two years.

As a district, Floyd County ranked dead center statewide, ranking 78th out of the state's 175 school districts. From year to year, Floyd County fared even better, rising from 86th in 2007 to 64th in 2008.

"We are very pleased with the overall performance of the district," Webb said. "Schools and content areas that did not meet CATS goals or that indicate needed growth will receive additional assistance and increased monitoring designed to spur student achievement. We thank our students, parents, teachers and staff for their efforts and the entire community for the support that has allowed the district to record substantial growth over recent years."

May Valley

more than one instructor is in the class at a time, providing assistance to the students.

Kim Reed, fourth- and fifth-grade reading teacher, believes that team teaching is one of the main reasons that her class is so successful.

"Team teaching has made all the difference in the world," Reed said. "It allows us to focus on each student while teaching. We are able to give the kids a real hands-on experience."

The focus on students and high expectations starts in the primary grades at May Valley, and it continues throughout the students' career at the school.

"We have very high expectations here," said Greta Thornsberry, assistant principal. "We believe that all of our students can learn at high levels."

Anita Huff, kindergarten teacher, has her own way of teaching the students that has produced great results.

"For one, we teach them the letter sounds out of order so they can learn to read quicker," Huff said. "We are also working with all of their senses, like having them identify items just by the sense of touch."

May Valley currently has 443 students enrolled, with 130 coming from outside its attendance area.

"I'm from Knott County,"

Huff said. "Even if I wasn't teaching here, I would still want my child to attend May Valley. It's a wonderful school."

May Valley doesn't keep its methods secret, instead opting to share them with other schools in the hopes of building working relationships that are mutually beneficial to the education field.

"We share a lot of our techniques and information with other schools," Williams said. "Schools from across the state have visited us here, and we have had site visits with other high-performing schools. The district has also provided us with a lot of great technology, and we have good parent support. It all works together to allow us to provide the best educational experience possible."

Although the instruction at May Valley has produced very high test scores, Williams believes there is much more to it than success recorded in statistics.

"It's more than the test scores," Williams said. "It's about their futures. All of our faculty and staff are very passionate about the success of our students and their academic life. That's what makes the difference. We have an outstanding group all in one building."

Escape

A car started slowing down, so he got in his truck and left."

The man was wearing jeans and a white shirt with multiple designs on it, along with a baseball cap. He was of medium height, clean shaven and around 30 years old. The truck was a newer model, black, with four doors. A "Git-R-Done" sign was on the tailgate.

She called the Kentucky State Police, and they arrived on scene. An ambulance transported her to the hospital to be treated and checked for injuries. She still can't see out of one of her eyes.

It's something she will never, ever forget.

Anybody with any information on the incident can call the Kentucky State Police in Hazard at (606) 435-6069.

"I just want them to find him," she said. "I can identify him. I know his face."

Roads

tial to save Kentucky millions that could be used for other construction projects throughout the state.

A souring economy has Kentucky state government facing a $900 million revenue drop during the next two fiscal years that started in July. Lawmakers earlier this year approved a two-year $19 billion budget that included significant cuts to health services and education spending.

Engineers in district offices across the state have been reviewing each project, but no final decisions have been made, Prather said. But changes under consideration on a single project could save the state $17 million to $18 million by shrinking the median, narrowing the shoulders and reducing the amount of necessary land, Prather said.

Prather declined to get into specifics and said there's no firm dollar amount of projected savings for the overall plan they're calling "Practical Solutions." Nevertheless, Prather expects it to be "several hundred million," he said.

"The goal is to build the roads that we need and not what we might like to have," Prather said, "which means that safety wouldn't be compromised and drivability wouldn't be compromised, but we would be looking to eliminate any frills so that we could contain cost."

The plan in Kentucky is a spinoff of something started in Missouri four years ago. Missouri has saved about a half-billion dollars in three years, said Kevin Keith, a chief engineer with the Missouri Department of Transportation.

Kentucky lawmakers,

Prather said, should like the plan because it offers them a way to get more road projects done sooner.

"The indications are that the General Assembly will look very favorably on this," Prather said. "It means that more legislators are going to have more projects done than they would have otherwise."

Calloway County Judge-Executive Larry Elkins said he favors the idea.

A four-lane project on an approximately eight-mile stretch of highway in western Kentucky was nearly scaled back earlier this summer before transportation officials changed their minds, Elkins said. Transportation officials, however, have planned to pare down some proposed bridges over Kentucky Lake and Lake Barkley, Elkins said.

"What they've decided to do is instead of having a fancy bridge, they're going to have a four-lane serviceable bridge that will serve the purpose," Elkins said. "And my personal opinion is that during these difficult times, that was the best decision that they could come up with."

State Rep. Hubert Collins, D-Wittensville, said lawmakers need to take a "very close look" at the proposal and consider motorists' safety. Also, building some two-lane roads now — rather than four lanes — could eventually cost the state more money, Collins said.

"I still think we should continue on what we're doing even though it may take longer to get it done," said Collins, chairman of the House Transportation Committee. "This all has to do with money."

EK Miners free agent camp attracts diverse talented group

TIMES STAFF REPORT

PIKEVILLE — Players from 14 different states and two countries participated in the East Kentucky Miners free agent camp held Saturday at the East Kentucky Expo Center. American players (many of whom have previous international experience) as well as one player from Canada showcased their talents in front of East Kentucky Miners head coach Kevin Keathley. Twenty-six players, including Miners veteran Mike Crain, participated in the free agent camp.

"Last year, we had some recognizable schools represented as well as some recognizable faces," said East Kentucky Coach Kevin Keathley. "This year, the talent level was higher and it was a more competitive camp. Twenty of the players we had in this year's free agent camp can play professionally. The players bought into what we were doing and it made for a great free agent camp."

Division I programs such as USC and Pittsburgh were represented. The players ranged in height from 5-foot-5 to 7-foot-2. The East Kentucky professional basketball franchise's second free agent camp in as many years also included an NAIA All-American.

The East Kentucky Miners head coach was eager to go back and look at film from the free agent camp.

"Now, we'll go back, evaluate and break this camp down with what myself and Director of Basketball Operations Brandon Paquin saw," Keathley commented at the conclusion of the camp. "The evaluation process will span over the next week to 10 days. We'll look to bring four to five of the free agent camp participants back for training camp."

The basketball hotbeds of Philadelphia, Louisville, Lexington, Detroit, Winston-Salem, Greensboro and Columbia were represented during the free agent camp.

"I was really impressed with some of the rookies," Keathley added. "There were also some very talented veterans in the camp. Joe Buck, a veteran player, played extremely well."

It's business as usual for East Kentucky's professional

East Kentucky Miners Head Coach Kevin Keathley and co-owner Demetrius Ford talked with players at the conclusion of Saturday's free agent camp.

Lovell added to Lady Bears' coaching staff

TIMES STAFF REPORT

PIKEVILLE — When the 2008-09 basketball season begins at Pikeville College, a familiar face will be on the Lady Bears bench, albeit in a different role. Jessica Lovell, a four-year starter at point guard who graduated in 2007, has been hired as the new top assistant to Bill Watson.

Lovell finished her career at Pikeville with 499 points and 486 assists, which is an average of 4.2 per game. She started 116 of the 127 games in which she played. She also recorded 188 steals and 254 rebounds.

"Jess was an outstanding player for us who battled health issues throughout her career," said Coach Bill Watson. "We also felt she'd be an outstanding coach and we're thrilled to add her to our staff here. She will make an immediate impact on our program, just as she did as a player."

Last year she was the head coach at Belfry Middle School, which she led to the county championship after recording a 27-7 record. She was also an assistant coach at her alma mater, Belfry High School.

While at Belfry, Lovell played in two Sweet 16s and joined the 1,000-point club.

"I'm very pleased to come back to Pikeville College," Lovell said. "It's a place I've always felt at home and I couldn't be happier about being here. I hope I can bring something to the table to help make this team a winner on a yearly basis."

She was four-time Academic All-Conference and as a senior was an Academic All-American. In addition, she was a three-year team captain.

The Lady Bears open the 2008-09 season on Tuesday, Nov. 4 when they entertain Virginia Intermont College.

Kentucky to induct '08 HoF Class

TIMES STAFF REPORT

LEXINGTON — Kentucky Athletics' five-person 2008 Hall of Fame class, announced last spring, is to be formally inducted in Lexington the weekend of Sept. 26-27. The group, which includes football player Al Bruno, men's basketball player Tony Delk, track athlete Tim Harden, former men's basketball player and athletics director C.M. Newton and men's golfer Johnny Owens will take part in the Hall of Fame Induction Dinner Friday, Sept. 26, before being recognized the following day at halftime of the UK-Western Kentucky football game. The committee granted previously announced diver Tina Johnson Ybarra's request to be moved to the 2009 class for induction.

The Hall of Fame Dinner, to be held at the Embassy Suites, will get underway at 6:45 p.m., with a reception at 6 p.m. Tickets are $100 for a seat, or $1,000 for a table of 10. Those interested in purchasing tickets should contact Leslie Bray at (859) 257-2589.

Brevard beats Bears, 20-17

TIMES STAFF REPORT

PIKEVILLE — In the end, the third period cost Pikeville College a chance at their first win of the season.

Leading 10-7 at the half, the Bears had an edge in time of possession 15:31 to 14:29, but in the third period, Brevard kept the ball for 11:37, wearing down the Bears' defense while posting 13 unanswered points.

That was all Brevard needed for a 20-17 win.

The Bears had a chance to tie the game in the closing minutes. After a 10-play, 56-yard drive ended with a 10-yard pass from Dan Wideman to tailback De'Rail Sims to pull the Bears within a field goal, the defense stepped up and forced a three-and-out, with the Tornados losing six yards.

Pikeville (0-1) took over with 2:35 left at its own 42, needing to get to the 33 to give All-American candidate Kyle Chilton a chance for a game-tying field goal. The ball landed right on the 33, but on third-and-10, the Bears were flagged for delay of game, pushing them out of field-goal range. Third down's pass fell incomplete and the fourth-down desperation pass was intercepted by Brevard's Trey Wilborn, essentially ending the game.

Each team put up first-quarter touchdowns in odd fashion in the opening period. Pikeville lined up to punt but saw the snap sail over the head of Chilton. At the 15, he chose to kick the ball through the end zone.

The Tornados had the option of taking the points — they were shut out in their opener a week ago — or taking it half the distance, meaning from the Pikeville eight.

They chose the ball, from the eight, and on the first play senior John Taylor carried untouched for the score. Chase Henry's PAT made it 7-0 with 8:45 left in the opening quarter.

Pikeville's first score came when Brevard quarterback Kye Hamilton lost control of the ball trying to pass with sophomore lineman Travis Norris coming up with it. The 6-4, 320-pounder rumbled 81 yards untouched for the score to tie the game with 4:38 left in the opening frame.

Chilton booted a 29-yard field goal with 3:18 left in the half to send the Bears to the break on top 10-7.

But the third period was all Tornado. The first score came on a 36-yard pass from Hamilton to junior Donald Hudson, who made a spectacular catch in double coverage to end a 3:15 drive and make it 14-10 after Henry's kick.

Brevard scored what would prove to be its final touchdown with 3:23 remaining in the third when John Taylor scooted in from 44 yards out. The kick failed but the lead had grown to 20-10.

Pikeville managed to get within three but could get no closer in losing the regular-season opener.

Sophomore Dan Wideman was 21-of-40 for 188 with a touchdown and an interception. Junior Nick Jamerson hauled in six for 101.

The ground was the offense's demise: Only 48 yards on 24 carries. Wideman led the way with 35 yards on 15 carries.

Taylor had 110 yards and a pair of touchdowns on 24 tries. Hamilton was 11-of-20 for 93 yards with a score and two interceptions. Hudson had 68 yards on four catches.

Defensively, the Bears were led by sophomore Tramayel Jones with 10 tackles, seven being solos and one for loss. Kenny Harris was in on eight tackles, one being for loss. The interceptions went to Norris and freshman Antwan Brifford.

The Bears will look for their first win of the season a week from Saturday when they open the home portion of the schedule with Lambuth (Tenn.) University at 1:30 at the Hambley Athletics Complex.

Robert Morris holds off MSU

TIMES STAFF REPORT

MOON TOWNSHIP, Pa. — Host Robert Morris University built a 27-0 third-quarter lead and held off Morehead State University for a 27-13 win Saturday afternoon at Joe Walton Stadium in Moon Township.

The game was the season opener for Robert Morris (1-0). MSU fell to 1-1. The Eagles will travel to Eastern Kentucky next Saturday (Sept. 13) for a 6 p.m. EDT contest at Roy Kidd Stadium.

The Colonials dominated the first half, scoring two touchdowns and two field goals and rolling up 225 yards of total offense. MSU was held scoreless and managed only 55 total yards in the first half.

Fullback Jesse Kastelic scored on a one-yard run with 4:33 left in the first quarter, and Sherrod Evers caught a 31-yard touchdown pass from Erik Cwalinski just 29 seconds before intermission. Garrett Clawson kicked both extra points and also booted field goals of 22 and 35 yards.

RMU stretched its lead to 27-0 on another one-yard run by Kastelic and a Clawson PAT at the 6:57 mark of the third quarter.

The Eagles got on the board with 3:16 left in the third quarter when fullback Michael Kearns capped a nine-play, 47-yard drive with a one-yard touchdown run. Mason Webb's PAT kick sailed wide, and RMU's lead was 27-6.

MSU cut the lead to 27-13 on 51-yard bomb from Evan Sawyer to Nick Feldman and a Webb extra point kick at the 14:12 mark of the fourth quarter.

RMU finished with 402 yards of total offense to only 239 yards for the Eagles. Cwalinski hit 16 of 27 passes for 225 yards with one touchdown and one interception. Russ Myles rushed for 132 yards on 19 carries. Evers caught 10 passes for 159 yards. MSU's Sawyer hit 14-of-29 passes for 205 yards with two interceptions and one score.

Hartline, Cobb will continue to split time at QB

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON — Kentucky coach Rich Brooks is in no hurry to pick a No. 1 quarterback.

Brooks said Monday he'll keep switching between Mike Hartline and Randall Cobb for the foreseeable future as long as both players continue to contribute when they're on the field.

Cobb energized the Wildcats during Saturday's win over Norfolk State, running for a pair of touchdowns as Kentucky cruised to a 38-3 win. Hartline wasn't quite as productive, though Brooks said part of the problem is the lack of help Hartline is getting from the Kentucky wide receivers.

Brooks added he thinks forcing teams to prepare for both quarterbacks can only benefit the Wildcats as long as Hartline and Cobb continue to avoid mistakes.

Kentucky (2-0) will have its hands full on Saturday against Middle Tennessee (1-1), which is coming off a win over Maryland.

Freshman QB Cobb leads Kentucky past Norfolk St., 38-3

by JEFFREY McMURRAY
ASSOCIATED PRESS

LEXINGTON — Freshman quarterback Randall Cobb was popular when he entered and even more popular when he left.

Cobb, the first true freshman to play quarterback at Kentucky since Dusty Bonner in 1997, threw for one TD and ran for two others Saturday as the Wildcats dominated Norfolk State 38-3 in their home opener.

"I went in there to give us some life," said Cobb, who relieved starter Mike Hartline toward the end of the first quarter.

He certainly did that. After a loud ovation from the Commonwealth Stadium crowd, Cobb immediately rewarded that confidence without even throwing a pass. Instead, he used his speed.

First, he sprinted 16 yards untouched on a draw play to put Kentucky near the red zone. Then, two plays later, he called his own number again, dodging several defenders and hurdling another for an 18-yard score — the first of Kentucky's four rushing TDs.

Cobb scored again on Kentucky's next possession, pushing away several defenders on the sneak from a yard out. He also displayed the strength of his left arm on the drive, firing a 27-yard strike to his former high school teammate, Kyus Lanxter, putting the Wildcats (2-0) in position.

"When we made that substitution, he gave us a real spark running the ball with some speed and athletic ability," coach Rich Brooks said.

But as popular as that move was, the reverse was true in the second half when Hartline returned to the lineup to a spattering of boos. Brooks alternated the quarterbacks the rest of the game and scolded the fans afterward for their reaction.

"There is no place for that in our stadium," Brooks said. "That just makes me sick to my stomach."

Cobb agreed and heaped praise on Hartline, whom he predicts will be the starter again next week.

"That was tough for me," Cobb said. "I think it hurt me more than him."

Despite being outplayed by the freshman, Hartline did lead scoring drives culminating in a field goal and touchdown, both starting from prime field position.

"I just tried to be myself," Hartline said.

While Brooks said he won't decide on the starter for Saturday's game against Middle Tennessee until later in the week, Cobb thrived in his audition.

Kentucky, which had kept rival Louisville's offense off the scoreboard a week earlier, was looking to add some offensive power to the defensive excitement it displayed against the Cardinals.

In came Cobb, who led his high school to two straight state titles in Tennessee. His energy seemed to rub off on the rest of the team, particularly the running game.

As Cobb helped revive Kentucky's passing attack, Derrick Locke did the same from the backfield. Locke broke a 19-yard run, helping to set up Cobb's first TD pass — a 13-yard fade to Dicky Lyons Jr.

Locke topped his previous effort in the fourth quarter when he spun around one defender and sprinted past the rest for 68 yards — the Wildcats' longest play of the season.

"Our running game looks good on paper at the end, but it wasn't good when it needed to be early in the game,"

Brooks said. "We have some work to do still, but we have a lot of backs that got in there today."

Six, to be exact.

Kentucky, which generated only 63 yards on the ground last week against Louisville, had nearly five times that total against an overmatched opponent with 298. Locke led the way with five carries for 96 yards. Moncell Allen added 71 yards and a score.

Norfolk State, playing just its second game ever against a Football Bowl Subdivision foe, got its lone points of the game shortly before halftime on a 24-yard Justin Castellat field goal, set up by a Cobb fumble.

It was one of few mistakes on the afternoon for the freshman, who completed 6 of 11 passes for 87 yards and one interception.

Once again, defense dominated for Kentucky. It is the first time since 1958 the Wildcats haven't allowed a touchdown in either of their first two games.

"I'm loving it," defensive end Jeremy Jarmon said. "We know our responsibilities. We don't always have to do something extra to get something positive."

Ravens turn back Bengals, 17-10

by DAVID GINSBURG
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BALTIMORE — There will be days for John Harbaugh and Joe Flacco when things don't go right. Sooner or later, the Baltimore Ravens will struggle to generate offense and will lose a football game.

That inevitable occurrence won't ruin what both men accomplished in their NFL debuts.

Thrust into the starting quarterback role by default, Flacco ran for a 38-yard touchdown and helped the Ravens beat the Cincinnati Bengals 17-10 Sunday, making Harbaugh a winner in his first game as a head coach.

"It could have gone better," said Harbaugh, ever the perfectionist. "We've got a long way to go, but this is a good start."

For Harbaugh and his rookie quarterback, who last year was playing against the likes of Rhode Island and West Chester for the University of Delaware, it was day to cherish.

Flacco went 15-for-29 for 129 yards and no interceptions. His unexpected touchdown run around right end on a busted play put Baltimore up 17-3 in the third quarter.

"The whole time I was thinking, 'Please, if somebody's about to run and hit you, just slide,'" center Jason Brown said. "But the kid, he has so much heart, I knew that he wasn't going to do that."

If Flacco was unnerved playing in his first NFL game, he sure didn't look like it. Or feel like it.

"It's just football. It's a lot of fun, though, just like it's always been," said Flacco, the 18th overall pick in the NFL draft. "Our offense was in control all day. And obviously we had a lot of help from our defense."

Rex Ryan, retained as defensive coordinator when Harbaugh replaced Brian Billick, put together a game plan that rendered the Cincinnati offense helpless. Chris Perry gained 37 yards on 18 carries and Carson Palmer was 10-for-25 for 99 yards and an interception.

Palmer's 35.2 quarterback rating was the lowest of his career.

"It's not demoralizing, it's disappointing. Disappointing and frustrating," Palmer said. "But you've got to move on.

In this league, in this division, there's going to be teams that go to the playoffs possibly with eight wins, with nine, at the most 10 or 11. In our division, with who we play this year, it's going to be a battle, week in and week out."

Chad Ocho Cinco, forced by the NFL to wear Chad Johnson on his jersey, was held to one catch for 22 yards. He praised the blitz-oriented defense deployed by Ryan.

"Two thumbs up to him and what they did today. It was unbelievable, and I told him after the game," Ocho Cinco said. "I don't know what they were playing. That's some playground defense."

Cincinnati's lone touchdown came on a 65-yard fumble return by Johnathan Joseph. Palmer couldn't take the Bengals closer than the Baltimore 17, and that drive ended with an interception.

"We got outplayed," Palmer said.

And Palmer was outdone by Flacco, whose performance belied his experience.

"He played like a veteran. He played poised," Ravens wide receiver Derrick Mason said.

ELDORA: Clanton wins World 100

Colonels fall to rival Western Kentucky

TIMES STAFF REPORT

RICHMOND — Eastern Kentucky University trailed Western Kentucky by only three points at halftime, but the Hilltoppers (1-1) shutout the Colonels (0-2) 21-0 in the second half for a 37-13 win in the Battle of the Bluegrass on Saturday at Roy Kidd Stadium. Senior quarterback Allan Holland threw for 228 yards and ran for a score. WKU totaled 248 yards on the ground, led by Tyrell Hayden's 98 yards.

EKU was limited to 27 net rushing yards. Holland completed 24 of 41 passes. Senior Stephen Sizemore (Hazard High School) caught eight balls for 67 yards.

Western Kentucky took the opening kick and drove 81 yards in 18 plays for an early 7-0 lead. Marell Booker found the end zone from four yards out to cap the drive.

The Colonels answered by moving the ball deep into WKU territory. Cody Watts caught a nine-yard pass from Holland to move the ball to the 22-yard line, but a personal foul backed EKU up. Eastern settled for a career-long 46-yard field goal by Shayne Graham with five seconds left that made it 10-3.

Notes: Ocho Cinco has at least one catch in 93 straight games, tying the team record set by Carl Pickens. ... Mark Clayton scored Baltimore's first TD on a 42-yard reverse, the longest run by anyone but a running back in Ravens history. ... Ravens injuries included CB Corey Ivy (ankle) and LB Brendon Ayanbadejo (ankle).

The Colonels refused to be the first team to punt. EKU answered Western's ground game with an air show. After an incomplete pass and a rush for one yard, Holland completed three straight passes to cover the final 66 yards. He opened with a big third down completion for 37 yards to Stephon Fuqua. Sizemore hauled in back-to-back passes, the final for 16 yards and a touchdown. Long tacked on the point-after for a 13-10 score with 11:35 remaining in the second quarter.

The two teams exchanged field goals to keep it at a three-point game, 16-13, at halftime. Western Kentucky became the first team to fail to score when the Colonels negated a kickoff return to midfield by holding the Hilltoppers on downs with 1:39 left in the first half.

WKU mixed up the pass and run to generate a 10-play, 74-yard scoring drive late in the third quarter. David Wolke completed passes of 11, 12 and 17 yards. Hayden and Derrius Brooks picked up gains on the ground of 13 and 17 respectively. Brooks' 17-yard touchdown run gave the Hilltoppers a 23-13 advantage.

A fumble by the Colonels on the ensuing kickoff gave the ball back to Western Kentucky at the EKU 20-yard line. On the first play of the fourth quarter, Wolke found Tristan Jones from two yards out to extend the Hilltopper lead to 30-13.

WKU tacked on a touchdown in the final minute to set the final score at 37-13.

Next up for the Colonels is a home game against Morehead State on Saturday. Kickoff is scheduled for 6 p.m.

Johnson wins 2nd straight to charge into Chase

by JENNA FRYER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

RICHMOND, Va. — This was supposed to be Kyle Busch's runaway championship. Then Carl Edwards turned up the heat.

Not to be overlooked, though, is Jimmie Johnson. He's thrown his experience and some momentum into the fray, and is now a legitimate threat to win his third consecutive title.

The two-time defending NASCAR champion held off winless Tony Stewart on Sunday at Richmond International Raceway to grab his second consecutive win, fourth overall this season, and take a big boost into the Chase for the championship.

Johnson is trying to become the first driver to win three straight titles since Cale Yarborough (1976-78), but doesn't want to focus on the historical possibilities in front of him.

"I do think about it," admitted Johnson, "but the less I think about it, the better I'm going to be. The less I can think about all this stuff the last 10 races, the better I am going to be. I just need to fall back to the confidence I have in my race team and my abilities.

"If you show up and you're swinging for the fences every time, you're going to make mistakes."

Johnson hasn't of late, chasing down Busch and Edwards to arguably claim the role of championship favorite.

Busch, winner of eight Cup races this season, is the top seed in the Chase. Edwards is second based on his six victories and Johnson is third. They are the only three drivers in the field with multiple wins, and five of the contenders start the Chase winless on the season.

Edwards, however, believes all 12 drivers will have a shot at the title when the 10-race Chase begins next Sunday in New Hampshire.

"Anything can happen," he said. "I think it's going to be defined by your bad days."

And there were plenty of them on Sunday: Busch was wrecked twice — once by Dale Earnhardt Jr. while leading — and David Ragan had numerous on-track miscues to eliminate himself from Chase contention in a race delayed a day by NASCAR because of Tropical Storm Hanna.

Ragan and Kasey Kahne were the only two drivers mathematically eligible to race their way into the Chase field. Ragan put on a gutsy push before contact with other cars ended his run with a 32nd-place finish.

"Regardless of how we ended today, I told everyone before the race whether we made the Chase or not, it wasn't going to be solely on the Richmond race," Ragan said. "I can look back at three or four races earlier in the year where we didn't do a good job and resulted in the loss of a few points."

Kahne finished 19th, giving the final Chase spot to Clint Bowyer.

"I drove everything I could all day," Kahne said. "It was a long day in the pits — we came out close to last almost every time. But we were never going to beat Clint."

The Chase field according to seeding is Busch, Edwards, Johnson, Earnhardt, Bowyer, Denny Hamlin, Jeff Burton,

Busch had a rough day at Richmond in his final tuneup for his title run, starting with the wreck with Earnhardt that delighted the crowd. It was a reverse of the May race here, when Busch wrecked Earnhardt when Earnhardt was leading.

Earnhardt said Sunday's contact wasn't deliberate or retribution.

"If I wreck somebody, I ain't going to leave him in good enough shape to come back and get me in the same race," Earnhardt said. "I really ain't never wrecked anybody on purpose. If I wanted to do it, I would do it really, really good."

Busch, who was later wrecked by Elliott Sadler, finished 15th and downplayed the Earnhardt incident.

"Was that revenge? Who knows," Busch said.

Edwards also had a long day after an early tire problem. He finished 13th.

Johnson, meanwhile, was steady and eventually passed Stewart and Martin Truex for the lead with 34 laps to go. He then had to hold off Stewart's late challenge over the final 10 laps.

"That's how you want to win a race — going against the best in the business, and Tony is certainly one of those guys," Johnson said.

Stewart, along with Gordon, is one of the winless drivers headed into the Chase and neither has ever gone this deep into the season without a victory. Stewart was visibly frustrated after failing to catch Johnson and end his 39-race winless streak.

"That's probably one of the greatest races I think I've ever had here at Richmond, racing there with Jimmie like that," Stewart said. "Just leave it as we run second and we had a good hard-fought battle and we just fell short."

"I mean, that's the moral of the story. We could sit here for hours and try to dissect exactly why we didn't win the race. But you know, we still had a good run."

Ragan makes strong push, but falls short of Chase

by HANK KURZ Jr.
ASSOCIATED PRESS

RICHMOND, Va. — David Ragan's chances of making the Chase for the championship went from reasonable to terrible and then to hopeful before he faded late in the Chevrolet 400.

Seventeen points behind No. 12 Clint Bowyer to start the race, Ragan's chances took a hit when he and teammate Matt Kenseth both spun out 123 laps into the race and sustained damage.

But the Roush-Fenway Racing driver moved back into contention for the playoffs when he stayed out on the track as most of the leaders pitted on the 243rd lap, actually climbing over Bowyer and into the top 12 before Bowyer's stronger car proved better in the last 150 laps.

Kasey Kahne, who was 14th to start the race and 48 points behind Bowyer, never was a factor at Richmond International Raceway and missed the Chase for the third straight season.

Bowyer won the spot by 69 points over Kahne, and Ragan finished 77 points back.

Kahne had a stretch midway through the season that including both of his victories and a second-place finish in a span of four races, but said it was disappointing to have an eighth- to 15th-place car for most of the rest of the races. He finished 19th on Sunday.

"We just have a lot of work to do. We need to get better to run with Kyle, Jimmie Johnson, Tony Stewart and all those guys," Kahne said.

"We've got to get better."

Ragan does too, and knows it. He said this weekend he knew five top-five finishes showed he isn't ready to contend for a championship, but he still would have liked the chance.

"I felt like the first 100 or so laps we had a top five car," Ragan said, speaking of the time before the spin on lap 123. "It just seemed to turn a corner after lap 100 and we didn't have the speed. ... Running back there 30th, 25th, you don't deserve to make the Chase."

Ragan said it was unfair to blame his failure on one race. "Our speed has been in the race car; it's just a matter of making good decisions on Saturday or Sunday," he said.

SWEET REVENGE?: Dale Earnhardt Jr. was leading the race in the closing laps here in May when Kyle Busch bumped him from behind, sending him spinning as Busch assumed the lead.

On Sunday, Busch was leading when Earnhardt cut inside him bidding to take the top spot. As they headed into the turn, Busch came down and perhaps didn't see that Earnhardt's car was already nearly side by side with him, and as Busch attempted to move down, the left rear of his car clipped the right from of Earnhardt's, sending Busch spinning out of the lead.

Earnhardt said the mid-race contact was purely accidental.

"If I wreck somebody, I ain't going to leave them in good enough shape to come back and get me in the same race, so that wasn't really my intentions," he said with a smile.

HANDICAPPING THE CHASE: Jeff Gordon is the winningest active driver with 81 trips to Victory Lane and four titles, and he said Jimmie Johnson is the favorite to win the title.

In fact, he figures the top three choices to win it are in reverse order of the way they will be seeded when the 10-race playoffs begin next week at Loudon in New Hampshire.

Kyle Busch, he said, is still a little bit too aggressive.

"I think Kyle has — he has the ability to go really hard, really fast, and he's made big improvements in my opinion this year over last year," Gordon said of his former teammate at Hendrick Motorsports.

"Last year when he drove for us, there wasn't a single practice that they didn't have to knock out the right side on the car. This year it seems to be like every fifth race that happens. ... That's why he runs fast and they've won a bunch of races so he's gotten more comfortable. He's close. He's as good as anybody out there right now."

But still not the favorite, Gordon said.

"I would put Carl (Edwards) ahead of him as far as being ready experience-wise, and I'd put Jimmie ahead of both of those guys with just his experience of winning the last two."

BAD CAR-MA: Denny Hamlin dominated the spring race at Richmond, leading 381 of the 400 laps around the track that's just about 10 miles from where he grew up, but he returned this weekend with a different Toyota than the one that should have won handily back in May.

In that race, no one came close to challenging him until a leaking right front tire allowed Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Kyle Busch to pass him as he faded to a disappointing 24th.

"We definitely had a dominant car, but things change so much and the weather is so much different than what it was here in the spring that I don't think what we had would be perfect like it was the last time," Hamlin, a native of Chester, said. "Already we took what we thought was good setup-wise in the spring, brought it here and we've changed it quite a bit."

Hamlin started 11th and finished third, his third third-place run in succession.

TRUCK STOP: The slumping economy's impact on NASCAR is growing.

Once the powerhouse in the Craftsman Truck Series, Dodge plans to stop providing financial support to that series next year, senior manager Mike Delahanty of Dodge Motorsports said.

The change was first reported by ESPN.

Delahanty said Dodge teams in the Sprint Cup and Nationwide series would not be affected.

The manufacturer won 46 of 99 races from 2001-04, and has claimed championships in the truck series with Bobby Hamilton in 2004 and Ted Musgrave the following season.

Only two teams are racing fulltime in Dodges in the truck series this season, and one of those, driven by Jason White, has been without financial help from the maker all season.

PIT STOPS: The two-day postponement of Sunday's Sprint Cup series race ended Richmond's string of consecutive sellouts at 33. ... Kyle Busch finished the regular season with a 207-point advantage over Carl Edwards, but will start the Chase with just a 30-point edge.

POISON OAK

Senior Problem Solvers

Ever so often, Wilma Jean and I meet with three other couples, who—either the husband or wife, or both—graduated from high school with us. The express purpose of our little get togethers is so we can—well, get together.

Considering we graduated more than 50 years ago, and considering the audible complaints that emit from each of us every time we sit or stand, I suppose it's rather remarkable that any of us is still up to getting together with anybody.

For more than half a century we were raising our families, going to work every day, and just, more or less, doing our own thing. We had no more than casual contact—if that—with each other. Furthermore, we all did different things to earn our daily bread, and even now, about the only things we have in common, are that we all live in the same county, were members of the Meade Memorial High School class of 1957...and of course, are good friends.

Anyway, we met for supper this past weekend, and apparently, there being a bit of United Baptist in all of us, after the meal, we congregated into two groups, the women and the men.

It's too bad that CNN or Fox News didn't have crews taping the discussions that took place on the men's side of the room, because in the three or four hours we sat and talked, using all our diversified experiences we pretty much solved most of the world's problems.

Of course, we started slowly, figuring out how best to solve all the local issues—everything from the controversies with the local board of education, to the recruiting of pubescent athletes for high school sports.

When all that was solved to everyone's satisfaction, we didn't hesitate to turn to the shenanigans of Washington's political scene, to whether or not we should support Sarah Palin, just because she can field-dress a moose. Without revealing our own political persuasions, the four of us agreed that was, indeed, an impressive statistic, since it was doubtful that any of us could even field-dress a rabbit.

Anyway, as soon as word gets out about how much our little group accomplished as our food settled, it wouldn't surprise me if Sean Hannity or Wolf Blitzer—or both—didn't call for some talking points on world affairs.

Native built impressive resumé in education

by JARRID DEATON
 FEATURES WRITER

Floyd County has produced its fair share of successful citizens, with politicians, musicians, artists and authors all claiming their own version of fame brought on by their careers and talent, but one of the most prolific writers from the area doesn't get the recognition of his contemporaries due to the unglamorous nature of the books he wrote.

Jack Allen was a textbook author. Allen, a native of Prestonsburg who died in 2004 at the age of 89, authored over 50 books during his illustrious career as a scholar.

Along with his publications on a national scale, many Kentucky kids packed his books around with them during school, as Allen wrote textbooks for elementary and secondary schools on the subjects of American history, social studies, government, and civics.

In 1941, Allen earned his doctorate in history from Peabody College, which would later merge with Vanderbilt University. Allen's wife, Cherry Falls Allen, also graduated from Peabody, and the two married shortly after graduation.

Allen served a faculty member of the history department at Peabody College for 33 years, retiring in 1980 as the college became part of Vanderbilt University. Allen was also a past president for the National Council for the Social Studies, and he was named Distinguished Educator by the Center for History of Education at the University of Texas.

For a large part of his tenure at Peabody College, Allen served as chair of the history and social science department. He was also on multiple committees and helped refocus the training of educators in academic programs at the college.

One look at Allen's curriculum vitae shows his dedication to teaching and forming relationships with professional organizations that helped to further the cause of social studies and history education. As part of his international relationships, Allen worked with the U.S. Department of State in Europe and Asia, and helped to develop social studies curricula for elementary and secondary schools in South Korea, and his work led to the establishment of the Korean Council for the Social Studies.

In 1992, Allen was honored with the Distinguished Alumnus award for his contributions to education and for his service to Peabody College.

Delmas Saunders, who went to Prestonsburg High School with Allen, has very fond memories of their friendship.

Jack Allen

"I had a whole lot of respect for him," Saunders said. "We were opposites in a lot of ways, but we became friends. In my opinion, he was the most intelligent person to ever graduate from Prestonsburg High School."

Weber Gallery features works of photographer Chuck Summers

PIKEVILLE — For nearly two decades, Chuck Summers has been photographing the beauty of the natural world and capturing the landscapes and wildlife found in the national parks across North America. Summers began focusing his attention on his home state of Kentucky a few years ago and last fall published his third book, Kentucky: Unbridled Spirit and Beauty, a collection of images that capture the incredible and diverse beauty of the Bluegrass state.

Summers' works are currently on display in the Marguerite Weber Art Gallery at Pikeville College through the end of September. A gallery talk and reception will be held Tuesday, Sept. 16, at 1:30 p.m. The community is cordially invited.

Summers is hoping his photography will inspire Kentuckians to enjoy the beauty that surrounds them and encourage people from other states to come and visit.

"For some reason many Kentuckians, like me, have failed to stop and take notice of the natural treasures that are ours here in the Commonwealth," he said, adding that by showcasing those treasures "we will all work harder to preserve the natural beauty we share."

A native of Paducah, Summers is a graduate of Union University in Jackson, Tenn. A minister by profession, he received two master's degrees and a doctorate from Southern Seminary in Louisville. Over the past 33 years he has served a number of churches in both Kentucky and Tennessee and is currently pastor of the First Christian Church in Pikeville. He and his wife Bonita Bonta Summers, along with their dog, Sierra, enjoy living in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky.

Among the works in Summers' show is this scene of Dewey Lake at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park.

Summers also sees his photography as an extension of his ministry.

"Through my photography I strive to focus people's attention on the beauty of God's creation and stress how important it is that we be good stewards of the world God has made," he said.

Over the years Summers' work has appeared in numerous national publications. His magazine credits include Outdoor Photographer,

Backpacker, PC Photo, Blue Ridge Country, National Parks, Nature's Best, Kentucky Living, Wyoming Wildlife, Tennessee Conservationist, Disciples World, Farm and Ranch Living, Landscape Architecture, AutoPilot and Travel 50 and Beyond. Calendar credits include the Sierra Club, Outdoor Photographer, Rocky Mountain

Ten Years Ago

(Sept. 11 and 16, 1998)

The Floyd County Coroner's office, Sheriff's Department, and Kentucky State Police, have determined that the circumstances surrounding the death of George Branham, 46, of Wheelwright, are "suspicious." His body was found on Buckingham Mountain after he had been reported missing for almost a week.

Floyd County's Board of Education has run into a snag regarding an effort to generate money by selling surplus school property. One of the most valuable pieces of surplus property, Harold Elementary, could be tied up in the courts, with a challenge from the original owners.

Piarist school graduate and Transylvania University freshman, Monica Majmudar, headed to campus a week early to tackle some community service projects as part of Transylvania's First-Year Urban Program (FUP).

Floyd County school officials have their hands on "a million dollars," in extra funding, if student attendance percentages can be maintained.

Construction is ongoing at the site for Prestonsburg's new post office, which will be located on Route 114, near the on-ramp for U.S. 23, across from Prestonsburg Village. Postal officials decided to move the facility out of downtown Prestonsburg due to traffic congestion, and the lack of adequate space.

Floyd County school officials spent almost $350,000 to close five schools and consolidate those students at other area schools. In a report to the Board of Education, Tuesday, state manager Woodrow Carter explained that expenses incurred ranged from renovation at schools, to moving furniture and equipment.

Owners of ThunderRidge race track, in Floyd County, have withdrawn an application to operate a betting site in the City of Ashland. Ashland residents and city officials opposed ThunderRidge's application, saying they had no prior knowledge of the company's intent.

Sporting enthusiasts will be rowing down the river, Saturday, September 26, during the Levisa Cup Canoe Race and Fun Float.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson will be in Floyd County, Monday, September 21, to look at the plight of people in Appalachia. As part of his "Leave No One Behind Tour," the Rev. Jackson plans to visit the Mud Creek Community Health Clinic at Grethel.

Members of the Jenny Wiley Pioneer Festival Committee want to close off a portion of North Lake Drive, in Prestonsburg, during the festival, which will be held in October. The committee wants to close the street during evening hours Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, and all day Saturday, to make public access to festival events safer. The 19th Annual Floyd County Slone Mountain Squirrel Festival was held Sunday, with food, games, crafts, and activities for the youngsters, and for the senior citizens.

The Floyd County Ethics Commission wants to change the fiscal court's definition of "family member," in its hiring procedures. Floyd County Judge-Executive Ben Hale said he would ask members of the commission to present their recommendation at the next meeting of the fiscal court.

Eric Hall was sworn in, Tuesday afternoon, as Floyd County's District Judge for Division II. The new judgeship was approved earlier this year by the general assembly.

"I'm lost!" Joel M. Allen of Kansas City, Mo., exclaimed Tuesday, upon his first visit to Prestonsburg in 50 years. "This is not the town I saw in 1888, and I haven't seen a familiar face."

An itinerant "medicine" peddler who gave his name as Guy Rabbitfoot, and said he was an Indian, was acquitted of "gypping the public" here in county court, last Thursday, after his defense lawyer impassionately told the six-man jury, of the many "gyppings" the "poor Indians" have received since America's colonization by the white man. Paul Francis & Co., this week, featured a gallon of outside paint at $1.69, in an advertisement

There died: Mrs. Ada Calvert, 40, Monday, at the home of her sister.
