No deaths in massive accident

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

PRESTONSBURG — A massive pileup near the entrance to Bull Creek Trade Center at approximately 3 p.m. resulted in one injury only, according to reports near press time Tuesday.

According to officials with the Floyd County Sheriff's Department, there had been no reports of deaths resulting from the wreck by early evening.

On scene, state highway department workers closed off exits, blocking a half-mile stretch of U.S. 23 within an hour of the accident.

When attempting to gain access to the wreck site, reporters with The Floyd County Times were told by one state highway worker, "There were a bunch of people dead up there and we can't let anybody through out of respect."

However, the sheriff's department had not been notified of any deaths resulting from the accident, while workers at the nearby Marathon gas station also reported that there had been no mention of deaths resulting from the accident, adding that it appeared that only one person had suffered an injury in the pile-up.

Additional details will be published later today at floydcountytimes.com.

SEARCHING FOR FUNDING

Mountain Christian Academy kindergarten teacher Kathy Williams kept the attention of her classroom Tuesday afternoon. School officials are currently hoping to find funding to replace the more than $100,000 a year from the Christian Appalachian Project which will phase out for good in August.

MCA fights for future after loss of funding

MARTIN — Mountain Christian Academy has served the area as a private educational institution for over 26 years, and now the school is facing serious financial difficulty that could end in its closure. However, various options are currently being explored in an attempt to keep that from happening.

Officials with Mountain Christian Academy are looking for ways to deal with the loss of funding from the Christian Appalachian Project, which has provided over $120,000 a year to the school in the past.

In December, the preschool program at the school was in danger of closing, but enough donations were received to keep the program open. Six staff members were let go due to the financial woes, but five of them were rehired after the donations were received. The final employee could be rehired this month if the school is able to come up with over $25,000.

P'burg man among six indicted

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

LEXINGTON — A Prestonsburg man was one of six people who pleaded not guilty during an arraignment in federal court last week on charges of defrauding investors of more than $3 million.

Christopher Cello Smith, 48, of Prestonsburg, vice president of Danville-based companies Target Oil and Gas and Kentucky and Indiana Oil, along with his brother, Michael Smith, the company's 53-year-old president and controlling interest holder, were indicted this past December.

Also indicted were Michael Smith's son, Shaun Michael Smith, 27, of Cookeville, Tenn.; Ray Garton, 58, of Barrackville, W.Va.; Mark Irwin, 26, also of Cookeville, Tenn.; and Joshua Scott Harris, 23, of Hustonville.

The six men's original indictment alleged that between February 2003 and February 2008, they conspired to create a scheme to defraud investors from several states that purchased shares in both companies' oil and gas well drilling programs.

The indictment for the six include one count of conspiracy, 20 counts of mail fraud and an additional two counts of wire fraud.

The total amount collected from investors, according to federal court records, was $3,192,793.50. Of that amount, the officials only returned $37,882 in royalties.

Among the accusations for which the men pleaded not guilty is that Michael Smith and Ray Garton, a geologist who runs Mammoth Geophysical Inc. in Barrackville, W.Va., prepared or directed others to prepare drilling program brochures for potential investors.

These brochures, according to indictment, included misrepresentations and false statements to inspire potential investors to purchase shares in the programs through geological reports about the success of existing wells that had hit oil or gas.

The men listed in the indictment as having served as sales representatives for these programs were Irwin and Harris.

The gas and oil well programs the six are alleged to SHELBY GAP — A Jenkins man was arrested Monday evening on a single charge of first-degree assault after an odd series of events led state police to taking the 64-year-old man into custody.

Denton Houston, of Jenkins, was arrested after police say they discovered he had allegedly shot another Pike County man at approximately 7:30 p.m. Monday evening.

That evening, Kentucky State Police received a 911 call that William Benjamin Mullins, 42, also of Jenkins, had been shot in the chest.

According to police reports, Mullins had an altercation with Houston, during which Houston allegedly shot him in the chest.

After this altercation, police went on to say in a statement the following day that Mullins proceeded to leave the scene of the shooting in a vehicle. He was later involved in a collision along Elkhorn Creek Road in the Shelby Gap area of Pike County.

(606) 886-6090

For the past year, the Law Offices of Pillersdorf, DeRossett & Lane has sponsored ads that promote the Pet of the Week at the Floyd County Animal Shelter in conjunction with a local citizen who is designated as "Celebrity of the Week." As a result of suggestions we have received, we have decided to accept nominations from the community as to individuals who will be selected as Celebrity of the Week. These ads run weekly in the Floyd County Times and on WYMT and local cable outlets.

If you know of an individual who you think should be nominated as celebrity of the week, please submit your nominations to the Law Offices of Pillersdorf, DeRossett & Lane, 124 West Court street, Prestonsburg, Kentucky, or e-mail them to us at pillersn@bellsouth.net. The criteria in the selecting of our celebrity of the week is those individuals who have unselfishly dedicated their time and effort to the betterment of our community.

P.S. As many of you know, Ned owns a large Saint Bernard by the name of "Rhodie." We have received several calls that a Saint Bernard has been seen wandering around Prestonsburg. While Ned appreciates the numerous phone calls about these sightings, Ned wants to assure everyone that the Saint Bernard seen in Prestonsburg is not Rhodie. Rhodie is at home at Ned's residence in the Dewey Dam area of Floyd County.

Obama must govern from the center

As we look forward to 2009, the national picture is filled with some serious challenges for America but also plenty of opportunities.

President-elect Barack Obama will have to juggle a number of domestic and foreign policy crises, including recovering from the economic meltdown, managing two wars, monitoring the volatile situation in the Middle East, saving the Social Security system, fighting drug violence in Mexico, reauthorizing the "No Child Left Behind" education reform law, achieving comprehensive immigration reform, resisting union-provoked protectionism in U.S. trade policies, and creating more jobs at home.

In contrast with the liberal rhetoric that helped him win the Democratic nomination, Obama will have to govern from the center to be successful. His most important job will be keeping America safe, something that President George W. Bush managed to do after the attacks of Sept. 11, 2001.

In the process, Obama will no doubt continue to disappoint his liberal supporters, as he did with some Cabinet picks and his invitation to the Rev. Rick Warren to deliver the invocation at the inauguration. Yet, whether they occur on the right or the left, these displays of independence are healthy.

Obama also has ample opportunities — chief among them, the chance to inspire Americans to reconnect with the American dream and reject the pessimism and sense of entitlement that plagues many of their countrymen. And he can lead by example and show the world that our best days are still ahead.

This isn't the time for Americans to give up, or wallow in despair, or expect government to come to the rescue. Nor is this the time to close our borders, or close off trade routes. It is true that we're facing difficult times, and that things will probably get worse before they get better. But we've been here before. Ours is an exceptional country not because it lacks challenges but because it meets them head-on.

House week in review

by REP. HUBERT COLLINS

The holidays are over and that means one thing for state lawmakers: a return to Frankfort, where we are now meeting in session to address immediate and ongoing needs of Kentuckians.

Because 2009 is an odd-numbered year, the first week of the current 30-day "short" annual session which began on Jan. 6 will not involve any lawmaking. That will come later, either in early February when the second half of the session begins or possibly in a special session that the governor has said he could call in mid-January to address fiscal matters. From now through this Friday, our focus is only on organizational matters as we elect our legislative leaders for the next two years, receive committee assignments from whomever those leaders might be and swear in nine new House members who were elected last fall.

The new lawmakers officially joined the 100-member House on Tuesday when they stood to take the oath of office with myself and other incumbents. Seven of the new members are replacing lawmakers who either retired from office, were elected to the Senate or resigned their seats to pursue other goals. Another new member, Linda Howlett Belcher, was elected to fill the seat of her late husband Rep. Larry Belcher who was tragically killed in a car accident last fall. It was my pleasure and that of other incumbent lawmakers to welcome each new member into both the 2009 General Assembly and the often intense, but intensely rewarding, legislative process.

The new members can expect a crash course in just how intense the General Assembly can get in the early days of this session when hotly contested House majority leadership elections dominate the political landscape. One minute the new lawmakers are sworn in, the next they will be asked to vote for leadership candidates they might have only known for a few days or hours. It is a lot of pressure for a lawmaker—especially those who have never been through a legislative session.

If you follow state politics in Kentucky, you by now have heard about the leadership race for Speaker of the House between Speaker Jody Richards of Bowling Green and former Kentucky Attorney General Rep. Greg Stumbo of Prestonsburg. Everyone in the General Assembly is eager to find out who has rounded up the most support to remain Speaker or become Speaker for the first time—whatever the case might be. We will soon know as leadership elections wrap up this week and the winners are announced.

The Speakership is certainly the most important leadership role in the House since the Speaker not only leads House proceedings, but the Speaker and Speaker Pro Tem are the only House officers elected by all 100 members. Because of that, it is pretty natural for the Speaker's race to overshadow other leadership races in the House even though each post up for election—including Speaker Pro Tem, Majority Caucus Chairman and Majority Whip—all carry their own amount of weight. I am very eager to see how these races pan out, too, and look forward to working with whomever wins their respective elections.

Another kind of intensity could begin as early as next week, if the governor decides to call a special session on the state's fiscal crisis at that time. If not, proposals on how to "fix" the crisis will be waiting for lawmakers the first week of February when the second half of the session is officially scheduled to begin.

One thing is certain: a large number of Kentuckians want lawmakers to do something about the state's mounting $456 million budget shortfall caused by the recent recession. The shortfall is affecting funding for legal, social and other services that most of us don't miss until we need them. The governor has said he hopes to address the shortfall with additional cuts totaling four percent to some agencies, a proposed 70 cent hike in the cigarette tax and other revenue measures but lawmakers would have to pass any bill that raises revenue.

I expect that Governor Beshear will outline his revenue plan in a public address sometime in the early days of the session so that both lawmakers and the public can get more details and share those details with each other. Right now, talk of raising revenue period is very unpopular as lawmakers grapple with the need to pay the state's bills versus the financial burden that is already on state taxpayers.

There has been talk that perhaps the sentiment is right in both the House and Senate for a tobacco tax hike, but how taxpayers feel about some of the other proposals being bandied about (an increase in the wholesale tax on alcohol, expanding the state sales and use tax base while lowering the tax rate, etc.) is not at all clear. The picture should become less opaque as lawmakers pore over surveys that many of us send out to our constituents, take in fiscal testimony and data in session hearings and talk one-on-one with those who have a stake in the revenue crisis.

New lawmakers, take heed: It's going to be a bumpy ride.

Green stimulus

by KATHLEEN ROGERS

A massive stimulus package of nearly $600 billion holds promise for the economy, and could mean more federal spending on infrastructure and energy efficiency projects. An estimated $400 billion in that bill will repair lots of bridges and roads, but what will they all lead to? Nothing—unless we first start building bridges and roads between our economic, climate, and education concerns, and start appreciating the way they're all connected.

New policy and stimulus needs to take into account that we're not just trying to save our economy with roads, bridges, and buildings: We're trying to save ourselves.

Few other national topics are as timely as a discussion of how to build a new green economy nationwide. During his campaign Obama promised to create 5 million green jobs. It is this way of thinking that should shape our country's future.

One way we can stimulate the economy while going green is to create new, personal carbon savings accounts. These would be tax-free, interest-bearing green energy savings accounts that could be leveraged to help weatherize or green-up one's home or sold to companies that need carbon credits. It would encourage energy efficiency while allowing a personal stake in emissions reductions.

At a time when we are poised to make our greatest infrastructure investment since the Great Depression, we need to make sure we do it right. Congress seems focused on shovel-ready jobs to its own detriment. We need to ensure this bailout is green, that the bridges and roads lead us to the future — instead of another dead-end.

Putting together a new green energy program for the U.S. and other countries will require thousands of green jobs in solar, wind, and other renewable sources of energy.

One plan is based on the fact that investing in energy efficient buildings would go a long way to create jobs and help the economy. The so-called Architecture 2030 plan recommends an investment of $171.72 billion over two years combining a housing mortgage buy-down and an accelerated-depreciation program for commercial buildings with energy efficiency. This plan could create over 3 million jobs in the building sector and over 4 million indirect jobs plus an additional 350,000 jobs from consumer spending.

The retrofitting and construction of green schools — the largest construction sector in the United States — will do the same. Between 2006 and 2008, we spent $80 billion on school construction. If we build those buildings green, they cost less than 2 percent more to construct; however, they pay for themselves in a few years. Consequently, municipalities with major school systems are increasingly looking at "green building" and renovation as they work to update school facilities and save the district money in utility bills. A green school can save a school enough money to hire two additional teachers — all while preventing 585,000 lbs of CO2 from hitting the atmosphere.

Which, at the end of the day, help solve a bigger problem: The econom

Forecast calls for milder winter after mid-January

The storms and cold temperatures that teased Kentuckians with hopes of a white Christmas probably will continue for the first half of this month, according to a University of Kentucky agricultural meteorologist.

"We should see the same thing through mid-January - below average temperatures and some snow," said Keys Arnold.

"After the middle of January, things should warm up a little," Arnold added.

Arnold based his forecast on climate models issued by NOAA's Climate Prediction Center in Maryland, which studies global atmospheric and oceanic circulations and compares these findings to 30-year trends.

Arnold noted there has been no dramatic shift in the El Nino-La Nina effect off the coast of Peru and Ecuador. "El Nino" refers to a warming of the Pacific Ocean waters off northwestern South America, increasing atmospheric moisture that falls as rain and snow in the United States. "La Nina" is a cooling of those waters, leading to dryness in northern climes. They are part of the El Nino Southern Oscillation, or ENSO.

"Currently, ENSO-neutral conditions are prevailing, and this will keep things climatologically near-normal for us," Arnold said.

December was exceptionally wet, Arnold said, with above-normal precipitation in the forms of rain, snow and sleet. This was a good thing.

"Going into December, we had four straight months of below-normal precipitation. We needed last month to be pretty wet to recharge soil moisture as we approach the spring planting season," Arnold said.

Of course, it may have been a little too wet and cold on some December days - like when Lexington experienced more than 200 car accidents on a snowy Saturday in the middle of the month.

Arnold said over the winter of 2009, Kentucky may experience "a little more snow than normal" because of slight shifts in the jet stream. Those shifts may bring different storm tracks, putting Kentucky right in the path of some harsh storms.

Again, this would be a good thing, Arnold said.

"Nearly 50 percent of the state, especially the southeastern region, has experienced moderate to severe drought conditions since the end of the summer. If we could get above average precipitation for another month or two, this would give us moisture for pastures and for the upcoming planting season," he said.

Governor launches campaign to promote Earned Income Tax Credit

FRANKFORT — Gov. Steve Beshear announced Monday a campaign to encourage more Kentuckians to apply for the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC), a refundable federal tax credit for low- and middle-income working individuals and families.

"The EITC is one of our best anti-poverty tools, and I want to make sure every eligible Kentuckian takes advantage of it and gets the money they deserve," Gov. Beshear said in announcing the campaign.

Specifically, Gov. Beshear announced a list of nearly 200 free tax preparation sites serving 90 counties across the state where volunteer tax preparers who have been trained and are IRS-certified will assist Kentuckians with their taxes and help them apply for the EITC.

Information about these sites, including addresses and phone numbers, is available on the Web site Gov. Beshear unveiled in October — www.assistance.ky.gov. These sites will begin offering their services on various dates between mid-January and February 1, and their hours vary by site. Therefore, Gov. Beshear encouraged Kentuckians to call the sites before visiting. He also noted that the Kentucky Department of Revenue provides free online tax assistance, and their link can also be found on the Web site.

Eligibility for the EITC is based on income, as is the amount of the credit. Workers who earn up to $41,000 may be eligible, and credits can be as high as $4,824.

In tax year 2005, the most recent year available, Kentuckians filed more than 345,000 EITC claims for a total of $633.4 million in benefits statewide. Unfortunately, an estimated 20 percent of eligible workers still do not claim their EITC benefits, according to the Internal Revenue Service, mostly for lack of awareness.

Gov. Beshear also noted the impact the EITC has on local economic growth. Nearly all of the funds from the credit, 97 percent, are infused into local communities.

Kentuckians can also find out information about the sites by calling this toll-free phone number provided by the United Way of Kentucky: (877) 566-4968. Or, workers who live in Jefferson, Oldham, Shelby, Bullitt, Spencer, Nelson, Henry, Trimble, Carroll, Boone, Kenton, Campbell, Grant, Scott, Woodford, Anderson, Jessamine, Fayette, Bourbon, Montgomery, Clark, or Madison counties should dial 2-1-1.

As part of Gov. Beshear's campaign, he has recorded a radio public service announcement, and the Kentucky Department for Community Based Services (DCBS) will distribute EITC and free tax preparation site information to more than 300,000 existing clients.

In addition to participation by DCBS and DOR, several private groups are assisting in this effort, including the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) Tax Aide Program, the United Way of Kentucky, the Kentucky Asset Success Initiative, the Louisville Asset Building Coalition and the Northern Kentucky Asset Building Coalition. Representatives of these organizations joined the Governor for today's event.

"AARP volunteers are excited and ready to help Kentuckians with their tax returns," said Delores Wathen, Kentucky AARP Tax Aide Program coordinator. "We are thrilled that Gov. Beshear has organized this campaign to let more Kentuckians know about free tax preparation sites, and encourage more to apply for the Earned Income Tax Credit."

Participating sites will also have available applications for other need-based government assistance, such as the Kentucky Children's Health Insurance Program (KCHIP), Kentucky Transitional Assistance Program (KTAP) and food stamps.

"The Earned Income Tax Credit is one of the most effective ways hard-working Kentuckians can increase their income," said Harmony Little, program manager for LexLinc, a member of KASI. "In spite of the numerous benefits of the EITC, it remains a hidden treasure unknown to many who are eligible to receive the credit. For those who do take advantage of the credit, it can give a significant boost to their income."

Applications being accepted for roadside market program

LOUISVILLE — Enrollment to become a 2009 member of the Certified Roadside Farm Market program kicked off during the Kentucky Farm Bureau annual meeting's Commodity Day.

Established in July 1996, the Kentucky Farm Bureau Certified Roadside Farm Market program began as a program to help farmers market their fruits and vegetables directly from roadside markets to consumers across the Commonwealth. Since then, the membership has expanded to include farm enterprises like greenhouses, landscape nurseries, Christmas tree farms, vineyards/wineries, and meat/cheese farm markets.

Markets certified through this program are identified by the cornucopia logo and are listed in the Certified Roadside Farm Market Directory. The program provides collective advertising, promotional items, education tour opportunities, and other marketing benefits with the intent to increase the net farm income of member markets.

Applications for membership are available on the Kentucky Farm Bureau web site (www.kyfb.com) or by calling or e-mailing to the information below. The enrollment fee for membership is $225 for applications received by Jan. 15, $275 for applications received by Jan. 31, and $300 for applications received after Feb. 1.

Enrollment applications must be postmarked Feb. 15 to guarantee a spot in the Membership Directory.

Pike couple robbed by home invaders

by SHELDON COMPTON
STAFF WRITER

SHELBIANA — A Pike County couple are hopeful that a state police investigation into an armed robbery that occurred to them on Jan. 4 will lead to an arrest.

Angela and Ricky Hopkins, of Shelby Dry Fork in the Shelbiana area, were the targets of an armed robbery at their home just after midnight on Sunday, Jan. 4.

According to a report issued by Kentucky State Police Post 9 in Pikeville, Ricky Hopkins answered a knock at his front door and was met by two white males asking to use the phone. When he stepped back into his house to bring the phone, the two men entered the home and assaulted him.

The two men were demanding money and drugs, police said, at which time Angela Hopkins heard the disturbance and entered the living room. The police report stated that Angela Hopkins was subsequently restrained in a chair with duct tape after entering the living room. During the time she was restrained, police said one of the suspects cut her on the neck with a black-handled knife.

The couple said that after this altercation, the two men gathered various electronic items from the home and an undetermined amount of cash, then fled the residence on foot. The first suspect is described as being around 6 feet tall and approximately 200 pounds, in his mid- to late 20s with a light-colored mustache and goatee. The Hopkinses, who said they did not know or recognize either of the two men, said this first suspect was wearing a gray, hooded sweat-shirt at the time of the robbery.

The second male suspect has been described as about 5 feet, 10 inches tall with a slender build and was wearing what the couple described as a "Carhartt type jacket."

Both Angela and Ricky Hopkins were taken to Pikeville Medical Center after authorities arrived on scene, where they were treated for minor injuries and later released.

The incident remains under investigation by KSP Detective Kevin Newsome. Anyone with information regarding this incident is urged to call KSP at (606) 433-7711 or toll-free at (800) 222-5555.

Businesses' annual reports available online

FRANKFORT — Kentucky business entities now have online access to their annual reports, including business entities that are required to file annual reports for the first time.

Business entities registered in the Commonwealth of Kentucky can obtain their 2009 annual reports immediately by visiting the Kentucky Secretary of State's website.

All Corporations, Limited Liability Companies (LLCs),

Partnerships, Limited Liability Partnerships, Business Trusts, and Professional Service Corporations (PSCs) that are registered with the state, are required to file an annual report by June 30 of each year. Failure to file the annual report will result in the company being listed in bad standing with the office and could lead to administrative dissolution or revocation of authority to do business in Kentucky.

Prior to 2004, annual reports were typically available in March via postal mail. Since that time, the Office of the Secretary of State has worked to increase the availability of the reports through its website as well as earlier mailings to all business entities.

Grayson notes that there is a change in the courtesy mailing that is typically sent to the principal office address of each company. In order to cope with severe state budget cuts, the Office of the Secretary of State will now only send a small postcard with an image of the annual report, instead of a full mailing with the annual report printed on a letter-size piece of paper. This reduces the cost of each annual report piece mailed from $0.45 to $0.27, at an annual cost-savings of over $32,000. The postcards still allow companies to make small changes on the card to send back to the Office of the Secretary of State, but a vast majority of filers will make no changes to their annual report and can simply check a box to indicate as such. If substantial changes need to be made, the company can print the full-size annual report online or file the report online.

"This change will not only save money for the taxpayers of Kentucky, but will also allow our office to further our commitment to reducing our impact on the environment," commented Grayson.

Secretary Grayson urges all business entities to "save time and file online" by making use of the online annual filings at www.sos.ky.gov/annual-reports.

have conspired to create existed in Prestonsburg, Salyersville, Corbin, Middlesboro and Albany, as well as West Virginia, Tennessee and Texas.

It is further alleged by federal prosecutors that Michael and Christopher Smith intentionally failed to disclose to potential investors in the brochures that several states issued what are known as cease-and-desist orders against Target Oil. This order is issued by a state entity prohibiting a company from certain business practices.

Seven states, including Kentucky, issued the cease-and-desist orders. In 2003, the Kentucky Department of Financial Institutions ordered Target Oil to stop selling securities to non-accredited investors and to offer all material facts during the sale of an investment.

According to the indictment, a total of six gas and oil well programs were put together in Floyd County over the five-year period.

Stalking

according to Patricia Vanhoose, MCC's victim services program outreach education coordinator.

"In the past, stalking victims might have been harassed by being followed in a car and called repeatedly, but by the use of today's information and communication technology, stalking has changed dramatically," Vanhoose said Monday. "Cyberstalking is now very common."

Vanhoose says a cyberstalker's behavior includes false accusations, monitoring, the transmission of threats, identity theft, damage to data or equipment, the solicitation of minors for sexual purposes and gathering information for harassment purposes.

"We want everyone to enjoy the new technologies and be safe," continued Vanhoose. "In order to be safe, we must know the facts about stalking and be knowledgeable about protecting ourselves from them."

The facts can be eye-opening, says Vanhoose.

Statistics gathered by The National Center for Victims of Crime show that more than 1 million women and some 370,000 men will be stalked each year in the United States. Those figures translate to 1-in-12 women and 1-in-45 men enduring some form of stalking in their lifetime.

The statistics also point to the fact that 87 percent of stalkers are male, with an average duration of stalking extending for more than a year.

So just how does today's cyberstalker go about his activities? Vanhoose says these people are advanced and frighteningly efficient.

"Stalkers increasingly are using phone records, computer software that displays every key typed and other technologies to stalk, monitor, control and terrify their victims," Vanhoose said. "This is unfortunate because cell phone are an essential part of victim's safety fans."

MCA

Project has stood with the school all of these 26 years," said David Aker, administrative consultant for Mountain Christian Academy. "We knew there would be a point and time where they would want to phase themselves out. Essentially, these last five years they have been doing that. They are going to give $80,000 to us this year, and that funding culminates in August. That will be the last funding we receive from them."

In order to help keep the school open, various organizations started donating money when they learned about the financial difficulty that the school was facing.

"We started the first of December with a $104,000 deficit that was going to essentially close us," Aker said. "The people on our board, families of students, the PTO, athletic boosters, and other

One protective measure victims can use is what Vanhoose refers to is to maintain a log stalking-related incidents and behavior. She says recording this information can help in documenting behavior for restraining order applications, divorce and child custody cases or criminal prosecution, while also preserving one's memory of individual incidents which could later be used for testimony.

supporters have rallied and have come up with $51,500 and that has relieved our pain considerably."

According to Aker, after the tuitions are paid, the school will only lack $26,000 to make it all the way through the end of the new school year in May.

"One of the hopes that we have is contacting and communicating with the United Methodist Church about becoming involved with Mountain Christian Academy," Aker said. "Some of them are showing a lot of interest in getting the religious community involved. Their interest is very encouraging to us at this point."

Stimulus

is in a crisis, but the impacts of climate change are far greater in the long run. Fortunately though, there's no need to sacrifice one for the other.

Green jobs are in danger of disappearing from the stimulus package, to be replaced with shovel-ready jobs, such as President-elect Obama's recently announced plans to create thousands of jobs by "weatherizing" houses. While weatherizing houses is important, it is a short-term project for employment. It is not the same as creating lasting high-tech work or building infrastructure. Green jobs, however, are solid, necessary jobs which have a long-term future. What we need now is a firm commitment to include in the stimulus package funds for "green" infrastructure and jobs — the real way to revitalize the economy and look toward the future.

Nancy Pelosi has touted other projects like investments in new energy technologies and energy-efficient buildings. We need to hold her and the rest of the Congressional leadership to those promises, demanding that they take bold measures to resolve the economic crisis holistically — by taking into account the challenges of the climate crisis, the health of our children, and the needs of our workforce, which is waiting for green American jobs that can't be exported.

Our government must begin the shift towards a global economy driven by massive job creation from the growth of green technology, construction, transportation, and renewable energy. While the road to a green economy might be long, we need to use this opportunity to build it.

Rogers is the president of Earth Day Network.

EK Miners roll past Georgia, improve to 8-0

TIMES STAFF REPORT

PIKEVILLE — Remaining perfect in the 2008-09 season, the East Kentucky Miners defeated the Georgia Gwizzlies 140-95 Sunday at the East Kentucky Expo Center in another Interleague Challenge game versus an ABA opponent. East Kentucky was dominant, blanking Georgia 7-0 in the quarter points category on its way to improving to 8-0. The Miners managed to break free from the Georgia team in the first half. East Kentucky owned a double-digit lead at the end of each quarter. The Miners carried a 63-47 lead into halftime after leading Georgia 35-24 at the conclusion of the opening period.

"The second half was a good half for us," said East Kentucky Coach Kevin Keathley. "We shot almost 76-percent in the second half. We needed to push the ball more in the second half and we did. The players gave a solid second half effort. We made some adjustments following the first half and were able to get the win and improve to 8-0."

Former CBA Player of the Year Galen Young turned in a triple-double performance of 12 points, 11 rebounds and 10 assists for the Miners. Mike Dean was the leading scorer for East Kentucky, finishing with a

Union turns back Lady Bears

TIMES STAFF REPORT

BARBOURVILLE — No. 21 Union College returned to its winning ways Saturday as the Lady Bulldogs rolled to a 92-71 decision over visiting Pikeville (Ky.) College.

A trio of Lady Bulldogs scored in double figures, marking the first time that has happened since Dec. 10 when Union defeated St. Catherine (Ky.) College 81-46, which was also the last time Union recorded a victory.

Junior Ashley Lunsford notched her third double-double of the season as she posted 18 points and grabbed 12 rebounds. Junior Brooke Smith posted a team-high 26 points in going 10-of-14 from the field and a perfect 4-for-4 from 3-point range. It was Smith's eighth 20-point game of the season.

Junior Carley Blankenship chipped in a season-high 18 points and team-high seven assists.

Union quickly built a 10-point advantage as Smith scored with 14:50 remaining in the first to make it 14-4. The margin hovered around 10 points for the next several minutes before the Lady Bulldogs used a 25-7 rally to open up a 49-23 cushion with 2:44 left.

Pikeville fought back, using a 9-0 to close out the half to make it 49-32.

As the second half unfolded, the Lady Bears (11-4 overall) continued to chip away at the margin. Meagan Johnson capped an 11-4 Pikeville rally to cut the deficit to 53-45 with 15:22 to play.

Union regrouped and reeled off a 14-2 run to open up a 67-47 lead at the 12:16 mark. Blankenship hit two 3-pointers during the rally as she accounted for eight points. From that point, Union maintained control, never allowing the lead to drop lower than 16 points en route to the 92-71 win.

Natiera Hinton paced Pikeville with 29 points and five rebounds. Johnson and Lakia Bailey helped out with eight points apiece.

Both teams shot well from the field with Union finishing with a slight edge. The Lady Bulldogs made 46.8 percent (29-of-62 shots) from the floor with Pikeville connecting on 29-of-64 shots (45.3 percent).

The difference in the game occurred behind the 3-point line and at the foul line. Union drained 13-of-27 3-point attempts (48.1 percent) as compared to Pikeville's 14.3 percent (1-of-7 shots) 3-point shooting percentage. In addition, Union was near perfect at the charity stripe as the Lady Bulldogs went 21-of-23. Pikeville finished 12-of-16 (75 percent) on its free-throw attempts.

ALC student-athletes give back to area communities

TIMES STAFF REPORT

PIPPA PASSES — Alice Lloyd College prides itself on commitment to service within the Appalachian region. During the recent holiday season, several of ALC's athletic teams exemplified this commitment by giving back to their communities through various service projects. Alice Lloyd College head baseball coach Scott Cornett and the entire team made the short trip over to the Knott County Sportsplex in order to help with the Rural Area Medical (RAM) event that provided many of the areas uninsured families with much needed medical care. Numerous doctors, nurses, dentists, optometrists, and other medical professionals volunteered their time and energy to make this program a huge success.

During the weekend event, the baseball team loaded and unloaded trucks with medical equipment, cleaned and took out trash, pulled and folded the floor coverings, and then cleaned the floors before leaving the Sportsplex. Angela Smith, one of the RAM coordinators, commented, "This would not have been the success it was had it not been for the hard work and devotion of the volunteers. Many thanks and much appreciation go out to the Alice Lloyd College Baseball team for volunteering their time to help with this event."

Speaking on behalf of the ALC baseball coaching staff, Assistant Coach Jason Stowers, commented, "This was a great event and was a huge help to so many people. For some of the families, being able to see that their children had medical care was a Christmas wish come true. It was good to see our athletes willing to jump in and help any way they could. In addition to just helping, every time we do something like this our students learn a lot about themselves and other people. They are very humbled by this type of project and many of them realize how fortunate they are at home.

The ALC men's basketball team and the school's cheerleading squad also found a unique way to give back to the community during the holidays. These two groups made their way to McDowell Elementary on December 16 to deliver Christmas presents to Mrs. Kristi Crum's Kindergarten Class. In addition to the gifts, the ALC students spent quality time singing Christmas carols and reading to the children. Overall, the day was an outstanding success. The students recognize the importance of giving back to their community through activities such as these.

"It was good to get to be a positive influence on the lives of these children," said ALC Eagle Preston Simon-Spradlin, a Betsy Layne High School graduate. "We could tell how much getting these gifts from us meant to these kids, and that made it all the more special for us."

Cheerleader Brittany Adams felt much the same way as Simon-Spradlin, calling the trip a blessing. For Adams, the best part was getting to see the children's faces light up when they opened their presents. "Christmas should be about giving, and I was proud to have the opportunity to give of myself for the benefit of these children," said Adams.

East Kentucky prevails in front of strong fanbase on Appalachian Wireless Night

TIMES STAFF REPORT

PIKEVILLE — Returning from a holiday break, East Kentucky gradually pulled away from Tru Hope Friday in another Interleague Challenge game pitting a CBA team versus an ABA squad at the East Kentucky Expo Center. # Lady Colonels can't complete successful comeback bid

TIMES STAFF REPORT

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn. — Eastern Kentucky trailed Austin Peay by 21 points at halftime but used a 19-2 run to start the second half to close the gap to four before falling 70-66 Monday night. Freshman Kayla Drake led the Lady Colonels (4-8, 1-3 OVC) with 20 points.

Colette Cole scored 19 points and grabbed seven rebounds for EKV. Nadia Mossong contributed 14 points and a team-best eight rebounds. The Lady Colonels held a 39-36 edge in rebounds.

Two days after committing 33 turnovers at Tennessee State, Eastern gave the ball away only 19 times against the Lady Govs (7-8, 3-1 OVC).

Ashley Herring scored a game-high 21 points for Austin Peay. April Thomas turned in a double-double with 19 points and 10 rebounds.

Austin Peay scored the first nine points of the game and led 11-4 after a basket by Thomas. A three-pointer by Drake cut the deficit to five, 14-9, with 12:54 remaining in the first half. Another six straight points by the Lady Govs, including four points by Brooke Faulkner, pushed the APSU lead to 11, 20-9, with 11:19 showing on the clock.

An old-fashioned three-point play by Thomas followed by a three-pointer from Faulkner, stretched the Austin Peay lead to 14, 26-12, with 8:27 to go in the first half. The Lady Govs suffered through a scoring drought that lasted nearly three minutes, but EKV was only able to shave two points off the deficit. Herring's trey ended the APSU scoring drought and pushed the home squad out to a 31-14 lead.

The Lady Govs ended the first half with a 7-2 run and took a 38-17 lead into the locker room at halftime.

Eastern Kentucky scored the first 13 points of the second half. Drake opened play with a pair of free throws and a three-pointer from the top of the key. Cole followed with a trey, and back-to-back jumpers by Jasmine Lewin made it a 38-29 game with 16:21 remaining. Cole's free throw capped the 13-0 run and left the Lady Colonels down 38-30.

APSU's first points of the second half came over six minutes into the period. A basket by Lauren Jones snapped the EKV streak and pushed the Lady Gov advantage back to 10. However, Eastern scored the next six points to close what began as a 21-point deficit to four, 40-36, with 11:32 left in the game.

Seven straight points by Austin Peay's Whitney Hanley, four from the free throw line and a three-pointer from the left wing, extended the Lady Gov lead back to 13, 50-37, with 8:28 to go. Eastern Kentucky closed to within nine, but back-to-back three-pointers by Herring put APSU back on top by 12.

A trey by Drake brought the Lady Colonels back to within nine, 59-50, with 2:11 to play. Mossong's three from the right corner made it a seven point game, 61-54, with 1:07 showing on the clock. A pair of Mossong free throws left EKV down by six with 47 ticks remaining. Cole hit a three-pointer from the left wing with 37 seconds to play to make it a five point game 64-59.

Austin Peay made 6-of-8 free throw attempts in the final 32 seconds to secure the victory. Drake's three-pointer with two seconds remaining set the final score.

Eastern Kentucky shot 38.2 percent (21-for-55) from the field for the game. APSU made 36.5 percent (19-of-52) of its shots. After hitting 19 in the first half, the Lady Govs connected on only five field goals in the second half.

After concluding a two-game road trip, the Lady

Colonels will return home for a pair of games. EKV will face Jacksonville State at McBrayer Arena on Thursday. Tip-off is scheduled for 5:30 p.m.

Dunlap named SEC Player of the Week

TIMES STAFF REPORT

LEXINGTON

Kentucky's Victoria Dunlap (Nashville, Tenn.) was named the Southeastern Conference's Player of the Week after averaging a double-double with a team-high 15.5 points and 13.5 rebounds in the Wildcats' two wins last week, the league office in Birmingham, Ala., announced Monday.

The sophomore forward scored 11 points and grabbed 12 rebounds in the 72-63 win over North Carolina A&T and followed that performance with 20 points and a career-high 15 boards against Miami Ohio. She is just the sixth player in school history to join the 20/15 club and the first to accomplish the feat since Jennifer Humphrey did it in an SEC Tournament first-round win against Arkansas in 2007. A force on defense, Dunlap also recorded a season-high 10 defensive rebounds, a career high-tying five steals and a season-high three blocks against N.C. A&T.

Dunlap, UK's leader in points (12.4 points per game), blocks (16) and steals (29), has now scored in double-figures 10 times this season, including six in a row. The Wildcats are 13-5 when she scores in double digits and 3-0 when she has 20 points or more. She ranks tied for 15th in the SEC in scoring and is fifth in rebounding with 8.4 rebounds per game.

This is Dunlap's fourth overall conference honor as she was named the SEC Freshman of the Week three times last season. However, it marks Kentucky's first SEC Player of the Week since former Wildcat Sarah Elliott received the honor on Jan. 17, 2005.

Kentucky, which is riding a five-game winning streak, concluded non-conference play with a 10-5 record, a vast improvement from last year's 6-8 mark heading into league play. The Wildcats travel to Knoxville, Tenn., Thursday, Jan. 8 to face No. 8 Tennessee in the SEC opener for both teams. Tip-off in Thompson-Boling Arena is slated for 7 p.m. EST and the game will be carried live on the Big Blue Sports Network (radio) with Neil Price.

THROUGH THE LENS

A brief history of (measuring) time

by ERIC THOMAS

The New Year has begun, and with it the inevitable march of time toward another holiday season. With its start, some people resolve to make improvements while others (especially the youngest among us) look forward to becoming a year older. We mark the passage of time on our calendar, recording the events that make up our lives. But have you ever wondered where the calendar actually came from?

Eric Thomas

Since pre-historic times we have sought ways to track time. Early on it was imperative for our ancestors to know when seasons would change, when animals would migrate, when to plant, and when to harvest. For these people the sky was their calendar. The first rising or setting of specific stars or the rise of the sun over particular geographic landmarks let our ancestors know when these seasonal events would take place.

By about 3000 B.C. when the early Britons were in the middle of building Stonehenge, the Egyptians, Chinese,

POISON OAK

A January memory

by CLYDE PACK

When I was a child it was not unusual for large birds—like crows and hawks and buzzards—to be seen in the woods surrounding our neighborhood. Guess that's why I gave little or no thought—at least at the time—to an incident that occurred as I was nearing my fifth birthday, back in 1944.

"Yep, that's definitely a bald eagle," Dad said.

Clyde Pack

Its head might as well have been a white flag as it reflected the bright January morning sun in front of a cloudless blue eastern Kentucky sky.

My Dad, brother Ernest (nine years my senior), and I, were standing on the back porch of our little coal company house, looking up to the head of Smoky Hollow at a large dead tree—we called it a "snag." The eagle was perched right in the top of it, and was at least half a mile away.

"This is the third straight morning he's been there, Daddy," Ernest said.

According to Ernest, the eagle would appear, sit there, sometimes for up to an hour, then fly off, always in the same direction.

"Tell you one thing," Ernest said. "If he comes back tomorrow, I'm going to be sitting right under the ole snag."

Dad sort of chuckled. "You're about as close to him as you're gonna get," he said.

The next morning just after daylight, 14-year-old Ernest put on his gloves and pulled his 'boggan down over his ears. With Dad's old single-shot, 12-gauge shotgun held loosely in his right hand,

SAYING THANKS

Goins tribute to soldiers, veterans headed to DVD

by JARRID DEATON
FEATURES WRITER

Melvin Goins is a bluegrass icon from the mountains of Bluefield, W.Va., but his fanbase stretches far and wide, with plenty of Eastern Kentucky music lovers relishing the opportunity to see Goins and his band in concert.

On Jan. 10, Goins will be at the Mountain Arts Center in Prestonsburg for a special tribute to the troops and veterans show.

"Any bluegrass fan worth their salt loves Melvin Goins," said Danny Simpkins, a Williamson resident who purchased his tickets last week. "He always puts on a great show, and he has such a history in mountain music. Plus, the concert is for a good cause."

Goins has been immersed in the world of bluegrass for over 58 years and has worked with many of the legends who are viewed as the fathers of bluegrass, including Bill Munroe and Ralph Stanley.

According to Goins' biographical information, his new band, Melvin Goins and Windy Mountain are moving forward with their traditional sound that has served Goins and has fans for well over half of a century.

As part of the tribute to the troops and veterans, a DVD of the show will be produced at sent to the troops that are currently serving overseas, and veterans at Walter Reed Hospital. Goins also produced a DVD of a concert at the Mountain Arts Center last year that was also sent to the troops.

The Melvin Goins Homecoming Concert will begin at 7 p.m. at the Mountain Arts Center. Dave Evans, Charlie Sizemore, Ernie Thacker, C.J. the D.J., the Moron Bros., and others are scheduled to perform. Tickets are on sale at the Mountain Arts Center, with advance tickets at $20 and $22 at the door.

For more information on the concert, call the Mountain Arts Center at (606) 928-2121.

Big Sandy Community and Technical College (BSCTC) and the BSCTC Music Program announce the 2009 Big Sandy Idol Premiere Sponsor: Jennifer Reynolds' State Farm Insurance. Located in Pikeville, Reynolds' State Farm business is community oriented and Reynolds enjoys "giving back."

"I am pleased to help the youth of eastern Kentucky," Reynolds said. "I believe when you give to your community, it is one of the greatest things you can do."

Big Sandy Idol is a vocal talent and scholarship competition that offers two winners from each high school in Floyd, Pike, Johnson, Martin, and Magoffin Counties (14 high schools) a chance to compete for a demo CD recording, a full-album recording, and the top prize of a $1,200.00 vocal scholarship to attend BSCTC, along with a spot with the Big Sandy Singers who are directed by Laura Ford Hall. The two winners will advance to compete at the regional-level of competition, held at the Mountain Arts Center on March 13 and 14, 2009 where they will compete for these prizes and ultimately two students will win a scholarship to college. The Idol program is directed by Clayton Case with Music Program Director Hall and Technical Director Timothy Cooley.

"I can't thank Jennifer Reynolds and her business enough," Hall said. "I am amazed and incredibly grateful that someone would be so generous to offer their sponsorship to our students and music programs."

Ten Years Ago (January 6, 1999)

Frontier Night is Saturday at Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. You'll be buffaloeed at the buffet from 4 to 8 p.m.

Former Floyd Circuit Judge Hollie Conley has been honored by the Floyd County Bar Association with a room named for him. The courtroom in the courthouse bears the designation of the Hollie Conley Courtroom, by order of the outgoing Judge-Executive Ben Hale, who said the bar association requested the naming.

On New Year's Day, Hugh E. Naylor, 40, of Toler, lost his life in an early morning blaze that engulfed the trailer where he was reportedly spending the night.

What the Floyd County Board of Education failed to do during its regularly scheduled meeting on Dec. 21, it accomplished during the special meeting on Dec. 28: naming the state manager Woodrow Arnold Carter, as secretary of the board, and after an executive session, going a step further and naming Carter as the interim superintendent.

A rock slide on KY 1428 near Cow Creek has blocked traffic since New Year's Eve. J&M Construction Company is breaking the boulders up so they can be removed from the highway. Hugh Sammons of the state highway department says nearly 2000 tons of rock fell when a natural high wall weathered and gave way.

Aiming for a smooth transition, Floyd County Judge-Executive Paul Hunt Thompson had his new staff in place before the beginning of the regular work day on Monday. Fifty Years Ago and Mayan civilizations had established complex calendars of their own. The Egyptian calendar was based on a 365 day cycle, and was used to predict among other things, the annual flooding of the Nile. But all calendars both the ancient and modern have on thing in common, Astronomy.

In 45 B.C., Julius Caesar, set about the task of reforming the calendar of the Roman Empire. It seems that the roman priests, who controlled the calendar, could sometimes be bribed to manipulate it adding days to prolong the terms of elected officials or even deleting days to bring on new elections. In an effort of political reform, Caesar abolished the lunar calendar that was in use at the time and with the advice of the Egyptian Astronomer and Mathematician, Sosigenes of Alexandria, established a calendar based on the Sun.

The new calendar of Rome which came to be call the Julian Calendar featured a 365 1/4 day year, (sound familiar). Caesar decreed that the calendar year would actually be 365 days long and that in February of every fourth year an extra day would be added making it a 366 day year. But, it turns out that our solar year is not a perfect 365 1/4 days long, it is actually a little shorter by 10 minutes and 48 seconds. Because of this miscalculation, after 128 years Caesar's calendar had slipped backwards by one day. By the 1500's when the calendar was again being considered for correction again, it had drifted off by a full 10 days.

It was the Catholic Church and Pope Gregory XIII that found it necessary to straighten out the mess that calendar had become. But you might be thinking, why was the Church concerned about correcting the calendar and the astronomy necessary to do so? Quite simply the answer is Easter!

As it turns out, the rules for calculating the celebration of Easter made reforming the calendar very necessary. Those rules required that Easter be celebrated on the Sunday following the Full Moon that occurs on or after the day of Vernal Equinox (the first day of Spring) By the time of Pope Gregory, with a 10 day error in the Julian calendar, there was just a little confusion about when the First day of Spring actually was.

So, in February of 1582 Pope Gregory after accepting the proposal for corrections made by Aloysius Lilius, a physician from Naples, he decreed that 10 days were to be dropped after October 4th of that year to correct the calendar and bring it back into agreement with astronomical observations of the Equinox. It is this "Gregorian Calendar" that we still use today. But what Lilius suggest to correct the drift of the Caesar's calendar you ask?

It was very simple, and has to do with manipulating the Leap Years. Lilius suggested that every year that is divisible by 4 remain leap year, unless it is a year divisible by 100 which would not be a leap year. If, however, it is a year divisible by 400 remains a leap year after all. See, I told you it was simple.

So, as we move into the New Year that is 2009 and begin to work on our resolutions, just remember, that while we may take the modern calendar for granted, it took centuries of astronomical observation and mathematical work to get it to the accuracy it has. And, while it is by no means perfect (there another story here), it does work very well for our purposes today. Oh, and by the way, there are only 351 days until Christmas!

just as he had done dozens at times when he'd go rabbit or squirrel hunting, he quietly headed up the hollow in the direction of the old snag.

"Is he going to shoot it, Daddy?" I asked.

"Oh, he may think he is, but he won't."

In a little while, sure enough, and right on schedule, the eagle appeared in the top of the ole snag. But this time, he wasn't alone. Perched next to him was another eagle.

"Well, would you look at that," Dad said. "It's a pair."

We couldn't see Ernest, but Dad said he had had plenty of time to get there. This time, though, the eagles left the old dead tree after only a few minutes. Furthermore, when they flew, they didn't fly in the usual direction. Instead, this time, they flew in our direction, right over our house, and out of sight.

We never saw them again.

In about 15 minutes, Ernest appeared in view, the shotgun dangling loosely from his right hand, just as it had been when he left. As he walked into the backyard, he was grinning from ear to ear.

"How close did ya get?" Dad asked.

"Not close at all," Ernest answered, "I had the feeling they were watching me from the time I left the back porch. I'll tell you one thing, though, they shore are two big birds—and they shore are pretty. And, Daddy, just so you know, I took this ole gun in case I ran into some of those old crows that's been eating our corn."

"That's what I figured, son. That's what I figured."

I finally figured out that what occurred that morning was very rare indeed. Rare also, I suppose, is the fact that the two majestic birds have returned in memory nearly 65 years later.
