Robert Matney, 25 years old, of Martin, well-known Chesapeake and Ohio Railway brakeman, died at 10 o'clock Sunday night at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, a few hours after being hurt in a motor accident at Allen, this county.

Kenneth Adkins, companion of the victim and owner of the wrecked car, sustained serious injuries. The car, a Dodge sport roadster, was a mass of wreckage after leaving the highway at the upper limits of Allen and plunging approximately 60 feet over the bank leading to Beaver Creek.

DIAMOND

monds are long on the market, they usually figure in scandals of one sort or another. Eventually they find their way to 'fences' and pawnshops. Soon they are again in legitimate jewelry stores.

"So much sentiment is attached to engagements, weddings, birthdays, Christmas and those other gift occasions when diamonds are given, that most people naturally prefer a diamond of known origin, a stone that never before has been worn. Sentiment, of course, but who of us would care to give a loved one a second-hand gift with an unwary eye?

"It was to fill this demand that the Virginia Diamond Syndicate was organized some years ago and the phrase, 'Virginia Diamond' was coined. Only selected, rough, direct from the mines, stones are used. They go from the original hands of the mine to the Virginia Diamond and wear this precious gem."

Dan Heffer, well known lawyer of Prestonsburg, has been selected as local representative of the syndicate.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday, September 26, 1930

Sunday School, 9:45 a. m. Be here at this hour and study God's word under the instruction of trained Christian teachers.

Preaching by the pastor at 11 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.

Morning subject: "The Seventh Commandment." In preaching on this commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Commit Adultery," the pastor will show that God in giving this commandment, is guarding the chastity of marriage, the sanctity of the home, the blessedness of the household, the preservation of society, and the uplifting of mankind. There will be nothing that is sensational, as is often done in treating this subject.

Evening subject: "The Lion's Den." Hear this sermon, and you will know how God regards sin.

This church is fighting the battles of God, our country and our homes. Won't you come and help us fight these battles? You are probably interested in this fight through the pastor. If the pastor so desires, he can leave this town, but you cannot do so, because this is your home, your interests are here, and to leave would be a great sacrifice.

ROADS AND POPULATION

Good roads are so necessary to modern life that people will change their place of abode to get them.

The new census figures for four Southern states show that the only one of them to do any extensive road building in the past decade increased her population 24 per cent. The other states' only about three per cent.

An adequate mileage of paved highways is as necessary to progress as railroad or electric service. Competition on main highways has become a big problem in many states.

New roads render invaluable service to the people. This is especially true in rural localities. We cannot have farm prosperity until farms are connected with markets and the outside world by surfaced, year-round roads.

Motorization of agriculture is as essential as motorization of industry.

It is safe to say that the states which are now undertaking extensive road developments will be the prosperous, progressive and growing sections of the future, providing their road building expenditures are made along scientific and business-like lines.

DISTRICT KIWANIANS IN MEETING FRIDAY

One of the most enjoyable meetings of the year took place at the M. E. Church in Palmisville, Friday night. It was the pleasure of the Palmisville Kiwanis Club on that date to entertain the twelve members of the Prestonsburg club with their guests...

The visiting club furnished the bulk of the program, which was in charge of Kelly Day, of Pikeville. The Pikeville club, led by Francis Rice, sang their favorite song, "Kindling the Wood." Collis Hudson, with his characteristic voice, chimed in, and for his extra good singing he awarded himself an extra dish of cake and cream.

The address of welcome was delivered by Martin Wheeler for the Palmisville club. He can always be depended upon to welcome anybody, anywhere, at any time, to any meeting. Response to address of welcome by Oscar Hinton and Rev. Odie Polley, both of Pikeville.

Rev. Thomas Ashley, then acting governor of the Kentucky-Tennessee Kiwanis District, read the interesting report followed by three short addresses.

The four 1930 by Patton Holson, Pikeville; Prestonsburg, W. H. Smith and Prestonsburg, was one of the most thorough addresses delivered, due to the use of so many words beginning with the letter P. About 85 of the words used were of that original.

John Ed Arnold, Prestonsburg, had the honor of "The Reason Why I Vote."

Dr. H. B. Daniel, Palmisville, told the club of "The Most Embarrassing Moments of My Life." These addresses were very much enjoyed by every member of the club.

Some very delightful music was provided by the Hickman-Fitzpatrick-Henley trio of Prestonsburg; Miss Edith Fitzpatrick is a very delightful singer, singing a few very popular songs.

Miss Hickman and Mr. Henley, playing the piano and trombone, left us with no doubt in our minds that Prestonsburg has some wonderful musicians.

Then, Frank Strayer, of Pikeville, made his first address on the program, and on September 14-15 was Constitution Week among all Kiwanis Clubs of Kentucky. He selected "The Constitution of the United States" as his subject.

He handled his subject in a masterly way. Frank's subject was not of the ready-prepared, memorized variety, but as he went along he could reach up to one of those numerous pegs in his large store house of knowledge that has accumulated through the years and take down just the information that he needed to the point to the club the points far beyond. The facts and figures that he has at his command are amazing.

He is the most interesting talker to come before the club this year.

The Palmisville Kiwanis quartette sang a few numbers. These who have heard them know how good they are.

Harry Hertz and Fred Atkinson and their "Six Armed Band" performed also. When they play foot your toes, scuffling in your shoes and looking down find your fingers snapping time to the music.

Before adjourning Palmisville club had roll call. The secretary was ready to mark Joe Ward absent when he came bounding in with a wall-eyed, five weighing 65 pounds.

In line with doing their bit to welcome the visitors in true Kentucky hospitality, Rice's Drug Store acted as host to the entire sixty-two Kiwanians immediately after dismissal from the church. -Palmisville Herald.

Credit Corporations Would Help Faamers. Secure More Loans

Farmers in agricultural communities of Kentucky who cannot obtain loans locally to tide them over, may be able to do so by forming agricultural credit corporations, according to a station report prepared by C. A. Reynolds of the department of markets and rural finance of the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky.

Agricultural credit corporations are comparatively simple in form and rather easily organized, Mr. Reynolds says. Not less than three persons can form a corporation and they should be organized under the corporation laws of Kentucky. The minimum paid-in capital stock of a corporation is $10,000. The stock may be subscribed, however, by banks, interested businessmen and other individuals as well as farmers.

Once organized, an agricultural credit corporation may immediately obtain funds from a Federal intermediary, Credit Bank up to, but not to exceed ten times the amount of its capital stock. A corporation with $10,000 capital may therefore borrow as much as, but not to exceed, $100,000 from this source.

Individual farmers obtaining loans through the local credit corporations sound principles of banking are observed in the making of these loans.

Federal Intermediate Credit Banks are the means through which agricultural credit corporations obtain funds, as announced by the Federal Intermediate Bank at Louisville, are designed to permit the corporations to save acceptable and at the same time afford reasonable protection of the credit system.

The Federal Intermediate credit system was established to provide agriculture with short term and intermediate credit extending up to the three years. It was a major source of credit for the farmer and it is estimated that since total loans in excess of $2 million dollars were made to them by the Louisville Federal Intermediate Credit Bank. In other agricultural sections, agricultural credit corporations are being formed by farmers to supplement other sources of credit.

The use of credit by farmers through agricultural credit corporations has recently been endorsed by the National Prohibit Relief committee and approved by the Kentucky Debt Relief committee.

SUDAN GRASS FATAL TO KENTUCKY LIVE STOCK

Sudan grass has caused the death of cattle on several Kentucky farms this year, according to reports received at the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky. One farmer lost eight head in two hours.

Like sorghum, Sudan grass contains prussic acid, although in smaller amounts, according to Dr. F. E. Hull, of the department of animal pathology. It is the action of this acid that causes death to cattle.

Since Sudan grass contains prussic acid in varying amounts, cattle occasionally eat it without fatal results. Tests have shown that an animal may die from eating as little as 20 pounds of grass, while in other instances as much as 60 pounds, have been consumed before the animal succumbed. As an average, 10 pounds will be fatal.

Sudan grass is especially dangerous when damaged by the weather. Dr. Hull said, Likewise, the prussic acid may be the cause of the death of the animal.

UNION TO SEND COME

save every ear of corn that can possibly be used for seed next spring.

One of the most serious aspects of the "small corn" crop is the possibility of serious seed shortage for planting next year's crop. In a worst case, almost a acre of the state corn is almost a complete failure.

Unless farmers in such dry areas make an effort to save seed with this fall, they may be compelled to buy seed from outside sources. Because of the drought it will spread, especially in regions growing corn, of some 200,000 acres in those areas in Kentucky, it may be difficult to secure seed.

Southern Kansas, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Virginia and Tennessee, where Kentucky often scores well, also suffered from drought. There will be little surplus seed here and hence many to try in a well corn. Regions having a good crop of seed corn also suffered from drought.

grow varieties that are not adapted to Kentucky. Attention is also called to the fact that last year's corn was not only good seed, but that seed used for next year's crop. In a worst case, almost a acre of the state corn is almost a complete failure.

PLAN GOLF COURSE ON BEAVER CREEK

Prestonsburg, Pikeville and Beaver Section To Be Afforded Fine Course

Preliminary steps were taken this week to insure the location of a golf course on Right Beaver Creek, near Allen, within the next few months.

Negotiations have been entered into between local golf enthusiasts and the Beaver Creek Consolidated Coal Company for a 10-acre lease for the tract of land lying on the right side of Beaver Creek at the upper limits of Allen on which the course is to be located.

This tract consists of more than 80 acres, it is said, and is an ideal location.

The plan is to admit to club membership any interested person from Prestonsburg, Pikeville and the Beaver Creeks. A large number of business men from this territory are interested in the project, and expect to become charter members.

This course will be designed and constructed along lines which go to make a real golf course. Grass grown on the tract, and later a clubhouse will be erected, it is planned.
