PROMINENT ROAD CONTRACTOR DIES AFTER EXPLOSION

W. W. Carter Fatally Injured in Dynamite Blast at Martin

FAULTY FUSE BLAMED

W. W. Carter, 55 years old, prominent contractor and one of the wealthiest men in Webster county, died at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, 25 minutes after he had injured at a dynamite explosion at Martin.

Mr. Carter's skull was crushed when a charge of dynamite exploded as he was standing nearby. The explosion was soon over, the result, it is believed, of a defective fuse.

The charge was left in the bill side of the Beaver Valley road, from New Market toward the hospital, on the south side of the road. Mr. Carter was on the ground at the foot of "Pike's" mine, and the contractor for the same had just been called for to look over the mine, it is said when the explosion occurred.

STURGILL TO CONTINUE TO ASK PENALTY

Cammack, Bonding Company Claim Governor's Act Illegal

Like practically all other Kentucky sheriffs, Sheriff Sturgill is asking penalty from taxpayers delinquent after December 31, though Governor Simpson has issued a proclamation postponing the time to February 1, when such penalty shall be in charge. This action is being taken by Sheriff Sturgill upon the advice of his bonding company and that of Attorney General J. W. Cammack, who hold that the Governor has no power to transmute the penalty of the law which sets the penalty date of January 1.

Here Are Actual Figures On Much-Discussed Drouth

By F. C. Hall, Local Observer.

Meteorology

When we speak of "the drouth," it reminds us of the hot dry summer and fall days we had last year when every leaf bowed and was glad to see just a shower of rain. Few people in Prestonburg and Floyd county realize how much rain actually fell. It was the drouth hit the hard and crops were short, but that this, for there is much rain for which to thank.

The first warning was in the month of April, when no rain fell, for 21 consecutive days. There was some rain, of course, only 1.32 inch on six different days. May brought eleven rainy days with a total of 2.7 inches. June was hot and dry, with barely four-fifths of an inch. August brought some relief on eight different days, a total of 2.07 inches, while September was the driest month of all, only .73 inch of an inch falling on five different days. October precipitation was 1.00 inch and November, 1.80 inches. December was up to par with 2.84 inches on seven days.

Summing up the entire year of 1930, we find the rainfall in this district to be exactly 20.58 inches—enough water, it is estimated, to float a log down the low down main street.

BEVERLY HILLS COP IS REAL AUTOCRAT

Movie Actors Same as Any One Else to Him.

Hollywood, Calif. (The portion of... Beverly Hills has a father confessor who draws no lines of class, race, or previous condition of manhood.

He is Captain Hiram, chief of police, whose career has included the positions of deputy sheriff, deputy coroner, and motorcycle officer.

He enforces the law in an out-of-the-way part of the city, for he patrols only the streets and he hunts runaway dogs.

He has said that he treats all the willows alike and for proof he points to the time when John Gilbert, the screen actor, was given a job in jail for disturbing the peace.

On that occasion Gilbert left his home where he was giving a party and went to the police station to demand that officers arrest all his guests.

The insistence led to his own arrest. During the debate Gilbert announced a patrolman resented his manner of speech.

Gilbert was placed in the "common drunk" cell and was there for 30 hours. The officer who knocked Gilbert down still is on the force.

Neighboring quills fall to Hiram for settlement. Ordinarily they are brushed up, but on that which featured House Peters, the actor.

Four neighbors complained that he had rigged up a wash boiler on which he hammered at outrageous hours.

They claimed that he was reducing because the neighbors placed their radio at a window and turned it on full blast at 11 a. m.

That he told a certain neighbor to give up his wash boiler and the neighbors turned down their radio.

Jackey in Early Youth. Hiram was a boy for Sam Houston, the noted Canadian oilman, in his early youth. He came to Beverly Hills when the only real estate agent was House Peters, Will Rogers, and Douglas Fairbanks.

He was given the position of night watchman, a job he held for several years. He was promoted to day watchman. Now he is on the force.

This job is not for as many as to prevent crime and its great goal is to prevent lost jobs.

So well organized is the department that it has had only one major crime in 18 years, the murder of E. L. Dore, Jr., by the murder of E. L. Dore, Jr.

And that points with pride to the fact that he has never had a burglar, more than that he has never had a burglar, more than that he has never had a burglar.

He is a member of several organizations, including the Beverly Hills Police Association, the Beverly Hills Police Association, the Beverly Hills Police Association.

His record is perfect. He has a clean record and a clean record. He has a clean record and a clean record.

Spanish Cave Believed World's Oldest House. Lawrence, Kan. (The oldest house in the world is a cave near Castle Spang, said Dr. F. W. Blackman, professor of sociology at the University of Kansas, in an address recently on "How Old is Man?"

He said that the remains of 13 different races that lived in this cave as far back as 100,000 years ago have been found, he said. Doctor Blackman said that while it is impossible to determine exactly where, how, and when man first appeared on the earth, more of the early history of man has been learned in the last 75 years than in all the centuries preceding, and all parts of the world are now being searched by anthropologists for traces of early man.

Los Angeles Revealed as a One-Horse Town. Los Angeles, Calif. (In spite of its population of more than one million, Los Angeles still is a "one horse town."

There is but one lone, solitary horse and buggy available for the young aviator that would be willing to go in the style of his grandfather. In 1910 there were 70 trolley cars in Los Angeles.

In 1920 the competition of automobiles and airplanes has cut this down to four.

Of the four, only one has a horse and buggy for rent.

DIFFER ON WHAT MAKES SEA BLUE

Scientists Fail to Agree as to the Cause.

New York. What makes the sea blue? Is it some chemical present in the water that colors the ocean? Or is it the scattering of light as affected by the molecules of water that imparts the marine blue tinge?

Scientists are divided on this point. The explanation that the sea is blue because it contains some copper compounds is advanced by the German chemist, Richard Willstätter, according to the European correspondent of the American Chemical Society.

Willstätter's thesis is as follows: "The blue color of sea water, visible in a thin layer as in a bathtub, is due in evidence, complete comparison of the nature of certain minerals. It is known that copper is present in the sea. Then there is continuous production of organic acids and amino acids as the result of the decay and decomposition of protein substances in the sea water. The conditions for the synthesis of cupramin salts are favorable in the sea. Blue vitriol or copper sulfate is well known. Sea water is similarly fitted with it.

However, this explanation is not fully acceptable to all scientists. Fritz Haber, chemist who developed synthetic ammonia, thinks that the color of the ocean is due to some property of light, related to the depth of the sea.

A still more interesting and subtle analysis of sea color has been given by Sir G. G. Stokes, the Hindu Nobel prize winner.

According to Dvoretzky Raman and Lord Rayleigh, the blueness of the sea, like that of the sky, is due to a scattering of light by the molecules of water itself. Shorter wave lengths, that is, the blue and violet light, is scattered more than the longer or reddish end.

Business at a Carnival. Three men came to Shanghai and a carnival man offered him a booth. Wang engaged an English speaking man to help him in the attraction to the foreigners who might come to see it and opened up for business.

Twenty thousand persons, mostly Chinese, paid 10 cents each the first week to see the show. Business increased the second week. It is estimated that fully 250,000 Chinese have viewed the creature. Many foreign residents of the city, too, visited the carnival for other purposes than to see the wonder.

The majority of foreigners, however, are inclined to regard the baby of the carnival as an extraordinary piece of engineering.

Where Others Failed. A graduate of the Missouri School of Engineering, two years ago, the Niagara dam was his first project. The student of more than the mere construction of a dam, as J. R. Quigley and his engineering firm discovered many years ago. Quigley organized the Missouri Water Power company and began construction of a dam in 1920. The project was too big, and after spending $28,000 Quigley was forced to quit.

The Missouri Electric Power company, subsidiary of the Utilities Power and Light company, organized Quigley to build the present dam.

The most outstanding engineering feat is a 500-foot tunnel, five-fourths round the base of the mountain. When in operation, the dam diverts the water through the sloping tunnel, at the opposite end of which is the hydro-electric power plant.

PICTURE ON SHELL BRINGS BOY WEALTH

Chinese Youth Charging 10 Cents a Look.

Shanghai.—He was only a poor Chinese country boy, who managed to keep his live and mobile home, after by catching crabs and selling them to the residents of Swatow, a South China seaport at prices so low a New York restaurateur would consider a nickel one per cent profit. That was less than six months ago.

Today this same boy has more money than he knows what to do with, and all because of a single crab.

The name of the crab, and he is a direct descendant of a long line of Kwangtung farmers and fishermen, simple folk, who worked and lived in Swatow, was a legend that helped make Wang rich.

Desired to Become a Fish. One of the tales in which Wang's people took great stock concerned one of his great-great-grandmothers. The story goes that she was a beautiful girl who believed in the transmigration of souls and cherished a desire to become a fish after her death.

She was, however, in the ocean several miles from shore.

Inspecting his basket of crabs one night sometime ago, Wang noticed one whose shell seemed to bear the outline of a human face. A close look revealed the face was that of a charming young woman who had lived and lived the old story about his ancestor was true.

To keep the next few days showing the find to his customers. One of the discoverers, said, and soon the boy was spending all his time showing the crabs to his customers in the market and townsquare at 10 cents a peek.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

Live in Exile in Various Parts of World.

In the mechanical department of a New York newspaper, the man got up a special machine to help him in the printing of the paper. He had a special machine to help him in the printing of the paper.

There is considerable speculation, however, as to whether the machine may not be out of it before the end of the present year. Several of the royal exiles, particularly King George of Greece, have been in the city of Washington, and the former king of Greece is known to be anxious to obtain their thrones.

The first bid for a crown, however, will probably be made by a boy who has never known a king's power.

King George of Greece, who is now in exile in the city of Athens, and attained his majority, according to the royal tradition.

He has been carefully tutored for the role of king by his mother, the Empress Zita. One by one she has won the attention of the royal branches of the Hapsburg family.

An attempt to place Otto on the Hungarian throne would create a new crisis in central Europe.

A coup d'etat, on behalf of King George of Greece also might have repercussions in central Europe. King George recently expressed a belief that he will be called back. In this respect he is like the former King of Albania, who still hopes the Egyptian Nationalists will offer him the throne he lost in 1914.

Not only the royal exiles exceed in energy the unfortunate Anamullah, who was driven from Afghanistan years ago because of his modern ways. Secret Anamullah organizations are said to be active in Afghanistan in his behalf.
