PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY, APRIL 3, 1931

$2.00 Per Year

1930 COST OF FLOYD CIRCUIT COURT, $44,203

Circuit Court Last Year Cost $1,032,891, Keown Reports

SALARIES NOT INCLUDED

PRESTONSBURG, Ky., March 25, (Special)—The cost of the Floyd circuit court for the operation of the court during the year ending on March 31, 1930, was $44,203, according to a report made public by Robert E. Keown, state auditor, at Nashville.

The report was compiled by Mr. Keown from a report of the state auditor, and is the first of its kind since the year 1910. It shows that the cost of the court has increased 300 per cent since that time. The report also shows that the salaries of the judges and clerks are not included in the cost of the court.

A SOURCE OF WONDER

It is a constant source of wonder to us why it is that Kentucky's road-building program cannot be shaped so as to include the immediate construction of the route from Allen to Hindman.

Federal aid has been procured for this stretch of proposed road, and the matter is left strictly to the discretion of the state highway department.

Years ago, the citizens of the Right Beaver Creek section voted road bonds for the Floyd county part of the route. These people voted these bonds with the understanding that their face value would be matched by the state on the three-for-one basis; in other words, three dollars from the state for every one dollar voted by the people.

And now, out of a federal fund aggregating $3,991,991, the sum of $1,302,992 is available for new road construction in Kentucky.

The state highway commission cries, "No funds!" And continues to pave roads which already are easily and comfortably passable throughout the year. Not only that, but down through the state little curves are being taken out of perfectly good roads, new road bed made and new concrete poured—all at the expense of the state.

Boulevards for certain sections, rivers of mud for others! Is there any compelling reason that all could not share in good roads and be content to await the future for the boulevard?

Small wonder it is that we wonder!

At the same time no little source of wonder to us is how we have succeeded in getting what we have. This business of two or three men, however earnest and capable they may be, presenting our claims before the state highway commission is pseudo-business. Not only Beaver Creek but all Floyd county and all Kentucky would be the richer if the Allen-Hindman route and the eventual completion of the larger highway system of which it is a part; and our claims should be presented not by four or five but by a hundred citizens, for the one being at least uniting in a worthy cause.

BLUE RIBBON STANDARDS

The Blue Ribbon standard is one of the things which are being put into effect by the state highway department. It is a standard which is being set for the road-building program in order that the state may be able to secure the best possible results from the money which it is spending.

More Than Million in Twenty States Fed by Red Cross Volunteers

Hot School Lunches and Balanced Rations Given to Drought Victims—Seed Programs Instituted on Wide Scale

More than 1,000,000 persons in 22 drought-stricken counties of 20 States came under the care of the American Red Cross in what developed into the most extensive relief operations in half a century of ministering to sickened human beings.

Measures to lessen the severity of the blow inflicted by drought were taken early as last September, when seed was distributed to more than 38,000 families for the planting of dry and other crops, and to more than 27,000 families for the planting of kitchen gardens. The expenditure for this purpose amounted to $226,809. Green vegetables were made available up to the first of January.

Early in February another Red Cross garden program got under way and 507,000 packages of seed were distributed in 15 states. Quarter-acre plots were planted to beans, leeks, cabbage, carrots, collard, sweet corn, lettuce, turnip, mustard, okra, onions, peas, spinach, squash, tomatoes, and turnips. These signs were farm families given the opportunity to participate in their own salvation.

A comparatively mild winter contributed to the success of the Spring and Fall seed campaigns. Many lightbulb single-croppers were introduced to the advantage of kitchen gardening, balanced rations and balanced diet. Numerous land-owners have expressed the opinion that this constitutes the one important element in coming out of the drought catastrophe. The United States Department of Agriculture and the local county agricultural agents and home demonstration agents cooperated in making this part of the relief operations outstandingly successful.

Balanced Meals Served Red Cross feeding was aimed at adequacy and scientific correctness, as well as simple economy. In large numbers of schools, where children were found to be attending with little or nothing in their bellies, hot lunches were served at noon. A typical menu consisted of vegetable soup and bread, sweetened condensed milk, hot coffee and cheese, peanut butter, or jam sandwiches, a third day.

ROME WREATH PASSES AWAY

Desert Explorers Find Odd Things of Interest

The Libbyan-Gesell expedition in search of the lost oasis of Zenaria under the leadership of Major Danahill returned to Cairo Wednesday night, after a 100-day journey. The expedition of 10 men and 100 camels, leaving Cairo on the 15th of January, had traveled 1,000 miles in the desert. The expedition was successful in finding the lost oasis of Zenaria, and for the first time the route was made across the desert to Assouf on the Nile. It was of the Libbyan oasis, (the oasis of the Nile) was the old name of the Nile valley. James Salisbury is home for the first time since his departure from Lexington, Ky., where he was attending the University of Kentucky.

Salisbury, who is now a member of the faculty of the University of Kentucky, is expected to return to Lexington in the near future.

He was the first of the Salisbury family to attend the University of Kentucky, and his return is a source of pride to his family.

Salisbury is a well-known scholar and has been a member of several national organizations.

He is expected to continue his work at the University of Kentucky for several years.

Embassy Captive Saved by Message in Bread

It was hardly surprising to find that the Soviet ambassador to France, Jean de Monzie, had been captured by the German forces during the recent invasion of France.

The ambassador was held captive for several days, but was eventually released after a message was hidden in a loaf of bread.

The message, which was written in code, informed the French forces of the ambassador's location and the circumstances of his capture.

The French forces were able to locate the ambassador and rescue him, and he returned to France safely.

The story of the ambassador's capture and rescue is a testament to the ingenuity and courage of the French resistance.

Remarkable Low Note on Australian Organ

One of the great organs in Sydney, Australia, is a model of its kind. The organ is a masterpiece of craftsmanship and is a source of pride to the city.

The organ is a remarkable example of the art of organ building and is a testament to the skill and talent of the Australian organ builders.

The organ is a source of inspiration and joy to the people of Sydney and is a true treasure of the city.

Lizard Teaches Lesson

Chickens and other birds are often taught to perform tricks and stunts. A lizard has been taught to perform a similar feat, and it has become a popular attraction at a local fair.

The lizard is a remarkable animal and its ability to perform such a feat is a testament to its intelligence and agility.

The lizard's performance has attracted a large crowd of spectators and has become a highlight of the fair.

Spain's National Flower

The cherry-blossom tree of olden times, but unfortunately now in the Orient, is about to have its one thousandth birthday. Following its arrival in Japan and China from Korea in the early 200s, the cherry-blossom tree has become a national flower of Japan.

The cherry-blossom tree is a symbol of beauty and grace and is a source of pride to the people of Japan. It is a true treasure of the country and is a testament to the art of horticulture.

Sell "One"

The advertising manager of a certain company was endeavoring to sell his plan to the board of directors. When he saw that it would be almost impossible to do so, he made this remark: "It is not necessary for me to go into the details of the complexities of this advertising plan, because one member of the board, because the intelligent man understands advertising well. I would, however, like to confer with him immediately after this meeting." When the meeting was adjourned, every member remained in the seat--American Metal Magazine.

Boys on Parade

As in the case of the college student, it takes but little to start the New York street with an air of parade. He finds a long pole, or even a discarded and dilapidated broom, which will do for a flagpole. He and his companions seize on a pile of cellophane or discarded paper, and these are carried on a broom or a pole, and the line of youngsters, perhaps half a dozen in all, march proudly up the street to the bally stage tune of "The Marine Steer Song."
