State Fair Exhibits To Show Farm Progress

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 20.—A full quota of exhibits that will demonstrate the progress that Kentucky is making in the domains of agriculture, horticulture, the raising of livestock and industry will greet the thousands of visitors attending the twenty-eighth annual state fair to be held in Louisville, September 11-19, inclusive, according to Tate Bird, secretary.

"Kentuckians" said Mr. Bird, have a fair-voicing people and it is unfortunate that many of our countrymen are to be abandoned this year because of economic conditions. For thousands of these people the Kentucky state fair will bridge the gap this year, and we are, therefore, cordially inviting them to come to Louisville and make their "fair home" with us for the entire week.

A unique recreational feature of the state fair, Mr. Bird said, will be the "Fiesta of 1931—the World of Paradise"—scheduled for the entire week as an evening grandstand attraction.

Features of this entertainment will include concerts by the Royal Scottish Highlanders Band, the Chicago Grand Opera quartette, ballet choruses and soloists, and an annual chorus. In addition, there will be a variety of other features, including a variety of horse shows.

GOVERNMENT WORKS HELP EMPLOYMENT THROUGHOUT U. S.

Washington, D. C., Three official reports published today show the federal government to be the largest employer of labor in the United States, and in announcing the construction of public buildings would be under way.

Two of the reports were announced by the president at a press conference, a treasury report showing the status of the federal building program as of June 15. It showed a total of 258 projects authorized to cost $475,000,000. This figure included $25,320,876 completed since May 15, 1929.

A department of labor report stated that federal and cooperating non-federal employment agencies had placed 1,000 persons in jobs between April 1 and July 1.

A third report by the president's emergency committee for employment agencies data supplied by cooperating agencies in 34 localities over the country. They showed no general trend, but dealt mostly with conditions in the locality concerned.

Green Sees Misery While these reports were being issued President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, in a speech at New Bedford, Mass., estimated the present number of unemployed at 14,000,000. He proposed an immediate conference of financial, labor and economic leaders to discuss unemployment, and said they ought to pledge themselves to retain employed not at work. At the White House it was said no word had been received from Green making such a proposal.

They have also reports in the last few days of the work of federal agencies designed to coordinate relief in preparation for next winter. The reports this week dealt with the situation just now.

The labor report was submitted to the president by Secretary of Labor William C. Duggan and dealt with the work of the reorganized employment service of his department. On July 31, he reported, there were 332 federal and cooperative non-federal agencies working to find jobs. Between April 1 and July 31, he reported, these agencies provided a total of 438,589 jobs.

To speak conclusively of the work and said: "Despite the prevalent unfavorable economic conditions we feel that our efforts will have an appreciable effect upon the employment situation during the approaching winter."

The treasury report on building detailed the progress made with the building program of July 15, President Hoover in an accompanying statement, said that a total of 258 projects had been specifically authorized at a cost of $475,000,000, and summarized the progress of the last two months as follows:

816 buildings were completed at a cost of $210,000,000, the two-year total on completed buildings was brought to $675,226,876.

Contracts were let for 42 additional buildings, and these are ready for workmen. The present number of buildings under contract but not completed is 192, with a total contractual cost of $185,337,296.

Denver Police Way Forty-seven buildings were brought to the stage where contracts were in process, some having been acquired and plans drafted. There are now 11 buildings in this category, estimated to cost $14,230,500.

Plans were under way, after acquisition of sites, for 49 additional works. There are altogether 192 in this stage, estimated to cost over $181,350,000.

Sites were acquired, or are being negotiated at this stage, to cost $30,203,841.

There are 156 projects altogether in which bids have been opened for sites. These are estimated to cost $34,871,100.

The emergency employment committee's report gave no picture of the general situation, but contained reports giving the situation in individual towns and districts. There was notable improvement in Arkansas, particularly in rural districts where there is a bumper crop this year.

There was no great change in the situation as reported from key cities, but there was one note of color from Denver, where the city offered $500 to men, women and children picking up refuse in city parks at 5 cents a pound.

QUIT THIN LAND AND SCRUE STOCK, SUGGESTS COLLEGE

The suggestion is made by the farm economics department of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, that this may be a good time to stop cultivating thin lands and to quit raising scrue stock.

"The present economic condition, says a statement by this department, with prices of farm products at a low level, as compared with prices of times which the farmer must purchase in the operation of his farm, calls for a change in the farmer's management. It is suggested that the farmer should reduce his land under cultivation to the minimum level, and should devote his resources to the raising of a few choice breeds of livestock and to the raising of a few choice breeds of poultry.

FOUR TAKEN AT AUXIER MAKING 'RUN' OF LIQUOR

Four men were captured at Auxier Thursday of last week by Constable John Craft while, it is alleged, they were making a "run" of liquor at a house here. The prisoners taken were Robert Freeman, John Hatfield, Joseph Ratliff and Dan Stephens.

The four men were taken to Pikeville before the United States commissioner.

Picturesque "Home" for Wild Life in Franco

There has been constituted in the south of France a national refuge for wild life which, in some ways is the most picturesque natural home for bird and beast to be found in Europe. It is situated on the Camargue, the island faucos in old French history and legend and well known to visitors to Arles in Provence. Really the delta of the River Rhone, entirely formed by alluvial deposits, it is in great part a saline region of marsh and prairie.

The Societe Nationale d'Acclimatation, which has charge of the refuge, possesses about 75,000 acres of land ultimately to 100,000 acres. Even after a relatively short season the migratory birds of many species which have always used the island as a landing station are increasing in numbers. For many it is the last stopping-off place for Africa. Besides every sort of wild duck in immensurable numbers, there are geese and egrets—there are many rare birds which cannot be seen elsewhere in Europe. Perhaps the most interesting to be found in flocks of 3,000 or 4,000 together.

Little-Known Men Who Are Worth of Honor

It is suggested that a statue be erected to the memory of the man who first introduced the orange to Great Britain. Japan already has a statue to the memory of the man who first put up a statue to Marie Curie, the inventor of Cimentobit cheese, and Germany, in Berlin, has a statue to Sir Francis Drake for bringing the potato from the New World to the Old. But nobody knows who brought the orange to England. It is just as worthy of a statue as the man who first brought the orange to England. It is just as worthy of a statue as the man who first brought the orange to England. It is just as worthy of a statue as the man who first brought the orange to England.

Blinds Not "Venetian"

Van this historic, now becoming popular in America, are not, and never were, really Venetian. Home and Field says: "While the roller shade is purely an American invention, the use of venetian blinds, or tilting slats, dates back nearly 2,000 years to the West Indies. The article says: 'The blinds now in use are quite similar, but with added improvements. Apparently there is authoritative information as to why they are called Venetian. Careful research shows that they were not used in Venice until many years after they had been in use elsewhere. It has been suggested, however, that they may have been invented by a Venetian trader making his home in the reign of Charles I. Though very few people have heard of him it was he who introduced turkeys, doves and other sown grasses into Britain and so laid the foundation of modern agriculture.—London Mail.

The Three of Them

The following incident is reported by Mrs. A. M. G.:

"A little five-year-old girl was added to my class last Sunday, and when the lady who brought her introduced her to me she said: 'She was born in Egypt.'

"I thought no more about it, and when class work began, I told the little tot about Moses. The little new comer said she had heard about Moses; and then, to interest her, I said, 'Moses was a Jew, but he was born in Egypt.'

"Yes," exclaimed the new child, 'all three of us were born in Egypt; my sister, and I, and Moses.'—Kansas City Star.

Make Life a Battle

Young people like to do things. A keen student of youth has said that the average young man, gets a far greater thrill out of having his own pathway through the world than in rolling along in a luxurious car over a roadway that other hands have prepared. But, after all, no one can wholly remove from us all responsibility of our own lives. Nobody has a right to lead life uninteresting or unadventurous who sees within the sphere of his own activity a wrong he can help to remedy, or whose himself an evil he can help to overcome.—Montreal Family Herald.

Says New Buildings Uglyly

"There is a saying that God made the country and the devil made the town," said Sir Thomas Coryn-Clair in an address before the Council for the Preservation of Rural England, in London recently. "When I walk in London and see the buildings they are erecting, I can only believe, therefore, that the work of the Almighty, England owes everything to the poet."

COMMUNISM—A THREAT

The red band of Communism is seen by certain observers of events taking place in the Kentucky and West Virginia mountains during recent months.

The circulation of socialistic literature, the presence of organized workers in mining camps, strikes and various outbreaks are cited as the works of those who would, it is alleged, eventually overthrow this government.

The authenticity of all these reports is not to be roused for by us. It is our belief, however, that the doctrine of Communism is seeping into parts of Kentucky. This belief is encouraged by the economic conditions existing in this section as well as all others throughout America.

Communism and kindred ideas flourish most when the world faces times of stress. The present depression leaves the gates wide open to their encroachments. We all have a little of the Red in us. This trait makes an outcrop when we are out of work, out of money and face only dark days. It is a natural revolt, that of resenting the leisure class, the capitalist and all the fortunate when we are among the unfortunate.

The mine trouble, it occurs to us, is not the trouble of any one class. The operators are fighting to keep their noses above the water. At the same time miners are receiving low wages, oftentimes little or no work. Naturally, the miner does not see the other side of the case and resents a condition in which he finds himself at the point of starvation. Thus it is that the communists find him a ready disciple.

While there are certain parts of the Communist theory that this government may eventually adopt, it is our contention that, if workmen do find it necessary to strike, they should not depend upon interlopers bound upon destruction as leaders but should act upon their own initiative. Red Russia and those who work in accord with its principles are not devoted to any cause except their own; the horny-handed son of toil is not any particular favorite of theirs.

Then, if this government, which has served America well through years of travail and bloodshed and has led our people to the highest position held by all the peoples of the earth, has in the past been fit to live and work under and to fight and die for, those who are its enemies should find no sheltering roofs, no encouragement from its people.

This country has done quite well, acting on the theory that there is a God, that the institution of marriage is sacred and that liberty under a republic is to be desired—all of which Red Russia casts aside. Whatever our present ills, the greater part of them are the result of straying from these fundamentals. Until others have something better to offer, we should be satisfied with what we have.

Warden Says Conditions at Frankfort Pen Disgraceful

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 15.—Handling more than 2,000 prisoners in an obsolete reformatory with a maximum capacity of less than 2,000 is the job of Warden W. M. Roach.

Warden Roach says some of the prisoners are compelled to live under conditions that are "a disgrace to the state of Kentucky." But he doesn't worry about escape plans at all. "We treat the pen well," said the warden. "If we didn't they would tear these old walls down before we knew it. There are men who sleep in those dormitories and suffer without complaint because they know I'm ready to give them a medal dot."

...sitting on top of a volcano?" the warden was asked. "Not at all," he replied. "The secret is this: we feed the men well and we don't work them like mules. And they appreciate that kind of treatment."

The state reformatory in the north part of Frankfort is a fortress-like pile of gray stone. Some of the masonry was built 150 years ago, and still stands. It has been added to until by unit to provide for a rapidly increasing criminal population. Conditions are miserable, with the inmates crowded into small, poorly ventilated cells.

FLOYD COUNTY TIMES

The legislature that established the reformatory stipulated the prisoners wear stripes to distinguish them from convicts. The stripes are worn on the chest, the trousers and the cap. Prisoners from practically every state in the nation, with a few from foreign countries are in the Kentucky reformatory, one-third of them are negroes. There are more than thirty women prisoners in the women's division, which has 54 single cells. "Some of these are pretty tough," the warden remarked. "We have every type of prisoner, from the children thief to the gangster and killer type."

Fighting among the prisoners is kept at a minimum by shuffling the cells, by cell doors in the solitary block. "Being the solitary" is somewhat of a punishment. "What would happen in case of fire in a cell-block?" the warden was asked. "If there was a fire the turnkeys could soon unlock the cells," he replied. "They are trained to work fire breaking out in the cell blocks. They are of solid stone."

The prison is partly self-sustaining. There is a prison bakery and an ice plant. Physicians and dentists at the prison hospital give some of the prisoners the first medical treatment they ever had. The prisoners are allowed to walk.

SCHOOLS HERE TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 7

The Prestonsburg and Floyd County High School during the last five years has been growing by leaps and bounds. The enrollment for the school year of 1926-27 was 115; 1927-28, 139; 1928-29, 153; 1929-30, 199; and 1930-31, 254. The enrollment of 1930-31 was an increase of 150 pupils over the enrollment of 1926-27. For a gain of more than 400 per cent in five years. The number of high school teachers employed in 1926-27 was four and the number in 1930-31 was seven teachers or three more than in 1926-27.

Early Scheduling of Pupils
The high school pupils are requested to come to the high school building and schedule for the subjects which they desire to take this year on Thursday, August 20. The school will be scheduling pupils on these days. The teachers can give more time to each pupil. Come and get your schedule for the year made and avoid duplication of subjects. It is hoped the high school pupils will come and heartily cooperate with the teachers on these days.

A NEW ERA DAWNS

When Marcus preached the gospel of optimism at this time it does not with the medicine of rapid recovery. It is with the work to be done and then the horizon is looking above the business horizon.

It is quite certain that business will show further weakness during the coming months. It is quite certain that which will receive public recognition of a discouraging type. It is quite certain that even the business indexes may go slightly into new low ground during the late summer and fall.

But, so far as business matters and the business of life is concerned, we seem so far to the bottom as to justify these words of encouragement and a gospel of well-founded hope and faith. The individual who turns pessimistic now is likely to be just as wrong as one who is still optimistic in 1929.

Fortune seems to be a promise duty to look into the future as well as the present and to interpret for his readers the probability of coming trends, and for men and investors to the business world that the dawn of a new era of prosperity is not far off.

The new era of prosperity will not start tomorrow. It will not attain its full bloom this year. It will not be based on false hopes, on high and unrealistic promises, or on a question of mere prospects. It will be an unshakable and unrescindable fact, but it will be a period of prosperity, how long.

It will come whether you are and without it being it of, and so will be the greatest stresses and highest awards in the hands of those who are now preparing for it and who go to meet it far down the road with courage, faith and resourcefulness, and definite action.

COUNTY AGENT'S 4-H CLUB NOTES

The regular monthly meeting of the 4-H club was held Sunday evening, August 16. Mrs. Annie Spradlin, in the position, presided. A majority of the club members were present, together with 75 visitors. The program consisted of material taken from the Bible and the various Bible stories were well presented by the club members.

The Book Junior Club held its regular meeting Friday afternoon, August 14, at the lower Sourdack school. Superintendent John Stephens visited the school at this time and made a very appropriate and timely address to the club and club members. Prof. Claude Laferty is assisting the club at this school. Wm. Haywood was a visitor at this meeting and gave the club members some good suggestions for their work this summer.

Bonanza Willing Workers Club met Saturday evening, August 15. Thelma Ruth Badridge and Miss Edna Conley, the club officers, had charge of the meeting, and the club presented a very interesting program. Two leaders and three club members went on the Carter-Covey, to the district club camp from this club and they gave a good report of the activities of the club members and leaders while at camp. Approximately 100 club members and visitors attended this meeting.

DEWEY

School is progressing nicely up this place, with Emma G. Spradlin, teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Bascom Clarke, of Prestonsburg, were visiting Mr. Clarke's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Clarke, Sunday.

Misses Ella Belle Akers, Blossie Hall and Edith Mayo were the weekend guests of relatives at Auxier.

There was church at the Burchett school house Sunday. A large crowd attended.

RED CROSS NEWS

Any persons who might need their lawns cut or have any other work about their places, please call the Red Cross secretary, and she will try to send you some worthy persons. Many calls are made daily for food. At this time funds are very low, but by co-operation we might be able to furnish work for these people and assist them to buy food for their hungry children.

Each day there are calls for clothing and school books. When you are through with a garment, don't hang it back for the moths to eat. Start it once a Red Cross thrift box or box with it. When you collect several garments call the secretary and she will gladly call for them, or better still, if you are down town leave them at room G. Layne 501B.

As the cool afternoon approach circles will be organized to sew and patch for the worthy poor.

Hand up your needles, threads and thimbles and we will have a good time and also help the needy ones.

Red Cross urges every one throughout the county who has a surplus amount of fruits and vegetables to can and dry them, as this winter there will be many families throughout the county for help.

Bar Association to Open Office in Frankfort

Plans are being rapidly completed by the Kentucky State Bar Association for the opening of a permanent office in Frankfort on September 1. According to an announcement just made by J. V. Cunniff, of Louisville, Kentucky, president of the association...

Next year the bar association will have a permanent home in a building erected by the state bar association. The building is now under construction and will be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1932. The building will be a two-story structure and will contain a library, a conference room, a committee room, and a reception room. The building will be owned by the state bar association and will be used as a permanent home for the association's offices and as a place for the holding of its annual meetings and other business sessions.

Mrs. R. J. Brown has returned to her home in Ashland after a visit here last week with Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Brown and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hays.

French Law Officials Waked Long to Strike

"It is a serious thing to fall foul of the law in France," writes a columnist in the Manchester Guardian. "The elephant never forgets, and naturalists assure us that most French officials of the law, whose desks are after some escape from Devil's Island or the Foreign Legion they are wont to be tapped on the shoulder in the streets of the cities or Bordeaux and told to come along to the police station."

Nothing Modern About the Use of Spectacles

Glasses for the aid of our sight are almost as old as the universe. It is not surprising, therefore, that the first spectacles were made of horn and were used by the monks of the Benedictine order in the twelfth century.

Action of Roentgen Rays

A German physicist, Wilhelm Konrad Roentgen, has discovered the X-ray in 1895. He was a professor at Wurzburg at the time. The X-ray is a form of electromagnetic radiation that is similar to light but with a much shorter wavelength.

The late Sir John Lubbock, a wealthy and famous naturalist, was once troubled by a pest of insects in his garden. He built a house for the insects and they were gone.

Try Yawning

If you would fortify your witting nerves before walking into the boss's office to ask for that long-delayed raise or for that business higher job, just yawn and indulge in a hearty stretch. The procedure is guaranteed by one authority to give renewed courage and vocal tones that will reflect confidence in the crucial interview.

Italy's Flag

The royal flag of Italy consists of a square field, of which is centered the national coat of arms. When Napoleon made the northern provinces of Italy into a kingdom in 1805 he gave it a flag of three colors—green next to the flagstaff, white in the middle and red the fly end. This flag disappeared when Napoleon was overthrown, but was revived when Victor Emmanuel, king of Sardinia and a name of the house of Savoy, became king. At the present day Italy's flag consists of the Savoy arms, surmounted by a crown, on a white vertical stripe of Napoleon's green, white and red.

FIVE-YEAR-OLD TOT IS POISON LIQUOR VICTIM; MAN HELD

Five-year-old Danny Spaulding, son of Mrs. and Mr. Stewart Spaulding, former residents of the Wildwood section of Wayne county, was found dead from acute alcoholism as the result of being given moonshine whiskey. The Spaulding boy is the youngest alcohol victim that has ever been reported from this section.

SAFETY SUGGESTIONS

Three elements must be considered in highway accidents—the car, the driver, and the road. According to statistics, the driver is the most important factor in most accidents.

TIRE VALUES versus TIRE DEFINITIONS

WE KNOW that car owners are interested in real TIRE VALUES, but are not particularly interested in tire definitions which manufacturers and distributors of special-brand multi-cord tires had the National Better Business Bureau adopt that they could use to their advantage in their advertising.

When the National Better Business Bureau realized that the public was being misled—and an attempt was being made to keep the truth about real tire values from car owners, they issued a bulletin July 10th which in substance restricted their sponsorship of tire definitions.

Firestone extra values are the result of great savings in buying—great savings in efficient and economical manufacturing and distributing, plus the patented process of Gum-Dipping—the patented two extra cord plies under the tread—and a more efficient non-skid tread, which makes them safer than any other tires.

We have sections cut from Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires and Special-Brand Mail-Order Tires, and invite you to come in and judge for yourself the extra values we give you—values that you can see and understand instead of "definitions." Then we know you too will buy Firestone Tires as thousands of other car owners have done to the extent that during May, June and July they bought more Firestone tires than during any like period in history—Drive in today!

*When the National Better Business Bureau realized that their Bulletin No. 634 was being taken advantage of by some advertisers they issued a Bulletin dated July 10th as follows:

"In our Bulletin No. 634 entitled 'Definitions of Terms Used in the Tire Industry' we published definitions of First Line—Second Line—Third Line—Heavy Duty and Super Heavy Duty Tires.

"Our definitions pointed out, 'Although each manufacturer's or distributor's first line tire may represent his best standard size 4 or 6 ply tire, there is not necessarily an equality of competitive first line tires as to materials, workmanship or price.' This interpretation also applies to all lines of tires.

"We therefore recommend that all tire advertisements be restricted to the use of the terms 'competitive products'."

HEALTH NEWS

Compiled by Dr. Marvin Ransdell, Director, Floyd County Health Dept.

THE WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE AND KENTUCKY

The White House Conference on Child Welfare and Protection, 1931, was convened here for the assembling of forces and the laying down of principles. The facts gathered are vital and voluminous. Representing the positive result of sixteen months of diligent study and painstaking research by twelve hundred experts in the various fields of child life, they constitute a contribution of immeasurable potential value to solution of the many problems involved. The principles enumerated number nine hundred and are summed up in what, with singular appropriateness, is termed "The Child's Charter."

But knowledge of facts, however full and accurate, is worth little unless translated into action. The potential into the actual properly applied. In seeking to render effective the findings of the conference, it is necessary to recognize, as did the conference itself, that promotion of child welfare is not the special province of any particular governmental agency or of governmental agencies alone. No, those of other states, local, state, or federal, of any safeguarding the lives and promoting the welfare of the child, of any particular group organization, or of any group organizations as such. On the contrary, it is a problem having child participation from every branch of human activity in the community—group and individual, governmental and civic, professional and lay.

It is not too much to say that the most important problem confronting the people of Kentucky is the promotion of child welfare. It is the responsibility of every citizen to contribute to the solution of this problem. In the solution of this problem, the safety to the community.

Let Vegetables Be Versatile And Your Meals Be Superb

What the country needs is a diet that is not only good for the body but also good for the soul. Vegetables, without which the diet is incomplete, long may they be, therein lies a little object lesson for cooks.

We've been telling vegetable cooks for some time now, let's turn our energies to finding some new ways to prepare them, that we may "vary our victuals."

For one thing, we may scallion them, using a medium white sauce made "creamy" with onion, and cream with cornstarch, as in the next recipe for scalloped cauliflower. Or we may saute them in a bland oil to bring out their flavor, or make them into fritters, as in the tomato recipe. Then, of course, there are vegetable salads, composed and served for the most course. They will all perfectly the role assigned them. If we get busy and discover they are versatile!

Here are some recipes to begin on: TOMATO FRITTERS 1 cup salt 3 cups tomatoes 1 tsp salt 6 cloves few grains cayenne 1.5 cup sugar 1.5 cup butter 3 slices onion 1.2 cup cornstarch 1 egg 1 cup milk

Cook first four ingredients 20 minutes, put all through a sieve except seeds, season with salt and pepper. Melt butter, and when bubbling, add cornstarch and tomato gradually; cook 2 minutes, then add egg, slightly beaten. Pour into a buttered shallow pan, and cool. Turn on a saucer, cut in thin slices, garnish or saute. Roll 30 crumbs, egg, and crumbs again, fry in deep oil, drain and serve. Use either fresh or canned tomatoes; the fresh ones require longer cooking.

SCALLOPED CAULIFLOWER 1 medium cauliflower 1 salt and pepper 1/2 cup white sauce 1 1/2 cups white sauce 1/2 cup milk 1 1/2 tablespoons corn oil, and cook 1/2 tablespoon minced onion in it until tender. Then stir 1 tablespoon corn starch, 1/2 teaspoon salt and pepper to taste, into oil and saute. Cook for two minutes, strain, then stir in 1 cup of milk. Continue cooking until sauced thickens, boil 3 minutes, strain and keep warm until using in scalloped cauliflower.

Break cauliflower head into small pieces, strafe, then stir in 1 cup of milk. Continue cooking until sauced thickens, boil 3 minutes, strain and keep warm until using in scalloped cauliflower.

READER ASKS STEPHENS TO MAKE JUDGE'S RACE

To the Editor of the Floyd County Times: I wish to express for myself and hundreds of other voters of this district a demand for Claude P. Stephens to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Judge of the 11th Judicial District.

His record as Commonwealth's Attorney has been such that the needs of this district for a capable, fearless circuit judge prompt us to call upon him to make this race.

Yours truly, A. BEADLER.

Argument Saves Game For Both Teams Sunday

Arguments are hardly things sometimes. Sunday's was, anyway. At an argument didn't reason when it did Sunday. It is quite probable, some body would have lost a ball game in the regular fashion. As it was, the game was saved.

We disagreed and the game ended with each team in possession of four runs and the firm belief that it would have won.

The opposing teams and the dispute were the West Prestonsburg and Sayreville unions. At the close of the game, the Macon county boys had all the better of the going, leading three-run lead off Hinnant and a...
