FLOYD TAXPAYERS' RECORD FOR 1931 BETTER THAN 1930

Laffoon Proposes Extension of Time for Sales for Taxes

LENIENCY URGED

Despite the fact that the tax record for 1931 is better than for 1930, the county commissioners have urged leniency in the collection of taxes for the current year. The commissioners, at their meeting on Monday, January 4, discussed the tax situation and the possibility of extending the time for the collection of taxes for the current year.

GEORGETOWN TOPS PAINTSVILLE, 22-19

Georgetown, Ky., Jan. 2. Georgetown's championship flag came from behind her last night to mark her third straight victory on their county round trip with a 22-19 decision over the hitherto unbeaten Paintsville high fives. In a preliminary game the Paintsville coach kept their score clean with a 26-11 triumph over the alumni.

The Georgetown boys had previously beaten Morehead, 28-21, and Ashland 27-17 in their road trips which made them the first team to win a 100% record in the first half. In long days by the fifties in the first round proved their downfall in the exciting contest. J. C. and Robert H. H. of Georgetown scored the game.

SEEK DISSOLUTION OF TOWN IN FLOYD

Heavy Taxes, Few Benefits, Situation at McDowell, Claim

It was stated in the Floyd Circuit Court on Monday, Jan. 4, that the town of McDowell is being sought for dissolution by the county commissioners. The commissioners claim that the town is imposing heavy taxes on the county and is not providing any benefits in return. They are seeking a court order to dissolve the town and have its territory returned to the county.

TO CUT TAXATION

The coal boom gone and, therefore, its greatest reason for being a town gone, the town of McDowell as a corporation will be dissolved, if a suit being instituted in the Floyd circuit court is successful.

To McDowell the corporate government meant nothing but higher taxes. Nothing else. No added conveniences. No better police protection, it is said.

When a thing has no excuse for being it should cease to be. McDowell is not urban enough to be a city, and its citizens are intelligent enough to know just that and to rid themselves of dead expense.

Other towns in this county could strike out boldly and rid themselves of many disagreeable features. This is not to suggest dissolution, but to propose aggressive action on the part of citizens in asking value received.

FORM: GIGANTIC SALES AGENCY

Unanimous Approval Given Plan to Distribute Huge Tonnage

Cincinnati, (C. J. Jan. 7.)—Unanimous approval of a committee recommendation that a central sales agency to distribute a major portion of all high volatile bituminous coal mined in those fields in the southern Appalachian district was voted last week by representatives of more than 112 leading companies in the region.

The total tonnage produced by the group is more than 50,000,000 tons. All companies in the region comprising high volatile fields in Kentucky, West Virginia, Tennessee and Virginia, sell an annual 50,000,000 tons.

The sales agency is to be known as Appalachian Coals, Inc., and will have its headquarters here. Tentative directors appointed were W. J. Magee, vice-president, of the Carbon Fuel Company; Calvin Holmes, president of the Holston Fuel Company; Burt H. Koenig, vice-president and general manager of the Middle West Coal Company; Col. Charles R. McIntire, vice-president of the Falmouth Coals; Constable Coal Company; all of this county; J. D. Francis, vice-president of the Island Creek Coal & Coke Company, Huntington, W. Va.; and E. C. Mahan, president of the Southern Coal & Coke Company, Knoxville, Tenn., and former president of the National Coal Association.

The group represented more than $100,000,000 capital invested in the coal industry in eastern and western Kentucky, West Virginia, southwest Virginia and Tennessee, high volatile fields.

JANUARY TERM OF COURT CONVENES

Murder Trials to Claim Attention During Present Session

The Floyd circuit court's January term opened Monday, hard upon the heels of the December term, which adjourned Saturday.

During this term several murder cases are slated for trial, the most important of which are the Vanhook and the Case. It is probable also that Mrs. Latta Barrett, here indicted of willful killing of Mrs. Burdett.

COMPLETE AUDIT NEEDED
Both political parties in the recent state election advocated in their platforms a complete audit of the county and city governments. This is a good idea and should be carried out.

Many towns and cities in the state are now making an audit of their financial affairs.

Johnson county, the city of Palmito and the school systems of the county should undergo a full and complete audit of their financial affairs in order that the taxpayers may know how and where their tax money is being spent. There could be no objection to a full and complete auditing up of business in such a manner that the people can read and understand it.

MRS. J. W. HUFF DIES AT HUEYSVILLE, DEC. 15

Hueysville, Ky., Jan. 2 (Sp.)—Mrs. Dolly Huff, 41 years old, wife of J. W. Huff, of this place, died at her home here early Tuesday morning, December 15, of complications arising from enlargement of the liver. She had been in poor health for two years. Mrs. Huff was a woman of splendid character and had many friends throughout this section. She had been a devout member of the Christian Church of this place since she came here about five years ago.

Burial was made in the Huff cemetery, the Rev. John Marshall, of Stephens Branch, and James Evans, of Lacey, officiating. An unusually large crowd attended the services.

Mrs. Huff is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Will Geel, of Harlot, and one son, Charley Parsons, of Fleming county.

COUNTY'S RED CROSS QUOTA NOT REACHED

The report by the Red Cross of this county is that the quota for 1931 is $100,000, and a few reports are not yet in. Floyd county has responded nobly, although our quota was not reached by $500. It is doubtful how long relief can be given as most of the Red Cross applicants have very large families, and this amount of money will not last a great length of time.

Red Cross principles are to work out a plan to help the unfortunates help themselves; but many will not help themselves when they have a chance. Just last week a man with nine children, their ages ranging from 19 years to three months, came into our office wanting aid. His case had been investigated and they were up against it for food and clothing. In telling the story to a good, honest gentleman, he said he and his wife would be glad to take one of the little girls, board, cloth and send her to school. In turn the attention was made to the father.

After three days, he returned home again wanting an idea of what they had done. The child goes, and Mammy was satisfied. What was the case? Each of these typographical errors on...

PRIVATIONS OF VALLEY FORGE BEGAN CENTURY AND HALF AGO

One hundred and fifty-four years ago, on the night of December 19, 1777, the privations of Valley Forge began. The army of the Continental Congress, under the leadership of General Mifflin, was surrounded by the British and their Indian allies. The army suffered from lack of food, shelter, and clothing, and many soldiers died of starvation and exposure.

The story of Valley Forge is a story of heroism and endurance. Despite the hardships, the army emerged from the winter of 1777-1778 as a more professional fighting force. The experience of Valley Forge is often cited as a turning point in the American Revolutionary War.

Washington's own remarkable personal history kept his army together through these bitter trials, but with the aid of his lieutenants, he managed to bring his army back to his camp at Lancaster, Pa., on December 19, 1777. The army then moved to Red Bank, Pa., where they were surrounded by the British and their Indian allies. The army was evacuated to Lancaster and then to York, Pa., where they were again surrounded by the British and their Indian allies. THE REAL SALE OF THE YEAR

WILL START

Saturday, Jan. 16th

AND WE INVITE EACH AND EVERY OTHER MERCHANT IN PRESTONSBURG TO JOIN IN THIS SALE! Let's get the people coming to Prestonsburg and then we can fight between ourselves who will sell them. This is a friendly challenge, but we mean it, as WE MEAN TO REDUCE OUR STOCK OF MERCHANDISE FIVE TO EIGHT THOUSAND DOLLARS BEFORE WE STOP THIS SALE, REGARDLESS OF PRICE AND LOSS, AND IF ANY OTHER MERCHANT FEELS THIS WAY ABOUT HIS STOCK, JUST COME ON

All we ask of the people, when you come to our sale, just don't buy until you visit our store, as we mean to make this sale go over in a big way; and there are going to be SPECIALS FOR EACH AND EVERY DAY DURING OUR SALE THAT WILL BE EITHER GIVEN AWAY OR SOLD AT LESS THAN COST.

THIS IS A.....REAL SALE

We certainly are not trying to fool anyone. IT'S A CHANCE FOR YOU, AND IF YOU PASS IT UP YOU WILL BE SORRY LATER.

Watch next week's paper for prices on part of our stock; but remember, THE SALE REACHES EVERY ARTICLE IN OUR STORE!

PRESTONSBURG, KENTUCKY

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 4 (Special)—James D. Sorey, Jr., department secretary for the American Legion, and secretary of the Kentucky Disabled Ex-Servicemen's Board, stated at a meeting of the board, Frankfort, Monday, December 28, that Kentucky veterans had taken full advantage of the 41.1 per cent of the veterans had had upon their certificates, quoting figures to demonstrate how much money the bonus had brought to the state. Secretary Sorey commented upon the "high rate of interest charged upon these loans by the federal government, and called attention to the bill introduced in Congress, in the House, by Representative Siger, of New Jersey, on December 1, ratifying for reduction of interest upon loans so that the remainder of the principle of the certificates would not be dissipated by compound interest charges.

Recalling the condition existing at this time among the disabled ex-servicemen in Kentucky, the secretary informed the board that the disability allowance amendment to the World War Veterans Act had made it necessary to review the claim of every ex-serviceman who had been refused compensation because of inability to establish connection of his disability with his war services. Since the passage of this

WEATHER HINDERS HOME PORK CURING

Warm weather through most of the first part of the winter made home curing of pork difficult on Kentucky farms. The chilling out of the carcasses is considered necessary for the proper curing of pork. The ideal temperature is between 30 and 35 degrees, dry, windy conditions, who has been giving curing and curing demonstrations in several counties for the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. The animal hour must be removed from the carcass, he is advised.

When the weather is unseasonably warm, he advises the blocking out of the carcasses and placing the cuts on racks or concrete, to aid in cooling out.

This procedure is recommended only when slaughtering is done when the temperature is above 35, splitting the carcass down the center of the backbone helps the cooling process.

In salting, he is sure of get salt around the joints and hams. This is the place where spoiling often starts.

A good cure for hams, shoulders and heavy bacon, that is, bacon from hogs weighing 200 pounds or more, consists of 7 1/2 pounds of salt, 2 1/2 pounds of sugar and 2 ounces of salt peter to each 100 pounds of meat.

Let medium size cuts, cure for two weeks, counting only the curing days, or those days when meat takes the salt, which means the temperature is above 35. Heavier cuts should be cured for three weeks.

POISONED DAUGHTER, MAN, 59, IS ACCUSED

Smith Webb, 26-year-old, Wayne county, West Virginia farmer, and his son, Maie Webb, 17, were arrested last week on murder warrants as the result of an investigation made into the mysterious death of Smith Webb's daughter, Maie Webb, 20, on December 14.

Friday, Maie Webb is quoted as having confessed to giving his sister a "white powder" at his father's command. The Webbs reside not far from Louisville.

Wayne county authorities announced last week that in Lonsdale druggist had identified one of the two men now in custody as the person who had sought to obtain a quantity of strychnine, which the druggist did not have, several days before Maie Webb died.

Maie Webb died December 14 in the little farm cabin of her father, Smith Webb on Fiddle Creek, several miles up winding creek beds from Fort Gay.

A physician's analysis of her stomach, taken from her body as the family was preparing to bury her in the little grave overlooking the Webb farmhouse, disclosed she had taken, or had been given, a quantity of strychnine sufficient to cause her death. An analysis by a Cincinnati laboratory said it was one-half grain.

Smith Webb and his son at first denied administering poison to the young woman. Smith continued his denial when confronted by a married daughter, Mrs. Orel Henson, of Louisa. Assistant Prosecutor Burgess said Mrs. Henson repeated previous statements made to him that were "relative to the very act of administering the poison," but he declined to give the statements in detail.

It was disclosed in the examination of the body that the young woman, who was unmarried, and said by officers to be mentally deficient, was to have become the mother of a child within a few months.

THE COST IS SMALL WHEREVER YOU...

Let the Telephone Keep Your Circle Together

When friends have moved to other cities, children are away at school or you are many miles from the folks back home... remember you can bring them to you easily and quickly by telephone.

Next best to seeing friends and relatives is talking with them. Even when they are miles away you can telephone them at small cost.

Out-of-town telephoning costs less than most people imagine. For example, the station-to-station day rate to a point 125 miles away is about 75 cents. If you call during the night period, the rate is much lower.

APPEALS COURT TO SIFT REPORTER BAN

Of Mt. Sterling, (Ky.) Judge Baker Scheduled to Make Arguments

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 5. The High court chamber expects a trial at Mt. Sterling in a few days on the constitutionality of the law which prohibits newspaper editors from publishing the names of persons who have been arrested for violation of the law against the sale of liquor.

Members on behalf of the Times-Picayune newspaper were heard in the court of appeals today, and it was argued by Newton D. Baker, former secretary of a committee of war, would make the same ruling on the case.

Judge Baker heard first John T. Moore and then Jack Bryan, News-Sentinel reporters, on grounds of the publication of the names of persons who have been arrested for violation of the law against the sale of liquor.

The two attorneys filed today in court their briefs in support of the law against the sale of liquor, which was passed by the legislature last week.

moment prohibitory writ against the judge, and another for the paper, asking for a similar writ against any of its reporters being kept away from the trial of William E. Hightower, anti-liquor leader.

The motions charged the judge's order violated the freedom of the press, provisions of the state constitution and also the federal constitution provisions relative to confiscation of property without due process of law.

The News-Sentinel, in commenting on the order, Judge Prewitt's order having its representatives, said it reserved the right to make such comment and had no apologies to make. Moore has had varied experience in covering strikes and labor trials.

Bryan, who was graduated at DePaul in 1924, set forth he had had no previous experience on strike grounds. He served as secretary to a Methodist Bishop in China prior to entering newspaper work, although he studied journalism at DePaul, where he was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Honorary Fraternity.

W. V. Baufitz returned to Prestonsburg Monday night after spending the past few days in Pikeville with his father, the Rev. Sam Baufitz, who was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Honorary Fraternity.

Old Firearms Lashly Set Off With Pictures

The business with which many ancient firearms were adorned was shown by a recent acquisition of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, says an article in the New York Times magazine. This is a gun with stock carved by a German artist, Johann Michael Maucher, who flourished at the end of the Seventeenth century. In Maucher's time patrons of the arts were also frequently lovers of the hunt, and artists were therefore likely to take special pains in making their patrons' guns. Two men worked on this particular gun, Maucher on the stock and L. C. Schell, of Graz, about whom little is known, on the barrel.

The stock is of walnut, inset with a series of ivory plaques. The Maucher carved a number of spirited hunting scenes and one showing the hunt of Venus—apparently a favorite subject with him, for it appears on four other guns in foreign police museums. Next to the lock a stag and a boar are shown, each with a grotesque bird's head in front of it. On the butt are pictured a bear hunt, a fox and his mate, a wolf attacking a hare, a hunter seated on a log, a bear and blowing his horn, geese, hounds pursuing hares and foxes, etc. The plaques, which are not, it is informed, are decorated with rich relief.

Point Made by Homely Lawyer Was "Clincher"

They said they would not have believed the colorful New England lawyer. He had the reputation of being one of the homeliest as well as the ablest lawyers in Vermont and this particular case, a Vermont opposite, backing legal arguments, tried to sway the jury to his side by making remarks about Davis's personal appearance. Then they got up for the last word.

"Members of the jury," he said impudently, "I admit that I am not handsome. I have at no time been able to take any pride in my looks. I have been called homely before now, but thank the Lord I am not stupid." The jury responded at once in the client's favor.—Los Angeles Times.

Indian Rice Cultivation

When the early fur traders extended their activities northward through the then little-known Louisiana territory and entered the Sioux, the Chippewa and the Ojibwa nations, they found the Indians using wild rice in much the same manner as the coastal and southern Indians used maize, writes Lawrence W. Brown in the Scientific American. The rice fields were planted in shallow lakes and harvested almost limitless in extent. Harvesting was simple. A boat canoe was poled through the fields, some of which were staked with a birch bark basket in front of her. In her hands she held long short sticks, the stems of which were thrust through the holes in the baskets with one hand while with the other she struck the grain from the heads with a quick, sharp blow. The seed, white and glistening, sank to the bottom, and a deck worker could harvest several hundred pounds in a day.

Great Pan Is Dead!

Any teacher of the old school who strayed from the Ellingworth woods on a recent Saturday afternoon will wonder that the simplicity of that magic grove inspired a literary aunt to recall to her suggestion of how the Greek myth of Apollo and Daphne.

Only a member of the old school will appreciate the aunt's chagrin when, in the height of her enthusiasm, grasping a book, protruding in turn the article of the sun god and the growth of leaves, roots, branches and roots from Daphne's fall, she was inspired by the most disgusted of boys from the philosophy and the impromptu remark: "Now, Aunt Jess, make up a good one!"—Indianapolis News.

Orchestra Music

An orchestra is a band of performers on various instruments, including especially those of the viol class, adapted for rendering the larger kinds of concerted music as symphonies, overtures, etc., and the accompaniment of operas, oratorios, masses, and the like, or for playing the lighter concerted music for theatrical performances, dances, etc. It is commonly distinguished from the military or street band of players on wind instruments and from a group of solo players for rendering chamber music.

"Movie of a Movie"

It is not possible, so far as we can find out, actually to make a real movie of another movie. Light would be necessary and consequently the movie being photographed would not be visible and could not register on the film. The experts say that, of course, through double exposure the effect of a movie of a movie could and has been given or that the same thing might be done through pen or wash drawings. In other words, an advanced form of animated cartoons.—Washington Star.
