Difference in Waking and Sleeping Thoughts

Jose W. Sprowts writes, in the Wash-intron Star.
When you are dreaming, the situa-tion is reversed. Your dream thoughts are your own. They are a part of you. You express your not comal self in everything you dream about, the property of the company of the property of the company of the property of the company of the present the company of the company those thoughts that correspond to the picture. It's impossible to think in dreams without thinking in pictures. And it's impossible to think in some company of the company of the your thoughts are activities, not all structions.

your thoughts are activities, not ab-stractions.

It is not hard to discover why you have those two kinds of thoughts. Your waking hours discovery to thoughts. Your waking hours discovery is always the world tort like about you. Your bush-ness as a waking thinker is to manin-ulate this world of externality. So you regard your waking thoughts as mechanisms meetly.

But when you are askeen, you have withdrawn from the world of resility. The your maning the properties of the pro-vention of the properties of the pro-tained position in your waking world; now has its showners. Your fanders have full sway, and you fash-ion all sorts of imaginary pictures that place you the command. That's why you skinedtimes experience a shock when waking suddenly.

Here is Either Heresy
or the Profound Truth
At the recent meeting of the MilBlonaires Cith of Contentment and Hepping of the meeting outed an old saying which runs as follows:
pThere are three things that can
niver be receited—the seed arrow,
the spoken word and the lost opportunity.

tunity. The neighbor who brought the mat-ter up expected that the meeting would be deeply limpressed and that the saving would lead to a historic discussion. But, curiously enough, no-body seemed to be at all impressed, and the discussion was exceptionally brief.

of, to begin with, the millionaires said, at is one speed arrow more or less, ways? There are plenty of arrows the world, or at least there used to when arrows were in use. As to spoken word, it is usfailly a thing worth recalling. And in reliable is to represent them, but to bustle and duew ones.

and thus again what has been ac-cepted as wisdom proves to be more waste of breath.—John Steven Mc-Groarty, in the Los Angeles Times.
