NAME OF PROFESSOR CLARKE REVERED BY THOUSANDS; LED FIGHT ON IGNORANCE AND CRIME

Established Famous Mountain School at Hindman— Changed Troublesome to "Peaceful"—Braved Terrors of Feudists to Carry On Great Battle to Victory

A certain Kentucky mountain stream 45 years ago, as now, wound its tortuous way down through the hills, frothing a restless, turbulent course personifying the wildness of an untamed land. How long ago it was named, or by whom, no one knows; but at that time none could have said that it had been named a misnomer.

That Knott county creek was called Troublesome. In one of her first novels, years later, Mrs. Freeman called it "Peaceful." Both names well describe it. Up its two forks and down the main stream feudists lived and died and feuds raged. Hindman, the town nestling between the towering hills at the confluence of its two forks, with its 17 dwellings and approximately 100 inhabitants, was held in the grip of a reign of terror. Feudists foregathered there to make internecine war, rode the one street of the town in armed bands, drinking and shooting and lending significance to the romantic name of the stream, Troublesome.

All that has changed now. One man, through a quarter-century of conscientious labor and unselfish devotion to the Mountain people, worked the miraculous transformation, with the result that if any mountain stream merits the name, "Peaceful," it is this same bloody Troublesome.

That man is Professor George Clarke, now a teacher at Garrett, this county, in his 46th year of active teaching service.

When George Clarke, a young man of 24, first saw Hindman in 1887, shortly after Knott county had been cut from Floyd, he himself was following the footfall of a feudist, but as a lawyer just to win his spurs, in search of a location where legal practice could be dependent upon to be plentiful. From his native county of Greenup he had gone to Morehead where the "Tanner war" was at its worst. Having little encouragement there, however, he went to Pleasantville, where he learned of the French-Everside feud over in Perry county. As a result, he took the overland trail to Perry.

On the night he stopped at Hindman, where he has sold that Knott had its own feuds, with friends of the Eversides and Frenches, also residing in the county, and that only one lawyer had located there. Plenty of practice, he was told, and was extended a warm welcome. The young lawyer went on to Hazard, county seat of Perry, but soon returned to Hindman, where he hung up his shingle.

And there he soon turned to the great work for which he was fitted by every moral, mental and physical qualification. Hindman had more than its share of good citizens, despite the lawlessness of the age, and these, learning of the young lawyer's six years of teaching back in Greenup county, asked him to take charge of the public school.

Name Closely Linked with Fight Against Ignorance and Lawlessness

PROFESSOR GEORGE CLARKE

The story of his life and his accomplishments from that day to this is an epic, told over thousands of square miles of this country by his old students, many of the Homeric ballads came into existence.

It is, the story of a pioneer in education, the story of a trail-blazer who led the youth of Eastern Kentucky upon the foot-trail up to the furthest (Continued on page two)

GRAND JURY TERMS TO BE RESTRICTED

Three Regular Terms of Six Days Each Proposed by New Law

Work of circuit court grand juries in Kentucky will, 60 days after Dr. A. L. Hill's bill in the legislature became law, be held to regular sessions of only six days, with an extension possible of not more than three days.

In case of emergency, not more than three special sessions of three days each may be called by the circuit judge, who must enter an order stating the existing conditions justifying such action.

Another legislative act affecting court procedure is that introduced by Dr. Hill at the past session of the General Assembly, which provides that either party to a litigation may make exception to the decision of the court upon jury challenges, or upon motions to set aside the indictment.

'LAFF THAT OFF' SCORES BIG HIT

"Laff That Off," a comedy in three clever acts, presented by the Women's Missionary Society of the Irene Cole Memorial Baptist Church at the school auditorium, Saturday and night April 4 under the direction of Larry Sullivan, was one of the best performances offered the theater-going public of Prestonsburg for some time.

It was funny, wise-cracking, well-staged, splendidly acted, never dull, and the beauty and interest of the dialogue made it constantly moving. In fact it was an outstanding contribution and was enjoyed by two crowded houses that really "laffed."

Larry Sullivan, cast as Robert Nelson, Moore ("Bummers"), was especially good in the comedy role, and made the audience laugh heartily through credit for the success of the play.

One of the principal purposes of an actor is to entertain, and the successful achievement of this purpose is to be commensurate with the ability of the actor. Larry Sullivan, in his comedy role, made a fine contribution to the success of the play.

Mary Allen was found to be the wife of Harry Reginald, but the man was not found. She was arrested on Licking river, Magdoff county, by Deputy Sheriff Sam Turner and Harwood by Judge H. H. Hays, and the man, Sheppard, was brought to jail here, but later escaped bond.

Bill Jones, a Jimmy Valentine, the "Foolish" Geraldine, Alvin Karpis with Fred Francis as Harry Campbell and Ray Collins as Sam the Fixer, were also featured in the principal characters.

Miss Connelly, doubled her role, some coming to the fore in the comedy role, and some coming to the fore in the comedy role, and some coming to the fore in the comedy role.

FISCAL COURT VOTES FUNDS FOR MAINTENANCE OF FLOYD COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Appropriation of $1,750 Made at Court Session This Week For Continuance of Work—Audit Ordered— School Levy Fixed

TO HOLD MUSIC FESTIVAL APRIL 30

The school of Floyd county are arranging for a music festival to promote interest in better music in the county. Every school is being urged to take part and it is pointed out that if any school fails to take part this year it is less likely to enter another year, and this will only be a means of widening the gap between this school and other schools of the county.

Since this is only a small beginning, the vocal numbers will be filled in music or two-part. This feature will be a step toward linking Floyd county into the state festival, which is held annually.

The aim of the festival is to promote interest, rather than competition. Everyone is invited to come and hear what Floyd county students can do. There will be no charge for admission. The festival will be held in the graded school building here.

HAYS APPOINTED ROAD SUPERVISOR

Heads Highway Reconstruction Work in 9th District After April 1

Col. Douglas Hays, of McWhorter, received notice April 1 of his appointment by Governor Ruby Inafon to the position of supervisor of highway reconstruction work in the 9th highway district.

Mr. Hays' appointment becomes effective April 15. He is chairman of the Floyd county Democratic committee, and is one of the staunchest Democrats in this section. At present Mr. Hays is engaged in the timber business on Left Beaver Creek.

2 YOUTHS HELD FOR FORGERIES

Haysville, Ky., April 1.—Charley Vanderpool, about 18 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Vanderpool, of Ball Lick, near here, was arrested at Carl Culp's store, near West Garrett, Wednesday afternoon by F. R. Mullin, and Frank Batley, merchants of this place, after he had given a couple of checks for merchandise which he had forged on his father. It is alleged that Vanderpool, about 19 years old, and a cousin of Charley, was also arrested as an accomplice.

Charley Vanderpool gave Mullin a check for $25 Tuesday morning, signed by a pair of young men, and for the rest in cash. The checks were discovered by Mullin yesterday when the boys were arrested on one also a man's and which he brought from Ball Lick, near here, and which he brought from Ball Lick, near here, and which he brought from Ball Lick, near here.

Mullin yesterday returned to Ball Lick, near here, and which he brought from Ball Lick, near here, and which he brought from Ball Lick, near here, and which he brought from Ball Lick, near here, and which he brought from Ball Lick, near here.

Mr. Hays' appointment becomes effective April 15. He is chairman of the Floyd county Democratic committee, and is one of the staunchest Democrats in this section. At present Mr. Hays is engaged in the timber business on Left Beaver Creek.

Appropriation of $1,750, Floyd county's share of the fund necessary to maintain the Floyd county health department, was made Tuesday at a special meeting of the Floyd fiscal court.

The order appropriating this sum was made without provision of any sort, thing insuring no further doubt as to the continuance of the department's work in this county. At a previous term of court the appropriation was made upon the condition that Dr. Orris Gearheart, was hired as director of the department. This the state board of health refused to accept, however, and the court then made the unqualified order. Dr. Marvin Randall will remain as director of the health department here, it is said.

A. D. Roberts, of Ashland, was named to bring the county financial audit to date, and the court authorized County Clerk A. B. Meade to issue a fiscal court warrant for $225 in payment of these services.

Tax levy on the various consolidated school districts, per $100 personal evaluation follows as fixed by the fiscal court:

Auxler, $1; McWhorter, Holey Layne, Maytown, Martin, Lacey and Harold, 75c each; Wadsworth, Wayland, Garrett, Dwyer, Drift and Bosco, 50c each.

WELL-KNOWN INEZ CITIZEN SUCCUMBS

L. C. Richmond's Death Precedes Passing Here of Nephew by Few Hours

A few hours before the death here of his nephew, L. C. Richmond, L. C. Richmond, 83 years old, resident in this county merchant, died at his home in Inez Thursday night of last week following a lingering illness.

Mr. Richmond went to Martin county shortly after the Civil War about the same time his brother, the late Judge Richmond, came to this county, both becoming pioneers in the mercantile field in their respective counties. He was born in Wise county, Va., the son of William Richmond, about whose personality John Fox, Jr., created a character in his story, "Christmas Eve on Lonesome."

Mr. Richmond was well-known throughout this section, where he was held in high esteem for his benevolence and sterling traits of character. He became a member of the M. E. Church, South early in life and for years was superintendent of the Sunday school of that church at Inez.

He is survived by his widow and the following sons, and daughters: W. B. and E. F. Richmond, Inez; Mrs. J. H. Williams, and G. C. Richmond, near here; W. V. J. Barr, E. H. Richmond, Griffin, N. C.; Dr. L. D. Richmond, Russell, and Mrs. L. G. Harwood, Harwood.

She was the daughter of A. J. Allen, of Middle Creek, and was born at Albionville, this county. She was widely-related in this section, and held the respect of a host of friends. Surviving her are her father, her husband, Oscar Richardson, a veteran teacher in the Third County school, one sister, Mrs. Rebecca Sheppard, of Goodloe, and the following brothers: John W. Allen, West Prestonsburg; James, Ed and Albert Allen, of Middle Creek.

The body will be returned to this county for interment. The funeral services had not been completed when this issue went to press.

VETERANS OF THIS SECTION WIN FIGHT

Efforts of World War veterans to be transferred from the Cincinnati regional office to Louisville here of last met with success. Congressman A. J. May stated he is a supporter of the plan Monday. Mr. May's telegram follows:

"Have succeeded in getting 10 Kentucky counties, including Magdoff, Floyd, Johnson, Knott, Martin and Pike in my district transferred to jurisdiction of Louisville regional office."

A number of ex-service men have complained of treatment received from the Cincinnati office, stating that their claims did not receive proper consideration, and that times a strong fight has been waged to obtain transfer of cases to their own state.

Charles Goble was the first to complain of this treatment. He was transferred to Louisville here of last met with success.

When TEETHING makes HIM FUSSY

One of the most important things you can do to make a teething baby comfortable is to see that little bowels do their work of carrying off waste matter promptly and regularly. For this nothing is better than Castoria, a pure vegetable preparation specially made for babies and children. Castoria acts so gently to relieve the baby's bowels that it is safe to give it to young infants to relieve older children, too. Remember, Castoria is absolutely harmless. For your baby is fretful with teething or a food upset, give a clear-cut dose of Castoria. Be sure you get genuine Castoria with the name: Wm. L. Carter

Bill, seven of idleness is preferable with all those who know him. In 1915 when his dormitory, in which he taught his training school was burned, he taught at Hindman. Then he established a school at Pineville, this county, where the same success was attained. A dormitory was constructed there and students from six counties attended. He taught there four years, until when his dormitory burned. His teaching record follows: Green county, six years; Hindman, six years; Campton, three years; Louisa, one year; Haysville, four years; Perry county, one year; Coney Creek Junior College, three years; Garrett, three years (where he is now teaching).

The only breaks in his actual teaching service since 1887 were when he was state school inspector in 1920 and 1921 and superintendent of Letcher county schools, from 1922 to 1926. These terms of office became his without making effort to obtain the positions.

But, back to Hindman, to the veteran educator, first love and to the old-timers, who remember him with such gratitude. One of the hundreds of students to come to his school there, ministers, doctors, lawyers, public officials, prominent business men, prosperous farmers, and best of all, good citizens—are numbered among them.

Why did they become successful here? Let Mr. Charles himself tell of their ambitions, and of their determination to learn and you will understand.

"The girls, of course, were equally good, but a full of these cases occurred by the boys which are characteristic of the nature of those students of mine."

"K. J. had one of my clothes when he came to school. He boarded with relatives, but when he tore his trousers across the knee one day, he had no other. To you, now, it might have been embarrassing, had my husband told him to go to his room, pull off his pants and hang them outside the door. They were repaired 'while you wait' and the young man was thus enabled to return to his mountain counties attended. He

"One day, finding that his pants were worn out and also knowing that he had no money, found a barrel of old shoes from which he found two good shoes. He saw they were not stolen, but did not prevent him from wearing them the remainder of the school term."

"Another of my students, one of the very best, had no money and on the day of the examination had no shirt. He solved the problem by buttoning up his coat to his chin and going ahead. Needless to say, he passed the examination and taught one of the best schools in the county."

"A former circuit judge said a few years ago, while one of my students, that he had to go home every week end to get his only shirt washed."

"None did janitor work, two started a barber shop, other, worked at various jobs to pick up a little money. One boy, now a fine citizen and a credit to any community, saw no other way and sold whiskey in order to have funds, on which to attend school."

"Could you heat these boys?" "Though he will be 70 at his next birthday, December 22, Professor Charles is hale and hearty, bright, broad intellectually, and looking ahead to more years of service to the youth of Eastern Kentucky. He was married in 1897 to Miss Clida Hays, daughter of the late Lewis Hays, and they have two sons and three daughters, in whom are found the fine qualities which come from teachings such as his. His eldest son has completed a course in pharmacy, while the younger is in high school. Two of his daughters have had between each and three years of college work and also have been teaching, while the other is a nurse."

After teaching at least three generations, passing over the rough part of the journey and helping hundreds over the obstacles, and pitfalls, of life, the veteran teacher looks back and says: "happy mortal"—has not a regret.

"I have not made a brilliant success, if money or property form the measure," he writes, "I have a pretty and comfortable home at Hindman on the site where I began teaching 43 years ago, and a small farm two miles from Hindman. But, if I had life to go over again, knowing what I do now, I would do exactly what I did do years ago. I go to Hindman and build a school. I know my life has not been perfect—I have my weaknesses, but when the time comes to change words, I trust the Lord will overlook those imperfections and judge me by my intentions. And I believe that a number of successful men and women, in looking back over life and their early poverty, will shed a tear and say, 'He helped me once.'"
