Action Taken to Protect Firm's Assets; Operation to Continue

ORGANIZED IN 1860

The Consolidation Coal Company, one of the oldest and largest coal companies in the United States, passed into receivership last week. Announcement that receivers had been appointed was made last Thursday in New York.

Receivers named are E. R. Lyon, Fairbank, W. Van, Howell, Fisher, Ballinger, and Robert C. Hill, New York. They were directed to continue the operation of the business.

Appointment for receivership stated that the existing indebtedness on June 1 of its 15 percent bonds, because conditions in the bituminous coal industry have caused a drastic decline in the company's business, and that the interest charges on its bonded debt.

As a result of present conditions, the application further stated, "the company has no means at hand to continue the payment of interest without jeopardizing its ability to continue business."

Appointment of receivers was made to conserve the assets, and it is said, to preserve for the benefit of all parties concerned, and followed the filing by the company of an answer joining in the request for appointment of receivers.

Only a few days before receivers were appointed the report was current in this section that Henry Ford was checking for ownership of the company's holdings.

HUEYSVILLE MAN WOUNDED FRIDAY

John Hughes, miner, was shot and slightly wounded Friday evening by E. M. Whitaker, who fired the trigger of a shotgun loaded with buck shot at a distance of approximately 75 yards as Hughes stood on the railroad tracks near the Whitaker home, 1/2 mile from Hueysville.

The shooting is said to have resulted from a quarrel arising between the two men after Whitaker is alleged to have whipped Hughes' small son. One version of the affair says that Hughes called Whitaker to the door of his home, after which the shooting took place; another says that Whitaker fired upon Hughes when the latter told him that he resented Whitaker's treatment of the child.

Shot struck Hughes in the hand and in the back but the distance was so great that the wounds are not so great. He is reported as recovering at his home at Hueysville. Whitaker was arrested by Constable Hiram Lafferty following the shooting.

A number of thefts have been committed locally within recent months but clever work of the police on this case is expected to be continued to the extent that a theory will be apprehended checked.

PLAN CELEBRATION OF JULY 4TH HERE

Two Organizations Unite in Plans for Independence Day Observance

Two organizations, Floyd Post of the American Legion and the Prestonburg Municipal Band, are uniting this year in preparation for a Fourth of July celebration here. Work on plans for the celebration began this week with the appointment of committees.

It is the aim of the sponsors of the celebration to furnish entertainment and amusement for the attendance of residents throughout this county. The American Legion post will make special efforts to effect a gathering here of the World War veterans from all parts of the county to join in a parade. Music will be furnished by the band.

In both the morning and afternoon Prestonburg's league-leading ball team will engage a rival aggregation for the entertainment of baseball fans. Contests, it is planned, will be staged during the day, and the celebration will end in a big fireworks display.

This is but an outline of the plans now being formulated, and yet to be announced in detail. As the program is worked out later it will be given to readers of The Times.

WAR HERO BACK FROM WASHINGTON

Pete McCoy, World War hero, of this county, returned last week from Washington, where he appeared with other veterans, in the light before Congress for the payment of a cash bonus to veterans.

Mr. McCoy, hero of Belleau Wood, where he is credited with killing six German soldiers and capturing 17 others, single-handed, in October, 1918, is the possessor of the highest awards for bravery to be granted by the American and French governments. Since the war he has been residing peacefully at his home on Johns Creek, steadfastly declining to entertain any of his great war record. He is the first published of all America's war heroes and at the same time is one of the most richly deserving of the honor bestowed him.

Pete was accompanied to Washington by J. L. Barrows, Haddockfield, N. J., a supporter of the bonus movement and in Washington the veteran Congressman A. J. May, of this district. Other veterans of this section a few days ago were reported as planning the trip to Washington, but it was later said that they would not do so.

PROSECUTION OF AGED MAN WHO SLEW DAUGHTER AIDED BY 21 SONS OF DEFENDANT

The defendant testified that Mrs. Smith had thrown a rock into the room and that she was advancing upon him, brandishing a butcher knife. He testified that he was afraid of her and that he was in a state of panic when he shot her.

Mrs. O'Brien, appearing in his behalf, testified that both Mrs. Smith and her husband, Mr. Johnson, were drunk when they came to their father's home and that she attempted to dissuade him from going inside, where she was seen after an attempt was made to save his own life. His testimony was corroborated by other witnesses.

The case is being handled by the local bar, and it is expected that the trial will be held in a few days.

FIRE DESTROYS THREE BUILDINGS

Destructive Blaze Breaks Out in West Prestonburg Saturday Night

Fire which broke out in West Prestonburg at midnight Saturday destroyed three buildings and damaged another at an approximate loss of $5,000, a part of which was covered by insurance.

Residence of Mrs. Maude Howard and Mrs. Cora Fannin and the warehouse of the Morell Supply Company of this place, were destroyed, and the residence of Sam Hale was damaged by the flames. The fire broke out, it is said, in the Howard building and spread to nearby structures before the arrival of the crews of the Prestonburg fire truck. Cause of the fire is not definitely known.

The building owned by Mrs. Howard and occupied by roomers was burned to the ground, as was the warehouse. The fire truck arrived in time to check the flames in the Fannin residence to the extent that the building was not reduced to ashes, though gutted by the flames. Mrs. Fannin was able to save a part of her household effects. Farming implements and other hardware in the warehouses were destroyed. James Morell, Jr., of the Morell Supply Company, said this week that the loss of the store was thirty well covered by insurance.

John Archer arrived home a few days ago from Louisville, where he has been a medical student.

AMERICAN LEGION OFFICIALS SPEAK

John B. Settle, assistant department adjutant, and C. N. Florence, compensation service officer, Louisville, were speakers at the meeting of Floyd Post of the American Legion here May 21. Several members of the post attended the meeting.

Approval of Congressman A. J. May's work in behalf of veterans was voiced in a telegram from the local post to Mr. May.

Replying to the Legion's wire Mr. May wrote Carl Corbin, commander of Floyd post, that "it gives me a great pleasure to me to find on my desk when I received in the office Saturday your telegram of June 8 expressing appreciation of my efforts in behalf of ex-servicemen. My admiration for the soldierly spirit of our country, together with a sense of patriotism, impels me to the position I have taken in the interest of the defenders of our country."

"You no doubt have noticed in the newspapers that several thousand veterans of the World War are now camped in Washington, awaiting the award of the bonus certificates. As I walked from the office building to the House of Representatives yesterday, scores and scores of them, many of them bareheaded, dirty and tired, were lined along the sidewalks and on the stone fences, and to me it was a picture that left a deep impression upon me. These poor fellows who served the nation in its hour of peril to suffer and beg for that which is due them. The scene was pathetic and almost crushed my heart, but by the aid of Congress and in season and out of season."

TAXPAYERS HEAR ASHLAND MEN; LEAGUE FORMED

Local Men Join in Discussion Before Crowd of Citizens

OFFICERS ELECTED

Representatives of the Floyd County Taxpayers' League met here Saturday afternoon and in address before a crowd which overflowed the circuit courtroom told of the aims of the Floyd county league and the services it had effected taxpayers of that county.

Speakers were M. E. Field, of Ashland, president of the Boyd Taxpayers' League; B. F. Egey, editor, Ashland Daily Independent; and Dr. C. H. Parsons, of the Parsons-Funkhouser Company, Ashland. Atty. B. M. James, introduced by W. H. Jones, who called the meeting to order, presided over the meeting.

Organization of the league was effected at a meeting held June 2, with the following officers being named: W. H. Jones, president; Cal Clark, first vice-president; S. R. Auxier, second vice-president; E. P. Hill, secretary; R. Taylor, treasurer. Directing members of the Floyd County Taxpayers' League follow:

Lee Hall, Auxier; A. B. Osborne, Martin; W. J. Turner; Drift; J. M. Turner; W. L. Yandall; James Hale; G. D. Jones; James Lear; Bobb; Payne; R. T. Hunt; German; Monroe Stumba; Printer; B. B. Mullins; Hueysville; H. T. Hill, Cliff; Henderson; Richardson; West Prestonburg; R. F. Colman; Prestonburg; Hiram; Klarr; Prestonburg; Edmon; May; Cliff; Hill; Prestonburg; Dr. G. D. Callahan; Prestonburg; B. M. James; Prestonburg; L. N. Hall; Banner; John Mullins; Betty Layne; E. E. Clark; Prestonburg; B. M. Spurrick; West Prestonburg; J. C. B. Andler; Prestonburg; John; Taylor; Auxier; Lee; Fitzpatrick; West Prestonburg; Dr. J. B. Allen; Langley.

It is not the object of the Boyd County Taxpayers' League, Mr. Fields said, to fight anyone, but rather to cooperate to the end that the public may be benefited. Through its work, he pointed out, property evaluation and the tax rate here have been greatly reduced, thus saving Boyd county taxpayers approximately $200,000. All this, he has been accustomed to without friction, the speaker declared, and at present the spirit of cooperation prevails in Boyd county to a greater degree than ever before.

Mr. Fields was followed by Mr. Parsons, who reviewed the fight against the sales tax bill in the state legislature, and further voiced his confidence in the power of a taxpayers' league.

Concluding that the money in issue in taxation is one of the direct causes of the economic crisis faced by the country, Mr. Forgy said that high taxes had throttled the industrial development of the country. Though tax increases have been greater in this county and state affairs than in state and national government operation, according to Mr. Forgy, taxes in the United States since 1914 have increased 402 percent, as compared to an increase in France of only 60 percent. County and city government taxes have increased 54.6 percent as compared to 15.3 percent in the state and 20.1 in the national government. Concerted efforts on the part of citizens is seen as a hope for tax reduction and the restoration of normal times, the speaker declared.

Commonwealth's Attorney G. F. Stephens followed Mr. Forgy, advocating the Floyd county organization and saying it was a step which should have been taken long ago. His remarks were warmly received by the crowd.

P'BURG TROUNCES VAN LEAR, 18 TO 5

It was a hot afternoon for baseball, but the Prestonburg ball team apparently didn't mind either the heat or the humidity Sunday, and so assembled Van Lear pitchers with such ferocity that the home boys made it a pretty tight, and hot, game.

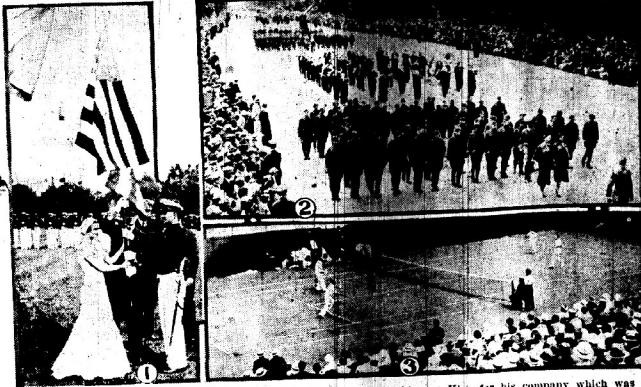

And while Prestonburg was serving 18 runs, Van Lear was easily held in check, though driving out 12 hits and scoring five times. Two of these were homers over the left field fence, and Wells, Prestonburg left fielder, who has been thrown in a row, worked easily with first degree behind him.

Prestonburg scored two runs in the first when Collins, as is his habit, singled leading off. Curranne followed with another one-ply blow, and Harris blew the hit off with a triple to center. Lambert hit a home in the second for Van Lear's first run, and in the next inning Prestonburg chalked up four runs on as many hits, two of which were doubles, and a sacrifice. Mosley, Curranne, Miller, and Harris did the hitting, while Woods, who is hitting a mere 714 at this writing, lined out a four one to deep center to bring the fourth run.

The next inning saw three more Prestonburg runs, tallied, this feat being accomplished on the strength of two-baggers by Curranne and Miller, singles by Wells, and Collins and a walk to Harris. Van Lear got two hits that inning, but only one counted. It was another homer, this one being delivered by Daniels, manager of the visiting team, whose baseball playing is not being greatly over-shadowed by his football prowess.

To prolong the agony, consider the next inning, when Prestonburg slammed out five hits and scored four runs, two runs scoring on a perfect game play with Mosley laying down a pretty bunt down the base line, and with Van Lear's catcher and first baseman gumming up works when they tried to stop the play. In this inning,...

VACATION HAZARDS

As summer approaches, the minds of the young and old begin to turn to the great outdoors. Some plan to take the open road and travel by automobile as far as varying conditions will permit; others are arranging to camp in the hills, while others anticipate touring by some mountain stream and whipping its pools and rapids for members of the family tribe. In each and every case are involved health hazards against which only proper precautions will avail to safeguard for life in the open is usually a season of relaxation, when sanitary discipline is all too apt to be neglected.

Smallpox vaccination is good for several years; the diptheria immunization should be renewed annually. Campers should be careful to protect themselves against mosquitoes. Malaria is transmitted only by certain kinds of mosquitoes that have become infected by biting persons contaminated with malaria parasites. These infected mosquitoes bite other persons and induce them to contract this spreading disease. Campers living in cottages, should screen all doors and windows; if tents are utilized, mosquito bars should be attached.

In recognition of this, Dr. A. T. Cornack, State Health Officer, is issued a timely warning, which should be heeded by all automobile tourists, prospective campers and summer vacationists generally. The warning relates to the potential dangers to health incident to changed or changing environment, with special reference to the disease which may be transmitted through food and water supplies, and by means of insects.

"Care should also be taken not to come in contact with poison oak, poison ivy or other poisonous plants. These plants do not transmit disease, but their infection is often a painful and debilitating as disease, and if very severe, may have serious results."

The automobile tourist would do well to observe the following precautions: "Particulate only tourist camps bearing the approval certificate of the State health authorities."

"Look over the place where you propose to eat before ordering a meal. Indiscreet surroundings, usually mean dirty people; dirty people are apt to sell dangerous food products."

"Because of available water supplies and farm house wells, unless they bear a safety sign from the State health authorities."

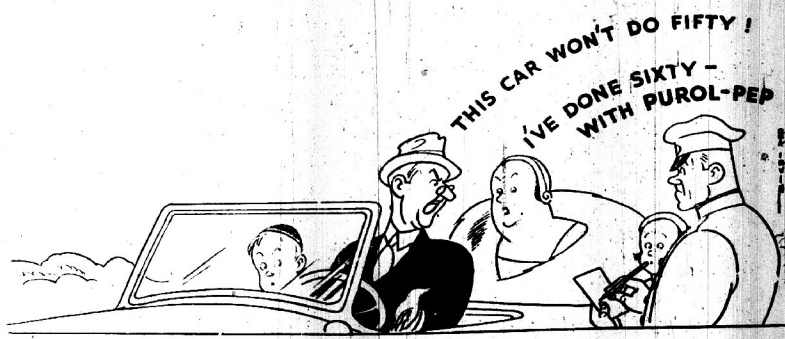

"Unless you can obtain milk from sources which have the approval of the State health authorities, it is safe to boil all milk before using."

"Don't stay in a place where fleas mean the place is not being kept clean."

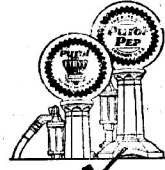

"If these precautions are carefully observed, and the tourist or camper takes the required amount of rest and does not overindulge in food or drink, there is no reason why his vacation should not prove what it week apart, will assure protection against the disease for two or three years."

"All vacationist, not already protected should also be vaccinated against smallpox and diptheria."

How to Make "One Dish Meal" Well-Balanced and Nourishing

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON, Director, Home Food Extension

CASSEROLE or top-stove dishes, combining meat and vegetables of the main course, produce nourishing, well-balanced meals with little effort in preparation and service. If the one-dish meal is baked, it can serve a baked dessert such as custard, custard mix, cottage, oatmeal or baked apples, for the same fuel will cook both foods. As Spring house work arrives we welcome suggestions that make easier the preparation of meals. These flavorful, delicious, and substantial dishes will help you to serve interesting meals with an expenditure of less time and energy.

Fork Chop Casserole: In a buttered baking dish place alternate layers of thinly sliced potatoes, using 2 to 3 cups, and 1/2 cup finely chopped onion, sprinkling each layer lightly with salt and pepper. Over potatoes and onion place 8 pork chops sprinkled with salt and browned in a skillet. Over all pour 1 small can of about 1 cup of Cream of Tomato Soup. Bake in a hot oven (400 to 450° F.) for about 45 minutes or until potatoes are tender and flavored richly with the pork and tomato.

Chop Steer: Cut 1 1/2 to 2 pounds lean pork shoulder, 2 large onions, 2 cups mushrooms, and 1 small can of tomato soup. Chop and mix. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Bake in a hot oven (400 to 450° F.) for about 45 minutes or until potatoes are tender and flavored richly with the pork and tomato.

Flag Day Carries Special Significance This Year

THE AMERICAN FLAG

June 14, Flag Day, has ever carried the deepest meaning to every true American. This year the flag will carry a tenfold significance as the nation celebrates the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the birth of George Washington. For to General Washington, venerated of the birth of George Washington, comes a leading part in the very designing of the flag, and what he did to give it meaning is and will be known to every American as long as our country lives.

On June 14, 1777, Congress resolved "That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and white; that the Union be thirteen stars, white in a field of blue representing a new constellation." In these simple words authority was given to General Washington to design the flag, and on the same day tradition has it that he went to the house of Betsy Ross on that visit which has become one of the first pages of American folklore. With him, according to the account, were Robert Morris, and George Ross, one of signers of the Declaration of Independence and the uncle of Betsy Ross' deceased husband.

On entering her modest home in Arch street, Philadelphia, they are said to have found Mistress Ross busy at her needlework and humming a tune—softly, however, so that she might hear the tinkle of the bell on the door of her shop at the front of the house—and General Washington, thus, simply stated his errand.

"Mistress Ross, we have come to ask you to help in making a flag for our country. We do not feel pleased with the grand union flag because of the King's colors in the canton, so we have planned another."

The "grand union" flag referred to by Washington was the one he himself had designed and first sung to the breeze on January 1, 1776, during his sojourn in Boston. This was at a time when the Revolutionists still felt they were fighting, not the British king, but his ministers; hence Washington's flag consisted of the thirteen alternate red and white stripes, but bore in its canton the King's colors, of St. George and St. Anthony. By 1777 the Revolutionists were fighting solely for an American flag, and they wanted an American flag.

Mrs. Ross, it is said, undertook the making of the flag eagerly and with an excited sense of the unusual honor conferred upon her. Not only that, she even suggested to Washington a slight correction in the design, which bore six-pointed stars instead of the five-pointed type of heraldry. With a snip of her scissors, she cut a folded paper and held it forth, a perfect five-pointed star to show what she meant. For a few minutes, longer the design was discussed, and all quickly as nimble fingers could locate the task. Mrs. Ross hid the flag in her closet.

So, in this homely fashion which so well suits the American spirit, was born the emblem designed by Washington, coming almost like a direct tradition credits a leading part in gift from him, to fly ever since over the very designing of the flag, and the nation that he just designed. Today, every American is privileged to ponder on the stupendous human events and influences that have flowed from this simple incident at the house of Betsy Ross a century and a half ago.

When that flag was designed and made there was not a true Republic in existence. Slaves upon the continent, set in motion by George Washington and his fellow patriots have extended themselves to other portions of the earth. More than an emblem of sovereignty, the flag that Washington planned has been a symbol of human freedom, of equal opportunity, and political liberty wherever mankind has sought and fought for these things.

Flags have flown for the vanity of kings. Flag have been hoisted by nations of slaves, by nations representing nothing but conquest and oppression. Many of the erudite prodigies, injustices that men have forced upon each other have been wrought under the sanction of some similar emblem. The flag that will fly from thousands of masts today is, the one given us by George Washington, is the first and the first bright banner of unstained honor, over a people for whom he prepared a great destiny.

It drew the early patriots, from their comfortable homes, from the security of their occupations and from the love of their families, to fight for the larger world which we inherit. What to them was a fair ideal is to us to the great reality. No good American will neglect to ask himself how well he preserves the courage, the spirit of sacrifice, belonging to those men and women who gave us the perfect heritage on this returning anniversary of the day when our flag was born.

Hardly had the American flag appeared when it began to play an immortal part in the making of our history. It first was flung in the air of the great world which we inherit on August 3, 1777. It was first carried into battle by George Washington's troops at the battle of Brandywine, September 11, 1777. It was first saluted by the British at the surrender of Burgoyne, October 17, 1777. It was first hoisted by John Paul Jones, on February 14, 1778. John Paul Jones took the first salute to the flag as a naval emblem, which he

Danny McPayden, bespectacled hurler for the Boston Red Sox, has finally got a break. He's been sent "up the river" to the Yankee camp to pitch some of the best years of his pitching career with the hopeful ballplayers from Beantown. For several years McPayden has been one of the most effective twirlers in the American league; though his great ability has never shown to advantage in the won and lost column because of the perils team behind him.

Now he's with a real ball team, and his record should look great. For one thing, he'll not have to pitch against the murderous Yanks and will take his turn against those powder-puff boys from Boston. Just like the great Chuck Klein of the Phillies. One of the great great hitters of modern baseball, Chuck Klein, never averaged more than a .300 batting average. He was never hit by a pitch, and he was never out of the game at some of the poor pitchers with which Philadelphia has been blessed in recent years.

And could he fight! Whatever John McGraw did, so we are told, playing ball, advising youth or actually going after another with his fist, he went into the matter body and soul.

St. Louis, has a "cowboy" as they put it in baseball. It's Cincinnati. The Reds can't win from St. Louis—that's why we call them the Cardinal. Add being this, what, maybe that's why the Cardinals and the Reds. Chick, they are both here. They have two and Cincinnati has one. All in the family, eh?
