2 Fatally Wounded in Gun Battle at Dwale

HINTON-BENTLEY STRIFE FLAMES ANEW SATURDAY

Glenn and Lum Bentley Are Dead; Hoover Hinton Dangerously Shot

FOUR ARRESTED BY STURGILL, DEPUTIES

LUM BENTLEY UNARMED AN NEW ENGAGES POLICE-MAN IN REVOLVER FIGHT AT CLOSE RANGE; REPORTS VARY

PORTER IS STABBED

Two fatal shootings and a third, not to mention a robbery, is the result of a gun battle at Dwale, this county, Saturday afternoon, shortly after closing of the polls there in the 41-street school trustee election. A fourth was staged seriously, a short time before the gun battle took place.

Lum Bentley, 38, of Allen, shot 814 (Glenn Bentley, 21, nephew of Lum Bentley, and also of Allen, shot five times).

Recovery of Hoover Hinton, policeman at Dwale, who was shot four to seven times, is held doubtful. Lum Porter, stabbed in the body shortly after the shooting took place, will recover. He was cut, it is claimed, by Joseph Lattery.

Varying stories are told of the shooting in which the Bentleys were fatally wounded. Both versions are given, in fairness, to both factions. One of these reports states that Hinton had arrested and searched the Bentleys, the older of whom was intoxicated, and had started to the lock-up with them when Glenn Bentley suddenly whirled, firing a small-caliber revolver which he had had concealed in his shirt. Failing the officer, equipped a .38 Special revolver lent by the Bentleys. Then, when Lum Bentley seized the revolver which the officer had discarded, this report continues, Hinton drew an automatic and resumed firing. Glenn Bentley, meanwhile, emptied his own revolver.

The other report places the blame for the affray on Hinton, claiming that after Hinton had arrested the Bentleys and had started with them to the lock-up, the officer, walking between his two prisoners, told Lum Bentley to walk up to a place a few feet from Hinton's and Glenn Bentley's revolver, which first fired first few are agreed. This report claims that Hinton fired a .38 Special revolver and a .38-caliber automatic.

The firing over between Hinton and Glenn Bentley, this report continues, others took part in the affray. Lum Bentley walked over from the railroad in front of George Layton's home, where the shooting took place, to a vacant lot near Layton's, and lay down, firing, walking to the left, went to a barn nearby, then came back up the track, toward his uncle. At this juncture, this report alleges, Charlie Lattery, one of the party in the home of James Damon before the shooting, which included Hinton, Fletcher Amburgey and Mrs. Damon, fired two shots at Glenn Bentley. Both shots took effect, it is claimed, in the younger Bentley's back. Then when the mechanism of Lattery's automatic failed, this report claims, Fletcher Amburgey took the weapon, wrenched it out and fired three more shots at Glenn Bentley.

One report claims that Lum Bentley was drunk while the other says that neither of the Bentleys was intoxicated. It being established that Glenn Bentley did not drink any

TO OPEN CAMPAIGN FOR SENATORSHIP IN TOWN OF BIRTH

Ex-Senator George B. Martin, of Carterboro, has chosen to open his campaign for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator in Prestonsburg, the town of his birth, on Saturday, July 9, and Floyd county Democrats are preparing a grand barbecue in his honor.

CONVICT SECOND IN BANK LOOTING

Defendant Claims He Was Not in Paintsville During Robbery

Wilson Jennings, 40 years old, of Huntington, W. Va., charged with complicity in the robbery March 9 of the Paintsville National Bank, was found guilty by a jury in the Johnson circuit court last Wednesday night and sentenced to 20 years imprisonment after the jury deliberated about 30 minutes.

Trial of the case which began last Tuesday morning at Motion for change of venue was overruled. The court ruled, however, that the defendant was entitled to trial before a jury drawn from another county and a panel was brought from Pike county.

Jennings sought to prove an alibi, contending that he was in Huntington at the time the robbery occurred. Five teen Huntington residents were used by him as alibi witnesses.

The state's case was based upon testimony of Howard Meade and Mrs. Long Blanton, employees of the bank, and identified Jennings as the member of the trio of robbers who rifled the teller's tills while companions smashed the door and lobby of the bank.

Loss in the robbery totaled $47,300 in cash and bonds, none of which has been recovered.

Lawrence Perry, who was placed on trial a few days previous to Jennings' trial, was also given a 21-year prison term.

VAN LEAR FAILS BEFORE PBURG

Collins Pitches Great Ball for Seven Innings; Ninth Local Win

The Prestonsburg ball team's man of all work Collins, who plays great ball at second, third or short, left, right or center field—occupied the mound Sunday for his seventh league start of the season. And for seven innings pitched almost hitless ball, though yielding in the last two frames.

GRANTS CLEMENCY TO 3 FROM FLOYD AFTER JAILBREAK

Daniels Pardoned, Stepp and Hall Given Commutations by Chandler

Acting as Governor while Governor Bibb Laffoon was in Chicago last week attending the Democratic national convention, Lieutenant-Governor A. B. Chandler indulged in an orgy of pardoning, from which three Floyd criminals, serving penitentiary terms for murder, benefited.

Ingram Stepp, who was convicted in circuit court here for the killing of Willie and Johnnie Clay on Johns Creek and given 21-year penitentiary term, was granted commutation for each yearing to one year. At the same time sentence of Grant Hall, convicted for the slaying of the Stone at Garrett, was reduced from 21 to five years. It was said that the petitions for clemency in each of these cases were signed by the trial judge and the jurors which reduced his term.

Whinding up a busy week, Acting Governor Chandler Saturday pardoned Frank Daniels, who was serving a life sentence for the slaying of Mrs. Eva Clark on Johns Fork two years ago. Daniels was convicted at the April, 1928, term of the Floyd circuit court. He also pardoned former State Senator A. H. Harzic, who was convicted at the April, 1932 term of the Fayette Circuit Court of false swearing and sentenced to one year in prison.

MISS WEDDINGTON, MR. MORELL WED

Marriage of Miss Ruth Weddington and Mr. James Morell Morell, prominent young Prestonsburg couple, was quietly solemnized at the home here Sunday, July 3, by Rev. J. M. Helm, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, here officiating.

The bride, a very attractive girl, was charming in a dress of white chiffon with accessories to match. Mrs. Mildred Smith, sister of the bride, and the only attendant was also dressed in white.

Mrs. Morell was graduated from Prestonsburg high school with the class of '32, and has many friends throughout the section. The groom is a prominent young business man of this place, being associated with his father, J. M. Morell, Sr., in the Morell Bros. Company, Mr. Morell, after attending the Kentucky Military Institute, was graduated from the Bowling Green Business University, Bowling Green, Mo., and Mrs. Morell has a host of friends to whom the news of their marriage will be of much interest.

Immediately following the nuptial ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Morell left by motor for Washington, D. C., and other points of interest in the East. Upon their return here they will be at home to their friends in Prestonsburg.

MRS. ZACH JUSTICE ILL; IS IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Crete Justice, wife of Zach Justice, state road commissioner, is resting easily at the Methodist hospital, Pikeville, where she was taken early Wednesday, last week, suffering from internal hemorrhages, and it was found that a blood transfusion was necessary to give relief. H. K. McCormick gave the blood for the transfusion.

Mrs. Justice was injured in an automobile accident a few weeks ago.

1000 PERSONS GATHERED—AND NOT AN AUTO HORN WAS HEARD

A crowd estimated at 1,000 persons gathered in an auto horn was to be heard. The gathering was held at night, the celebrating taking place in a mountain camp Saturday and Sunday, and it was the occasion of the annual picnic of the...

MINOR OFFICERS MAY LOSE BADGES, REPORT

Ere next week there may be no such officers in Floyd county as a deputy constable or county patrolman. It was indicated this week by County Judge W. L. Stumbo.

Judge Stumbo has notified these officers to come to Prestonsburg and furnish new bonds. And, it is held highly probable, they may return home without their badges. Trouble in which one or two petty officers are alleged to have played a part, may be responsible for this action.

COUNTY AGENT AND LEADERS AT MEET

SCOUTS STORY OF VARNEY'S DEATH

Pike Officials Probe Death of Johnas Creek of Varney Saturday Night

(Special to The Times)

Pikeville, Ky., July 6.—The story told here yesterday by four persons arranged for examining trial in county court following the death from a revolver bullet of Emory Varney, 21, son of Mrs. Leonard Varney, 17, son of Mrs. Leonard Varney, admitted that he held the revolver when it was fired. Mr. and Mrs. Varney are reported as having had domestic difficulties, but, to date, this has not been established as a factor in the case.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Varney, Garland Varney and Wally Varney, 34, were arrested and brought here. They said that the revolver was discharged by Garland when removing the weapon from his holster. The wounded man was evidently at ease, without speaking, following the firing of the shot, they said, 25 minutes later, complaining of feeling sleepy. After retiring, he died, the Varneys said.

Mrs. Varney's White Varney were released. The others are being held in jail without bond.

Bochambeau, One Of America's Benefactors Born 207 Years Ago

July 1 is a date on which every person in the country who wishes to be regarded as a good American should think for a moment of the noble character who was born on that day 207 years ago. In Lafayette Park, in the city of Washington, facing the White House, stands a statue to this man and on the base of it are carved the words, in which George Washington has nobly recorded the "harmonious friendship which existed between this man and himself."

This friend of Washington and of America was Jean Baptiste Donatien de Vimeur, Comte de Rochambeau, and it is in view of that classic example of friendship between two exalted souls, as well as for the help that Rochambeau brought to Washington and to America, that every American owes him a thought. And the thought is more appropriate during this year when the entire civilized world is honoring the memory of George Washington. Nothing would have pleased Washington more than this moment of gratitude that we bestow upon his great ally in our day in arms.

Every schoolchild knows the story of the help that came from France at a critical hour in the progress of the Revolution. The patriots were told by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, had France placed themselves under Washington's command and made possible that "harmonious friendship" which Washington himself records immortally on the statue of his friend. It is a fact known chiefly to students of history that Lafayette dearly wished to be made commander of this French contingent, and it is worth the labor of turning over all the pages of correspondence dealing with the subject for the pleasure of finding how gracefully he yielded the honor and how cheerfully he became a subordinate of his French chieftain and to General Washington. But Rochambeau was equally fine in placing himself completely under Washington's orders, and in this he was but executing the orders of his superiors in France.

It is not commonly understood, in the first place, what an honor the French conferred upon us in placing Rochambeau at the head of the reinforcements they sent us. The story of it makes one of the noble pages of history. It is the story of nations and individuals willing and able to rise above considerations of racial or political status, and uniting to bring the French troops, to the aid of the American cause. And no man could have more fittingly personified the compliment, than Washington, and long before the American Revolution distinguished himself in one of France's important wars. A smaller man might have given himself airs on the score of this, especially as America was distinctly the supplicant for this aid from the French.

Instead, Rochambeau placed himself and his force, completely at Washington's disposal. Not only that, care was taken to observe every detail of military courtesy during the campaign. For instance, in the siege of Yorktown, the Americans were given the post of honor at the right of the line; and within these larger acts were countless smaller observances that showed the course pursued by Rochambeau to the plane of military civility.

It goes without saying that Washington completely captivated Rochambeau and all the French officers, and the "harmonious friendship" that sprang up between them was just what Washington's words conveyed. Carried on Rochambeau's statue, they will go on declaring what they say as long as the two nations survive, perpetuating a friendship of two great powers.

Rochambeau lived to the ripe old age of 82. During the French Revolution he at first sympathized with the struggle for liberty and fought for the cause, but the murderous proclivities of the leaders sickened him. Suspected because of this, he was put in prison, and was saved from the guillotine only by the timely death of the young Napoleon. He received again his rank and his estates and was allowed to live out in peace a life of memories every one of which did him honor.

NAMES WELFARE BOARD

Frankfort, Ky., June 23.—Governor Ruby Laffoon today announced the personnel of the new Welfare Board, which will have supervision of the state charities and penal institutions.

The chairman of the new board is Abraham Dudley, of Pleasantville, Henry county. Members of the board are: Miss Ella Lewis, of Leitchfield; John Skahn, of Lexington; George Brady, of Lawrence county; and Elmus Beale, of Murray.

KENTUCKY RIDES THE STORM

The two decisions of Kentucky's Court of Appeals, dealing with its fiscal problems, clarify the situation. Definitely there can be no funding of the state's floating debt until it shall be passed upon by a vote of the people, as provided by the present constitution, or until by amendment or a new constitutional convention the basic law shall be changed.

Governor Laffoon did not alone in the expressed hope that the warrants, now totaling to about $13,000,000, should be re-funded. During the campaign in which he was selected much was made by Mayor Harrison and others of the opposition of the spectacle of Louisville in which by order of debt dispossession of the city should be in hands selling at a rate and securing a lesser rate of interest than the debts of the state.

Not until this avenue was tried would the possibility be dismissed. This the governor did, and Kentucky must realize that he took into consideration the possibility of failure of the court, to open the way. He prepared for foul weather.

Because the Governor slashed expenditures, balanced the budget, and did his utmost to put the brakes on further issuance of state warrants, the decision does not leave the situation hopeless. Thus the other decision of the court of appeals declaring the teachers' qualification act unconstitutional lifts a burden of $700,000 from the treasury, which further aids Governor Laffoon in his struggle to save money and balance the budget.

Thus, when the time comes for an appraisal of his stewardship, it is to be hoped that it is appreciated by his fellow citizens that, so far as the executive branch of the government is concerned, every expedient has been pushed to its utmost to preserve the faith and credit of the commonwealth.

Upon the legislative branch must devolve, when next it meets, the problem of Kentucky's money, either by retiring the notes on the state treasury in a sufficient amount to preserve the commonwealth from a charge of actual repudiation or to tarry the machinery going to refund the debt by constitutional means.

Meanwhile the Kentucky ship of state rides out an economic tempest with a competent helmsman.—The Courier-Journal.

MORE PEP than ever Higher Anti-Knock, Too

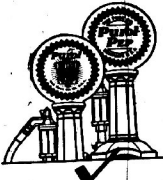

This Gyro-Processed Gasoline Offers Premium Quality at Regular Price

Here's one regular priced gasoline that meets 1932 requirements for anti-knock, yet also gives increased power, pep and mileage.

Under ordinary refining methods, power and mileage are often sacrificed to step up anti-knock rating. In New Puro-Pep you get higher anti-knock plus improved all 'round performance, thanks to Gyro Vapor-Phase refining. Gyro-Processed gasoline contains more energy units per gallon—that means extra power—extra mileage. Puro-Pep also gives quicker starting and acceleration because it vaporizes instantly and completely.

Try a tankful of New Puro-Pep. You'll find it gives what you're looking for—most value for your money.

700 APPLICATIONS FOR TRUCKING PERMITS

Frankfort, Ky., June 23.—Approx- imately 700 applications for truck permits, have been filed with the Motor Transport Department under pro- visions of the new law regulating motor transportation, according to Cliff Chayton, commissioner of the department. The law requires common car- riers to have certificates which cost $25, and contract carriers to have cer- tificates which cost $20. About 100 con- tract carrier permits have been issued, which permits a truck owner to contract for hauling. Common carrier certificates are issued to organized truck lines operat- ing over a specified route between fixed termini. No common carrier cer- tificates will be issued until hearings have been held by Commissioner Chayton. He announces that hearings will start in Frankfort July 11, and that the first hearing will be on the route between Louisville and Lexing- ton. There are now 15 applications to operate over different portions of the route. There are now operating under permits granted previously, but will be required to apply to the State Tax Commission for renewal of their permits before July 15. Trucks weighing above 5,000 pounds will be required to pay mileage tax. A bond of not less than $1,000 made by some surety company will have to be deposited with this department guaranteeing payment of the mileage tax, also copy of insurance policy covering personal liability, property damage and cargo, with endorsements required by this department attached, signed by the insurance company. Trucks weighing below 5,000 pounds will not be required to pay the mileage tax nor will they be required to deposit the bond, but will be expected to take out either a certificate of in- surance or deposit an insurance policy covering public liability, property damage and cargo, with endorse- ments required by this department attached, signed by the insurance company.

The provisions above apply only to trucks operating for hire. One using a truck for his own use will not be required to comply with any provi- sion of the law passed by the last legislature as to taking out of a cer- tificate or permit, or carrying insur- ance.

All drivers of any motor vehicle for hire, whether he be a chauffeur or the owner of such motor vehicle, will be required to take out a driver's license from this department. This li- cense will cost $2 and must be renew- ed on the first of each year following, and the cost of all renewals will be $2.

Though vacations scatter the family the Telephone keeps them together Vacation time is here and soon thousands of families will be scattering to various places to spend their vacations. Some will go to the seashore, others to the mountains or on week-end motor trips; yet large numbers of these vacationists will keep in close touch with relatives and friends back home by telephone. People are fast learning that it adds much to the pleas- ure of their vacations and the happiness of those left at home when they call back at regular intervals. The cost is small. To most places 25 miles away, the pay station rate is about 25 cents; 75 miles, 50 cents; 100 miles, 65 cents; 150 miles, $1.00. During busy periods and night periods, rates are much lower.

FRID

But the big Chicago audience that filled every available seat was disappointed. The session did not develop on the surface—any fight but all the evidence of a Democratic loss, except for Senator Huey Long's castigation of the "mob" of outsiders that were contesting the seats of the senator's group of delegates.

To be sure it had not been possible for the committees on credentials and on permanent organization to arrive at unanimous opinions and there were minority reports from both committees brought to the floor of the convention, the vote of the various members of the committees indicating very clearly just where the strength or weakness of the leading candidates lay. In the committees with one vote from each state it was very evident that Governor Roosevelt could control the majority reports of these committees.

The first test came on the setting of the Long delegation from Louisiana, which was instructed by Roosevelt, the contesting delegation being uninstructed.

The minority report, the adoption of which would have unseated his delegate, was defeated by a vote of 63 1/2 to 33 1/2.

Then at suggestion of Senator Barkley the oratory had been confined to the Louisiana contest and he also suggested that the convention discontinue the oratory in the Minnesota contest. The speech making in the Minnesota case consisted largely of the orators, and there were several telling of the virtues of all Minnesota Democrats, only some had more virtues than others. (Depending upon which delegation they belonged to.) The contestants were quite willing to be satisfied with half the honors and proposed that both delegations be seated, each delegate having half a vote. In the end the contestants were defeated by a vote of 65 1/2 to 40 1/2.

THE FOURTH—MONDAY

The Fourth of July here was—just Monday. And a blue, rainy Monday at that. Some of the joy, took occasion for a spree, others worked and still others stayed at home. All plans for a celebration here were promptly cancelled when the rain showed no sign of ceasing.

Misery loves company, so they say. If the Cincinnati Reds feel at all badly over their poor showing on the Eastern trip just concluded, they needn't worry too much because they have plenty of company in their inability to beat the eastern clubs. The Reds finished the tour with a record of having won seven games, and lost nine. The St. Louis Cardinals won six and lost seven. The Chicago Cubs won six and lost eight. The only western team to come out on top was Pittsburgh with a record of seven games won and six lost. Looking at matters from that angle the Reds played a good ball as any of the other contending clubs.

Are the eastern teams stronger than the western clubs? The results of this last season might point that way, but as a matter of fact the two sections are about evenly matched, each holding two first division berths. Chicago and Boston are the top representatives. The other clubs are handled over together in the standings, and a week's play might easily upset the entire scale. The Reds themselves, now out of their terrible slump, are figured to gradually regain their former lofty position. It is surprising when a vast difference it makes to a ball club to be playing on a foreign field rather than at home. The landmarks, which are so familiar to the players on their home field and which assist them in batting and fielding are sadly missed when away. Strange fields are not conducive to the best playing, yet the club which wins the pennant must be a good road club. It is the unwritten law of baseball. Frequently certain clubs play seasonally at home but are unable to do a thing abroad and lose out in the race.

It isn't always necessary for a club to amass a huge winning percentage on the road to win the pennant. It must play better than its opponents at home. So far, this year, the Reds have succeeded in doing neither. The team has played fair ball at home and has simply been annihilated on the road. Naturally there was no possibility of remaining at the top of the league with that brand of ball. This situation comes, all the more considering the fact that the Reds are an aggregation of smart, veteran players accustomed to any and all playing conditions, and environments.

Stars, such as Babe Herman, Chick Hafey, Eddie Leland, Lee Grubbs, Wally Gibert, George Grantham and Taylor Douthett are at times on any field, having played them all many times. Just why these men have not performed better is one of those many mysteries of the game that defy explanation. Our own opinion tends to the belief that if he, taken and will take a little while for these players to organize themselves into a team rather than remain an assortment of individual stars.

It must be remembered that President Hester Wiley, in his gallant attempt to bring a real team to Cincinnati, was obliged to gather his players from every possible source. The result was an assortment of stars who had a chance to learn in "teamwork." Their individual efforts, carried by the club along during the early days of the season, but the now-famous slump was due almost entirely to their lack of team play. A club cannot go on winning games indefinitely when the men on the field are of co-ordinating their efforts. We believe that the Reds have learned that lesson.

It has always been a puzzle to this writer just why heavyweight boxing champions are invariably washed-out affairs. Sound business judgment would seem to demand that the fight fans be given their money's worth in entertainment; but apparently the fight promoters and the fighters themselves don't care whether they treat the public severely or not. The record of Schmelling-Sharkey last year, another example of this unbusiness for the customer.

Sharkey won the decision from Schmelling on a decision that was shared by any of the judges. Schmelling was the favorite, but a substantial margin because he carried the battle to Sharkey all the way, but had his opponent backing in the late rounds with a heavy right hand.

DEMOCRATS PUT ON ROARING SHOW AT CONVENTION

Picked Roosevelt and Garner as Standard Bearers for National Race.

By WRIGHT A. PATTERSON

Chicago—The democracy of America met in national convention in this city, and at the end of six days and two nights of strenuous labor, had selected Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York as its candidate for President; Speaker John N. Garner of Texas as its candidate for vice president; adopted a platform, one plank of which provides for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and the immediate modification of the Volstead act to permit the sale of beer and light wine; listened to the speech of acceptance by its candidate for President, and adjourned.

The above paragraph tells the news of the Democratic convention. It tells what was presumably done in the convention hall, but no news paragraph can give the reader a picture of a national political gathering, nor can that picture be painted with only the ingredients found in a convention hall. Both national conventions of 1932 consisted of a gathering of 2,308 delegates and alternates; men and women from every state in the Union and from every outlying possession. Quite naturally they felt they were at Chicago representing the sovereignty of all of their party members in their respective districts, and sat in the convention, in the glare of the spotlights, for that purpose. But of that 2,308 men and women less than one-fourth actually had a voice in deciding what would be done, and the one-fourth diplomatically or some times brutally, told the other 1,920 what they would do. A goodly percentage of the 2,308 delegates and alternates did not know just what it was all about.

On the floor of the convention about 90 per cent of the activities was bunk and ballyhoo noise and hysteria, a useless effort to create sentiment for or against this or that or the other policy, or this or that or the other candidate. The other 10 per cent consisted of the ratification of what had been accomplished by the leaders behind closed doors in committee meetings held in hotel rooms. If it were not done in that way convention would never end, and party government in America would be impossible.

Conventions Much Alike.

That, in brief, is a picture of any national political convention, and it was as true of the Democratic convention as of any other, with the exception that the committees were in no sense unanimous, and there were minority reports presented from practically every one of them on practically every question of policy. In the end, however, the wishes of the majority of each committee were ratified by the majority on the floor.

The ballyhoo of the convention was particularly noticeable, as it always has been, at the time of presenting the names of candidates to the convention. It began shortly before two o'clock, Thursday afternoon, continued until the adjournment at six, began again at nine that night and continued without a break until four-thirty Friday morning.

For nominating speeches, of which there were almost 100, the names of Traylor, Garner, White, Byrd, and Murray—20 minutes each were allowed. For second speeches, which there were more than 100, five minutes each was allowed. Following Gallery Always in Evidence.

The excursions were the demonstrations for Governor Smith and Governor Ritchie. In these demonstrations the unruly gallery gods took a hand, and supplemented the noise made by the pipe organ. To the gallery gods these two candidates represented beer, and beer to the galleries was the most important subject before the convention. The demonstration for Roosevelt lasted 45 minutes. Then at suggestion of Speaker (Garner) participated in the "Gray Mare band" of Dallas and a goodly number of Texans imported for the purpose. Then came the naming of the party's candidates for vice president. The excitement was the demonstrations for Governor Smith and pandemonium broke loose in the galleries, as well as with the Smith delegation. They kept it up for one hour and two minutes, the record for the convention. That ended the afternoon. Four hours gone and three of the nine names before the convention.

It began again at nine and through the long weary hours of an all-night session there was speech and ballyhoo, speech and ballyhoo, until four-thirty Friday morning when that part of the job was completed and the roll was called on the first ballot for the party's candidate for President. The result was: Roosevelt, 68 1/2; Smith, 29 1/2; Garner, 3 1/2; White, 3 1/2; Traylor, 4 1/2; Byrd, 2 1/2; Murray, 2 1/2; Ritchie, 2 1/2; Baker, 8 1/2. Mr. Roosevelt lacked 100% of the needed two-thirds to secure a nomination. Two more ballots were taken without material change in the result, and then, at eight-thirty in the morning the weary crowd quit until eight-thirty Friday night.

Roosevelt Wins.

Trades were made during Friday. Speaker John Garner was assured of second place on the ticket if his delegates threw their votes to Roosevelt, and the nomination was made on the first ballot taken at the Friday night session, the fourth ballot of the convention. Roosevelt received 94 1/2 votes, Smith 100 1/2, with 12 1/2 votes scattered between Ritchie, Baker, White and White.

The Smith delegations stood loyally by their champion to the end, and there was no motion to make the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt unanimous.

At the Saturday session Speaker John N. Garner was chosen as the party's candidate for vice president. At that session Mr. Roosevelt, who had reached Chicago by plane, was present and was received with enthusiastic enthusiasm. He was officially notified of his nomination and made his speech of acceptance.

The convention opened at 12:45, forty-five minutes late—on Monday. The stars of the first performance were National Chairman Heshob, making his last appearance; Commander Evangeline Booth, of the Salvation Army, and Senator Barkley, temporary chairman. In his opening address the noble wit of the national chairman was just a bit over the heads of his audience and did not produce the rip-roaring hilarity characteristic of his talks at the national convention. Senator Barkley was more to the liking of the delegates and the audience, but his speech at the national convention was just a bit over the heads of his audience and did not produce the rip-roaring hilarity characteristic of his talks at the national convention.

The crowd on the opening day was not up to expectations. Chicago did not treat their Democratic guests any better than they had treated Republican guests. A third of the seats in the Stadium were vacant. But Chicago knew the fireworks would not be the best.

"Garner" Not in Evidence.

With the opening of the session at 12:45—fifty minutes late—the Democratic parade was in evidence. The Democrats all sat at the front of the Stadium.

The crowd did not want to hear the Democrats, and made that fact evident. The Democrats were not in evidence. The Democrats were not in evidence. The Democrats were not in evidence.

JOHN N. GARNER

man. The Roosevelt majority wanted Senator Walsh, the Smith, Ritchie, Reed, White, Murray, etc., etc., minority wanted Senator Sherman of Kansas.

"Controversy" was productive of eloquent oratory. Ralph C. O'Brien, of Kansas, eulogized Walsh, while talking for Walsh. Then came the former Democratic standard bearer, John W. Davis, who eulogized both Shouse and Walsh, though presumably talking for Shouse. On the roll call Walsh was elected by a vote of 68 to 32. To complete the love feast the elected and the defeated candidates had their pictures taken together on the speaker's platform.

The expected fight over the rules did not materialize. Governor Roosevelt had called a halt on the effort to change the century-old rule of a two-thirds vote to nominate.

Altogether it was a mild affair. No rip-roaring, roaring, Democratic demonstrations; no futile arguments; no real entertainment for the Chicago audience that had purchased season tickets at prices up to $50; nothing to indicate that it was a Democratic national convention in session.

Yet Chicago went to the convention Wednesday night to help the wet Democratic majority put over its wet. It was a roaring, howling, good-natured mob that craved the gates of the Stadium to the extent of throwing the rubble left of the national convention in session.

The "Garner" Ovation for "Al" was a surprising note of Wednesday night's tumultuous session was the reception accorded Governor Smith when he took the platform to speak for the majority. He spoke for the majority. He spoke for the majority. He spoke for the majority.

The crowd did not want to hear the Democrats, and made that fact evident. The Democrats were not in evidence. The Democrats were not in evidence. The Democrats were not in evidence.

The crowd did not want to hear the Democrats, and made that fact evident. The Democrats were not in evidence. The Democrats were not in evidence. The Democrats were not in evidence.
