POLITICAL FIGHT GROWS FURIOUS; ELECTION NEARS

Women to Serve As Poll Officials in Floyd; Ballot Spoilage Feared

Yet a few more days, and the agony—the travail of having to listen to political speeches and political arguments, the misery of having to wait in suspense—will be over. Tuesday, Nov. 8, is the big day for which preparations have been in the making for many weeks.

To climax the verbal bombardments being made by both of the major political parties, an all-night radio party is planned, though not definitely decided upon, next Monday night, with both Democratic and Republican speakers dividing the time in extolling their favorites and denouncing their opponents.

In Kentucky an unusual political situation exists, with nine candidates on each major ticket running for Congress while the redistricting matter is still being hauled over the coals in court. As a result of this arrangement, it is pointed out by observers, many ballots may be spoiled unless care is taken by voters seeking to

Ballot Spoilage Feared
The following ruling on the method of "crossing" the ballot:
"It is not very safe to scratch a ticket this year. Wootton wrote Kempner, 'because of the fact that there are eleven electors for President running from the state-at-large and also nine candidates for Congress running from the state-at-large upon the Democratic ticket and nine candidates running from the state-at-large upon the Republican ticket, besides scattering ones on other tickets. In voting for any of these parties, you are desiring to scratch would place a cross-mark on the square opposite the name of such party for whom he desires to cast a vote.'

However, in voting for the electors or the candidates for Congress from the state-at-large, it would be necessary to vote for nine, or eleven, as the case may be. If you should place a cross under the roster and then go over and place a cross opposite the name of any one of the Republican candidates for Congress, the ballot would not be counted for any of the nine candidates, on the Democratic ticket, and it would not be counted for the person opposite whose name you placed the cross on the Republican ticket. The same would be true of voting for the electors because they are running from the state-at-large and not from districts."

Similar opinions were given in answer to the other queries. Four hundred ballots were submitted by Deane Hunter, marked with a cross under the log cabin and a cross opposite the name of Glover H. Cury, Democratic nominee for Congress from the state-at-large. Wootton replied as follows:
"The ballot should be counted for the Republican ticket, except it would not be counted for any of the nine candidates for Congress from the state-at-large nor would it be counted for Glover Cury. This is the ruling of the Kentucky State Board of Election, in the case of West Virginia, Ky. The same rule applies to the State Board of Election from the state-at-large and not from dis-

WOMAN'S CLUB IN DISTRICT MEET

Mrs. W. P. Mays, Prestonsburg, to Head District Organization
Delegates and visitors from the Woman's Club to the district convention at Jenkins report the first and most interesting meeting in the district.

Mrs. Heller, of Louisa, new state president of the Kentucky Federation, was present and made a wonderful address at the morning session. The Jenkins Club has a clubhouse, and it was in this that the morning session was held. The reports from all the clubs were good and interesting, but the Prestonsburg women felt a fringe of pride in the many the things accomplished in their club during the past year, such as starting a library, planting 50 trees, making a student loan, and the great amount of relief done, such as sewing, helping with crippled children, clinics and helping cook and serve hot lunches to underserved children.

Many thanks were given to the many women who attended the convention. The convention was held in the afternoon at the local club, reported that with so many things of interest and interest.

Tobacco in Old England

For fifty years after tobacco began to be used in England, all classes smoked, from the peer to the peasant. Presently the medical profession abandoned it for use in combating sickness, but by that time smoking had become fashionable. Sir Walter Raleigh's true story in tobacco history is that long before his death, in 1618 he taught the world to smoke for pleasure.
However, tobacco had come from the very hot "smoking King James I taking it upon himself to write the "Connoisseurs to Tobacco," and Dekker, the dramatic, referred to it as "the most costly monarch of India, and writer of rotten-lusted chimney sweeps."

Better Health
 Disease Prevention
 By DR. WILLIAM J. SCHOLLES
 Pneumonia is not usually one of the most prevalent diseases of summer. Yet during the past summer there was an unusually large number of cases in some places.
 The health commissioner of Chicago said that in all probability pneumonia would increase to serious proportions. The occurrence of an unusually large number of cases during the seasons when there should not be much of this disease is what led him to expect an increase.
 He gave some suggestions in regard to prevention. Now that the season is upon us, it is well to be on guard against pneumonia. There are several things that should be avoided.

 Avoid persons who have colds and pneumonia. Colds and pneumonia are contagious. The summer cold is a frequent forerunner of pneumonia. Persons who are recovering from pneumonia should also be avoided.
 If you contract a cold, the best thing to do is to bed for one or two days. If the cold persists, the doctor should be consulted.
 The germs of contagious pneumonia are conveyed by coughs and sneezing. In order to protect others, the mouth and nose should be covered with a handkerchief when coughing or sneezing.

should be avoided in crowded places. All of these things are the result of a lowered vitality and resistance to infection.
 Frequent exercise, fresh air and sunshine help to avoid colds. Exercise is best taken out of doors in the fresh air.
 Clothing should be suitable for the weather. It may be said that too much exercise will be very harmful while it is hot.
 Every precaution that is taken to guard against colds is a precaution against pneumonia. Prevention involves two things. One is to avoid everything that lowers the vitality and increases susceptibility to infection. The other is to avoid people was discovered, unconscious, clinging to the ankle of the other girl. She was later revived.

 The hero found dominion over the water. He first grabbed Miss Rogers and towed her to the log. Then he turned to seek the other girl, but Miss Rogers threw her arms around his neck from behind and both were momentarily submerged.
 Evans freed himself, took hold of the girl by the hair and swam 20 feet to the shore. There Miss Powell

Hints for the Household

FOR NOVEMBER

By Betty Webster

HOUSEHOLD HINTS—

Well Flavored Housework
Do all possible cleaning, ironing, washing or baking in the morning. Make possible preparations for dinner in the morning, leaving just the finishing to be done at dinner time.

Save the sewing, mending, writing and such tasks, for afternoon or evening. These can be done after one is dressed for the evening. It allows the housewife a chance to be off her feet and thus gives her a rest worth while.

Save Starch

Do not throw away starch left in a bowl. Put bowl aside until starch has settled at the bottom. Pour off the water. Place bowl with starch in the oven for a few minutes until starch cakes. Then it can be put away and used another day.

The Proper Way to Hang Clothes

Hang clothes up to dry in as near the same position they are worn as possible.

COOKING HINTS

Turnips in Potato Cakes
Cook turnips and mash when done. Bake potatoes. When done, scrape out middle. Mix equal amount of potato and turnip together. Mash and season with butter, pepper and salt and little milk or cream. Pile on the potato

Thanksgiving Dinner Menus For Different Food Budgets

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Dinner, Home Food Institute

TO be traditional, Thanksgiving dinners should be simple in menu and decoration. It's a time when we don't wish to be too modern; something within us rebels at efforts to change the time-honored menu of turkey and "stuffing," cranberries and Mince Meat pie! The feast, however, thanks to modern methods of food preparation, need not mean the days of labor in preparation that it did in the old times. Delicious ready-to-serve appetizers, soups, relishes, and desserts relieve the busy house-maker of much time-consuming preparation for Thanksgiving. And if your purse demands retrenchment from the usual Thanksgiving menu, the dinner can be just as gay, and as appropriate by using a less expensive menu.

Frozen Tomato Juice Cocktail—Add to 1 pint Tomato Juice, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon grated onion and 4 stalks of celery, well begirded or grated. Let stand 15 minutes, then strain through a coarse wire strainer. Pour into the freezing tray of a mechanical refrigerator. Stir thoroughly several times during the freezing process. Serve in cocktail glasses.

Mince Meat Tarts in a Mode—Prepare pie crust and roll it 1/4 inch thick. Line shallow tart pans with the crust and fill with Mince Meat. Roll more of the crust and cut it into 1/2 inch strips, lay these strips over the tarts—press firmly at the edges and bake in a moderately hot oven. Serve warm sprinkled with powdered sugar and topped with a spoonful of ice cream.

BUSINESS MEN VS. POLITICIANS—Declaring that business men have as much right to free speech as politicians, E. F. Hutton, prominent business man and philanthropist, has defended Henry Ford's action in calling his employees that he believes the welfare of the country calls for the resignation of President Hoover. Mr. Hutton believes that it is not only the right but also the duty of business leaders to make clear their views on governmental questions to their constituents.

IN MODERN MANNER—Ann Stendell is a charming girl for a while recently seen wearing gown of fur and sophisticated suit. The velvet bodice and collar suggest an influence of the 17th and 18th centuries.
