SHERIFF MAY BE ASKED TO SETTLE JURORS' CLAIMS

Dismissal of Smiley's Mandamus Petition Paves Way for Action

WOOTON MAY ACT

Petition of I. A. Smiley, trustee of the Floyd county jury fund, seeking a writ of mandamus to force J. Dan Talbot, state auditor, to pay $2,170.48 in jury claims from the Floyd circuit court was dismissed Monday without prejudice by Judge H. Church Ford of the Franklin circuit court.

The dismissal came at the request of E. C. O'Brien, counsel for Mr. Smiley, after hearing of the case was under way. This action paved the way for the jury fund trustee to ask Judge C. B. Wheeler of the Floyd circuit court to direct Sheriff B. L. Sturgill to pay the claims out of funds in his hands which are due the state.

To prevent payment of the claims in this way, however, it is indicated that Attorney General Bailey Wooton may enjoin the sheriff against settling the claims with state funds in his possession.

The claims, which are in the possession of local citizens who bought them at a discount, were not paid by State Auditor Talbot when presented several months ago on the grounds that the jurors were not legally drawn for service.

DIRECTS DISMISSAL IN KEATHLEY CASE

Peremptory Instructions End $25,000 Damage Suit; Pike Jury in Scott Case

On peremptory instructions of Circuit Judge C. B. Wheeler the $25,000 damage suit in the Floyd circuit court Tuesday against Lawrence Keathley, of Martin, was dismissed. The plaintiff was Henry Maggard, administrator, who sought damages in the death of his grandson, Amel Maggard, who was electrocuted more than a year ago outside the theater of the Martin Amusement Company, of which the defendant was a stockholder.

Judge Wheeler decided in favor of the defendant, he stated, on the grounds that the theater was owned by a corporation, of which the defendant was only a stockholder, and because it was not proved that he himself caused the wire connection to be placed that any person coming in contact with the fence at the rear of the theater building would be hit by the electric current.

The plaintiff sought to prove criminal negligence on the part of the defendant in permitting the dangerous connection to exist.

In the conclusion of this case Tuesday afternoon the stage was set for the second trial of Inhamel Scott, the murderer of Martha Stephens, which began Wednesday morning.

Jury composed of Pike county jurors for possible jury service were here for possible jury service Tuesday, but they were not sworn.

NATIVE OF FLOYD IS HELD SUICIDE IN PIKE COUNTY

Bascom Dameron, 56 years old, native of Floyd county, was found dead November 10 at his home at Coal Run, Pike county, where he is believed to have taken his own life. A bullet had been fired through his head and another through the body, near the heart. Pathologic health is given as a motive for the act.

Mr. Dameron was a son of the late Ezekiel Dameron. The greater part of his life was spent in Pike county, where he resided with his sister, Mrs. R. L. Sparks. He had been a cripple since childhood, and his health had been falling rapidly within the past year. Besides his illness, the victim is survived by one half-brother, Luther Dameron, of Millard.

Mrs. Sparks said that she left her brother at her home while she was visiting neighbors. Returning late in the afternoon and finding none of the gates open, she made a search for her brother, and in his dead, burial was made in the Millard cemetery at Coal Run.

CHARGED WITH DEATH OF WIFE

Zona Castle and Miss Borders Held in Alleged Poisoning Case

Louisa, Ky., Nov. 19.—Arrested in Lexington early last night on a telegraphed request from County Judge R. C. Moore, of Louisa, Zona Castle, 58, and his niece, Miss Mae Borders, 22, of the George's Creek section, were returned here this morning and lodged in the county jail, Castle to face a charge of poisoning his wife, Mrs. Theta Borders Castle, 56, and Miss Borders, as an accessory to the alleged poisoning.

A warrant charging with murder was issued by Judge Moore here with the arrest of Castle late yesterday. Shortly after the public service in Lexington reported to Coroner C. E. Skaggs that the contents of the stomach of Mrs. Castle showed presence of poisoning that would cause death. Mrs. Borders was named in the warrant charging with aiding and abetting the crime.

Mrs. Castle died at her home at Uigues, 16 miles south of Louisa, on October 27, of convulsions after 24 minutes' illness, county doctor here told by Umberto Borders, brother of the dead woman, and later the girl held as Castle's accessory. Mrs. Castle's body was buried in a home-made coffin, he said. The death certificate issued by the health registrar stated she died of natural causes.

Borders appeared before Judge Moore and asked for an acknowledgment of her death, following the death of her husband and the doctor's presence at Borders' home.

Borders was said to have been in the home last a few days of the week, and the state police were called to the home to investigate the case.

Leads in the case were being followed up by the state police.

CURB JURISDICTION CONLEY DRAWS LIFE SENTENCE

Council Directs Local Arrests Taken Before Magistrate R. L. Spradlin

Jurisdiction of the Prestonsburg police court was restricted by an order made by the city council in meeting Tuesday night, the council directing that all arrests be taken before Magistrate R. L. Spradlin instead of town law violators arrested by Prestonsburg police to be taken before Magistrate R. E. Arnold.

This action was taken. It was explained by a member of the city council in order to change such prisoners from city to county charges and thus make available to the town the use of the Floyd county jail, Jailer W. A. Dinger had previously announced that he had not been paid except in warrant, on which there is no cash value for his services in keeping city prisoners, and had threatened to refuse city prisoners admittance to the jail.

Tax matters were discussed at Tuesday evening's meeting, and the council directed that only the two policemen here shall be paid out of the offer fund of the corporation. Herebefore, other officials of Prestonsburg have been receiving salaries from this fund.

FLOYD DEMOCRATS COMPROMISE UPON MAY FOR CHAIRMAN

Agreement Effected Monday Seen as Preventing Fight for Organization Control

PLEDGES IMPARTIALITY

What a week ago promised to be a tooth-and-tongue fight for command of the Democratic organization in this county, with the possibility of a serious rift in the party's forces, in Floyd, was turned this week into party harmony as the result of a compromise in the matter of selecting a county chairman.

Leaders of the two wings of the party conferred Monday, with the result that both factions agreed upon Congressman A. J. May as county chairman. Previous chairman to be elected December 1 are to be chosen, according to the agreement, upon the full understanding that they all are to vote for Congressman May for the county chairmanship.

In accepting the post, Mr. May pointed out that he did so only in the interest of party harmony, and assured leaders of both factions that he would favor neither in the party organization.

Now, it is indicated, whatever scrap remaining to be staged will be that in the several precincts for the post of precinct chairman. With the county chairmanship settled, however, the party rivalry is of minor importance and is not regarded as dangerous to party harmony. It was said Tuesday.

DECISION IN COAL CASE TO BE MADE

Supreme Court to Pass Upon Legality of Marketing Agent

The Supreme Court Monday announced it would decide whether the 127 producers of bituminous coal in Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky violated the Sherman anti-trust law when they organized Appalachian Coal, Inc., as their selling agency.

The corporation was formed to sell coal at prices to be fixed by a board. A three-judge federal court for western Virginia, suing exploring the constitutionality of the coal industry, and reviewing attempts by regulatory authorities and the industry to find a remedy held the plan necessarily limiting competition as to prices between members of the corporation.

Although the marketing agency would not be able to fix market prices or establish monopolistic control, the court declared the volume of coal it would handle would be so great as to eliminate competition among the members of the association. The government's contention at which it would prove that would, the court said, necessarily affect market prices.

Appointed immediately with the rights of the coal industry the trial court declared, "before the law" the coal industry's plan to fix prices was a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

TAX ASSESSMENT RULING IS GIVEN

Increase Ordered on Knott Coal Companies Set Aside

The court of appeals held last week that "whenever tax values have been judicially determined by the court of law, resort is ought to be made clear that the property or conditions, in the next succeeding years have very materially changed before other values are placed upon the same property."

In an opinion written by Commissioner O. W. Stanley, the court of appeals ruled that the 1929 and 1930 values placed by the Kentucky River Coal Corporation and the Beaver Creek Consolidated Coal Company were not "set aside" for the purpose of purposes "are fair and representative of the actual value of the property." Judgments of the court of appeals, bringing higher assessments, were set aside.

The appellate court pointed out that the determination upon which the case was based was that the valuation of the property of the Knott River Coal Corporation and the Beaver Creek Consolidated Coal Company in this case, as set by the county commissioners, was not "set aside."

BELIEVES MAN WANTED IN PIKE, OHIO CONVICT

Dock Boyd, Implicated with Fono Crisp, Floyd County Youth, in Robbery of Joe Matthews, and Dave Hatfield in Pike County Several Months Ago, is Believed to be the Man Now Held in the Ohio State Penitentiary at Mansfield, Ohio, Under the Name of Turner Boyd, Portmanteau as a Hand Day with a Removal of the Old Name.

Boyd is under a 10-year sentence in the Ohio state penitentiary at Mansfield, Ohio, under the name of Turner Boyd, portmanteau as a hand day with a removal of the old name.

Crisp was arrested, shortly after the Pike robbery, were committed, and was given a 10-year pen term. Boyd escaped. Since that time Pike officials have received several tips on the whereabouts of Boyd, and it was learned that a prisoner, named Boyd had been received at the Ohio state penitentiary, photographs of the convict were obtained by Deputy Sheriff Harro Childers of Pikeville. Mr. Childers said a few days ago that the photographs lent evidence to the belief that Dock Boyd is the man who is the Ohio convict.

Tobacco in Old England
For fifty years after tobacco began to be used in England, all classes smoked, from the peers to the peasantry. Presently the medical profession abandoned it for use in combating sickness, but by that time smoking had become fashionable. Sir Walter Raleigh's true place in tobacco history is that long before his death he had taught the world to smoke for pleasure.

However, tobacco had become the very bane of King James I. He had it upon himself to write the famous "Ban on Tobacco," and declared the habit a heinous crime, and the smoking of it a heinous crime, and the smoking of it a heinous crime.

Clothes for the Needy

Women volunteers sewing for the needy under direction of the Red Cross produced 258,906 garments last year, and will produce millions of garments in the winter of 1932-33. These will be from the millions of yards of cotton cloth distributed by the national Red Cross from the 540,000 bales of cotton turned over to the organization by Congress. Cloth was sent to all chapters requesting it, and later it was proposed to send some simple ready-made garments, including trousers, overalls, underwear, stockings and so on.

Tax Assessment Ruling Given

The board, for assessment, of the court of appeal, said, "As prescribed by the Constitution and the statutes is it, fair cash value estimated at the price it would bring at a fair voluntary sale." The importance of observing the formula is emphasized by the constitutional provision that any officer who shall commit a willful error in respect thereto shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall forfeit his office.

"It appears in the present cases that these legal bases and rule, for valuation were not adhered to. A member of the board of supervisors making the assessments testified, 'we didn't attempt to fix the taxable value of these lands under the present condition that the county is in now. Our values were fixed at what the property should be worth under normal conditions, when there would be a market for it and when it would sell.'"

"Perhaps it was optimism and not pessimism," Stanley remarked, "that induced, for example, a total assessment of the Kentucky River Coal Corporation's property for $22,700,000 by the courts to be a fair taxable value for 1928, and followed by a decree of pessimism that led to the value of $484,270 for 1932. The difference in the character of the property each year was negligible."

ALLOTMENT OF BASS IS RECEIVED HERE

An allotment of bass, shipped here from the state fish hatcheries, was placed in the Big Sandy river here last week by J. H. Patton, and another shipment is promised next spring.

Mr. Patton said that plans are being laid for a local organization for the protection of fish in local streams. It is hoped that an organization may be formed as effective as that of Pike county, where streams are being stocked with fish and actual protection is being afforded. In that county few violators of the fish and game laws are escaping arrest. It is said.

HEALTH NEWS

Compiled by Dr. Marvin Ransdell, Director, Floyd County Health Dept.

TULAREMIA

In view of the opening of the hunting season, especial timeliness attaches to a warning against tularemia, or "rabbit fever," issued a few days ago by Dr. A. T. McCormack, state health officer. In the last three years deaths in Kentucky from this disease which has been reportable since 1928, aggregated 24; 10 in 1929, 9 in 1930 and 5 in 1931.

"Tularemia," said Dr. McCormack, "is an infectious disease, to which wild rabbits and other small animals are susceptible. It is spread from animals to animals through the bite of the rabbit tick, the wood tick and a certain species of the fly. Transmission to the human being is through the handling of an infected animal or by the bite of an infected insect. The germ of tularemia is found in the blood or vital organs of the infected animal. Most cases of the disease in human beings are contracted by hunters who are skinning and cleaning wild animals. The germ may enter the body through a cut or sore on the hand or any abrasion of the skin. The disease may also be contracted through contact of the infectious material with the mucous membrane. Many cases are due to rubbing the face or eyes with hands which have become contaminated through contact with the infected rabbit. The following simple rules, if carefully observed, should avoid to prevent infection: 1. Always wear rubber gloves when dressing rabbits. 2. Never handle a wild rabbit which has been found dead or which has been brought in by a dog or cat. The sportsmen should shoot rabbits on the ground, as those animals which are brought in their actions are likely to be infected with tularemia. 3. If internal organs of rabbits are stuffed with white spots, the condition may be tularemia. 4. Cook rabbits thoroughly, so that no red meat or red blood remains. Thorough cooking the meat destroys the germs. "The onset of tularemia often begins with a severe chill and with influenza-like symptoms. There is generally a low fever, persisting for two or three weeks and accompanied by a profound prostration, followed by a long, slow convalescence. The disease is sometimes mistaken for typhoid fever, which it may resemble at the outset. "Tularemia requires prompt medical treatment. The family physician should be promptly called in all cases developing symptoms which suggest rabbit fever. The doctor's diagnosis may be confirmed by blood tests, for which the laboratory of the State Board of Health is always available, at the request of the attending physician or the local health officer."
