Cider for Pioneer Americans

Cider has been called the American national beverage. It is not peculiar to the United States. England, France and many other temperate zone nations make cider, but it is true that the juice of the apple has special connotations with American life. In no other country is applied so broad an expanse. There was a time when not a farm lacked its apple orchard. It was not until the 18th century that Appleshed John, that curious heretic prophet of the northwest territory, began a campaign for sending over parts of three or four states, punctuating his pluriplurals with plantings of apple seeds. So, in addition to the thousands of dried and pruned apple orchards, the country knew literally thousands of apple trees planted by the side of the road, in open pastures, on the edge of woodlands, beside streams, the myriad-branched monument of Appleshed John's planting still stand.

Cider was a natural beverage for the pioneer, and the making was easy. No elaborate machinery was required. His raw material was a fruit, of which there was no great surplus that could not be immediately consumed. It was a beverage which, in one stage, was suited to the delicate palate and light heads of women and children, while in another it became a sort of Viking's berserk mead.

So characteristic of America was this drink that it became the symbol of a Presidential campaign. William Henry Harrison, who, incidentally, came from the very heart of an appleshed John's domain, was swept to victory on a hard-cider platform—Washington Star.

Irish Settler Said to Be Able to Hypnotize

In his native country the Irish settler's true worth is enjoying his employment in the field being in the exercise of all his strength, the Emerald Isle. Developed there from the "settling" Spaniards, he first appeared in their color, red and white. Through careful breeding, white has been discarded and is never present; the rich colored coat, chestnut color or deep bay, predominating the well-bred specimens. Presumably there is also a mixture of the old Spanish pointer in all setters, for from no other dog could a breed inherit the wonderful scenting power, the staccato attitude when on point. Nor their style in drawing up to the game, holding their spears at the will of the hunter.

Breaking a Mirror

Don't be alarmed if you break a mirror and some one says that you'll have seven years' bad luck, because the most superstitious of the world and merely the end of witchcraft that was practiced during the Middle Ages. In those days if some one wanted to do harm to some one else he would contrive to break a mirror into which the second person had lately peered. It was said that if the mirror could be broken before the image of the victim had "evaporated" seven years' bad luck would be bound to follow the smashing of the glass. Actually, of course, the whole idea is ridiculous, just as ridiculous as thinking that the rattling of salt will bring bad luck. That particular superstition is the result of the very ancient idea that to spill salt at a man's table after one has dined with him is to insult him and challenge him to battle.

Raleigh and a Comma

The will of Diego, a son of Christopher Columbus, recently discovered in Spain, was first thought to cast doubt upon the generally accepted story that Sir Walter Raleigh first introduced smoking into Europe, says Tobacco Times Magazine. This will, dated May 2, 1528, more than 90 years before Raleigh smoked his first pipeful of tobacco, disposed of a sum of money to a certain Antonio described apparently as "tobacco merchant of Lisbon." Close examination of the document causes scholars to believe that the clause reads "Antonio Tabaco, merchant of Lisbon." The fame of Raleigh as patron saint of tobacco therefore seems to rest on the placing of a comma.

Optim Poppies

Opium is obtained from the milky juice of the young capsules of the poppy grown in China, India and Persia. The climate must be tropical or subtropical, there must not be an excessive rainfall, and the industry can be carried on successfully only where labor and land are sufficiently cheap and abundant. The cultivation of opium poppies for the production of opium is not possible in this country, even if it were permitted by law, it is said that every species of poppy is capable of yielding opium to a greater or lesser extent.

OWA HELPS U. R. STUDENTS EARN PART OF EXPENSES

Two hundred and thirty-three University of Kentucky students are earning a portion of their college expenses through work provided by OWA projects, according to information given out by the Dean of Men and the Dean of Women at the University. Of this number, 78 are women and 155 are men.

The 155 men include 38 new students and of the 78 women 22 are new. The students doing OWA work earn 30 cents per hour and work an average of 50 hours per week, with average earnings of $15.

All projects, undertaken by the students are necessary ones, concerned with the functioning of the University. Many of the students show special interests—such as mechanical or electrical ability, and such students are repairing and wiring machines. A group of 25 men students form a clean-up squad and are moving from building to building, cleaning. Three are acting as campus policemen. One is doing volunteer work in the library, several are acting as janitors, and a number are assistants on various research projects. The duties of the 78 women engaged in OWA work are mainly clerical, although several are engaged in research work in dietetics.

O. W. Van Petten, of Charleston, W. Va., transacted business here last week and was the guest of relatives.

Mrs. Blaine Smith, of Wheelwright, the guest of her mother, Mrs. Anna Johnson, here this week.

Mrs. Curtis Clark and Mrs. A. J. May, Jr. were recent visitors in Huntington, W. Va.

SPOTLIGHTS OF THE NEWS

President Roosevelt told the dollar to get something—other out of here and quit being so snooty, but the old dollar just moaned around and looked wise, as if to say, "I'm not a cheap guy and you can't make one out of me." The dollar is holding steady, even in the face of devaluation which is causing the professors no little concern.

There are eight million wage earners out of work; there is an enormous surplus of cotton, corn, wheat, hogs, tobacco, in fact, there is a huge surplus of every necessity to sustain an abundant life; that is, a surplus of everything except the wherewithal to obtain it. Devaluation is the dollar is nothing more or less than a bouncing in ten dollar words that the things you eat and are going to feed your more money. If God has endowed that human being with the capacity to raise prices in the face of such insupportable surplus, and in the face of so much inflation, misery, he has arrogated a natural law for the first time in His divine existence.

Long range reduction in the hog population is doing the agricultural department considerable worse because of lack of cooperation on the part of one of the states most vitally interested. Farmers who kept four hogs soon have been asked to keep only two, but it transpires that the hogs either are owned by the government plan or else you don't give a—you know what. Reports from the hog districts show that responding to the letter were the farmers.

As spotlights has often remarked, taxes are the waiters' finger in the administration soup. The boys dug deep and the best they could do was to bring in a bill with which they hope to raise $238,000,000. That lacks quite a few dollars of being sufficient to finance the vast government program. Taxes—taxes have been very disappointing and income taxes are not increasing as anticipated. What to do about it? Congress is delaying the fatal day but eventually they will be forced to drag in the specter—the sales tax.

The Roosevelt administration is making Christover out of the bankers. Just to convince the Wall Street gang that the President was not indulging in reconditioned air, B. F. C. Ketchum in with that twenty million dollar loan to New York Central as Spotlights predicted two weeks ago. Central needs sixty million to meet May 1-maturities, but you will not see the banks like the other forty million and like it. RFC's little that the government would enter the private banking business, turned the trick. The roads don't know what it's all about, but as they say, "The government is going to get us eventually, so it may as well be the mortgage route."

Traffic jams are easing the rails over a rough spot. For the first six weeks of 1934 freight car loadings showed an increase of 380,234 over the comparable period of 1933. The bulk of this gain was in miscellaneous shipments which is interpreted as a pickup in consumable goods, that is, goods that you and I eat, drink, smoke or wear every day. This also indicated that men have gone back to work and are buying the necessities of life.

NOTE IMPROVEMENT IN COAL BUSINESS

Louisville, Ky., March 8.—Every body's been hearing for a long time how badly the coal business is doing in Kentucky, said S. M. Sappley, acting district manager of the Department of Commerce, today. But the district office which is making close contacts with producers, manufacturers, exporters and chambers of commerce, had a letter from a secretary of a Chamber of Commerce in Eastern Kentucky this week, which carries encouragement. It said: "Coal business has improved here during the

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

THE SUBSTITUTE LIQUOR BILL

The substitute liquor bill written by the legislative committee on alcoholic liquor control was presented to the legislature on Monday, February 26, 1934. It is obviously a piece of machinery, based on the majority and minority plans submitted to the legislature by Governor Laffoon's committee on liquor control after a serious study of several weeks. But after the scissors and paste had been used by the legislative committee, the new bill does not even have the merits of the original minority bill that could muster only two of the seven votes on the Governor's committee. The original minority bill found its inspiration and sanction in the "medical-legal" exception to the Prohibition amendment; it was an attempt to supply the BEVERAGE demand in the state under the subterfuge of furnishing MEDICINAL liquor. Although the only "profession" in the committee that had anything to do directly with medicine—the doctors—was left out of the picture, at least the original minority bill limited the sales to drug stores only—an establishment that had some relation to medicine. But the substitute bill permits any business to sell, provided it pays the license and complies with the requirements of the act. Thus we behold the spectacle of groceries, filling stations, delicatessen stores and ice cream parlors selling MEDICINAL liquor by the package, and hotels, restaurants and clubs selling MEDICINAL liquor by the glass, to be consumed with meals.

Item by whether you CAN make words mean so many different things. And Humpty Dumpty retorted: "The question which is to be mastered—that is all." Fortunately, under our form of government, there are some limits on the power of legislative definition. Here that. If this bill ever passes the legislature, the court of appeals will soon be given the opportunity to look beneath this subterfuge and pretense and hypocrisy. The legislative committee let the cat out of the bag when they used that word "palpative" as a synonym for "medicinal." Webster's Unabridged Dictionary defines "palpative" as follows: "To cover with excuses, to conceal or disguise the enormity of, by excuse or apology." It is unthinkable that in this modern age, an appellate court, that is as able and as conscientious as our court of appeals would uphold this sort of legislation, not in accord with the spirit and intent of the prohibition amendment in our state constitution. The substitute bill cannot even claim the merit of cleverness. There is nothing subtle about its technique attempt to comply with the prohibition amendment. On the contrary, the bill reeks with hypocrisy and from a drafting standpoint of bungling. If the legislature passes this monstrosity it does not require a prophet or a son of a prophet to predict the action of the court of appeals. Their disposition of the statute will throw the liquor business again into the bootlegger channel and the legislative dealers and the state will receive no revenue from the liquor traffic. If the Kentucky, an infant named Edward Manuel, of male sex and three (3) years of age, was committed to the care of the act be amended so as to society as a neglected and dependent child, and said Society will, in conformity with said Section, as amended, proceed in the course to commit to and consummate the adoption of said infant by an adoptor and second such adoptor the parental control of the infant. This advertisement is hereby published once a week for four weeks in The Times, a newspaper amended by the act of the General Assembly of Kentucky, Chapter 70, Kentucky, and the newspaper prescribed by said section as amended.

PRODUCTION AID GROUPS FORMED

Organization of production credit associations covering entirely Kentucky and Tennessee and all but a few counties of Indiana and Ohio has just been completed.

Production credit associations in these four states, which comprise the Fourth Farm Credit Administration were organized by the Production Credit Corporation of Louisville and will obtain their initial capital from it.

Kentucky will have twelve production credit associations, with an aggregate authorized capital of $300,000; Tennessee will have five with an authorized capital of $350,000; Ohio, eleven (to date) with authorized capital of $400,000, and Indiana nine (to date) with authorized capital of $1,200,000.

Kentucky's production credit associations, the office headquarters of each, and the authorized capital stock of each are:

- Central Kentucky, Lexington, $100,000; Danville, $120,000; Owensboro, $100,000; Middlesboro, $100,000; Glasgow, $80,000; West Kentucky, $100,000; Jackson Purchase, Louisville, $100,000; Jackson Purchase, Mayfield, $60,000; Nolichucky, Elizabethtown, $60,000; Flemingburg, $50,000; Big Sandy, $40,000; Cumberland, London, $40,000; and Northern Kentucky, Owenton, $40,000.

There are, altogether, 32 associations in the four states, each of which covers from two to five, or more counties. Garwood's announcement said: "Their total authorized capital is approximately $4,000,000. About three-fourths of this amount will be used as needed by the Production Credit Corporation of Louisville, and this will enable the association in the four states to submit the notes of farmers, which they have endorsed to the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Louisville for discount. If the notes are acceptable to the Intermediate Credit Bank, it may discount them in an amount up to five times an association's capital."

"All of the Associations may make short-term loans to eligible borrowers for the purpose of producing crops and livestock, during the winter months, or for other business purposes. The loans will usually be made for a term of three to twelve months, depending on the length of the growing season."
