Laziness Caused
 By Torpid Liver
 Scientists Agree

Half-Alive Feeling, Bilious Attacks, Yellowish "Muddy" Complexion and Dizzy Spells Are Common Among People Today.

New Medical Mixture Is Found Known as Indo-Vin Which Helps Liver to Function Normally and Costs Very Little

If you were told that the tired, lazy, drowsy feeling so common among people today is directly caused, in most cases by an inactive liver, it would sound unusual, wouldn't it? Yet this is a proven fact from actual records. But science has found a medicine that works with the food we eat and acts upon the liver.

The Liver, When Sluggish and Inactive, Slows Down the "Bile Flow," Causing Headaches and Low Energy.

Not a cure-all, not a "patent medicine," but a new formula called Indo-Vin now being introduced in Prestonsburg and your health often breaks out in blemishes, drug store. It was first introduced a few months ago, and today hundreds of bottles are now being sold in this city. It is helping people who had never been really helped before by ANY medicine.

What It Will Do
 Taken shortly after meals, Indo-Vin mixes with the food in one's stomach, aiding nature and throwing off poisons that foster stomach troubles, and permitting the liver to function properly. It helps bring out impurities which cause half-sick, tired feelings and low energy. It will relieve gas (frequently from the first dose) which may have been inside of your stomach for a long time, contaminating blood and inner organs. By its natural cleansing action, Indo-Vin often puts a stop to the skin eruptions that are caused by impurities and will overcome the sallowness or "muddy" complexion that is due to in Prestonsburg at the Hughes sluggish liver and will put Drug Store.

the rosy glow of health in your cheeks. Physicians will tell you that your liver must flow freely or your food won't digest, just decays in the bowels and you have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin eruptions often break out in blemishes, drug store. It was first introduced a few months ago, and today hundreds of bottles are now being sold in this city. It is helping people who had never been really helped before by ANY medicine.

This is no mere tablet or pill, and not a powder, syrup or capsule, and it does not contain alcohol or a single habit-forming drug, but is a scientific LIQUID mixture from 21 Medicinal Plants, all blended into one remarkable compound. It is vastly different from any previously known formula, contains perhaps more ingredients than three ordinary medicines put together. While it is being introduced in Prestonsburg, every suffering person can try it at the small cost of only a few cents a day. So if stomach afflictions, or even some little digestive difficulty is bringing your misery, it would certainly be a mistake not to try it.

SCHOOL PROSPECTS IN FLOYD BRIGHTER

Teacher Salaries Boosted Average of $22 Over Last Year

By Scott C. Osborn
 According to a statement issued Saturday by Ballard Hunter, Floyd county superintendent of education, schools in this county are in a markedly solvent condition, and the prospect is brighter than it has been for years.

Most important to the individual teacher is his salary. Owing in great part to the efforts of the E. K. E. A. and the K. E. A., a state sales tax is now a reality and teachers receive more money than they could possibly have hoped for a year ago. The basic salary in this county is $63, which is due to the work of Mr. Hunter at Prestonsburg where he got four dollars more than was expected.

Two dollars is paid for each year of teaching experience up to four, fifty cents for each high school credit up to 16, and twenty-five cents for each college hour up to 12. This compares favorably with a $45 basic salary last year, $1.50 for each year of experience, and fifteen cents for college hours.

Among 149 teachers in one and two-room rural schools, the average college preparation last year was about 18 college hours, while this year the average is 3. college hours. These 149 teachers receive an average salary $22 higher than those in the same position last year.

Mr. Hunter estimated that attendance this year is 35 per cent higher than last, and that attendance for this year's second month is 18 per cent in advance of the first. This rise is attributed to the work of John Warix, county attendance officer, and there were two years before that.

Sensible to the great debt the state school system owes to the E. K. E. A. and the K. E. A., Mr. Hunter said he wants every one of the 236 teachers in this county to become a member of those organizations. He said, further, that at the next meeting of the board of education, the board would be asked to pay a year's membership fee of $1.50 for each teacher in the county so that Floyd county may have 100 per cent enrollment in the two groups.

Four thousand, five hundred people attended this program in Huntington, W. Va., October 21, sponsored by the P. T. A. The Martin school was not able to give its Halloween program this week because of the fact that a revival was in progress at the Martin Methodist Church.

The Martin football team defeated the Martin Independents Friday afternoon, 13-12.

Who's Who in the Senior Class
 Starting this week, the news staff of the Martin high school will present a series of "Who's Who" in the senior class. First we shall give the class officers:

Otto Frazier, president of the senior class, was born on December 31, 1918, in Martin. He started his first year in the Martin graded school and has continued school here until he is now a dignified senior. Mr. Frazier has been in several plays at Garrett, and the remainder of her time has been in Martin. Miss Spurlock is one of our outstanding students and has been in several plays. All who saw "Here Comes Charlie," a play presented last year, will remember her in the role of "Nora."

Miss Spurlock's chief hobby is chewing gum.

Ella Martin, secretary and treasurer of the senior class, was born July 18, 1916 at Gibson, Ky. Miss Martin has spent only three years in Martin high school, having previously attended the McDowell school. We expect Miss Martin to be the head of our graduating class because of her excellent work. Miss Martin's chief hobby is reading Wild West Weekly.

Telephone Users Consider Quality and Dependability of Service as Paramount

Telephone service is such an intimate, personal service that maintaining it properly is of such importance as to be a subject of constant concern to the millions of people who use it. It is such an important part in your every day social and business life, its quality and dependability are matters of serious concern to you. It is the high standard to which the service you receive would not be acceptable, even at a higher price.

Recognizing this fact, the Bell System has always placed its highest priority on the best and most dependable service that science and careful, thoughtful management could provide, at the lowest possible cost consistent with financial soundness.

In the best years of the Southern Bell Telephone Company's history, and during a time when the cost of the telephone service was kept at a level where the return on the investment was never more than 7%. In 1930, when the depression was first felt, these earnings declined rapidly, and in 1933 they slumped to about 4% on the investment.

It is obvious that further reductions of such already inadequate earnings would seriously endanger the financial soundness of the business, and be reflected in the quality and dependability of the service.

Mother and Daughter Re-United By Efforts of Red Cross Worker

By Bob Potter. Last Sunday afternoon may have been just another bright October afternoon among the Kentucky hills for you. But for Alberta Roberts and her mother, it was no ordinary day.

It came about in this wise. About the middle of July a rather neat-appearing man, giving his name as Phillip Roberts, and a girl of 18, his daughter Alberta, appeared at the Prestonsburg office of the American Red Cross seeking material aid, Roberts saying his home was at Hazard. Miss Ella Noel White, the chapter secretary, was somewhat impressed with the appearance of the man and especially with the charm of Alberta, a rosy-cheeked, dark-eyed girl of animation.

Roberts had worked with the county relief commission in Perry county. It was learned subsequently he was employed last winter at Garrett. He was divorced from his wife, who was remarried and was living at Hazard. There were two other children, both younger than Alberta, Miss White learned.

The Red Cross officer furnished the little girl with some clothing. For a time Roberts and his daughter occupied a room in Prestonsburg. Then, one day late in September, the little girl came to the chapter headquarters wanting a pair of shoes. Her father had been sent to the penitentiary, she told the Red Cross official, to serve a two-year sentence for stealing copper wire. Alberta had been taken into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Collins, who live about five miles out on Johns Creek.

Knowing the Collins family was not well able to add another to their household, they were trying to care for, Miss White decided to locate the mother of the girl or her grandmother before seeking to place her in a children's home. Alberta said her mother would be glad to have her if she could be found. Miss White was somewhat skeptical, wondering why the mother had not sought out the child.

But she made the investigation, finding from Hazard that Mrs. Roberts, now Mrs. Chas. Haley, had removed to Hyden.

However, on writing there, Miss White found no further information of her. The Red Cross officer also wrote the maternal grandmother of the child, Mrs. Susie Napier, at Blue Diamond. No reply was received to this letter.

Preparations were made then to send the child to an orphan's home at Louisville, and within a few days she would likely have been sent. But the letter to Alberta's grandmother, after some delay, reached her at Grapevine in Perry county. Last Friday, Laura Napier, a sister of the woman sought, came to Mrs. Haley at her home in Perry county, saying, "I have good news for you." The news was of the finding of Alberta.

Sunday, Mrs. Haley hired a taxicab and came to Prestonsburg seeking her daughter. Three years ago, Roberts had taken the girl away from the Napier home, claiming he was going to take her to the child's mother, Mrs. Hatcher said. But he had taken her elsewhere, and Mrs. Haley had not been able to find her oldest daughter. The second daughter had been placed in an institution and subsequently adopted, while the youngest, a boy, was with Mrs. Haley.

About noon Sunday Mrs. Haley arrived at Miss White's home and together they went in search of Alberta. When they found her, Miss White asked: "Alberta, do you know who this is?" The girl, thinking she was being given a conventional question, replied with certainty, "Miss White."

"No," explained the Red Cross official, "this one" — Mother gazed, and daughter gazed; and there was a rushing into arms and an outpouring of tears, it fact, a whole quartet of weepers, for Miss White and Miss Collins joined in the expression of that joy which is so close akin to sorrow.

Alberta told her mother Mrs. Collins had treated her well, and suggested a present of a dress, with which Mrs. Haley was glad to comply. "You have been good to me," Alberta told her benefactress before leaving, and her mother gave the promise: "I'll let you come back and see them."

Miss White was returned to her home in Prestonsburg, and Alberta and her mother set out in their taxi for Perry county and home. A mother and daughter had been reunited, and upon Kentucky hills the October sun shed mellow, autumnal light which did not mean, at least to two glad spirits, the glory of just another October afternoon.

BLACKCATS CLAW LOUISA BULLDOGS

(Continued from page one) Two Louisa fumbles figured in the scoring. Early in the first quarter, Bail, Louisa quarter, fumbled and Goodman, Prestonsburg left end recovered on the Louisa 13-yard line. From that point onward, it was a matter of only a few plays until Mayo hit the line for a touchdown. Soon afterward, Rankin fumbled on his own 10 and again Mayo ripped through for another marker. Louisa then opened up with passes, Hutchinson and Rankin shooting the ball at Roberts who is one of the best receivers in the country, not excepting even Mickey Cochrane. Three passes good for 64 yards netted a Louisa touchdown.

In the next quarter, however, Archer and Prewitt, after a substitute who is making a fine showing with the team, ripped the Bulldog defense to shreds. From the 18-yard line, behind a splendid interference, Prewitt ran for a touchdown, soon standing up. To begin the third quarter fight, Mayo broke through Louisa's tackle, out to the sideline, meanwhile shaking off at least four would be tacklers, then outran two Louisa backs the mere distance of some 70 yards for another touchdown.

A long pass, Hutchinson to Hays, after Roberts had blocked Mayo's punt on the Prestonsburg 30, resulted in an eventual Louisa touchdown in the last quarter, the ball being grounded on Prestonsburg's 7. From there, Hutchinson and Rankin pounded the line for the score.

White the Blackcats looked weak on pass defense, they nevertheless were always on top of the receiver who was unable to get away after getting the ball. They were powerless, however, to intercept a Louisa pass, one of which there were various and sundry. Dotson was injured early in the game, but not before he had resumed play where he left off in that Belfry game—knifing in to make tackles behind the line of scrimmage, making merry in the opposition backfield to the extent of running far across to the other end of the line of scrimmage and taking runners for losses. The team can keep up its competitive spirit, continue to absorb the good coaching being dish ed out by Coach Watson, steer clear of serious injuries and take the entire squad to Lyndon Saturday, it is altogether probable that they will smear the cadets of Kentucky Military institute just as they have these boys from Eastern Kentucky.

Line up for last Saturday's game: P'burg Paa. Louisa Roberts I.E. Roberts Edwards LT. Vinson Thompson G.G. Crutchfield Sturgill RG. Hays RT. Hays RR. Hutchinsion Smith QR. Ball Mayo. LH. Workman A.  AND DR. BILL CALLIHAN

We may not promise much, but will do what we promise. Taxes are now being levied which should not be, and it the sinking fund was collected and if the OLD BOARD had not loaned your money out to slow debtors, you would not now be paying extra taxes for that purpose.

We will promise here and now, on our word of honor, that we will, if possible, erect a school building in West Prestonsburg and the Porter Addition, and will not promise you and do nothing, as your present board has done in that respect. WHY NOT A CHANGE? IT COULD NOT BE WORSE! Give the young teachers of our community an equal opportunity. We pledge ourselves to this end—and further, we will not assess any teacher for a position or slush fund to further our gains. We will not pay a high price for a transient or attendance officer as is now being done, when there is no necessity.

Vote safe. Be safe. You know your duty to yourself and your community. Do not be misled by false prophets and promises.

ADJUSTING BANKING TO CHANGING NEEDS

By ROBERT V. FLEMING, Vice President American Bankers Association

BANKERS recognize that changing conditions require new methods of doing business. However, it is their responsibility to retain that essential and sound financial principles upon which this confidence in the banker was founded and has grown to be what is still the richest and most important factor in the world.

Many of our difficulties have arisen from lack of confidence and from misunderstanding.

Therefore it behooves the banker to bend every effort to create a better public understanding of banking and thereby bring about that united effort and cooperative spirit which will hasten the day of national recovery and restore to the banker the confidence of the public to which he is entitled.

As an approach to the realization of this ideal, bankers should carefully scrutinize every application for a loan to see if it is bankable and, if it is not, it is not bankable, then make further examination to see if the financing can be made so, in order that the use of credit may be stimulated.

Explaining Loan Factors to Customers. We must not expect our customers to be bankers and understand all the factors which we must consider before granting a loan. If we find that a loan is not, and cannot be made, bankable, then I think we should take pains to explain to the applicant the reasons why it cannot be granted.

There are other meanings which I think it important for the banker to undertake in order to eliminate the misunderstandings which have arisen since the passage of the act which exists. Under present conditions we have to operate under many laws and regulations, and also watch what further legislation is being proposed which affects our methods of operation and may not be in the best interest of the community we serve. Nowadays it seems at times we must sit with a law book in one hand and a book of regulations in the other in order to make certain our duties are being properly and functioning strictly in accordance with the law. All of this is very trying, yet I think in the end we shall become better bankers.

I believe it is the duty of every banker today to endeavor to understand the public he serves. In addition to his daily duties, trying as they are, he should participate in the activities of his community, so that, with the fund of information available to him, he may be as helpful as possible in all public and civic matters.

COMPTROLLER COMMENTS INSTITUTE OF BANKING

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The American Institute of Banking, said to be the most successful project of its kind in the field of applied adult education, has performed a valuable function in training bank clerks for "sound public service as well as personal success."

J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency of the United States, said here at a recent radio address. The institute is a section of the American Bankers Association.

"While imparting useful knowledge, it has improved the morale of bank personnel and has stimulated in its members an intelligent interest in national and international monetary problems," Mr. O'Connor said. "The courses cover a wide field in banking. Among the subjects, one finds Bank Organization and Operation, the Civil Law, Negotiable Instruments Law, and Economics, in the Pre-Standard Division; followed by such subjects as Money and Banking, Credit Management, Financial Statement Analysis and Bank Management, in the Standard Division.

"Each and every subject is one which is necessary to a knowledge of banking. However, the institute does not stop here, but encourages graduate study in Corporation Finance, Trust Service, Farm Credit Administration and Business Forecasting. Again it emphasizes in special courses the importance of the less technical but highly beneficial study of Constructive Customer Relations, Banking Fundamentals and Public Speaking. No comment is necessary on these courses; their value is at once apparent."

BOOKLET ON FARM CREDIT

A booklet has been published by the Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association, on "Factors Affecting Farm Credit," for the purpose of furnishing on a national scale the taking of farm inventories and the making of credit statements as sponsored by the national cooperation with the state colleges of agriculture and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The goal is better relationships between farmers and their banks.

BETSY LAYNE

SCHOOL NOTES

Last week was mixed with extreme joy and deep gloom for the members of the Betsy Layne school. First term report cards were given out. Those who made poor grades are resolved to improve this term.

The sophomore class led the high school group in attendance for the second month of school. The sophs had an attendance average of 97 per cent.

The fourth graders led the grade school in attendance with a 95 per cent record. The fourth grade led the entire school in the tardiness record, having had only six tardy marks for the group for the month. The eighth graders had more tardy marks than any other class in the school.

The high school this year has been organized on a home room basis. All activities of the school are built around the home room as a unit. Sponsors for the different home rooms have been selected and officers of the rooms have been elected by the groups. Complete information on the different officers will be given out next week.

Basketball practice was begun last week by Coach Harold Wheeler. Twenty-four boys were out for the team last week and some likely looking material is included in the group. A stiff schedule has been planned and will be made public when a few more contracts are signed.

Cold weather caught the Betsy Layne schools before the furnaces were put in the best of shape. New bowls had been ordered for both furnaces, but when the workmen attempted to install them it was found that the fire boxes were burned out and had to be replaced.

When these new units are installed the heating plant will be in the best of shape. But until then it will be hard to regulate the temperature of the entire building.

The honor roll for the high school for the first six weeks' term has been completed. Interesting to note is the fact that the president of each of the home rooms is on the honor roll this time. This record is unusual.

High school honor roll freshmen: Addie Boyd, Eugene Stanley, Ethel Robinson, Henry Zemo. Sophomores: Eva Adkins, Bill Blanton, Winifred Lewis, Noah Martin, James Prater, Victoria Kozee, and Gail Slater.

Seniors: Cephas Bevins, Carmen Boyd, Hazel Blackburn, Inez Sizemore, Raymond Stafford.

Seniors: Virginia May, Genevieve Steele, Alma White.

The assemblies started off the honors by having 82 per cent of the entire class on the honor roll for the term.

During the fall the assembly programs have been in charge of the different home rooms and grades. The high school and junior high have assembly on Wednesday mornings, the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades meet on Friday and the first two grades meet on Thursdays.

Primary beginners, taught by Miss Irene Wallace, presented a brief pageant for the little folks last week. The feature of the program was the little Dutch Boy and Girl, the parade of the soldiers by the boys, and the lullaby songs to their dolls by the girls.

The high school this year boasts of the largest class in the history of the school. There are 83 freshmen on the active list now. Five other freshmen registered, but have dropped out. The total high school enrollment is 117.

The senior class enjoyed a winner, for on the knobs near Allen last week. The class made the trip in a truck. Mr. Joseph Elliott, sponsor of the senior class, was the chaperone. Others who attended included Coach Ballard Wheeler; Home-Economics teacher, Rosemary Ethington, and the eighth grade sponsor, Miss Kelsa Gearheart.

GOSSIPERS

By Rev. Josef Nordenhaug

The tribe of the gossipers is legion. They are numerous because the art of fault-finding is an easy one. No brains, no special talent, no character, no self-denial, no magnanimity, is required in the gossip-business. The only thing required is a tongue, sufficiently loose so as to have no connection with the brain.

It is hard to find anything good to say about the gossipers. This one fault is such a serious one as to null all its virtues in the shadow. It seems as though the only thing one could commend in such a case as a surgical operation, for the malady seems stubbornly chronic.

In public life we meet many professional gossipers in the wholesale business, as it were. They are skilled in the so-called business of "mud-slinging." The impinging of their opponents' character is a well-known trick in any political campaign, a trick that seldom fails in its effect. How one could long for some Jonathan in private as well as public life! We are told that Jonathan spoke good of David at a time when such speaking was not only unpopular but a direct risk to one's own welfare.

Nevertheless, Jonathan spoke good of David (1 Samuel 19:4). May the tribe of Jonathan be multiplied!
