FASHIONS IN CROCHET

Fashion news from all over the United States, as well as from the style centers of Europe, comes to you daily with crocheting. Therefore this newspaper offers its readers this series of ten articles, illustrating smart and useful things which you yourself can crochet in leisure time.

IV - HAT AND COLLAR YOU CAN MAKE

Dark cloths for the coming season, of course—but always white and washable accessories for that fresh look. Both collar and hat you can make yourself, of crocheted cotton. Very smart and new indeed is the shape of the collar. The hat has a very dashing and not at all anglic look, exceedingly becoming and young-looking.

Now Mr. Farley is to be taken over the hurdles for violating the fair competition of the graphic arts code.

The United States Postal Department is charged with selling printed envelopes in direct competition with private job shops. This has been an old grievance, but efforts to get the government out of the printing business have not been successful heretofore.

Let's all see to it that this matter of government printed envelopes is thoroughly aired right now—pro and con.

During this year and this month of November we here in Kentucky, particularly, are celebrating the two hundred anniversary of the birth of Daniel Boone.

A great deal of information about Daniel Boone has been broadcast this year. Of some of it the writer has been guilty. Many have made addresses upon the subject of Daniel Boone and his accomplishments.

There is one dog in the large canine family of breeds which possesses a coat of purest white, is called the "white pit" or "dog-dog"—the Bull Terrier.

After that type of Bull Terrier gained notice in England, the present day type was formed most likely when a breeder is said to have crossed the strain with a Bulldog and a lily-colored terrier known around 1870 as the White Terrier.

Better Health

AT WHAT AGE DO WE SLOW UP? By Dr. William J. Scholes

Does a man of thirty have the same strength and endurance he had at twenty? Does he have the same vigor and vitality that he had at thirty? If not, why not?

The human body is an organism made up of a number of units cooperating with each other to make a perfectly functioning machine.

It takes the human organism 25 years to attain its full growth and development and it should last four times that long.

But the point I am trying to make is that you will not live a hundred years no matter how careful you are if you are not made of the kind of stuff that will last.

We begin to die from birth. In a certain sense we are dying from the moment we are born. That is to say, the various functioning parts begin to wear out from the time they start to work. Certain changes take place in these parts year after year—the sum total of which may appropriately be termed a progress loss of elasticity.

Even though a man lives a perfect life he slows up a little each year. He has a little less strength, a little less endurance, a little less reserve, a little less comeback.

Emerald Said to Promote Friendship, Conquer Sin
John Vaughn, Ashland, assisted by W. A. Daugherty, Pikeville, was counsel for the defense.
Al Swiney, cousin of the slain man, testified that he went to the scene of the slaying
the day after Jim Swiney
was slain, and found the victim had been shot under the eye with a shotgun charge
and dragged some distance from the scene. He had been killed, the witness said, in a path a short distance from Hall's home. Al Swiney was constable at the time, he said,
and never saw Hall after the shooting. Hall was engaged in selling whisky at the time, he said.
The Commonwealth sought to establish as a motive for the killing jealousy over Miss Mory Hall, a cousin of Gilbert, who with her young child, made her home with him at the time.
Roland Potter, who said that he lived near Hall at the time, testified that shortly before he heard the fatal shot Hall and Swiney were at his house and seemed to be the friends. In the conversation Swiney spoke of going to Hall for some whisky,
he said, and Gilbert told him
not to go to see Mary.
At the conclusion of the evidence by the Commonwealth,
Hall testified to the witness stand.
He gave his age as 39, but changed it to 69. He described his life as a roaming one between Kentucky and the West.
At the time Swiney was killed he sold whisky in the Potter flat, he told the jury,
having a Federal license to do so. He said the day of the shooting a man he didn't know passed his house and told him
that a man was shot down
there, indicating the place where Swiney was killed. Hunt Hall, father or Mary, also came to his house and told him the same thing, he added,
and Hunt said, "You had better get away." He left his whisky business, fled relatives and went west, he declared.
He said his name was John Hall.

70-Year-Old Prisoner Given
Eleven-Year Sentence By Pikeville Jury
Pikeville, Ky., Nov. 5.—A 70-year-old man, who went on trial in the Pike circuit court today on a 28-year-old murder charge, was convicted tonight
by a jury had sentenced to 11
years in prison.

The prisoner is Gilbert John
C. Hall, charged with fatally shooting Jim Swiney in the Potter flat near Elkhorn City
on June 6, 1906.
Hall was indicted after the shooting, Commonwealth Attorney J. E. Childers said at the opening of the trial today,
but the indictment was lost,
and a second true bill was returned following the arrest of the aged man on August 1 at Louisia, Ky.
The trial, at which W. K.
Steele is sitting as special counsel, was held over to the jury at 5:15 o'clock this afternoon. The verdict was returned here Tuesday.

ed 40 minutes later.

BOOK WEEK BEING OBSERVED LOCALLY

Book Week is being celebrated for the 16th consecutive year. The movement was endorsed by the National Education Association in 1922 and has been widely observed in schools as well as by public libraries, clubs and civic organizations. Book Week was originated by Franklin K. Mathews, who in 1919 was chief Boy Scout Librarian. Its purpose is to bring before parents, educators and everyone concerned with the welfare of children the importance of cultivating in children that display of children's books in most precious of all gifts, the window of Oppenheimer's reading habit. It helps to instill in every parent the necessity of having children's books in the home as well as in the school and public library. Mr. Frederic G. Melcher, editor of Publisher's Weekly, became deeply interested in Book Week and is the donor of the Newbury Medal which is awarded annually for the most outstanding children's book of the year. "The Inevitable Louisa," the story of the author of "Little Women," by Genevieve Morris, received the medal in 1934. Book Week this year is from Nov. 11 to Nov. 17. ## Congressman May Is Grateful To Voters

November 14, 1934
Prestonsburg, Ky.

To the People of the Seventh Congressional District:

Now that the election is over, and I have again been re-elected as the Representative in Congress from this district, I am issuing this statement through the press of the district as the best means of expressing to all my friends and supporters my deep feeling of gratitude for all they have done for me and the party. To the hundreds of efficient and active workers in my own party who went out and worked for the success of the party, I am deeply grateful; and to the rank and file of the people of both parties who went to the polls by thousands and cast their votes for me, I shall always know my obligation.

HUNDREDS ATTEND LACKEY FUNERAL

Six members of the Louisiana Legion post, lifelong friends of the deceased, served as pall bearers. They were Kit Carson Elswick, Dr. L. S. Hayes, I. W. Sea, Harper Preston, Arbie Weaver and Congressman Fred M. Vinson.

Clarence Field Post, American Legion, of Ashland, led by Vice Commander E. K. Rose, had charge of the services at the home.

The body was borne to Pine Hill cemetery overlooking the town in a procession led by the firing squad of the Russell post and the drum and bugle corps of the Frank J. Gold camp Post of Ironton. The Rev. Max Meade, pastor of Morehead Baptist Church, and for member of the Louisiana Legion post, acted as chaplain during the services at the grave. A military salute of three volleys was fired by the firing squad of Russell post.

Mike Callas, of Owensboro, Mr. Lackey's recent successor as state commander, led a delegation from Louisville, consisting of all officials of the Kentucky Department, American Legion, and attended the funeral. H. L. Chaillaux, national Legion committee man from California, called at the home as special representative of National American Legion Commander Frank N. Belgrano, Jr.

"Junior" Lackey was the son of the late J. Q. Lackey, Sr., and was one of this section's most prominent and best liked men. His father was a former sheriff of Lawrence county and a member of the State Legislature. Last year, he was head of the American Legion in Kentucky and made one of the best records ever established by a Legion official in this state. He became post master at Louisville in September and for several years had been associated with A. H. Snyder, Jr., and James E. Hughes in the automobile business at Louisville. Mr. Lackey was connected with the theater business here several years ago, and won the friendship of all who knew him.

LAFLOON OUSTER UPHELD BY COURT

of the state highway commission. Mr. Johnson was appointed a member of the road commission for the fourth district on Feb. 3, 1932, by Gov. Laffoon. At that time they were political allies. Subsequently, a rift developed between the two Democratic leaders, climaxed by the 1934 regular session of the legislature enacting the "ouster" law.

Governor Sued
Chairman Johnson brought suit against the governor after the governor publicly threatened to remove him.

In ruling the title to the ouster act was all right, Appellate Court said, "It was only necessary to amend the general law to change the provisions of the removal."

Appellate court overruled the contention of the appellant that the governor would have no power to remove him from the office of the commission because he was elected to that office by members of the commission.

"x x x x If the governor may lawfully remove the appellant from the office of road commissioner pursuant to the act of 1934," the court said, "the appellant loses his right to the office of chairman of the state highway commission, not because the governor can remove him from that office under the 1934 act, but because the governor can take from him an indispensable requisite or qualification for that office, that is, membership on the highway commission, x x x."

Discussing the power of removal, the appellate court said, "No constitutional limitation has been pointed out which restricts the legislature from vesting the governor with the power of removal given him by this 1934 act with reference to a statutory office such as appellant holds. The power of removal thus vested in the governor is neither legislative or judicial in character." The appellate court pointed out that membership on the state highway commission "is the creature of the legislature and subject to its will."

The ruling is seen as a certain dismissal of Mr. Johnson from the commission, and also probably that of Zack Justice and A. P. Plummer.

"CHAINED"

pletely happy and carefree as the bird under the sunlit sky in June. But on second thought is it so? Do we really, when we consider the matter aright, want to get rid of our burdens? Are not our burdens real blessings disguised? Do they not urge that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."—Matthew 11:28.

Dr. O. P. Gifford relates that one day he was looking out his window and observed that an express wagon drove up in front of a house; stepped down, walked to the back of his wagon, looked in to make sure that the trunk was handy, turned, stepped toward the door to see the number, slipped in the door, slipped down and struck his hand hard against the stepping stone. He rose to his feet rubbing his hand, looked at the stone, at the snow, and probably (man like) blamed everything but the man who had slipped. After seeing the number he stepped back, shouldered the trunk which weighed 185 pounds and walked across the snow without slipping, minding his steps, looking down at the snow, and looking up at the sky.

This burden held him up by holding him down, compelling him to be careful for fear of the consequences. It is true that the men who usually slip are those with light burdens or none at all. They are careless because they have nothing to care for.

Life is full of burdens of various kinds and weight. Parents have theirs, and the teachers have theirs. There are burdens of infirmities, sickness, poverty and temptations. To carry the burdens and to overcome the difficulties is the only way to develop a character sufficiently strong to survive in the upward struggle of the race. Burden bearing develops strength. Difficulties challenge man's best efforts. The obstacle in our way is just a measuring rod for our strength and only those who have a deficient philosophy of life are afraid of its burdens. Burdens stimulate real men.

Finally, only those who know how to carry heavy burdens know how to enjoy rest. It is after sustained effort that rest and relaxation come with their sweetness. This is true in a particular degree of burdens of a spiritual nature. Where can a heavy-burdened conscience find rest? Where can the mother who is concerned about the spiritual welfare of her children or husband find repose and new strength to tackle the same burdens tomorrow? Here's the answer: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."—Matthew 11:28.

HUEYSVILLE

A quilting party and birthday dinner were given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Allen, Jr., honoring Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Allen, Mr. Allen's parents, and Herman Allen, son of the host and hostess. The day was the 73rd birth anniversary of Mrs. Allen and the 16th birthday of Herman. Mr. Allen's birthday had preceded theirs by a few days, and Friday was devoted to honoring all three.

A delightful dinner was served to the following friends and relatives of the honorees: Mrs. H. Hagans, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hagans, of Warco; Mrs. Melcina Hays, Mrs. Minta Allen, Mrs. J. W. Hays and Mrs. Hobart Hays, of Bosco; Mrs. Green Allen, Mrs. Pete Horn and children, Mrs. Grant Horn and children, Mrs. Cora Gearhart, Mrs. D. M. Allen, Sr., Misses Rebecca Turner, May Allen, Ida Marie Martin, Mildred Allen, Edith Horn, Mr. Morton Horn.

LOCAL ELECTIONS ARE RULED OUT, REPORT

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 10.—The decision of the court of election can be held only on regular election day was interpreted by attorneys at the capitol today as invalidating local option elections already held in seven Kentucky counties this year.

Without passing on the validity of the 1934 liquor control act or upon the validity of such an election held on the proper day, the court ruled that the prohibition amendment adopted in 1919 repealed the local option section of the constitution. An amendment to repeal the prohibition amendment and reenact local option will be submitted to Kentucky voters at the November, 1935, election.

Graves, Green, Clinton, Cumberland, Russell, Mercer and Adair counties have held local option elections this year.

JUSTELL WOMAN DIES SATURDAY, A VICTIM OF BLOOD POISONING

Mrs. Edna Blackburn Ratliff, 30 years old, wife of Ben Ratliff, died at Justell at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, a victim of blood poisoning.

Mrs. Ratliff was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Blackburn and was born in Pike county. She was married in 1924 to Ben Ratliff, of Glade Springs, Va., and to this union five children were born. Her husband, children and parents, four brothers and three sisters survive.

She was united with the Christian Church 14 years ago and until death remained a faithful Christian. Funeral rites were conducted by Rev. A. V. Jackson, of the Freeville Baptist Church, assisted by Rev. D. Quacies, chaplain of Local Union No. 5365, United Mine Workers of America. Burial was made at Justell.

Much Interest Shown In Debate Tournament

The Extension Department at the University of Kentucky which annually sponsors the Kentucky High School Debating League, announces that there is great interest already in the annual event which will culminate at the University of Kentucky April 4-6 with the debating tournament which is a feature of High School Week each year. The subject chosen for this year's debate is, "Resolved, That the Federal Government Should Adopt the Policy of Equalizing Educational Opportunities Throughout the Nation by Means of Annual Grants to the Several States for Public, Elementary and Secondary Education."

A debate handbook on the question has been compiled by a committee representing more than 20 states which have high school debating leagues and according to Prof. Louis Clifton, acting director of University Extension, approximately 150 schools have already secured handbooks from the department and presumably have begun work.

This marks the fifteenth year since the reorganization of the Kentucky League and it is estimated that Mr. Clifton has probably twice as many schools as have already secured handbooks will participate in the debating league.
