PENNINGTON GETS LIFE SENTENCE IN MAYTOWN SLAYING

Trial in Vanderpool Case Under Way; Hays Wins Dismissal

Thomas Pennington, 23 year old Garrett miner, was given a life term in the penitentiary Friday at the hands of a Floyd county jury at the conclusion of his trial in the murder of Clyde Conley, son of Willis Conley, Garrett post master, on the night of Sept. 18, at Maytown.

SPURLOCK FREED

Special Judge Fred Howes, of Paintsville, presided in the case. Circuit Judge John W. Caudill having disqualified.

Pennington's chief defense was his own testimony that Conley had knocked him down and that while he was down the shots that killed Conley were fired.

The Commonwealth produced testimony showing that the two had had a fist fight an hour or more before the shooting took place and that Pennington had threatened Conley, who had given his revolver to another when he and Pennington had prepared for their fist encounter. When Conley asked for the return of his pistol, this testimony continued, he was refused.

Curtis Bradley fired one shot which struck Conley in the chest, and as Conley started to get him Pennington fired three shots into his side and back. Caner Spurlock was acquitted on a murder charge in the killing of Irvin Hall, for the slaying of whom Spurlock's brother, Frank Spurlock, was given a two year pen term a few months ago. The latter was brought here from the state reformatory, Frankfort, to appear as a witness in 6th case.

FLOYD TAX LEVY FOR 1935 FIXED

Tax Rate Remains Same; Interest Payment on Bonds is Ordered

In a meeting here Saturday the Floyd fiscal court fixed the 1935 county tax levy. The levy rate remains the same as that of this year.

On each $100 of taxable property a levy of 50 cents was set for use of the general fund, and a 20-cent levy was established for the sinking fund for the retirement of bonds and payment of interest. The county poll tax levy is $1.50 and the school poll tax was set at $1.

MAYTOWN INDEPENDENT FIVE DEFEATS LACKEY

Langley, Ky., Dec. 5.—The Maytown Black Devils defeated the Lackey Independent basketball team in a fast and furious game at Maytown Wednesday night. The first quarter ended in a score of 10-10 and the game ended with the Black Devils leading Lackey by the score of 27-19. John Pratt, the local basketball artist, was "off," but played a good floor game on the offense and defense. Jack Turner led the scoring with 17 points and "Red" Hall came next with 10. The game ended with the score 33 to 28, in favor of the Black Devils. The fans are in for some good basketball December 28, when the Black Devils play the mighty House of David at Maytown.

COMMENDS ACTION TO SAVE DOGWOOD

Commending the Prestonsburg Woman's Club for its position to proposed destruction of an integral part of the natural beauty of this section—the dogwood tree—Mrs. Fred Erick A. Wallis, Paris, Ky., a leader in the fight to save the state's national scenery from destruction, said this week:

"All citizens of the state should be concerned about preserving our native flora, and the beautiful flowering dogwood trees should head the list. Never has there been less when conservation and reforestation has had such emphasis put upon it in our state as at the present time.

"Campaigns are being conducted with the object of beautifying our cities and the scenic value of certain areas of the commonwealth kept in its natural state, so that our state will attract the whole world. In fact, the state is spending considerable sums of money in building up state parks and an extensive road system, and we should assist in every way possible to prevent the taking away of everything that makes for the greatest beauty in the state during the spring season when the hillsides burst forth with the glory of the dogwood blossoms, and in the autumn when the trees are aflame with the fire of red berries.

"Other states have realized the importance of keeping their dogwood trees and let our state be too late in this part of the nation's great conservative program."

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis B. Allen, of Mobile, Ala. were guests here this week of Mr. Allen's uncle, Attorney Edward L. Allen. Mr. Allen is a son of the late Rev. R. S. Allen, of Hueysville, and for several years has held an important position in the gas company in Mobile. They will remain here and at Hueysville until after Christmas.

THREATENS HARLAN SIFT BY CONGRESS

May to Ask Probe of Coal Field Conditions Unless Order Prevails

Congressman A. J. May Monday threatened to seek a Congressional investigation into conditions in the Harlan coal field unless violence ceases immediately.

His statement was issued following a conference held in Frankfort Monday on the Southeastern Kentucky labor situation. At the same time, Governor Ruby Laffoon, issued a warning that "peace and authority must be maintained up there," and behind that warning was the threat of the use of state militia to enforce order.

The conference, held in the Governor's office, was attended by Congressman May, Attorney General Bailey E. Workman, Adjutant General H. H. Denhardt, William Turnblazer, Jellico, Tenn., president of District No. 19, United Mine Workers of America; Dr. B. F. Wright, Whitesburg, former member of the state legislature; Sam Caddy, Lexington, president of District No. 30, M. W. of A.; Dale Stapleton, Jellico, a U. M. W. A. organizer, and Thomas Rainey, Lexington, district union representative. It was held behind closed doors.

After the conference, Congressman May said he would press for a Congressional investigation if present conditions in Harlan county are not improved when Congress convenes next year.

Turnblazer, whose presence in Harlan last Saturday was the cause of the calling out of state troops in the city, reiterated after the conference, his intention to continue efforts to unionize the field. He said he and his co-workers "are going back in the near future despite the fact that the operators don't want us there."

"We have a standing offer to the operators in season and out," Turnblazer said, "and they will allow us to conduct a public meeting of miners, with out intimidation from anyone, and allow both sides to have speakers, we will abide by the decision of the miners."

"If the miners decide they do not want us to help them organize, he added, "we will get out and stay out for good."

Meanwhile, Adjutant General Denhardt, who made a survey in Harlan yesterday with Brig. Gen. Ellerbe W. Carter, of the National Guard, prepared for submission tomorrow to the Governor of a report in which he said, he will inform the Governor "the Sheriff's force in Harlan county must be cleaned up before conditions can be bettered."

General Denhardt said his report will include statements made to him yesterday by city and county officials, business men, professional men and coal mine operators.

"It is up to local authorities to maintain order up there," he said. "I am taking neither side in the controversy. All I'm interested in is seeing that order is preserved, and I will do all in my power to see that it is preserved and the rights of everyone are protected."

In an accident at Mt. Sterling, Mrs. Edgar R. May, of Maytown, was seriously injured as a result of treacherous roads. The car in which she and other members of her family were returning home from Lexington skidded at Mt. Sterling into a telephone pole. JUDICIAL RECITATIVE
In his opinion in a recent disbarment proceeding, Circuit Judge Churchill Humphrey delivered a thesis defending his refusal to vacate the bench, which is sound doctrine. In our safeguards to parties under suspicion," he says, "we must never lose sight of the fact that, when we of the judiciary lean backward, we lean to the advantage of the wrongdoer, the killer, the racker and the slyster. As we must deviate neither to the right nor to the left, so must we lean neither forward nor backward. We who are just judges are not just to keep our judicial robes clear of the unfounded charge of prejudice. We are elected to dispense justice impartially and protect the public with honor. I never thought much of that judge who washed his hands to advertise his opportunity to shrink a decision that was distressing on the one hand and political ly dangerous on the other." The implication of that last sentence is unmistakable. Nothing is easier than for a judge to evade a politically dangerous issue by allowing

Yule-tide Family Reunions by Telephone

Families and friends become scattered with the years and we miss their smiling faces and cheery voices—more especially at Christmas time. Probably you are wishing now that you could visit them this Christmas. Why not? Are they too far away? You can't get away? Or is it that it costs too much? Then why not surprise them this holiday season with a telephone visit instead? You can reach them anywhere by telephone. Distance doesn't matter. A voice visit by telephone will find you, has the personal charm of a face-to-face visit, is convenient and costs little wherever you call. For example, by using Station-to-Station service you can talk with folks fifty miles away for about 35c, and a hundred miles for about 55c, and greater or less distances at correspondingly low cost. If you can't go in person, go by telephone.

to keep at home children who have been exposed, or who have the disease. Teachers should exclude from school children who have the disease or have been exposed to it. Every parent kept his children at home after they had been exposed to disease until after they were well, and had no visitors, the disease would play out within a few weeks, but just as long as contagious disease are allowed to attend school or church and visit around while they have a contagious disease, just that long will they continue to spread it. There is no law providing quarantine against these minor contagious diseases.

Rabies Scare Vanishes Residents of Henry's Branch, near Maytown, had quite a scare last week when it was reported that a number of animals, including two horses and a number of dogs, died from what was diagnosed as dumb rabies.

The health officer investigated the condition, the head of a mule was sent to the state laboratory for examination, and the report came back negative for rabies. Receipt of this negative report gave quite a relief to those exposed, as well as to the health officer. Probably 15 or 20 were exposed either directly or indirectly, and had the report been positive, it would have necessitated all taking the anti-rabies treatment.

The schools of Wayland, Lackey and Garrett were visited to have been visited this week, and the pupils measured, weighed and examined, in preparation for our Blue Ribbon program, which is put on in the large schools of the county on May Day. Due to weather conditions and the dangerous condition of the roads, these school visits were postponed and local schools are being visited this week.

This preliminary examination is made in each school listed in our blue ribbon program, and the children's defects pointed out to them. They are given until about April to get these defects corrected, then they have their final examination, and all that meet the Blue Ribbon standard are awarded blue ribbons, on May Day, which is celebrated with appropriate exercises in each school.

FOURTH OF WOMEN AT U. OF KENTUCKY EARN PART EXPENSES

Of the 944 women students enrolled at the University of Kentucky this current semester, 213 are earning part or all of their expenses. Out of this number 100 girls are earning on an average of $13.95 monthly, through the Federal Emergency Relief. Varied and interesting are the many jobs assigned to women students who of necessity must earn a portion of their college expenses at the University, each job being assigned under the supervision of the office of the dean of women in order to avoid any girl receiving unfavorable employment. This semester 18 young women students at the University of Kentucky are receiving approximately $7 weekly, as mothers' helpers, living in good homes in the city and helping with the children and housework in exchange for their living. The University of Kentucky residence halls for students are waitresses and office girls earning on an average of $3 weekly, and there are five town tea rooms earning on an average of 20 cents an hour in addition to the meals furnished while on duty. Two other young women are employed at the Honey-Crest tea room for a salary of $2 weekly.

There are six young assistants in the University library earning an average of $18.00 monthly, and there are five assistants in the University cafeteria averaging earnings of $2.65 weekly. One girl works as assistant in a dentist's office $5 weekly. Her average earnings are $4 weekly.

Five young women-clerks in downtown stores are working on an hourly basis and earning an average of $1.50 per day, and three young women are employed part time as soloists with University orchestras. There are 11 part-time secretaries, five on the campus and six downtown, and one young woman is employed as secretary to the dean of the college of law.

Of course, practically all of these part-time jobs necessitate because of classes and study periods, but for the most part these jobs enable students, who otherwise would not be financially able, to attend college.

ers are employed on call as mothers' helpers on evenings when the families wish to go out and leave a responsible person with the children.

Finally, there are 20 girls living in the Cooperative House, established this year by the University of Kentucky for those young women who are outstanding members of all clubs in the state and who wished to enter the University of Kentucky and earn part of their expenses. FLOYD CO. HEALTH DEPARTMENT NEWS

Rural Schools Visited Practically every rural school in Floyd county has been visited by members of the health department. In each school the children have been inoculated against typhoid, diphtheria, and vaccinated against smallpox. In every school district efforts have been made to get the preschool child out for the diphtheria immunization. This has been very successful in most cases. Parents have responded well to the invitation and large numbers of small children have been protected against this dread disease. If your children have not been immunized against diphtheria, take them to your family doctor and have it done immediately. It may be the means of saving their lives and you much expense and mental anxiety. If you are not able to pay to have this done by your family physician, take them to the health office and it will be given to them free.

Rural schools that have not been visited will be visited just as soon as health department members can get to them. Only a few of the consolidated schools have been visited, but they, too, will be just as soon as time permits.

The schools at Maytown, Wilson's Creek, Northern Stephens Branch, Alphoretta and Beaver were visited last week when the pupils were weighed, measured and examined. A feeding program for underweight children will be started in these schools immediately.

Epidemics Reduce Attendance Attendance in some schools has been materially reduced by epidemics of measles, whooping cough and chicken pox. There is a great deal of measles on Mud Creek, Harold and Betsy Layne. Whooping cough is raging on Beaver Creek and a number of children in the Wilson Creek school are out on account of chicken pox.

There is nothing that the health officer can do to control epidemics of this kind, other than to ask the parents of the schools that have not been visited, but they, too, will be just as soon as time permits.

The schools at Maytown, Wilson's Creek, Northern Stephens Branch, Alphoretta and Beaver were visited last week when the pupils were weighed, measured and examined. A feeding program for underweight children will be started in these schools immediately.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

RELIEF 1-2-7

How does one get on relief? Hand in a name, report the needy case? A check, MSO of stack of clothing due the person next day? Hardly. Some are of that opinion, however. It takes time. There are forms to be filled out, facts to be ascertained, details to consider. A home visit from some worker is one requirement. Reference visits are usually made. Information received some times necessitates checking. This delays procedure. The applicant may grow impatient but bad reports must be investigated. Not every prospective client tells the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

Lay citizens can help a worker. Do not hesitate to give her facts which she may be weeks digging out. Workers respect the confidence of informers always.

Funds are too limited to be given where not needed which brings up the most vital question: WHO DOES NEED IT? Two families of identical ages and sexes present two distinct problems for many reasons.

Many believe families who own homes, have decent furnishings and go clean are entitled to help. They think that the father is the only one who is in reality, the program was NOT established for the constant pauper who is a county case. It was for the unemployed man, and for the man of limited employment. (It is doubtful if the relief will ever reach this last group in states where family quota is so low). The poor, the destitute, have been with us always and always will be. These are local and county problems. But local organizations have thrown up their hands in many instances and said "let the relief do it," and in nine cases out of ten, it has done it. But when the relief worker seeks to help the family of moderate circumstances because they are up against it now, she brings down an avalanche of criticism.

"She's got curtains at her windows and sheets on her bed," said one poor old soul of a client. Yet, said she may have a piano in her home, too. But she can't eat it, or make it grow shoes for the children, can she? Must people reduce themselves to the level of the indigent to be eligible for relief?

Some families maintain decent appearances because they work. One woman displays empty jats with pride. "There warn't nothin' on the farm to neighbor farm woman has staved to can three hundred jars, to keep the wolf from the door. Which would you give relief to?"

Think twice before you pass judgment on the relief worker's decisions. Help one when you can. Be slow to condemn. You may not know the magnitude of her job. The relief has rules and regulations to be observed. The program is still an experimental one and changes for improvement are being put into effect daily.

Someone said a worker can not go into a home and not see whether or not the family needs help. That is true, but it is also not true in a sense. Floyd county has mining families which applied for relief although earning approximately $20 weekly. Some live in unsanitary conditions, ragged and dirty clothing, littered floors, no furniture worthy of the name. From all appearances they need help. But in reality they do not. Whereas this county has farm families which have smothered their pride to ask for clothes to keep the youngsters in school, why own homes well kept, neat and clean, patched clothes, white beds, a good supply of food due to hard work, but not a dollar income for months! Which family is entitled to relief?

Women and children must be made to suffer because of a man's faults. This induces another problem for difference in opinion. Direct relief is a bane but a necessity when work relief is impossible temporarily. Distribution of commodities is almost a human impossibility when fresh products are sent in for immediate delivery to thousands where there is no refrigeration at delivery points.

Counting on the success of confronting home visitors to be filled out on the entire case load, frequently in the minimum of time. Those attempting to put over the Floyd county program were advised to give no ideal and desire to give no less in return. Are you as a lazy citizen going to do your part to make the program a success?

Hungarian Shepherd Dog Has Wavy, Silken Coat

The same inherent reasoning power that endows the herding dog with a superior type of canine intelligence also expresses itself in the Kuvass or White Hungarian Shepherd.

Through centuries and centuries of heredity, writes an authority in the Los Angeles Times, his ancestors have imparted to offspring that highly developed mental process that has produced qualities now considered instinctive. By virtue of his heritage, the Kuvass should prove worthy of the performance of duty required of any dog. Behind him is the ancestry of over a thousand years, according to research. Like the closely related but more massive Great Pyrenees, with which he is often confused, he is cloaked with a deep ivory-white wavy silken coat. His splendid head is fringed with ivory or cream-tinted drop ears. But the Kuvass is seldom over 23 inches in height, and his weight averages 70 pounds.

His black eyes are more oblique and set closer together than those of the Pyrenees; his ears are rounder and more elevated and he is longer in the couplings. His black eyes, nose and lips form a pleasing contrast against his white background, making him one of the most beautiful of all dogs.

Austro-Hungarian Monarchy Prior to the World War the Austro-Hungarian monarchy consisted of two states, the Austrian empire and the Hungarian kingdom. The relation between them was fully regulated by the so-called compromise of 1867. According to this agreement the two states were perfectly independent of each other, each possessing its own constitution, legislature and executive departments, with most branches of state affairs. There was, however, a close political and economic connection between the identity of the sovereign and the community of certain departments of state affairs.

Camel and Dromedary The camel is a large animal that is found chiefly in northern Asia. Its two humps and large back surface make it an especially suitable animal of burden. The dromedary, a one-humped member of the same family, lacks the strength and endurance of the camel, but for this deficiency it compensates by its great speed. In fact, says G. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times, in comparison with the ordinary camel it is as speedy as a race horse to a cart horse. The habitat of the dromedary is mainly Arabia and northern Africa.

Rain, Snowfall Per Second It is estimated that the amount of rain and snow falling on the entire surface of the earth averages about 10,000,000 tons a second, says the Washington Star. The amount of water that falls on the earth and the amount that passes off into the air by evaporation are in the long run exactly equal. For every ton of water that falls a ton is returned in gaseous form to the atmosphere, though not as a rule at the same place where it fell.

MISUNDERSTANDINGS

By Rev. Josef Nordenhaus

It is human to err. Proof of that fact encounters us daily. A misunderstanding is an error of judgment. Many a time such errors are very costly, costly because of the bitterness and human suffering they engender.

It is deeply to be deplored that people do not take enough pains in trying to understand each other. For I am convinced that if we really could see the other fellow's point of view, we would be able to sympathize with his outlook. I am convinced that the sum total of the friendships and fellowships of a community would show an immense increase if we adopted a policy of deferring judgment till we understood the motives behind our neighbors' actions.

The same holds true of the nations of the earth. It seems hard at times to cope with an understanding and at other times it may get to be the political or financial advantage to be willing to understand. A misunderstanding, played off sufficiently and distorted by
