Highway Commission Asks Bids of McDowell-Wheelwright Road Work

The state highway commission this week is asking bids for grade and drain construction of seven miles of road from McDowell to Wheelwright to complete the long-sought Left Beaver Creek road. An appropriation of approximately $77,000 has been made by the commission for the completion of this project. Work has been under way for some time on the first sector of the highway, that extending from Hunter to McDowell. Completion of this highway promises outlet of one of the county's richest and most thickly populated sections which hitherto, has had only a road into Pike county and the entire county is expected to benefit from the highway. Minimum wages paid to skilled labor on this project will be 40 cents per hour, while the unskilled labor minimum wage will be 30 cents an hour. Bids on the construction of the road will be received, until August 23.

LAWRENCE WOMAN

In State Hospital for Insane at Lexington July 4th

Lexington, Ky., July 4—Working herself free from the straight-jacket and then from the bonds which held her in bed, a violently insane woman patient at the Eastern State Hospital for the Insane, here early today crept to the bed of another patient in the same room and choked her to death. The victim was Mrs. Mary Ellen Bauers, 23, Evans, who entered the institution July 24. She was killed by Lawrence Church, 35, of Lawrence county, who was admitted to the hospital Saturday. She was placed in the violent ward yesterday after she had attacked another patient and failed to inflict any injuries. The two women, both confined in the same room, but both were laced in canvas jackets and tied to their beds in order to prevent them from injuring each other or themselves. Mrs. Church, however, managed to free herself. The tragedy was discovered at 8:30 a. m. today by Mrs. Sadie Springer, night attendant in the violent women's department, who found Mrs. Church in the other woman's bed, sitting on her and choking her.

DR HUTCHINS TO SPEAK AT RE-UNION SUNDAY OF STUDENTS IN THIS COUNTY

Dr. W. J. Hutchins, president of Berea College, and Charlie Morgan, alumni secretary, will deliver addresses at the Floyd County Berea Social to be held at the Beaver Valley Golf and Country Club, Allen, Sunday afternoon, July 14. It was announced this week by Robert Wallace, chairman of the arrangements committee. All alumni, former students and friends of Berea College are invited to attend the meeting. The program will start at 2 o'clock.

NICHOLLS IS AWARDED TRIP TO MYRTLE BEACH

C. H. Nicholls left Monday afternoon for Myrtle Beach, S. C., where he will be the guest of the Southeastern Life Insurance Company as a consequence of his standing among the representatives of the company. Mr. Nicholls is president of the Leaders' Club of that day. The Times was told that the company which he represents, and a free trip to Myrtle Beach has been awarded him in recognition of his work.

ALLEN MAN UNDER BOND IN SHOOTING

Joe Fannin Charged With Wounding Stapleton at Allen July 4th

Joe Fannin, Allen restaurant-owner and liquor dealer, was placed under $1,000 bond on two charges Friday following the shooting and wounding of the afternoon of July 4 at Stapleton, well-known Allen man.

Charges placed against Fannin were for shooting and wounding and for keeping a disorderly house. Fannin and Stapleton are said to have disagreed, sometime before the shooting, over Fannin's move to annul the incorporation of the town of Allen and on the afternoon of the shooting are reported to have shot at each other. An account of Fannin's shooting is being done.

Stapleton, suffering from a painful but not serious flesh wound, Stapleton was taken to the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, where he is recovering.

130 ARE ENROLLED IN CHURCH SCHOOL

Prestonsburg's second union vacation church school had enrolled 130 pupils Wednesday of this week, and was well on its way in a two-week program of Christian training and activities. The school is to continue through Friday of next week. All boys and girls of the community are invited to attend.

With an enrollment of 43, the junior department for boys and girls 9 to 11 years of age, led the co-operative church-institute. There were 42 intermediates, 12 years old and up, enrolled; 33 primaries, children six, seven and eight; and 12 beginners, ages 4 and 5. The intermediates, under the tutelage of the Rev. Harry F. King, Methodist pastor and dean of the school, are making a study of the early Christian Church and Christian heroes through the centuries. As a textbook, "THE LIFE IN DEED" is being used. Intermediate boys are doing woodwork under the direction of Dr. Josef Nordenhaug, Baptist pastor. Intermediates girls, working under the direction of Mrs. Charles Milby, are enrolling and whipping handkerchief hemstitches. Later, they are to engage in tie-dyeing.

Junior students, divided into two groups, are making a study of "LIVING AS JESUS LIVED" and learning Bible verses. Mrs. H. H. Bolender and Mrs. W. C. Rimmer are the teachers for the juniors. Boys are doing woodwork; while the girls, directed by Mrs. J. D. Thomas, have been daubing jars in various colors. Later, the girls are to take up sewing. Primary children are making a study of "THE CALL." Continued on page two

All KERA Projects Are Temporarily Suspended

Temporary discontinuance of the unemployed on worthwhile KERA projects in Floyd county. Care of the county, as well as in all other counties of the state, will be taken over by the state, effective Thursday, and on that date, the county will be discontinued for the most part. The Times was told that the county will be discontinued for the most part. The Times was told that the county will be discontinued for the most part.

Suspension of work is being made until the transition can be made from the old relief program to the new Works Progress Administration program. It is not known definitely how long it will be until the WPA becomes effective.

Applications for projects under the new set-up are being sent to Washington, and as soon as approved, will furnish the Mayo Trail relief job. One of these projects, this route will be surfaced with crushed stone, it was said. The transition from the KERA to the new works program is intended to transmit relief to the unemployed workers, the Works Progress Administration having as its aim the employment of a promotion.

PRESTONSBURG HIT BY STORM FRIDAY

Streets and Basements Under Water, Gardens Damaged

Prestonsburg, except for the absence of gondolas, took on the Venetian appearance Friday afternoon when a cloudburst flooded almost every street in town, left the county under two feet of water, inundated basements and ruined gardens. The Highland avenue section of town suffered severest losses in garden crops, while Court street, Third avenue and the Mayo Trail were deep in water pouring down from Highland. A high wind accompanied the rainstorm and for several hours Prestonsburg was in darkness.

The storm did not extend throughout the county, however. Bull Creek farmers suffered heavily, lower Middle Creek was hard hit, and parts of Beaver Creek received a portion of the storm. A few automobiles following through town. Continued on page six

MRS. B. M. JAMES AND DAUGHTER HOSTESSES WITH BRIDGE-SHOWER

Mrs. Ballard M. James and daughter, Miss Mary Irene, were hostesses on Tuesday evening to a beautiful bridge-shower, complimentary to Mrs. Russell Pelphrey, nee Miss Susan Allen, a bride of recent date. Spacious rooms of the James home were artistically decorated for the occasion, which was attended by more than 100 guests.

Mrs. Pelphrey, one of Prestonsburg's most popular ladies, was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. Fourteen tables of bridge were in play during the evening, with Mrs. A. L. Davidson receiving high score. The second score prize, a delicious salad course was served. Invited guests were: Mesdames Russell Pelphrey, honoree, John W. Hensley, C. J. Humphreys, S. L. Fatsick, Marris May, E. B. Burks, A. L. Hill, C. P. Stephens, M. J. Leste, O. B. Stephens, O. B. Latta, A. B.

FLOYD HONDEL DROPS DEAD IN LEE COUNTY

A report reaching here from Beattyville, Lee county, says that Floyd M. Hondel, 44 years old, formerly a driller in the Floyd county, was killed, dropped dead near Clear Lake county, June 28, while working on a rig. The body was shipped to Fryburg, Pa., for burial in the family cemetery. He spent several years in this section where he is well-known. Willis Hondel, of Estill, this county, is a brother of the victim. He leaves a son and two sisters.

SPENCER BOYD IS CALLED, AGED 87

Well-Known Buffalo Creek Farmer Dies Friday; Was Native of Bath County

Spencer M. Boyd, well-known Buffalo Creek farmer and one of the county's oldest men, died at his home at Wagoner Friday morning at 10 o'clock, at the age of 87 years of illness attendant upon advanced age.

Born in Bath county, Mr. Boyd moved to this county when a young man and had resided on Buffalo since that time. In the early life he attended military school in Lexington, and from an early manhood he was a member of the M. E. Church, South. In this county he followed the quiet pursuits of a farmer, and held the position of a farmer, and held the position of a farmer, and held the position of a farmer.

Surviving of a home, he was a widow, Emma Clarke Boyd, aged 86; one daughter and two sons: Mrs. Laura Wright, Huntington, W. Va.; Harve Boyd, Huntington, and Cyrus Boyd, of Wagoner.

Funeral rites were conducted Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, Revs. Mose Bagyard, Tim Hunt and Harve Spears officiating. Burial was made in the Clarke cemetery on Buffalo.

J. C. Ward has leased the Prestonsburg Dry Cleaning Company, it was announced a few days ago, from D. C. Stephens, owner of the plant. Mrs. Ward is in charge of the business.

MRS. JERRY TACKETT IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. Mary Sexton Tackett, 38 years old, wife of Jerry Tackett, of McDowell, died July 2 at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin. Mrs. Tackett was the daughter of one of this county, and had a host of friends and relatives who mourn her passing.

MISS WHITE REPRESENTS RED CROSS IN MAGOFFIN

Miss Ella Noel White, executive secretary of Floyd chapter, American Red Cross, and emergency disaster worker, was called Saturday to Magoffin county, where a cloudburst Thursday ruined crops and caused considerable damage otherwise. Miss White found, however, that the problem was one for relief agencies to handle, since there was no immediate visible distress. A sanitation problem created by high waters has claimed the attention of state health department officials. Garland Rice, Paintsville, area relief supervisor for that district, said that relief of other flood victims would be effected by the KERA.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Layne, of Birmingham, Ala., are houseguests here of Mr. and Mrs. Jo M. Davidson.

YEAR-ROUND ROADS POSSIBLE IF ROUTE GRANTS ARE GIVEN

Only Hindrance Lies In Refusal of Landholders To Donate Right-of-Way

A system of rock-surfaced roads in the rural districts of this county is possible under the new relief plan under right-of-way will be donated by landholders along these routes, it was said here this week. It is not probable, however, that many such roads will be constructed by the relief administration in most sections of the county are said to be refusing right-of-way. A 30 foot right-of-way is required, though the road-bed, not to be more than 16 feet wide.

The fiscal county has no funds with which to purchase this right-of-way. Besides, the magistrates hold that landowners should be willing to concede right-of-way in order to have a year-round road built for their use. Wherever proposed highway construction is held up by refusal of right-of-way grants, further projects are not likely to be considered, it was said this week.

Major Floyd highway project now under way by the relief administration at the Mud Creek and McDowell roads.

EVANGELISTIC MEETING MOVES INTO TENT HERE

The evangelistic party conducting the meeting at the tent on the vacant lot adjoining the high school building here, will continue indefinitely, it is announced. Ralph Clark, of Cincinnati, O., will conduct a song service each evening, beginning at 8, assisted by Miss Mildred Howell, of Sebring, O., at the piano. Evangelist L. E. Hinton, also of Sebring, O., will bring inspiring messages each evening.

Sermon subjects which will be used during the meeting: "The New Birth," "The Basis of Christianity," "What Must I Do To Be Saved?" "How to Understand the New Testament," "Change of Heart," Establishment of Terms of Church," "Baptism, the Completion of Conversion," "Lord's Supper," "Mother and Home," "Men Wanted," "Nothing Worse in Hell," "What Is Man?"

MRS. JERRY TACKETT IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. Mary Sexton Tackett, 38 years old, wife of Jerry Tackett, of McDowell, died July 2 at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin. Mrs. Tackett was the daughter of one of this county, and had a host of friends and relatives who mourn her passing. Surviving here are her husband, six children and the following brothers and sisters: John Sexton, Hicksville; Hildred, Perry and Andrew Sexton, of Drift; Willie Sexton, of Louisa; Mrs. Elizabeth Griffith, Lackey; Mrs. Racie Jackson, Weebury; Mrs. Helen Weddington, Emma; Mrs. Lillie Massey and Miss Marjorie Sexton, both of Holden, W. KENTUCKY & WEST VIRGINIA POWER CO. TO OUR CUSTOMERS: A kilowatt-hour is an electrical unit and is greater than the power of a horse working for an hour. When we speak of "working like a horse" we make a gross exaggeration for a horse can do ten times the work of a man. A kilowatt-hour costs the average customer on our lines less than 5 1/2 cents. So that you can easily figure out for yourself that any one who does laborious work that can be done by a little electric motor, is working for considerably less than a penny an hour. Women who sweep with brooms, toil over washboards, pump a sewing machine and do many other manual tasks, are selling their labor for this small sum. These "Cinderellas" should shift their burden to the strong muscles of ELECTRIC horsepower. Best of all, the more you work electrically the less it costs per unit. Fully electricity your home and the cost of a kilowatt-hour, under our low rates, goes down to about 2 1/2 cents. R. C. Hodge, District Manager.

Feuds Die Out But Feud Tales Persist

By Jean Thomas

A recent tragedy in North Carolina, the slaying from ambush of a wealthy Northerner by a mountaineer has served to revive the perennial tales that represent our Southern mountains as a land of feudists and feudists, of blood-hatred and vengeance. The truth is that mountain feuds are dying out faster than the tales about them.

Certainly, the slaying of Thomas Price was not a typical answer of mountain people to such benevolence as he had bestowed upon his humble hill-folk neighbors. He had provided them with medical care at his estate, maintained a circulating library among them, contributed to their schools and churches. It was more in keeping with their nature that, as the dispatches said, "sentiment ran high among them" against the Mayor who had been, my experience among the mountaineers that they never forget a kindness.

I do not claim acquaintance with all the people of the southern highlands who have been unfortunate enough to have trouble with their neighbors. Yet many years of quiet reporting and ballad hunting in the Eastern Kentucky hills have afforded me an opportunity to know mountain life. Against the years I know of no parallel to the Price case among the people with whom I have been associated. I can recall no betrayal of a benefactor, and I have never known a mountain man, woman or child who would accept a favor without repaying one.

It is hard, and takes a long time for a region to live down a bad name. Once in New York I looked for employment as a stenographer. Where were you last employed? a prospective employer asked me. "In Rowan county, Kentucky," I answered. He fairly pounced upon the words, "Rowan county, think Rowan, where the Martin-Tolliver feud was fought. Of course you went armed? They tell me those hill-billies are killing one another off down there. They say a stranger isn't safe. I didn't get that job, for then and there I turned on my heels and walked out."

I knew how Ben Martin, son of the first Martin to die in the troubles with the Tollivers, felt when he left home to get away from strife and worked as a farm hand out West. Ben Martin is a true mountain man, so when he mingled with his fellow-harvesters on the prairies he had little to say. Least of all did he ever speak of the circumstances that had caused him to leave home, mother, brothers and sisters to suffer home-sickness out in the "level land."

One day in the wheat fields at the noon hour—Ben Martin himself told me the story as he and his wife and I sat on the porch of his cottage—a harvester spoke of Rowan county "where the Martin-Tolliver feud is still raging." The feud had been ended for years, but the speaker went on: "They say the feudists clapped handcuffs on John Martin and then riddled him with bullets." Well, live by the sword, die by the sword—I guess he got what was coming to him."

Ben Martin, quiet, homesick lad, gripped his hands about his knees and kept silent—Ben, who as a little boy had sneet beside his dying father whose hands were bound while the guns of assassins poured lead into his defenseless body. "And it was not Tollivers who fired the shots," Ben longed to say. But being a mountain fancied, against invasion by one of their own... "I can't bide the idea of being scrouged," I heard a mountain man argue recently, when the virgin forest that surrounded his wilderness cabin refused a fortune for his findings and grievances in their own fashion, it was not easy for them to fall into a new way of doing things. A judge, what of him? Why call a jury to settle how Neighbor Jones' sheep-killing dog should be dealt with? Neighbor Brown didn't need those fellows down at the county and men voted by open ballot, calling out the name of their choice and giving their own names as voters, differences continued and sometimes became quarrels. The Martin-Tolliver trouble, by the way, grew out of a timber prospectors sought to clear the mountain for settlement, setting misunderstandings, and grievances in their own fashion, it was not easy for them to fall into a new way of doing things. A judge, what of him? Why call a jury to settle how Neighbor Jones' sheep-killing dog should be dealt with? FEUD TALES

Continued from page 3. He reached for the old flintlock gun over the fireplace and finished the sheep-killing dog without ado. It made Jones as angry as a hornet of course. But hadn't it made Brown's blood boil to see his helpless sheep mutilated, especially after he had warned Jones to tie up the dog? Why journey 30 miles over the creek-bed road to the court-house and through a lot of "gratations" to get Jones warranted?

An incident so simple caused bitterness among neighbors. In the uneventful life of the mountains a trespass or the loss of property became magnified into an insult, a violation of independence. The mountaineer mullied it over in his mind. He talked it over in his cabin with his family. The children were there and heard. There was no other room for them. Kinfolk joined in and sided with kinfolk your acquaintance. Her man just as the clans of Scotland joined in numbers and ill will. So grew the mountain factions, descendants often of those who were Scottish highlanders.

In some such way, after a dispute over the ownership of a hog, rose the Hatfield-McCoy trouble at Tug river. I have lived at Tug river, my nearest neighbors, the Hatfields. There were no locks on doors or windows in the little shack I occupied in their midst. One day when I was still a stranger there I set out to visit a sick child living at the opposite end of the railroad tunnel. At the tunnel entrance stood a giant fellow with minkie cap on his head and pick on his shoulder, his face dark with coal dust. He was one of the Hatfields. "You needn't be a mite afeared to walk through the tunnel," he said in a soft, musical voice. "Yonder comes the woman—his wife. She's going to see sick folks 't'other side." He bowed to me as graciously as a knight to a queen. The woman, basket on arm, gave me a friendly smile and said: "I'm round to make loyalty sided with kinfolk your acquaintance. Her man just as the clans of Scotland joined in numbers and ill will. So grew the mountain factions, descendants often of those who were Scottish highlanders."

a corn-buck doll from her basket, and I fetched a jar of honey, too." The stalwart son of the Hatfields, a red-blooded son of Bevil, "Anse," yanked in the bosom of his shirt and drew forth a paper bag. "I loved you might forgit, and a little 'un does crave sweetening, so 'un stopped at the commissary and got a poke of stick candy." He dropped it in the basket. Such are the people whom romantic outsiders picture as feudists. They are as human as simple, as kindly as you and I, and they hate a feud as bitterly as any of us. Too well they know what it means! Incidentally I have never heard the word from their lips. If I speak the word, they always say "the trouble," or "the war," never the feud. And the enemy is always, in their words, "t'other side."

"I recall a 'war' in the mountains over a dividing line. The bigwigs called it a "line-fight case." Far back in the beginning of the trouble there had been loss of life, but the case was revised in court in my reporting days and disposed of with perfect amiability. There was no shooting in the courtroom. There was something exciting, nevertheless. The star witness produced an original land grant from a king. The gratitude of mountain people is so much more characteristic of them than anyone there was Jamie a helpless cripple until his fourteenth year, when the doctor unlocked his twisted joints with bloodless surgery and restored him. One day when he was still in casts from the hips down but able to use his hands a little I came upon him working with a scrap of leather and a punch. "I'm making the doctor a pill pocket," he told me, and added eagerly, "Old Jethro's Eph fetched me this hide to make hit of, and this here punch." Then he leaned closer, glad flocks dancing in his dark eyes. "By gosh, a fellow like these things, hit's the sign of peace betwixt old Jethro's people and mine."

The pill pocket was all Jamie had to give in return for the doctor's services—for the like of which an American millionaire's family might give his ransom to Lorenz. And Jamie's grandmother—what of her gratitude for the boy made whole? For days Granny, though stooped with age and rheumatism, kept at "seng digging" until she had a "great pease" of roots. "The doctor can swap 'em for cash money," she said. Nor was that all the grandmother carried to the doctor. A poke of walnuts, mind you, hulled and washed and clean as a house's tooth at the creek." She had scoured them "because the doctor can't dibbe a grain of dirt or gorm." It took Jamie a long year to finish the pill pocket while he was requesting the use of the joints of his fingers. "The people is a proud race of people," he told his benefactor, "and ma and Granny, we ain't aimin' to take withouten we can give."

And there's Aunt Rimitithe whom I visited in her one-room cabin in a quiet hollow below a hilltop burying ground where lay "Pap's men that fit the Red Coats." The headstones still showed the names of three soldiers of the Revolution. But down below, close beside her garden, was another burial plot with four ivy-covered graves. "My four boys," she said. "They died for their rights, same as Pap's folks did. Her wrinkled hands were clasped, her trembling lips formed the soundless words: "God forgive us." In the moonlight on the cabin step she told me briefly of "the trouble betwixt my people and 't'other side, troubles that had taken away what she loved best on earth. "But hit's all passed away now," she said recently. "We've all got peace here." Presently she was singing an old-time Scottish ballad, the nearest to a lullaby that I have ever heard from a mountain woman. "That were my baby boy's favorite song ballet," she said wistfully. "He were just turned 12 the day he and my three others were tuck. I couldn't put my boys off yonder on the hill I wanted to keep 'em close by here by my posies. Mought be the least one, 'em'd be wantin' to hear his mammy singing of a evening time that there favorite ballet he loved so good."

That is Aunt Rimitithe today, who has been fantastically described as the "fiery-eyed" together of four desperate feudists. Brave, silent Ben Martin and the Hatfield who was maddened of the sick baby child, Jamie, filled with gratitude to his beloved doctor; Uncle Eli partaken with his treasured Good Book; Emmaline with her sister Elvirie for her washer, and Aunt Rimitithe, singing in the moonlight to keep her boy asleep under the ivy—all these, as I see them, are living signs of peace in the Southern mountain land—signs that feuds are vanishing.

They say you are always searchin' for old curiosities, in said, returning with an old volume. "W. W. D. Book my great-granddaddy fetched across the briny deep. Iffen you're satisfied to swap, take hit and I'll be proud to have them ballets you write off for me." He placed in my hands a rare old copy of the Bible. There was a bullet hole in the thick leather cover. "Hit said my life once!" Uncle Eli said deadpan. "T'other side showed hit, long time ago. They fired pint-blank, through yon door, but I were fixed fer dead. I were expectin' 'em I taken the Good Book and spread hit out wide over my chest under my thimble-woolsey shirt." He chuckled at the memory. "The Good Book ketched the bullet, and my life was spared." He paused a moment. "I 'lovely thought a heap of hit, hit's done a good part by me. But you take hit, now, for them troubles is all past and forgot, long, long ago." Many such people I have met in the Kentucky mountains. To the world they may be "feudists" still but to me they are just people. There was Emmaline, who had lost her sight when she was a child and regained it in her teens. Emmaline "traved a'tern to learn to write a love letter, but not until I had allowed her to teach me to knit would she consent to begin her 'larnin'." Months afterwards she confided to me: "Woman, do you know that I'm aimin' to marry one of 't'other side? We've writ a heap of letters to each other. Time were when Pap would ha' set his foot down on hit, but now he owns that no more docty man ever backed a nag or lifted axe to treat than Jagon. There was something else. "Woman, I'm wanting you to be my washer along with his sister Elvirie." I protested that I had never been a bridesmaid. Couldn't she have Elvirie alone? But Emmaline said, "don't you appreciate that Elvirie, his sister, being my washer, is our sign of peace? I'm wanting you to bear witness to our peace through mine and Jagon's wedlock, with Elvirie by my side." And there's Aunt Rimitithe whom I visited in her one-room cabin in a quiet hollow below a hilltop burying ground where lay "Pap's men that fit the Red Coats." The headstones still showed the names of three soldiers of the Revolution. But down below, close beside her garden, was another burial plot with four ivy-covered graves. "My four boys," she said. FOR ATTORNEY GENERAL B. M. VINCENT OF BROWNSVILLE, KY.

An ex-soldier, former County Judge of Edmonson county, State Senator from 1928 to 1930. Was instrumental in wresting from the power trust Cumberland Falls and giving this beauty spot to the state as a park; also in making the Mammoth Cave a National park.

To My Patriotic And Liberty-Loving Friends: I was invited to make a political speech in Prestonsburg on July Fourth, but because of my experience in Flanders Fields, where human life was placed upon the altar as a sacrifice unto a personation of the principles enunciated in the Declaration of Independence, I felt more keenly the sacredness of the occasion than those who did indulge in such effort. I, therefore, sincerely hope that anyone who might have expected me to speak upon this occasion will pardon me for their disappointment. I have never insulted the sacred memory of my comrades who died in the mud and mire of foreign bat-the grounds in defense of the ideals we celebrate on the Fourth of July, by taking advantage of such an occasion and forcing upon the good people who come out to reverence their country's birth, a political speech and if I must do so in order to win, then I shall go down in defeat, but HONORED defeat. I trust those who spoke politically on the Fourth did so in ignorance of the inappropriateness of the same and that by so doing they did not detract any spark of patriotism of anyone who may have been forced to listen to them. I shall discuss my campaign at the proper time and place, but, friends, please let me love Old Glory on the Fourth of July. Very sincerely yours, JOE P. TACKETT. Advertisement

NOTICE OF SALE - In Equity

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Pike circuit court, rendered at the March term thereof, 1935, in the above-styled cause, the undersigned will on Monday, the 22 day of July, 1935, at 1 o'clock p. m., or thereabout (being County Court day) proceed to offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder on a credit of six months at the courthouse door in the town of Prestonsburg, Ky, the property mentioned in the judgment, to-wit: Situate in Floyd county, Kentucky, and on the waters of Buffalo Creek, a tributary of Johns Creek, and being the same farm formerly owned by Brown Spears, deceased, and by said Brown Spears, deceased, devised to Sarah Spears, defendant, by will recorded in Will Book No. Page, Floyd county court records; and containing about 75 acres, and adjoining the lands of Kenis

Spears heirs and Marion Spears. Or a sufficiency thereof to produce the sums of money so ordered to be made. The purchaser will be required to give bond, with approved security, for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a judgment, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, according to law. Bidders will be prepared to comply with these terms. Amount of debt interest and cost $243.96.

W. W. BARRETT, Master Commissioner, Pike Circuit Court.

HUDDLESTON TOURS THIS SECTION DURING WEEK

Elam Huddleston, candidate for Governor, accompanied by his campaign manager, Alexander Cameron, of Ashland, passed through Prestonsburg Wednesday, en route to Martin and Wayland for speaking engagements. From this county, Mr. Huddleston went to Pikeville, then to Jenkins, Whitesburg and Hazard in a swing through the counties of this section. H. E. Morgan left recently for New Martinsville, W. Va. Mr. Morgan has been connected with the Westfield Natural Gas Company, whose department here for some time. His many friends here regret his departure.

Voters of Floyd County KNOW the TRUTH About the Taxes You Pay

Note the Benefits our County has received and learn how the Sales Tax has kept Schools open, paid Teachers' Salaries, Provided Relief for our Worthy Aged and Unemployed Citizens and how this Tax can be used to wipe out our County's Present Indebtedness in a few short years. FACTS - NOT THEORIES! DEEDS - NOT BUNK! VOTERS! ACTION - NOT HOT AIR!

FARMERS! PROPERTY OWNERS! Your Real Estate Taxes Have Been Reduced for State Purposes from 30 cents to 5 cents on the $100. That reduction means that you now pay 500 per cent less tax on Real Estate than formerly. Your auto license tax has been reduced 40 per cent and your truck license taxes have been cut 21 per cent.

VOTERS! Don't be misled by BUNK—by untruthful statements that the Sales Tax can be repealed without hurting our County. If the Sales Tax is repealed Floyd County immediately loses $35,726.10 each year. COUNTY DEBTS WILL REMAIN UNPAID.

OPPORTUNITY FOR FLOYD COUNTY TO WIPE OUT ITS TOTAL INDEBTEDNESS. Taxpayers in our County are reminded that our present County indebtedness is $969,968.00. Return from the Sales Tax, paid to Floyd county, by the State the first year is $35,726.10. THIS FACT IS VITAL! It means that within a few short years the Sales Tax system received by our County will enable our people to free themselves from this indebtedness and make it possible for county taxing authorities to make substantial reductions in the tax rate, if not eliminate it entirely, now being paid by our people. Repeal of the Sales Tax at this time would eliminate the possibility of our getting rid of our County's debt for many, many years.

Remember, too, that IF EVERY SINGLE STATE EMPLOYEE, PAID OUT OF DIRECT TAXATION, thousands of dollars each year, such savings even if possible, would in no wise meet the needs of State government with the result that the State, INSTEAD OF PAYING MONEY TO OUR COUNTY would call upon our people to MAKE THESE REVENUE LOSSES GOOD. That would mean huge additional outlays by taxpayers of our county and place again upon their backs the heavy tax burden from which the Sales Tax has freed them. TAXES ARE AS SURE AS DEATH. Hence, it is in every taxpayer's advantage to vote for candidates who will not tell you WHO AND WHAT THEY WILL TAX if their plan for Sales Tax Repeal should succeed.

Remember, Please! A vote to repeal the Sales Tax is a vote to place a heavier burden upon real estate. The Sales Tax is new law in 26 States and in New York City. Three States have a graduated tax. Sales Tax legislation is pending or planned in 16 other States. Can 45 States and America's largest city be wrong? TO DATE NO STATE HAS REPEALED ITS SALES TAX!

The Sales Tax has kept the schools of Floyd county open with the result that our boys and girls have been accorded the free educational opportunity that is the birthright of every American Child. IN ADDITION TO THE HELP RENDERED OUR SCHOOLS THE SALES TAX HAS ENABLED OUR STATE TO FEED, CLOTHE AND PROVIDE WARMTH FOR HUNDREDS OF OUR WORTHY AGED AND NEEDY UNEMPLOYED CITIZENS. When real estate taxes were reduced last year State revenues were lowered to the point that the common school per capita was cut from $6 to $2.48. Through the personal efforts of Hon. Thomas S. Rhea, who vigorously fought this proposal, the school per capita, THROUGH THE MEDIUM OF THE SALES TAX, was increased to $11.60. NOTE THE RESULTS IN FLOYD COUNTY With a $2.48 per capita prevailing Floyd county would have received $36,339.44 With a $11.60 per capita Floyd county schools have been kept open and our county received $169,974.80 If the Sales Tax had not been operating Education in Kentucky would have been dealt a serious blow. School terms would have been shortened; teachers underpaid and school plants everywhere would have suffered grievously because of the lack of necessary funds.

Mr. Rhea's Program for a Greater Kentucky 1—OLD AGE PENSIONS—In line with President Roosevelt's Plan. Mr. Rhea says: "Let us not forget our obligation to assist the aged and unemployed. Let us provide for them immediately." 2—$7,500 TAX EXEMPTION for average farmer and homeowner giving homesteads further relief from burdensome real estate tax. 3—EQUAL EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY for your Boy and Girl with FREE TEXTBOOKS through all 12 Grades. 4—REMOVAL OF SALES TAX from all Foodstuffs and Other Necessities of Life.

READ! THINK!! VOTE!!! TOM RHEA'S COURAGE IN THE HOUR OF KENTUCKY EDUCATION'S GREATEST NEED SHOULD ELECT HIM GOVERNOR OF THIS COMMONWEALTH! E. L. STURGILL, Chairman, Floyd County Rhea Campaign Committee. Contributed by the friends of Thomas S. Rhea in Floyd County.

VOTE FOR WOOTON

Why should any mountain man or woman fail to support Bailey P. Wooton for Governor?

In the first place, it is our tradition that we stick by our own mountain people when they need help. And for 41 years Bailey P. Wooton has lived in the little mountain town of Hazard — has lived there the life of a good neighbor, a staunch friend, and a citizen above reproach.

Mr. Wooton's record as Attorney General of Kentucky is such that it gives him an unequivocal endorsement for Governor. He has conducted the state legal department without fear or favor, and he is admirably fitted to give the people of Kentucky one of the best administrations in the history of the state.

We don't have to go to the bluegrass to find a man worthy of our votes. BAILEY P. WOOTON IS RIGHT HERE AT HOME.

July 28-29—"Mississippi"

The less you pay, the more it may cost

It sounds like a contradiction, but it's a fact as far as automobile insurance is concerned. Cheap rates indicate inferior protection; exclusions can sometimes nullify the safeguards you need most.

When you insure in U. S. F. & G. (or with us) you obtain complete coverage. Let us submit our policy for your own comparison.

VARICOSE VEINS ARE QUICKLY REDUCED

No sensible person should continue to suffer from disfiguring and often painful swollen veins or lumps when the new, powerful, harmless inhibitory antiseptic, called EMERALD OIL can be procured at little cost.

Ask H. E. Hughes and Co., or any good druggist for a two-ounce bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength) and retuse substitutes. Use as directed and in a few days note improvement. Then continue until the swollen veins are further reduced. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money refunded.

Storm Hits P'Burg

the flooded areas here were "drowned out" and pedestrians found it necessary in order to travel from one part of the town to another, either to pull off their shoes and wade, be "saddled" across by some obliging youth or simply sit down and wait for the water to subside.

Meanwhile, several prisoners were escaping from the city jail.
