BIG SANDY VALLEY COAL RATE SLASH UPHELD BY COURT

Way Cleared for Construction of Tiptoe and River Terminal

IS MAJOR VICTORY

Ruling of the Supreme Court cleared the way for construction of the proposed coal tipple and river terminal at Catlettsburg by Big Sandy coal operators at a cost of $300,000.

Completion of this project will provide transportation of the coal product of this section by river from Catlettsburg on to market.

Soft coal operators in the Big Sandy field in northeast Kentucky Monday won their two-year fight for lower railroad rates equal to those of the competing Logan field in West Virginia.

The supreme court of the United States unanimously upheld the finding of a three-judge federal court at Charleston, W. Va., July 17 which ordered the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company to equalize its rates from the Kentucky field to the Ohio river with those from the West Virginia field to the river.

The decision was read by Chief Justice Hughes. The Charleston court had upheld an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission in February. It found the Kentucky operators were forced to pay $1.17 a ton freight while the West Virginia operators paid 50 cents. The ICC ordered a 50 cent rate for the Kentucky operators.

The railroads appealed both the ICC and lower court rulings. Meanwhile it advanced the Logan rate from West Virginia to 75 cents and cut the Big Sandy rate from Kentucky to 87 cents, which left a 12 cent differential compared to the former 67 spread.

Although the lower federal court approved the ICC order, it delayed its effective date until the supreme court had acted. The government lawyers attempted to have this provision set aside on October 25, but the supreme court refused and advanced the entire dispute for argument on November 13.

OLDEST BIG SANDY NEWSPAPER UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT

The Big Sandy News, oldest of Big Sandy weekly newspapers, last week was published under new management, ownership of the publication passing from the hands of the paper's founder, M. F. Conley, to those of Earl W. Kinner and associates.

At the same time W. W. Robinson, Lancaster, Ky., newspaperman, bought a block of stock in The Paintsville Herald and assumed editorship of the paper.

TUBERCULOSIS CLAIMS LIFE OF ABBOTT MAN

Corbett Miller, 26 years old, of Cliff, succumbed Wednesday, last week, at the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, to tuberculosis from which he had long suffered.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wash Miller, well-known Abbott Creek residents. Besides his parents, the victim is survived by several brothers and sisters. Mr. Miller was a young man of excellent character and had many friends and relatives who mourn his passing.

The body was returned to the Miller home and funeral rites were conducted Friday, with burial following in the family cemetery under the direction of E. P. Arnold.

SAVING OF SEVEN MILLIONS PLANNED

By Tax Reduction Body Meeting Held in Ashland Last Week

Means of saving the taxpayers $7,000,000 a year were discussed at a group meeting of members of the 1936 General Assembly in Ashland last week. This and other meetings in various Kentucky cities were arranged by the Kentucky Tax Reduction Association.

An explanation of the legislative measures advocated by the association was made by Judge Richard Priest Dietz, former chief justice of the court of appeals and by George T. Holmes, secretary of the association. These measures include the following:

1. Unit plan of tax assessments for city and county whereby one tax assessor shall make all assessments in the county.
2. Assessment of real estate every two years instead of annually.
3. Unit plan of tax collections whereby one tax collector in each county makes out tax bill for each taxpayer, showing the tax rate for each governmental unit separately and making the distribution after collection to each of these units.
4. Establish a single board of tax supervisors for city and county, eliminating present duplicate functions of present separated boards.
5. Abolish the salary of county law librarian and provide that the county attorney shall serve ex-officio in that capacity.
6. Abolish the fee system of paying county officials, the fees to be deposited in the public treasury and the officials to be paid a fixed salary. This procedure is now being followed in 36 of the states.

The Association estimates that the County Budget Law and other measures included in the 1934 legislative program made possible the saving of $5,000,000 a year in tax money, and that the measures to be advocated at the 1936 session will increase this amount to $7,000,000.

SHOTGUN FIRE CLAIMS TWO LIVES

RELIEF IN STATE TO END NOV. 30

Government To Offer Only Work After That Date, Goodman Says

Relief in Kentucky is over at the time this is published today, November 30, as far as the Federal Government is concerned.

Unless the state of Kentucky the various counties and municipalities formulate an immediate plan, 16,000 citizens and their approximately 65,000 dependents unable to work on any job face destitution. The Federal Government in the future offers only work to those persons eligible to work relief.

George H. Goodman, Works Progress and Kentucky Emergency Relief Administrator, received the instructions in the form of a terse telegram from Washington to end direct relief. The telegram allotted Mr. Goodman $205,000 with which to immediately liquidate the affairs of the KERA as soon after November 30 as possible. Previously the state had been allotted a sufficient sum for relief until November.

STREET PROJECT IS LOST, CLAIM

Friend Street Paving Work Loss Explanation Vague; Headquarters Queried

Somewhere between Louisville and Paintsville, The Times was told this week, the paving project for Friend street here has been lost.

This was learned upon inquiry why work had not been begun on the street while construction was already under way on a thoroughfare serving only a few property owners, a fraction of the number of persons accommodated by Friend street.

Mayor A. C. Carter said he had made diligent inquiry after the project and that the Paintsville WPA office made only vague replies, indicating that the project had been "lost in the shuffle." Residents of the section of town thus deprived of improvements now are seeking proper steps to take in order to be re-instated along with the remainder of the town in the improvement program.

FLOYD YOUTH GIVEN FLORIDA JAIL TERM, COMPANION RELEASED

Two Floyd county youths and another from Pike county were arrested in Jacksonville, Fla., last week in connection with breaking into a filling station there. One of the trio whose name was given as George Stidham, 20, of Garrett, was given a six months jail sentence. A companion booked as Charles Meade, also of Garrett, was released.

James Milam, 16, Pikeville, was released to Pike county authorities. He is alleged to have admitted breaking into two Pikeville stores.

TEACHER SHOT TO DEATH AS FAMILY FEUD IS RESUMED

Seland Cook Killed on Jack's Creek; Daniels Slain at Hunter

HALL JAILED HERE

Leadens death from the muzzle of shotguns, one fired as the result of a drunken row, the other writing another tragedy in the record of a family feud, resulted in the slaying Saturday of two men on Left Beaver Creek, this county.

The victims were Jeff Daniels, youthful miner, of Hunter, and Seland Cook, 45, veteran Floyd county teacher, Azzie Hall, 22, of Hunter, is in jail here, facing a murder charge in connection with Daniels' slaying, but Curtis

Cook, 17, alleged slayer of Seland Cook, had not been arrested when this was written Monday.

Seland Cook was killed less than a week after he had been given a directed acquittal in the Knott circuit court for the slaying of Curtis Cook's father, Bill Cook, well-known Knott county merchant. One version of the slaying says the younger man called the teacher from a home on the head of Jack's Creek and pumped four charges from a repeating shotgun into his body. Another claims that he two met and that Curtis Cook fired only when the other reached for his revolver.

The Cook feud had its inception in the peaceful environs of a schoolroom on Jack's Creek in 1933. Seland Cook and his son Ralph were teachers, Ralph the principal. The latter is said to have sought to chastise one of the Cook brothers, Curtis or Barksdale for an alleged infraction of school rules.

As the Cooks, father and son, were going home they met the brothers. A fight followed. Ralph Cook was mortally wounded and Seland was so seriously shot that his life for a time hung in the

MARTIN MAN INJURED BY AUTO SUNDAY NIGHT

John Roberts, well-known Martin man, was struck and painfully injured by an automobile near Martin Sunday night. Officials here traced, through the license plates of the auto, ownership of the car to Clarence Logan, a son of E. E. Logan, of Estill.

The injured man was taken to the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin, where he was said Monday morning not to be seriously injured. Young Logan had not been arrested Monday morning, The Times was told, and it is not known what charge will be placed against him. Details of the accident are not known here.

Death From the Air Barring the Inventor The Republican Odds To Stage Italy

Warfare in Ethiopia consists largely in supplying the enemy in some narrow gorge or valley. Ethiopians have shown the prospect of a pitched battle...

England really has free speech. On your soap box in Hyde Park you may say what you please, if you do not advocate crime.

But England does not like free speech from another country, through the ether. The British Broadcasting Company will not let Barcelona talk from Rome to Englishmen over the radio.

Those that make betting a business are often found in their political judgments. They are at least cold, calculating; sentiment does not cloud their vision.

On the Republican Presidential nomination the betting now stands: Senator William C. Coker, 5 to 1; Governor Landon of Kansas, 10 to 1; Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, 10 to 1; Col. Frank Knox of Illinois, 10 to 1; Governor Charles McNary of Oregon, 10 to 1; Senator Charles McNary of Oregon, 10 to 1; Senator Charles McNary of Oregon, 10 to 1.

Professional bettors agree that Governor Landon is getting a bad deal and will probably lead the procession at 6 to 1 in a few days. Band wagon climbers are here and more polite to Governor Landon.

The "sanctions" will throw by England and France around Italy, smaller nations co-operating, to "substitute and starve Italy," as Mussolini puts it, is now complete. The Italian young organized Italians protest against the effort to punish Italy for doing to Ethiopia what Italy and France have done to other, more nearly civilized countries.

H. G. Wells, aged sixty-nine, younger and more brilliant than when he wrote "Doctor Moreau's Island" and "The War of the Worlds" now in America on his way to see Hollywood, says, "The film is a finer art than the novel, stage or the opera."

Mr. Wells' own mind proves his youth. The moving picture is greater in its possibilities than book, stage or opera, because it combines all three plus the marvelous power of photography.

Britain's ambassador is conferring with our State department concerning Japan's plan to seize Chinese provinces, containing 20,000,000 Chinese, 25,000,000 more than the total population of Japan.

If the Japanese could control, arm and the 100,000,000 Chinese in India and on the ground, that would be interesting. But it would not be our business, and it is to be hoped that the British will not persuade our State department that this country ought to attend to it.

Spiritually, politically and otherwise important is the proposed "merger" approved by bishops of the three branches of the Methodist Episcopal church. Together, the Methodist Episcopal church, Methodist Episcopal church, South, and Methodist Protestant church would number 7,500,000 members, the largest Protestant group.

Young men are coming back into fashion. Dr. Alan Venable, only thirty-four, former president of Harvard college at Yale, is made president of Rochester university and starts well by denouncing the "honors" of college athletics, football especially. He speaks with authority, not as a weakling bookworm, for he was a college athlete at Swarthmore, member of the Olympic team at Paris in 1923.

The American Bankers association reveals the interesting fact that our banks hold fifteen thousand million dollars worth of government bonds—figures, $15,000,000,000. Well might that be an important official of the government say: "Inflation" we have it now, billions of dollars frozen in the banks. Wait until it breaks loose."

After the Tory election in England prices were soaring on London's stock exchange. Commodities that had advanced and materials were most buoyant. The masses had voted for more, bigger and better battleships and war, if necessary.

Japan Suddenly Squelches North China Autonomy Scheme—Italy Struggles Against Economic Sanctions—President Talks to Mayors About Taxes.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

JAPAN suddenly learned that the autonomy movement in North China, fostered by the Japanese army commander, was likely to precipitate hostilities in the novel conference now open in London.

Thus, for the first time in recent years, the Japanese militarists have been checked by the Tokyo government, which is in a secret conference with the Japanese army in Manchuria did not include intruding for separation of the Chinese provinces and would not be permitted to pass south of the great wall without an imperial order.

Instead of the autonomy pact, the Japanese authorities in China that it must institute reforms in the northern provinces. At the present he had a refusal to accept the Chinese government's adequately prepared to cope with the situation in North China.

President Roosevelt has gone to Warm Springs, Ga., for his annual visit, and for three weeks will divide his time among politics and work. He was to deliver one speech at Atlanta; and after returns to Washington to deliver an address on December 9, which probably will be an argument for a permanent peace.

Following his Chicago speech, President Roosevelt will go to South Bend, Ind., to accept an honorary degree and make a brief address at the university of Notre Dame. The acceptance of this invitation was considered an affront because of his recent refusal to take any action concerning the Catholic persecutions in Mexico.

SOMETHING new under the sun is now being tried out—an economic war to put a stop to military war. Fifty-two nations are taking part in the imposition of sanctions against Italy, which has refused to accept an honorary degree and make a brief address at the university of Notre Dame.

Should this momentous action succeed, it would mean that the end of Benito Mussolini and the Fascist regime in Italy is in sight. Should it fail, the League of Nations falls, the British communications in the Mediterranean would be threatened, and the peace of the world would be menaced.

Standing steadfast against the sanctions, Premier Mussolini proclaimed the day on which the League of Nations was established a day of ignominy and infamy, as had been declared by the Fascist grand council. The day was made a holiday, but few from all buildings and there were numerous angry demonstrations against the measure.

Restrictions of certain necessities, such as oil, and other goods, and the Italian government, public bodies, corporations and individuals are forbidden.

Mr. Fletcher also announced the appointment of a committee of sixteen prominent industrialists and lawyers to raise a big campaign fund. William B. Bell of New York, president of the American Cyanamid company, will be chairman of the committee, and Charles B. Goodspeed, assistant treasurer of the Republican national committee, Chicago, will be vice chairman. Many of the members have never before participated actively in national politics.

STAR DUST

Movie - Radio

I HOPE you heard ZaSu Pitts when she did "Dulcy" on the radio; it was a relief to hear her and not one of her imitators. Incidentally, she's quite interested in those girls who do impersonations of her; says she's always wanted to meet one but somehow she just never has.

And I wish you might know that you ZaSu Pitts; you'll like her as much as I do. She's just returned to New York to do that broadcast, and spent most of her time shopping for her children—her daughter, who is thirteen, and her son, who is twelve. She started out at the crack of dawn each morning and was on hand when the store opened to buy simple frocks and sweaters and suits.

She was besieged with offers to do movie work; Ben Bernie, for one, wanted her to appear. She was urged to go on the stage; she remarked good offer was made for her to do a sketch in a new show-but she declined. She wanted to go home to her family. For she's a family woman; children and husband come first and her career afterward.

Nancy Carroll seems to have sidetracked her career since she left the stage. She is now a radio personality. She is now a radio personality. She is now a radio personality.

Have you heard that early, early morning program on the radio—the "Milkmaid's Matinee"? It's very popular. It's very popular. It's very popular.

Remember Julia Faye, without whom no Demille picture was complete in the old days? She recently married a scenario writer, in California.

Major Bowes' general "All right, all right" is fast becoming a byword all over the country. He is fast becoming a byword all over the country.

Fred MacMurray's rapid climb to the movie heights should encourage every one who wants to go into the movies. Two years ago he could not get an extra job. One year ago he worked in "The Shield."

It looks as if "The Married Herd" might prove to be Cigarette Colbert's most successful picture. Theaters in the big cities have been holding it over.

Hollywood, Hermits. IF YOU'D like to know what I've seen our fur-bearing hermits. As true realists, these gentlemen have the habit of going to the woods of Hollywood. So they march the principal streets all day, with their long hair and their dirty undergarments in the climate, and wearing as few clothes as the law allows—and such as they are fastidious.

There is a single member of the group who's different. He's just as woolly as the others, but he doesn't wear the same kind of hair. He wears his hair in a pompadour, and he's got his name or the address of his home, or where he came from, or where he's going, written on his forehead. I think he has a great ambition.

It's my idea he wants to go down in history as the first who ever commissioned a colonel on the staff of the governor of Kentucky.

Then followed the dreary years when the youth is to be disappointed and discouraged. He sold bonds. Statisticians show there was a salesman for every bond. Shortly thereafter, any fellow who owned a bond was his own salesman.

I am ashamed—trying to be funny over a most grim tragedy. It doesn't matter about our generation, the mad architects of this disaster. We're too numb to feel. We're too numb to feel. We're too numb to feel.

The Return of Prosperity. GOOD times are certainly coming back—at least to the far business. I hear prices are so high that only the weatherlier minks can afford their own skins; the rest of them will go through the winter wearing dried rabbit.

It's fine prosperity is returning. Wouldn't it be grand if, instead of being sold on a few dollars, it could be passed around?

RELIEF IN STATE TO END

"It is hard to believe, Mr. Goodman said, "and is nothing short of a calamity for 16,000 helpless families of our state. There is no alternative excepting for the local governmental units to take up where we are leaving off within two weeks."

In a conversation some days ago with Mr. Goodman, Governor Laffoon expressed his intent to assist towns and counties with state funds when the impending crisis was reached. "I have hope and believe," Mr. Goodman said, "that Governor Chandler and his administration also will step into the breach upon assuming office."

Mr. Goodman directed attention to the County Budget Act and its effect in placing most counties in a position of being able to help in the crisis. The law, he said, requires each county to make its budget as of June 30. Once made, funds in the various county budgets cannot be diverted, nor can additional appropriations be made. Kentucky has about 60 pauper counties to further complicate the problem.

But at the current date the state of Kentucky is $1,850,000 in arrears in its agreement with Federal Relief authorities to contribute $200,000 monthly to the program in Kentucky. The promised support to come from proceeds of the 3 per cent sales tax, to match federal funds spent by the Kentucky Emergency Relief Administration.

"One of the most pressing obligations I see now," Mr. Goodman said, "is for local governmental units to lead every effort to get Works Progress Administration projects going in order that we can care for the 67,000 needy workables charged to WPA without delay. There will be nothing but work after November 30, as far as the government is concerned. Any certified worker not employed on a work relief project is on his own responsibility."

With an expression of sympathy for the indigents of the state, Mr. Goodman briefly reviewed his plans for relief during the bitter months of winter. He had set aside $50,000 out of the general relief fund and had asked Washington for a like amount to be used in buying school children clothing that they might attend school without undue exposure to the elements. He also had laid plans and compiled his figures for relief through next March.

"I would feel much better," he said, "had we been allowed to carry on through the winter when needs are the greatest and suffering most intense."

"The Kentucky Emergency Relief Administration has developed a foundation for a State Welfare Division of a thoroughly well qualified personnel in social service work if the incoming legislature sees fit to utilize it by tying in with the National Security Act."

All employees of the National Emergency Relief Administration throughout the state have been notified their services would terminate November 30, excepting a few who will be retained to wind up affairs. County offices will be closed and records stored in suitable and safe places.

2 KILLED BY SHOTGUN

balance. This first shooting was done with a shotgun. For the slaying Barkdale Cook was given a 21-year reform school and penitentiary sentence, his age at the time preventing him from being committed to the penitentiary. Curtis was probated to his father, Bill Cook.

Then, a few months ago, as he was driving a mule team hitched to a wagon down a steep mountain road, Bill Cook was shot from ambush and killed. Again a shotgun was used: For the slaying Clyde, a son of Seland Cook, drew a life pen term. Seland last week was acquitted of the murder charge placed against him in the same killing.

The last victim of the Cook family war is survived by his widow, one son and one daughter.

When arrested Sunday by Deputy Sheriffs O. H. Stumbo, E. R. Allen, W. A. Wills and Mitchell Thomas, Hall, who is charged with the Daniels slaying, denied knowledge of the murder. He was found home at Hunter.

Following an altercation at or near the home of Lewis Lykins, a relative of the victim is quoted as saying Daniels, Ed Fitzpatrick, Ivel Salisbury and Claude Mullins went to the home of Polly Martin, below Hunter. Hall followed them there, this version of the affair continues, and called Daniels outside. A few moments later a shotgun was fired. Daniels was found shot through his chest. He died a few minutes after being taken inside the Beaver Valley hospital, Martin.

The victim was a son of Lee Daniels, of Hunter. The alleged slayer is a son of Buddy Hall. Daniels' body was taken to Emma for burial Tuesday under the direction of G. D. Ryan.

These happenings seem to bring forth a trend of thought with respect to county seats in neighboring mountain states where fewer high schools are maintained, and students are transported by bus from home to school.

Fewer high schools can be maintained in a more up-to-date manner and at a lesser cost per tax payer, at least we are so informed. More pupils than 13 high schools be would attend each of these schools than is now the case at the one and same time? here in this county.

WALKING TO AVOID TRAGEDY

Tragedy on the highway is not all the fault of the motorist. The pedestrian has his responsibility. And that responsibility-ignored, the result is appalling.

Pedestrians know as little about how to walk the highways of the land as do motorists about how to drive them. All are ignorant, criminally negligent and unwilling to learn.

For a pedestrian to walk on the highway, his back to the traffic approaching from his side of the road, is to invite injury or death, not only to himself but also to some motorist.

Every teacher should instruct his or her pupils how to walk the highway, if indeed they must walk on the pavement or the part of the highway traversed by automobiles.

No, you don't walk on the right side of the highway. You're not walking a sidewalk, meeting only those on foot. If you do walk the right side of the highway, your back is turned to automobiles on your side of the road and you have no way of seeing the danger that approaches.

If you don't believe this, try it out. The first trial may not give results, but eventually you'll wind up on the business end of a bad accident.

You don't have to read the newspapers, you don't have to be an undertaker, to know the terrible toll taken not annually but daily, monthly by carelessness on the highways.

Automobile drivers often, all too often, have a bestial disregard of the rights of other motorists and of pedestrians. At the same time those walking the highways make it next to impossible for the most careful of drivers to avoid hitting them.

We all can do something to reduce the horrifying death toll taken on the nation's highways.

KENTUCKY NEWS BRIEFS

The state, Gov. Laffoon announced, will pick up the burden of supporting 60,000 Kentucky unemployables on December 1, after the federal dole is withdrawn. Some 68,000 families have been placed on federal relief work.

At Owensboro, a near tragedy resulted when Joseph Goodwin, told he could not get on relief rolls, shot Hubert Hule, relief administrator employe. "I'd rather die in the electric chair than starve to death," Goodwin said at his arraignment. A vest button deflected the bullet, which probably saved Hule's life.

Drys rallied their forces for a last stand—against repeal. The Rev. J. B. Head, Louisville, announced that the dries would bring court action to force a recount in Jefferson county, and probably would follow with other recount petitions in cities where repeal won an overwhelming majority. At Paris, Circuit Judge Joseph C. Jones held the repeal proposal did not contain two questions as claimed by the dries (repeal and regulation) but only one general subject.

The court of appeals quickly dissolved an injunction by which Judge Jones would have given the dries 20 days to appeal before the state board of election commissioners could certify the result.

This week may bring a court of appeals decision on whether or not the repeal proposal was properly stated on the ballot.

Gov. Laffoon's special prison advisory commission concluded from its state crime survey that changes should be made in the methods of handling criminals. It recommended the emasculation of desperate and degenerate felons; establishment of a new and self-supporting prison and farm for less dangerous types of prisoners; transfer of the arduous power from the governor to a board. It urged scientific instead of political management of state institutions; recommended repairs and improvements at state penal and charitable institutions, some of which were fire-traps.

As to the pardon power, the commission found no fault with Gov. Laffoon but suggested "it is too great a burden for one man to bear." Shortly after receiving the commission's report, the governor pardon 28 indictments against a score of national guard officers and enlisted men growing out of the troop occupation of Harlan at the August primary.

Foreshadowing an extensive state wide program of highway improvement and grade crossing elimination, a Washington announcement said Kentucky has been granted $6,000,000 for such work. The University of Kentucky meanwhile received a PWA loan of $389,933, and a grant of $165,000 to add to the $360,000 already received for buildings and improvements.

Governor-elect A. B. "Happy" Chandler came back to Kentucky after a two weeks' vacation with Mrs. Chandler at Hot Springs. Indicating he expects to cut out the work he expects the state legislature to accomplish, he announced he may ask the legislature to take a recess after they convene in January if his program is not worked out.

The state Board of Bar Commissioners asked the court of appeals to disbar State Senator John T. Murphy, Covington, and County Attorney W. J. Ward, Paintsville, and to suspend Commonwealth's Attorney John L. Harrington, for alleged unprofessional conduct. They have 20 days to file answers.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

BREAKS O' SANDY LORE

The annual meeting of the Seventh District Women's Club was held at Maytown, Oct. 9. At this meeting several resolutions were adopted. Among these, none was dearer to the heart of every Kenturkian (whether native or by adoption) than that which pledged support to the movement for creation of a national park in the breaks of the mountains of the Big Sandy river.

A bill sponsoring this was introduced by Congressman A. J. May and Congressman Flanagan, of Virginia. It is hoped that it may yet pass the House.

Members of the Woman's Clubs are intensely interested in roadside beautification, establishment of parks, etc., town and home improvement, etc. This bill will have the constant backing of the clubs in this section.

The grandeur of the breaks needs no comment. Words fail to describe it fully. Thousands who know of the beauty there visit the scene each year. Making it a park, enhancing its natural attributes would bring tourists here the year round.

Some of the state's loveliest native shrubs and trees abound there. Rhododendron is plentiful. Azaleas and mountain laurel are also present in profuse quantity. The famed Fraser magnolia, with its unique auricle-ears, may be seen in the breaks. This species of the magnolia is not found elsewhere in Kentucky. Here it grows 40 and 50 feet high and sends forth its gorgeous blooms in the late spring and early summer. Hemlock, cedar, spruce and other evergreens keep lone vigil in winter time when leaves of neighboring trees form a brown carpet underfoot.

Every lover of beauty, every citizen who has civic pride is asked to assist when possible in forwarding this movement which will some day be realized. Every civic organization should immediately go on record as favoring same and exert every effort to promote it.

 It always works

Just do what hospitals do, and the doctors insist on. Use a liquid laxative and you can bring yourself to stooling regularly without strain or ill effect.

A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced change is the secret of any real relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular Dr. Calum's Syrup Pepsin has become. It gives the right kind of help, and right amount of help. Taking a little less each time, gives the bowels a chance to set of their own accord, until they are moving regularly and themselves without any help at all.

Dr. Calum's Syrup Pepsin contains no acids and no narcotics—both natural laxatives that form no habit. The solution is gentle, but sure. It will rid you any sluggishness or bilious condition due to constipation without upset.

CHAPTER I

The Checkbook.

Garth knelt upon the planks of the small floating wharf to fasten a pitch-smeared patch on the bottom of his upturned birchbark canoe. In the midst of his work he passed to Hans, a faraway drone was just audible above the tug and hum of insects. He seemed to peer at the southerly sky above the vast food of the Mackinac. The drone became more distinct.

A plane was coming down towards the emergency landing station at the old abandoned trading post. Yet the regular schedule of the line did not call for the northbound Belanca for several days. In all probability, the Commercial Airways had sent out its emergency plane from Port McMurray, Alberta.

Though his thoughts lingered on the approaching plane, his eyes and hands returned to the patching of the canoe. The craft must be made ready for the weeks of upriver paddling. There would be none too much time for the thousand-mile trip out before the winter freeze-up.

As he finished the patch the loud drone of the motor swelled into a shrieking roar. He turned to watch the white monoplane swoop down and take the water like a quipping duck. The pilot started to taxi shoreward. Garth again set about patching the small leak. A sudden silence told that the motor had been killed. Across the bush came a curt order:

"Ho, Jack, fend off and snub her." Garth hastily twisted around to eye the incoming craft. She was a medium-sized plane with a swung around and lay within the current. Neither the man or the woman made a movement until Garth drove his canoe ashore and lifted it atop the stony bank.

As he climbed to the front of the old post store, above the base of the wharf, he saw the pilot still swinging down to haul on the line. Inside the big log cabin he crossed to one of the rear rooms and took light hand on the forehead of the soaring man in the nearest bank.

"Turn out, Tobin, visitors." The grizzled-headed station tender roused up to blink and peer.

"Visitors? You're not stringin' me, Ma, Garth?"

"No. Rover plane." Tobin slipped on his moccasins and hobbled out into the overhanging wing to the screened door of the cabin. He was handing his woman companion down from the cockpit.

Both had replaced their leather flying helmets with hats and mosquito nets. They went in under the overhanging wing to the screened door of the cabin. It opened to the outburst of a portly man in city clothes. Assisted by the pilot, he managed to get down upon the wharf by means of steps lowered from inside the cabin. After hurriedly

As he faced away from him, the pilot spoke to Tobin: "Get busy. Truck down sixty gallons of gas and five of oil—and be quick about it. While your helper is refueling the plane, you'll cook us the best meal you can throw together."

"Tobin read the order, and thrust it back, with no lessening of his despair. "So you're Burton Ramill, are you? Looks like a straight order. All the same, you'll sign the book before you'll get a drop."

"He turned about to open an oily account book on one of the stacks of gasoline cans. Mr. Ramill drew a fountain pen from his vest pocket with plump white fingers and slipped forward to write.

"These's your receipt," said the pilot. "How have this dumb helper of yours push out our gas, and get your pans on the fire. We want service."

"Sub? Well, you've got to pay for all this commodity. Don't say nothing about cookin' nor service." "You're not kidding?" "Not right, Ma. I see you're stiff from rheumatism. I will pay this young fellow to retum the plane."

Garth turned his cool gaze upon the pilot. "Why not give this bird of yours the chance to earn a little more pay?" "Because Mr. Huxby has four my plane all the way from Chicago, you know. Only short stop over. Also, he is my partner, not a mechanic."

"But your gold sack?" "Gold? Garth muttered. He drew out his poke again and opened it to shake a few small nodules of metal into his palm. Both Huxby and Mr. Ramill stepped close to peer at the grayish sliver bits. The older man looked puzzled. "The younger took a nodule into his own palm, eyed it a moment, and handed it back in an indifferent manner."

pay for airplane freighting. Nor would you be able to get it. I lost ten pounds of this—galeena. Canoe upset, running one of the rapids."

As Garth spoke he put up a hand to cover a yawn. "If you don't mind, Tobin, I'll wait. It's a long train to Great Star."

The portly investor in miles caught the eye of his engineer partner. He spoke to Garth: "You are going out side?"

"Perhaps." "Well, it is so should make no difference to you. Is there a lake or pond near your prospect?"

"One about four miles long; half as wide." Huxby repeated his question: "It could be reached how soon by air?"

"The fish were no longer nibbling; they were hooked. Garth had only to haul in on his line. But he took his time about it. He paused to consider. Not all fish prove to be desirable catches."

Neither Mr. Ramill nor Huxby looked like a crook. They had the appearance of reputable business men. On the other hand, neither looked easy. Huxby looked in one Garth's weighing the changes: "Well, Jack, let's have it."

"Two to three hours," Garth replied. "I don't know the speed of your plane."

"Fastest time of cabin cruiser. Can't it six hours to go and return, and the time back?" "That's the question. It's possible there may be a trace of gold in your ore. I'll test it while you go your place."

The girl spoke to Mr. Ramill: "I shall take a nap myself. Dad. Ten hours of flying, with no chance to dance of the Scotch, is enough to kill a horse."

In the act of handing a nodule to Huxby, Garth passed to stand at the rear of the motor, south of the tobacco, paint, and all the rest of the baggage-jazz roll."

She attended and stared back at him haughtily. He dropped the nodule into Huxby's cupped palm and crossed into the rear room to stretch out on one of the bunk beds.

A tug at his shoulder roused Garth from his six-hour sleep. Tobin's hoarse voice crossed his ears. "Get up, get up, get up, Sun's up. The pale of 'em are keen to be awing. Look like their test of your nugget live-ness of the Green."

Garth pulled on his buckskins and slipped into the store room. Miss Ramill was coming in at the front door. She paused to remove her headgear. Huxby and Mr. Ramill were already putting down a hearty breakfast of bacon, sourdough bread and oatmeal porridge. Garth crowded past them and Tobin to the end of the little shaft table.

PROVISIONS MADE FOR RIGHT-OF-WAY

Along Johns Creek, Middle Creek Routes Up for WPA Work

In special session Tuesday the Floyd fiscal court took steps necessary to procure for the county the expenditure of approximately $100,000 of Works Progress Administration funds on two roads which, unless such action had been taken, would not have been finished by the WPA.

The court's action Tuesday authorized County Attorney Forrest D. Short to negotiate for right-of-way on Johns Creek and Middle Creek routes and also gave County Clerk A. B. Meade authority to issue county orders in payment of right-of-way grants. Contracts entered into between the county and landowners and the amounts to be paid for right-of-way must, however, first be approved by the fiscal court. The court will meet December 3 for the purpose of reviewing right-of-way matters on these two routes.

Had this action not been taken, it was cited in the court's order made Tuesday the funds allocated by the WPA for the two roads would have reverted to the federal government and thus forever be lost to Floyd county. The special session was called by County Judge W. L. Stumbo upon the urgent request last week of County Attorney Forrest D. Short, who pointed out the necessity of procuring all possible WPA work to relieve the emergency arising because of the imminent suspension of direct relief. Work started on county roads has been impeded by lack of machinery, and to date pick-and-shovel operations have made slow headway. It was unofficially said last week that efforts were being made to procure trucks and steam shovels in order to expedite road construction...

TWO ON WAY BACK BUT ONE IS TAKEN

Man Accused of Stealing Large Sum from Aged Man Taken in South

Two men this week were on their way back to Floyd county to face trial in circuit court here, and a third was on his way from this county to Virginia for a hearing before a former Floyd county man, now a Virginia official.

Tom Marshall, of Alpharetta, went to Rutherfordton, N. C., to return to this county. Kelse Meade, who is accused of stealing from his relative and benefactor, John P. (Printer) Meade, approximately $800 in cash. Meade and a Gibson girl left this county, it is said, on a motorcycle and were detained by North Carolina officials a few days ago. They still had in possession of a considerable sum in cash. Marshall was one of Meade's bondsmen.

Sheriff M. T. Stumbo and Deputy Sheriff W. A. Willis left Tuesday for Newport, Ky., to return to this county. Buster Coleman, alias Adam Venice, who escaped jail here along with Curtis Bradley, about two months ago. Coleman was identified by a police line-up photo supplied the sheriff's office here by Newport police. He was originally charged with breaking and entering. A warrant issued by Gallia Friend, Magistrate at Clintwood, Va., charging Arvil Rose with child desertion, resulted in Rose's arrest near Melvin Tuesday. Sheriff Younce, of Clintwood, came to this county Tuesday to claim the prisoner. Magistrate Friend is a brother of B. P. Friend, of Prestonsburg.

FAIR WARNING

A well-known Paris citizen just came into this office and stopped his paper for the reason, he said, that it did not just suit his fancy. We can picture now the note of surprise on his face when we meet him on the street in a few days. He'll be surprised that we are still in existence since he "stopped his paper." Some day—and it won't be long—that man will be no more. His heart will be stilled forever. Neighbors and friends will carry his lifeless clay to the silent city and lay him to rest among the flowers. An obituary will be published in these columns telling what a good neighbor and beloved citizen he was and in a short time he will be forgotten. As he lies in the cemetery wrapped in the silent slumber of death, he will never know that the last kind word spoken of him was by the editor of this paper which he so spitefully stopped.

Did you ever stop to think that your editor, whoever he may be, will write your obituary some day? — Paris Citizen.

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

John T. Flynn, conducting the syndicated United Features column, "Plain Economics," in the Washington Daily News, on November 15, said in part:

"REA enables the farmers to get power, the utility company gets customers, the electrical construction industry to get a contract, the electrical supply industry to sell equipment.

"Rural communities can hardly generate their own power. Close to them are the great power plants of the cities. This power is available to the farms if the lines can be extended into the farm area. One thing more is needed—funds. If the utility companies are willing to run their lines into rural neighborhoods the REA will assist them by making the funds available as a loan at the most favorable terms.

"Where the utility company is not willing, then the REA encourages farmers to form co-operative groups and buy power wholesale from the utility. This is even more favorable. If the farmers organize into a co-operative unit, the government will finance them, without the utility taking any risk whatever."

Mr. Flynn is careful to point out that REA has no quarrel with the utilities. The "notion that the REA is some sort of reinforcement for the Government's designs against the utilities is in no sense true. It is the one arm of the Government which aims to act in friendly cooperation with the utility interests."

"The plan looks, to an unbiased observer, like one of the most intelligent and useful of all the New Deal schemes, certainly the one most designed to aid recovery. There are a million possible farm customers. Maybe the REA can't get them all. But it can get a large part of them if the utilities will help."

THE COUNTRY NEWSPAPER

(Industrial Press Service) If you would know what Americans are really thinking about, get off the highways and amble leisurely along the byways. Seek out the towns and villages; forget the cities and their suburbs. If your time is limited, buy a copy of the paper in each of the towns through which you travel. Carry them home with you and read them. It is a simple way to remove the veneer of sophistication with which the city has coated you, and to bring you back to earth again.

There is no better sounding board of public opinion than the editorial page of the country weekly. All too often the perspective of the metropolitan daily is, paradoxically enough, narrowed to the very size of his huge city. He can't see the woods for the trees. On the other hand, the country editor follows a homely pattern of life, and his thinking, reflected on the editorial page, has its roots in sincerity, simplicity and an unsuspected wisdom that his fellow editor has sacrificed on the altar of urbanity.

Don't laugh if you read in the news pages the unadorned story that Faemer Jones has lost his cow. What do you think your country cousins think of your plight when they chance to see a city edition that discloses the extent to which you have lost your self-respect in a story describing your bondgoggling activities? While you read about manners and morals, they read about men and women—looms that spin your cloth. The commas and semi-colons may not be there, but for that very reason the meaning is less obscure.

When you have finished reading the country papers you brought home with you, you may find yourself hoping that Farmer Jones finds his cow!

When a man is that age and begins to show partiality to the old arm chair it's up to the good wife to do something about it.

Really a man of 60 is in his prime—no reason on earth why he should feel tired after his day's work—no reason why he shouldn't have plenty of ambition—plenty of forceful energy—plenty of endurance.
