JUDGE CAUDILL STRESSES NEED OF REGISTRATION

Voters Must Register in Order to Obtain Suffrage; Caudill Issues Statement

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN

Importance of the registration of voters was stressed this week in a statement issued by Circuit Judge John W. Caudill in which he pointed out provisions of the new election law requiring all voters to register in order to retain the right to vote. Election day, Saturday August 1, is state registration day.

Judge Caudill's statement follows: "In order that the voters of Floyd county may fully understand the new registration law and to prevent any one from finding himself disqualified to vote at the August primary on the 11th of November, I take pleasure in giving the following instructions:

"The registration law, passed by the 1936 General Assembly, requires that every voter shall be registered before the clerk of the election is issued to him a ballot. The clerk of county court will select and have two men present in each voting booth for the purpose of registering the voters, but it will be found to be a very slow process in making this registration and have the cards complete as the cards for permanent records must be made up by those registrars on the day of the primary and in the presence of the voters, and under the vote given that registration and signature the clerk and the registrars that on any day will find it absolutely impossible to register all the voters in the county before the election day. The election grounds at the opening of the polls in sufficient number to keep the registrars busy, so that as many as can possibly register may do so in time to vote and each voter should do all that he can to prevent any disturbance or delay in any way in making this registration. And if it should be possible that a part of the voters can not be registered, the law makes no provision whereby you may afterwards register in the county clerk's office in order to be a qualified voter in the November election.

"I know our clerk is giving his very best attention to this matter and is trying to make a selection of registrars who are very capable men, and I wish to appeal to the voters to stand by them, giving all the assistance possible to expedite this matter and give everybody a chance to vote if possible."

Approximately 500 miners who last week "took a walk" when company officials failed to discharge an employe unsatisfactorily to the United Mine Workers returned to work Monday at the Garrett mines of the Elk Bona Coal Corporation after the company dropped from its payroll the employe over whom the dispute arose.

The strike was peaceful. By Lafayette, former Prestonsburg and Garrett office, to whom employment the miners objected, has moved to Ralston, where he is an officer, it was said.

Chesapeake and Ohio Lines Public Relations committee from Floyd, Pike, Blount and Lawrence counties assembled Saturday evening at the Auxier hotel here for their first joint meeting with the local chairman, Lon S. Meigs, presiding.

Reports from the various county chairmen indicate unusual activity in furthering public relations work and a direct trend toward better understanding and growing friendliness between the railway company and the people it serves.

Stephenson, counsel, Pikeville, reported great gains in goodwill in his county through the individual activities of members. Z. Wells, counsel, Paintsville, gave a most interesting account of the committee work in Johnson and Lawrence counties, and cited the fact that much good was being accomplished by individual members. Lon S. Meigs, Prestonsburg, made the report for Floyd county, gave interesting accounts of work done in this territory.

Speeches were made by the chairman, responsibility, justice, fairness, sources of information and distribution, courtesy, creating good-will, solicitation of freight and passenger business, taxes, legislation and government ownership. May, a very interesting talk, citing the necessity of vigorous public relations work by the carriers, leading to the Chesapeake and Ohio lines for the promotion of the work in this county. SCHOOL LEVY IS RAISED 20 CENTS

Fiscal Court Votes Increase at Request of Superintendent; To Build Bridge

The fiscal court's levy of 50 cents per $100 taxable property for common school purposes for the year beginning on May 1 for the 1936-37 school year was raised to 70 cents by the court at its meeting Friday upon urgent request of Palmer L. Hall, Superintendent of Floyd county schools.

Appearing before the fiscal court, Mr. Hall said that the extra levy would be necessary in order to supply funds needed by the school system. Magistrate Jim Clark voted against the levy increase.

Each of the four magistrates of the county was authorized to spend not in excess of $1,000 this year on county roads and bridges.

Magistrate M. C. Wright was directed to procure necessary material and supplies for the construction of a bridge across Right Beaver Creek between Garrett and Lackey. The court voted unanimously to pay the bill $148 a year in monthly installments.

Magistrates Scott, Clark and Hall met Tuesday afternoon with L. J. Dean, Huntington, W. Va., architect, in a discussion of possibilities of courthouse construction. No official action was taken and the matter awaits action of the Public Works Administration on the court's application for a grant of 45 percent of the total cost of construction.

BECKHAM, ALLY BROWN TARGETS

Senatorial Candidate Tells Voters Here Friday Governor Chander Violated Promise

John Young Brown, Democratic candidate for United States Senator, in his address to voters here Friday afternoon directed his most vigorous blasts at C. W. Beckham, one of his two principal opponents, and at Governor A. B. Chandler, ally of Mr. Beckham.

Referring to the new state tax on ice cream and soft drinks, Mr. Brown placed the blame for these taxes on Governor Chandler and his administration. He also charged the Governor with violation of his pledge of support of Brown in his bid for services rendered during Mr. Chandler's race for the governorship last year.

He said his and Governor Chandler's relations at this time were pushing another up the ladder, and the one that helped turning and judging his helper down. Referring to Mr. Beckham's plan, which he opposed James B. McCreary in the Senate in 1906, for the people to "give a young man a chance," the speaker said that the same slogan should now apply, since Mr. Beckham is now as old as Mr. McCreary was then.

Brown made little reference to Senator Evans, his chief opponent, contending for the Senate post, stating that the sealed position in which the Senator posed for a photograph before went in his campaign was characteristic of his activities in Washington.

CHILD-VICTIM OF CAR BURIED HERE

Newsome Charged With Involuntary Manslaughter in Death of 4-Year-Old Boy

Body of Paul Richard, 4-year-old son of Mrs. Mrs. Troy Stephens, of Burton, who died Sunday afternoon beneath the wheels of an automobile, was buried at West Prestonsburg Monday afternoon, and on the same afternoon Kenneth Newsome, of this county, was brought here as driver of the death car.

A young man of about 22 years, Newsome executed $500 bond for his release on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

Relatives here of the child-victim said that the car ran 11 feet off the highway at Burton onto a vacant lot where the child was playing, and that two pints of whisky were taken from Newsome's car.

Young Newsome and his father, Andy Newsome, claimed that the child was playing in the road and that they did not see the car until it was on top of the child. The driver, they claimed, made every effort to avoid striking the child. One of the two officers, Deputy Sheriff Willis Johnson and Frank Hofford, who brought Newsome here, said the tragedy was unavoidable. Broken on the car were defunctive, it was said.

Though the younger Newsome denied that he had been drinking, his father paid Magistrate Willie Hall a fine for drunkenness following the child's death.

Beside the parents, the little victim is survived by two brothers and two sisters: Charles, Ruth, Frank and Henry. The children had moved from here to Burton some time ago.

FOUR AUXIER MEN HELD IN ALLEGED SABOTAGE CHARGE

Accused of Plotting Destruction of North-East Coal Company Tipples at Auxier

TIMBERS REMOVED

Four Auxier men were jailed here Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Edbert Dole following their arrest on a warrant charging them with conspiring and banding to damage the property of the North-East Coal Company at Auxier.

The prisoners are Jim Honeycutt, Billie C. Wells, Tom Moore and Ernest Wells. The warrant for their arrest was sworn out last week by R. C. Thomas, superintendent of the coal company.

It was said here last week that the men removed timbers from the coal company's three acres at Johns Creek. Coal company officials believe that failure of one of the men to get a job led to the act.

Had not officials of the mine learned of the plot to destroy the tipples, a "work trip" of more than 50 miners would have crashed through the weakened structure at mine cars bearing them passed over it.

P'BURG BREAKS LOSING STREAK

With Adrian Collins back on the mound, the Prestonsburg baseball team snuffed out of its losing streak Sunday to defeat Shelby, 2-1. The hitting was not especially vigorous on either side, but a few plays of the Prestonsburg infield was excellent. These four youngsters contributed four double-kills, and one of the home runs was a homer by Doss, and it was one for the book. The local outfielders' hot streak continued off an excellent throw over a railing into foul territory. While the Shelby infield kept the ball in play, the Prestonsburg team was able to score on a double play by Steve and Andy. The Prestonsburg team was able to score on a double play by Steve and Andy. LAND BANK LOANS IN FLOYD, $42,700

Over the week the 29-year anniversary of the passing of the Farm Loan Act of 1916 which marked the beginning of the co-operative credit in the United States, Ernest T. Rice, president of the Land Bank of Louisville, announced that the outstanding amount of Federal land loans in Floyd county increased from $29,700 in 1933, when the Farm Credit Administration was organized, to $42,700, which was the total amount of Land Bank and land bank commissioner loans outstanding at the beginning of 1936. The number of farmers in this county having their average loans through the bank is 31.

This large advance in the amount of loans outstanding has made very little, if any, increase in the total indebtedness of Floyd county farmers. Mr. Rice said, since the program used about $9 out of every $10 borrowed to pay already-existing debts owed to banks, insurance companies, merchants and other concerns and landlords.

The co-operative farm loan business is handled locally by the Missouri County National Farm Loan Association, located at Sny-Leban, Mo. It is one of 124 similar organizations serving farmers in the United States.

Edward D. Holbrook is the secretary-treasurer and chief executive officer. F. H. Holbrook, president, Clay Fraker, vice-president, Henry Lyon, A. L. Cooper and John M. Sawyer.

The land bank president said that since the Farm Credit Administration was organized, the amount of agricultural credit the amount of land bank loans outstanding in Kentucky increased from $24,820,000 in 1930 to $58,000,000 at the beginning of 1936. During that period, farm foreclosures were 40 foreclosures per 1,000 farms in the year ending March 25, 1933. This was cut in half. In Kentucky the rate last year was 14 per thousand, which approaches normal for the pre-depression years 1929-1930.

"The farm credit re-organization has reduced directly the interest rate of one in every three farmers with mortgages," Rice said, "and out of every three dollars of interest paid by the average farmer is financed by low cost, long-term, dollar and the other dollar steps in his own field. The total amount owing to Kentucky farmers on a basis of refinancing amounts to more than $60,000 a year."

The Federal Land Bank of Louisville makes first mortgage loans and also acts as agent in making land loans, some of them on second mortgage security, as authorized by law.

All land bank loans in Kentucky are handled by committees and approved from funds obtained by selling farm loan bonds, whereas the commissioner lends from funds approved from the Federal government.

The bank loans in amount are to about one-half the appraised normal value of the farm property, and this may be supplemented, with proper security, by a co-operative loan. The total of both not exceeding 75 per cent of the appraised normal value of the farm property.

"Commissioner loans may now be made to aid the purchase of farm lands," Mr. Rice said. "A favorable investment market enables the Federal land banks to make new loans with a 4 per cent rate of interest a year, the lowest in 30 years of their history."

Their operations in co-operative credit furnished by the land banks and the farm loan associations paved the way for the organization of a co-operative short-term lending fund. Fifty county farmers are served in this by the Big Sandy Production Credit Association, which has made 500 loans for $118,500 since its organization early in 1934.

AN EXAMPLE TO FOLLOW

A splendid example of pride in home and community is offered by a select group of property owners who have beautified their backyards by turning up the Mays Trail through this place so as to present Prestonsburg in the most favorable manner to visitors driving along this, the finest thoroughfare in all Eastern Kentucky.

From Court street south, before the Trail was paved through Prestonsburg, a swampy strip of land lay between Second and Third avenues. People naturally did not build their homes fronting on this unsightly stretch, and so there are few residences facing on that part of the street.

But those whose backyards border on the thoroughfare are so content to permit their backyards to remain just that after the traditional manner. The unsightly features have been, or are being, removed; landscaping is being done, flower gardens blooming.

This Trust not only commends these homeowners upon their evidence of the aesthetic in taste but also suggests that we all should, wherever possible, follow suit.

The following letter from a "Left-Out" teacher is so full of good sense and of the very essence of good sportsmanship that The Times takes pleasure in printing it in this column:

Once again the Board of Education has hired teachers. Once again there are teachers left out. With a surplus of teachers in the county, this is inevitable. If someone has a recipe for supplying jobs when

What of the school teacher? How does he or she take it, or on one take it? Now if any find other work for there is none. Only a limited number go to school due to the uncertainty of work another year. Too many become models of sour grapes. Too few prove to be good sports in the face of defeat. Yet the teacher who cannot be a cheerful loser is a serious menace to the school. The teacher who does not help in community life and work when out of the school is seldom known to be a leader when employed to teach.

Since some teachers may be left out in the county annually, show good as well as bad, why not make the best of it? Why criticize and condemn your school because the political faction opposite your own is in the why not boost the school, look for the good in the teachers and prove that you have the character of which real teachers should be made? Teachers are taught and trained to be community leaders. Many fail to live up to this, especially the left-out teacher who becomes a grinch, determined to out the administration which left him out. Just had he been given a job, he'd have "rung" prizes to those whom he now condemns.

This attitude is all too prevalent and does not speak well for members whether in or out. Hence, remember—a good citizen does everything he can at all times to assist in progress in his town.

Judge Caudill Gives Reasons Why He Is Supporting Senator M. M. Logan For Renomination

Senator Logan is a sober, Christian gentleman, has been a member of the Baptist Church for more than 40 years, has been a public servant of the people for more than 20 years, and no one would dare accuse him of one wrongful act or any misconduct in office.

He has never been defeated by the vote of the people for any office. He did not belong to either of the political factions that twice defeated the Democratic party and placed two Republicans in the United States Senate, does not believe in machine politics, but has implicit faith in the people, and has no political enemies. He regained by a handsome majority the Senate seat that J. C. W. Beckham lost.

Senator Logan has supported President Roosevelt in all his New Deal policies, including all Labor bills, relief appropriations and the Soldier's Bonus Bill (having lost two brothers on the battlefields of France, he still feels the sting of their loss).

President Roosevelt would like to see Senator Logan re-nominated and re-elected. He appreciates Logan's loyalty in the trying years just past, and feels the need of his wise counsel and mature judgement. If you are for President Roosevelt, how can you afford to vote against Senator Logan?

I have known Senator M. M. Logan for about 25 years. All of this time he has been one of my most loyal friends. He is a sober, honest, efficient, conscientious servant of the people and a Christian gentleman. To know Senator Logan means to love him.

So never lost a political battle. Let's not let him lose this time.

Anything that you may be able to do for Senator Logan will be considered by me as a personal favor.

Yours for more loyal supporters of the President,

[Signed] John W. Caudill

ROOSEVELT WANTS LOGAN

President Roosevelt has quietly let it become known in Kentucky that he desires the return of Senator Logan.

L. M. Combs, a candidate for the Senate, withdrew for Senator Logan because he found out the President wanted Senator Logan. He said:

"The reason I am withdrawing from the race for United States Senator is because President Roosevelt sincerely desires the return of Senator Logan.

"The President desires for Senator Logan's return merely increases my devotion to him because it indicates his deep appreciation of Senator Logan's loyalty to him in trying years just past."

Senator A. O. Stanley, who will speak for Senator Logan in Kentucky during this campaign, said publicly in the papers that he withdrew from the race because he found out through Chairman James A. Eastley that the President desired the return of Senator Logan. This was after Beckham announced his candidacy.

President Roosevelt knew he would have trouble with Senator Beckham should he be sent to the Senate. He knows his record. He knows that he was one of the most reactionary, ultra-conservative men in the Senate. HE VOTED THREE TIMES AGAINST WOMEN SUFFRAGE. Practically all his votes were against labor. He would be a thorn in the side of President Roosevelt, and the country is finding it out. He is not in step with modern progress as interpreted by the President.

Beckham has been trying to get a job under Roosevelt since he has been President. In 1925 he applied for the position of Interstate Commerce Commissioner. He was endorsed by both Senators Logan and Barkley. The President refused to appoint him. In 1934 he was again endorsed by the Senators and again the President refused to appoint him on the Federal Trade Commission. He made an application again for appointment to the Board of Tax Appeals, this time endorsed by both Senators and the President refused to appoint him. WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH BECKHAM? The labor vote in Kentucky has never been for him, and three times that vote has defeated him. Why didn't he go for his own?

The Governor of Kentucky (Sales-Tax Happy) is trying to drive labor into Beckham's camp, by attempting to refuse to pass the laws that Labor wants. Why didn't he pass the law sponsored by Labor when he had a chance? Every bill Labor sponsored in the Legislature was defeated. Logan's labor record is 100 per cent right. Beckham has never been endorsed by Labor, and is not endorsed now. A few individuals who claim to speak for Labor say Beckham's record is all right, but Labor should beware of "wolves in sheep's clothing" and "false prophets."

Roosevelt needs a man on whom he can rely in the Senate. To defeat Senator Logan under these circumstances would be a direct slap in the face of the President. Let us make him feel good by endorsing at the polls a man we know has been right, and will be right, in the future for all the policies of the President, including his organized labor policies. If Beckham was a reactionary 20 years ago, he is still older and still more reactionary now.

Respectfully,

ROADHOUSE LAW TOOTHLESS ACT

Not Finally Proved for Outlets of Liquor. Permit, Vinson Says

The only way to stop operation of a roadhouse doing business without a license, Attorney General Beverly M. Vinson advised the revenue department Monday is through court injunctions.

A roadhouse, Attorney General Vinson replied to a request by the revenue department for a definition of a place where intoxicating liquor is sold and entertainment is

Many Giants Mentioned Through Ancient History

Stories are common among the lower civilized peoples, as well as among savage tribes, to the effect that men have lived who have measured 15 feet in height. One of these, it is said in Herodotus (2:11) to have been the last of the giants. His husband of iron was the wife, or between 11 and 12 1/2 feet in height. Fifty months the name of an Arabian giant who measured 9 1/2 feet, and also speaks of two others who were 10 feet in stature. The following list of men whose real height is well known shows that it is possible for individuals to go far beyond the average height of the human species, which is 5 1/2 inches.

- 24—British capture Gibraltar from Spain, 1704.
- 25—All Confederate war prisoners are released, 1865.
- 26—Indiana massacre, 1,000 whites at Montreal, 1659.

He defined entertainment as "dancing, playing machines or any amusement that attracts people to stop and remain about the place."

There is no penalty for an operator who fails to obtain a permit from the county judge, the attorney general said. The law merely states that it is unlawful to operate without obtaining a permit, but there is no penalty provided for it. There is nothing to compel an operator to obtain a permit. The only relief that could be had by the county judge, he said, interested, would be to secure an injunction. County clerks, he said, should sell beer licenses to applicants without investigating whether they come under the provisions of the roadhouse act.

Descend Among Bicycles Many Strikes and Worries Two National Hymns

This column, like others to follow, written in Europe, traveling about by automobile, will represent an effort to see things clearly, and describe them simply, according to the old formula.

From the ship at Havre into a change from the world on automobiles wheels left on the other side of the Atlantic.

Here working men and women, thousands of them, ride to and from work, ten to thirty abreast, depending on the width of the street.

They have the right of way, properly, in a democracy. So it used to be in America, when automobiles were new, small boys shouting "Get a horse," and New York state law compelled the automobile driver to stop his car and engine, while a farm wagon passed, if the farmer raised his hand, or even lead the farm team past his machine if the farmer requested it. Here the car stops, while bicycles circulate around it on both sides, and similar evidence of patriotic dollar-a-year efficiency. Europe's nations live in a state of fear, since the family might live if it knew that, at any moment, well-equipped gangsters from across the border, "shoot-up" the household and set fire to the house.

American travelers leaving the boat by railroad, descending in Paris at the Saint Lazare station, were surprised to find crowds fighting each other, not waiting for Germany, crowds made up entirely of Frenchmen of different political opinions.

Some wore ribbons with the red, white and blue colors of the French flag; others, more numerous, wore the plain color red. One side sang the "Marseillaise," the national hymn of France since the revolution.

Others wearing small red flags sang the "Internationale," official song of the Communist movement over, from Moscow to Harlem. Crowds grew bigger, the Frenchmen sang the two hymns at each other, more and more violently, with excellent voices, not one out of tune, all knowing the words of their respective hymns. "The French sellaise" says, "Let us go, children of the fatherland, the day of glory has arrived"; the other says, "Arise ye prisoners of conscience, arise, ye wretched of the earth."

It was a scene never to be described, now that duty is dead, and Artemus Ward. Nobody bothered the descending foreigners from across the water, and the Frenchmen hit other Frenchmen, not hard, then agents of the Surete, whom we should call policemen, gradually dispersed the crowds, that met and sang at each other again the next day. They live in the suburbs and work in Paris, or vice versa, and, meeting in the railroad station, it engages them to encounter those that sing the wrong hymn and wear the wrong colors.

Those singers have chests like drums, complexions that reveal countless billions of red corpuscles and voices that could be heard, almost, from, Legz Angeles to Santa Monica.

One of them broke off at the sad word "starvation" and said to your narrator, who had politely congratulated him on his vigor: "Tenez, tenez mon bras, et j'ai malade sept ans—over here, feel my muscle, and I am sixty-seven years old."

The muscle case in a biceps like a small melon.

The duty of a visiting foreigner is to observe, describe and not comment; but this writer, had he accepted the invitation to speak at the American club in Paris recently, would have suggested that the French, whose only earthly possession is France, should be satisfied not to tear that property apart, especially with Germany ready to gather up the pieces.

This crosses the water by mail, is not new, and not news, when you see it. Only heaver know what might happen in a week. King Postcard, New York, N. Y.

The Uncommon Sense

Grammar school, high school, college—if you were lucky to attend all three, you probably think you have mastered all the "uncommon sense" that there is in education.

Then you begin to find out things for yourself instead of half listening to instructors and skimming through text books.

If you are keen and observant, you can learn at least a little something from almost everybody with whom you come into contact.

Among these people you will meet with many surprises and perhaps with many disappointments.

But they are the people with whom you must live and work. You must study them and come to understand them as you come to understand the people with whom you meet.

Nothing has such power to broaden the mind as the ability to investigate systematically and analyze all that comes under your observation in life.

PASSING INSTITUTIONS

THE FRONT ROOM

A very popular medieval parody was "Ubi Spont?" or "Where are?" The usual answer to this question was that all things pass, and that we, too, must soon disappear. Francis Wilson, the famous front room of the 15th century, immortalized in "The old query by Mating it thus: 'Where are the moans of yesterday?' May I add another 'Ubi sunt?' 'Where are the guests room and all its fixtures. Combination rest room and parlor, entered only with ceremony, a sort of Holy Place to all the household, especially the smaller ones, who were not yet big enough to enter such a sacred place—no! what wasn't the front room? If the Greeks had had such an institution, they would have called it a thesaurus, for it certainly contained treasures. There was a suite of furniture: bed dresser, and wash-stand to match; sometimes there was a center table with a marble top; whether there was a stove or a fireplace, there was sure to be a mantelpiece, with all its belongings. Every part of the room had its appropriate furnishing. The wash-stand had a bowl and pitcher, the same bowl that the baby sat in when he had his picture taken. The dresser had pin-trays and pin-cushions, and a vase or two; the bed was covered with a fancy quilt or a tufted, counterpane. Sometimes there were pillow-shams, with some embroidery, such as "I slept and dreamed that life was heavy" (in lines supposed to represent a person sound asleep in bed); "I woke and found that life was duty"; (the same person now awake with broom in hand). The center table was the three foot oval piece for the family album, red or green plush, with a brass top, great starting between diagonally across it. Usually, there was a fancy lamp on the center table or else a hanging one with glass pendant. In the "front room" were some of the best of the array of pictures, tapestries and some ornate vases. On the walls were two or three enlarged pictures or some smaller ones in little frames, one composed of rough pieces of wood tacked together. On the floor was the best ray carpet owned by the family. Though the other carpets on the floor might have a bit of a design, the one on the "front room" floor was meticulously matched—hickory park stripes often alternating with maple-bark stripes. There were also rocking chairs and "cane-bottomed chairs" (with cane seats) and "split-bottomed chairs" (with split cane seats) for the living room or the dining room, but not for the front room. And the rocking chairs had stiles, too. Some of these had vees or motifs on them, and some in the same fashion as the pillow-shams. In upper New York last summer I ran across a tidy with a Ger-

CHANGES MADE IN FARM PROGRAM AS RESULT OF DROUGHT

Changes have been made in the farm program in an effort to help farmers adjust their operations to meet the emergency caused by the drought.

One of these modifications relates to the minimum acreage of soil-conserving crops. Formerly, if a farmer did not have a conserving acreage at least equal to the sum of 15 per cent of his general soil-depleting base and 20 per cent of his tobacco soil-depleting base, a deduction was made from the total amount of the Class I and Class II payments.

Now, if a farmer fails to set out the minimum acreage requirements, a deduction will be made only from the Class I payment. That is, the farmer will be paid for the soil-building practices carried out without being required to have any given percentage of the land on his farm devoted to soil-conserving crops.

The above modification does not affect the soil-building allowance, nor the limit which it places upon the amount of the Class II payment.

Another modification provides that land from which wheat is harvested in 1934, which is grown in conjunction with or immediately followed by a legume, will be classified as soil-conserving land for the purpose of meeting requirements for the minimum soil-conserving acreage and new seed-lots or soil-conserving crops. This is in Kentucky will be classified this year as soil-conserving if it is harvested in 1934 and is considered as soil-depleting, however, for all other purposes of the program. The change will enable these producers, who have not been able to seed soil-conserving crops this year, to get credit for soil-conserving acreage. Also, anyone out for hay in Kentucky will be classified this year as soil-conserving if this crop is followed by a winter cover crop. It is in this state, acreage devoted to hay harvested in 1934 will be classified as soil-depleting, however, for all other purposes of the program.

Exposition Proving Mecca to Traveling America

Visitors to the Great Lakes Exposition on Cleveland's lake front are enthusiastic about the way the original purpose of the Exposition—the demonstration of the industries which have made the prosperity of the United States—has been carried out. It is a graphic picture of the reasons for the country's wealth.

These visitors to date have numbered nearly one million persons and each day the industrial and commercial exhibits are attracting increasing attention. Iron and steel are recognized as the basis of the industry of the manufacturing centers of the middle west and the great producers of iron and steel have combined, in intensely interesting exhibits, to show not only the extent to which manufacturing processes have been carried but also to demonstrate in striking fashion the historical beginnings of the industry. From a graphic portrayal of the production and shipment of the ore, coal and limestone used in blast furnaces to the methods of moving models of giant machines of manufacture, the exposition visitor is able to study the industry to a point where books could not take him.

There are also interesting exhibits of many articles of manufacture, from machine tools and steel house frames to office and household equipment. Various lines of food products are shown, and there are automobiles, farm tractors, heating and air conditioning units, printing presses and almost everything which helps to make up the equipment for modern living.

But the big exposition is not entirely a school, even though the reasons it teaches are of vital interest to the many thousands who pass through the grounds each day. The location, on the shores of Lake Erie, makes a perfect setting for a playground, and there have been provided many amusements including the marine theater with aquatic acts, a most unusual horticultural display, the Streets of the World with an unusually beautiful grouping of Old World architecture and displays, and a midway with many striking attractions. Over it all the Goodyear dirigibles come and go, giving passengers a wonderful view of the grounds and the business section of Cleveland and helping their souls of the modern to the Exposition picture.

KENTUCKY CROP REPORT JULY 1

Prospects for a crop of corn somewhat smaller than in 1935, a much smaller production of oats than last year, considerably larger production of wheat than last year, a very small potato crop, approximately 89 per cent increase in this state's total tobacco acreage over 1935, and very poor of corn in Kentucky indicates a condition of average to the low probable crop of about 61,194,000 bushels of the July crop, repeat for bushels if average growing conditions prevail hereafter, compared to the 62,238,000 bushels grown last year. Crop and Livestock Estimates, Kentucky's 1936 acreage of tobacco of 60,301,000 bushels 1928-32 included types combined is estimated at six. However, it should be kept in mind that these estimates are as of July 1 and do not take into account the increase best prevailing in the state since that date. As the season progresses these first preliminary forecasts may be changed very materially by changes in condition after July 1.

Roosevelt and May

Hon. A. J. May, present Representative in Congress from the Seventh Kentucky District, seeks renomination by the Democratic Party at the Primary Election, August 1, upon his record.

- a. He has been a steadfast and faithful friend of labor and refused to desert the veterans under fire in the face of their enemies.
- b. He is qualified for the great office he seeks, by training, education and experience.
- c. He made a gallant fight in 1928 and, although defeated, he did not despair but, with renewed courage and determination, he renewed the battle in 1930 and won this large Republican District for his party, and with each succeeding election he has increased his majority. Because of his fine record in Congress, he has thousands of Republican friends throughout the district that will insure his election in November, and add strength to the National ticket.
- d. He has faithfully supported the President's Social Security program and knows well the tasks that must confront the Administration in the future.

President Roosevelt wants Congressman May returned.

A vote against Congressman May is a vote against the President.

So Democrats should follow the old slogan, "Never swap horses in the middle of the stream".

For Victory in November, renominate Congressman A. J. May

Merrillville, Ky., July 18—Circuit Judge James M. Gilbert today sustained constitutionality of the substitute company registration act.
