"Hackman Turns Detective" By FLOYD GIRE

B. FLOYD GIBBONS, THE other night, boys and girls, I got myself into a fine argument with a bird who said there wasn't any adventure any more. Or, to be more accurate about it, this fellow said there wasn't any more ad-venture in peace time. Be said that civilization had so caught up with the world that the modern exploring trip was, nothing but a cut-and-dried business of hi-ing a bunch of natives to carry your baggage and then going for a walk in the woods.

It in the woods It is the woods He said that big grame hunting had degenerated into a sort of grame of hidds-and-seck with a fame elephant on a precise, franced in the and the same of the same of the same flit he adventures heause I was a war correspondent and got around to the spots where ighting was going ea. Well, will rybe been to a couple of wars where I didn't have anything re excling happen to me than having a family of cooties move into toughest inner is my life in peacetime taking a trip across the Taxi Dalation

Sahara desert. That trip was just like the exploring jaunts that bird was talking about. A camel carried my bagage. A camel carried me too-whenever I wan't too dogoone weak from heat and thirst to stay on the dogoone brute. I'd rather go through six wars than take that trip across the Sahara again.

The across the Shara again. But all that is beside the point. What I want to talk about is exploring, and big grame bunding—and kind diving. Too know cares about the explorers and the hopfel I said to him: "Who cares about the explorers and the hopfel I said to him: "Who cares about the explorers and the base of the said to him." "And maybe it's co-incidence, and maybe it's fals." But we day that driver tune into more adventure in the course of a year than an explorer does in tea." "And maybe it's co-incidence, and maybe it's fals." But we days later I reach into a pile of your letters on my desk and out comes this years from taxi driver Andy Musesrellik, of Brookiny, N. Y. Suspicious Looking Fare Hires Andy for Jaunt. "Andy tells us about an adventure that happened to him at four o'clock in the morning on March 24, 1924. Andy had his eab parked in front of Madigon Square. Garden when a young fellow hailed him

Ninth and Tenh avenues. We should be in thirteen street petween Andy had had s good day that day-need of the best in works. He had nineteen dollars and sity-five cents on the clock and enough tips to make it all come to should twenty-five houses. Hav-ing that much money in his pocket at four a. m. made him sort of carful. And besides, he didn't like the books of this hew job he was being handed. In the first place, he didn't like the fellow's appearance, and in the second place he knew that Thirtieth, between Ninth and Tenth was no residual in neighbord. But a cab driver carb turn down So Andy took a summit of the could lose half his fares that way. So Andy took a summit so Andy took a chance. Passenger Turns Out to Be a "Slick-up" Gay. Sure encogi, as the cab neared its destination, Andy felf a gur faruat against the back of his neck. The new rates represent the most extensive reduction in the history of the company and also the culmination of a progressive reduction which began in April 1935.

The table at the bottom of this, advertisement shows the yearly savings for various monthly con-sumptions, since the beginning of the progressive reduction.

This reduction, which is voluntary on the part of this Company is not justified by dur present earn-ings but is being made in anticipation of a more ex-tensive use of electricity by our customers.

With these low rates, the time has come for every one to add to the convenience and comfort of living through the use of electrical labor saving appliances. It is sound economy to buy all househeld services from a single source and in this way secure the ad-vantage of the low 212 cent block which is equiva-lent to a "wholesale" rate.

THE.new domestic rate for residential customers-will became effective on October 1. 1936. With the publication of these new rates many of our clatomers are arking. 'How much do I save through the re-duced rates for residential service?'

You probably know the approximate quantity of electricity you use each month If not examine some of yourust bill and from the number of kilowatt hours shown on the figure out for yourself what that amount of electricity will cost you after Oc-tober 1. 1936.

After that date the customer charge will be dis-tinued, which makes the monthly rate very sim-. Here it is:

First 30 kilowait hours—5c a kilowait hour: Next 40 kilowait hours—4c a kilowait hour Next 230 kilowait hours—24c a kilowait hour. All over 300 kilowait hours 154c a kilowait
