'37 AUTOMOBILE TAGS ARRIVE TUES. CHANGES NOTED

Passenger Cars are Reduced—Time Extended to Procure—Tags Until March 1—TAGS ARE DIFFERENT

Tuesday noon, Dec. 29, marked the arrival of 1937 motor vehicle tags for Floyd county at the offices here of County Clerk Banner Meade. The shipment contained 1260 passenger car plates, about 350 truck tags and a number of dealer and motorcycle tags. The new tags are strikingly different from those of last year in every appearance. The 1937 plates are 6 by 9 and 3 4 inches, while the old ones measured 6 by 13 1 2 inches. The tags just received have blue numerals and letters on a white background, while the 1936 tags had aluminum numerals on a black background.

Up until Dec. 29 there had been registered in Floyd, for the past year, 1644 passenger cars. L. P. Jones, of Prestonsburg, applied Tuesday for the first passenger car tags. They are No. R6,000. First truck license was issued Tuesday to Alonzo Parsons, of Guthrie, Ky.

There will be no more than five numerals or four numeral and one letter on a plate. Passenger car licenses will be numbered from 10,000 to 99,999. After these figures letters of the alphabet, with the exception of I, O, Q, U, X and Y will be used, followed by four digits for the next 10,000 plates. On the next 10,000 the letter is placed between the first and second numeral, etc. This system of tag marking has been in use by the state of Ohio.

Truck plates begin with the use of four digits followed by a letter. This year, the letter X replaces the D on dealers' tags.

By recent legislation, the motor vehicle laws of Kentucky were amended to extend the time for purchasing tags from Jan. 1 to the deadline of March 1.

FLOYD COUNTIANS OLD AGE CLAIMS

150 Old Age Pensions: 86 New Claims Paid to Aged Residents

About 150 aged residents of the Floyd county received pension checks for the month of December, a report from the local old age security office received by some of the pensioners on the day before Christmas and others immediately after. Of the December checks sent to the county 86 were paid on new claims. Among them Louise Burchett, of Prestonsburg, received a check for $15, the most that anyone can possibly receive, and the only one for that amount yet received. These 150 checks average, according to Harry T. Deane, director of the local office, $10 each.

The office force here is working overtime to investigate claims and rush papers through to the Louisville office. Next month the number of pension checks coming into the county will probably increase. Both offices put in extra time in an attempt to get the checks out by Christmas.

COUNTY FARMERS RECEIVE CHECKS

$1,350 Already Paid From Soil Conservation to Floyd County Farmers

Thirty-two checks payable to Floyd county farmers who participated in the 1936 soil conservation program were received Thursday morning by County Agent S. L. Isbell. Notices to the farmers are being sent from the county agent's office.

These checks total $1,350 or an average of about $42 for each farmer's pocket. This amount represents only a part of the checks to be paid and other checks, Mr. Isbell said, are expected within a few days.

Announcement of the 1937 agricultural program is expected containing details of the line the program is full. It is estimated that quite a bit of attention will be given to soil conservation.

During the past year, as a matter of record for over 300 Floyd county farmers, Mr. S. L. Isbell kindly tendered the following information: 1,500 acres of grass and korean was sowed together; 2,263 acres was sowed in korean grass alone and 120 tons of limestone was used within the past year.

YATES' BODY EXHUMED

On Dec. 20, the body of Grady Yates, buried in the Collins graveyard at Lackey, was exhumed pursuant to order of the Floyd county court, and an autopsy performed by Mrs. W. L. Stumbo and H. J. Chandler, to determine the cause of death of Mr. Yates. Examination resulted in a definite decision on the part of the doctors that Yates died as a result of an injury received by him while employed in the mines of Inland Steel Corporation rather than from cerebral spinal meningitis, as diagnosed at the time of his death.

To Visit Mrs. White Miss Hilda Lanham, of Columbia, Ky., and Mr. Malcolm Mason, of Louisville, will be houseguests of Miss Ella Noel White for the New Year holidays.

WPA ESTABLISHES RECREATION PLAN

Local Activities in Floyd County

The WPA has established a state wide recreational program embracing the traditional arts of Kentucky, the folklore and old time activities typical of Kentucky folk. Mrs. Edith Fitzpatrick James has been appointed as county recreational supervisor.

An advisory council has been named to cooperate with Mrs. James. Members of the body are as follows: Mrs. Reeta May, Mrs. Claudia Lee, Mrs. Rebecca Dingus, Mrs. Osa Ligon, Miss Nell White, Mr. R. C. Laird, Nyman Allen, Sam Isbell, Ishmael Triplett, and Mayor A. C. Garter.

One of the main purposes of the program is to combine the culture of arts and learning with the physical training of sports, dances, etc. This might be termed a move to preserve the fine old traditions of this part of the state. Today's generation of 40 years can remember the old games and have played them, danced the 'Charlie,' the 'Virginia Reel,' etc. This is more alive in this county and adjacent territory than anywhere else. People elsewhere must be satisfied to read about our traditions and folklore, while folks here have the opportunity to see it demonstrated and may take part in the exercises.

An old time traditional mountain Christmas, traditionally celebrated on Jan. 6 is planned to be celebrated here on that date. The afternoon will be devoted to children and their games. Evening entertainment will be taken up with oldsters, old time games and dances. It is planned to conduct it at the local school gym if the building is available.

HEALTH and BEAUTY

DR. SOPHIA BRONSON

Angina Pectoris

We should be perfectly unconscious of the functioning of our bodies. We expect the various organs to work so smoothly and automatically that we can pursue the even tenor of our way without being in the least aware of our 'inwards'. In perfect health this is true; but when the machinery begins to 'act up' and those long suffering and aching organs start giving us jabs and pains, we become alarmed and wonder what is happening to us.

We are more afraid of heart pain than of any other, and not without reason. There is a disease called angina pectoris which makes itself known by agonizing, gripping, vise-like pain in the chest. The pain is often so great that the victim feels sure he is dying. In fact, death would be a relief.

This terrific pain indicates a lack of oxygen supply to the muscles of the heart. Maybe the blood vessels that supply this organ are diseased. It is supposed that for some cause too little blood reaches the heart. Sometimes the heart is in a state of spasm and cannot get enough oxygen. If the pain is acute and disappears in a very short time the pain is due to angina pectoris. After an attack, others are apt to occur. Excessive fatigue, worry, excitement, exposure, anger, and other stress or strain bring on the trouble. A noted physician from angina pectoris said that any rasical could cause his death by making him angry. He was known to a wide fame because it is a matter of record that he died from an attack of angina pectoris while in a fit of anger. If someone in your family should have an attack of heart pain, send for the physician first; then loose the sufferer's clothing and put him on the bed. Always keep aromatic spirits of ammonia in the house. It is a stimulant and nerve sedative. Give a teaspoonful in a half glass of water. If the patient is unconscious, pour some of the ammonia on a handkerchief so that he can inhale it. If the doctor finds that the trouble is angina pectoris, do not be careless about carrying out his instructions. All sufferers from angina pectoris should keep on hand a few glass capsules of amylnitrate. If they feel an attack coming on, they can break one of these capsules in a handkerchief and inhale it. It often gives instant relief, especially in spasms of the arteries. It is also used to carry a few hypodermic tablets of 1/100 of a grain of nitroglycerin in the pocket. One under the tongue is often effective in relieving attack. The doctor knows a physical sign who is over 75 years of age. A few years ago he was a great sufferer from angina pectoris. He has so far recovered that he carries on an large practice, even going out at night to see a few one or more attacks to discourage you. You may recover to a remarkable degree.

As winter advances, rabbits become greater pests and do extensive damage to young trees. Mice also are a problem. A comparatively easy solution is wrapping the trunks of young trees with old newspapers. Trash about the trunks should be raked back.

Two parts of boiled linseed oil and one part of turpentine make a furniture polish for plain oil finish or for varnished or oiled furniture. Put on with a soft rag and rub with a clean cloth, rubbing with the grain of the wood until thoroughly dry.

Now is a good time to apply fine, sorted manure to the garden plot. It may be used at the rate of 8 to 10 tons to the acre, unless the soil is already highly fertile. If it is evenly scattered, rain will work it into the soil, ready

Entered as second class matter June 18, 1927, at the postoffice at Prestonsburg, Ky., under the Act of March 3, 1879.

FOR 1937: LET'S LOOK OURSELVES IN THE FACE

The beginning of a New Year always appears to the individual who is easily led into thinking that something new really starts and affords an opportunity for inaugurating better days for human beings, governments and associations.

The attitude thus created is not without value even if the illusion of beginning over again must be made real by the labor of the person affected. The reader of this article, if so minded, can make the era of new events come true, but it depends entirely upon the will power, the stamina and the courage of the party involved.

Since there are, no doubt, hundreds of people in Floyd county who will look forward to 1937 with bright hopes and high aspirations, we may give them some encouragement. There is no reason why individuals should not take the New Year as a time for checking up, to weigh progress made and plan advances for the future. Every man and every woman desirous of improvement and to dwell upon your own state in frankness with yourself is the first step forward.

Throwing aside all the advanced talk of mental scientists it may be assumed that the first duty of the individual is self-development. Properly understood, this includes all the rest of the program. The person who develops properly is able to understand others and to make himself understood in a world that is complex with problems and confused with error. It is an achievement that few of us realize.

We believe it is a good plan to give a few hours of self analysis regularly and New Year's Day is apt to find us in such a mood. As a practical method, let us suggest that you write down for your private contemplation a list of your virtues, making a sort of balance sheet of your personal qualities. When you have done this, study the results a bit.

Spread out a little further and include a list of your activities in your community. Put down in writing, if you will, names of the local organizations that, in your opinion, deserve your sanction. When you finish, check up on your contribution in service or cash, to make these agencies function. It will give you an idea of what lies ahead of you.

You should not fail to note that you are a complex human being, with three phases intermingled to make a person. What of your physical condition? What of your mind? What of your spiritual nature? Are you conscious of recent improvement in any line or does frustration register as you contemplate what might have been. Anyway, look at the report frankly and make up your mind. It is the step toward getting somewhere.

No personal inventory would be complete without some analysis of the use of time and money. Time is the essence of life, as someone has well said, and most of us waste much of it without ever thinking that we are spending life in the present. A necessary commodity under present civilization, often assumes strange forms in our thinking and therefore we fail to establish a correct personal relationship to it. Time and money, vital to every life, should not be confusing, clear thinking is unless we do some.

Anyway, as 1937 gets underway there should be some realization of the duty involved in developing our individual personalities to the highest possible level. A desire to understand, as far as we may, the task assumed and a firm determination to make our progress toward the goal in the days that stretch before us.

COLLEGE STUDENTS

A sharp increase in enrollment in 593 approved universities and colleges is reported in a survey in School and Society, an educational journal. Dr. Raymond Walters, of the University of Cincinnati, who made the survey, points out that there is a trend toward engineering and commerce and a return to popularity of art in agriculture. The liberal arts attract about the same number of students but the population is declining.

Of 177,059 full time students who entered college for the first time this fall, 122,605 were interested in the liberal arts, 24,036 in engineering, 20,849 in commerce or business administration, and 9,579 in agriculture. The University of California, with 22,122 full time students was at the top in this respect and New York University, with 33,678 resident students, had the largest number enrolled of any institution.

THE PACK PEDDLER
 Ulysses, if we are credit Homer, must have started a great style. He was trying to dodge the draft, in modern terms, and turned pack peddler after he was caught, in order to catch that other slacker, Achilles. Ulysses, you know, had learned from an oracle that he would get killed if he went into the Trojan War; he took the advice of friends and sought to conceal himself under feminine attire. Ulysses suspected much and brought his wares to the home of Achilles' uncle, chiefly of girls. One of the girls, it is said, took a fancy to a dagger rather than to a lance and brooches. Ulysses thereby recognized the slacker and brought him to Agamemnon's army.
 Probably some of Ulysses' wares were of his ability as a salesman descended to our own times and endowed the modern pack peddler, that interesting peripatetic of our childhood, with a big hills beyond Fidelity in one direction and the flinty Tennessee river hills in the other just about bounded my poetic person. I never heard of a pack peddler's having to be remembered when one strayed into this secluded mind me of my conceptions of Santa Claus, a sort of serious personage, not precisely what his dress and speech would indicate. If he had disappeared into thin air, like some of the Bible visitors that I had read about, and had seen in the picture that I supposed were actual photographs, I would not have been much surprised.

 While he stayed, we kept him talking. Where had he come from? Ireland, or Syria, or even Jerusalem itself. Had he found it hard to learn the English language? What people did he have? One Irish peddler enumerated the members of his family by beginning: "I have one—mother." Ever afterwards we children thought that the funniest thing we had ever heard of. Some of the peddlers told us some of their experiences. I never tried to find out how many of these things were purely imaginative. I know would spoil the memory of these heroes of my childhood.
 But the pack peddler is never made a living in his palmist days. Many a pack peddler later became a business man, with a store in some town. Some, no doubt, learned the real value of American life while in intimate contact with the great common people. And though these picture Jews or Syrians or Irishmen, please let me, who have had to give up so many of my dreams, think that every one of them was a Ulysses in disguise, still looking for the "skulking Achilles."

FRIDAY, JAN. 1, 1937
FORED RADIO FOR 1937
 Equipped with a newly developed outside aerial designed to provide maximum reception efficiency, the improved Ford radio for 1937 is expected to set a record for new car installations in the coming year.
 The percentage of Ford cars equipped with radios in 1936 was considerably greater than in 1935, and a continuation of this upward trend in the popularity of the Ford car radio is anticipated for 1937.
 Performance of the new six tube set is greatly enhanced by the method of installation. Extensive tests showed the importance of having the radio set engineered for the car, and the car for the set. In the course of the development engineers worked closely with car engineers. With almost every important change in body design, a compensating change was effected in the radio.
 This results in good radio performance with a minimum of car interference. It provides long distance reception and strength of signals without requiring too much power from the car battery. Noises at the lower frequency end of the broadcast band have been diminished, and ignition noises have been greatly reduced without the aid of suppressors. The set has a new shielded lead-in which serves to reduce inherent set noise.
 Hungarian Dances
 Hungarian popular dances faithfully reflect the typical features of the national character. The way in which quick and solemn rhythms change in the course of a dance shows how serious and dignified with gaiety in the Hungarian style. The graceful floating gestures and quick, staccato jumps suggest a light, equestrian race of the plains, such as the Hungarian dance. The man has the leading role, showing that it was at first a dance of the men. It was only later that women were permitted to join in, and even then they had to obey their partners' commands fully, as in the Hungarian dance.

BORER THREATENS STRAWBERRY CROP
 The crownborer pest is threatening Kentucky's $2,000,000 strawberry industry, according to Prof. W. A. Price, state entomologist at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. His investigations indicate that the borer is present in many beds and is increasing in number, and he fears it may materially reduce the crop and also the number of salable plants. Prof. Price is advised by infested plants to start new fields at least 300 yards away from the old plantings; to set new beds in fields that have been cultivated for one or two years, and to destroy old plantings by burning or by plowing, if infested with the borer. Plants to be set next spring should be dug before March 1. The roots of plants should be washed to remove hibernating beetles, and the plants should be set in some distance from old plantings until setting time.
 Since the crownborer is easily spread through the movement of infested plants, Prof. Price points out that an effort is being made to protect the interests of plant chasers by furnishing inspection service under the provisions of the Nursery Inspection Act. Under this act, it is illegal to sell or transport plants within the state, which do not bear an authorized certificate of inspection, issued by the state entomologist, stating that the plants have been inspected and found free from injurious pests and plant diseases.

 Temperature of Ice Water (32°) gives up heat as the temperature drops. At 32 degrees Fahrenheit it becomes ice. But ice can be of any temperature below 32 degrees, and as the surrounding medium drops in temperature the ice will continue giving up heat to this medium. Ice at a temperature below freezing point will last longer (under the same conditions) than ice at 32 degrees. It will continue to absorb heat from the surrounding medium without melting until the temperature rises to 32 degrees, when melting will take place.
 Insects Kill Enemies
 There are insects which mimic some actual object, twigs, leaves, sticks or moss, and in each case the object which the insect has imitated is just what its natural enemies are not interested in, so that it is not likely to attract their eyes. For example, the leaf insect, so long as it remains still among the foliage, is safe, because the birds, squirrels and lizards which prey upon it do not eat leaves.
 John Adams Fashionable Man
 Like all persons of rank in those days, John Adams wore an embroidered coat, silk stockings, silver buckles on his shoes, and might be called a very fashionable man for that time. He is described with "his round, ruddy face, framed by a powdered wig, wearing a black velvet suit, knee breeches, yellow gloves, silk stockings." He was almost fanatic on the subject of titles.

HIPPO

A happy Christmas vacation has been experienced by all of Hippo's citizens. Although we've been 'sorta' naughty in the past years, we shall make a new year's resolution to reform to the better.

Hippo's grade school sponsored a Christmas program of great interest Thursday. Several parents and outsiders attended. Besides the regular school program, a musical program also was presented. The musicians were: R. D. Layne, Brownie Hicks, and Goble Reed.

Joe Hicks turned a few stunts of great entertainment between acts of the program. Although Mr. Hicks is up in the ages, only a man of great skill and muscular activity is able to compete with his peculiar muscular stunts.

Frank Hicks played the part of the program that interested the youngsters the most: that of Santa Clause.

Floyd county trustee officers aren't leaving a stone unturned. They have made a close checkup on school attendance of Brush Creek. A better attendance is expected in the future, at least, after a fine or two is levied and paid.

K. E. Shepherd, of this place is preparing to leave for the state of Michigan.

BRIGHT STAR

By Mary Schumann

Bright stars were not steadfast as the poet claimed... until Ellen Pennington had run the gamut of love, despair and fear that led to the unexpected protecting arms of Hugh Marsh. Nor was the bright star steadfast for Hugh... or for his mother who had waged a bitter battle against adversity and marital troubles that her children might face the world confidently.

You'll read every fascinating incident with delight... live every moment with these glamorous but troubled characters as they seek the path that leads to a permanent, steadfast bright star.

It's a novel by the author of "Strong Enchantments," one of last year's best sellers. "Bright Star," from the able Schumann pen, is winning equal laurels for its powerful drama and character description!

Read It Seriously IN THIS PAPER

Here from Louisa, E. D. Hancock, of Louisa, spent Christmas with friends in Prestonsburg.
