MERCHANTS DISCUSS PLANS FOR FORMING ORGANIZATION HERE

Public Spirited Men Plan Club That Will Benefit Floyd County

BACKED BY KIWANIS

That citizens of Prestonsburg and Floyd county might be better served, and "dollar days" and sales advantageously timed, merchants here discussed plans for forming a merchants organization, while guests of the Kiwanis Club, at the Valley Inn hotel, Friday evening.

The program, in charge of K. W. Fife, manager of Anderson's Department Store, featured other store managers and owners as speakers, all favoring such an organization for Prestonsburg. Among them were:

Messrs. Cohen and Glazier, of the Leader Store; Walter Sisk, of the People's Store, and Dr. C. L. Huttschiller, owner of Prestonsburg's new eat drug store. M. J. Leete's guest, Jack Kunes, representative of Huntington firm, also spoke in favor of the proposed association.

Kiwanian M. J. Leete said that plans were now being made for a Kiwanis meeting about September 3, to which every business man in Prestonsburg would be invited. At that time a representative of the Kentucky Merchants' Association would be present to make a speech. Plans would also be made for the organization of local merchants at that time.

When the new association is formed Prestonsburg's merchants may better serve their customers, by co-operative sales and dollar days. It will also serve the city as a public spirited group, standing for all public improvements.

MISS FRANCIS IS IN SHANGHAI WAR ZONE

No Word Since War's Outbreak Has Been Received By Relatives Here

Since the outbreak of war in China no word has been received from Miss Lydia Mae Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Francis of Prestonsburg. Miss Francis is secretary to the American Consulate General in Shanghai.

Although the U. S. government has ordered the evacuation of the 4,000 Americans in the dangerous Shanghai war zone, and one shipload has already left, it is not yet known whether Miss Francis is one of the refugees.

Miss Francis' mother here, Mrs. H. C. Francis, said that the last letter was written by her daughter July 16, it didn't reach Prestonsburg until late over a week ago. At the time the letter was written the Chinese Japanese situation was calm.

Mrs. Francis said that her daughter's period of service was originally to have ended in May, but as her services were still desired she had remained in Shanghai until the present time.

TELETYPE—A telegram received by Mr. H. C. Francis yesterday states: "American Consul General at Shanghai telegraphs Lydia Francis proceeding to Manila (Philippine Islands) on steamer 'President Hoover.' (Signed) Cordell Hull, Secretary of State."

Anthology Editors To Publish Mrs. Hill's Poem

CAFE PROPRIETOR IS WOUNDED IN CHEST HERE BY SALESMAN

Knife Wielder Slashes Paris, Who is Now in Paintsville Hospital

Mike Psaris, aged 40, proprietor of the City Cafe here, was stabbed just above the heart last Friday at midnight, allegedly by Charles Gregory, 46, traveling salesman, of Louisville, Ky.

According to police reports, Gregory entered the restaurant and ordered a bottle of beer which he drank. He then asked for a bundle which he had left at the restaurant several days before. When the bundle was brought to him, it was untied, whereupon Gregory is reported to have verbally abused the clerk severely.

Psaris ordered Gregory from his place of business, and Gregory retired to the sidewalk where he allegedly bantered Psaris to "come out and fight."

Psaris, according to several witnesses picked up the empty beer bottle and went out where Gregory was waiting. Gregory was reported to have drawn a pocket knife and stabbed Psaris in the chest. Gregory was taken into custody by Prestonsburg police officials and is now confined in the Floyd county jail.

Mike Psaris was taken to the Paintsville hospital at Paintsville, Ky., where he was in a serious condition all last night, bleeding profusely. According to hospital authorities, the bleeding stopped Tuesday this morning and doctors in charge of the case state that Psaris will live if no complications arise. Ashland Daily Independent.

JAILBEAKING ARTIST LEADS SECOND DASH FROM FLOYD'S JAIL

Slusher and Cole Take French Leave From 2nd Story With Strips of Bedclothes

STILL AT LARGE

Termed a "jailbreak artist" by Jailer B. L. Sturgill, Warrick Slusher, 31, escaped from the Floyd county jail Tuesday night for the second time. Dingus Cole, youthful slayer of his brother-in-law, Curt Johnson, escaped at the same time.

Slusher, who is under three separate indictments in the Floyd circuit court, first broke jail here last December by cutting a hole through the second story wall. A week ago he was arrested in Indiana and extradited to Prestonsburg.

The break, led by Slusher, was made through the same hole through which he previously escaped. Jailer Sturgill said that a barred door locked in front of the hole had been cut and then soaped to avoid detection. The men then made ropes of their bed clothes and descended to freedom.

Cole was to have faced trial here in the September circuit court for murder. Slusher would have been tried for three separate offenses the last of which would probably have come under the Kentucky habitual criminal act.

Following in the wake of the "artists," Homer Bentley, held on a minor charge, escaped from the jail, but was run down on Prestonsburg's streets by Jailer Sturgill's son, Ralph. Bentley, it is reported, also figured in the December break.

Gift of Humility

O, the beauty of humility! How rare it is to find people possessing some gift, who do not boast of it and hold it up before others as a wonderful thing, which should be much talked of and noticed.

Every talent we have is a gift of God, we have nothing to do with it except to cultivate and take care of it, and to thank God for it. It is right that we should be aware of this special favor, but not to be boastful and conceited over it.

Hugh Bradley Says

Let Guest Columnist Johnny Farrel Tell of Golfing Thrills

(Hugh Bradley presents as his guest columnist this week Johnny Farrel, king of the fairway a decade back who continues to us one of our foremost golfers. One of the most popular of all the players, the Baltimore hero tells of the trials and thrills that have come to him on his sandstone New tournament trail.)

By JOHNNY FARREL
WHEN Hugh Bradley asked me to be his guest columnist this week, that made me smile. Because, Hugh, I know as much about pounding a typewriter as you do about pounding a golf ball.

Speaking of smiling, though, a lot of people have asked me why I always seem to be smiling when I get in a tough spot out there on the fairways. That's easy. Ever since I first started playing golf up in Westchester shortly before the war, I've got myself into keep smiling. For I think that's the answer to golfing success. When you're cheerful and smiling you are relaxed and easy, your swing doesn't freeze and you're able to keep your club in a flowing groove. It's when you fail to find that groove that you find yourself in trouble—and lots of it.

I can remember standing on the eighteenth green at Olympia Fields in Chicago in 1928.

It was one of those typically hot mid-summer days in the Midwest. In front of me was an eight-foot putt. Bobby Jones had just holed out for a birdie and I, in order to win that thirty-six-hole playoff for the National Open championship, I had to drop that Johnny Farrel eight-footer. There was a crowd of 6,000 golf-crazed enthusiasts jammed around the green, packed so close together that every American rider would have felt like a squeezed orange.

Payoff Put Is Easy
When You're Not Grim

Everything hung on that putt. I wouldn't let myself think of what it was to me. Do you know, Hugh, what I was thinking of? I remembered a story I'd heard in the locker room the night before—the one about the duffer who had a new caddy. You've heard that—how he kept telling his caddy to pick up those divots and when they got back to the clubhouse the caddy turned the duffer's bag upside down and looking very seriously at grass chunks tumbled out, said, "Here are your divots, boss, but what I want to know is what you are going to do with them?"

That made me laugh as I thought of it. I wasn't tight and grim, and so it was a simple matter to sink that eight-footer and win the Open crown.

Everybody thinks that was my greatest golfing thrill. But it wasn't. There have been a lot of them—and disappointments, too. But the biggest thrill of all—but wait a moment, let me tell you of some of the higher moments.

Playing in my first open at Inverness in 1922—it was the first for Jones, Sarazen and Diegel, too. I've been in every one since then, but I've never felt the same thrill about when I walked up to that first tee at Toledo... Qualifying in my first British Open at Troon in Scotland in 1922. That was the worst storm I've ever played in, and the gales were howling around my head at about ninety miles an hour. Sarazen, who was National Open champion, and inimitable Harry Vardon all failed to make the grade in the teeth of those blustering winds... Riding up Fifth Avenue on my return from Chicago, after winning the Open.

These are only some of them. The greatest of all, though, was in winning the $5,000 first prize at La Gorce in Florida in the winter of 1928. It was my back going into that last round. I was the last man in and I knew what I had to get to win. And on that stiff par-70 course I turned in a 38-33—63, nine strokes under par, to take that prize—the biggest in tournament history—by a single stroke. That was the greatest round of golf I've ever played in my life.

There have been disappointments of course—times when it all didn't seem worth the work. But looking back down the years, I have no regrets. Golf has been good to me.

Sol Strauss, the eminent Twentieth Century golf club attorney, has only one complaint concerning his recent trip to England. During his amateur soccer days, Danny Devlin, now associated with Mickey Walker, was an Irish International.

While winning the Vanderbilt cup here on July 5 Bernd Rosemeyer's average was 82,864 miles per hour. That ought to prove something about the Roosevelt Raceway providing faster time for its auto racers, according to Publicist Steve Hannagan... Keep an eye on little Helen Kalins, the swimmer. She weighs about eight pounds and is only twelve years old but she's doing mighty well racing Erna Komp and the rest of the big girls... Carl Hubbell has beaten the Pirates 33 times and lost only 13 when since entering the National league.

Freedom From Bull Pen Aids Gomez Pitching

Lefty Gomez's return to form this year is attributed to his abandonment of bull pen work. It has helped him conserve his strength for his regular turn on the mound. Last year he was warming up every other day for relief work and his record reflected it... St. Louis Browns ran a trout camp at Johnstown, Pa., recently. Boys, seventeen to twenty-one years old, more than five feet nine inches tall and weighing more than 150 pounds were eligible. They furnished their own equipment and transportation.

Morton Smith says that the British P. G. A. did far more than could reasonably have been expected in extending courtesy and paying bills for the American Ryder cup team during its recent trip to England... Britons met the team at Plymouth and had first class reservations for the ten players, five wives, and the manager on the ride to London. The party was registered at the Savoy hotel for a day with all bills paid by the British... Sixteen to Southport were given the players and they footed the bill, including caddy fees and transportation to the Southport links... "This record speaks for itself," says Smith... "There's no question about the sort of reception and treatment the responsible parties in Great Britain wished to accord us. It may do as well by their representatives when they come to the United States in 1930."

RELIGION IN A NATION'S LIFE

International Sunday School Lesson for August 22, 1937

Golden Text: "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord."—Psalm 33:12.

Calling the children of Israel together, Moses tells them that it is Jehovah's desire that they provide a sanctuary in their midst where he could dwell among them. God's only restriction in the matter was that the people make voluntary contributions over a wide ridge pole. Over the building of the sanctuary and that the givers must be willing hearted, and the laborers wisehearted. The Hebrew people listened quietly and then went back to their tents.

There they gathered together their finest possessions, most of which had been given them by the Egyptians upon their departure from Egypt. Then they returned, laden with gifts needed for the building of God's house and for the "holy garments" to be consecrated for use in the sanctuary. Then began work on the earliest church or religious building, the tabernacle of the Jews, constructed under the leadership of Moses in accordance with divine directions. It was not a permanent structure, but was simple and light, suited to the needs of the Israelites, moving from place to place. As Woolworth Colton says: "The tabernacle as a whole, was a type in its essential features like the tents of the nomads of the desert of that day and this, but glorified in its materials and workman-ship; the nearly flat tent roof enlarged and multiplied, its walls made higher and more solid, and its partition richer in fabric in colors and in ornamentation."

For three centuries the tabernacle was the center of Jewish worship. As described by Dr. Amos R. Wells, "The tabernacle structure was an oblong, measuring 30 cubits long by 10 broad the cubit being, roughly speaking, about half a yard long. The entrance to the tabernacle, as to the temple, was toward the east, and the eastern and western sides were the short ones. The entrance occupied the entire front; the rear end of the two sides were of boards, 48 in number, 20 being on the north and south sides and kept by eight on the west. These boards (necessarily) formed a series of smaller boards fastened to the larger ones as there were no large trees in the region) were each 10 cubits long and one and a half cubits broad, all being overlaid with gold—a gorgeous enclosure.

"The house was made by setting these boards on end, side by side; each board having at its base two knobs, sunk in silver sockets, the boards being held together by five rows of transverse bars of acacia wood, placed on the outside and run through rings fastened to each plank. The entrance consisted of five pillars overlaid with gold, sunk in brazen sockets, and thus held upright, a curtain being stretched between them shutting off the interior from common view.

"The ceiling and walls were a curtain of white linen mingled with blue, purple and scarlet and embroidered with cherubim, the pieces of which was composed being looped together and probably hung over a wide ridge pole. To protect the whole from the weather was first a curtain woven of goats' hair, white over the whole and placed on a double row of ram's skins and seal or porpoise skins, dyed red.

"Still further to seclude the tabernacle it was placed in a court a side a hundred cubits east and west and fifty cubits north and south, the opening being on the east. The fence of this court consisted of pillars of fine cubits high resting on brass sockets and supporting linen curtains."

The tabernacle was divided into two sections, the first being the Holy Holy Place, the second the Most Holy Place. Priests and laymen were admitted to the first while the latter was the special abode of Jehovah and was only entered by the high priests once a year on the Day of Atonement. It is the Ark was kept containing the two stone tablets of the law, a pot of manna, and the golden shewbread.

Our lesson text tells how the Israelites willingly tributed to the work of God's generosity. "What ought we to give?" asks F. W. Farrar. "You know that Jacob, in his vow to God, said: 'I will surely give back the tenth unto thee.' That was the rule of Moses in the Jewish legislation. It is still in force today. It is a rule of God's generosity. 'What ought we to give?' asks F. W. Farrar. 'You know that Jacob, in his vow to God, said: 'I will surely give back the tenth unto thee.' That was the rule of Moses in the Jewish legislation. It is still in force today. It is a rule of God's generosity.

Sarah Ann's Cooking Class

There are not many of us who do not rejoice in an occasional chance to escape from walls and to enjoy the fresh air and the sunshine. Long ago people took too much food on picnics; now they get variety in their picnic meals by planning them each one differently and simply.

Savory Chicken Stew
Cut a chicken of about four pounds weight in pieces and stew until tender. Remove the meat from the bones breaking it into small pieces. Add a uniform size. Now saute two sliced onions and one seeded green pepper in 3 tablespoons of fat in your kettle. When they are soft add a medium sized can of tomatoes and 3 cloves of garlic minced fine. Season to taste with salt and pepper, a pinch of powdered bay leaves and a bay leaf and add an 8 ounce can of mushrooms, liquor and all, and half of a No. 1 can of corn. Whole kernels are better. Next put in your pieces of chicken. Heat thoroughly, add more seasoning if necessary. Then pour over the picnic with your kettle. It reheats perfectly.

Sardine Sandwiches
Place on a slice of whole wheat bread a lettuce leaf, cover with layer of sardines, thin slices of tomatoes and a mayonnaise.

TRAINS BRING IN INDUSTRIES

Ask your Chamber of Commerce

CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO has been instrumental in locating hundreds of new industries in towns along the railroad. These businesses give employment to thousands of people. Their jobs and their pay checks contribute much to the welfare and prosperity of the communities where they work.

The new establishments are of all sizes, employing anywhere from a dozen people to a thousand. The new businesses are widely varied—representing 25 or 30 basic industries in addition to such activities as warehousing, wholesaling, distributing and storing.

Service to these industries is one of the railroad's contributions to the life of the communities it serves. There is a special department of the railroad whose whole efforts are devoted to this work of helping communities get new industries and helping industries to find new homes.

AFTER MARRIAGE OF 16 YRS. WIFE SLAYS HUSBAND WITH GUN

Mrs. Belle George Shoots Husband On Little Paint Creek Saturday

Aug. 14—Charlie George, 49, was shot to death at his home on Little Paint Creek, five miles north of here and his wife, Mrs. Belle George, 34 is being held in the Floyd county jail in connection with the shooting.

The couple had been married 15 years and had three children, the oldest 14 and the youngest three. Interviewed in the jail here yesterday after the shooting, Mrs. George told a story of marital threats and misunrestandings that led to the shooting.

She said her husband ran her away from home with a shotgun Thursday night and she spent the night with a neighbor, Mrs. Ann Shepherd. She returned to her home Friday with Mrs. Shepherd and Mrs. Shepherd's daughter, Orel.

As she came up to the house she related, her husband asked their oldest daughter to get him a shotgun and the girl refused.

She said he grew angry and began beating her and another daughter in the face. Then, she said, she ran into the kitchen, grabbed a .32 calibre revolver and fired four times at her husband.

Their home is on the Johnson Floyd county line on the road between here and Paintsville. Sheriff Taylor Stumbo, of Floyd county, took her into custody shortly after the shooting. —Ashland Daily in

Spots on Ermine Reveal Rank of High Personages

Ermine has always been considered an emblem of purity, owing to its clearness and whiteness, says a writer in the Montreal Herald. In the reign of Edward III the wearing of this fur was forbidden to all except members of the royal family. It is adopted by monarchs and high personages of the realm as part of their state robes, but anyone who can afford to wear so costly a fur is at liberty to do so.

The ermine worn by the monarch is closely marked with spots. The cape of a duke is decorated with four rows of black spots on each side. That of a marquis has three and a half rows, four on the right side and three on the left. A viscount is privileged to wear two and a half rows of spots, and the ermine cape of a baron is trimmed with two rows of spots on each side. The peeresses' capes are spotted according to their husband's rank in the peerage. The state robes of judges and magistrates are trimmed with spotless ermine.

Nature has been very kind to the ermine, and has provided it with a splendid means of self-protection. During the winter months the regions in which it lives are snow-covered. To prevent its being seen easily as it runs about, its summer coat of reddish-brown becomes snow-white; the only bit which does not change color is the tail, which is always jet black. The trappers seek the ermine only in winter-time, when its coat is white, for it is then that the fur is most valuable commercially. Ermine is one of the most valued furs of the market, and commands a very high price.
