SIX FOOT WIDENING OF COURT STREET IS BEGUN BY WORKMEN

WPA Projects Include Sidewalk, Store Room and Sewer Construction

COMPLETED SOON

Prestonsburg's WPA street widening program reached Court street this week, when workers under the direction of A. J. Archer, began excavation preparatory to adding approximately six feet of pavement to the width of the street. The extension will extend from the corner of Third and Court to the Mayo Traffic intersection at the traffic light.

Mr. Archer stated that the program also called for the building of sidewalks opposite the courthouse on Court street and the widening of Front street from the Auxier hotel to the first National Bank.

Other WPA construction underway in Prestonsburg are the projects under the direction of Paul Be. Hamilton, which include the paving of Ford Lane and Westminster avenue. Waid Cross is in charge of workers now repairing sewers at the Garfield addition near Second street. Alex Hall is in charge of workers who are building a supply room addition at the city hall on High street.

All these projects are included in the $26,287 WPA appropriation recently approved by Washington officials through the efforts of Mayor A. C. Carter and Congressman A. J. May.

1ST TYPHOID CASE IN FIVE YRS. REPORTED

Junior Belcher, 15, Is First to Suffer From Typhoid Here in Five Years

Prestonsburg's first case of typhoid fever in five years was brought to the attention of the Floyd county health department this week when it became definitely known that Junior Belcher, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Belcher, of Prestonsburg, was stricken with the disease.

Dr. Marvin Ransdell of the health department, attributed the cause to "laying in the river." The river here is nothing but an "open sewer," the doctor added.

Dr. Ransdell advises all parents to have their children immunized and kept out of the disease. The case was reported to the health department Wednesday morning. Young Belcher contracted the disease last Friday. Attesting to the efficiency of the health department, young Belcher's is the first case of typhoid reported in Prestonsburg since Ike Smith suffered from the disease here five years ago.

SEARCH FOR SLAYER GOES INTO 2ND WEEK

Pair Fired Upon While Seeking Matt Jones For Policeman's Slaying

The search for Matt Jones, 35, wanted for the Sunday night shotgun slaying of Levi Hall, police chief at McDowell, was interrupted this week by gunfire, as a posse was fired upon Saturday night by the alleged slayer's father, Andy Jones.

W. R. Frasure, member of the posse, said Monday that he and his two companions, Oliver and Wade Frasure, were awaiting the arrival of law officials at the head of Frasure Creek before making a systematic search down the creek. Tiring of waiting for the officers, they walked to the mouth of the creek, hoping to meet them. Not finding the officers, they returned to the head of the creek. On their return trip they were fired upon as they passed the home of Andy Jones. Frasure states that the posse was not returned.

CIRCUIT COURT AND GRAND JURORS MEET FOR SESSIONS HERE

Grand Jury Has Returned Four Indictments For Wifful Murder

296 CASES DOCKETED

As the September term of Floyd circuit court with Judge John W. Caudill presiding, convened here Monday to find itself faced with a docket of 296 commonwealth cases, the grand jury, with George Crum as foreman, began its nine day session.

In his instructions to the grand jury, Judge Caudill asked that investigations be made into all lawbreaking in Floyd county. Among other things, he cited the grand jury's attention to gambling, breaking of game laws, and breaking of election laws in the recent primary election. Judge Caudill said in his address to the jurors, that if half what he heard was true concerning the recent election, a large portion of Floyd counties should be in the penitentiary.

Of the indictments returned by the grand jury, 26 are now recorded in the circuit clerk's office. Four of these are true bills for wifful murder against the following:

Matt Jones, for the slaying of Police Chief Levi Hall at McDowell; Mary Est. George for the slaying of her husband; Marion Thompson and Phil Thompson charged with the slaying of Frank Meadows; and Jessie Vance, Eval Frasure, Ernest Frasure, for the slaying of Alex Hall. Other indictments returned are for various offenses.

To round out the busy week at the courthouse, where the fiscal court, grand jury and circuit court have already met this week, Special Judge Sanders Clark returned to hear evidence in the two contest cases which are an aftermath of the recent primary election.

Carl Edward Stumbo, Betsy Layne, has been ordered to report to the naval recruiting station at Louisville Sept. 11, where, if he is accepted for enlistment in the U. S. Navy, he will be sent to the naval training station at Great Lakes, Ill., to undergo intensive training.

Upon completion of this training Stumbo will be sent to one of the navy's trade schools for further training or to sea on one of the nation's many warships.

Second Falling Meteorite Lands Near Betsy Layne

For the second time within 10 days a falling meteorite landed at Betsy Layne. The meteorite weighed 35 pounds, was 18 inches long, and irregular in width and thickness.

Three high school boys, Eugene Keeloy, Clifford Walters, and Russell Walters, had been watching for a meteorite when the first meteorite fell within a few feet of them. They ran to it and after it had cooled they extracted it from the earth and ran to display it to neighbors. The meteorite was oblong in shape and about the size of a brick. It resembled sandstone that had been treated with tar.

When the second meteorite fell almost in the exact spot where the first one had fallen, the boys located it while the air still smelled of burning sulphur. One of them remained to guard the find while the others went to arouse the neighbors. The meteorite was much different from the one that had fallen a few days before. It resembled a clinker. Jesse Elliott, instructor in the Betsy Layne high school, in whose hands the meteorites have been placed, said they would be sent either to the state university at Lexington, or to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

YOU CAN THROW CARDS IN HIS FACE ONCE TOO OFTEN

WHEN you have those awful cramps, when your nerves are all on edge—don't let it get on the man you love. Your husband can't possibly know how you feel for the simple reason that he is a man. A three-quarter way may be no wife at all if it is not based on husband seven days out of every day. For these generations women have told another how to get "men" through with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature to get its own way, thus insuring the disengagement of the functional elements which women must equip in the three periods of life: 1. Training method to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Preparing for "middle age." Don't be a three-quarter way, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and do "Staying Through."

Other signs of kidney trouble are: order may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination. Do not neglect treatment in order that you may not have to pay for it later. What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—A certain rich man out here—rich but indulgent—got a letter from his heir, sophomore at one of the big eastern colleges. The lad announced he had been converted to communism and was contributing to the cause. So what about it? The old man wrote back: "Son, you have a perfect right to follow the dictates of your conscience. But as a consistent communist you naturally would not continue to live on the ill-gotten gains of a wicked money-grabber. Today I am cutting off your somewhat generous allowance. You will have to vacate the luxurious apartment you now occupy because I'm not paying the rent of same any longer. So go ahead, my boy, and prosper in your new 'beliefs.' But from this end of the line."

Exactly four hours after the arrival by air mail of this ultimatum, the hard-hearted parent got back a rush telegram stating that the young man had been thinking things over and had decided not to take up the new doctrine.

The Art of Listening. WE HAD a party at which there appeared what I may call the dumb posts—Sam Hoffman and Ogden Nash. At the studios where they're both turning out epics, there's a rule that neither shall bring in a line until the other has under contract—no thumbing of the herd, no sounding of the lute. Cinema's gain is aviation's loss. Maybe that explains why they made such good listeners the other night. And isn't a good listener a boon? I don't mind being interrupted, provided the interrupter chooses the right subject. Mute and rapt, I sit hunched over for hours if someone is talking about me, say, or even reading from my published work. I don't mind being interrupted, only broke in these two mimesingers only broke in these two mimesingers should be passed or gently to suggest that another little drink or two would do us any harm.

Ogden Nash has attained the highest peak of distinction attainable for a writer. His chief imitator has an ambition to do as well as his oldest boy to be an imitator.

Resurrecting Old Words. WHEN a writer gets fashionable especially a new word which some wordsmith thought up right out of his head, it gets too dog-eat-dog fashionable. The same applies to old words which have been disinterred from their forgotten tombs in the dictionary.

I seem to see grave robbers prowling through the unabridged, starting in at "hard work" which is an animal formerly common only to Africa but not frequently found in cross-word puzzles; and working on through to "quadrant," a very strong beer drunk by ancient tribes. I guess those old-timers imbued cozily of the brand, and the result of it. It doesn't sound like the sort of word a dead sober party deliberately would make up.

Do you remember the run "intrigued" had? I never got so sick of a word in my life. And then along comes "provocative" and it turned out to be a pest. People went around just looking for a chance to wash "provocative" into the conversation. The only way to lick 'em was to pretend to be deaf and dumb. And now the reigning favorite is "allergic." Folks spout everywhere, whether they know what it means or not. I don't mind saying "I'm getting awfully allergic to 'allergic.'" There must be many others like me.

Campaign Books. LET us not cavil too much because high pressure salesmen, working on national committees, are unloading upon the faithful, at fancy prices, the gift book put out by Washington Headquarters to pay off campaign debts. In fact, 15 cents' worth would cover practically all the cavil I personally have used up in this connection. The result tends to prove the gratifying fact that, while more Democrats than ever are being elected, we learned how to read and write—obviously more of us have got money than formerly was the case when the Republic was paying its debts. Besides, think of what the strain would have been upon the poor-poster if the national committee had been stuck with all this bulk literature and congressmen had started frantically copying out their constituents' names. Uncle Sam may be tight-fisted. To give you a further idea about this franking privilege, I may state that it was named for Frank, Jesse's brother—and you'll remember how careless those James boys were with the Uncle Sam's money! Unexpired Contract Is Barring Terry From Other Offers BILL TERRY did ask for a new contract and a raise. He fielded giant offers that he had several other good offers. They informed him that they would not stand in his way of bettering himself but refused to tear up the old agreement which has another year to run. . . . Fighting Fox, two-year-old brother of Gallant Fox, is an uncle of the five-year-old Omaha and of the four-year-old Granville. . . . Harry Vardon is generally considered one of the greatest of all-time golfers yet few recall the man was one of the sport's biggest winners who ever foisted a short put.

Sol Saperstein, who weighs 190 pounds, stands six feet four inches and is sixteen years old, will journey from his native Bronx to become a member of the University of Baltimore basketball team. . . . Baltimorean Budist that Pitchers Vandenburg and Lohrman, who will come to the Polo ground at the end of the International League season, will be as good for the Orioles as Cliff Melton has been for the Browns. . . . The Cincinnati Red Stockings, winners of organized baseball's first pennant in 1859, and also undefeated that season, had an annual pay roll of $9,300. The season of 1936, they led 15 and ended November 15. Shortstop George Wright, who died several days ago, was the highest salaried performer. He received $1,400 for the year.

Youthful clients of this department are complaining about the baseball situation. They insist the big-bat manufacturers do not make proper ones for youngsters and insist they try to get the major-league models which are too heavy for the average kid to swing even if he has raised the price. Jackie Farrell may soon get a fall sponsor for that Jersey radio spot. . . . Julius Solters of the Indiana Pacers has been much of a success with his new club as has Vosmik for whom the Browns traded him. Players say Solters is fence boy in the field and not of the winning type and that Cleveland will probably pass him on next winter.

Cobb Was Swat Champ at Age of 21

Ty Cobb was only twenty-one years old when he won the American League batting championship in 1907. The ages of other A. L. batting champions have since then: Manush and Appling, twenty-five; Lajoie and Foxe, twenty-six; Sisler, Heilmann, Goslin, Simmons, twenty-seven; Foust, two years; Speaker and Ruth, thirty; Gehrig and Mizer, thirty-one. Cecil Travis, the Washington youngster up with the leaders now, is twenty-four.

Don't fall for any of that hokum about Pompon being pointed for the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap. He's definitely retired, indeed recently almost passed out. Did you know that Frank Moore, who is doing such a fine job as assistant to golf pro Jimmy Farrell up at Quaker Ridge, is a brother of Cards' outfielder Terry Moore?

Guys to watch this fall—Eric Tipton, Duke's triple threat fullback; Andy Bershak, rugged North Carolina end who should cause N. Y. U. U. to be a little more than a kicker and fine defensive player who will return to one of the Princeton wings after a year's absence due to injuries; Merrill Davis, Dartmouth captain and end. He weighs 205 pounds and is heavyweight boxing champion up at Harvard. Several of the best hopes from a fine fresh line also should have studied hard last winter.

The name Pinelli may bob up in the major league box scores once more in five years. . . . It will be Ray Pinelli to be the shortstop at Notre Dame this fall. . . . Roy, an older brother at Notre Dame, is a footballer. . . . Ray is a shortstop, a good ten-man, going in for racket work each morning.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE: CABALLEROS

Chadler horns Hirsch Jacobs claimed for four G's at Saratoga, recently, is the more important winners. They are bidding that much now in the hope that they can use the goos for breed-improving purposes. . . . Ford, the auto magnate, is almost as red hot a Tiger fan as is Joe. . . . Libby is making some games from the high Detroit press box, too. . . . Joe Tinker, Jr., son of the once-famous Cubs shortstop, is making a name for himself as a member of a Pittsburgh dance team. . . . The late Howie Morenz was so high strung that after a hard hockey game he never even thought of going to bed. Used to walk the streets for six or seven hours instead. . . . Amherst alumni are uttering numerous nice words about the freshman football coaching of Charley Solaun, who used to do such brilliant blocking for Andy Kerr and the Red Raiders of Colgate.

Speaking of Amherst, keep an eye on Harry Ward. The blond Minnesota weighs 220 pounds striped, and Lloyd Jordan will be younger than this topper with his own of the East's chest tactics. . . . Fanny things happen at the Canar-fights every Tuesday night. Right outside the park there is a ring-the-bell, win-a-olgar occasion. Lots of smokes must be won for the bell rings frequently. Then the fighters invariably head to their corners and have to wait for the referee to give the combined warning shouts of the referee, timekeeper and crowd.

Collins in the Grease With Red Sox Fans

Red Sox Business Manager Eddie Collins, who never has been very popular with Boston fans, has been in the grease worse than ever now. The reason seems to be that he ignored the Army and Navy Legion of Valor's request for 300 seats for the Red Sox game at the first of those two recent double-bills. . . . The Yankees, in spite of the club's pitiful showing, Brooklyn is making considerably more money this year than in 1936. The answer is easy. In 1936 the Dodgers were off to a fast start and were aided by the fact that they were as easily deceived by April and May flashes as they are by midwinter ones. . . . George Selig is a hundred G's to the nice directors.

Bellhops around the American League tell you that a highly paid Bellhop is George Selig. They gage upstairs for the last six years so to duck the lit-Lou Gehrig season. . . . Baron Offenberger will amount to a helluva pitcher some day if all that name doesn't get him down. The Yankees are willing to bet that George Selig is the strongest man in baseball—Bill Dietrich of the White Sox once was Philadelphia's high school sprint champion. There is a rumor that Jack Collins, who has been handling Dodgers' tickets for the past several years and who represents the McKeever family, may succeed John Gorman as business manager—Ford is a candidate for league president, since then Manush and Appling, twenty-five; Lajoie and Foxe, twenty-six; Sisler, Heilmann, Goslin, Simmons, twenty-seven; Foust, two years; Speaker and Ruth, thirty; Gehrig and Mizer, thirty-one.

Sunday School Lesson

A NATION NEEDS RELIGIOUS HOMES
International Sunday School Lesson for September 12, 1937

Golden Text: "Train up a child in the way he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it."—Proverbs 22:2.

If there is any need which is growing more and more apparent in the life of our nation, it is the need of religious homes—homes in which the mothers and fathers have found faith in God which they, in turn, give by precept and example to children which God has given them and for which they are responsible.

Of course the first necessity, before we can impart anything to others, is for us to have something within our selves to impart. Realizing this, the children of Israel were called upon by Moses to hear the commandments the statutes and the judgments which the Lord had commanded him to teach them and then, having heard and heeded what God had said, they would be proportionately rewarded.

The first thing they were to learn and keep always in mind was that Jehovah was their God and that he was the ONLY God—that it was he alone to whom they were to listen and him alone they were to obey. The next thing they were to do was to love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, with all thy soul, and with all thy might. The people were not to love God simply because of God's right to be loved, or because he wanted them to love him, but because of the effect of his love of God and women love God as he has commanded, they naturally obey other commands regarding their relationship to him and their fellowmen, and this would be blessing to men and to others. Those who love and cherish his words in their hearts will naturally desire to pass this love on to their children and will by precept and example show them the desirability of such a relationship.

This thought is strikingly expressed in Deuteronomy 6, verse 7: "And thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up." They were to teach their children these commandments, statutes and judgments which they themselves had learned in every opportunity presented to them. They were not commanded to send their children to the priests for a few minutes instruction in God's word—they were to give this instruction themselves, in the home.

Parents of this day are, for the most part, turning over to the public school the responsibility for the mental training of their children and relinquish to the Sunday School and church the obligation of moulding the character of their children. This is unfortunate, because the home and its influence cannot be replaced by any social agency which lacks the intimate association and close affection which should exist within the family circle.

Our national life would be greatly improved if we could increase the stability and usefulness of our homes, which should be the controlling influence and impelling inspiration for right living and service in every individual life. Rufus M. Jones says, "The Christian home is the highest product of civilization."

In fact there is nothing that can be called civilization where the home is absent. In short, the home is the true unit of society. It determines what the individual shall be. It shapes the social life, it makes the church possible, it is the basis of the state and nation. Naturally, if our homes are not what they should be, our nation will not be what we all desire it to be.

If civilization depends upon the home, on what should we say the home depends? The real home depends upon God as revealed in His Word—the Bible. Love for and practice of the teachings given in God's Word with regard to the establishment of an ideal home will bear fruit in the years to go by in character and service.

It is impossible for anyone to realize the true value of the training received in a Christian home. This Bible gives among many others the examples of Samuel and Timothy as individuals whose lives gave evidence of the effect of a religious atmosphere from early childhood. Secular testimony is just as positive as the famous Englishman wrote an appreciation of his early home, emphasizing the meaning of peace and understanding of obedience and faith which he received there. Many of us, if called upon, could also give testimony and fervent thanks for the religious beliefs of our parents, who bequeathed us the precious heritage of a Word—the Bible.

MERCHANTS HERE SHOULD ORGANIZE

Editor's Note—Although the ideas expressed below are taken from the Paintsville Herald, they apply just as much to the affairs of Prestonsburg's merchants—and merchants everywhere.

The merchants of Prestonsburg are sorely in need of a "central government" or clearing house where questions pertaining to the business men as a whole may be referred for settlement. Cooperation with the city council is needed in achieving this goal which should be something on the order of a chamber of commerce or board of trade. The council's part should be in passing ordinances deemed best for the merchants as a body.

For instance a practice has grown up here as elsewhere that when any individual or group feels that it might use a little extra money for some cause or other, all that is necessary is to call on Prestonsburg merchants and "sell" them on the idea of a donation to their cause. This has been worked so successfully and so frequently that it has become about the worst nuisance the Prestonsburg merchant has had to contend with.

There are so many advertising schemes going about over the country that it is hard to keep from being gyped by some of them if you are a merchant. Almost without exception, advertising other than newspaper advertising is absolutely wasted. The merchant is promised everything from double his money back to a guaranteed stream of cash customers 99 times long twice a week for a year.

Gift-tongued special solicitors get away with the merchants' money and if he ever sees the advertising promised he is lucky. And of course no one else is likely to see it.

Pamphlets and programs and train and bus schedules offer the advertiser very little effective advertising. The circulation of these mediums is to begin with, very limited. You seldom see any national advertiser caught with this sort of bait. The salesmen for these various schemes often donate large space to banks or leading merchants in order to draw the little fellow into the net.

What is needed is an organization with some person at the head of it who can say "No" in a great big way to the solicitors. The Ashland and Huntington merchants have such organizations. Only newspapers and radio stations are allowed to solicit merchants without a special permit. And there are city ordinances to make sure the rule is enforced.

The Floyd County Times will gladly cooperate in any way possible to help the merchants to get organized if they desire such an organization.

REGISTERING STARTS AT U. OF KY. SEPT. 13

Registration for Upper-Classmen is Alphabetically Arranged

The University of Kentucky will open for the first term of the 1937-38 school year with what promises to be an all-time record enrollment, Monday, Sept. 13. Freshman students only will be permitted to register on that day.

The schedule for registration of upper classmen has been arranged alphabetically as it was done last year, and students in the three upper classes planning to enter the University are urged to acquaint themselves with the registration schedule, in order to alleviate last minute entrance.

Tuesday morning at eight o'clock students whose last names end with the letters A and B are scheduled to register. From nine until nine-thirty o'clock that morning registration will be held for the C's through D's; from 10 until 10:50 E through G; and from 11 to 12 o'clock H thru J. Tuesday afternoon from 1 to 2:30 registration will be held for letters K and L; 2:30 to 3:20 for registration will be held for letters M and N; 3:20 to 4:20 miscellaneous registration for students whose names end in A through O who failed to arrive at the appointed time for registration.

Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock registration will continue for upper classmen, with letters P through R from 8 until 8:50; the letter S from 9:50 and T through Z from 10 to 10:50. From eleven to 1:50 Wednesday morning miscellaneous registration will be held for all students who have not registered up until that time, and the miscellaneous registration will continue through Wednesday afternoon.

To avoid placing at a disadvantage students registering on the second day, half of each class registration will be held on the second day of the group so that there will be no disadvantage incurred.

U OF K FOOTBALLERS FACE TOUGH OPENER

Blue and White Tackles Vandy For Toughest Opener in Years

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 9—Determined to give a good account of themselves this fall, the 45 aspirants for positions on the University of Kentucky football team reported September 1 to Coach Chet Wynne on Stoll field. All were in first class condition and went right to work preparing for one of the hardest schedules faced by any University team in the South.

The Wildcats have only a short time in which to get ready for their opening game September 25 with Vanderbilt at Nashville. Kentucky never has defeated Vanderbilt in football although modern track and basketball teams frequently have felt the might of the Wildcats.

Although the Kentucky football squad is not as large as many in the Southeastern Conference, the boys have a fine spirit and are determined to win games that mean fans pick them to lose. The squad is better balanced than usual, and with the exception of guards, there are experienced players from the reserves and freshmen of last year.

Kentucky makes no boast of being a potential Rose Bowl or even conference champion team this year. With the spirit they have shown already, and unless injuries crop out in unusual numbers, the Wildcats will have a team of which no Kentuckian need be ashamed.

The first home game of the Wildcats will be against Georgia Tech October 9. Tech defeated Kentucky last year at Atlanta by a decisive score.

HALL AND CONN ORDERED HERE FROM KY. PRISON TO TESTIFY FOR GRAND JURY

The Floyd circuit court this week ordered that M. L. Conn and Jackie Hall, now in the state reformatory at Frankfort, be returned here to appear before the grand jury as witnesses to testify for the commonwealth in the investigation of the recent death of Ballard Stratton.

Stratton's battered body was recently found on the highway bridge above the where it is suspected it was placed by the killer, or killers, to simulate a train accident.

The coroner's jury at that time returned a verdict of death at the hand of person or persons unknown.

SEARCH GOES INTO SECOND WEEK

With Andy Jones in custody the posse came on down the creek to the home of Bob Jones, brother of the hunted man. Neaning the house, they heard a noise inside the fence along the roadside, and began firing at an unidentified man, who made his escape into the cornfield.

Two of the officers brought Andy Jones to jail here, where he was later released after filling bond. Early this week the grand jury returned indictments against Andy Jones for shooting at without warning, and against Matt Jones for murder.

The reward for the capture of Matt Jones increased Monday from $100 to $300 as the search went into its second week.

WORLD'S GREATEST BARGAIN!

THE greatest bargain of all is the sight-saving, time-saving, labor-saving commodity we call electricity. Despite consistently increasing costs and the importance of higher and higher taxes our rates have steadily declined. The "light bill" of the average home on our lines is no longer that. It is an electric service bill for light, for washing and ironing, for radio entertainment, for house cleaning. In hundreds of homes it also includes automatic cooking and automatic hot water.

Today the average customer pays 4 1/2% less per unit (the kilowatt hour) than he paid ten years ago. Ten years ago his bill was mainly for light—today he receives all these additional services and yet his total bill has not increased appreciably. Truly, Electricity is the World's Greatest Bargain.

STEPHENS BRANCH

Conducted by Evangelist Ruth Martin of Indianapolis an old time revival has been in progress for the past three weeks at Stephens Branch. An overflowing crowd has listened nightly to messages of gospel preaching. Everyone is loud in their praise of the evangelist's messages.

The two baptismal services held at Dinwood, at the mouth of Stephens Branch, were well attended. Twenty-five have already been baptized and about 10 more will be baptized next Sunday at 2 p. m. at the same place. The giant testimonial service last Sunday night was a huge success, gaining a large number of converts. Last Monday, at 7 p. m., a communion and footwashing was conducted in H. E. Layne's home. About 30 took part in the ceremonies. The revival meeting is continuing every night except Mondays.

NEW FEDERAL BLDG. FOR PIKEVILLE
final sketch of the interdepartmental committee composed of the secretary of the treasury, Henry Morgenthau, James Farley, Postmaster General, and Admiral C. J. Peaves, director of procurement of the Department of the Army, is necessary but stated this sketch would be forthcoming within the next few days.

Mr. May has been working on the new federal building for several months. Recently Federal Judge H. C. Ford wrote Washington officials asking that a courthouse be provided at Pikeville. The Department of Justice contended that courthouses were more urgently needed at other places, but Mr. May argued that his district was entitled to its proportionate share of funds allocated for buildings and demanded that the Pikeville office be erected. Following Congressman May's argument the Department of Justice recommended that the federal courthouse at Pikeville be given full consideration.

No location for the new building has been selected and may not be selected for several weeks following the approval of the interdepartmental committee. The building will be located as close as possible to the postoffice, which will be considered by the government buyers.—Pike County News.

There will be a pie supper conducted at the Conley school house, C. B. Napier, teacher, Saturday night, September 11. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

The school, taught by R. E. Pitts, contested C. B. Napier's school recently with the pupils of each contesting in the subjects of addition, multiplication, subtraction and spelling. Napier's school was victorious. Visitors and patrons reported a good time.

Monroe Ouseley, Mr. and Mrs. John Ouseley were visiting homefolks in Mt. Sterling over the week-end.

Rebecca Compton made a high score and many other students of the Conley school here made high and perfect grades the past month.

SUNBONNETS

Sun tan is quite the thing now, but a glistening, tanned face, or tanned hands, when borne by a young eligible woman, was a family or neighborhood disgrace. The poets who used to sing of white hands could have found plenty of them in any neighborhood. You see, every girl or woman wore a sunbonnet and half-handled gloves to shield her tender complexion from the sun. 'Come back and get your bonnet' in those times would have been a provocative comment. It would have been in a tone that you and I would warn some one of being in the danger zone of a falling building. To go bareheaded was to invite sunburn and to invite sunburn was hardly safe for a girl to take such a chance. So ardently did the women folks seek this dear complexion that they would wear half-handled gloves when they were sitting indoors. I have seen many a pair of these gloves in the country school.

There were several varieties of bonnets. If I cannot remember them all, please attribute my mistake to my being a mere man who is trying to picture things of a third of a century ago. Little fellows of both sexes wore little bonnets often fancy ones in various colors. I still remember one which I wore it was of gray checked gingham, I believe, however. I also recall that little boys and girls often wore their bonnets worn side foremost, much to the amusement of older brothers and sisters. The most useful bonnet was the every-day one gray, or blue, or checked, not especially fancy or pretty. Its purpose was to serve as a sun shade. Dress-up bonnets might be quite elaborate things especially for women.

ADVENTURE IS COMING IN THE AMERICAN BOY

Readers who like adventure and the lure of far places will find plenty to please them in the coming issue of THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine. They'll read, for instance, of seamen and sabotage and San Francisco waterfront troubles; of daring adventure in the world of pseudoscience; and of the feud about a plunging, rolling battleship.

They'll read, too, of excitement aboard a plane blaring over Mexican mountains, and of stranger planes that are not bound to earth but swing through the noiselessness of space. Readers can follow a young ex-Mountie as he searches for clues in the wild northlands, and Barney the detective, on the trail of city criminals.

A new feature in THE AMERICAN BOY is picture pages that tell stories. Pictures for instance, that vividly show a day in the life of a coast guardsman, and how an Eskimo husky sled dog does his work. They transmit the thrill of battling a hundred-pound, water-churning tarpon. Tips on how it's done are also given pictorially—ranging from how to run a broken neck to how to correct in a balloon.

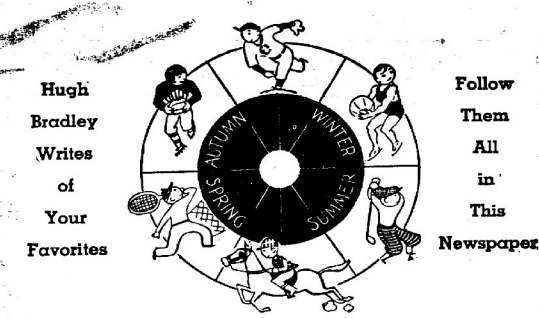

NOTE: Subscription price of THE AMERICAN BOY will be raised in the near future. Send your subscription order at once to take advantage of the bargain rates now in effect: one year at $1.00 or three years at $2.00. Foreign subscriptions 50c extra. Send your name and address and remittance to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. On newsstands the price is 15c a copy.

Sports Around the Calendar

The sports of the various seasons, as they swing around the calendar, all receive attention from Hugh Bradley, ace sports writer, whose column of entertaining comment is a regular feature of this paper. From the time when the first warm breezes send millions of fans to the baseball parks to that time the next year, each popular sport in turn is subject for his comments. And Hugh Bradley knows all these sports... many through active participation in them during his college days and later... all of them through many years of critical observation. All set to be a lawyer, Bradley was wooed away from his first love by an invitation to cover sports for the Baltimore American. He has been at it ever since and is now head of the sports department of the New York Post. His wide acquaintance among the stars of the present day and his intimate knowledge of sports history, his free and easy narrative style and the unswerving justice of his criticism have made him popular with readers of all ages.

Perpiration Regulates Body's Heat Production

There is no human life without perspiration because it is a basic factor of the normal physical life. Dr. James H. Hays, in an article "Perpiration—The Thermostat of the Body" in Hygieia, the Hygienic Magazine.

It is absolutely essential to the proper regulation of heat in the body. It is the only means by which the body cools the body as it evaporates from the skin surface. The temperature of the sweat on the body surface is slightly lower than the temperature of the blood. This is a natural decrease in temperature that takes place during the short time required for the sweat to traverse the sweat gland tube to the skin surface.

As the perspiration reaches the surface a temperature gradient is established which under most conditions is lower than the body temperature. An increase in the body temperature normally stimulates an increased production of sweat. This cooling effect is necessary in the maintenance of its temperature at the average normal figure. The sweat also helps to keep the skin moist, soft and pliable. It is aided in this by sebum, the oily product of the sebaceous glands of the skin and constantly secreted on to the body surface. The sweat also serves a definite excretory purpose, but the primary function of perspiration is the heat regulation of the body.

Perspiration may be classified as normal, excessive, febrile, colored and profuse. Excessive sweating is an extremely nervous persons. It may be concerned with the state of mind and often is based on fear. Some persons have excessive sweating of the palms when meeting strangers. Free generalized sweating is a common feature in too much salt in the food, for this may cause a natural cycle of excessive drinking of water and excessive sweating, not detrimental to good health unless it extends to the point of weakening the body.

Two Women Sought U. S.

Belva A. Lockwood, who headed the list of the Equal Rights party in 1848 and again in 1888, was not the first woman nominated for the presidency of the United States. That honor belongs to Mrs. Victor Clavin Woodhull, who in 1872 was nominated for the presidency. Woodhull was a convert to the Equal Rights party. Frederick Douglass, the negro reformer, was his candidate for vice president. The campaign of these two women amounted chiefly to suffrage for women. Woodhull could have held the office had she been elected, asserts a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Woodhull was a lawyer and reformer, was born in 1830, at Royalton, N. Y. She was educated at Geneva College, N. Y., and taught school for seven years. Then she studied law and was admitted to practice before the Supreme court under a law which she had been instrumental in getting passed.

Born Belva Ann Bennett she was married in 1848 to Uriah H. McNall, who died five years later, and in 1888 to Dr. Ezekiel Lockwood. She died in 1917.

Palm, Bamboo Fastest Although the palm tree is generally regarded as the most useful plant, bamboo runs a close second. It is a tree, but grows so fast that sometimes grows 100 feet high, a foot thick. Chinese probably use it more than any other people. A Chinese tells his and shied from the sun's rays by a bamboo hat. In the evening he goes to his bamboo house and sits at the seats of young bamboo shoots. Then he lies on a bamboo bed and rests his head on a bamboo pillow. But after tough stalks even entered into sports. Once hardwood poles were used by pole vaulters. But after a pole split and impaled a jumper on the jagged point, bamboo was substituted. Though the latter may break, it leaves no sharp points.

The Gensing Plant The gensing plant is ten to twenty inches tall with a single stem from a spindle shaped root that is often branched. From the top of the stem three compound leaves radiate, one on each side and one leaflet radiating from the top of the petiole. The two leaflets next to the petiole are much smaller than the others. From between the leaves rises a cluster of small whitish flowers from which the seeds of the plant are gathered when ripe. The roots require six to ten years to become full size. The Chinese provide the cure for the disease which is important in the cure of many diseases.

Harriet Inuit There are about 20,000 people on this earth who keep beards—mostly Mohammedans—because the Prophet laid down that beard on the Sixth day a fine, upstanding race in northern India, will die rather than submit to the insult of a beard or a shaved head. London News Magazine. Their magnificent locks are curled into top-knots which their owners who have been carefully washed and oiled, repose in elaborate nets under their chins.

Mammoth Cave Described

Mammoth Cave, largest in the world, is situated in Kentucky. It has five miles of explored passages. It is included in its explored portions are 225 avenues, more than 150 miles of which have been charted. It contains 13 pits, 8 cataracts, 3 rivers, 2 lakes and 1 sea. It is estimated that the actual volume of water in the limestone embraces 12,000,000 cubic yards.

The main cave is three miles long, varying in width from 40 to 125 feet. Its largest enlargement, however, is the "Chief Cavern" or Temple, an oval room 541 feet long, 267 feet wide, and 125 feet high. Here in days gone by the Indians either lived or else used it as a rendezvous, for many relics have been found.

Mammoth cave abounds in wonderful domes, pits and grottoes, each bearing a special name, such as Cleveland's Cabinet, the Star Chamber, Bottomless Dome, the Maelstrom, and so on. These domes are adorned with natural decorations of crystals forming into fantastic shapes. Oval depressions known locally as "sink holes," drain the pits and chasms. The largest of which is Echo river, so called from the remarkable reverberations heard along its course.

The waters abound in several species of eyeless fish. Other inhabitants of the water are blind crawfish, flies, beetles and spiders. Strange to say, the air is chemically pure, being even in the deepest pits, and the temperature is about 54 degrees Fahrenheit throughout the year.

How Abnormal Object Is Made to Appear Normal

A queer, grotesque, or abnormal all our sensations, according to Dr. James J. Gibson, Smith college psychologist, as reported in the Philadelphia Record. Most of us are acquainted with one illustration of this. When the eyes look at a blue card for a long time, they develop the "desire" to see the opposite color—yellow. So a deep blue appears gray, gray appears yellow, and yellow appears more yellow.

Dr. Gibson reports in the Psychological Review that he found a similar reaction where colors aren't involved. Examples: Look fixedly for about five minutes at a slant line. Then look at a slant about two or three degrees. With your eyes blindfolded, have someone draw a rough horizontal line. For a moment the belt will seem to curve backward. The biological explanation? Dr. Gibson suggests what we have here is a misreading of the age-old old ploy of adaptation to environment. We tend to become used to any persisting condition—such as "normal"—it appears abnormal or askew.

Jute Plant In India India is the only place the jute plant has been successfully raised. Experimenters tried it in Florida, but the fiber wasn't up to snuff, says a writer in the Washington Post. Although huge machines in the United States are used in the process of changing a plant into rope and so forth, native hand labor plucking the jute fiber from the stalks is a job for husky natives. They clutch handfuls of slender stalks, stand waist-deep in water and pull the water until the rope-like strands are loose.

The Roman Gladiators At first prisoners, slaves or condemned criminals were used to afford entertainment for the citizens of Rome by feats of swordsmanship, wrestling and other contests of strength. Afterwards free men fought in the arena and so popular did the exhibition of skill and strength become that persons of senatorial rank, and even women, enrolled in the gladiator class. At one show given by the Emperor Trajan, 5,000 gladiators were employed at one time.

Franks of Lightning Lightning has traveled down a ladder of iron and shocked miners working at a depth of a thousand feet; it has removed the hair from a man without hurting him in any other way; and it has altered the compass of a stern-struck ship. In this manner says Collier's Weekly, the vessel itself was also "reversed" by the storm and the wheelman started back over his course for considerable distance before realizing the error.

Invented Electric Bell In 1788, a Scottish monk named Gaechnig, then teaching in Germany invented the electric bell. It had two little gongs, between which was suspended a small ball on a silk thread. The charged ball struck one gong, gave up its electricity in doing so, and being repelled, struck the other gong, and the cycle was repeated. Then the monk invented a motor with which he electrocuted some of his charges. He was the forerunner of the electric chair.

Milkweed Supplies Milk, Poison, Dyes and Fibers

Milk from milkweeds is used by humankind in many ways. In his native Ceylon one such milkweed is called "Cotton." The leaves of several are cooked and eaten as greens. Tender growths of others are eaten as salads. The milky sap of several is used for medicine. The latex is used for emetic, purgative, or even a deadly poison.

Some aborigines use the juice to poison arrows. The names of milk-bane or dogbane have been applied to some milkweeds because they were employed to poison these and other animals. In East Africa one plant variety is thrown into pools to poison fish. Not all, however, are toxic noxious.

Some milkweeds supply dyes, bastes and others fibers. But the Sodom apple, the Bible is supposed to have been the fruit of such a plant native to India, a plant that has been grown in local gardens.

Milkweeds form a large and interesting family because of their diversity. They are a correspondent in the Los Angeles Times. In the Americas we have kapok or silk-cotton. The plant in other parts of the world "kapok" of exports is from the pods of milkweeds. The family of 2,000 different individuals or species we must expect a wide range, and children who have opened ripe pods of milkweeds have seen the seed in the milk-floss. It is not used locally only because of lack of volume and the cost of harvest. But giant tree-like milkweeds fifteen or more feet high promise a rich reward to natives of India. The species have been planted in our country and in the West Indies, have escaped from gardens to the wilds.

St. George Dragon Myth

One of Many in History According to the Roman Acta Maximiana, St. George was born in Cappadocia and received from his parents a careful Christian training. He early showed a fondness for war and joined the army of the Emperor Diocletian, and soon rose to high rank. But when the persecution of the Christians became bitter, he went to the emperor and, confessing his faith, remonstrated against his policy. He was immediately arrested and suffered martyrdom April 23, 303.

Of the few facts of his history many traditions and myths have gathered. Among those is the story of a dragon which haunted a certain neighborhood and carried off beautiful maidens. According to one account, he was slain by a knight nearly 700 years ago. The dragon was slain and buried with the famous crusader, Godfrey of Bouillon, at the battle of Antioch, and to have revealed himself to Richard the Lion-Hearted at the battle of Acre, predicting the hero's victory. The latter narrative led to his being more highly honored than ever by England, of which he was the patron saint.

In the Saxon martyrology April 23 was held sacred in him alone of all. This feast was celebrated with jousts and tournaments as long as chivalry endured, and for years afterward, until after the Reformation, when Queen Elizabeth put a stop to it.

The Act of Thinking

The act of thinking is extremely fascinating as neurologists describe it. Under a microscope, the cerebral cortex is seen to be made up of a vast quantity of tiny cells, some of which are apparently the ends of long nerve cells passing up from underlying white matter, others long cells by-stretches from the surface. These latter are believed to be paths of association. Through them, says a writer in the Literary Digest, various sensory impressions stored in "memory"—that is, other cells, are connected. Something we see, hear or smell may prod a whole series of cells into consciousness, creating a memory picture, swaying our judgment, driving to suicide, showing how to make 1,000,000.

Atlanta Had Other Names

In 1821 the land which was the site of the founding of Atlanta was owned by the Creek Indians to whom the state which was to mark the end of the proposed state railroad. For that reason the town's first name was Terramus. In 1843 the name was changed to Marthasville in honor of the daughter of Governor Lumpkin. In 1847 it was incorporated as a city with the name of Atlanta, probably suggested by the railroad which was called the Western & Atlantic. It was made the capital of the state in 1868.

Body Must Have Salt

Perspiration is chiefly water, but it contains a fair amount of salt which is lost from the body. The body is constantly absorbing salt and getting rid of it again, but the operation of absorption and discharge must be so balanced as to insure a regular quantity of salt in the body at all times. Salt is necessary for the body and lack of it may be serious. Human blood contains exactly the same amount of sea-salt as sea water—unquestionable evidence that man originally came out of the sea, says a writer in Pearson's London Weekly.

MINUTES OF UMWA SPECIAL MEETING

A special meeting of the Floyd County United Mine Workers of America was held in the circuit court room Saturday, pertaining to the contest suit of Bro. Wayne Stumbo, Democrat candidate for sheriff.

W. M. Bomer, Garrett, Ky., was elected chairman; Joe Hicks, Wayland, secretary. First speaker on the program was Wayne Stumbo, second, O. C. Hall. Other speakers, G. C. Baisden, Mell Petry, Martin Case, Joe Hicks and Wesley Campbell.

Regular move and second to adopt the following resolution (carried unanimously): Resolution—We the United

Bombs Burst About Floyd County Girl In Shanghai

Miss Lydia Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Francis, of Prestonsburg, while serving in the American consulate in war-torn Shanghai, China, witnessed actual warfare, all around her. Her letter, printed in part below, and forwarded to the United States via the China Clipper, is the first news from her received here concerning Miss Francis' welfare.

"We'll wonder where I will land next. Here I am in Manila again. Left Shanghai last Friday and arrived here early Monday morning. Mr. Gauss, the Consul General, made us leave—that is all the women folks of the consulate, so two other girls and I, the last women of the consulate, came down on the S. S. Hoover.

I felt terribly blue going away and leaving the men behind. They were working day and night and if they ever need help it is now. I told the boss I was staying (honestly I had gotten to the point that I didn't care) and he said he would fire me if I didn't go. Later he came by my desk and laughed and then explained how much better it would be to get all the women out.

Just before we shoved off on a small boat at Shanghai, to go down the river and get on a big air raid started right over us and all around us. The Chinese planes swooped over and started bombing and then the Japs opened up with their anti-aircraft.

Well, it just sounded like the bottom of the world had dropped out. All the women and children were rushed below deck. One of the girls on a bullet she couldn't help it. Somehow or other that helped the old state of mind.

Mine Workers of America have named Wayne Stumbo for sheriff and nominated him to the office by a majority of 765 votes; and Be It Resolved, that the U. M. W. of A. of Floyd county go on record 100 per cent for electing him for sheriff; and a lot. So we just sat down on the top deck to take our medicine in case it was coming to us until we could get below deck.

Be It Further Resolved, that we are against any man or men who take any part in this contest suit against Wayne Stumbo; and be it further resolved, that every candidate in Floyd county who is running for office or wish to ever run for office are asked to take part in assisting us in this battle. If you are a friend to the union, "show us," so we can remember you.

Both sides (Chinese and Japs) were notified of the hour of our departure and were asked to cease firing at that time—but that was when they took advantage of the situation. It was terrible, but three cheers for the American women and children. You have never seen such a composed bunch.

Finally we started. There were marines and navy men on the top deck and sides with guns, and two destroyers followed us with other people. The U. S. S. Augusta, the big flagship, was anchored right across from us and she let out several big shots for the Chinese and Japs to be ward and not fire on us. I think that scared them off some.

Sherman is right about this war business, 'it is hell'. Honestly, I have never in my life had such a helpless feeling as I did that morning looking out the office window and seeing bombs fall so hard enough, but to have it all over you and all around my.

I have been assigned to the American Consulate down here, (Manila, P. I.). Mr. Anderson, manager of the hotel, is from La. Grange, Ky. He is so nice to me. I met him on the boat when I came out to China two years ago.

A Mr. Fairchild called me yesterday. Said he saw my name in the paper and that I had arrived from Shanghai and was from Kentucky. He is Kirley Fairchild, son of Frances Joe Fairchild of Whitesburg. He has been in Manila about 18 years. Love to you all, LYDA.

ber you. Signed—HENRY CAMPBELL, HOWARD SAMONS, G. B. BAKER.

Regularly moved, seconded and carried that this resolution be published in The Floyd County Times to let the public know the stand that the United Mine Workers of Floyd county have taken in behalf of our mine for sheriff. Brother Wayne Stumbo, of local union 7078.

Signed—JOE HICKS, WM. BOMER, MARTON MCGLOTHEN.

THE FARM AND HOME

(Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station)

When vegetables are boiled with a large piece of fat for a long time they become saturated with fat, and on this account are hard to digest. A better way is to cook vegetables and meat separately, and then combine to secure the desired flavor of bacon or other meats.

Roup, chickenpox and other poultry diseases that result from damp, poorly ventilated houses, drafts or over-crowding. Since these diseases are contagious and spread rapidly, flocks should be observed closely and sick birds isolated or killed.

Milk is filling, and may impair a child's appetite when drunk early in the morning. If such is the case, it should be reserved until well into the meal, or even until the end. Food should not be washed down with milk or other fluids.

Potatoes keep best in a dark place where the relative humidity is high 90 per cent or more, and where the temperature is between 36 and 42 deg. At these temperatures potatoes will keep well stored directly on a dirt floor in an ordinary house cellar.

Grand Jury 'Rides Herd' On Cattle Rustlers

been reading too many Wild West stories.

"It's usually drive off cattle in the evening and hide them in the hills," he said. "When they don't come up at milking time, the owners usually decide to wait until morning to check up. Meanwhile, the rustlers have trucked the cattle off."

Hall said cases have not reached court because owners have been quick to compromise—sometimes for double the value of the cattle—when they discover who has been stealing from them.

Hall warned owners that under the statute they were "equally liable."

TO THE PEOPLE OF FLOYD COUNTY

Lodgepole Pine, Slender Tree
The lodgepole pine (P. contorta) is a slender tree, usually 70 to 80 feet high. It bears yellow-green leaves and small, prickly cones. This is a common species of pine from the valley of the Yukon in Alaska, southeastward through the Rockies to New Mexico, Arizona, in the Cascades and Sierras to Southern California. The lodgepole pine takes its name from its former use by the Indians in building their teepees and lodges. It is used for ties and for tele- and tele-telephone poles.

I wish to extend to my many friends in Floyd county that voted and worked for me in the recent election, my whole-hearted thanks. I assure you I appreciate every act and deed.
