TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

WILLIAM TRIMBLETOE

Who was William Trimbletoe? I have never found any learned references to him, as well known as he was to us children of other generations. Like Jack Horner and Old Hober Hubbard and Tom the Piper's Son, he apparently lived his life and departed, leaving no heirs and no biographers. We knew him around the fire in winter evenings, when we played games. He gave his name to a counting-out game. Each child participating laid down on a chair or some one, knee a dirty finger. The one who hit it touched a finger with each word as he repeated this rhyme:

"William Trimbletoe, he's a good fisherman;
Catches hens, puts them in pears.
Some lay eggs, some none,
Wire black timber lock,
Three geese in a flock,
One flew east one flew west,
One flew over the cuckoo's nest.
Clock fell down,
Mouse run around,
O U T, spells out and you,
You old dirty dishrag, YOU!"

The crumbly finger touched on YOU there were lots of ways to run your words together to make them come out on the right child—belonged to the one who must go across the room and turn his back to the others.

After the others had named themselves and the O-U-T child names of birds, one of the children asked, "Which had you rather come home on a bluebird or a redbird?" (or any other two). The child guessed. If he guessed his own name, he was told to "come home on your tip toes." If he guessed another, that one had to go and bring him home. Then the leader asked, "Whatta got there?" The answer was invariably, "A bag of nuts." "Shake him till he spits." Then followed a violent shaking, for the one being brought home liked to prolong his agony to show how brave he was. A fair-sized fight often resulted, or a change to another game. But nice little boys and girls soon ended the first chapter of the game so that the exciting thing could be done over indefinitely. Foolish? Yes, as most things are in print. But to play it or even to remember it, takes one back to a childhood to had to devise games and stunts and stories to while away the long winter evenings. Books were scarce; game, except checkers and dominoes were almost all of the traditional kind; there were no picture shows or radios. People knew how to invent or to pass on forms of entertainment that seem pretty dull today but were the means of making life endurable.

Dear old William Trimbletoe, whoever he was! He ought to have a memorial of some sort, a memorial to childhood and its games and plays!

I have been informed on good authority that no door in the graded school building has been so badly shut. I am very sorry to have made this error. From the hall this door appeared to be nailed. I hesitated to enter the room to make a closer examination, because this room contained someone's lumber and bedroom fixtures. The fact still remains that the fire escapes are not usable. Even though the doors to these escapes were locked, in case of fire, I am afraid that some upper grade boys might forget the condition of the fire escapes and break down the doors and plunge to their death. Even though we never have had and hope we never will have, a fire in our school, we should have fire escapes to protect our children, "just in case." No one can say when or where the next school fire will be.

It should be added that Mr. Wicker, principal of the school, is to be commended for not permitting cigarette smoking in and around the school building, thus reducing the fire hazard.

Roy Denny spent an enjoyable day at Drift last Sunday.

Beautiful Glacial Gorge
Charm'd Indian Hunters
It was in March, 1851, that a group of pioneers, organized as the Mariposa Battalion, followed the trail of a band of Yosemite Indians into the valley to avenge the deaths of settlers killed by the Indians in raids on Savage's trading post near Mariposa. Early day historians record that the discovery of the magnificent glacial gorge so thrilled members of the Battalion that they gave up their Indian hunt and went back to Mariposa to spread the news of what they had seen, according to a writer in the Los Angeles Times.

They told of sheer walls of granite rising from 3,000 to 5,000 feet on either side of a wide gorge. Roaring down from dizzy heights over the perpendicular cliffs were six of the most spectacular waterfalls ever seen by man, one of them the highest in the world in the valley below the Merced river wound its swift way through lush meadows carpeted with wild flowers, and through groves of majestic pine, fir, cedar and oak trees.

BETSY LAYNE LOSES TO INEZ AND VIRGIE; DROPS PCA, AUXIER

Tuesday night, January 16, the Betsy Layne Bobcats held the Inez Indians to a 17-16 score, losing by only one point. The Bobcats showed their best form of the year, playing top ball until about the final three minutes of the game when the Indians gained the lead.

The score at the end of the first quarter was 8-3, in favor of the Bobcats. The Cats excelled the Indians in floor work and hitting the hoop. The score at the half was 9-3 with the Bobcats still in the lead. Both teams were fighting desperately.

The Indians were masters of the ball the third period and ran the score up to 10 to 11 with the Bobcats still leading. About the middle of the final period the Indians had pulled up to 17-14 lead. The Bobcats were on the verge of the comeback when the Indians leading. The time ended before either team scored.

Report, from other games that Inez has played reveals that Coach David Leslie's Bobcats really had the hard end and came near handing them a defeat than any other for the entire season.

January 18th the Bobcats invaded Virgie's gymnasium and were handed their eighth defeat of the year, 34-23. The game was very slow and poorly played, both teams being off form.

Pikeville came to Betsy Layne January 19 and suffered a 34-23 defeat. The Bobcats were on the long end of the core during the entire game and were never threatened.

On January 20 the Bobcats went to Auxier and won a hard-fought, well-played game from the Auxier Hornets. The Auxier B team stung the Betsy Layne B team to the tune of 14-13, while the Bobcats came on later to win, 27-23. The Hornets made a last minute rally and came near endangering the slim lead of the Bobcats.

PACED BY HALBERT, MARTIN HI DEFEATS WHEELWRIGHT, 39-32

Paced by Halbert, who collected 12 field goals and two foul shots for a total of 28 points, the Martin high school Purple Flash stopped the eight-game winning streak of Coach Walter Price's Wheelwright netters, 39-32, Friday night at the Martin gymnasium.

Both teams began slowly, and Wheelwright took a two-point lead when Cordell took a long one. Then Halbert, Martin forward, began his sensational shooting by making a long one-handed shot while he was being fouled. He failed to cash in on the free attempt, but came back to score a two-pointer, giving his team the lead which was never relinquished. At the end of the quarter the Flash held an 8-5 lead.

In the second period the home team continued to increase the lead as Halbert prolonged his scoring spree by sinking four more field goals, giving him a total of 14 points for the first half. At the intermission Martin held a 22-15 advantage.

Wheelwright was able to score only one field goal and a charity tre in the third chapter, and the Martin lead was increased to 31-18, the biggest advantage enjoyed by the winners during the game. Halbert personally accounted for all of his team's points which were made during this quarter, and aided by some excellent passwork by the entire Martin team.

Cordell, Wheelwright forward, sparked a rally for his team in the final quarter when the visitors outscored the winners, 14-8. Throughout the game he scored 15 points, eight of which were made in the fourth period.

In the preliminary game the Martin reserves took the measure of the Wheelwright B squad, 17-14.

Saturday night Wheelwright hit the comeback trail and met with little trouble in swamping Maytown, 36-14, at the Wheelwright floor.

The winners went into the lead soon after the opening whistle and they were never headed. Both teams used substitutes freely with 20 players seeing action in the fracas. Each team used ten players during the game, and all of Wheelwright's scored at least one point.

Cordell, who started a one-man run on the parts market, and Ferguson, Wheelwright forwards, led in the scoring with seven points each. Martin and Bingham each scored four points for the losers.

The line-ups: Halbert (39) Pos. Wwright (22) Halbert (26) F. Cordell (15) Stammer (4) F. Ferguson (2) Wilson (2) C. Holcomb (6) Goodin (2) G. Martin (4) Spurlock (5) G. Morich (5) Substitutions: Martin—Rice; Wheelwright—Hanger, Bowe, References—Elam, Ferguson.

'Modified' Form of NRA Was In Effect Here 25 Years Ago

A modified form of the NRA, which was in effect in Prestonsburg almost 25 years before the founding of the National Rifle Association in 1917, lasted less than a year's examination of former City Council records reveals.

The measure, regulating the retail prices of meats, was passed by the Council on August 1, 1910 and was repealed July 3, 1911. It stated specifically that "...all persons engaged in butcher business or persons who retail beef, pork or mutton within the corporate limits of the city of Prestonsburg shall pay an annual license of $2.00, provided that no person shall nor sell beef, pork and mutton exceeding the maximum price of 15 cent per pound, and ranging in price from seven to 15 cents per pound, respectively, according to standard cuts and grades." This same ordinance provided that no license would be necessary for wholesalers who sold quantities of less than one-fourth of a beef, one-half of a hog, or one sheep. Any person found guilty of violating any of the provisions of the ordinance was subject to a $10 fine.

Because of the passage of many now out-moded ordinances, several of which never have been voided, certain provisions are probably being regularly violated. On December 5, 1910, the council voted it unlawful for any person to throw or scatter any refuse or garbage within the corporate limits, and provided a $1 fine, plus costs, for each offense. At a meeting January 8, 1940, the Council deemed it unlawful "for children or other persons to play with wagons on sidewalks, or with other vehicles, or coast along any of the sidewalks for the purpose of playing or sport," and placed a $1 penalty on each offense.

On March 3, 1913, there was passed an ordinance, which, incidentally, never has been repealed, making it unlawful, a nuisance and deemed indecent and immoral for any person or persons to dance, what is known as the Tango, or other dance of whatever name or alias, by the movement of which dance, or steps thereof, there is suggested, whether said dance occasions bawling or coarseness of conversation, or the violation of this ordinance carried a $15 fine. "It shall be the duty of the Marshal," the ordinance continues "to enter any such places where such dances are permitted or done, and to arrest any person offending thereunder."

One of three ordinances passed January 6, 1913 pertaining to trains passing through the corporate limits made it unlawful to "back or shift any train, locomotive, or car of any kind... unless said locomotive, train or car be preceded by an employee, on foot, to give warning to all persons of the moving of said locomotive, train or car." The other two provided for the maximum speed of six miles per hour for trains passing through the city limits and for maintenance of safety gates at crossings. Fines for each offense were set at $50-$100.

A curfew law was enacted January 8, 1910 and made it unlawful for children or persons under 16 years of age to be on the streets after six o'clock p. m. unless they were in company of their parents, guardian or some person from the same household who also was more than 16 years old. According to this order either or both the parent and child could be fined $1-$5, and if the Marshal failed to do his duty to strictly enforce the provisions thereof could be fined $1-$5. On March 7 of the same year the law was amended to seven p. m. Four years later it was again amended making the deadline six p. m., during the winter months and eight p. m. during the summer.

Traffic problems made their appearance in 1914 and it was voted at a meeting, September 8, to charge $1 license fee on all bicycles in town, and a $5 fee for motorcycles. At the same session a speed limit of five miles per hour was set with a $5 fine for any person to run an automobile more than ten miles per hour on streets and alleys or more than five miles per hour in turning corners of streets, or going across street crossings.

In 1915 the speed limit was increased to 15 miles per hour, and all autos were required to have two headlights, one or more colored tail lights, and a muffler.

In 1916 it was made unlawful to "swap horses or jockey or ride horses with the view of showing off or jockeying or trading horses on the county bridge or the street leading to Main Street from the bridge, or on Main Street or Court Street." The council decided that the practice had become a nuisance and dangerous to the citizens of the town.

Jury Recommends Probe

ment by making strict provisions concerning their regulation.

"In the short space of time allotted for the investigation of crime, we have not been able to investigate the fiscal affairs of Floyd county to our satisfaction; however, the records produced before us convince us that excessive claims are being allowed for the delivery of commodities throughout the county and excessive claims have been paid to the Magistrates for what is designated as Official Services. We continue the investigation for a subsequent grand jury with the recommendation that the clerk of the Floyd county court be requested to make up and furnish to the next grand jury a list taken from his records showing to whom and in what amounts claims have been paid for delivering commodities and we further request that he be requested to produce the records showing the amount of money received by the Magistrates and for what purpose each of said amounts were paid. We believe this to be necessary in ascertaining if the law is being violated and whether the taxpayers are securing value for their money spent. Relative to the matter above stated, we would suggest that the Magistrates follow the recommendation of the county officials by advertising to the lowest and best bidder the handling of commodities or any other expenditure where the taxpayers' money is involved and where a savings may be effected to the taxpayers.

"It has been called to the attention of the grand jury that teachers of Floyd county have been required to contribute funds to secure the election of Board Members in Floyd county in order to maintain their good graces with the governing authorities of the Floyd county schools. The grand jury further requests that future grand juries investigate the violation of elections and election laws and more particularly the violation of school laws herein referred to.

"The grand jury would further request that the Health Department of Floyd county be requested to inspect the public buildings of our county, including the jail, at regular intervals, with the view of improving the sanitary conditions and with the view of securing a balanced food diet for the prisoners.

"The grand jury would further report that they have inspected the jail and other public buildings of the county and find them to be in as good condition as could reasonably be expected under the circumstances. The city jail we find to be in a poor state of repair and very poorly and unsanitary kept and we would recommend that those in authority of said institution be required to provide better facilities for the accommodation of prisoners. We have noted with interest the co-operation between those whose duty it is to combat crime in our courts and we highly commend their work and sincerely believe that with a continued spirit of co-operation that is now manifested, the crime conditions in Floyd county must of necessity improve."

"During the last three days of its session the grand jury returned four murder indictments, three of the defendants being Floyd county officers: Alben Stone and Cluett Measer, Lackey Rogers, were charged with the slaying of Mrs. W. E. and Deputy Sheriff B. Hall was named in separate indictments in the bullet-death of Casper

A GOOD LAW—REVISION WOULD HELP

The marriage law which becomes effective in Kentucky March 1 may confidently be expected to constitute one of the Commonwealth's greatest steps toward in the matter of public health and the health of future generations.

But one phase of the marital relation which should have been included within this law remains untouched. That is the situation sometimes created when husband and wife become separated remain separated for months perhaps, then finally become re-united.

In many instances the husband or wife, or both while separated, may contract venereal diseases. Then, reconciled, they return to co-habitation, to perpetuate the ravages of the disease which one or both may have contracted.

A k any public health officer or any physician how many couples in their experience have returned to each other, with one or the other, or both, suffering from syphilis or gonorrhea. The TIMES has learned within the last week of four such cases. How many others are there in the entire state? Your guess is as good as ours.

At any rate the law should be extended to embrace such cases and to oblige couples, upon reconciliation, to undergo the same tests as those to which they would have to submit, were they being married for the first time.

Osborne and Perry Johnson at Wheelwright Junction. The fourth man indicted of murder was Ernest Hunter in the slaying of Riley Bryant on Stephens Branch.

Nine indictments were filed to take the place of those quashed last week against Floyd county officers accused of arresting another without authority of law. The indictments were dismissed, then re-instated. It was said because some question as to the validity of the original indictments was possible. Those quashed had been made to replace those which disappeared from the office of the Circuit Clerk, and the method used in replacing them had been questioned.

These indictments are: Tom Parsons (or Akers), Jim Roberts and Herman McKinney on four counts; Tom Parsons (or Akers), Sam Roberts and Jake Salisbury on five counts.

Names of others indicted last week the charges preferred against each and the amount of bond a keel for release of each defendant after his or her arrest follow:

the half they held a 27-7 advantage. Five of Martin's total of the seven points made in the first half were made on free pitches.

Although several Prestonsburg substitutes were sent into the game in the second half, the Cats continued their fast scoring pace. Heinze and Damron led in the scoring for Prestonsburg, each making 14 points. Salisbury made 11, eight of which were made in the second half. Halbert, who scored nine points, was Martin's chief offensive threat.

Friday night the Blackcats will meet Inez in the Warfield gymnasium. In a game here early in the season the Indians swamped Prestonsburg 48-25. Saturday night the Cats will be hosts to the Dorton night in the local gym and Tuesday night they will entertain the strong Meade Memorial five.

Because of injuries suffered in the Martin game, Damron and Layne probably will not get into the game against Inez and Dorton. Damron is out because of a broken nose and Layne will give a cut lip more time to heal.

sentatives proposed that in the event no agreement be reached by March 31, work in the industry should be continued under the existing wages, but the operators rejected the proposal. This offer, on the part of labor representatives, was made March 15, according to Judge Fields.

It was through no fault of their own and not because of a bona fide labor dispute that the claimants lost their employment, Judge Fields held "after careful consideration of the facts presented in the record and considering the public policy of this state as expressly declared by Section 2 of the Unemployment Compensation Law."

Kentucky's Unemployment Compensation Commission's ruling last fall denying them compensation, affected approximately 25,000 miners with claims approximating $1,500,000. The commission held they were idle because of a "bona fide labor dispute."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

HITS AT COURIER-JOURNAL Lansley, Ky. January 29, 1940 Editor of The Times: Relative to the publicity the Courier-Journal is giving Floyd county and Congressman May I wish to say not in his defense for he doesn't need it, he is quite capable of defending himself in the defense of the backwoods of Floyd county and Eastern Kentucky in general, that the Courier-Journal and the city of Louisville have as much housewarming to do as does Eastern Kentucky. I am a common occurrence to pick up the Pictorial Page of the Sunday Courier-Journal and find the picture of a little log hut at the mouth of some little hollow with a cow hitched to the door and a little patch of corn nearby, with the imitation: A Typical Kentucky Mountain Home I suppose the Courier-Journal thinks the mountain people do not have any other kind of houses. I know Kentucky doesn't rank at the top in education but all the literacy do not come from the mountains. We have the same compulsory school law. We have free school buses to convey the children to and from school. We have the same intelligence to learn. We have good roads since the mountain people have degraded their share of the distribution of taxes. We have one of the richest land in the world, not only in fertility of soil, but in the few years he has been in the mountains that the Courier-Journal likes to elaborate on, the city of Louisville has more in one day that is never published than the mountains have in months. Just why, may I ask. Sincerely yours, MRS. LES SUTTON

pick-up and delivery service similar to that being afforded Prestonsburg on express, the club asked J. D. Harkins, Jr. secretary to communicate with railway officials so that the movement may be started without delay. The district census bureau headquarters have reported to the club that office furniture and accessories which had either purchased or leased for use of the office had arrived and has been installed. Continued complaint of radio owners about interference here led the club to adopt a resolution requesting the Kentucky & West Virginia Power Company to investigate the trouble. The company also was asked to locate a service man in Prestonsburg. It was pointed out that the present arrangement, with the nearest service man located in Paintsville, is unsatisfactory. The next drawing date was set for March 2 when $150 in cash will be awarded. The proposal that trade coupons be awarded instead of cash was promptly voted down. Reporting on the success of the 1939 county fair, County Agent S. L. Lebel said that the success apparent while the fair was in progress was only a part of the interest created. Good effects of the fair may yet be noted in all parts of the county, he said. DAURICE DELL MARR Birth of a nine-pound daughter to Mr. and Mrs. James Motrell, Jr., at the Paintsville hospital Tuesday morning, January 30 is announced. The babe has been christened Daurice Dell. Women of the Stone Age Had Own Beauty Secrets

The ladies of Cleopatra's court took milk baths regularly. The idea wasn't as you may suspect, originated by more modern beauties. Neither did the sirens of the modern stage figure out for themselves that mascara makes lashes look longer, eyes more luminous. Women who lived hundreds of years ago didn't have fine, scientific make-up. They used natural dyes, but they did have burnt cork and wood, and they blackened their lashes and brows with these, states a writer in the New York World-Telegram.
It is said that women of American Indian tribes smeared their lips with black paint for state occasions. Generally, however, they used the juice of wild berries to dye their lips bright red.

TRAVEL BULLETIN TODAY'S ROADS

Prepared by Eastern Kentucky Automobile Club

The lack of confidence instilled by obscured vision is provoking to the driver, perilous to all traffic both vehicular and pedestrian alike, and is the cause of many accidents.

Although apparently insignificant as a statistic, it is a huge factor in many accidents during adverse weather conditions.

Further proof that any existing condition which interferes with a driver's normal vision increases the probability of an accident, can be seen from the day and night accident and loss records. Approximately half of all accidents occur during darkness, the period in which only one-third of the daily traffic moves.

Safe driving is impossible if the windshield is muddy, icy, or covered with sleet or snow, or if driving in fog, smoke, rain, mist, or with inadequate headlights. Moreover, in winter poor visibility generally accompanies slippery or icy pavements which, with the best sight distance possible, is precarious to all motoring.

The combination of poor visibility and treacherous slippery pavement requires the entire attention of the driver. One can improve his visibility by cleaning his windshield and repairing his headlights, but in addition, he must operate with extreme care to completely overcome the two odds.

McDOWELL DEFEATS VIRGIE QUINT, 27-21, IN ROUGH STRUGGLE

The McDowell high school basketball team, after having lost by one point to Virgie on the Virgie floor several weeks ago, came back to defeat the same team Saturday night, 27-21, in the McDowell gymnasium, in a game that was exceedingly rough.

Spurred by Myers, the home team went into a 9-3 lead at the end of the first quarter. In the second period the visitors out-played McDowell and held a 14-13 advantage at the half. Midway in this period, Tackett, McDowell guard, suffered a cut under his eye and was forced to leave the game.

In the third quarter neither team was able to threaten seriously, McDowell catching in on three free throws while Virgie was making one field goal.

At the end of the period Virgie was still out in front, 17-16.

Soon after the beginning of the final quarter McDowell took the lead and gradually increased it as the game progressed. Myers, McDowell center, led in the scoring, making 13 points, 10 of which came in the final half. Castle Virgie guard, made two field goals and four charity tosses for eight points.

In a preliminary game, the McDowell team defeated the Virgie reserves, 12-10.

The line-ups: McDowell (27) Pos. Virgie (21) J. Hall (2) F. Leftwick (6) Elswick (4) F. Childers Myers (13) C. Leftwick (6) Castle (4) G. McCoy (4) Tackett (2) G. McCoy (1) Substitutions: McDowell—McCoy, Martin, Reifer—Meade.

AUXILIAR DEFEATS MAYTOWN

The Auxilier high school Hornets defeated the Maytown High quintet Friday night, 24-11. The first half saw the Auxilier team pile up a 20-4 lead. Patton, Auxilier forward, tallied 11 points in the first half to lead the scoring. Watson was outstanding on the defense for Auxilier. Allen was Maytown's best defensive man and Martin led their quintet. The second half saw very little scoring as the Auxilier reserves saw plenty of action.

The line-ups: Maytown (11) Pos. Auxilier (22) Patton (2) F. Evans (4) Martin (3) F. Patton (11) Allen (2) C. Hubbard (4) Bingham (2) G. Watson (4) Webb (4) G. Witten (1) Substitutions: Maytown—A. Patton.

AUXILIER AND DEWEY

Why ranch for that gun or the knife at the back of your shirt collar, or a sulphur ball? When Rorie Goble and Junior Connors decided to drive out the cold air by blowing between them, they just hunted up a good set of boxing gloves and went in for a knock-out.

"WHAT WAS HIS DREAM LAND LIKE?" A citizen asked that on his way to work last Friday morning, he found a stranger sleeping by the side of the road. And on shaking the fellow, the sleepy one began to sing, "Carry me back to the land of my dreams." The temperature that morning was about seven below.

Dewey has seen another successful school year which ended Friday the 19th. Albert Burbeck, teacher, received the best regards of the district.

Butler Sizemore is slowly recovering from a serious operation.

The Clark Coal Company mine near the mouth of Johns Creek was forced to pull steel several days ago. This was due to the discovery of rotten coal.

FARMERS ORGANIZE TO SELL MOLASSES

Two cooperative marketing associations sold 2,000 gallons of sorghum molasses in Kentucky in 1939. They are the Kentucky Sorghum Growers' Association at Hawesville and the Kentucky Sorghum Syrup Producers' Association at Frenchburg. Organized after the season for making and selling molasses had started, they found a ready sale for their products and could not supply the demand for molasses.

Noting the possibilities in the production of sorghum molasses, marketing specialists in the Department of Markets and Rural Finance at University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and county agents helped growers with some of the more important problems in making and selling molasses. Among these problems was the manufacture of a molasses that would not turn to sugar. Sugar long has been a major problem in sorghum molasses production.

Also, there was the problem of standardizing the quality, and grading and labeling the product, and the use of various sizes of containers to meet the needs of different sized families.

Selling by the association, was done in quart, half-gallon and gallons. Reports received at the College of Agriculture indicate that the molasses sold by the two Kentucky associations last year was highly satisfactory.

Plans for this year include enlarged acreages of cane, and the selling of molasses over a wide territory.

HEALTH NEWS

Compiled by Dr. Marvin Ransdell, Director, Floyd County Health Dept.

SYPHILIS

The word "syphilis" until recent years, has been taboo in almost every civilized nation of the world and mentioned only in hushed whispers among numbers of the same sex. A far back as the very introduction of the disease to the civilized world, it has been accompanied by shame and secrecy and has been concealed by practically all its victims. Through the combined efforts of astute supervision and social indoctrination, this terrible disease has been allowed to incubate and spread among all civilized peoples for almost five centuries. A result, about one person out of every ten or fifteen in the United States, is now a victim of syphilis. Many countries have even a higher incidence.

During the past few years the progressive people of the United States have finally awakened to the dangers of this enemy among them and have started a vast campaign of publicity in newspapers, magazines and, on the radio. This campaign is intended to bring syphilis into the light and to eliminate the old-fashioned, high-brow, high-toned attitude of the past. If syphilis and the extent of its damage is not brought before the public eye and if the term "syphilis" is made a word of everyday usage it will greatly facilitate the control of the disease.

As yet the campaign is very young but its results already are apparent. Syphilis is being discussed by people everywhere and it is slowly becoming known as a curable disease, such as measles, scarlet fever, or diphtheria.

Many persons infected with syphilis have acquired the disease perfectly innocently from an unselected husband or wife or from contaminated articles such as drinking cups, towels or clothes, or even from casual contact. No greater sin can be committed by a misguided, intolerant society than to condemn and socially ostracize those innocently infected individuals.

over, even as the Old Order of King Arthur and his Knights gave way to the new. Twenty-one years from now the new "prisoner" will be old. How many of us will then remember his "prisoner" son? A man, later identified as one Carl Myers, in a sleek black sedan drove up to the very door of the "prisoner" went inside and claimed the Old Boy.

and, breaking the Sabbath on the next day, that man from Chicago—could he have been a gangster?—took a six-monther to the Old Boy. In the "ward" the Old Boy "passed on" to the woodbine (which no one in the Prisoner No. 54237 Jail can see) readers in hope that they have behind the walls even longer than 20 years.

THE OLD KEEPER REMAINS

"When we are 25 years old we are the last work on the BLUE STRIPPER LINO TYPE around behind these walls to take the place of that old model, bless its heart, that was here a week ago and had been used in the office and at the Prestonsburg office for all these years ago mentioned. The old keeper is our own 'Prisoner' Coble.

IN THE MAIL Boys will be boys, and they will have their fun.

Now come Lawrence Keathley, Richard Sparkle and Russell Hagedorn dunning me—dunning me for $10—telling that of all things, I owe THEM the sum of $10 because I "forced" them to read my paper, these two years past.

They're just muggins' though—the mugs! Fact of the matter is, all three of those creditors of mine have read the paper several years more than two and would not be denied the privilege of begging, borrowing—oh, hateful word, this paper for the next two years, for twice more than that ten bucks they maintain I owe them is that putting the boys on the spot or is it?

We engaged hearing from you, boys—but, please, don't send us any more bills on out-of-town printed statements.

Yes!—Thanks for giving us the opportunity of saving ourselves a plug.

THE NAME PLEASE: If the writer of that "Super-Critical" letter will crawl out from behind the ambuscade of anonymity and submit it to our name, THE TIMES will gladly print this outstanding contribution to belies letters.

OF THE DESERVING: Stan Bailey, 22 Hovesville, was graduated from Garrett high school last week as a honor student.

Do much news about that. No, not tell the full story is told, and I don't know the full story. So you, reader, fill in out of a sympathetic imagination where we leave gaps in the narrative.

First of all, Sigel is a cripple. In futile paradise go him when he was only twenty-two years ago, in his youth, they didn't get polio sufferers crippled children's hospitals as quick as they would if at all. So one of the young man's legs yet is a dead weight. We host his catches he would be pious.

Now Sigel lives with his father, Kelly Bailey, a WPA worker until the time limit caught him, up in the head of a hollow of Raceoon fork of Salt Lick. It's a mile and a half to the highway where the school bus passes, but the youth for two years now down and up a rocky branch road to the bus. I was hard going several times, what with weather such as we've been having, the last month. But he didn't miss "connections" more than two or three times—and you have to get up before daylight to walk a mile and a half on crutches to catch that Salt Lick bus.

His father who worked on the WPA and one of two of his sisters who worked in the neighboring homes have kept the boy in clothing while he has been in school. But the father now is unemployed. He has no other children. Sigel wants to go to college, but he has his pride. He wants at least to be dressed as well as other boys who have to spend on clothing. You know how youngers are. Even your oldest brother would want the little Sigel suits.

Then what is to be done? Sigel has a chance to go to Caney Creek—Mrs. Love like boys like him. But he must have a clean shirt, pants in their entirety, a coat not like Joseph's.

THE FLOYD COUNTY TIMES is not a Mr. Fink, but it does have an idea that somebody, somewhere would jump at the chance to help this deserving boy go ahead with the education which will enable him, in the years to come, to buy his own clothing, to be self-sustaining and to help his father and his gallant sisters in return for the sacrifices they have made for him. As an afterthought, THE TIMES wonders if some of these Sewing Circles could not be used by boy like Sigel Bailey.

HELP ON WHEELS Another afterthought: You've got to admit that this school bus system is a great thing. Can you imagine a boy like Sigel Bailey ever graduating from high school without this sort of free transportation? That's bringing education to the people on wheels!

RIPPING, EH, WOT? He hit the net for even points to share scoring honors against Maytown Saturday night, and walked plumbly off with the pant-ripping feature of the fray. He's one of "Sir" Walter Price's gang boys up at Wheelwright, 1133 Corning, who he finished good form during the same in more ways than one. He ripped his pants four times at odd intervals to say awful moments. Time out one seat of his regular pants. Time out on went a sub tute pair. They split down the front. Time out. Substitution of pants, and these sold as he came back downstairs to resume play. A sweat-soaked pair of overall pants had to be substituted when somebody raided various wardrobes and at last found a pair large enough.

Five-Year Terms Met

Bradley, testifying in his own defense, contended that he shot Huff only after the latter had pointed a revolver at him, threatening "Bradley, get ready!" After he had begged Huff not to shoot and after Huff had reiterated his threat, he fired, according to Bradley's testimony. Bradley admitted that, before the shooting, he and Everett Kendrick had had an argument over beer, and that he had slapped Kendrick with his open hand.

Several Commonwealth witnesses concurred in testifying to the following version of the trouble:

After Bradley Huff and Carroll Clay and gone to the restaurant of Besie Swindell about 10 p. m., and he had drunk some beer. Bradley and Kendrick engaged in a dispute over beer. Bradley drew a pistol and struck Kendrick on his head, the weapon slipping from his hand to the floor near where Huff stood. After ejecting Kendrick, Bradley returned and attempted to regain his pistol from Huff, who tossed a screw a counter. A small girl thereupon kicked the gun into an adjoining bedroom. Bradley then left the building, walked to the car in which he, Huff and Clay had driven to Mrs. Swindell's place and procured his shotgun. Returning inside, he slammed the door shut and announced that nobody was leaving till he got his pistol. Starting through the restaurant, gun in shooting position, Bradley started his search for the weapon. At that time Huff appeared in the door of the bedroom, the pistol in his hand but not in firing position or pointed toward Bradley. "Here, Aaron," Huff said; whereupon Bradley fired. A single load of buckshot struck Huff in his throat, killing him instantly.

Bradley denied having a pistol at the time of his altercation with Kendrick. He also testified that he had loaned the shotgun and all his cartridges to Huff, earlier in the evening. He claimed that his reason for returning the shotgun from the car to the building was to prevent Kendrick, who had left the restaurant, from getting the gun and shooting him. It was pointed out by the defense that the pistol held by Huff when shot was found beneath his body, cocked. The Commonwealth retalliated with testimony to the effect that the body lay for two hours or more before being moved and that no watch was maintained over it.

Edward L. Allen as is the prosecution. Defense attorneys were: C. B. Wheeler and B. M. James.

Pete Wilson, negro, was given a four-year term last Thursday for manslaughter, a charge growing out of the slaying of another of his race at Tyan.

Other convictions during the past week:

Walter Collin, carrying concealed deadly weapon, $50 fine, 10 days in jail.

16 Guntoters Located

During the nine days of the grand jury session, only 16 indictments for carrying concealed deadly weapons were returned. This number is slightly above the record of previous grand juries. Circuit Judge Stephens emphasized the importance of finding and indicting the gun-toter, and the grand jury undertook closer questioning of witnesses relative to this offense. Success did not attend this phase of the jury's investigations, however.

Robert Judd, carrying concealed deadly weapon, $50 and 10 days; Peter Blackburn, carrying concealed deadly weapon, $50 and 10 days; Richard Elam, jail escape, three years; John Haddix, malicious mischief, $75 fine.

To serve a total of 14 years in the penitentiary, six men convicted at this term were sentenced Saturday by Judge Stephens. Names of prisoners and terms to which they were sentenced: Theop Branham, breaking and entering, one year; Joe Hall, shooting and wounding, two years; Woodrow Stephens, child desertion, one year; Richard Elam, breaking and entering, two years; Chester Wiley, breaking and entering, five years; Clyde Wright, voluntary manslaughter, three years.
