TWO KILLED, FIVE SHOT

SHOTGUN BLAST FATAL TO KNOTT CHILD, MAN, 35

Kenford Kiser is held in the Knott county jail at Hindman, charged with the shotgun slaying of John Canfield, 35, and five other persons sitting on the porch of his home, 210 S. Main St., Knott county, Friday afternoon, a 10-year-old child and a man, aged 30. At the same time, according to reports received here, five others were wounded.

The dead are: Harlan Pennington, 35, and Earl Caudill, 10.

The wounded: Mrs. Ada Caudill, 35, shot through the neck; Marie Caudill, 6; Helen Caudill, 12; Wiley Caudill, 42; and Lester Caudill, 7.

Only Mrs. Ada Caudill's wounds are serious. Wounds of her husband and the two children are negligible. Mrs. Caudill was taken to the Stumbo Memorial hospital, Lacey, for treatment.

Wiley Caudill, father of the slain child, told a TIMES correspondent that Kiser was passing his home from work, carrying a shotgun, when he stopped and inquired who lived there. One of the seven persons sitting on the porch answered; whereupon, according to this version of the shooting, Kiser fired from a distance of approximately 20 feet.

The Caudill child was instantly killed by Kiser's first shot, the report received here says. John Canfield, crippled with Kiser for possession of the gun, Pennington was killed when the weapon was discharged accidentally.

Wiley Caudill is reported as saying that the family had little or no acquaintance with Kiser and that he had no trading of Kiser's motive to finish into the group.

TIDBITS OF KENTUCKY FOLKLORE

OLD BARNS—NEW BARNS

Somewhat I have always felt a sort of contempt for Nebuchadnezzar and that other rich man in the Bible who rejoiced a bit too much over their fine fortune, the king by gilding over the great city of Babylon which he had built, the other hastening to tear down his old barns and to erect larger ones. Both of them suffered, as you know, and deserved it, too. When I look about me and see how many of the old landmarks are going down, I have considerable difficulty in restraining my fondness for quoting from old and well-known stories of men who rejoiced a bit too soon. It is well enough to tear down the old house when it has ceased to be of any further usefulness, but it is almost criminal to replace old and beautiful architecture with what seems to any fair-minded man a senseless structural fad. This tendency is not confined to our own time, however, as any one can tell who has had layers of paint taken from old barns and other pieces of furniture. In some of the cities of Europe the most beautiful of wood-carving has been painted over when styles changed. An acquaintance of mine sawed off the rockers of a priceless rosewood cradle and made a bed for his baby. Probably the ability to appreciate what is intrinsically good and beautiful is not so common as we sometimes think; a desire to be in style is often more than a sense of the values of things.

Antiques such as are not necessarily beautiful, often our ancestors had ugly things and ugly styles. It is significant, though, that there was nearly always a dignity and air of solid worth about the furnishings of the colonial houses. That gives our new country a distinctiveness that modern buildings, copied from every type on the face of the earth, are not likely to have.

Whoever has visited at old Williamsburg, Virginia, since John D. Rockefeller, Jr. has had the restorations, it can't help feeling the distinctiveness of the seventeenth and eighteenth century architecture. One somehow senses something of this dignity in public buildings, for we have kept up the classic and semi-classic tradition here. But the inviting of new and restored streets make our more modern structures look like a primitive type of architecture, probably emanating from a people not very far removed from savagery. For sheer architectural ugliness nothing could be more than the buildings of good-sized towns of a generation ago. There is decidedly a new consciousness of architecture of our time but it often strikes me as hopelessly experimental and therefore likely to be hooted at by later generations.

Between the dignified, though formal, architecture of our earlier American days and the present came the Victorian with its elaborate and meaningless decorations. The fine old colonial mansion, whether a genuine antique or a modern copy, has a dignity about it amounting to change of style can destroy. The "fixy" houses of 40 years ago, probably very proud of themselves then, look decidedly now like outmoded automobiles. When I was writing this article, a local citizen came by my house driving a 1904 model, two-cylinder automobile; down my very street there are houses that resemble in their way this queer senseless carriage, now superseded and laughable. Many a poor family have lived through depressions—and when were there no depressions?—hoping for their money to be made near down the old house and build a new one, like the pictures in the magazines. And how they discover that their old house has architectural distinctiveness that many a wealthy person would like to have. And they do not meet the fate of Nebuchadnezzar.

Big Clover Where Soil Was Treated

Red clover land orchard grass yielding two tons to the acre on the farm of E. C. Burnett here, says a local expert, is an example of clover and grass mixtures all over Whitley county, where limestone and phosphate were applied, says County Agent Wilcox Carter. The Burnett field was sowed in March, 1939, with a mixture of eight pounds of red clover, 10 pounds of orchard grass and five pounds of lespedeza seed to the acre. Little lespedeza showed up last year, but by June this year it was in full bloom. Carter says he is watching with interest how the lespedeza does after the clover is out.

UN-AMERICAN ACTIVITIES TO BE INVESTIGATED

As a means of co-ordinating investigations of charges of violation of federal laws relating to neutrality, espionage, subversive activities and kindred offenses, on September 6, 1939, the President issued the following statement:

The Attorney General has been requested by me to instruct the Federal Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice to take charge of investigative work in matters relating to espionage, sabotage, and violations of the neutrality regulations.

This task must be conducted in a comprehensive and effective manner on a national basis, and all information must be carefully sifted out and correlated in order to avoid confusion and responsibility.

To this end I request all police officers, sheriffs, and all other law enforcement officials in the United States promptly to turn over to the nearest representative of the Federal Bureau of Investigation any information obtained by them relating to espionage, sabotage, subversive activities and violations of the neutrality laws.

Since that time there has been considerable agitation in the mind of the general public concerning subversive activities in various parts of the nation. It has been advisable that investigation of these matters be conducted on a national scale by a national agency which will in turn make its report to the proper designated federal agency.

The agency selected for this service, by the Attorney General, is the Federal Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, which has headquarters in various parts of the United States.

As a means of more closely co-ordinating these activities in Kentucky and being of greater aid to this agency itself, it is very much desired by our government that all persons, groups and officials who wish to report any matter pertaining to what they consider subversive activities make such report to the Kentucky office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, 633 Federal Building, Sixth and Broadway, Louisville.

These reports should be brief and concise, giving names, location and activities—order that the Department may be fully advised of the facts and circumstances of each case. All communications of course, being confidential.

It is well to remember that individuals as well as groups and officials can play an important role in these matters. It is also important to keep in mind that constitutional rights of individuals must be protected along with the welfare and interest of the general public.

Since many cattle are killed by lightning, it is well to have wire fences grounded about every 40 rods, and also in corners where cattle tend to gather in a storm. If steel posts are used, the fence automatically is grounded.

Frozen custard: Use 4 cups of milk or cream, 2 eggs, a cup of sugar and a teaspoon of vanilla. Make into a soft custard, let cool, and then freeze. Milk sherbet: Combine the juice of three lemons and one cup milk with a half of sugar. Stir in a quart of milk slowly and freeze.

According to reports Albert Marshall was throwing coal from the car near the mine tippie. Pitts had finished his work and started to the store, and neither of the men was aware of the presence of the other. Pitts was rushed to the hospital immediately after the accident.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mexico Pitts, of Middle Creek. Also surviving are his widow, Mrs. Susan Chely Pitts, one son, Hermet Pitts, both of Alphaethra; four brothers and two sisters.

Funeral rites were conducted from the home Saturday afternoon, with the Rev. Hager Ousley officiating. Burial was made in the Click cemetery at Alphaethra, with the Ryan Funeral Home directing.

Threat of Special C. & O. Officer L. Gray, Allen, to fingerprint two men whom he had arrested at Allen for riding the "blinds" of a mail car led the prisoners to confess that they were wanted in North Carolina where they had been convicted of armed robbery and sentenced to 10-year prison terms.

Richard Hoyle, it was learned, had escaped from the state penitentiary at Raleigh, and his companion, Earl Gray, had been paroled but was wanted for parole violation.

In memory of Brother Matthew Meadows, who died at Brandy Keg, Floyd county, Ky., June 5, 1946. "But yet Spring came, and in the place of death, there was life, beauty and joy."

RESOLUTION OF RESPECT

Drift in Double Win
From Wheelwright
Sunday

The Drift baseball team came to life
Sunday at Drift to defeat Wheelwright in a doubleheader, 9-8, and 10-0, in Beaver Valley League games.
The first game was a see-saw affair with first one team and then the other being in the lead. Wheelwright entered the ninth inning with an 8 to 7 lead. Drift promptly loaded the bases on two singles and a walk, then Ken Myers drove a single into right field for two runs and the winning game. Fred McCurley was the winning pitcher, with Johnson the loser.

The second game saw young Jim McDowell come through with a perfect seven inning game. Only 21 men faced the young twirler. Only one man reached base and he was walked, then a double play promptly erased him. While McDowell was holding the Wheelwrighters at bay, the Drift boys were pounding the offerings of four Wheelwright hurlers to all corners of the lot for 22 hits and 16 runs.
Myers came thru with a homer and "Cat" Shelton with a triple. Seven doubles also rolled off the Drift bats.
Manager Ward Reed returned from Texas just before the start of the second game. He must have picked up some pointers from "Old" Dix Dean and passed them on to young Jim McDowell—for his fast ball and sharp breaking curve had the Wheelwrighters awaiting at the air.

McCurley pitched a better game than the score indicates. Five Drift errors accounts for several of Wheel-wright's scores in the first game.
